A Knotty Question

The Matter of Money Looming Up in Importance.

Council of British Cabinet Members Held This Morning.

London, Sept. 22.-A telegram from Allahabad, British India, says: "The Pioneer today prints a dispatch saying negotiations have been concluded by Great Britain for taking possession of Delogoa Bay Nov. 1."

THE CABINET MEETING. Cabinet Council was held today, beginning at 12:30 p.m. A large crowd assembled about Downing street early in the day. The cabinet ministers were loudly cheered, the secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, receiving the lion's share of the applause. Previous to the meeting of the cabinet, Lord Rothschild visited the first lord of the treasury, Mr. A. J. Balfour. The circumstance is unusual and is said to be in connection with the money difficulties the government tive military campaign.

When the cabinet went into session no new developments in the Transvaal situation had transpired. The dispatches from the Cape continued of a wardike tone and voiced the indignation of the British contingent against the Orange Free State and Afrikander attitudes. The impression current here, though not based on anything tangible, was that publicly the cabinet would only take steps tending to protect the negotiations, while secretly, it would prepare the details of an aggressive campaign, perhaps deciding to convoke parliament, though it was scarcely be-lieved the latter determination would be announced immediately. News from South Africa is eagerly awaited, as many think the cabinet council will immediately be followed by a Boer raid. The cabinet meeting ended at 2:40 p.m. The ministers were cheered as they came out of the foreign office. Nothing transpired regarding the ac-NEIL COOPER has received instructions from C. B. Keenleyside to sell at 310 Wolfe street, the complete contents of private bee adopted. The secretary of state for war, the Marquis of Landsdowne, and the first lord of the admiralty, Mr. George J. Goschen, immediately proceeded to the war office.

PUZZLED.

The government is faced with some-thing like a dilemma. The leader of the Opposition has publicly denounced the precipitancy of the colonial office in forcing a conflict. Therefore ministers are disinclined to convoke parliament. If, on the other hand, so large an expenditure as the apparent atutude of the Orange Free State would involve, should become necessary, the government would be obliged to summon parliament in order to get adequate supplies.

It is understood that ... money ques-tion accounts for the dribbling manner in which the troops are being forwarded. German military experts, realizing the seriousness of the campaign before Great Britain, are commenting with astonishment on the fact that England is so far behind hand in her preparations. In Berlin this also had preparations. In Berlin it is also be-lieved that Dr. Leyds is acting as President Kruger's evil genius and misleading him by reports that he is likely to get sympathy, if not assistance, from some of the European powers.

TOO SLOW.

While the precise result of the secret ession of the raad of the Orange Free State is not yet known here, President Steyn's speech at the opening of the session is regarded as an almost infallible indication of the attitude of which the Free State will take. Commenting from this point of view, the London morning papers are all impressed with the added gravity of the situation and murmurs are beginning to be heard regarding the dilatoriness of the government in getting troops forward.

Military men are said to be impatient.

They assert that everything is ready and they are only waiting for orders. It is recognized that the Free State attitude makes the original estimate, based upon Dutch neutrality, too small, Evidently a much larger force will be revealed.

SIR JOHN'S VIEWS. Cape Town, Sept. 22.—Sir John Gordon Sprigg, leader of the Opposition in don Sprigg, leader of the Opposition in the Cape House of Assembly and former premier, in the course, of an interview, said: "I have no doubt that a portion of the people in the colony would be actively anti-British in the event of a war with the Transvaal. I do not anticipate a mighty but some do not anticipate a rising, but some of the young and impulsive Afrikandof the young and impulsive Afrikanders would probably show their sympathies by joining the Boer forces. In my judgment the proceedings at today's meeting of the Afrikander members of the Cape parliament were most injudicious. No mention was made of any sympathy with those who would suffer while fighting on the British side. It is impossible that those who are doing their best to up-hold British authority should con-ceive anything in the nature of a retirement from the position adopted by the imperial government. Any such weakness would be fatal to the future maintenance of peace in South Africa. Referring to the speech of Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt in New Tredegar, Sir John said he considered it ill-advised, especially at the present juncture. In his opinion, Sir William's statement that Britain could not claim sovereignty in the Transvaal when she had only partial suzerainty, would do more than anything else to spread dissatisfaction. "I will remind the British public," said Sir John, "that Sir William Vernon Harcourt was a member of the government really respon-sible for all the political troubles since Confronts the Leaders of the Imperial Government.

Shall Parliament Be Convoked or Not?

T. Steyn read a carefullyprepared speech. After welcoming the burghers, he expressed regret that the relations between the Transvaal and Great Britain and the outlanders had become strained. Members, he said, were aware of the meeting of Sir Alfred Milner and President Kruger at Bloemfontein, when President Kruger made proposals, which, although remade proposals, which, although re-fused by the British high commissioner, were unanimously considered throughout the Orange Free State to be exceedingly fair. Proceeding to review the negotiations, President Steyn said the Transvaal had been decided by the British diplomatic agent at Pretoric Mr. Conventions Creams and Pretoria, Mr. Conyngham Greene, and he practically accused the imperial government of a breach of faith. He said he was disinclined to advise the Transvaal government to accept the latest British demands. The present critical state of affairs could not be a matter of indifference to the Orange Free State, which was bound by a treaty to afford assistance to the Transvaal, and he had, therefore, convened the Volksraad to decide what attitude should be taken. "There is nothing," declared the president, "that warrants war or attack on the Transvaal. Such differences can be solved by arbitration. It would be an insult to religion and civilization." In conclusion, President Steyn said he would take this opportunity to lay would take this opportunity to lay draft laws before the Volksraad, pray-ing God to give the members strength to pass resolutions not only conducive to peace and prosperity, but also in the interest of their beloved state. Immediately after the speech President Steyn asked the Volksraad to go into secret session, which was agreed to unanimously. RUMORS.

It is stated that the returns from the field cornets of the Transvaal and Orange Free State show that 52,000 burghers are ready to take the field at short notice. Major-General Hunter and his staff. with the Devonshire regiment and a squadron of the Nineteenth Hussars, have sailed for the Cape. Vanity Fair, frequently well infomed regarding political secrets, today emphatically reiterates the assertion that there will be no war. It says: "President Kruger is an old man, but he is no dotard. He would like to get his own way, but not at the cost of de-feat. Climb down he will.

AFRIKANDER FRIENDSHIP. Cape Town, Sept. 21.-At a meeting of the Afrikander members of parliament the following telegram was dispatched to President Kruger:

"We, Afrikander members of parliament, thoroughly sympathize with our Afrikander relatives in their troubles. While appreciating the concessions already made in the interests of peace, we beg to urge the expediency or doing the utmost, short of sacrificing independence, to avert the horrors of war. While agreeing that the joint inquiry proposed by Mr. Chamberlain cannot be asked as a matter of right, we believe such a commission will provide a way out of the difficulties which are the Transvaal and our Free State brethren, but also to the Afrikander party of Cape Colony. In the presence of immediate danger and momentous issues awaiting the decision of your honor, the executive and the Volksraad, even the risk of being misunderstood, is of minor importance.
We beg your honor to lay these words, only dictated by a keen sense of our common interests and risks privately before the executive and Volksraad."

KRUGER'S REPLY. This message, which was signed by fifty-three members of parliament, received the following reply from President Kruger: "I wish vou and other sympathizers will notice, as you have doubtless already seen by the reply of the imperial government, that we have, according to your desire, considered the matter and accepted the invitation of the joint commission. Why the acceptance was delayed as shown by the dispatches published. I wish to thank you and other friends once more, from my heart, for the manner in which you have aided our efforts for a pacific and satisfactory solution. Finally, I express the hope that your work and ours will not be fruitless."

Paris, Sept. 22.—Continuing his argument in behalf of Venezuela before the Anglo-Venezuela arbitration commission, ex-President Bertjamin Harrison said the issue of diplomatic cor-respondence about that Great Britain had never claimed more than the Dutch had. He held that the legal and diplomatic departments of the British foreign office did not seem to agree, the latter taking its inspiration from the surveyor, Sir Robert Schomburgk, while Sir Richard Webster, the British attorney-general, went further, and claimed the extended Schomburgk line. #### STRIKE ENDED.

Dundee, Scotland, Sept. 22.—The lock-out in the local jute manufactories ended last evening. The strike originally involved only certain of the fac-tories, where the spinners demanded an increase in wages of 5 per cent, but the associated manufacturers closed their works, thus stopping between 40 and 50 factories, and throwing 40,000 workers out of employment. Such drastic measures were hard upon a majority of the workers, who had no share in the spinners' strike, and also keeping £30,600 per week out of circulation. The result is a defeat of the strikers. At a mass meeting, with the Rev. Henry Williamson in the chair, it was decided that the demand of the spinners was just, yet to avoid further distress they would accept the old pay f the manufacturers would open the ZOLA TO DREYFUS. Paris, Sept. 22.-The Aurore this morning publishes a letter written by Emile Zola to Madame Dreyfus, in which the writer rejoices at the former captain's pardon, but says that if doubtless comes late. "It is revolting," writes M. Zola, "to obtain pity, when one asks for justice; and all has been preconcerted in order to bring about this last iniquity. The judges, wishing to strike the innocent in order to save the guilty, seek refuge in an act of horrible hypocrisy which they call mercy." M. Zola expresses regret that the government trembled before the arrogance of a faction.

CABLE NOTES. Rear Admiral Montejo, who commanded the Spanish naval forces in the battle of Manila Bay, and who was on trial before the supreme court, has been condemned to retirement, without the right of promotion. Following this came the evidence of Edward C. Boker, teller of the Dominion Bank at Belleville, and of Mrs. Harriet Way, showing that a deposit of $125 had been made in bills of ex-

A COMMON TROUBLE.

Thousands Suffer From It Without Knowing Its Real Character.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines and spring remedies; the real seat of mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after. Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others, the bowels are troubled, with loss of flesh and appetite, with the accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

PANIC IN WHEAT

Big Bear Operators Come to Grief.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—There was a bear panic in the wheat pit just before 11 o'clock yesterday, when the suspension of Barrett, Farnum & Co. was an-nounced. Brokers for that house have been heavy sellers of wheat for the past three days, their sales on Tuesday having amounted, it is said, to over 5,000,000 bushels for the December delivery. At the opening yesterday, December showed an advance of ½c over Wednesday's close. There were no signs of the impending scramble. Opening trades were at 71%c to 71%c, and the market easily slid off under sales against calls to 71½c. Around this figure brokers for the firm of barrett, Farnum & Co. appeared as heavy buyers, and the scalping fraternity seized upon this as the long-looked-for op-portunity to squeeze the big bear op-erators who have operated through the Barrett house. The market advanced nervously to 71%c, reacted to 71%c, and then by eighths and quarters jumped to 73c. Just at that point the suspension of Barrett, Farnum & Co. was announced. Their attempt to buy back the enormous short sales made in the early part of the week had evidently been a failure. December dropped to 71% c without a reaction.

Armstrong, was united in mar-riage to Mr. W. H. Sweetman, of Es-sex. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. J. W. Armstrong, of the Observer staff, Sarnia, was gowned in white organdie, with bridal veil and orange blossoms. There were no attendants, but the little Cummifords, Pauline and Bessie, nieces of the bride, and Master Shirley, very acceptably performed their duties, Pauline carrying a basket of smilax and carnations, in which was em-bedded the ring. Mr. and Mrs. Sweet-man left on the west-bound express their home in Essex.

An interesting match of tennis will be played at the club courts during the afternoons and evenings of this week. Dr. Willmott and D. C. Ross are cap-tains. Capt. Wilmott will be supported by Messrs. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a Knepper and Sugden; Howell and healing nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutri-Harper and Sugden; McGinnity and ment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.

DREYFUS TRIAL

Some Exciting Scenes in the Great Rennes Revision.

As Witnessed by the Genial Irish man-Weeping and Kissing Extraordinary.

Th' scene was three-menjously ex-citin'. Th' little city iv Rennes was thronged with des'prit journalists that had pledged their fortunes an' their sacred honors an' manny iv thim their watches to be prisint an' protect th' public again' th' degradin' facts. Niver since th' war in Cubia has so manny iv these brave fellows been gathered together at th' risk iv their lives fr'm overcrowdin' th' resthrants. No man has iver sufficiently described th' turrors iv a corryspondint's life excipt th' corryspondints thimsilves. Gin'rals an' other liars is rewarded. Th' corry-spondint gets no credit. No wan will give him credit. Still he sticks to his post, an' on this pearlous day he was at Rennes, fightin' th' corryspondints, or, if he was an English journalist, de-fendin' th' honor iv Fr-rance, again' hersilf. 'Tis a good thing for Fr-rance that there ar're silfsacrificin' men that don't undherstand her language to prisint her victous nature to th' Eng-Strathrow Sept. 21.-The West Midlish an' American public. Otherwise, Hinnessey, she might think she was as good as th' r-rest iv us. Well, while th' sthreets in Rennes was packed with these dauntless souls ar'rmed with death-dealin' kodaks, there was a commotion near th' court house. Was it a rivolution? Was this th' beginnin' iv another Saint Barth'mew's day whin th' degraded passions in Fr-rance pent up durin' three hun-dhred years 'd break forth again? Was it th' signal iv another div'lish outbreak that'd show th' thrue nature iv th' Fr-rinch people disgeezed behind a varnish iv ajoous politeness which our waiters know nawthin' about? No, alas, alas, 'twas nawthin' a man cud make more thin a column iv. 'Twas th' ac-cursed janitor goin' in to open th' degraded windows. Abase th' janitor, abase th' window! Fear fol-lowed uncertainty. No wan knew what moment he might be called upon to defind his life with his honor. Suddenly th' brutal policeman who sthud on gyard waved his hand. What cud the brave men do? They were obliged to rethreat in disordher. But our special corryspondint was able i'r to obtain a fine view of th' thrilling scene that followed. First came th' coort weepin'. They was followed be th' ginrals in th' Fr-rinch ar'rmy, stalwart, fearless men, with coarse, disagreeable faces. Each gin'ral was attinded be his private bodyguard iv thried and thrusted perjurers, an' was followed be a wagon load iv forgeries, bogus affidavies an' other statement iv Major Estherhazy. Afther thim come th' former ministers iv th' Fr-rinch gover'mint, makin' an imposin' line which took three hours passin' a given point. As they marched it was seen that they were slyly kickin' each other. An interval iv slience followed in which cud be heard cries iv "Abase Dhryfuss" an "Abase Fr-rance," an thin come th' man on whom th' lies shoulders thrown back is stooped an' weary. His haggard face was flushed with insolent confidence an' th' cowa'dice in his face showed in his fearless eye. As he passed, a young Fr-rinch sojer was with diff'culty resthrained fr'm ethrikin' him an' embracin' him with tears in his eyes. In th' coort room th' scene baffled description. It was an inspirin sight r-rose to th' ceilin'. Here an' there cud be seen a brillyan, uniform, denotin' th' prisence iv the London Times Corryspondint. Th' lawn behind the coort was thronged with ex-ministers iv the Fr-rench gover'mint; th' gin'ral staff bein' witnesses f'r th' prosecution sat with the coort; th' prisence not bein' while to find a chair pris'ner not bein' able to find a chair sat on th' window sill. His inthrest in the proceedin's was much noticed an' caused gr-reat amusement. Iverybody was talkin' about th' mysterious lady in white. Who is she? Some say she is a Dryfussard in th' employ iv Roothscheeld; others that she is an agent iv the Anti-Semites. No wan has learned her name. She says she is Madame Lucille Gazahs iv wan hundhred an' eight Rue Le Bombon, an' a fav-rite iv th' Fr-rinch stage. She is wan iv the gr-reat mysthries is this reemarkable thrile.

Afther th' coort had kissed th' witnesses th' proceedin's opined. 'Tis thrue, they kiss each other. I wanst see a Fr-rinchman go f'r to kiss a man be th' name iv Doherty that inthrajooced risolutions in favor iv Fr-rance again' Germany at a con-vintion. Doherty thought he was after his ear, an' laid him out. But in Fr-rance 'tis different. They begin be kissin', an' th' thrile opined this way.

"Pris'ner," said th' prisidint iv th' coort, "th' eyes iv Fr-rance is upon us, th' honor iv th' nation is at stake.

Th' navtional defineer' virtue iv pub. Th' naytional definces', virtue iv public life an' th' receipts iv th' exposition is involved. Incidentally ye ar-re bein' thried. But why dhrag in matters iv no importance? We ar-re instructed, accordin' to th' pa-apers, be th' coort iv cassation to permit no ividence that does not apply to your connection with th' case. As sojers we bow to th' superyor will; we will follow out th' insthructions iv th' supreme coort. We have not had time to read thim but we will look at thim afther the thrile. In th' manetime, we will call upon Gin'ral Merceer, that gallant man, to tell us th' sthory iv

"I obey, mon colonel," says Gin'ral ferceer, kissin' the coort. "Not to Merceer, kissin' the coort. "Not to begin too far back an' to make a long story short, I am an honest man an th' son iv an honest man. I admit it." "Good," says th' prisident. "D'ye recognize th' pris'ner?" "I do," says Gin'ral Merceer, "I seen him wanst dhrinkin' a shell iv Munich beer in a caafe." (Marked sensation in the coort an' cries iv "Abase la bock!") "I says to mesilf thin This man i thraitor.' But th' thrainin' of a soier makes one cautious.I determined to fortify mysilf with ividence. I put spies on this man, this perflejous wretch, an' discovered nawthin. I was paralyzed. An officer iv th' Fr-inch er-rmy an' nawthin suspicyous about him! Damnable! I was with difficulty resthrained fr'm killin' him. But I desisted (Cries 'Shame!') I said to mysilf, 'Th honor ly Fr-rance is at stake. Th' whole wurruld is lookin' at me, at me, Bill Merruld is lookin' at me, at the, but had-ceer. I will go to bed an' think it over.' I wint to bed. Sleep, blessed sleep, that sews up th' confused coat-sleeve iv care, as the perflejous Shakespeare care, as the peringious Shakespeare—

(cries of 'Conspuez Shakespeare)—says dascinded on me tired eyes. (The court weeps.) I laid aside me honor—(cries iv 'Brave Gin'ral)—with me coat. (Murmurs.) I slept. I dhreamed that I see harp. (Cries iv 'Abase Rothscheeld,' an' sensation.) I woke up with a villent start, th' perspiration goorin' fr'm me rugged brow. 'Cap. Dhryfuss is guilty,' I cried. But no, I will confirm me fvidence. I darted into me r-red pants. I dhruv with fury to th' home iv Madame Cleepathry, th' cillibrated Agyptian asthrologist, an' medicine woman. (The coorts: 'We know her;she supplies ividence to all French coorts.') I tol' her me dhream. She proposed a pack iv cards. She tur-rned a r-red king an' a black knave. 'Th' Impror Willum an' Cap. Dhryfuss,' I says, in a fury. I burst forth. I had Cap. Dhryfuss arristed. I dashed to th' prisident. He was a-receivin' rayfusals f'r a new cabinet. 'I have found th' thraitor,' says I. 'Hush,' says he. 'If the Impror Willum hears you he'll declare war," he says. I was stupefied. 'Oh, my beloved counthry,' I cried. 'Oh, hivin,' I cried. 'what shall I do?' I cried. They was not a minvit to lose. I disbanded th' ar-rmy. I ordhered th' navy back into dhry dock. I had me pitcher took. I wint home an' hid in th' cellar. F'r wan night Fr-rance was safe!" They was hardly a dhry eye in th' house whin th' gin'ral paused. Th' coort wept. The aujience wept. Siv'ral of th' minor journalists was swept out iv th' room in th' flood. A man shovelin' coal in th' cellar sint up f'r an umbrella. Th' lawn shook with the convulsive sobs iv th' former ministers.

London, Friday, Sept. 22.

How Old London is Governed. In Harper's Monthly for September Mr. J. W. Martin furnishes a most in teresting conspectus of municipal government in Old London. He affirms that the Metropolitan Board of Works which controlled the metropolis before 1889 was inefficient, corrupt and degraded. Jobbery was rampant and London citizens were ashamed of their government. Ten years ago the Board was abolished and the London County Council was substituted. With this came a sort of awakening of the citizens. A number of public-spirited men set agoing a movement which got the name Progressive. At the first election a majority of Progressive councillors were elected against the opposition, known as the Moderates; and the Progressives embarked on a vigorous civic policy of improvement, embracing a surprising amount of municipal ownership.

During its ten years of existence, the London County Council has bought parks on which it has established playgrounds and athletic grounds, has cleared out slums and replaced them by wholesome blocks of dwellings for the working classes; has substituted day labor with economy and advantage for contract work, and has bought out the street railway system of Lon-

The new play grounds acquired comprise 1,135 acres, and are prepared for cricket, football, golf, tennis, lacrosse, quoits, bicycling, boating, bathing and bowling. Municipal bands perform regularly in the parks during the summer months. That children who go for a day's outing may not be defrauded with watery milk and leathery sandwiches at hotel prices, the council itself fixes the quality and charges at the refreshment houses.

When the Progressives took hold fifteen acres in Bethnal Green were covered with the foul breeding-places of vice, crime and disease. To cleanse this Augean stable was a task greater than any municipality had ever undertaken, but the London Hercules has completed ccess. Now there are 6,000 tenants on this one municipal estate, housed with a care which goes beyond the requirements of the latest building act. In the center of the area is a mound with terraced gardens; an estate laundry with modern conveniences enables the tenants to avoid the discomforts of washing day in the rooms; and the rents are lower than tre paid for similar accommodations in the neighborhood. Numerous other housing schemes have been completed. When all are finished. London will have 16,000 tenants in its municipal dwellings. Taxpayers are well satisfied, as the rents provide 3 per cent on the tocal outlay, a sinking fund which will clear off the capital value of the land and houses in 60 years, and an annual profit of $5,000 besides.

The Progressives had to wage war on a ring of contractors who had plundered the city for years. These contractors combined to demand extortionate payments for city contracts. For the York road sewer the lowest tender of the contractors was 65 per cent above the engineer's estimate. That was too much for endurance. A Works Department was organized under the engineer. and the sewer constructed for the amount of the original estimate at a saving of $22,385 for the municipal purse. Since then the department has done over four million dollars' worth of work, giving better quality at a smaller price than the contractor.

Equally strenuous and significant has been the contention with the London street railway corporations. By the law under which they obtained their franchises the local governing authority had the power to take over their lines at the end of 21 years upon payment of the value of the plant, as determined by an arbitrator, without compensation for good-will or compulsory sale. The companies at the beginning had only the Metropolitan Board of Works to consider, and felt so confident of their power, by one means or another, to obtain a renewai of their lease that they neglected to create a sinking fund for paying off their shareholders at the expiration of the term. But the reformers on the county council pressed the public rights with vigor. Their opponents adopted every device of political warfare to save the companies, but the law was clear, and the highest courts decided in the council's favor. Consequently the whole of the street railway system in London is now owned by the people. The fifty miles of line north of the or more of the persons between whom the dispute or claim has arisen. (50 V., Thames are seased to a company for ic. 42, s. 22.)

$225,000 a year and 121/2 per cent of the gross increase in the receipts fares workmen's cars and wages and hours of employes being regulated also by the lease. The southern line came into the council's possession in January of this ployes, that the community may get every advantage in money and service that can accrue.

Boards of Conciliation and Arbitration. The scope of the provincial boards of conciliation and arbitration may not be generally known. Among other subjects it includes street railway disputes between employers and employes. A very important power, it will be seen, is given to these boards, namely, the power to examine all witnesses on oath. It is true no legislation has yet been passed to make the findings of the board obligatory, that will no doubt be done next session. But in an examination under oath, much interesting and important information could be elicited which might have much effect on public opinion.

We therefore give the full text of the government order-in-council reappointing the boards of conciliation and arbitration; and also the clauses bearing on the procedure

Technical Training in the City. The London School of Art and Design is intended to do a work which specially commends itself to intelligent mechanics. Technical education has made wonderful strides in England, Germany and other manufacturing countries, but we have just commenced in Canada. In Toronto the municipality will build and equip a technical school at a cost of $100,000, supplemented by a Provincial grant of $3,000 a year. Brantford is also taking hold of the movement. The school here is a private enterprise, and deserves the generous support of every class, most of all the manufacturers and workingmen. Every progressive artisan de sires to improve his theoretical and practical knowledge of the industrial arts, and it is to his employer's advantage that he should do so. The school affords the wage-earner this opportunity at very great convenience to himself, as night classes are held particularly for those who cannot attend in the daytime It is essential to the industrial progress of Canada that her wage-earners shall not lag behind their competitors in mechanical skill and ingenuity, but there is real danger of this, in view of the strenuous promotion of technical education in wealthier countries. One great value of a training such as the local school seeks to impart is the stimulus it gives to invention and adaptation. The mechanic who knows nothing of the scientific principles underlying his handicraft has seldom the capacity for improvement. A local manufacturer recently informed us that he searched the city for a designer without success; in fact, he could not find a suitable man in Canada, and had to send to the United States. This is very striking evidence of the necessity of more thorough and scientific instruction, which will enable the artisan to see the latent possibilities of his work and develop original ideas. Too often the operative has no more initiative than the machine he works st. It is hardly necessary to point out to the artisan that the more efficient he is, the greater will be his earning power. Skilled labor is always at

The school has been fontunate in securing the services of an excellent instructor, and we understand the prospect is bright for a large attendance.

> Growing Time in Kent. [Chatham Planet.]

There is certainly a growing time in land values in Kent. For some time a good deal of property throughout the county has been changing hands at advancin+ prices. The latest sales reported comprise 40 acres of lot 16, concession A, Raleigh, for $2,400, and 30 acres of lot 24, in the fifth concession of Dover East, for $2,600.

A Reminder to Manufacturers.

[Stratford Beacon.] There seems to be need to remind some Canadian manufacturers that it is easier to close a market than open one. Commissioner Larke writes to the department of trade and commerce, calling attention to the manner in which Canadian manufacturers and ex-porters are spoiling their chances for business in Australia. He says that orders are not filled promptly, and in many cases their receipt has not even been acknowledged; packing cases are defective, the contents of cases not marked upon them, and involces are made out at prices higher than are quoted in the first instance.

Rat Portage, Sept. 18.—No old gentleman in Rat Portage is better known or thought of than Mr. H. S. Barnes, father of ex-Mayor Barnes, of this place. "Some months ago," writes Mr. Barnes, "my wife asked me to get her some of Dodd's Kidney Pills. She was suffering from kidney trouble, and I got a box, but she never lived to take them. I had long been suffering from symptoms similar to those of my wife, and these now becoming severe, and having a box of Dodi's Kidney Pills in the house, I resolved to try them. The first box eased these symptoms, and continuing their use I was completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills possess genuine merit."

Proposal to Shut Out the Knights of Labor The Labor Party Scheme Shelved Street Car Men's Unions.

Montreal, Sept. 21. - The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress this morning took a trip to Lachine, at the invitation of the city, and ran the rapids on the steamer Chateauguay.

At this afternoon's session a resolution was adopted sympathizing with the Cigarmakers' Union or Montreal in their fight with Mr. J. M. Fortier, the Montreal cigar manufacturer, who labor.

Delegate Darlington introduced a resolution to amend the constitution so as to shut out the Knights of Labor from the congress, and he made a strong attack on that order. On motion of Delegate Carey, however, it was decided, without discussion, to lay the motion on the table.

Resolutions were also adopted instructing the new executive to again submit a bill to the next session of parliament, legalizing the union trade mark, and a motion was adopted in favor of legislation against open cars, as being dangerous to street car employes.

Tht reports of the executives of Ontario and Manitoba, presented to the congress, contain many points of interest in regard to provincial laws. The Ontario executive complain of systematic disregard of the representa-tions of organized labor and the nonenforcement of the laws upon the statute books. The immigration policy of $4 to $4 40: good ewes, $3 75 to $3 85; rams. $2 25 to $3 25; native lambs, $4 to $6 15: western range flocks, $4 30 to $5 35. There is some influence at work, the report says, that counteracts the efforts of men who have the interests of labor at heart to force the government to live up to the law of the land.

The committee recommend as a remedy the election of men pledged to support labor legislation. The report of the Manitoba executive is particularly severe upon the immi-gration policy of the government. A resolution was adopted instructing the incoming executive to draft another bill legalizing the union label and submit to the next session of par-

Resolutions were also adopted concerning the open street cars as being dangerous to the lives of emoyes and against tax on manufacturing enterprises.

The report of the committee on ways and means, which was submitted, recommended that the per capita tax for the coming year be 8 cents per annum, payable quarterly, bodies holding charters to pay 20 cents. Delegate Sullivan, representing the American Federation of Labor, was accorded the privilege of the floor, and said he wished to convey the fraternal greetings of a million union countrymen in the United States. Delegate Sullivan was surprised the Canadian congress had not made more progress, and he suggested that the delegates provide an assessment of 20 cents per capita and join the international union. been of no benefit to their federation. The entire cast displayed exceptional talent for an amateur company, and the audience evinced its approval of the finished way in which the many strong situations were portrayed. Miss Beer and M. LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me: and less than half a bottle cured me: I certainly believe it saved my life. ## LARGE ORDER

Street Railway Company Wants $20,000 Damages

Because the Commissioners Issued Bus Licenses at Special Rates.

The London Street Railway Company, through their attorneys, have served notice of action against E. Jones Parke, police magistrate, and John D. Wilson, Mayor, to recover $20,000 damages, claimed due for the alleged illegal licensing of 'busses. The bylaw passed, under the statute, fixed the license at $10, and it is claimed that Mayor Wilson and Magistrate Parke, as members of the ponce commission, granted 'bus licenses to John Garnett and others, for a less amount than that fixed under the bylaw, thereby violating the statute and the bylaw.

third member of the police commission, is not made a party to the suit, is said to be that the records of the meeting show that he voted against issuing the license at less than $10. Mayor Wilson, when seen this morning, did not seem much worried by the threatened action. In fact, he treated the matter as a pleasant joke. "I simply handed the notice over to my solicitor, and gave it no further thought," said the mayor, smiling cheerfully. Magistrate Parke was also seen, and said: "I have nothing to say," adding quickly, "I'm not afraid of their getting any judgment against me. You may say that." Section 17 of the bylaw relating to cabs, carriages, omnibusses and other vehicles used for hire for the conveyance of persons in the city of London, passed May 12, 1893, under section 436 of the Consolidated Municipal Act,

"That the fees to be hereafter paid for licenses issued under this bylaw, shall be as follows: For each cab or sleigh drawn by one or more horses or other animals, the sum of $5; for each omnibus for the conveyance of passengers from place to place within the city, the sum of $10; for each transfer of licenses $2. Provided that every license granted under this bylaw shall be invalid in operation and of no effect unless the applicant shall have paid to the city treasurer the sum fixed therefor by this bylaw and shall have obtained a receipt for such payment, signed by the treasurer, where-upon the license shall be issued by the

PHILANTHROPISTS TO THE FRONT

Citizens Seizing the Opportunity to Furnish Rooms in the Victoria Hospital, London is not lacking in philanthropic citizens. Mayor Wilson says that the hospital trust will have little trouble about furnishing the Victoria Hospital. Already promises have been repital. Already promises have been received from fraternal societies for the furnishing of all the wards, the total cost of which is estimated at $1,000, and from private citizens for the furnishing of six rooms in the private patients' pavilion. One man called on by the mayor stated that he would be glad to endow a room, so that it would be readiness at all times for the use of his employes who might require it. In each case the name of the donor will be placed over the door of the room. To furnish a private room costs about $100.

BRITISH CABINET DELIBERATIONS

Surmises as to What the Ministers Did-Nothing Positive Known.

London, Sept. 22.-Late in the day various rumors were still current regarding the cabinet meeting, but the following, which the Pall Mall Gazette publishes, is believed to be correct.

"The comparatively short duration of the council warrants the conclusion that nothing of supreme importance was decided at it, and such we believe to be the fact.

"Information in our posession is to the effect that it was an interim cabinet, summoned to consider an interim dispatch. It is believed that this dispatch, which met with the unanimous approval of Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues, will be published as soon as received by the Boer Government, on Monday, or, at the latest, on Tuesday."

According to the Pall Mall Gazette, the dispatch opens with an expression of regret at the unfavorable character of Secretary Reitz's last reply, and proceeds with a very firm insistence upon the repudiation of the claim of the Transvaal to the status of a foreign state, once more pointing out British readiness to settle at once the nature of the proposed arbitration tribunal, pro-vided the other British conditions are promptly and unreservedly accepted, concluding with the intimation that the imperial government is now engaged in drawing up its own terms, and that the Transvaal may expect to hear from them very shortly.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that another meeting of the cabinet will take place next Thursday or Friday, when the issues will be presented in a more serious shape.

And then he threw himself panting into a chair, and began to laugh excitedly at the success of his unprincipled maneuver.

As for Paul, he was perfectly furious at having been so outwitted and overreached. It was a long time before he could command his voice sufficiently to say, savagely: "Well, you've had your way, and a pretty mess you've made of it. We're both of us in false positions now. Paul did not really mean this; he only meant to frighten him; for he still trusted that, by letting Boaler into the secret, the charm might be set in motion once more, and the difficulty comfortably overcome. But his threat had a most unfortunate effect upon Dick; hardened him to take a course he might otherwise have shrunk from. "Oh." he said, "you're going to do that? These blots are actually blood blots. To cure them lotions and outward applications are uscless. The blood must be

That great medicine for the stomach and blood, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, is most effective in cleansing the complexion and healing diseases which defile and deface the skin. It acts directly upon the stomach and the organs of digestion and nutrition. It increases the action of the blood-making glands, and expels from the system the lurking poisons which defile the blood and through it deface the skin.

Prejudice Against Them.

The Jews' Good Peints-What Is the Secret of Their Immortality.

(Literary Digest.)

Barly last year Mark Twain pub-lished an article in Harper's Magazine relative to the recent anti-semetic out-break which he had witnessed in the imperial parliament in Vienna. His description of the violent, deap-seated hatred of the Jewish race disclosed in that remarkable scene of riot and dis-order made a deep impression on many Hebrew readers, and letters have continued to reach him from Jews in America asking him to give his ex-planation of this wide-spread racial hatred, evidenced in so pre-eminent degree in Russia, Austria and France, degree in Russia, Austria and France, and even occasionally showing itself in America. One Jew writes to him:

"The show of military force in the Austrian parliament, which precipitated the riots, was not introduced by any Jew. No Jew was a member of that body. No Jewish question was involved in the Ausgleich or in the language proposition. No Jew was insulting anybody. In fact, the Jews were the only one of the alneteen different races in Austria who did not ferent races in Austria who did not have a party—they are absolutely non-participants. Yet in your article you say that in the rioting which followed, all sorts of people were unanimous only on one thing, viz.; in being against the Jews. Now, will you tell me why, in your judgment, the Jews have thus ever been, and are even now, in these days of supposed intelligence, the butt of baseless, vicious animosities? I dare say that for centuries there has been no more quiet, undisfurbing and well-behaving citizens, as a class, than the same Jew. It seems to me that ignorance and fanaticism can alone account for these horrible and unjust persecutions. "Tell me, therefore, from your vantage point of cold view, what in your mind is the cause. Can, American Jews do anything to correct it either in America or abroad? Will it ever come to an end? Will a Jew be permitted to live honestly, decently and peaceably like the rest of mankind? What has become of the Golden Rule?

In the current (September) number of Harper's Magazine, Mark Twain tries to answer these questions. More than once, he says, Jews have ob-served to him that in all his works there can be found no uncourteous rethere can be found no uncourteous re-ference to their race; and he declares himself free from all prejudices of race, color, caste or creed, except one national prejudice apparently anti-Gailic. He has even no prejudice against his Satanic majesty; indeed, he thinks that the acknowledged lord of four-fifths of the human race deserves consideration and a fair chance to narrate his side of the case. With all these qualifications, therefore, Mark thinks he is particularly well

He finds that there are six points worthy of consideration in the letter "l. The Jew is a well-behaved citizen. "2. Can ignorance and fanaticism alone account for his unjust treatment? "3. Can Jews do anything to improve the situation? "4. The Jews have no party; they are non-participants. "5. Will the persecution ever come "6. What has become of the Golden

Mark Twain thinks we must grant point No. 1, for many reasons: "The Jew is not a disturber of the peace of any country. Even his ene-mies will concede that. He is not a loafer, he is not a sot, he is not noisy, he is not a brawler nor a rioter, he is not quarrelsome. In the statistics of crime his presence is conspicuously rare—in all countries. With murder and other crimes of violence he has but little to do; he is a stranger to the hangman. In the police court's daily long roll of 'assaults' and 'drunk and disorderlies' his name seldom ap-pears. That the Jewish home is a home in the truest sense is a fact which no one will dispute. The fam-ily is knitted together by the strong-est affections; its members show each other every due respect; and reverence for the elders is an inviolate law of the house. The Jew is not a burden on the charities of the state nor of the city; these could cease from their functions without affecting him. When he is well enough, he works; when he is incapacitatetd, his own people take care of him. And not in a poor and stingy way, but with a fine and large benevolence. His race is entitled to be called the most benevolent of all the races of men. A Jewish begger is not impossible, perhaps; such a thing may exist, but there are few men who can say they have seen that spectacle. The has been staged in many uncomplimentary forms, but so far as I know, no dramatist has done him the injustice to stage him as a beggar. "The Jew has his other side. has some discreditable ways, though he has not a monopoly of them, because he cannot get entirely rid of vexatious Christian competition. We have seen that he seldom transgresses the laws against crimes of vio-lence. Indeed, his dealings with courts are almost restricted to matters connected with commerce. He has a re-putation for various small forms of cheating, and for practicing oppressive usury, and for burning himself out to get the insurance, and for arranging cunning contracts which leave him an exit but lock the other man in, and for smart evasions which find him safe and comfortable just within the strict letter of the law, when court and jury know very well that he has violated the spirit of it. He is a frequent and faithful and capable offi-cer in the civil service, but he is charged with an unoatriotic disinclin ation to stand by the flag as a sol-dier-like the Christian Quakers. "Now, if you offset these discredit-"Now, if you offset these discreditable features by the creditable ones summarized in a preceding paragraph, begining with the words. These facts are all on the credit side, and strike a balance, what must the verdict be? This, I think: that the merits and demerits being fairly weighed and measured on both eides, the Christian can claim, no superiority over the Lew in claim no superiority over the Jew in the matter of good citizenship. "Yet in all countries from the dawn of history, the Jew has been persist-ently and implacably hated, and with fore he had studied the question. He refers to the ancient history of Joseph and his attempt to corner a stupendous corn market in Egypt, centuries before the crucifixion. The same Again, he comes down two millen-niums later to the time of one of the Letin historians. Christianity was then hardly known to the world at large, but the historian isays that "some Christians were persecuted in Rome through error, they being mis-taken for Jews." Clearly, then, the prejudice is international and interracial, independent of religion or

What is the origin of the feeling? Pake note of the fact, says the writer, that in Egypt, in Rome, in Austria, and in other countries of the world, the Jew has lived as a nation apart. With all his "splendid capacitles and all his fat wealth, he is today not politically important in any country." Yet there are 6,000,000 Jews in Russia, 5,000,000 in Austria, and 250,000 or more in the United States. Contrast with this the history of the Irish race, who, though alien in blood religion and customs to the great mass of the people among whom they are settled, have taken an important part in the government of the country from the day they first set foot on the soil. It is, Mark Twain thinks, this failure of the Jewish race to take an active interest in the government of the several peo-ples among whom they have settled even more than their exceptional ability to crowd out their competitors in business, or than the alleged unpleasant personal traits which ages of most exclusive devotion to commercial ideals would naturally bring with it—which is accountable for the suspicion and disilkes with which they are regarded in every nation of the earth.

With respect to points 3 and 4, he thinks that the situation can be improved, and he makes the following

In our days we have learned the value of combination. We apply it everywhere—in railway systems, in trusts, in trades unions, in Salvation Armies, in minor politics, in major politics, in European concerts. ever our strength may be, big or little, we organize it. We have found out that it is the only way to get the most out of it that is in it. We know the weakness of individual sticks and the strength of the concentrated fagot. Suppose you try a scheme like this for instance. In England and America put every Jew on the census book as a Jew (in case you have not been doing that). Get up volunteer regi-ments composed of Jews solely, and, when the drum beats, fall in and go to the front, so as to remove the reproach thaty ou have few Massenas among you, that you feed on a country but don't like to fight for it. Next, in politics, organize your strength, band together and deliver the casting vote where you can, and where you can't compel as good terms as possible. You huddle to yourselves already in all countries, but you huddle to no sufficient purpose, politically speaking. You do not seem to be organized, except for your charifies. There you are omnirotent; there you compel your due of recognition—you do not have to beg for it. It shows what you can do when you band together for a definite purpose.

"And then from America and England you can encourage your race in Austria, France and Germany, and materially help it. It was a pathetic tale that was told by a poor Jew in Galicia a fortnight ago uuring the riots. after he had been raided by the Christian peasantry and despoiled of everything he had. He said that his was of no value to nim, and he wished he could be excused from casting it, for, indeed, casting or was a damage to him, since, no matter what party he voted for, the other party would come straight and take its revenge out of him. Nine per cent of the population of the empire, these Jews, and apparently they cannot put a plank into any candidate's plat-form! If you will send our Irish lads over here I think they will organize your race and change the Reichsrath." As to points 5 and 6. Mark Twain thinks that on the score of religion the persecution has already ceased; on the score of trade and race prejudice he thinks it will continue: "I suppose the race prejudice can-not be removed; but he can stand that; it is no particular matter. By his make and ways he is substantially foreigner wherever he may be, and even the angels dislike a foreigner. I am using this word foreigner in the German sense—stranger. Nearly all of us have an antipathy to a stranger, even of our own nationality. We pile gripsacks in a vacant seat to keep him from getting it; and a dog goes further, and does what a savage would— challenges him on the spot. The Ger-man dictionary seems to make no distinction between a stranger and a foreigner; in its view a stranger is a eigner-a sound position, I think. You will always be, by your ways and habits and predilections, substantially strangers — foreigner — wherever you are, and that will probably keep the race prejudice against you alive."

The Golden Rule still exists and continues to sparkle, says Mark Twain, but, unlike Mayor Jones, he thinks it has no relevancy to business; and the Jewish persecution is in business passion. In conclusion, he says:
"If the statistics are right, the Jews constitute but one per cent of the human race. It suggests a nebulous dim puff of star dust lost in the blaze of the Milky Way. Properly the Jew ought hardly to be hard of; but he is heard of, has always been heard of. He is as prominent on the planet as any other people, and his commercial importance is extravagantly out of proportion to the smallness of his bulk. His contributions to the world's list of great names in literature, science, art. music, finance, medicine, and abtruse learning are away out of proportion to the weakness of his numbers. He has made a marvelous fight in this world in all ages; and he has done it with his hands tied behind him. He could be vain of himself, and be ex-cused for it. The Egyptian, the Babylonian and the Persian rose, filled the planet with sound and splen-dor, then faded to dream-stuff and passed away: the Greek and the Roman followed, and made a vast noise, and they are gone; other peoples have sprung up and held their torch high for a time, but it burned out, and they sit in twilight now, or have vanished. The Jew saw them all, heat them all, and is now what he always was, exhibiting no decadence, no infirmities of age, no weakening of his parts, no slowing of his energies, no dulling of his alert and aggressive mind. All things are mortal but the Jew; all other forces pass, but he remains. What is the secret of his immortality?"
