GERMANS RETREATING ON WIDE FRONT BEFORE ALLIED ADVANCE

ALLIES TAKE MORE THAN 250,000 PRISONERS SINCE JULY 15

CANADIANS CAPTURED SUNKEN ROAD DEFENDED BY GERMAN MACHINE GUNS EVERY 4 YARDS

Dead Bodies of Teuton Soldiers Strewn Among Wreckage in the Sector North of Cambrai—Deadlock in the Fighting Was Preceded by Bloodiest Conflict in War's History.

London, Oct. 3.—Field Marshal Haig's announcement that a German retreat has been begun in the La Bassee sector is commented upon as a development of far-reaching importance. It is assumed, and unofficially stated, that the town of La Bassee has been evacuated. It is also believed that the enemy withdrawal involves Lens, and there is a report, too, that the Germans have ordered that Lille be abandoned.

To the successful operations of the Belgian army and Gen. Plumer's forces to the north is attributed the enemy's movement to the rear. The Anglo-Belgian drive has brought those forces near to Menin. Unconfirmed reports come from Holland that the Germans are preparing to evacuate the Flanders coast and the towns behind it.

The breach of the Hindenburg system between Le Catelet and St. Quentin by the British, Australian and American troops is also commented upon as an incident of great importance. Although it has not yet compelled the enemy to withdraw, and while he has temporarily regained Sequehart, it is admitted by Berlin that there have been retirements in the neighborhoods of St. Quentin, Rheims and in Champagne. Taken in connection with the retreat further north, it is believed that the whole German line is shaking.

Foe Fighting Fiercely.

Nevertheless, the enemy is putting up a tremendous resistance, and extraordinarily fierce fighting continues. The battle is fluctuating without great changes in the positions of the contending armies from Cambrai southward. It is regarded as an open question whether the desperate efforts of the Germans indicate their determination to hold on in this sector or is merely an attempt to gain time while evacuating their present line. The view is taken by the Mail that the breach in the line north of St. Quentin imperils the whole German position. It says that the break in the line was a tremendous feat, which has eclipsed everything the British have done in the past. Special dispatches from the British front give vivid descriptions of the terrific attacks in the neighborhood of Cambrai on Tuesday, and of the stubborn German resistance in this sector. No more furious fighting has occurred during the whole war.

Taken by Canadians.

Referring particularly to the struggle in the sector north of Cambrai, the Mail's correspondent tells how in one sunken road captured by the Canadians there was an enemy machine gun every four yards, but most of them had been knocked out by artillery fire. Along the road bodies of men were mingled with the wreckage of machine guns. The fighting, nevertheless, ceased, and as the day advanced German reinforcements streamed forward in successive groups. The light was very good, and British gunners fired round after round with open sights. Germans fell by the hundreds, but the gaps in the ranks were filled, and the enemy still came on in great numbers. They reached the points where their lines were being fiercely attacked, and even dented the British advanced lines and stopped for the time being further progress there.

By evening a deadlock was reached, and one of the bloodiest combats in recent history developed. It ended in a considerable but not ambitious advance by the British. The enemy suffered terribly. The British forces did not escape unscathed, nor has any day of the five, which have been filled with hard, continuous fighting, been without its price.

PREPARE FOR LAST SACRIFICES WITH VICTORY NOW IN SIGHT URGES THE FRENCH PREMIER

Paris, Oct. 3.—With victory in sight, the allied nations should set themselves for the last sacrifices before the final triumph is secured, Premier Clemenceau declared today in a ringing pronunciamento. The premier's words are embodied in a letter he has sent to the council general of the Loire, which had passed an address strongly supporting the Government's course.

"The council representing the people," says the premier's response, "can depend upon the Government, with Marshal Foch and the united allied armies, to pursue their course until the benefits of complete success are wrested from the enemy. The splendid victories of the recent weeks have definitely determined the fortunes of the war to the stupefaction of the enemy, who now suddenly discovers that he had grossly deceived himself.

"These victories are only the first sheaves of the fruitful harvest of which the highest recompense will be the final deliverance of the world from the oppression of implacable brutality and open the way for its marvelous development.

"In the abyss of irreparable defeat the Prussian militarists will bear the shame of the greatest attempt at wrongdoing of which a barbaric people has been able to dream. The supreme obstacle to the reign of right and law among mankind is about to disappear in the acclaim of victory in which it is our duty to make effective the triumph of humanity.

"For this let us continue to be true to ourselves. Let us accomplish the last sacrifices caused by the supreme convulsions of savagery. The collaboration of all in the cleansing of the world will achieve the work of idealism toward which so many generations have so gloriously sought the way and that history reserves to us the inexpressible glory of realizing."

TROTZKY DEMANDS ALL KAZAN'S WOMEN

Order Calls for Their Delivery Into Hands of the Red Guards.

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—War Minister Trotzky, according to the Social Revolutionists' newspaper, has issued an order that all the women of Kazan be delivered into the hands of the Red Guards.

Kazan, an important junction on the River Volga, was held for several months by the Czecho-Slovaks. This is probably the pretext for the reported order of Trotzky.

TURKEY PLANS TO SURRENDER; GERMANY'S AID NOT SUFFICIENT

Diplomats Believe That Ottoman Collapse Is Near.

TIRED OF STRUGGLE

Peace in Bulgaria Has Caused Sultan's Subjects To Realize Situation.

London, Oct. 3.—The Turkish situation was described in well-informed diplomatic circles here this morning as "moving," whereas in the same quarters two days ago it was declared to be stagnant. No official action, however, has been taken and the British officials are contenting themselves with watching the unofficial developments.

The opinion is freely expressed that a definite appeal will come from Turkey when it is forcibly brought to her attention that Germany is unable to further strengthen her army or check her continued losses.

There is every indication, diplomats say, instead of Germany threatening Turkey as was reported a fortnight ago when Bulgaria was wavering. Turkey is now threatening Germany. This has resulted in an effort by Germany to get some troops to Turkey, but the size of the force to be sent or what success has been made in transporting are not known.

Reports that the central powers have sent a large force to Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, are discredited on all sides.

A diplomat familiar with Turkey points out that it will take the greatest pressure on Enver Pasha, a strong pro-German, to make peace proposals. Reports that Turkey took up with Germany the question of Turkey's requesting peace are characterized as "intelligent anticipation," and evidently emanated from the demands Turkey made for military help.

Failure to get this help, which Germany, it seems, will not be able to give, and further Teuton reverses on the western front, are sure to bring proposals from Turkey. This is the belief in the best-informed circles. On the other hand, it is pointed out that situations may be developing in Turkey of which little or nothing is known here, that might result in proposals coming at any time.

COAL RATIONING IN QUEBEC IS COMPULSORY

Fuel Controller of Province to Enforce the Law.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, Oct. 3.—Coal rationing in the province of Quebec is compulsory not voluntary, according to H. M. Marler, fuel controller for the province, to see that the provisions of the board carried out inspection of both private dwellings and public places, will shortly be undertaken, and those found with more than their share on hand will be compelled to either return the surplus to their dealers or suffer the consequences.

DOUBTS RUMOR

Toronto Official Places No Dependence in Report Regarding Hard Coal.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 3.—"I place no faith in the dispatch, it is not official," said E. L. Cousins, assistant fuel administrator, speaking today, in connection with the rumor that the fuel controller for Canada is considering, in view of the coal shortage, having a mandatory order-in-council issued to the effect that no hard coal shall be consumed before December 1. Up to now it has not been considered necessary, in Toronto, and if the occasion demands it, there is plenty of soft coal in Toronto at the present time for local consumption.

German Front Is Crumbling

Paris, Oct. 3.—The German situation on the western front is grave, the Frankfort Zeitung admits, adding that the German front is gradually crumbling.

"The Allied plan of attack," it adds, "is being carried out in an extraordinary manner. It is an awful strain on our front. The situation on the Meuse, where the American attacks are just beginning, is extremely critical. Part of the Chemin-des-Dames has had to be given up, and the whole German front is gradually crumbling away under the Allied attacks."

The evacuation of Belgium is being discussed openly in Berlin, according to advices reaching here. Concerning Alsace-Lorraine, the German high command makes the suggestion that it be neutralized and joined to Luxemburg, thus making a buffer state between France and Germany.

REBELS AT THE IDEA OF EATING IN BASEMENT OF CHURCH WHILE HOTEL DINING-ROOMS ARE EMPTY

Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll Makes the Fur Fly at Hamilton Methodist Conference—Helped to Close Bars, But Believes in Letting Hotelmen Live.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, Oct. 3.—Josph Gibson of Ingersoll, the temperance reformer, promises to be the stormy petrel of this general conference of the Methodist Church of Canada.

His fiery vehemence and eloquence almost "put on the rocks," as one delegate phrased it, the plan that had been carefully prepared for feeding the conference members in the basement of the beautiful First Avenue Church. Said scheme was that the ladies of the church should put up the meals and charge conference delegates 50 cents for supper and 65 cents for dinner for each conference delegate. The idea that the conference had to guarantee the ladies at least 225 dinners, and if there were more than 225 they also must be paid for. But no matter how few ate in the basement the ladies were to be paid for 225. There were some who questioned the scale of pay, but not the man from Ingersoll. He fought the idea, root and branch, as a matter of principle. "I have stood on platforms in this city many a time and argued for the abolition of the bar," he began. "I have said that we had no fault to find with the hotels as hotels, that the rest of their business was legitimate. We did abolish the bars. Every temperance orator used the same arguments. We said that the hotels could get along without the bars. Now what do we find. A proposition to feed us in this church instead of letting us go to the hotels, which are now doing a legal, legitimate business. It's not fair, brethren. The first thing the church should do is to keep faith."

Ingersoll Meanness.

"I know fellows up around Ingersoll who are so mean that they put their horses and rigs in church sheds rather than leave them at the hotels and pay 15 cents. I would not like to use the proper language here to describe these coons." (Laughter.)

"Well, for once I am a rebel. I will not eat again in this church basement."

To the rescue of the church ladies hurried Sam Carter, M. P. P. of Guelph, horse, foot and artillery, telling how two years ago they had the Hamilton conference at this same church, and they ate in the basement at the hands of these ladies, and it was very pleasant and profitable.

Then Rev. C. L. McIrvine, pastor of the church, told conference that the Since July 15 and up till September 30, the Allies have captured 5,518 officers, 248,494 men, 3,669 cannon, more than 23,000 machine guns and hundreds of mine throwers, the statement says.

GREAT BRITAIN DEMANDS REPLY FROM GERMANY

London, Oct. 3.—Owing to Germany's continued failure to ratify the exchange of prisoners agreement with Great Britain and her raising of questions concerning prisoners in China and the release of U-boat crews, which Great Britain declines to do, the British Government has dispatched to Berlin peremptory demands for an immediate answer.

MAXIMILIAN OF BADEN NAMED AS NEW CHANCELLOR

German Prince, Recognized as Leader of Moderates, Succeeds Von Hertling.

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—Prince Maximilian of Baden has been named German imperial chancellor, according to the Zeitung am Mittag of Berlin.

Prince Maximilian is heir to the throne of the grand duchy of Baden. He was born July 10, 1867. For some years he had been recognized as the leader of the Delbrueck group of German Moderates, and upon the fall of Imperial Chancellor Michaelis, November 1, 1917, he was put forward as the Moderates' candidates for the chancellorship. His name, however, did not go before the emperor as Prince Maximilian objected for dynastic reasons.

At that time there were vague rumors concerning Prince Maximilian to the effect that in moderate circles there was under way a movement having for its ultimate objective the dethronement of Emperor William and the choice of Prince Maximilian as his successor. These rumors, however, were never confirmed, although there seemed to be some foundation for them. In his book, "My Four Years in Germany," Former United States Ambassador Gerard paid a tribute to Prince Maximilian and expressed admiration for him.

Early in the present year, Prince Maximilian gave a semi-official interview in which he outlined his views on Germany's peace terms. His statement was a rude shock to the pan-Germans, in that he advocated the abandonment of all ideas of conquest.

TWO REFUSE POST.

Basel, Oct. 3.—Prince Maximilian of Baden is favorably considered for the German chancellorship, according to South German papers, which say, that Konstantin Fehrenbach, president of the Reichstag, and Vice-Chancellor von Payer have definitely refused the place.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Via London.—Lens was evacuated by the Germans on Tuesday night, the war office announced today. Armentieres was evacuated the same evening.

British Headquarters in France, Oct. 3.—Field Marshal Haig's forces are reported to have captured Ramicourt, Gouy, Le Catelet and Sequehart. This has not been officially confirmed. More than 2,000 Germans have been taken prisoner today by the British.

GERMANS ARE EVACUATING STRONG POSITIONS ALONG A 20-MILE FRONT

London, Oct. 3.—British troops this morning resumed their attacks north of St. Quentin, Field Marshal Haig reports in his official statement.

The Germans are continuing their rearward movement on the front from Lens to Armentieres. They are evacuating highly-organized positions in that area, along a 20-mile line.

In pushing after the retreating enemy the British have reached the general line of Cite St. Auguste, Douvrin, east of La Bassee, east of Aubers, and west of the Grenier Wood. The advance is continuing. A German attack last night on the British positions north of Cambrai was repulsed.

The text of the statement reads:

"The progress made by the Allied offensives in Flanders and before Cambrai and St. Quentin, combined with the heavy losses incurred by his troops in their endeavors to resist the successful attacks, has compelled the enemy to undertake an extensive withdrawal of his line.

"From Lens to Armentieres the enemy is evacuating the highly-organized positions held by him since the commencement of trench warfare, and which he had hitherto defended with the utmost resolution.

"This movement, which was not expected, is being followed up closely by our troops, who are maintaining constant touch with the German rearguards, inflicting many casualties and taking prisoners."

AUSTRALIAN MOUNTED TROOPS CAPTURE A TURKISH COLUMN

London, Oct. 3.—Australian mounted troops operating in the region northeast of Damascus in Syria on Wednesday charged and captured a Turkish column. GHELUWE IS CAPTURED.

PLUMER NEARING TURCOING.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Gen. Plumer's army, fighting on the Belgian front, is reported to be two miles from Turcoing. Dispatches from the front state that Menin and Roulers are burning and that the Anglo-Belgian thrust continues in the direction of Courtrai, where the great road to Ghent opens.

NEARING BOLSHEVIK STRONGHOLD.

Archangel, Tuesday, Oct. 1.—(By the Associated Press).—American troops now hold the furthest point south reached by any of the Allied forces in the advance southward from Archangel. This point is a small village thirty-five miles south of Shenkursk (300 miles southeast of Archangel), on the River Vaga. The Bolshevik stronghold of Velsk is but forty miles away.

LT.-COL. GARTSHORE IS PRESIDENT OF CHILD WELFARE ASSOCIATION

Named at Meeting to Succeed Late Sir George Gibbons.

Owing to death and removal from the city of several officers of the London Child Welfare Association, it has been necessary to practically reorganize the executive. This was successfully accomplished at the quarterly meeting of the association held yesterday in the Western Fair Board office. Much reason for satisfaction was felt that Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, one of the prime movers in the inauguration of the child welfare movement here, and the treasurer of the association, was prevailed upon to accept the presidency.

A resolution of deep regret over the death of the president, Sir George C. Gibbons, was passed, and coupled with this, a resolution of sympathy for his family. Arthur T. Little was made first vice-president, to take the place of Mrs. H. W. Hill, who has removed to St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. George S. Gibbons was elected to fill the office of second vice-president made vacant through the removal to Toronto of Dr. S. J. Radcliffe. Mrs. Glennie Wilson was appointed corresponding secretary, and M. P. McDonagh treasurer, to release Col. Gartshore for the presidency. W. E. Kelly, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, was added to the executive committee.

Extend Its Work.

The association proposes to extend its work in the immediate future through the establishment of well baby clinics, a supremely important feature of preventive work. In this work an effort will be made to enlist the co-operation of other organization in the city, and especially the mothers' clubs. Mrs. Gemmill, who represents the Union Mothers' Club on the executive, invited a representative of the association to speak for a few minutes on the subject of child welfare and well baby clinics at the open meeting of the Union Mothers' Club on Friday evening in the Ryerson school, to be addressed by Miss Constance Boulton of Toronto. Miss Smith, child welfare nurse, was deputed to do this.

A special committee consisting of Miss Smith and the president, the first and second vice-presidents, Mrs. R. J. Fisher, Miss Friend (public health nurse), and Miss Isabel C. Armstrong, was empowered to take action at once in connection with securing quarters for the well baby clinics and establishing these. Miss Smith, who spent the month of August studying the child welfare methods in operation in Toronto and Hamilton, advised holding three well baby clinics a week in different sections of the city. She reported that she had made 64 visits during the month of September, showing mothers how to carry out the instructions of doctors re the care of their little ones, demonstrating the proper methods of preparing food, etc.

Headquarters Office.

The question of a headquarters office for the child welfare nurse was brought up, and Col. Gartshore was asked to interview the Western Fair Board in regard to obtaining the use of a corner of its offices as temporary quarters. A telephone will be installed and the services of the child welfare nurse will be available for cases brought to her attention by doctors of the city. The sum of $100 was voted as an emergency fund to be used by Miss Smith in her work. A much appreciated donation of $50 towards the work of the association was made by Mrs. Gibbons.

Miss Smith conveyed a message to the association from Mrs. H. A. Boomer, president of the Local Council of Women, assuring of the sympathy and co-operation of the Local Council in child welfare work.

Affiliated societies of the Local Council will be approached in regard to making room on their programs of the coming winter for speakers of outstanding ability on child welfare work.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH LONDON? AMERICAN ACCUSES CITY OF BEING DEAD AND URGES BIG CELEBRATION

Citizen, Overhearing Remarks, Points to Reasons for Joyous Big Time Here and Would Have It Take Place Without Delay.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Would you kindly accept the following letter, which I think will be appreciated by not a few of our citizens:

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH LONDON?"

"What's the matter with London?"

"What's the matter with London why, what do you mean?"

"What's the matter with London? The town is dead; you have no life. Why, if we were getting all the victories you Britishers are we would raise H—. Why, when our boys took St. Mihiel, we raised heaven and earth; bells were ringing, horns and whistles were blowing from the factories, boats and railways, bands were playing, and crowds of gay masqueraders were parading the town with torches and horns, banners and flags of the Allies. The town was kept gay with the national airs of the Allies."

Such was part of a conversation by an American citizen, heard in the writer's store yesterday. Now, Mr. Editor, to make a long story short, why cannot London have a carnival at once to celebrate the glorious victories of Cambrai, where our dear boys are struggling beside the "Old Contemptible Army"; St. Quentin, where the heroes of France and the "Old Contemptibles" are supreme; capture of Roulers by the Belgians; the occupation of Uskub by the French; the Allies' advance into Serbia and Bulgaria by the victorious Greeks, Serbians, French, and the "Old Contemptibles"; the elimination of Bulgaria and the consequent tremendous advantage gained; the capture of Beyrout by the French, and the glorious advance in Palestine and capture of Damascus by Gen. Allenby, with his "Contemptible British Army," and the Australians and Indian troops. All these victories have been accomplished in a couple of days—is it not wonderful, Mr. Editor? Do we realize these wonderful advances and danger our brave boys have been through and are going through to gain these magnificent victories? No, sir; the majority of us do not. We stand before the bulletin board, when you will hear someone remark: "You cannot believe all you see in the papers." Why do they say this now—possibly to mislead other people? I say to these people: "The British do not lie in times like these. Mr. Editor, I think it's up to the citizens "to whoop it up." I ask the mayor to give us a chance. Do not let strangers think London a "dead city." Thousands of us remember the carnival we had in the old town for the relief of Ladysmith. Let us have another carnival of like dimensions, which will be heard or read about up on the Cambrai front; let's have a cheer and a celebration that will be the talk of the Dominion. Let's cheer our heads off for our Canadian boys, the same for gallant Haig, the same for indomitable Foch, and all our allied commanders, and wind up with cheers for the most democratic king in the world—King George.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am yours in patriotism, WALTER SMITH.

DONNYBROOK FAIR DRAWS GOOD CROWD IN SPITE OF RAIN

Races at Dorchester Fair Provide Many Thrills.

LITTLE BOY STRAYS AWAY

Wet Weather in Morning a Serious Detriment—Good Livestock Shown.

Owing to the weather conditions the large crowd, which has in former years flocked to Dorchester to attend Donnybrook fair, was not present in full yesterday. The rain, which fell nearly all morning, dampened the spirit which would have been shown if Old Sol had been shining. An estimate of the number present would be difficult, but there was a good crowd, and the exhibition ran off as smoothly as in former years.

The midway was slow at first, but when the weather had cleared up the crowd turned its attention to it, and put some life into the forlorn hopes of the show people. The main attraction of the midway was an imitation kaiser, who was standing in plain view. The stunt, to be done to earn a cigar, was to knock this figure down. A crowd could be seen trying its luck, and many of the boys of the khaki band made it real hot for him.

Several large pieces were knocked off his anatomy, and the men, who did this, expressed the idea that if they never got another crack at him they would get their money's worth, while the "getting was good."

Excellent Livestock.

The poultry, horse and cattle exhibition was exceedingly good, and it is thought by members of the fair board to be the best stock exhibition held there. The cattle drew much attention. Aggie, a famous Ayrshire cow, won the first prize in her class. She is owned by Angus Armour of Dorchester, and captured the senior grand championship at the Western Fair this year.

Good collections of grain were also one of the chief attractions. A large string of well-bred horses was shown, and the judges found it difficult to pick the winners. Farm tractors were on exhibition and a demonstration of ploughing was given.

Barring the horse races, the most exciting feature of the fair was a little boy, of some three years, getting lost. He was found on the grounds crying, by some larger children, and not knowing haw to find the little boy's mother, they trotted him over to the judges of the races.

Announced to Crowd.

These worthy men called to the crowd on the grandstand to the effect that a little boy had been found, and the mother could have the youngster by coming forward and claiming him. At first there was no response, and they were unable to get the little fellow to tell his name, as he could not talk plainly enough for them to understand. One generous visitor offered him a cent to tell his name, but this bribe was not considered large enough by the little fellow, and the kindly man withdrew his offer. The mother, who was not within hearing distance at the time soon appeared on the scene, and the races were resumed.

One judge maintained his coolness, despite the fact that he was asked by a brother judge if he cared to adopt the child.

Winners in Races.

The horse racing was good, and many well-known horses made a throw for the purses offered. The summary:

London Soldiers Play.

The band from the 1st Battalion, C. G. R., Carling Heights, was in attendance, and was a great help in keeping the fair-goers in a cheerful mood, and made them forget that the sun was not shining. It played many popular numbers, such as "Over There" and "So Long, My Dear Old Lady."

A concert was held in the hall in the evening, and attracted a large crowd. Automobiles were lined up on the road for nearly two blocks, and the hall was so packed with people many had to stand at the windows. The Lombardo orchestra from this city figured largely in the affair, and rendered numbers which greatly appealed to the audience.

HOW FAT ACTRESS WAS MADE SLIM

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced two to four pounds a week by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription, and now, by taking Marmola Tablets several times a year, keeps her weight just right. All druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at 75 cents for a large case. Or you can get them by sending price direct to the Marmola Company, 864 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them, do so. They are harmless and effective. b

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR CANADA

LEAVE OF ABSENCE AND SALARY GIVEN REV. D. C. MACGREGOR

St. Andrew's Congregation So Decides at Meeting.

PASTOR ENTERING ARMY

Difference in Remuneration Will Be Made Up by the Church.

At a congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held in St. Andrew's Hall on Wednesday evening, two resolutions were passed. First, that Rev. D. C. MacGregor be granted leave of absence while performing duties as chaplain in the army, and, second, that the difference between the salary paid him by the Government and that which he receives as pastor of the church shall be made up by the congregation.

John M. Gunn presided at the meeting.

After the routine business had been transacted, a request that Mr. MacGregor speak a few words was made. Mr. MacGregor expressed to the congregation his regret at leaving St. Andrew's temporarily, but said that he thought it was his duty to serve in the cause.

David Ross and A. S. MacGregor were appointed representatives to attend the meeting of the presbytery today to obtain sanction for leave of absence for Rev. Mr. MacGregor.

The meeting was opened and closed with devotional exercises by Mr. MacGregor.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

REPLY TO BEE OWNER.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Will you please grant us space to give "A Lambeth Bee Owner" a little encouragement re his dilemma with the sugar question?

He starts out by saying: "As there is no chance at present of getting sugar it seems that we should destroy our servants the bees, and that means a terrible loss to the country, as there would be very little fruit or clover seed if it were not for the honey bee."

We have tried to sympathize with him as he sat there writing, with his patriotic soul aflame, as he thought of the impending "terrible loss to the country," and we can picture the tears rolling down his rugged cheeks until the filled his long boots so full that he imagined himself shoulder to shoulder with the boys in the muddy trenches "over there."

Then he suddenly realizes that he will be about ten or more tons of honey shy next fall if the bees die, and his soul is filled with anguish. But, game to the last, he writes: "My advice is to destroy the bees if you cannot get sugar to prepare for the coming winter. It would be cruel to let them starve."

Sure it would, Mr. Bee Owner, but cheer up, there is hope. In our boyhood days in Lambton County there used to be swarms of wild bees in the bush, and as long as we did not take ALL their honey in the fall, the bees used to wriggle through the winter all right.

Perhaps tame bees would do the same. So let us patriotically advise you to put back enough of that ten tons of honey into the beehives to keep the bees alive until spring. We know that it would be a personal financial loss, but try to realize that Joan of Arc stuff you would be pulling off by saving the country from such a "terrible loss." We have no doubt that a grateful country would reward you with a coat-of-arms for your honey pails—say, bees rampant, with the motto "Pro Patria" underneath, and perhaps with a little persuasion you might be induced to become an associate member of the G. W. V. A. homes are members of the Bread Drivers' Union.

Now, Mr. Editor, we are not quite sure whether Mr. Bee Owner will accept our honeyed advice, but men who have been in the trenches feel that it is distinctly up to "Lambeth Bee Owner" to quit his whining or go and serve a few months in the trenches, and we can assure him that the "honey" question will not worry him over there. Optimistically yours, FRED YOUNG.

TWO WOMEN DIE FROM INFLUENZA; EALING SCHOOL BADLY AFFECTED

Over Half of Pupils Absent, Some Being Seriously Ill.

OTHER SCHOOLS ESCAPE

Few Children Away From Studies On Account of Epidemic.

Before 9:30 o'clock this morning, sixteen cases of Spanish influenza had been reported to the board of health. In accordance with instructions sent out to doctors of the city by the acting medical officers of health, Dr. W. S. Downham. The following is the bulletin which Dr. Downham has issued:

"There are several cases of influenza in the city and some physicians have recognized the so-called Spanish influenza. In most cases the patient is taken suddenly ill with weakness, dizziness, general aching, and rise of temperature. In about four days the patient becomes much better, but at this time a severe form of pneumonia may set in which sometimes proves fatal.

Gargling Advised.

"Unless nursing or helping a patient with influenza it is well not to get too close to such a case. If persons have been exposed to influenza they may gargle their throats two or three times a day with a mild germicide in an effort to throw off the germs.

"People suffering from any form of influenza should avoid coughing, sneezing or talking when any person is directly in front of them.

"Those in attendance should wash their hands immediately after doing anything for the patient and gargle their throats two or three times a day.

"The patient should be kept isolated until fully recovered.

"In order to estimate the extent of the epidemic, physicians are asked to report all their cases to the health officer.

"W. S. DOWNHAM,
"Acting Medical Officer of Health, London."

Most Schools Escape.

With one or two exceptions, the schools of the city have escaped the ravages of influenza remarkably well. Miss Blanche Rowe, school nursing supervisor, stated that, as yet, there is very little sickness among the school children from influenza, excepting in the Ealing district. No cases have been reported to the school nurses of children taking suddenly ill in school hours.

While influenza, according to the doctors, is generally distributed throughout the city, the southeast end seems to be the most seriously affected section up to the present.

"Have you many pupils out of school with Spanish influenza?" was asked this forenoon of Principal McWilliams of the Ealing school.

Over 50 Per Cent Absent.

"You would scarcely believe how many there are," he replied. "Out of an enrollment of 286 pupils, 134 are away today, suffering from influenza. Several are most serious, having developed pneumonia. Thirty of the sixty-three pupils in my room are away."

Reports from principals of schools in the north, south and west of the city bear out the statement of Miss Rowe. Principal Wyatt of St. George's School says, "We haven't had a case of influenza and the attendance has never been larger than in the past two weeks. In my own room, for example, the average attendance is 36. Today I have 37 present."

In the Alexandra School the report is: "There is scarcely anyone with even a cold. One of the teachers has been ill, but is getting along all right."

"We are absolutely free from influenza in our school," is the statement made by the principal of the Victoria School, South London. Empress Avenue School, West London, has only had one case of sickness.

Two More Deaths.

The development of pneumonia has been the serious feature in connection with the present outbreak, and it is owing to this that doctors are so insistent that, with the appearance of influenza, patients shall stay in bed, even though the case is mild in the beginning. Mrs. John Humphrey of Van street, who was reported in a critical condition yesterday from pneumonia, resulting from influenza, died late yesterday afternoon, surviving her husband by only a couple of days. Mrs. Harris, the charwoman, who kept on with her work after "catching cold," some days ago, thereby developing pneumonia, died early on Wednesday afternoon, before she could be taken to the hospital. While Dr. Copeland in the east end of the city reports a number of cases of bronchial pneumonia, Dr. J. C. Ferguson, South London, stated yesterday that the cases of pneumonia developing from the present influenza epidemic, which have come under his observation are of the lobar type.

T. AND L. COUNCIL WILL GIVE HELP IN 'BOOST' MOVEMENT

Decides to Join Forces With Board of Trade.

London Trades and Labor Council will identify itself with the movement which has been inaugurated by the London Board of Trade to boost London. This stand was taken at the regular meeting of the council last evening, and President J. Dean was indorsed as the council's representative on the committee of one hundred to work with the board of trade in the coming campaign. Several delegates voiced the opinion that the council should take a more prominent part in civic moves of this nature than has been customary.

Want Miners Helped.

A communication was received from Vancouver Island asking for assistance for the two miners who were recently arrested there charged with assisting draft evaders by supplying them with foodstuffs. This was laid over until further particulars can be received.

It was decided to grant the request of the Tom Mooney molders' defence committee of California, asking for assistance in the efforts to secure a new trial for Mooney, who is under sentence of death in San Quentin prison.

J. Dean and R. Hessell, delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress which was held in Quebec last month, gave general reports of the work of the congress.

D. Wright and G. Colbert, who had represented their local unions at the congress, also gave short reports of the gathering.

Union Drivers.

On the unanimous indorsation of the delegates, the labor men of the city will be asked to see that the drivers of the bread wagons which supply their homes are members of the Bread Drivers' Union.

Delegates J. Hussey, C. C. Ferguson and D. Wright were appointed a committee to search for more suitable quarters for the holding of the meetings. A report will be made at the next regular meeting.

Several Labor Day accounts were disposed of, and other business was done.

'Twas His Home and City

Do We Realize Fully, the Advantages and Privileges We Enjoy Living In a City Like London and a County Such as ours—Middlesex?

The continued and unbroken prosperity of the city of London is explained in one word, "MIDDLESEX." To demonstrate this a conversation which took place in the smoking apartment on a Pennsylvania railway train this summer is worth passing on.

The smoker brings together men of every walk and the conversation on this occasion was on conditions throughout the continent, and in different localities.

One of the party, who had been on an extensive purchasing trip throughout Ontario, was most enthusiastic in asserting that he had been over one of the finest pieces of country a few weeks ago he had ever traveled, and had spent some time in one of the most ideally-located and most naturally-beautiful home cities he had ever visited, where living conditions were really ideal, and finished by saying that that city was the CITY OF LONDON, in the (State) of MIDDLESEX, ONTARIO.

An unassuming farmer and, by the way, an extensive cattle dealer, who lives only a few miles from London (after recovering from the shock the stranger had given him), who had been an eager listener while enjoying his smoke, then joined in the conversation, and further substantiated the impressions of his fellow traveler from the other side by telling the party a few things about his home county and city—Middlesex and London.

Do we fully appreciate our surroundings and realize the future possibilities of the city we live in?

FINES MUST BE SENT BY CROWN ATTORNEY TO PROV. TREASURER

City's Order to Clerk Here Is Against Law.

That the city council has bumped up against a tougher proposition than it suspected when it took the stand that Police Court Clerk John Moule would be ordered to pay all fines arising from criminal cases in the court to the city treasurer instead of to Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop is evidenced by a letter which Mr. McKillop has received from J. T. White, solicitor to the treasury, which states that the fines are still payable to the crown attorney. The letter also points out that the council is entirely wrong in its assertions regarding the procedure followed by the Toronto police court, as the fines from that court are sent in to the provincial treasurer by the crown attorney, following the same course as the local court.

City Mistaken.

When the council first intimated the action it would take, Mr. McKillop wrote the provincial treasurer, inclosing a clipping which stated that in Toronto the fines were paid over to the city treasurer first and then half of the amount forwarded by him to the provincial treasurer, and asked what action he should take here. The letter which was received clears up the situation in the opinion of the crown attorney, and as far as he and Clerk John Moule are concerned, the question is settled.

Following is the text of the letter which Mr. McKillop received.

No Change in Order.

"Replying to your esteemed favor of 20th ult., addressed to the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer, there has been no change made in the order-in-council under which police court fines are payable to the crown attorney.

"The newspaper item is entirely wrong. Police court fines in the city of Toronto are sent in to the provincial treasurer monthly by Seymour Gorley, city crown attorney.'

It has been the practice here for Mr. Moule to hand over the fines received from criminal cases to Mr. McKillop and he sends the moneys on to the provincial treasurer every month and, sometimes, if the fines are large, he sends the returns oftener. He will still follow this plan, he asserts. The council has intimated that the clerk of the police court would be instructed by it to pay the monies over to City Treasurer James Bell, but this has not yet been done.

SEVERE RHEUMATISM PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid which flows in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive processes, and remains there because the liver, kidneys and skin are too torpid to carry it off.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and through the blood on the liver, kidneys and skin, which it stimulates, and at the same time it improves the digestion.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Sold by all druggists. C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT THE WESTERN "U"

Record Enrollment of Medical Students.

The first chapel service of the year was held at noon today at the Western University, with a most gratifying attendance. The enrollment in the "freshie" year in arts is eleven or twelve higher than a year ago, including a good representation of men students. This is due to the exemption of the younger boys from military service, and the exemption of others for other reasons. The enrollment in the first year in medicine is the highest in the history of the Western Medical College, reaching 56. This is accounted for by the new military regulations, whereby a certain percentage of A. M. C. men in each district are to be given medical courses, subject to army discipline.

MANY RETURNED MEN ASSISTED BY S. A. C. IN CITY DURING SEPTEMBER

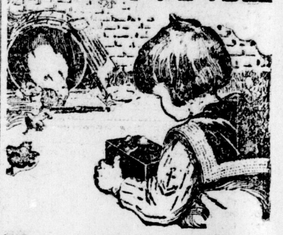

Four hundred and twelve men called at the offices of the local branch of the soldiers' aid commission during the month of September for assistance, according to the monthly report submitted by Edward Lance, secretary of the local branch, to the secretary of the provincial headquarters.

The soldiers' aid commission assisted 59 men to secure positions during the month.

The booklet to be published by the reception committee of the local branch of the commission for distribution among men upon arrival has met with remarkable success, and will shortly be ready for issue. The booklet refers to work being done for returned soldiers in Military District No. 1. Articles have been received from the following for this booklet: City of London, board of trade, board of pension commissioners, Great War Veterans' Association, and the Salvation Army.

Seventy-six men were assisted financially during the past month. Loans were made to men from $2 upwards. One man was assisted financially, making it possible for him to bring his family from England to this country.

FALL OF BULGARIA WELL CELEBRATED BY SCHOOL PUPILS

St. George's Children Set City Fine Example.

If London failed to hold a civic demonstration immediately to mark its joy over the capitulation of Bulgaria and the triumphs of Gen. Allenby in Palestine, seven or eight hundred school children of a certain patriotic public school didn't let any grass grow under their feet before celebrating the mighty Allied victory.

Jack Elliott, 658 Piccadilly street, aged 11 years, a sixth grade pupil, thus graphically describes the big demonstration last Monday afternoon by the St. George's School staff and pupils to celebrate the fall of Bulgaria:

"How We Celebrated Britain's First Great Victory."

"Good news," said Miss McEwen, and of course we were all anxious to hear about it. After having been told that Britain had won a great victory, we were all delighted, and in a few minutes were lined up and headed by our principal, Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Judd and started out to air our joys, taking all the trenches until we reached the "dugout" of His Worship Mayor Somerville, when we demanded his surrender, and in a speech he expressed his joy that the events had so turned to lighten the hearts of the civilized people, and he said may the war soon be over, the final victory ours, then war no more.

"Having thus satisfied ourselves, we returned to our billets, completed our exercises and were discharged for the day."

The Good News.

The news arrived over the wires on Monday forenoon. By 12 o'clock it was being shouted by the newsboys on the streets.

Announcement was made to the children of St. George's School as soon as they assembled at 1:30 o'clock and with it, a proposal to hold a grand, rousing celebration. Every flag around the school was mustered in short order, teachers manufacturing at lightning speed banners which read, "Bulgaria surrenders unconditionally to the Allies."

Armed with these, seven hundred or so joyful youngsters were assembled on the lawn of the school within a few minutes, where they were marshaled into parade order, the senior grades leading. Cheers were given and "God Save the King" sung lustily. The permission was given to "Forward march" and let joy be unconfined. It was. Everybody in the neighborhood knew that good news was on the wing.

No Lunatics, These.

"We took the banners along," stated Principal Wyatt to The Advertiser today, "to let the people know what it was all about, and so they would understand it wasn't a band of lunatics at large."

The original idea was to go around only one block, but the exuberance of the celebration carried them far beyond their "original objective." Mayor Somerville was just stepping out of his house to see what the fun was all about when he was taken a willing captive by the irresistible army of invaders.

With all the patriotic addresses the mayor has delivered since the outbreak of the war, and on occasions without number in an official capacity this year, it is probable that he never gave a more rousing speech than on Monday on the spur of the moment, lifted high on the tide of patriotic enthusiasm of school children.

One statement he made which caused the boys and girls to lift higher their heads and throw out their chests was to the effect that it was fitting a school bearing the name of "St. George" should start a victory celebration, since St. George, the deliverer, is the patron saint of England.

FIVE CASES UP FOR HEARING ON MONDAY

Two Added to Supreme Court List.

Two more cases have been entered for hearing at the non-jury sitting of the supreme court, which opens at the county court house on Monday next. This brings the number up to five, and as the time of entry has passed there will be no more entered.

The firm of Harris & Co. of London is seeking to recover $2,797.10 from H. J. Carson & Co. of Montreal, which the local company alleges it lost as a result of the breach of contract on the part of the defendant in not accepting a carload of brass. The defendant claims that the car was not loaded at the time that was specified for its acceptance, and it was compelled to buy in the open market at a higher price, and claims that the action should be dismissed. Meredith & Meredith have the case for the local firm and Singer, Walsh & Ford of Toronto are conducting the defence.

Mrs. Amelia Ann Wilson claims alimony from her husband, George Wilson, who, she alleges, has deserted her and refused to provide for her needs. She is living with her daughter, and asks that he be made to contribute a reasonable amount for her support.

The husband denies that he has deserted her, and claims that he is paying for her support. He further says that he will provide a home for her if she will consent to this arrangement. Graydon & Graydon are acting for the plaintiff and T. W. Scandrett has the case for the defendant.

Farmer was placed in the Canadian Garrison Regiment with category C1. L. A. Ranger was attached to the W. O. R. with A2 category. No men appearing under the M. S. A. were examined.

MAYOR HOPES THAT HINDENBURG'S LINE WILL BE SHATTERED

London Will Prepare to Celebrate the Crash.

Mayor Somerville intimated this morning that he might delay launching London's celebration of the great Allies' victories until the Hindenburg line is completely torn to shreds. The fire which appeared in his eye as he said this left the impression that he does not think that it will be very long in coming.

Last night the finance committee decided to have the mayor name a committee to prepare for the event. Mayor Somerville will likely let the matter lay over until the council approves on Monday.

When asked what form of celebration he thought would be appropriate, the Mayor said he had not decided and intimated that in the meantime he would be open for suggestions from anyone with original ideas.

GIRLS' GOOD WORK ON FARMS SOMETIMES IS RATHER POORLY PAID

While the business relationships existing between farmerettes and their employers in Western Ontario this past season have been in the main mutually satisfactory, occasionally one case will crop up where the girl doesn't quite measure up, or where the employer fails to fully reward service.

Such a case as the latter has been brought to the attention of The Advertiser.

The women's department of the Government Employment Bureau has sent out this year a circular stating that girls will go to do mixed farming at $20 a month. This, being interpreted, means that they will begin at that figure, but, if their work merits an advance, it is expected it will be given them. The employer in the specific case has been long on praise, but short on giving a just rise in pay. In many cases, the pay has advanced to $40 a month, or $9 a week and board, the farmer taking the view that if a girl does as much and as good work as a hired man, she is entitled to as much as he would be obliged to pay a hired man.

The girl of the specific case went to the employer at the usual terms, $20 a month, to begin. She mowed the hay, raked the hay, loaded hay, stooked grain, picked berries, thinned vegetables and has taken machinery apart and put it together like a skilled machinist. Her employer has spoken in enthusiastic terms of her work. Never did he have a man employed who could measure up to her. It was a wonder the way she could take machinery to pieces and put it together again. In fact, there wasn't anything she couldn't do well. But—he had agreed to pay her $20 a month. The farmerette in the case knows she has done the work to the best of her ability—a real big best. She has neither stinted in time nor strength.

Her comment is: "Wages rotten; Government inspection needed."

CAPT. DALTON G. GARRETT.

VETERANS CONDEMN MOVES TO DEPRIVE SOLDIERS OF "CIGS"

Take Issue With W. C. T. U. in Vigorous Way.

The Advertiser has been requested to publish the following explanatory resolution passed by the local G. W. V. A.:

Re cigarettes, tobacco, etc., for the soldiers overseas:

Whereas, the W. C. T. U. gave much publicity to the ridiculous resolution before that body, fostered by Mrs. Gordon Wright, that the women of Canada refrain from sending cigarettes and tobacco to the boys overseas and in France, as they claim smoking was injurious to our men over there, both physically and mentally, and she suggested that the good ladies substitute candies and other sweets for cigarettes, etc., that they in their goodness have been accustomed to forward to our boys over there, and

Whereas, many of our members have been asked by the public and kind patriotic people what stand the G. W. V. A. takes in regard to this question and what is the actual experience and opinion of the men who have been over there and back, regarding the statement made by Mrs. Wright and others of her ilk, and

Whereas, it is a fact to our knowledge and to the knowledge and opinion of 99 out of every 100 of the men and their officers, that the whole assertion of Mrs. Wright is unwarranted, uncalled for, untrue, and very unkind to the boys over there and to the loved ones left at home, and we believe that the publication of such foolish and false assertions is unpatriotic, in so far as this kind of stuff grates on the nerves of some people who have loved ones over there, and it also adds as a further excuse to those people who would fain keep their loved ones home while someone else did the fighting. It may seem hard, but we believe such ridiculous, harmful agitations are the result of ignorance and imagination, and the overwhelming desire for notoriety on the part of the agitators.

Wherefore be it resolved, that the Great War Veterans' Association of London, Ontario, do place itself on record as unanimously condemning the assertions of Mrs. Wright and the W. C. T. U. re cigarettes, etc., for the soldiers at the front, as false, unwarranted, harmful, unkind and unpatriotic, and we believe the recommendation that sweets be sent instead of smokes is so apparently foolish that further comment is unnecessary, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution and preamble be sent to all our city papers, requesting publication, that we may offset so far as possible the harm done Mrs. Wright, and all, and that we may urge on our members and all the true, kindly friends of our fighting Canadian boys to continue to send these boys all you can, but be assured that of all you send the cigarettes and tobacco is by far the most greatly appreciated and, we believe, brings the greatest comfort possible for a given price.

Previous to enlisting he was a farmer. He is survived by six sisters.

Lieut. David Logan was severely wounded in the right leg on September 29, according to information received by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Logan, 602 Cheapside street. Lieut. DEALERS SAY HOGS TOO HIGH IN PRICE

A shipment of hogs received at the local market this morning brought $18.75 per cwt. This price is considerably lower than what they have been selling for until recently, but the buyers claim that the price is still too high. The cause for this high price is stated by them to be due to the fact that, as the farmers have been receiving such good prices for their hogs it will take some time to bring them back to the normal prices again. Buyers state that the animals should only be bringing from $18 to $18.25 at the most. Sixteen loads of hay were also offered and brought from $17.50 to $18.

MOTOR CAR STOLEN FROM MARKET SHED

Benjamin Stiltz, a farmer residing at Mount Brydges, had his car stolen from the shed of the local market Wednesday evening. Mr. Stiltz journeyed to this city in his car, a Ford, to go to the theatre. After coming out he went to the market shed to find that his car had disappeared. The police have been notified and all efforts are being made to return the car to its rightful owner. As yet no word has been received as to its whereabouts. The license number is 49038, and the car is a 1917 model.

Mr. Stiltz states that on the rear light there is a streak of black paint running down the middle, and when the light is lit this streak shows quite plainly. The left door also comes open when the car is running. It was taken between 10 and 10:15 last evening.

LONDON HAS 40,000 TONS OF ANTHRACITE PACKED IN ITS BINS

Forty Per Cent of Allotment For Year.

DEALERS KEEPING CHECK

Declare That Only 70 Per Cent of Supply Is Being Delivered.

London's coal allotment for this winter is 100,065 tons, and 40 per cent of this amount has been received in the city up to September 18. On the basis that there are 13,000 homes in the city, this would mean that there are three tons for every home here. However, The Advertiser's coupon campaign and Fuel Controller McCallum's campaign would tend to show that there are at least 300 homes without coal at all, and it is likely that there are still others that neither campaign has reached.

More Coal Than Year Ago.

"There is much more coal in the city now than there was on the first of December last year," declared a large dealer to The Advertiser today. He said that he thought London was better off than 90 per cent of the places in the Dominion. He considered it a most promising feature that so many homes already had their supply in their cellars. In means that there are so many less than will have to be bothered with this winter. It will make it much easier for the dealers to look after the wants of those who are in dire want. He did not anticipate that there would be many of these.

Considers the Facts.

It was pointed out that there is much discussion as to the situation, charging that the distribution of coal was inequitable. This large dealer stated that there were two outstanding facts to be considered when these charges are made.

The first is that the federal fuel controller spent thousands of dollars during the past summer urging the people of the Dominion to purchase seventy per cent of their coal early in the year and to get it into their cellars even if they had to enlarge their bins. He also urged the dealers by circulars to see that as many of their customers as possible were supplied in the summer with 70 per cent of their supply.

Dealers Playing Square.

"I can say positively that the dealers of London have lived up to the letter of these instructions, and the people have been given but 70 per cent of their supply." He explained that the local dealers were agreed upon this, and have co-operated with one another in seeing that this amount was not exceeded. If a purchaser went to another dealer to purchase coal, that dealer would find out the amount purchased from the old dealer before supplying him. Further, he said, there has been dozens of cases where the drivers have refused to put their load in already-filled bins, and the coal has been taken to someone more needy.

Ten Cars Needed.

The dealer was informed that Inspector McCallum had about 300 declarations from people who have no coal. The Advertiser has coupons from about 400 people, and about 300 of these have no coal. The dealer pointed out that if between the two campaigns 400 people were found to have no coal, it would only take ten cars to give these people one ton each, and this would last all at least a month. He said that it was the intention of the dealers to care for every person who has no coal.

Churches To Report.

Mr. McCallum has asked all the churches of the city to inform him as to the coal on hand and also what facilities they have for confining their heating to one part of the building. He hopes to have full statistics by the end of the week.

A correspondent of The Advertiser writes that 100 cars for dealers and 50 for the Government have come into the city during the past week. He estimates his cars at 46 tons, and asks where the coal has all gone to? He says there are hundreds of homes without a speck of coal.

U. S. CONVOY IS TORPEDOED; ALL ON BOARD LOST

Vessel Was Sunk On Sept. 26 Off the English Coast.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The U. S. S. Tampa, a former coastguard cutter in the naval service, was lost off the English coast September 26 with all on board, while on convoy duty.

Ten officers and 102 enlisted men of the crew, one British officer and five civilian employees lost their lives.

A navy department statement today announcing the disaster says the ship was sunk at night in the Bristol Channel, and that reports indicate that she was struck by a torpedo while escorting a convoy.

Apparently there were no eyewitnesses to the sinking. The navy's report says an explosion was felt after the Tampa had gone well ahead of the convoy about 8:45 p.m., and that later quantities of wreckage, one of the Tampa's lifebelts and the bodies of two unidentified officers in uniform were found.

TWENTY-TWO KILLED WHEN TRAIN CRASHES INTO FOUNDRYMEN

Pennsylvania Flyer Runs Into Crowd at Bedford, Ohio.

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—Twenty-two men were instantly killed and two others probably fatally injured at 7 o'clock this morning, when a Pennsylvania passenger train from Akron to Cleveland crashed into a crowd of foundrymen alighting from a local train at Bedford, a suburb ten miles from here. The local train from Cleveland was carrying 600 of them to work.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials say many of the workmen alighted from the local train before it stopped, and in a heavy fog stepped over on to the northbound track, where the passenger train struck them.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS SUBJECT OF SQUABBLE

City and Province Divide Small Sum in Fines.

Much ado is being raised in regard to whether the fines from criminal cases in the police court shall go first to the city crown attorney.

Facts show that the amount is a tiny one to squabble over.

The September report shows that the total fines amounted to $1,029. Of this $89 arose out of criminal charges and would be divided equally between the city and the province. In all the total fines at stake are about $500 a year according to City Clerk Baker.

A SINISTER FIGURE.

THE COUNTESS CANTANZUNE, the American wife of a Russian officer, in a series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post throws some new light on the last days of the Russian court which will alter somewhat the poor opinion the world has formed of the late czar. According to this writer, who was an intimate of the royal family and in close touch with the situation that led up to the revolution, the real cause of the catastrophe which has made of Russia a welter of murder was the empress. We are told that she was the sinister force behind the czar which drove him to acts that could end only in the red revolt which has shaken a world. From the beginning the empress opposed tooth and nail the granting of any political concessions to the Russian democrats. The dismissal of the Duma at a moment when it was about to take a real part in the governing of the nation was her work. She persuaded the emperor that it was the first move towards republicanism and scared him into cutting off a powerful friend. She is charged with having something to do with the holding back of army supplies in order that Grand Duke Nicholas might meet with reverses and be shorn of his command of the empire's armies. Finally she convinced the czar that Nicholas' military successes had made him dangerously popular. She pictured him as made emperor with the army behind him, and brought the downfall and exile of the best and most loyal leader in the Russian ranks. Repeatedly the czar's sincere desire to give a wider freedom to his people was overborne by the stronger-minded empress, who was for the old autocratic rule through thick and thin.

Naturally the empress became a ready tool of Germany's agents, although there is no evidence that she was deliberately playing the game for the central powers. Her determination to permit no man or body representative of the masses to share in the ruling of the nation was used to tremendous advantage by the sycophantic operatives of the kaiser who had made their way into the confidence of the court's inner circles.

The czar is pictured as broad-minded, kindly, democratic, keen to make his people happy, but as putty in the hands of this iron-willed woman whose ambition to rule has brought the throne crashing to earth and for a time at least made prostrate a great nation.

OUR DEBT TO PARKMAN.

LITERARY history records many cases of work accomplished under most trying conditions of mind or body. Robert Louis Stevenson, making himself an apostle of light and good cheer, though himself racked in body, is an example quite familiar, and one of the charms of his writing, to those who know his life story, is the fact that he was able to keep his own physical feelings quite out of his writing, or rather to reverse the situation and make his sick-bed productions radiate cheerfulness and hearty life to all who read them. Prescott, the American historian, is another example of a mind that rose over disabilities to produce writings that have lived and will live long. But perhaps an even finer example, and in the same field of writing, is that of Francis Parkman, who has special interest for Canadians because more than any other historian he has made our early narratives into real history that has made to live again that great achievement of helping open up a great new continent.

President Finley of the University of the State of New York, has seized upon this idea in his study of "The French in the Heart of America," and says of Parkman that his theme was "nothing less than the grappling, out on the frontier of the world, between two principles of organized human life." It was the contest between savagery and civilization that Parkman told, and though that same contest has been going on since the beginning of civilization and is going on today there have been few observers who saw the real meaning of the contest more clearly than did the almost blind Parkman working away in an upper room of his Boston home, working almost in darkness, and scmetimes only able to write five or six lines a day. Let no one think, however, that this historian was one who dwelt only with musty documents. Musty documents would never have produced such narratives. Those who have read the Oregon Trail, the record of the journey taken over the western plains in the fifties, living with the Indians, seeing them for almost the last time in their natural state, will know how it is that Parkman was able so well to delineate Indian character. His notebooks, the record of other journeys to the localities that figure in his books, show that not until he was intimately acquainted with the place as well as the record did he set pen to paper. Disraeli said that to think and to feel constituted the two grand divisions of men of genius—the men of reasoning and the men of imagination. In large degree Parkman combined both qualities. After years of research by other students and writers few errors of fact or reasoning have been discovered in Parkman's histories, while the great charm of all his writings is their wonderful imaginative power. It is a pageant of civilization advancing that he paints for us, filled with picturesque figures set in picturesque surroundings. Hundreds of examples might be given of his power to recreate a scene, an incident—one example oft quoted is his description of the founding of Montreal in "The Jesuits in North America." After telling of the journey of Maisonneuve and his companions up the St. Lawrence from Quebec, he lingers over the incident where a rude altar was raised, and as the colonists knelt before it the priest turned and addressed them: "You are a grain of mustard-seed, that shall rise and grow till its branches overshadow the earth. You are few, but your work is the work of God. His smile is on you and your children shall fill the land." Then, to quote Parkman:

"The afternoon waned; the sun sank behind the western forest, and twilight came on. Fireflies were twinkling over the darkened meadow. They caught them, tied them with threads into shining festoons, and hung them before the altar, where the Host remained exposed, then they pitched their tents, lighted their bivouac fires, stationed their guards, and lay down to rest. Such was the birth-night of Montreal."

One may well ask, with the author, is this true history, or a romance of Christian chivalry? It is both.

THE DUTCH AND THE DEVIL.

THE DUTCH are very close to Germany industrially and commercially, more so than any other neutral. Furthermore, they have never been accused of lacking shrewdness. Therefore, it is highly significant that the Hague has decided to reopen the economic negotiations with the Entente nations, dropped six months ago, following the seizure of Dutch vessels by the United States.

For a long time Holland has been between the devil and the deep sea. If she agreed to the Entente offers Germany would respond with reprisals, while so long as she fell in with Germany's wishes she could expect no aid from the Entente. Always present was the fear of meeting Belgium's fate. That the little nation is now about to defy Germany can mean only that the Dutch realize that the Teuton power is broken if not yet prostrate. And no people are in so favorable a position as the Dutch to learn of Germany's internal situation.

Naturally the German press is protesting vigorously against the reopening of negotiations. Holland is told that the Yankees are using trickery to get hold of more Dutch ships so that at the war's conclusion the United States will not have to meet the competition of the Dutch mermant marine. Of course, the United States has no intention of retaining Dutch vessels permanently. The terms of the seizures are most liberal and fair. All ships are to be returned at the end of the war and all losses through enemy action made good by replacement or cash, while for the interval between the loss and settlement interest amounting to six per cent will be paid. There was no other action possible for the United States at the time. Holland refused to agree to the offer of sufficient foodstuffs and raw materials for its own uses only and the Allies were determined to stop the trickling through to Germany of war supplies and food. National pride had no doubt something to do with Holland's dropping of negotiations, but certainly the greatest factor was the Mailed Fist. But that was in March, when Germany was crashing into the Allies with their great offensive. Today Germany is fighting desperately to keep her footing in the west, Bulgaria has quit, Turkey totters, and the quadruple alliance appears to be on its last legs. Holland's willingness to enter into an economic agreement with the Entente nations that will further tighten the blockade of Germany indicates that the kaiser's sword is no longer a bogey to the Hague.

BELGIAN RELIEF COMMISSION PLEADS FOR STARVING CHILDREN.

The food that can be imported into Belgium has been reduced because of shipping losses, to the lowest possible minimum, and is now covered by the grant made by the Belgian Government to the Belgian Relief Commission. The money for this grant was advanced, in the form of a loan, by the United States Government. But the Belgian Relief Commission never had better reason to appeal for financial support than it has today. The general rationing of the people of the invaded districts allows each person one bowl of soup and two slices of coarse bread a day. It is little enough for the best physical type of manhood. For children, for ailing men and women, it is utterly inadequate, and unless it can be supplemented, unless there can be something forthcoming from other sources for the children and the debilitated inhabitants, death must relieve them of their misery. That is why the Belgian Relief Commission is today making such an urgent appeal for financial aid. The commission has its workers and agents in Belgium, and has its fingers on the pulse of the stricken population. It knows the misery that prevails there. It knows how the gaunt men and women of the soup lines plead for just a little more than the regular ration of bread and broth, and how the workers, often with tears in their eyes, must refuse this piteous request. It knows how children have crawled into cold cellars in search of shelter and have perished there of cold and starvation. It knows with what an agony of despair women have awaited the gift of motherhood, aware that only privation, perhaps starvation, attends upon the little life that is to be. It knows the many organizations that strive day and night to ameliorate these awful conditions, and it helps them by the only means within its power—the gifts of a generous public who will not hear without generous emotion so vital and urgent an appeal. Contributions should be sent to the local committee of the Belgian Relief Fund or to the central committee at 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, Que.

THE ANSWER AT LAST!

[Scientific American.]

The reason why the cow or chicken on the right side of the road turns to cross over to the left, and vice versa, is because the eye of the animal, which sees and appreciates the danger of the advancing car, is by instinct kept on the dangerous object. To turn to the right and escape would blind the animal during the period of turning, and this she will not willingly do. But if she runs across the road in front of the car, the eye with which she first observed it will keep it clearly and continuously in view, and, she thinks, allow her to escape the impending danger.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FOR THE COUNTRY.
By S. B. Hackley.

"If the boy who goes over there can go with his heart aglow with good cheer he will be magnificently prepared to endure! Oh, friends, you who sit here eager to do something for the country; if there is any trouble you can smoothe by money, or word, or sacrifice, smoothe it. Don't let your soldier, or any other you can help, go to France with a heavy heart!"

In their courthouse the Hallettsburg people listened in breathless enthusiasm to the Red Cross worker—the little pale woman with a scar on her forehead a splinter of shell had made.

Margaret Rue, the daughter of Hallettsburg's one rich man, felt her heart swell. She'd been knitting, and making bandages, and sewing on stout garments ever since the war began, but that wasn't sacrifice.

Sacrifice! She looked at the diamond ring on her left hand's third finger, and her face blanched. That ring had no business to be there; she knew it when Lloyd Shannon put it there six months before. But Lloyd was so desirable, and she had loved him so long! Across the aisle from Margaret sat Frances Thompson beside a slim boy of fifteen, whose crutches leaned on the bench beside him. The young girl's pretty oval face was tense with the weight of responsibility. The little brother had long been in need of an operation that might restore him to health, but they were orphans, with but their little home, and Frances' small salary as telephone girl to keep them.

But Margaret looked across and wished that she were Frances, the girl that Lloyd Shannon loved! Why Lloyd had asked her to marry him she could only guess. It must have been that Frances had refused to marry him, and, with his hurt heart craving sympathy, he had recklessly turned to her.

Lloyd—good, jolly, comradely Lloyd—had evidently made compact with himself, never to let her know by word or act, that he didn't truly love her, but she knew.

He never spoke Frances' name, but by one pretext or another he avoided the street on which was the little Thompson house, and whenever he happened to see Frances, try as Margaret realized he did, he could not keep a telltale, wistful yearning out of his eyes.

They had been engaged only two weeks when he enlisted as a private—the first, the very first, of the town to volunteer. How Margaret had gloried in her patriot! And now he was to leave for France, he thought, soon.

"The utmost we can give the country, friends, when we think of what our boys are enduring and giving, is little," the scarred nurse concluded. "If sacrifices will send a soldier over there at ease in mind, and happy, then let us all sacrifice and count it a privilege!"

As Margaret passed Frances helping her brother down the steps, all at once she knew why the other girl had sent the man she loved away! And Lloyd's ring felt like a strip of molten steel!

A letter awaited her, addressed in his firm handwriting. He wrote that he was to sail on the 15th, that he was desperately sorry he couldn't get leave to come and bid her good-bye, and that she must write to him very often and tell him all the news. There wasn't much more—he never wrote long letters—but on the back of the last sheet was a two-line postscript.

"Please tell Philip Thompson," it said, "that I want him to write to me when I get across. Poor little Phil will feel that he's doing something for the country, and I'll be hungry for letters."

That was all—but it was enough. In his delicate consideration for her, his sense of honor and rectitude, he would not mention Frances' name, but Margaret read between the lines. His heart could not help making its special to hear from the girl he loved!

Margaret had resolved to surprise him by making Aunt Cyrena go down to the camp with her on the 13th, but—she read the postscript again—would he be a thousand times more glad if it were Frances that waved him godspeed when he left?

"Send your soldier over there, at ease in mind and happy!"

Margaret rose at last and got into her car and went to her father's office.

"Daddy," she said abruptly, "instead of buying me a new car next summer, will you give me the money this fall?"

"For the country, dear?" he asked, as he wrote her a check.

"Yes, daddy," she said, and kissed him.

From the office of the Telephone Exchange manager she drove to the little Thompson cottage.

"Do you think Philip would like to make a few days' visit to my home," she asked Frances, who met her, "while you and I and Aunt Rena go on a little auto and camping trip together? He loves books, I know, and he could entertain himself in father's library, and Uncle Zenas could take him out driving every day. And you—you're not looking well—I believe a few days outdoors would do you good."

Frances colored with pleasure. "Philly'd love it," she breathed, "and so would I—it's lovely of you to ask us—but I can't get off now."

"Yes, you can," interrupted Margaret: "I've seen the manager, and he says under the circumstances—picnicking for your health—you might have the week off. Now you'll go, won't you?"

"Lloyd Shannon sent a message by me to Philip," she remarked a moment later. "He wants him to write to him when he gets across. You know Lloyd is leaving the fifteenth."

Frances started and her pale face lost every vestige of color.

"So—soon?" she stammered, trying to conceal her agitation.

Margaret took her shaking hands in hers.

"You—you love him, don't you, dear?"

The girl's white lips moved, but no sound came through them.

"Don't be afraid to tell me," Margaret encouraged her. "I—I'm not engaged to him any more! Shouldn't ever have been," she added lightly, "with him loving you all the time! But he just turned to me for—for comfort, I guess, when you—why did you refuse him, Frances?"

The girl covered her face with her hands.

"I—I thought I couldn't put my burdens on him," she sobbed, "and I pretended I didn't care. But it broke my heart!"

Margaret kissed her. "There—don't cry. Things will come right. In the meantime we'll go on our picnic—start early in the morning."

The next day at noon, while Mrs. Hemans and Frances—both innocent of their proximity to a training camp, for they did not know the roads they had come over—rested at one of the city hotels, Margaret went to see Lloyd. His eyes lit at sight of her, but in his bronzed face there was a suggestion of weariness, a hint of a mind not at ease.

"Do you want to be married before you go—would you like to be married this afternoon, Lloyd?" she asked him abruptly.

For a second he paled and something like consternation constricted his mouth, then he tried to smile.

Margaret laughed softly and held up her bare left hand. "Not to me—I know where your heart is, Lloyd—but to Frances Thompson. You see, married to you, even though you're away, with your allowance and the Government allotment she'd have an easier time. I'm going to pay for Philip's operation at once with the money Daddy gave me for a new car. Tell me, do you want to be married, Lloyd, to her this afternoon?"

As she rested her eyes on his brown face and watched it go white, then red, then white again, she did not need to be told his thoughts.

"Does she—does Frances know you're asking me this?" he asked when he could bring his voice to unsteady speech.

"No, but I saw she was breaking her heart because you were going so; and I brought her down here with me. She thinks we're going on in an hour or so. She doesn't even know we're near the camp you're in."

He tried to take her hand. "I feel an awful cad, Margie!" he groaned.

Margaret's dimpling smile would have deceived the elect.

"You don't need to! You've been an angel—a blessed clumsy angel—but I haven't been deceived a bit!" She laughed softly again. "I've known all along you just turned to me for comfort, and I've been intending all along to set you free at the psychological moment! O, Lloyd, I'll take you to her, and it's up to you to explain to her how bad you are wanting her!"

In the early dusk, at her home Margaret helped her weary aunt off with her wraps, then sped to her own room and locked the door. Quivering, she flung herself down by her bed.

"O, God!" she cried, "don't let me forget it's right to give everything for the country—even one's life! It's my life I've given—for I love him, Father, I love him!"

Prosperity in Old Age

The term prosperity suggests progress in business, and in old age it means independence. An assurance that one does not have to live on friends.

The added relief that you have saved enough to live on comfortably, to protect your wife and children against the hardships of life.

Many women and children without proper education are turned out into the world to earn a living because they were left penniless.

Will you take the risk or will you start a small savings account to-day. It will rapidly increase and will mean added comfort to you. 18

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

Copyright, 1917, by George Matthew Adams.

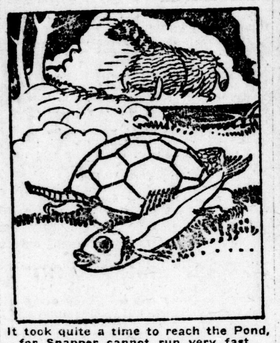

TEDDY POSSUM GIVES A DINNER PARTY.

Teddy Possum succeeded in coaxing his mother to give a dinner party in honor of his friends. And everybody came, and all were awfully hungry, for no one ate a bite all day, so as to have a good appetite for the dinner. It was a night dinner, so that everybody was almost starved when dinner was ready.

Mr. Possum was living at home now, and sat as one end of the table; and Mrs. Possum adorned the other end of the table. Teddy Possum arranged to play a great prank on Jimmy Coon and Mrs. Snapper, the Snapping Turtle. I wish you could have seen the guests open their eyes and their mouths when they saw the good things to eat. It was a regular Course Dinner, and the fish was served first. But on the sideboard, the Wood Folk could see elegant things to eat later, such as clams, nice fat black beetles, crickets, crayfish, meadow mice, Bob White's eggs, fresh chicken from the Jones' farm, grapes, mushrooms, nuts of all kinds, and lettuce and cabbage from the Jones farm. You see, it was Teddy's birthday, so Mrs. Possum had a great spread for Teddy's friends.

But Teddy's big prank was to be the great event of the day. The fish was served first, and each guest took a nice big speckled trout for his first course. And I wish you could have seen those hungry guests devour those nice, big trout! But the amusing sight was to see Jimmy Coon and Snapper, the Snapping Turtle, leave the table, and each had a big fish as he left the table. And those two rascals started on the run for Mirror Pond. But it took quite a time to reach the pond, for Snapper cannot run very fast when he carries a big fish, and Jimmy Coon kept dropping his nice big trout because the fish was so slippery.

And you would have laughed to see those two scamps when they reached Mirror Pond. Jimmy Coon went to washing his big trout, according to his funny habit. And Jimmy rolled up his sleeves and he used lots of his Coon elbow grease, and he washed, and doused, and scrubbed that nice big trout, until that poor fish just looked sick and all frazzled out. And it took Jimmy some time to wash that trout.

It took quite a time to reach the Pond, for Snapper cannot run very fast when he carries a big fish.

And near Jimmy, was Snapper, the Snapping Turtle, under water; and Snapper was hurrying and trying to eat his nice big trout before Jimmy had finished washing his fish. You know that Snapper cannot swallow a bite of food unless he is under water. And it was comical to see those two chaps watch each other as they had a race eating fish, one above water and the other under water.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Abram Leaving Home.—Gen. xii-1-9.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

1. Verse 5.—WHEN WE HAVE ANYTHING GOOD FROM THE LORD, WHY OUGHT WE BE ANXIOUS TO SHARE IT WITH OTHERS? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

12. If a man says he is on the road to the heavenly Canaan and takes no person with him, what would be your assumption?

13. What ground of hope have we on reaching the land or attaining the object that God has promised us?

Golden Text.—Be Thou a Blessing.—Gen. xii:2.

WE SHOULD BE A BLESSING TO OUR NEIGHBORS

I have known communities where the majority of the neighbors were true Christians and members of the same church. In the community I have in mind there was almost an ideal state of affairs; they visited each other, and were almost as much at home in the homes of their neighbors as in their own. They had no doctrine of having all things common, but they did have almost the practice of making all things common, for what one had the other could have. They helped each other; helped build each other's barns; they had community "logging-bees"; they helped each other in the harvest; the women helped each other in their house work; they sang together and prayed together in their homes, and were really a blessing one to another.

Dress For a Dance.

Dear Miss Grey,—I want to know if you will print a pattern in your paper of a dress for a girl about 17 that wears her hair in curls. To be made out of some very soft material that could be worn at a dance or for house wear. What color would be nice to trim a Dutch blue silk crepe de chine dress with?

MISS SUNSHINE.

Ans.—I have passed your request on to the Pattern Department. You see, "Sunshine," I have nothing to do with the rest of the Page but just look after the Mail-Box column. As you live in the city, it might be more satisfactory for you to visit the fashion counter of any local store and choose a design from among the many shown.

2. White or cream, a delicate shade of tan or rose, or a shade of blue darker than the dress, would be suitable.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong---According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. — Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription, and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overwork, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note—Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by Standard Drug Co., W. T. Strong and others.

PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

NEED FOR WIDER VISION ON PART OF FARM WOMEN

Unity Urged as Means of Bettering Conditions.

This week I would like to talk to you about one of our great needs—the need for wider vision. We are accustomed to limit our thought, our plans, our aims, to the boundaries set by our line fences, or at best by those of the community in which we live. By "our" I mean farm women like myself. For, be it distinctly understood, the writer is a farm woman, whose life is just like that of any other farmer's wife who finds at every turn a dozen things which ought to be done right now, but which have to wait until a dozen others have been attended to.

Now, I realize to a small extent, at least, that there are in this fair Dominion of ours thousands of women with the same problems to face, the same mountains of work to climb over or under, as the case may be, the same aims, the same discouragements as are mine. And I wonder why, for all these years, we have met these phases of our life as individuals, have regarded ourselves as mere puny units, and not as a class—a great class.

Strength in Unity.

This unity idea seems so hard to instil into the average farm woman. If more of them had had a seat on the platform that June day in Massey Hall, they would understand. We must not, we dare not, settle down into such a self-centred, narrow existence. Do you remember my writing that we are unselfish, yet self-centred? This is what I meant, and we must take time to think more widely. It does not take all of me to wash dishes or sweep or dust or wash, or iron, bake, cook, mend or sew. My hands do the bulk of these things after I have planned them. And I may do most of them quite mechanically, while my mind is busy with something quite different; then when night comes I am not so tired and disgusted. 'Tis true I of myself have accomplished much that is lasting, perhaps, but I am just one. Thousands of others, doing what I have done, have together accomplished much.

Do You Matter.

"It don't matter about me," says one woman. "There are plenty of others who will join the U. F. W. O. You do not need me." Oh, woman! There are no "just me's." Let each of us think that she has her part to play, and if she fails, our work loses just that much. How many a man owes what success he has had in his calling to the clever, capable woman who has stood at his side through life. Yet this same woman thinks herself unfitted to take part in broader service.

Institute Has Done Much.

The Institute has done much to develop the latent talent of our country women. The U. F. W. O. will do more, for there are no limits set to our subjects for discussion, so long as the subject is of importance or of benefit to our class. All of us have not the gift for public speaking, perhaps, but all of us can let our experience and knowledge and influence go towards making our industry a real factor in the nation's life, for the nation is made up of communities, whose homes are presided over by just such women as you and I.

The Buried Talent.

You remember the fate of the buried talent? Well, all around us are women who are letting their lives be limited by tiny horizons. Look out! Widen the circle! Then your own life will be happier tenfold, and the great class to which you belong will become greater in just that degree. Oh, what power we should have if we would only waken up to a realization of it.

Form a U. F. W. O. Let the live woman who is your local secretary glean the best of the ideas of your club, and send them to the M. M., or to Diana of the Sun. Soon you will be sending them to the woman editor of our own paper, for that is coming. Any woman's paper is perfectly willing to publish sensible ideas. But some sheets have published so many covert sneers and innuendoes at our class that we do not care to patronize them. Perhaps another time other needs will be discussed, but this one seems to be at the foundation of all the others.

"As the birds in upward flight
Pass from darkness into light,
We too rise to better things,
Borne on longings used as wings."

Corps For Girls.

Dear Miss Grey,—Is there any army corps for girls near London or any place not so very far away? Also how old should one be? Can young girls get into canteen work or any war work that we could go to France to help our dear boys? If so, could you tell me? I will sign myself, A HERO'S SISTER.

Ans.—There is no girls' corps, so far as I am aware, in London or vicinity. A corps of the Women's Battalion has been formed here for young women over 20 years of age. The training includes several branches, such as nursing, motor driving, etc. For particulars, write Mrs. Thomson, superintendent Nursing Division No. 4, St. John Ambulance Association, 404 Talbot street.

RED CROSS AND C.W.C.A. COLUMN

THEY LIKE US OVER IN ENGLAND.

Here are a few words from a letter lately received from England. It is from Mrs. McLaren Brown, who sees all our boxes sent over under the C. W. C. A. She always has something nice to say concerning them, and this is what she says about a recent shipment:

"I am quite overwhelmed as I sit looking at these wonderful lists, and remember what they mean in work, patience, generosity of time and nerve power. I have the most profound admiration for the regular way your consignments come in, always containing most admirable articles, splendidly packed and put together."

It is because our organization spreads all over Military District No. 1, and because so many unselfish women are giving their time and strength to this work that such words of praise can be uttered. The news from the front grows so cheering that we begin to feel, perhaps, this may be our last winter of war work. So we want to make it our best and greatest.

CANADIANS ARE HARD TO CAPTURE.

There is a magazine published in England in the interests of the prisoners. It is called "The British Prisoner of War." There is an article in a recent number of it devoted to the Canadian prisoners. It pays them a high tribute:

"The Canadian record of fighting is a very proud one—Canadians are not easy people to capture—and therefore they deserve the utmost consideration from their own country people. It was at the second battle of Ypres that the Canadians won their first laurels. It was then they had to encounter the first of all the German gas attacks. . . . To the eternal honor of Canada it must be put on record that none of the men taken prisoner by the Germans were unwounded or ungassed."

Surely it will be to our eternal honor that our boys put up such a gallant fight in the face of such terrible odds. But it will be to our everlasting dishonor if we do not see that every one of those poor fellows who lost their freedom because of their courage and self-forgetfulness, receives every ounce of food we can possibly spare him. We should never sit down to a meal at our well-filled tables without remembering these, our boys in the hands of the enemy. They will starve if we do not feed them. Let us put them far beyond the danger of want. Whatever you have to spare will be gratefully received by some poor fellow. Send the money to Miss Dorothy Gunn, Hyman Hall.

THEY MUST SET SAIL SOON.

The date for the sailing of the Christmas stockings and the maple sugar draws near. Surely this is the boys' last Christmas in the trenches. Let us make it as homelike as possible. Maple sugar for the boys on the battlefields and Christmas stockings for the boys in hospitals, is what we are planning. But everybody must give a little to make this grand program possible. Send in your contributions as soon as you can. Many generous donations have already come in, but there is plenty of room for more.

CAN YOU SPARE A BASKET?

If you live near London and would like to give some fruit to the little canners in the schools, and you find yourself too busy to bring it in town, just drop a note to Hyman Hall and somebody will come out and get your plums or apples or whatever you can spare. The fall canning for our hospitals must not be neglected, while we are working for the soldiers overseas. Charity begins abroad in our war work, but it must end at home.

MARIAN KEITH,
Press Secretary.

BIG ANNUAL RALLY OF WESTERN ONTARIO I.O.D.E. CHAPTERS

Mayor Somerville Opened the Meeting With Address of Welcome.

The big annual rally of the Daughters of the Empire of No. 1 Military District took place in Cronyn Hall yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. J. S. Niven of the London Municipal Chapter in the chair. Mayor C. R. Somerville delivered an address of welcome to the out-of-town delegates, in which he spoke very highly of the work which the women have been doing during the war. "So many people remark on the wonderful spirit which women have been showing since the beginning of the war," said the speaker, "but really the spirit they are showing today is not a higher spirit than that of pre-war days. It is only that the women of today are meeting the changed conditions of war, with the spirit that was in them before the war, and I call that spirit the great spirit which underlies Canadian life.

Boys Not Fatalists.

"Some people say that the boys overseas are getting a spirit of fatalism. But this is not so, for I haven't seen a man, returned from the front, with anything but hope of victory in his heart. Our boys are not fatalists. They enter battle with the highest hopes and greatest cheerfulness. And we at home must have the same feeling, and put forth our biggest effort at this time when we begin to see a rift in the clouds."

Mrs. Niven in delivering her address from the chair, urged the various chapters to always do a little more, excellent as has been the work of the past year. She particularly mentioned the home for mentally deficient children established by the I. O. D. E., the first of its kind, and sent out the hope that before another year a provincial chapter of the I. O. D. E. would be H. A. Boomer, honorary regent of the Municipal Chapter, London, was read by Mrs. Allan McLean, owing to Mrs. Boomer's absence. This letter bore a message straight from the heart, full of encouragement, and stimulating to future success of the order.

Mme. Guerin.

Mme. Guerin spoke on behalf of the French Relief, asking the various chapters represented to realize the need of France and to contribute help through the Secours National. "It is on France that the heavy burden of the war is placed," said Mme. Guerin. "And I want you ladies to help us. If you do not help France in this war, France will be no more."

Interesting reports from the various chapters in No. 1 Military District were read, as well as reports from the local educational secretary, Mrs. MacDonald of the Secours National, by Mrs. Allan McLean, and of the hospital committee by Miss Ella Davis.

Canning Centre at Stratford.

An interesting matter coming up in the report of Mrs. McConkey of the Municipal Chapter, Stratford, was that of the community canning centre, newly established there. The Government installed all the equipment for this work and sent a demonstrator. The Women's Institutes of the district are collecting the fruit, vegetables, chickens, etc., and the I. O. D. E. has undertaken to do the work. This canning centre has been in operation only a very short time, and yet 4,340 pounds, or 1,446 quarts of vegetables and fruit have been sent overseas and many supplied to the local hospital in addition. This canning centre is shipping through the Red Cross, and received the cans and sugar, vinegar, spices, etc., from that organization. All the fruit thus collected and canned for overseas is over and above what was needed in the country and would otherwise have been wasted, so the canning centre is a means of helping the conservation question. It is expected that 10,000 chickens will be sent in for canning this fall.

Restaurant at Dresden.

Mrs. McVean of the Sydenham Chapter, Dresden, also gave a most interesting account of the work done there in an I. O. D. E. restaurant opened in March last. This restaurant, although it has been in operation for only six months, has made $3,602.97.

The question as to whether any chapter should allow the name of the I. O. D. E., to be used in advertising such a concern as the Chautauqua, on a percentage basis, was brought up and was answered by the fact that the war charities act now forbids any organization registered on it to undertake work on a percentage basis.

It was arranged that an I. O. D. E. rally of No. 1 District would be held again next October. After the meeting tea was served. At the noon hour out-of-town delegates were also entertained at luncheon at Cronyn Hall.

WOMEN'S WORK AT THE TECHNICAL SCHOOL

The new Technical School on Dundas street opens its doors to evening and special afternoon classes on Monday next. The courses for women and girls have been so popular with the housewives of the city and their daughters ever since the technical classes were opened in London that special accommodation and the most modern equipment was provided for women's work in the new building. The classes are held both in the evenings and afternoons. The art courses include art and design, show card lettering and wood carving. The first aid, home nursing and automobile mechanics classes, not only qualify for the St. Johns Ambulance certificates, but specially fit those who desire to enter overseas V. A. D. service. The science of electricity and English and arithmetic courses for women and girls are also provided. The registration for evening classes will be held each evening and each afternoon this week in the new Technical School building, Dundas street. The classes open on Monday next.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

A Scorched Skirt.

Dear Miss Grey.—Will you please answer these questions?

What will take scorch out of a blue serge skirt?

2. How can I clean white crepe? It is used as facing on a hat.

Please tell me what you think of my writing. A READER.

Ans.—1. I know of nothing that will remove a scorch from woolen material.

2. Gasoline is excellent for cleaning delicate fabrics like crepe, but if it is on a hat I do not see how you can clean it without removing. Better perhaps to buy a bit of new crepe.

3. It is excellent.

Maybe a P. E. P. Club.

Dear Miss Grey.—About nine girls intend starting a club, and are doubtful about a name. Could you give us a few suggestions. It is going to be a Red Cross Club, and the girls are about 16? Also a simple lunch to serve if we hold our meetings once every two weeks.

SQUASHED.

Ans.—As I've often said before in this column, I'm not a bit clever at inventing attractive names for clubs, etc., much as I should love to do so. Perhaps, however, you may like one of these for your club: Excelsior, Altior, Laurel, or P. E. P. Club (standing for patriotic, earnest and persevering), Maplettes, or Keithians—the latter after Marian Keith, who so ably writes the Red Cross news for this Page. You are that the refreshments are to be simple. A few rules in regard to this does away with rivalry and extravagance. A cup of coffee or cocoa, served with thin, buttered slices of date or nut bread, would be quite sufficient, or one hostess might have coffee and doughnuts; another, coffee and fresh gingerbread; one might simply serve raw fruit, or one with a kind pie-baking mother, could serve an apple or pumpkin pie. And then, last, but by no means least, there is always the sandwich to fall back on! Now, best of success to your club.

Will Forgive "O. L."

Dear Miss Grey,—Who comes oftener than I do?" But I'll try and make my calls short. Thanks very much for Lonelies' addresses you sent me; have already sent them a box of "eats" apiece.

Where has "O. L." disappeared to? Are you busy designing women's hats, "O. L."? Oh, well, we'll forgive you even that if they're not on the merry widow style. Now for a few questions;

1. Will some kind reader lend me some recitations, either patriotic, dramatic, humorous or pathetic? I will return same and pay postage if desired.

2. Can you tell me a good line of recitation books?

3. Is there anything besides gasoline to clean white kid shoes with to keep them from turning yellow, also gloves?

4. Do you get many letters from here?

5. Please criticize my writing frankly. I know it's poor, but where's the fault?

If anyone would like to correspond with me, I will leave my address with Miss Cynthia Grey. I remain,

GIRLIE.

Ans.—1. Referred to readers. Who will lend a few readings?

2. In your addressed envelope, I will tell you where you may purchase a very good one.

3. Zinc oxide is good; apply with a small brush or a piece of cotton.

4. Some from your district.

5. Your writing isn't really so bad, perhaps its irregularity being the worst point. In some words you bring your letters down to the line quite nicely, in others, one or two letters that should rest of the line are either above or below.

Not Quite So Much.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am returning to you the crochet patterns, for which accept my thanks. They were all new ones for me. Pardon me if I have kept them over time. I guess I may as well sign myself as before, although I do not feel quite so much of

A STRANGER.

Ans.—Well, I am glad of that, for we want everyone to feel at home. I have sent the patterns out again to gladden the heart of another reader.

Would Like That Remedy.

Dear Miss Grey,—I would be so grateful for that chest remedy the mother spoke of in your column, as my little girl has bronchitis so bad, and it costs a lot to be sending to the doctor all the time. Thanks very much for the information about Stokes' Bay. I wonder if any of your readers could tell me what kind of a place it is, and how much population and a few interesting facts about it. I am so interested in it; some day I am going to take a trip there. Thanking you, I am ONE WHO IS LOOKING FOR SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

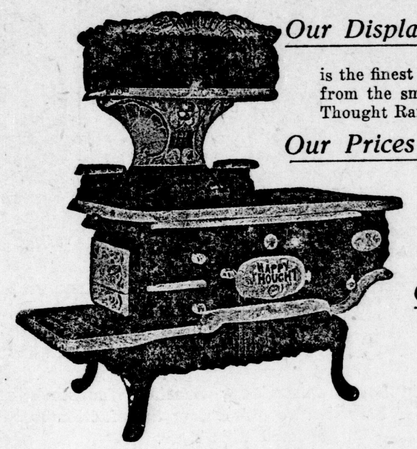

P.S.—Ofttimes I've been going to send replies to queries, but someone has always sent in better ones. Puts me in mind of what a minister said when he attended a convention. "Just sit still and someone will get up and give your ideas only just as you were going to give them." I enjoyed "Pat's" letter so much.

Ans.—We'll hope to hear soon from the reader offering the chest remedy. I am sorry I cannot give you more information regarding Stokes' Bay, but perhaps some of our Pagelets live in that direction and can enlighten us. You are kind to think of sending me the magazine, although "spare time" is a very scarce commodity with me.

POLLY AND HER PALS — By Cliff Sterrett.

FOOTBALL DEAD AT WESTERN VARSITY FOR WAR'S DURATION

Unlikely That Gridiron Will Be Used Till End of Conflict.

The one to ten odds that the Western University will organize a football squad this season have decreased to nothing to ten. In words of one syllable there will be no varsity rugby this year. Dr. K. P. R. Neville says so, "Art" Smith says so, and when two such authorities voice their opinions in that definite manner, it looks as it will have to be pretty well unanimous.

Among the many factors that have cropped up against the project is the absence of Captain "Mel" Brock. Captain "Mel" has been depended upon to whip the university pigskin experts into shape in previous years, and with the captain in France and liable to remain there until Bill the Boche is soundly beaten, there will be no one to take the rugby team by the helm and steer it into the green pastures.

Despite advice to the contrary, it is claimed that almost every one of last year's team is unable to play this season. The best bet of the fourteen has a "game" leg; another player, who was expected to be a great asset to the university, suffers from a wrenched arm or an ingrown toe-nail—which, it could not be determined. Another has joined the army, and still another has mysteriously disappeared—probably into the wilds of some impenetrable forest.

In fact, it looks as if students of the college will have to be content with pinochle, basketball and, mayhap, crap, for athletic diversion. If Captain "Mel" Brock would only return and reassume his duties of past years, rugby would take on an altogether different aspect at the university. But until he comes back it is to be feared that the grass on the varsity gridiron will flourish as it has never flourished before.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEET AT SARNIA ON THANKSGIVING

Five Good Races Billed for Afternoon of October 14th.

SARNIA, Oct. 2.—A patriotic race meeting will be held at Bayview Park here on Thanksgiving Day, October 14, according to the secretary of the local racing association, C. N. Cook. A meeting of horsemen was held last night, when it was decided to go ahead with the meet. All profits will be donated to the sailors' relief fund.

On Thanksgiving morning a victory patriotic demonstration will be held, when it is likely that the Highlanders' band, the collegiate cadet band and other organizations of the city will take part in a giant parade of the downtown section of the city. A concert will be held in the city hall auditorium at night, when a fine program will be presented. British Shipyards Close Great Month of Construction.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(British Wireless Service).—The British admiralty announces that the tonnage of merchant vessels completed in the United Kingdom shipyards during September amounted to 144,772, which is 20,000 tons in excess of the figures for August, and has only twice been surpassed in any month of this year.

The total tonnage in new construction for the first nine months of 1918 was 1,174,641, as compared with 743,853 in the corresponding period of last year. The total for twelve months ending September, 1918, was 1,594,263, as compared with 957,185 for the previous year.

In the second quarter of 1917 the world's merchant shipping suffered a loss of 2,236,934 tons, but in the last three months, for which figures are available, namely, June, July and August, the total was 932,556 tons—a reduction of 58 per cent.

YARMOUTH CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

BELMONT, Oct. 2.—Rev. Peter E. Nichol, of London, conducted anniversary services at St. James' Church, Yarmouth, on Sunday morning and evening. The offering totaled $183.25, while proceeds of the entertainment on Monday evening aggregated $102.

Anniversary services will be held at Knox Church, Belmont, October 20, when Rev. James A. Brown, B.A., of Fergus, will preach.

The buildings destroyed by fire belonging to James McLellan, of Westminster, were insured in the west minster Mutual Insurance Company for $2,400. Mr. McLellan was thrown 25 feet from the building and his escape from fatal burning was miraculous.

LOCAL COLLEGIATE DECIDES TO ENTER FOOTBALL UNION

Will Play in Series Comprising Sarnia, Woodstock and Another Unnamed Town—Better Satisfaction Is Expected This Year.

London's Collegiate Institute will enter a team in the O. R. F. U. These glad tidings resulted from a meeting of the football committee yesterday. In response to a query from the high school regarding its grouping, Secretary Hewitson, sports editor of the Toronto Telegram, wrote a letter saying that the collegiate boys would be sectioned with Woodstock, Sarnia and another unnamed town in this vicinity. Either St. Thomas or Stratford is likely to be the "unnamed" member of the series. Both these cities announced that they would not be represented in the O. R. F. U. this year, owing apparently to the lack of good rugby material. However, Mr. Hewitson will endeavor to persuade one of them to reconsider their decision, and it is more than likely that a satisfactory arrangement will be made, whereby one of the places referred to will be prevailed upon to enter the series.

Abide by Ruling.

Although dissatisfaction was expressed by the local collegiate over the expected grouping of the high school team, members of the committee yesterday decided to abide by the secretary's ruling and will take their medicine, whatever variety of dose it may be. The reason for the collegiate's objection to having their initial series contest with Sarnia may be traced to the unfair treatment accorded the locals last year by Border City rugby officials. This will be eliminated this year, however, for a letter has been sent Mr. Hewitson asking that he allow the visiting aggregation to provide the referee and the home team the umpire. If the arrangement suggested by the locals is sanctioned there will be no further objection offered.

The boys felt rather keen over the question and strongly objected to a repetition of last year's treatment. However, their sporting spirit came out on top over their grievance. That the boys ultimately decided to play the game regardless of what "raw" stuff was to be handed to them, can be attributed to a letter from a former high school old boy to The Advertiser, in which the writer denounced any hitch in the formation of a district football group, because of the unsportsmanlike attitude of local athletes. This letter "made the boys sore," as one member of the collegiate team put it, and they straightway decided to enter the group with the Tunnel City, come what may.

First With St. Thomas.

The locals' first game will be an exhibition with St. Thomas on October 11. They will play the return game the following Saturday in St. Thomas.

Hopes are high in the youthful breast of London's football representatives that the collegiate team will come out victorious in its group, and thereby win the privilege of meeting the winners of the Galt, Guelph and Paris series. Winners of Western Ontario district will in turn meet the leaders of the Toronto-Hamilton section.

There are about twenty good players trying out with the local team. Those who have shown the best promise so far are Dennis, Lindsay, Hoffman, McDonald, McCormick, McWilliams, McPherson, Kennedy, Lauton, Banks, Thompson, Gillies, Hicks, Weld, Taylor, Mohan and Cowley.

GUTTA-PERCHA BALLS ARE BETTER FOR THE GOLFER

Veterans Confess This Kind Makes Game More Enjoyable, Although Ancient Sport Owes Some Popularity to Long-Flying Spheres.

Unquestionably the game of golf has reached its present general popularity because of the longer flying and more easily manipulated balls, but old golfers confess that in the days of the gutta-percha balls they more thoroughly enjoyed the game than after the introduction of the rubber-cores.

There is a thrill which accompanies the long flight of a hard hit drive, but according to one old-timer, it cannot compare with that admiration with which he used to watch the old "gutties" get away from the club, traveling low for maybe a hundred yards or more before they started their rise, graceful as a bird. Every now and then a rubber-core takes a similar flight, but not often; the old balls always did it when they were properly hit.

On the north coast of Scotland this golfer says he has seen the boys stand about a hundred yards from a flock of gulls which had settled on the beach. They would drive over them long skimming shots which would rise and soar with the birds as they took flight. Another trick of those young fellows was to place a ball at their feet and with a mashie, well laid back, lift the ball into the air, and leaping quickly, catch it in the hands before it came to earth.

The effect of "spin" on a golf ball would be very trifling comparatively were there not "surface markings" on the rubber core. In the early days of the game the balls were made of compressed feathers covered with leather with a surface like that of the baseball of today. Uniformity of flight seems to have been absent, a tendency to duck rapidly toward earth being noticeable, and this resulted in shorter carry and longer run than the balls of today.

Soon after the gutta-percha ball came into use someone discovered that a ball which had been hacked up in use flew more uniformly and carried longer than the smooth one, and this led to the first style of markings, the idea being to mark up the surface with a flat hammer. This developed into the cross lines style of the old gutty ball.

Then came the "pimple" or bramble marking, the argument being that more of the air was caught in friction as the ball flew, and finally came the dimple or recessed marking a few years ago, with its many variations today. This style carries much longer than one of pimple markings, because during the enormous velocity of the spin only the points of the pimples are acted upon by the air, while the outer circle of the dimple catches the air, giving a much larger circle of friction on the air for each dimple in the ball.

Allow Publication of a German Newspaper In German Language

License Alleged To Have Been Granted at Kitchener.

KITCHENER, Oct. 2.—Word was received in this city today by W. J. Motz, managing editor of the Ontario Journal, the only German language newspaper published in Ontario, that a license will be granted allowing the publication of the paper in the German language.

This word is alleged to have come direct from Thomas Mulvey, undersecretary of state. Considerable dissatisfaction is being expressed here at the licensing of the journal to continue publishing in German, and some surprise is also being registered at the exception made in the case of the German papers.

HUN!

You may call me cheat and liar and most any other name;
You may tell me I'm a blighter just for fun,
But you'll surely get a cropper for which I will take the blame
If you call me by that awful name of "Hun."

You can hit me on the noodle, you can slug me on the bean;
You can tell me I resemble creeping vermin,
And I'll not be half so angry, and I won't act half so mean
Than if you said I was a bloomin' German.

I used to in my youth, but now I'm wiser.
But if you ever get the hunch you'd like to have a fight
Just tell me that I look like Bill the Kaiser.

For there's nothing that the monsters haven't done;
So, if you want to curse the morn that ushered in your birth,
Just call me by that awful name of "Hun."

CONTROL OF ALL RESOURCES NOW A FACT AMONG ENTENTE ALLIES

Great Plan Worked Out by Wilson's War Cabinet and Allied Missions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The long-planned centralized control of all the economic forces of the nations fighting Germany is at last a fact. It applies the principles of the uniformed military command to raw materials, manufactured products, shipping, finance, food, and the export and import relations of the United States and the co-belligerents.

The great plan was worked out by President Wilson's so-called war cabinet and the Allied missions. It has been approved by the president and the premiers of the Entente nations.

Co-ordination of effort by the associated governments in addition to military and naval activity, amounting to centralized control, is built around the five inter-allied councils—war, shipping, munitions, food, and finance.

Working Out Program.

Under these special bodies completion of a common economic and industrial program is now being undertaken, principally in London and Paris, and limited to the following cases:

Where two or more governments are interested in supplies which must be transported overseas to supplement deficiencies in local production; or where several sources of supplies should be agreed upon, together with the allotment and method of their distribution and utilization; or where there might without agreement be competition between governments in procuring supplies or wasteful duplication of productive effort.

The program will be co-ordinated with finance through the inter-allied finance commission; with shipping through the inter-allied shipping council; and with export and import relations through an inter-allied board made up of heads or representatives of the American war trade board and similar departments of the other governments.

HUN DEVASTATION MAY RESULT IN ALLIED REPRISALS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—An ultimatum to Germany regarding the ruthless destruction of cities and private property in Northern France and Belgium is being urged on the Allies and is under consideration.

The burning of Rulers, Menin, Cambrai and St. Quentin and the devastation of one of the most populous regions of Europe as the Germans retreat has aroused great indignation, and it was said in diplomatic circles today that Germany would be warned soon that if she allows the work of destruction to continue severe reprisals will follow. It is suggested that cities of the Rhine should be marked for destruction and that Berlin be told that for every French and Belgian city ruined without military reason, a city equally important will be laid waste.

MORE HUN HUNNISHNESS.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—News has reached the Serbian army in Macedonia that revolts have broken out in Serbia and other regions where there are Serbians, Croatians and Slovenes. This is announcement is made in a Serbian semi-official note dated Tuesday, which says that the reports should be received with great reserve.

It is feared, the note says, that the Austro-Hungarian Government purposely is arranging with the police authorities to excite the peaceful inhabitants and then, on the basis of such facts, confiscate their property and imprison them in camps. It is declared camps are in a terrible state because of the infectious diseases and dirt.

CANADIANS TO CELEBRATE IN OLD LONDON OCT. 14

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—Canadian military headquarters in London has completed arrangements to properly commemorate October 14 next, the fourth anniversary of the arrival of the first Canadian contingent in London on that date in 1914. The functions will include a commemoration service in the afternoon, followed by a dinner in the evening, when Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Turner, V. C., will preside over a reunion of upwards of 400 Canadian officers, representing every department of activity in the Canadian Overseas Force.

The speeches will relate to the noble achievements of Canadians overseas since their memorable arrival four years ago.

GAS OFF AT DORCHESTER.

DORCHESTER, Oct. 2.—Great excitement prevailed in the village yesterday. Just as the women were cooking their dinners, and a great many baking bread, too, the gas went off, and stayed off. There was a quick hunt among neighbors for wood and coal-oil stoves.

Local residents are hoping it will soon be made right, for it is cool without fire.

The frost has whitened the corn badly, and it is being cut down in a hurry today.

Elgin Robins has bought the property owned by George Wade in this village and intends to reside here.

NO LACK OF GOOD HOCKEY MATERIAL IN PRESTON TOWN

Meeting of Enthusiasts To Be Held This Week.

PRESTON, Oct. 2.—Will Preston have a hockey team this coming season is a pertinent question in local sport circles. That will remain in abeyance until after a meeting is held next week. There is no reason why Preston should not have a team in the O. H. A. this winter. Some new material has drifted into town this summer and last year's team of home brews are all available, and no doubt will be in harness once more when the time comes. Those of last year's team who are still in town are: Short, Irvin, Bowman, Alvin, Schlegel, Arnold Bowman, Alf. Rahn, Clark Walker Schrumm, Bill Thompson and Roth.

RUTH GETS THE COIN

For pitching nine innings against the Hartford, Conn., club Sunday, Babe Ruth received more money than he got out of the world's series with the Cubs. For working that one game Ruth was given $1,300, while in the six world's series games his share was less than $1,100. Ruth is in big demand throughout New England and the independent club which played against Hartford had to bid high to get the big Red Sox hurler to pitch the game. The game was extensively advertised and an immense crowd turned out to see Babe Ruth pitch and win his game. He did not hit any home runs, however.

THRESHING RECORD AT SOUTH DELAWARE

SOUTH DELAWARE, Oct. 2.—Aitken Bros. threshed for William Leach 1,126 bushels of barley and oats, mixed, in four hours and fifteen minutes. This is claimed here to be a record. The crops here are all excellent. All the farmers' granaries are full to overflowing.

Filling silos and attending the country fairs is now the order of the day. The corn crop never was better, and the bean crop is well podded.

Miss Robertson took charge of her school today, having recovered from her operation nicely. Her pupils are pleased to see her back again.

Parsons Bros. have 400 sheep on the way from Alberta, to put on the grass. When they arrive they will have 900 sheep on grass and intend wintering most of them. They intend next season to go into sheep-raising very extensively.

WILLARD ENTITLED TO MORE SYMPATHY THAN IS DEMPSEY

Bombardment of Jess Simply Case of Abusing Kettle Pot—Dempsey Deserves Appellation of "Slacker."

Jack Dempsey, in attacking Jess Willard, is just another case of the pot calling the kettle black. As far as patriotism is concerned, he has shown to no more advantage than Willard. In fact, Dempsey left an essential employment, shipbuilding, one that the Government laid stress on, to re-enter the boxing game. He is supposed to have returned to it; but we note that he is engaged to box soon at Philadelphia at a "benefit" from which he himself is to receive 35 per cent.

Willard, in refusing to fight for the title, is acting on a plain intimation handed to him by the governors of several states and cities, namely, that a world's title fight at this time was not to be tolerated anywhere. Willard's match with Fulton was run out of Salt Lake, Minneapolis, New Haven, Baltimore and other places. Willard is simply taking the hint.

In Poor Condition.

It is true that Willard has not taken part in as many "benefit" events as Dempsey; but he is not, like his Nemises, in condition, and probably fears that Dempsey or some other husky opponent will take advantage of this fact, if he condescended to oppose him in an exhibition.

Dempsey himself knows this same kind of fear, although he has less excuse than Willard, as he was physically fit to fight. If reports are true, Dempsey ran out of a benefit match with Battling Levinsky, because he feared he would have to make a real contest of it and risk the reputation without reward.

Dempsey's hounding attitude toward Willard will appeal to few at this time, when boxing is a matter of negligible interest, compared to the real fighting game. At the same time it is certain that both Willard and Dempsey, if they would train hard and give a REAL fight for the championship, could raise $200,000 at least for the benefit of some kind.

Until they see fit to make some such sacrifice the complaint of one about the lack of patriotism of the other will not find favor.

Shelling Out Willard.

The bombardment of Willard has had one effect—it shelled him out of his retirement to the extent of inducing him to offer to fight Willie Meehan for the benefit of some service fund.

Willard is taking little risk, here, since the contest will be a four-round bout against a boxer about 60 pounds Jess' inferior.

If Willard should do more benefit boxing he would not only help out the war service funds, but would gradually get himself into condition to defend his title, when hostilities abroad cease.

Jess has pleaded guilty to an age "somewhere in the late 30's." Conditioning, with him, means a long-drawn out process. A year or more of contests, one each week or more frequently, would give Willard more standing as a champion than any other move he could make. If he does not make some such protracted effort it is almost certain he will be beaten, when he does risk his laurels in a long combat.

INFLUENZA RAGE ON DECLINE IN U.S. ARMY CAMPS

Decrease of 1,000 Cases From Number Reported Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—For the first time since it became epidemic, the spread of Spanish influenza at United States army camps showed a slight abatement during the 24 hours ending at noon today. New cases reported totaled slightly more than 13,000, a decrease of 1,000 from the number reported the day before. Pneumonia also showed a decrease, with only 876 new cases and 271 deaths.

ALARM IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—With a total of 24 deaths from the Spanish influenza, and 746 cases from St. Johns and Montreal barracks alone, it is evident that the epidemic is a reality, and that with the increase of the epidemic among the military forces and the civilian population it is necessary to take every possible precaution to prevent spread of the disease. Reports received by Gen. Wilson of the spread of the disease among the soldiers of this military district are: One death, that of a soldier from St. Johns, was reported today; 23 deaths to date from St. Johns; 596 cases altogether reported from St. Johns; 13 new cases reported from St. Johns today; 1 death in the Montreal barracks; 150 cases reported from Montreal barracks to date.

Warnings have been sent out into the cities from military medical authorities. Many munitions shops have suffered serious inconvenience and delay by the inroads of the disease among the workers.

COSTS $48 TO MAKE TON OF NEWSPRINT WHICH SELLS AT $69

U. S. Arbitrators Say This Is Average Cost in Canadian Mills.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Judges of the United States Circuit Court, acting as arbitrators in the controversy between the newsprint paper manufacturers and the federal trade commission over the price of newsprint paper, today handed down a decision awarding a price of $3.50 per 100 pounds for rolled newsprint, in carlots, f.o.b. mills. This restored the price current last spring, which was reduced to $3.10 by the federal trade commission.

The judges signing the award hold that the maximum selling price of newsprint for the manufacturers involved should be "based on an average of the reasonable capital investments, and fair manufacturing cost of the signatory parties." They find it now costs $48 to manufacture one ton of paper in an average Canadian mill, and that in the United States it costs $5 more, "and the average cost for the eight manufacturers considered is more than $50 a ton."

A fair annual return on capital invested is held to be 15 per cent, requiring a profit of $19.75 per ton, which, added to "this average cost of manufacture, is $50.25," which would bring the maximum selling price to $70 per ton. Prices for 100 pounds for the different kinds of paper are fixed by the judges on this basis.

27,000 GERMANS SINCE AUGUST 8 CANUCK RECORD

Since Friday They Have Taken 5,000 and 150 Guns.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—The director of public information here tonight received the following cable from the overseas military authorities in London:

"Cambrai must not fall."

Despite this order, flashed from the headquarters of the 17th German army Cambrai is now in flames—fired by the enemy in his preparations for retreat. Bitter fighting continues, in which Canadians are playing a glorious part. There is a general chorus of praise for the Canadians in the British press today.

The Times' special correspondent says: "Besides 5,000 prisoners, Canadians with two British divisions, have taken 150 guns since Friday, bringing the total since August 8 to 27,000 prisoners and 450 guns, which is a truly magnificent performance."

THEATRE PATRONS WILL HAVE TO PAY HIGHER WAR TAXES

Provincial Government Needs Revenue and Takes This Means.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—Amusement patrons are to be made to pay heavier than ever for the privilege of attending the concert and the theatre. Increased revenue is required by the Ontario Government to meet the war needs, and Hon. T. W. McGarry, the provincial treasurer, has decided that the people attending amusement places must pay an increased tax. An announcement was made today by the provincial treasurer's department of a new scale of charges, which is to go into effect on November 1. Officials estimate that the increase in revenue will be approximately $200,000.

The new scale will be: Tickets costing up to 15 cents, 1 cent; tickets over 15 cents to 45 cents, 2 cents; tickets over 45 cents to 95 cents, 5 cents; tickets over 95 cents to $1.45, 10 cents; tickets over $1.45 to $1.95, 15 cents; tickets over $1.95 to $2, 20 cents; tickets over $2, 25 cents.

HAMILTON BEAVERS PUT OUT OF FIGHT BY BRANTFORDITES

A Measly Scratch Hit All Hams Get Off Johnson.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 2.—The Hamilton Beavers were decisively trimmed here today and put out of the O. A. B. A. running. Brantford won by the score of 8 to 1, ending the big fight between the two cities for another year.

The final game of the series attracted a big crowd, many coming up from the Ambitious City. Johnson's superb pitching was too much for the Beavers, the Brantford hurler allowing but one hit. In the ninth inning, Walker, the Hamilton catcher, scratched down to shortstop a slow roller, which the Brantford fielder handled perfectly, but a fraction late for the runner. It was the only hit off Johnson in the nine rounds, and even the Hamilton visitors were pulling for a no-hit O. A. B. A. record.

Hamilton fell down in the field today, while Stuart did not show up to advantage. The Hamilton pitcher was hit hard in every inning and was finally replaced by Sullivan in the eighth. Weir's catch in centre of a hard line drive was the feature play of the afternoon. Score:

STRATFORD HOCKEY CLUB REORGANIZES FOR COMING SEASON

Prospects Good for First-Rate Team at the Classic City.

STRATFORD, Oct. 2.—At one of the largest meetings in years, the Stratford Hockey Club reorganized for the season tonight. A strong slate of officers was elected, and from the discussion it would appear that there are bright prospects for a cracking good junior outfit here this winter.

The question of teams was left to the incoming executive. Last year the club ended the season with a deficit, and it was decided to form a club membership to which all persons subscribing a dollar or more would belong. William ("Sky") Easson, a veteran player, will be nominated for the O. H. A. executive. As there is at present only one representative in Western Ontario on the executive, it is felt here that Stratford should be entitled to consideration.

The officers elected follow: Honorary presidents, C. Farquharson, R. H. Fish, M. A. Humber; honorary vice-presidents, C. V. Lloyd, W. Hern, E. T. Chowen; president, D. T. Pinkney; vice-president, C. L. Welsh; secretary-treasurer, H. Denrochel; executive, A. C. Barnsdale, W. Gerry, C. A. Down, A. Berger and E. W. Tobin; delegate to O.H.A. annual meeting, D. T. Pinkney; alternate delegate, G. Robertson.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins, which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream through the lymph ducts, which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Scurvy May Easily Be Cured By Correct Diet

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D., (John Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

Scurvy is a common disease that is due largely to error in diet. This ailment, which finds many victims among children, is slow to come, and the disorders that appear at first are by no means peculiar to this disease alone.

The mother or nurse in attendance is apt to notice the child unusually peevish, although he ordinarily is quite quiet when he is left alone, and commences to cry only when he is touched. The child, however, is not only more peevish than usual, but he also exhibits a loss of appetite and he looks pale. Besides, his intestines may show signs of disorder, and, on the whole, he seems to be entirely sick.

There is one marked sign, however, that is peculiar alone to scurvy. This is a change in the condition of the scarlet stream. It may escape from the tubes which inclose it, in almost any part of the bodily mechanism. The bodily area most quickly affected is the gums, which become soft and tender and bleed profusely as soon as the teeth begin to push their way through. The skin in places is also radically affected, and "black and blue" spots appear on its surface. This is due to the escape of the scarlet fluid from the vessels close to the surface of the skin.

Common Food Errors.

Not only is the skin affected in the course of this ailment, but the eyes also are in an unusual condition. There is an amount of the scarlet liquid allowed to flow in a somewhat unrestricted manner behind the orbit of the eyes, and as a result of this abnormal situation the eyes protrude in a most unnatural fashion.

The child seems also to suffer from swollen limbs because of the same restriction of the flow of the blood stream. The bleeding in this area takes place most profusely beneath the thin tissue which covers the bone surface. The swollen area is a spindle-shaped or pear-shaped surface, and when touched is found to be very tender.

At times, if the ailment is allowed to progress without being counteracted, the bones may become fractured because of the unrestricted blood flow beneath the periosteal covering. No bone changes, however, such as go on in the disease of rickets, is characteristic of scurvy, unless the two ailments go on at the same time; this condition, fortunately, is very seldom found.

Children of the rich as well as the poor may be made the victims of this disorder. It is due largely to the lack of freshness of the food, especially the milk. If the little victim is fed upon dry foods or condensed milk the danger at times is much greater than if the child is given fresh milk. Even in the last event, however, the child may become victimized if the milk is sterilized too long or at a too high temperature. Milk should always be sterilized on a low and even flame, and should be removed from the fire when the tiny bubbles appear about the sides of the thickly formed coating.

Children who have become afflicted with scurvy can in time overcome it after the diet has been corrected. Strictly fresh food should be given, among which the juices of meat for children over a year old plays a part as a preventative and cure.

Fresh vegetables are excellent for both adults and children. Suitable vegetables, however, are rare, because the ailment is largely confined to children between 6 and 18 months old.

Fruit Juices Aid.

Orange juice will be found a good diet, both on account of its palatability and its lightness as a food. Give the child the juice of from a half to a whole orange, and you will notice at once a marked change for the better. Orange juice contains sufficient acid to act as an astringent and tighten the vessels in which the blood stream flows.

The juice of grapes and the pulp of apples may also be given to children affected by scurvy, but the juice of orange is preferable. If the juices of fruit cannot be obtained, fresh vegetables, such as carrots or potatoes, cooked in beef soup, may do much to add to the value of the soup, even though the vegetables themselves have been carefully strained out. A very well cooked potato beaten up thoroughly in milk will also be found a good diet suited to this purpose. Only a teaspoonful of this, however, should at first be added to each bottle of milk.

Answers to Health Questions

J. T. C. Q.—What foods would be apt to increase brain activity without injury to the health?

A.—The brain has no more to do with learning—in fact, very much less to do with learning—than the muscles and the senses, hence all good foods which aid and help the muscles, senses and other structures also nourish mental power. No special foods will do more.

J. G.: Q.—What shall I do for blackheads?

A.—Gentle massage with a sterilized piece of absorbent cotton or chamois, followed by the application of a little paste made up with the following:

Fullers earth .....4 drams
Vinegar ..... 2 drams
Glycerine ..... 3 drams

C. H.: Q.—Please tell me what to do for varicocele.

A.—Varicocele is not a serious trouble. A slight operation will relieve it, and should be carried out by a good surgeon in a hospital.

R. A. J.: Q.—Please give me something for nervousness.

A.—The word "nervousness" is used often without much thought, and in about ninety-nine times out of one hundred it is used wrongly. It is an emotional disturbance which is usually benefitted by muscular exercises in a gymnasium as well as outdoor sports.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

"I want a street suit with a military touch to it," announced Mrs. White when she entered the studio yesterday.

I watched Madame interestedly to see how she would handle this case. For Mrs. White is a woman of large and generous—not to say corpulent—figure.

Now, madame has given it as a principle that the military cut of costume isn't for the tall woman unless she is very slender or very young. But the woman of height and abundance of figure and maturity—never, never would madame encourage her to wear a military cut of coat or frock.

The strict military suit imparts a definite air of masculinity to the wearer. This, of course, is charming for young girls or the small, slender women who always can dress like young girls regardless of the accumulation of years. But mannish clothes in a tall, full-figured woman are sins of taste in madame's eyes. She rebels—not crassly, of course—but in her delicate, subtle way she tries gently to lead the offenders to better things. Invariably she persuades them of the superior becomingness of something different.

At Mrs. White's request, however, madame frowned slightly. "What do you mean by 'military touch?'" she gently asked.

Mrs. White walked about carelessly. "Oh, plenty of cords and tassels and brass or silver buttons," she tossed off.

Madame smiled. Plainly, Mrs. White had a very vague notion as to things military. For madame's military costumes follow the lines of the service uniform—straight, severe lines—not the ornate silks and trapping of some of the foreign uniforms. So many women have this same idea. That "military style" means fine metal buttons or plenty of braid and a high collar. As a matter of fact, the military street suits which have been evolved by some of the women in the service haven't even the traditional high collar, but are open at the neck, with plain revers.

Cords and tassels don't give the military touch. But they can be used sparingly to make a plain line costume look quite elaborate.

Madame brought forward the costume she had in mind for Mrs. White. It possessed the coveted cords and tassels, and Mrs. White exclaimed over it in great enthusiasm. It is one of the loose-looking coats that nevertheless fit snugly, and are exceptionally becoming to the large figure.

Castor-colored serge is the basis of this costume. The skirt is plain and narrow, but the blouse has a deep tunic that rounds out the plain skirt.

The coat is embroidered in dark brown silk tape. This same cord-like effect is repeated at the tunic, which is fastened at the side with this brown silk tape cord and tiny tassels to match. A large beaver collar, partly standing, softens the line of neck and shoulder and ends in front with the brown silk cord and long streamers of the same with tassels. This effect is repeated at the sleeves, where cuffs of beaver are finished with the brown silk bow and tassels.

At the waist line is a narrow belt of dark brown patent leather studded with gold-pointed nail heads. This type of belt is one of the popular conceits for fall costumes, and gives the so-called slight "military" touch so ardently desired.

Good Night Stories

PEGGY LEARNS A LESSON FROM MRS. CHICKADEE.

Tears filled Peggy's eyes as she looked out of the widow and saw the gloomy weather.

From a fence rail a dear little bird hopped to the ground, gathered up a piece of twine in its bill and disappeared in the hollow of the fence rail.

Peggy softly opened the door and ran out to the edge of the porch just as Mrs. Chickadee came into view once more.

She nodded her little shiny black head at Peggy. Around her neck, extending over her cheek under her eyes, ran a white streak that looked like a collar. Her breast was white with pale, rusty brown trimmings at the side. Her wings and tail were grey, with white edges.

"Oh, you dear!" exclaimed Peggy, "what kind of a birdy are you?"

"I'm Mrs. Chickadee," chirped the little feathered ball merrily, "and I'm getting my house ready for fall and winter. I love to work on this kind of a day."

"I certainly don't!" exclaimed Peggy. "It's too gloomy. But aren't you rather late in building your home. Most of the birds are thinking of traveling south, so mamma says."

"Most of them are," chirped Mrs. Chickadee merrily, "but not me. Why, what would you folks do if it wasn't for my merry songs on cold, gloomy days? The harder the storms, rain or snow, the louder I sing. It always seems to me if you keep happy yourself you never mind the weather. Then, too, I can work better if I sing. Why, many a time in a snowstorm I've heard folks complaining as they jogged along the road all muffled up in their fur coats about the horrid weather. I fly over their heads singing my merry song, and when they hear it they cheer up too. What's the use crying about the weather, anyway? If we didn't have gloomy days we couldn't enjoy the sunny ones."

"And that's why you stay here in the winter time instead of going south?" laughed Peggy.

"What Kind of a Birdie Are You?"

"Sure, some of the birds have to," chirped Mrs. Chickadee, "and we Chickadees take great pleasure in making folks happy. But you'll have to excuse me now. I must get back to work lining my little nest," and bidding Peggy good-bye, she flitted away over the orchard.

The rain began to fall, and Peggy, with a merry laugh, ran into the house and told her mamma what Mrs. Chickadee had said.

"Mrs. Chickadee is right," said her mamma, laughing. "We certainly would miss her cheery song during the long cold months. For there's nothing like a happy disposition for chasing away gloomy thoughts as well as gloomy weather."

Peggy helped her mamma do up the work, humming all the time, and when she again heard Mrs. Chickadee's merry song coming across the yard the clouds had rolled away and the sun was shining brightly.

After lunch mamma and Peggy went to see grandma, and Peggy told her about her chat with Mrs. Chickadee. Grandma and mamma looked at each other and laughed, for they thought Peggy had dreamed it all.

But some way Peggy didn't think so, for she soon found a merry mind would help her over many a stormy day.

Where Warriors Wear Armor Captured From the Crusaders.

Lying on the northern frontier of French equatorial Africa, and separating it from the Sahara desert, is the Great Central African state of Kanem, with its organized native government, its important commerce, and its considerably developed civilization, which was completely subjugated by France in 1903, and to the east is its powerful neighbor, Wadai, which accepted a French protectorate in the same year. This is the land of the great French Sahara that comprises 1,000,000 square miles of desert, which experiments have proved to be capable of irrigation and cultivation.

It is said that when the English occupy a country, the first thing they build is a custom house; the first thing the Germans build is a barracks, but the first thing the French build is a railroad, and the truth of this saying as regards the French was never more clearly shown than in the civilizing work done by them in these almost unknown African lands, where the French have in operation today more than 6,000 miles of railway, 25,000 miles of telegraph, and 10,000 miles of telephone.

And the French are still stretching their lines of railway to all parts of their African holdings; one line crawling southward into the Sahara, with Lake Tchad as its objective, will open up to world commerce the great protected states of Kanem and Wadai.

The people of the protected states of Kanem, Sokoto, Bagirmi, Bornu and Wadai are Mohammedans, and are not taking kindly to the civilizing efforts of the European nations that have possessions in North Africa, and practically all of the men belong to a society known as the Brotherhood of the Senussiyeh, one of the most powerful organizations of its kind in the world. This brotherhood is a secret Moslem society, organized about a century ago, and its object is the restoration of the Mohammedan religion to its original purity, austerity and political power, the first step toward which is the expulsion of the Christian from Moslem lands.

Warrior Wearing Crusader's Armor.

The Wadaians, in particular, are savage fighters, and, it is claimed, many of their warriors wear today the helmets and chain mail that were captured by their Saracenic ancestors from the Crusaders. One of these warriors, shown in our illustration, is wearing a suit of that armor, and the quilted armor worn by the horse, it is said, will turn anything short of a bullet.

INCIDENTS IN THE LIVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

BY ELOISE FARRINGTON.

How the Widow of Gen. Greene Invented the Cotton Gin.

In these days when women are entering so many fields hitherto considered solely men's occupations, it is interesting to recall that even in the early eighteen hundreds, women were at work in unusual endeavors. We are often inclined to believe that the women of our grandmother's day were solely housekeepers—that they obediently concerned themselves with the appliances made by men. But if we examine the records of early invention, it is amazing to find how many useful labor-savers were first created by women.

Moreover, not all of these devices were concerned with housekeeping. For example, a horse-shoeing machine which saved $32,000,000 in the fourteen years of its use was invented by a woman. A combined reaping and mowing machine was invented by a woman—although the patent was taken out by her husband. A furnace for smelting ore, a fire escape, a process for burning petroleum to generate steam, a device to deaden the noise of the elevated roads in New York, and many others were originated by women. Of course, there are innumerable articles for the home that have been invented by women—fruit crushers, ironing appliances and others.

She Watched a Negro Separating the Seed From the Cotton.

But perhaps the most important of all inventions, because of its far-reaching effect, was the cotton gin. This was perhaps the greatest labor-saver of any time, and a woman was responsible for it.

Mrs. Catharine Littlefield Greene, the widow of Gen. Greene of revolutionary fame, was actually the inventor of the cotton gin, although the machine was developed by a man, and he has generally been known as its inventor. Mrs. Greene was a woman of great capacity and intelligence, a keen observer and an excellent business administrator of her estate. She lived in Georgia, and had a large cotton plantation there.

One day she watched a negro separating the seed from the cotton. As she watched him patiently and slowly separating the seeds, she became appalled at the tremendous amount of time this tedious labor consumed. She thought over the matter a long time, and gradually she developed an idea which resulted—a machine that would do the work of hands far better and quicker.

At that time young Eli Whitney of Connecticut boarded with Mrs. Greene, and she asked him to build a model of a machine that she had designed. Mr. Whitney set to work and built a small model. But for some reason or other the teeth would not work, and after laboring over it a few days Mr. Whitney decided to abandon the plan. But he had not counted on Mrs. Greene. She was absolutely firm in her faith that the machine could be made to work, and relentlessly she kept him at his task. Instead of the wooden teeth used in the original model, she suggested that he use wire teeth. He tried it, and within ten days from the time Mrs. Greene first thought of the cotton gin, a small but perfect model was completed. This model enabled one worker to clean 300 pounds of cotton a day instead of one pound. It is interesting to note that so excellent was this machine that there have been no radical changes in its manufacture, and all cotton gins built subsequently were based on Mrs. Greene's original model.

HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4.

Some very lively and interesting, if not unusual experiences and events are promised by this day's stellar positions. Mars is very strong, both by Lunar and mutual aspect with Mercury, which will sharpen the wits and quicken the energies along all lines, with initiative and enterprise ready for any opportunity. However, new projects or radical changes would best be deferred, and contracts, letters, etc., should be signed with care, if at all. Advantage will come, probably, through combinations, schemes, plots or secret affiliations or hidden sources. In any case, benefits will arise from unusual or peculiar sources, though of no sinister nature. Caution is called for on journeys or in public conveyances, and removals should be deferred.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an active year of peculiar advantages, but should make changes with care and sign no papers hastily. A child born on this day will be clever, ingenious, energetic and successful in business.

In answer to that question we want to answer most emphatically, yes; and it is gladness for health restored by the use of Lydia E. Ask a woman why she prefers Lipton's Tea, and the probability is she will answer "because" and let it go at that.

There are, however, cogent reasons for this preference.

The first is that Lipton's is the only Tea sold in Canada the quality and flavor of which is guaranteed.

We guarantee it because we grow it on our own plantations. We know the quality of our leaf, and we blend it, and pack it ourselves.

Dr. Kenneth K. MacAlpine For 16 Years Adjunct Professor

New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital

Says that Nuxated Iron

Is the Most Valuable Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder Any Physician Can Prescribe.

Probably no remedy has ever met with such phenomenal success as has Nuxated Iron—over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. It has been used and highly indorsed by such distinguished men as: Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury and Ex-Governor of Iowa; Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towne; United States Senator E. S. Johnson; Judge G. W. Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims of Washington; Judge Samuel S. Yoder, Statesman, Jurist, formerly Surgeon-Major in the Army; General John L. Clem, U. S. A. (Retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was Sergeant in the U. S. Army at 12 years of age, and others.

WHAT DR. MACALPINE SAYS:

"During sixteen years as Lecturer and Adjunct Professor of Special Surgery (Proctology) in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, I never had recourse to so valuable a remedy for building up the health and strength of debilitated, convalescent patients as Nuxated Iron. Severe tests recently made with Nuxated Iron have absolutely convinced me that it is a preparation of most extraordinary merit.

"If people would only realize that iron is just as indispensable to the blood as is air to the lungs, and be just as particular about keeping up a sufficient supply at all times, there would, in my opinion, be far less disease resulting from anaemic, weakened conditions. For years it was a problem with physicians how to administer iron in a form that could be taken up by the system and increase the red blood corpuscles without upsetting the stomach, blackening the teeth or producing other disorders almost as serious as the lack of iron itself. But the introduction of Nuxated Iron has done away with all objectionable features of the old mineral salts of iron and gives to every careful thinking physician a tried and valuable prescription which he can recommend nearly every day with benefit to his weakened and rundown patients.

SPECIAL TO PHYSICIANS.

Doctor, What Do You Recommend To Renew the Supply of Iron in the Blood of People in a Weak, Nervous, Rundown State?

Dr. MacAlpine, for 16 years Adjunct Professor in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, says the introduction of Nuxated Iron gives to every careful, thinking physician a tried and valuable prescription which he can recommend nearly every day with benefit to his weakened and rundown patients.

Dr. MacAlpine's opinion is borne out by the indorsement of such physicians as Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, formerly Visiting Surgeon St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York; Dr. A. J. Newman, late House Surgeon of Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago; Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, and others.

William R. Kerr, former Health Commissioner of Chicago, says Nuxated Iron should be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country.

Now, Doctor, when you wish to prescribe a true tonic, strength and blood builder—one that puts the vim and energy into the veins of the weak, infirm, rundown and aged—why not try the same kind of iron—Nuxated Iron—that Dr. MacAlpine and other physicians have used with such success in their practice? Two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron taken three times per day after meals will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, rundown folks in two weeks' time. Your druggist will refund your patient's money if it doesn't.

DR. KENNETH K. MACALPINE, Prominent New York Surgeon.

WHO HE IS.

Dr. MacAlpine graduated from the New York University Medical College, was Assistant Surgeon (Outdoor Dept.) Bellevue Hospital, formerly House Surgeon and for 16 years Adjunct Professor New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, which is the original and largest Post-Graduate Hospital in the United States, a member of the New York County Medical Society, the New York State Medical Society, New York Physicians' Association and Post-Graduate Alumni Association. Dr. MacAlpine is regarded as a leading American authority on Proctology and has lectured and operated before the Surgical Section of the New York State Medical Society.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is used by Dr. MacAlpine and others with such surprising results and which is prescribed and recommended by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

ADELE BARRISON'S NEW REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Lillian Insisted That Mr. Gordon Shouldn't Accompany Them to the Door.

"Slow poisons!" Lillian and I exclaimed together, horrified.

My father shivered slightly.

"Yes, and of all the deaths to die, I think that is the most agonizing," he said. "The fiends responsible for his condition hadn't been able to secure his cipher formula; he had hidden it too securely; and when I found him he managed to slip the tiny parcel containing it to me unobserved.

"He whispered to me that the formula was complete with the exception of one group of figures, which he had purposely omitted so as to make the things useless if the enemy spies surrounding it did get hold of it. He summoned his strength to tell me the missing figures, but had only uttered two of them when he fell back in an awful paroxysm, and never spoke again."

"Then is the whole invention useless?" I queried, when I could get my breath for horror of the tale he was telling.

"No," my father returned shortly, and I saw that he didn't like to be interrupted. "As soon as Blank"—he named the second inventor in the country—"returns from France, where he has been for six months, he will be asked to take the formula and see if he can supply the missing links. Personally I am confident that he can, but in the meantime I don't want the thing lying around.

"I lost no time in sending the scientist's paper on to you," my father went on, "and in destroying by own copy of the cipher. It was several days before the idea that I might have it seeped into their chuckle heads, and by that time the letter was beyond their reach. And I have already told you how they tried to make me give it up. I shall bear the marks of some of their attempts to the day of my death.

Lillian's Suggestion.

"I shall not rest until that original is destroyed," he said, "so if you will arrange to bring it over here this afternoon I'll have Drake come down and we can memorize it before we destroy it."

"Don't you think it would be a good idea," Lillian broke in deprecatingly, yet I knew that she was like steel inside, "if, while destroying the original we could make a decoy paper to look as much like the original as possible, hide it in an obvious place, and with its theft nab some at least of the devils who are so hot upon its trail?"

My father started—looked at her searchingly. I think at first he imagined this was simply another attack upon Kato's honesty. But his worldly wisdom came to the rescue in another instant, and I saw his face light up with approbation.

Watch Carefully.

"That's just the thing!" he said heartily. "You go ahead and arrange the details, and I'll prepare the decoy copy. If you can only catch that Draper girl right it will be all I'll ask.

"I intend to nab her with my own fair hands." Lillian returned grimly, and my father glowed with approval.

"Do you know we have completely forgotten Mother Graham?" I exclaimed in real contrition. "She'll imagine we have been boiled in oil or experienced some other horrible fate, and nothing can prevent her calling the police and spoiling everything if she gets too excited."

"We must fly at once, then," said Lillian melodramatically. Then, as my father rose from his chair, "Please, Mr. Gordon, don't think of escorting us to the door. We are both perfectly familiar with the house; it was our friend, Mrs. Durkee's, you know, and we'll say farewell to Dr. Pettit as we go out."

Her insistence had its effect, especially as my father was evidently weak, glad of the rest his easy chair afforded. But there was something about her manner that made me wonder if there were not something beside solicitude for my father's health which made her so anxious to traverse the hall alone.

As the door closed behind us she proved my theory a true one. She looked up and down the hall and peered into a room opening from it on the opposite side to make sure she was unobserved. Then she opened her hand, which she had held closed ever since she came back into the room, and disclosed a door key.

"Watch carefully," she whispered, "and remember what you see."

Something That Auto Users Should Know

READ CAREFULLY.

The discovery of an economic and permanent method of uniting tires without loss of resiliency, damage to the fabric, or possibility of friction, has met with instant success the country over, and has already reduced the tire cost of the nation millions of dollars. Months of actual service of thousands of tires in this city, during which careful observations have been made, proves that when the work is properly performed, Double Tires are extremely economical and practically puncture-proof. They have shown that this invention has been the greatest single factor in reducing operating expenses since the introduction of the automobile. LET US SEE THE OLD TIRES YOU HAVE.

TEUTONS ARE EVACUATING LILLE; ENEMY IN RETREAT ALONG LA BASSEE CANAL

Inhabitants Along the Belgian Seacoast Are Leaving Their Homes Under German Orders—Foe Loses Additional Ground in Outskirts of Cambrai.

Paris, Oct. 2.—Havas Agency.—The Matin announces that the Germans are evacuating Lille, and that the commander there has requisitioned all means of transportation, even wheelbarrows and baskets, to take away the booty. The newspaper adds that the evacuation of the townspeople to Belgian towns near the German border is being pursued hastily.

A dispatch from the Dutch border asserts that the German governor-general in Belgium has given secret instructions to the governors of the province to send hastily German archives to Brussels.

Allied airmen have flown over Brussels, dropping thousands of pamphlets, telling the public to have a little more patience—that their hour of liberation is near.

OUTFLANKED BY BRITISH.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 2.—(By the Associated Press).—British forces breaking through the German line on the Beaurevoir-Wiancourt front and capturing both these villages, together with Sequehart, created a salient which aided materially in the capture of St. Quentin by the French.

BROAD SWEEP IN FLANDERS.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Germans are in retreat over a wide front north and south of La Bassee canal (Flanders) with the British closely following them, according to Field Marshal Haig's report from headquarters tonight.

The Germans have lost further ground to the British in the outskirts of Cambrai and northwest of that city, but northeast of St. Quentin the British under a violent counter-attack have been forced from the village of Sequehart.

TO EVACUATE BELGIAN COAST.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Further evidence of German preparation for evacuation of the Belgian seacoast reached the state department today in dispatches saying hospitals, postoffices and the contents of storage houses of the German fourth army district were being moved back and turned over to the military government in the interior.

HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE ALONG CENTRE OF AMERICAN LINES

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Wednesday, Oct. 2.—Violent artillery firing developed along the centre of the American line between the Meuse and the Aisne today. The Germans also bombarded the American positions on the right, near the Meuse, to a limited extent, but on the extreme left there was a significant silence for the most part of the day.

Along this sector of the front the positions held by the Americans follow a zigzag line. The number of Germans near the Argonne forest is less than that fighting on the eastern side. General Gouraud's drive west of the forest, together with the advance of the Americans to the east of it, threatens to cut off the enemy units still clinging to the wooded hills south of Grandpre.

Much booty has fallen into the hands of the Americans, including an electric power station at Varennes. The Germans left so hurriedly that they did not damage the machinery and the Allies are using it. They are also utilizing miles of telephone wires and some central exchange material which had been left in position by the retiring enemy.

GERMANS ARE USING UP THEIR RESERVES IN A RECKLESS WAY

Paris, Oct. 3.—While the enemy is throwing reserves recklessly into the centre of the vast battle line in a desperate effort to stave off the evil hour of defeat, the Allies continue to progress on the wings. Slowly but surely the splendid advance of the allied forces under King Albert of Belgium has forced Gen. Ludendorff to withdraw his troops.

On this portion of the front, the position of the Germans is getting dangerous, and they must find an effective way to defend Lille, which with Metz, is the pivot of the whole German system in France. Now that the Germans first line in Belgium has been broken, the line of communication between Ostend and Thourout is in peril and the Roulers-Menin railroad is cut, it can be seen that the position of the enemy there is grave.

The second line of railroad from Bruges to Courtrai is under shellfire. While this German army, the 4th, is thrust back on its communications, the forces on its right are in a risky position near the sea at Nieuport. Those elements on the left of the 4th army are thrown back at some points south of the Lys River, and will have difficulty in defending Lille.

Latest news from the centre of the line shows that the enemy resistance there is giving evidence of failing. Le Catelet has been taken in this sector.

On the right, Gen. Berthelot is still driving the Germans away from the Rheims region and Gen. Gouraud is making slow headway in the Champagne. Everywhere the signs of battle indicate the approach of the critical phase.

In addition to the general satisfaction over the situation in France, Paris is rejoicing over the news of the fall of Damascus.

LLOYD BRAITHWAITE GREATLY IMPROVED

Glad News Comes to Parents at Last.

Most welcome relief after six weeks of suspense has come to President E. E. Braithwaite of the Western University, and Mrs. Braithwaite, in a cable which has arrived from England concerning the condition of their son, Lloyd. The message, sent by Mrs. Johnston, a cousin of Mrs. Braithwaite, states, "Greatly improved. First natural sleep."

This is the first hopeful news which has come to Dr. and Mrs. Braithwaite since the official notice weeks ago that Lloyd had been severely wounded. Complications subsequently developed, and it was necessary to amputate his right arm just a week ago today. He is in a London, England, hospital.

REBELS AT

ladies were not feeding them with the idea of making a fortune out of it. They were simply acceding to a request, trying to be obliging. The meals would cost $1.15 a day, and they would pay probably $1.50 elsewhere. In the past two years the church had reduced its debt from $106,000 to a little over $60,000. They were not hard up. As for Mr. Gibson's argument, I believe that a few of you would go to the hotels anyway. It would be the Chinamen and the foreigners who control the restaurants who would profit rather than the hotels. Mr. Gibson's argument would apply against the billeting system just the same as against this plan, put in Rev. Dr. J. A. Long of Toronto.

Chance to Live.

Are we going to give the hotelmen a chance to live? queried another delegate, who told how a hotel had cut its 75-cent rate to 70 cents to accommodate the delegates at meals. We will save money and time to eat in the church, said Rev. Albert Moore, conference secretary. I happen to know that it would not be the hotels the delegates would patronize.

Finally the debate got on the nerves of some of the delegates, and E. S. Caswell of Toronto, moved the closure. The vote was then taken, and by a large majority the conference decided to dine downstairs, letting the ladies make what profit they could, but Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll, prohibitionist, will eat elsewhere.

DISCUSSING MEANS OF GETTING COAL SUPPLY FOR WIVES OF SOLDIERS

G. W. V. A. Committee Starts Campaign To Obtain Fuel.

At a meeting of the coal committee of the G. W. V. A. held in the board room Wednesday evening it was decided to write to the various commands of the Great War Veterans' Association in Canada for the purpose of finding out what arrangements they are making to secure coal for the widows of soldiers who have been killed in France. The coal committee will also try to secure sufficient coal to supply the wives of soldiers overseas.

The committee is strongly in favor of having one centre where coal can be secured by those who are in need.

The members of the committee are also in favor of having coal supplied to wives and widows of soldiers who, out of their allowance or pension, cannot afford to secure more than a half a ton or a ton at a time.

The committee is willing to meet any other body of men to discuss the coal situation and if possible secure a quantity of coal for the wives and widows of soldiers.

CHANCE FOR HORSEMEN TO JOIN ROYAL DRAGOONS

Word has been received by the officer in charge of the local mobilization centre that three men are required (privates) on the strength of the Royal Canadian Dragoons in the personnel of the riding establishment at the Royal Military College at Kingston. The men are to be of good character, and unfit for overseas service. Unmarried men are preferred, and they must have some knowledge of horses.

Application has also been received from the general officer commanding the Royal Air Force in Canada for six farrier sergeants for the winter months. The men must be in a category lower than A, and if none are available, men sufficiently well trained for the purpose will be accepted.

Major Irvine states that he thinks that no difficulty will be met with in obtaining these men, as they will go with the best units, and good pay and treatment will be given them.

ANTICIPATING IT

Paris, Oct. 3.—The German censor at Berlin permits the German press to print articles dwelling on the probable situation of Germany in the case that Austria should be forced to lay down her arms under pressure, according to advices reaching Paris. It is declared that if Austria-Hungary should give in, Bavaria might follow her example.

CHURCH UNION SURE TO COME, DECLARES SIR JOHN M. GIBSON

Significant Statement at the Methodist Conference.

HAMILTON, Oct. 2.—When the Methodist General Conference assembled today there were by actual count 374 delegates in attendance from all parts of Canada, including six from Newfoundland and three from Japan, among the latter being Bishop Heraiwa of the Methodist Church of Japan.

The representation from the various conferences is as follows: Toronto, 52; London, 40; Hamilton, 40; Bay of Quinte, 30; Montreal, 42; Nova Scotia, 24; New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, 18; Newfoundland, 12; Manitoba, 30; Saskatchewan, 32; Alberta, 30, and British Columbia, 24.

Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore was for the fourth time chosen secretary of the conference.

Japan Loves Britain.

After a few words from T. Hobson Smith, national delegate from England, Bishop Heraiwa added his testimony of satisfaction as the representative of an allied nation at the victories of Great Britain in the Holy Land. Speaking of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, he said: "In eighteen years Japan never went back on that alliance, and she will never do so."

Sir John Gibson, in the course of an address welcoming the delegates to Hamilton and the province of Ontario, spoke as a Presbyterian of the coming together of the two denominations.

"From the commencement of the movement," he said, "I have been one of those who never wavered in his views on the subject. There is little or no difference in our creeds. There is some small differences in our methods. I am not sure that Presbyterianism would not be better for a little of the emotionalism of which we used to charge you as surcharged."

The World Is Changed.

The conference, he told the delegates, could not escape from the consideration of what the state of this world would be when peace is attained. There would be changes between the people and their various governments, changes also among the nations themselves. There would be a league of nations regulating the world, making those who were inclined to misbehave themselves be good. Under these circumstances any great body such as the General Conference must be affected in its deliberations by its responsibilities begotten of the particular conditions of the present time. That they would be worthy of the occasion he had no doubt whatever.

Mayor Charles G. Booker, who extended the greetings of the citizens of Hamilton, recalled the fact that his father built the first Baptist church in the city of Hamilton.

Curse of Denominationalism.

"I can join with Sir John Gibson," he exclaimed, "in declaring that the great curse of denominationalism, standing in the road of Christianity, is one of the greatest blights of our religion, and when this blight is swept aside it is going to pull forward in a way that has never been known before."

Turning to the war, he declared that the fusion of the Anglo-Saxon race, which was fighting hand-in-hand for the realization of the Christ ideal, would for all time to come crush the spirit of Prussian militarism.

Chief Justice McKeown of St. John, N. B., who replied to the address of welcome, rejoiced that commercialism has been dethroned as a result of the war. It had not altogether been cast out, but as a living, vital force, it was a thing of the past. This was going to make it easier to preach the unadulterated gospel of Jesus Christ.

"I wonder," he added, "if ever in some of the churches—I am speaking of the Methodist Churches—commercialism has not had its influence."

"You bet," commented someone in the body of the church.

Down To Bed Rock.

"We have got down to the bed rock of our religious life," he went on. "Never again will the people be satisfied with the husks which have nothing in themselves, but they are demanding the very bread of life. Can we give it to them?"

Rev. Dr. Rose, of Toronto, claimed for the Methodist Church the honor of being a pathfinder in education, religious freedom and moral reform in Canada. In the matter of prohibition the country was catching up to where the Methodist conference was twenty-five years ago.

Dr. Rose was not so sure as Chief Justice McKeown that commercialism was dethroned in Methodist Churches, "but," he exclaimed, "it must be if we are to save our souls. We've got to take the Lord Jesus Christ seriously, and I don't think we've done it yet."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. HUMPHREY.

The particularly sad death of Mrs. Annie Humphrey, widow of John Humphrey, occurred on Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Reginald Knapton, 91 Dillabough street. Mrs. Humphrey had been ill with pneumonia. Her husband died of the same disease only a few days before her and was buried on Wednesday afternoon. He was a conductor on the London Street Railway. The funeral will take place from the undertaking parlors of George E. Logan on Saturday at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery, where interment will be made. Rev. Mr. Bice of this city will conduct the services.

DEATH OF W. H. BROOKS.

Brooks, 953 Hackett street, this city, in his 36th year. Mr. Brooks had been employed by the firm of E. Leonard & Sons in the blacksmith department for the past 18 years and was well and favorably known by a large circle of friends, having resided in the city all his life.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers—Frederick of St. Thomas and Frank of Toronto, and two sisters—Mrs. J. Teasdale of Toronto and Mrs. E. Owen of St. Thomas, and four children—Marjorie, William, John and Max of this city. His wife predeceased him 11 months.

The funeral will be held from his parents' residence on Friday at 2 o'clock, and will be of a private nature.

The late Mr. Brooks was a member of King Solomon Lodge, No. 378, A., F. and A. M.

BISHOP FALLON TELLS KINGSTON AUDIENCE OF HIS TRIP OVERSEAS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

KINGSTON, Oct. 3.—Bishop Fallon of London is spending the day here at his old home. He was the special speaker at the noonday luncheon held by the Canadian Club at the British American hostel. He addressed a very large crowd on his experiences and impressions as a result of his recent trip overseas.

UNDERGOING OPERATION.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Gen. Jecoff, commander-in-chief of the Bulgarian army, has arrived in Vienna to undergo an operation and, according to a dispatch from Basle, says he protested against the decision of the Bulgarian Government (presumably the decision to ask for the armistice recently). He also asserts that he considers himself still the commander-in-chief of the Bulgarian forces.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

There was a good attendance at the local market this morning, and a considerable amount of produce was offered.

Hay remained firm in price and brought from $16@17 50 per ton. The demand was brisk and the hay was of good quality.

Oats also are firm.

Straw was very scarce, only one load having been offered during the past two weeks.

Dressed hogs dropped in price, and brought $26 50 per cwt, while live hogs dropped 75c per cwt and sold for $18 75.

Peaches were offered in several qualities, and the price ranged from 90c to $1 50 for an 11-quart basket. Pears are firm.

Eggs advanced in price and remained scarce, as the hens are now moulting and are not laying many eggs. They sold for 50c and 52c per dozen retail, and 50c per dozen for crate lots and 52c for basket lots.

Butter is firm in price, as is the remainder of the vegetables and fruits.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Continued favorable war news led to new declines today in the corn market. Lack of support rather than urgent selling, however, was a feature of the trading. To a limited extent the commission houses bought o nthe breaks. Opening prices, bought on the breaks. Opening prices, by a sharp setback all around, and then something of a reaction.

Oats reflected changes in corn. Cash interests were moderate buyers. After opening ¾c advance the market underwent a general sag and later rallied.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 3—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The strength of specialties, particularly tobaccos, shippings and oils, lifted the general list to high levels in the first half hour of today's stock market, the usual leaders showing little change. Gains among special issues extended from 1 to 6 points, Sumatra Tobacco, United Cigars, Marine preferred, Royal Dutch Oil, United Fruit, Texas Company, American Telephone and International Paper being the most conspicuous features. United States Steel advanced almost a point, but was inclined to react at the first sign of pressure. Rails were comparatively dull and irregular.

Noon.—Greater breadth attended the progress of the session, the market becoming somewhat unsettled in the second hour. United States Steel rallied from its early reversal, but experienced fresh pressure, and Royal Dutch Oil forfeited practically all of its 7-point advance. There was a marked reduction of the recent inquiry for rails, but shippings and coppers were firm to strong. In the bond market French Government fives held at the year's maximum, and on the curb Russian 5½'s and 6½'s rose 3½ and 4 points respectively, to highest levels of the year.

1:30 p.m.—A varied assortment of issues was singled out for bullish attention in the early afternoon, despite the persistent heaviness of United States Steel. Canadian Pacific, Pullman, Chino Copper, Studebaker and United States Ruber were higher by 1½ to 3 points, and Marine preferred displayed further strength.

JOHN J. FOOT WILL HEAD CAMPAIGN FOR BOARD OF TRADE

Unanimously Chosen Chairman of Committee Last Night.

John J. Foot was unanimously chosen chairman of the campaign committee for the expansion and reorganization drive of the London Board of Trade at a meeting held last evening in the headquarters at 363 Richmond street.

Development of the plans for a short, snappy drive was further advanced by the approval of several proposals made by members of the committee and the campaign manager, J. C. R. Foster. Fixing of the date of the actual drive will be one of the important details to be determined at the next meeting of the committee.

Mr. Foster called attention to a letter written a few days ago to the chairman of a similar committee in Waterville, Me., which had in hand the rebuilding of the local chamber of commerce, saying that it pictured a set of conditions so like those in London, that its writer, William C. Redfield, secretary of the department of commerce in Washington, might well have sent it to the committee here.

"There never was a time," Mr. Redfield wrote, "when organizations of this character, whose purpose is unselfish and general, were more needed. The fact that we are about to open a campaign for a great loan, that this in turn must be followed after a due interval with requests for assistance from great organizations unselfishly aiding our troops in their sacrificial work, the further fact that great problems, and possibly to some degree novel ones, will arise at the close of the war, concerning which it will be necessary to have touch with the community, and the improvement of business and labor conditions, all call for organization.

"You will be rendering a public service if a body can be formed which will be responsive at once to public opinion along such lines as are suggested above, and which can, with a measure of authority, express that opinion."

CAPT. D. G. GARRETT IS SECOND SON TO LOSE LIFE IN ACTION

That Capt. Dalton Gilbert Garrett, M.D., was killed in action on September 30 was the official report received by his father, Alexander Garrett, 47 Hale street, last night. He was a brother of Knox Garrett, who was reported dangerously wounded a few days ago and also a brother of Gunner A. J. Garrett, who made the supreme sacrifice March 28 last.

Capt. Garrett joined the R. A. M. C. on January 6, 1918, and has been serving with a field ambulance for the past six months. He has a sister who is serving with the Kitchener Military Hospital at Brighton. He is survived by his wife and one daughter in Winnipeg.

LONDONER IS AWARDED QUEEN'S B. A. DEGREE

KINGSTON, Oct. 2.—W. A. Williams of London has been awarded the degree of bachelor of arts at Queen's University. He is president of Queen's University summer school and attended the sessions here during this summer.

COUNCIL ASKED TO RECONSIDER NAMING OF NEW HOSPITAL

Letter From Military Authorities Request It.

LONDON MAY CELEBRATE

Committee To Be Named to Deal With Marking Balkan Victory.

The department of militia did not like the council's suggestion of "London View Military Hospital" as a name for the new structure to be erected south of the city. The suggestion has been rejected and sent back to the council.

Last night No. 1 committee had the following communication before it from Lieut.-Col. W. G. Brown, assistant adjutant-general here:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter on the 17th instant in which you inform me that the municipal council at its last session decided to name the proposed new military hospital the London View Military Hospital.'

"It would appear that there is strong objection to this name on the part of a number of citizens, and it is requested, please, that the city council reconsider their decision."

Read Newspapers.

The discussion on the matter was short. Ald. Harley, who suggested the name in question, remarked that evidently Col. Brown read the newspapers. It was decided to send the communication on to the council without recommendation.

Mayor Somerville will be asked to name a committee of three to deal with the suggestion that a celebration should be held to mark the great progress of the Allied arms in the war. Ald. S. R. Mannes introduced the matter. He said that he had discussed it with the mayor, and he was favorable. Ald. Wilson said the armies were going ahead fine. They had Jerusalem, Palestine, and would soon have the whole "bloody country, including Constantinople." Chief Aitken recalled that at the fall of Ladysmith in the South African war there was a parade held. The matter will be left in the hands of Mayor Somerville.

Italian Red Cross.

The committee heard some pointed remarks as to the city's stand in regard to the Italian Red Cross.

Joseph Famularo asked the committee what had become of the grant of $1,000 the council made a year ago. Not a cent of the money had been paid over. The members of the council had voted for the grant. City Clerk S. Baker said that the question had not been sent to a vote of the people, and if the council had intended to submit the grant it would have done so.

Ald. Manness said that those behind the Italian Red Cross in the city had been misled. The council should have told these people that the matter would have to be voted upon, and should have had it submitted.

"It looks like a very poor evidence of London's feeling towards the cause," said Mr. Famularo. 'I put it plainly. My feeling is that the spirit is not there." He declared that when a call is made for any other cause the Italian colony of the city always does its part.

The opinion seemed to be that perhaps the matter will get better attention this year. Mr. Famularo was told to watch it.

Didn't Touch Street Railway.

The committee refused to deal with the street railway matter, stating that the council, by its last motion ordering the engineer to order the service restored, had taken the matter out of the committee's hands.

G. White asked the committee to hear his request for reinstatement into the fire department. He said he had leave in June and July. In August, when he returned to work the chief refused to take him on. He told him that he had been the cause of trouble in the department. White wanted to know if he was not entitled to compensation.

Ald. Holmes said that he thought he was entitled to proper notice.

Chief Aitken said that White went to work for the G. T. R. while on leave. He secured the leave, saying he wanted to take his wife to the United States for an operation. He did not go. When he returned to work the chief said he refused to put him back to work. White's request was referred to the chief for a report.

PATRICIA

W. S. Hart in "The Disciple," at the Patricia, Today, Friday and Saturday.

"The Disciple," written by S. Barrett McCormick and Thomas H. Ince, will be presented as one of the big features of the Triangle program at the Patricia, today, Friday and Saturday. This is not only remarkable as a play, but also as putting forth the favorite star, William S. Hart, for the first time in the Triangle service.

A western plot that holds the interest of spectators tensely from beginning to the close characterizes this story. A frontier missionary (William S. Hart), after conquering, at the point of a revolver, the hostility of the cowpunchers to religion and building his church, "splits with God" because his wife elopes with "Doc" Hardy, ex-physician and the village saloon-keeper. With his little daughter he goes to the mountains and takes up a new life.

W. S. Hart in "The Disciple," his latest success, showing at the Patricia, today, Friday and Saturday.

But the child falls ill of mountain fever. Just at this time Hardy finds it necessary to return to the village. Mary returns with him, and in a violent storm comes to her husband's cabin. Houston takes her in for the child's sake. He goes for Hardy as the only physician who can save the child. The child's life is saved. Mary, forced to make her choice between the missionary and Hardy, points toward the child and goes to its bedside.

Houston is about to kill Hardy, when he sees a vision of the crucifixion, with this legend in the sky above the three crosses, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." He relents, and Hardy goes forth free.

The Ince eye for detail is exercised splendidly in "The Disciple." The set showing the western village and the crucifixion leave nothing to be desired. The storm scenes are realistic to a degree.

D. W. GRIFFITH'S "The Great Love"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

SHOWING AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY FOR THE LAST TIME.

The story deals with a young American who enlists in the Canadian army when he reads of the German atrocities in Belgium and goes to England. While training near London he meets and loves a charming Australian girl who reciprocates his passion. When this girl falls heir to a vast fortune, an unscrupulous English baronet seeks to force her into a marriage with him, and this affair is interrupted by international complications and the operations of German spies. The girl later finds "the great love" in unremitting service for country and the cause of world's democracy. Many famous English society women assist in the development of the story as workers in hospitals and munitions factories, and in this respect the photoplay is said to be one of the most remarkable ever produced.

TRAIN KILLS FIVE COWS IN TWO DAYS

Luther Pinniger of Dorchester had four cows killed late yesterday afternoon by a Grand Trunk train. This makes a total of five cows lost in two days, one having been killed on Monday. Mr. Pinniger is well known in and about Dorchester.

The cows broke through the fence while their owner was visiting Donnybrook fair, and had not been on the track long before a train came along, killing them instantly. The cow killed on Monday met her death in precisely the same way.
