EPIDEMIC OF HANGING

William J. Francis Hanged Him-

Third Suioide In That Manner Within a Fortnight-Francis Was First Reported to Have Died In Bed-One of the Best Judges of Bric-a-Brac In Canada - Were Deaths Caused by Suggestion?

Toronto, Aug. 1 .- The third case of what seems to be an epidemic of sui-cide by hanging came on Saturday last when Walter James Francis, the well-known curio dealer, killed himself in the cellar of his home at 365 Yonge street. For some reason pressure was brought to bear on the regular news channels, and the statement at first issued that Francis had been found dead in bed.

He had been ill for some time, and on Saturday morning was left alone in the bouse. His sister returned to find that he was not in his room. She searched the house to find him suspend-ed from the cellar rafters by two skate straps which he had fastened about his neck. He had stood upon a chair and when the straps were fast had an ardent collector himself.

The case marks a curious sequence that almost always occurs in one form or another of suicide. When one strik-Ing case of self-destruction by a certain method occurs a rapid succession of suicides from the same cause inevitably follows.

WHO OWNS HAT?

A Humble Example to Show flow the City's Railroad Loan is Figured

Dr. Thornton, in a previous letter to this journal, stated that the loan to the electric road would cost the CITY $60,000 in thirty years. It was our unpleasant duty to show him wherein he erred. In last night's issue of this paper the reader understands him to amend his statement by saying it will cost the CITIZENS over $78,000 in thirty years.

He figures in this manner. If the citizens do not pay in taxes the $2,- 891.50 required of them yearly for thirty years to pay the loan, that yearly sum, if invested, would make, in thirty years the sum he mentions. He is, undoubtedly, correct, Any person knows the astonishing rate at which money multiplies at compound interest. There is the example, told by the temperance people, of the man who refrained from drinking for a month and with the savings invested at compound interest built a home such as you see in the Jadies' Lone such as you see in the Jadies' Lone Journal. So, no revelation there!

The citizens of Chatham, when they voted on the by-law, said in effect, "We pay for the road $2,891.50 a year for thirty years, i. e., $86,745.00, and by getting back $50,000 from the road we understand our expenditure to be $36,745.00, (less the school rates the company pay and local improvement taxes, which, it is estimated, reduces the above sum to something like $25,000."

$25,000.")
By the Thorntonian system the citizens say, "If we did not pay that $2,-891.50, but put it in the bank each year, we would be worth at the end of thirty years $78,877.83.

This is true, and if the estimable Doctor had said, "If the citizens do

Doctor had said. "If the citizens do not embark on this railroad scheme, but save the money they would pay and, by letting it amass at compound interest, they will BE WORTH, on the expiry of thirty years, $78,877.83," he would have been correct. But when he says the yearly expenditure COSTS them the amount he mentions we take issue with him.

when he says the yearly expenditure COSTS them the amount he mentions we take issue with him.

By the Thorntonian system the Doctor can go into a store and buy a five dollar hat. He paid the five dollars and got value received for it. At the end of thirty years, however, when the Doctor is figuring out his finances he makes the startlingly pleasing discovery that he has about two hundred dollars—the money the Doctor paid a tradesman for the hat was lying to the doctor's credit in a bank all that time. But he paid fon the hat! So he did, but the money is at the same time lying to the Doctor's credit in the bank. The logical conclusion is that the money has two owners at one and the same time—which is an absurdity, as they say in geometry. The absurdity of it will, probably, appeal to the Doctor to-morrow when someone goes to him to inaugurate the Thorntonian system of paying debts by which he is enabled to say to the Doctor, "I owe you a ten dollar dentistry account. Here it is! You are paid! But, Presto! I keep it so that it may accoundate for me, and in mine old age I may be able. Carnegie-like, to give! camulate for me, and in mine old age

I may be able, Carnegie-like, to give away libraries." away libraries."

In the future many intend to pay all their debts in this manner. Even now we are on our way to the bank to draw out the accumulated proceeds of a five cent bag of candy we ate, with great foresight in our youth. We had imagined we got youth. We had imagined we got value received for our money at the time but, in some mysterious man-ner it has been earning interest for us ever since.

In the example given the city is, so to speak, the person buying the hat and the railway company the tradesman from whom it is bought. By voting on the by-law the people pay the company $36,745 for the value the road is to the city. The money is actually transferred to pay a present DEBT and the citizens should no more calculate the earning power of that money than the doctor should calculate the earning power of the money he paid the tradesman. us ever since.

power of the money he paid the tradesman.

Dr. Thornton drew three conclusions. We reciprocate:

I. The citizens might save ALL the money they now pay in taxes each year and put it out at compound interest. At the end of 30 years they would have a tidy sum sum to leave their heir, and assigns, but why stop at the end of 30 years? If it is true for 30 years it holds true for a century. In the meantime the city, has become dead, but that is a mere bagotille in the Thorntonian system.

2. The payment of the city's large debts are spread over a number of years by the debenture system so that succeeding residents of Chatham may be made to pay for benefits of which they derive the benefit instead of saddling the present generation with the whole cost.

3. Why didn't Rockefeller know this? As a money maker it has Standard oil stock faded into a dim speck on the distant horizon.

Chas. Buchanan, the newly elected Chas. Buchanan, the newly elected Reeve of Harwich, has been a resident of the township for thirty-five years, and was a member of the Township Council for many years. As Reeve last year he proved a painstaking and capable officer, and there is no doubt in the discharge of his duties the ratepayers can confidently rely upon a wise exercise of his direction of the township affairs.

STEAM HEATING

A well attended meeting of busi-ness men was held in the parlors of the Garner House last evening to hear what the representative of the Steam Heating Company had to propose for heating their places of business.

Mr. Lilley explained that there was no desire on the part of the promoters to gold brick the people, but that the capitalists he represented wanted to be assured of a reasonable prospect for future business for an outlay that would run into many prospect for future business for an outlay that would run into many thousand dollars.

The experiment was not a new one, but it was necessary to get a fair start to demonstrate to the consumers that it was possible to save them money in their bill for, fuel. Up to the present no person had been asked to sign a contract, as it was proposed to bring an expert to the city who would go fully into the details. Mr. Lilley said hand received considerable encouragement from those whose places of business were situated between the power house and the Garner Hotel, and that it was quite probable that a sufficient number of signers will be obtained to give the enterprise a start, in which case the work will proceed contemporaneously with the laying of the tracks for the electric railway.

Laurier. It was shown previous to the late election that he and the Hon. G. W. Ross were practically partners. If the Ontario voters had had the controlling voice, they would have meted out the same punishment to Sir Wilfrid that they gave to Mr. Ross.

Corruption is the mainstay of the Laurier Government. This was shown in previous Parliments; it shown in previous Parliments; it is more rampant now, that the Liberal party has again been returned to power with a large majority. One sinister act is alone sufficient to prove this. The Auditor General has been jockeyed out of office in order that there shall be no real check upon the spending powers of the Government.

But this act does not stand alone. The Conservatives have been active in exposing the frauds perpetrated by the Government. scandal has so disgusted the country that Sir Wilfrid felt it necessary to do something, and the old familiar humbug so loved by the Hon. G. W. Ross, a commission has been appointed to enquire into it.

Dredging operations have again been proved to be but the rewards for needy Government supporters. The contracts for cement walks at Ottawa were shown to be party acknowledgements. The force of the wire fence boundary was but a still further proof of corruption. The abominable scandal in connection with Nixon, the Macleod sub-agent, and the matter of the Thessalon P. O., show with what a high hand Sir Wilfrid will carry shady transactions through.

The light and airy manner in which the Lott and Shibley ballot box scandal was treated by the Government is but a repetition of the Ross administration's manner of dealing with the same subject. The grants for armories, wharves, etc., have in many cases nothing to justify them but political corruption. The sum of $328,000 given to N. York canal is clearly of this type as the people in the district laugh the thing to scorn. Last, but not least, the "salary grab" for which the Government is primarily responsible, though the Opposition must bear its share of the blame, adds to the burden of the people. All this comes upon the voters in the way of increased taxation. The taxes per capita have increased from $5.46 in 1896 to $9.76 last year. The expenditure has grown from $41,000,000 to $81,000,000, and in addition there is the G. T. P.

CITY LIFE AND PHYSIQUE.

Theory That It Tends to Physical Deterioration Pooh poohed by Ford Madox Hueffer,

It is a commonly accepted theory that Madox Huester.

It is a commonly accepted theory that town life, especially the life of the vast modern cliy, tends to physical deterioration. In his new book," "The Soul of London," Mr. Ford Madox Huester pool-pools the theory in the following original bit of argument:—

There remains the question of physical deterioration. "That Neurasthenia joke," said a modern doctor, a man looking half Jew, half negroid, but young and alert, with beady eyes behind large speciacles, "it's as old as the hills. Jezebel was Neurasthenic; so was Lot's wife when she looked back; so was the writer of the book of Job; so was Edward II.; so was Shakepeare, or whoever wrote "Timon of Athens." If we've deteriorated physically, when did the deterioration begin? He paced up and down his consulting room smilling, and tapped his patient on the shoulder with a stethoscope. "We've improved; we're improving. Why, my dear sir, what was old age in the mediaeval centuries? A man—aking—was worn out, orippled with rheumatism, too heavy-bellied to mount his horse before he was forty five. As to the common people, they died like his horse before he was forty five. A his horse before he was forty he. As to the common people, they died like flies; they had no stamina, no power of resisting disease. Town life isn't unhealthy; the art of sanitation did not begin until the towns grew large. Did you ever see an old farmhouse? Where did they build them? Always in hol-lows, in muddy, air-ess bottoms, to be near water—you understand, near water-and they drained into that water and they were plague houses all of

"Did you ever have to do with a sick
"Did you ever have fellows! Why, farm laborer? Those fellows! Why, they fold their hands and die for a touch of liver. Their life doesn't hold touch of liver. Their life doesn't hold them because it contains no interest. Half their healthy hours are spent in mooning and brooding; they all suffer from dyspepsia, because of their abominable diet of cheese and tea. Why, I'd rather attend fifty London street rats with half a lung apiece, than one great hulking farm bailiff. Those are the fellows, after all, the London scars-mouches, for getting over an illness.

"Don't you see, my dear sir, your roblem is to breed disease-resisting problem is to breed disease-resisting men, and you won't do it from men who mope about fields and hedges. No! modern life is a question of towns. Purify them if you can; get rid of smoke and foul air if you can. But oreed a race fitted to inhabit them in

That, indeed, is the problem which is set before London — the apotheosis of modern life. For there is no ignoring the fact that mankind elects to live in crowds. If London can evolve a town type, London will be justified of its Barrie the Shy.

Let a pretty girl look steadfastly at J. M. Barrie for five minutes, and if she can catch his eye he will exhibit about the same symptoms of distress as a man who has swallowed a fish bone. Constant activity and contact with the world seem to be powerless to cure him of the shyness which is decure him of the shyness which is developed the moment he talks with a good-looking woman. Only the other day a young actress, who had been renearsing in one of his plays and directly under his eye pleased him so much that he asked her to luncheon. She couldn't go that day, and the refusal embarrassed him, but he plucked up courage and asked her again the next day. Another engagement interfered, but on the third trial the girl accepted and was pleased to think that she was and was pleased to think that she was to have an hour of delightful intellec-tual entertainment. Barrie ordered the luncheon, and as the dishes were brought on he looked up and looked into the girl's eyes. From that moment he was absolutely speechless. He did not utter one word during the meal and after it was over he was just able to gasp out, "Shall we return to the thea-tre?" and offer his arm. Then, as a sort of relief, he hunted up the stage manager and talked to him at the rate of 90 words a minute for half an hour.

The Gentle Carcase. When an animal is killed on an Eng-Ish railway the nearest station master is required to send to the head-quarters of the company a report of the accident. This is made out on a printed form, with blank spaces to be alled to by the station master. On one occasion by the station master. On one occasion a newly-installed station master found himself confronted with the necessity of making out his first report. Although it was a new experience, he described the cow and the circumstances accurately, and all went well down to the last tely, and all went well down to the last line, when he discovered that he had neglected to question the owner of the decased cow concerning one important point. It seemed safe, however, for him to rely upon his own judgment, and he did it. The line was headed, "Disposition of Carcase." Underneath he wrote, with all earnestness, "Kind and gentle."

Must Wear Red Ties.

The great majority of the employes of the Great Northern Railway and the London and Southwestern Railway are London and Southwestern Railway are compelled to wear red neckties whilst on duty, the object being that they might be used as danger signals in case of accidents. Red neckties do not suit all compexions, and there are not a few fastidious porters, shunters, and guards, who hold strong feelings that their employers should go so far as to select their neckwear. Another railway company introduced an order some little time ago, enforcing all station masters on their route to wear silk hats, and those officials who had charge of small stations on the line had to suffer much good-humored chaff at the outset.

Happiness must be founded on health. Where there is ill-health there will surely be unhappiness. The happiness of many a home has received its downfall at the table, spread with rich and dainty foods. The first symptoms of disease of the stomach are ignored as being disagreeable but not dangerous. Presently dyspepsia or some other form of disease fastens on the stomach. At any stage Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. But the cure is quicker if the "Discovery" is used in the earlier stages of disease. If you have any symptoms of diseased stomach use "Golden Medical Discovery" and be cured. Happiness must be founded on health

Clever Little Stories.

A householder to whom an Irish youth had applied for work asked him if he knew anything about horses. "And youth had applied for work asked him if he knew anything about horses. "And shure, your honor, was I not born in a stable?" came the reply. "Can you do carpenter's work?" "Could Noah build a ship, your honor?" "Well, can you make a Venetian blind?" "It's a treat, sor, to see me at the job." "How would you do it, then?" "Why, I'd just poke my finger in his eyes, sor."

In a London bookshop a woman wanted a copy of Browning's works. "I haven't got it, madam," replied the bookseller; "I make it a rule never to keep any books I can't understand, and I can't make head nor tail of Mr. Browning." Determined to buy a book, anyway, the customer asked, "Have you Praed, then?" "Yes, madam," quoth the bookseller, "Tve prayed, but that doesn't help me."

Romans and Railways.

Romans and Railways.

The ancient Romans made the standard gauge of England's present railways. The width of the wheel base of the most up-to-date dining car is what it is because it was originally that of the chariots which rolled along the Koman roads in Britain.

A recent speaker upon the subject at Newcastle has put the matter beyond theory. He said that, many years ago, he had known an old gentleman who, in his youth, had been associated with Stephenson. This old gentleman had told him that he had asked the great englined why he had adopted the still exnim that he had adopted the still ex-isting gauge, and Stephenson had ex-piained that he found it was the width between the ruts in the roads along the Roman wall, and that he thought that if a world power like Rome had found that gauge the most effective, he could not do better than adopt it also.

PSYCHICAL RESEARCH.

British and French Scientists Discussin Wonderful Cases of Automatic Writing-Remarkable Phenomenon. Automatic writing was the subject which Prof. Richet came all the way from Paris to discuss before the Society of Psychical Research, says The London Standard. Prof. Richet is the president of the society, but, as he was reading the paper, the chair was taken by Sir Oliver Lodge. The professor, accessing his audience in French, described in detail a remarkable phenomenon which came under his personal enon which came under his persona observation.

Mme. X., a friend of Prof. Richet, knows no Greek, yet on various occasions she has written, while in a trance, knows no Greek, yet on various occasions she has written, while in a trance, Greek sentences with a definite meaning Once she sent him by mail three pieces of Greek which he was finally able to trace to an exceedingly rare dictionary of French and Greek, of which Mme. X had no knowledge whatsoever. On another occasion, when he went to call upon her towards evening, when the rays of the setting sun were deepening the shadows in the room, she wrote a sentence in Greek which meant, "At sunrise and sunset the shadows leng'hen." She wrote in a current hand, but she made mistakes in placing the accents, and occasionally made such slips as could only be made by a person having no knowledge of the language. For example, she would write the Greek ister "3" by mistake for the letter "0," with an accent over it—a very natural inistake for a copyist, who is completely ignorant of the language he is writing, and is simply the state of the state of the language he is writing, and is simply the state of the same which one which as it language he is writing, and is simply copying by eye, but one which, as it renders a word quite unpronounceable, could not be made, even through carellessness, by anyone knowing the lan-

These, then, are the facts: Prof. Richet, in clearing the ground for discussion, took it as axiomatic that Mms. X acted throughout in good faith. Fe X acted throughout in good faith. Le could not bring proofs of this, but he could vouch for her good faith as le could for his own. The lady certainly did not know Greek. "You cannot conesi from all your friends and relatived your knowledge of a language like Greek, and, in any case, we have her word for it that she did not know the language. Moreover, she had never seen the book from which she quoted three passages." passages."

How could such a phenomenon be accounted for? It could not be an ef-fort of memory, for Mme. X had never to her kincwledge seen the book from which she quoted. Equally, it could hardly be unconscious memory of a book she had seen and forgotten, for that would be to explain a strange phenomenon. nomenon by another phenomenon equally strange and inexplicable. Prof. Richet suggested comparisons with mathematical and musical prodigies, but found them unconvining. A wonderful child can remember the whole derful child can remember the whote of a musical score which is contained in a large book, but then he is dealing with a language he knows thoroughly. So it is with the lightning calculator; he is thoroughly versed in figures. Here, he is thoroughly versed in figures. Here, on the contrary, is a lady who writes pages of Greek, more or less correctly, without any knowledge whatsoever of Greek. Prof. Richet then suggested spiritualistic explanations, but found them unsatisfactory. In the end he had to admit that there was no explanation. In the discussion which followed, Sir Oliver Lodge summed up the position as set before the audience in the president's address, but he could not quite accept without reserve the question of the genuineness of Mme. X. the president's address, but he could not quite accept without reserve the question of the genuineness of Mme. X. The society had perfect faith in Prof. Richet and Prof. Richet had perfect faith in Mme. X. The conclusion did not follow that the society must have perfect faith in Mme. X. Then the comparison of the infant prodizy could not be altogether rejected. There was the wonderful Spanish child at two years old, who had appeared befere the King of Spain and before Prof. Richet himself. The mother of this child once played over an intricate piece of music, and, on going afterwards into the next room, she heard some one repeating the performance. Returning, she saw to her consternation her infant child playing the music quite cerrectly. Obviously, the child could have no previous knowledge at all. Here, then, was a sort of parallel.

no previous knowledge at all. Here, then, was a sort of parallel.

Other speakers produced strange cases of automatic writing, but none were of quite such a definite and extraordinary nature as the case presented by Prof. Richet. Mrs. Verral, for example, told the society how her daughter and a friend of hers produced by table rapping a Greek story which the table erroneously attributed to Pausanias, but afterwards gave the correct chapter and verse in Heliodorus. The story was not quoted word for word, but the substance was correctly given. In this case, however, both the mediums were Greek, and probably had chapters of Heliodorus stored away in the subliminal consclousness. Then came Mr. Harris with a story told by Huxley 30 years ago, of a soldier wounded in a battle whe wrote in unknown languages from dictation while in a state of trance; and lastly Prof. Barrett produced an authentic story of a lady who was hypnotized by a clercyman. On one occasion the clergyman asked her to write down the contents of a letter which had just arrived by post and was unopened. She wrote most of the contents correctly.

In the discussion it was generally

She wrote most of the contents correctly.

In the discussion it was generally taken for granted that Mme. X had exhibited only the powers of a copyist, for, as Prof. Richet explained, she had made mistakes in spelling which could only be made by a person completely ignorant of the language. And so Mrs. Verral believed that Mme. X must have been under some sert of hypnotic control, but was influenced through her eye only and not through her intelligence. But there were other instances, overlooked in the discussion, where Mme. X had written sentences with a meaning applicable to the immediate circumstances; for example, when she wrote her sentence about the shadows. In such a case she must have been controlled through her intelligence. In fact, the discussion did not carry the matter any further than the president brought it in his address.

A lady writes Greek who does not know Greek and gustes sentences from A lady writes Greek who does not A lady writes greek who does not know Greek, and quotes sentences from a Greek book which she has never seen. How can it be explained? As the famous master of Balliol once said, "There are questions which can never be answered, but are still worth the asking," and this appears to be one of them.

WILLIAM VISITS CHRISTIAN.

Indulges in Earnest Conversation

From the First.

Copenhagen, Aug. 1.—The meeting between Emperor William of Germany and King Christian yesterday was of a quiet and informal character.

The forts and warships fired royal salutes on the arrival of the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, King Christian was attired in the uniform of a German Uhlan.

The Monarchs embraced and Emperor William conveyed to King Christian the greetings of Emperor Nicholas of Russia. The party immediately entered carriages and drove to Bern entered carriages and drove to Bernstoff Castle. Throughout the drive the Emperor was in earnest conversation with the King and took little notice of the decorations or the populace.

The Monarchs walked together in the palace gardens and last night there was a state dinner.

THE SPONGE FISHERS.

Process by Which Their Crop Is Pre-

As soon as the sponges are brought aboard they are thrown in heaps on deck near the scuppers, where the barefooted sailors tramp and work out the ooze: then, strung on lines, they are soused over the side and trail overboard some ten hours during the night. To break and separate from them shellfish and other parasites they are beaten with heavy sticks on deck or on the reef rocks off Tripoli, and after being well soaked in the sea again many are bleached by being immersed in a tub of water containing a certain solution of oxalic acid, from which they emerge a yellowish color, care having been taken to avoid burning them. Often great strings of sponges bleaching and drying in the sun cover large portions of the standing rigging of deposit boats when in port. When dry they are worked up in sand, then packed in boxes ready for shipment. A quarter to a third of the crop is sold direct from Tripoli, mainly to England and to France and Italy. The bulk of the crop, unbleached and unprepared, is taken at the close of the season to the islands from which the boats came, where long experience, manipulation and cheap labor prepare them for the European market.—Charles Wellington Furlong in Harper's Magazine.

KEEN SENSE OF SMELL.

Chamois Can Wind a Hunter Over Half a Mile Distant.

Judging from his failure to distinguish objects, such as a man's head or hand, as long as they are motionless I should say that the organs of vision of chamois are scarcely more acute than those of human beings. On the other hand, their sense of smell is quite extraordinary; hence the wind is by far the worst enemy of the hunter. The shifting eddies and currents blowing now this way, now that, now up hill, now down, multiply tenfold the chances in favor of the game. I have often asked friends of mine who have hunted in various countries as to the distance at which deer and other wild animals can scent a human being, and most of them seem to be agreed that they will wind you more than a mile off. I have certainly seen chamois over half a mile distant make off in alarm when they could not pos sibly have seen anything to disturb them. It is curious, too, how much more the hunter's odor seems to terrify them than the mere sight of him. In the latter case unless you are quite close they whistle and move off quietly, turning round every few hundred yards to look, while if they get your scent they will throw up their heads with an expression of utter disgust that is highly diverting and without hesitating a moment gallop away at top speed.

It would be interesting to know how often the average woman thinks that her heart is broken.

WHAT CUNNING IS.

T. P. O'Connor Diagnoses Mental Shortsightedness, and Gives Many Illustrative Instances Observed.

Cunning is a kind of mental shortsightedness which sees only but clearily what is immediately under the eye.
At school I remember noticing that the cunning of a boy was generally in inverse proportion to his intellectual power, while the cunning of an idiot is proverbial. I don't suppose, e. g., that the young men who so ingeniousily and successfuily took in the landlord of The Three Guns at Portsea the other day was distinguished at school, or will be distinguished in life. Having wired from Portsmouth to the landlord, "Will you kindly receive my son to-night at 8? Answer, Postoffice, Portsmouth" He followed up the telegram by taking up his abode in the inn for a week. At its close he robbed the till of $10, bo'ted to London, and despatched from Tictoria the following reassuring telegram to the landlord:
"Don't worry; will give you explanation." The explanation strived by nost reassuring telegram to the landlord:

"Don't worry; will give you explanation." The explanation arrived by post the next morning:
"South Shore Hetel, Blackpool, April 5, 1905.—Dear Sir: I am sorry as to what my son David has done to you.
I am sure he was not in his own mind.
He came straight to London, and when told I had gone to Blackpool he came here, confessed all to me. I will, of course, pay you back and will you here, confessed all to me. I will, of course, pay you back and will you kindly send me the hotel bill, and tell me the amount he took. He is now in bed, through the excitement that you would tell the police. For God's sake, don't communicate with the police, for it would break my heart if I saw my fayorite son in the hands of a policeman. He himself is anxious about you, Mrs. Jenkins, and Dory. Do not delay the account, as I am going about you, Mrs. Jenkins, and Day, Do not delay the account, as I am going away in a day or two, and oblige yours truly, E. Steinman."

Philip Thicknesse tells the following amusing story of a little negro boy who, whenever he was incorrigibly idle, was sent by his master with a note to the overseer ordering him to chastise the bearer. "Wot for, massa, him beat me when I takes him blu o' paper?" asked the boy at last of his master.
"Because, Pete, bit of paper tells him to beat you." "Wot for, massa, bit o' paper tells him to beat me?" "Because, Pete, you are idle." "But massa always idle." "Massa is never idle. He is always working with his head which is much harder than working with the hands."

The little nigger looked thoughtful, but said nothing. When next the boy was sent with a note he returned quite cheerful, instead of in tears. "Was there no answer to my note, Pete?" asked the master. "No, massa." "Didn't the overseer say or do anything?" "No, massa. Him didn't get bit o' pa-per. Me threw it away. Dis time Pete worked wid his head." It was, I think. Rowland Hill who, in his boyhood, thus rebuked an austere and canting father. His father, while severely chastening him for an act of disobedience, quoted the text, "He who spareth the rod spoileth the child," and added the punishment, "You had a without your disparent day." shall go without your dinner to day."

For the family dinner that day there was a cold veal ple, which young Row-land Hill carefully eviscerated, replacing its savory and substantial contents with a few handfuls of grass, then recovering the whole skilfully with the unbroken crust. The indignation of the father may be imagined when, on cutting into the pie, he found only grass, and this text, written on a slip of paper in a straggling child's hand, "All flesh is grass."

Years ago, in Cork, a dear old parish priest took me over his school, of which he was justly proud. He was especial-ly proud of his Latin class, which he examined in my presence. Among other questions he asked this: "When is dies, a day, feminine in Latin?" Only the smallest boy in the class made an attempt at an answer. "On the twenty fifth of March, father." "Twenty-fifth of March, my boy? The twenty-fifth of March?" "Yes, father; shure isn't that Lady day?" replied the lad, with such a broad grin as showed he was conscious of his admirable pun.

Major Miles Maiony of Ballyduff was amazed one morning to see from his befroom window, a little lad driving a cow back and forward again and again over a ditch and through a fence on his land. Hurriedly complet fence on his land. Hurriedly completing his toilet, he rushed out to question the little trespasser. "What are ye after with that cow? Is it to kill the beast ye want." "Kill her! Shure, it's to keep her alive I want." "Keep her alive?" "Shure, it's taiching her to get her own living I am. There isn't a ditch or fince in the barony that'll hould her in afther I've done wid her." Then the major understood. The cow, in fact, was being taught te The cow, in fact, was being taught to trespass in search of her own living.—

Plague of Flies In London.
Millions of files have invaded the Cardiff docks district, and have so infested the principal thoroughfares that pedestrian traffic has been diverted into other streets. Yesterday afternoon, says The London Chronicle of a recent date, the police and dock gatemen at the pler head were attacked by a tremendous host, and ran for protection behind the closed doors of the watchhouses. The shopkeepers complain bitterly of the invasion, and clerks in the dock warehouses are seriously interrupted in their work. From their appearance, the files belong to a foreign species. Unlike the British fly, they have long bodies, crawl very slowly, and bite badly. They first made their appearance on Sunday. The sanitary authorities discredit the report that the files were imported by

The Difference Between Expert and Unskilful Tea Blending THE qualities of different teas prove that there is a distinct difference between expert Red Rose blending methods and the usual methods. Several kinds of teas may be blended, but if unskilfully selected they will not combine to make a perfect blend; they will retain their original individual characteristics with their roughness and harshness emphasized.

Such tea is bitter, poorly flavored in the cup (and there is much of it in bulk and package form on the market). It emphasizes the result of inexperience, lack of knowledge of combining qualities of different teas, imperfect blending, poor selection, and the hundred and one other causes of poor tea.

But my expert Red Rose blenders select the right grades of strong, rich Indian teas and delicate fragrant Ceylon teas, and produce Red Rose Tea with entirely new characteristics-a tea with that "rich fruity flavor -a tea so exquisitely different and better than any brand of Ceylon alone, that no one who once tries it ever goes back to Ceylon again,

Influence of Red Hair.

"There never has been an important revolutionary movement without a red haired person intimately concerned, if not the leader," says a writer. "Nearly all the great reformers or founders of religions had red hair. History mentions that Mohammed was a red haired man. King David was ruddy. Louis XIV. was a sandy haired man, with many of the characteristic peculiarities of the type. Cleopatra is called 'the red haired Greek.' Mary, queen of Scots, had red hair, and Prince Charles resembled her in coloring. Lucrezia Borgia looks in her portraits somewhat auburn. Queen Elizabeth was of decidedly red coloring, which will suit both her admirers and her detractors."

Had One Too Many Himself. "Serves him right!" murmured Mrs. Henpeck, looking up from the paper in which she had been reading of the arrest of a bigamist. "Serves who right?" asked Henpeck.

"Oh, a man who took one wife too "My! Maybe they'll be after me next."

A person who has a light opinion of himself is easily put out.

sir Airred Harmsworth, the London newspaper man, rather runs to sensationalism at times and recently put himself in a ludicrous position through indulging in a saffron tinted effort. A motor car ran over and killed a little motor car ran over and killed a little boy in Hertfordshire. The occupants of the vehicle did not stop to see what had resulted from their recklessness. The police failed to discover the offenders at once, and Sir Alfred in his Daily Mail took the case up in sensational fashion, offering $500 reward for identification of the motorists. In a few days the police learned that the owner of the car was Hildebrande Tarmsworth, Sir Alfred's brother. All England is now enjoying a laugh at the editor's expense. editor's expense.

A Lord Mayor's Coach

The corporation of London has just appropriated $1,425 for repairs to the Lord Mayor's stage coach, says The London Globe. This coach involves an annual outlay of from $400 to $1,500 an annual outlay of from $400 to $1,500 for repairs. Last year the city spent $500 upon it, and when it was returned the coachbuilders sent this note with it: "We dare not guarantee this coach on the journey from Mansion House to the law courts. At any moment the fore part may part from the hind part." The coach has been in use since 1751, and therefore, from an English point of view, is not at all old. But the aldermen are beginning to talk about haveing a new one built.

Just as surely as Mrs. Seydel was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.—

If you are sick, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

Sayings From Disraeli.

The English papers print some good sayings from Distaeli: "One thing is clear, that a man may speak very well in the House of Commons and fail very completely in the House of Lords. There are two distinct styles requisite. In the lower House 'Don Juan' may perhaps be our model; in the upper House, Paradise Lost!'" "To be harassed about money is one of the most dis-agreeable incidents of life. It ruffles agreeable incidents of life. It rumes the temper, lowers the spirits, disturbs the rest and finally breaks up the health." "My idea of an agreeable person is a person who agrees with me." "Sympathy is the solace of the poor, but for the rich there is compensation." "There is a great deal of vice which really is sheer inadvertence."

Plants That Imitate.

Many animals are enabled to closely imitate leaves or shrubs to escape detection by enemies, but plants in turn are able to resembele stones for the same end. There are several varieties in South Africa that so closely resem ble stones among which they grow that attempts are frequently made to pick them up under the impression that they are rocks. Most of these plants flower in season, having bright colored blooms, but once the flowering period is past they resume their imita-tion of rocks, and at a distance a patch of these plants would be mistaken for a barren space.

CANADIAN BORN.

Millionaire Contractors Who Tossed Timber in Lanark's Limits.

Despatches recently reported the capture of a $3,000,000 contract from capture of a $3,900,000 contract from the C. P. R., and a $7,000 000 one from the Grand Trunk Pacific, by the Foley Brothers of St. Paul. These brothers are natives of Lanark, having been born are natives of Lanark, having been born in Darling, says The Carleton Place Canadian. There were four—Timothy, Michael, John and Richard. The last is dead. These brothers began life in the humblest manner in the limits of Mr. Mair of Lanark. They were as poor as crows, except in the matter of intellect and energy. They were born with an aptitude to do things on a big scale, James L. Murphy knew them when they were in the chrysalis of the crow state—45 years ago. In a of the crow state-45 years ago. of the crow state—45 years ago. In a moment of blooming ambition he accepted a position in the camp where they were engaged. He saw Tim and Mike wielding the canthook and the hand-spike. Tim especially was powerful in the art of logrolling; indeed, each tossed timber with skill and alacrity. Mr. Murphy was not enamored of that sort of life, having something safer at home, and left ing something safer at home, and left it in a few days; but his memory repaints the scenes with colors that enrich their tints with age. The brothers hitched their charlot to a star, which dropped in St. Paul, where they took deep root and began to spread with a repuldity almost sensetional with a rapidity almost sensational. Each is a millionaire and each lives in a mansion whose beauty and equipment are beyond the dreams of an Oriental potentate. Mrs. Murphy, when in Superior some time ago called on her husband's youthful friends, accom panied by a sister, who also knew them in those distant days. Timothy Foley married Miss Guthrie of Darling, and she, with her husband, gave the Cana-dians a royal greeting. T. Foley lives in a home next that of James J. Hill, the noted railway magnate. The bro-ther John is at present visiting in Eu-

Newspapers In Canada. Is it true that some parts of Canada are over-served in the matter of news papers? For instance, have British Columbia, with its population of 200,000, and Manitoba, with its population of 550,000, got too many newspapers? In the former there is a newspaper for every 2,898 people, and in the latter one for every 3,338 people.

When we consider the number of children and illiterate persons who never read newspapers, and the number of poor people who never buy them, it is apparent that the average newspaper has but a small field in which to cir culate.

Figures for Ontario are almost as low as for Manitoba, being one paper for every 3,729 persons. The Territories have one paper for every 4,545 inhabitants; Nova Scotia one for every 5,679; tants; Nova Scotta one for every 5,575; Prince Edward Island one for every 6,476 persons; New Brunswick one for every 6,320; and Quebec one for every 12.938.-Printer and Publisher.

Uncovered 48 Skeletons

While John Fallis, a farmer, living close to the United States boundary, ten miles south of Crystal City, Man, was digging a cellar, he happened upon a gruesome find. The spade of one of his workmen unearthed a human skull. At first it was thought to be from the lonely grave of an Indian, but, upon recommending the excava-tion, other skulls were met. By even-ing forty-eight had been taken from the ground. Only two complete skele-the ground. Only two complete sacie-tons were discovered.

Considerably excited by his mysteri-ous discovery, Mr. Fallis loaded the relies into a wagon and took them to Crystal City, where they elicited much curiosity. Doctors pronounced the bones to be those of white men in a good state of preservation. The consensus of opinion is that the spot had been the scene of some bat tle with the Indians, and that the vic tims of the conflict were thrown into a common pit in the haste of flight, London, Aug. 1.—Considerable progress is being made with the new Anglodapanese treaty of alliance, which the Foreign Office hopes will be concluded at an early date. Some of the cluded at an early date. Some of the details have not yet been fully settled, but it can be definitely stated that the terms will be decidedly more comprehensive than those governing the present alliance. The treaty will be promulgated as soon as completed, there being no desire on the part of the British Government to make its publication dependent on the conclusion of peace. of peace.

Britain Expects Japan to Ask.

As to the suggestions that Great Britain should advise Japan to be len-ient, the Associated Press learns that the British Government's presumption is that its advice will be asked by Japan in the course of the peace nego-tiations, and that it will then gladly offer what counsel may seem to it best calculated to assure a permanent Will Press For Compensation.

***************** THAT ESTIMATE.

As there seems considerable doubt on what the electric railway bongs really costs the city, I have taken the trouble to figure the same out for the 30 years, giving the railway credit for repayment of $2,000 each year after the first live for 25 years, and you will find that our city has and you will find that our city has paid just $79,704 into the coffers of the railroad company. If am not saying of the railway is worth more or fess than that to the city, but simply trying to settle the dispute simply trying to settle the dispute between your writers as to cost. You may truly say the city will not pay that sum directly for interest as they pay a portion of the prin-cipal each year, but I say the bonus granted was worth that sum to the ity at the end of 30 years.
Yours,
S. BARFOOT.

Chatham, July 31, 1905.

THAT RAILWAY BONUS.

Editor Planet: When Sir Richard Cartwright was good Tory the Grits pronounced m a "mixer and muddler of figures." The same parties helped make him the Grit Finance Minister. On this electric railway bonus i eems to me there is considerable mixing and muddling. Dr. Thornton says we never get back a cent of the principal of the bonus; the other fellow says we zet back all but thirty odd thousand of interest, and claim bankers as their authorities.
To my way of thinking they have both commenced at the wrong end of the question to be able to arrive at a clean and easy explanation.
I think that to understand the sub-ject properly we should first prove the exact amount which the railway ject properly we should first prove the exact amount which the railway company receive through the bonus. It is admitted that the city hands to the railway company $50,000 in cash now. The city borrows this at four per cent. interest per annum, which means a straight interest of $2,000 per year. The railway company are not required to pay anything back for five years. This being so it must be plain to everyone that in those five years they are made a present of an equivalent to five times $2,000, or a total of $10,000, a grand total of $60,000, which they have on hand in cash or equivalent at the end of five years, without having paid a cent. They then at the end of the sixth year pay back their first instalment of $2,000, which is the interest on the original $50,000 is the interest on the original $50,000 at four per cent., but they do not pay a cent on the $10,000 acnot pay a cent on the $10,000 ac-cumulated interest of the first five which is equal to money made. If the $10,000 are included in the in-terest payments then the railway company is only paying 3: 1-3 per cent. on the $60,000 for the succeedcent. on the $60,000 for the succeeding 25 years. At the end of the whole 30 years the railway company is in the following position—they will have the $60,000 they commenced with 25 years before, they will have paid out 3 1-3 per cent. interest per year on that amount. If they cared to loan the $2,000 interest a year they received the first five years at four per cent. they would have received $80 per year on that $2,000, and at the end of the five years would have $409 interest accumulated, so at the end of 30 years their ed, so at the end of 30 years their grand total bonus would be $60,400. To make this so plain that a ten-year-old boy should understand it I will make the case personal—I borrow $100 at four per cent interest, that is $4 per year; my friend says I don't want you to pay me anything for five years, this saves me thing for five years, this saves me that $4 a year. At the end of the five years I have saved, in other words, made, $20 of interest. Then my friend says pay me $4 a year for 55 years and we will call your $100 debt paid. All I have to do is to lend that $100 to some one else at four per cent. and when he pays me the $4 each year I hand it over to the man I borrowed it from. Then at the end of the 25 years how do we stand? My friend tells me my debt is paid, but I have the original $100 borrowed from him out at interest, yet I have the $20 out at interest, yet I have the $20 interest he told me to keep during the first five years, and if I put it out at interest at four per cent during the last 25 years I would receive ing the last 25 years I would receive from it 80 cents per year, or $20 during the 25 years; so I would have at the end of the whole 30 years the original $100 I borrowed and $40 accumulated interest. So at the end of the 30 years I, who commenced with nothing but the $100 I owed, had $140, and the friend who lent me the $100 only had the $100 $100 of 25 years interest.

These are, I consider, a practical plain statement of the case as effects the city loah, which no juggling of figures can controvert. It is to be hoped the city will receive its equivalent in increased trade from a thoroughly efficient electric railway.
