Remarks on casual Revenue Accounts.

Some of these drafts on the public Treasury refer to no law or general regulation.—The one we have selected shews Sir P. Maitland drawing on Mr. Receiver-General Dunn for such travelling charges as he thought fit, in the same manner as if Mr. Dunn had been his agent or land steward; His Excellency's Secretary gives a receipt accordingly. There is only this difference—the Lords of the Treasury in England might, if they thought fit, disallow the bill, and cause the officer to refund. The people of Upper Canada who ought to exercise a control have not hitherto interfered.

Among other payments from the casual Revenue, we notice the following:—

In April 14, 1826, Grant Powell, Esq. received payment for fifty-nine days, stated as having been expended in enquiring into abuses in matters of Timber on Crown Lands, at the rate of FOURTEEN Dollars for each day. (Fund K.)

On the 18th of October in the same year, forty-six days on the same enquiry of C. A. Hagerman, Esq. paid at the rate of Fourteen Dollars per day. (Fund K.)

These payments per day are seven-fold higher than those of the Members of the House of Assembly.

The account or Fund D. was ordered to be kept separate, by a letter from the Lords of the Treasury, dated 31st of August, 1827; it shews the receipts and payments of funds derived from the Canada Company.

Seven years compensation to S. Ridout, (Registrar, H. D.) because he had been deprived of the office of collecting fees and distributing them to the officers of the Land Granting Department, allowed in lieu thereof 1,555*l*.

£100 and 300*l*. paid to the Hon. P. Robinson, to enable him to erect a Mill for Emigrants in the New Castle District. £600 for the completion of the Government Mill at Peterborough, paid to Mr. Alexander McDonell, 1827.

£3,000 paid into the Military Chest in Montreal, 9th Jan. 1828, for advances made in England for the service of Upper Canada. It does not appear what the services were.

The like remark applies to other £1,438 paid into the Military Chest on the 4th of Feb. following.

To Mr. Dunn £308, to enable him to remit to England, out of the Colonial Revenue, the pension of the Widow Campbell for 1827, per order of Mr. Secretary Huskisson.

To Z. Mudge for repairs of the Government House, audited in Council 28th February, 1829—£615.

With reference to the public printing, it appears, that not only did the Executive Government pay Mr. Robert Stanton a very extravagant price for the work he did, but also ordered him to receive 600*l*. out of the Casual Revenue on the 2d of February, 1826—to enable him to complete a large printing establishment to compete with other printers in Toronto, he re-paying the same by annual instalments in the course of seven years, without interest. He was also paid 120*l.* on the 1st of November, 1828, out of the public revenue under the pretext that it was to make up a deficiency of compensation for 1827 and 1828. Mr. James McFarlane's name appears in the accounts as being in the receipt of 50*l.* a-year as a retainer, under the pretext that it was paid him annually for publishing proclamations, &c.; this doctur has either been since transferred to some fund unknown to this Committee or discontinued of late years.

Grant from the proceeds of sales of the public lands to the Canada Company, for 1828, '29, '30, '31, '32, '33 and '34—seven years, at £1,111 a year, £7,777. This institution is endowed with 225,000 acres of valuable public lands.

The Committee reported an address enquiring into the expenditure of King's College, that establishment not being as yet in operation, no information has been given by the Lieutenant Governor, your Committee have therefore referred to the returns in the Journal of 1831-2, p. 181 of the Appendix, where it is shewn that there is a Registrar with 150*l.*, a Bursar with 150*l.*, a Clerk with 100*l.*, & a messenger with 36*l.*; who these officers are is not there stated, nor are their several duties well ascertained. There appears to have been ample time afforded for sending to the House the accounts of the receipts and expenditure, had the Government been disposed to do so during the present Session.

Address to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, for information in relation to King's College.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K.C.B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General commanding

His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Commons of Upper Canada in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly request that Your Excellency would be graciously pleased to direct that there be laid before this House, statements entering into a detail of particulars, and shewing—

1st. The whole expense which has attended the building of Upper Canada College, with the houses, outhouses and gardens thereto belonging, and all the improvements and alterations made in the said premises from the commencement up to this time; with the authority under which such buildings were erected, and such alterations and improvements made; and from what funds the payments have been severally taken.

2d. The expenditure which has been made on the grounds purchased for King's College, from the time the grounds were purchased, with all the salaries, incomes, allowances, fees, perquisites and emoluments of every description, paid or ordered to be paid to any persons as officers, servants or workmen, or in any other way connected with the institution up to this date, shewing what each person has received, and describing the services he has rendered therefor, and the sums alleged to be due to any persons as officers of the said institution.

3d. A copy of any communication from His Majesty's Government, by authority of which £712 16 2 were paid Archdeacon Strachan out of the College funds, as expenses of a journey to England performed by him.

4th. The receipts, arising from whatever source, of the Upper Canada College since the 30th June, 1831; the debts due the College; the income arising from fees of tuition; and the rates of tuition; also the expenditure of the College since the said 30th June 1831, detailing the fixed salaries and the contingencies, and mentioning to whom they were severally paid, and at what times and for what services, and stating all debts or obligations against the institution, and the whole income, wages, emoluments and allowances paid to its officers and servants generally.

5th. Full and detailed statements of particulars of the receipts and payments, of which a general abstract only is given in the documents respecting King's College, Upper Canada College, and the General Board of Education, which accompanied Your Excellency's message to this House of the 12th January 1832, and pointing out what the services are for which certain officers not named had received £200 up to that period, and claimed £400 more as arrearages from funds of King's College.

6th. A statement going into particulars and shewing what monies have been paid into the treasury of King's College since the 30th June 1831, and mentioning the reasons, if any, why the funds of King's and Upper Canada College might not be paid to and by the Receiver General, and the burthen of a plurality of officers and offices removed.

7th. A statement of the number of scholars taught at Upper Canada College from its commencement till the present time, and mentioning the number on the 5th of January, April, July and October of each year; with the number of scholars sent from the country and the number taught belonging to this city.

8th. An account of the course of education in Upper Canada College, the extent of the vacations, the books used by the different classes, with an account of their progress respectively, and the names and number of all children taught without being liable to the payment of fees; as also whether the scholars or any part of them are required to conform to, or be instructed in the peculiar creeds or religious exercises of any Christian denomination.

His Excellency's Answer :

GENTLEMEN :

I will direct the information required in this address to be procured for the House of Assembly.

District Funds.

It appears from the Returns to England in the Blue Book, that the amount of District Assessments, (direct taxation) in 1833 was £18,441; and in 1834 £18,671; on these sums 4 per cent. or about £740 a year is paid to twelve District Treasurers, appointed during the pleasure of the Magistrates, who are appointed during the pleasure of the Lieutenant Governor.

There are also large additional sums received from Wild Lands Assessments in cases where the Lands have been sold.

All these monies are expended under the control of the District Magistrates, to Coroners, Jailors, Surveyors of Roads, Constables, Treasurers, Deputy Sheriffs and their principals, Clerks of the Peace, for Fees, Contingencies, Printing, Bridges, Roads, Wolf Scalps, Medical Men, Members of Assembly, their wages, &c. In most cases, the patronage is entirely under the control of the Justices.

The first item in the Blue Book for 1833, is a table of fees authorised by orders of the Lieutenant Governor.

They consist of fifteen pence for each search in the office of the Secretary and Registrar by individuals for private information, which that officer states he never demands; fifteen pence to the Surveyor General from "persons not privileged" for every search, and 2s. 6d. upon each location ticket issued to them; also 5s. 6d. upon each petition for land "by persons not privileged."

Follows, a table of fees to the law officers of the Crown, of which a guinea for the draft of any instrument under the Privy Seal, and the like sum for any opinion in writing given on any reference to them from Government. These charges do not appear to be authorised by any law of the Colony.

They continued without alteration in 1834.

It appears from the above authority that these are the only fees chargeable by any Government office, other than those authorised by any Provincial Statute.

In reply to an Address to His Excellency, reported to the House by this Committee, a very imperfect account of the funds and property of this institution has been obtained. The statements made seem to indicate the necessity of a change in the system under which that institution has hitherto been managed. Unless its managers shall be made elective by proper bodies of the inhabitants of the city and county, there is reason to fear that it will not prove of that utility to the public, which its means otherwise indicate. His Lordship at the same time directs me to inform you that he is not aware to what letters and petitions you refer, as having been transmitted by you to this office and not acknowledged: He is unable to find any communications which have not received all due attention. I am further to observe that although Lord Goderich is ready to hear any observations you may have to offer upon the affairs of Upper Canada, as an individual interested in the welfare of that Province, and as a Member of the Assembly, he cannot recognize you as being deputed to act for any other persons, nor can he enter into any discussion with you upon the measures which His Majesty's Government may think it right to pursue. The views and intentions of His Majesty's Government with respect to the affairs of the Province, can only be made known to the people of Upper Canada through the medium of the Governor or of the Legislature; it is to one or other of these authorities that any complaints which individuals may have occasion to make should properly be addressed; and if the course pursued by the Executive Government should be such as to give just ground for dissatisfaction, the Inhabitants have, by their Representatives, the means of bringing their grievances under the immediate attention of His Majesty.

SIR,

I have had the honor of receiving, and laying before Viscount Goderich your letter of the 26th, and I am directed by his Lordship to observe that you do not appear to have quite correctly understood my letter of the 23d.

That letter does not as you seemed to have supposed "shut the door of the Colonial Office, on all that vast mass of facts which you have offered to submit as deputed in behalf of the unrepresented land owners, and inhabitants of Upper Canada." On the contrary Lord Goderich has expressly stated his perfect readiness to have any facts or observations which you may think it necessary to bring under his consideration, he only declines, as you have no authority from any recognized body, to enter into any official discussion with you upon the public affairs of the Colony, or to admit that you are the organ of those whom you term the unrepresented land owners and inhabitants of Upper Canada.

Lord Goderich cannot form his judgment as to the wishes and opinions of the people of Upper Canada from the unauthorised statements of individuals in opposition to those of the Assembly in which he is convinced that all classes of the inhabitants are fairly represented.

With reference to the petition of Mr. Morrison to which you refer, I am directed to observe that your letter upon that subject was duly attended to, (altho' according to the rules of the office it ought to have been sent thro' the Governor.) A despatch was written to Sir John Colborne on the 8th September 1831, in which he was directed to allow that gentleman the land he had formerly been promised.

Mr. Balfour has laid before Lord Goderich your letter of yesterday, in consequence of which I am directed to say that his Lordship will be ready to receive you with the gentlemen you mention, on Monday at two o'clock.

No. 72.

Downing-Street, 8th September, 1832.

SIR,

I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of the 27th August and 5th September. In answer to these communications I have to inform you, that the other addresses as well as that from the Niagara District have, in the usual manner, been laid before His Majesty, and you are at liberty to state this fact to the persons by whom they have been signed without receiving a separate answer to each.

With respect to the War Losses and the state of the representation although, of course, he can enter into no discussion with any private individual on such subjects, Lord Goderich is willing to receive and to pay such attention as they may appear to require to any further written statements you may think fit to submit to him, if you have any thing to offer which can only be verbally communicated, His Lordship will not refuse on his return to town to afford you such opportunities of addressing him as his other avocations will allow.

Mr. Thomas Appleton's petition having been received unaccompanied by any acknowledgment from the Lieutenant Governor, it was sent to Sir John Colborne by the July mail, with directions to return it to Mr. Appleton with a copy of Lord Goderich's circular letter of 2d May, 1831. You did not even allude to Mr. Appleton's petition in your letter of the 13th of June, nor for some weeks subsequently, and Lord Goderich, therefore, presumed that it had been forwarded by the individual himself direct from Upper Canada.

On the subject of the papers which you request to have returned, Lord Goderich directs me to observe, that it is the practice of this office to retain for the purpose of reference all papers which are enclosed in letters addressed to the Secretary of State, and that a departure from this rule might lead to the greatest inconvenience. As, however, you appear to have been ignorant of this being the case, and in consideration of the nature of some of the papers you are anxious to recover, Lord Goderich has directed them to be returned, but he thinks it necessary that you should be distinctly warned that such an indulgence will not again be extended to you, and that all papers you may, in future, transmit to him, will be deposited in this office as public documents.

With respect to the mode of transmitting petitions to this country, Lord Goderich is not aware in what manner he can render more explicit the information you have already received. You have been told that the letters enclosed in mine of the 13th ult. were sent by a mistake of the clerk by whom that letter was put up, and it has been pointed out to you that my letter of the 13th August distinctly refers to one enclosure only.

Lord Goderich does not feel himself at liberty to make any application to his Grace the Postmaster-General on the subject of the petition which has been sent to you. The inhabitants of Upper Canada have a secure and easy mode of transmitting their complaints to the Throne, by the regular official channels, and permission could not, without much risque of abuse, be granted to individuals acting in no public capacity to receive packets free of postage.

From a Memoir addressed to the Secretary of State; received at the Colonial Office on the 25th of July, 1832, and enregistered there, as "2888, Upper Canada."

The Legislative Council.

The organization of the Legislative Council (the effects of which I am also desirous fully to detail in a separate paper,) is such as to deprive that Honorable Body of even the appearance of independence in its proceedings. Its chief purpose, at present, appears to be the introduction of unpopular measures into the Colonial Legislature, and the shielding, in as great degree as possibly may be, the several Colonial Governors, from that unpopularity, blame and reproach, which would be their portion if it fell to their lot, (as it annually does to the lot of the Councils Legislative of their nomination and choice) to negative and put down measures originating in the Assembly, of a character greatly desired by the whole body of the people.

Hitherto, the Houses of Assembly have scarcely excited even a momentary attention in this Country when they forwarded complaints; for as it appears to me, by observation, there is so much domestic business of a very important character to be transacted, that it is found impossible for His Majesty's Ministers to spare the time necessary to a full understanding of the state of society in Upper Canada. The Legislative Council, therefore, has been enabled to render what I would call useful Legislation upon measures of great and general interest (during the last 12 years at least, as may be seen by a reference to the Journals,) abortive.

The Government has annually supplied itself with the revenues of the Province, utterly disregarding every resolution of the Assembly in the 10th Parliament, to correct the evil. Information even as to the objects to which their (the people's) money is applied, is annually refused in respect to a great part of the funds of the Colony, by the Colonial Governors, to unanimous addresses of successive Assemblies (See Journals of 1829, 1830, and 1831) the Royal Instructions being the plea of such refusals.

The Legislative Council.

A change in the Legislative Council, its system, is asked for only from a conviction generally entertained that, as very little harmony is found to prevail between the present imperfect representative system and the Council, (as may be seen by the Legislative Council's Journals of last session, 1832, also 1830, 1829, 1828, 1827, &c.) a true representation would but widen the breach unless indeed the Council would yield to the clearly expressed sense of the country in a greater degree than it now does—and I admit that before any change is made in the Constitution, the trial ought to be made and the sense of the whole Province ascertained in the most unequivocal manner.

C.

The Bank Influence.

[FROM the appendix to a memoir received at the Colonial Office, July 25th, 1832, and enregistered No. "2888, Upper Canada.]

"The Government and its officers" have the Bank under their control and direct its vast powers at their pleasure. It is not necessary for me to assume it as a fact that they use these powers (one of which is to loan millions yearly of paper for which they are not individually responsible to the Bill holder) for the purpose of rewarding political partizans, the history of all political parties in such a government as that of Upper Canada, will enable the reader to draw a proper inference. The Bank has agents in the several Districts who are believed to be in the receipt of large incomes drawn from the agencies.—They are usually found among the most active partizans of those in authority. In the year 1830, the Assembly appointed a committee on the currency, with powers to enquire into the management of the Bank, which had solicited an extension of its stock, I was Chairman of that Committee & reported certain resolutions for information desired from the Bank. The House by an unanimous vote sustained the resolutions, and the Bank refused the information* contrary to the terms of its charter, for which see pages 263 and 322 of the revised statutes. The dissolution of that Parliament together with my expulsion from the succeeding one, enabled the Bank to obtain its charter without disclosing the general condition of its affairs to the body which granted it a large additional share of the powers of the government. The report of the majority of the committee appointed by the House of Representatives of the United States to examine into the proceedings of the Directors of the United States Bank before renewing its charter, and made this year to Congress by Mr. Clayton, shews that members of Congress and editors of public journals had been tampered with, and the press subsidized to a very great extent, and that the whole Board of Directors had been parties to this undue influence exercised. If these things are in a government like the United States, where there is a great responsibility to public opinion acknowledged by public men, what may not be presumed in a secret institution like the Upper Canada Bank in the hands of the politicians? If a capitalist's monied interest can succeed in influencing representation and the press, that representation will become more and more its instrument and a bandage over the eyes of the public, "the powerful, and, in the hands of a bad administration, the irresistible and corrupting influence (observes Mr. McDuffie, the chairman of the committee of ways and means, in his report to the House of Representatives of the United States, 1830) which a Government Bank would exercise over the elections of the country, constitutes an objection more imposing than all others united. No matter by what means an administration might get into power, with such a tremendous engine in their hands, it would be almost impossible to displace them without some miraculous dispensation of providence."

Education.

The establishing places of learning for the children of persons holding situations under the local government, and a few other wealthy or influential individuals, at great public cost, but placed beyond the controul of public opinion, and from which the sons of the yeomanry derive no benefit or advantage, while the exceedingly numerous and very reasonable petitions of that yeomanry for public support to the all important cause of general education throughout the colony are steadily resisted by persons in authority, in and out of the Assembly, and even declared to be unnecessary in the present state of the public finance,* has the effect of preventing that steady increase of capable men fit for jurors, for township and county officers, and for the halls of Legislation, whose feelings and interests would be the most closely united and identified with the welfare, the happiness, the general prosperity of their native country, and whose minds would (under a better order of things) become fitted for the correct transaction of the public business of the colony by previous observation, study, and contemplation. [The existing system raises up and multiplies greatly in the colony the friends and supporters of arbitrary and exclusive principles and institutions.] I am desirous of making general education the subject of a separate communication—[See also the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Assembly on Education, Journal Assembly, 1829—Appendix].

England and Canada, and in opposition to the continual remonstrances of the inhabitants, sending forth the priesthood of three separate and distinct churches, salaried by the state, to preach and preach the most opposite and conflicting religious doctrines at the public expense. These preachers are taught to meddle in the political quarrels of factions and parties by their leaders being accommodated with seats in the political councils of the state; a bench of spiritual Peers of conflicting creeds; Bishops and Archdeacons, legislating for British North America, in the 19th century! It is generally believed that the Orange Lodges and the disputes engendered between the Irish emigrants of different persuasions would never have been revived in the colony but for the policy of the government to keep in pay a political priesthood of the most discordant materials, the clergy of the minority too—in order to regulate public opinion.

Difficulties in Lower Canada relative to Government patronage, influencing the actions of the House of Assembly.

Lower Canada did not, like the Upper Province, adopt the English law as a rule of decision in all cases of controversy concerning the people's civil rights; accordingly we find its Legislature attempting to remedy the evil so far as relates to the purity of Elections, by introducing and passing Bills, which, it would appear, this Government disapproved of, (though the Law of England) is applied to Lower Canada, for the late Administration had either advised the King to withhold the Royal Sanction, or else they had declined to advise his giving his assent. In the Session of 1831, Mr. Neilson introduced in the Assembly the two following resolutions, which were adopted without material variation by the House:—

First "That until such time as the Royal Assent shall be given to a Bill conformable to the resolution of this House of the 17th March, 1825, for vacating the seats of Members accepting offices, and similar to the bills passed by this House in the years 1825, 1827, 1828 and 1830, the second and fourth of which were reserved for the signification of His Majesty's pleasure, the seat of any Member of this House who shall accept of any office or place of profit under the Crown in this province, or become accountable for any public money raised within this Province, shall, by this acceptance, be deemed by this House to be vacant, and a new writ shall be issued for a new election, as if such person so accepting was naturally dead; nevertheless such person shall be capable of being again re-elected, and of sitting and voting in this House, as if his seat had not been vacated as aforesaid."

Second, "That any Member of this House, sitting and voting therein after such acceptance, without such re-election, be expelled the House."

(FROM THE SAME MEMOIR.)

2,888, Upper Canada, 1832.

Some few evidences of colonial misrule and of the neglect which His Majesty's late Government and the Lieutenant Governors appointed under them have treated the efforts made by the ninth and tenth Parliaments to give effect to the opinions of the landowners of the colony:

1st. The Local Legislature (in Assembly) resolved, that the annual appropriation of £10,825 derived from sales of land was improvidently misapplied. (See their Journal, page 67, 1829.) The abuse was continued.

2d. They resolved, (see same page) that the Local Government had abused the application of the fund granted for the administration of justice. No remedy was provided.

3d. They resolved (page 68) that the loyalty and attachment of the people to His Majesty's person and government, would, if possible, be strengthened by leaving them with their local legislature and the executive to their own internal concerns, and by discountenancing all private and injurious representations made for the purpose of counteracting the best directed exertions for the correction of public abuses; which private and injurious representations have hitherto been too successfully made to promote misrule and protect the authors of it.

The valuable series of resolves from which these are taken, were communicated to the Lieutenant Governor; doubtless his instructions prevented him from attending to them, NOR WERE THEY ATTENDED TO HERE.

On the 4th day of January last, the Legislature of the state of New-York assembled at Albany: Mr. Throop sent them a message, from which I will make but one short extract. Since witnessing the means taken by His Majesty's Government to reform abuses in the representation here, I have indulged the expectation very shortly to see the same language held by a British Governor in Upper Canada to a fairly chosen Legislative Assembly. It would, indeed, be the true, the abiding interest of this great nation, so to speak to the freemen of Upper Canada; for it would promote the public good.

Mr. Throop's remarks were as follow: "The wealth, the trade, and the external pomp of a nation do not always indicate a happy condition of the people who compose it. Thro' the perversions by man of the blessings which a kind Providence designs for all his reasonable creatures, we sometimes witness the incongruity of great apparent national prosperity, while a large proportion of the population deprived of every comfort are absorbed in the cares of procuring the means to sustain life. It is not so with us.— Here national prosperity is the prosperity of every individual; not a cent is contributed by way of tax, not a dollar is expended from the public coffers which is not assented to by the people, and employed to enlarge their means of enjoyment."

In Upper Canada, as this report abundantly shews, the opinions of the people are as much unrepresented in the present Parliament as they were fourteen years ago when the Gag-law passed, making it a crime for them to meet and complain. With us in Canada, "national prosperity" is the prosperity of "the few," the poverty of the many. Such remarks are unpleasant, but it is here where relief can be had that they ought to be made.

4th. The ninth Parliament sent an address to the King on the subject of the Post Office Department—and addressed the Lieutenant Governor, requesting him to forward it to London. (See Journal of Assembly, 1825-6, pages 58, 69, and 113). To this day, I believe, it remains unanswered, and when I was chairman of the Post Office Committee of Enquiry, I could not obtain from the Postmaster General's Deputy at Quebec, any information of the revenue raised in the Colony. That functionary however continues to tax every newspaper that passes through the Post Office in the two Canadas, a penny each, which, besides his salary, he puts in his pocket as a perquisite of office. The removal of this odious and evidently useless impost, authorized by no law, would have been the work but of a moment, but all the remonstrances of all the presses and Legislatures of Upper and Lower Canada have weighed as nothing, thus far, when placed against an ancient and venerable abuse from which a colonial officer derives great revenue, the tax being paid at the expense, in many cases, of that sum which would have assisted in giving the rudiments of education to a son or a daughter of a settler.

5th. In the report of a select committee of the Assembly on the attempts made to disgrace Captain Matthews, (which report was received by the House in opposition to the Government influence and ordered to be printed, as also entered again on the body of the Journal for 1828) the Colonial system as seen in Upper Canada is thus described :

"If every effervescence of feeling upon every jovial or innocent occasion is, in these Provinces to be magnified into crime by the testimony of secret informers. If there can longer exist a political inquisition which shall scan the motives of every faithful servant of the public. If the authorities in Canada shall humble the independence of the Legislature by scandalizing its members and causing them to be ordered to Quebec and thence to England, to sustain a fate which under such corroboration as Lord Dalhousie received, might cover them with ignominy, or bring them, however innocent, to the block; or if the members of our community shall be awed into political subserviency by the fear of oppression, or lured by the corrupt hope of participating guilty favors; then indeed will the prospect before us lower, and this fine Province become a distant appendage of a mighty empire, ruled by a few aspiring men with the scourge of power."*

6th. Another extract will serve to show how little influence the House had with the Government here, and in Canada, when it presumed to censure:

A Mr. Forsyth complained to the House of misconduct in the Crown Officers and of other grievances, including a charge against Captain Philpotts of the Royal Engineers, of violent conduct as a military officer in a case mentioned.

The House appointed a committee of enquiry, of which Mr. Rolph was the chairman; and the report of that committee (which censured † Captain Philpotts and the local Government) was referred back to the committee, additional evidence taken, and the whole reported to the House and ordered to be printed. On another of Mr. Forsyth's petitions, a ‡ select committee unanimously reported, among other things, that "it appeared to them upon examination that some of the most daring outrages against the peace of the community have passed unprosecuted, and that the persons guilty, have, from their connexions in high life, been promoted to the most important offices of trust, honor and emolument in the local Government. It appears that the Crown Officers, who exercise an exclusive right to conduct criminal prosecutions at the Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery, are in the habit, even in the first instance, of being retained and taking an active part in the defence of the civil action for the wrong, by which it is inevitable that prosecutors will be discouraged to apply to them for professional aid, and justice therefore, in many cases, fail, unless the rights of prosecutors and of the Bar are asserted and upheld, as in England. From the testimony given, your Committee do not hesitate to come to that conclusion, in which they are supported by the testimony of the Honorable Mr. Justice Willis, and nearly all the witnesses examined." The reports and evidence are printed in the appendix in the Journal of 1828; but they only afforded additional proof of the utter powerlessness of the House to do aught relative to public wrongs except to complain of them, to the personal injury perhaps of many members who might act thus independently. So it was in the present instance.

Of this Report the accused took no public notice, but the then Attorney General addressed a secret communication to

† Not long since arrived from the colony of Upper Canada.

‡ I caused the Reports of these Committees to be published and commented in the severest terms upon the affair of Capt. Philpotts and the Crown Officers, inasmuch that the grand jury presented me for libel—that is to say, the Government intended to prosecute) but no inducement could prevail upon the present Chief Justice, then first Crown Officer, to let the matter go to trial, and it never was tried. The late Surveyor General, when asked to attend and give evidence at the House of Assembly, said he must first obtain the Governor's leave, as an executive officer, and the Legislative Council's permission, as a legislator; and so fearful must Colonels Givins and Coffin have been of implicating those in authority, that they chose to go to jail, for contempt, rather than give their testimony before the Committee of Enquiry into Capt. Philpott's case; so they remained in jail till after the prorogation.

the Lieutenant Governor, for the Colonial Department, which it duly reached, in which he thus characterized some of the most distinguished Members of the House, his fellow Representatives. "If a preference is felt for the system in use there, [in England,] I have never heard it expressed by any persons, and that it is decidedly my belief, with very good means of observation, that whatever prejudices may in time be excited, any dissatisfaction with the present system of conducting criminal prosecutions, in the Courts of Oyer and Terminer, is at present confined to a very few individuals in the Assembly, whose opposition to every arrangement and institution of the Government is very indiscriminating."

This communication was made, as I have before stated, in secret—it was never intended to be made known to the persons attacked. They had no opportunity to refute the calumny: and, at first, when interrogated by a Committee of the Assembly, Mr. Robinson declined to avow the authorship, considering the document from which it had been taken, secret and confidential.* It was, however, soon after made public. The charge it contained was of a most serious nature; it was that of an unprincipled opposition to all the measures and institutions of the Government. "Mr. Robinson might as well have secretly charged his brother members with having been combined in a traitorous conspiracy against the Government under cover of a faithful discharge of their Parliamentary duties. The charge was not offered to the notice of the people among whom the parties lived, where it could be openly and fairly met, but was transmitted to persons at a distance, who could judge of the accusation only from the solemn and confidential manner in which it was preferred, and from the standing and official character of the accuser, who was himself high in their confidence. It was intended to protect his own pocket from the hand of legal re-entrancement; and in order to do this, he attempted to prejudice one branch of the government of which he was a confidential servant, against another of which he was a member; as a member of the House of Assembly, he so far forgot and betrayed his duties, as to endeavour by a clandestine unconstitutional exercise of a high and important office, which he held, to prejudice a co-ordinate branch of the government against its measures; at the same time this calumnious representation was made to those who had no business with it. Whether the charge were well or ill founded, the government had nothing to do with it. The individuals charged, were in no ways answerable to the Government. On this account the accusation was as uncalled for as it was unfounded and unjust. The slander was intended to poison the Royal Ear, and to prejudice the mind of His Majesty and His Government against those who most naturally look up to him for protection. It was calculated to defame, in the very quarter where a man of honour would most wish his character to be regarded with esteem and respect."

Except in so far as it afforded Mr. Robinson the private opportunity of traducing the Committee of the Assembly, the Report effected nothing, and a subsequent address to the King on the same subject adopting the opinion of the Committee as that of the Legislature, was answered by the exaltation of Mr. Robinson to the Presidency of the Executive Council of the Colony.

7th. Sir Peregrine Maitland soon dismissed Mr. Justice Willis. Why he did so, the characteristic despatches sent by him to the Colonial Office, and which have since seen the light, will shew. They are specimens of the system of espionage to which many a worthy man in Upper Canada has fallen a victim. Sir P. Maitland appointed the Custom House Officer at the Port of Kingston to a seat on the Bench of Justice in Mr. Willis' room, the other puisne Judge of the Colony having then been recently exalted from the Custom House either of Brockville or Prescott. His Excellency about this time quarrelled with the ninth Parliament, on the Alien Question and other matters, and being very generally disliked through the Colony, was promoted to the important Government of Nova Scotia, carrying with him many affectionate Addresses at parting, containing thousands of signatures. Among the most prominent Acts of the last year of his administration, was his receiving Addresses, in which the House of Assembly was characterized as factious demagogues with an expression of high satisfaction.* Lord Dalhousie did the same to the most violent declamations against the Assembly of Lower Canada.†

8th. On the 12th of January, 1829, an Address by the House of Assembly, passed in the 10th Parliament to the new Governor, Sir John Colborne, by a vote of 37 to 1, praying against the injurious policy of the Provincial Administration, and lamenting that His Excellency's confidential advisers were persons who had deeply wounded and injured the best interests of the country, in which, (they stated,) the administration of justice had not risen above suspicion.

9th. On the 14th of March of the same year, the House addressed His Majesty, praying that individuals deeply entangled in Provincial politics, might not be called to the Court of King's Bench as its Judges, but that they might be selected from the English Bar; that Mr. Justice Willis, of whose conduct they approved, might be restored to the country. They also enumerated many wrongs in the administration of justice, and assured the King, that it was "from such Courts and such Judges that the people desired to be relieved."‡

His Majesty's Ministers promptly answered their Addresses by selecting one of the Executive Council, who had counselled Mr. Justice Willis' dismissal, to be a Puisne Judge; Mr. Robinson, who had defamed them to be Chief Justice, and Speaker of the Legislative Council. (His whole public life had been one continued attack on popular rights.) His brother, Mr. Peter Robinson, had a new office, at £1,200 a year carved out for him: His relation, the Solicitor General was given the vacant Attorney Generalship. Dr. Strachan had the control for the new College, Glebe Lands, and large grants of valuable public property near York: Mr. Campbell (who had, like Mr. Powell, been placed in the Chief Justiceship, pro tempore.) had a pension of £1,200 sterling, a year, and was knighted; and the other Judge had £1,000; and in all this the Colonists were never once consulted—their opinion to the contrary was on record. But in these days the Assembly was not, as now, considered by the Government to speak the sense of the people. Such proceedings were well calculated to disgust spirited and independent men, and prevent them from accepting seats in a body treated with such supreme contempt. However bad the public Officers might have acted, there was no Court of Impeachment nearer than the Privy Council in this capital.

Extracts from a Memoir, addressed by special permission, to Lord Viscount Goderich, his Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, received August 3d, 1832, at the Colonial Office, and registered there as "No. 3,019, Upper Canada:"—

COLONIAL OFFICERS.

Your Lordship has been pleased to convey an assurance to the people of Lower Canada that "if any public officers can be named, who are guilty of an abuse of their power, and of remissness in their duties, His Majesty would not be slow in removing such persons from his service," and "that if it can be shewn that the patronage of the Crown has been exercised upon any narrow or exclusive maxims, they cannot be too entirely disavowed and abandoned. His Majesty can have no desire that such invidious distinctions should be maintained," a belief that the same principle would be extended to Upper Canada, induced me to become a petitioner for enquiring into the public conduct of that officer, in respect to which, I now, with your Lordship's permission, respectfully submit the following observations:—

The situation of Lieutenant Governor and Commander of the Forces of Upper Canada is one of, perhaps, greater emolument than any other on the Continent of North America, with the exception of the Governorship in Chief of British America and the Presidency of the United States: the salary of the incumbent is £3,000 sterling a-year, besides a share of certain seizures; great patronage; a splendid mansion upheld by the Province; and the income and other advantages attached to the Chief Command of the Troops; while the expenditure in a country, like Canada, where the necessaries, and many of the luxuries of life, are very low in price, is comparatively small.

Whether the acquirement of greater wealth and property, or of personal comfort in a temperate climate with the pleasing task of aiding the establishment of British Freedom in a lovely, a magnificent country, be the objects more immediately in view, the high office of representative of His Majesty in Upper Canada is, in my humble opinion, far preferable to office in London with a salary of £6,000 or even £8,000 a year.—It is equal to the official value of 20,000 acres of the best surveyed public lands in fee-simple. Land which will be worth ten times the estimated selling price, under any Government which can continue to exist in the Colony for any length of time. It may be inferred that an individual thus amply recompensed by the country, and honored by his Sovereign ought to spare no exertion to prove to the colonists that the security of property and civil rights, the improvement of the Province, the economical expenditure of its resources, the redress of real grievances, and the advancement of general education, are objects which may be as fully attained under a Lieutenant of His Majesty, chosen with the advice of a Council, possessing wise, liberal and enlarged views, as they would be if the Chief Magistrate were chosen by themselves from among their most respected and tried statesmen, as is the case in the adjoining Republics. What a remarkable contrast is presented to the eye of the Canadians who compare the last ten years' messages of the Governors of New-York State with the last ten years' speeches of the Lieutenant Governors of Upper Canada. * * * * *

The Governor of Upper Canada, if he does his duty has a task requiring a good temper, great forbearance, a freedom from religious prejudices, and a disposition to avoid giving offence to his Majesty's subjects because their views of Government in Church and State may not, in every respect, accord with his own. Above all things, he ought not to estimate a man's loyalty to his King by the degree of respect he manifests for the wealth and worldly power of the church by law established in this part of the island of Great Britain, nor range himself as a controversialist and partizan of the few, overstep the bounds prescribed by the functions of his high office, and wantonly injure the feelings of the many by attacking the ministers of religion, whom they esteem, and whose influence and hearty co-operation is greatly to be desired in many matters connected with the general welfare. He should be a careful observer of the signs of the times, the genius of the people, and the various indications of public opinion: he is placed in a situation to attain much valuable information concerning the effect of the laws regulating trade, commerce and manufactures in Canada, and the adjoining Republic—to judge of the consequences of the present corn-laws in drawing away or preventing Emigration to the opposite shores—to reason and reflect on the probable operation of those changes so much desired by the colonists, both as affecting interests here and interests beyond the Atlantic.—Should difficulties occur on the Continent of Europe of an unforeseen and unexpected nature, and Britain have her hands full, it would be an important point gained to have tranquilized Upper Canada in the first instance, while time remained for that purpose, by doing that justice to the attachment of its people to His Majesty's Government and the British nation, which their patriotism has merited, and would still more fully merit. Send to Upper Canada a Governor accustomed to civil rule, of kindly dispositions, and who will not second the Rev. Doctor Strachan's views for converting the population to the Established Church of this country, and a great advantage will be gained to England and to her colonists. If a more just and equitable policy were pursued towards the colonies, if it were kept in memory by all who seek to preserve the unity of the Empire, that the Canadians however great their interests and inclinations to remain connected for ages to come, with the Parent State, under good government, would suffer far less from an easy separation from Gt. Britain than would Britain herself, with whom their commerce, in a colonial state, may be greatly augmented, if it were recollected that although England engrossed three-fourths of the trade of the 13 colonies, now the United States* before 1796, even interest gave away to patriotism when the colonists of that day thought their free institutions were about to be subverted and their religious privileges interfered with, in such case the results would be more satisfactory than ever can a system supported by wealth and undue influence in the hands of a few, and used to the disadvantage of the community.

In the remarks I am about to make respecting the conduct of Sir John Colborne, I would not be understood to attach much blame to himself individually, but to the system he perhaps willingly followed, but which he must have followed whether with or against his will, in order to remain in Upper Canada as its Chief Magistrate. He came into the country a stranger to the people, their customs and their manners; he found the persons who had guided his predecessor prepared to advise him; he found Dr. Strachan and his colleagues in possession of the wealth, honors, emoluments, influence, and resources of the Province, while the House of Assembly was neglected, and its remonstrances utterly despised; he found that the government was carried on without any supplies, and that the policy of England's rulers in those days, was to conciliate the people, be as moderate as possible, but trust the people with nothing, keep them powerless and obedient. Sir Peregrine Maitland had been raised to higher honors after having pursued a most unpopular course in Upper Canada; Dr. Strachan had had offices and grants of land, and dignities conferred on him for standing a firm tho' not very consistent supporter of high church pretensions in a country where very few, even of the few Episcopalians it contains had the least desire for temporal pre-eminence His Excellency resigned himself entirely to the guidance of those whom the Rev. Dr. could influence at his will, became a firm supporter of established abuses, interfered with the religious privileges of the people, and in a most ungracious and inappropriate moment declared his belief of all the slanders which had been heaped upon the dissenters, outdoing even Dr. Strachan himself in his expressions of aversion and dislike to a numerous and respectable body, the extension of whose influence he deplored while he regretted the small numbers of his own sect. I know no one public individual who has been more carressed, and honored, and promoted to greater wealth, influence and distinction by the British Government than Dr. Strachan; and it is probable Your Lordship will doubt my judgment when I affirm as I now most sincerely do my conviction that the Dr. has (I dare say unintentionally) done more to wean the affections of the people from British rule, and to impress upon their minds (if it were possible) a sense of British injustice, than any other individual now living. He is an Executive Councillor, a Legislative Councillor, President of the College, and member of its Council, a Civil Magistrate, Rector of York, Missionary to the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, member of the Land Council, President of the Provincial Board of Education, Senior Member of the Boards of Education in Eleven

* A late arret of this Court against the admission of British manufactures produces a great sensation in England. I wish it may produce a disposition there to receive our commerce in all their dominions on advantageous terms. This is the only balm which can heal the wounds that it has received. It is but too true that that country furnished markets for three-fourths of the exports of the eight northernmost States: a truth not proper to be spoken of, but which should influence our proceedings with them. (Jefferson's Memoirs, letter 98, dated Paris, Aug. 1785, and addressed to the late Colonel Munro.)

Districts, and a very extensive Land-owner—receiver of the new Glebe Rents, member of the Clergy Corporation, one of the principal proprietors of the Province Bank, and (if my memory serves me) he once sat at the Discounting Board as a Director of that institution, Archdeacon of the Church of England, Doctor in Divinity, a Commissioner under the Heir and Devisee Act for proving titles to Estates, a Trustee of the Royal Institution, and in fact holds more situations than I can call to my remembrance. About 8000 persons petitioned the House of Commons against his misrepresentations while here, the Canada Committee's report exposed them, and successive Houses of Assembly complained of them, as if to shew the Province that the Doctor was of more importance than the opinion of the whole country, new honors were heaped upon him, new grants of the choicest portions of the public Land bestowed on him as an especial mark of the Royal favor, and his rebukes fell with increased weight on the unfortunate Dissenters from his adopted creed when conveyed last September thro' the channel of the King's Lieutenant Governor. For the sake of the peace and prosperity of Canada, I trust the day is not far distant when this Rev. person will be strictly confined to the performance of his functions as a minister of the everlasting Gospel—would a minister of State expect to conciliate the Catholics of Ireland, or to retain the affections of the Catholics of Lower Canada, by honoring that functionary who shall act towards them as Sir John Colborne and his chief adviser Dr. Strachan have done to the Methodists and other Dissenters in Upper Canada?

Upper Canada will expect an intelligent active individual as a successor to Sir John Colborne, a Governor who will appear to take a personal interest in the prosperity and improvement of the Colony, and favourably consider those great general measures, the people have so much at heart, but which the Legislative Council constantly reject; such as the amendment of the Jury Laws, a more adequate provision for general Education, an alteration in the Primogeniture Laws, moderate Law Fees, and more satisfactory and efficient regulations for the management of the affairs of Townships by their officers. His success will greatly depend upon himself; at 3,500 miles distance, it will be at all times, easy to evade his instructions, however positive and peremptory, if he possess that fondness for military power, and love of arbitrary authority which Rochefoucault tells us "are in every region of the globe, the usual attributes of such delegated trusts."

The Assembly in 1829, addressed Sir John Colborne, desiring the removal of Dr. Strachan and his colleagues from the administration, because "they had deeply wounded the feelings and injured the best interests of the country,"† to which His Excellency answered‡ that he was convinced "that in many instances the most upright intentions had been discoloured by the medium through which they had been seen" and took no further notice of the subject, although their vote was almost unanimous.

Next year, 1830, they repeated their request, and assured him with scarcely any dissentients§ that they entertained a settled conviction that the continuance about His Excellency of those advisers who from the unhappy policy they pursued had long deservedly lost the confidence of the country, was highly inexpedient, and calculated seriously to weaken the expectations of the people from the impartial and disinterested justice of His Majesty's Government."

* The following brief but significant commentary on the policy pursued by the government towards the people of Upper Canada, is but one of a hundred I could bring forward to prove that the United States keep a watchful eye upon the progress of events in the colonies. The brief commentary "but the people do not like it" speaks volumes to me. Education in Upper Canada, through the favor of the Royal Governors, the Episcopal Clergy seem to be playing the same game in Upper Canada that they did in New York before the revolution, in obtaining possession of all the lands and other perquisites that are appropriated for the purposes of religion or education. They have gained some of the lands appropriated to the support of colleges, and established an institution called King's College, but the people do not like it.—New York Evangelist.

Sir John Colborne, did not as in the case of the Methodists give his reasons for pursuing a course directly opposed to the public wish, but clung still more closely to the Strachan interest—saw them soon after, more and more engross and monopolise the power of the Colony, and with great brevity replied to the Assembly "Gentlemen, I return you my thanks for your Address."*

How different this from his answers to Addresses wherein great and influential bodies of the people under his government are branded as seditious rebels, disaffected, led by demagogues, and so forth.

Few military men make good civil rulers in colonies, under a popular form of government, their previous habits requiring more implicit obedience to their mandates than is consistent with the habits of a free people, especially in America, where every man lives upon his own land, and thence imbibes high notions of liberty and independence.

It is difficult to imagine any motives other than a mistaken notion of what his duty required, united with bad advice, previous habits of military life, and an unpopular sentiment in favour of making converts to high church principles, a probable consequence of his education, which could have induced a brave and gallant officer like Sir John Colborne to pursue a line of conduct in Upper Canada so very much opposed to the interests of Britain and Canada, as his has been.

Justices of the Peace.

[From the same.]

The exclusive and excessively unpopular manner in which His Excellency distributes the patronage of the Government is a source of perpetual annoyance to the wealthy and spirited land-owners of the Colony. In the Home District a few officers of the Government with Dr. Dunlop, an officer of a company of speculators in land, here, set as a board of control over the local affairs of the two counties; disposing of the produce of the taxes, judging offences, regulating improvements, constituting courts of general quarter sessions, police magistrates, every thing; while the task of the Farmers is to collect the taxes and pay it (them) into their Treasury, to be, in too many instances, wasted, and seldom fully accounted for. It might be admitted, even by the most captious friend of arbitrary power, that it would be but reasonable to give this local power, at least partly, into the hands of the principal land-owners, as justices, and that the Members of the Assembly for the time being, in their districts, would be as fit checks at least as the Legislative Council. His Excellency thinks otherwise; seldom indeed has a popular individual entered the magistracy, nor have Colonial Governors, either in Upper or Lower Canada, forgotten to make such changes as might warn aspirants to, or possessors of, the office of justice of the peace, how necessary it was that their political opinions should agree with the administration. Sometimes the land-owners have prayed for the appointment of certain capable and independent men as justices, but I never once knew an instance of such a petition being listened to.

There are no doubt some few very independent men in the commission of the peace, but in general the justices all over the Colony act with other office-holders and the pensioned or salaried clergy, to uphold the existing system.

Trade of the Canadas.

From a Memoir addressed to Lord Viscount Goderich, and delivered at the Colonial Office on the 27th of August, 1832, to Mr. Charles Douglass, His Lordship's Private Secretary.

* * On the subject matter of this letter I had an interview with his Lordship of about two hours on the 7th of November, 1832.

While the citizens of the United States are enabled to trade freely with the Chinese and are popular with them—while the tea trade is about to be made free of all duties to the people of the Union, the King's subjects in Upper Canada and the other Colonies are made a monopoly of for the benefit of the East India Company, and compelled to pay a dear price for an inferior quality of tea, purchased by the Company at an inferior price in the Chinese market, expressly for the use of Canadians and Nova Scotians, as your Lordship will perceive by the testimony given before the East India Company Committee of the House of Commons in 1830, questions 1234, 1235, 1236, 1237, 1238, 1239. The profits too, centre in England, in that Company exclusively, and are considerable as is evident by the statements annexed to Mr. Melvill's answer to question 5875. History might have taught England the expediency of adopting another policy. If the principle of 2d a lb. tax on tea was unpopular in Boston, in 1775, it is not likely that a knowledge of the Canadians of the above facts, and that 1s. to 1s. 6d. sterling is paid in profits and taxes in Leadenhall Street on every pound of this inferior tea they consume, will interfere with the views I have ascribed to the American Government.

With regard to trade generally England declines to give the Colonists a monopoly of her markets for their produce, and she declines to permit them to supply themselves with such things as they want from abroad at the cheapest market. At the ports of Liverpool and Glasgow, there is no protecting duty in favor of a cargo of Canadian flour beyond what is allowed to a cargo of flour from the rear of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio, ground on the North bank of the St. Lawrence—while, should the Canadian owner desire to buy tea in China or foreign goods in the Union, he finds a prohibition on the former and heavy protecting British duties against the latter. The Americans carefully exclude the people of Upper Canada from the use of their Canals and grain and produce markets by prohibitory duties—while England orders American produce, wheat, flour, beef and pork to be admitted into Canada duty free, for domestic use and exportation. A British Agricultural Emigrant who shall carry his capital and industry to the South shores of the St. Lawrence and great Lakes, will find himself possessed of a free access to the Canadian Market, the British West India Market, the Domestic American Market and the American Markets in Foreign Ports—he may send his grain down the Canal to New York or down the St. Lawrence to Montreal, while the inhabitant of Canada is restricted to Montreal only! The Americans have a virtual monopoly of the supply of the British West India Markets with produce, while the North American Colonists, who profit little by the West India trade, purchase vast quantities of West India produce which the Americans carefully exclude. Can Your Lordship even for one moment suppose that the shrewd and sagacious statesmen of the Union are ignorant of the effects produced on the minds of the Colonists by a system like this? Knowing as they do the internal state of the Colonies and the petty vexations to which they are subjected it is not to be wondered at that they expend very little money in fortifying their Canada frontier. * * * * *

The Land Granting System.

[FROM THE SAME.]

Mr. Richards, the Commissioner for enquiry, appointed by Sir George Murray could not learn much of the people's feelings and temper by merely passing through Canada. (I was for years a resident in the Upper Province before I fully comprehended the state of parties.) Mr. Richards, however, in his report to your Lordship, judiciously alludes to "the value to which this beautiful Province (meaning Upper Canada) might have been raised under a more economical management of its land resources." There he is right, but he is in error when he says that the present and late administrations are not to blame. We of Upper Canada well know that a few families have borne sovereign sway in Upper Canada during the last fifteen years—that they in reality are the administration and the Government, and the Judiciary—that they are every thing and the people nothing. If the mismanagement complained of by Mr. Richards, which drove the 29,000 emigrants from Canada in 1827 and 1828, and which wasted the landed sources of the Colony, be a fact, it is also a fact that a few individuals who have been enabled under every government here, to promote their own personal interests at the expense of the freeholders (with those who permitted them) are to blame. But for them Upper Canada would have been twice as populous as it is—but for them the National Debt of Upper Canada would not now have exceeded that of the American Union—but for them and their influence here, the War Losses would long ere now have been paid, and England not asked for a shilling towards the payment. No one directly blames either Your Lordship or Your Noble & Hon'ble Predecessors in this matter. Had any one or two of the Colonial Office Bearers who have made so many voyages between Upper Canada and Downing Street, of late years, in search of pensions, places, offices, and appointments, taken the pains to enlighten Ministers as to the least burthen-some means by which the claims could be liquidated, as their local knowledge of the Colonial Revenues enabled them to do, this Memorial would have been unnecessary.

SIR,

During several months past I have been in occasional communication with Mr. William Mackenzie, upon the subject of the Grievances said to exist in Upper Canada, and for redress of which various petitions have been addressed to His Majesty.

As Mr. Mackenzie has been the bearer of those petitions to this country, I have gladly availed myself of his residence here to obtain such information as it is in his power to give respecting the opinions and wishes of that portion of the inhabitants of the Province by whom he has been deputed to act, and although I have adhered to the general rule of declining to explain the views of His Majesty's Government, on questions of Canadian policy, to any person except the Governor of the Province, I have been anxious to afford Mr. Mackenzie the most ample opportunity of doing justice to the case which he laid before me.

From the voluminous mass of that gentleman's correspondence, I have selected three documents which profess to embody the entire substance of that case as it affects the present condition of Upper Canada: of these documents I have the honor to enclose copies for your information.

I propose in this Despatch to follow Mr. Mackenzie through those parts of his statement respecting the representation of the inhabitants in the House of Assembly, which appear to me essential to the consideration of the practical questions he has undertaken to agitate. But confining myself to what I consider as really relevant, I shall necessarily pass over in silence some details which have been introduced with no perceptible tendency to elucidate the subjects in discussion, and much invective and sarcasm which would have been far more conveniently spared.

It is with no intentional disrespect to Mr. Mackenzie that I remark that he has adopted a style and method of composition singularly ill adapted to bring questions of so much intricacy and importance to a definite issue; but however discursive may be his papers, or however acrimonious their tone, I am not on that account disposed to withhold my attention from any useful suggestions they may contain for the public good.

I am the more induced to devote to this discussion such leisure as I can command, because I am solicitous that the comparatively small body of persons whom Mr. Mackenzie represents should have no reason to think that their complaints had been overborne by the contrary declarations of the much more numerous bodies opposed to them.

Mr. Mackenzie indeed would have himself understood as speaking the sentiments of the entire population of Upper Canada, excepting only a few public functionaries whose interests are opposed to those of the people at large. It is not necessary, however, to have a very long experience of public controversies of this nature to be aware of the levity with which such pretensions are continually advanced upon the slightest and most inadequate ground.

Almost all complaints, the most opposite and contradictory not excepted, which reach this office are nearly as a matter of course, preferred in the name of the collective society: and it becomes necessary to distinguish carefully, in such cases, between mere rhetorical embellishments, and statements made in the cautious and measured tone of truth.

Now, in the present instance, I find that Mr. Mackenzie's views are supported by forty-four petitions, which have been signed on the whole by 12,075 persons.—On the other hand I have before me no less than thirty-three petitions from the different Counties, Districts, Towns, and Townships of the Province, signed by 26,854 persons, who concur in expressing their cordial satisfaction in those laws and institutions which the other sort of petitioners have impugned. Such a body is far too numerous, and many of the individuals composing it are far too considerable in their station and character to justify the supposition that they can be in a state of dependance on the local government, or controlled by any unworthy influence in their public conduct. I am driven to the dilemma of either supposing this great mass of the people of Upper Canada ignorant or corrupt, or of concluding that a very small minority of the whole population concur in Mr. Mackenzie's views. The former supposition is as improbable as it is offensive.—The latter, however contradictory to Mr. Mackenzie's assertions, is verified by many of the particular facts which he has advanced or admitted; but tho' I conceive this gentleman's constituents to be opposed by the general current of public opinion, I do not in the slightest degree mean to dispute their collective or individual respectability, and there is no class of the Canadian people, however small, nor individual amongst them, however obscure his station, to whose petitions His Majesty does not require that the most exact and respectful attention should be given.

I shall, in the first place, advert to the paper to which Mr. Mackenzie has given the title of "Observations on the state of the representation of the people of Upper Canada, in the Legislature of that Province." In performing this task, however, I must decline to pursue the discussion into those redundant and misplaced details with which Mr. Mackenzie has encumbered it. Thus, for example, I shall pass over in silence whatever is stated respecting the case of Mr. Stuart, the Attorney-General of the adjoining Province, and the state of the borough of William Henry, for the representation of which, in the Assembly, Mr. Stuart was a candidate; neither shall I enquire into the justice of the reproaches with which Mr. Mackenzie assails the conduct of former administrations, both in this kingdom and Upper Canada, upon occasions which have long since passed away, and questions now become wholly obsolete. I can address you only for some practical purpose, nor is there any measure suggested by the Petitioners or their Agent with a view to which, such a retrospect seems to me either necessary or desirable. I must add that if it were fit to review the past history of the Province, it would be impracticable to assume Mr. Mackenzie's paper as the basis of such an enquiry, since it is drawn up in an utter disregard of method, and in such a manner as to render the difficulty of distinguishing between assertion and proof, deliberate statements and the exaggerations permitted to an advocate, almost insuperable. I shall limit myself to the single consideration whether he has brought to light any grievances, for which His Majesty, in the legitimate exercise of the authority or influence of His Government, can be called upon to remedy.

The great object of Mr. Mackenzie's censure is the Election Law, which was passed by the Lieutenant Governor, Council and Assembly of Upper Canada, in the year 1820. I might, perhaps, not without reason, raise a preliminary objection to the discussion of that question at all. If the Election Laws of the Province require amendment, the change must originate not with the Executive Government, but with the popular branch of the local Legislature. Any interference of the Ministers of the Crown, would be reprobated probably by Mr. Mackenzie himself, and certainly by his brother journalists, as an unconstitutional encroachment. If therefore I advert to the question at all it is because, in the prospect that such a discussion will be provoked by the Petitioners, I think it fit that you should be apprised of the views which His Majesty's Government entertain on this subject, that you may not be destitute of a rule for your guidance in the acceptance or rejection of any bill which may be passed by the Legislative Council and Assembly for the amendment of the Election Laws.

If I have found occasion to lament the redundancies, I cannot less regret the deficiencies of Mr. Mackenzie's documents. He has travelled through this protracted discussion without finding himself called upon to notice, still less to refute the arguments by which it has been usual to vindicate the constitution of the Provincial House of Assembly. Yet it is impossible that he can be ignorant of them, nor credible that he should regard them as deficient, at least in plausibility. An ignorant reader of his papers might be left with the impression that the question was altogether new, and that the existing constitution had never been vindicated on the principles and on the example of the most free and independent governments. How utterly remote this is from the fact is clear to every man whose attention has been given to the affairs of Upper Canada, for the last few years. Mr. Mackenzie has therefore imposed on me the necessity of drawing a general outline of that defence of the law of 1820, which he has passed over in silence, but which is far too important to be disregarded by any fair and impartial inquirer.

It is a fact familiar to all who are conversant with the Legislative history of North America, either in the United States or in the British possessions that a problem of no light difficulty has continually arisen respecting the distribution of the Elective Franchise amongst the inhabitants resident in different parts of the same State or Province. The surface of the country is generally divided for political purposes into sections of nearly equal areas, but those counties or Townships which are in the immediate vicinity of the capital or which are intersected by great navigable streams, or bounded by lakes, are peopled with far greater rapidity than the more remote Districts. Hence it has frequently happened that a single metropolitan or trading county has contained a population exceeding in wealth and number many newly settled counties of similar dimensions. Accordingly, when capital and numbers have been made the exclusive basis of the representation, one portion of the State or Province has acquired an influence in the Legislature which has reduced to comparative insignificance the weight of all the other divisions of the country. The favoured District has thus been able through its representatives to throw upon the less fortunate sections, a most unequal weight of taxation, and to refuse to them a fair participation in the benefits of the judicial and other institutions, to the support of which the revenue was applied. Local interests have predominated over the general interests, and discontents have been engendered, threatening the stability of the Government and tending to an abrupt severance of one part of the State or Province from the rest.

In the State of Maine, as I am informed, this difficulty was so sensibly felt as to have led to the introduction of the system adopted in Upper Canada in the year 1820. In apportioning the elective franchise among the inhabitants, the Legislature did not confine its attention exclusively to the question of property and of numbers, but introduced a new element into the calculation. They considered that a small number of persons occupying one county might reasonably claim as large a share in the Representation as a much larger and wealthier body occupying another county of equal dimensions. By this method members were drawn from every part of the Province: the local wants of every part were explained, and the interests of each vindicated. In a densely peopled country like Great Britain, possessing such internal communication as to secure the immediate diffusion of intelligence from one end of the kingdom to the other, this precaution might be the less necessary, since no part is so remote or inaccessible as not to be rapidly reached by information of every projected law, or as to be destitute of the means of making an early protest against any measure injurious to its welfare. Yet even in this kingdom, where the subject has within the last two years undergone the most public and rigid scrutiny, no one, so far as I am aware, has seriously advanced the opinion that the Representation of the metropolis should bear to that of the country at large the proportion which the wealth or population of London bears to that of England collectively.

Such a principle would have given to the metropolitan districts between forty and fifty members, a scheme which I need scarcely say would have been rejected by the entire body of the people, as altogether unequal, though resting upon a foundation of the most perfect nominal equality.

It appears, however, to have been perceived by the Upper Canadian Assembly, in the year 1820, that by simply adopting the rule to which I have referred, they might extricate the Province from one difficulty at the expense of another yet more considerable. A county might contain a very inconsiderable body of persons for some time after it was first redeemed from the wilderness, and thus a choice of members might virtually be committed to a very few electors, who might themselves be subject to some unworthy influence. It was therefore required that no county should be represented in the Assembly by a distinct member until the inhabitants numbered one thousand, at least. But with the foresight which is perceptible in every part of this law, it seems to have been perceived that there was considerable danger in leaving any body of new settlers wholly unrepresented; and to obviate that inconvenience, the inhabitants of each county whilst yet below the required number, were authorised to vote in the least populous adjoining county.

Thus without being betrayed into a sacrifice of the substance of good government by a superficial attention to a merely nominal equality, the Legislature of Upper Canada, in the year 1820, justified the confidence reposed in them by the constitution. They were too conversant with the real business of life to suppose that a great social system could be practically carried on without advancing a little beyond the most obvious and elementary maxims, or that the inevitable intricacy of the public affairs of the Province could be met without some degree of complexity in its political institutions. They therefore embraced in their law provisions for the protection of all classes, however obscure and remote from the notice of the local Government, for the control of that undue influence which mere wealth and density of population would, otherwise, have exercised, and for the gradual enlargement of the representative body as the constituency should itself increase.

I cannot suppose that a gentleman who has taken so active a part in the affairs of the Province as has fallen to the share of Mr.

Seventh Report of Committee on Grievances.

Mackenzie, should have been really unapprised of considerations so familiar to every man acquainted with the subject as these to which I have adverted, though as a controversial writer he may perhaps have not consulted ill for the momentary success of this argument, in suppressing all allusion to them.

I proceed to the next objection which Mr. Mackenzie has made to the Act of 1820, which, in his own language is, that it created a "borough interest." In less invidious terms the fact appears to be that it gave one member to every town in which the Quarter Sessions of the District might be holden, and which contained, at least, one thousand inhabitants. Those towns were, therefore, placed in precisely the same predicament as the counties of the Province.— Now if Mr. Mackenzie's principle, that wealth is the proper criterion, be just, this civic representation was wisely established, for it can scarcely be denied that one thousand persons inhabiting the same town will, generally, be the proprietors of a larger collective capital than a rural population of the same extent. If the principle of numbers be correctly assumed by Mr. Mackenzie, then, also, it follows that the Towns were rightly enfranchised, since it is in the Towns that the most rapid enlargement of population usually takes place, and since if members had been refused to them on the ground of paucity of numbers a similar refusal must have been extended to all the newly settled counties. But I greatly understate the argument. A town possessing a thousand inhabitants will yield a much larger number of actual voters than a county equally populous, supposing the qualification to be, in either case, of equal amount. In the one case the franchise is exercised with the greatest facility, and in the other at an expense of time and labour which, comparatively, few will incur. Nor can I forget that, in every part of the world, civic population is more intelligent & more disposed to watch over public subjects, than a rural population of equal numbers; because the first enjoy the constant advantage of mutual intercourse, and co-operation in public affairs, of which the latter are in a great measure destitute. It is not at all surprising that so enlightened a people as are the great body of the inhabitants of Upper Canada should have expressed in very strong terms their dissent from the views which Mr. Mackenzie thus advocates; or that a people so conspicuous for their zeal for civil liberty should be so decidedly opposed, as by their petitions they appear to be, to plans which would sacrifice its substance to a very superficial theory.

It is further objected that the law of 1820, placed the projected University in the list of constituent bodies, and from the terms of the charter subsequently issued, it is inferred that the University was to become what is termed "a nomination borough, under the especial patronage of the Church and State." I should scarcely have anticipated that any man, and least of all a man devoted to literary pursuits, would have denied the propriety of giving a representation to the principal seat of learning in the Province. It would be superfluous to expatiate on the importance of institutions for the education of youth in literature, science and religion, especially in a newly settled country, and I am well assured that neither in the Council nor Assembly could a single gentleman be found who would not gladly receive as a colleague a person representing the collective body of literary and scientific men in Upper Canada, or who would not gladly support, by that distinguished honor, the cause of sound learning.

You will observe that I do not here refer to an University constituted in the manner proposed by the original charter of incorporation. Every man in Canada, however, knows, nor could Mr. Mackenzie have been ignorant, that so far from any anxiety having been felt by the King's Government to maintain that charter against the wishes of the great majority of the people, every possible measure has been taken to refer to their representatives the decision of the question, in what form and on what principles the College should be founded. It is indeed Mr. Mackenzie's fortune to be opposed to a large majority of the House of Assembly; but it can scarcely be expected that in deference to any individual, or to the small, though respectable, minority for whom he acts, the King's Government should entertain the slightest distrust of the wisdom or fairness of the resolutions which it may be the pleasure of the Assembly to adopt on this or any other subject.

It is next made the subject of complaint that the law as interpreted by the court of King's Bench entitles the County Members only to wages, and that the efforts of successive houses to ensure a certain degree of pecuniary independence to the new village representation has been rendered ineffectual by the Legislative Council. On what grounds the objections of the Council may rest I am not distinctly apprised. I might indeed conjecture their reason to have been that counties could with difficulty find representatives within themselves on other terms, while towns will always possess commercial and other inhabitants to whom a temporary residence at the seat of government would be attended with no inconvenience. I have no right to interfere with the deliberations of the Council, but I am able to signify to you His Majesty's pleasure that you should not oppose any objection to any law which may be presented for your acceptance, for placing the Town and the County Representatives on the same footing in this respect.

It is made a subject of complaint that in the year 1821, attempts were made first to deprive the land-owners of the honor of assessing themselves to pay their members wages, and secondly to establish the right of voting in persons possessing a license for the occupation of Crown Lands without having actually received a grant, and that the last of these schemes was revived 1827. I will not pause to investigate the propriety of measures which were never carried beyond an ineffectual attempt. It is enough for me to know that upon subjects strictly within their cognizance, the House of Assembly adopted a decision by which any such projects were frustrated. Whether they are well judged or otherwise the King's Government are not in any sense responsible for them, and the discussion of public affairs would be utterly interminable if every unsuccessful motion made several years ago in either House of the Provincial Legislature, were to be made the subject of censure and inquiry, at any distance of time.

The remark that various religious bodies are excluded from the elective franchise because their members cannot conscientiously take an oath, raises a question which well deserves serious consideration. You will call upon the Law Officers of Upper Canada to report what is the law on this subject. You will have the goodness to acquaint me whether you perceive any practical objections to placing the various denominations of christians mentioned by Mr. Mackenzie on the same footing, in this respect, as the Society of Friends. I shall be happy to introduce a bill into Parliament for amending this part of the Constitutional Act of 1791, unless there should appear to be some difficulty in that measure which does not occur to me at present.

Mr. Mackenzie then objects to the law which requires that every member of the House of Assembly should possess an unincumbered estate in land assessed at £80 or upwards. This regulation he attributes to the Officers of the Government. On what grounds they are entitled to the credit, or responsible for the discredit of having originated this law, does not appear, nor does that question seem to myself of much importance. I will not digress into the discussion of the great general principle involved in this enactment. Should any bill for the amendment of it be reserved for His Majesty's consideration, I can only state, that the most careful attention will be bestowed upon the subject.

It is, however, not to be overlooked, that the Government are said to have retained in their own hands the possession of all the un-cleared territory, that they might thus avail themselves of the last mentioned law, and qualify a favorite whenever it might be deemed expedient. I might, perhaps, not unreasonably express my surprise that Mr. Mackenzie, acting as the delegate of so many persons in Canada, should have passed over in silence the fact that His Majesty had been graciously pleased, upon my humble advice, to interdict the gratuitous disposal of the Crown Lands, and to render them all the subject of public competition, to the utter exclusion of any such favoritism as is thus deprecated.

If the law which disqualifies any British subjects from voting at elections till the expiration of seven years after their return from a residence in a foreign country, be still in force, I subscribe to Mr. Mackenzie's opinion, that it cannot be too soon repealed; and you will adopt all constitutional means in your power for promoting the repeal of it. On this subject I concur in Mr. Mackenzie's reasoning, however much I may be disposed to think that the weight of his arguments would have been enhanced had he confined himself to the use of language more in accordance with the ordinary tone of official communications than that which he has chosen to employ.

I must entirely decline, as perfectly irrelevant to any practical question, the enquiry whether at a comparatively remote period, prosecutions against the Editors of newspapers were improperly instituted or not. It is needless to look beyond Mr. Mackenzie's journal to be convinced that there is no latitude which the most ardent lover of free discussion ever claimed for such writers, which is not enjoyed with perfect impunity in Upper Canada.

The law of 1818, which prohibited public meetings, is again made a subject of remonstrance, although it was repealed two years afterwards. To what end such complaints are preferred, I am wholly at a loss to surmise. Yet it is not unimportant to remark, that the Assembly which repealed this Statute was, if I mistake not, the same which enacted the election law, and that the zeal which they avowedly exhibited for the liberties of the people in the one case, is scarcely consistent with the imputations made by Mr. Mackenzie against their motives in the other.

It is not a little singular that in the present year I should receive a lengthened repetition of the complaints upon the alien question, which came before me in the year 1827, when I formerly held the seals of this department. Mr. Mackenzie describes the instructions which I then issued "as just and equitable," and as having "removed one grand cause of discontent." I do not feel therefore, that after the adoption of a measure so characterized, I can be again required to enter upon a detail of the very grievances for which it is admitted that an effectual remedy has been provided.

In following the order adopted by Mr. Mackenzie, I next reach a statement that the local government encourage dependent persons holding offices at pleasure, and "debarred by the laws of England from being concerned at elections, to use the great influence attendant upon office, to secure seats in the representative body, in order that its voice may be wholly under executive control although," adds Mr. Mackenzie, "it is an undoubted truth that the interests of the local authorities and those of the colonists are separate and distinct." As a writer habitually engaged in political controversies, Mr. Mackenzie may not be fully alive to the injustice of advancing charges against the servants of the public, unsupported by distinct evidence of their truth; but it is my duty to refuse credit to such imputations as I have quoted, unless they should be clearly substantiated by evidence. For widely as I dissent from the assertion so confidently made, that the interests of the local government are distinct from those of the inhabitants at large, I admit that an abuse of the influence attendant upon office, for the purpose of exercising an improper control over elections, would justly expose to the heaviest censure those to whom it could with truth be imputed. On this subject, however, in the absence of any more definite statements, I can only instruct you that His Majesty expects and requires of you neither to practice, nor to allow on the part of those who are officially subordinate to you, any interference with the right of His Subjects to the free and unbiassed choice of their Representatives.

It is represented that with a view to raise up and multiply the friends of arbitrary and exclusive principles, persons in authority, in and out of the Assembly, resist all plans of general education, and that places of learning are established only for the children of those who hold Government offices, and a few other influential and wealthy individuals. It is not easy to repress the expression of those feelings with which I cannot but receive such unworthy imputations upon the character of so many upright and enlightened men, unsupported by any proof whatever, except a general reference, which I am unable to verify, to a report said to have been made on some occasion by the present Chief Justice of the Province, on the case of Mr. Osgood.

Even assuming, which is most improbable, that Mr. Robinson really obstructs to the utmost of his power the advance of general education and knowledge, from the base motives so lightly imputed by Mr. Mackenzie, I utterly deny that the King's Government, either in this country or in Upper Canada, are responsible for the opinion which Mr. Robinson may some years ago have advocated in the House of Assembly. It is, however, not unimportant to advert to this subject, because Mr. Mackenzie cannot assert more peremptorily than I deny the existence of any such narrow and preposterous policy as that of consigning the children of the yeomanry to ignorance, lest knowledge should render them independent in action or in thought. On the contrary, there is no one object connected with every part of his extensive dominions which His Majesty has more at heart than the general diffusion of sound knowledge in the legitimate and most enlarged sense of that term. This is not merely the first and highest interest of society, but is essential to the right use and peaceable enjoyment of every other civil and social privilege. The Legislature of Upper Canada have already been invited to consider in what manner the University can be best constituted for the general advantage of the whole society; and His Majesty has studiously abstained from the exercise of his undoubted prerogative of founding and endowing literary or religious corporations until he should obtain the advice of the Representatives of the people for his guidance in that respect. In the same spirit, His Majesty now directs me to instruct you to forward to the very utmost extent of your lawful authority and influence, every scheme for the extension of education amongst the youth of the Province, and especially among the poorest and most destitute of their number, which may be suggested from any quarter with a reasonable prospect of promoting that great design. All minor distinctions should be merged in a general union for this important end; and that the head of that union, the local government, should be sound encouraging and guiding, and to the utmost of its power assisting all the efforts which may be made to create or to foster a taste for intellectual enjoyments and pursuits. A large portion of the unappropriated wilderness has already been set apart for the purpose. If any other system of local assessment, for the building of school houses and the maintenance of Teachers, should be thought desirable, your assent will of course, be cheerfully given to any such law. Or if the Provincial Legislature should be of opinion that such funds would be more advantageously raised by a general duty, of which they would retain to themselves the specific appropriation from year to year, I should hail with the utmost satisfaction the enactment of a statute of that nature. This, however, is a subject involving so many and minute details, that it is, of course, impossible for me to advance beyond the expression of a general but most earnest solicitude for the furtherance of the cause of education, in its most comprehensive sense, in Upper Canada. Confident in your own concurrence, and in that of the members of the Legislature in those views, I cheerfully remit to you and to them the office of originating the necessary plans for reducing the general principle into a definite shape, requiring of yourself in the first instance only, that you should quicken the attention of the Legislative Council and Assembly to this subject, should you have reason to apprehend that it is in danger of being overlooked or forgotten.

Mr. Mackenzie announces his design to deliver separate papers respecting the organization of the Legislative Council, and, in the mean time, assails that body with charges in the highest degree derogating from their character, though too vague to admit of any precise discussion. Amongst these general charges, I, however, find a statement, that the "Government has annually supplied itself with the revenues of the Province, utterly disregarding every resolution of the Assembly, in the tenth Parliament to correct the evil. Information even (he adds) as to the objects to which the people's money is applied, is annually refused, in respect to a great part of the funds of the Colony, by the Colonial Governors, to unanimous addresses of successive Assemblies—the Royal Instructions being the plea of such refusals." To whatever facts the writer may in this passage refer, I am happy in an occasion of stating to you, that if the Royal Instructions are supposed to forbid the most unreserved communication to the House of Assembly of the manner in which the public money of the Province, from whatever source derived, is expended, such a construction is foreign to His Majesty's design. There is no portion of the Royal revenue, whether the proceeds of Crown Lands or from whatever other source derived, of the employment of which the House of Assembly should not have the most ample and particular information which they may at any time think proper to call for. Nothing is gained by a concealment upon questions of this nature, and a degree of suspicion and prejudice is not rarely excited, which, however ill founded, often appears in the result, to be incurable.

Mr. Mackenzie condemns the present House of Assembly not less vehemently than the local Government, and the Legislative Council, representing that they were chosen by the people in a state of dejection and despondency as to the Reform of abuses. To sustain his argument he is thus compelled to draw a picture of the Canadian character, in which I am confident he does His Majesty's subjects, at large, great injustice. I am well persuaded that no people on earth are less likely to yield themselves to the unmanly weakness of despairing of the public good, and of betraying their own most sacred duties in so pusillanimous a spirit. And in truth, Mr. Mackenzie must have persuaded himself that a degree of ignorance exists in this country respecting the affairs of Canada which would be absolutely ludicrous, if he can really expect credit for the statement that in the year 1830, an utter despair of vindicating the public liberties had taken possession of the mind of the inhabitants.

I deeply regret that in some parts of his papers Mr. Mackenzie should have left in much obscurity the simple matters of facts which it might have been really important to consider. Thus he speaks of preachers taught to meddle in the political quarrels of factions and parties, and of their leaders being "accommodated with seats in the political councils of the State, and of the Government keeping in pay a political priesthood." It would surely have been as impressive and more useful to have stated that the Bishop and the Archdeacon are both on the list of the Legislative Council, but that it is expected of those gentlemen that they should altogether abstain from interference in any secular matters which may be agitated at that board. Whether even under this restriction their holding such seats is really desirable, is a question upon which I am fully prepared to listen with the utmost attention to any advice which I may receive from yourself, from the House of Assembly, or from any other competent authority. I have no solicitude for retaining either the Bishop or the Archdeacon on the list of Councillors, but am, on the contrary, rather pre-disposed to the opinion that by resigning their seats they would best consult their own personal comfort, and the success of their designs for the spiritual good of the people. But any such resignation must be voluntary since the office is held for life, and were it otherwise, no consideration could induce me to advise His Majesty to degrade the Bishop or the Archdeacon from the stations they oc-copy, except upon the most conclusive proof of misconduct. But even Mr. Mackenzie does not impute any violation of duty to them. With respect to the charge shewing an undue preference to preachers of religion belonging to the established churches of this country, it is so utterly at variance with the whole course of policy which it has been the object of any despatches to yourself to prescribe, that I cannot pause to repel it in any formal manner.

Much complaint is made of the expense of elections, and it is said that public officers are enabled by their superior affluence to overpower by a lavish and corrupt expenditure those who have no other recommendation than their personal character. If there is the least foundation for this complaint as to the expense of elections (which I have not the means of ascertaining) you will signify to the Legislative bodies that it is the earnest desire and recommendation of His Majesty that every practical method should be taken for correcting what would be so great an evil, by reducing the cost of elections within the narrowest possible limits. —I cannot however omit observing that even if it should turn out to be true that the cost of elections is as great as it is represented to be, the official return of the civil establishment of the colony sufficiently shews that it is quite impossible that the salaries received by public servants can enable them to avail themselves of this circumstance in the manner which has been alleged.

Mr. Mackenzie states that an enquiry into the state of the representation was instituted by the present House of Assembly on his own motion, and he has transcribed the resolutions adopted by the committee, but he adds that "such propositions were not suitable to the majority in the present Assembly," that they appointed a new committee which reported that no alterations were required in the existing laws, except by giving the County of York one additional member, and that on receiving this report, the House instead of giving York a member took one from it; and as I understand increased the number of members for the District of Bathurst.

It suits the present view of this gentleman to call upon the Executive Government to censure and dissent from the resolutions of the representatives of the people, adopted after two solemn enquiries and supported by a body of Petitioners far exceeding in numbers those for whom he acts. In what language, however, such an interference of Government would be denounced by Mr. Mackenzie himself on any occasion on which he concurred with the majority of the House, it is not difficult to conjecture. It cannot be expected that any decision of the Legislature upon a subject of so much general interest as the Election Laws should escape without the most vehement and unmeasured censure from the parties unfavorably affected by it. Looking, however, not to individual but to general interests, not to the excitement of any dissatisfied party, but to permanent principle, I must positively refuse upon a question so peculiarly within the cognizance of the House of Assembly to place the King's Government in hostility with that body. I have every reason to suppose that the course they adopted was wisely taken: and even if I thought otherwise their authority would compel me to distrust my own judgment.

Mr. Mackenzie has concluded this paper by predictions of bloodshed and civil war, and a dissolution of the connection between Upper Canada and this kingdom. He may well suppose that such a prospect would be regarded by His Majesty's Government with a degree of concern and anxiety to which it would be difficult to give any adequate expressions. But against gloomy prophecies of this nature, every man conversant with public business must learn to fortify his mind. They have ever been the resource of those who endeavor to extort from the fears of government concessions, in favor of which no adequate reasons could be urged. I will not adopt the injurious opinions which Mr. Mackenzie seems to entertain of the people of Upper Canada. I reject as a libel on that loyal and enlightened race of men, the supposition that they would violate their sworn fidelity to the King, and desolate their native land with blood, because His Majesty defers to the judgment of His Faithful Commons in Provincial Parliament assembled, supported by large bodies of the most respectable and numerous petitioners, rather than to the opinions of a far less numerous, though probably a highly respectable portion of his subjects. I will not for a moment speculate upon the probabilities of such a revolt. It is a subject which it would be utterly indecorous to agitate. The people of Upper Canada have the highest claims to the attachment of their Sovereign and of the British nation; and whatever efforts may be made to excite discontents among them they will, I am persuaded, believe that His Majesty and the Parliament of this Kingdom, in common with the entire mass of the population of Great Britain and Ireland, cherish towards them no other sentiments than those of the most profound respect for their constitutional rights, and the most earnest desire for their social welfare. In that spirit His Majesty's Ministers are, and have ever been, prepared to refer to the Provincial Legislature the consideration of every question directly or remotely affecting the interests of the Province, and even to anticipate their probable wishes as far as is consistent with the discharge of those Executive duties which the constitution has devolved upon the local government and its various functionaries. I am unconscious of a solitary instance in which my colleagues and myself have sanctioned any attempt to derogate from the privileges of the Provincial Legislature or the rights of any class of His Majesty's Canadian subjects; and in the consciousness of having acted under the constant guidance of these principles, we can cheerfully appeal to the people at large for that just appreciation of the measures of government, which, if I could credit Mr. Mackenzie, I might suppose was not to be expected.

I proceeded to the second paper, entitled, "An argument intended to shew that it is expedient to dissolve the present Provincial Parliament of Upper Canada, and summon a new one."

After enumerating the various topics embraced in the former paper, Mr. Mackenzie proceeds to state that the metropolitan county condemned the conduct of the majority of the present Assembly; first by his own election in January 1832, and secondly by his election in February last. He adds that the decision of the County of Grenville, in rejecting Mr. Jones, and choosing Mr. Norton, testified their concurrence in his views. For the reasons already explained, I must be permitted to believe that the electors for the metropolitan county, enlightened and worthy of all respect as they certainly are, cannot be considered as perfectly impartial judges upon the question of representation. The proposed change would invest them with an influence of which the counties remote from the seat of government would have the strongest reason to complain—Not is the voice of the County of Grenville entitled to outweigh the decisions of many others, counties and towns which are obviously opposed to it. It is then said that the present House should be dissolved "because it is manifest that the great body of the people are justly dissatisfied with their proceedings." It is easy to make such assertions, but not so easy to substantiate them. I must upon such a question give more weight to the recorded opinions of the 26,854 persons who have expressed their dissent from Mr. Mackenzie's views, than to that gentleman's declaration supported by similar attestations.

The writer then enumerates various acts of misconduct which he attributes to the present Assembly. These are the rejection of bills for the regulating of township officers, for education, and for amending the jury laws. They also are charged with having granted a permanent civil list without stipulating for the independence of the judges—and this measure is said to have been passed both by the Assembly and the Council in an unusual and indecent haste. Respecting judicial independence, it must have been known to Mr. Mackenzie, that without waiting any solicitations from the Province, His Majesty had long before the date of this paper, directed you to suggest the enactment of a bill for that purpose. His Majesty would rejoice to give his assent to such a bill, and doubts not that it will speedily be enacted. The indecorous haste which is said to have occurred in granting the civil list seems to be very harshly ascribed to the House. The King had, without any request from them, placed at their disposal the revenues of which the law had vested the appropriation in himself; and if in a courteous and respectful acknowledgement of so frank a concession, the ordinary forms of business were dispensed with, it is surely neither wise nor gracious thus to censure a proceeding intended and calculated to strengthen the bonds by which the Sovereign and his people are happily united. The question of Juries and Township Officers are precisely such as to admit an infinite diversity of opinion respecting each specific measure proposed to the House; and no unprejudiced person would assume that a dissent from his own views on such topics implied any failure of zeal for the public good.

This paper proceeds to accumulate a body of charges against the Assembly, into the justice of which it is utterly impossible that I should enter. Whether their appropriations of public money have been prudent—whether Mr. Mackenzie himself was properly expelled—whether a reduction of fees ought to have been made—whether the term "misguided individual" was correctly applied to Mr. Mackenzie and others, in the address to His Majesty, are topics on which I conceive it to be the duty of the King's Government rather to defer to the judgment of a body enjoying the most extensive means of local information than to oppose to them conjectural opinions of their own.

The same conclusion is next urged on the ground of the angry and excited state of the public mind. I should have thought that, assuming the accuracy of this statement, anger and excitement were precisely those tempers of mind in which men would least qualified to exercise a wise and dispassionate judgment on the great question which it is proposed to refer to their determination.

The recent dissolution of Parliament in this kingdom is quoted as a precedent in favor of a similar proceeding in Upper Canada. I will not discuss the accuracy of the analogy of which it is thus attempted to draw between the two cases; but content myself with saying that I believe no impartial man will deny that no real similarity exists between them. However well adapted such a topic may be for popular effect it would be at variance with all sound principles to accept it as a ground for a great political measure.

Mr. Mackenzie appears to have foreseen that a very numerous body of petitioners would protest against his recommendations.—It is satisfactory to find that in his attempt to reel their effect by anticipation, he has no specific statement to make or argument to urge, but that in his opinion, such petitions would shew “the follies of the advisers of the government, and their own inexperience.”—With what propriety “foily” is thus freely attributed to more than 26,000 persons, or “inexperience” to those who are in the same breath condemned for having exercised an improper authority from the very infancy of the Province, it were needless for me to state.

The House themselves, it appears, refused to concur in an address for their own dissolution. In favor of the motion, eighteen members voted, and twenty-seven against it. The two parties it is said each representing populations numerically equal. But it is added that nineteen of the majority were persons holding offices or places at the pleasure of the Crown. Upon what grounds Mr. Mackenzie makes this assertion I am at a loss to conjecture. I have before me a list of the majority who voted upon the occasion referred to, and on comparing it with the annual return of the civil establishment of the colony for 1830, I cannot discover that it includes more than six gentlemen holding any public employment. Of these six, one fills a situation of which the emolument is little more than nominal, being only £9 a year—of the remaining five, two are the law officers of the crown, whom I presume Mr. Mackenzie can scarcely hold it to be desirable to exclude from the Assembly. If it could be shown that the Crown really possessed an undue influence in the Provincial Legislature, His Majesty would not hesitate to assent to any law which might be passed for the purpose of limiting the number of persons holding offices at pleasure who should be permitted at one time to sit there. I cannot however believe that any such undue influence could possibly be exercised. The popular system of election which exists in Upper Canada, would enable the inhabitants speedily to dismiss from the Assembly any representative who might be capable of betraying his duty to his constituents by supporting a line of policy injurious to their interests, for so paltry a consideration as £50 or £60 a year, which seems to be the amount received by some of the persons to whose presence in the Assembly Mr. Mackenzie objects. If the majority of the electors of any town or county think fit to return as their representative a gentleman who is in the public service, this only proves that the general policy of the Government by which he is employed, is in their opinion entitled to approbation; nor if so, can I see the slightest objection to such a choice: on the contrary I think the presence in the Assembly of a certain number of gentlemen holding official situations, and able to explain the views and objects of the Government on the different subjects which come under discussion, is calculated very much to promote the public interest.

Mr. Mackenzie further contends that the petitions of which he is the bearer should be credited as expressive of the general opinion of the Province, because they accord with the votes of the House of Assembly of Lower Canada—because they are in harmony with the views of the last Assembly of Upper Canada—because this present Assembly has vacillated in some of its measures; because the present House has sanctioned resolutions, bills and addresses, negated by the Council or rendered ineffectual by yourself—because they correspond with the petitions presented to the House—because they are in coincidence with certain petitions approved by the Assembly in 1828—with others presented to the House of Commons in 1831—and with another address to yourself in December last; and finally because they are supported by a mass of facts and testimony.

These statements do not, as far as I perceive, invalidate the inference which I am bound to draw from the facts that Mr. Mackenzie and his constituents are opposed by a body of petitioners who very greatly outnumber themselves: desirous to attribute to popular opinion, when deliberately formed and calmly expressed, the weight which it is indeed impossible to deny it, I am by that very consideration compelled to believe that in acceding to the prayer for a dissolution of the House, His Majesty would be acting not in consonance with the judgment of the people but in opposition to it. I must believe myself better informed than Mr. Mackenzie, respecting the affairs of Lower Canada, as I have much more ample sources of information, and I therefore deny that the cases of the two Provinces are so parallel, or alike, that the resolutions adopted in the one could, with any propriety, be transferred to the circumstances of the other. I cannot assume that the ninth Provincial Assembly, were it now sitting, would retain the opinions it held in a former and different period. The changes of opinion in the present House of Assembly rather prove that that body are attentive to the wishes of their constituents than the reverse, and certainly afford no argument to shew that they have lost the public confidence. The “facts,” and the “testimonies” to which reference is made, I have considered in the former part of this Despatch.

The dissolution of the House is again urged upon His Majesty, because the same principle of extending the representation to meet the increase of the population was recognized in the Lower Canada bill of 1829—because His Majesty assented to a reformed representation in this country—because it is desirable to conciliate the people of Upper Canada—because the Canada Committee of 1828, advised a conciliatory and constitutional system of Government to be observed in the Canadas; and because Mr. Hume has, on some occasion, which is not explained, excited expectations in the Province which the refusal of a dissolution would disappoint.

I answer that for whatever language Mr. Hume may have employed, that gentleman alone is responsible; and His Majesty's Government cannot be called upon to answer for any disappointment which they may have had no share in producing. I further answer that the advice to conciliate the Canadas by a constitutional system of Government, has been constantly borne in mind, by my colleagues and myself; but that I know not what principle of the constitution calls upon us to advise His Majesty to oppose the decided voice of the House of Assembly, and the voice of the great apparent majority of the people.

To retain their affections is the great object of His Majesty's policy; but how am I to suppose that this object would be promoted by thwarting the declared wishes of so preponderating a majority of them? The Royal Assent to the Reform Bill in this kingdom, proceeded on no principle which could be applied to the present question; and the reference to Lower Canada and the Election Law of that Province of 1829, proves only how very imperfectly Mr. Mackenzie is acquainted with the real history of that law.

I have thus pursued the two first papers laid before me by Mr. Mackenzie in the most ample detail. If it should occur to you that I attach to them more importance than can be fairly claimed for the views of a single man writing under the irritation of personal resentment, I would reply that I have always felt it to be my duty to consider any representation which may be laid before me upon important public questions, with reference to the intrinsic merits of the questions themselves rather than to any matter personal to the individual from whom they may immediately proceed; and in this case I have received these documents from Mr. Mackenzie, not merely as expressing his own opinion, but also as explanatory of the views of those who have deputed him to represent what they consider their grievances to His Majesty. To them the utmost possible respect is due; and although they have not succeeded in satisfying me that their opinions are right and their views correct, I have been anxious at least to prove that they had undergone the most careful scrutiny which it was in my power to bestow upon them. The only object which His Majesty's Government can have in view is the improvement and welfare of the Province; and it is highly gratifying for them to believe, from all accounts which reach this country, that whilst upon some questions of internal policy, and the state of the law, in certain respects, differences of opinion may prevail, the prosperity of the Province is rapidly advancing in a manner calculated to draw closer the bonds of attachment by which the people are united to the Mother Country. It is the duty of His Majesty's Government at home, and of His Representative in the Province, to keep those great objects steadily in view, relying with confidence upon the good sense, the right feeling, and the warm loyalty of the people at large. It is by such a course that errors may best be amended, imperfections removed, abuses corrected, and all the sources of public good developed and enlarged.

Having written this despatch with a view to publicity, you have my authority to make it public in whatever manner you may think most convenient.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

GODERICH.

Copy of a Despatch from Major General SIR JOHN COLBORNE, to Viscount GODERICH, enclosing Addresses from the Legislative Council and House of Assembly.

UPPER CANADA, }
York, 16th February, 1833. }

MY LORD,

I have the honour to acquaint Your Lordship, that being persuaded much inconvenience must arise from delaying to promulgate Your Lordships' Despatch of the 8th November last, I took an early opportunity of laying this Despatch and the voluminous Documents to which it referred before the Legislative Council and House of Assembly.

The documents were the occasion of a very angry discussion in both Houses; and I beg leave to transmit to your Lordship, the accompanying Addresses which I have received, respecting the several allusions in your Lordship's observations, which the two Houses have considered themselves called on to notice.

Under the circumstances of the case, and with reference to the petitions carried home by Mr. Mackenzie, having been received by the House of Assembly last Session, I have no doubt that Your Lordship will approve of the course which I have pursued in giving publicity to Your Lordship's Despatch.

I have, &c.

No. 80.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, Knight, Commander of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Legislative Council of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, beg leave to express our thanks to Your Excellency for laying before us an original despatch, written to Your Excellency by the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, on the 8th of November last, containing his Lordship's observations at great length, upon a variety of statements made to him by Mr. W. L. Mackenzie, an inhabitant of this town. Having perused this Despatch, we comply with your Excellency's desire in returning it to your Excellency, taking it for granted that the only reason for laying it before the Legislative Council was the direction contained in the Despatch that it should receive publicity.

The statements upon which these comments have been framed have also been laid before us by your Excellency; but without entering into any particular consideration of their contents, with which the Council had little desire to become acquainted, enough appears in the tenor of his Lordship's observations, to make it manifest that those statements have been made with a very unusual disregard of truth, and in a spirit of wanton and intemperate hostility to the Legislative and Executive authorities in this Province. If sufficient internal evidence of this character did not present itself to His Majesty's Secretary of State, in all such parts of those documents as relate to the affairs of this Colony we must infer, from the observations of his Lordship, that it was abundantly displayed in the principles, motives and conduct ascribed to His Majesty's Ministers in England, upon which his Lordship has necessarily the means of forming a correct opinion.

We cannot say that it may not possibly give satisfaction to some persons in this Province to observe the condescending and respectful manner in which representations of so peculiar a description, proceeding from an individual, have been received and replied to, notwithstanding it was evident they were outrageously insulting to all the constituted authorities of this Colony, and scarcely less so to the people at large, in imputing to them sentiments and feelings by which they never have been, and we are convinced never will be, actuated. It is not in the nature of things, however, that the Legislative Council, or that any portion of the people in this Province, of sound hearts and understandings, having the truth under their view, can regard such statements, as compose Mr. Mackenzie's voluminous correspondence with His Majesty's Secretary of State, in any other manner than with the most unqualified contempt, a contempt which, upon every principle on which character is acquired or lost, we think it must be more conducive to the public interests and honor, and to all the ends of good government to avow than to disclaim; so far, therefore, as the despatch of His Majesty's Secretary of State is to be considered as a reply to those statements, or as a commentary upon information derived from the same source, we cannot regard it as calling for the serious attention of the Legislative Council; but it is scarcely necessary to say, that in any other point of view, this expression of the sentiments of His Majesty's Government upon several of the matters discussed by his Lordship, must be received by us with the greatest interest. Upon some of these matters it may become the duty of the Legislative Council to address themselves respectfully to their Gracious Sovereign, because they deeply concern the permanent interests of this Province; but we think we shall best consult the respect due to the other branches of this Legislature, as well as to ourselves, by forbearing to enter into any discussion upon them in connection with these documents.

We appeal, however, to the intimate knowledge of this colony which Your Excellency has acquired during a residence of four years, for a confirmation of our remark, that upon several of the questions which in this despatch are most elaborately discussed, no dissatisfaction or difficulty prevails, or ever has prevailed; that no person living here ever heard, or imagined before, that they were seriously talked of or thought of as grievances; and that the minds of the people are so far from being disquieted by them, that it is probable not a word would be heard upon them in travelling from one extremity of the Province to the other, and in mingling with its industrious population throughout every portion of it. We appeal also to Your Excellency for a confirmation of the statement, that from the day on which the author of those abusive papers left this Province to the present hour, the people of Upper Canada have pursued their avocations as contentedly and as happily, with as kind and liberal a confidence in the justice of their government, and as respectful a submission to the laws, as can have prevailed throughout the same period in any part of the dominions of the Crown, not excepting the most peaceable county that could be pointed out in either of the United Kingdoms.

It cannot but be highly gratifying to the Legislative Council to observe how rightly His Majesty's government estimates the sincere and ardent attachment which binds the great body of this people to the person and government of their Sovereign, and to the constitution under which they live. It would indeed be folly to expect, that in so large a population, there may not, at any time be found some individuals who desire to disturb the existing order of things, from the same motives, and for the same purposes, which have prompted to similar attempts in all ages and countries, and under all forms of government.

And it is not strange that there should be, among 300,000 persons, a very considerable number who, from a want of information, or of sufficient reflection, or from dispositions unfavorable to candid inquiry, may be too easily deceived, and brought to unite, for a time, in measures which they would not and could not approve of, if the truth could be brought clearly under their view. But in respect to our fellow subjects in Upper Canada, speaking of them collectively as a people, we do them sincerely the justice to believe, that it is not necessary to conciliate their good will by overlooking, upon any occasion, the broadly marked distinctions between truth and intentional mistatement, between honor and dishonor, patriotism and sedition.

Upon the manner in which His Majesty's government might choose to notice the petitions of any number of the inhabitants of this Province upon public or private grievances, expressed, as we must conclude they would be, in the ordinary language of serious remonstrance or complaint, it would be presumptuous in us to offer any remark; but the documents before us are the productions of an individual, supplied and reasoned upon as matters of information, upon the general policy of this government, and the conduct of its officers; and they consist, in a great measure, of extracts from articles that have, from time to time, appeared in the columns of a newspaper, and which cast unmerited insults upon the representative of His Majesty in this Province, upon both branches of the Legislature, upon members of each House individually and by name, and upon some of the most worthy and irreproachable inhabitants of the country. These strung together with little order or connection, and bearing upon the face of them the most palpable marks of a reckless mind, have been unscrupulously thrown before His Majesty's Government, in disregard of the respect due to the high authority to which they were addressed, and in violation of the official form and decorum which constitute in general some protection against contumely and abuse.

It has been painful to the Legislative Council to see, that in a discussion founded upon these documents, the office of Lieutenant Governor of this Province, and the names of some of the most responsible of the King's servants, are even hypothetically connected with imputations, which no one can easily tolerate to find associated with his name.

We confess it has not been without some degree of alarm, that we have observed the great stress laid by His Majesty's Secretary of State, in the course of his discussions, upon the fact, that the petitioners, who, it seems, have supported by their signatures some of the statements advanced by Mr. Mackenzie, are very much outnumbered by the signers of petitions avowing opposite opinions. The Provinces of Canada are a most valuable portion of the British Empire, and their rapidly growing importance well justifies the anxious interest, and the minute attention, with which the welfare and the wishes of their people are consulted by our paternal Government; but for the sake of the very numerous population which now inhabits this portion of the King's dominions, and for the sake of the millions, who, at no distant period, will be comprehended within their limits, we earnestly hope, that the stability of those institutions upon which our social happiness depends, is so far secure, that there are some points which, from their vital importance, will be firmly and inflexibly maintained, and for reasons more satisfactory and conclusive than an accidental preponderance in the number of petitioners on one side or the other; and that the Government of our mother country will feel it to be an indispensable duty to uphold them with constancy against any unfounded prejudice or complaint, however supported. The Legislative Council feel it right also in candour to declare to your Excellency, that they have perceived in various parts of his Lordship's despatch, and not without extreme regret, that to the complaints urged against the Executive Government of this Colony, and its officers, charging them with actual misconduct, or with culpable indifference to the interest of the Colony and the happiness of its people, it seems to have been thought material, if not satisfactory, to reply in substance, that if indeed such imputations could be truly made, no blame can attach to His Majesty's Government in England, either because these abuses occurred in times that are past, or because the responsibility rests wholly with the persons inculpated; and in some instances a degree of color is given to the complaint, by an express direction to your Excellency not to practise or to suffer any such abuse in future, or to give your utmost attention to the particular subject in discussion, which it might from thence be supposed has thus been brought, for the first time, under the attention of His Majesty's Government.

The Legislative Council trust they may be permitted to remark, that if the many faithful subjects of His Majesty in this country, whose knowledge of the truth, and whose sentiments led them justly to appreciate the acts and intentions of His Majesty's Government, had always contented themselves with vindicating them in the same spirit against aspersions unsupported by evidence, and advanced for the sole purpose of weakening the respect which should be felt for them, there might have been found somewhat less of that confidence in the government of the Mother Country, which every good man has felt it to be his duty to maintain and cherish. And they cannot but think it much to be deplored, that on some most interesting public questions, whatever the Government and the Legislature of this Colony have done, and are doing, in the zealous discharge of their duty, seems to have been unfortunately for the time lost sight of, so much as to leave ground for the inference, that it was necessary to quicken attention even to the obvious duty of promoting the religious and moral instruction of the people, by enforcing the suggestions of an individual, who unhappily employs the education he has received in misleading public opinion, and in sowing discontent among a happy and loyal people. We have not failed to remark, that in the observations which His Majesty's Secretary of State has made upon the subject of the Legislative Council, it seems not to have been present, at the moment, to his Lordship's recollection, although it must, of course, have been familiarly known to his Lordship, that that branch of the Legislature is not composed here, as in many chartered governments, of the same body which constitutes the Executive Council of the Governor.— It is therefore, as we most respectfully suggest, not accurately spoken of as a Board, being in fact a deliberate assembly, distinct from the Executive department, constituted by a British Act of Parliament, and composed of members from various districts of the Province who hold their office for life, whose duties are exclusively Legislative, and in which all that is done is openly and publicly discussed, and proceeded in according to the same formalities as are observed in the representative branch of the Legislature. Under this constitution which created and preserves them an independent body, the Legislative Council has, for a long series of years, and for many successive parliaments, proceeded in a spirit of perfect harmony with the House of Assembly, with but one interruption, occasioned by a discussion on a point of privilege, in which each branch doubtless maintained those principles which it thought essential to its just independence.

However different may have been the opinions formed in the two Houses upon the principles or details of particular measures, neither has manifested the inclination to deny to the other the free exercise of their judgment upon all questions, and they have constantly proceeded in a spirit of cordial co-operation in the advancement of objects and undertakings, by the aid of which this Province is making the most rapid and satisfactory progress, and is attaining to great importance as an agricultural and commercial country. It is the very intention of our constitution that the several branches of the Legislature should act as mutual checks upon each other, in order to prevent the too hasty adoption of measures of doubtful expediency; but when this check is interposed and felt, it is not unlikely to happen that persons of impatient and impetuous tempers look thenceforward with an unfavourable eye upon the barrier which obstructs the fulfilment of their wishes, and exert unscrupulously every effort to undermine or overturn it.

For a just and steady support against every such attempt, the Legislative Council had always relied with a natural and habitual confidence upon the consideration and prudence of the Parent State; but they confess with pain that this confidence was in some degree impaired when they found a committee of the House of Commons, a few years ago, in the course of an inquiry into the affairs of the Province of Canada, proposing to such individuals as happened to be at hand a variety of questions apparently framed for the very purpose of drawing forth expressions of dissatisfaction with the manner in which the Legislative Councils were constituted, and really pressing upon them, as it were, to give a sanction by their voice to the opinion, that the Councils should be rendered elective, a change which we are convinced no portion of the people of this province had even to that moment contemplated, and which we venture to say is one of the very last changes which any friend to the best interests of these Colonies would desire to see adopted.

To lead, however, to this conclusion, a variety of questions were proposed relative to the conduct of the Councils in rejecting or amending bills, and these were proposed to individuals in no measure responsible for the acts of the Council, nor competent in any degree to account for or explain them.

It could not be otherwise than that, by such a proceeding, an injury must be inflicted upon the character of the Council, by which its efficiency might be more or less impaired, a consequence certainly not to be desired, and of which the prospect was more painful to this Council from the consciousness that no conclusion to their prejudice would have been drawn by candid men, after that explanation of their proceedings, which alone could make them intelligible, and which the gentlemen conducting the enquiry were wholly without.

The Legislative Council feel it necessary also at this time, after perusing the Despatch of His Majesty's Secretary of State, to declare, with what disappointment and regret they perceive that in an official communication which is directed to be made public, and which has been elicited by the extraordinary representations alluded to, His Lordship has thought it necessary to make express and particular reference to individual members of the Council, commenting upon the profession to which they belong, declaring the line of conduct which His Majesty's Government has enjoined upon them while they continue to be members, and intimating His Lordships' preference that they should resign their seats.

In respect to that part which the members alluded to shall take in the measures and deliberations of the Legislative Council, it is well known to the Council, that nothing could have been less called for than the injunction which has been thus publicly announced, and it is much to be regretted that the expression of this injunction upon such an occasion, and in such a manner, should now render it difficult for those gentlemen to persevere in a line of conduct into which their own inclination and convenience had led them, but which they could not honorably have consented to adopt either upon compulsion, or upon any other suggestion than that of their own judgment.

The Council takes this occasion to remonstrate respectfully but earnestly, against this assumed right of influencing the conduct or controlling the attendance of individual members.

They claim to be regarded as a perfectly independent branch of the Legislature; they feel it to be their duty to the people of this Province, no less than to themselves, that they should really maintain that character; and they are painfully sensible that the honour of the Council collectively, and of each member of it individually, is concerned in their asserting to the full, the privileges which the Constitution has vested in them.

They observe, with pleasure, the declaration of His Lordship, in one part of his Despatch, that His Majesty's Government has no right to interfere in the proceedings of the Council; and they should have felt most happy, if the same conviction which had dictated that declaration had also suggested that no individual member can constitutionally be instructed upon the part which he may take in those proceedings. If, instead of being appointed to the Council for life, the members of that body had held their seats at the pleasure of His Majesty, it would seem, but a reasonable consequence, that either that pleasure should be conclusively expressed, by absolutely removing the member, or that he should be left to be freely governed by his own discretion in respect to the frequency of his attendance in his place, as well as the extent to which he may participate in the acts and deliberations of the House.

The Legislative Council observes, That His Majesty's Secretary of State, adverts in the Despatch to a statement that Mr. Hume had excited expectations of certain measures in regard to this Colony, which expectations ought not to be disappointed. Upon this point it is not unimportant, in the opinion of the Council to observe, that if reliance could be placed on the same source of authority, on which most of those assertions rest, which have occupied so much of the attention of His Majesty's Government, Mr. Hume would indeed be responsible in no small degree for any discontent which may in time be produced in this Province in respect to its constitution and Government; but the Council sincerely trusts that it is not with truth represented that the measures beginning to be introduced into this prosperous Colony for establishing Political Unions, which threaten alike the peace and the liberty of the people, are pursued under his recommendation; the Council, indeed, are bound at present to discredit it. It would be difficult to conceive what motives would justify, or what feeling could impel, any one of our fellow subjects, in England, to such a proceeding. The people of Upper Canada are at this moment, among the most favoured on earth; they enjoy peace, liberty, security and abundance; on a fertile soil, and in a healthful climate, with an almost total exemption from burthens of any kind, and they enjoy those at a time when distress, tumults, and the prospect of war, occasion suffering and anxiety in most countries of the world.

If under these circumstances there can be any considerable number who are really not contented with their lot as inhabitants of Upper Canada, the only cause of their unhappiness must be, that they have not a disposition to be thankful.

The Legislative Council, after a perusal of this despatch of His Majesty's Secretary of State, has thus frankly expressed to your Excellency those sentiments which, if they had forborne to give them utterance, must, nevertheless, have remained impressed upon their minds. It is their earnest hope that they will not be thought to have departed on this occasion of unusual delicacy, from that respect to his Majesty's Government of which they are conscious that the Legislative Council has never been unmindful.— They do not entertain the thought that a Minister of the Crown can ever apply himself to the affairs of this colony with any other wish or intention than to do good, and they recognise in the voluminous despatch which has been placed before them the most anxious desire to place in their true point of view some questions to which the attention of His Majesty's Government had been called, not merely, as the Council is aware, by the representations of an individual, but by the petitions of a number of His Majesty's subjects in this Province. For the desire thus shown, the Legislative Council cannot be otherwise than thankful; and they lament the more, that in a document in which an anxiety to allay prejudice is, on the whole, so manifest, occasion should have been given for the expression of deep regret at the impressions which some of its passages are calculated to produce. The Council, with the greatest deference to His Majesty's Government, beg further to add, that although they are far from thinking that no importance should be attached to the respectability of the source from whence information upon the public affairs of this colony, or the conduct of its government, is sought and derived, yet, with respect to various opinions expressed, it would have seemed to the Council to evince a departure from all former usages, almost equally to be regretted, to have found His Majesty's Government involved in public discussions upon the composition and proceedings of the Legislative Assemblies of this colony, in consequence of the representations of any one of its most respectable inhabitants.

Your Excellency having transmitted to the Legislative Council the despatch and documents referred to, as the only method which we feel could have been consistent with the dignity of the government for giving to them the publicity required by His Majesty's Minister, we have thought it the more regular and respectful course to address to your Excellency our unanimous sentiments upon them under the expectation, however, that your Excellency will deem it proper to transmit a copy of this Address to His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Legislative Council Chamber, }

To His Excellency SIR JOHN COLBOURNE, Knight
Commander of the most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

We, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, return our thanks for Your Excellency's Message of the twelfth day of January last, transmitting a Despatch of the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in answer to certain letters and documents addressed to his Lordship for the purpose of proving that the people of this happy and prosperous Colony are oppressed and burthened with grievances, and have become so discontented, that there is danger of revolt and bloodshed, unless those alleged burthens and grievances are removed and redressed.

We most readily concede that the Noble Secretary of State was actuated by the best motives in framing the Despatch in question; but we cannot refrain from expressing our great regret, that it did not occur to his Lordship, that allegations thus deeply affecting the character of His Majesty's subjects of Upper Canada, rested on no better testimony than that of an individual who had been twice expelled this House, and who, in consequence of his having fabricated and reiterated libels of the grossest description, had been declared unfit and unworthy a seat in the Assembly during the present Parliament. If this fact had occurred to his Lordship, it is reasonable to suppose that he would not have felt himself at liberty to recognise the author of this additional calumny on the people of this Province, as the Agent, or as speaking the sentiments of any portion of the loyal inhabitants of the Province of Upper Canada; and would, therefore, have considered it utterly unnecessary to enter into so elaborate an examination or refutation of any thing advanced by him.

The House of Assembly are unwilling to occupy Your Excellency's time or attention by commenting on the details of the despatch, or on the different matters referred to in it, as constituting grounds of complaint on the part of a few of the people of this Province; they will merely remark, that the remedy for any ill alleged to exist, is placed in the hands and is within the constitutional power of the Legislature of the Colony, and the Noble Secretary of State does the people of this Province but justice in believing "that there are no people on earth who are less likely to yield to the unmanly weakness of despairing of the public good, and of betraying their most sacred duties in a pusillanimous spirit."

Acting upon principles and feelings diametrically opposite to those imputed to them, we are confident that they will take care to exercise their rights as freemen and British subjects in such a manner as will ensure the election of representatives, who will maintain our excellent constitution, guard our rights, and with the concurrence of the other branches of the Legislature, adopt such measures as may appear necessary for removing any just grounds of complaint.

ADDRESS to His Majesty from the inhabitants of Lennox and Addington.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN:

We, Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, inhabitants of the counties of Lennox and Addington, in the Midland District, and Province of Upper Canada, beg leave humbly and respectfully to tender our most hearty and sincere thanks to Your Majesty, for the consideration which Your Majesty has been pleased to bestow upon the representations and petitions of Your Majesty's subjects in this Province, as evinced by the despatch of Lord Goderich, Your Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, dated 8th November, 1832, and transmitted by His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor Sir John Colborne, to the House of Assembly, during the recent session of our Provincial Parliament. Trusting, as we do, that the paternal care manifested in that despatch, and a free, unrestrained and direct communication between Your Majesty's Government and the people of Upper Canada, will be the means of perpetuating the bonds of loyalty, affection and gratitude which bind us to Your Majesty's person and government, and believing that the various measures of reform mentioned in the despatch, many of which have long been most anxiously desired by a large majority of the people of this Province, if adopted, cannot fail to render Your Majesty's faithful subjects more prosperous, contented and happy.

ADDRESS to His Majesty from the inhabitants of Cobourg.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY :

We Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects of the Town of Cobourg and its vicinity, beg leave to renew the pledges of our fidelity and loyal attachment to Your Majesty's person and government, and to express our unfeigned gratitude for the interest Your Majesty has always taken in the welfare of this Province, and especially for Your Majesty's benevolent concurrence in the liberal suggestions contained in the despatch of Your Majesty's Colonial Secretary, the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Goderich, bearing date the 8th of November last.

It has occasioned no less surprise than regret, that this wise and conciliatory act of Your Majesty's Government, which reflects the highest honor on their justice and liberality, and which has called forth the grateful feelings of Your Majesty's loyal subjects in Upper Canada, has not been met with corresponding sentiments by our local legislature.

We owe it to Your Majesty, and to Your Majesty's Government, as well as to ourselves, to give our unhesitating assurance, that the sentiments of gratitude thus conveyed are in common with those of the great body of the people, and that Your Majesty's kindredness has thereby strengthened the bond which unites both countries together.

That Your Majesty will continue to pay a paternal regard to the just complaints of Your Majesty's Canadian subjects, and that Your Majesty's Government will always consult the prosperity and happiness of the province, we confidently anticipate; and we pray that Your Majesty may long reign over a prosperous, happy and united people.

SESSIONS PAPER (1830.) No. 574.

[From a Return to an Address of the House of Commons dated 7th of June, 1830.]

the Right Honorable Secretary Sir George Murray, dated York, Upper Canada, 16th February, 1829:

With respect to the constitution of the Executive and Legislative Councils, on which subject you require information, it is evident that whatever persons may be appointed members of the Executive Council, there will be a considerable degree of jealousy existing in this limited community of their influence & authority; they must necessarily reside at York, and will seldom be able to accept the charge without holding other offices under the Crown. On many accounts it is very desirable that the Chief Justice should retain his seat in the Executive Council; but there can be no doubt that occasionally he must, as a Judge, be led too deeply into the political affairs of the Colony.

Composed as the Legislative Council is at present, the Province has a right to complain of the great influence of the Executive government in it. The Legislative Council consists of seventeen members, exclusive of the Bishop of Quebec; of these, from accidental causes, not more than fifteen ever attend to their Legislative duties. Thus, out of the number generally present, six are of the Executive Council, and four hold offices under the Government; I have, therefore, intimated my intention of recommending to His Majesty's Government to increase the Legislative Council.

It is exceedingly difficult to find persons qualified for it; but if about eight or ten more can be selected from different parts of the Province, and the majority be considered independent, there can be no good reason assigned for excluding the Executive Council.

Since the date of the despatch from which the above extract has been taken, the Right Rev. Doctor Macdonell, Roman Catholic Bishop, and John Elmsley, Esq. two additional members, have been added to the Legislative Council; and it is not intended that the Chief Justice of Upper Canada should continue a member of the Executive Council.

Downing-Street, 14th June, 1830.

Proceedings in England, with Acts of the Colonial Legislature.

On the arrival of the Acts of a Session of a Colonial Legislature at the Colonial Office, they are referred by the Secretary of State to the Law Counsel for the Department, who reports on them in point of Law—that is, 1. Whether they are consistent with the Governor of the Colony's Commission and Instructions.—2. Whether in the language of the statute 7 & 8, Will. 3d, ch. 22, sec. 9, they are or are not repugnant to the laws of Great Britain; and 3. Whether each act is so framed as to give full effect to the purposes for which the Colonial Legislature framed it.

The Law Counsel reports to the Secretary of State. The acts thus reported on, and the report, are communicated by the latter to the President of the Privy Council, and laid before the King in Council for his Majesty's consideration. At the then ensuing Council Board, the acts and reports are referred to the Lords of Trade and Plantations, of the Committee of whom the Secretary of State is one. This Committee select the most difficult statutes and get the opinions of the Crown Lawyers upon them.

The Committee then report on the acts under three heads:—

1. Acts disallowed.
2. Acts of public and general importance requiring special confirmation.
3. Ordinary acts left to their operation.

No Colonial acts can be disallowed, save by a regular order of the King in Council.

The Clerk of the Council announces to the Secretary of State the decision of the Council on the acts, which is communicated to the Governor of the Colony, together with the original order in Council. A list is also made and sent of acts neither confirmed, nor disallowed, with an intimation that they will be left to their operation.

Comparatively few statutes are either confirmed or disallowed.

DOWNING STREET, }
29th December, 1832. }

SIR,

I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated the 18th instant, and to return you the following answer.

Lord Goderich does not consider it consistent with the duties of his office to enter into any explanation with yourself or with any other private person, of the views which His Majesty's Government may entertain respecting the propriety of dissolving the present Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada.

With respect to the warnings and predictions which you have thought it your duty to address to His Lordship in the name of the people of Upper Canada collectively, not only on the present, but on former occasions, Lord Goderich directs me to say that he cannot acknowledge or suppose that your views are really those of the majority of the inhabitants of that important part of His Majesty's dominions. Opinions directly opposite to those which you maintain, are advanced in petitions addressed to His Majesty, and to the Lieutenant Governor, by bodies of the inhabitants far more numerous than those who have signed the petitions entrusted to your care. With the most unaffected anxiety to consult the deliberate wishes of the people of the Province upon all questions of local interest, Lord Goderich would be acting in direct opposition to that principle, if he were to defer to the desires of the comparatively small minority, for whom you act, rather than to those of the far greater body, by whom the counter petitions have been signed.

With reference to your statement that the question of the Union of Montreal with Upper Canada is "agitated by authority emanating from Downing Street," Lord Goderich directs me to state that he is totally at a loss to understand your meaning, but will be greatly obliged to you if you will place him in possession of proof that any person in British North America or elsewhere has agitated that question under any pretended authority from this Department, because His Lordship would feel it his duty to disavow in the most unqualified terms the having directly or indirectly imparted any such authority to any person whatever.

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

HOWICK.

W. L. Mackenzie, Esquire.

No. 35.

To the Right Honourable Lord Viscount Goderich, His Majesty's Secretary of State Colonial Department, Downing Street.

2, POLAND STREET, }
January 9, 1833. }

MY LORD,

I greatly rejoice to perceive that Your Lordship is most anxious to consult the deliberate wishes of the people, because I am convinced that the safety, the honour, the strength of governments at a distance, are best preserved and maintained by ascertaining and following the judgment of the better informed part of the community. Being assured that I am expressing opinions and stating facts relative to Upper Canada in accordance with that public sentiment, and a strict regard for truth, I think it my duty to submit to the government some of the reasons which have led me to conclude (without seeing the "counter petitions") that His Majesty's Government have been deceived, misled, and grossly imposed upon, with regard to the real numbers and character of the memorialists who express "opinions directly" opposite to those which I maintain. I feel assured that upon in-investigation it will be found there is some mistake in the estimate, and I court that enquiry with the least possible delay—I beg I entreat Your Lordship that I may be permitted to examine the statements and signatures of the supposed "far greater body," spoken of by Viscount Howick in his letter of last Saturday week, as having signed those "counter petitions."

The whole population of Upper Canada, when I left it last April, was believed to be under 240,000, of whom about one-sixth were male adults, capable either of signing their names or making a mark; and if every man of them had come forward to petition His Majesty on the state of the Province—which was not the case—the whole number of petitioners would probably have fallen below 40,000.

It is a fact of which I have a distinct personal knowledge that the number of signatures attached to the petitions addressed to the King and entrusted to my care, far exceeded 20,000, and that these petitions were agreed upon at from one to two hundred District, County, Town, Township, and Village public meetings, at which vast numbers of the people attended. If, then, a large majority of the whole population capable of petitioning, entrusted their Addresses to your humble correspondent, Your Lordship cannot have received through the Lieutenant Governor petitions of an opposite character signed by a still greater number of persons. Either I have been the bearer of spurious petitions, or a great part of the addresses sent by Sir John Colborne deserves that designation—unless indeed it be assumed that thousands of the good people of the Colony signed first on the one side, and then went & affixed their names on the other "for uniformity's sake," certainly a very improbable surmise, when their high character for integrity and intelligence is taken into consideration.

If I could have doubted for a moment as to whether I was expressing the deliberate opinions of the people of Upper Canada, I never would have consented to cross the Atlantic upon such an errand as has now detained me here seven months, and which to all appearance is likely to hinder me seven more. Although the popular representation is very imperfect, and the influence of the Executive Government, and the monopolies which uphold it, very great, Your Lordship will do me the justice to keep in memory that I have continually pressed upon the attention of Government a dissolution of the Legislature, and the calling of a new Provincial Parliament as the only true way of ascertaining public opinion. What could the petitioners by me have gained by a dissolution if they had not felt beyond a shadow of doubt that they were strong enough in numbers, wealth and respectability, to counteract the whole influence of the Executive now upheld in Upper Canada to the injury of the British Nation, and in despite of the people of the Colony? If your Lordship will cast a glance over the petitions you will find that it is through the House of Assembly the petitioners propose to carry into effect nearly all these plans of reform & improvement to which they solicit Your Lordship's countenance. It would have been quite a Quixotic project to send me here at a vast expense to pray the dissolution of the present House if the petitioners had not felt perfectly secure that they could send a very different class of members to the new one. I assured Your Lordship in presence of Mr. Hume and Mr. Viger, on the very first day Your Lordship honored me with an audience, that if that point alone was gained before the then next annual session I should return to Upper Canada well satisfied that I had no doubt the petitioners would be so also. But instead of a dissolution we had the Legislature hurried prematurely into session, and expulsion, not by a majority, but by a few government functionaries, not one half the House being in attendance.

Your Lordship will remember that, in 1828, the Wesleyan Methodists and Protestant Dissenters, from one general and thirty-nine local committees, humbly petitioned the House of Commons against Dr. Strachan's misrepresentations, and in favour of equal religious privileges, and that their petitions signed by 8,000 men and presented by Mr. Hume, on the 3rd of May were referred to the Canada Committee of the House of Commons whose favorable report thereon, it has not pleased His Majesty's Government, thus far, to act upon. I appear here as a member, and the accredited agent of the general committee to whom these 8,000 men entrusted their memorials, and whatever may be the number of signatures sent to your Lordship's office, by Sir John Colborne, I would require very powerful evidence indeed to induce me to believe that public opinion had changed on the important questions these petitions embrace. I am the same person who procured from a large majority of the present House of Assembly, the explicit declaration recorded on its journals, in favour of the principles laid down in these petitions and against the recognition of exclusive, dominant religious establishments. Therefore, it was, most probably, that I was unanimously selected to support the same opinions here.

I appear as the accredited agent of the Committee of Friends of Civil and Religious Freedom, of all denominations whose petitions signed by 10,000 freeholders and inhabitants, Mr. Hume presented to the House of Commons in 1831, Mr. Hume, as well as Captain Ryerson assured the people of Canada that the Reform Ministry would carefully enquire into the allegations of the petitioners. Years have elapsed, but their complaints remain unredressed; and what is worse than all, I am now informed that the petitioners are in the minority. On the merits of their case nothing is said, but I can readily infer that on this ground also, they are held to have been found wanting, and that Governor Colborne's squabbles with the Methodists are justified.

I was the bearer, this summer, of the petitions of 10,000 inhabitants of Upper Canada, praying for a change in the character of the Legislative Council, an enquiry into the conduct of the Lieutenant Governor, and the redress of many grievances. These petitions were presented to the House of Commons by Mr. Hume, who informed me, as I did the petitioners, that the Government would cause full enquiry to be made. I must suppose that this has been done; and after an interval of six months, at length I am assured by your Lordship that the petitions do not express public opinion.

A majority of all the male adult population of Upper Canada have expressed their opinions and wishes in 61 humble and respectful addresses to the King during the last 18 months.—Of these addresses and memorials, two, not numerous signed, were presented to His Majesty by Lord Brougham; one from Hastings, reached your Lordship with some difficulty through the Post-office and Home Department; and the rest I remember having personally deposited in the Colonial Office at several times myself. Even this indication of public sentiment appears to have been neutralized, as well in regard to the merits of the case, as by a far greater majority of the signatures of persons holding opinions directly opposite, and compared to whom the Reformers of Upper Canada are "a comparatively small minority."

I have long and successfully advocated the principles embraced in the petitions I brought over, both within and without the walls of the House of Assembly.—And as the representative of a sixth at least of the whole Colony, I thought I might be entitled to be considered by His Majesty's Government on that ground alone a tolerably fair indication of public opinion in that District where the acts of the Government are best known.

According to my understanding of Viscount Howick's letters of the 23d and 29th of June, and 29th of December last, your Lordship has laid down several rules or principles for the guidance of those who sent me here. I humbly ask leave to apply these rules or principles to the case of the petitioners.

I am told, that the unauthorized statements of individuals are not to be received in opposition to those of the Assembly of Upper Canada, and that your Lordship is convinced that all classes of the inhabitants are fairly represented in the House of Assembly.

That your Lordship is desirous to consult the deliberate wishes of the people of Upper Canada upon all questions of local interest.

And, that as opinions directly opposite to those which I maintain are advanced in petitions addressed to the King and his Lieutenant Governor by far more numerous bodies of the inhabitants than those who have signed the petitions entrusted to me, your Lordship would not be consulting the deliberate wishes of the people of Upper Canada if you were to comply with the requests of the comparatively small minority for whom I act, in opposition to the far greater body who have expressed opinions directly opposite.

It so happens in the present instance, that in many, if not in most cases, the petitioners by me ask that those things may be recommended by His Majesty's Government to be done, which the present as well as the two last Houses of Assembly have vainly essayed to accomplish. I find it somewhat difficult to reconcile this fact with a refusal of these requests, upon the ground that to grant them would be deferring to the minority, even while it is readily admitted that the House of Assembly correctly represents the sentiments of the majority. For example:—

1. The present House of Assembly have passed a bill for the more equal distribution of the estates of persons dying intestate—so did the last House—so did the House before that. The petitioners by me humbly pray that this most important and much-to-be-desired measure may be perfected by receiving the Royal Approbation. Three successive Houses have proved the unchangeableness of public opinion on this point. Yet it is refused, because your Lordship is in possession of "the unauthorised statements of individuals" whom you conscientiously believe to be a majority of all the petitioners from the Colony, but who in this case are "in opposition to the Assembly."

2. The present House of Assembly have declared the College Charter a grievance—so did the last House—so did the House before that—so did the Committee of the House of Commons sitting upon one of the petitions for which I am the agent—so do the petitioners by me. Yet has it not received a liberal charter.

3. The present House of Assembly solemnly declared its opposition to any pecuniary union of Church and State, and to all undue preferences given to the Ministers of particular Religious Sects, and prayed that the Clergy Reserves might be sold and general education promoted with the proceeds.—So did the House elected in 1824, and the House elected in 1828.—So did the petitioners by me.—They are unsuccessful.

4. The last and present Houses of Assembly have enquired by address, and in other ways, from time to time, into the amount and application of that secret revenue which it has been usual to collect as well as expend without the knowledge or approbation either of the people of England or of Canada. They enquired in vain. The petitioners by me make the same request. Your Lordship admits that there ought to be no concealment. But the concealment continues.

5. The present House of Assembly prayed that the Timber Trade might not be burthened with an inland tax, which is equal to about 25 per cent. on the value of the rafts. The Ministry declined to remove the impost thus unanimously complained of. The petitioners by me are opposed to its continuation.

6. The present House addressed the King in favor of the independence of the Judges—So did the two last Houses—So have the petitioners. Yet the Judges (political partizans) have been made more than ever dependant upon the military government, while they are perfectly independent of the country!

7. The present House of Assembly refused or declined to comply with the prayers of the Freeholders of the County of York last winter and the winter before, asking a fair share of the representation. I observe by the debates of this Session. that they are now hastening to give it six Members instead of one—the very thing I was sent here to ask for, after it had been refused there. I doubt its becoming a law; it is too good a measure to originate with the local authorities or to be countenanced by them.

8. The Committee of the House of Commons on the Government of Canada, strongly recommended an amendment of the defective system of summoning Juries, under which Marshals or Sheriffs enjoying large incomes at the pleasure of the Colonial Executive, are entrusted with the arbitrary selection both of Grand and Petty Jurors all over the Colony. The last House of Assembly and the one before it passed bills in vain for remedying the evil, and the present House has acknowledged its existence. I am not aware that His Majesty's Government has taken any step whatever to remove this grievance, although the petitioners by me have made it a principle ground of complaint, as striking at the very root of the administration of justice.

9. The present House endeavoured to provide for the payment of the War Losses, but were checked by the Legislative Council, which is to say, the Government. The petitioners by me, though disagreeing as to the best mode of payment, wish that speedy justice may be done these long-neglected and ill-treated claimants upon British justice.

10. A Bill was introduced last winter, in the present House, to diminish law-costs—it passed, with two dissentient voices, and was lost in the Council. The petitioners pray that law-costs may be diminished.

11. In the question of the Chaplaincy of the House of Assembly, as it appears on the Journals, is involved the whole merits of the petitioners' claims to be relieved from the undue interference of the Government in matters of religion. In accordance with the petitions of the country, a bill and an address to His Majesty passed the House last Session. Nothing has, however, been done by the Government, as far as I know, and now the objection is raised that there are counter-petitions emanating from "bodies of the inhabitants far more numerous than those who have signed the petitions entrusted to my care."

If the House of Assembly, who agree with the petitioners by me in the above and many other essential points, are as it is assured by the Government they are, the true representatives of public opinion, what shall we say of the counter-petitions, in favor of whose wishes, though directly the reverse of those of the Assembly, His Majesty's Government has thus far inclined to decide?

I am, &c.

2, POLAND STREET, LONDON, }
January 19, 1833.

MY LORD,

Your Lordship having signified your desire that I should explain what I meant by saying that the question of the union of Montreal with Upper Canada is "agitated by authority emanating from Downing Street," I have now the honor to afford that explanation:

So far back as 1828, the evidence of Sir R. J. Wilmot Horton, and others before the Canada Committee, goes to shew that the question was then under serious consideration in this country, and also that it was not unfavorably regarded by certain members of the government.

In 1829, I recollect of Mr. Fothergill, the late government printer, bringing the question of the dismemberment of Lower Canada before the House of Assembly in the shape of resolutions, which the majority, of which I was one, entirely disapproved, as we had the unjust and iniquitous measure of the Union proposed at an earlier period. Mr. Fothergill kept up the excitement by placing the measure on the order of the day of the Session of 1830, and Colonel Elliott, another official person, gave a like notice in 1831-2, which was copied into, and commented on by the opposing Journals in the Sister Colony, producing, as might be looked for, any thing but good feelings.

The government having at length obtained the upper hand in the House of Assembly at York, and having also succeeded, notwithstanding my expulsion and the petitions to the contrary of which I was the bearer, in convincing your Lordship that all classes were fully and fairly represented in it, we find the Law Officers of the Crown, the President of the Bank, the High Sheriff of the Home District, and other official persons employed in organizing public meetings, getting up petitions, and setting the example to the Province of agitating the Province in favor of this plausible scheme of aggrandizement and spoliation.

His Majesty's government in Upper Canada forms a part of his government here—his administration of the public affairs of his subjects there is a part of the general government of the Empire and doubtless controlled by that general government. It is not the usual practice of the members of the King's government, (so far as I understand that practice,) to agitate out of doors, or bring forward and support in the House of Commons, measures of the deepest general interest, such as the reform of a Parliament or the dismemberment of a nation or province, without having first given such measures a grave consideration and obtained the royal countenance and approbation; nor was I aware until honored with the last communication by Viscount Howick, that it was either usual or decorous for his Majesty's Attorney and Solicitor General to exhibit themselves as the prime movers in public meetings of the people of Upper Canada, of difficult and dangerous questions, beyond the control of a Colonial Government, and the very discussion of which was evidently calculated to excite and keep up a deep feeling of alarm and dissatisfaction in the minds of so many thousands of his Majesty's subjects in the sister Colony, until these functionaries had first sought and obtained the sanction of his Majesty's government, or that of the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, on its behalf, as their warrant for such interference. Judging from a late instance here, that of Sir Henry Parnell, who ceased to be a member of the government when he ceased to think and act with his colleagues, I readily inferred that the Crown Lawyers had acted under the very highest authority; nor was I alone in that opinion, the same observation was often made by the Canada Journalists, as well as in private conversation—I should suppose that there are very few individuals in the Canadas who bestow attention on public affairs that did not form the same opinion as myself when they saw his Majesty's servants clothed with the authority and influence of office held during the Royal pleasure, placing the dismemberment of Lower Canada as a prominent feature in the reply to the speech from the throne at opening the Legislative Session. The question had been long before the country, a great deal of angry discussion had arisen, and it seemed to me just and reasonable to conclude that the officers of the Government in the Assembly when they voted and carried such a resolution through that body on such an occasion, had not failed to ascertain from the head of the Colonial Department what was the Royal pleasure—I felt assured from the ill success of my own efforts to effect the least change, that they possessed in the fullest degree, your Lordship's confidence, and that of the Lieutenant Governor of the Colony. I had known instances not a few, where the people of Upper Canada, and 19-20ths, of the representatives of their choice, had condemned the conduct of the officers of the local administration, but in all my experience I had never once found that any course of proceeding adopted by these officers on any occasion failed to receive the sanction of his Majesty's government here. I do not perceive any very essential difference in the effects of a series of political measures, whether they are originated here, or invariably justified and acquiesced in, however much opposed to public opinion, British practice, or the views of the best informed classes of society in whatever manner expressed in the Colonies in which they are to be put in operation.

The Crown Lawyers and their associates in the Assembly, have told His Majesty that it was necessary that 60,000 persons should be transferred from one Government to another, without their consent asked or obtained, including, of course, property of immense value, and the first commercial city in the British American Colonies. These high legal functionaries, supposed to be selected for their superior knowledge of the law and the love they bear to the first principles of British justice, would, it appears, readily violate the articles of the capitulation of Canada, and principles of public law, which secure to the natives their property and civil institutions—they would unsettle rights long established—they would place 60,000 men, women and children, under the immediate operation of that absurd jumble of British and Provincial Statute Enactments, (primogeniture and all,) which have proved so irksome to the Upper Canadians, and which the sister Province knows nothing of—they would oblige a population who speak French, to select gentlemen versed in the English laws and language, in order to legislate at York or Kingston for an English Colony—they would even abstract the speaker of the House of Assembly of Lower Canada from the body of which he has for many years been the distinguished ornament—And for why?

Permit me to copy the substance of their resolutions:

York, U. Canada, Nov. 6th, 1832 }

Report of the Committee of the whole House to whom was referred His Excellency's Speech, at the opening of the Session.

SIXTH RESOLUTION.

"We nevertheless feel the strongest assurance that the acquisition by this Province of a Port of Entry from the sea, where our revenue of customs may be collected by our own officers, and our foreign trade carried on unshackled by the enactments of a sister Colony, is the only method by which Upper Canada can obtain the full advantage of her own Commerce."

YEAS,

Messrs. Attorney General, Solicitor General, Register of Northumberland, Collector of Customs, Port Talbot, do. do. Brockville, Collector of Excise, Gore, Postmaster of Delaware, High Sheriff of York, and nine others.

NAYS,

Messrs. Keitchum, Buell, Howard, Cook, McCall, A. McDonald, Morris, Norton, Perry, and Shaver—10.

They would parcel off Lower Canada, just as a Russian Potentate parcels off his serfs, or as the European invaders of America parcelled off the possessions of its aboriginal inhabitants—and that, too, with far greater injustice. In the dismemberments of Poland, of which British Historians and British Statesmen have seldom spoken with much approbation, the unprincipled victors can at least plead the right of conquest—a right, such as it is, which the King's advisers in Upper Canada have not pleaded.—Your Lordship will see, however, that the same plea which was so long and so successfully urged in the British Parliament by the traders in human blood and owners of slaves ships, is here forwarded by His Majesty's legal advisers, and transmitted to England as "the deliberate wishes of the people of Upper Canada,"—namely, the encouragement of foreign trades, commercial interests, money, profit. The wages of injustice! The authorities of Upper Canada do not appear to have profited by the History of Naboth's Vineyard.

If I could, even for a moment, bring myself to believe that the honest, unsophisticated yeomanry of Upper Canada, were capable of entering into the feelings and views of the authorities in such a matter as this, I would never desire to put foot into the country again, further than to remove my family to a more kind and benevolent clime; but I know them well, and I acquit them of the least intention to co-operate in such a disgraceful act as has been proposed to be done ostensibly for their benefit. Neither in the petitions to His Majesty, of which I was the bearer—nor, I trust, in those other addresses far more grievously received, which contain opinions “directly opposite” to those which I maintain, will any design or purpose be found for enriching the Exchequer of Upper Canada, and improving her commerce by the wanton plunder and spoilation of 60,000 French Canadians. The honor of that scheme, if there be any—now that his Majesty’s Government have disclaimed any participation in it—is exclusively due to the chosen few who have been upheld by Government (in the belief that it was for the public advantage) in all their projects, (some of which I have explained in former papers,) for dividing the people of the Canadas as Ireland is divided, and for governing them as Ireland is governed. The authorities say they want more money, more commercial profit—well would it be for the Colonists if the income of the Government were a great deal less! Wherever the English people have had the opportunity, in the free States of North America, they have established frugal governments and mild laws. I am firmly convinced they would do so in the Canadas, if His Majesty’s Government would let them, as also that England would gain by the change.

If there are any difficulties in the way of the apportioning the revenue raised at Quebec, the British Act regulating the trade between the two Colonies provides an easy and obvious remedy. Lower Canada years ago passed an Act appointing Commissioners to meet Commissioners to be appointed by Upper Canada, to confer upon the questions of trade and revenue, and prepare the way for their final and satisfactory adjustment. The same Bill, word for word, except the Commissioners names, was introduced into the Assembly of Upper Canada, and agreed to, year after year—but failed always in the Council—(that is, with the Government,) consequently nothing was done.

Thus have feelings of the most unpleasant nature been kept alive—and had not the great body of the people in both Provinces seen through the flimsy veil with which the executive officers of Upper and Lower Canada attempted to conceal the true object they had in view, bitter quarrels would have been the inevitable consequence. It is, however, clearly understood on the other side of the Atlantic, that the proposed dismemberment is but one of many plans devised by men hitherto unfortunately upheld by the gigantic power of this great nation in all their schemes, the effect of which would be the dividing and weakening the Colonists; and the sincere friends of the peace and happiness of England and Canada, look forward to the time in which full enquiry will be made and justice done.

In the 4th article of the October number of the Edinburgh Review, the critic says—“We confess that we like to see men left to act for themselves. We like the variety of human nature. We like to see different races of mankind advancing, each by its own road, to civilization. The minds of men are then in a more vigorous and healthy state. We dislike the lonely dead level of an universal or far extended empire, whether Roman, or Russian, or British.”—Should sentiments like these be entertained by the great council of the nation, now about to assemble, the people of the Island of Montreal will have nothing to fear from the machinations of the enemies of Canada, and the Canadians may look forward with well grounded confidence to a lengthened period of internal prosperity.

I have the honor to be,

My Lord,

Your Lordship’s most obedient,

And most humble servant,

W. L. MACKENZIE.

The Right Honorable Lord Viscount GODERICH,
His Majesty’s Principal of State, Colonial Department, Downing Street.

No. 87.

DOWNING STREET,
22d January, 1833.

SIR,

I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acknowledge the receipt of your letters of the 5th and 9th and 12th instant. With reference to your statement that “the Government must have been deceived and imposed upon,” and that “the majority of Anti-Reformers is but an imaginary one,” and with reference to the following expressions in your letter of the 9th instant, “I beg, I entreat that I may be permitted to examine the statements and signatures of the supposed far greater body spoken of by Viscount Hewick in his letter of last Saturday week, as having signed these Counter petitions;” I am directed to state, for your information, that in the absence of any specific ground for supposing that the signatures to petitions transmitted through the Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada to be laid before the King are spurious, Lord Goderich does not think it necessary to institute such a scrutiny as you propose to undertake. If that course of proceeding were adopted, the petitions of which you were the bearer, must, in equal justice, be transmitted for the same purpose to your political opponents. The result of such investigations would unavoidably be to embarrass with an unprofitable mass of mere personalities, a discussion already oppressed with a variety of irrelevant topics which have been introduced into it.

With reference to your statement that the number of signatures attached to the petitions addressed to the King, and entrusted to your care, far exceeded twenty thousand. I am directed to acquaint you that in the month of November last, Lord Goderich directed the number of signatures to be counted, and that the result exhibited a number considerably less than twenty thousand. But upon receiving the statement made by you on this subject, His Lordship immediately ordered the enumeration to be repeated, and he finds the result entirely to coincide with the account contained in your letter. The consequence is that the difference between the number of persons who signed the petitions entrusted to your care, and those who signed the addresses evincing opposite opinions is less than was originally supposed, altho’ there is a considerable majority of signatures to the addresses. Lord Goderich is happy thus to admit and correct the error into which he was led by the inaccuracy of those to whom he confided a duty, which from its nature was necessarily placed in the hands of subordinate persons; I must observe, however, that the question whether the number of petitioners who entrusted their petitions to you, was greater or less than that of their opponents, was one on which Lord Goderich did not rely in estimating the correctness of the opinion advanced on either side, or in deciding on the advice to be tendered to His Majesty on the subject. It is upon its own merits that the whole case has been weighed. The reason of adverting to the numerical majority of the petitioners hostile to your views, was the claim so frequently urged by you that you should be understood as speaking the general and deliberate opinions of the great body of the people of Upper Canada; a claim which the great number of signatures attached to the counter petitions before Lord Goderich directly repelled.

With respect to your remark that when Mr. Randall came to England to complain of injustice, Lord Goderich “not only discussed the question with him, but also gave him a written official letter pledging His Majesty’s Government to do certain things,” and that “his lordship has been less indulgent to you and to those who sent you than he was to Mr. Randall,” I am directed to observe that the two cases were wholly dissimilar. Mr. Randall repaired to England to remonstrate against the final enactment of a Provincial Statute there, awaiting His Majesty’s decision, which deeply affected the interests of the body by whom he was deputed to act. Lord Goderich discussed that specific grievance with Mr. Randall, as he would have discussed with any other individual or body of persons any other specific measure in which they had a peculiar interest. You on the other hand invite a discussion of every measure connected with the administration of the Provincial Government, of every principle by which it is guided. That demand is made in the language of open and undisguised hostility, not with a view of affording the Secretary of State such information and such suggestions for the public good as your experience might enable you to supply, (in which light your communications would have been thankfully received) but in furtherance of a direct accusation against the Legislature, the Lieutenant Governor, the judges, and the Public Officers of Upper Canada collectively. Under such circumstances to engage with you in the wide range of enquiry upon which you seek to enter, would be to direct the official correspondence of this department from its proper channel, and would place the Legislature and judicial and executive authorities of Upper Canada in a position of which they would have the best reason to complain, and in which they could not continue to conduct the public service.

With reference to your renewed application for permission to consult the proceedings of the House of Assembly of Upper Canada, deposited in this office, and especially to consult the public journals of that House, I am desirous to acquaint you that Lord Goderich is far from wishing to present obstacles to your enquiries respecting any part of the Public Affairs of the Province in which you may desire to obtain information. The Proceedings of Colonial Legislatures used formerly to be bound up with the correspondence between the Governors and Secretary of State, and it is contrary to established custom to allow strangers to have access to that correspondence. This was the ground on which it was deemed necessary that your former application should not be complied with.—But considering the importance which you appear to attach to an opportunity of referring to the journals, and having also ascertained that, in the case of Upper Canada, there are very few years for which the proceedings of the Assembly are not possessed in volumes separate from the correspondence of the Department, Lord Goderich has instructed the Librarian to place any Papers of that nature before you, whenever it shall suit your own convenience to make a personal application for them.

The bill which you state to have passed the Provincial Assembly, for increasing the representation of the County of York to six Members, has not been received at this Department.—Should your information on that subject prove to be accurate, the most conclusive proof will have been given, that the House are willing to concur with the other branches of the Legislature, in relieving the people at large from any grievance under which they may be supposed to labor.

With reference to the remarks which you made on the case of Mr. Christie, and on the different mode of proceeding adopted by Lord Goderich on the subject of that gentleman's expulsion, and with regard to your own, it is necessary to remind you of the wide difference between the two cases.—Mr. Christie preferred a petition to His Majesty for a redress of a grievance under which he represented himself to labor, and His Majesty could not, unless it had been thought proper entirely to suppress a complaint from one of His Subjects, pursue any other course than was adopted. Lord Goderich does not understand that you have ever invoked the aid of Government in the same manner.—To have addressed a communication to the Assembly of Upper Canada on your case, would have been a gratuitous interference with the proceedings of that body. Had you preferred a petition to His Majesty respecting any grievance under which you deem yourself to labor, it would undoubtedly have been the duty of His Majesty's Government to give their best consideration to that, as to any other petition proceeding from any of His Majesty's Subjects.

I am, Sir,
Your most Obedient Humble Servant,

HOWICK.

Dismissal of the Crown Lawyers.

In the first week in March 1833, certain representations were made by Mr. Mackenzie, a member of this committee, to His Majesty's Government, respecting the conduct and proceedings of the Attorney and Solicitor General of Upper Canada; these representations were taken into immediate consideration, and despatches transmitted to Upper Canada. The following account of the dismissal from office of Mr. Boulton and Mr. Hagerman was sent to the Editor of the York Courier by the present Chief Justice of Newfoundland; and the commentary of the Editor is annexed.

[From the Courier of Upper Canada, of May 1, 1833.]

DISMISSAL OF THE CROWN OFFICERS OF UPPER CANADA BY LORD VISCOUNT GODERICH.

In a postscript to a considerable proportion of the last Saturday's Courier, which were mailed for the country, we announced the fact, that Henry John Boulton, Esquire, and Christopher Alexander Hagerman, Esquire, had been removed from the offices of Attorney and Solicitor Generals, of this Province; but neither space nor time admitted of our explaining the causes of that removal in that Postscript.

Since that publication we have received the following communication, together with the accompanying documents, from Mr. Ex-Attorney General Boulton, which we hasten to lay before the people of Upper Canada:—

To the Editor of the Courier of Upper Canada.

York, April 30, 1833.

SIR:

Having filled for the last sixteen years the situation of a Law Officer of the Crown—first as Solicitor General, and latterly as Attorney General of this Province: and having, without a previous intimation of any part of my conduct, official or political, being disapproved of by His Majesty's Government, been suddenly removed from office, I feel it to be an act of justice to myself, as well as Mr. Hagerman, who is now absent from the Province, and whose dismission is announced in the same despatch, not to leave room for unfounded and injurious surmises, as to the cause of our removal. I do not know that I can adopt any measure so satisfactory for this purpose, as the publishing merely without comment, the official correspondence which has attended this unexpected measure of His Majesty's Government.

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

H. J. BOULTON.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, }

SIR:

I have the honor, by the direction of the Lieutenant Governor, to transmit to you the accompanying copy of a despatch from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in which his Excellency is instructed to inform you and the Solicitor General, that His Majesty regrets he can no longer avail himself of your services; and that you are to be relieved from the duties of your respective offices.

I have &c.

WM. ROWAN.

DOWNING STREET, }
March 6, 1833. }

SIR:

By the accounts I have lately received of the proceedings of the Legislature of Upper Canada, I have learnt that the Attorney and Solicitor General of that Province, have in their places in the Assembly, taken a part directly opposed to the avowed policy of His Majesty's Government. As members of the Provincial Parliament, Mr. Boulton and Mr. Hagerman, are of course, bound to act upon their own view of what is most for the interest of their constituents, and of the Colony at large—but if upon questions of great political importance, they unfortunately differ in opinion from His Majesty's Government, it is obvious that they cannot continue to hold confidential situations in His Majesty's service, without either betraying their duty as members of the Legislature, or bringing the sincerity of the Government into question, by their opposition to the policy which His Majesty has been advised to pursue.

His Majesty can have no wish that Mr. Boulton and Mr. Hagerman should adopt the first of these alternatives—but on the other hand, he cannot allow the measures of His Government to be impeded by the opposition of the Law Officers of the Crown. In order therefore, that these gentlemen may be at full liberty as members of the Legislature, to follow the dictates of their own judgement, I have received His Majesty's commands, to inform you that he regrets that he can no longer avail himself of their services, and that from the time of your receiving this despatch, they are to be relieved from the duties imposed upon them in their respective offices.

You will transmit copies of this despatch to Mr. Boulton and Mr. Hagerman.

I have the honor &c. &c.

GODERICH.

York April 29. 1833.

Sir :

Under the circumstances in which I find myself suddenly placed, without any previous intimation from His Majesty's Government, and more especially in the absence of the Solicitor General, who is equally affected by the measure with myself, I feel it due to him as well as to myself, and to our respective friends, to request that His Excellency will have the kindness to inform me for what breach of public duty His Majesty has been advised to remove us from office ?

I have the honor &c.

Private Secretary to the Lieut. Governor.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE. }
April 29. 1833. }

Sir :

I have the honor to acquaint you in reply to your letter of this day, that the Lieutenant Governor understands, that the part of your political proceedings to which the despatch of the Secretary of State particularly adverts, is that you and the Solicitor General, promoted the repeated expulsion of a member of the Assembly, although the constitutional objections to that course had been conveyed to his Excellency by His Majesty's Government, and were, it is concluded, communicated by him to you.

I have the honor, &c. &c.

(Signed)

Wm. ROWAN.

To H. J. BOULTON, Esquire.

This is a summary procedure most assuredly—and as high-handed and arbitrary a stretch of despotic power as has been enacted before the face of high heaven, in any of the four quarters of this hither world, for many and many a long day. The Duke of Wellington's conge to Mr. Huskisson was cavalier enough in all conscience, but the Duke did not divest Mr. Huskisson of his office, until Mr. H. had made a conditional tender of his resignation to his Grace—and yet the conduct of the Duke in displacing Mr. H. even under those circumstances, without offering him further opportunities for explanation, viewed by the whole empire as being unjustifiably capricious and arbitrary. But this dismissal of the Crown Officers of Upper Canada by the Lord Viscount of Goderich, because these gentlemen, in the independent discharge of their Legislative duties and in obedience to the known and decidedly expressed sentiments of three fourths of the whole people of Upper Canada, and nine-tenths of their own immediate constituents, concurred with a large majority of the Representatives of the Canadian people, in expelling from the House of Assembly a worthless and degraded member of that body; who libelled and grossly abused the House and the Speaker of the House, and who, setting all the forms and usages of the Legislative bodies at utter defiance, completely put a stop to the business of the country: the dismissal, we say, of these gentlemen by Lord Goderich, for such a reason, or rather, under such a pretence, upon mere heresy evidence too, through Mackenzie or the newspapers, without any previous intimation of his Whigship's high displeasure, and without affording them a moment's time to defend themselves, or explain their conduct, is an infinitely more high handed and despotic measure, than any even yet ascribed to the Duke of Wellington, or, we venture to say, was ever thought of by that Nobleman.

The dismissal of these gentlemen, for such reasons, cannot be viewed as a mere personal question, affecting not only the interests of the two officers who have been removed; but it is a public question deeply affecting the rights and liberties of the people of this Colony—the freedom of election, and the privileges of the people's representatives. For, if the colonial minister for the time being assumes to himself the power of dictating to the representatives of the Canadian people, what they shall do and what they shall not do in their Legislative capacity, and punishes such of those representatives as he has the power of punishing, for not acting agreeably to his dictation, it is very easy to see that the Legislature must soon degenerate indeed into a band of "slaves and sycphants;" since no member who holds a public office, and no member who desires to obtain a public office will dare to oppose the mandate of the existing colonial minister.

And what would be a still more degrading and demoralizing effect of such a system, if persisted in, it would render the Representative body as inconsistent and unprincipled, as it would be slavish and sycophantic; since the members of that body, in order to please the government for the time being, must of course, chameleon-like, change their political hue, with every ministerial change, of these ever changeful. Such, however, is the mandate of this sapient Lordling; who declares, we are informed, that all persons holding offices under the government, are expected to support the views and directions of that government, or they will be instantly removed from office!!

Further marks of His Lordship's displeasure at the recent proceedings of the two Houses of the Provincial Parliament, we understand are threatened. And nobody can tell what ridiculous caper this political imbecile may next enact. The dissolution of the Parliament; the recall of the Governor; the dismissal of the Chief Justice; and many other equally mad & ruinous projects are said to be in the contemplation of this foolish Colonial Minister. One of the very worst effects of such a condition of affairs is, that it reduces every thing in the country to a state of uncertainty: with the past acts of this minister the great bulk of the people are displeased or disgusted; and with reference to his future acts, they apprehend nothing but mischief and disaster, both to the Colony and the Empire. The minds of all the well affected people in the country (and they, to the certain ultimate discomfiture of the united factions of Mackenzie, Goderich and the Yankee Methodists, are a vast majority) begin to be unhinged. Instead of dwelling with delight and confidence upon their connexion with the glorious Empire of their sires, with a determination to support that connection as many of them have already supported it, with their fortunes or their blood, their affections are already more than half alienated from the Government of that country, and in the apprehension that the same insulting and degrading course of policy towards them is likely to be continued, they already begin to "cast about" in "their mind's eye," for some new state of political existence, which shall effectually put the colony beyond the reach of injury and insult from any and every ignoramus whom the political lottery of the day may chance to elevate to the chair of the Colonial Office.

This is strong language: The fools and the knaves of the Yankee Republican faction, whom Lord Goderich delighteth to honor—and the fools and knaves of the Canadian Republican press [and they are all fools or knaves] will affect to condemn and ridicule that language—but, IT IS TRUE! It is not the mere circumstance of the dismissal from office of Mr. Boulton, or Mr. Hagerman, but it is the disposition which this Lordling of the Colonies, has evinced to countenance and protect the odious, despicable, unprincipled and puny faction, which has been labouring for years to dis sever the Colony from Britain, and to set up democratic Republicanism in its stead; and the equally despicable and unprincipled emissary of that faction: and the disposition, which he has at the same time, as a consequence, shewn to annoy, insult, and injure the feelings of the great and respectable majority of the Canadian population, who disavowed and condemned the conduct and the representations of that emissary and that faction; it is this we repeat, and not merely the dismissal of the gentlemen in question (which constitutes only one prominent instance of the disposition and designs of the Colonial Secretary) that has alienated the affections and produced the feelings of resentment, and the views with regard to the future, which we have described.

"Fools never learn wisdom;" or, one might have hoped that the experience which the present foolish ministry* have had of the consequences of setting up their opponents and putting down their supporters; of taking their enemies by the hand, and throwing cold water in the faces of their friends, would have ere this taught them the propriety of abandoning this amicable iniquity; but, the ruinous folly which has been enacted in Ireland, in Jamaica, and in the Mauritius; is, it appears, in spite of dear bought experience, to be re-enacted in Upper Canada, and the Lord knows, perhaps in all the other colonies of the Empire.

In Ireland, in accordance with this imbecile policy, the Government have alienated the affections, and made deadly enemies of the fastest friends of the British Throne—while they have added tenfold to the power and to the enmity of their former foes: and 20,000 additional bayonets, are consequently, required to keep the people of Ireland from weltering in each other's blood, and from annihilating every vestige of order, government and law.

* From this general character there are two or three distinguished exceptions.

In Jamaica, in pursuance of the same policy, they have stimulated the blacks to cut the throats of the whites—and now in order to prevent the blacks from cutting any more throats, or to protect them in doing so (for there is really no telling which is the object of our sapient Minister), the same Cabinet are obliged to send 5,000 additional swords and bayonets to that devoted Island.

In the Mauritius—in accordance with a similar policy, the same measures have been pursued, and the same necessity for resorting to additional bayonets has been the consequence.

And now the same imbecile experiment is to be pursued in Upper Canada—but if it is persisted in—the moral and physical force of the great and overwhelming majority of the Canadian people, whom it will be necessary for Lord Goderich to deal with, will be too powerful to be subdued or influenced by any demonstrations of this kind.

We hope, however, for the best—we hope that though “fools may not learn wisdom,” they may, at least, be arrested in their career of folly; and that the consequences, which no honorable or patriotic mind can contemplate without shuddering, may therefore be averted.

No. 92.

J. COLBORNE,

The Lieutenant Governor transmits to the House of Assembly, in compliance with the Address of the 10th instant a Return of the Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of the Courts of Requests, for the several Districts, with the dates of their commissions.

In reply to the inquiries contained in the same Address, the Lieutenant Governor acquaints the House, that the Justices of the Peace are appointed by commission, under the great seal of the Province, the selection being made by the Lieutenant Governor for the time being, acting in the name of the King.

The Commissioners in the Courts of Requests, are appointed in a manner directed by the second section of the Statute 3d William 4th, Chap 1.

A copy of the instructions which have been issued by the Inspector General to Collectors of Customs is annexed. The Lieutenant Governor is not aware of any other instructions having been given either to Collectors, Sheriffs, or Clerks of the Peace, respecting their personal attendance to the duties of their situations. When the right to appoint a deputy is conferred by law it cannot be disputed by the Executive Government. The officers, however, holding these appointments become responsible to the law of the land for their conduct and for a correct discharge of their duties; and are liable to be removed by the crown.

The Lieutenant Governor transmits, in compliance with the same address of the House of Assembly, a Return of persons who were members of the last House of Assembly, and who have accepted offices of emolument under the Provincial Government since the General Election in 1830.—The places and situations which they hold, were conferred in the same manner as appointments have been always made to similar officers, and in the manner required by the laws of the Province.

The Lieutenant Governor, in compliance with the same address of the House of Assembly, transmits also a Return of all members of the present House of Assembly, who hold offices or employments of profit and emolument under the British or Colonial Governments, or who enjoy pensions, half pay, or retired allowances, so far as the Lieutenant Governor has the means of procuring information on these subjects.

When the duties of such officers are not precisely directed by law, the Lieutenant Governor can only assume the nature and extent of them from the statements of the parties themselves, which have for this purpose been called for, and to which the Lieutenant Governor refers the House.

The Lieutenant Governor is requested by the same address to give whatever information it may seem to him proper to communicate in respect to the powers, duties, and responsibilities of the Executive Council; how far that body is responsible for the acts of the Executive Government, and how far the Lieutenant Governor is authorized by His Majesty to act with or against their advice.

Upon this request of the House of Assembly the Lieutenant Governor acquaints the House, that in respect to the powers of the Executive Council—in no case, he believes, are powers committed to them, except by the express provisions of British or Colonial Statutes, which are known to the House of Assembly.

In respect to the duties of the Executive Council in addition to those which are imposed by statutes, it is necessary that the Executive Council should concur with the Lieutenant Governor in deciding upon applications for lands, pursuant to His Majesty's instructions, and in making regulations relative to that department of the Government. It is also the duty of the Executive Council to afford their advice to the Lieutenant Governor upon all public matters referred to them for their consideration. The responsibilities under which the Executive Council discharge this important and confidential duty depend upon the principles of our constitution, and upon the law of the land; and the Lieutenant Governor possesses no sources of information upon this question, which are not equally accessible to every inhabitant of the Province. It is, of course, generally understood that the Lieutenant Governor, for the time being, and members of the Executive Council, are responsible to His Majesty's Government for their conduct, and are removable at the pleasure of the King.

In reply to the last enquiry contained in the address, the Lieutenant Governor acquaints the House, that where the provisions of any statute require the concurrence of the Executive Council to an act of the Government, it cannot be dispensed with, and whatever responsibility attaches to the particular act, must obviously be shared by the Executive Council.

In other cases, it is to be presumed that the Lieutenant Governor for the time being, exercises his judgment in regard to demanding the assistance and advice of the Executive Council, except he is confined to a certain course by the instructions of His Majesty. Upon the subject of these instructions, the Lieutenant Governor is of opinion, that it would be inconsistent with his duty, as the House of Assembly appear to conclude, to enter into particular explanations without the consent of His Majesty's Government.

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTION.

[L. S.] To our trusty and well beloved Sir James Henry Craig, K. B., and K. C., our Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over our provinces of Upper and Lower Canada in America, or in his absence to our Lieutenant Governor or Commander in Chief of our Province of Upper Canada for the time being.

Given at our Court at Carleton House, the 13th day of July, 1811; in the 51st year of our reign.

WHEREAS by the fourth article of our general instructions bearing date the 29th day of August, 1807, WE did nominate and appoint certain persons therein named to be members of the Executive Council of Our province of Upper Canada, NOW WE do hereby revoke, annul, and make void so much of the said fourth article of our said instructions as relates to such nomination and appointment. And We are hereby pleased to constitute and appoint Gordon Drummond, Esq. Major General of our Forces, or the Officer commanding our Province for the time being, Thomas Scott, Esq. our Chief Justice, or the Chief Justice of our Province for the time being, Jacob, Lord Bishop of Quebec, James Baby, Alexander Grant, John McGill, and William Dummer Powell, Esquires, to be members of the Executive Council of our said Province of Upper Canada."

"(Signed) GEORGE P. R."

"To SIR JAMES H. CRAIG, K. B."

It appears that it is the duty of the Lieutenant Governor to take the opinion of the Executive Council only in such cases as he shall be required to do so by his instructions from the Imperial Government, and in such other cases as he may think fit. It appears by the following transactions that the Lieutenant Governors only communicate to their councils so much of the private despatches they receive from the Colonial Office as they think fit, unless in cases where they are otherwise specially instructed:

Colonial Office, 20th May, 1808.—F. Gore, Governor, requested the advice of the Executive Council, relative to the time of dissolving the present Parliament and convoking a new one—they respectfully concur with His Excellency in opinion that the writs, &c. should issue forthwith.

ter addressed to him from Lord Castlereagh, Principal Secretary for the Colonies, dated Downing Street, 14th June, 1808.

"His Majesty has been graciously pleased to approve of your recommendation of Mr. McGill to succeed Lieut. Colonel Shaw as one of the ordinary members of the Executive Council, and Mr. Powell and Mr. Selby to be honorary members of that board."

"In conformity to the above signification of His Majesty's pleasure, His Excellency did administer the oaths required to be taken by the members of the Executive Council to William Dummer Powell and Prideaux Selby, and they took their seats as members."

25th Oct. Lieutenant Governor Gore, came to the Council and ordered summonses to Messrs. Powell and Selby to attend each council as ordinary members.

At the Council Chamber, York, 13th July, 1809, Lt. Governor Gore laid before the Council the following extract of a letter that had been addressed to him by the Secretary, Lord Castlereagh:

"His Majesty has been graciously pleased to approve of your recommendation of Mr. Justice Powell to succeed Mr. Russell as an ordinary member of the Executive Council."

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE;
Toronto, 17th February, 1835.

SIR,
In obedience to His Excellency's commands, I have the honor to state for the information of the House of Assembly that Collectors and Inspectors, on their appointment, are given to understand that they must be resident at the ports and places which have been duly established for those offices.

It having been intimated to the Lieutenant Governor some time since, that in all cases there was not a proper compliance with those instructions, I had the honor of transmitting a circular, the copy of which is herewith inclosed.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,
Your obedient humble servant,

GEORGE H. MARKLAND,
Inspector General,

(CIRCULAR.)

SIR,
I have the honor by the direction of His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, to acquaint you, that as His Excellency understands that the duties of Collectors of Customs are in several instances altogether performed by Deputy, he requests that the Collectors of the Province may be informed, that it will not be in his power to continue any Collector in office who does not reside at the post under his particular charge, and execute the duties demanded of him.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,
Your most obedient humble servant;

GEORGE H. MARKLAND,
Inspector General.

Address to His Excellency for information relative to the Post-Office Department.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General commanding His Majesty's forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

We, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly request that your Excellency would be pleased to obtain from the Deputy-Postmaster-General at Quebec, and that there be laid before this House, for its information, at as early a period in the present Session as the nature of the enquiry will admit of,

A return of the establishment of the General-Post-Office in Upper and Lower Canada, and in each of the other Colonies in North America for the years 1832, 1833, and 1834, stating the number of Postmasters and Deputy-Postmasters in each Province, the amount of salary, allowances and emoluments; and the name of each Postmaster and Deputy-Postmaster in Upper Canada; shewing the salary, allowances, fees and the whole income they severally receive, and from what sources it is derived, and the authority under which the same is paid them; stating also the gross amount of Revenue collected at each Post-office in Upper Canada, and the whole expense of collecting the same; with the contingent expenses incurred in the Canadas in detail, so far as it can be shewn; particularly the expense of conveying the Mails, with the name of each Mail-Contractor, the amount received by him, and the rates at which the Mails are conveyed;

A return of the gross amount of postage in Upper and Lower Canada, and each of the other Colonies in North America, distinguishing each, during each of the years 1832, 1833, and 1834; distinguishing also the amount of newspaper and pamphlet postage charged from the amount of letter postage received at each office, and shewing in what manner the proceeds have been applied.

A statement of the gross amount of newspaper postage paid by each printer or proprietor of newspapers in the Canadas and other Colonies in North America, in each of the years 1832, 1833, and 1834, shewing in what manner the proceeds have been appropriated, with copy of any orders, despatches or other authority under which such postages have been exacted in the Colonies during the last ten years.

A statement, shewing in detail, the emoluments of the Deputy Postmaster-General of British North America, whether from salary, fees, allowances, newspaper postages, pamphlet postages, per centages on the collection of United States letter or newspaper postage, or from any other source whatever, during the years 1832, 1833, and 1834, and shewing the authority under which he receives the several items of income.

A statement shewing the postage paid by the Patriot newspaper, first published at Kingston, and now in Toronto, from the commencement of the series, with the dates of the several payments.

A statement shewing the sums remitted by the General-Post-office Department in Canada and the other British Colonies to the General-Post-office, London, and also the United States postage, remitted to the Post-office Department of the United States, in and for the years 1827, 1828, 1829, 1830, 1831, 1832, 1833, and 1834, and stating the balance now in the hands of the Deputy-Postmaster-General at Quebec, and the period up to which the last remittance to London was made.

A statement of the amount of monies found in the dead or misdirected letters in the British Colonies in North America, from 1827 to 1834, both years inclusive, and shewing the purposes to which it has been applied.

A statement of the amount of Colonial postage, whether on letters or newspapers, charged at Quebec and Halifax, to the Department in London, and collected, or intended so to be, in England or other parts of the King's dominions beyond North America for 1832, 1833, and 1834.

A return, shewing the several classes of persons who frank letters, or who have the privilege of transmitting letters thro' the Post-office at reduced rates of postage, with the extent to which their privileges extend.

Had it been practicable to make out a separate and distinct statement of the revenue raised by taxation in the Post-office Department in this Colony, with the expenditure, we would have confined our enquiries to Upper Canada, but as the amounts of the several Colonies are blended together, we have requested such information as would shew the effects of the system now in operation, and which it has been recommended to us to alter and amend.

M. S. BIDWELL, SPEAKER.

ANSWER TO THE ABOVE ADDRESS.

GENTLEMEN,

I will direct a copy of of this Address to be transmitted to the Deputy Postmaster General at Quebec, in order that he may furnish the information required by the Assembly.

(Copy)

GENERAL-POST-OFFICE;

QUEBEC, 6th March, 1835.

SIR,

I hasten to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 26th February, enclosing copy of an address from the House of Assembly of Upper Canada respecting the Post-office Department under my charge, and requesting me, by command of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, to furnish, for the information of the Assembly, the Returns required by them as soon as possible.

I beg leave in answer to your communication to inform you, for the information of His Excellency, that I shall immediately set about collecting and compiling the great amount of information required, or as much of it as the means at my disposal will enable me to obtain; but as an act of justice to myself and to prevent disappointment, should the voluminous Returns called for not be ready so soon as might have been expected, I must observe, that the task prepared for me is a heavier one than can be imagined by any one not conversant with the subject, and will, with my very limited assistance and the necessity of keeping the current duties of the Department going, necessarily occupy a considerable length of time.

I have the honor to be, &c.

No. 111.

Indian Department.

No part of the Expenditure of the Judicial, Civil or Ecclesiastical Establishments in Upper Canada is defrayed by England:— all these expenses are now paid from the Revenues derived from the people of the Province; and that too, on a scale of extravagance far surpassing any other part of the North American Continent, and in most cases without the consent of the people themselves and in direct opposition to their wishes and interests.

"The Blue Book" shews that a small sum is annually expended out of funds derived from England on what is called "The Indian Department," it is so inconsiderable as scarcely to be worth notice; but small as it is, the following extract from the Sessions papers of the House of Commons for 1833, will shew that it is fast progressing towards a total abolition.

The Blue Book mentions that the following persons were paid from England last year—the sums in Halifax Currency, opposite their respective names, on the whole and it is probable that a sum under £2000 a year is remitted to keep up sinecures and pensions, under this title.

Jas. Givins, Chief Superintendent Indian Department,	£412
J. B. Clench, Superintendent	do. 241
T. G. Anderson,	do. do. 241

EXTRACT from the Estimates for the Indian Department in Canada, for Five Quarters to 31st March, 1833, ordered by the House of Commons to be printed.

DOWNING STREET, 14th FEBRUARY, 1832.

SIR,

I am directed by Viscount Goderich to transmit to you for the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, the inclosed estimate of the charge of defraying the expense of the Indian department in Upper and Lower Canada, for the year 1832 amounting to £20,000.

This Estimate is now for the first time submitted to their Lordships in its present form. They are, however, doubtless aware that the expense for which it is meant to provide has for many years been defrayed by this country, the charge for the presents having been voted in conjunction with that for liberated Africans, convicts, &c. while the salaries and pensions of the officers of the Indian Department have been paid from the Military Chest provided for out of the Army Extraordinaries.

This practice is so extremely irregular, that Lord Goderich is decidedly of opinion that it ought no longer to be continued; and he has therefore directed the sum required to meet the whole expense of this service to be included in the accompanying estimate.

His Lordship greatly regrets the necessity of proposing that Parliament should be asked for so large a grant. He has, however, to observe, that the presents which for a long series of years have been annually distributed to the Indians, are due to them partly on the faith of Treaties for the purchase of their Lands, and for services rendered by their Tribes in former Wars; the remainder by custom so long established that all the general officers who have served in Canada concur in opinion that any sudden alteration of the system would excite great dissatisfaction amongst them, and be productive of considerable inconvenience to the Local Governments.

Under these circumstances it would be alike impolitic and unjust suddenly to discontinue the issue of the customary presents, but Lord Goderich trusts that their amount may gradually be diminished in proportion as the Indians can be induced to settle and to adopt the habits of civilized life. By the accounts, which have been at various periods transmitted to the Lords Commissioners, it appears that very great reductions have already been made in the expense of this department; the amount of the presents having been reduced since 1816 from £117,500 sterling, to about £16,000, and the charge of the establishment and pensions from £16,200 to £4,400.

Even this sum for the establishment may appear considerable, but the duties of the officers of the department in time of peace, according to the statements of Sir James Kempt, are various and important; much discretion is required for their faithful and satisfactory discharge, and from the remote, and in some measure uncontrolled situations in which these officers are sometimes placed, it becomes necessary to rely almost implicitly upon their integrity and judgment.

For these reasons it is essential that the salaries should be sufficient to induce persons of character and responsibility to fill the appointments; indeed such alone can obtain the confidence of the Indians.

The strength of the establishment has also been recently diminished, and the present scale was fixed after much consideration by Sir George Murray.

Lord Goderich is therefore of opinion that it is impossible at present to make any further reduction either in the number of the individuals employed or in the amount of their salaries, without impairing the efficiency of the department in a manner which must necessarily be productive of very serious inconvenience.

The presents to be distributed are purchased under the directions of the Board of Ordnance, according to the requisitions furnished by the local authorities, and which they have received the strictest injunctions to keep within the narrowest limits.

The presents being, as I have already stated, partly given to the Indians in exchange for the lands of which they have resigned possession, a portion of the expense ought to fall upon the Revenue derived from the sale of those lands, and Lord Goderich trusts that an arrangement for that purpose may, before next year, be effected; but as the largest part of this charge has been incurred under Treaties entered into with a view of securing the services of the Indians in wars for British and not for Colonial interests, his Lordship is of opinion that the burden cannot be thrown (as at first sight would appear reasonable) upon the inhabitants of Canada.

I am Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

HOWICK.

To the Hon. J. K. Stewart.

A quarterage of £1 5s. currency, for tuition, and five shillings for contingencies is paid by each scholar, in that department of the College which is called the Preparatory School.

The terms at the College Boarding House, are £30, currency, per annum, for Board and Tuition.

The requisite Books and materials are furnished by the College and charged to the pupils, in addition to the above terms. A sufficient stock of Books, &c. is ordered every year from England, from which the College is enabled, after covering the expenses of shipment, &c. to supply the boys at a cheaper rate, than the same articles could be purchased in the city.

To QUES. 7.—No. of Scholars, &c.

The number of scholars whose names have been entered at U. C. College since its commencement, up to the present time, is 324—but as the names of some scholars who have been withdrawn for a time, and afterwards sent back to the College, appear more than once on the list, the number of individual boys who have received Education at the College may be stated at 320.

Scholars in U. College in the several quarters, ending at the annexed dates.

[NOTE.—The address of the House of Assembly desires a statement of the numbers on the 5th of January, April, June and October; but as the College quarters end as below, and the lists are then formally entered, the following is the most accurate return that can be rendered—and I trust it will be found to approach sufficiently near to the prescribed dates, to answer the purpose intended.]

NOTE.—A similar return to this, up to December, 1832, with other information respecting U. C. College, was furnished to a Committee of the House of Assembly in December, 1832, to which I beg leave to refer. Observing in explanation that the slight discrepancies between the numbers here given, and those in the document just referred to, for the year, 1832, is to be accounted for, by the fact, that at that time no formal record was kept of the number of pupils at the College, in each separate quarter, and that it was therefore difficult so to exhibit them. But since that time a quarterly list has been regularly preserved, from which the numbers after 1831 are now extracted.

Each of the six lower forms, it will be seen by the above detail, has a recapitulation day in classics, each week, i. e. a day on which certain of the Lessons which have been done during the previous days of the week, are gone over a second time. It is so arranged that on every alternate recapitulation day, each form recapitulates to the principal, who is thus enabled from time to time, to judge of the general progress, and also has an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the abilities and character of every boy in the College.

A public examination embracing all the departments takes place annually in the week preceding the Christmas Hollidays—at the conclusion of which prizes of books are distributed to those scholars, whose proficiency and good conduct during the past year, have been most distinguished.

The regular course at the College is completed in the seven forms, according to the detail now given. But to meet the views of those parents who are not desirous of giving their sons a thorough classical education, pupils who have been not less than two years pursuing the College course, or who have completed the course of the third form, are allowed, at the especial request of their friends, to discontinue classical studies, and confine their attention to the other departments—a similar exception is occasionally made, in the case of a boy being, at admission of too advanced an age to make it advisable that he should then begin the study of Latin—such boys form what is called the partial class—whose occupation is as follows:—

PARTIAL CLASS.

No. 113.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General commanding His Majesty's forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly request that Your Excellency will be pleased to furnish this House with copies of all correspondence between His Majesty's Government in England and the Government of this Colony relating to the several expulsions from this House of William Lyon Mackenzie, Esquire; as also relative to the summary removal from the office of Attorney General, Henry John Boulton Esquire, (now Chief Justice of Newfoundland) and of Christopher Alexander Hagerman, Esquire, from the office of Solicitor General, together with all correspondence between the King's Government and Your Excellency respecting the reappointment of the said C. A. Hagerman to the office of Solicitor General, and the appointment of Robert S. Jameson to the office of Attorney General, in the room of the said H. J. Boulton.

MARSHALL S. BIDWELL,

Speaker.

Answer.

GENTLEMEN :

Copies of the Despatches applied for in this address cannot be laid before the House of Assembly without the sanction of His Majesty's Government.

No. 114.

Case of Francis Collins.

THURSDAY, 22d January, 1829.

Mr. Dalton seconded by Mr. James Wilson, moves that the address to His Excellency respecting the case of Francis Collins, be now read a second time.

Which was carried, and the address was read a second time.

On the question for concurrence being put, Mr. James Wilson, seconded by Mr. Dalton, moves that the House do resolve itself into a Committee of the whole on the address in behalf of Francis Collins.

Which was carried, and Mr. Peterson was called to the chair.

The Speaker resumed the Chair.

Mr. Peterson reported that the Committee had considered the address and amended it.

On the question for receiving the report the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Bull, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leflerty, Lockwood, Longley, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Morris, Perry, Peterson, Radenhurst, Randall, John Rolph, George Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Willson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—37.

NAYS—Messrs. Bethune, McLean, and Samson—3.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of thirty-four, and the report was received and the address ordered to be engrossed and read a third time to-day.

Agreeably to the order of the day the Address to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, in behalf of Francis Collins, was read the third time, passed and signed, and is as follows :

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

We, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Commons of Upper Canada in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly represent to Your Excellency that we have received a petition from Francis Collins, a prisoner in the York Gaol, under sentence of the late Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery in and for the Home District, for libel, by which sentence he is doomed to twelve months imprisonment and to pay a fine of fifty pounds to the King, and afterwards to give security for his good behaviour for three years, himself in £400 and two sureties in £100 each, and to stand committed till those conditions be complied with; and having taken the same into our consideration, together with the time he has already been confined, we earnestly entreat Your Excellency to extend to Francis Collins the Royal clemency, by remitting his sentence and restoring him to his family.

MARSHALL S. BIDWELL,
Speaker.

Commons House of Assembly, }
22d January, 1829. }

Saturday, 24th January, 1829.

Captain Matthews, from the Committee to wait upon His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor with the Address of the House on the subject of the enlargement of Francis Collins, reported delivering the same, and that His Excellency had been pleased to give an answer, which he handed to the Clerk who read the same as follows :

GENTLEMEN,

It is my anxious wish to render service to the Province, by concurring with the Legislature in every thing that can promote its peace, prosperity, and happiness; and I regret exceedingly, that the House of Assembly should have made an application to me, which the obligation I am under to support the laws, and my duty to society, forbid me, I think, to comply with.

I transmit, for the information of the House, Mr. Justice Sherwood's observations, and copies of a Petition from Francis Collins, and of the reply to it forwarded by my direction.

COPY.

York, 5th December, 1828.

SIR,

The following are the principal grounds of my judgment in the case of the King vs. Francis Collins, lately convicted of a libel on the Attorney General.—I think all publications of this kind have the effect to create ill blood in society, and therefore manifestly tend to a breach of the public peace, which is always regarded of the greatest importance by all civilized governments. Such publications also have a direct and undoubted tendency to impede the due administration of public justice, by generating a bad feeling and injurious prejudice in the public mind, and more particularly in the minds of the Jurors who are summoned for the trial of causes. This libel, in my opinion, was intended to obstruct the administration of justice, because it was printed and published during the sitting of the Court, and just before the defendant was tried for printing and publishing an alleged libel on Sir Peregrine Maitland, then the Lieutenant Governor of the Province. Any person who writes and publishes fair and candid opinions on the system of government and constitution of the country, or points out what he honestly conceives to be grievances, and in a proper and decent manner proposes legal means for the redress of such grievances, or if any person, in his publication, enters into a just and useful criticism of the productions of others, and shews the public their errors or absurdities; or if any one, in a decent and proper manner, exposes the errors and wrong opinions of public men; or if he exhibits the evil tendency and unconstitutional bearing of public measures, such person in my opinion deserves encouragement. If such publisher however, stops aside from the high road of decency and peaceable deportment, and adopts a course of public calumny and open abuse against the officers of government generally, or particularly against the principal law officer of the Crown, in the legal execution of his duty in the King's Courts, as the defendant did, then, I think, he should be punished to that extent, which, in human probability would prevent a recurrence of the offence; any thing short of this, would be nugatory, and have an effect contrary to the ends proposed by all punishments.

Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration, Mr. Justice Hagerman and myself deemed the sentence which we passed on the defendant, both proper and necessary for the public good, and what the case itself required.

I have the honor to be,

LEVIUS P. SHERWOOD.

Z. MUDGE, Esq.
Secretary to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor.

THE MEMORIAL OF FRANCIS COLLINS,

Editor of the Canadian Freeman,

HUMBLY SHEWETH:

That Your Memorialist was convicted of libel upon the Attorney General, at the last York Assizes, sentenced to twelve months imprisonment, to pay a fine of fifty pounds and to find security for good behaviour for three years, himself in £400, and two sureties in £100 each; which, sentence if enforced, amounts in fact, to perpetual imprisonment.

In consequence of this ruinous sentence, your memorialist has been kept in close confinement in this gaol, for the last month, and the business by which he supports his family all but ruined, as the entire success of his establishment depended solely on his own personal exertions.

Under these painful circumstances, Your Memorialist looks forward with humble confidence to Your Excellency's clemency, to restore him to his liberty, by a remission of the sentence, and thereby save a young and helpless family from desolation.

And Your Memorialist will ever pray.

(Signed) FRANCIS COLLINS.

York Gaol, Nov. 26th, 1828.

Government House, }
Dec. 18th, 1828. }

SIR,

I am directed to acquaint you that the Lieutenant Governor regrets that he cannot think it right to comply with your petition, dated the 26th ultimo, but that on the expiration of the specified time of your imprisonment, any application you may wish to make will be taken into consideration, upon the facts alleged in your statement.

I am, &c.

(Signed) Z. MUDGE.

MR. FRANCIS COLLINS.

MONDAY, 26th January, 1829.

Agreeably to the order of the day the House went into Committee of the whole on His Excellency's Answer to the Address to him, on behalf of Francis Collins.

Mr. Ewing was called to the Chair.

The House resumed.

Mr. Ewing reported that the Committee had agreed to two Resolutions, which he was directed to submit for the adoption of the House.

The Report was ordered to be received.

Resolved, That this House does not doubt the sincerity of the anxious wish averred by His Excellency in his message, to render service to the Province by concurring with the Legislature in every thing that can promote its peace, prosperity and happiness; but, the imputation which this House apprehends to be conveyed by His Excellency's Message, that they are not equally anxious and industrious for the same great ends, is neither justified by their conduct since his Excellency assumed the government, nor is it what they had reason to expect, and in future hope to receive, in all communications from His Excellency to this branch of the Legislature.

Resolved, That while this House does not doubt the disposition of His Excellency, properly to extend mercy to those who supplicate it from the Throne, they owe it to their own honor and dignity to declare, that by their application for the extension of the Royal clemency towards Francis Collins, they have not merited the imputation which they apprehend to be conveyed in His Excellency's Message, that their request was inconsistent with the due support of the laws and their duty to society.

MARCH 10th, 1829.

Mr. Dalton, from the Select Committee to whom was referred the petition of Francis Collins, presented a fifth report, accompanied by several Resolutions and an Address to His Majesty in behalf of Francis Collins, which was received and read.

WEDNESDAY, 11th March, 1829.

Mr. Perry, seconded by Mr. Dalton, moves, that the House do now resolve itself into a Committee of the whole, on the Report of the Select Committee to whom was referred the petition of Francis Collins—

Which was carried, and Mr. Berczy was called to the Chair.

The House resumed.

Mr. Berczy reported, that the Committee had agreed to a series of Resolutions, which he was directed to submit for the adoption of the House, and asked leave to sit again to-morrow.

On the question for receiving the Report, the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, McKenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, Radenhurst, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Wilkinson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—35.

NAYS—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, and John Willson—8.

The question was carried by a Majority of twenty-seven, the Report was received, and leave granted accordingly.

The first Resolution was then put as follows:

Resolved, That while prosecutions have been instituted and encouraged against Francis Collins, H. C. Thomson, M. P. and William Lyon Mackenzie, M. P. Editors of papers opposing the injurious policy pursued by the late Provincial Administration, other papers under the patronage and pay of the Provincial Government, have been allowed to disseminate with impunity far grosser and more dangerous libels against the House of Assembly, as well as against many public and private men.

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, Radenhurst, Geo. Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Wilson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—37.

NAYS—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, and Samson—7.

The question was carried by a majority of thirty.

The second Resolution was then put as follows:

Resolved, That the document marked B, is a true copy of the Indictment upon which Francis Collins was acquitted at the late Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol delivery for the Home District.

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, Radenhurst, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—33.

NAYS—Messrs. Attorney General, Berczy, Bethune, Hamilton, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, Terry, Wilkinson, and John Willson—12.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of twenty-one.

The third Resolution was then read as follows :

Resolved, That Francis Collins being under prosecution for the said alleged libel on Sir Peregrine Maitland, Mr. Attorney General Robinson, during the said Court at York, endeavored to force him to trial, in the first place by erroneously alleging the defendant had been arraigned at the previous Assizes ; in the second place, when the records of the Court were found to contradict his assertion, by denying the right to traverse altogether, the indictment having been found at the preceding Assizes, and in the third place, by contending that having omitted to traverse the indictment upon his arraignment as the proper time for so doing, he could not be permitted to avail himself of the privilege subsequently ; and that while the latter points were still depending and undetermined, the article for which he was afterwards indicted and convicted of libel, was published.

In amendment, Mr. Radenhurst, seconded by Mr. Dickson, moves, that after the word "Maitland," in the original resolution, the remainder be expunged and the following inserted—"and before the same had been determined, the article for which he was afterwards indicted and convicted of libel was published."

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Blacklock, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Kilborn, Longley, McDonald, McLean, Morris, Radenhurst, Samson, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Wilkinson, and John Willson—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—23.

The question was decided in the negative by a majority of two.

In amendment to the original question, Mr. Dalton, seconded by Mr. McLean, moves, that the word "force" be expunged and the word "bring" inserted in its place, and that after the word "erroneously" the following words be inserted—"supposing and."

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fraser, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—30.

NAYS—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Dickson, Fothergill, Hamilton, Henderson, Kilborn, Longley, McLean, Morris, Radenhurst, Samson, Wilkinson, and John Willson—14.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of sixteen, and the resolution as amended was put and carried as followed :—

Resolved—That Francis Collins being under prosecution for the said alleged libel on Sir P. Maitland, Mr. Attorney General Robinson, during the said Court at York, endeavored to bring him to trial, in the first place by erroneously supposing and alleging the defendant had been arraigned at the previous assizes ; in the second place, when the records of the Court were found to contradict this assertion, by denying the right to traverse altogether, the indictment having been found at the preceding assizes ; in the third place by contending that having omitted to traverse the indictment upon his arraignment as the proper time for so doing, he could not be permitted to avail himself of the privilege subsequently ; and that while the latter points were still depending, and undetermined, the article for which he was afterwards indicted and convicted of libel was published.

The fourth resolution was carried nem. con.—as follows :

Resolved—That the document marked C, is a copy of the indictment upon which the said Francis Collins was tried, convicted, and punished.

Present—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berczy, Bethune, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lefferty, Longley, Lockwood, Lyons, McLean, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Morris, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, John Rolph, Radenhurst, Samson, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, John Willson, Wilkinson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—44.

The fifth resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That the Select Committee of the Imperial House of Commons upon Canada affairs, urged in the most especial manner upon His Majesty's Government, that a strict and instant enquiry should take place into all the circumstances attending the prosecutions for libel instituted in Lower Canada, with a view to giving such instructions upon them as should be consistent with justice and policy—which recommendation was properly respected and observed in Lower Canada, and ought not to have been slighted and disregarded in this Province.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berczy, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lefferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, Radenhurst, G. Rolph, J. Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Willson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—37.

Nays—Messrs. Bethune, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, and Terry—7.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of thirty.

The sixth resolution was then read as follows :

Resolved—That the document marked D, according to the evidence of those who took down his words, contains a true report of material parts of the charge delivered by Mr. Justice Sherwood to the Jury, which charge was an unwarrantable deviation from the matter of record, and a forced construction of language, contrary to the ends of fair and dispassionate justice.

In amendment, Mr. Dickson seconded by Mr. Radenhurst, moves, that all the words be expunged after "Jury" in the original resolution.

On which the House divided and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Attorney General, Berczy, Bethune, Dickson, Fraser, Henderson, Morris, Radenhurst, Samson, Terry, and John Willson—11.

Nays—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, J. Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, Wilkinson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—32.

The question was decided in the negative by a majority of twenty one.

On the original question the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Fothergill, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, J. Rolph, G. Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, Wilkinson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—29.

Nays—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Ewing, Fraser, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, Terry, and John Willson—11.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of eighteen, and it was

Resolved—That the document marked D, according to the evidence of those who took down his words, contains a true report of material parts of the charge delivered by Mr. Justice Sherwood to the Jury; which charge was an unwarrantable deviation from the matter of record, and a forced construction of language, contrary to the ends of fair and dispassionate justice.

The seventh resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That Mr. Justice Hagerman, who was one of the persons alleged on the record to be libelled, refused to receive the verdict as first tendered by the Jury, viz : “ guilty of libel against the Attorney General only ”—and directed them to find a general verdict of guilty—with which direction the Jury complied, whereby the defendant was made to appear on record guilty of charges of which the Jury had acquitted him; and whereby false grounds were afforded upon the record for an oppressive and unwarrantable sentence.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, J. Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—28.

Nays—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Terry, Wilkinson, and John Willson—11.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of 17.

The eighth resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That it appears from the appended copy of the letter of Judge Sherwood to His Excellency (marked E), that Mr. Justice Hagerman alleged on the record to be libelled, did concern himself, with Mr. Justice Sherwood, in measuring the punishment of the defendant, thereby, without necessity for it, further violating the rule, that a man shall not be a Judge in his own case.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—29.

Nays—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Terry, Wilkinson, and John Willson—11.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of eighteen.

The ninth resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That from the language of Judge Sherwood in his said letter : viz. “ If such publisher however steps aside from the high road of decency and peaceable deportment, and adopts a course of public calumny and open abuse against the officers of Government generally, or particularly against the principal law officer of the crown, in the legal execution of his duty in the King’s Courts, as the defendant did, then I think he should be punished to that extent, which in human probability would prevent a recurrence of the offence; any thing short of this would be nugatory, and have an effect contrary to the ends proposed by all punishments,” it too plainly appears that the punishment inflicted upon the said Francis Collins was not confined to the verdict as originally tendered by the Jury.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Hamilton, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, Wilkinson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—31.

Nays—Messrs. Berczy, Bethune, Fraser, Henderson, Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, Terry, and John Willson—10.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of twenty one.

The tenth resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That the punishment inflicted upon Francis Collins for the said libel, viz : “ that he should be imprisoned for 12 months, pay a fine of £50 to the King, find securities for his good behaviour after his liberation for three years, himself in £400 and two sureties in £100 each, and stand committed till all those conditions should be complied with,” is, considering the state of the Province and circumstances of the defendant, shamefully disproportioned to his offence—subversive of the freedom of the press, under pretence of correcting its excesses, and destructive of the liberty of the subject, under pretence of punishing an offender.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows ;

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berczy, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Longley, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Morris, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Willson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—39.

Nays—Messrs. Bethune, McLean, and Samson—3.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of thirty six.

The eleventh resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved—That from the state of this Province and the circumstances of the said Francis Collins, the exorbitant and oppressive bail required from him, leaves him no other alternative than perpetual imprisonment or the abandonment of the press by which he maintains himself and a wife with an infant family.

On which the House divided, and the yeas and nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berezy, Blacklock, Brouse, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Longley, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Morris, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Willson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—39.

Nays—Messrs. Bethune, Buell, McLean, and Samson—4.
The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of thirty-five.

The twelfth Resolution was then put and carried nem. con.

Present—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berezy, Bethune, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Longley, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, McLean, Morris, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, J. Rolph, Samson, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, John Willson, Wilkinson, James Wilson & Woodruff,—And it was

Resolved, That the document marked F. is a true copy of the Address of this House to His Excellency, with the Yeas and Nays upon the passing thereof—praying for the pardon of Francis Collins; and of the answer of His Excellency to the same.

The thirteenth Resolution was then put and carried nem. con.

Present—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Berezy, Bethune, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Longley, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, McLean, Morris, Perry, Peterson, George Rolph, John Rolph, Samson, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, Wilkinson, John Willson, Jas. Wilson, and Woodruff.—And it was

Resolved, That when the said application from this House was made to His Excellency for the pardon of the said Collins, he had been about three months in gaol.

The fourteenth Resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved, That the doctrine laid down in the letter of Judge Sherwood, viz: that the extent of punishment should be such as will in all human probability prevent the recurrence of the offence—and that any thing short of it would be negatory, and have an effect contrary to the ends proposed by all punishment—is an unjust and imperfect view of such a question, dangerous in a judge entrusted with the administration of the criminal justice of this country, and calculated to render the criminal law, so administered, a scourge to the community.

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Fothergill, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—31.

NAYS—Messrs. Berezy, Bethune, Hamilton, Henderson,

Longley, McLean, Morris, Samson, Wilkinson, and John Willson—10.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of twenty-one.

The fifteenth Resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved, That it is inconsistent with the liberty of the press, that a person should, before conviction, be called upon to find bail for good behaviour, upon so indefinite an offence as libel, and that the law under which such proceeding is justified in this Province, is well objected to by Lord Ashburton in the following terms—“I never heard till very lately, that Attornies General upon the caption of a man supposed a libeller, could insist on his giving securities for his good behaviour. It is a doctrine injurious to the freedom of every subject, derogatory from the old constitution, and a violent attack, if not an absolute breach, of the liberty of the press. It is not law, and I will not submit to it.”

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Henderson, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, James Wilson, John Willson, and Woodruff—32.

NAYS—Messrs. Bethune, McLean, Morris, and Samson—4.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of twenty-eight.

The sixteenth Resolution was then put as follows :

Resolved, That an earnest appeal be made to His Majesty to relax, in this case, the rigor of that law which was made for the happiness and welfare of the people who pray for its relaxation, and that His Majesty be requested to lay these resolutions and documents before the Imperial Legislature.

On which the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

YEAS—Messrs. Baby, Baldwin, Blacklock, Brouse, Cawthra, Dalton, Dickson, Ewing, Fothergill, Hopkins, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Leferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McCall, McDonald, Malcolm, Matthews, Mackenzie, Perry, Peterson, G. Rolph, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Terry, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—31.

NAYS—Messrs. Attorney General, Berezy, Bethune, Fraser, Hamilton, Henderson, Longley, Morris, Samson, and Wilkinson—10.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of twenty-one.

Mr. John Rolph, seconded by Mr. Perry, moves, that it be Resolved, That the honorable Mr. Justice Sherwood and the honorable Mr. Justice Hagerman, were summoned to appear before the Select Committee of this House appointed to enquire into the case of the said Francis Collins, and having appeared before the said Committee, and being made acquainted with the allegation of the petition, an opportunity was afforded them of offering any explanation; which opportunity was declined by them.

Which was carried.

The Address to His Majesty was then read a second time.

Mr. Perry, seconded by Captain Matthews, moves, that after the word “dominions,” in the Address to His Majesty, the following words be added, “and that Your Majesty will be graciously pleased to lay a copy of the resolutions and ac-

“ accompanying documents before Your Majesty’s Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland,”—Which was carried, and the Address was concurred in, and ordered to be engrossed and read a third time this day.

THURSDAY, 12th March, 1829.

Agreeably to the order of the day, the Address to His Majesty in behalf of Francis Collins was read the third time.

On the Question for passing the same, the House divided, and the Yeas and Nays were taken as follows :

Yeas—Messrs. Baldwin, Blacklock, Buell, Cawthra, Dalton, Ewing, Hornor, Ketchum, Kilborn, Lafferty, Lockwood, Lyons, McDonald, Mackenzie, Malcolm, Matthews, Perry, Peterson, John Rolph, Shaver, Smith, Thomson, James Wilson, and Woodruff—24.

Nays—Messrs. Dickson, Henderson, Longley, Morris, Radenhurst, Samson, Terry, and Wilkinson—8.

The question was carried in the affirmative by a majority of sixteen, and the Address was signed and is as follows :

To the King’s Most Excellent Majesty :

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN,

WE, Your Majesty’s dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly request Your Majesty’s most favorable consideration of the Resolutions and Documents accompanying this Address, and humbly pray Your Majesty to extend to Francis Collins the Royal Clemency, by remitting the residue of his punishment—which act of mercy will be most acceptable to the people of this Province, and be regarded by us as a fresh proof of Your Majesty’s gracious disposition to consult the wishes and happiness of Your people in all parts of Your ample dominions—and that Your Majesty will be graciously pleased to lay a copy of the Resolutions and accompanying Documents before Your Majesty’s Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

MARSHALL S. BIDWELL, SPEAKER.

12th March, 1829.

Mr. Perry, seconded by Mr. Dalton, moves, that an Address be presented to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor requesting him to transmit to His Majesty the Address of this House, and the Resolutions upon which it is founded, and also the evidence and accompanying documents reported by the Committee to whom was referred the petition of Francis Collins, and that Messrs. Lafferty and Woodruff be a Committee to draft and report the same.

Which was carried.

REPORT

ON THE

PETITION OF WILLIAM FORSYTH,

OF THE NIAGARA FALLS PAVILION,

COMPLAINING OF MILITARY OUTRAGE, &c.

REPORT.

TO THE HONORABLE THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY :

The Special Committee on Grievances, to whom was referred the Petition of William Forsyth, of Bertie, late proprietor of the Niagara Falls Pavilion Estate, complaining of the unwarrantable interference of Sir Peregrine Maitland with his civil rights, in the employment of a Military Force to dispossess him of his property, and of other wrongs done him on the part of the Government respectfully report :—

1st. That William Forsyth was in quiet and peaceable possession of certain land and premises, near the Falls of Niagara in 1827, respecting his title to which, as proprietor, some disputes have arisen, which have since terminated in a verdict in favour of the persons to whom he sold the estates, on an action of trespass.

2d. That Sir Peregrine Maitland, acting in his military capacity as Major General Commanding the Forces in Upper Canada, and without consulting the Attorney General, issued his orders to Captain Phillpotts to dispossess Mr. Forsyth and eject him from his property by force.

3d. That Captain Phillpotts in the above year, acting in obedience to the commands of Sir Peregrine Maitland, took with him a party of soldiers, entered with them upon Mr. Forsyth’s premises, and in defiance of his remonstrances and entreaties cut and threw down his fences, leaving his growing crops exposed, destroyed his Blacksmiths’ shop, and caused him other damage and injury. This they did on the 18th of May, 1827.

4th. That Mr. Forsyth employed persons to build up and repair his fences, and restore his premises to their wonted state of order and regularity, the outrage having been committed at a season of the year in which many strangers visit the Falls.

5th. That Captain Phillpotts and his soldiers, acting as before under the superior authority of Sir Peregrine Maitland, again entered upon Mr. Forsyth’s lands, threw down his fences, destroyed his crops, and did him damage, they paying no attention to his remonstrances.

6th. That this second outrage, like the first, was unknown to the Attorney General, whose first knowledge of these circumstances was acquired after he had been instructed to defend Captain Phillpott’s conduct in an action brought by Mr. Forsyth.

7th. That Mr. Forsyth was baffled in his attempts to obtain redress in the ordinary Courts of Law, and that when the House of Assembly took the matter up, on his petition, Sir Peregrine Maitland ordered Colonels Givens and Coffin to disobey their summons, so that the evidence which would have identified the Lieutenant Governor with these matters could not then be obtained, the Colonels choosing to remain in gaol, till the close of that Parliament, rather than give their testimony before the Committee.

8th. That the Select Committee, consisting of Mr. John Rolph, Chairman, Captain Matthews, and Messrs. Randal, Lefferty, and Beardsley, reported that "Richard Leonard," then Sheriff (and to whom the law had entrusted a large discretionary power in the selection of Jurors) "was present countenancing the party committing the trespass," that "both the Crown Officers were engaged in defence of the persons guilty of the outrage," and that "it is clear that a person long in possession of land, like the petitioner, ought to have been ejected by the law of the land, which is ample, when impartially administered, for securing the rights of property, but the interference of the Military, by such acts of violence, for maintaining supposed or contested rights, is justly regarded with jealousy in all free countries, and ought to be seriously regarded in a Colony, where the most unprecedented outrages have been perpetrated without prosecution, and even followed by the patronage of the local government upon the wrong doers."

9. That Mr. Forsyth applied by petition to His Majesty, and that Mr. Mackenzie, a member of this Committee, at his special request, brought the affair under the immediate notice of the Colonial Department in 1832.

10. That the House of Commons addressed His Majesty in its Session of 1832, and again in its Session of 1833, for "Copy of the Reports of two select Committees to whom were severally referred petitions addressed to the House of Assembly of Upper Canada, in the Session of the Provincial Legislature, 1828, complaining of improper conduct on the part of Captain George Phillpotts of the Royal Engineers, and other wrongs, and of the administration of justice; with the evidence attached to these Reports, as presented to the House on the 24th March, 1828, by Mr. Rolph and Mr. Beardsley, with the proceedings of the House in the case of Colonels Givens and Coffin, heads of Departments, who were sent to gaol for refusing to give testimony in the matter of Capt. Phillpotts, they severally alleging to the House that the Major General, then commanding, would not permit them to attend, together with the proceedings, if any, which have been had thereon by His Majesty's Government, or the local authorities." And that these documents were accordingly transmitted by His Excellency Sir John Colborne, and ordered to be printed by a resolution of the Commons House of the Imperial Parliament.

11th. That it appears on a reference to the Despatch of Sir Peregrine Maitland addressed to Mr. Secretary Huskisson on the 29th of March, 1828, that it contained a gross and unwarrantable attack upon the rights, privileges and character of the House of Assembly, and a Committee of its appointment, and that the secrecy of a confidential communication from the Lieutenant Governor of this Colony was taken advantage of to slander and traduce the character of Mr. Forsyth to his sovereign, as "a person notoriously of indifferent character."

12th. That the conduct of Sir Peregrine Maitland in these proceedings was justly condemned by Secretary Sir George Murray, as appears by his despatch to Lieutenant Governor Sir J. Colborne, dated October 20th, 1828, of which a copy is hereto annexed.

13th. That it appears from Mr. Forsyth's petition that, harrassed as he had been by illegal proceedings and wearied with fruitless applications for redress, he concluded to dispose of his valuable estate for less than it was worth, and that no compensation has been made him for the injuries he sustained by the unlawful proceedings taken against him by authority of the late Lieutenant Governor.

14th. That in a letter to Colonel Rowan, dated the 31st of Deember, 1832, Chief Justice Robinson, after giving a description of Forsyth's Estate, adds that "Mr. Forsyth does not now occupy any part of the property in question, having sold it to persons who, I am convinced will never pretend that they have a right to enclose the public reservation to which he asserted a claim."

15th. That Messrs. Clark and Street, the persons who purchased the property from Mr. Forsyth have not only asserted their right to enclose it, but have also succeeded in obtaining a verdict for a trespass upon it.

16th. That it appears from the accounts sent down to this House that £127 6s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Sterling, were paid to the Attorney General last year, out of the funds raised by duties levied under the Act 14th George III. for "expenses incurred by him in defending two suits with costs in reference to the Military Reserve near the Falls of Niagara."

Your Committee are of opinion that the petitioner, William Forsyth, hath sustained great injury at the hand of Sir Peregrine Maitland, and others acting under his authority, while he commanded the Military force stationed in the Province; and that he is entitled to such compensation for the wrongs done him, as it may be within the power of government to afford, and they recommend, as the proper course to be pursued, that an Address be presented to the Lieutenant Governor, requesting His Excellency to bring the circumstances of the Petitioners' case under the consideration of His Majesty's Government, in order that that redress and remuneration may be afforded him, for which he has so long, and hitherto, so unsuccessfully, applied.

Chairman.

Committee Room, House of Assembly, }
April 1st, 1835.

THURSDAY 19th MARCH, 1835.

The Committee met, and the petition of Mr. Forsyth was read as follows:—

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament Assembled.

The Petition of William Forsyth of Bertie, in the Fourth Riding of Lincoln, Yeoman.

HUMBLY SHEWETH :

That Your Petitioner, on the second inst. complained by Memorial to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, in the following terms:—

Stating that in 1821. I (William Forsyth) bought from William Dickson, Esq. Lot 159, with the broken front between it and the Niagara River, adjoining the Falls, also other parts of Lots that had been granted to one Francis Ellsworth about 35 years ago.

That in 1827 Captain Phillpotts, with a Military force, violently and unlawfully wrested from me the valuable strip of land on the high bank and brow of the hill near the Falls, the said Phillpotts acting under the direction of Sir Peregrine Maitland, that my Gardens and Meadows were twice thrown open and my growing crops subjected to waste, my Blacksmith's shop destroyed and thrown over the hill—and that at least 60 acres of growing crops were more or less injured.

That I went to law for my damages and to defend my title—had various success—was harrassed many ways—injured in my circumstances—traduced in my character by the Lieutenant Governor—persecuted for the sake of my valuable estates which others were anxious to obtain—and embarrassed in my business because I had had fortitude to resist executive usurpation—that thus situated I resolved to sacrifice the whole Falls estate to those who were more likely than myself to obtain equal justice—and that I did so at a price at least $15,000 less than its fair value to the present owners who had no difficulty in obtaining that justice in the premises which to me (a marked man) had been continually denied.

That your petitioner concluded his statement by praying that the Executive Government would compensate him for the injustice he had sustained—and received in reply an opinion signed by the Attorney General referring to the documents printed by order of the House of Commons 18th July 1833, and affirming that the government had not abandoned its claim to the property in question, and that if it appeared expedient to the constituted authorities it was his intention to proceed against Clark and Street “by the information of intrusion,” the Lieutenant Governor in Council, at same time, stated that the new proprietors were placed in your petitioner’s stead by his sale to them.

Your petitioner has long waited for justice, and he refers to the several lawsuits he has been engaged in—to his humble petitions to your honorable house—to the very favorable reports made on them by the three Select Committees of which John Rolph Esq. B. C. Beardsley Esq. and the late Colonel Hornor were Chairmen—to the attention paid to his case by the enquiries and addresses of the Honorable the House of Commons—to the evidence on the Journals of your Honorable House shewing that he has been the victim of lawless outrage and military violence—to his memorials to his Majesty—and to the many days he has passed in attendance upon the Legislature urging its interposition in his case.

Your petitioner has had his character traduced in the most indecent terms by the late Lieutenant Governor, in his secret communications to the Colonial Office; your honorable house has also been grossly misrepresented to his Majesty as a band of conspirators, and a report in your petitioners favor emanating from some of the most honored members of the Legislature was secretly denounced, to our most gracious Sovereign, by the then head of the government here, as a production “drawn in terms which gratify the malice of an individual or answer the temporary purpose of an unprincipled faction,” meaning your honorable house as it existed in the Ninth Parliament.

Information as to the outrage committed at the Falls was withheld from your honorable house by the express commands of the Lieutenant Governor, who ordered his officers to disobey the summons of the House, and to keep back the facts by which the full extent of the atrocities practised by the Military band under Captain Phillpotts would have been exposed; and although Colonels Coffin and Givens were imprisoned for contempt, the purposes of the enemies of justice were answered, and enquiry was smothered. In order to strike terror into the press and prevent it from exposing these high handed acts, a presentment was made against one of the Editors of this City for expressing his detestation of the cruelty which had been practised towards your petitioner—and the then Surveyor General joined the enemies of investigation by refusing to obey the order of the House or to give that evidence which would have elicited the facts in your petitioner’s favor.

Your petitioner comes before your honorable house as a man marked out by the finger of authority to be oppressed with impunity—and humbly and earnestly implores your assistance, so that justice—tardy justice—may be done him, and the honor of the Crown and the rights of the subject (violated as they have been in his person) duly secured, asserted and maintained.

And your petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray.

WM. FORSYTH.

Niagara Falls Pavilion, February, 1835.

Friday, 20th March, 1835.

ROBERT S. JAMESON, Esq., ATTORNEY GENERAL, called in and examined.

Mr. Forsyth of Bertie, late the proprietor of the Niagara Falls Pavilion, has petitioned the House, complaining that at least $15,000 have been lost to him in the sale of the Falls Estate, by the opposition made to his claim to a certain part of that Estate by the Executive Government, which claim has, he says, been abandoned by it, since he sold to Messrs. Clark and Street. What information can you afford this Committee concerning his claim for redress?

Answer.—Most of the circumstances to which Mr. Forsyth alludes took place before my arrival in this Province, and are detailed in the documents appended to his petition now before me. With regard to the matters within my own knowledge relating to Mr. Forsyth’s case, I cannot convey the information required of me by the Committee more succinctly than by putting in an extract from the remarks made by me (4th Feb.) upon Mr. Forsyth’s petition to His Excellency, which he has partly set out in the one subsequently presented to the House of Assembly, and which is now before the Committee; my opinions upon the subject being the same as when those remarks were written.

The Petitioner, in alleging that “the private Company” (to whom he states that he had sold his property at the Falls of Niagara) “found little difficulty in obtaining from the Government that justice which had been continually denied to him,” is evidently under a total misapprehension. He seems to suppose that the Government has abandoned to Messrs. Clark and Street that which it saved for the public from the intrusive appropriation of Mr. Forsyth himself. It is true that after having been by two verdicts, and judgments of the Court of King’s Bench, decided to be a public reserve, Messrs. Clark and Street, the present proprietors of the land adjoining, succeeded last year in obtaining a verdict for a trespass upon that small piece of ground on the Bank of the River opposite the Falls, which was in 1793 specially reserved in the Patent to Elsworth; but that verdict was set aside by the Court of King’s Bench, as being contrary to evidence. When this action of trespass came on to be re-tried at the last Niagara Assizes, the principal, and in fact the only important witness for the defence, the Surveyor, who originally laid out the reserve, before the adjoining land was granted, did not obey the subpoena; he being, as he afterwards explained, just recovering from a dangerous sickness, and as the Judge at Nisi Prius did not think it right to accede to my application to allow the case to stand over for a few days until he could attend, no evidence was offered. The verdict however in this personal action I considered as comparatively of little importance, since a suit was at that moment pending on the part of the crown against Clark and Street which would have conclusively settled the title to the land, and which then stood for trial, but from the absence of the witness above mentioned the record was for the present withdrawn. So far from entertaining any doubt as to the right of the crown to the reserve in question, I am convinced that the claim now set up by Clark and Street is an unrighteous one; and unless it should be considered by the Executive Government, for any reason not at present apparent, to be inexpedient, it is my intention to proceed against those gentlemen by the information of intrusion, which I was, for the reason I have just stated, obliged to withdraw. The Committee will observe therefore that the government has not abandoned the claim since the sale of the property to Messrs. Clark and Street; but on the contrary has expressly sanctioned the proceedings adopted for the vindication of what it conceives to be the right of the public to the reserved claim on the top of the bank opposite to the Falls of Niagara, which the government is desirous to keep open as an approach to the view of the Falls.

GILBERT McMICKING, Esq., M. P. P. FOR LINCOLN, called in and examined.

A petition has been referred to this Committee complaining of great wrongs done to Mr. Forsyth of the Niagara Falls, by Captain Phillpotts and the Military.—What do you know of that transaction?—A gross outrage was perpetrated, defiance of the laws—it created very great excitement in the country, but no justice has been obtained against the parties—the transaction has placed the judiciary authority of this Province not above suspicion.

DAVID THORBURN, Esq., M.P.P. FOR THE FALLS OF NIAGARA RIDING, OF THE COUNTY OF LINCOLN, called in and examined.

You presented a petition to the House from Mr. Forsyth, the late owner of the Niagara Falls Pavilion, complaining that he had sustained great injury at the hand of the government, and that a violent outrage had been committed upon his property while at the Falls.—What do you know respecting these matters?—The general feelings of the country was opposed to the outrage by the Military, but I am not aware that Mr. Forsyth ever got any redress.

It appears by the accounts sent down to the Assembly this session that £ sterling have been paid out of the Provincial Revenue, without the consent of the Legislature, to the Attorney General for defending suits with respect to the title of the crown to some part of the property claimed by Mr. Forsyth.—Are you aware what steps Mr. Forsyth, or the persons he has sold to have taken, in these lawsuits?—I am not.

Report of Committee on Petition of W. Forsyth.

Upper Canada.

No. 1.

Copy of a Despatch from Major General Sir John Colborne to Viscount Goderich.

UPPER CANADA,
York, 11th January, 1833. }

MY LORD,

I have the honor to forward to you the accompanying documents with reference to your Lordship's Despatch of the 29th of August, in which was transmitted a copy of Resolutions of the House of Commons, respecting certain petitions addressed to the House of Assembly of Upper Canada in the session of the Provincial Legislature of 1828, and to acquaint your Lordship, that as the circumstances connected with Forsyth's petition could not be understood without a report from Chief Justice Robinson, who was Attorney General at the time Forsyth brought his action for trespass, I have considered it necessary to call on the Chief Justice for such explanations connected with the affair as he might be able to afford, and to forward them for the information of the House of Commons.

I have &c.

(Signed) J. COLBORNE.

Letter from Chief Justice Robinson to Lieutenant Colonel Rowan, Secretary, &c. &c. &c.

YORK 31st December, 1832.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, transmitting some Resolutions of the House of Commons, in consequence of which His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor has been desired to furnish copies of certain proceedings in the Assembly of this Province, upon petitions preferred by William Forsyth.

In reply, I beg leave to state, that the specific call for information which the House of Commons has made, would be answered, as it appears to me, by merely transcribing from the Journals of the Assembly the Reports referred to, and the evidence appended to them, and transmitting those papers to England. If the subject of His Excellency's reference to me is to obtain any further information on the subject of those complaints which it is in my power to give, I can have no objection to state such facts as are within my knowledge, according to the best of my recollection.—The reports alluded to have not, so far as I am aware, engaged my attention in this country, either in the Legislature or out of it, for some years. I have long ceased to think of them; and it is more than three years since I filled the situation under the Government, which gave me official knowledge of the matters they refer to. It is therefore probable that some minor circumstances may have passed from my mind, but I apprehend the following statement will be found to be in substance correct.

The Township of Stamford, and the other Townships on the River Niagara, as well as some other parts of this Province, were surveyed and laid out into lots before the division of the Province of Quebec into Upper and Lower Canada, some time between the years 1785 and 1790, and while General Haldimand administered the Government of Canada. In laying out the lands on the River Niagara, a reservation of a Chain in width (66 feet) was made along the top of the bank, partly, I think, with a view to the Military defence of the Province, and partly for the purpose of preserving a convenient communication.

The River, which in many places is of very moderate width, constitutes a boundary between us and the United States of America; and it no doubt occurred to the government that in the event of war, it might be necessary to construct batteries and other works upon the bank to repel invasion, or to command the passage of the river. In the war which occurred in 1812, batteries were in fact constructed at numerous points along the river.

In more recent surveys, made under the authority of the government of Upper Canada, it has been thought obviously proper for other reasons, and independently of these considerations, to reserve to the Crown, for the public convenience, the space of a chain along rivers and other waters of far less importance than the Niagara; such a reservation, by preserving the land open, affords to all persons access to the water without trespassing upon the lands of private proprietors.

as a separate Province, (in the year 1792) the particular public reservations which had been made along the Niagara river, in the original surveys were designated, and reported to him by the Surveyor who had made those surveys under the authority of the Government. Among these, (for there were others at particular points) was the general reservation I have mentioned, of one chain from the top of the bank along the River Niagara.

The Letters Patent afterwards issued by the Provincial Government to the several grantees specified this reservation or exception. It was a matter perfectly notorious and well understood, and no doubt or difficulty, that I have heard of, ever arose upon the subject for nearly forty years, and until Mr. Forsyth in the year 1826 or 1827, took upon himself to inclose with a high post and rail fence, the allowance or reservation of one chain along the bank of the river in front of his own lands; and the effect of making this inclosure in the place and manner in which it was made, was to exclude the public from access to the great natural curiosity, the Falls of Niagara, except such persons as he might permit to go through his house or premises to the bank of the river. Mr. Forsyth kept the principal Inn at that time at the Falls, and owned the adjoining lands for a long distance along the river, including those points to which all strangers resort to view the Cataract.

The public were annoyed at this act of Mr. Forsyth's, and applied by petition to the Lieutenant Governor for redress. This petition I have seen, it was signed by the most respectable inhabitants of the country, and I think the Lieutenant Governor was repeatedly applied to, and the necessity urged upon him of having this unauthorized obstruction removed. I have now in my possession the statements made on oath and preferred to the Lieutenant Governor by the keeper of an hotel in the vicinity, complaining of the oppressive consequences to him of the vexatious usurpation by Mr. Forsyth.

The reservation of a chain along the river, had, it seems, been commonly regarded as made for military purposes rather than for civil, and looking upon it in that light, as I suppose Sir Peregrine Maitland, who then resided in the District of Niagara, and within a few miles of the reserve in question, and who was then Major General commanding, referred to the Engineer officer in charge in that district, and instructed him to see that the space was kept open, as it had been, and as it ought to be. This officer, Captain Phillpotts, after Mr. Forsyth had been requested in vain to remove his fence, thought himself bound by his instructions to see that it was removed, and taking a small party of soldiers in their fatigue dress, he did, in the presence of Mr. Forsyth, cut or pull down the fence, and throw open the land again to the public; and he also pulled down and removed a small blacksmith's shop, made of boards, which had been placed on the reserve. No force was necessary for overcoming any personal resistance, for none was made. To prevent the possibility of encroaching upon Mr. Forsyth's property, Captain Phillpotts procured the attendance of a Mr. Jones, the very same sworn Surveyor who had made the original official survey of the ground nearly forty years before, and it was of the land marked out by him as the public reservation that possession was taken. It appears also, that to prevent a mis-statement of his proceedings, Captain Phillpotts had requested the Sheriff of the District, who lives near the premises, to be present and observe what was done. The Sheriff did attend, but took no part. The soldiers, in obedience to their orders, pulled down the fence; and Mr. Forsyth, who was present, remonstrated and declared that he would prosecute for this trespass, as he called it, upon his property. The pickets and other materials not having been removed from the ground, Mr. Forsyth soon afterwards set up the fence again, and excluded the public as before; and Captain Phillpotts again took it down, and with no additional circumstance of force, and no more direct resistance on the part of Mr. Forsyth.

For these two acts, Mr. Forsyth brought civil actions, one against the Sheriff and Captain Phillpotts jointly, for the first removal of the fence and building, and the other against Captain Phillpotts alone for the second removal of the fence. Captain Phillpotts reported to Sir Peregrine Maitland, that he had been thus prosecuted for acts done in obedience to the orders he had received, and I, being the Attorney General at that time, was instructed to defend those suits, and to take the necessary measures for vindicating the right of the Crown.

My first knowledge of the circumstances I have detailed above, was acquired after I had been so instructed, and I relate the facts from my recollection of the evidence given afterwards upon the trial.

I pleaded specially to the actions, in such a manner as to bring in issue the right of the Crown to the space of land in question, Mr. Forsyth took issue on that right, not relying upon or asserting in his pleadings that any unwarrantable or excessive violence had been used, or any wrong committed in case the land was the property of the Crown, but simply denying that fact, and asserting the property to be his. To set that point at rest in the most formal manner, I filed an information of intrusion against him on the part of the Crown, for his act in taking possession after the removal of his fence, and to this information he pleaded not guilty. Thus in three several actions or cases, the opportunity was afforded of trying the question by juries of the country. It was fully investigated, and upon the clearest testimony decided against Mr. Forsyth's pretensions. He failed in his action against Captain Phillpotts and the Sheriff, and a verdict was rendered against him on the information of intrusion. Upon this verdict, judgment was entered, and a writ of amoveas manus sued out and executed. Upon the trials he maintained his pretensions to the grounds inclosed, by giving a peculiar construction to the words "top of the bank," and endeavouring to apply them to the top of a lower bank, confining the river at an inaccessible point, and to which lower bank no person could pass from what is actually the "top of the bank," and more especially after he had inclosed the space in question.

This construction, repugnant to reason, was clearly repelled by various proofs, and especially by the evidence of the very surveyor, still living, who laid out the ground in the year 1786, who was examined as a witness at the trial, and whose explanations were confirmed by a survey recently made by another most respectable surveyor. It was proved that the lines of the lots, as originally marked out, were never produced further than within one chain of the high bank, or commencement of the Table land; and moreover the actual contents of the lots themselves, furnished internal evidence of this fact. I have also in my possession the evidence on affidavit of a man still living, who was chain-bearer on the original survey, and of another respectable inhabitant of the Province, who was residing in Stamford at the time. This additional testimony I became accidentally aware of since the trials, and they are conclusive as it seems to me, upon the point at issue.

It was while his action against Captain Phillpotts and the Sheriff was pending, and a few months before it was to be tried, that Mr. Forsyth made these statements to the Assembly, the natural effect of which would be to elicit a discussion calculated to inflame the public mind, by exciting a jealousy of military interference, and from this excitement he probably expected an advantage in his contest with the government upon the question of right. His petition was entertained and referred to a select Committee, who received such evidence as they chose, and made the report upon it, which appears upon their journals. It will be seen that this report was brought in at the close of the Session; no question upon its reception was ever moved in that body, nor were the opinions expressed on it made the subject of discussion or vote. It has therefore no other sanction than the opinion of the Committee upon an ex parte hearing; and if I am entitled to assume that truth must be regarded in a Legislative body, I may venture to assert that such a report could not have been approved if it had been made the subject of open discussion. In the face of whatever attempts were made by the petitioner to excite prejudice, the jury came to the conclusion I have stated. The notes taken of the evidence by the Judge who presided at the trial have most probably been preserved by him, and a copy might be procured, if for any purpose it should be desired.

I will add further, that no exception to the verdict of the jury was attempted to be raised by Mr. Forsyth—no new trial was moved for. In the four years that have elapsed since, I do not recollect that in the Legislature or elsewhere, the subject has excited any interest. Mr. Forsyth does not now own any part of the property in question, having sold it to persons who, I am convinced, will never pretend that they have a right to enclose the public reservation to which he asserted a claim.

With respect to the reasonableness of the complaint as to military interference, I think it would be difficult to find, in His Majesty's service, an officer less open to the imputation of arbitrary conduct, and a disregard of civil rights than Sir Peregrine Maitland. When he took the step complained of, he was doubtless sufficiently aware how easy it is, in a certain temper of men's minds, to make a trifling matter the cause of an unjust excitement; and had he thought of nothing but his own ease, he would probably have declined giving any direction to the Engineer Officer to remove the nuisance complained of, and he might have told those who petitioned for his interference, that they must submit to Mr. Forsyth's encroachments upon the public right, and await the result of an information for intrusion. An individual whose property had been thus trespassed upon would have had a clear right by law to abate the nuisance, and it seemed no unreasonable expectation that the Government should protect its rights as fully and promptly as individuals may. It was the natural impatience of the public, under the vexatious act of Mr. Forsyth, that led the government, for their sake, to the measure which occasioned for a time, no little trouble.

Whether it would have been more judicious in Sir Peregrine

Maitland to have taken any other course, I need not presume to offer an opinion; having known nothing of the act complained of until after it had taken place, no responsibility rested with me as Crown Officer; and so far as respects any legal question, I need assume no responsibility now; but without pretending to decide the matter in its strictly legal point of view I must say I have not much doubt that if, in any part of England or in the United States of America, an intruder were to insist on incumbering a barrack square with his wagon, or were to plant posts and rails in a parade ground, the nuisance would be removed under the direction of an officer on the spot.

The House of Commons has also called for information respecting "the proceedings of the Assembly of this Province, in the case of Colonels Givens and Coffin, heads of departments, who were sent to gaol for refusing to give testimony in the matter of Captain Phillpotts, they severally alleging to the House, that the Major General then commanding would not permit them to attend; together with the proceedings, if any, which have been had thereon by His Majesty's Government, or by the local authorities."

I was Attorney General at that time, and have a general recollection of the matter here referred to. In that session of the Legislature (1828,) as will be seen by inspection of the Journals, there were a number of Select Committees conducting inquiries into various public matters. It had been the constant usages of the Assembly, in past years, when any of their Committees desired that an officer of the Government should attend them as a witness, to send an address to the Lieutenant Governor, communicating their wish and specifying the subject on which the evidence of the witness was required. The order then proceeded as a matter of course, from the Lieutenant Governor to the officer, to attend the Committee. Whether this was the proper course, having a due respect to the privileges of the different branches of the Government, or whether it was a wholly unnecessary courtesy, I do not pretend to determine, but it had been usually, if not invariably followed. One of the Select Committees in this session required the evidence of Colonel Coffin, the Adjutant General of Militia, and of Colonel Givens, the Chief Superintendent of Indian Affairs; and instead of addressing themselves to the Lieutenant Governor, as had been usual, the Select Committee sent, it seems, a summons directly to those gentlemen. I do not mean to say, speaking as I do merely from memory that this was the first instance of a variance from the former usage spoken of; but at all events the departure from that usage was of very recent date, and the officers in question having received the summons, reported the fact to Sir Peregrine Maitland, and prayed his instruction. The object of inquiry (unless I am much mistaken) was not stated in the summons, and the Lieutenant Governor or Commander of the Forces, in whichever capacity Sir Peregrine Maitland conceived he was acting, (and considering the nature of the duties discharged by those officers, or by one of them, certainly I suppose he acted in the former) being left quite uninformed on that point, desired them not to attend, meaning, I take it for granted, by that course to insist upon the right of being made acquainted with the subject of investigation upon which the testimony of these public officers was desired. Colonels Givens and Coffin obeying the orders of the Lieutenant Governor, did not attend. The Assembly resolved that their refusal was a contempt, and committed them. They afterwards brought an action of false imprisonment against the Speaker, but they did not recover, for the legality of the imprisonment, that is, the right of the House to commit for what they had adjudged to be a contempt, was confirmed by the Court of King's Bench by a solemn judgment rendered in another cause then pending which involved the same question.

If, in making this statement from memory, I have fallen into any error, a reference to the Journals will perhaps correct it; and as Sir Peregrine Maitland is now in England, if I have misapprehended or have stated imperfectly the grounds on which he acted, he can of course more correctly explain them.

I observe it is stated in the resolutions of the House of Commons, that the officers referred to were required to give evidence in the matter of Captain Phillpotts.

I am not under the impression that any connexion between the two matters was expressed in the notice given to the officers to attend, or was understood at the time of the occurrence, though of course, the Select Committee and the Assembly were aware of it, and the Government must soon after have known it, if they did not at first. But however this may be, I am satisfied that no desire to keep from the Select Committee any information that Colonel Givens or Colonel Coffin could give respecting Captain Phillpotts or Mr. Forsyth, could have had the slightest influence with the Lieutenant Governor. I cannot see how there could have been any room for such a motive; I do not recollect that I ever exchanged a word with either of those gentlemen on the subject of Mr. Forsyth's complaints; but from the very nature of the thing, from their duties and characters and occupations, I am persuaded in my own mind that, whatever Mr. Forsyth may have imagined, they could have had nothing more to tell respecting that transaction that could affect either the Lieutenant Governor or Captain Phillpotts, than any two officers that might have been taken at random from any regiment at that time in His Majesty's service. The House of Assembly did not in any subsequent session require their evidence on any complaint of Mr. Forsyth's, and if they did in fact know any thing that Mr. Forsyth himself considered important it was singular that they were not heard of upon the trial which afterwards took place, when their evidence must have been most material if it could have affected either his rights or the amount of damages which he claimed, and when their attendance could have been procured as a matter of course upon an ordinary subpoena.

In one of the Petitions of Mr. Forsyth there are reflections cast upon the administration of justice in this Province, and particularly upon the conduct of the Crown Officers, upon whom the duty is imposed of conducting criminal prosecutions in the Courts of Oyer and Terminer, and in the evidence given by him before the Select Committee, Mr. Forsyth has made certain statements affecting myself individually.

For more than sixteen years before that time, I had discharged, with one or two short intervals, the duty of Attorney General, and there could scarcely be much foundation for the remarks made upon the administration of justice, without my being implicated considerably in the misconduct spoken of.

Whatever countenance may be considered to have been given to these complaints of Mr. Forsyth by the report of the Select Committee of the Assembly, and through whatever channel and for whatever purpose these matters are now brought under the notice of the House of Commons, I hold myself bound to prove and ready to prove, upon any investigation conducted upon those common principles of justice which regulate the most inferior tribunals in this country, that, as applied to myself, the charges and insinuations are utterly groundless, and I undertake, at this distance of time to repel satisfactorily the attempt to justify them by any one act of mine, during the whole course of my public service as Crown Officer.

In respect to the assertions of Mr. Forsyth, which expressly apply to myself personally, the evidence of the Honorable William Dickson and of the Honorable Thomas Clark, printed in the Appendix to the Journals of the same session, will shew to what credit they are entitled.

I will only add, what indeed I have already stated, that the Report of the Select Committee was never adopted or discussed, or in any manner acted upon in the Legislature of this Province. Against the act of a Select Committee in receiving evidence, and reporting it, by which means it becomes printed in the Journals, there is no remedy; but although the Assembly, neither in that time nor in the four years that have since elapsed, brought Mr. Forsyth's statements, to the test of a public discussion, or of a satisfactory investigation, if the House of Commons has leisure and inclination to examine into my official conduct or private transactions, I shall be happy indeed to undergo the scrutiny; and in the mean time, I content myself with affirming, that His Majesty has no officer in his service, civil or military, in any part of his dominions who has kept himself more entirely free from any pecuniary or private transaction that could interfere with his public duty, or bring in question his character as a man than I have done to the present hour, and I shall be surprised if an individual can be found in the Province of ordinary good character, whatever may be his political bias, who will assert the contrary.

I have &c.

JNO. B. ROBINSON.

CAPTAIN PHILLPOTT'S statement respecting the removal of the fences, &c. put up on the Military Reserve, near the Falls of Niagara, by Mr. William Forsyth.

Mr. Forsyth, who purchased the farm immediately adjoining the Falls of Niagara some years since, on which he erected a large hotel, &c. having, without any permission or authority whatever, taken upon himself to enclose the strip of land originally reserved by the Government for the purpose of securing a convenient access to the river at all times, and having wilfully destroyed a wooden causeway made on this Reserve by a neighbouring inkeeper, Mr. J. Browne, for the accommodation of persons visiting the Falls, so that the only convenient approach to this great natural curiosity was through his (Forsyth's) own house, and all the most respectable inhabitants in the neighbourhood signed a petition to the Lieutenant Governor, Major General Sir Peregrine Maitland, requesting that the said Reserve might be thrown open to the public.

In consequence of this application His Excellency directed Capt. Phillpotts, at that time commanding the Royal Engineers in that District, and therefore in charge of these Reserves, to make a survey of the Government ground near the Falls, and remove any fences &c. which had been placed thereon.

In compliance with these directions, Captain Phillpotts went to the spot, with a Sergeant and four soldiers, in fatigue jackets without arms, having previously visited the Falls for the purpose of calling on Mr. Forsyth, and informing him that he had placed his fences, &c. on the Government Reserve; and having communicated to him the orders he had received on the subject, he informed him that he should be obliged to carry them into execution, unless Mr. Forsyth would remove the fences himself, which he not only refused to do, but threatened to prosecute Captain Phillpotts if he touched them. In order to prevent the possibility of mistake, Captain Phillpotts had obtained Sir Peregrine Maitland's authority for availing himself of the assistance of Mr. Jones, (a sworn surveyor, who originally laid out that part of the Province, when the country was first settled,) who, on this occasion, made a survey of this Reserve, and pointed out its limits by pickets, for the guidance of persons employed to remove Mr. Forsyth's fences. This took place on about the 18th of May, 1827, and about four days afterwards, Captain Phillpotts, having occasion to visit the Falls, saw that these pickets had been taken away, and Forsyth's fence re-placed on the Reserve, which Captain Phillpotts caused to be again removed, and the Reserve to be marked out with pickets as before.

Major Leonard, the Sheriff of the District, who resides near the Falls, having accompanied Captain Phillpotts to the ground, at his request, Mr. Forsyth brought a civil action against both of them for the alleged trespass, which was tried at Niagara, and a verdict was given for the defendants.

In consequence of his having again placed his fence on the Government Reserve, the Attorney General was directed by the Lieutenant Governor to institute legal proceedings against Mr. Forsyth; a writ of intrusion was filed against him accordingly; and on a subsequent trial, a verdict was given for the Crown; and thus, on two different occasions it has been proved by juries composed of respectable yeomen of the country, that Mr. Forsyth had no cause of complaint whatever against Captain Phillpotts, or the military persons employed under him on this occasion.

GEORGE PHILLPOTTS,
Captain Royal Engineers, York, U. C.

No. 2.

COPY of a Despatch from Lieutenant General Sir P. Maitland to the Right Honorable Wm. Huskisson.

UPPER CANADA, }
York, 29th March, 1828. }

SIR,—During the Session of the Legislature of this Colony, which has just terminated, a proceeding has taken place upon which I am compelled to solicit, very earnestly, the opinion of His Majesty's Government, that I may not be at a loss hereafter how to act under similar circumstances.

On the 16th instant, Colonel Givens, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, acting as head of the department in this Province, in the absence of the Deputy Superintendent General, who resides at Quebec, and Colonel Coffin, Adjutant General of the Militia, communicated to me officially, that they had been summoned to attend a Select Committee of the House of Assembly, and they submitted to me the letters which they had respectively received from the chairman of the Committee, requiring their attendance, copies of which accompany this Despatch.

It has been usual hitherto for the Assembly when they required information from any public department under the Government, or the attendance of any Civil Officer, to address the Lieutenant Governor on the subject, and I do not know that in any instance their request has not been complied with. In some cases, however, the request has been, in the first instance made to the officer whose attendance was desired, and who has obtained the leave of the Lieutenant Governor, before he attends the Committee. The mode first mentioned has, however, generally prevailed, particularly during the last session, in the course of which I received three or four addresses for the attendance of different officers on Committees of the House.

Colonel Coffin, as Adjutant General of the Militia, is, in time of peace, the head of a department in the Civil Government, Colonel Givens is now, and has been for some time, acting as head of a department under the control of the Commander of the Forces. The former conceived he was following the proper and ordinary course in applying to me, as Lieutenant Governor, for permission to attend the Committee of the Assembly; the latter was led by a sense of duty to apply for the same purpose to me as Major General Commanding the Forces in the Province; and they severally sent to the Chairman of the Committee a communication of which I enclose a copy, informing him that they had applied for leave to attend.

For reasons which I shall presently explain, I thought it right to give to the application of these officers the answers which I enclose; they consequently did not attend, but acquainted the Chairman of the Committee that they were not permitted to do so. On the 23rd instant the Chairman of the Committee reported to the House of Assembly that Colonel Givens and Colonel Coffin had not attended, and the House avoiding any communication with me, directed Warrants against them to be issued by the Speaker, that they might be brought up in custody of the Serjeant at Arms. Of the intention to issue the Warrants the two officers were apprised, and as I did not think it proper that the government should interpose in that stage of the proceeding, they were directed entirely by the advice of the professional gentlemen whom they chose to consult. Acting under this advice, they declined voluntary submission to the Warrant, declaring that force must be resorted to, and intimating that if such force were used, they would prosecute the Speaker.

They were taken on the same day, the 22nd instant, having submitted without resistance, after the house, in which they were had been forcibly entered; and being brought to the bar of the Assembly, and charged with a contempt in not obeying the summons of the Chairman of the Select Committee, they stated in their vindication that they had applied for permission to attend, and had not received it, and Colonel Coffin read the letter which I had directed to be written to him in answer to his application. The resolution which is transmitted, was then moved and adopted in the House, 21 voting for it and 11 against it, after two amendments had been negatived.

The Speaker thereupon made his Warrants of which copies are transmitted, and Colonel Givens and Colonel Coffin were received in custody by the Sheriff the same evening, and remained in prison until the 25th instant, when the Legislature was prorogued in the ordinary course, and according to an intimation which I had given to the two Houses, through their Speakers, many days before.

The 23d March being Sunday, Colonel Givens and Colonel Coffin reported to me on Monday what had taken place in consequence of their declining to attend the Select Committee, and I sent a message to the Assembly on the same day, of which I transmit a copy. No proceeding was had upon this Message, and you will perceive that in the speech with which I closed the session, and which I also send to you, I avoided mixing up this disagreeable occurrence with the general business of the Legislature. I chose rather to make it the subject of a separate Message, and to forbear in that Message to advance topics or employ language that might produce irritation, and unnecessarily implicate the feelings in a question which I look upon as exceedingly important.

Since the Session, Colonel Coffin has addressed to my Secretary a letter, of which I enclose a copy, I have referred to the Executive Council on the subject, and transmit their report in which I entirely concur.

I have thus laid before you the whole case, and I shall be most anxious to receive your opinion upon it: and in order that that opinion may, as much as possible, serve me for a direction in a very delicate, but important point of duty, I am desirous that it should be formed upon as general a view as can possibly be taken of the question.

I will refer to the Governors of other Colonies to learn what usage has obtained in them; but my belief is that in other Colonies as well as in this, it has been the practice for the Assembly to apply to the Governor by address, when information is wanted from any public department, or when the attendance of a public officer is desired.

When a Select Committee of the House of Assembly here desires the attendance of a member of the Legislative Council, or any officer or servant of that House the course uniformly pursued is to request it by Message, and not by directly summoning the individual. If courtesy leads to this practice, I see no reason why the same courtesy should not be extended to the third branch of the Legislature; and if it has prevailed rather from a sense of its necessity in order that the business of the Legislative Council may not be unreasonably interrupted by a compulsory abstraction of their members and officers, it seems to me that the same reason would apply with equal force, to the Executive Government, which is constantly in operation, and whose functions may be very inconveniently suspended, if without any reference to the head of a government, the principal of a department, or even subordinate officers can be withdrawn and detained at the pleasure of a Committee of the Assembly.

There are, however, other considerations which apply peculiarly to the Executive Government, and which, although they will not fail to occur readily to your mind, I feel it my duty to lay especially before you.

Few Sessions elapse in which the Assembly does not call upon the Government for information, which is sometimes granted and sometimes refused, according to the nature of the request. For instance, they have not unfrequently called for an account of the receipt and appropriation of the Casual and Territorial revenue of the Crown. My instructions are, not to comply with such a request until I have ascertained the purpose for which the information is desired, and have referred to the Secretary of State upon the subject; but if the Assembly can, without communicating with the Lieutenant Governor summon the Receiver General or the Inspector General of Accounts, or any of their Clerks, to attend a Select Committee and compel their attendance at the peril of imprisonment, the Government here or in England has no longer any discretion to exercise. Then with respect to the Military Service, it does not seem to me possible that a Select Committee of the Assembly can, for the purpose of enquiring, perhaps, into some alleged irregularity in a garrison, or want of discipline in a regiment, which they have nothing to do with, or for any other purpose compel the attendance of any Military Officer upon pain of imprisonment, and that his superior officer should have no discretion in granting or withholding permission, whatever may be the exigency of the service.

I should be most happy to learn what in such cases, is the usage of England, though it may by no means follow that the usage of Parliament there, is in all things, to be adopted here, or that it can be legally introduced and enforced.

The 31st Geo. III. will shew for what purposes the Legislature of this Province was constituted, and what powers are given to it. It has never been conceived that one of these powers was to prefer impeachments, because the Legislative Council has no power to entertain them or dispose of them. If therefore the professed object of any enquiry by a Select Committee is to ascertain the truth of a complaint against individuals, it is to be borne in mind how obviously and securely such an inquiry may be perverted to serve the purposes of faction, and may be made the instrument of the greatest oppression and abuse.

A select committee composed of members named at the request of a petitioner, receives an ex parte statement of a case; summons only such witnesses as it pleases, records their testimony, given without the sanction of an oath, and not under the restraint of any responsibility whatever. Upon this evidence a report is drawn in terms which gratify the malice of an individual, or answer the temporary purpose of an unprincipled faction, by aspersing the fairest characters among their opponents. The individual injured has no redress; he cannot prosecute the conspirators in a court of Law. The committee who manage the inquiry are not sworn as courts are to decide justly; and when they have made their report no ulterior proceeding is within the power of the party injured for vindicating his character; no impeachment can follow, and he cannot therefore obtain relief from the unjust accusation. The use of this engine for party purposes, has commenced in the present Assembly, but the length to which it has been carried in the last session, during the unfortunate absence of eight or nine members of the Assembly, has been quite an innovation, and one which I feel it my duty to bring, without loss of time, under the notice of His Majesty's Government.

Perhaps a stronger case could not well be imagined than that which has formed the ground work of the particular proceeding which I have described. A Mr. Forsyth, a person notoriously of indifferent character, had taken upon himself to enclose part of a public road, to serve of a chain in width along the bank of the River Niagara. My attention was particularly called to the circumstance by a petition from some of the inhabitants of the country, who complained of being thus shut out from the River by the illegal act of an individual. I directed the Commanding Engineer to survey the reserve along the river, and throw it open to the public. No one but Mr. Forsyth raised any objection. He was remonstrated with in vain; he was asked to remove his fences, but refused. He was told he should have men to assist him, but would not consent; and at length, without any personal violence being offered or threatened, the Engineer, with a fatigue party, threw down the fences.

The Sheriff of the District was present. Mr. Forsyth brought actions of trespass against the Engineer Officer and the Sheriff, whom I have directed the Crown Officers to defend. He replaced his fences, and the Attorney General in consequence filed an information of intrusion against him, which he defended; and upon a full trial by a jury, a verdict was rendered for the Crown, thereby establishing the right which had been disputed. The civil actions, from an error in the Plaintiff's proceedings, are yet undecided, and while they are depending in the Courts of Law, Mr. Forsyth petitions the Assembly, complaining of what he terms a grievous outrage, in language calculated to influence public feeling, by describing the act as a lawless, high-handed exercise of military power. This petition is referred to a select committee. His counsel, in his proceedings at law for the same alleged injury, happening to be a member of the Assembly, is named upon the Committee, and upon the ex parte statement of his client and other witnesses, not on oath, frames a report in direct opposition to the verdict of one jury who have tried the point, and intended, as it must be supposed, to influence those verdicts which are yet to be rendered. This report when made becomes a public document, and finds its way into the public papers, and thus, upon a question of boundary and legal right which has yet to be tried, the parties have to encounter whatever weight a prejudice so excited can throw into the scale.

I am well aware that in England no such case could occur, because a sense of justice would prevent it; but when civil or military officers under my government are summoned in the mere hope that they may know something that may turn to account at the trial, and in order, it may be, to find out evidence to be made use of in a court of law, I feel it quite necessary that I should know whether, with or without permission from the Government, their attendance can be compelled.

You will confer upon me a great favor by putting me, as soon as may be convenient, in possession of your sentiments upon the matters stated in this Despatch, and I feel that the questions they involve are of the greatest moment to the administration of justice, and to the honor and stability of the Government.

I will not further swell this Despatch by the transmission of any official report from the Law Officers of the Colony on the subject to which it has reference, but will content myself with adding that I have not failed to ascertain their opinion, which entirely agrees with the sentiments expressed in this letter.

Copy of a Despatch from Secretary Sir G. Murray, to Major General Sir John Colborne, &c. &c. &c.

DOWNING STREET, }
20th October 1828. }

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of Sir

9 Report of Committee on Petition of W. Forsyth.

Peregrine Maitland's Despatch of the 29th of March last, detailing the proceedings of the House of Assembly of Upper Canada, against Colonel Coffin and Colonel Givins for contempt of the privileges of that House, in refusing to obey the summons of the Chairman of the Select Committee, and requesting instructions for his guidance under similar circumstances.

From the statement of the Lieutenant Governor, I am led to infer that there were adequate grounds for inquiry by the House of Assembly into the grievances complained of in Mr. Forsyth's petition, of having been dispossessed of lands in his occupation by a military force, acting under the express command of the Lieutenant Governor; and the chief reason adduced by the Lieutenant Governor for not allowing Colonels Givins and Coffin to attend the Committee is stated to have been that he did not know the nature of Mr. Forsyth's complaint, nor the facts in regard to which the evidence of the officer was required.

As no direct notification had been made to the Lieutenant Governor, in a certain technical sense, he did not know the nature of the complaint, yet as he must have inferred that the Committee proposed to examine these officers respecting the employment of a military force for ejecting Forsyth from the land, I cannot but consider that Sir Peregrine Maitland would have exercised a sounder discretion had he permitted the officers to appear before the Assembly; and I regret that he did not accomplish the object he had in view in preventing Forsyth's encroachments by means of the civil power, which is said to have been at hand, rather than by calling in military aid.

No. 5.

Copy of a Despatch from Lieutenant General Sir P. Maitland to Mr. Secretary Stanley.
LONDON, June 24th, 1833.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge, with thankfulness, the sense of justice which has led you to submit to me a Despatch from Sir George Murray, when Secretary of State, to Sir John Colborne, of 20th of October, 1828, previously to laying it before the House of Commons.

However strange the statement may appear, I was altogether unaware that such a document existed. By it, I am now for the first time, made acquainted with Sir George Murray's animadversions on certain acts of my government.

As my despatch of the 29th of March, 1828, on which the opinions of the then Secretary of State are grounded, was written expressly with the view of obtaining instructions on a very delicate and important question, and not for the purpose of giving a full detail of transactions, nor of justifying my measures, the propriety of which had not been called in question, circumstances were naturally omitted by me that would have been necessary for the latter objects, but not for that which I had principally in view.

I shall therefore avail myself of the opportunity you have offered me, to supply, as well as my memory will enable me at this distant period of time, a few circumstances that seem to have been omitted, and that may tend to place those matters which have been commented on in a truer light.

Mr. Forsyth, an Innkeeper, having taken upon himself to enclose with a high fence a Government Reserve, consisting of a chain in width along the bank of the River Niagara, and which afforded the public free access to the principal fall of the river, I was repeatedly solicited, by petition and otherwise, to cause the obstruction to be removed. In consequence of these solicitations I directed the officer of engineers who had charge of the reserved lands, to survey the government property near the Falls, and remove any obstruction that had been placed on it. These objects were carried by him into effect, with the assistance of three or four of his men, without arms, in their working dress, and with the temper and caution he was enjoined to observe.

In the suits instituted by Mr. Forsyth against the Officer of Engineers it was incumbent on the Plaintiff to establish one or two points to entitle him to a verdict, namely, that the defendant had done that which, by law, he was not authorised to do, or that in doing that which by law he was authorised to do, he had done unnecessary injury to the plaintiff's property or possession. Both these points were distinctly submitted to the jury, and both were determined against the plaintiff. Mr. Forsyth, therefore, no doubt regretted, as well as Sir George Murray, the manner in which this intrusion on the public property had been removed, of course, for reasons that did not lie in the same direction.

Can it be seriously believed, that had any other course been taken, Mr. Forsyth or his Counsel, would have found in it less cause for complaint, or have been less industrious in endeavouring to excite clamour about it? It is certain, however, that their efforts could not have been less successful.

After a verdict had been obtained for the Crown, and while the civil suit was pending against the Officer of Engineers, every attempt was made to prejudice the public mind. Mr. Forsyth petitioned the Assembly, complaining of what he termed a grievous outrage, describing the act as a lawless high handed exercise of military power. This petition was referred to a Select Committee, of which his counsel in the proceedings at law was appointed member and elected chairman, and on the ex-parte statement of his client, and other witnesses, not on oath, framed a Report in direct opposition to the verdict that had been rendered and intended, as it must be supposed, to influence that which was yet to be given.

This Report, when made, became a public document, and found its way into the public papers; and thus, upon a question of right, which had yet to be tried, the party had to encounter whatever weight a prejudice so excited could throw into the scale. The jury, however, gave their verdict for the defendant, as I have already stated.

It is rather singular, that nearly at the same time, an intrusion on the public property in the town of Washington, in the neighbouring Republic, had attracted attention. The obstruction in that case was removed by a party of the military, escorted by a company of soldiers fully armed. A circumstantial narrative of the occurrence was given in the papers of that country; but in no instance, I believe, accompanied by any expression of disapproval.

To proceed to Sir George Murray's observation, that I should have exercised a sounder discretion had I permitted Colonels Givins and Coffin to attend the Select Committee, I concur entirely with Sir George Murray in thinking that it would have been advisable to do so had the Committee, as was usual, applied to me to direct their attendance. It was very well known that they could give no more information respecting the alleged outrage complained of by Mr. Forsyth, than any military officers selected at random from any part of the Province. It was no wish to withhold information therefore, that influenced me in this matter, and I did not fail to take care that the Committee should have reason to be assured that, in the event of the usual application being made to me, the officers would be desired to attend.

It was scarcely therefore to be anticipated that the Assembly, so near the period which had been notified for the close of the Session, many members having already returned to their homes, would, without any previous communication made to me, be led to take the course which they adopted, a course so likely to be, as it actually was, attended with very general reprobation.

Sir George Murray remarks, that the chief reason adduced by me for not allowing the officers to attend the Committee is stated to have been that I did not know the nature of Forsyth's complaint, nor the facts in regard to which the evidence of those officers was required.

I stated this as a reason (not the chief reason) for it was calculated, if submitted to the Committee, to remind them that it had been usual, in similar cases, to apply to the Lieutenant Governor, and in doing so, to furnish him with information on certain points.

Before I acquiesced in the course which had been taken by the Committee, it doubtless became incumbent on me to consider well what might be the effect of my acquiescence at any future period. In doing so, it appeared to me that the security of the Colony, in the strongest sense of the term, would be affected, and that objections against the measure might be adduced as important as undeniable; but they were not, for obvious reasons, such as I could properly submit to the Assembly, or state in a despatch which would probably be submitted to that body. I am always ready to state them, if called upon by His Majesty's Government to do so.

It has of late years grown into a practice to submit the official correspondence had with the Colonial Office to the Legislature of the Colonies, if called for by them, unreservedly.

The Lieutenant Governor of a Colony must therefore necessarily exercise a greater degree of restraint than formerly, in addressing the Secretary of State. And if he cannot rely upon being met by so much consideration as will ensure to him the opportunity of offering explanations before his measures are condemned, he may justly despair of being able to render justice to the office he is entrusted with.

I regret that it should have been made necessary for me to trouble you with this long detail of transactions, which had long ceased to occupy my attention, and respecting which many circumstances have possibly escaped my recollection.

I have, &c.

P. MAITLAND.

P. S.—The Attorney General of Upper Canada being in London, I requested him to give any information he could supply, respecting the lease granted by Messrs. Clark and Street, a matter alluded to in the Report of the Select Committee. My recollection of the circumstances accord with the statement made by Mr. Boulton, and I request that his letter may be considered as annexed to this communication.

P. M.

A Select Committee of the House of Assembly was appointed in Upper Canada in the Session of 1821 or 1822, to revise the Militia Laws of the Province, who were desirous of obtaining information on some points from the Adjutant General of Militia. This officer was consequently requested to attend the Committee without any previous application for leave to the Lieut. Governor. This, upon a suggestion to the Chairman of the Committee (the late Colonel Nichol of the Provincial Militia) was ascertained to be irregular, and consequently a formal request for leave to this Officer to attend was transmitted to the Lieutenant Governor, and of course promptly complied with, and this has been the constant practice in cases of this description (except that of Colonels Givins and Coffin) so far as my parliamentary experience extends.

Letter from H. J. Boulton, Esquire to Lieutenant General Sir P. Mailland, K. C. B.

MORLEY'S HOTEL,
London, 24th June, 1833. }

SIR,

In reply to your inquiry respecting my recollection of the circumstances under which Messrs. Clark and Street obtained a lease of part of the Military Reserve near the Falls of Niagara in 1827, I beg to acquaint you that the instrument under which these gentlemen hold these premises in question was drawn by me as Solicitor General of Upper Canada. Previous to their obtaining the lease, Messrs. Clark and Street had become lessees of the King's Ferry across the Niagara River, just below the Falls, and opposite to the property of a Mr. Forsyth, an innkeeper who had himself at one time been desirous of obtaining a lease of the Ferry. When they became lessees, this man, Forsyth, obstructed their enjoyment of it in every possible way, setting up, at the same place, a Ferry in opposition to theirs, and as was believed from a variety of circumstances, causing several of their boats to be destroyed. For these injuries, Clarke and Street brought actions at law against Forsyth, in which I was their Counsel, and Mr. Rolph, Chairman subsequently of a committee of the Assembly, who reported upon a petition presented to that body by Forsyth, complaining of the Government for pretended injuries he had sustained through their interference, was Counsel for Forsyth. In these actions the Lessees clearly established their right, and two several juries at successive Courts, gave considerable damages against Forsyth for his disturbance of their right of ferry. The Crown also filed an information of intrusion against Forsyth for entering upon and assuming the property in the ground reserved for military purposes, and although he used all the means in his power to cause it to be believed that he was an oppressed man, and that the military were set in array against him, when in truth only two or three soldiers accidentally passing from one post to another, in their fatigue dresses, were employed as common labourers to remove obstructions he had caused; the jury, after remaining out several hours, returned a unanimous verdict for the Crown, thereby negating his right to the ground, and fully establishing that of the Crown, to the satisfaction of every respectable man in the neighbourhood. Under these circumstances, and for the purpose of preventing any persons from erecting any ferry-house, or keeping ferry boats on the shore, where Clark and Street had the right of ferry, for which they paid a large rent, and also to keep the ground open for the free access of the public which Forsyth had interdicted,—Clark and Street obtained an order for a license of occupation of that part of the reserve near the ferry, up and down the river. The object of granting this license was to protect the lessees in the proper enjoyment of their right of ferry, and to keep the shore open and free of access to the public, who had been shut out by Forsyth, unless they passed through his inn, which tended to create a monopoly for his house, and was felt as a serious nuisance by the public. Mr. Clark stated his reasons for wishing the lease to me, and I prepared a lease, under the Great Seal, to him and his partner to hold, strictly during pleasure, at a pepper-corn rent. This instrument gave them a legal title to the possession—at the same time, from the uncertain period at which they could hold it, the Crown and public were fully protected in the enjoyment of the easement it was intended the latter should possess, that of free ingress, egress, and regress, to the Falls, as the Crown, from the terms of the lease, retained the power of putting an end to the tenure, should the confidence be abused which was placed in the lessors. They have, to my knowledge, acted hitherto in accordance with the expectations of the Government, and I am certain the grant to them has been productive of evil to no one, and was never intended to prejudice the rights even of Forsyth; and if he had not shewn the obdurate disposition which he so frequently and violently manifested, of obstructing the free use of the King's Ferry, and would he have permitted the ground in question to remain open, as it formerly had been, and unenclosed, I do not think that the grant to Clarke and Street would ever have been thought of, either by themselves or any one else. It was purely a measure of defence against this man's repeated aggressions.

I have, &c.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

We, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly request that Your Excellency would be pleased to transmit to England, and favorably to recommend to His Majesty's Government, the Report herewith presented to Your Excellency of a Select Committee of this House appointed to enquire into the claim preferred in the present and former Sessions of the Legislature, by Mr. William Forsyth, of Bertie, Yeoman, late proprietor of the Niagara Falls Estate, to compensation for injury and damage done him, under the authority and by the command of the Officer lately commanding the Forces in this Province. We are of opinion that Mr. Forsyth has fully proved that he sustained damage, and that his case is an aggravated one, deserving the early and favorable consideration of His Majesty's Government.

Bill to amend the Charter of King's College.

ANSWER.

GENTLEMEN,

I will transmit this address and report to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The opinion of the Law Officers of the Crown that the intrusion on the Military Reserve near the Falls was an iniquitous proceeding; and that the intruders should be again prosecuted, will prevent my complying with the request of the House, in respect to a favorable recommendation to His Majesty's Government of the case of Forsyth.

The opinion of the Attorney General is expressed in this extract of his report on the case:

Extract from the Report of the Attorney General on the case to which the petition of Wm. Forsyth has reference, dated 4th February, 1835.

"So far from entertaining any doubt as to the right of the Crown to the Reserve in question, I am convinced that the claim now set up by Clark & Street is an unrighteous one, and unless it shall appear to the Executive Government, for any reason not at present apparent, to be inexpedient, it is my intention to proceed against those gentlemen by the information of intrusion, which I was, for the reason I have just stated, obliged to withdraw."

No. 23.

An Act to amend the Charter of King's College.

WHEREAS His late Majesty, George the Fourth, was graciously pleased, by letters patent at Westminster, on the 15th day of March, in the eighth year of his reign, to establish at or near the Town of York, now City of Toronto, a College, with the style and privileges of an University, for the education and instruction of youth and students in arts and faculties, to be called "King's College;" which charter is in the following words:—

"GEORGE THE FOURTH, by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. &c. &c.

"TO ALL WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME—Greeting:

WHEREAS the establishment of a College within our Province of Upper Canada, in North America, for the education of youth in the principles of the Christian religion, and for their instruction in the various branches of science and literature which are taught in our Universities in this Kingdom, would greatly conduce to the welfare of our said Province; AND WHEREAS humble application has been made to us by many of our loving subjects of our said Province, that we would be pleased to grant our Royal charter for the more perfect establishment of a College therein, and for incorporating the members thereof for the purposes aforesaid. NOW KNOW YE, That we, having taken the premises into our Royal consideration, and duly weighing the great utility and importance of such an institution, have, of our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere motion, ordained and granted, and do by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, ordain and grant, that there shall be established at or near the Town of York in our said Province of Upper Canada, from this time, one College, with the style and privileges of an University as hereinafter directed, for the education and instruction of youth and students in arts and faculties, to continue for ever, to be called "King's College."

"And we do hereby declare and grant, that our trusty and well beloved the Right Reverend Father in God, Charles James, Bishop of the Diocese of Quebec, or the Bishop for the time being of the Diocese in which the said Town of York may be situated, or any future division or alteration of the said present Diocese of Quebec, shall for us and in our behalf be the Visitor of the said College; and that our trusty and well beloved Sir Peregrine Maitland, our Lieutenant Governor of our said Province, or the Governor, Lieutenant Governor or other person administering the Government of our said Province for the time being, shall be Chancellor of our said College.

"And we do hereby declare, ordain, and grant, that there shall at all times be one President of our said Collège, who shall be a Clergyman in Holy Orders of the United Church of England and Ireland; and that there shall be such and so many Professors in different arts and faculties within our said College as from time to time shall be deemed necessary or expedient, and as shall be appointed by us or by the said Chancellor of our said College, on our behalf, and during our pleasure.

"And we do hereby grant and ordain that the Reverend John Strachan, Doctor in Divinity, Archdeacon of York, in our said Province of Upper Canada, be the first President of our said College, and the Archdeacon of York in our said Province, for the time being, shall, by virtue of such his office, be at all times the President of the College.

"And we do hereby, for us our heirs and successors, will ordain and grant that the said Chancellor and President, and the said Professors of our said College, and all persons who shall be duly matriculated into and admitted as scholars of our said College, and their successors for ever, shall be one distinct and separate body, politic and corporate, in deed and in name, by the name and style of "the Chancellor, President, and Scholars of King's College at York, in the Province of Upper Canada," and that by the same name they shall have perpetual succession and a common seal; and that they and their successors shall, from time to time, have full power to alter, renew, or change such common seal at their will and pleasure, and as shall be found convenient; and that by the same name they the said Chancellor, President, and Scholars, and their successors from time to time and at all times hereafter shall be able and capable to have, take, receive, purchase, acquire, hold, possess, enjoy and maintain, to and for the use of the said College, any messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments of what kind, nature, or quality soever, situate and being within our said Province of Upper Canada, so as the same do not exceed in yearly value the sum of £15,000 above all charges; and moreover to take, purchase, acquire, have, hold, enjoy, receive, possess and retain, all or any goods, chattels, charitable or other contributions, gifts or benefactions whatsoever.

"And we do hereby declare and grant that the said Chancellor, President, and scholars and their successors by the same name shall and may be able and capable in law to sue, and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered, in all or any court or courts of record within our United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and our said Province of Upper Canada and other our dominions; in all and singular actions, causes, pleas, suits, matters and demands whatsoever of what nature or kind soever in as large, ample, and beneficial a manner and form as any other body politic or corporate, or any other our liege subjects, being persons able and capable in law, may or can sue, implead or answer, or be sued, impleaded or answered, in any manner whatsoever.

"And we do hereby declare, ordain, and grant that there shall be within our said college or corporation, a council, to be called and known by the name of "The College Council;" and we do will and ordain that the said Council shall consist of the Chancellor, President for the time being, and of seven of the professors in arts and faculties of our said College, and that such seven professors shall be members of the Established United Church of England and Ireland, and shall previously to their admission into the said College Council, severally sign and subscribe the thirty nine articles of religion, as declared and set forth in the book of common prayer. And in case at any time there should not be within our said College seven professors of arts and faculties, being members of the Established Church aforesaid, then our will and pleasure is, and we do hereby grant and ordain that the said College Council shall be filled up to the requisite number of seven, exclusive of the Chancellor and President for the time being, by such persons, being graduates of our said college and being members of the Established Church aforesaid, as shall for that purpose be appointed by the Chancellor for the time being of our said College: and which members of Council shall in like manner subscribe the thirty nine articles aforesaid, previously to their admission into the said College Council.

"And whereas it is necessary to make provision for the completion and filling up of the said council at the first institution of our said College, and previously to the appointment of any professors or the conferring of any degrees therein. Now we do further ordain and declare that the Chancellor of our said College for the time being shall upon or immediately after the first institution thereof, by warrant under his hand, nominate and appoint seven discreet and proper persons, resident within our said Province of Upper Canada, to constitute jointly with him the said Chancellor, and the President of our said College for the time being, the first or original council of our said College, which first or original members of the said council shall in like manner respectively subscribe the thirty-nine Articles aforesaid previously to their admission into the said council.

"And we do further declare and grant that the members of the said College Council, holding within our said College the offices of Chancellor, President or Professor in any art or faculty, shall respectively hold their seats in the said Council so long as they and each of them shall retain such other offices as aforesaid & no longer; and that the members of the said Council not holding offices in our said College, shall from time to time vacate their seats in the said Council when and as soon as there shall be an adequate number of Professors in our said College, being members of the Established Church aforesaid to fill up the said council to the requisite number before mentioned.

"And we do hereby authorise and empower the Chancellor for the time being of our said College, to decide in each case what particular member of the said council not holding any such office as aforesaid shall vacate his seat in the said Council upon the admission of any new member of Council holding any such office.

"And we do hereby declare and grant that the Chancellor, for the time being of our said College, shall preside at all meetings of the said College Council, when he may deem it proper or convenient to attend, and that in his absence, the President of our said College shall preside at all such meetings; and that in the absence of the President the senior member of the said Council present at any such meeting shall preside thereat, and that the seniority of the members of the said Council, other than the Chancellor and President shall be regulated according to the date of their respective appointments: Provided always that the members of the said Council, being Professors in our said College, shall in the said Council take precedence over and be considered as seniors to the members thereof, not being Professors in our said college.

"And we do ordain and declare that no meeting of the said council shall be, or be held to be a lawful meeting thereof, unless five members, at the least, be present during the whole of every such meeting; and that all questions and resolutions proposed for the decision of the said College Council, shall be determined by the majority of the votes of the members of the council present, including the vote of the presiding member; and that in the event of an equal division of such votes, the member presiding at any such meeting shall give an additional or casting vote.

"And we further declare that if any member of the said council shall die or resign his seat in the said council, or shall be suspended or removed from the same, or shall, by reason of any bodily or mental infirmity, or by reason of his absence from the said Province, become incapable for three calendar months or upwards, of attending the meetings of the said council, then and in every such case, a fit and proper person shall be appointed by the said Chancellor to act as, and be a member of the said council in the place or stead of the member so dying or resigning or so suspended or removed, or incapacitated as aforesaid; and such new member succeeding to any member so suspended or incapacitated shall vacate such his office on the removal of any such suspension or at the termination of any such incapability as aforesaid, of his immediate predecessor in the said council.

"And we do further ordain and grant, that it shall and may be competent to and for the Chancellor for the time being of our said college, to suspend from his seat in the said council, any member thereof, for any just and reasonable cause to the said Chancellor appearing; provided that the ground of every such suspension shall be entered and recorded at length by the said Chancellor in the books of the said Council, and signed by him; and every such person so suspended shall thereupon cease to be a member of the said Council, unless and until he shall be restored to and re-established in such his station therein, by any order to be made in the premises by us or by the said visitor of our said College, acting on our behalf, and in pursuance of any special reference from us.

"And we do further declare that any member of the said Council who, without sufficient cause to be allowed by the said Chancellor by an order entered for that purpose on the books of the said Council, shall absent himself from all the meetings thereof which may be held within any six successive calendar months, shall thereon vacate such his seat, in the said council.

"And we do by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, will, ordain, and grant that the said Council of our said College shall have power and authority to frame and make statutes, rules and ordinances, touching and concerning the good government of the said College, the performance of Divine service therein, the studies, lectures, exercises, degrees in arts and faculties, and all matters regarding the same, the residence and duties of the President of our said College, the number, residence, and duties of the Professors thereof, the management of the revenues and property of the said College, the salaries, stipends, provisions and emoluments, of and for the President, Professors, Scholars, Officers, and Servants thereof; the number and duties of such Officers and Servants, and also touching and concerning any other matter or thing which to them shall seem good, fit, and useful for the well-being and advancement of our said College, and agreeable to this our Charter.— And also from time to time, by any new statutes, rules or ordinances, to revoke, renew, augment, or alter all, every, or any of the said statutes, rules and ordinances, as to them shall seem meet and expedient: Provided always, that the said statutes, rules and ordinances, or any of them, shall not be repugnant to the laws and statutes of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or of our said Province of Upper Canada, or to this our Charter. Provided also, that the said statutes, rules and ordinances, shall be subject to the approbation of the said Visitor of the said College for the time being, and shall be forthwith transmitted to the said Visitor for that purpose, and that in case the said Visitor shall for us and in our behalf in writing, signify his disapprobation thereof within two years of the time of their being so made and framed, the same or such part thereof as shall be so disapproved by the said Visitor, shall, from the time of such disapprobation being made known to the said Chancellor of our said College, be utterly void and of no effect, but otherwise shall be and remain in full force and virtue.

"Provided nevertheless, and we do hereby expressly save and reserve to us, our heirs and successors, the power of reviving, confirming, or reversing, by any order or orders to be by us or them made in our or their Privy Council, all or any of the decisions, sentences, or orders so to be made as aforesaid by the said Visitor, for us and on our behalf in reference to the said statutes, rules and ordinances, or any of them.

"And we do further ordain and declare that no statute, rule or ordinance, shall be framed or be made by the said College Council, touching the matters aforesaid, or any of them, excepting only such as shall be proposed for the consideration of the said Council by the Chancellor for the time being of our said College.

"And we do require and enjoin the said Chancellor thereof to consult with the President of our said College, and the next senior member of the said College Council, respecting all statutes, rules and ordinances, to be proposed by him to the said Council for their consideration.

"And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, charge and command, that the statutes, rules and ordinances aforesaid, subject to the said provisions, shall be strictly and inviolably observed, kept and performed from time to time in full vigor and effect, under the penalties to be thereby therein imposed or contained.

"And we do further will, ordain and grant, that the said College shall be deemed and taken to be an University, and shall have and enjoy all such and the like privileges as are enjoyed by our Universities of our United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, as far as the same are capable of being had or enjoyed by virtue of these our letters patent; and that the students in the said College shall have liberty and facility of taking the degrees of Bachelor, Master & Doctor in the several arts and faculties at the appointed times, and shall have liberty within themselves of performing all scholastic exercises for the conferring such degrees, in such manner as shall be directed by the statutes, rules, and ordinances of the said College.

"And we do further will, ordain and appoint, that no religious test or qualification shall be required of or appointed for any persons admitted or matriculated as scholars within our said College, or of persons admitted to any degree in any art or faculty therein, save only that all persons admitted within our said College to any degree in divinity, shall make such and the same declarations and subscriptions, and take such and the same oaths as are required of persons admitted to any degree in Divinity, in our University of Oxford.

"And we do further will, direct and ordain, that the Chancellor President, and Professors of our said College, and all persons admitted therein to the degree of Master of Arts, or to any degree in Divinity, Law or Medicine, and who from the time of such their admission to such degree, shall pay the annual sum of Twenty Shillings, sterling money, for and towards the support and maintenance of the said College, shall be and be deemed, taken, and reputed to be the members of the Convocation of the said University, and as such members of the said Convocation, shall have, exercise, and enjoy all such and the like privileges as are enjoyed by the members of the Convocation of our university of Oxford, so far as the same are capable of being had and enjoyed by virtue of these our letters patent and consistently with the provisions thereof.

"And we will, and by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, do grant and declare, that these, our letters patent, or the enrolment or exemplification thereof, shall and may be good, firm, valid, sufficient, and effectual in the Law, according to the true intent and meaning of the same; and shall be taken, construed, and adjudged in the most favorable & beneficial sense for the best advantage of the said Chancellor, President & Scholars of our said College, as well in our Courts of Record as elsewhere, and by all and singular Judges, Justices, Officers, Ministers and other subjects whatsoever, of us, our heirs, and successors, any mis-recital, non-recital, omission, imperfection, defect, matter, cause, or thing whatsoever to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding."

AND WHEREAS his present Majesty, WILLIAM THE FOURTH, has been graciously pleased to signify through His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, Earl Ripon, by his despatch of the 8th of November, 1832, communicated to the Legislature by His Excellency, by message, that so far from any anxiety having been felt by His Majesty's Government to maintain the said Charter against the wishes of the great majority of the people, every possible measure has been taken to refer to their representatives the decision of the question in what form and upon what principles the said College should be founded.

Be it &c., That from and after the passing of this Act the said University shall be upon the principle and in the form hereinafter provided, any thing in the said charter to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, That the said Charter shall be and continue in full force except so far as it is altered and varied by the provisions of this Act.

2. And be it &c., That from and after the passing of this Act, it shall not be necessary for the President of the said University to be a Clergyman in holy orders of the United Church of England and Ireland, any thing in the said Charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

3. And be it &c., That from and after the passing of this Act, the Archdeacon of York, now City of Toronto, for the time being, shall not by virtue of his office of Archdeacon, be at all times President of the said University, any thing in the said Charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

4. And be it &c., That from and after the passing of this Act, the Professors of the said College and the Council thereof, shall not be required to be members of the said Established United Church, or to subscribe the thirty nine articles thereof, any thing in the Charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

5. And be it &c., That there be at all times as many Professors, Tutors, and Lecturers, in the different arts and faculties in the said College as from time to time shall be deemed necessary or expedient, and as shall be appointed in the manner herein after provided and in no other manner, any thing in the said charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

6. And be it &c., That there shall be within the said College in the place and stead of the Council in the said Charter mentioned, a Council to be called and known by the name of the Council of King's College, which Council shall consist of twelve persons, one half of the number of which persons shall be nominated by the Legislative Council, and the other half by the House of Assembly, which persons so nominated shall be certified by the respective Houses to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government, for the time being, and shall hold their offices for four years from the day of such nomination and thence until the then next Session of the Provincial Parliament, and no longer.

7. And be it &c., That if any member of the said Council shall die or shall be suspended or removed from his said office, or shall by reason of any bodily or mental infirmity, or by reason of his absence from the said Province, become incapable for six calendar months or upwards, of attending the meetings of the said Council then and in every such case, a fit and proper person shall be appointed by the rest of the said Council to act and be as a member of the said Council in the place and stead of the member so dying or so suspended or removed or incapacitated as aforesaid, and the appointment of such new member of the said Council shall be communicated to the Provincial Legislature through the Governor Lieutenant Governor or person administering the Government for the time being, at their next Session, and it shall and may be lawful for that branch of the Legislature by which the person so dying or suspended or removed or incapacitated as aforesaid was appointed either to confirm the said temporary appointment made by the said Council as aforesaid, or to appoint another, as such branch of the Legislature shall think fit.

8. And be it &c., That no meeting of the Council shall be taken or held to be a lawful meeting thereof nor any question be taken except to adjourn, unless nine members at the least be present and that all questions & resolutions proposed for the decision of such College Council, shall be determined by the majority of the members of the Council present, including the vote of the presiding member, and that in the event of an equal division of such votes, the member presiding at any such meeting shall give an additional or casting vote.

9. And be it, &c. That any member of the said council may at any time be suspended or removed by a joint resolution of the two branches of the Provincial Legislature.

10. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Council of the said College from time to time to nominate and elect so many Professors, Tutors, and Lecturers in the several arts, sciences, and matters of learning, as shall to them seem fit and necessary for the system of education in the said College.

11. And be it, &c. That the President, Professors, Tutors, Lecturers, Graduates, under Graduates, Scholars, Officers and Servants of the said College, and every person holding any situation of honor or trust in the same, shall be subject to all and every of the rules and ordinances of the said College, made and provided according to this Act.

12. And be it, &c. That the said Council of said College shall have power and authority to propose, frame, and make rules and ordinances touching and concerning the peace, welfare, and good government of the said College, the studies, lectures, exercises, and degrees in arts and faculties, and all matters relating to the same; the duties of the President of the said College, the number, remuneration, and duties of the Professors, Tutors and Lecturers thereof, the management of the revenues and property of the said College, the salaries, stipends, provision and emoluments of and for the President, Professors, Tutors, Lecturers, Scholars, Officers, and Servants thereof, the number and duties of such Officers and Servants; and also touching and concerning any other matter or thing which to them shall seem good, fit, and useful for the well-being and advancement of the said College, and also from time to time by any new rules or ordinances to revoke, renew, augment, or alter all, every or any of the said rules and ordinances as to them shall seem meet and expedient: Provided always, That the said rules and ordinances, or any of them, shall not be repugnant to the Laws and Statutes of the said Province of Upper Canada or to this Act: Provided also, That the said rules and ordinances shall be subject to the approbation of the Chancellor of the said College for the time being, and shall be forthwith transmitted to the said Chancellor for that purpose, any thing in the said Charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

13. And be it, &c. That no religious test or qualification whatever shall be required of or appointed for any persons admitted or matriculated as scholars within the said College, or of persons admitted to any degree in any art or faculty therein, whether such degree be conferred in Law, Physic, or other Art or Science, any thing in the said charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

14. And be it, &c. That the members of the said Council and their successors forever shall be one distinct and separate body politic and corporate in deed and in name by the name and style of King's College, and that by the same name they shall have perpetual succession and a common seal; and that they and their successors shall from time to time have full power to alter, renew or change such common seal at their will and pleasure, as shall be found convenient; and that by the same name they, the said Council, and their successors, from time to time, and at all times hereafter, shall be able and capable to have, take, receive, purchase, acquire, hold, possess, enjoy, and maintain, to and for the use of the said College, any messuages, lands, tenements and hereditaments of what kind, nature, or quality soever, situate and being within the said

Bill to amend the Charter of King's College.

Province of Upper Canada, and moreover to take, purchase, acquire, have, hold, enjoy, receive, possess and retain, all or any, goods, chattels, charities, or other contributions, gifts, or benefactions whatsoever; and that the said Council and their successors, by the same name, shall and may be able and capable in law to sue, and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered, in all or any Court or Courts of Record within the said Province of Upper Canada in all and singular actions, causes, pleas, suits, matters and demands whatsoever, of what nature, or kind soever, in as large, ample and beneficial a manner and form as any other body politic and corporate, or any other persons able and capable in Law may or can sue, implead or answer, or be sued, impleaded, or answered in any manner whatsoever; any thing in the said charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

15. And be it, &c. That all monies received by the said corporation from the sale of any goods or lands, or from grants from the crown or legislature, or contributions, gifts or benefactions whatsoever, shall be invested by the said Council so as to produce an annual income, and that the annual income arising therefrom, and no more shall be expended by the said Council in furtherance of the objects of the said corporation, and provided that whenever the annual income aforesaid together with such sum or sums as may accrue from the leasing of any of the lands with which the said College has been or may be endowed shall exceed six thousand pounds over and above scholarships the surplus over and above the said sum of six thousand pounds shall be paid into the hands of His Majesty's Receiver General of this Province to be at the disposal of the Legislature for the promotion of education by the erecting and endowing of Free Grammar Schools in the several Districts in this Province.

16. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Council of the said University to suspend from his office the President, or any of the Professors, Tutors, or Lecturers, or any member of the said Council, who shall be incapacitated by bodily infirmity, or for any other just and reasonable cause to the said Council appearing: provided that the grounds of every such suspension shall be recorded in writing, and verified on oath of two or more credible and disinterested witnesses, and be entered and recorded at length on the journals of the said Council, and be signed by the Chancellor or President of the said Council.

17. And be it, &c. That every person so suspended shall thereupon cease to be a member of such Council, or President of the said University, or a Professor, Tutor, or Lecturer within the same, as the case may be, unless and until he shall be restored to and re-established in such his station therein, by any order to be made in the premises by that branch of the Legislature by which such member was appointed.

18. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Council of the said College from time to time to establish scholarships in the said College for the benefit of the pupils of the District Schools in this Province; Provided that the amount of each scholarship shall not exceed the annual value of Fifty Pounds per annum.

19. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said College Council, and all persons whatsoever attached to the said College, and they are hereby required at all times without reserve to lay before the several branches of the Legislature of this Province whatever information shall be by them, or either of them, from time to time required relating in any way whatever to the said College and the concerns thereof.

20. And be it, &c. That whenever any rule or rules, ordinance or ordinances, shall be passed by the said Council as aforesaid containing any provisions which shall in any manner relate to or affect the enjoyment or exercise by the Professors, Tutors, Lecturers, Scholars, Graduates, under Graduates, Students, Servants or others, whomsoever, connected with the said College, of any religious form or mode of worship, or in any way whatever prevent or restrain them or any of them from attending on the Sabbath whatever place of religious worship they choose, or shall impose or create any penalties, burthens, disabilities or disqualifications, or confer any peculiar or exclusive favours or privileges in respect of the same; or shall in any manner relate to or affect the observance of any rules or discipline appertaining to any church or society of christians to which any of the persons aforesaid may belong; every such rule or rules, ordinance or ordinances, shall not have any force or effect whatever till the same shall have been laid before the three branches of the Provincial Legislature, and shall, after having been so laid before them and each of them for the space of ten days receive the sanction thereof.

And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Council and they are hereby required to meet in the said College at Toronto, and for the periods following namely, commencing eight days previous to the meeting of the Legislature in each and every year, and ending on the eighth day following the said meeting of the Legislature: at which stated time and at no other, it shall and may be lawful for the said Council to do, perform and execute all the duties and trusts imposed by this act, or by any rule or ordinance of the said College, made under and by virtue of this act.

21. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for each of the members of the said Council while in the active discharge of his said duties at the periods aforesaid, to have and receive from and out of the funds of the said College, the sum of ten shillings lawful money of Upper Canada and no more for every day's actual attendance during the said weeks, and the like sum for every twenty miles in travelling to the said College and returning therefrom to his place of residence.

23. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for any member of the said Council to tender his resignation during any session of the Provincial Legislature, to that branch thereof by which he was nominated and appointed, and upon the acceptance of such resignation, such person shall cease to be a member of such Council, and it shall thereupon be lawful for the said branch of the Provincial Legislature accepting such resignation forthwith to nominate and appoint another person to be a member of the said Council in the place and stead of the person so resigning as aforesaid.

24. And be it, &c. That if any Professor, Tutor, Lecturer, or other person elected by the said Council, to any Professorship, Tutorship, Lectureship or other station in the said College shall die in the interval between the annual meetings of the said Council, it shall and may be lawful for the various Professors, Tutors and Lecturers who have been elected by the said Council to appoint a fit and proper person to discharge the duties of the said Professor, Tutor or Lecturer, so deceased, till the next meeting of the said Council and no longer.

25. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Council, at their appointed meetings, and they are hereby required to keep at every such meeting, a Journal of their proceedings, specifying the day and hour of assembling, the names of the members of the Council in attendance, the resolutions and matters proposed, with the names of the members voting for and against each resolution and matter whether the same be rejected or adopted by the said Council, which record or journal of the said proceedings of the said Council shall at all reasonable times be open at the said College, to the inspection of the visitor, Chancellor, and other members of the said College, and be laid before the several branches of the Provincial Legislature whenever by them or either of them required so to do.

26. And be it, &c. That no religious test or qualification whatever shall be required of any Chancellor, President, Professor, Tutor, Lecturer, Scholar, or other Person being a candidate for any situation or honour in the said College, nor shall the eligibility of any person to any of the aforesaid stations in the said College, or to any other station that may hereafter be created, be in any way or degree dependent upon or regulated, affected or prejudiced by the particular faith of any such candidate, any thing in the said charter to the contrary notwithstanding.

27. And be it, &c. That from and after the passing of this Act, there shall not at any time, be, or be allowed to be within the said College any public professor, lecturer or teacher of doctrinal divinity, according to the articles of faith professed by the United Church of England and Ireland or according to the creed or faith of any other christian, or other religious church whatever, any thing in the said charter to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding; and it shall not be lawful for the said Council to apply any of the funds now or at any time hereafter belonging to the said University, to the support of any public professor, lecturer or teacher, of such divinity: Provided always, That nothing in this act shall extend or be construed to extend, to prevent the students and members of the said University by themselves or their parents, guardians, or friends, from engaging private tutors for their private instruction in divinity or in any other art or science within the said College.

28. And be it, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for any member of the said Council to administer any oath required by this act, and any person convicted before any court of competent jurisdiction in this Province, of wilful and corrupt false swearing under any oath administered as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken to be guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to the like punishment as can be inflicted by the laws of this Province for perjury.

29. And be it, &c. That upon a vacancy occurring in the office of the President of the said College, by the death or resignation of the present President thereof, the said situation shall be filled in all times to come by the Council of the said College, any thing in the Charter of the said College to the contrary thereof, in any wise notwithstanding.

30. And be it, &c. That the visitor of said College shall be ap-

(Signed) JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk of Assembly.

No. 24.

An Act to promote Education.

WHEREAS it is necessary to make more ample provision for the Teachers of the Common Schools, and to provide means to enable some of the most talented youth in the Province to pursue their studies in the higher Seminaries of learning which are now, or may hereafter be established in this Province: Be it therefore enacted, &c. That the ninth clause of an Act passed in the fifty-sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third entitled, "An Act granting to His Majesty a sum of money to be applied to the use of Common Schools throughout this Province, and to provide for the regulations of said Common Schools," be and the same is hereby repealed.

2. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitant householders of each and every Township in this Province, at the Town meeting to be held on the first Monday of January in each and every year, to nominate and appoint three fit and proper persons to be Superintendents of Schools in the Township for the year in which they shall be so appointed.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of such Superintendents to appoint a time and place in the Township for which they shall have been chosen, where all Scholars are to attend who may consider themselves to have made such progress in learning as to qualify them to become candidates for the superior Schools; and the said Superintendents shall, from among the Scholars so assembled, select three of the most talented and promising, who are to be candidates for admittance into the District School, or such other seminaries of learning which are now or may hereafter be established in this Province.

4. And be it further enacted, &c. That the different Superintendents in each and every Township shall, at their first meeting to be held before the first day of June in each and every year, nominate and appoint a fit and proper person to be a member of the Board of Education; and that the several members hereby appointed in each and every District shall constitute and form the Board of Education for such District.

5. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Board of Education hereby established for each and every District of this Province shall meet on the Monday of the week in which the Court of General Quarter Sessions for such District is to be held in the month of July, and at the place where the said Court is to be held, and in the month of June in such places where the Quarter Sessions is held in June, and then and there appoint their Chairman, and transact such business as the laws of this Province authorise the present Board of Education to do; that three members be a quorum, and that such members as attend be entitled to ten shillings per diem, provided the number of days does not exceed three.

6. And be it further enacted, &c. That so soon as the Board of Education in each District shall consider it advisable they may, before assigning to the Teachers their annual salaries, reserve a sufficient sum for paying the boarding and tuition at the District School, or other seminary to be selected by the said Board, of such select number of scholars from each county, not exceeding eight, as shall be chosen by such members of the Board of Education as shall have been appointed in the different Townships of such County.

7. And be it further enacted, &c. That so soon as the Board of Education in each and every District in this Province shall find that the state of their funds will admit of it, they may set aside a sufficient sum to pay the boarding, tuition and wearing apparel, of one or more select Student or Students from each County, in order to enable him or them to pursue his or their studies in the higher seminaries of learning, such Student or Students to be chosen by such members of the Board of Education as are appointed by such County.

8. And be it further enacted, &c. That no Student sent either to a District School, or any other Seminary of learning, shall be recalled in a shorter period than three years, unless such members of the Board of Education as reside in the County from which such Student shall have been sent will unanimously agree.

9. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Board of Education in each and every district, shall, at its Meeting in the months of June or July, appoint a time and place in each county where all Schoolmasters of such county shall attend to be publicly examined by the Master of the District School, aided by such Members of the Board of Education as reside in such county.

10. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Board of Education for each and every District, may cause its Clerk to acquaint the Schoolmasters, at least six months previous to examination, of the time and place where such examination will be held, and the particular branches of education for which prizes shall be awarded.

11. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Teacher who shall be declared to have gained the first prize, shall be entitled to one pound yearly, while teaching, over and above his regular salary; second prize, fifteen shillings; third prize, ten shillings; second and third prizes subject to the same condition as the first prize.

12. And be it further enacted, &c. That no Teacher of a common school shall be entitled to any benefit from the education fund, who shall not have attended the county meeting for the examination of Schoolmasters, unless prevented by sickness, to be certified by one of the Trustees of the Common School for which he is the Teacher.

13. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Master of the District School and such Members of the Board of Education as have attended the county examination of Schoolmasters, shall be entitled to ten shillings each, for every day necessarily employed in the said examination, provided it does not exceed three days for any one county.

Bill to promote freedom of Election in Leeds.

14. And be it further enacted, &c. That for the maintenance and encouragement of education in this Province, there shall be established a fund, to be entitled, "Education Fund," which said fund shall consist of such sum or sums as the Legislature shall deem fit to appropriate for the same from the revenues of the Province; secondly, of the interest of the proceeds of the sale of the school lands, and all interest accruing from the proceeds of all other sale of lands appropriated to education; and thirdly, all such monies as may be available from the leasing of land for the purposes of education.

15. And be it further enacted, &c. That all sums of money already paid into the hands of the Receiver-General of this Province, or which shall hereafter be paid to him, as the proceeds of land sold to promote education, shall by him be invested in the purchase of any Government debentures authorised by any Act of the Parliament of this Province, and that the interest payable upon such debentures shall continue to be charged to the general revenue of this Province, and shall be annually placed to the credit of the Education Fund. by this Act created.

16. And be it further enacted, &c. That in aid of the present appropriation for the support of common schools in each and every district of this Province, there shall be granted to His Majesty, annually, the sum of twelve thousand pounds, to be distributed among the several districts in the manner hereinafter provided, out of any monies which are now raised and levied, or which may hereafter be raised and levied by the authority of Parliament, to and for the uses of this Province.

17. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province, in each and every year, according to the last preceding census of the population of the Province, to apportion the money already granted by the Legislature, or which shall be hereafter granted, among the several districts, together with such further sums of money as may be afforded from the Education Fund.

18. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province, on or before the fifteenth of June in each and every year, to cause to be transmitted to the Clerk of the Board of Education in each and every district, a copy of such warrant as he shall have issued in favor of the Treasurer of such district, for the payment of the portion assigned to such district out of the Education Fund.

19. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Chairman of the Board of Education for each and every district of this Province, to report the state of the district common schools, to the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the Government, that the same may be laid before the Legislature, at its first meeting, for their inspection; and that the Chairman be entitled to ten shillings per diem, for every day necessarily employed in preparing such report, provided it does not exceed five days.

20. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful to and for the Board of Education in each and every district, to allow to the Clerks of their respective Boards, in addition to the sum they are now by law authorised to receive, the further sum of five pounds annually.

21. And be it further enacted, &c. That the said sum of twelve thousand pounds annually, shall be paid by the Receiver-General of this Province, in discharge of such warrant as may for that purpose be issued by the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province for the time being, and shall be accounted for to His Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, through the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury for the time being, in such manner and form as His Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, shall be graciously pleased to direct.

22. And be it further enacted, &c. That this Act shall not go into operation until the first day of January, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six.

Attorney General,	Rykert—3.
Macnab,

Truly extracted from the Journals of the Assembly of the 31st day of March, 1835.

(Signed) JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk of Assembly.

No. 25.

An Act to promote the freedom of Election in the County of Leeds.

WHEREAS, to promote the freedom of Election in the County of Leeds, and obtain a fair expression of the sentiments of electors in the choice of members to represent the said county in Parliament, it is deemed expedient to alter and amend the election laws of this province, so far as the same relate to the said county. Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. that the several laws of this province relating to the election of members of Assembly, and the mode of conducting elections shall be, and the same are hereby repealed in relation to the said county of Leeds, so far as the provisions thereof vary from this act.

2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That hereafter the election of members to represent the said County of Leeds in Parliament shall be held at four places within the said county, and for that purpose the said county shall be and is hereby divided into Four Sections, and that Section No. One, shall be composed of the Townships of Elizabethtown and Yonge, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be at Colman's Corners in Elizabethtown. Section No. Two, of the townships of Leeds and Lansdowne, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be the Village of Gananoque. Section No. Three, of the townships of Kitley, Burgess, and Elmsley, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be the Village of Smith's Falls. And Section No. Four, of the townships of Bastard, North Crosby, and South Crosby, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be the village of Beverley.

Bill to promote freedom of Election in Leeds.

3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That besides the Returning Officer now required to be appointed by law, it shall be the duty of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province for the time being, to appoint in like manner a Deputy Returning Officer to each of the three of the said Sections, whose duty it shall be to hold the election in the Section to which he shall be appointed, in the same manner, and subject to the same responsibilities and penalties as Returning Officers for counties are now liable by the laws of this Province, and to return to the Returning Officer appointed for the said County of Leeds the Poll Book for such Section, accompanied with an affidavit of such Deputy Returning Officer and his Poll Clerk, sworn before some Justice of the Peace of the District of Johnstown, that the same contains a true and correct record of the votes taken at such section elections according to the provisions of this act.

4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Returning Officer for the said County of Leeds shall take the votes in such one of the said Sections as he shall be directed to preside at in his appointment as Returning Officer for the said county, in the same manner, and under the same responsibilities and penalties as other Returning Officers presiding at Elections in this Province, and upon the receipt of the Poll Books from the Deputy Returning Officers of the other three sections of the said county which they are respectively required to return to him as aforesaid, within two days after the close of each section election, under the penalty of two hundred pounds; it shall be the duty of the said Returning-Officer, and he is hereby required to attend at the place where he received votes in the section for which he was appointed to preside, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on the tenth day after the commencement of such section election (unless such day falls on Sunday, then on the Monday following;) and in the presence of such of the candidates, their Counsel or agents, and such persons as may be then and there assembled, shall exhibit the said poll-books, and return as duly elected the two candidates who have, on the poll-books of the four sections, the highest number of legal votes, taken according to the provisions of this act, in the same manner as if the election for the said county had been wholly held by the said Returning-Officer in person.

5. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the election in each of the said sections shall begin on the same day, and the time of keeping open the Polls for receiving votes shall be the same as is now required by the laws of this province at other elections of members of Assembly, except that on the sixth day, if the election shall continue so long, in any section the poll shall be closed at three o'clock in the afternoon.

6. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the choice of representatives for the said county shall be ascertained by actual polling of votes in the manner prescribed by this act in the respective sections aforesaid and not otherwise.

7. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That before proceeding to the discharge of his duty the Returning Officer for the said county shall take the same oath required by law to be taken by other Returning Officers at elections of members of Assembly in this province, and that every Deputy Returning Officer shall take and subscribe the following oath:

"I, A. B. do solemnly swear that I have not directly or indirectly received any sum or sums of money, offer, place or employment, gratuity or reward, or any bond, bill, or note, or any promise or gratuity whatsoever, either by myself or any other person, to my use or benefit or advantage for making any false or incorrect statement or return in the Poll Book, required by law to be by me transmitted to the Returning officer for the county of Leeds, and that I will conduct myself impartially, and without favour or affection to any party concerned in the present election for the County of Leeds," which several oaths may be administered by any Justice of the Peace of the District of Johnstown.

8. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the electors residing in each of the said sections shall vote at the election held in the section wherein they are so resident, or in case the voter shall not be a resident of the county, but is otherwise legally qualified to vote, he shall vote in the section in which the property on which he votes is situated. Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall prevent or be construed to prevent any elector entitled to vote in the said county from voting in any of the said sections if he makes oath (or affirmation if a Quaker) before the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding, that he apprehends personal injury or insult if he attempts to vote in the section in which he is so resident, or his property is so situated as aforesaid, or that it is inconvenient for him to vote thereat, (as the case may be). And provided also, that besides the oaths that may now by law be administered to electors, every elector before he shall be admitted to vote shall, if required by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer, at any section election at which the vote is offered, or any candidate thereat, his counsel or agent, or any freeholder of the said county, take the following oath before the said Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer, who is hereby authorised and required to administer the same:

"You A. B. do solemnly swear that you have not before voted at the present election for the County of Leeds in any other section than the one at which you now come forward to vote; that you reside in (state the place), and that the property on which you now propose to vote is situated in section No. (stating the number of the section)."

9. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers for the said county, from the time they are respectively appointed such Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers until the election shall finally be declared by the Returning Officer as aforesaid, shall be and are hereby declared to be conservators of the peace, and severally vested with the same powers for the preservation of the peace and apprehension and committal for trial, or holding to bail of violators of the law as are vested in Justices of the Peace in this Province, and that the said Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers may, and each of them is hereby required to appoint and swear in such and so many special constables as he may deem necessary for the preservation of peace and order at and during the section election for which the said Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer may be appointed, and for such time thereafter as may be deemed expedient and necessary.

10. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every person who shall refuse to be sworn in as a special constable or who shall neglect his duty as such, without a legal excuse, and every person who may by threats, force or violence attempt to destroy the freedom of any of the said section elections, or hinder any elector from coming forward to vote thereat, or create any unnecessary noise, interruption, riot, tumult, disturbance or disorder thereat, or threaten or use violence to any elector who may have voted, on account of any vote given thereat, shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor.

11. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every Justice of the Peace in the District of Johnstown, who upon being required by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer, or any candidate at any such section election, or any three householders of the said county of Leeds shall unreasonably refuse or neglect to use his exertions for the preservation of the peace at such section elections, or shall encourage or willingly permit any violence or disorder thereat, shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, besides the punishment inflicted by the court before which conviction is had, forfeit his office and be forever after incapable of being appointed a Justice of the Peace in this Province.

Bill to promote freedom of Election in Leeds.

12. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall and may be lawful for any Candidate at any election for the county of Leeds to duly appoint under his hand any number of persons not exceeding three to attend in his stead at any of the sections, who shall be empowered and authorised to perform, so far as to question or scrutinizing votes, that might or could be done by such candidate, if personally present.

13. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall be guilty of false swearing, in any oath required by this act, he shall on conviction thereof, suffer the like pains and penalties to which any other person convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury is liable by the laws and statutes of this Province.

14. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the votes taken by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall be by ballot, and it shall and may be lawful for the Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers appointed to hold elections, agreeable to the provisions of this act, to appoint each a Poll Clerk who shall take and subscribe the oath appended to this act.

15. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall be the duty of the said Poll Clerk, under the direction of the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer to take down and record the names of the voters, their place of residence, and the description of freehold upon which they vote, in a poll book, prepared as near as circumstances will admit, agreeable to the form now prescribed by law.

16. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That each Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer shall provide a box of commodious size, with a double lid or cover, in the lower of which lids there shall be a hole of not more than sufficient size conveniently to admit the slips of paper containing the votes of the electors, so that such slips may readily pass to the bottom of the box, between which lids there shall be a sufficient space to contain the poll book as hereinafter mentioned, both of which lids shall be provided with a separate lock and key.

17. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every person duly qualified to vote at any of the said section elections, and desirous to do so shall openly deliver his ticket to the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer in presence of the sworn Clerk, and such of the candidates, their clerks, agents and counsel, and other persons as may be present; upon which ticket shall be written or printed the name or names of the candidate or candidates for whom the elector desires to vote, and the said ticket shall be so folded up as to conceal the contents thereof, and upon the receipt thereof the Returning Officer shall cause the name of the voter to be entered by the Clerk in his Poll Book, and shall in presence of the voter, clerk, and candidates or their agents or counsel, or such of them as may be present put or cause to be put, the ticket uninspected into the box, through the hole provided therein for the purpose as aforesaid. Provided always, that neither the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officers shall place the ticket of any voter in the box until the same canvass, questions, or scrutiny, shall have been had by either of the candidates present, or their agents, or any one of the electors present, and the same oaths of qualification administered, if required, as though the mode of voting was not by ballot.

18. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That at every adjournment of the poll the Poll Book shall be put between the lids of the said box and locked therein, both of the keys of which shall be kept by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding. Provided always, that any candidate or person acting in his behalf, shall be permitted by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer, on request, so to affix his seal to the said box, so as to be enabled to detect any clandestine opening thereof.

19. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That after the final closing of the Poll at any section election, the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding there shall forthwith proceed in the presence of the clerk, candidates, or their agents or counsel, or such of them as may be present, and such others as may choose to attend, to open the said box and cause the clerk to count the said ballots or tickets unopened. If the number exceed the number according to the lists or Poll Book, then so many as make the excess shall be casually abstracted and destroyed unopened—whereupon the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding shall direct the clerk to proceed to canvass or estimate the ballots or tickets, and in case more than the proper number of tickets shall be found or more than the proper number of names written or printed on any ticket the whole of the contents of such tickets shall be destroyed and not estimated. When the canvass is completed the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding shall cause the clerk to enter the respective numbers for each candidate to be written in full words in some place set apart for that purpose in the Poll Book: which book shall be returned by the several Deputy Returning Officers to the Returning Officer for the County, who shall therefrom and from the Poll Book kept under his own direction cause the Clerk of the Section over which he presided to make up an aggregate statement of the whole number of votes for each candidate in full words agreeable to the provisions of this Act, which statement shall be signed by the Returning Officer and annexed to the Writ of Election.

20. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all the Poll Books kept as aforesaid be transmitted to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, duly attested to as now by law required to be done, except the principal Returning Officer is only required to attest to the Poll Book taken under his direction.

(Affidavit.)

in the District of maketh oath and saith that he will well and truly perform his duties as a Poll Clerk a this election, by ballot, in and for the County of Leeds in all particulars to the best of his knowledge and abilities according to this act.”

MESSAGE

FROM LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

WITH CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS ON THE SUBJECT OF

THE CLERGY RESERVES.

MR. SPEAKER,

The Legislative Council have passed the accompanying resolutions on the subject matter of the bill entitled "An Act for the disposal of the Clergy Reserves in this Province for the purposes of General Education," to which they request the concurrence of the Commons House of Assembly.

JOHN B. ROBINSON.

SPEAKER.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL CHAMBER, }
Twenty-sixth day of March, 1835. }

Resolved—That His late Majesty King George the Third having been graciously pleased by message to both Houses of Parliament to express His Royal desire to be enabled to make a permanent appropriation of lands in this province for the support and maintenance of a protestant clergy within the same, provision was made for that purpose by Parliament, in the statute passed in the thirty-first year of His Majesty's reign, Chap. 31. by directing a reservation of lands to be made and set apart in the proportion of all the lands that should be granted by His Majesty in the said province, and by declaring that all and every the rents, profits, or emoluments which might at any time arise from such lands so allotted and appropriated as aforesaid should be applied solely to the maintenance and support of a protestant clergy within the province, and to no other use or purpose whatever.

Resolved—That such allotments and appropriations as the act directs having been made from time to time, and continuing to be set apart under the designation of Clergy Reserves, a claim was advanced in the year 1821 on behalf of the Church of Scotland, to be allowed to share in those reserves, or in the rents, profits or emoluments to be derived from them; which claim was made and has been urged, upon the footing of a legal claim, grounded on the construction of the statute, and on the rights of the Church of Scotland, as a church established in one part of the United Kingdom.

Resolved—That it has been advanced by other portions of the people of this province that all protestant denominations have a right, in common with the Church of England, to have their clergy supported from the reserves in question, and that no exclusive right can be vindicated under the act, in favor of any one or more protestant churches.

Resolved—That efforts have also been made to procure a total abolition of this provision for the support of religion, by obtaining an act of the Provincial Legislature, directing the sale of the reserves, and the appropriation of the proceeds to purposes of general education.

Resolved—That by these conflicting claims and opposing views, in regard to a subject of so great interest and importance, the minds of His Majesty's subjects in this province have for a long period been rendered anxious and unsettled, and, in the opinion of the Legislative Council, it is for many reasons much to be desired, that a speedy and final settlement should take place of the questions which have arisen upon the effect of the enactments referred to, and that it should be plainly, certainly and firmly established to what specific objects the Clergy Reserves shall be permanently applied.

Resolved—That the Legislative Council, confiding in the wisdom and justice of His Majesty and the Imperial Parliament, think it expedient and proper humbly to address His Majesty and both Houses of Parliament, representing that the Legislature of this Province has been unable to concur in any measures respecting the Clergy Reserves; and earnestly requesting that the Imperial Parliament will, with as little delay as possible, make such an enactment on the subject as cannot appear to leave any room for doubt or question in regard to the objects to which the proceeds of the Clergy Reserves are to be applied; and that having regard to the present condition and future welfare of this colony, and maturely considering whatever has been urged or may be urged in regard to these reserves, they will, by some measure which shall be final and unequivocal, make such an appropriation of them as shall appear to be most consistent with a due regard to religion, to the principles of our constitution, and to the permanent welfare and tranquillity of the province.

RESOLUTION of the House of Assembly growing out of the foregoing.

Resolved,—That this House has repeatedly expressed the opinion that the lands appropriated for the support and maintenance of a Protestant Clergy within this Province, commonly called the Clergy Reserves, ought, for various reasons, to be sold; that it would be unjust to apply the monies arising from the sale of the same, to the benefit of one or more favored religious denominations, & that it would be impracticable, and from many considerations inexpedient, to distribute the monies arising therefrom among all denominations, and that this House has been unremitting in its endeavors to procure the sale of these lands, and the application of the funds produced by such sale to objects of great importance and interest to the people of this Province; that with this view, the House has heretofore repeatedly passed bills providing for the sale of the Clergy Reserves, and the appropriation of the monies arising therefrom to the support of education, which bills have been rejected without amendment by the Legislative Council; that with the same view this House has repeatedly made known, by humble and dutiful addresses to His Majesty, their wishes and opinions, and the wishes and opinions of His Majesty's faithful subjects in this Province on this highly important subject; and this House take this opportunity of declaring that these wishes and opinions, both on the part of this House and of their constituents remain entirely unchanged—that during the second session of the last Parliament, His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, by message, informed this House, that he had received His Majesty's instructions to declare that the representations which had at different times been made to His Majesty and His Royal predecessors, of the prejudice sustained by His Majesty's faithful subjects of this Province from the appropriation of the Clergy Reserves had engaged His Majesty's most attentive consideration, and His Majesty has most graciously been pleased to invite the House of Assembly to consider how the powers given to the Provincial Legislature by the constitutional Act to vary or repeal the provisions which it contains for the allotment and appropriation of the Clergy Reserves could be most advantageously exercised for the spiritual and temporal interests of his faithful subjects in this Province. That this House, in compliance with His Majesty's wishes thus graciously expressed, and with the strong and well known desires of His Majesty's faithful subjects in this Province, has passed a bill during the present session to provide for the sale of the Clergy Reserves, and to apply the monies arising from such sale to the support of education—that the Legislative Council has not passed the said bill—has not amended it—and has not passed any other bill on that subject. That under these circumstances, this House cannot but express the extreme astonishment with which it has received the representations of the Legislative Council—that the Legislature of the Province has been unable to concur in any measure respecting the Clergy Reserves, and altho' this House has little expectation that the Legislative Council, as now constituted, will comply with the wishes of the people of the Province, yet it feels bound to declare that this House is, and always has been, ready and anxious to concur in any just and reasonable measure whatever by which the Clergy Reserves could be applied to such useful purposes as would be most advantageous to His Report on Executive and Legislative Councils.

Majesty's faithful people in this Province, and most conformable to their well known wishes—that this House cannot but express its confident hope, that His Majesty will not be induced by any representation, whether secret or open, to depart from the gracious intentions which he has been pleased to intimate, of complying with the earnest and repeated solicitations of His Majesty's faithful subjects in this Province on that subject—that this resolution be laid before His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, and that His Excellency be requested to transmit the same to the Secretary for the Colonies, and call the early attention of His Majesty's government to the importance of the same, to the interest, peace, welfare, prosperity and happiness of His Majesty's faithful people of this Province.

No. 27.

REPORT of Select Committee on the Executive and Legislative Councils of this Province.

TO THE HON. THE COMMONS HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

The Select Committee appointed to enquire relative to the tenure on which the advisers of the Executive Government hold their offices, and the expediency of introducing the same practice in the administration of the Government of this Province as that acted upon in England, and also relative to the composition of the Legislative Council, have considered the same, and have agreed to the following report:—

Your Committee have examined the Journals of the House of Assembly for eleven years back, and find that, for several successive sessions, a bill passed through the House of Assembly, by overwhelming majorities, repealing an act passed in the 44th year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, entitled, "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof," by which law, any of His Majesty's British born subjects, whether born in England, Ireland, or Scotland, and not having resided in the province a certain length of time, might be ordered to leave the Province by any single Justice of the Peace, without trial, by Judge or Jury—and in case such British subject should neglect or refuse to obey his worship's despotic order was subject and liable to be banished for a term of seven years, for no other offence or crime charged or proved against him than disobeying the Magistrate's order.

Under this law Robert Gourlay, Esq. a British born subject, was banished from this Province, on account of which the said law created an excitement and became obnoxious to the people of the Province; yet His Majesty's then Attorney General having a seat in the House of Assembly, was found standing alone, voting against the repeal of the said law, from the year 1824 until the year 1829, both inclusive, and even after Sir John Colborne, in his speech at the opening of the first session of the tenth Parliament, recommended to both Houses of the Legislature the repeal of the said law, the said Attorney General voted against the repeal of the same, as if in defiance of the recommendation of His Majesty's Representative, and still continued to hold his office, and enjoyed his salary, until he was appointed Chief Justice and Speaker of the Hon. the Legislative Council, which took place in less than twelve months afterwards. Then again the measure for disposing of the Clergy Reserves for the purposes of education has, for the last eleven years, been loudly called for by the great body of the people, from one end of the province to the other, and for that purpose the representatives of the people have resorted to various measures, sometimes the passing of bills, and sometimes by a humble address to the King, and even in the last parliament not more than one in ten of its members could be found to oppose such a disposition, yet, notwithstanding the anxious wishes of the people, and notwithstanding the said disposition is fully authorised by the 31st Geo. 3rd., and notwithstanding His Majesty was most graciously pleased by His despatch transmitted to the Lieutenant Governor of this Province, and by him transmitted to this House, on the 25th January, 1832, inviting the House of Assembly to consider how the powers given to the provincial Legislature by the said 31st of the King, can be called into exercise most advantageously for the spiritual and temporal interests of His Majesty's faithful subjects in this Province, His Majesty's present Sol. General has been constantly most violently opposed to the said measure, and, that too, in a very small minority—as also in the like predicament, during the present session, on almost every important question—and which measures he has been pleased to denounce as most unconstitutional and destructive of our form of government, thereby shewing his utter contempt, not only of the wishes of the people, but of His Majesty's express wish and desire.

We cannot but notice also the very extraordinary manner the said Solicitor General spoke of, and treated by his vote, the despatch of Lord Goderich, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, of the 8th November, 1832, recommending to the Government of this Province, various measures of reform which had been long sought for by His Majesty's faithful people in the Province:—Your Committee would not be understood as wishing by any means to deny the right of the advisers of the Provincial Government, or any other persons who may have seats in the House of Assembly, to express their opinions fully and independently, or to vote on any question as they may think proper and expedient; but Your Committee submit that in their opinion it is altogether incompatible with the spirit of our constitution that such advisers of government should continue to hold their offices and enjoy their salaries any longer than their views should be found to correspond with a majority of the representatives of the people, in great leading and constitutional questions, or that they should put themselves in a factious opposition to the just wishes of the people, and the advice of His Majesty's Government.

Your Committee have also examined the Journals of this House as well as those of the Honorable the Legislative Council, for the purpose of comparing the proceedings with the proceedings of the Legislative Council relative to various important measures loudly called for by the people, and calculated to advance their welfare and happiness. Your Committee would observe that this House who have labored incessantly during the present session for the accomplishment of various important measures, many of which have long been sought for by a large majority of the people; some of which have received His Majesty's gracious consideration and sanction, have passed and sent to the Hon. the Legislative Council, among others, the following bills:—To protect the agricultural interests of this Province from a ruinous foreign competition—to provide for the just and equal distribution of the property of persons dying intestate—to secure an impartial trial, by Jury, and to take from the Sheriff's, who hold their offices during pleasure, the power which they now possess of packing Juries—to relieve an excellent and meritorious class of His Majesty's subjects from burthens and penalties which are imposed by the Militia Laws of the Province, and which are oppressive on them, and which, in time of peace, are altogether unnecessary—to improve the system of our Common and District Schools, and to increase the public funds for their support—to amend the Charter of King's College, in conformity with His Majesty's gracious recommendations, and with the wishes which have at different times been strongly expressed by the people of this Province, so as to put that institution into operation on just and liberal principles—to provide for the sale of the Clergy Reserves, and the application of the monies arising therefrom to objects of common benefit and great utility to His Majesty's subjects in this Province, in accordance with His Majesty's gracious invitations, and with the well known and often expressed wishes of His Majesty's subjects—to promote the peace, freedom, and independence of elections of members of Parliament, by adopting the mode of voting by ballot—granting £100 per annum to the Grantham and Bath Academies; institutions of education established by the voluntary contribution of the people, and on liberal principles,—which bills have not been passed, and have not been amended by the Hon. the Legislative Council, and, thereby the wishes and expectations of the great body of His Majesty's faithful people have been disappointed and their confidence weakened in the justice or wisdom of His Majesty's Government, or of the proper composition of that body whose interests and feelings do not correspond and accord with the interests and feelings of the great majority of His Majesty's subjects, and, therefore, stand in the way of the wishes of the people.

Your Committee beg to remark that it is impossible to suppose that such a state of things can much longer exist; that various important measures, long sought for by a vast majority of His Majesty's faithful people of this Province, and well calculated to advance their peace, welfare and prosperity and some of which have obtained the sanction and recommendation of His Majesty's Government, and that have been passed year after, by the representatives of the people, at a vast expense, shall be obstructed by the Legislative Council, which, although some of its members possess the confidence of the country and are entitled to their best thanks, for the most part is composed of bishops, priests and other ecclesiastics—the Chief Justice, and various other persons who, from the office they hold, are supposed to be altogether under the control and influence of the Executive Government, and a few advisers of the Executive Government, who have long lost the confidence of, and become most obnoxious to the people on account of their political opinions and sentiments, being opposed to the great body of His Majesty's subjects, and who do not follow the practice of England under the circumstances by resigning their situations as such advisers.

Your Committee beg leave to report an address to His Majesty on these important matters which they recommend to the favorable consideration of Your Honorable House.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ADDRESS to His Majesty on the subject of the Legislative Council.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN:

We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly represent that we have applied ourselves with the greatest diligence, during the present Session of the Provincial Parliament to various subjects of great interest to our constituents; and altho' our proceedings have been unavoidably interrupted, to a degree altogether unprecedented, by the trial of controverted elections, and although many of the members of this House have labored under the disadvantage of having been without Parliamentary experience; yet the necessary measures on the subjects to which we have alluded have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion and completed as far as depended on this House, and have been sent to the Legislative Council. It is with no ordinary mortification and regret, however, that we find our exertions during a most laborious Session rendered unavailing in respect to most of these measures, by the rejection of them by the Legislative Council. Among such as have shared this fate are, bills, to protect the agricultural interests of this Province from a ruinous foreign competition:—to provide for the just and equal distribution of the property of persons dying intestate:—to secure an impartial trial by jury, and to take from the sheriffs who hold their offices during pleasure, the power which they now possess of packing juries:—to relieve an excellent and meritorious class of your subjects from burthens and penalties which are imposed by the militia laws of this Province, and which are oppressive on them, and which in time of peace are altogether unnecessary:—to improve the system of our common and district schools, and to increase the public funds for their support:—to amend the charter of King's College, in conformity with Your Majesty's gracious recommendations and with the wishes which have at different times been strongly expressed to Your Majesty by Your faithful subjects in this Province, so as to put that institution into operation on just and liberal principles:—to provide for the sale of the Clergy Reserves, and the application of the monies arising therefrom to objects of common benefit and great utility to Your Majesty's subjects in this Province, in accordance with Your Majesty's gracious invitations and with the well known and often expressed wishes of Your Majesty's subjects:—to promote the peace, freedom and independence of elections of members of Parliament, by adopting the mode of voting by ballot: to grant one hundred pounds per annum for five years to the Grantham and Bath Academies; institutions of education established by the voluntary contribution of the people and on liberal principles.

All these measures, and others which we will not trouble Your Majesty with enumerating, have been rejected by the Legislative Council without amendment, and the labours of this House, during a Session which we think we may justly declare has been distinguished for unprecedented diligence and application to public business, almost entirely baffled and rendered useless by the course pursued by the Legislative Council. If there were any reason to hope that these difficulties could be obviated or materially diminished in future we should not trouble Your Majesty; but the experience of years convinces us, that on many subjects of great and general interest, there is such a disagreement of opinion between the Legislative Council, as now constituted, and the representatives of the people as to bring us to the conclusion, which indeed the Legislative Council itself has expressed in relation to one of the most deeply interesting of these subjects, namely:—that the Legislature of this Province cannot concur in any measure that will be satisfactory to Your Majesty's subjects in this Province. We are aware that Your Majesty has been officially informed, by His Excellency Sir John Colborne, that, "composed as the Legislative Council is, at present, the Province has a right to complain of the great influence of the Executive Government in it—That it consists of seventeen members exclusive of the Bishop of Quebec; that of these, "from accidental causes, not more than fifteen ever attend "to their Legislative duties; that thus out of the members "generally present, six are of the Executive Council and four "hold offices under the government; and that His Excellency "had therefore intimated his intention of recommending to "Your Majesty to increase the Legislative Council." And it was no doubt with a desire to remedy this evil, equally felt by the people and His Excellency, that Your Majesty has since added to their number. But it is our duty to assure Your Majesty that this change has not abated the evil of which we have such serious causes to complain, while it has on the contrary produced that further division of responsibility amongst its members which lessens the consciousness of individual accountability without establishing any community of feeling or sentiments of respect between them and the people.

We do not wish to advert to this unpleasant and mortifying condition of our public affairs in language that shall be disrespectful or offensive to the Legislative Council; nor do we presume to prescribe to Your Majesty what expedient should be adopted to afford relief in the premises to Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects in this Province, who we are confident desire that Your Majesty's attention should be called to it, and that we should humbly leave it to Your Majesty's wisdom to apply a suitable remedy.

In connexion with this subject we feel bound to represent to Your Majesty that it is the earnest desire of Your Majesty's faithful subjects that Your Majesty's Government in this Province should be conducted by the advice of those who should be actually and practically responsible for their proceedings, and who would, as a consequence, be likely to recommend and favor such public measures as may be most desired by Your Majesty's subjects, and in their opinion most conducive to their interests. We behold Your Majesty in the administration of the affairs of the great Empire which Providence has committed to Your Majesty's hands, graciously consulting the wishes of Your faithful people, as expressed by their representatives, in the choice of responsible advisers to manage, under Your Majesty, the affairs of the Government, and we have been accustomed to regard it as an essential and invaluable feature of the glorious constitution of our Mother Country. The same principle we wish to see applied in the practice of our Colonial Government; until that is done we cannot expect that the administration will give satisfaction to Your Majesty's subjects, or that there will be any real and permanent harmony between the Government and the Representatives of the people. It is true that we might withhold the annual grant for the support of the Government as a mark of our dissatisfaction with this state of things, and as a means of procuring redress, but being anxious to evince our forbearance and desire to avoid, as long as possible, contention and difficulty, as well as to shew our confidence in Your Majesty's paternal regard for Your faithful people in this Province and gracious attention to their constitutional rights; and being reluctant to resort to a measure which we are aware must greatly embarrass the Government, until all other constitutional means of seeking redress have been tried and proved unavailing, we have preferred thus to appeal to Your Majesty for Your Majesty's gracious and effectual interference in our behalf; and have, notwithstanding our just dissatisfaction with the existing state of things, and notwithstanding the pecuniary distress which prevails in the Province, granted, for the present year, the necessary supplies for the support of the Government, in the confident hope that effectual steps will immediately be taken for the removal of these obstacles to the peace, welfare and good government of the Province. When it is considered that the Ministers, who, sometimes in rapid succession, fill the Colonial Department under Your Majesty, are strangers to our Province, and too distantly situated to acquire, through channels, often contradictory and interested, a true and correct knowledge of the wants, wishes and genius of Your Majesty's Canadian people, the practical need of local responsibility becomes more apparent and imperious.

ADDRESS TO HIS MAJESTY
On the subject of United Empire Loyalists’ Claims.

TO THE KING’S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY,

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN:

We, Your Majesty’s dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly beg leave to represent, that on the fourth day of March, 1834, an Address passed this House to Your Majesty on behalf of a very meritorious class of Your Majesty's subjects in this Province, designated U. E. LOYALISTS, their sons and daughters, from their having undergone on account of their attachment to the British Crown the most unparalleled sufferings in their person and property, that we know of in the annals of any people, and taken up their residence on the invitation of their Sovereign in this Colony, and denominated, by way of distinction, U. E. Loyalists—the faith of the Government being pledged to them and their descendants, and those volunteers who comprised the Flank Companies of the Militia in this Province in the year 1812, who voluntarily took up arms in defence of the country when invaded by an enemy, and of that Provincial Regiment who distinguished themselves courageously and shed their blood for their Country and their King at the Battles of Detroit, Chippewa, and Lundy's Lane, and to them the faith of the Governor of Upper Canada was pledged, which was afterwards confirmed by His Majesty's Government. That in reply to an Address of this House to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, we are informed that no answer has been received to our said Address.—The same restrictions and conditions so unjust towards so deserving a class of Your Majesty's Subjects, and so injurious to the best interests of the Colony, still exist.

That in a letter addressed to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, by the Hon. George H. Markland, Inspector General of this Province, dated Toronto, May 15th, 1834, published throughout the Province, and during the present Session transmitted to this House by the Lieutenant Governor, it is stated "that the order of May, 1832, existed without being complained of until November last, it then became notorious, that the claims of the U. E. Loyalists were an article of traffic in the public market." It does not occur to us how it can be otherwise than lands should become "an article of traffic in the public market," when they are subject to such restrictions as necessarily compel those to whom they are granted, to dispose of them; conditions imposed on them being so ruinous as to make them utterly valueless to any but dealers in land. The records of the Council and the records of the Surveyor General's office shew that free grants of land not located have been, since the first settlement of the Province, an article of traffic in the public market, and that the Executive Council of this Province have not only recognized the sale from the original nominees, but have actually ordered the deeds to issue in the name of assignees or purchasers, and among the very many instances in which this has been done, some to the extent of ten thousand acres to one individual, and at one time.

And your faithful Commons deeply regret, that the Inspector General of this Province should not have fully informed himself of the fact, before giving publicity to his said letter. By an Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of your late Royal Father of glorious memory, entitled "An Act to afford relief to persons claiming lands in this Province under assignments from heirs, devisees or assignees of the original nominees of the Crown, in cases where no patent had issued, and for other purposes therein mentioned." The Commissioners being the Chief Justice, the Justices of the Court of King's Bench, and the Members of the Executive Council, have not only confirmed the sales, but the deeds from the Crown have in consequence issued to the purchaser or assignee.

The Council have uniformly recognized the assignments of grants of land and the deeds have issued in the name of assignees, it never having been considered improper to buy lands unlocated any more than those located, until the Executive Council of this Colony first made the discovery—notwithstanding some of their predecessors in office have made large purchases in the same way, all of which were confirmed.

That although there may be instances where the original nominees have sold their grants at reduced prices to dealers in land—it has been altogether owing to the restrictions attached to the bounty of your Royal Father, of Glorious Memory, by the Executive Council of Upper Canada—restrictions that it was impossible for them to comply with, consequently they were reduced to the necessity of selling while valuable lands were yet to be had, or, keeping their rights, to so distant a period when the lands then to be had were of little or no value.

That it is the opinion of your faithful Commons the rights of dealers in land (till very lately recognized by the Executive Government, and the law of the land,) are and ought to be held as sacred as those of any other class of your Majesty's subjects.

Your faithful Commons therefore humbly pray that your Majesty will be pleased to direct that an answer will be given to their said address, and that your Majesty will further direct, that copies of all communications from and with the Executive Government of the Colony, together with the opinion of the Crown Officers on the subject of the aforesaid rights be laid before this House at its next session.

Clerk of Assembly.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament assembled.

The Committee upon Currency

Beg leave to submit their first report for the consideration of your Honorable House.

That they are of opinion that an increase of capital and of the circulating medium is loudly called for and absolutely necessary in this Province for the transaction of the business of the country, as the present Banking Establishments are altogether unable to meet the wants of this community. Your Committee would remark, that they have investigated the subject of Currency, as established in different countries, and they find that in those countries where the most restrictions have been laid upon the Currency of a country, and least competition has been allowed, the less permanently secure the establishments have been, and in the same proportion have the people suffered by loss of confidence in their Banks, and by unequal and improper discounts as well as frequent failures of Banks.

In the neighbouring country, the United States, private banking has been restricted and prohibited by law, and the whole banking business of the country is done by Chartered Banks, and to those Acts perhaps more than any other cause can be attributed the numerous failures that have occurred in that country, and the fluctuations in their Currency.

In Scotland private banking has long existed and fewer failures have occurred there than in any other part of the world; their Joint Stock Banking Companies embrace some of the following principles by which the public are quite secured and the institutions useful as Banks of Deposit and circulation, while the stock is above par, and proved to be a good investment.

In that country (Scotland) there are 17 Banks in which the number of Partners does not exceed 20 shareholders.

The National Joint Stock Bank has 1238 Partners.

The Commercial 521.

Aberdeen Town and County 446.

The Deposits in the Scotch Banks are said to amount to £24,000,000 Sterling, of which more than one half consists of sums from £10 to £200. A small interest is paid on these Deposits, and convertible into money on demand.

The Scotch Banks have branches conducted by Agents at a fixed salary, and they are made responsible for all bad debts—weekly returns of all their transactions are sent to the parent Bank, and loans above a certain limit are not permitted without prior reference to the Directors or Bill Committee of the Parent Bank.

Visiting Inspectors are also occasionally employed.

The Provincial Bank of Ireland has branches conducted by Agents with the additional machinery of local Boards as a Check.

Prior to 1759 the Bank of England had no Notes in circulation for less than £20, but in that year it began to issue ten pound notes.

In 1793 the issue of £5 notes commenced.

In 1797, after the Bank restriction Act had been passed, the issue of one and two pound notes took place.

The latest account of the comparative prices of the Joint Stock Banking Companies in England, Scotland and Ireland, is in July 1831, however they have reason to believe that the profits to the Company, security and convenience to the public given by these Banks have not been materially lessened since that period.

Report on Currency.

From the statement of the relation of these several Banks, Your Committee beg leave to recommend to the consideration of the Honorable Members of Your Honorable House, and through them to the Capitalists in this Province generally, the consideration of the following :

SCHEDULE ON BANKING.

No. 1. Is a copy of a Circular from any person desirous of taking stock in the Joint Stock Banking Company in the county of Dover.

No. 2. Is a Circular in answer.

No. 3. Is an accompanying letter.

No. 4. Is an explanation respecting the security of the Proprietors of the Joint Stock Provincial Bank of Ireland.

No. 5. Provincial Bank of Ireland.

No. 6. Bank of Liverpool.

No. 7. Birmingham Banking Company.

No. 8. Plymouth and Devonport Banking Company.

No. 9. Abstract of the Constitution and objects of the Bank of Scotland.

No. 10. Contract of the Commercial Banking Company.

No. 11. Deed of Settlement of the Birmingham Banking Company.

No. 12. Contract of Copartnership of the Aberdeen Town and County Bank.

Your Committee beg leave further to Report, that they have examined the law relative to Banking and have taken the best legal advice upon the subject, and are fully satisfied that there is no law in force in this Province rendering the formation of Joint Stock Banking Companies illegal, and they are of opinion that a Joint Stock Bank, may be advantageously formed with a Capital of £500,000 in 50,000 shares at £10 each.

The establishment of Joint Stock Banking Companies has been proved, by their great success in various parts of the United Kingdom, to be of the most decided public utility.

Institutions of this description have existed in Scotland for upwards of one hundred years, and the experience of their benefit, amply proved before a Committee of the House of Commons, induced the Legislature of Great Britain in the year 1826, to pass an Act expressly for their encouragement in England.

It is now no longer doubted that Banking

Companies possessing an adequate capital advanced by an influential and affluent body of proprietors, are most admirably calculated to sustain public confidence in times of difficulty, and to confer extensive advantages upon the country at large.

A well conducted Company whose affairs are closely investigated by a Board of Directors, and the results annually submitted to the Proprietors, can never be injured or inconvenienced, in the very worst times, to the same extent that private establishments may be; for the known fact that they possess a well secured capital and have ample resources, would quiet the apprehensions of timid depositors and prevent the necessity of a sudden or ill-timed contraction of legitimate discounts.

To the proprietors of such a Bank it would scarcely fail to prove of equal advantage, as may be inferred from the success of other Companies of a similar character which have been established since the passing of the above named Act; the high premiums, borne without any known exception by their shares, afford the best criterion of the extensive utility and the profitable nature of such a joint and mutual system of Banking.

Your Committee are of opinion that the Commerce, Trade, population and wealth of this Province have of late years been advancing with such a steady progress as to require an increase of circulating medium, and having attentively considered the foregoing facts, they are decidedly of opinion that a Bank should be established upon the principle of a Joint Stock Company, as affording the best guarantee for permanent success. Your Committee wish it however to be clearly understood, that in recommending its establishment they are not actuated by any unfriendly feeling towards the present Banking Institutions, and that it is equally opposed to the interest of the country and design, that it should be conducted in a spirit of illiberal rivalry or hostile competition.

The following outline is submitted to the consideration of Your Honorable House and the Public, as the basis of such an establishment, subject to such modifications as the shareholders of such an institution determine on.

2. That the capital might be £500,000 to be raised in 50,000 shares of £10 each.

3. That a call of 10 per cent. per share, might be made, to be paid up as follows, viz. : 2 per cent on subscribing, 4 per cent on opening, and the remaining 4 per cent (of the 10 per cent) in six months. If further calls should be found desirable they might be made as the Directors might appoint, not exceeding 5 per cent in any three months.

4. That as soon as 10,000 shares should have been subscribed for, a general meeting of the stockholders might be called, for the purpose of appointing a Board of Directors, and making other requisite arrangements preparatory to the opening of the Bank; but the Provisional Committee should have power (if they think proper) to permit share-holders to pay up the last instalment sooner than the period above limited, and to allow interest thereon not exceeding 6 per cent; and such meeting should be called as soon as £50,000 could be realized as a starting capital.
5. That the superintendence of the concern might be confided to a Board of twelve Directors to be elected by the share-holders, annually, by ballot; and that no credit should be given or continued, contrary to the advice of a majority of the Board of Directors.
6. That the Directors might from among themselves select two, not actively engaged in business, who, in conjunction with the manager, or in his absence a sub-manager, might have the custody of the Bank Chest, containing the securities and surplus cash not required for immediate use, and the chief superintendence of the more private parts of the concern; especially those relating to bill transactions and applications for credit.
7. That the directors might appoint the managers, one or more sub-manager, the clerks, and the other officers of the Company, including Bankers, Brokers, and Agents in every District in this Province, or elsewhere as they shall deem expedient, and require security in such cases and to such extent as they might deem needful, according to their respective situations; and might have the sole power of removing any such parties or officers.
8. That no person should be eligible as a Director who may not be a subscriber for, and afterwards an actual holder of, at least 50 shares; and that every manager should be a holder of at least 50 shares; and every sub-manager of at least 25 shares.
9. That no person should be allowed to subscribe for more than 400 shares, except a manager, sub-manager, or other officer of this concern or partners in any Bank, who might agree with the Company to merge their establishments in the Institution, but in all such excepted cases the Directors might be authorised to negotiate the shares to be granted.
10. That the scale of regulating votes at general meetings should be 5 shares, one vote; 10 shares, two votes; 20 shares, three votes; 35 shares, four votes; 50 shares and upwards, five votes. Ladies and non-resident proprietors may give their votes by proxy, through the medium of any qualified share-holders.
11. That neither the Books of the Bank, nor any of the Bills nor securities which may pass through the same should be opened to the inspection of any but Directors, and officers of the establishment authorised by them or other persons duly appointed for a special purpose, in order that the credit and private transactions of individuals may be preserved inviolate.
12. That the accounts of the Company should be made up half-yearly and a general summary of them, without any specification of names and individual credits, should be laid before the proprietors at an annual meeting when a dividend founded on actual profits might be declared.
13. That a guarantee fund might be provided to meet extraordinary loss or emergencies by appropriating such part of the annual profits beyond six per cent on the paid up capital as might be agreed on.
14. That in the event of the loss of the guarantee fund and one-fourth of the paid up capital it may be in the power of any share-holder to dissolve the Company unless the share-holders think proper to continue the concern, in which case they should pay the dissentient the then value of his or her shares to be ascertained in case of difference by arbitration.
15. The capital of the Company might not in any case be invested in foreign loans, mining institutions or merchandize.
16. That a deed of settlement might be prepared containing all necessary clauses for the protection of the proprietors, and giving the Company a lien upon the shares of any proprietor on whose responsibility the directors may have felt themselves justified in making any advance.
17. That no transfer of shares should be made before the deed of settlement should be signed, nor until three calendar months after the same had been granted, nor at any time so as to release the share-holder or share-holders from his, her or their liability, for any thing done by the Company while he, she or they were share-holders, and that in all cases the Company might have a right of pre-emption of shares whenever the directors should consider the exercise of such a right beneficial to the concern.
18. That as the Company might contemplate the establishing of Branch Banks in the several Districts in this Province, and might be willing to negotiate with existing private Banks, who might be inclined to merge their concerns in the said Company, it might be important that 1000 shares should be reserved for sale by the Directors, at such times and to such persons as in their judgment could best promote the interests of this Institution, and the public generally.

Your Committee beg leave to call the attention of Your Honorable House to the propriety or impropriety of equalising the currency of this Province with that of the United States, by raising the value of British Gold and Silver to its intrinsic worth, and making Sovereigns a lawful tender in this Province.

All which is respectfully submitted.

APPENDIX TO REPORT

To the Provisional Committee for enquiring into the advantages of establishing a Joint Stock Banking Company in the County of Devon.

GENTLEMEN,

I have to acquaint you, that it is my intention to subscribe for shares in the County of Devon Banking Company provided it should appear to me, after a perusal of your Report, that such a Company may be constituted so as to unite great public security with limited personal liability, and that your plan does, in other respects, meet with that general and respectable support throughout the country which I consider necessary to the beneficial existence of the Company.

I am
Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant.

EXETER, 10th June, 1831.

At a private Meeting held at Exeter this day, the expediency of establishing a JOINT STOCK BANKING COMPANY, in this County was brought under consideration; and it having been admitted that such a Company, conducted under proper regulations, would be highly beneficial to the community, it was resolved to invite the friends of this measure, who should attend at the Royal Subscription Rooms on Friday the 17th June, to nominate a Provisional Committee, with a view to collect general and local information, to examine into the plans, practice, and success of similar companies, and afterwards to frame a report, and submit resolutions consequent thereupon.

It being desirable, however, that individuals should not be called upon to give any positive pledges of support, until the scheme is fully matured, it was determined that any application for shares addressed to the Provisional Committee when nominated, should be permitted to be withdrawn, provided the plan itself should not subsequently prove satisfactory to the applicant.

EXETER, 17th June, 1831.

A Public Meeting of Gentlemen favourable to the principle of Joint Stock Companies having taken place this day at the Royal Subscription Rooms in Exeter, a Provisional Committee of seventeen Gentlemen was put in nomination, with power to add to their number, and seven of them forming a quorum.

G. TRUSCOTT, Chairman.

PROVINCIAL BANK OF IRELAND, }
LONDON, 18 }

I am instructed by the Court of Directors to give the following explanation in answer to inquiries respecting the extent and duration of the responsibility to which each individual Proprietor of Shares in the Society, established under the name of the Provincial Bank of Ireland, is liable.

The responsibility is twofold:—

One having for its object, security to the public for the engagements of the Bank.

The other having regard to the interests of the proprietors among themselves, as members of the same partnership.

The former is defined and regulated by the Act 6. Geo. 4. Chap 24.

The latter is regulated by the Deed of Settlement, dated August 1st 1825.

For the purpose of giving to the public unquestionable assurance and security, the Act of Parliament provides that all the proprietors shall, in any case of need, be liable jointly and severally for the engagements of the Bank, but by further provisions of the same Act, this liability is so regulated as to afford to the most sensitive, all the protection of their Interests which individual proprietors can reasonably desire.

By the provisions of the Act, the Bank can only sue and be sued by means of public officers. No proceeding can be originally instituted against any proprietor, but all proceedings must be instituted against one of the Public Officers, whose names must be annually registered for that purpose; and only one proceeding can be instituted for one cause of Action.

Until Judgment in any suit shall have been obtained against the Public Officer, there is no liability on the part of individual proprietors. It is only then that such liability commences, but under such regulations, that no proprietor can, in any imaginable circumstances, be subjected to personal loss beyond the extent of his shares. The Public Officer is obviously the proper person to whom recourse should be had, and the Act provides that the whole property of the Bank shall be liable for judgments obtained against such Officer. The Directors therefore, never will suffer execution to be sued out against the Public Officer, but must hold him indemnified, otherwise he would enforce his remedy against the Funds of the Bank under their management, as also against themselves.

The natural consequence is that, unless the funds of the Bank should be exhausted, no individual proprietor would ever be called upon.

But even supposing that, instead of having recourse to the Public Officer, execution should be sued out against any individual proprietor such proprietor would have redress against the funds of the Bank which he could obtain by means of the Public Officer, and have the same remedies that were possessed by the person who originally instituted the proceedings.

The course now mentioned applies to persons who may be proprietors at the time the execution is sued out.

With regard to those who have ceased to be proprietors before execution is sued out, the only case in which such persons can be liable, is, where the execution, against any actual proprietor at the time, has been ineffectual to procure payment. In that case recourse may be had against persons who were proprietors at the time the contract was entered into, in respect of which the judgment may have been obtained.—But it is provided by the Act, that in such a case, execution shall not be sued out, except by leave of the Court in which the judgment shall have been obtained, granted on motion, in open Court, of which motion, notice shall be given to the party sought to be charged; nor shall execution, under any circumstance whatever, be sued out against any person after the expiration of three years from the time when he shall have ceased to be a proprietor. No person, therefore, who has ceased to be a proprietor can ever be taken by surprise by any execution.

With regard to the latter description of liability mentioned in the outset, viz.—That of the proprietors as among themselves. By the provisions of the Deed of Settlement each proprietor is rendered only liable in proportion to the extent of his shares, and he is wholly exempt from liability from the moment a transfer of his shares shall have been completed.

For this purpose, the proprietors covenant to indemnify each other against all liability, except in proportion to the shares held by each; and also, that each proprietor shall be wholly exempt from the time he ceases to be a proprietor.

By the provisions of the Act therefore, a proprietor from the time of the sale of his shares, ceases to be liable for all future engagements of the Society. He is liable, for, three years only, for engagements contracted while he was a proprietor, (against which liability he was the guarantee, not only of the whole Funds of the Society, but also the private Estates of all the remaining proprietors,) and from the end of three years he is wholly free, although the Society and all the proprietors should be utterly bankrupts. By the provisions of the Deed of Settlement, this liability is rendered in extent to a liability proportioned to the number of shares, and in duration to the period of his continuing a proprietor.

On the whole when it is considered that the capital of the Bank is two millions, which has been fully subscribed; that one fourth part of that capital has been actually paid up; that the number of proprietors is about 800; that a great proportion of that 800 are persons of wealth and consequence; the real practical effect of the Act of Parliament and Deed taken together, is, that the individual responsibility of each proprietor is as before mentioned, strictly limited in extent to his number of shares, and in duration to the period of his continuing a proprietor.

I am

Your obedient servant,

Secretary.

1. The object of this establishment is to give a more solid circulation to Ireland—to render money attainable by the merchants, manufacturers and others in such fair and equitable terms as may enable them to employ the population, which employment has hitherto been impeded by the very high rate of interest and the want of confidence in the circulation.

2. It is therefore proposed to assimilate the system of business in Ireland to that of the Scotch Banks, by establishing Branch Banks in Cork, Belfast, Waterford, Clonmel, Galway, Sligo, Kilkenny, Newry, Westport, Londonderry, and other places; each branch to be under the superintendence of wealthy and respectable resident Merchants, aided by an active and intelligent English Agent, as Cashier, who shall be thoroughly conversant both in the principles and detail of the Banking business, and who shall give the fullest security for the trust reposed in him.

3. Although the local Directors will be required, under pain of disqualification, to hold at least £2,500 stock of the concern, to identify themselves with its interests, it is nevertheless proposed to appoint an Inspector of first rate character and talents in the Banking business; to constantly visit the different branches of the establishment, to superintend their operations and report thereon to the board of management in London.

4. A second Inspector, resident in Dublin, and perfectly conversant, from his habits and occupation, with the Banking business, will, in conjunction with one of the Directors of the London Board, equally qualified, occasionally visit the different branches.

5. In fact, every possible precaution will be adopted by Check and Counter Check, and by a daily report of the operations from each of the branches to the general Board of Management, to arrange such a system of vigilance as shall prevent the probability of any practices going forward injuriously to the interests of the establishment.

6. The Company will confine themselves to the legitimate business of Banking in Ireland, and should it be deemed expedient, propositions for loans, and landed property, to a limited extent, will be entertained.

7. The present Directors to remain in office until 31st December, 1829, at which time four are to go out and thence forward the same number annually; but to be eligible for re-election by the Proprietors.

At a general meeting of the shareholders held on the 17th day of March 1831, at the Clarendon-rooms, William Brown, Esquire, in the Chair.

The Solicitor read to the meeting the Report of the Provisional Committee, which was as follows:

To the Shareholders of the Bank of Liverpool:

The time having arrived when the Provisional Committee must surrender their trust into the hands of Directors to be chosen by the Shareholders, the Committee will briefly communicate to you the result of their proceedings, and submit to you such Resolutions for the final establishment of the Bank as they consider to be necessary for that purpose.

So many Joint Stock Banks have lately been established in this country, (the success attending which however they do not now intend to dwell upon,) that the Committee have enjoyed the advantages of perusing the most approved Deeds of Settlement of existing Companies; and the Resolutions now to be proposed, which will form the basis of the Deed of Settlement of this Company, are the result of the deliberations of the Committee aided by those precedents.

The Resolutions which the Committee intend to submit to you for limiting the responsibility of Individual Shareholders, coupled with the provisions of the Act passed in 1826 which authorised the formation of Joint Stock Banking Companies, constitute, in the opinion of the Committee, a full and effectual protection of the Proprietors; and will render quite inconsiderable their individual liability.

The number of shares for which application have been made to the Provincial Committee is upwards of 18,000; and of this number they have gained 15,638. The remainder of the whole 25,000 shares into which the Capital Stock of the Company is divided, are intended to be left at the disposal of the Directors, to be by them appropriated in such manner as will best advance the interests and credit of the Company.

It is obvious that the success of the undertaking will mainly depend upon the Directors whom the Proprietors shall elect, and with whom will lie the appointment of a Manager and other officers. But the Committee see no reason to doubt that, under prudent management, and aided by the influence of a respectable proprietary, the Bank will enjoy an extensive and profitable business, and will yield to the Shareholders a fair return on the capital subscribed.

(Signed) WILLIAM BROWN,
Chairman of the Provisional Committee.

Liverpool, March 14th, 1831.

The Report having been approved and adopted by the meeting, the following Resolutions were unanimously carried:

1st. That the establishment of this Company, under the title of "THE BANK OF LIVERPOOL," with a Capital of two millions and a half, is hereby confirmed; and that the Company shall forthwith commence and carry on the business of Banking.

2d. That the affairs of the Company shall be managed by twelve Directors; three of whom shall form a Board, and be competent to transact business.

3d. That the following gentlemen be, and are hereby appointed Directors of this Company, from the present time until a General Meeting of the Shareholders to be held in the month of September 1832, when three of them shall go out of office and be replaced by three others, to be chosen by the Shareholders, and the three retiring directors shall not be re-eligible for the ensuing year: Mr. William Brown, Mr. Isaac Cook, Mr. William Donald, Mr. Alexander Gordon, Mr. Adam Hodgson, Mr. George Holt, Mr. Joseph Hornby, Mr. William Lawson, Mr. William Pickering, Mr. Thomas Sands, Mr. William Stuart, Mr. Edward Wilson.

4th. That the Directors be and are hereby empowered to purchase, erect, or take suitable premises for carrying on the business of the Company; and they are hereby invested with full powers to manage, direct and carry on the business affairs of the Company, in all matters connected with Banking; and to appoint and employ Bankers, Brokers and Agents in London, and elsewhere, and Managers, Clerks and Servants, for managing and carrying on the business.

5th. That the Directors do forthwith cause a Deed of Settlement to be prepared for execution by the Shareholders, containing all such provisions as may be necessary for the welfare of the Company, and for the protection of individual Shareholders.

6th. That the remainder still unappropriated of the 25,000 shares, into which the Capital Stock of the Company is divided, shall be disposed of by the Directors in such manner as in their opinion will best advance the interest and credit of the Company; and that the Deed of Settlement shall provide that no proprietor shall be allowed to hold more than 500 shares.

7th. That a further payment of five pounds per share shall be made on signing the Deed of Settlement; and if any Shareholder shall neglect to pay such instalment when called for, together with interest at 5 per cent per annum, from the time to be appointed for payment, or to execute the Deed of Settlement, he shall thenceforth cease to be a Shareholder, and shall forfeit the sums previously paid by him. If additional calls shall be deemed requisite they shall be made as the Directors shall appoint, not exceeding £5 per share in any one year.

8th. That at every annual general meeting of the Company the Directors shall exhibit a Report shewing the result of an accurate balance sheet deducted from the transactions of the preceding year.

9th. That if at any time one-fourth of the paid Capital of the Company (above the reserved surplus fund) shall have been lost, the Directors shall, as soon after as practicable, call a Special Meeting of Proprietors, when any Stockholder may require the dissolution of the Company, and the same shall be dissolved accordingly, unless two-thirds in number of votes of the Proprietors then present shall be desirous of continuing the Institution; which they shall be at liberty to do, upon paying to the retiring Proprietors the then value, accurately ascertained, of their respective shares.

10th. That the Report of the Provisional Committee together with the foregoing Resolutions, be published in such Liverpool and other Newspapers as the Directors may deem proper, and a printed copy of them sent to each proprietor.

(Signed) WILLIAM BROWN,
 CHAIRMAN.

Mr. Brown having left the Chair, it was unanimously Resolved, 11th. That the thanks of the Meeting be given to Mr. Brown for his efficient conduct as Chairman.

12th. That the thanks of the Meeting be given to those gentlemen who have acted on the Provisional Committee.

By order.

Solicitor.

BIRMINGHAM BANKING COMPANY.

CAPITAL £500,000, in 10,000 SHARES OF £50 EACH.

A Joint Stock Banking Company having been established calling itself "The Manchester and Liverpool District Banking Company," which proposes to form Branch Banks throughout a very extensive district, comprising not only Manchester and Liverpool, but also Preston, Bolton, Blackburn, Rochdale, Oldham, Stockport, Macclesfield, Leek, Hanley, Chester, Warrington, and other neighbouring towns and the parties forming the Company having come to a resolution to establish a Bank in Birmingham, it appears to many inhabitants of Birmingham that the trade and importance and wealth of that town and its neighbourhood, are quite sufficient to establish and maintain a Joint Stock Bank of its own, without connection with any other parties. And it further appears that such a Bank, if established in Birmingham, and conducted on liberal principles would tend greatly to the advantage of the Mercantile and other classes of the town and neighbourhood, and afford a sufficient remuneration to the parties whose capital might be employed; subscriptions were entered into, and at a Meeting held at the Royal Hotel, Birmingham, on the 15th day of September, 1829, CHARLES SHAW, Esq. in the Chair.

It was resolved,

That upwards of 5000 shares having been subscribed for, the Company be now formed, and that the following regulations be adopted.

A deed of Settlement shall be prepared, containing all necessary clauses for the protection of the proprietors, and giving the Company a lien upon the shares of any proprietor, on whose responsibility they may have made any advance.

Twelve Directors to be elected by a majority of votes at the first meeting of proprietors, who shall undertake the superintendence of the concern, out of which number three gentlemen, not actively engaged in business, shall be selected to take the principal management, and shall be called the Bill Committee, to whom the Bills passing through the Bank, shall be submitted.

Three of the Directors shall go out annually by ballot among themselves, and their places shall be supplied at the annual general meeting; but the persons retiring shall be eligible for re-election.

No transfer of shares to be made before the deed of settlement is signed, nor at any time without the consent of a majority of the Directors present at their usual meetings, or at some meeting called for that purpose.

That no person holding less than 50 shares shall be eligible for a Director.

The scale for regulating votes at general meetings shall be, 10 shares, 1 vote; 40 shares, 2 votes; 70 shares, 3 votes; and 100 shares and upwards, 4 votes.

The Directors shall appoint the several officers of the Company, and require of them such security as they may deem needful, according to their respective situations.

No credit to be given or continued contrary to the advice of the Directors.

The funds of the Company shall not be in any instance invested in foreign loans, mining institutions, or articles of merchandise.

The accounts of the Company shall be made up twice in every year, namely on the 30th of June, and the 31st December; and a general summary of them shall be laid before the proprietors, at a meeting to be called for the purpose,—and after paying the proprietors 5 per cent. on their paid up capital, a proportion of the surplus profits shall be added from time to time to increase the capital of the company, as may be hereafter agreed upon.

Neither the books of the Bank, nor any of the Bills or securities which may pass through the same, shall be open to the inspection of the proprietors in general.

In the event of the Company losing its surplus profits and one fourth of the paid-up capital, it shall be in the power of any shareholder to have it dissolved, unless other shareholders think proper to continue the concern, in which case, they must pay over to the Dissentients the then value of their shares.

It was further resolved,

That the following gentlemen be appointed Directors, with power to add to their number, viz.: Messrs. Charles Shaw, William Chance, Joseph Frederick Ledsam, Daniel Ledsam, John Mabson, Edward Eagle, Joseph Walker, Thomas Small, James Bellis, and John Turner, and that they be requested to make the necessary arrangements for commencing business on the 1st of October next.

That the Bank of England and Sir James Esdaile & Co. be appointed Bankers to the Company, and that the Directors be authorised to open an account with any other house if they think expedient.

That Mr. Joseph Gibbons be appointed Principal Agent or Manager, and that the Directors be authorised to treat with him for the surrender of his present establishment, on such terms as they shall deem it expedient.

That Messrs. Arnold and Hains be appointed Solicitors to the Company.

That a deposit of £1 per share be forthwith paid to the Manager; £4 per share to be paid to the Bank, on the first day of October next; and a further sum of five pounds per share whenever the Directors may think proper to call for it. If further calls should be found desirable, they shall be made as the Directors may appoint not exceeding £5 per share in any one year.

That the shares remaining in the hands of the Company shall be appropriated at the discretion of the Directors, having due regard to the interest of the Company; and that no individual be allowed to hold more than 100 shares, except Mr. Joseph Gibbins, as Manager and except in cases of parties becoming entitled by bequest.

That a copy of the resolutions of this meeting do lie at the Bank, and at the office of our Solicitors for the inspection of all Shareholders.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Birmingham Banking Company, held on the 25th day of September, 1829,

It was resolved,

That in order to afford to the Shareholders and the public, every possible security against their bills being exposed to the scrutiny of individuals who might prejudice their interests, a meeting of the proprietors be called, as early as possible to fix on three Directors to act as a Bill Committee in conformity with the regulations adopted at the General Meeting; and at the same time to elect two Directors in lieu of Messrs. J. F. Ledsam and Thomas Small who have declined acting.

PROSPECTUS OF THE PLYMOUTH AND DEVONPORT BANKING COMPANY.

Capital £300,000 in 3,000 shares of £100 each.

The establishment of Joint Stock Banking Companies has been proved by their great success in various parts of the United Kingdom, to be of the most decided public utility.

Institutions of this description have existed in Scotland for upwards of 100 years, and the experience of their benefits, amply proved before a Committee of the House of Commons, induced the Legislature of Great Britain, in the year 1826, to pass an Act expressly for their encouragement in England.

It is now no longer doubted that Banking Companies possessing an adequate Capital advanced by an influential and affluent body of Proprietors, are most admirably calculated to sustain public confidence in times of difficulty, and to confer extensive advantages upon the country at large.

A well conducted Company, whose affairs are closely investigated by a Board of Directors, and the results annually submitted to the proprietors, can never be injured nor inconvenienced, in the very worst times, to the same extent that private establishments may be, for the known facts, that they possess a well secured capital, and have ample resources, would quiet the apprehensions of timid depositors, and prevent the necessity of a sudden or ill timed contraction of legitimate discounts.

To the proprietors of the proposed concern it can scarcely fail to prove of equal advantage as may be inferred from the success of other Companies of a similar character, which have been established since the passing of the above named Act; the high premiums, borne without any known exception, by their shares, afford the best criterion of the extensive utility and the profitable nature of such a joint and mutual system of Banking.

Many gentlemen have long been of opinion, that an eligible opening presents itself for an additional Bank in this District, the commerce, trade, population, and wealth of which, have of late years been advancing with such a steady progress, and having attentively considered the foregoing facts, they are decidedly of opinion that it should be established upon the principles of a Joint Stock Company, as affording the best guarantee for permanent success. The originators of this institution wish it however to be clearly understood, that in its establishment they are not actuated by an unfriendly feeling towards either of the respectable Banks existing in these towns or in their vicinity, and that it is equally opposed to their interest and design, that it should be conducted in a spirit of illiberal rivalry or hostile competition.

The following outline is submitted to the consideration of the public, as the basis of such an establishment, subject to such modifications as the proprietors may hereafter determine on.

1. That the Bank shall be called "The Plymouth and Devonport Banking Company.

2. That the Capital be £300,000 to be raised in 3,000 shares of £100 each.

3. That a call of £20 per share shall be made, to be paid up as follows, viz: £2 on subscribing, £10 on opening, and the remainder in six months. If further calls should be found desirable, they shall be made as the Directors may appoint, not exceeding ten pounds per share in any one year.

4. That as soon as 2000 shares shall have been subscribed for a general meeting of the stockholders shall be called for the purpose of appointing a Board of Directors and making other requisite arrangements preparatory to the opening of the Bank; but that the Provisional Committee shall have power, (if they think proper) to permit shareholders to pay up the last instalment sooner than the period above limited, and to allow interest thereon: and in case such meeting shall be called as soon as £30,000 can be realised as a starting Capital.

5. That the superintendence of the concern shall be confided to a Board of seven Directors, to be elected by the shareholders, with power in such Directors to add two to their number, if they shall deem it necessary, and that no credit shall be given or continued contrary to the advice of a majority of the Board of Directors.

6. That the Directors shall from among themselves select two, not actively engaged in business, who, in conjunction with the manager, or in his absence a sub-manager, shall have the custody of the Bank Chest containing the securities and surplus cash not required for immediate use, and the chief superintendence of the more private parts of the concern, especially those relating to bill transactions and applications for credit.

7. That the order in which the Directors shall stand in the list shall be determined in the first instance by lot, and the first three on the list shall go out annually by rotation, but may be re-elected.

8. That the Directors shall appoint the Manager, one or more sub-managers, the Clerks and the other officers of the Company, including Bankers, Brokers and Agents, in London or elsewhere; and require security in such cases, and to such extent as they may deem needful, according to their respective situations; and shall have the sole power of removing any such parties or officers.

9. That no person shall be eligible as a Director who is not a subscriber for, and afterwards an actual holder of at least 15 shares, and that every manager shall be a holder of at least 15 shares, and every sub-manager of at least 10 shares.

10. That no person shall be allowed to subscribe for more than 50 shares except a Manager, Sub-manager or other officer of this concern, or partners in any Bank, who may agree with the Company to merge their establishments in this; but in all such excepted cases the Directors shall be authorised to negotiate the shares to be granted.

11. That the scale for regulating votes of General Meetings shall be 5 shares 1 vote—10 shares 2 votes—20 shares 3 votes—35 shares 4 votes—50 shares and upwards 5 votes. Ladies and non-resident proprietors may give their votes by proxy, through the medium of any qualified shareholders.

12. That neither the Books of the Bank, nor any of the bills nor securities which may pass thro' the same shall be open to the inspection of any but Directors, and officers of the establishment, authorised by them or other persons duly appointed for a special purpose, in order that the credit and private transactions of individuals may be preserved inviolate.

13. That the accounts of the Company shall be made up half-yearly, and a general summary of them, without any specification of names and individual credits, shall be laid before the proprietors at an Annual Meeting, when a dividend founded on actual profits shall be declared.

14. That a Guarantee fund shall be provided to meet extraordinary losses or emergencies, by apportioning such parts of the annual profits beyond 5 per cent on the paid up capital as may hereafter be agreed on.

15. That in the event of the loss of the guarantee fund and one fourth of the paid up capital it shall be in the power of any shareholder to dissolve the Company unless other shareholders think proper to continue the concern, in which case they shall pay the dissentient the then value of his or her shares, to be ascertained, in case of difference, by arbitration.

16. The Capital of the Company shall not in any case be invested in Foreign Loans, Mining Institutions, or Merchandise.

17. That a Deed of Settlement shall be prepared containing all necessary clauses for the protection of the proprietors, and giving the Company a lien upon the shares of any proprietor on whose responsibility the Directors may have felt themselves justified in making any advance.

18. That no transfer of shares shall be made before the Deed of Settlement is signed, nor until 12 calendar months after the same have been granted, unless under peculiar circumstances, nor at any time without the consent of a majority of the Directors present at any one of their Annual Meetings, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose; and that in all cases the Company shall have a right of pre-emption of shares whenever the Directors shall consider the exercise of such a right beneficial to the concern.

19. That as this Company contemplates the establishment of Branch Banks in other places where promising openings may present themselves, and will be willing to negotiate with existing private Banks who may be inclined to merge their concerns in this Company, it is important that 1000 shares should be reserved for sale by the Directors, at such times and to such persons as in their judgment will best promote the interests of this institution.

Plymouth, 5th October, 1831.

At a Select Meeting of some of the principal Gentlemen, Merchants, Manufacturers, and Traders of Plymouth and Devonport, held this day at the Mechanics' Institute.

William France, Esq. in the Chair.

The above Prospectus having been discussed, modified, and approved of, subject to future reconsideration, and ample details having been given of the great success of similar institutions in various parts of the United Kingdom.

It was unanimously Resolved,

That the establishment of a Joint Stock Banking Company in Plymouth, with branches at Devonport and in the neighbouring towns where eligible openings may present themselves, promises, under good management, to be productive of great advantage to the community of this District, as well as to the shareholders.

That a Provisional Committee be now formed consisting of the following gentlemen, with power to add to their number, viz :

Messrs. France,
Joseph Treffry,
David Derry,
George Fox,
J. N. Tanner,
Downe,
W. Baron,
W. H. Evens,

Messrs. Wm. Burnell, Jun'r, Thomas Adams,
Rundell, }
Hancock, } Devon-
Ramsay, } port,
John Moore, and Frederick Bone.

That the above Committee be empowered to revise the Prospectus, if they shall think it necessary—to receive and report on applications from persons wishing to take shares—to collect further information—to open negotiations with the partners of existing Banks who may be disposed to treat—and to report their proceedings to another meeting, to be called as soon as they may deem it expedient.

(Signed) WILLIAM FRANCE,

Chairman.

At Meetings of the Provisional Committee, held on the 10th and 17th of October, the following gentlemen were added to their number, viz : Messrs. C. Tripe, Moses Jeffery, and James Gilbard, of Devonport, and William Stuart, of Plymouth.

ABSTRACT

OF THE

CONSTITUTION AND OBJECTS

OF THE

Bank of Scotland.

I. The Bank of Scotland is a Public National Establishment; erected and regulated by the Legislature alone, and expressly as a public bank in this kingdom; for the benefit of the nation and for the advancement of agriculture, commerce, and manufactures; and for other objects of public policy.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5.
14 Geo. 3. chap. 32.
24 Geo. 3. chap. 8.
32 Geo. 3. chap. 25.
34 Geo. 3. chap. 19.
44 Geo. 3. chap. 23.

II. The statutory capital is at present one million and a half of pounds sterling. It is raised by voluntary subscription, and has been subscribed for. One million has been called for, and paid in.

44 Geo. 3. chap. 23.

III. Subscribers, if not under obligation to the bank, may at pleasure transfer their right. If under obligation to the bank, the obligation must be previously liquidated, or the proceeds of the sale, at a price to the satisfaction of the directors must be applied towards such liquidation. Transfers are made by a short assignment and acceptance thereof, both in a register appointed for that purpose. The expense besides the government stamp is eleven shillings.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5

IV. Bank of Scotland Stock may be acquired in any portions by any person, community, or other lawful party whatsoever; without selection, exclusion, or limitation of numbers.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5

V. Bank of Scotland Stock may be conveyed by latter Will, and if specially mentioned, without expense of confirmation. It cannot be arrested: The holders right may be adjudged. Dividends may be arrested.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5.
44 Geo. 3. chap. 23.

VI. The Bank of Scotland is a public corporation by act of parliament. The Bank transactions are distinct from those of the stockholders; and theirs from those of the Bank.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5.

VII. The establishment is expressly debarred from any other business than that of banking.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5.

VIII. The management is vested by statute, in a governor, deputy governor, twelve ordinary and twelve extraordinary directors. They are chosen annually on the last Tuesday of March by the stockholders having £250 of stock or upwards. Those above £250 have a vote for every £250; to £5000 or 20 votes. No person can have more than 20 votes. The governor must hold at the least, £2000 of stock; the deputy governor £1500; and each director £750. They swear to be equal to all persons: and cannot hold any inferior office in the Bank.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5
14 Geo. 3. chap. 32.
44 Geo. 3. chap. 23.

IX. The executive part is conducted by a treasurer, secretary, and other public officers all sworn. Those having the official charge of cash find due security.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5

X. The board of directors sits for the general administration of the Bank, at the Bank's public head office, in Edinburgh. The local business of that district is also conducted at that office, for the local business in the other parts of the kingdom,—the Bank has its regular public offices in the principal towns.—At each of these offices, there is the bank agent or cashier, who gives the due security, and conducts the Bank's business for that district, in the manner after mentioned.—There is also the Bank's accountant for that office, who is appointed by the directors.

Wm. Parl. I. sec. 5.

XI. The Bank takes in money at all its public offices, on deposit, receipts, or promissory notes, or on current deposit account. At the head office, drafts on London, or on any of the agencies, are given. At each agency, drafts on London, or on the head office are given. All these documents are on the Bank's check, and sealed with the Bank's seal. They bear in words to be "For the Bank of Scotland," or "For the Governor and Company of the Bank of Scotland."—These documents are signed, if at Edinburgh, by the treasurer, and countersigned by the principal accountant; if at any agency, they must be signed by the Bank's agent as agent, and countersigned by the Bank's accountant for that agency, otherwise they infer no obligation on the bank.

Appendix to report on Currency.

Resolution of Court
28th Feb'y 1793.

XII. Bills on London, Edinburgh, or any town where the Bank has its official correspondents, are discounted and purchased at all the Bank's public offices. The Bank's agents judge in ordinary cases of the bills presented, so that parties meet with no delay. The Bank does not sell at any of its offices the bills which it has discounted and purchased. Its agents cannot endorse its bills, unless officially to the treasurer.

Resolution of Court
23rd Feb'y 1789.

XIII. Government stock and other public funds transferable in London, may be purchased, or sold, and dividends thereon may be received through the Bank.

XIV. The Bank gives credit on cash accounts at any of its offices, on bond with security. This security may be personal obligants conjunctly and severally; or Bank of Scotland stock, or both; or such other security as may be specially agreed on. Applications for cash accounts are given in to the office where the cash accounts are granted, and must specify the credit desired, and the security proposed, and the individual partners, where co-partners are proposed. Cash accounts are granted by the directors only, and are not recalled unless by their special authority. It is understood that these credits are not used as dead loans, to produce interest only. In the fair course of business, the advantage of the Bank is consulted by an active circulation of its notes and by frequent re-payments to it in a way least affecting that circulation.

Resolution of Court,
23rd Feb'y 1789.

XV. The Bank's dividend of profits has for some time been nine and a half per cent. per annum, on that part of its capital stock, or one million of pounds sterling paid in.—The dividends are paid regularly twice a year, without expense. They may be drawn either at the Bank's head office, or at any of its other offices, as most agreeable to the stockholder.

First Contract

OF THE

Commercial Banking Company

IN ABERDEEN.

We, the persons after named and designated, and hereunto subscribing, in consideration of the mutual trust and confidence we repose in one another HAVE UNITED, and do by these presents UNITE and JOIN ourselves into a Society or Company, for carrying on in Aberdeen a joint trade and business of BANKING, by issuing Notes of hand, payable at our office in Aberdeen leading money on cash accounts, bills, or other securities, purchasing bills of exchange, discounting inland bills or notes, and negotiating and transacting all matters and things, connected with or dependent on the said business of Banking, all under the firm, name, and designation of "THE COMMERCIAL BANKING COMPANY," and that for the full space and term of NINETEEN years from and after this twenty-fifth day of September, in this present year, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, which is hereby declared to be the time of commencement of this Partnership. And toward establishing a stock or capital for carrying on that business, we do each of us severally for our own parts BIND and OBLIGE ourselves, our heirs, executors, and successors whatsoever, to contribute and pay the respective sums of money under written, in manner after-directed, viz: John Abercrombie, Junior, Merchant, and present Provost of Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; Francis Leys, of Glasgow forest, Merchant in Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; William Young, Merchant in Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; William Forbes, Merchant in Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; James Young, Merchant in Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; Alex. Brebner, younger, of Lairnie, Merchant in Aberdeen, two thousand pounds; Alexander Martin, of Nellfield, two thousand pounds; James Hadden, Merchant in Aberdeen, four thousand pounds; and Thomas Leys, younger, of Glasgow forest, Merchant in Aberdeen, four thousand pounds, all Sterling money; which several sums, making in whole twenty-two thousand pounds Sterling, we hereby declare to be at present the Capital Stock intended by us for carrying on and prosecuting the foresaid business of Banking; but which Capital Stock may be increased and augmented, if found necessary, in manner hereinafter specified.—During which space of nineteen years, at least so long as the said Company shall subsist undissolved, in terms of article eighteenth, hereinafter inserted, WE, the said parties BIND and OBLIGE ourselves, our heirs, executors and successors, mutually, severally, and respectively, to comply with, perform, and fulfil, the following conditions, regulations and declarations, viz:

First.—That each Capital Share of the said Co-partnership Stock shall be two thousand pounds Sterling, and no partner shall be allowed to hold more than one share, (except the saids James Hadden and Thomas Leys, who are to hold two shares each until the execution of the transfers aforementioned,) and that the several shares shall be held by individuals only, and not in the name of any Company. Such partners as hold two thousand pounds of the Stock of the Company shall be entitled to vote and act in the ordinary and occasional meetings of the partners, as well as in the general meetings, they shall be denominated acting partners, and never reduced to a lesser number than nine, or if reduced, new ones sufficient to make up that number shall be admitted in manner aftermentioned. The whole business shall be carried on under their immediate superintendence, and any three of them shall be a quorum; but no partner holding less than two thousand pounds of the Capital Stock shall be entitled to act in the ordinary administration of the business, or vote at any meeting, except at the general meetings as hereafter provided for, and they shall be denominated acceding partners.

Second.—Each partner hereby becomes bound to pay into the hands of the Cashier for the Company, his share of the Capital Stock, at such times, and by such proportions, as a majority of the acting partners shall direct, by an order to be made and entered in the Company's sederunt book, with one-fifth part more of each sum so appointed to be paid in name of penalty, in case of failure and legal interest of the said sums from the times appointed for the payment, until the actual payment thereof such order being always intimated by the Cashier for the time within three days of its date, to each partner, by a missive letter subscribed by him; and if any partner shall fail to make payment of the sums to be called for in manner above mentioned, within thirty days after the day fixed for payment, with legal interest from the day so fixed, then it shall be in the power of a majority of the acting partners, either to do diligence for the sum appointed to be paid, or otherwise in their option to declare by a minute to be made and signed in their sederunt book, that the partner so failing to pay has forfeited his interest in the Company, and from thenceforth he shall not be considered as a member of it, the Company in that case paying to him the sums standing at his credit, at the last balance in the Company's books, if any balance has then taken place, or if no balance has taken place, repaying to him what part of his share of the Capital Stock may have been contributed and paid in by him, with deduction always of such sums as he may be indebted to the Company, and also of an adequate consideration for the expense of ingathering and insuring the outstanding debts of the Company; it being understood and hereby declared, that the Company shall not be obliged in such case to call in their notes in circulation, or to give the party so failing any allowance for such of their notes as may be lost, and that he shall, upon receiving such payment, be bound to execute and deliver to the Company a formal discharge and renunciation of his interest in the partnership.

Third.—That it shall be in the power of two-thirds of the acting partners, at any time during the first five years from the commencement of the present contract, to increase the Capital Stock of the Company to thirty-two thousand pounds st'g, by admitting other partners to hold fractional shares not exceeding one thousand pounds Sterling each. That these partners shall be denominated acceding partners; they shall be bound by a separate contract or deed of accession to the present contract, to comply with, and perform the whole conditions of this contract, and they shall be entitled to a share of the profits, and shall suffer losses in proportion to their interest in the Stock, but shall not be entitled to act in the ordinary administration of the business, or vote at any meeting, except the general meetings hereinafter provided for.

Fourth.—If it shall be found expedient in prosecution of the business, still further to increase the Capital Stock, it shall be in the power and option of partners holding two thirds of the Capital Stock of the Company at the time, to add to the same at the expiry of every five years during the subsistence of this contract the sum of four thousand pounds sterling, by admitting as many partners as will be sufficient to raise the same, in shares of two thousand pounds sterling each, or such lesser shares as may be agreed on, under the conditions and restrictions mentioned in the preceding article; but no addition whatever is to be made either to the Capital Stock of the Company, or to the number of partners, without the express concurrence and consent of the proprietors of two thirds of the Stock at the time, in writing, entered in the sederunt book of the Company.

Fifth.—That the Stock of each partner of the said Company shall in the first place be subject to the debts due by him to the Company, and to such claims as may be competent to them against him, which shall be preferable thereon to every other claim, and this preference shall not be disappointed by any Deed of his or diligence whatsoever.

Sixth.—That no share in the partnership hereby contracted shall be attachable by arrestment, sequestration, or other legal diligence, so as to vest such share in the person of any creditor, but that in the event of diligence being used for attaching any share in it, the Company shall only be obliged to pay to the creditor or creditors using such diligence, the sums standing at the credit of the partner against whom the diligence has been used at the date of the balance of the Company's books immediately preceding, with legal interest from and after the date of such balance, with the deductions and under the conditions and declaration specified in article second; providing always, that the Company shall only be liable for interest on the value of such share for six months after an arrestment is used, or a sequestration is intimated, and no longer.

Seventh.—If any partner of the Company shall by any Deed under his hand, nominate the person whom he shall intend for his successor in his share of this partnership, and shall in his life time deliver in such nomination to the Company, and obtain the nominee approved of by two thirds of the acting partners of the Company, and their approbation entered in the sederunt book, the person so named shall, on the death of the partner naming him, be entitled to be received as partner in his place; and if any partner after having made a nomination, and got the same approved of as above, shall think fit to alter it, and name another person for his successor in his share, he shall be at liberty so to do, and in case the Deed containing such alteration shall be given in to the Company, and the new nominee approved of as above, such new nominee shall be entitled on the death of the partner naming him, to be received as a partner in his place, but not otherwise, it being always in the power of the partner making such nominations to revoke the same altogether, at any time during his life, but in case no such nomination shall be made, approved of, or being made shall be revoked, the heirs at law or representatives of the partner deceasing shall only be entitled to receive from the Company the value of the defunct's share as the same shall stand ascertained by the balance of the company's books immediately preceding the decease of such partner, to be paid at the expiry of six months after the decease of the partner, with the legal interest thereof from and after the date of said balance until payment, if uplifted, within six months from the day it becomes payable; and the company shall be obliged to pay the same accordingly, but with the deductions always and under the condition and declaration mentioned in article second, providing always, that the company shall not be liable for interest on the value of said share for any longer space than six months after the same shall become payable in terms of this article, and in this case it shall, on the death of such partner, be in the power of partners holding two thirds of the stock (notwithstanding of any provision which may be herein contained against the admission of new partners) to accept of and assume a new partner in the room of the partner deceased, who shall be thereupon vested with the same privileges and powers as the deceased partner was.

Eighth.—That although by their contract the saids James Hadden and Thomas Leys hold each of them two shares of the original capital stock yet each of them shall be bound to transfer one of these shares to such persons as the majority of the acting partners shall direct, and that within one month after being required so to do, by a minute to be made and entered in the sederunt book of the company, and intimated to them; they at making such transfers, receiving from the persons in whose favours the same are made respectively, the value thereof, and on such transfers being made, the persons receiving the same shall become partners of this company and be entitled to the same powers and privileges as the other parties thereto, and shall on the other hand, by acceptance of such transfer, be effectually subjected to the whole conditions, rules, and regulations of this contract, and bye-laws made and to be made by the company alike as if they had been original parties hereto, and shall sign a formal deed on stamped paper, subjecting themselves accordingly, and obliging themselves to comply with the whole articles of this contract, but it shall not be in the power of the saids James Hadden or Thomas Leys to transfer their other share, nor in the power of any other partner to transfer his share or interest in the said co-partnership, without the consent of at least two thirds of the acting partners obtained and entered in the sederunt book; the transfers by the said James Hadden and Thomas Leys, allowed as above shall be made to different persons, and after they are made neither the said James Hadden nor Thomas Leys shall be entitled to hold more than one full or capital share of the company's stock, being two thousand pounds sterling, nor to more than one vote in the management of their affairs; and no other partner shall at any time be entitled to hold more than one such full share.

Ninth.—That all the parties to this contract and every person who shall, at any period during the subsistence of the same, become a partner in the business, shall be bound severally to promote and advance the interest and advantage thereof; and if in any event during the subsistence of this contract, they or any of them while they are partners of this company, shall be concerned directly or indirectly in any other banking company or branch thereof, in Aberdeen, or within fifty miles thereof, they shall ipso facto forfeit to the other partners of the said commercial banking company such share as they may at that time hold in the company, to be disposed of for behoof of the company in such manner as the partners holding two-thirds of the stock shall direct.

Tenth.—That for the superintendence and proper management of the business, the acting partners shall meet as often as there shall be occasion; three of them shall be a quorum; and at all these ordinary meetings a preses shall be chosen, who, in case of difference of opinion and equality of votes, shall be entitled to a casting vote, besides a deliberative one; the proceedings shall be determined by a majority of votes of the partners present, except when any of these cases occur for which it is otherwise provided by this contract;—and it shall be in the power of the acting partners, upon any emergency, on such previous notice as the case may admit, to call general meetings of the whole partners; and these meetings are to be conducted in the same manner as the annual general meetings.

Eleventh.—Within five days after signing of this contract the whole parties hereto are to meet and are to elect a Cashier of known abilities and good character; his duty shall be, under the superintendence of the acting partners, to re-receive all money payable to the Company, and to make such payments as shall fall to be made by them; to draw bills of exchange, and sign promissory notes and bills, grant receipts for payments made on cash accounts or otherwise, and sign & execute on behalf of the Company such other necessary deeds or writings as the business may require, and to conduct such other business of the Company as shall be allotted to him by the acting partners:—he shall be bound, at his admission to find caution to the satisfaction of the Company for his intromissions, and the due, honest, and faithful discharge of his office, to an extent not less than five thousand pounds, sterling; and he shall receive for his trouble such salary as shall be agreed on:—and in order the more to interest him in the success of the Company, it shall be in the power of a majority of the acting partners to assign to him a full or fractional adjected share in the partnership, as they shall judge proper; he always paying in to the stock such sum as shall correspond to the share thereof to be allotted to him. Upon his ceasing to be Cashier, he shall also cease to be a partner, but shall be entitled thereupon to receive the value of his share, in the same manner as is provided for in the case of a partner deceasing. They shall, at the same time, and in the same manner, elect an Accountant of known abilities and good character, whose business shall be to keep the books of the Company, to make calculations, and to do such other pieces of business as shall be allotted to him by the acting partners, or by the Cashier:—he shall be bound, at his admission, to find security for the due and faithful discharge of his office to an extent not less than five hundred pounds sterling; and he shall receive such salary as shall be agreed on. Both the Cashier and Accountant shall be bound to employ their whole skill and attention in the concerns of the Company; and an extract from the Company's books shall be held a sufficient foundation for a charge for payment of such sum as may be found due by either of them to the Company—they shall not take any concern, directly or indirectly, in any other business; and if they do, the person so doing shall not only forfeit his office, but also the sum of fifty pounds sterling of penalty to the Company—they shall be bound not to quit nor give up their respective offices, without premonition of at least six months, to be made in due form to the acting partner; and he shall at their admission sign a minute in the books of the Company to these purposes.

Twelfth.—That the whole transactions and business of the Company shall be fully, fairly, and regularly entered and kept in a set of regular and distinct books, which shall be filled up, posted, and brought to a just and true balance upon the first day of October in every year, (or if that shall happen to be on a Sunday, on the next lawful day thereafter); and these books, when so balanced, shall be attested and signed by the partners, and when so signed by the partners holding more than one half of the stock, shall be probative and binding on the whole partners of the Company, and shall be patent and open to the inspection of the partners of every denomination. That a sederunt book shall also be kept, in which shall be engrossed the whole orders and proceedings both of the acting partners and of the general meetings, together with such by-laws and regulations as shall be made concerning the management of the business—and these minutes shall be signed by the preses of each meeting, and shall, when so signed, be binding on the whole partners, providing they are not inconsistent with, or subversive of, any of the articles of this contract.

Thirteenth.—That the books of the Company shall be kept in the custody, and under the direction of the Cashier, upon an inventory; and the inventory, with the securities and deeds of importance belonging to the Company, and such cash or notes as the acting partners of the Company may judge unnecessary for the immediate demands of the business, shall be lodged in a repository to be kept for that purpose, under three separate locks; and the keys of one of these locks is to be kept by the Cashier, and the others by two of the acting partners by turns. The books, cash, and writings belonging to the Company shall remain and be kept in their office, and shall not be removed therefrom but by order of two-thirds of the acting partners, entered in the sederunt book of the Company.

Fourteenth.—That the whole business shall be conducted and carried on under the firm of "THE COMMERCIAL BANKING COMPANY IN ABERDEEN," and all promissory notes, bonds, bills, contracts, and other writings necessary in the course of the business, shall be signed by the Cashier for the time, or by some one or more of the acting partners (as shall be appointed by the resolutions of the general meetings, entered in the sederunt books) for account and on behalf of the said Commercial Banking Company, and all promissory notes, bonds, bills, contracts, and other writings to be signed, shall be binding on the whole partners, as effectually as if every individual partner had signed, or granted special powers for signing every one of them; and the partners hereby dispense with and renounce all exceptions or objections which in law may or can be offered against any notes, bills, bonds, or other writings, to be so signed and issued, and oblige themselves to relieve the Cashier or other persons so subscribing them of the same, but no partner, unless authorised as above, shall be entitled to sign any deed or writing to be binding on the Company; and if he shall notwithstanding do so, he shall forfeit to the other partners his interest in the partnership.

Fifteenth.—That it shall be in the power of two-thirds of the acting partners, at any time during the subsistence of this contract, to purchase stock in the public funds in Great Britain, to such extent as they may judge proper, with such funds of the Company as may not be reckoned necessary for the immediate uses thereof.

Sixteenth.—That within thirty days after the date of every annual balance of the books, a general meeting of the whole partners of the Company shall be held at the Company's Office. The day and hour for this meeting shall be appointed by the acting partners and the members shall be called by a missive letter, signed by the Cashier, and directed and forwarded to each partner, at least eight days preceding the day fixed for the meeting. That the proprietors of every denomination shall have a title to attend it, and vote—that partners holding more than one half of the stock of the Company, attending, shall be sufficient for the despatch of the business of the meeting—that a preses shall be chosen, and this and every other question coming before the meeting shall be determined by the majority of the meeting, reckoning by the extent of stock (except in those points or cases for which provision to the contrary is hereby made), and, in case of an equality, the voice of the preses shall be decisive. The general meeting so constituted shall have power to examine the state and order of the books, the conduct of the partners who acted in the management for the year immediately preceding, and of the Cashier, Accountant and other officers of the Company, the division or other application of the profits; to consider of and determine relative to the admission of additional partners; the prorogating the term of endurance of this contract, or the dissolving of the partnership, and winding up its affairs—to ascertain and fix a premium for the ingathering and insuring the outstanding debts of the Company, which, when so fixed, shall be the rule in settling for shares falling during the subsequent year—to appoint a Cashier, Accountant, or other officers for the succeeding year; and, in general to take under their consideration the whole business of the company, and to establish such rules and regulations as they shall think fit, for the future management of the business, provided the same be not repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the original articles of this contract.

Seventeenth.—That the profits arising from the business are to be divided among the partners in proportion to the share and interest which each of them has in the capital stock at the time; no part of the profits, however, shall be divided during the first five years, except by the appointment of partners, holding at least three-fourth parts of the stock of the company; but after the expiry of the first five years, it shall be in the power of any number of partners holding more than one half of the stock of the company to order such dividends as upon a balance of the company's books may appear to them expedient. The losses on the business, if any happen, are on the other hand to be sustained and bore by the partners in proportion to the stock they hold, and they oblige themselves severally to relieve each other of such proportion of loss accordingly.

Eighteenth.—That notwithstanding it is stipulated by this contract, that the partnership shall endure for nineteen years, yet it shall be in the power of partners holding two-thirds of the stock for the time, to dissolve the partnership at the end of the first eleven years, provided a resolution to that effect shall be entered by them in the sederunt book of the company, at least twelve months previous to that period, but not otherwise.

Nineteenth.—That on the dissolution of the company by such resolution, or by the expiry of the foresaid nineteen years, the general meeting shall have power and be obliged to authorize proper persons, who shall, with all convenient diligence levy the whole debts due to the company, turn their estates and effects into cash, apply the nett proceeds thereof, (after deducting the expense of management) in the first place towards extinction of the debts due by the company, and divide the residue among the partners according to their respective shares and interest therein. In case any of the debts owing to the company, and effects belonging to them, shall happen to be outstanding at the expiration of twelve months from the dissolution of the partnership, then and in that case they shall be disposed of, as the partners holding more than one-half of the stock may direct.

Twentieth.—That if any two or more of the partners of the company shall be disposed to continue the business for any number of years after the expiry of the foresaid nineteen years, it shall be competent to and in the power of such partners to call a general meeting of the company at any time during the eighteenth year of this contract, upon a month's previous notice; and at the meeting so called each partner shall certify and declare, whether he means to continue the business on the footing of this contract, or to wind up the business and put a period to the same; and if any of the partners shall neglect so to do, and shall not within sixty days after said meeting intimate, by letter to the cashier for the company at the time, their resolution to continue the business, and prorogate the contract, it shall be in the power of the other partners holding more than one-half of the stock to prorogate the present contract, or to enter into a new one, upon such terms as they shall think proper; and the partner or partners who shall not agree to prorogate the contract or enter into the new one, shall be obliged to accept from the other partners either prorogating or of new contracting, as said is, of the sum or sums of money which shall stand at his or their credit, at the final adjustment of the business of this contract, under the deductions, and with the conditions and declarations specified in article second, in full satisfaction of every claim or demand which he or they can in any way make upon the other partners.

Twenty-first.—That if any partner shall dispose of and transfer his share or interest in the Company, agreeable to the terms of this contract, the Company shall be bound and obliged to free and relieve the seller of all their debts, deeds, and contractions, which shall be incurred posterior to the actual transfer in the Company's books; and such debts, deeds, and contractions, are thereafter to affect the purchaser only, and he shall be bound therefor, in the same manner the seller was; and in case of a prorogation or renewal of this contract taking place in manner before mentioned, all such partners as shall not incline to be included in the prorogation or new contract, shall be entitled to be freed or relieved of the whole consequences of the obligations incumbent on them by this contract; and the partners, who shall prorogue, or of new contract, do in that case hereby bind and oblige themselves to free and relieve such retiring partners accordingly. And it is understood and declared that such retiring partners in both cases are to hold themselves satisfied with this obligation, and shall not be entitled to insist upon the Company to call in their notes or retire their bonds or bills.

Twenty-second—That as time and experience may point out various regulations which might with advantage be adopted in the management of the foresaid business the partners assembled at their general meetings, as before provided for, shall have power to make such regulations or bye-laws for the management of the concerns of the Company as they shall judge expedient, provided the same be not repugnant to the fundamental articles of this contract, or inconsistent with the terms thereof; and these regulations or bye-laws being duly recorded in their sederunt-book, and signed in their presence by their preses, and at least five of the acting partners present at such meeting, shall be equally binding as if the same had been inserted in this contract, until the same are altered or repealed by a subsequent general meeting; declaring always, that the articles of this present contract are not to be varied or altered by any such regulations, but are all and each of them to remain unalterable by the present or any future partners.

Twenty-third—That an extract of this contract with an extract of the appointment of the cashier, and an extract under the hand of the cashier and accountant, of any minute, order, and resolution of any general meeting of the partners, or of any meeting of the acting partners for the time, shall be a sufficient ground and warrant for diligence, by horning or otherwise, in terms of the clause of registration after inserted at the instance of the cashier of the Company for payment of the several shares of stock, or of such parts thereof as shall be called for from time to time, and for implement of all and each of the articles contained in this contract.

Lastly—The whole parties hereto by these presents bind and oblige themselves severally each to the other, honestly, truly, and faithfully, to perform their respective parts of the premises to one another, under the penalty of one hundred pounds sterling, to be paid by the party failing to the party performing or willing to perform, over and above performance.—And they consent to the registration of this present contract in the Books of Council and Session in Scotland, or any other competent record, to have the strength of a decree, that letters of horning on six days charge, and all other execution necessary, may pass and be directed thereon in the usual form, for which purpose they constitute _____ their procurators. In witness whereof, these presents, wrote by James Thomson, Advocate in Aberdeen, upon this and the twelve preceding pages of these four sheets of stamped paper are subscribed by the said parties at Aberdeen, the said twenty-fifth day of September in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, before these witnesses, Alexander Hadden, Merchant in Aberdeen; Alexander Chivas, Clerk to the said William Forbes, and the said James Thomson (Signed) Jo Abercrombie, junior, Francis Leys, W. Young, William Forbes, James Young, A. Brebner, Alexander Martin, James Hadden, Thomas Leys. Alexander Hadden, witness; Alexander Chivas, witness; Ia. Thomson, witness.

Second Contract of Prorogation
OF THE
Commercial Banking Company

We the parties after named and designed and hereunto subscribing, being the whole constituted members & co-partners of the Commercial Banking Company in Aberdeen, considering that by sundry transactions and transfers since its original establishment in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty eight, the stock of the said company consists at present of ten full shares, belonging equally to John Abercrombie Junior, William Young, William Forbes, James Young, Junior, Alexander Brebner of Lairney, Alex. Martin, of Nellfield, James Madden, Thos. Leys, of Glasgo Forest, George More of Raeden, and Alexander More, all Merchants in Aberdeen, and of eleven unequal fractional shares, belonging to Patrick Morison, Manufacturer in Gilcomston, John Hadden Merchant in Nottingham, Alex. Gammack, Farmer, in Corberty, James Harper Mason, in Aberdeen, Chas. Farquharson, Merchant in Aberdeen, Jas. Arbuthnot and Thos. Arbuthnot, Merchants in Peterhead, George Hogarth, Merchant in Aberdeen, Alexander Midler, Merchant there, Alexander Chivas, Cashier to the said Banking Company, and James Macpherson, Manufacturer in Aberdeen, the extent and value of all which shares are stated in the Books of the said Company. And considering, that by the original contract of co-partnership of the said company, dated the twenty-fifth day of September, and recorded in the books of Council and Session the twenty-fifth day of October, both in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, and which expires the twenty-fifth day of September current, it is, inter alia, declared, that it should be competent to, and in the power of any two or more of the partners, to call a general meeting of the Company, at any time during the eighteenth year thereof, upon a month's previous notice; and that at the meeting so called, each partner should certify and declare, whether he meant to continue or to wind up the business, and in the event of any of the partners neglecting so to do, or not intimating within sixty days after said meeting, by letter to the Cashier for the company at the time, his resolution to continue the business, it was provided, that it should be in the power of the other partners holding more than one half the stock, to prorogate the said contract, or to enter into a new one; and that the partner or partners who should not agree to prorogate the contract, or enter into a new one, should be obliged to accept from the other partners either prorogating, or of new contracting as said is, of the sum or sums of money which should stand at his or their credit, at the final adjustment of the business of the said contract, with the deductions, and under the conditions and declarations specified in the second article thereof, in full satisfaction of every claim and demand which he or they could in any way make upon the other partners, as in and by the said contract itself more fully will appear. As also considering that a general meeting of the said company having been called and held upon the twenty-second day of August last year, for the purpose of certifying, in terms of the clause above recited the whole partners then present, did certify and declare their option to prorogate the said contract for the space of nineteen years, under the condition therein contained, and that by letters addressed to the Cashier of the company, all the partners who were not present at the said meeting, did, within the space of sixty days, limited by the said contract, intimate their resolution to continue the business.—And seeing that we are now resolved to carry our said intentions into execution, therefore, we do hereby actually prorogate the term of endurance of our said contract for the further space of nineteen years from and after the said twenty-fifth day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and seven, and bind and oblige ourselves, our heirs, executors, and successors, mutually, severally and respectively, to comply with, perform and fulfill the whole obligations, conditions, regulations and declarations, specified and contained in our said contract, and herein held as repeated, and of new engrossed. As also the whole bye-laws and regulations engrossed in the company's sederunt book, or to be hereafter engrossed therein, agreeably to the clause to that effect in the said contract of co-partnership; all which shall be equally valid, effectual and binding, upon us and our foresaids, and all concerned, in every particular, during the foresaid prorogated space of nineteen years, as at present, declaring, that the foresaid business shall continue to be carried on by us under the foresaid firm and designation of the Commercial Banking Company in Aberdeen, & that partners holding more than one half of the stock shall have full power, during the eighteenth year of the said prorogated space, again to prorogate the said original contract for such further space or number of years as they shall think proper, in terms of the twentieth clause thereof, above recited. Provided always as it is hereby specially provided and declared, that notwithstanding it is before stipulated, that the partnership shall endure for the aforesaid prorogated space of nineteen years, yet it shall be in the power of partners holding two thirds of the stock for the time, to dissolve the partnership at the end of the first three, seven or eleven years, provided a resolution to that effect shall be entered by them in the sederunt book of the company, at least six months previous to the expiry of either of these periods, but not otherwise. And for the more security, we consent to the registration hereof in the books of Council and Session, or others competent, for preservation, and if needful, that letters of horning, on a single charge of six days, and all other execution necessary may pass hereon, on the said original contract, in form as effects, for which purpose we constitute our procurators: In witness whereof, these presents, written on this sheet of paper, denoting a stamp duty of one pound nine shillings sterling, are subscribed by us as follows, viz. say, these presents, written by David Hutcheon, Advocate in Aberdeen, on this and the preceding page of stamped paper, are subscribed by us on both pages, as follows, viz. by us the said John Abercrombie Junior, William Young, William Forbes, James Young Junior, Alexander Brebner, Alexander Martin, James Hadden, Thomas Leys, George More, Alexander More, Patrick Morison, James Harper, Charles Farquharson, George Hogarth, Alexander Midler, Alexander Chivas, and James Macpherson, at Aberdeen the first day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and seven, before witness, George Dawson and Peter Mathews, both tellers to the said Bank Company (the word eighty being the last word except one of the third line from the top of the first page, being written on an erasure by the said David Hutcheon before signing) by us the said Thomas Arbuthnot, James Arbuthnot and Alexander Gamack, at Peterhead, the seventh day of the said month of September, in the year eighteen hundred and seven, before witnesses, Geo. Arbuthnot and Robert Arbuthnot, both Merchants in Peterhead, and by me the said John Hadden at Nottingham, the twenty second day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and seven, before witnesses, William Dunlop and Nathaniel Burton, both Warehousemen in Nottingham, the place and date of signing by the said John Hadden, and the names and designations of the witnesses to his subscription, being inserted by himself (signed) Alexander Martin, Thomas Leys, A. Brebner, Alex. Chivas, James Hadden, Geo. More, Alex. More, James Young Junior, James Harper, Alex. Midler, Chas. Farquharson, William Forbes, Patrick Morison, W. Young, John Abercrombie, Geo. Hogarth, James McPherson, Thomas Arbuthnot, James Arbuthnot, Alexander Gamack, John Hadden, Geo. Dawson, witness P. Matthew, witness Geo. Arbuthnot, witness Robert Arbuthnot, witness William Dunlop, witness Nathaniel Burton, witness.

Third Contract

RESCINDING SUNDRY ARTICLES AND ESTABLISHING CERTAIN

NEW REGULATIONS AMONG THE PARTNERS OF THE

ABERDEEN.

We, the parties after-named and designed, and by ourselves or proxies hereunto subscribing being the whole constituent members and copartners of the Commercial Banking Company in Aberdeen, considering that by sundry transactions and transfers since the original establishment, in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, the stock of the said Company now consists of five full shares belonging equally to us, William Forbes, of Echt, Merchant in Aberdeen, Alexander Brebner, formerly of Learney, now of Glasgow Forest, Merchant there, Robert Abercrombie, Merchant there, James Young, late Merchant in Aberdeen, now in Rotterdam, and William Innes, late Merchant in London, now of Raemoir, and of eight unequal fractional shares, belonging to us Hugh Lumsden, of Pitcairle, Advocate, George Hogarth, of Marshall Meadows, Merchant in Aberdeen, James Arbuthnot, of Dens, Merchant in Peterhead, Alexander Chivas, Cashier to the said Banking Company, Patrick Morison, late Manufacturer in Gilcumston, now in Aberdeen, James Harper, Mason, in Aberdeen, Alexander Gamack, Farmer at Coburty, and Robert Walker, manufacturer, in Aberdeen, the extent and value of all which shares are stated in the books of the said Company, AND SEEING that upon our revising and deliberately considering the original contract of co-partnership of the said company, dated the twenty-fifth day of September, and recorded in the Books of Council and Session the twenty-fifth day of October, both in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight, and which was prorogated by the partners of the said Company for the space of nineteen years, from the twenty-fifth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and seven, by deed of prorogation dated the first, seventh, and twenty-second days of September, and recorded in the books of Council and Session, the twenty-ninth day of October, in the year last mentioned, we have found it necessary, for enabling us to carry on the business of the said co-partnership with more advantage and effect, to make certain additions to, and alterations on our said contract; & have accordingly resolved to rescind and annul the first article thereof, relating to the shares of the acting partners, and that management of the concern; the third & fourth articles relative to acceding partners and increase of the capital stock; the eighth article regarding the transfer of shares; the seventeenth article relative to the division of profits, and the manner in which losses were to be sustained by the partners; and the twenty-second article, with respect to the power of making by-laws for the better management of the concerns of the Company, Therefore we do hereby RESCIND the said first, third, fourth, eighth, seventeenth and twenty second articles of the said Contract; and declare the same to be "henceforth void and null, and of no force, strength or effect whatever, as to any future proceedings or transactions of the Company, and in lieu and place thereof, we do hereby substitute the following articles, rules, regulations, and conditions, and bind and oblige ourselves, and our respective heirs, executors and successors, faithfully to observe, implement and fulfil the same, viz.—PRIMO, That the capital stock of the Company may during the prorogated space to run the said contract, be increased as opportunity offers, but so as not to exceed the amount altogether of ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND POUNDS, STERLING; each capital share of the said stock shall be ONE THOUSAND POUNDS, STERLING, and no partner shall be allowed to hold more than eight shares; and the several shares shall be held by individuals only, and not in name of any company. All the concerns of the partnership, shall, unless otherwise provided for by this deed, or by the original contract, be managed by a committee of seven, consisting of partners, holding each four thousand pounds of stock, who have their residence in the town or county of Aberdeen, or if out of the County, not more than twenty-five miles distant from the Bank, and who shall be denominated Acting Partners. But if there happen at any time to be more than seven partners holding each, stock to that amount, resident as aforesaid, then the said Committee shall be chosen annually by and from among these partners, the election shall be at a meeting to be held on the first Tuesday of October each year, and shall be determined by ballot: But in case of a vacancy at any time in the Committee by death, transfer, removal from Aberdeen or the vicinity thereof before-mentioned or otherwise, the same shall be filled up by the whole of the partners holding each stock of the foresaid amount at any of the ordinary weekly meetings: notice of the election being always given to each of the said partners in writing, and being also duly entered in the sederunt book at the preceding meeting. If on the other hand, there should happen at any time not to be seven partners holding stock each to the amount of four thousand pounds, and who have their residence in Aberdeen or the neighbourhood as aforesaid, one or more Partners holding less than that amount, each, shall be chosen to make up the number by that of the partners of the Company as shall be present at a meeting to be called for that purpose, previous notice of such meeting being always given by letter to each partner of the Company, at least three weeks before the time appointed for its being held, and the Election shall be determined by the votes of such partners assembled at the meeting, as hold a majority in value of the Stock belonging to those present, provided that no partners vote shall be counted for more than four thousand pounds. And it is hereby declared, that until the vacancy is filled up, the remaining acting Partners shall have the same powers of management, as if the Committee consisted of seven in number provided that no undue delay occurs in calling the Partners together to make a new election to supply such vacancies respectively: AND PROVIDED ALSO, as it is hereby PROVIDED AND DE-CLARED that at every annual general meeting, when there are fewer than seven partners, holding each four thousand pounds of Stock, entitled to be acting partners, one or more partners holding less than that amount of Stock shall then be chosen agreeably to the rules above written, with regard to the election of such Partners. But any Partner chosen as above, shall only have right to officiate as an acting Partner until the next annual general meeting after his election; the Company, however having power to re-elect him as aforesaid at every such meeting.

SECUNDO. That it shall be in the power and option of Partners holding two-thirds of the Capital Stock of the Company at the time, to admit as many Partners as will be sufficient to raise the same to the aforesaid sum of One Hundred Thousand Pounds Sterling, in shares of One Thousand Pounds, Sterling, each; under the conditions and restrictions mentioned in the immediate subsequent article.

TERTIO. That all Partners to be hereafter admitted, shall be bound by a separate Contract, or by a deed of accession to the original contract, the foresaid deed of prorogation, and this present deed, to comply with and perform the whole existing articles and conditions therein contained; but partners holding less than four thousand pounds each of the Company's Stock, with the exception of those to be elected, as above mentioned, shall not be entitled to act in the ordinary administration of the business, or vote at any meeting except the general meetings, as provided for in the original contract, and in this deed.

QUARTO. That it shall be in the power of any partner to transfer or dispose of the whole or any part of his stock & property in the copartnership, at any time during the subsistence thereof, but only in entire shares, not less than One Thousand Pounds, Sterling, each. And when a Partner has resolved to dispose of or transfer his shares or any part of them, and shall give intimation in writing to the acting Partners by letter, addressed to them or to the Cashier for the time to be laid before the Acting Partners, of his resolution, and of the name and designation of the person in whose favor the transfer is intended to be made, the acting Partners shall be entitled to deliberate thereon, for twenty-one days after the time when the intimation shall be so given; and shall have power to approve of, or reject the person so proposed as a Partner. If approved of, he shall, upon his producing a transfer, and signing a contract or deed of accession as before mentioned, be admitted and have right to all the privileges of a Partner, conform to the extent of stock transferred to him, but if not approved of, then the partner wishing to transfer his concern as aforesaid, shall be entitled, if he inclines it, to receive, and the Company shall be bound to make payment to him, of the value thereof, as the same shall appear in their books at the first subsequent balancing thereof, after such disapproval, and that within one month after said balancing, with interest from the date of the balancing, till paid; but subject always to the deductions mentioned and referred to in article seventh of the original contract, he being obliged to execute and deliver to them a formal and valid discharge, or if they shall require it, a transfer of the said share on his receiving the value of the same as above-mentioned: DECLARING, That notwithstanding of the above stipulation, with respect to the outgoing Partner receiving the value of his share as at the subsequent balancing of the books in the events before-mentioned, yet if any partner resolving to sell or transfer his shares, or any part of them, shall, within six days after the balance of the books is struck and declared in any year, give intimation in writing as aforesaid to the acting Partners, of such resolution, and of the name and designation of the person to whom the transfer is meant to be granted, he shall, in such case, (if the person to whom the transfer is so intended to be made, shall not be approved by the acting partners as before-mentioned,) be entitled and obliged to receive from the Company, the value of his share or shares so intended to be transferred, as the same is ascertained and fixed by the said balance; but always under the stipulations and conditions regarding the payment of the value of a share to the representatives of a deceased Partner, as specified and referred to in the seventh article of the original contract: AND FURTHER, if even after the expiry of the foresaid six days, a partner desirous of transferring his share, and the Committee of acting Partners are inclined, they shall have power to pay him the value of his share, as it stood in their books at the immediate preceding balancing thereof, together with the legal interest thereof, from the period of such balancing, until the term of payment, subject always to the deductions before-mentioned; or it shall be competent for the committee of acting Partners of the Company, in this as well as in every other case, to pay to a partner desirous of retiring from the concern, such a special sum in full for his share, as may be agreed upon between him and them as the value thereof; provided always, that the sums so to be paid shall not exceed the value of his share as it stood at the preceding balance, and that the Committee shall be unanimous in concluding any such agreement:—

ALSO DECLARING, that if the aforesaid disapproval of a person proposed as a Partner, shall happen three or more months before the time fixed for the subsequent balancing of the books, and if he and the acting Partners shall not agree as to paying off, conform to the preceding balance or otherwise as aforesaid, then the outgoing partner shall be entitled to receive in advance of the sum to which he will be entitled on the subsequent balancing and within one month from the date of the disapproval, a sum equal to one half of the value of his share as it stood at the immediate preceding balancing, upon his granting a receipt for the same, and an obligation to discharge or transfer his share as the acting Partners shall direct when the whole value thereof shall be paid to him. AND, it is hereby FURTHER PROVIDED AND DECLARED, That it shall be lawful to, and in the power of the Acting Partners to reject any person to whom a transfer is or shall be proposed to be made, without their being bound to assign any reason for their so doing; that the approbation or rejection of such proposed partner shall be decided upon by ballott, and that no such partner shall be approved of, or admitted, unless by the votes of such number of the acting Partners as hold two thirds of the stock belonging to the whole of the acting Partners: AND FURTHER, it is hereby stipulated and declared, that no person becoming a Partner of the Company by transfer, although holding stock to the extent of Four Thousand Pounds or upwards, shall be entitled to any of the powers, rights or privileges of an acting Partner, unless with the consent and approbation of acting Partners holding two-thirds of the stock belonging to the whole of the acting Partners, and such consent and approbation being entered and signed in the sederunt-book of the company, or unless chosen as an acting Partner by the Company at large, in the events before provided for, it being understood that this condition shall not apply to Partners admitted by an addition to the stock of the company.

QUINTO, That the profits arising from the business are to be divided among the partners, in proportion to the share and interest which each of them has in the capital stock at the time, but it shall be lawful to the acting Partners to order the payment of such dividends only, as upon a balance of the Company's books, may appear to them expedient, Provided always, that profits shall not be retained to the extent of more than one half of the Capital Stock of the company. The losses on the business, if any happen, are, on the other hand, to be sustained and borne by the Partners in proportion to the stock they hold; and they oblige themselves severally to relieve each other of such proportion of loss accordingly.

POSTREMO. That the partners assembled at their general meeting, as provided for in the original contract, shall have power to make such regulations or bye-laws for the management of the concerns of the Company, as they shall judge expedient; and these regulations, or bye-laws, being approved of by the whole partners assembled at said meeting, or by a majority of those then present, and others afterwards declaring their assent if such majority and others hold two-thirds in value of the stock, and the same being duly recorded in the sederunt-book, and signed in their presence, by their preses and at least five of the acting partners present at such meeting, shall be equally binding as if the same had been herein inserted, until they are altered or repealed by a subsequent general meeting; DECLARING always, that neither the articles of the original contract, nor hereby rescinded, nor the articles hereby established shall be varied or altered by any such regulations or bye-laws, but are all and each of them to remain unalterable, otherwise than by a deed or writing, signed by every one of the partners at the time; and we do hereby HOMOLOGATE, APPROVE OF AND CONFIRM the aforesaid original contract of co-partnership in the whole heads, articles and clauses thereof, in so far as the same are not hereby rescinded, and DECLARING the articles and conditions before written to be equally valid, effectual and binding, as if they had been engrossed in, and made a part of the said original contract. WE consent to the registration hereof, in the books of Council and Session, or others competent, for preservation; and if needful, that letters of horning, on a single charge of six days, and all other execution necessary, may pass and be direct hereon, in form, as affeirs, and thereto constitute,

OUR Procurators, &c. IN WITNESS WHEREOF, these presents (written upon this and the seven preceding pages of of stamped paper by Alexander Chivas, writer in Aberdeen.) are subscribed by us as follows, viz: by us the said William Forbes, Alexander Brebner, Robert Abercrombie, William Innis, Hugh Lumsden, George Hogarth, Alexander Chivas, Patrick Morison, James Harper, and Robert Walker; and by Robert Morice, advocate in Aberdeen, as proxy for the said James Young, (conform to a letter of proxy or procuration, registered as a probative writ in the sheriff court books of Aberdeen, the nineteenth day of July last.) at Aberdeen the twenty-seventh day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, before witnesses, John Thom and John Chrystal, both clerks to the said Company, by me the said Alexander Gamack at Coburty, the twenty-ninth day of said month of September and year aforesaid, before witnesses, John Gamack, residing at Coburty, and James Gibson, hostler in Peterhead, and by me the said James Arbuthnot at Peterhead, the said twenty-ninth day of September and year aforesaid, before witnesses, Robert Cordiner, merchant in Peterhead, and William Gamack, writer there.

DEED OF SETTLEMENT

OF THE

Birmingham Banking Company.

DEED OF SETTLEMENT.

THIS INDENTURE made the first day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine, between JAMES BELLES, of Monument Lane, in the parish of Edgbaston, near Birmingham, in the county of Warwick, Gentleman; WILLIAM CHANCE, of Edgbaston, aforesaid, merchant; EDWARD EAGLE, of Birmingham, aforesaid, malster, and DANIEL LEDSAM, of the same place, button-maker, of the first part: JOHN MABSOM, of Birmingham, aforesaid, factor; CHARLES SHAW, of Sellywick, in the parish of Northfield in the county of Worcester, merchant; JOHN TURNER, of Birmingham Heath in the parish of Birmingham, aforesaid, button-maker, and JOSEPH WALKER, of Birmingham, aforesaid, factor, of the second part; and the several other persons parties hereto, whose names are, or shall be, hereunto subscribed, and who have sealed and delivered, or shall from time to time seal and deliver these presents of the third part. Whereas, the several persons, parties to these presents, have agreed in manner, and by the means hereinafter expressed, to form a Public Joint Stock Banking Company at Birmingham, aforesaid in conformity with the provisions of and so far as the same is authorised, and they are enabled to do by virtue of an Act of Parliament passed in the seventh year of the reign of His present Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the better regulating co-partnerships of certain Bankers in England, and for amending so much of an Act of the thirty-ninth and fortieth years of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act for establishing an agreement with the Governor and Company of the Bank of England for advancing the sum of three millions towards the supply for the year one thousand eight hundred as relates to the same," and under and subject to the regulations, declarations, and agreements herein-after contained. NOW THIS INDENTURE WITNESSETH,

The parties mutually covenanted with each other, that in pursuance of such agreement each of the several persons, parties to these presents of the second and third parts for himself or herself, his or her heirs, executors and administrators and as to and concerning only the acts, deeds, and defaults of himself or herself and his or her heirs, executors, and administrators, but no further, doth hereby covenant with the parties to these presents of the first part for himself, his heirs, executors and administrators and as to and concerning only the acts, deeds, and defaults of himself, his heirs, executors and administrators, but no further, doth hereby covenant with the said parties to these presents of the second part their executors and administrators in manner expressed in the several clauses, or articles numbered from one to seventy-four, herein contained, (that is to say):

No. 1. That they, the said several persons, parties to these presents, shall and will become and be partners together in a company or society to be called, and from time to time and at all times, so long as they continue partners therein, promote and advance the interest and advantage of the company to the utmost of their power.

Title of the Company } THE BIRMINGHAM BANKING COMPANY,

Capital—2. That the original capital fund, or joint stock of the company shall be five hundred thousand pounds, or so much thereof as may from time to time be necessary for the purposes of the said company, and shall be divided into ten thousand shares of fifty pounds each.

3. That the number of shares subscribed for or holden by each person shall at the time of his or her executing these presents, or other the supplemental or subsisting deed of settlement of the company, and also his or her place of abode, be written opposite to his or her name subscribed thereto; and no person shall in his or her own right be allowed, previous to the first day of October, one thousand eight hundred and thirty, to subscribe for or hold more than one hundred shares in the said company, save and except JOSEPH GIBBINS, of Birmingham, aforesaid, Banker, who shall be allowed to subscribe for and hold one thousand shares, but no more; and also save and except such shares as shall come to any Limitation of No. of shares to be subscribed } person or persons by bequest of any previous shareholder or shareholders, or as his or her or held by one individual } or her or their next of kin.

Persons disqualified from being shareholders. } 4. That it shall not be lawful or competent for two or more individuals to subscribe for or hold jointly, (except as trustees, executors or administrators,) any share or shares, and in no case shall any share be divided into fractional parts.

5. That no benefit of survivorship shall take place between the shareholders, all the property of the company shall, as between the several shareholders, and their real and personal representatives, be deemed personal estate, and each of the shareholders as between one another, shall be entitled to, and interested in the profits, and liable and subject to the losses of the company, in proportion to his or her share or shares in the said capital fund or joint stock.

6. That each of the parties hereto shall, and will pay unto the board of directors, for the time being of the company, the sum of ten pounds on each and every share of the capital fund or joint stock subscribed for by him or her at the times and in manner following, that is to say, five pounds per share, on the day of the date of these presents; five pounds per share on the first day of February then next, or at such ulterior or postponed day as the board of directors may appoint for the payment thereof, & the remaining forty pounds per share shall be paid up and advanced by the respective shareholders in such sums and at such times as the board of directors shall call for the same; provided that no such call shall be made before the first day of February, one thousand eight hundred and thirty one; nor shall any call exceed five pounds per share in any one year; and three calendar months notice in writing of each call shall be given to each shareholder, in manner hereinafter provided for giving notice to each shareholder, previous to the day on which the same is required to be paid; and the board of directors for the time being is hereby empowered, when and as the board may deem it advisable to make such calls and orders upon the shareholders for the payment of the said forty pounds per share, but subject to the restrictions above mentioned.

7. That if at the time when any share shall hereafter be subscribed for more than one instalment shall have been payable on the shares then already taken, all such instalments shall also be paid into the bank of the company, in respect of such shares so to be subscribed for, at the time of such future subscription.

8. That in case any of the shareholders for the time being of the Company, or their respective heirs, executors, or administrators shall refuse, neglect, or decline to pay the second instalment herebefore mentioned, or any future calls or instalments herebefore authorised to be made by the Board of Directors for the time being, for the space of thirty days after the days herebefore appointed or hereinafter to be appointed by the said board for payment thereof; then and in every such case the share or shares, estate and interest, of and in the company of the respective shareholders or their respective executors or admininistrators so refusing, neglecting, or declining as aforesaid, and all benefit and advantage therefrom shall, so far as respects the shares in respect of which such default shall have been made, and all previous payments made in respect thereof, thenceforth (unless a board of directors shall within two calendar months decide otherwise) become forfeited to the said company, nevertheless without prejudice to the right of the board of directors to enforce payment of such call or calls, and to recover damages for the non payment thereof.

Power to Directors } And each share which shall be so forfeit-to extinguish all for- } ed by default shall, at the discretion of the feited shares. } Board of Directors be extinguished for the benefit of the other shareholders, or be sold and issued to some other person or persons desirous of holding shares, in the place or stead of the person or persons making such default; and the purchaser of each such share shall for all the purposes of these presents and for the covenants, regulations, and agreements, to be entered into in conformity with these presents, in respect of each such share respectively, be considered as the proprietor or holder of that share, and as if in respect of such share he were the assignee of the person making such default, and henceforth such substitute or succeeding proprietor or shareholder his or her heirs, executors, or administrators shall be liable to all the acts to be done and the covenants and agreements to be observed and performed in respect of such share, and shall execute a deed to the trustee or trustees for the time being of the said company, containing covenants binding himself and herself and his and her heirs executors and administrators to observe and perform the same covenants and agreements, and to make such payments.

Nature of busi- } 9. That the business of the company (alness to be transact } though the whole of the said capital be not ac-
ed. } tually subscribed) shall commence on the day of the date of these presents, and shall be transacted at Birmingham and such other places as may be determined upon pursuant to clause or article 40, and shall, so far as the same legally can, consist of issuing notes of hand or bank notes, lending money on cash or other accounts, real or personal security, bills of exchange, promissory notes, or letters of credit, discounting bills of exchange or promissory notes, borrowing or taking up money on receipts, bills, promissory notes, or other obligations, advancing money on the deposit of goods, wares, and merchandises, purchases, investments, dealings or sales in the government or public funds of Great Britain, navy or exchequer bills, India bonds, bank or East India stock, stock of the company or any chartered company or annuities, and all other business usual in establishments for carrying on banking, but for no other adventure, trade, merchandise or business whatsoever.

10. That the business, affairs, and concerns of the company shall Business to be } from time to time and at all times hereafter, be under the con- } under the control of twelve, shareholders (to be ap-trol of twelve } pointed directors) who shall have the entire order-shareholders as } ing, managing and conducting, of the company, and a Board of Di- } of the capital stock, estate, revenue, effects, affairs, rectors. } and other the concerns thereof, and who shall also regulate and determine the mode and terms of carrying on and transacting the business of the company, conformably to the provisions contained in these presents, and no shareholder or shareholders not being a director or directors, shall on any account or pretence whatsoever, use the name, style, or firm of the company in drawing, indorsing, accepting, or otherwise negotiating, any bills, notes, or other securities, or otherwise howsoever, or in any way have access to or meddle or interfere with the books, bills, cash, securities, or other property of the company, or the managing, ordering, or conducting the business, affairs, or concerns thereof, but shall and do hereby fully and entirely commit, entrust, and leave the same to be wholly ordered, managed and conducted, by the directors for the time being, and whom they shall appoint, save as herein after mentioned.

Present Directors. } 11. That the said JAMES BELES, WIL-LIAM CHANCE, EDWARD EAGLE, DA-NIEL LEDSAM, JOHN MABSOM, CHARLES SHAW, JOHN TURNER, and JOSEPH WALKER, are hereby declared and appointed to be the present and first Directors of the Company, and they shall have power at any board to be held as hereinafter is mentioned, to nominate and appoint two other directors of the company, which two directors to be nominated by them as aforesaid, and two other directors to be nominated and appointed at the first, or some subsequent general meeting of the shareholders shall, together with the said eight directors first named be the directors of the said company, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained; provided always that until such additional directors shall be appointed, in manner aforesaid, the said eight first named directors shall have power to act in all things in the same way and manner as the twelve directors are hereby authorised and empowered to act.

12. That the Directors, for the time being, of the Company shall meet at the Company's Banking House in Birmingham, weekly, on Monday, in each week, at one o'clock, in the afternoon, or as soon after as may be, which shall be the ordinary Board days, and on such other days and at such shorter intervals, and at such other hours in the day as they may think necessary: that the manager of the Company or any one Director, shall have power to call an extraordinary board of Directors, by sending or directing to each of the directors a letter by Post, or otherwise, at least one clear day previously, specifying the place, day and hour, fixed for the meeting and the special purpose thereof. That four of the Directors, at least, must be present to constitute a Board. } Directors, at least, must be present to constitute a board for transacting business; and all orders, acts, deeds, matters, and things, made, done, executed, or ordered by, or at any such meeting of four or more Directors, shall be equally binding, valid and effectual, as if all of the twelve Directors had been present; and assented thereto or joined therein (save and except as is otherwise required by Article 18.

13. That at the first Board of Directors to be holden in each year, after the annual general meeting of the Shareholders of the Company, and before any business is commenced, the said Board shall choose one of the then Directors to be their Chairman, and another vote. } sence, the Deputy Chairman, in addition to his privilege of voting as any other Director, shall have a casting vote whenever upon any question the votes (including his single vote as such Director) shall be equal; and in case of the absence of both Chairman and Deputy Chairman, or their coming within any of the disqualifications mentioned in these presents, another Director shall, in like manner, be appointed Chairman; who shall have the same privilege of giving a casting vote, as such absent or disqualified chairman, or Deputy Chairman, would have had.

Book of the pro- } 14. That minutes of all the proceedings of ceedings of the Board } each Board of Directors, and of the names of of Directors to be } every Director present, shall be made and Directors to pur- } of Directors for the time being of the Com-chase, erect, or take } pany to purchase, or erect, or rent, or take suitable offices. } upon lease, or otherwise, such house, houses or premises as the said board shall from time to time think requisite or necessary for carrying on and managing the business, affairs, and concerns of the Company, upon such terms and stipulations, and in such manner as they may deem advisable; and to fit up adapt and furnish the same for the use and purposes of the Company, and at the expense thereof; and from time to time and at all times afterwards, to make sale, exchange, let, demise, or otherwise dispose of such house, houses or premises, for the benefit of the Company, either together or in parcels, and by auction, or private contract and upon such conditions and for such prices, as the said Board shall think most advisable, and to purchase, or errect, or to take such other house, houses or premises, in the place and servants, as the said board may consider necessary for carrying on and managing the business affairs and concerns of the Company, and in like manner from time to time to remove and displace all or any of the said banker or bankers, broker or brokers, manager, teller, accountant, agents, officers, clerks, and servants, and at any time or times to reinstate them or any of them, or nominate other persons to the same offices and stations respectively, as occasion shall require; and shall also, on behalf and out of the funds of the Company, allow and pay to every such person such reasonable salaries, charges, commissions, or remunerations, as the Board shall, from time to time, deem proper or necessary; provided that the said Board shall take such amount and species of secu-

20. That the Directors for the time being shall cause to be provided and kept at the Banking House of the Company, all necessary and proper books of account, wherein shall be entered, in a fair regular, and plain method, an account of all receipts, payments, transactions, and dealings that shall, from time to time be made by, or on behalf of the Company, and of all profits, gains, or losses, arising therefrom, and also an account of all dealings and investments that shall be made with, or of the stock and capital of the Company, or of any part thereof, and how the same shall have been applied and paid from time to time; and shall twice in every year, during the continuance of the Company, that is to say, upon or as of the thirtieth day of June, and the thirty-first day of December in every year, in such manner as to the directors shall seem correct and equitable, take and make up a fair, accurate, and just statement and account of the stock and capital of the Company upon each of those days, and of the profits and gains which shall have been made therein, and the losses which may have been incurred during the preceding half year; and in each such stock taking reference shall be had to the then value of the funded and all other property of the Company which shall be estimated, not at the cost, but at the then selling price thereof, so that the real estate of the affairs of the Company may in such statement plainly appear, which half yearly statement shall be entered in the books of the Company, and be examined, audited, and signed, by three or more of the directors; and a summary or balance sheet thereof shall be made for the inspection of the subscribers, at any general meeting, that the period from the opening of the Bank to the thirty-first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine, shall be included in and considered as part of the half year ending the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

Proper books to be kept and balanced twice a year.

21. That a meeting of the shareholders of the Company shall be convened and held on the second Wednesday in the month of February, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and on the same day of every succeeding year, at twelve o'clock, at noon, at some convenient place in the town of Birmingham; of which, the manager for the time being of the Company shall give in the manner hereby required for giving notices, fourteen days previous notice signed by him, specifying the general or particular object of each such meeting; and each meeting so to be convened and held, shall be called, "THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING;" and the shareholders respectively qualified to act and vote therein according to the provisions herein contained, and who personally or by proxy, as hereinafter authorised, shall attend the same, shall have full power and authority to decide upon all such matters and questions as by virtue of these presents shall be brought before such annual general meeting.

Annual general meeting of shareholders to be held on the second Wednesday in February in every year.

22. That at every annual general meeting the directors shall exhibit a summary of the two preceding half yearly balance sheets, and such further statement of the affairs of the Company, in accordance with the stock taking of the then preceding thirtieth day of June, and thirty-first day of December, as to the Directors to exhibit statements of the affairs. } directors may seem expedient for the interests of the Company to be made public and the annual dividend of the profits shall be then and there declared.

23. That in every year such proportion of the net profits which shall appear to have been made by the Company during that year, not exceeding one-fourth part thereof, as the Board of Directors for the time being may think requisite shall be retained and form part of a fund, to be called "THE GUARANTEE FUND," and the residue of such net profits, or so much thereof as the annual general meeting shall from time to time determine, shall be divided amongst the shareholders, in proportion to their several shares; provided nevertheless that no part of such net profit shall be so set apart in any year in which a dividend of five pounds per cent on the paid up capital shall not have been declared.

Profits to be divided amongst shareholders subject to guarantee fund.

24. That the said guarantee fund shall accumulate by way of compound interest, at the rate of three pounds per centum per annum; and is intended to meet and provide against any extraordinary demands upon the Company; and the same shall be applied by the Board of Directors for the time being for such purposes accordingly; and when and so often as such fund with the accumulations thereof shall amount to one half of the paid up capital, the excess beyond that sum shall, as any general, annual, or extraordinary meeting of the shareholders may decide, either be still suffered to accumulate or be divided among the then shareholders of the Company by way of bonus, or in addition to the annual dividends, at such times and manner as the shareholders at such meeting may agree upon, or be added to the capital, as fresh stock, for the benefit of the then shareholders, in proportion to their respective number of shares.

Guarantee fund to meet extraordinary demands by bad debts or otherwise when it exceeds one half of the paid up capital, excess may either be divided amongst the shareholders or suffered to accumulate or added to capital.

Notice of dividend or bonus to be given to shareholders.

25. That the Board of Directors for the time being shall at such time or times as may be thought fit, after a dividend shall have been declared at any annual general meeting, or a bonus decided upon, pay or cause to be paid, at the office of the Company, to each shareholder, or his or her executors or administrators, his or her proportion of such dividend and bonus and shall at least ten days before the day fixed for the payment of such dividend or bonus, either by circular letter through the post office, or advertisement in any one or more of the Birmingham newspapers, inform each of the shareholders, his or her executors or administrators, of his, her, or their share of the dividend or bonus declared or decided upon, and when the same respectively will be payable; but the party or parties entitled to receive any dividend or bonus, shall be at the entire expense of receiving the same; but no proprietor who, or whose executors or administrators or other representatives may happen to be in arrear in respect to any instalment or call, shall be entitled to receive any dividend or bonus until the arrear and interest thereon at the rate of five pounds per cent per annum, shall have been paid up.

Dividend and bonuses not paid in six months to go to account of unclaimed Dividend Fund.

26. That all dividends or bonuses which may not be paid for six calendar months, after the same respectively shall become payable shall be passed to an account to be called "THE UNCLAIMED DIVIDEND FUND," which fund shall from time to time, be laid out and invested by the Board of Directors in such manner as they shall think proper, and all dividends and bonuses passed to "THE UNCLAIMED DIVIDEND FUND" shall, when duly called for, be paid thereout, but without any interest for the same. And all the surplus of "THE UNCLAIMED DIVIDEND FUND" which shall remain after payment of, or allowing for, all the dividends or bonuses passed to the same as aforesaid, shall, from time to time, when and as the directors may think proper be transferred to the "Guarantee Fund" and applied accordingly.

27. That at the annual general meeting of shareholders to be holden on the second Wednesday in February, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one; and at each subsequent annual general meeting all the then directors shall retire from office, and shall be replaced by twelve other directors to be elected by a majority of votes, such majority to be ascertained in manner hereinafter mentioned; provided nevertheless, that on all occasions, any retiring director may be re-elected.

28. That for better regulating such respective elections, the Board of Directors, or the manager for the time being, shall, fourteen days at least, before each annual general meeting, cause to be made out and printed, a list containing the christian and surnames, and the residences so far as shall be known of the shareholders of the Company who shall then be qualified to be directors, and a printed copy of such list shall be sent by the manager for the time being, to each shareholder, in the manner hereby required for sending notices to shareholders; and each and every shareholder, or such of them as shall think fit so to do, shall sign such list, and affix to twelve of the names of the shareholders comprised therein, some mark, indicating his or her vote or votes, that the several persons so marked, may be appointed directors, and shall return such list so signed and marked as aforesaid, to the manager or directors of the Company at the Bank, at least seven days before such annual general meeting; which several lists shall be produced at such annual general meeting, and such twelve persons comprised in the said lists as shall have the greatest number of votes (calculated from the number of marks affixed to their respective names in the lists to be returned as aforesaid, and the number of votes which the several persons affixing such marks, shall, in pursuance of the provision hereinafter contained, be entitled, to give,) shall be the directors for the year ensuing; and in case of an equality of votes, the chairman of such annual general meeting, shall have the casting vote.

29. That at each annual general meeting, immediately after the choice of directors shall have been determined and declared, in pursuance of the last article or clause, the shareholders then present shall elect, and choose three of such Directors, not actively engaged in business, as "THE BILL COMMITTEE," for the year ensuing; which said committee shall be appointed, in order as much as may be, to prevent the exposure of such bills of exchange and promissory notes as may pass through the Bank, and all such bills and notes shall be accordingly submitted to such Bill Committee.

30. That no person can be elected a director who shall not be a holder of fifty shares at least, in his own right, in the capital of the Company, or who shall be a banker, or clerk, or accountant in, or agent to a banking-house, or a director in any other banking company; and if any of the present or future directors, shall cease to hold fifty shares, or become banker, or clerk, or accountant, or agent to any banking-house, or director in any other banking company, his office as director shall thereupon, and thenceforth become vacated; provided, that in case any such director shall have become disqualified, and such disqualification shall not be notorious, no act or resolution of any board of directors at which he may have attended, previously to such disqualification becoming notorious, shall be avoided, or vacated, in consequence of there not having been four directors present, independently of such disqualified director, unless any board of directors, or general, or special meeting of directors so determine.

31. That in case the conduct of any one director shall be such, that his continuance in office shall appear to the other directors prejudicial or injurious to the interests of the Company, it shall be lawful for all the other directors, at a Board to be convened for that purpose, if they be unanimous in that behalf, but not otherwise, to remove any such director from his office.

32. That any director, or other officer of the Company, may, at any time vacate his office, by sending his resignation in writing to any board of directors, for the time being of the Company.

33. That when, and so often, as any vacancy shall occur in Interim Directors } the office of director of the Company, either may be appointed by } by death, resignation, disqualification or removal, previously to the time at which such director or directors would otherwise have retired, as aforesaid; then the Board of Directors for the time being shall, and they are hereby authorised and directed to appoint a proper person, qualified as aforesaid, to fill the office of director in the stead of the director, respectively, so dying, resigning, becoming disqualified or being removed as aforesaid; and every such director so appointed, shall be as fully and effectually a director of the Company, as if he had been originally elected by the shareholders, and shall retire from the direction of the Company at the same time, and in like manner, as the director in whose place he shall be so appointed, would have retired, under the regulations herein contained.

34. That each of the present and future directors shall, previously to entering on the duties of his office, sign a declaration, in a book to be kept for that purpose, that he will not reveal, or make known, any of the matters, affairs, or concerns which may come to his knowledge, as a director of the Company, to any person or persons whomsoever, except when officially required by the Board of Directors for the time being, or by any general or extraordinary meeting of the Company, or by the Committee of Inspection appointed as hereinafter mentioned.

35. That every Board of Directors shall act in strict conformity to the rules and provisions hereby established, or to be established, modified, varied or altered by any annual or extraordinary meeting, or meetings of the shareholders of the company, but in all cases, when there shall be no such existing or subsisting rule or provision applicable, the Board of Directors shall act in such manner as may appear to them best calculated to promote the welfare of the company, and for the better guidance of the directors, in the management of, and superintendence over the affairs and concerns of the company it shall be lawful for every or any board of Directors to make whatever bye-laws, rules and regulations, they shall think fit, and from time to time to alter and rescind the same, or any of them, as to any such Board may seem meet; provided that such bye-laws be not inconsistent with, or repugnant to the fundamental principle or constitution of the company as agreed and settled by these presents, or as may be altered or established by any annual or extraordinary meeting or meetings of shareholders, under the power herein given for such purpose.

36. That the shareholders at any annual general meeting shall fix the remuneration (if any) to be paid to the Board of Directors, for the time being of the Company.

37. That the bills or notes of the company shall be signed, drawn accepted, or endorsed by the manager for the time being, or such other officer or officers of the company as the board of directors for the time being shall appoint, by a minute to be signed by the chairman, and to be entered in the book of proceedings of the said Board; and no bills or notes of the Company, signed, drawn, accepted or endorsed in any other manner than by the person or persons so authorised, shall be binding on the Company.

38. That it shall be the duty of the manager for the time being, to enter in a book, to be provided for that purpose, the name and place of residence of every shareholder for the time being of the Joint Stock of the Company, and the number of shares belonging to him, or her; and from time to time to correct or alter such entries as circumstances shall require; and for the purposes of enabling him so to do, every shareholder changing his or her name or place of abode, or whose name or place of abode, through his or her default, shall be incorrectly entered in the books of the Company, or who being a female, may have married, shall immediately give notice in writing at the office of the Company of such circumstance, and therein correct or explain the mistake or omission, or (being a female) notify such marriage, and give the name and place of abode of her husband.

39. That every, or any notice, to shareholders required to be given by these presents, and the mode of giving which, is not herein otherwise provided for shall be by letter, written or printed in the name of the manager for the time being, or other person acting in his office, and be put into the post office at Birmingham, directed to such shareholders according to the existing entry in the books of the Company, and shall, for all the intended purposes thereof, be deemed effectual no-

41. That the conduct and management of all actions and suits by or against the public officer or officers of the Company, shall be confided to the Board of Directors, and it shall be the first duty of the said board to apply, or cause to be applied, a competent part of the fund called "THE GUARANTEE FUND," or if deficient then other funds of the Company, in satisfying and discharging all money which either as damages or costs, such public officer or officers, or any shareholder or shareholders of the Company may become liable to pay, or pay for or on behalf of the Company, by reason of any such action or suit; and each Director for the time, shall, under and by virtue of these presents, be liable to be sued on his covenant, for his neglect or refusal to join in the necessary orders for the application of the said funds, so as to accomplish and give effect to this provision; but no public officer or shareholder who shall refuse or neglect to confide his defence to the management of the said board, shall be entitled to have or claim the benefit of such reimbursement or indemnity.

42. That when, and so often as any person or persons, whether shareholders in the Company or not, shall break, or refuse or neglect to perform or comply with any of the covenants, conditions, stipulations or agreements contained in these presents, or other supplemental or subsisting deed of settlement of the Company, and which, on his, her or their part, ought to be performed, or complied with, or to pay and discharge any sum of money, debt, claim or demand due or claimed, to be due to the Company, or otherwise, to satisfy any cause of action, which the Company may possess, it shall be lawful for the Board of Directors for the time being, to do et an action or suit, or other proceeding at law, or in equity, to be commenced in the name or names of the person or persons who, the said Board may be advised, ought to be plaintiff or plaintiffs against the person or persons, for the time being committing such breach, or refusing or neglecting, as aforesaid, or liable to pay such sum of money, debt, claim, or demand, or satisfy such cause of action, his, her or their heirs, executors, or administrators; and the person or persons in whose name or names any such action or suit shall be so commenced, shall not discontinue, release, or become plaintiff in such action or suit, without the consent of some Board of Directors for the time being, of the Company; and provided such person or persons obey the directions of the Directors in and about such actions, suits and proceedings, he and they shall be indemnified out of the funds or property of the Company, against all expenses, damages and losses which they, he or she may incur or sustain in consequence of such action or suit in like manner as herein provided, concerning the public officer or officers of the Company; and the sum or sums of money to be recovered and received in any such action or suit, shall form part of the funds of the Company.

43. That any Board of Directors for the time being, in its discretion may agree to refer and submit to arbitration, any matter in dispute, question or difference between the Company and any person or persons, and may compound any debt or debts owing to the Company, and accept a part thereof, or a security for the same in full, or give further time for the payment thereof; and may refrain from suing for any debt or debts, which, in the opinion of the said Board shall be bad or desperate; or not worth suing for; and also from time to time, by a minute in the book of proceedings of the Board, may authorise the public officer or officers of, or any other person or persons, on behalf of the Company to prove any debt or debts due to the Company from any Bankrupt or Insolvent, or to act in the matter of such bankruptcy or insolvency; and to receive any dividend thereon, or to sign the certificate or certificates of any person or persons indebted to the Company, who may become bankrupt, and the receipt of every or any such dividend by the person or persons so to be appointed shall be a complete and effectual discharge.

44. That as to such of the funds of the Company as shall not be employed, in the ordinary business thereof, the Board of Directors for the time being, may lay out, and invest the same, either in the names of the Trustees for the time being, or of such other persons as the said Board may appoint, in or upon the parliamentary stocks or funds of Great Britain; or in any Navy, or Exchequer Bills; or India Bonds or Bank, or East India Stock, or on freehold, leasehold or copyhold securities in Great Britain or Ireland, or in the purchase of stock in the Company, or in any chartered Company, or of annuities for one or more life or lives to be insured, either by the Grantors, or by the Company, or of any other description; and any Board of Directors, when they shall think proper, may cause any of the funds or property so to be laid out and invested, to be disposed of, called in or otherwise converted into money, and the money arising thereby to be again laid out and invested upon securities as aforesaid, and so from time to time as occasion may require.

45. That at every meeting of Shareholders of the Company, whether annual, or extraordinary, or by adjournment, the chair shall be filled by the chairman for the time being, of the Board of Directors, if present, or in his absence, by the Deputy Chairman of the Board of Directors; or in case of the absence of both of them, then by one or other of the Directors, or in case of the absence of all the directors, then by such other member of the Company, as the majority of the Shareholders then and there present, and qualified to vote, as hereinafter mentioned, shall elect to fill the chair; and the chairman who may preside at such meeting, shall regulate the proceedings thereof, and shall not only vote as any other Shareholder, but in case of an equality of votes, shall have the casting vote, and all the acts, orders, and proceedings of such respective meetings, shall be entered in a book to be kept by the Manager for the time being, of the Company, and shall be authenticated by the Chairman's signature, which shall be conclusive evidence of all such acts, orders and proceedings.

46. That at each meeting of shareholders of the Company, whether annual or extraordinary, or by adjournment, all questions, motions, rules, orders and regulations, which may be brought forward or proposed for the discussion, opinion or decision of the shareholders shall be determined and decided by the majority of votes of the shareholders then and there present; and so that each holder of less than ten shares, shall not have any vote; each holder of ten shares or upwards, but less than forty shares shall have one vote; and each holder of forty shares or upwards, but less than seventy shares shall have two votes; and each holder of seventy shares or upwards, but less than one hundred shall have three votes; and each holder of one hundred shares and upwards, shall have four votes and no more; provided, that if ten or more shareholders present at such respective meetings (and qualified to vote as herein mentioned) and the aggregate of whose shares shall not be less than five hundred, shall demand that the votes be ascertained, and taken by ballot, then the same shall be done accordingly, but unless ten or more such shareholders having such amount of shares do so require, no ballot shall take place; but in case a ballot shall be duly required each shareholder present, and duly qualified to vote at such meeting, shall deposit in a balloting box, to be provided by the manager, for the time being, of the company, a piece of paper, on which shall be written his or her own name, & the number of votes, which he or she shall claim to exercise, and also the assent or dissent of the said shareholders to the question, or matter, under consideration; and one of the Directors to be chosen by the Chairman, assisted by two persons to be chosen by the meeting as scrutineers, shall thereupon retire, and report to the meeting, or to any adjournment thereof, the result of such ballot, and the same shall be declared by the Chairman, and entered in the book of proceedings, as the decision of the meeting accordingly.

47. That every shareholder being a female, or residing generally ten miles, or upwards, from Birmingham, or being a clergyman, or a member of parliament, and who respectively shall be qualified and authorised to vote at any general, extraordinary or adjourned meeting, may appoint a person to vote for her, or him, at such respective meeting; but no vote, or proxy, shall, in any case be admitted, unless the person appointed as proxy shall be a qualified shareholder, and authorised to attend in his own right, and unless such proxy shall be nominated under the hand of the shareholder, availing herself or himself of that privilege; and no proxy shall be in force, or available at any other meeting except an adjournment.

ment thereof, than that for which it was expressly given, or intended to apply, and each proxy shall be in the form, or to the effect following, that is to say :

" I hereby appoint _____ my proxy to vote for me, and in my name, at a general or extraordinary or a journed meeting, as the case may be, of the shareholders of the Birmingham Banking Company, to be holden on the _____ day of _____ and at any adjournment or adjournments of such meeting, dated &c." And every shareholder who shall have appointed such proxy as aforesaid, and whose proxy shall attend, shall for all the purposes of the annual, extraordinary or adjourned meeting, for which such proxy shall have been appointed, be considered as present, and all the acts and votes of the proxy in that capacity shall be as valid and effectual as the acts and votes of the shareholder appointing him would have been, if such shareholder had been present, and had personally acted and voted at such respective meeting.

48. That no shareholder shall be allowed to vote personally or by proxy at any meeting of shareholders, or to claim any dividend or bonus or exercise any right by virtue of these presents, until such shareholder shall have paid the amount of every call, in respect of the share or shares in the capital of the Company, to which he or she may be entitled, and shall otherwise have conformed to the provisions and regulations of these presents, or the then subsisting or any supplemental deed of settlement.

49. That no business shall at any meeting of shareholders, whether annual, extraordinary or by adjournment, be gone into or discussed, nor shall any decision be made on any business which may have been then gone into or discussed, unless there shall be personally present at such respective meeting, at the commencement of the day's business, and also when any question shall be decided, at least twenty shareholders, duly qualified to vote as aforesaid, and the shareholders present shall be holders of at least fifteen hundred shares.

50. That if at any meeting of shareholders, whether annual, extraordinary or by adjournment, twenty such shareholders and holders of at least fifteen hundred shares, shall not be present within one hour after the time appointed for holding the same, respectively, then, and in every such case, such respective meeting shall be adjourned; and the chairman or deputy chairman, for the time being, of the Board of Directors, as the case may be, or any other director then present, or if no director be present, then the manager, for the time being, of the company, shall, and is hereby required to declare such meeting adjourned, and the same shall be thereupon adjourned to such future time and place, in the town of Birmingham as the majority of the shareholders then present, and qualified to vote, may determine; and notice of such adjournment shall be given, in like manner as was required for convening the meeting, whence such adjournment took place; and there shall be an interval between such first meeting and the subsequent one, sufficient to enable seven days notice to be given to the shareholders, by advertisement or circulars as before provided.

51. That the shareholders present at any such meeting, whether annual or extraordinary, being sufficient in number to transact business, may adjourn the same once or oftener, to such day and hour, days and hours, and such convenient place in the town of Birmingham, as they may deem advisable; and after a motion for adjournment has been carried, no business shall, on any pretence, be brought forward; and it shall not be necessary to give any notice by advertisement of any adjournment, except the same shall take place through the non-attendance of twenty shareholders, or shareholders not holding fifteen hundred shares, or such adjournment shall be for a longer period than seven days after, and inclusive of the day of holding the meeting, which shall so adjourn; and also inclusive of the day to which the meeting shall be adjourned; and no subject or business shall be proposed, debated or disposed of in any such adjourned meeting, other than so much of any subject or business, as shall remain undecided or undisposed of, at the meeting whence the adjournment took place; & the shareholders who shall be present at every or any adjourned meeting, although they might not have been present at the meeting whence the adjournment took place, and who respectively may be qualified to act and vote therein, according to the provisions aforesaid, may act and vote at such respective adjourned meeting.

52. That no subscriber to, or shareholder of the company, his or her executors, or administrators, legatees, assignees, or creditors, or any other person, or persons claiming, or to claim by, Shareholders not permitted to inspect books. } shall be entitled to inspect any of the books, accounts, documents, or writings of the company, except such as may be produced for that purpose, at any general, annual, extraordinary, or adjourned meeting of shareholders.

53. That all debts and engagements to the company, of any shareholder or shareholders, either for cash advances, or balances, or running bills, or notes, being direct bills, notes, or indorsements passed to the company by such shareholder or shareholders, his, her or their partner or partners, or otherwise, howsoever, shall be at all times, and in all cases set off against all shares and stock of such shareholder or shareholders; whether such debts and engagements be the debts and engagements of such shareholder or shareholders individually, or jointly, or in partnership with any other person or persons; and the board of directors, for the time being, may extinguish or dispose of such share or shares, either entirely or partially, as the case may seem to require, by way of, or towards satisfaction, or payment of all, or any part of such debts or engagements.

54. That no share in the stock of the company shall be transferable until all calls, or instalments in respect thereof, have been duly paid up; but from and after that time, if any shareholder, or his, or her legal representative or representatives, whether by marriage, or as executors, administrators, legatees, guardians, committees, assignees under bankruptcy or insolvency shall be desirous of selling or disposing of any share or shares in the company, he, she, or they shall state in writing to the board of directors, for the time being, the name or names of the person or persons who is or are willing to become the purchaser or purchasers thereof, and the real price which such proposed purchaser or purchasers have agreed to give for the same; and shall also leave at the banking house of the company, the written consent of such proposed purchaser or purchasers, to become a member or members of the company, subject to the rules and regulations thereof; and if the said board of directors shall approve of such proposed purchaser, they shall notify the same to the proposed vender, within fourteen days after receiving such notice; and such purchaser or purchasers may then take a transfer of the same share or shares, and shall have the like advantages in the same, and be subject to the like liabilities in respect thereof, as the previous owner or owners had therein, and was, or were subject in respect thereof, but no transfer shall be made without such approval of the board of directors, as aforesaid, or in any other form than is hereinafter provided.

55. That the husband of any female shareholder, or the representative or representatives of any shareholder, (whether executors, administrators, legatees, trustees, guardians, committees, assignees under bankruptcy, or insolvency, or otherwise,) on leaving three days previously for inspection at the banking house of the company, the certificate of the marriage, the probate of will, letters of administration or other documents, under which he, she, or they may claim to receive the dividend or dividends, bonus or bonuses, (if any) due on the share or shares of such shareholder at the time of marriage, or his, or her death, lunacy, bankruptcy, or insolvency, as the case may be, at or after the expiration of such three days, shall receive such dividend or dividends, bonus or bonuses; but the receipt thereof shall not constitute any person so receiving the same a partner in the company or authorise him or her to exercise any right or power in the affairs thereof; and no such person in any such capacity shall be entitled to receive any future dividends, bonuses or other profits accruing or becoming due, after the marriage, death, lunacy, bankruptcy, or insolvency of any such shareholder upon or in respect of his or her share; but the same dividends, bonuses or profits, shall not be receivable until the share or shares in respect of which such dividend or dividends, bonus or bonuses is or are payable, shall be transferred into the names of such husband, executors or administrators, legatees, trustees, guardians, committees or assignees, or his, her or their nominee or nominees (as the case may be) and after such transfer the same dividend or dividends, or bonus or bonuses shall be paid to the transferee or transferees of such share or shares.

Appendix to report on Currency.

56. That the husband of any female shareholder or any such executors, administrators, legatees, trustees, guardians, committees or assignees, who shall be desirous of retaining the share or shares of his wife, or of the person or persons whom he, she or they represent, and of having the same transferred into his, her or their name or names, shall give notice in writing of such desire to the Board of Directors, for the time being (in manner as mentioned in article 54. with regard to the sale of shares) and he, she or they may on the approval of the board of directors, be admitted and become a shareholder or shareholders in the company, in respect of such share or shares and have the same transferred into his, her or their name or names accordingly.

57. That the Board of Directors, for the time being, shall be at liberty to decide upon the form and manner of the transfer, to be made and executed upon the sale or transfer of the shares in the company and shall from time to time, and at all times hereafter make such further rules, orders and regulations respecting such transfers, and by whom the same shall be prepared, as shall appear to them necessary and advisable, for the security of the company, and the due assignment of the said shares, but so that all transfers, sales or assignments of any share or shares in the company, which shall not be made conformably to the provision of these presents, and any supplemental or subsisting deed of settlement of the company, and according to the regulations of the directors, shall be null and void.

58. That every person who is a subscriber to the company, or shall acquire any share or shares therein, shall although he or she shall not have executed these presents, as to all duties, obligations, claims and demands, in respect of his or her share or shares be considered as a shareholder of the company, from the time of his or her subscription, for or otherwise acquiring his or her share or shares, but as to all profits, rights privileges, benefits and advantages to arise from the said share or shares, shall not be considered a shareholder of the company until he or she shall have executed these presents, either in person or by Attorney, at the Banking House of the Company in Birmingham, or at such other place as the board of directors for the time being shall require, and in case any of the present or future subscribers or any other person or persons hereafter claiming to be entitled to a share or shares in the company either as purchasers, executors, administrators, legatees, trustees, guardians, committees, assignees, or otherwise, shall, for three calendar months after notice in writing from the manager of the company, neglect or refuse to execute personally, or by Attorney, as the board of directors may require these presents or some deed of covenant to be prepared at the expense of, or paid for by such person or persons, and to be approved of by the said board whereby he, she or they shall covenant to abide by the regulations of the company, than the share or shares of the party or parties so neglecting or refusing to execute, or to pay the expense of any such deed of covenant, and also all deposits paid in respect of such share or shares, and all benefit and advantage whatsoever shall from, and as from the expiration of the above period become forfeited in such manner as directed by article 8, subject to such discretionary power as therein mentioned.

59. That from and immediately after the completion of any sale and transfer in the manner aforesaid, the person or persons, to whom such sale and transfer may be made, shall have, and be subject to all the same privileges and liabilities as the person or persons, by, or from whom such sale and transfer was or were made, and every person or persons, whose share or shares shall, by the board of directors for the time being, have been sold by virtue of any of the powers hereinbefore contained, shall in respect of such share or shares cease to be shareholder or shareholders in the company; and shall for ever thenceforth be acquitted and discharged from all further obligations, in respect of such share or shares, and from all the covenants, agreements, regulations and stipulations to which by this or any supplemental or other subsisting deed of settlement of the company, he, she or they would have been liable in respect of the same share or shares, if the same had not been sold as aforesaid, provided nevertheless that nothing in this article contained shall extend, or be meant or construed to extend to release such shareholder or shareholders, from his, her or their proportion of the losses (if any) sustained by the company, up to the period of his, her or their ceasing to be such shareholder or shareholders as aforesaid.

60. That it shall be lawful for any board of directors, for the time being, to purchase any share or shares, by, or out of the funds of the company, for the benefit thereof, and afterwards to sell and dispose of such share or shares, rather than to retain the same, and Power to board to persons capable of promoting the interests of sell purchased shares. the company at such times, and from time to time, and either by auction or private contract, or in such other manner as such board shall think most beneficial for the general benefit of the company, and the person or persons who shall purchase any such share or shares from the directors, shall, on completion of such purchase, become a shareholder or shareholders in the company, and be entitled to a proper transfer or certificate thereof, but it shall not be necessary for the previous owner or owners of any such share or shares to join in any transfer or assignment thereof.

61. That any annual general meeting of the shareholders, if dissatisfied with the statement of the affairs of the company submitted to them, at which five pounds per centum on the paid up capital shall not have been declared, may appoint three shareholders (each qualified to be a director) as a committee of inspection to investigate into all, or any of the affairs and concerns of the company; and such committee shall have full power and authority to call for the production of all books, vouchers, and documents, and also require the aid, and personal and other explanation from the manager, accountant, clerks, or other officers of the company, who shall accordingly give and render, or cause to be given and rendered such aid and explanation, and the annual general meeting, at which such committee of inspection, shall have been appointed, may be adjourned to some future day, to hear the report of the said inspectors thereon, but such inspectors shall, previous to entering upon such investigation sign a similar declaration of secrecy as is hereinbefore required to be signed by the board of directors, for the time being, of the company.

62. That the majority of shareholders qualified and voting according to the right of voting hereinbefore mentioned, and personally present at two successive extraordinary meetings, or at one annual general meeting, and one extraordinary meeting, to be convened in such manner, and with such notice as hereinafter mentioned may, from time to time, increase the capital of the Company, or lessen or increase the number of directors, from the present number of directors, to any other number, or may remove any director from his office, or apply for a Charter or Act of Parliament, as hereinafter mentioned, or may make any new order, rule, law, regulation or provision for better managing and governing the Company or the business, affairs or concerns thereof, or may amend, alter, repeal or make void any of the existing laws, regulations and provisions thereof, or any of the articles contained in these presents or to be contained in any future deed or deeds, relating to the Company; provided that no order, rule, law, regulation, provision, matter or thing, be entered into or done at any such meeting, so as to release or exonerate any of the shareholders for the time being of the Company from their respective liabilities, to pay and make good the sum of fifty pounds in the whole, in respect of each share therein, as aforesaid, or to alter the provisions contained in Article 5, and 72.

63. That for effectuating all, any, or either of the purposes mentioned in the last preceding article, the Board of Directors for the time being may from time to time call an extraordinary meeting of shareholders, at some convenient place in the town of Birmingham, of which the manager, for the time being of the Company, shall give seven days previous notice, signed by him, stating the day, hour and place such meetings is appointed to be holden, and the object thereof; and such notice shall be sent to shareholders, in the manner required by Article or Clause 39, seven days before the time fixed for holding the meeting; and the board of directors may also in like manner, call a second extraordinary meeting, for the purpose of confirming any new order, rule, law, regulation, provision, matter or thing, passed or agreed to, at such first meeting.

64. That twenty or more shareholders of the Company, qualified to vote, as aforesaid, the aggregate amount of whose shares shall not be less than fifteen hundred, may, at any time or times, by writing under their hands, require the Board of Directors for the time being, to call an extraordinary meeting of the shareholders, for any of the purposes mentioned in Clause or Article 62; and every such requisition shall set forth the object of such extraordinary meeting, and shall be left with the manager, for the time being, at the office of the Company, at least one calendar month before the time named in the requisition, for the meeting to be holden; otherwise the said board shall not be bound to take notice thereof; but in case the directors neglect or refuse, for fourteen days after such requisition shall be so left as aforesaid, to call such extraordinary meeting, then the shareholders signing the requisition may, for the purposes mentioned in such neglected or refused requisition, call an extraordinary meeting of the shareholders, by notice signed by them, and advertised in one of the Birmingham newspapers, at the least, fourteen days before the time fixed for holding the meeting; and in every such advertisement, the object of such extraordinary meeting, and the day and hour and place in the town of Birmingham, of holding the same, and the delivery of the requisition to the said board, and its refusal to call such extraordinary meeting shall be specified; provided that no new order, rule, law, regulation, provision, matter or thing to be passed or agreed to by the first of the said meetings (whether annual or extraordinary) shall be binding or conclusive, until confirmed by a second meeting, nor shall any such question be in the first instance proposed by the said board, at any annual meeting without giving seven clear days notice thereof, in manner as prescribed by article 65, nor be proposed by the shareholders, without giving a like notice, and also leaving with the manager at the office of the Company, a copy of such notice, at least one calendar month previous to the time for holding such annual meeting.

Receipt of trustees for shares to be sufficient discharges. } 65. That in all cases where any share or shares in the capital of the Company shall be bequeathed to, or otherwise become vested in any person or persons for, or subject to, any equitable claim of any other person or persons, the receipt of the person or persons in whom any such share or shares shall be vested at law, or his, her or their executors, or administrators shall, notwithstanding any claim or demand whatsoever of any person or persons equitably entitled to, or having any equitable claim on the said share, or shares be a good and sufficient discharge for the money, which may become payable from the Company, for, or in respect of such share or shares, and shall discharge the Company from the obligation of seeing to its application or being answerable for its misapplication.

66. That the securities or other investments hereinbefore authorised to be taken and made in the names of the trustees of the Company, and all monies to be secured or become due thereon, shall from time to time, be under the control and subject to the disposition of the Board of Directors, for the time being; and the order in writing of the said board, and countersigned by the manager for the time being, shall be obligatory on, and a justification to the said trustees, as to any purchase, sale, investment, payment or disposition of the securities or money of the Company, and the said trustees shall, from time to time, execute and deliver to the said Board of Directors, at the expense of the Company, such declarations or acknowledgments of trust of the estates, securities, monies and effects, purchased, taken, holden, or possessed by the same trustees, on behalf of the Company, as the Board for the time being shall devise or require.

68. That within two months next after the trustees of the Company, or any or either of them, refuse, die, go to reside beyond the sea, or become incapable to act or shall resign, the board of directors, for the time being, shall name and appoint another trustee or other trustees in the stead of the trustee, or trustees so refusing, dying, going to reside beyond the seas, becoming incapable to act, or resigning; and such new trustee or trustees shall execute a covenant in such form as shall be devised by the said board, that he will hold the estates and funds of the Company upon the trusts, and for the purposes of these presents, or of the subsisting deed, or deeds of settlement of the Company; and immediately after such appointment, or the execution of such covenant, the trust, estates, monies, securities, and effects of, and belonging to the Company, which shall be, or have been vested in the trustee or trustees, so refusing, dying, going to reside beyond seas, becoming incapable to act, or resigning shall be assigned, assured, paid and transferred, so, and in such manner, that the same may vest in such new trustee or trustees jointly, with the surviving or continuing trustee or trustees, or solely, as the case may require, upon the trusts of these presents, or upon the trusts of the subsisting deed or deeds of settlement of the Company.

Mode of appointing new trustees. } point another trustee or other trustees in the stead of the trustee, or trustees so refusing, dying, going to reside beyond the seas, becoming incapable to act, or resigning; and such new trustee or trustees shall execute a covenant in such form as shall be devised by the said board, that he will hold the estates and funds of the Company upon the trusts, and for the purposes of these presents, or of the subsisting deed, or deeds of settlement of the Company; and immediately after such appointment, or the execution of such covenant, the trust, estates, monies, securities, and effects of, and belonging to the Company, which shall be, or have been vested in the trustee or trustees, so refusing, dying, going to reside beyond seas, becoming incapable to act, or resigning shall be assigned, assured, paid and transferred, so, and in such manner, that the same may vest in such new trustee or trustees jointly, with the surviving or continuing trustee or trustees, or solely, as the case may require, upon the trusts of these presents, or upon the trusts of the subsisting deed or deeds of settlement of the Company.

69. That the directors, managers, trustees, public and other officers, for the time being, of the Company, shall be indemnified and saved harmless, out of the funds or property of the Company, from and against all costs, charges, losses, damages and expenses which they, respectively shall, or may pay, sustain, or incur in, or about the execution of their respective trusts or offices; or in, or about any action, suit or proceeding, either at law or in equity, relating to the acts or property of the Company which the Board of Directors for the time being may deem proper to use, take, prosecute or defend; except such costs, damages or expenses as shall happen by or through the wilful neglect or default of any such directors, managers, trustees, and other officers respectively, and none of them shall be answerable for any act or default of any others or other of them, or for joining in receipts for the sake of conformity, or for any bankers, brokers, or other persons, with whom any monies or effects, belonging to the Company shall be lodged, or deposited for safe custody or otherwise; or for the insufficiency or deficiency of any security, upon which any monies of, or belonging to the Company, shall be placed out, or invested, or for any loss, misfortunes or damage which may happen in the execution of their respective trusts or offices, or in relation thereto respectively, except the same shall happen by or through their own wilful default respectively.

Indemnity to Directors &c. when acting legally. } fined and saved harmless, out of the funds or property of the Company, from and against all costs, charges, losses, damages and expenses which they, respectively shall, or may pay, sustain, or incur in, or about the execution of their respective trusts or offices; or in, or about any action, suit or proceeding, either at law or in equity, relating to the acts or property of the Company which the Board of Directors for the time being may deem proper to use, take, prosecute or defend; except such costs, damages or expenses as shall happen by or through the wilful neglect or default of any such directors, managers, trustees, and other officers respectively, and none of them shall be answerable for any act or default of any others or other of them, or for joining in receipts for the sake of conformity, or for any bankers, brokers, or other persons, with whom any monies or effects, belonging to the Company shall be lodged, or deposited for safe custody or otherwise; or for the insufficiency or deficiency of any security, upon which any monies of, or belonging to the Company, shall be placed out, or invested, or for any loss, misfortunes or damage which may happen in the execution of their respective trusts or offices, or in relation thereto respectively, except the same shall happen by or through their own wilful default respectively.

70. That if at any time during the continuance of the Company, or at, or after the dissolution, or determination or expiration thereof, any question, doubt, cause of action or suit, dispute or difference shall happen, or arise between all or any of the parties to these presents, or the parties to any such supplemental deed as aforesaid, or between all, or any of the shareholders, for the time being, or then late shareholders of the Company, or their heirs, executors, administrators or assigns respectively, touching or concerning any matter, cause or thing relating to, or respecting the Company, or in which the Company may be in any manner interested; or touching or concerning the breach or construction of any covenant, clause, matter or thing herein, or in any such supplemental deed as aforesaid contained; or between all, or any of the directors of the Company as such directors; or all, or any of the shareholders as shareholders, or between any shareholder or shareholders, director or directors as shareholders or directors and any individual or individuals; by reason of any acts done or omitted, permitted or suffered by him or them respectively; then and in every such case, and as often as the same shall happen, every such question, doubt, cause of action, or suit, dispute or difference, shall, at the request of any or either of the said parties thereto, or the heirs, executors or administrators of any or either of them, be reduced into writing and referred to three indifferent persons; one of them to be chosen by the person or persons taking one side of the matter in difference and another of them by the person or persons taking the other side of the matter in difference, within twenty-one days after such request; and a third to be chosen by the said two first chosen arbitrators, within fourteen days after they shall be chosen; and in case the person or persons taking either side of the matter, in difference shall neglect or refuse to choose an arbitrator on his or their part, within the time aforesaid; then the arbitrator to be so chosen on the part of the person or persons taking the other side of the matter in difference, shall choose another person to be joined with him in such arbitration, and such two persons shall nominate a third person to be joined with them in such reference; and the award or determination of the said three persons so to be chosen, as aforesaid; or of any two of them, concerning the matter or matters, so referred to them, shall be binding and conclusive, on the parties and their respective heirs, executors and administrators and shall be performed and kept by them accordingly, without any further suit or trouble; so as such award or determination be made in writing, under the hands of such three persons acting as arbitrators, or two of them, within three calendar months next after said three persons shall be elected as aforesaid; and for further and better enforcing the performance of every such award, the same award, and the submission hereby made, and the submission which may be made or entered into (if any) by any other instrument, shall, from time to time, be made a rule of the Court of King's Bench, or of the High Court of Chancery, according to the Statute in that case made and provided.

Disputes between shareholders to be referred to arbitration. } thereof, any question, doubt, cause of action or suit, dispute or difference shall happen, or arise between all or any of the parties to these presents, or the parties to any such supplemental deed as aforesaid, or between all, or any of the shareholders, for the time being, or then late shareholders of the Company, or their heirs, executors, administrators or assigns respectively, touching or concerning any matter, cause or thing relating to, or respecting the Company, or in which the Company may be in any manner interested; or touching or concerning the breach or construction of any covenant, clause, matter or thing herein, or in any such supplemental deed as aforesaid contained; or between all, or any of the directors of the Company as such directors; or all, or any of the shareholders as shareholders, or between any shareholder or shareholders, director or directors as shareholders or directors and any individual or individuals; by reason of any acts done or omitted, permitted or suffered by him or them respectively; then and in every such case, and as often as the same shall happen, every such question, doubt, cause of action, or suit, dispute or difference, shall, at the request of any or either of the said parties thereto, or the heirs, executors or administrators of any or either of them, be reduced into writing and referred to three indifferent persons; one of them to be chosen by the person or persons taking one side of the matter in difference and another of them by the person or persons taking the other side of the matter in difference, within twenty-one days after such request; and a third to be chosen by the said two first chosen arbitrators, within fourteen days after they shall be chosen; and in case the person or persons taking either side of the matter, in difference shall neglect or refuse to choose an arbitrator on his or their part, within the time aforesaid; then the arbitrator to be so chosen on the part of the person or persons taking the other side of the matter in difference, shall choose another person to be joined with him in such arbitration, and such two persons shall nominate a third person to be joined with them in such reference; and the award or determination of the said three persons so to be chosen, as aforesaid; or of any two of them, concerning the matter or matters, so referred to them, shall be binding and conclusive, on the parties and their respective heirs, executors and administrators and shall be performed and kept by them accordingly, without any further suit or trouble; so as such award or determination be made in writing, under the hands of such three persons acting as arbitrators, or two of them, within three calendar months next after said three persons shall be elected as aforesaid; and for further and better enforcing the performance of every such award, the same award, and the submission hereby made, and the submission which may be made or entered into (if any) by any other instrument, shall, from time to time, be made a rule of the Court of King's Bench, or of the High Court of Chancery, according to the Statute in that case made and provided.

71. That if ever the losses of the Company shall have absorbed not only the whole of the fund called "THE GUARANTEE FUND," but also one-fourth part of the then paid up capital of the Company, the Board of Directors for the time being shall within twenty days, or so soon after such losses being incurred, as the said Board possibly can, and they are

Company to be dissolved whenever one-fourth of the paid up capital be lost. } the Company, the Board of Directors for the time being shall within twenty days, or so soon after such losses being incurred, as the said Board possibly can, and they are hereby required to call an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders in manner as hereinbefore mentioned, and lay a statement of the affairs of the Company before such meeting; when it shall be lawful for any one, or more of the shareholders personally or by such proxy as hereinbefore mentioned at such meeting to require the dissolution of the Company; and the same shall be accordingly dissolved, and the affairs thereof wound up, in manner hereinafter mentioned, unless two-thirds of the shareholders qualified to vote as aforesaid, then and there present, either in person or by proxy, so far as voting by proxy is hereinbefore permitted, shall be desirous of continuing and carrying on the Company, which they shall be at liberty to do, upon purchasing the share or shares of the party or parties so desirous of withdrawing from the Company, at the then estimated bona fide value thereof (such value being determined by arbitration as aforesaid if any difference exist respecting the same) and also upon indemnifying such retiring shareholders from the debts and engagements of the Company and releasing them from the covenants, clauses and agreements contained in these presents, or in any subsisting deed or deeds of settlement of the Company; provided that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend, to release such retiring shareholder or shareholders from bearing and paying his, her and their respective proportion of the losses of the Company, up to the day of such extraordinary general meeting.

72. That if such loss shall not be incurred, an absolute and entire dissolution of the Company and determination of this partnership may lawfully take place, on the terms hereinafter expressed, and on no other terms (that is to say) by, and with the consent, and approbation of three or more of the directors, for the time being, to be testified by some writing signed by them, and by, and with the consent and approbation of two-third parts at least in number and in value, of the votes of the shareholders present, in person, or by proxy, so far as voting by proxy is hereinbefore allowed, and voting at each of two successive meetings of the proprietors; and each meeting to be for that purpose exclusively, respectively convened by a Board of Directors, by one calendar month's notice at least, to be signified by the manager for the time being, by advertisement in one or more of the Birmingham newspapers; and that proper measures for effectuating such dissolution shall be taken by a committee to be composed of three of the directors, for the time being of the Company, and by an equal number of persons to be chosen by the majority of votes of the shareholders present, in person or by proxy, and voting at the last of such meetings; and that after such resolution, the affairs and concerns of the Company shall, with all convenient speed, be wound up, and the debts, and liabilities of and claims on the Company, shall be satisfied, discharged or otherwise sufficiently provided for, and all the effects, securities or assets, guaranties and other funds, and interest, and benefit of existing engagement shall be converted into money; and for that purpose all outstanding debts owing to, and the benefit of engagements belonging to the Company, may be sold for money and the balance (if any) of the assets and property of the Company shall be divided among the persons who shall be the respective shareholders at the period of dissolution, and their respective executors and administrators, ratably, and in proportion to the amount of their respective shares at that time; and any of the shareholders (not being a director or manager) may become purchasers of any of the assets of the Company, which shall be sold; and the majority of voters, (according to the rules of voting hereinbefore contained) present in person, or by proxy, and voting at any special meeting to be convened for the purpose, may declare the accounts of the Company finally closed, and the assets of the Company fully administered, or with such exceptions, as they may think fit to declare; and the directors, trustees, and all other parties to be released and discharged, with or without such exceptions, from all suits, claims and demands, under and by virtue, or in consequence of these presents, and they shall be released and discharged according to such resolution, and in the forms, and under the modification thereof.

73. That the Board of Directors for the time being, shall cause these presents, or any future deed or deeds, as aforesaid, relating to the Company, to be enrolled in the High Court of Chancery, in England, for the benefit and security of all the parties to the same; and such deed or deeds shall afterwards be deposited in such place as the Board of Directors shall think fit, and shall, at any time, or times on the request and at the charges of any person or persons requesting the same, be produced on any trial or trials, hearing or hearings at law or in equity, or on any other reasonable occasion, due notice in writing being first given to the manager for the time being, of the time and place when and where the production thereof, will be required.

74. That the Board of Directors for the time being, if required by two successive meetings as hereinbefore mentioned, may apply for and solicit out of the funds of the Company, a Charter for the purpose of incorporating the Company hereby established, or the shareholders thereof for the time being, and also may apply for and solicit an Act of Parliament for the purpose of giving full effect to, and carrying into execution the provisions, agreements and stipulations in these presents or in any supplemental deed contained and procuring such other privileges as may be requisite or necessary for the purpose, or as may be deemed advantageous for the interests of the said Company.

In witness whereof, the said respective parties to these presents, have hereunto set their several hands and seals, the day and year first above written.

Contract of Copartnery

OF THE

ABERDEEN

Town and County Bank,

1825.

Inductive clause. } The parties hereto subscribing, and named and designed in the testing clause hereof, considering that a new Banking Company in Aberdeen, with an extensive capital, conducted upon sound and liberal principles, and supported by the mercantile and monied interest of the Town and County of Aberdeen would be productive of advantage to the partners, and to the public at large, have resolved to form themselves into a Society or Company, for that purpose, and have agreed upon the following rules and regulations:—

Designation of the Company. } 1. That the Company hereby formed shall be known by the name and designation of "The Aberdeen Town and County Bank," and shall commence from and after the fifth day of April, 1825, which is hereby declared to be and have been the time of commencement of this copartnery, notwithstanding the dates hereof; and shall continue for the period of twenty one years, from the said fifth day of April, 1825—that is to the fifth day of April, 1846, or for such period as the Company shall determine, in manner after specified; and during the subsistence of the copartnery, the said parties faithfully promise and oblige themselves, and their respective heirs and successors, severally to promote and advance the interest and advantage of the Company to the utmost of their power.

Capital to be divided into shares } 2 That the Capital Stock of this Company shall be seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds sterling, divided into fifteen hundred shares of five hundred pounds sterling each; and how soon this present contract of copartnery is subscribed by partners holding one half of the said capital stock, the Company is hereby declared constituted. That the said Capital Stock, or such part thereof

And paid by instalment not being regularly paid. } of as may be required, shall be contributed and paid by the partners, at such times and by such instalments, as the court of Directors may appoint, and that in proportion to the shares respectively subscribed for by the partners, as the same are particularly specified in the testing clause hereof, and annexed to their respective subscriptions. And in case the first instalment shall not be regularly paid by any of the partners within twenty one days after it is called for by the committee of management, with interest thereof, it shall then be in the power of the committee of management either to do diligence hereon for the same, and for a fifth part more, of penalty, in name and manner hereinafter provided, to be added to the general account of profit and loss; or, in the option of the said committee of management, to declare the said persons failing to pay as aforesaid, to be no longer partners of the said Company, by letters addressed to them under the hand of the Cashier of the Company; and immediately thereafter, without further intimation, to dispose of the said shares as the said committee of management shall see proper, and in case

Provision in case of any of the after calls or instalments not being regularly paid. } any of the after or subsequent calls in further payment of this stock, or for making up any losses that may be sustained by the Company, shall not be regularly paid by any of the partners, at the term or date when the said call shall be made, in manner aforesaid, or at least within twenty one days thereafter, with interest thereon, it shall then be in the power of the committee of management, either to do diligence or prosecute for the same, and a fifth part more of penalty to be added to the general account of profit and loss, or in their option to sell and convey the shares of said partners failing to pay up, as aforesaid, and that by public sale, in manner as hereinafter provided; and on accounting for or paying over the net proceeds of such sale to such deficient partners, all further claim from them, or their representatives, on the stock and profits of the Company, in any manner of way, are hereby discharged or extinguished; such deficient members ceasing, from the moment of said sale, to be partners herein. And the committee of management shall be entitled, on such sale, to receive and discharge the prices, and to assign and convey the said shares to the purchasers.

Business of the Company to consist of Banking, &c. } 3. That the business of the Company shall consist of Banking, in all its branches; for issuing notes of hand, lending money, on cash accounts, real or personal security, bills of exchange, letters of credit, borrowing money on receipts, bills, promissory notes, or other form of obligation; investments in the government or public funds of Great Britain, Exchequer and Navy Bills, or other securities of the government of the country; purchases of Bank of England Stock, East India Company's Stock, Bank of Scotland Stock, Royal Bank of Scotland Stock, or the stock or shares of any other Company or Corporation, acting under royal charter or act of parliament in Great Britain; or in purchases of the stock of this or any other eligible Company; or if the court of Directors shall deem it expedient in the investment of any part of the actual unemployed capital in the purchase of land and houses, and in the purchase and sale of annuities; but for no other adventure, trade or merchandise, than that of Banking, or the purchases and investments before enumerated and described. And the Company shall begin to deal and do business as Bankers, in Aberdeen, on the fifth day of April, 1825, or as soon thereafter as found to be convenient.

Directors. } 4. That the whole business, affairs, and concerns of the Company are entrusted to and shall be managed by certain partners, as a committee of management, or Court of Directors, consisting of not more than twenty one persons, whereof one is to be Governor or President, and the others Directors. And at their first meeting the said Court of Directors shall name their Governor, and

Governor. } shall also make choice of seven of their number as a sub-committee of management, for directing the business of the Company. That a general meeting of the head court of the whole partners shall be called by advertisements and circulars, and held on the fifth day of March next, for the purpose of electing the Court of Directors for the first year, who shall enter upon their charge immediately thereafter, and continue in office until the fifth day of March, 1826. That, in naming their Governor and making choice of a sub-committee of management, as aforesaid, each member of the Court of Directors shall only have one vote, whatever number of shares in the Company he may hold. That a quorum of the Court of Directors shall not be less than nine, and of the sub-committee not less than three. And at all general meetings of the Company, and meetings of the Court of Directors, the person presiding, or in the chair at the time shall not only have his deliberative vote or votes as a partner of the Company, but, in case of equality a casting vote besides. And at all such general meetings of the Company, and meetings of the Court of Directors, the meeting, in the absence of the governor, shall choose their own chairman, and the sub-committee shall at all times, choose their own chairman.

5. That there shall be monthly meetings of the Court of Directors, viz. on the first Monday of every month. That the sub-committee and sub-committee to } shall meet weekly, on every Monday for the despatch of business, or oftener, if necessary. And it shall not be in the power of the Court of Directors, to attend the meetings of the sub-committee, or to interfere in the ordinary affairs of the company, unless at their stated monthly meetings, or unless their presence and assistance is called for, by requisition, from a majority of the sub-committee.

6. That the Directors shall be chosen in the manner after specified by a majority of votes of Partners present personally at the general meeting to be held on the fifth day of March, 1825, and at the annual stated general meeting to be held on the fifth day of March yearly thereafter, if a lawful day, and if not the first lawful day thereafter. That fourteen of the Directors shall hold at least ten shares each of the Company's stock, bona fide, and in their own private right; and the remaining seven Directors shall hold at least five shares each, bona fide, and in their own private right. And the members of the sub-committee shall all be resident in Aberdeen or within three miles thereof. Every person carrying on business as Bank Agent or Cashier in Aberdeen for a Banking Company, or Banker, is hereby disqualified from being a Director of this Company. And in case any member of the Court of Directors shall be in a state of bankruptcy, or notour insolvency, or shall cease to be qualified as a holder of stock, or otherwise, as before provided, or shall become Bank Agent in Aberdeen or Cashier for any Banker or Banking Company, he shall, ipso facto, be disqualified from being longer a member of the Court of Directors. And when any such disqualification takes place, or in the event of the death of any of the Directors, the remaining members of the Court of Directors shall fill up the vacancy by nominating another person, duly qualified, in his place; but such nominee shall remain in office only until the next annual election. But there is nothing herein meant to disqualify from holding the office or situation of a Director, any person, otherwise qualified, merely holding stock or shares in any other Banking Company.

Stated annual general meetings. } 7. That there shall be one stated general meeting of the Company in the year, viz. on the fifth day of March yearly, if a lawful day, and if not a lawful day, on the first lawful day thereafter, upon at least thirty days previous intimation, in the Aberdeen newspapers, or such other newspapers as shall be fixed on by the Directors at the time.

Votes how to be counted. } 8. That, in the choice of Directors, and in all matters submitted to the cognizance or consideration of a general meeting of the Company, the partners personally present at such meeting shall have right to vote according to the number of shares which they respectively hold in the Company's stock; each share being entitled to one vote; but no person shall be allowed, in any case, to vote by proxy. And no Partner shall be allowed to hold more than thirty shares of the stock of the Company.—And in every case where Companies are Partners, or hold part of the capital stock of the Company, only one of the Partners of such Company shall be entitled to vote and act, and his name shall be entered in the books of this Company accordingly. And no Factor, or Trustee on the bankrupt estate of a Partner or Trustee or Executor on the estate of any person deceased, shall be entitled to attend any meeting of the Company, or vote at the same. And the election of Directors shall be conducted after the following manner:—

Appendix to report on Currency.

Mode of Election of Directors. } The preses being chosen, the Partners shall deliver into him signed lists of the names of the persons for whom they vote as Directors, which shall be by him put into a glass, placed on the table, in presence of those assembled; and after the whole of such lists have been presented, the glass containing the same shall immediately thereafter be sealed up, and delivered to three of the Partners present to be named as scrutineers. That these three scrutineers shall, with all convenient speed, retire to a room adjacent to the place of meeting, open the glass, and carefully examine the signed lists therein deposited, and ascertain what persons have the greatest number of votes for the office of Directors; and shall, as soon as convenient, report to the preses of the meeting, under a sealed cover, a list subscribed by them, of the twenty-one Directors who have been elected by a majority of votes, as aforesaid; which list the preses is authorised to announce in the first Aberdeen newspaper. And immediately after the election, the signed lists in the glass shall be delivered by the scrutineers to the Governor, to be by him destroyed, or disposed of as the meeting may appoint. In case of any person or persons having an equality of votes as Directors, the election shall be determined by ballot, and the scrutineers shall, in such event, proceed accordingly.

Powers of Cashier. } 9. That the Cashier shall have such powers for conducting the business and affairs of the Company, in the absence of the sub-committee, as they shall think it proper and expedient to confer, by minutes in their sederunt book. But all matters, when brought before the sub-Committee, or Court of Directors, shall be decided and disposed of in such way and manner as they shall think proper.

His qualifications. } 10. The Cashier must be possessed of the Company, and shall receive such yearly salary or allowance from the Company as shall be fixed and regulated by the Court of Directors for the time being.

Court of Directors to name Cashier. } 11. That the first and all future Cashiers shall be nominated and appointed by the Court of Directors for the time being; and as, in the progress of time, when the whole or a great part of the capital stock of the Company may be advanced and paid up by the Partners; and when it may have increased much in value, it may be expedient to appoint to the office of Cashier a Partner holding less than five shares, the Court of Directors for the time being are hereby empowered, if they shall think fit, to elect to the said office, when it shall become vacant, a Partner, holding less than five shares, provided he finds security for his intromissions, to their satisfaction, to the extent of at least ten thousand pounds sterling, after making allowance, by fair and proper computation, of the value of the shares which such Partner may have or hold of the capital stock of the Company. And every Cashier, though actually holding five shares of the capital stock of the Company shall be obliged, when required thereto by the Court of Directors for the time, to find security for his intromissions, to what extent shall seem to them fit, but not less than the sum of ten thousand pounds sterling. And no Cashier shall be removable, unless two thirds of the Directors for the time being shall concur in a motion for his removal.

Court of Directors to name Secretary, Accountants, & Tellers. } 12. That the court of directors shall elect, a Secretary, Accountants, and Tellers, to whom they may allot, from time to time, such salaries as shall seem proper. And it shall be in the power of two thirds of the said directors to dismiss them, when they shall see occasion, and to appoint successors to them. And the said Secretary, Accountants, and Tellers, and their successors in office, and other officers of the company, shall find caution or grant security for their intromissions and faithful discharge of their office, when required by the directors for the time being, and to what extent they shall think proper to require, but so that the security of the Secretary, Accountants and Tellers, may not be less than two thousand pounds, sterling each. And the directors shall also name and appoint what other officers and clerks shall be deemed necessary, and remove the same at pleasure, and fix their salaries or allowances. And besides the salaries or yearly allowances, it shall also be in the power of the directors to allot to the use of any of the officers of the company such dwelling houses as they shall see proper, or in lieu thereof, to make a pecuniary allowance, in name of house rent, to those not so provided.

Power* of Directors to admit new partners. } 13. That, for one entire year after the company shall begin to do business as Bankers, the Court of Directors shall be entitled to admit, as partners to this concern whatever persons shall appear to them to be eligible partners, and that at such rate or price as they shall judge proper, but not under the rate of five hundred pounds sterling per share; with interest from the period at which the first instalment is called up. But how soon the subscribed capital shall amount to seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds sterling, they shall be no longer entitled to increase or enlarge the capital, unless the same shall be previously sanctioned and approved of by a general meeting of the company, called with consent of a general meeting. } for that purpose, by public advertisement in the Aberdeen newspapers, or two months notice, mentioning the purpose of the meeting.

Court of Directors may name Agents &c. in Edinburgh, London, and other places. } 14. That the Court of Directors shall have power to name agents, or form establishments of Cashiers, and other officers, for carrying on the company's business, or negotiating their ordinary affairs, in Edinburgh, London, or what other places they shall think fit, and to remove and suppress the same at pleasure, and to fix such salaries or allowances as they shall think proper.

Regulations regarding the mode of subscription and execution of the company's obligations and deeds. } 15. That the notes and obligations of the company, commonly called bank notes, shall be subscribed by such officers of the company as shall be appointed by the sub-committee, by a minute in their sederunt-book, and that all promissory notes, indorsations of bills, and receipts, shall be taken to, and given and signed by the Cashier, or some other officer of the company, holding a power of Attorney from the Cashier, approved of by the sub-committee. And every receipt, promissory note or draft, other than bank notes, shall be marked by the subscription of the Teller, who received the value or amount for which such receipt, promissory note or draft was granted. And all bonds, heritable and movable, and other writings and contracts, title deeds and securities, shall be taken to and in the name of the cashier, and two of the directors, and the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assignees, in trust, for themselves and whole other partners of the company present and future.— And in case of the removal from office of any of the said parties, in whose favor such writings shall be taken or conceived, or in case of their ceasing to be partners herein, they shall be bound, at any time when required to denude themselves, by habile conveyances, of the said trust property, at the expense of the company, and to convey the same to such person or persons as shall be appointed by the sub-committee to hold the same for behoof of the company. And all bonds, submissions, and other deeds and contracts, to be executed by the company, shall in like manner be signed and executed by the cashier and two of the sub-committee for the time being. And all bank notes, promissory notes, bills, receipts, indorsations of bills and promissory notes, and other writings and deeds, signed and executed in manner or under the authority aforesaid, shall bind the company as effectually as if the whole partners had signed the same, the said company being always hereby obliged to relieve their said cashier and directors, or sub-committee, so subscribing, of all such writings to be granted by them, in virtue of the powers above-mentioned, and in like manner, all persons paying or fulfilling their obligations or contracts to the persons so authorised, shall be completely discharged of the same.

Credit, on Cash Account, may be given to partners, to the extent of one half of their advanced stock without security. } 16. That it shall be in the power of the sub-committee of management to give credit, upon cash accounts, to the partners of the company, to the extent or amount of one half of their advanced stock, at any time during the subsistence of the contract, without any further or collateral security but the security arising from the right of retention competent to the company, and assignation in security herein contained, but declaring, that it shall be entirely in the option and at the discretion of the sub-committee to give or withhold this credit, as it shall appear to them that the applicant is likely to be a useful partner of the company, or not. And that the sub-committee shall farther have power to recal the said credit, at any time they may think proper, on giving six months previous notice. As also and

And to others on security real or personal. } to others on security, real or personal, declaring that the sub-committee shall have full power to grant credits, on cash accounts, to any person applying for the same, provided it be on bond, with security, real or personal, to their satisfaction, and, if on personal bond, there shall be two securities or cautioners, besides the principal party, and if on heritable security either on disposition in security with a clause or power to sell, or on absolute disposition, qualified by a back bond. And neither the cashier nor any of the directors shall have a vote in judging of bills offered for discount, or applications for credit on cash accounts, where he himself is individually a party or where any partner of any trading company, in which he is a member, is a party, where such company consists of fewer than four persons, or where his father, son, or brother is a party.

17. That the business of the Company in Aberdeen, shall be carried on in a house, to be bought, built, or taken in lease, by the Court of Directors for the time being, which they are hereby empowered to do, as it shall seem for the interest of the Company; and to sell and dispose of the said House or what other House or Houses shall be bought by them, at what price and in what manner they shall think proper. And the cash, books, deeds, bonds, bills and other writings of the Company shall be kept therein, subject to such regulations as to custody and keeping, as the sub-committee shall from time to time think proper to make.

18. That the Books of this Company shall be balanced on the 31st day of January, 1826, and on the 31st day of January, yearly thereafter; when a statement or abstract of the Company's affairs shall be made up, during the continuance of this contract, and the yearly balance shall be examined docketed, and signed by the sub-committee, after being submitted to, and approved of by the other Directors. And no assignment of shares of the Capital shall be admitted, or entered in the books of the Company, for fourteen days previous to the said 31st day of January yearly, nor till fourteen days after the day appointed for the election of Directors. And upon the day appointed for the election of Directors annually, the said balance and abstract shall be laid upon the table for the inspection of the Partners, and the particulars thereof shall be read or stated and explained at a meeting by the Chairman. And it shall be in the power of such meeting, if they shall think fit, to appoint a Committee for auditing and reporting upon such yearly states, at a future general meeting, to be called for the purpose. And such Committee shall be entitled to call for the assistance of what number of the sub-committee, and officers of the Company, they shall think fit.

19. That as each Partner has contributed and paid at the time of subscribing this contract, the sum of ten shillings on each share which he holds in the capital stock of the Company, the same is to be applied towards defraying the incidental and other expenses attending the first year's management; and the amount of said payment shall be placed to such account in the Company's books as the sub-committee may direct. And for the first year, no dividend of profit shall be made; but the same after defraying the expense attending the first year's management; shall be retained and applied as the Directors shall appoint. But the clear interests and profits of every succeeding year, as they shall appear at the time of each balance, shall be divided among the members in proportion to their several shares in the concern, after setting apart such sum as the Court of Directors may think proper to form and establish. } maintain a sinking fund for behoof of the Company; which fund shall be disposed of in manner after provided.

20. That in case, at any time during the said twenty-one years, it shall appear upon bringing the Company's books to a balance, that a sum equal to one-thirtieth part of the advanced capital has been lost, in prosecution of the business of the Company, in any one year, it shall be in the power of one third part of the Company, possessing one third part of the Capital stock, to insist that the Company shall be dissolved. And in case it shall appear from said annual states, that a sum equal to one-twentieth part of the said capital stock shall have been so lost, in the course of one year, it shall be in the power of an eighth part in value of the Partners to dissolve the Company. And should it appear that one half of the advanced Capital has been lost, in any one year, it shall be in the power of any one Member at any general meeting, to insist that the Company shall be from that moment dissolved. And, in like manner, if it shall appear, during any period of this copartnership, that there has been an aggregate or total loss of one half of the advanced capital, any one member shall have it in his power to dissolve the Company. And in estimating or calculating such aggregate loss, interest on the advanced part of the capital, and profits which have been derived must be taken into fair computation on the one and on the other side. And at whatever time the Company shall be dissolved, whether by the lapse of the said twenty-one years, or other period, to which it shall be prorogated in virtue of the powers after mentioned, or in consequence of loss, certain members of the Company, shall be appointed by a general meeting, to collect and pay off the debts of the Company, and wind up its whole affairs in the most expeditious and expedient manner. Declaring, that what is here intended to be meant as advanced capital is the capital actually paid up by the Partners at the immediate preceding balance.

21. That if, at the end of five years, from and after the first balance of the Company's Books, it shall appear to the Court of Directors for the time, that the sinking fund has increased, so as to exceed ten per cent. on the capital stock paid up by the Partners, then, and in that case, the Directors are hereby authorised to appropriate to, and divide among the Partners, by way of bonus, over and above the current dividend for the year, such sum as they may think proper, and with safety to the affairs of the Company; but so as not to diminish the sinking fund under the said ten per cent. That at the end of the next five years, they shall, in like manner, appropriate and divide such sum as the sinking fund may afford, but so as not to diminish that fund under twenty per cent, and so on, at the end of every five years, during the subsistence of the contract; but so as to add to, and leave, at the end of every five years, ten per cent additional on the capital stock paid up by the partners, at the credit of the said fund.

22. That it shall be in the power of the partners of the Company, assembled at any general meeting, called for that purpose, by a tenth part of the Company in number, of persons possessed also of a tenth part of the capital stock of the Company, or by any five members of the Court of Directors, (notwithstanding the endurance of this contract is, in the first instance, declared to be twenty-one years) to prorogate and extend the same to any number of years beyond the said period of twenty-one years: provided that the said meeting shall be called by public advertisement as aforesaid, two months, at least before such meeting and the purpose thereof expressly specified in the advertisement. It being hereby declared that a minute in the books of the Company declaratory of their resolution to this effect, shall be effectually binding on the Company without any other form. And this copartnership shall be prorogated from time to time, to any after period, under the same conditions and regulations; but not for a longer space at any one time, than twenty-one years in addition to the number of years that may be unexpired of the subsisting period of the copartnership, at any time the prorogation is made. And it shall not be lawful to prorogate, till the current space of the existence of this contract to five years, or under that term. It being always declared, however, that the power of dissolution shall at all times remain entire, in manner before provided.

Committee of management only liable for their intrusions } 23. That the committee of management, or directors, shall not be liable for omissions, nor for the sufficiency and responsibility of the persons or parties dealing with the Company; nor for the securities on property or investments, on which the funds of the Company may be lent out or applied; nor for the actions or intrusions of the cashier, or other officers or agents of the Company.

No sales to be made by partners until the expiry of 12 months from 20th June, 1825. } 24. That all the members of the Company shall be at liberty to sell and assign, inter vivos, the shares, held by them, at any time after the expiry of twelve calendar months from the twentieth day of June, eighteen hundred and twenty-five years, but not before; and provided that, before such sale, an offer specifying the name of the proposed purchaser and price offered, shall be made, in writing, to the sub-committee, through the cashier, for behoof of the Company, allowing them ten days to consider of, and accept or refuse the same.—And if such offer shall be declined or not accepted by the sub-committee, after their having been allowed ten days to consider the same, the sale may be made to any other person, at or above the price demanded from the Company, but not at a lower price, until a new written offer at such lower price, shall be made to the cashier, for behoof of the Company, and rejected by them. It being intended and understood by this clause that no voluntary sale shall be made of any share or shares, at a lower price than what they have been offered at to the Company and rejected

And in case any partners shall incline to make any gratuitous assignment, inter vivos, no such assignment shall be valid, unless such assignee shall be approved of by the sub-committee. And in case of his not being approved of, the sub-committee shall be entitled to sell and dispose of the shares so assigned, in the manner prescribed by article 25 of these presents; they always accounting to such gratuitous assignee for the free proceeds thereof.

Gratuitous assignments by sub-committee or otherwise the shares to be sold. } And in case of the shares of any partner devolving, by deed or legal descent, upon more than one person, they shall divide the same among themselves in such way and manner as that no more than one person shall be owner or holder of the same share or shares at the same time. And in case of their not doing so, the holders of such smaller parts of the stock, or the holders of shares belonging pro indiviso, to more than one person shall have no right to attend or vote at meetings, or in any respect to interfere with the management of the Company's business; but the shares so divided shall, in case of failure to pay up the calls, sales, bankruptcies, arrestments or otherwise, be subject to the rules and regulations herein contained. And every assignee and successor to any share or shares of this Company shall be subject to all the articles and regulations of the Company in the same manner as if they had subscribed these presents; and all the deeds of assignation shall contain a clause to that effect.

Shares not to be held by two or more persons pro indiviso. } And it is declared that no partner shall be at liberty to sell or assign less than one share of the company's stock.

No partners to sell more than one share. } And it is declared that no partner shall be at liberty to sell or assign less than one share of the company's stock.

Shares of Bankrupt partners to be sold within 6 months after bankruptcy on being first offered to the company. } 25. That, in case of the bankruptcy or notour insolvency of any of the members of the company, the shares of such members shall be sold, within six months after the bankruptcy or notour insolvency; but always under the condition of being first offered to the sub-committee, in terms, of article 24, of these presents. And in case the shares of such members shall not be sold within the

And it shall be in the power of the sub-committee to purchase the said shares themselves, at such public sale, for behoof of the company.

Diligence by arrestment or confirmation qua creditor, against any of the partners to be purged within three months. } 26. That in case the shares or interest of any member of the company shall be arrested, in the hands of the company, he shall be obliged to loose the arrestments within three months after being required thereto, by letter, from the Cashier. And in like manner, in case the shares or interest of any member shall be attached by the diligence of confirmation, qua creditor, his representatives if he any have, shall be obliged to purge the same, also within three months after being required thereto, by letter from the Cashier, otherwise, and in either of these cases, it shall

And the sub-committee may in like manner, become purchasers at such roup, for behoof of the company. And the same course shall be followed when no person chooses to represent such Partners whose shares have been attached by the diligence of confirmation, qua creditor; that is they shall be sold by the sub-committee, and the price or proceeds accounted for to the attaching creditor. And in case the representative of a deceased Partner shall fail to accept the expiry of the said three years, to sell and dispose of the share of such deceased Partner, in the same manner as is provided for by Article 25 of this contract, and thereafter to carry the free balance of the price to the credit of the representative of the said deceased Partner, to bear such rate of interest as may be allowed by the company at the time, and to retain the same until a legal title shall be made up and presented to the company by such representative. And the same

Assignations of shares to be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose. } 27. That in case of a partner selling his share, in manner before mentioned, the assignation or other conveyance thereof, or an extract thereof from a proper record, confirmation or other title, shall be produced to the sub-committee, and shall be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose. And no purchaser or assignee inter vivos, or mortis causa, or heir or executor, shall be deemed a partner nor have any of the rights of a partner, till this is complied with, nor until they make payment of the debts owing to the Company by their authors; and until they farther, by a writing under their own hand or their attorney, duly authorised, shall accept the said assignation and succession before and in presence of two members of the sub-committee for the time being, who shall subscribe as witnesses to his acceptance.—

And such purchaser, assignee, heir, or executor, shall become bound to all the conditions herein contained; and all regulations of the Company made or to be made by virtue of the powers herein contained and all deeds of assignation, shall contain a clause to this effect.

28. That every partner who disposes of his shares in the capital stock, on the terms before provided, and every other partner, how soon he ceases to have an interest in the Company, in the manner before mentioned, shall, in all time, thereafter, be entitled to relief of the whole debts owing by the Company, and of all obligations granted for the same; and, in general, of every prestation incumbent on him as a partner of the Company. And the other partners shall, for that purpose, be bound and obliged to relieve him and his foresaids, 'till distressed, being always obliged to rest satisfied with this obligation as complete security and indemnification to him. And the whole Company do hereby subject, their interest and shares in the Company's stock to be regulated according to this rule and article. It being however always understood, that the assignee, or heir or executor to such selling, assigning, or deceasing partner, takes the precise place of his author or ancestor, and has no claim on the other partners for relief from debts contracted or obligations entered into, previous to his becoming a partner.

29. That it shall be in the power of the sub-committee to purchase, for behoof of the Company, any shares of the stock that may be offered them by private bargain or at a public sale whether such stock shall belong to partners offering the same by voluntary sale or to defaulters whose shares shall be offered to sale under the provisions of this contract; and that at such prices as they shall consider of advantage to the Company. And such shares, so bought, shall be held in the names of the cashier and two of the sub-committee, and the survivors or survivor of them, in trust for the Company.

And the sub-committee shall also have power to sell and convey the shares so purchased to what persons and on what terms shall appear to them advantageous to the Company.

30. That the stock or shares of the partners declared to be moveable property descendable to executors, shall be held, deemed and considered, and are hereby declared to be personal or moveable, and not a real or heritable estate, notwithstanding any heritable or real right which the Company may come to hold, by themselves, or by others for their behoof; and so the shares of the deceasing members shall descend to their executors.

31. That the Company shall sue and do diligence, for implement of this present contract, in the name of the cashier; and in all other cases, in the name of the person or persons in whose favour the deed or instrument is conceived or drawn, on which action or diligence is to be instituted; or of such other person as the sub-committee shall appoint. And the Company shall be held to be lawfully cited, in any actions at law, and diligence lawfully executed against them, if the same are served upon the cashier individually, and the sub-committee jointly, at the Company's ordinary place of business in Aberdeen.

32. That each of the members hereby assigns to the committee of management or Court of Directors for the time being, his own particular shares and profits of the concern, in security of the debts and engagements of the Company and in security of any debts and prestations that may become owing and prestable by him to the Company; and for enabling the committee of management or sub-committee, if and when necessary, to sell and dispose of his shares or interests in the Company, in terms of the provisions above written; and, in general, in security of the performance and observance of his part of the premises. Declaring that in case any member shall become debtor to the Company, otherwise than for the shares which he presently hold in the co-partnery, or to which he may afterwards acquire right, and such partners share or shares in this Company, and the profits arising therefrom, are hereby declared burdened with and shall be subject and liable for the said debt, and impignorate therefor, preferable to every assignee, creditor, or representative of such partner; and which the said Company, or their directors, shall be entitled to apply accordingly.—

And it is farther hereby declared that the whole conditions of this contract are equally binding upon a female as well as male partners.

33. That the whole clauses and conditions of this Deed are declared to be fundamental articles of this Copartnery: but it shall be in the power of any general meeting of the Company, or of the Court of Directors and sub-committee for the time being, to make such bye-laws or regulations as may suggest themselves in prosecution of the business, but not inconsistent with these presents; and which bye-laws and regulations, if made by the Court of Directors or sub-committee, shall only be in force and binding upon the Company, from the time of their being made till the next general meeting of the Company, unless the same shall then be approved of by such general meeting; and if approved of shall be binding upon the Company 'till altered by some future or subsequent general meeting. and if rejected or disapproved of by said general meeting, such or similar regulations shall not be again made or acted upon by the Committee of management at any time. There being nothing, however, here meant to prevent the same being brought forward, approved of, or made by a subsequent general meeting of the Company.

34. That over and above the shares held by Alexander Brown and William Johnston, merchants in Aberdeen, William Kennedy, John Ewing, and Charles Chalmers, advocates there, respectively as individuals, it is hereby declared that two hundred and seventy unappropriated shares of the stock stand in their names, in trust, for behoof of the Company. And they hereby bind and oblige themselves, and the survivor or survivors of them, to transfer the said shares, so held in trust, to such person or persons, and in such form and manner, as the interim Committee of the Partners, or the Court of Directors when chosen may think proper—and that immediately when required so to do, by a minute, to be made and entered in the sederunt book of the Company, and intimated to them. Provided, that no number of shares exceeding thirty shall be given off to one person, in terms of Article 8 of this contract. And it is hereby declared that the majority of said trustees, and of the survivors of them, or the last survivor shall be sufficient for making such transference. As also providing, that, in case the contract shall not be completely executed before such unappropriated shares are disposed of, the parties assumed for said shares shall be bound to subscribe this contract, in the same manner as the other Partners. But in case the contract should be completely executed before said assumed Partners are received, then and in that case, they shall be obliged to subscribe, if required, a deed or deeds of accession, as relative hereto, subjecting themselves to the whole conditions, rules and regulations of this contract, and bye-laws to be made by the Company, alike as if they had been original parties hereto, and obliging themselves to comply with the whole articles of this contract.

35. That all disputes that may occur between any of the partners with each other, or between the Company and the persons so subscribing shall be equally bound by the whole conditions and prestations of this contract, and by any future regulations to be made, as relative hereto, as if they had themselves subscribed the same.

signations of the several parties hereto, and the number of shares which they respectively hold of the Company's stock, are not inserted in the body of this deed, but in the testing clause only, and annexed to their respective subscriptions, the whole contract and obligation to advance the respective shares of stock, as therein mentioned in particular, shall be equally binding on them and their representatives as if the same were inserted in the preceding part of the deed. And each subscriber, or his Attorney, in majoram evidentiam, shall add the number of shares, which he is to hold in the stock of the Company, to his subscription.—And farther, in regard that, by reason of the great number of subscriptions that may be adhibited to this deed, one sheet of paper or vellum, large enough to hold the whole of this contract, with the subscriptions, could not be found, and it therefore becomes necessary that the sheets should be joined together; and there cannot be room for the signatures of all the parties at the joinings of the several sheets upon which this contract with the testing clause and subscriptions, are written—the whole parties hereby contracting and subscribing have therefore empowered the said Alexander Brown, William Kennedy, and John Ewing, Esquires, and the survivors or survivor of them, whom failing by death or disability, any two of the partners, appointed by the sub-committee for the time being, by a minute in their sederunt book to sign the joinings of the said sheets

GLOUCESTER

City and County Banking Company.

CAPITAL £500,000, in 10,000 SHARES OF £50 EACH.

The great success which has attended the establishment of Joint Stock Banking Companies in Scotland, Ireland, and various parts of England, under the sanction of an Act of the Legislature, 7 Geo. 4. has proved them to be of the most decided utility.

It is now no longer doubted that Banking Companies, possessing an adequate Capital, secured amongst an influential and affluent body of Proprietors, are most admirably calculated to sustain public confidence in times of difficulty, and to confer extensive benefits upon the country at large.

A well conducted Company whose affairs are closely investigated by a Board of Directors, and the results annually submitted to the Proprietors, can never be injured nor inconvenienced in the very worst times to the same extent that private establishments may be; for the known fact, that they possess a well secured capital, and have ample resources, would quiet the apprehensions of timid depositors, and prevent the necessity of sudden or ill-timed contraction of fair legitimate discounts.

From such an establishment, conducted on sound principles, which must eventually and probably at no distant period enjoy a large share of public confidence and support, Proprietors would derive fair and certain remuneration for their capital, whilst those who are also traders would receive back again more than an equivalent for the charges on their commercial transactions, and thus actually become their own bankers, and the public, at the same time, would have the advantage of an increased circulating medium.

Gloucester presents a very eligible opening for the successful establishment of a City and County Banking Company, from its contiguity to extensive and populous Manufacturing Districts, and its daily rising importance.

Since the completion of the Ship Canal, corn, timber, wine, Groceries, &c. &c. have been very extensively imported, not only for the use of the adjacent district, but also for the inland counties of Oxford, Worcester, Hereford, Warwick, Stafford, and Salop, whilst salt, cheese, coal, iron, &c.
&c. have been exported in large quantities. The commercial intercourse of Gloucester with Ireland, Wales and America, is very rapidly increasing; and it may be confidently expected that this port will soon participate more extensively in the trade which has already commenced with the West Indies, the Mediterranean and the Baltic.

With this extension of trade, the facilities for effecting monetary operations have not, however, kept pace; on the contrary, they may be said to be insufficient for even the present amount of business, and totally inadequate to the contemplated increase. It, therefore, appears highly desirable, with a view to foster the interests of a rising place, that merchants, agriculturists and others, should have all the aid and assistance they may require, consistent with prudent policy, and which a well established Public Company is best calcula-lated to afford.

Impressed with the advantages of such an establishment, and desirous for its early formation on sound and liberal principles, subscriptions were entered into, and at a meeting held at the Spa-Hotel, Gloucester, on the 31st of May, 1831,

Robert Canning, Esq. in the chair,

It was unanimously Resolved,

That upwards of 4,000 shares having been subscribed for, a Joint Stock Company be now formed, to be called "The Gloucester City and County Banking Company" upon the principle and provisions of Act 7, Geo. 4; and that the following regulations be adopted, viz.—

That a Deed of Settlement be prepared, containing all necessary clauses for the protection of the Proprietors, and giving the Company a lien upon the shares of any Proprietor, on whose responsibility they may have made any advance.

That no transfer of shares shall be made before the Deed of Settlement is signed, nor until twelve calendar months after the same has been granted, unless under particular circumstances; nor at any time without the consent of a majority of the Directors present at one of their usual meetings, or at a special meeting called for the purpose.

That no person holding less than fifty shares shall be eligible for a Director or Manager.

That nine Directors shall be annually elected by a majority of votes, who shall undertake the superintendence of the concern, out of which number four shall be competent to act, the Manager being also present, and having a vote.

That the scale for regulating votes at general meetings shall be—ten shares, one vote; twenty shares, two votes; forty shares, three votes; sixty shares, four votes; eighty shares, five votes, one hundred shares, and upwards, six votes.

That the Directors shall appoint the several officers of the company, and require of them such security as they may deem needful, according to their respective situations.

That no credit shall be given or continued, contrary to the advice of the Directors.

That the funds of the company shall not be, in any instance, invested in Foreign Loans, Mining Institutions, nor Articles of Merchandize.

That the accounts of the company shall be made up twice in each year; namely, on the 30th day of June, and the 31st day of December, and a general summary of them laid before the Proprietors at a meeting to be called for the purpose; and after paying the Proprietors at least 5 per cent. on their paid up capital, a portion of the surplus profits shall be added, from time to time, to increase the capital of the company as may be hereafter agreed upon.

That neither the books of the Bank, nor any of the bills nor securities which may pass through the same, shall be open to the inspection of any but Directors and officers of the establishment by their appointment.

That no Proprietor shall use the name of the company, except the officers duly appointed.

That in the event of the company losing its surplus profits and one-fourth of the paid up capital, it shall be in the power of any share-holder to have it dissolved, unless other share-holders think proper to continue the concern, in which case they must pay over to the dissentient the then value of his or her shares.

It was further Resolved,

That the Bank of England and Messrs. Smith, Payne and Smiths, London, be appointed bankers to the Company.

That Mr. William Gibbons be appointed Manager of the Company pro tempore.

That a deposite of one pound per share be forthwith paid to the Gloucester Branch of the Bank of England; four pounds per share to the Manager, at the Bank, on the first day of July next, on which day the Company commence business, and a further sum of not exceeding five pounds per share in January next or at such later period as the Directors may think proper to call for it. If further calls should be found desirable, they shall be made as the Directors may appoint, not exceeding five pounds per share in any one year.

That the unappropriated shares now remaining in the hands of the Company shall be allotted at the discretion of the Directors, having due regard to the interests of the county and city; and that application for shares be addressed to Mr. William Gibbons, Bank, Gloucester.

That the thanks of this meeting be given to the gentlemen who have interested themselves in the formation of this establishment, and that

Wm. Canning, Esq.	Jas. Wm. Daniel, Esq.
Wm. Montague, Esq.	Mr. Samuel Bowly, and
Maurice Shipton, Esq.	Mr. John Kendall, be appointed a committee to conduct its further progress until Directors are elected at a general meeting of the Proprietors.

County of Devon

Banking Company.

Capital £1,000,000 to be raised in 10,000 shares, of £100 each.

The establishment of Joint Stock Banking Companies in various parts of the United Kingdom, having been found productive of great benefits to the community within their respective districts, it is proposed to form such a company in this county, with a capital proportioned to the important objects it has in view.

To the tradesman and farmer it will have many recommendations, but it is sufficient perhaps to observe in this place, that it will afford increased facilities of credit, will extend the present limited circulation and will give it a stability, founded on the subscribed capital and known resources of the Company, which no panic will be able to disturb. To the depositor it will offer a more perfect security than is now attainable, and will admit at the same time of his obtaining a liberal interest whilst he is looking out for a permanent investment. To the proprietary it cannot scarcely fail to prove of equal advantage, as may be inferred from the past success of other companies of a similar character. The high premium borne, without any exception, by their shares, affords the best criterion both of the extensive utility and the profitable nature of such a joint and mutual system of Banking.

The following regulations are submitted for the consideration of the public; but it will of course be competent for any individual interested in this measure to suggest alterations by which the objects of the Company may be more effectually or beneficially promoted.

1. The capital of the County of Devon Banking Company shall be £1,000,000; to be raised in 10,000 shares of £100 each.

2. As soon as 5,000 shares have been subscribed for, a public meeting of the subscribers shall be called in the City of Exeter, for the purpose of appointing the Board of Directors. It shall be composed of a President, five Vice Presidents, twenty Directors, and four Auditors. The Board shall hold their meetings quarterly, and shall have full power to regulate the same, and fix the principles upon which the Bank is to be conducted. A report shall be presented at all such meetings, of the transactions of the three preceding months, accompanied with a balance sheet.

3. The Committee of Management shall consist of three Directors, to whom all the details of business shall be intrusted, and to whom alone all ordinary applications for credit shall be referred. In cases of a novel or complicated character, they shall summon an extraordinary meeting of the resident Directors and Auditors, or any four of them, as a council, and the majority shall then determine the course to be pursued.

4. Every subscriber of ten shares shall have one vote at the general meetings; of twenty-five shares, two votes; of fifty shares, three votes; and of one hundred shares, four votes. Ladies may give their votes by proxy, through the medium of any qualified shareholder.

5. No person subscribing, or afterwards holding less than twenty-five shares, shall be eligible for a Director or Auditor; and no person shall be allowed to subscribe for more than one hundred shares.

6. The Directors shall nominate, and have the sole power of removing the Managers, Cashier, and Clerks of the establishment, and require of them such security as they may deem expedient.

7. A deposit of five pounds per share shall be paid to the Directors, or Superintending Manager of the Bank, within _____ days after aforesaid meeting; and the Board shall be at liberty to call for a further instalment, not exceeding five pounds per share in the course of the year.

8. Those shares which may not be disposed of at the breaking up of the meeting, shall be appointed subsequently, at the discretion of the Directors, and for the benefit of the Company.

9. A Deed of Settlement shall be prepared, containing the necessary clauses for the protection of the Proprietors, and giving the Company a lien upon the shares of any Proprietor on whose responsibility they may have made advances.

10. No transfer of shares shall be made before the Deed of Settlement is signed, nor at any time, without the consent of a majority of the Managing Committee or of the Directors, at one of their usual Meetings.

11. A credit account may be opened with any Proprietor equal to the amount paid upon his shares, and on which he shall be chargeable with interest only after the rate of four per cent.

12. The interest to be allowed upon deposits lodged at the Bank for a definite period, shall be determined antecedently at the Quarterly Meetings of the Board.

13. An interest of two and a half per cent. shall be granted on running accounts, and payments above ten pounds made for an undefined term; but the Board of Directors may increase or alter that rate generally from time to time, or in certain cases where it may appear advisable for the interests of the Company.

14. No interest shall be paid on the fractional parts of a pound, belonging to any sum deposited at the Bank for an indefinite term.

15. No credit shall be given or continued contrary to the advice of the Committee of Management.

16. The capital of the Company shall not, in any case, be invested in foreign loans, mines, or merchandize.

17. No Proprietor shall be at liberty to inspect the books of the Company, or any of the bills, securities, &c. which may pass through the Bank, unless the same be a Director, Manager, or Auditor, appointed for such purpose, in order that the credit and private transactions of individuals may be preserved inviolate.

18. The accounts of the Company shall be made up every six months, namely, on the 30th of June and the 31st of December; and a general summary of their results, without any specification of names and individual credits, shall be laid before the Proprietors at the annual meeting, where a dividend, founded upon the actual profits, will be declared.

19. Three of the Directors and one Auditor shall go out annually by ballot among themselves, and these vacancies shall be supplied at the annual general meeting, but the parties retiring shall be eligible for re-election.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That in order to afford encouragement and protection to persons in this Province, engaged in the manufacture of all kinds of stoves and hollow ware, and all kinds of cast iron machinery, that one regular scale of valuation should be fixed for all such articles, imported into this Province from the United States of America, at which the same shall be entered at the several Custom Houses, agreeably to the following rate:

Stoves and hollow ware—fifteen shillings, per hundred weight.
Cast iron and mill machinery of all kinds—twenty shillings, per hundred weight.
Axes—six shillings and three pence, each.

4. And be it further enacted, &c. That nothing in this Act contained, shall be construed to prevent the introduction into this Province, by persons immigrating into this Province for the purpose of settling permanently therein, of any of the articles hereinbefore mentioned, free of duty, for their own use or for the use of their families only, or of travellers passing with their cattle, horses, furniture and baggage, from one part of the United States to some other part of said States, upon the person or persons importing the same giving bond, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the Collector of the Customs, with whom the said goods shall be entered, that such articles are for the domestic consumption and sole use of the person or persons importing the same, for the purposes aforesaid.

5. And be it further enacted, &c. That all monies collected under and by virtue of this Act, shall be paid into the hands of His Majesty's Receiver General of this Province, to and for the use of His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, for the public uses of this Province and towards the support of the civil Government thereof, to be accounted for to His Majesty, through the Lords Commissioners of His Treasury, for the time being, in such manner as it shall please His Majesty to direct.

6. And be it further enacted, &c. That this Act shall not take effect, nor be in force, till after the first day of June next.

7. And be it further enacted, &c. That this Act shall continue in force for, and during the term of three years from and after the passing thereof, and no longer.

No. 33.

AN ACT

FOR THE MORE EQUAL DISTRIBUTION OF THE PROPERTY OF PERSONS DYING INTESTATE.

WHEREAS the right of Primogeniture, and other principles of the Common Law respecting the descent of Real Estates, are not so well adapted to the circumstances of His Majesty's Subjects, and the state of society in this Province, as the Laws respecting the distribution of Personal Estates; And whereas it is expedient that the rules of descent and distribution of Intestate Estates be rendered more simple and uniform, and be specified in a Provincial Statute for the direction of all persons concerned: Therefore be it enacted, &c. That whenever hereafter a person shall die seized in this Province of any land, tenement or hereditament, or any interest therein, or right thereto, in fee simple, or for the life of another, not having lawfully devised it, the same, subject to the payment of the Intestate's debts according to law, when the personal estate shall be insufficient therefor, shall descend to the Intestate's child or children in equal shares, and to the lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation, saving to the Intestate's husband his tenancy by the courtesy, and to the Intestate's widow her dower as at common law; and if the Intestate shall have no issue, the same shall descend to the surviving husband, or the widow, in case of a widow and no kindred of the Intestate; but if there be kindred as well as a widow of the Intestate, one moiety of the same shall descend to the said widow, and the other moiety be inherited by the person or persons who would, by virtue of this Act, inherit the whole if there were no widow; and if there be no issue, husband or widow, the same shall be inherited by the Intestate's father; and if there be no issue, husband, widow or father, then in equal shares by the mother and each of the brothers and sisters of the Intestate, and the child or children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation; and if there be no issue, husband, wife, father, mother, brother or sister, or brother's or sister's child, then by the mother, and if there be no issue, husband, widow, father or mother, then in equal shares by each of the Intestate's brothers and sisters and the child or children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representatives, and if there be no isssue, husband, wife, father, mother, brother or sister, or brother or sister's child, then by the Intestate's next of kin in equal shares, without any distinction between those of the whole and those of the half blood, the degrees of kindred to be computed according to the rules of the Civil Law; collateral kindred claiming through a nearer ancestor to be preferred to those claiming through a common ancestor more remote; and if the issue or next of kin entitled to any estate by virtue of this Act shall all be in the same degree of kindred to the Intestate they shall share the estate equally, otherwise they shall take it according to the right of representation; but among collaterals no representatives shall be admitted beyond the degree of children of the Intestate's brothers and sisters; and when there shall be neither issue, husband, widow, parent, nor other kindred, the estate shall, for the want of heirs, escheat to His Majesty the King, His Heirs and Successors.

2. And be it further enacted, &c. That whenever hereafter a person domiciled in this Province shall die possessed of or entitled to any chattel or personal estate or right, not having lawfully disposed of the same by will, the same being subject to the payment of the Intestates debts, the funeral expenses, and charges of administration according to law, the residue thereof shall be distributed to the person or persons who shall by virtue of this Act be entitled to the said Intestate's Real Estate, and in the same proportion as Real Estate: Provided, however, that the Intestate's husband shall have the whole of the said residue as administrator, whether there be issue of the Intestate or not; and if there be a widow and issue of the Intestate, the widow shall have one-third part of the said residue; but if there be no issue, she shall have one-half of the said residue; and if there be no kindred, she shall have the whole of the said residue.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That if a gift or grant of any Estate, Real or Personal, shall have been made by the Intestate in his, or her life time to a child in advancement of the said child's portion, and so expressed in the said gift or grant, or so charged by the Intestate in writing, or so receipted or acknowledged in writing by the child, the estate so advanced, at the value thereof, as expressed or charged by the Intestate, or acknowledged by the child, or otherwise, at the just value thereof, by estimation of appraisers under oath, shall be considered in the settlement of the Intestate's Real and Personal Estate as a part thereof, and shall be accepted by the said child towards his or her share of the Intestate's estate.

4. And be it further enacted, &c. That after one year from the death of any person dying Intestate, seized as aforesaid of Real Estate, the Judge of the Probate Court of this Province, in case such Real Estate shall be situated in two or more Districts, or if it lie in one District only, the Judge of the Surrogate Court of that District, upon the written application therefor of any person or persons entitled by virtue of this Act to inherit the same, or any part thereof, may and shall cause notice of such application to be published in the Upper Canada Gazette, or in some public newspaper published in the District where the said estate is situate, or if no newspaper shall be published in such District, in that case to be posted up in some public place in the town or township wherein such real estate shall be situate, for such time (not less than one calendar month) as the said Judge may think reasonable, having regard to the circumstances of the case; and after such notice, so published or posted up, may and shall decree that the said Estate be distributed, divided, and set off, in severalty to the persons entitled to inherit the same according to this Act, expressing in his said decree the names of the said several persons so entitled, and their respective proportions of the said Estate; which said decree of distribution shall be signed by the said Judge, and recorded by the Register of the said Court in a book to be kept by him for that purpose; and unless the said decree be appealed from within the said time, and in the manner hereinafter provided, the said Judge shall and may appoint three disinterested Freeholders to divide and set off the said Estate according to the said decree; which said Freeholders, being first sworn by the said

Bill respecting Primogeniture.

Judge to perform the said service faithfully and impartially according to their best skill and judgment, shall divide and set off the same in severalty to and among the several persons entitled thereto, and report such division in writing under their hands and seals to the said Judge, who shall order the same to be recorded by the Register of the said Court, and a copy thereof shall also be recorded in the Register's office of the county or counties wherein such Estate shall be situate; and when so recorded the said division shall be as valid and effectual a partition of the said Estate as if it were a deed of partition thereof duly executed by the persons respectively entitled thereto being of lawful age therefor; and a copy of such division, certified by the proper Officer of the said Court, under the seal of the said Court, shall be admissible evidence thereof: Provided always, that if any one or more of the persons so entitled to inherit such Estate, when a division thereof shall be so decreed, shall be under the age of twenty-one years, not having a lawful Guardian, the said Judge before making such decree of distribution, shall appoint some suitable person to be Guardian of each of such infant heirs.

And provided also, That when any decree of distribution shall be made as aforesaid, if the freeholders appointed as aforesaid shall be of opinion that the estate or estates cannot be divided according to the said decree, without prejudice to or spoiling the whole, the said freeholders shall then make and return to the said Judge a just valuation and appraisement of such estate or estates; whereupon, if the said Judge shall approve the said return, and if any one or more of the parties shall elect to take the said estate at the appraised value, the same shall be adjudged by a decree of said Judge to him or them, he or they, paying, or securing to be paid to the other parties, their proportion of the appraised value, according to their respective rights; and the said decree shall be recorded by the Register of the said Court; and a copy thereof shall also be recorded in the Register's office of the county or counties wherein such estate shall be situated; and when so recorded, the said decree shall be as valid and effectual a conveyance to the person or persons electing to take such estate as if it were a deed of bargain and sale duly executed by the parties entitled to or owning such land, being of lawful age therefor; subject, nevertheless, to a lien thereon in favour of the others of the parties than the person or persons so electing to take the same, until payment be made to them of their respective shares of the money as aforesaid; and in case the said parties shall not agree who shall take said estate, on the terms aforesaid, then the said Judge shall or may, upon the request of any person entitled to any part or share thereof, make an order for the sale of such Real Estate by the Register of the said court, after due and fair notice of the time and place of such sale, by advertisement published and set up in the several districts where the said Real Estate shall be situated, and also in such public newspapers as shall be most likely, in the opinion of the said Judge, to give fair and full notice of such sale to all parties concerned, and others; which public notice shall be given at least twenty days before the time of sale, in cases where the said Real Estate is all situated in one district, and at least sixty days where the same is situated in different districts; and the said sale shall be recorded by said Register, who is hereby empowered and ordered to execute deeds to the purchasers of the said Real Estate so as aforesaid sold, on receiving payment of the consideration money, or taking sufficient security therefor to the satisfaction of the said Judge; which money or securities shall be brought into court before or at the time of the recording of the said deed by said Register, to be distributed and paid by order of the said court to and amongst the persons entitled to receive the same in lieu of their respective parts and proportions of the said Real Estate, according to their just rights and proportions.

5. And be it further enacted, &c. That a copy of any decree hereinbefore mentioned, certified by the Register of said court, under the seal of the said court, shall be admissible evidence in all cases and in all courts or other places, of such decree; and whenever the same shall be produced to the Register of any county to be recorded as hereinbefore mentioned, he shall register the same in the register book of such county, in the same manner as he is now required to enter memorials of deeds and other conveyances in such register book, and shall endorse on such copy of a decree a certificate of registry, which shall be in the same form, and shall have the same force and effect, as the certificate of registry required to be endorsed on any deed or conveyance when duly registered.

6. Provided also, and be it further enacted, &c. That any person or persons interested in such decree of a Judge of the Probate Court or Surrogate Court, and dissatisfied therewith, may, at any time within fourteen days (inclusive) next after the making of the said decree, appeal therefrom to His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in and for the said Province, upon giving to the said Judge a bond in such reasonable sum, and with such sufficient sureties, as shall be satisfactory to the said Judge, conditioned to prosecute the said appeal with effect; and in case of failure, to pay all reasonable costs occasioned by such appeal, to be allowed and taxed by the Judge of the said court; and it shall be the duty of the appellant or appellants to enter such appeal, and produce a certified copy of the decree so appealed from, at the next term of the said Court of King's Bench after the said appeal; and the said Court of King's Bench is authorised and required to receive such appeal; to examine the said decree appealed from; and to affirm or reverse, or amend the same, as the law and justice of the case may require; and to remit the said decree, so affirmed, reversed or amended, to the Judge of the Court in which the original decree was made: and the decree so remitted shall be recorded by the Register of the said Court, and if it be an affirmed or amended decree of distribution, it shall be carried into effect in the same manner as an original decree of the said Judge, not appealed from.

7. And be it further enacted, &c. That whenever a distribution of the Real Estate of an Intestate shall be decreed by the Judge of a Surrogate Court, or of the Court of Probate, before the said Real Estate shall be divided and set off in severalty, pursuant to such decree, the said Judge may, and upon the written request of the administrator or administrators, or either of the heirs entitled to a distributive share of the said estate, shall require from or in behalf of each of the heirs entitled to share in the distribution of the said estate, a bond, in such reasonable sum, and with such sufficient sureties, as shall be satisfactory to the said Judge, conditioned that if any debt or debts of the said Intestate shall be afterwards sued for and recovered, or otherwise be duly made to appear, and the Personal Estate shall not be sufficient to pay and satisfy such debt or debts, and the costs of suit, and charges occasioned by reason of such debt or debts, the said heir shall, upon notice thereof, pay his or her ratable part of such sum as shall be required, in addition to the avails of the Personal Estate, to pay and satisfy such debt or debts, and the said costs and charges; and any such heir refusing or neglecting to give such bond, when so required, shall not be entitled to have his or her share of said Intestate's Estate, set off and delivered to him or her in severalty; but any of the said heirs giving such bond when so required, may and shall, nevertheless, have his, her or their, respective share or shares of the said estate, set off and delivered to him, her or them, in severalty.

8. Provided also, and be it further enacted, &c. That if after a decision of an Intestate's Real Estate pursuant to this act, the portion set off to one of the heirs, or a part thereof, shall be taken and sold by process of law, for a debt of the Intestate, and an equal proportion shall not in like manner be taken from each of the other heirs, they shall respectively be liable to contribute a proportionable sum to the heir from whom more than his proportion of such debt shall have been taken as aforesaid; and in case of refusal, such heir shall be entitled to his action or actions on the case, to enforce such ratable contribution.

No. 34.

AN ACT

TO PREVENT THE UNNECESSARY MULTIPLICATION OF LAWSUITS AND INCREASE OF COSTS, IN ACTIONS ON NOTES, BONDS, BILLS OF EXCHANGE, AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS.

WHEREAS, the multiplication of law suits, and the great increase of fees and costs subsequent thereon, in cases where actions are brought against several persons and parties, for the recovery of a bill of exchange, promissory note, bond, recognizance or other instrument, are a grievance from which the people ought to be relieved: Be it therefore enacted, &c. and by the authority of the same, That when several suits shall be brought on one bond, recognizance, promissory note, bill of exchange or other instrument, or when several suits shall be brought against the maker and endorser of a note, or against the drawer, acceptor or endorser of a bill of exchange, there shall be collected or received from the defendant, the costs taxed in one suit only, at the election of the plaintiff, and in the other suits, the actual disbursements only, shall be collected or received from the defendant, but this provision shall not extend to any interlocutory costs in the progress of a cause.

2. And be further enacted, &c. That it shall be lawful for the holder of any bill of exchange or promissory note hereafter to be made, instead of bringing separate suits against the drawers, makers, endorsers and acceptors of such bill or note, to include all or any of the said parties, to the bill or note in one action, and to proceed to judgment and execution, in the same manner as though all the defendants were joint contractors.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That in any such action, any joint drawer or maker, endorser or acceptor, may plead in abatement the non-joinder of any other joint drawer, maker, endorser or acceptor, in the same manner as though this Act had not been passed; and no judgment to be rendered in pursuance of this Act shall be of any effect against a Defendant not served with process.

4. And be it further enacted &c. That the Plaintiff in any such action, and in all other actions on bills of exchange or promissory notes, may declare upon the money counts alone, and such bill or note may be given in evidence under the money counts in all cases where a copy of the bill or note shall have been served with the declaration.

5. And be it further enacted, &c. That in any such action judgment may be rendered for the Plaintiff against some one or more of the Defendants, and also in favor of some one or more of the Defendants against the Plaintiff, according as the rights and liabilities of the respective parties shall appear, either upon confession, default by pleading, or on trial; and when judgment shall be rendered in favour of any Defendant, he shall recover costs against the Plaintiff in the same manner as though judgment had been rendered for all the Defendants.

6. And be it further enacted, &c. That in any such action any person or persons sued shall be entitled to set off his or their demands against the Plaintiff, in the same manner as though such Defendant or Defendants had been sued in the form heretofore used.

7. And be it further enacted &c. That if upon the trial of any such action the whole amount of the demands set off by any or all of the Defendants, and allowed by the Jury, shall be equal to or shall exceed the amount of the Plaintiff's demand as proved on the trial, the Jury shall find a verdict in favor of the Defendants generally; but if the Jury shall allow any demand as a set off, and shall still find a balance in favour of the Plaintiff, they shall state in their verdict the amount which they allow to each Defendant as a set off against the Plaintiff's demand.

8. And be it further enacted, &c. That the rights and responsibilities of the several parties to any such bill or note as between each other, shall remain the same as though this Act had not been passed, saving only the rights of the Plaintiff, so far as they may have been determined by the judgment.

9. And be it further enacted, &c. That in every suit brought pursuant to the provisions of this Act, any one or more of the Defendants shall be entitled to the testimony of any Co-defendant as a witness in all those cases where the Defendant or Defendants calling the witness would have been entitled to his testimony, had the suit been brought in the form heretofore used, and in no other case.

10. And be it further enacted, &c. That in all actions on promissory notes or bills of exchange, when the Plaintiff shall file a copy of such promissory note or bill of exchange with the declaration, the damages may be assessed as though the said note or bill of exchange had been set out specially in said declaration.

No. 35.

AN ACT

TO AMEND THE JURY LAWS OF THIS PROVINCE.

WHEREAS, the present mode of returning Jurors for the trial of causes in the Court of King's Bench, Assize, Nisi Prius, General Gaol Delivery, Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, and District Court, may be improved: Be it therefore enacted, &c. That the first clause of an Act passed in the forty-fourth year of the reign of George the Third, entitled, "An Act for the regulation of Juries;" and also, the whole of an Act passed in the thirty-sixth year of George the Third, entitled, "An Act to amend certain parts of an Act entitled, "An Act for the regulation of Juries;" and a certain other Act entitled, "An Act to establish a Superior Court of Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction, and to regulate the Court of Appeal;" and also, the whole of an Act passed in the forty-eighth year of the reign of George the Third, entitled, "An Act for the better regulation of Special Jurors;" be and the same are hereby repealed.

2. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Assessors and Collector, and Town Clerk, duly appointed for any Township, or a majority of them, and they are hereby authorised and required to meet on the last Saturday in February in that year for which they are chosen or appointed, at the place where the last Township-meeting was held for the Township, or at some adjourned meeting at the same place, on or before the first Saturday in March, except in the Bathurst and London Districts, in which the Assessors, Collector, and Township Clerk, shall meet as aforesaid on the first Saturday in February, or at some adjourned meeting on or before the 3rd Saturday in the said month, and then and there to choose from amongst the inhabitants of such Township such persons, being in their opinion fit and proper persons to be Petit Jurors, to serve as such for the year at the several Courts within the District to which such Township belongs, as may be in the proportion following, that is to say:—when the population of such District shall appear by the last census thereof to be under five thousand souls, the number of Petit Jurors to be returned from its several Townships shall be eighteen for every hundred souls; when over five thousand, and under ten thousand, ten such Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; when over ten thousand, and under fifteen thousand, six such Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; when over fifteen thousand, and under twenty-five thousand, four such Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; and when over twenty-five thousand, and under thirty-five thousand, three such Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; and when over thirty-five thousand, five such Jurors shall be returned for every two hundred, respectively.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the aforesaid Assessors, Collector, and Township Clerk, in manner and form, and at the time and place aforesaid, and they are hereby authorised and required to appoint such persons from among the inhabitants of the Township as are in their opinion fit and proper persons to be Grand Jurors, to serve as such for the year at the several Courts within the District to which such Township belongs, and in the following proportion, that is to say:—when the population of any such District shall, according to the census thereof, be under five thousand souls, six such Grand Jurors shall be returned for every one hundred souls; and when over five thousand, and not exceeding ten thousand, four such Grand Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; and when over ten thousand, and not exceeding fifteen thousand, two such Grand Jurors shall be returned for every hundred; and when over fifteen thousand, and under twenty-five thousand, three such Grand Jurors for every two hundred; and when over twenty-five thousand, and not exceeding thirty-five thousand, one such Grand Juror for every hundred souls; and when above thirty-five thousand, then two such Grand Jurors shall be returned for every three hundred souls, respectively. And in order to remove doubts with regard to the inhabitants of Towns, be it enacted and declared, that the inhabitants of any Town shall be deemed and considered, for the purposes of this Act, to be inhabitants of the Township in which such Town shall be situated.

4. Provided always, and be it further enacted, &c. That in case the Township Clerk, Assessors, and Collector, or a majority of them, shall not meet at the time and place and choose Grand and Petit Jurors as is herein before provided, it shall and may be lawful for such of them as are present to adjourn the said meeting to some other day, not beyond the second Saturday in March, giving due notice to such as are absent, of such adjournment.

5. And be it further enacted, &c. That the aforesaid Assessors, Collector, and Township Clerk, or a majority of them, shall, within the space of four days after the meeting and choosing Jurors as aforesaid, return a list of the Grand Jurors, and also of the Petit Jurors, stating opposite the several names in such lists the place of residence and degree, or occupation, under their hands, to the Clerk of the Peace for the District to which such Township belongs.

6. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Peace for the respective Districts, and he is hereby authorised and required, forthwith, upon the receipt of the lists aforesaid from the respective Townships, or within four days, to transcribe the same into a proper book or books to be by him kept for that purpose, and he shall also transmit true copies thereof to the Sheriff of the District.

7. And be it further enacted, &c. That each and every person whose name shall be returned upon any of such lists shall be held and taken as qualified to serve as a Juror for the year; Provided, That it shall not be lawful for the Township Clerk, Assessors, and Collector aforesaid, to appoint or return upon their lists the following descriptions of persons, neither shall they be liable to serve as Jurors, except by their consent, that is to say:—Members of the Legislature; Clergymen or Ministers of the Gospel; Physicians and Surgeons; Millers; Coroners; Collectors of Customs; Post-Masters; County Registers; Probate and Surrogate Registers; Barristers and Attornies; Judges of the District and Surrogate Court; and Ferry-men; and also all persons under the age of twenty-one years, or over sixty years; School Teachers; and persons belonging to regular Fire Companies.

8. And be it further enacted, &c. That when, and so often as any Sheriff or Coroner of any District shall receive any precept or order, according to law, requiring the return of any pannel or pannels of Jurors, he shall, without delay, after the receipt of such precept or order, affix on the door of the Court-house of such District, a Public Notice, that he will by twelve o'clock at noon, of the ——— day of ——— being the day next but one succeeding that of his receipt of such precept or order, unless it shall be on Sunday, or in that case, on the following Monday, proceed to the balloting of Jurors required, according to the exigency of such precept or order; and it shall and may be lawful for the Sheriff or Coroner, accordingly, at his Office, at the time appointed as aforesaid, with open doors, the Clerk of the Peace and the High Constable then and there attending, and all other persons willing being admissible, to ballot the Jury in the following manner:—He shall cause all the names of the Jurors contained in the list of Petit Jurors, returned to him by the Clerk of the Peace for the year, and also the names of Jurors contained in the list of Grand Jurors, returned to him by the Clerk of Peace, who have not before during the year served as such, together with their places of residence, degree or occupation, to be evenly written on slips of paper of equal size, and folded as nearly alike as may be, and promiscuously put into a hat or box suitable for the purpose, and well shaken or mixed together, and a sufficient number of names indiscriminately or impartially drawn forth, as required in such precept or order, for Grand and Petit Jurors, and the names so drawn, shall be noted down by the Sheriff in a list or lists, a duplicate of which list or lists shall be filed in the Office of the Clerk of the Crown, or his Deputy, in the District, and the Sheriff or Coroner thereof shall accordingly return the Jurors, Grand and Petit, so balloted for from their respective lists, upon the several precepts or orders, according to their respective tenor and the Law of the Land; and the Jurors so drawn shall be liable to serve accordingly, and when duly summoned by the Sheriff, Coroner, or other Officer having the return of Jurors, shall be punishable according to Law for disobedience or neglect: Provided always, That if the name of any Justice of the Peace shall be drawn, to serve as a Juror at the Quarter

Bill to amend the Jury Laws.

Sessions, such Justice of the Peace shall, in that case, be exempted from serving as aforesaid, and another name drawn instead thereof.

9. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Clerk of the Peace of the Midland District, shall make out and transmit to the Sheriff of the District, the names contained in the Township lists returned to him from those Townships situate in the Counties of Frontenac and Addington, in one list, and those situate in the Counties of Hastings and Lennox in another list; and the Sheriff or Coroner of the District shall ballot the Jurors to serve at the Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, and District Court, holden in the months of April and October, from the list taken and returned from the Township lists, situated in the Counties of Frontenac and Addington; and for the aforesaid Court, holden in January and July, from the Township lists for the Townships situate in the Counties of Hastings and Lennox, any thing in this Act contained to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

10. And be it further enacted, &c. That for the trial of all cases, Criminal as well as Civil, in the several Courts of Oyer and Terminer, General Gaol Delivery, Nisi Prius, Quarter Sessions of the Peace, District Court, and Courts of Special Commission, the Juries to be impanelled in Court shall be by Ballot, as is prescribed in the sixth clause of the said Act for the regulation of Juries, passed in the thirty-fourth year of the Reign of George the Third; Provided nevertheless, that such Balloting shall not in any manner prevent, obstruct, or diminish the right of parties, to claim and have allowed their challenges or objections, which they may be entitled to make and have as heretofore, according to Law; and it is hereby enacted and declared, that persons so returned upon the Sheriff's pannels of Petit and Grand Jurors and attending their duty as such thereon throughout, shall not be liable to be nominated or appointed as Jurors till after the lapse of one year, after that for which they have so served, unless such Juror consents: and the Sheriff of every District shall, on or before the second Saturday in February, in each and every year, make a return to the Clerk of the Peace of the names of the persons, stating the place of residence, degree or occupation, who actually served as Grand and Petit Jurors for the preceding year, such year to be computed from the day of their nomination and appointment as Jurors, except in the Bathurst and London Districts, in which the Sheriff shall make the returns as aforesaid, by the third Saturday in January, and the said Clerk of the Peace shall immediately on the receipt of such list, or before the last Saturday in February, except in the Bathurst and London Districts, which shall be by the first Saturday in February, make out and transmit a like list to the Clerks of the several Townships in the District, and also state to the said Clerks, the number of souls in their respective Townships, according to the last census returned for the said Townships, severally.

11. Provided always, and be it further enacted, &c. That if it shall so happen that the Township Clerk, Assessors and Collector, for any Township, shall neglect or refuse to make out and transmit to the Clerk of the Peace, lists of Jurors, by this Act provided, the Clerk of the Peace shall, in that case, in his lists to the Sheriff, transmit the names contained in the last lists received from such Township, and who have not served as Jurors during the preceding year, from which lists the Sheriff or Coroner shall Ballot accordingly, and the Jurors so returned shall be as liable to serve as if they had been actually returned by the Township Officers for that year.

12. And be it further enacted, &c. That those Townships at present not having one hundred Inhabitants, shall not be liable to furnish Jury lists as aforesaid until they do respectively contain one hundred Inhabitants, and thenceforward each of such Townships, as soon as they receive or contain the requisite population as above, shall nominate and furnish Jurors in like manner and proportion as other Townships shall do by virtue of this Act.

13. And be it further enacted, &c. That the several precepts for the return of Jurors to serve at the several Courts of Assize, Nisi Prius, Oyer and Terminer, and General Gaol Delivery, and at the Court of Quarter Sessions, and District Court, or Court of Special Commission, shall in future require the Sheriff, or Coroner, to return twenty-four Grand Jurors, as the inquest for the District, and forty-eight Petit Jurors, to try the several causes at issue in the several Courts; and the forty-eight Jurors returned upon the precept shall serve as such at the said several Courts, the several Commissions whereof are opened on the same day, and at the same place, and at such Courts as are by law appointed to be holden at the same time and place in the District, such as the Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace and District Courts, when and where the said Sheriff is, by such precept, required to have such Jurors, without any additional Venire Facias; Provided nevertheless, that in obedience to a Special Jury at Nisi Prius, in or for the return of a Jury for a trial at Bar in the Court of King's Bench, the Sheriff shall return the number required, according to the exigency of such writ of Venire.

14. And be it further enacted, &c. That a Special Jury shall be had only with the leave of the Court of King's Bench, upon motion first had and obtained in a civil suit, Subject and Subject being parties alone therein; and such leave shall not be given unless upon a reasonable case made out to the satisfaction of the Court, upon such motion, that the cause is intricate, by reason of mercantile or scientific subjects of consideration likely to arise in the evidence, and requiring persons of particular pursuits in life to hear the same, in order to understand the merits and give a satisfactory verdict.

15. And be it further enacted, &c. That upon rule or order of the Court of King's Bench made in any cause for the impanelling of such Special Jury for the cause aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for the party applying, or his Attorney, after service of the rule on the opposite party, or his Attorney, to give an appointment of day and hour, by the Sheriff, for the striking of such Special Jury; and after eight days notice given by the party obtaining the rule to the other party, of such appointment by the Sheriff, the parties shall attend, and each select from the lists of Jurors, as well Grand as Petit, returned, or to be returned by him upon the general precepts for the ensuing Assizes, twelve persons, and from the twenty-four thus selected, each party shall strike off four; and the sixteen persons remaining shall be returned on the Venire Facias in the cause; the names of the said sixteen Special Jurors shall be put into a box or glass, and twelve thereof drawn out by ballot, and impanelled as ordinary Juries at Assize and Nisi Prius are drawn and impanelled; and the twelve so drawn and impanelled shall be sworn accordingly to try the said cause: Provided always, nevertheless, that in case either party, or their Attornies, omit to attend the appointment of the Sheriff, the Sheriff, or his Deputy, shall select twelve persons, and strike off four, leaving eight for the absent party; which eight shall form part of the sixteen to be returned to the Venire, and be eligible as Special Jurors to try the cause, unless upon reasonable cause, or on motion in Court, or before a judge in Chambers, the Court or judge may think it just, upon payment of costs, to order the striking of such Special Jury anew.

16. And be it further enacted &c. That the party applying for a Special Jury shall, in all cases, pay the expenses thereof.

17. And be it further enacted &c. That the Township Clerk, for his making out the several lists, and preparing the return, shall receive the sum of Ten Shillings; and the Clerk of the Peace Two Pounds Ten Shillings, annually, for performing all the duties imposed upon him by this Act, the performance of such duty to be certified by the Sheriff or Coroner of the District, to be paid to each and every such Officer for this service by the Treasurer of the respective Districts, out of the public monies of the District in his hands, and to be allowed him accordingly in his public accounts, the said allowance to be so paid to the respective Township Clerks as soon as the Treasurer may receive a certificate from the Clerk of the Peace that he has received the return of the respective Townships for the year according to the provisions of this Act.

18. And be it further enacted, &c. That any Clerk of the Peace, Sheriff or Coroner, or their respective Deputies, contravening this Law, or wilfully neglecting his duty herein, shall forfeit the sum of Twenty-five pounds to such person as shall inform and prosecute for the same until the party be thereof convicted, by indictment before the Court of Oyer and Terminer, or before the General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, to be holden for the District where such contravention or wilful neglect shall have been committed, and the said Clerk of the Peace, Sheriff, Coroner, or Deputy, so convicted, shall be deemed, ipso facto, dismissed and out of office.

19. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Assessors, Collector or Township Clerk, for any Township, which shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties required of him by this Act shall be liable for the same penalty that Assessors, Collectors and Township Clerks, are now by Law liable for refusing or neglecting to perform their duties as such Officers; and to be collected and applied in like way and manner.

No. 36,

AN ACT

TO PROVIDE FOR HOLDING ELECTIONS IN THE COUNTY OF LEEDS.

WHEREAS, to promote the freedom of elections in the County of Leeds, and obtain a fair expression of the sentiments of Electors in the choice of members to represent the said County in Parliament, it is deemed expedient to alter and amend the Election Laws of this Province so far as the same relate to the said County. Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, &c.

That the several laws of this Province relating to the election of Members of Assembly and manner of conducting Elections shall be, and the same are hereby repealed in relation to the said County of Leeds, so far as the provisions thereof vary from this Act.

2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That hereafter the election of Members to represent the said County of Leeds in Parliament, shall be held at four places within the said County, and for that purpose the said County shall be and the same is hereby divided into four Sections, and that section number One shall be composed of the Townships of Elizabethtown and Yongo, and the place at which the election shall be held within such section shall be Colman's Corners in Elizabethtown. Section number Two of the Townships of Leeds and Lansdown, and the place at which the Election shall be held within such Section, shall be the village of Gananoque. Section number Three of the Townships of Kitley, Burgess and Elmsley, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be the village of Smith's Falls. And section number Four of the Townships of Bastard, North Crosby and South Crosby, and the place at which the election shall be held within such Section shall be the Village of Beverly.

3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That besides the Returning Officer now required to be appointed by law, it shall be the duty of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province for the time being, to appoint in like manner a Deputy Returning Officer to each of three of the said Sections, whose duty it shall be to hold the Election in the Section to which he shall be appointed, in the same manner and subject to the same responsibilities and penalties as Returning Officers for Counties are now liable by the laws of this Province; and to return to the Returning Officer appointed for the said County of Leeds the Poll Book for such Section, accompanied with an affidavit of such Deputy Returning Officer and his Poll Clerk, sworn before some Justice of the Peace of the District of Johnstown, that the same contains a faithful and true record of the votes taken at such Section Election according to law.

4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Returning Officer for the said County shall take the votes in such one of the said Sections as he shall be directed to preside at in his appointment as Returning Officer for the said County, in the same manner and under the same responsibilities and penalties as other Returning Officers presiding at elections in this Province, and upon receipt of the Poll Books from the Deputy Returning Officers of the other three Sections of the said County which they are respectively required to return to him as aforesaid within two days after the close of each Section Election under the penalty of two hundred pounds, it shall be the duty of the said Returning Officer, and he is hereby required to attend at the place where he received votes in the Section for which he was appointed to preside, at eleven of the clock in the forenoon, on the tenth day after the day on which such Section Election commenced (unless such day falls on Sunday, then on the Monday following) and in the presence of such of the candidates, their counsel or agents, and such persons as may be then and there assembled shall exhibit the said Poll Books, and return as duly elected the two Candidates who have on the Poll Books of the Four Sections the highest number of votes taken according to the provisions of this Act, in the same manner as if the election for the said County had been wholly held by the said Returning Officer in person.

5. And be it further enacted, by the authority aforesaid, That the election in each of the said sections shall begin on the same day, and the time of keeping open the poll for receiving votes shall be the same as is now required by the laws of this Province at other elections of members of Assembly, except that on the sixth day (if the election shall continue so long in any section) the poll shall be closed at three o'clock in the afternoon.

6. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the choice of Representatives for the said County shall be ascertained by the majority of the whole votes polled in the respective sections aforesaid, and not otherwise.

7. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That before proceeding to the discharge of his duty the Returning Officer for the said county shall take the same oath required by law to be taken by other Returning Officers at Elections of members of Assembly in this Province and every poll clerk shall take the same oath required in like manner to be taken by poll clerks, and that every Deputy Returning Officer shall take and subscribe the following oath:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear that I have not directly or indirectly received any sum or sums of money, office, place, or employment, gratuity or reward, or any bond, bill or note, or any promise or gratuity whatsoever, either by myself, or any other person to my use, benefit or advantage for making any false return or statement in the poll book required by law to be by me transmitted to the

Leeds Election Bill.

Returning Officer for the said county of Leeds and that I will conduct myself impartially, and without favour or affection to any party concerned in the present election for the said county of Leeds." Which several oaths may be administered by any Justice of the Peace of the District of Johnstown, and shall, within one month after the same are administered be severally certified by the Justice of the Peace before whom the same may be taken, and returned into His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, and shall be kept and filed of record in the Crown Office.

8. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Electors residing in each of the said sections shall vote at the election held in the section wherein they are so resident or in case the voter shall not be a resident of the said County but is otherwise legally qualified to vote therein, he shall vote in the section in which such property on which he votes is situate; Provided always, That nothing herein contained shall prevent or be construed to prevent any elector entitled to vote in the said county from voting in any of the said sections, if he makes oath before the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer presiding that he apprehends personal injury or insult if he attempts to vote in the section in which he is so resident, or his property is so situated as aforesaid, (as the case may be) or that it is inconvenient for him to vote therein. And Provided also, That besides the oaths which may now by law be administered to electors every elector before he shall be admitted to vote shall if required by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer at any section election at which the vote is offered or any candidate thereat, his counsel, agent or agents or any freeholder of the said county take the following oath before the said Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer who is hereby authorised and required to administer the same.

"You, A. B., do solemnly swear that you have not before voted at the present election for the County of Leeds in any other section than the one at which you now come forward to vote, that you reside in (state the place) & that the property on which you now propose to vote is situate in section number (stating the number of the section.)"

9. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That any candidate at any election in the said county may, by writing, appoint as many persons as he may think proper, not exceeding five in number, to act as counsel, agent or agents for him at any section election.

10. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers in the said county from the time they are respectively appointed, such Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers, until the election shall be finally declared by the said Returning Officer for the said county as aforesaid shall be and are hereby declared to be conservators of the peace and severally vested with the same powers within the district of Johnstown for the preservation of the peace and apprehension, punishment, committal for trial or holding to bail of violators of the law as are vested in Justices of the Peace in this Province, and that the said Returning Officer and Deputy Returning Officers may and each of them is hereby required to appoint and swear in such and so many special constables as he may deem necessary and as shall be sufficient for the preservation of peace and order at and during the said Section Election, for which the said Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer may be appointed, and for such time thereafter as may be deemed by him expedient and necessary.

11. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every person (not being a candidate, his counsel, clerk, agent or agents at any section election) who shall refuse to be sworn in as a special constable, or who shall neglect his duty as such without a legal excuse, and every person who by threats, force or violence attempts to destroy the freedom of any of the said Section Elections, or hinder any elector or electors from coming forward to vote thereat, or who creates or causes any unnecessary noise, interruption, riot, tumult, disturbance or disorder thereat, or threatens or uses violence to any elector who may have voted on account of any vote given thereat, shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and be subjected to fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court or justices before whom the conviction shall be had.

12. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every Justice of the Peace in the district of Johnstown, who upon being required by the Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer or any candidate at any such Section Election, or any three freeholders of the said county to assist in keeping the peace, who shall unreasonably refuse or neglect to use his exertions for the preservation of the peace at such Section Elections, or shall encourage or willingly permit any violence or disorder thereat shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, besides the punishment inflicted by the court before which such conviction shall be had, forfeit his office, and be forever incapable of being appointed a Justice of the Peace in this Province.

13. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the penalty of two hundred pounds imposed by this act may be recovered in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province by action of debt, bill, plaint or information in the common form, one moiety whereof shall be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the district of Johnstown, to and for the public uses of the district, and the other moiety to the person who shall sue for the same.

14. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall be guilty of false swearing in any oath required by this act, he shall, on conviction thereof suffer the like pains and penalties to which any other person convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury is liable by the laws and statutes of this Province.

This Bill passed the House of Assembly without a division.

No. 37.

AN ACT

TO REDUCE TO ONE ACT OF PARLIAMENT

THE SEVERAL LAWS

RELATIVE TO

THE APPOINTMENT AND DUTIES OF

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS

In this Province;

Except an Act passed in the 4th year of the reign of William the IV. Chap. 12, entitled "An Act to regulate Line Fences and Water Courses, and to repeal so much of an Act passed in the 33d year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the III. entitled 'An Act to provide for the nomination and appointment of Parish and Town Officers within this Province' as relates to the Office of Fence-Viewers being discharged by Overseers of Highways and Roads."

WHEREAS, it is expedient that the several laws now in force relative to the appointment and duties of Township Officers, and the mode of notifying and holding Township meetings, except an act passed in the fourth year of the reign of William the Fourth, chapter 12, entitled "An Act to regulate Line Fences and Water Courses, and to repeal so much of an Act passed in the thirty-third year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, entitled 'An Act to provide for the nomination of Parish and Town Officers within this Province' as relates to the office of Fence-Viewers being discharged by Overseers of Highways and Roads," should be repealed and reduced to one Act of Parliament and that provision should be made for the appointment of certain other Township Officers not now authorised to be chosen. Be it therefore enacted, &c., That an Act passed in the thirty-third year of the reign of King George the Third, entitled "An Act to provide for the nomination and appointment of Parish and Town Officers within this Province," except the tenth clause thereof, and also an Act passed in the 34th year of George the Third, entitled, "An Act to restrain the custom of permitting Horned Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Swine to run at large," and also the first, second and third clauses of an Act passed in the forty-third year of the reign of George the Third, entitled "An Act to extend the provisions of an Act passed in the thirty-fourth of His Majesty's reign entitled 'An Act to restrain the Custom of permitting Horned Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Swine to run at large'" and also an Act passed in the forty-fourth year of the reign of George the Third, entitled, "An Act to repeal so much of an Act passed in the thirty-fourth year of His Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to restrain the custom of permitting Horned Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Swine to run at large' as relates to Sheep and to restrain the owners of rams from permitting them to run at large during a certain time of the year," and also an act passed in the 45th year of the reign of George the third entitled "An Act to make provision for further appointments of parish and town officers throughout this Province" and also an act passed in the forty-sixth year of the reign of George the Third, entitled "An Act to alter and amend an act passed in the 33d year of His present Majesty's reign, entitled 'An Act to authorise and direct the laying and collecting of assessments and rates in every District in this Province, and to provide for payment of wages to the Members of the House of Assembly'" and also an Act passed in the 48th year of George the Third, entitled "An Act for the better regulation of Parish and Town Officers throughout this Province," and also the 6th, 7th, 11th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32d, and 33d clauses of an Act passed in the 50th year of the reign of George the Third, entitled "An Act to provide for the laying out, amending, and keeping in repair the public highways & roads in this Province, and to repeal the laws now in force for that purpose" and also an act passed in the 51st year of George the Third, entitled "An Act to repeal an Act passed in the 47th year of His Majesty's reign entitled "An Act to repeal the several Acts now in force in this Province relating to rates and assessments and also to particularise the property real and personal which during the continuance thereof, shall be subject to rates and assessments and fixing the several valuations at which each and every particular of such property shall be rated and assessed, and to make further provisions for the same," and also an Act passed in the 53rd year of His Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to alter and amend an Act passed in the 48th year of His Majesty's reign entitled "An Act for the better regulation of Parish and Town Officers throughout this Province," and also an Act passed the 56th year of George the Third entitled "An Act to repeal and amend part of an Act passed in the 50th year of His Majesty's reign entitled 'An Act to provide for the laying out, amending and keeping in repair the public Highways and Roads in this Province,' and to repeal the laws now in force for that purpose," and also an Act passed in the 57th year of George the Third, entitled "An Act to repeal part of and alter and amend an Act passed in the 33d year of His Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to provide for the nomination & appointment of Parish & Town Officers within this Province," & also an Act passed in the 59th year of George the Third, entitled "An Act further to extend the provisions of an act passed in the 55th year of His Majesty's reign entitled 'An Act to make provision for the further appointment of Parish and Town Officers throughout this Province'" and also the 3d, 6th, 9th, 10th, 11th and 16th clauses of An Act passed in the 59th year of George the Third, entitled "An Act to repeal the several laws now in force relative to levying and collecting rates and assessments in this Province and further to provide for the more equal and general assessment of lands and other ratable property throughout this Province," and also the 6th, 8th, 9th, 11th and 12th clauses of an Act passed in the 59th year of the reign of George the Third, entitled "An Act to repeal part of, and amend the laws now in force for laying out, amending, and keeping in repair the public Highways and Roads in this Province," and also an Act passed in the 4th year of the reign of His late Majesty, King George the Fourth, entitled "An Act to repeal part of the 2d clause of an Act passed in the 33d year of His late Majesty's reign entitled "An Act to provide for the nomination and appointment of Parish and Town Officers within this Province," and to make more effectual provision for obtaining an accurate census of the population of this Province, and also the 4th, 5th, and 8th clauses of an Act passed in the 4th year of George the Fourth, entitled "An Act to repeal part of and amend an Act passed in the 50th year of His late Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to provide for the laying out, amending, and keeping in repair the public Highways and Roads in this Province, and to repeal the laws now in force for that purpose," and also to repeal part of and amend the provisions of an Act passed in the 59th year of His late Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to repeal part of and amend the laws now in force for laying out, amending and keeping in repair the public Highways and roads in this Province," and also an Act passed in the 11th year of His late Majesty George the Fourth, entitled "An Act to provide for an increase of the number of overseers of Highways, Pounds, and Pound-keepers in the respective Townships throughout this Province," and also an Act passed in the 4th year of William the Fourth, chap. 11th, entitled "An Act to repeal part of and amend the laws now in force in this Province respecting the appointment and duties of Township Officers," be and the same are hereby repealed. Provided always, That any prior acts or enactments repealed by any of the Acts hereinbefore recited, shall be and remain repealed.

2. And be it further enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this Act, the Township Clerk for the time being in each and every township within this Province, shall assemble the inhabitants of said township, being householders, or freeholders, and paying or liable to pay any public assessment or rate of such township on the first Monday in January, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon at such place as shall have been agreed upon by the inhabitant householders and freeholders at the previous township meeting, or if no place shall have been so agreed upon at such previous meeting then at the place where such previous meeting was holden: Provided nevertheless, that the general township meetings for the year next ensuing the passing of this Act, shall be holden at the respective places where they shall have been last before holden, and such Township Clerk shall affix a notice of the time and place of such township meeting, for at least fifteen days previous thereto, in at least three of the most public places in the township and the inhabitant householders and freeholders when so assembled shall choose a chairman, whose duty it shall be to preside and keep order, and declare the decision of the meeting on all matters to be lawfully transacted thereat: Provided always, that until such chairman be chosen, the said Township Clerk, if present shall preside and keep order.

3. And be it further enacted, &c. That no person shall be qualified to vote at any township meeting under the provisions of this Act except he be a householder or freeholder in such township, of the full age of twenty-one years, and that all matters and questions at such township meetings shall be decided by the majority of the said inhabitant householders and freeholders of the township then and there present.

4. And be it further enacted, &c. That any person whatever, voting or offering to vote at any such township meeting as aforesaid, not being duly qualified by law to vote shall be subject and liable to a penalty of not less than five shillings or more than twenty shillings, to be recovered in the manner directed by this Act for the recovery of other fines and penalties, and to be laid out in like manner on the roads and highways, provided the complaint shall be made to the Court having jurisdiction of similar offences, within three months thereafter, unless it shall appear to the Court that the person so offending shall not have had his vote objected to at the time of his voting and that the offence was committed through his ignorance of the law upon this subject.

5. Provided always, and be it further enacted, &c. That in case the Township Clerk of any township shall neglect or refuse to assemble the said inhabitant householders and freeholders at the time & place and in the manner and form aforesaid, the said householders and freeholders may nevertheless lawfully meet and transact all such public business as is provided by this Act at the time and place hereinbefore provided.

6. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said inhabitant householders and freeholders at such township meeting to choose one proper person to be Clerk of the said township; also to choose three proper persons to serve the office of Commissioners for the township; also one proper person to serve the office of Assessor for the township; also one proper person to serve the office of Collector for the township; also any number of persons to serve as Overseers of Highways, Roads & Bridges for the township, and also any number of persons to serve as Pound-keepers for the township as they shall deem expedient for the year: Provided always, that no person shall be compelled or be liable to serve any township office above mentioned for two years in succession except the inhabitant householders and freeholders neglect or refuse to assemble and appoint officers, or in case they do assemble and from any cause whatever neglect or refuse to appoint particular officer or officers, for the year aforesaid, then and in such case the officers of the township for the preceding year, or such of them as shall not be relieved by the appointment of other officers as their successors shall continue and remain in office for the year, and shall have the same powers, and be subject to the same responsibilities as if they had been legally appointed to such office in the usual manner, and provided also, that no person shall be compelled to serve in any of the aforesaid offices for any township in which he shall not reside.

7. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitant householders and freeholders in any newly settled township in which no regular township meetings have been by law hitherto holden, to hold township meetings for the appointment of persons to serve the different offices for the townships mentioned in this Act, so soon as such townships shall contain thirty inhabitant householders or freeholders: Provided always, that where a township does not contain thirty inhabitant householders and freeholders, such householders and freeholders shall be taken and reputed as inhabitants of the township adjacent thereto containing the smallest number of inhabitants that is authorised to hold a township meeting, and may vote at its township meetings, and shall be subject to all the regulations made at the meetings of such townships, and all officers legally appointed at such township meeting consisting or made up of two or more townships, shall and they are hereby declared to be the officers of the several townships composing such meeting.

8. And be it further enacted, &c. That the following course may be adopted which shall be lawful for convening a first Township Meeting, on the first Monday in January, at the hour of ten o'clock for the purposes of this Act in any township which has not before legally held a Township Meeting, that is, by affixing a public notice in at least three of the most conspicuous places in the Township, at least fifteen days previously, signed by a majority of the inhabitant householders and freeholders of such township, stating that a public meeting will be held on the first Monday in the month of January ensuing, at some certain place in such township, for the appointment of township officers for the year.

9. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitant householders and freeholders of the several townships in this Province, at such township meetings assembled, to determine and order in what manner, at what periods and what description of horned cattle, horses, sheep and other animals, (not expressly provided for by law) shall be allowed to run at large or be restrained from so doing within their respective townships for the year, and what shall be the fine or forfeiture upon the owner of any animals running at large, contrary to such regulations; and also to make such rules and regulations as the majority may deem necessary relative to pits, precipices and deep waters or other places dangerous to travellers, or the destroying or suppressing the growth of such weeds as are detrimental to good husbandry; the height and description of lawful fences, and such other matters connected with the same as may tend to promote the peace and welfare of their township.

10. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Clerk appointed as aforesaid for any township to record all such matters as shall be lawfully transacted at such meeting, and all other matters relating to the township which by virtue of his office it shall be his duty to record; which record, together with all other records, papers, monies unexpended, and property belonging to the township, which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, shall be faithfully kept and preserved by such Clerk, and by him delivered over to his successor duly appointed.

11. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of every Township Clerk appointed agreeably to the provisions of this act, to make out two copies from his record of the proceedings of the meeting at which he was appointed as Clerk for the township, within twenty days after his appointment; one of which he shall post up in a conspicuous manner at the place where such meeting was held, and transmit or deliver the other copy to the Clerk of the Peace for the district, and it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Peace to file in his office all such copies as may be transmitted or delivered to him by the respective Township Clerks in each and every year, which shall be and remain in his office as a record, and shall be open to the inspection of any person desiring it, on payment of one shilling to the Clerk of the Peace as his fee, for his trouble in making such search.

12. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of such Clerk to cause the several township officers legally appointed or chosen for the year to be served with a notice of their appointment to such offices, signed by his hand as Township Clerk within the space of ten days from and after their appointment, requiring them to take the oath (or affirmation as the case may be) of office for their respective offices according to law; which notice may be in the following form:

"Sir,
You are hereby notified that you were appointed on the _____ day of _____ to the office of _____ and you are required to take the oath or affirmation of office, for the said office according to law."
" (Signed) A. B."
" Township Clerk."

To " C. D."
" Dated, &c."

13. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Township Clerk of any township for the time being, and he is hereby authorised to administer any oath or affirmation of office (as the case may be) authorised or required by this act, and which oath or affirmation may be as follows:

" You, A. B., do solemnly swear or affirm (as the case may be) that you will faithfully and diligently perform the duties of the office of _____ for this present year according to law and the best of your abilities."
" So help you God,"

14. Provided always, and be it further enacted, &c. That the Overseers of Highways shall severally take the following oath, a copy of which shall be given to the several Overseers by the Township Clerk:

" You A. B. do promise and swear (or affirm as the case may be) that you will faithfully, diligently and impartially perform the duty of Overseer of Highways, and that you will require each and every person under your charge (not having compounded for his statute labor) faithfully and diligently to perform the same according to law, either in person or by an able bodied substitute, and will report every defaulter to the Commissioners, and perform all other matters and things pertaining to your office, as the law directs."
" So HELP YOU GOD."

15. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the said Clerk, and he is hereby authorised and required to keep a record of the names of all such as take such oath or affirmation, and report to the Board of Commissioners at each and every meeting of such Board for the year, the names of all those persons in the township who have been legally appointed to a township office for the year, and notified as aforesaid, and have neglected or refused to take the oath or affirmation required by this Act.

16. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Township Clerk shall be entitled to demand and receive from the Treasurer of the District as a compensation for performing the duties imposed upon him as Township Clerk by this Act, the sum of five shillings for every day that he may be necessarily employed in performing the duties of his office, which sum together with all other fees allowed to him by this act, the Treasurer is hereby authorised and required (on demand made) and upon affidavit of such Township Clerk made before any Justice of the Peace, that such demand is just and true, to pay to the respective Township Clerks, out of any monies that may be in his hands unappropriated and applicable to the general uses of the District.

17. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Township Clerk of any township, and he is hereby authorised, during the continuance of his office, to administer any oath or affirmation authorised or required to be taken or administered by this Act.

18. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Assessor of any township, and he is hereby authorised and required to demand and receive from every ratable inhabitant resident within the township, a list of all the ratable personal property in his, her or their possession in the Province; and of all the lands, tenements or other real estate in his, her or their possession within the township, specifying the number of the lot or lots, the number of the concession or concessions in which the same is or are situated, or otherwise particularly describing the same, and also the number of acres cultivated or uncultivated in each lot or parcel of land; which list shall be taken between the first Monday in February, and the Court of General Quarter Sessions for the District, which shall be holden next after the first day of March in every year; and shall make a return within the time aforesaid, duly attested under oath (or affirmation) before the Clerk of the Peace for the District or Township Clerk, of all the ratable inhabitants, with a true list of all their ratable property, specifying the particulars above mentioned, and shall in like manner insert his own ratable property therein, at the foot of which he shall subscribe his name, and shall cause the said return to be delivered to the Clerk of the Peace to be by him laid before the Court of Quarter Sessions at its said sittings; and shall also within the time aforesaid, put up a correct copy thereof for the inspection of the public, at the place where the last township meeting was held in his township; and the said Assessor shall, and he is hereby required to report to the Board of Commissioners, the names of all such persons in the township as he conceives have either given in a false list or have refused or neglected to give any list as the law directs, of their ratable property, in order that such offender may be dealt with according to law, at least fourteen days previous to his returning such roll to the Clerk of the Peace.

19. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for every Assessor, and he is hereby required to demand and receive from every inhabitant householder or head of a family in his township, a true and correct list of the number of persons composing such family, male and female, and their respective ages; also all deaf and dumb and insane persons, including therein all persons employed by, or resident with such householder or head of a family, which list shall or may be in the following form:

Names of heads of families.	Number in each Family.				Deaf & Dumb	Insane
	MALES.		FEMALES.
	Under 16	Over 16	Under 16	Over 16

And if such householder or head of a family shall refuse or neglect to give a true and correct list to the Assessor, he shall be liable to pay the same penalty as persons are liable to pay, who neglect or refuse to give in a true list of their ratable property to the said Assessor; to be levied and collected and expended in the same way.

20. And be it further enacted, &c. That every Assessor shall subscribe such list to be taken by him, and shall deliver or transmit the same to the Clerk of the Peace for the District, before the said sittings of the Quarter Sessions, verified upon oath or affirmation before the Township Clerk or Clerk of the Peace of the District, to be a true list.

21. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Peace in every District to make out a general return of the population of his District, from the several returns which he may receive from the Assessors for the year, and to transmit the same to the Office of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or Person administering the Government of this Province for the time being, on or before the first day of July in each and every year; and if such return shall not contain the whole population of his District, he shall send in a return of such Townships as may be deficient, as soon as practicable after he shall be enabled to do so, by returns of the Assessors of such Townships.

22. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for each and every Assessor to demand and receive from the Treasurer of his respective district the following fees, as a compensation for the duties imposed upon him by this act, viz: if the assessment of the rate of one penny in the pound for the year does not amount to fifty pounds, he shall receive a sum equal to seven pounds for every one hundred pounds; if above fifty pounds and under one hundred pounds, a sum equal to six pounds ten shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above one hundred pounds, and under one hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to six pounds for every one hundred pounds; if above one hundred and fifty pounds and under two hundred pounds, a sum equal to five pounds five shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above two hundred pounds and under two hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to four pounds fifteen shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above two hundred and fifty pounds and under three hundred pounds, a sum equal to four pounds five shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above three hundred pounds and under three hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to four pounds, for every one hundred pounds; and if above three hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to three pounds ten shillings for every one hundred pounds.

23. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Collector appointed for a township, and he is hereby authorised and required after first having received a certified copy from the Clerk of the Peace, of the Assessment Roll for the township, for the previous year, which certified copy shall be to each and every Collector sufficient authority for collecting the same, from time to time, to demand and receive from the inhabitants of the township, all such rates and assessments as may be due and payable on such assessment list, and shall pay the same over to the Treasurer of the District, on or before the said sittings of the Court of Quarter Sessions: Provided always, That it shall and may be lawful for every such Collector to reserve for himself the following fees as a compensation for his services as such Collector; that is to say, if the assessment for the township for which he is Collector does not amount to fifty pounds, he shall retain a sum equal to eight pounds for every £100 he collects; if above fifty pounds and under one hundred pounds, a sum equal to seven pounds ten shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above one hundred pounds and under one hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to seven pounds five shillings for every one hundred pounds; if above one hundred and fifty pounds and under two hundred pounds, a sum equal to seven pounds for every one hundred pounds; if above two hundred pounds and under two hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to six pounds ten shillings for every one hundred pounds; and that for all sums over two hundred and fifty pounds, a sum equal to five pounds for every one hundred pounds.

24. And be it further enacted, &c. That if any person, whose name is inserted upon such Assessment Roll, shall neglect or refuse to pay the sum or rate for which he or she stands rated in manner aforesaid, for the space of fourteen days after demand duly made of the same by the said Collector or his agent duly appointed, the said Collector upon oath, before one of the said commissioners, of such demand and refusal of payment as aforesaid, shall be entitled to demand an execution for the amount of such rate or rates, which execution the said commissioner is hereby authorised and required to grant, and upon the receipt of the same, the said Collector shall, and he is hereby authorised and required to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so neglecting or refusing to pay, having eight days previous notice of such sale in three public places in the township, and render the overplus, if any there be, to the owner thereof, after deducting the amount of the rates assessed and the legal charges of distress and sale.

25. And be it further enacted, &c. That the following fee and no more, shall and may by such Collectors be taken for every distress, advertising and sale, viz : three shillings and nine pence.

26. And be it further enacted, &c. That each and every Collector shall, within eight days after his appointment, and before he shall collect any money by virtue of his office, enter into a bond jointly and severally, with two sufficient freeholders to be approved of by the Township Clerk, to the Treasurer of the District, to the full amount of double the assessment of the Township for the preceding year, which bond may be in the following form:

KNOW ALL MEN, by these presents, that we A. B., Collector of the rates for the Township or Townships of _____ in the District of _____ and C. D. of _____ and E. F. of _____ are held and firmly bound to J. O. Treasurer of the District of _____ in the sum of _____ currency to be well and truly paid to the said J. O. Treasurer as aforesaid, or his successor in office; for which payment well and truly to be made to the said J. O. we bind ourselves jointly and severally, our heirs, executors and administrators firmly by these presents, sealed with our seal.

The condition of the above bond is such, that if the above bounden A. B. shall collect all the rates and Assessments of the Township or Townships of _____ for the preceding year, ending the first Monday in January in this present year, so far as the law may enable him to do, and shall pay all the monies which he may so collect (except his own per centage) to the Treasurer of the District, on or before the next ensuing sittings of the Court of Quarter Sessions which may be next after the first day of March, then this obligation to be void, or otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

27. And be it further enacted, &c. That if at any time it shall happen to be out of the power of any Collector of any Township to collect the Assessment due from any person for want of assets to satisfy the same, or by reason of any person being out of the Township or upon any other account, it shall and may be lawful for the Collector of such Township in any subsequent year to collect such rates in the same way and manner as if such rate was due for the year for which he shall be appointed.

28. And be it further enacted, &c. That each and every Township Clerk shall, on or before the first meeting of the Township Commissioners after his appointment, enter into a bond jointly and severally with two sufficient freeholders, the freeholders and the amount of the bond to be approved of by the Board of Commissioners, which bond shall be to the Commissioners, and in the form prescribed by this act for Collectors, except the condition which may be in the form following:

"The condition of the above bond is such, that if the above bounden A. B. shall well and truly pay over all monies coming into his hands by virtue of his office and applicable to the general uses of the Township, and deliver the remainder (if any there be) together with all books, records and papers belonging to the Township, into the hands of his successor in office as the law directs, then this obligation to be void, or otherwise to remain in full force and virtue."

29. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Overseers of Highways of any Township, and they are hereby severally authorised and required, to superintend, make and keep in repair, the highways, roads, streets and bridges, that may be allotted to them severally from time to time and ordered by the Board of Commissioners for the Township, and every such Overseer shall after having received such order, by giving at least three days notice of the day, hour and place, summon such persons within his division as are liable to perform statute labor that may be due, and order them to work within the time stated in such order, on such part of the roads, bridges or highways, as they are directed to make, amend or repair, and shall or may direct all persons performing such labor, to destroy as much as may be in their power, such weeds as are in his opinion hurtful to good husbandry, and shall give to every person who may have done his statute labor for the year, requiring the same, a certificate under his hand of having performed his share of statute labor in that Township for the year, in order to prevent such person from being called out again in any other Township to which he may remove.

30. And be it further enacted, &c. That when any road or highway passes any deep water, precipice, or other dangerous place, the overseer in whose division such place may be situated, shall, by statute labor, cause good and sufficient guards, rails or fences, to be erected in order to make such places safe, and shall also erect finger posts at all such places within his division as shall be necessary for the direction of travellers.

31. And be it further enacted, &c. That any person liable to perform statute labor according to law, may compound for such duty if he or she shall think fit, on or before the first day of May, by paying to the Overseer acting for the division in which he or she resides, the sum of five shillings for a team and driver for every day that he or she may be required to work on the road with such team and driver, and also by paying as aforesaid the sum of two shillings and six pence for every day he or she may be called on without such team as aforesaid, and such Overseer is hereby authorised and required to accept the said sum in place of such statute labor, and shall and may lay out and expend the same in such manner as to him shall seem best for the improvement of the roads or bridges allotted to his division, and render an account of the same as is provided by this act.

32. And be it further enacted &c. That in order to provide materials for making and erecting any bridges or causeways or making or repairing any road, it shall and may be lawful for any Overseer of highways in the actual discharge of his duty, to direct the persons performing statute labor, to cut down or make use of any tree or underwood standing upon any unenclosed and unimproved lands, and also to break up and make use of any stone upon any unimproved and uncultivated land, that such Overseer may think necessary for that purpose, and wilfully doing no unnecessary injury to the premises from whence they are taken.

33. And be it further enacted, &c. That the roads and highways in and through every Township, as also a just share of any road actually required and necessarily running between the same and any other Township, shall be cleared, repaired and maintained by the inhabitants thereof; and that every person liable to perform statute labor if not compounded for as aforesaid, shall either in person or by a sufficient and able bodied man in his or her stead, be obliged under the direction of the Overseer acting for the division, to work faithfully and diligently on the said road, and shall bring with him one Spade, Axe, Pickaxe, Bar or such other implement or instrument useful for the purpose aforesaid, as he may be owner of, and be directed by the Overseer to bring, for and during any space of time he may be liable to work on the said roads in each and every year, allowing eight hours to each day's work exclusive of the time of going to and from the place of work; and that every person within any Township keeping a cart wagon or team of one or more horses oxen or beasts of burthen or draught used to draw the same, shall send on every day to be appointed by the said Overseers, a cart, or wagon, and team, and one able bodied man to drive the same, for such space of time as he shall be liable to work on the said roads according to law, allowing eight hours to each day's work, which said day's work shall be held equivalent to two days personal labor, and if any laborer or driver shall refuse or neglect to work faithfully or to carry good and sufficient loads during the time above mentioned, it shall and may be lawful for the said Overseer, and he is hereby authorised and required, to discharge such laborer, and the person furnishing such team shall be liable to the forfeiture which every such person would have incurred by virtue of this act—in case such laborer had not attended, or such team and driver had not been sent, and shall not be allowed for the part or portion of the day which he may have labored.

34. And be it further enacted, &c. That the several Overseers of highways in the several townships shall cause all statute labor under their direction and controul to be performed, and all monies coming into their hands in lieu of statute labor to be expended, between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of July in each and every year, except otherwise directed by the Township Commissioners for the said Township.

35. And be it further enacted, &c. That every person liable to perform statute labor in any township or division and not having compounded for the same according to law, who shall neglect or refuse after having been duly notified as aforesaid, to attend himself or send a sufficient able bodied man in his stead, with such carriage, team, implement or instrument as may be by this act required and directed by the Overseer at the time and place appointed, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five shillings for each day he shall so neglect or refuse, and every person who shall neglect or refuse, after notice given as is provided by this act, to view fences and appraise damages, and to deliver his determination within the time specified by this act, shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than five shillings nor more than twenty shillings to be recovered by the Board of Commissioners by confession or upon the oath of one credible witness; & to be levied by warrant under the hand and seal of the commissioners by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person so offending, rendering the overplus if any there be to the party, after deducting the penalty and legal charges attending such distress and sale; and the imposing of any such fine or penalty by the commissioners on any person shall not in any wise release such person from performing any duty required of him by this act, but he shall be liable and subject to perform the same at any time within the current year, when called upon so to do by the proper officer, as though no such fine or penalty had been imposed upon him.

36. And be it further enacted, &c. That if any person shall willfully stop up any road or roads in any township or shall pull down or destroy any fence, railway or guard, that shall have been erected along any water bridge or precipice for the safety of travellers, or any guide or finger post, such persons offending shall forfeit and pay for every such offence a sum not less than five shillings nor more than five pounds, to be recovered in the manner provided by the preceding clause of this act, or in case any tree or trees shall be cut down in or fall out of any inclosed land in such a way as to obstruct any public road or highway, the owner or occupier of such inclosure shall remove the same within twenty-four hours after notice received of such obstruction, under the penalty of ten shillings for every day the obstruction shall continue; the penalty to be recovered in like manner.

37. And be it further enacted, &c. That the overseers of each and every township shall severally make out a true list or account of all persons within their respective divisions, and also of all who own either a sleigh, cart or wagon, and team, and who are liable to work on the highways, and of the labor done or unperformed by any person liable to perform or compound for the same, and also of all monies that may have come into his hands by virtue of his office, and of the expenditure or payment of the same; which list or account shall be subscribed by such overseer and delivered verified upon oath or affirmation if required, to the board of commissioners for the township, at their meeting on the second Saturday in November.

38. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of any pound keeper appointed under the provisions of this act, to provide himself with sufficient yards or enclosures for the safe keeping of all such animals as it may be his duty to impound, and he is hereby authorised and required to impound all animals unlawfully running at large or trespassing and doing damage that may be delivered to him by any person resident within his division, taking up the same; and it shall be his duty to furnish the same with necessary food and drink; and if after the space of forty-eight hours said animals shall not be claimed and redeemed by the owner or some one in his behalf, paying the pound keeper his lawful demand and charges, and the amount of damages awarded in the manner hereinafter mentioned to have been done by such animals to the person taking up the same, he shall cause a notice in writing to be affixed in three public places in the township for at least fifteen days, which notice shall give a description of such animals, and also state the time and place at which he intends to expose the same to sale; and if the owner of such animals or some one in his or her behalf, does not, within the time specified in such notice as aforesaid, redeem the same by paying to the said Pound-keeper his legal charges and the damages awarded to the person taking up such animals, the said Pound-keeper shall proceed to sell the same to the highest bidder at the time and place mentioned in the notice, which sale is hereby declared to be valid in law; and the said Pound-keeper shall, after deducting his own legal charges and the damages awarded to the person taking up the said animals, provided he is the party injured, return the overplus (if any there be) to the original owner: Provided always, That if no person shall appear to claim the said animals within the space of three months after public notice and sale as aforesaid, the said Pound-keeper shall pay the overplus (if any) into the hands of the Township Clerk for the time being, to be laid out for the improvement of the roads and bridges within the township.

39. Provided always and be it further enacted, &c. That if any ox or oxen, horse or horses, shall be impounded as aforesaid and not claimed before the expiration of fifteen days as aforesaid, and the owner thereof shall not be known by the said Pound-keeper, then and in that case the Pound-keeper shall not sell such ox or oxen, horse or horses, at the time stated in such notice, but shall postpone the sale thereof for the space of three months, at the expiration of which time such Pound-keeper shall proceed to sell the same and dispose of the proceeds in the manner mentioned in the last preceding clause of this act: Provided always, That the owner of the same may at any time, before such sale, redeem such animal or animals by paying demands as aforesaid.

40. Provided also, and be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of all and every person taking any animal or animals to a Pound-keeper to be impounded, at the same time or within twenty-four hours, to state in writing to the said Pound-keeper, all demands he may have against the owner of such animal or animals for damages done by them, and in case the owner of such animal or animals shall tender to the Pound-keeper the full sum which shall or may be awarded as damages to the party suffering the same with the costs then incurred, such owner shall not be liable to any costs afterwards incurred, but all such subsequent costs in such case shall be borne by the party claiming extravagant damages.

41. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Pound-keeper, and he is hereby authorised and required within twenty-four hours after having impounded any animal as aforesaid, to notify three disinterested freeholders to appraise the damages done by the said animals, and also to judge of the sufficiency of the fence inclosing the ground wherein such animals were found doing damage, and such freeholders, or any two of them, shall within twenty-four hours after the receipt of such notice, view such fence and determine whether the same is a lawful fence according to the resolutions of the Township meeting on that subject; and if so, appraise the damage done, and having reduced their award to writing, shall deliver the same subscribed with their names to the Pound-keeper, within the space of twenty-four hours after having been so notified: Provided always, that if the said freeholders shall not award any damages to the person taking up such animals, the Pound-keeper shall on demand deliver the same to the owner thereof, and shall be entitled to recover his costs and charges from the persons at whose instance such animals were impounded.

42. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall not be necessary for the Pound-keeper to cause fences to be viewed, and damages to be appraised, as aforesaid, in cases where animals are impounded by him that may be lawfully impounded without being found doing actual damage, as, for instance, rams and other animals, not free commoners, but shall otherwise proceed as the law directs.

43. And be it further enacted, &c., That it shall and may be lawful for any person whatsoever to take up any ram, bull or boar, which he may find running at large, contrary to the regulations made in that respect for the year at the Township meeting, and deliver the same to the Pound-keeper to be dealt with according to law.

44. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of any Pound-keeper to impound any ram, bull or boar, as aforesaid, that may be delivered to him, and advertise the same at three public places in the township for the space of eight days or such further time as shall be lawfully prescribed by any regulation at the township meeting, and at the expiration of the said term publicly to sell the same to the highest bidder at the time and place stated in such advertisement, unless such ram, bull or boar shall be previously claimed and redeemed by the owner thereof by his paying to such Pound-keeper his fees and such other sum as shall be imposed as a fine or penalty at the township meeting on the owner of any ram, bull or boar which may be found running at large at certain seasons of the year; and such Pound-keeper shall pay over all sums that he may so receive, except his fee, to the township Clerk for the year.

45. And be it further enacted, &c. That every Pound-keeper appointed by virtue of this Act shall be authorised to take such and no greater fees for performing the duties imposed upon him or for feeding animals as aforesaid as may be authorised and allowed by the Board of Commissioners for the year; and it shall be his duty to pay over without delay to the person entitled to receive the same such sums awarded as damages, as may come into his hands by virtue of his office.

46. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Commissioners appointed agreeably to the provisions of this Act, shall be known by the name of "The Board of Commissioners for the Township of _____," and as such shall be capable of performing, ordering and doing all such matters and things as shall be authorised by this act, and the majority of them shall be competent to transact any lawful business agreeably to this Act, for the benefit of their respective Townships.

47. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Clerks of the respective Townships shall be, and are hereby declared to be the Clerks of and for the Board of Commissioners, and as such shall attend all their meetings, and record in a Book to be by them kept for that purpose, all judgments, decisions or orders that shall be made by such Board, and all other matters and things which it may be necessary to have recorded for reference; which records shall be considered and taken to be part of the records of the Township, & as such shall be delivered by them over to their successors in office.

Township Officers' Bill.

43. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of such Board, and they are hereby required to meet at the same place at which the Township meeting was last before holden, at the hour of ten of the clock in the forenoon, on the third Saturday in January, on the first Saturday in July, and on the third Saturday in October, and also at as many other times and places in the township as they may deem expedient for the purpose of performing the duties imposed upon them by this Act.

49. And be it further enacted, &c. That the Board of Commissioners for any Township shall, and they are hereby authorised and required to take charge of, allot, and order to be made, repaired, and kept in repair, in such manner as they may think expedient, all such roads and bridges as are now or shall be required to be kept in repair by the inhabitants of such township, by any act or acts of the Legislature of this Province.

50. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of such Board, and they are hereby authorised and required at their meeting on the third Saturday in January, or at some adjourned meeting before the third Saturday in April to divide the township into divisions, and to allot to the several Overseers their respective divisions, and to order the said Overseers to expend the statute labor on the roads within the same or they may order the whole or any part of such statute labor to be done on the road or roads in any particular part of such township or any adjacent township as to them shall seem expedient, and also to hear and determine upon all such matters as may come before them by virtue of this Act.

51. And be it further enacted. That it shall and may be lawful for such Board to resolve what fees or compensation for poundage or for feeding animals, shall or may be taken by the several Pound-keepers in the township for the year, and also the quantity of provender that shall be daily allowed to the several animals impounded and also allot to said Pound-keepers their several precincts or divisions, a statement of which shall be transmitted to the several Pound-keepers for their guidance, and a true copy posted up in some public place in the township within the respective precincts of the Pound-keepers.

52. And be it further enacted. That it shall and may be lawful for such Board, and they are hereby required at any of their meetings as aforesaid, to fill up all vacancies in the township offices, by appointing other officers instead, that may occur by reason of death or removal from the township or by any person neglecting or refusing to take the oath or affirmation of office required by law or by neglecting or refusing after having taken such oath or affirmation to perform the duties of the office, and the Township Clerk shall notify and administer an oath or affirmation of office to such as may be appointed at meetings of the Board and report delinquents in the same manner as if they had been appointed at the township meeting, and such officers so appointed by such Board shall have the same power and authority and be liable to the same responsibilities and penalties that they would have been had they been appointed at the township meetings.

53. And be it further enacted. That from and after the passing of this Act, any person who is not assessed at more than twenty-five pounds, and who by reason of age, sickness, or numerous family, or misfortune, may be in poor and indigent circumstances, may apply to the Board of Commissioners for the township in which such person resides, and the said Board on such application having first notified the Overseer acting for the division in which such person resides to appear on the part of the public, shall examine and enquire into the situation and circumstances of the person making such application, and if it shall appear to such Board that such person is really poor and indigent, and therefore desires to be released from a part or the whole of his or her statute labor, the said Board may in their discretion exempt such person from the performance of the whole or a part of his or her statute labor upon the highways for the year and give him a certificate to that effect, which shall be an acquittance of the same.

54. And be it further enacted. That if any person legally appointed to any township office agreeably to the provisions of this Act, shall neglect or refuse to take an oath or affirmation of office before the proper officer for administering the same within eight days after being duly notified, or after taking such oath or affirmation, shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties of his office agreeably to the provisions of this Act, or shall take any greater fee or allowance than is authorised by this Act, or if any person shall neglect or refuse to deliver in a true list of his or her ratable property, real or personal as the law directs in manner and form aforesaid, or shall wilfully mistake such ratable property, such person shall forfeit and pay a sum not less than one pound nor more than five pounds with costs for every such neglect, refusal or violation of the law, to be levied by distress and sale of the offenders goods and chattels, eight days previous notice of such sale being given and the overplus if any being rendered to the owners.

And be it further enacted. That upon complaint of such neglect, refusal or violation of the law before the Board of Commissioners for the township wherein the offence was committed, or if such neglect or refusal shall come to the knowledge of the said Commissioner by returns as aforesaid, the said Board shall after summoning the party or delinquent before them (which summons either of the members of the said Board is hereby authorised to issue) hear and determine the same and upon sufficient proof being made of such wilful neglect or refusal or violation of the law, or misstatement by the confession of the party or the oath of one credible witness, shall issue such warrant of distress and sale as aforesaid to some constable who is hereby authorised and required to execute the same unless the sum or penalty be immediately satisfied, and such sums or penalties when collected shall be paid into the hands of the Township Clerk.

56. And be it further enacted. That the several Commissioners for the several townships shall be entitled to demand and receive from the Treasurer of the District as a compensation for performing their respective services and duties imposed upon them by the provisions of this Act, the sum of five shillings per day for every day they are necessarily engaged in the said duties and services, the said days to be certified by the Township Clerk, which sum the Treasurer of the District is hereby authorised and required to pay on demand and production of such certificate out of the public monies in his hands unappropriated and applicable to the general uses of the District, and the Commissioners aforesaid shall render an account to the Township Clerks respectively of the amount of monies so received by them for their respective services, which account, together with all monies received by the said Clerk for his services, shall be by him laid before the next township meeting for inspection.

57. And be it further enacted, &c. That the constable to whom any warrant, execution or summons may be directed, authorised to be issued by this act, shall be entitled to the following fees and no more for executing such warrant, execution or summons, viz: four pence per mile for every mile he may have to travel to execute the same, which travel shall be verified upon oath if required, and for levying, advertizing, selling and making returns, two shillings and six-pence—for every summons served, eight pence.

58. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of such Board carefully to examine the returns of the several Overseers, and of the Township Clerk, and also the books, accounts and papers of such Clerk, and when it shall appear from such returns and records that there has been a neglect of duty on the part of such officer, or when it shall appear that any person has neglected or refused to give in a true list of his or her ratable property, or has refused or neglected to perform his or her statute labor according to law, such Board may, and they are hereby authorised and required to summon such person to answer for such offence, and proceed against him as if a complaint had been duly made of such neglect.

59. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for such Board, or any one of them, to issue a summons under his or their hands to any person in the Township that may be required by any party, or if such Board shall think it necessary to require the attendance of any witness to appear before the said Board at any of their meetings to be held as aforesaid to give evidence or to answer to a complaint, as the case may be, which summons may be in the following form:

"To. A. B.

You are hereby required to be and appear before the Board of Commissioners for the Township of _____ on the _____ day of _____ at _____ in the said Township, to give evidence respecting a complaint against C. D. and for (describing the complaint) or to answer to a complaint against you (describing the complaint) as the case may be.

Dated this _____ day of _____ 183.

Commissioner."

60. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty's Justices of the Peace to pay into the hands of the Town Clerk, appointed under this act, all monies arising from fines, &c. under the act passed in the fourth year of His Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act to provide for the summary punishment of petty trespasses and other offences;" also the commutation in lieu of militia service under the authority of a certain Act of the Parliament of this Province, passed in the fourth year of His Majesty's reign, entitled, "An Act for the relief of certain religious denominations of persons called Menonists, Tunkers and Quakers," which said monies shall be paid over to the Town Clerk of the Township in which said fines may be imposed and collected, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

61. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Town Clerk to make out a full and detailed statement of all monies received and expended by virtue of this act during the current year, which statement shall be signed and certified by the said Clerk, and a copy thereof shall be by said Clerk put up for public inspection at three of the most public places within said Township, one of which shall be the place at which the ensuing Township Meeting shall be ordered to be held, on or before the third Monday of December—and the said Clerk shall be allowed for each copy of said statements the sum of ten shillings.

62. And be it further enacted, &c., That all monies that shall come into the hands of any Township Clerk by virtue of his office, shall and may be expended by the Board of Commissioners for the Township, in making or improving the public highways, roads and bridges of such Township, and such Township Clerk is hereby authorized and required to pay the sum or any part thereof that may be required, to the order of such Board, and in case any such monies shall remain in his hands unexpended at the expiration of his term of office, the same shall, on demand, be by him paid over to his successor within four days after the said termination of his office.

63. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for every Township Clerk to ask and receive from the Treasurer of the district in which the township is situated for which he is Clerk, at any time after the holding of the Quarter Sessions, next after the first day of March in that year, all monies that have been paid into the Treasury for his township under the wild land assessment act for the improvement of roads and bridges and that have not been expended: Provided always, That the respective Township Clerks, first appointed under the provisions of this act are hereby authorized to demand and receive from the Treasurer all such money as aforesaid, as may be remaining in the Treasury and unappropriated, any law, usage or custom to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

64. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the Commissioners for any township to lay out and expend the money coming into the hands of the Clerk of the township, arising from the wild land assessment law, in making or improving the roads and bridges in the township in which the lands are situated, for which such taxes are paid, and the said Commissioners shall make out a return of the amount so received, and the manner and place where the same has been expended, which return shall be handed to the Clerk to be laid before the next township meeting for their information.

65. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for the Commissioners of any township, legally appointed according to the provisions of this act, to compound or agree with any person or persons resident in the township, for the making, in a permanent and substantial manner, any part of any public road within their township, in lieu of his or their statute labor which he or they may be by law required to perform in the township, for any number of years not exceeding five, which agreement shall be committed to writing and signed by the parties, and thereupon it shall be binding on the Commissioners and their successors, and the other person or persons being a party to such agreement, and upon the due performance and completion of such agreement the person or persons performing the same, shall be exempt from all statute labor in the township for the full term of time agreed upon as aforesaid.

66. Provided always, and be it further enacted, That in case any person or persons after having subscribed to any agreement as aforesaid shall neglect or refuse to perform the same in the manner and within the time specified in such agreement, he or they shall be liable to the like penalty that persons are by this act who refuse or neglect to perform their statute labor.

67. And be it further enacted, That if it shall happen that any person or persons shall enter into an agreement with the Township Commissioners as aforesaid, and in pursuance of such agreement make a part or the whole of the road required by said agreement, but upon which there shall arise a dispute between the commissioners making the agreement or their successors, and the other party thereto touching the fulfilment of such agreement, such dispute shall and may be submitted to three Overseers of highways acting in the township for the year, and such three

Overseers of highways shall be drawn by a public and impartial ballot from the whole list of Overseers of highways acting in the township for the year, which ballot shall be made by the Township Clerk who shall give the two contending parties due notice of the time and place where such ballot shall take place, and it shall be the duty of such clerk to appoint a time and place for the meeting of such Overseers of highways so balloted, giving them and also the parties to such dispute at least eight days notice, and thereupon it shall be the duty of such Overseers of highways to meet and after having the said agreement submitted to them and examining the premises to make such award as to them shall appear just and right which award shall be binding on the parties and be final.

68. And be it further enacted—That if any one to whom an oath or affirmation may be administered under the provisions of this act, except those of office, shall wilfully swear or affirm falsely such false swearing or affirmation, shall be deemed wilful and corrupt perjury, and the person guilty thereof shall and may be prosecuted and punished therefor as for wilful and corrupt perjury.

69. And be it further enacted, That it shall and may be the duty of the said clerk, and he is hereby authorized and required to demand and procure the Bond to be given as directed by this act, by the Collector of the Township, and transmit the same to the Treasurer of the District, and in case it shall so happen that the Collector so appointed for the year, shall not procure two freeholders for his sureties as by this act required, the circumstance shall be reported by the Clerk to the Board of Commissioners at their next meeting who may hear and determine the matter in such manner as to them may appear just, and may either remove the said collector from office and appoint another in his stead, or impose a penalty in the same manner as if he had neglected or refused to perform the duties of his office.

70. And be it further enacted, That the Commissioners to be chosen under this Act shall have power to discharge the duties incumbent upon Town Wardens under the act passed in the 39th year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, entitled "An Act to provide for the education and support of Orphan Children."

71. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall and may be lawful for any person to examine any or all of the books or records of the Township, at all reasonable hours, upon the payment of one shilling to the Township Clerk, as a fee for his trouble in making or assisting to make the same.

72. And be it further enacted, That if through any inadvertency, or otherwise the name of any person which should have been inserted in any Assessment Roll shall be omitted such person shall nevertheless be liable to work on the highways in the township or division in which he may reside in the same proportion and manner as if no such omission had taken place.

73. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall go into effect on the first day of December next after the passing of the same and no sooner.

74. And be it further enacted, That this act shall be and remain in force for four years from the time of its going into operation, and from thence to the end of the then next ensuing Session of Parliament, and no longer.

75. Provided always, and be it further enacted, That in case it shall be necessary to repair any sudden breach which may be caused in any public highway by reason of any bridge or causeway giving way, or from any other casualty, or to remove any obstruction on account of snow, or to fix or set up beacons or stakes as a guide for travellers over any frozen waters, marsh, plain or other place, it shall and may be lawful for the overseer or overseers of highways in whose division the same may occur and they are hereby required to repair, remove or establish as aforesaid, or cause the same to be done by applying any money in their hands and applicable to the roads and unappropriated, or to direct the application (for that purpose) of any statute labor subject to their control, and in case it shall happen that such overseer or overseers shall not at the time have any money or statute labor under his direction which he may apply for the purposes aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for such overseer to direct any person in his division and liable to perform statute labor to repair such breach, remove such obstruction, or erect such guides as aforesaid, and such overseer shall keep the account of the number of days any person or persons may work on the roads for the purposes aforesaid, which account such overseer shall transmit to the clerk of the township to be laid before the com-

Township Officers' Bill.

Commissioners of the township and the said commissioners after examining the said account, if it shall appear just and expedient, may exempt any person who may have worked as aforesaid, from performing any part of his or her statute labor for the next year, and shall give such person as aforesaid a writing to that effect, which shall be taken and considered by the overseer under whose direction such person may be liable to work and credited to such person for so much of his statute labor; and any person who shall neglect or refuse to perform such labor or obey the orders of the overseer when required to work as aforesaid, shall be liable to the same penalties and which may be recovered and disposed of in the same way and manner as is provided by this act for neglecting to perform statute labor, or disobeying the overseers of highways, except such person can make it appear that he had a reasonable excuse for so doing; and provided also, that the said overseer shall and he is hereby required to proportion such labor among the several persons within his division liable to perform statute labor as nearly equal as circumstances will permit.

76. And be it further enacted, That the commissioners appointed by this act for their respective townships and their successors duly appointed shall be as a corporation to represent the whole inhabitants of the township for which they are commissioners, and as such may have and hold the property of or belonging to the township and shall and may sue, prosecute, or defend in all presentments, indictments, or actions for and on the behalf of the said township.

THIRD REPORT

OF THE

Select Committee

ON

FINANCE.

REPORT
COMMITTEE
FINANCE.

To the Honorable the House of Assembly :

The Committee on Finance beg leave to make this their third Report.

Your Committee remark that although this House has represented to His Excellency on former occasions, in relation to the large balances outstanding in the hands of Collectors and Inspectors, and calling His Excellency's attention to the subject, yet they are much concerned to find that there was a larger balance due on the 31st December last than at any former period, and also that although this was brought forward from year to year, and those persons complained of as defaulters, no proceeding within our knowledge has been had against them for the recovery of so large a sum which should be settled. The Committee would suggest that some steps should be resorted to, to have these arrearages paid, as well as to compel other Accountants in this Province to be more regular in paying over public money into the hands of the Receiver General.

Your Committee have observed that Christopher A. Hagerman, Esq. in the Public Accounts, sent down to this House at its last Session, was a defaulter as a Collector at the Port of Kingston, but that item not appearing in the Public Accounts of this year, the Chairman addressed a letter to the Inspector General, asking information on the subject, whose answer in reply is as follows :

*Inspector General's Office, }
11th April, 1833. }*

SIR,

I have the honor to state for the information of the Finance Committee that Mr. Hagerman has a claim upon the Council which has long been pending with the King's Government, for his portion of a seizure, as he contends, legally made while he was Collector of the Customs at Kingston, but relinquished to the parties by order of Sir Peregrine Maitland, in consideration of their ignorance of the British Statute under which the proceedings were had.

The amount is much greater than that due by Mr. Hagerman, and I did not consider it right to represent him as a public defaulter and that sum as available while there was a probability of his claim being allowed. I therefore desired his name to be omitted, and the account kept open as before in the office until a decision could be had thereon.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

GEO. H. MARKLAND,

Inspector General.

Your Committee cannot but express their astonishment that the Inspector General of this Province should have assumed the right to report such and so many of the defaulters to this House as he may have thought expedient, and to omit reporting others, which together with the extremely mystified state in which many of the accounts, especially those relating to the Casual and Territorial Revenue, have been sent down to this House, has tended to lessen the confidence of Your Committee in the correctness of the accounts sent down for their inspection; nor are they at all surprised that so many Collectors and Inspectors are defaulters, while they have before them the example of the head of the Department allowing an account of monies that are placed at the disposal of the Provincial Legislature by the 4th Will. 4th to be taken from the returns of the Public Accounts sent to this House merely upon the ground that the Collector had a supposed claim upon the British Government for the surrender of a seizure; which sum would not have been at the disposal of the Provincial Legislature by any enactment of this Province, seizures being Crown Revenues, and Your Committee are of opinion that the Inspector General might just as well have induced the Governor to have issued a warrant in favor of the Collector for that amount out of the Revenues collected, in any other way, directly from the people, as to have allowed that account to be struck out of the Public Accounts.

The Committee beg leave further to report statements of the appropriation of £25,000 granted by An Act 4th Will. 4th, Chap. 48, granting a sum of money for the improvement of the roads and bridges in the several Districts in this Province, shewing the sums expended, the sums unexpended, and the sums unaccounted for, &c. together with the names of the Commissioners appointed to expend the same.

Also a general statement of the application of the monies granted by the Acts passed in 1832—3—3rd Will. 4th, chap. 60—and continued by the Act 4th Will. 4th, chap. 47, shewing the the sums expended, the sums unexpended, the sums unaccounted for and the Commissioners appointed to expend the same.

All which is respectfully submitted.

Chairman.

N. B. From the two year's accounts being so blended together, it has been extremely difficult to make out an account of each year separately, or at all, but the above is as nearly correct as it can well be made.

Some few accounts of small amount have been received since this account was made up.

NO. 39.

CANADA COMPANY.

COPY OF THE

MINUTES OF THE INTENDED ARRANGEMENTS

BETWEEN

EARL BATHURST, HIS MAJESTY'S SECRETARY OF STATE,

AND THE PROPOSED

CANADA COMPANY.

The merchants and others, who have united together to establish a company for purchasing, improving, settling, and disposing of lands and other property in Upper Canada, and especially for purchasing and settling certain lands in the Province of Upper Canada, which have been reserved for certain public purposes, and for the support of a Protestant Clergy, and which are known by the name of "The Crown Reserves," and "The Clergy Reserves," and which merchants and others, for that purpose, have subscribed a capital of one million sterling;—having applied to Earl Bathurst, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State having the department of the colonies to advise His Majesty to grant to them a charter of incorporation, and to grant and convey to them, for certain valuable considerations, the said reserved lands in the Province of Upper Canada;—the following arrangement has been concluded between the committee or Court of Directors appointed by those persons, and acting for the general body on the one part, and Lord Bathurst on the other part.

1st.—It being necessary that the consent of Parliament should be obtained, before His Majesty can grant that part of the lands proposed to be conveyed to the company, which have been reserved for the support of a Protestant clergy, Lord Bathurst will, at an early period of the next session of Parliament, take the necessary measures for introducing a bill for this purpose.

2nd.—As it may be expedient to invest the proposed company with certain powers and privileges which His Majesty, by the mere exercise of his royal prerogative could not confer, Lord Bathurst will introduce into the bill to be submitted to Parliament, the necessary clauses for investing the proposed company with those powers and privileges.

3rd.—Subjoined to the present minute is a memorandum, containing the heads of the bill which Lord Bathurst proposes thus to lay before Parliament, for its consideration. His Lordship must be distinctly understood as not binding himself to support any particular parts of this bill, which, in the course of the parliamentary discussion of the subject, it may appear to him right or expedient to abandon. The subjoined memorandum must therefore be regarded only as containing those provisions which, upon his present consideration of the subject, Lord Bathurst thinks it would be proper to suggest to Parliament for its adoption.

4th.—Lord Bathurst will move the Lords of the Privy Council to advise His Majesty to issue, under the great seal, a royal charter for the incorporation of the proposed company. By this charter would be granted such powers and privileges as it is competent to the crown, by virtue of its prerogative, to confer, without the aid of Parliament. Subjoined to the present minute is a memorandum, containing the heads of the charter which it is proposed thus to grant. It is however to be clearly and distinctly understood, that notwithstanding the present arrangement, the Lords of the Privy Council (as the constitutional advisers of the crown on subjects of this nature,) and the Lord Chancellor (as keeper of the great seal)

Canada Company Charter.

will exercise their judgment both as to the propriety of issuing such a charter, and as to any particular clauses in it which may appear to them illegal or objectionable.

5th.—When the company shall have been actually incorporated, Lord Bathurst will further advise His Majesty to convey to them, upon the terms and conditions subsequently mentioned, the lands in the Province of Upper Canada which are subsequently described.

6th.—That part of the Province of Upper Canada which has hitherto been occupied by His Majesty's subjects, is at present divided into districts, which are subdivided into counties, and in each of the counties various townships have been laid out. In pursuance of the statute 31st Geo. 3, c. 31, one seventh of the land comprised in these townships has been reserved for the maintenance of a Protestant clergy. These lands are called "The Clergy Reserves." One other seventh part of the lands included in these townships has been reserved by His Majesty for public purposes, and are known by the name of "The Crown Reserves." In the district of Niagara, no reserves have been made for the crown. But the deficiency has been supplied by a large reservation in the adjoining district of Gore. Various grants in fee simple have already been made of parts both of the "Clergy Reserves" and of the "Crown Reserves." Some parts of these lands have been demised for terms of years; other parts have been occupied either with the written license of the Colonial Government, or on the faith of verbal promises made by that government, that the occupants should receive grants on leases of lands in their occupation. There are other parts of these lands which, without any legal conveyance, or even any actual promise or license, have been appropriated to purposes of a public nature, or for the convenience or advantage of the clergy of the Province; other portions which have not hitherto been actually so appropriated, are yet, from their peculiar local advantages, or from other circumstances, so situated as that the occupation of them may be peculiarly convenient or necessary for the public service within the Province, or for the erection of churches, school-houses, or parsonage-houses, with small adjoining pieces of land to be used as burying-grounds, yards, or gardens. Finally, there are within the clergy and crown reserves, various parcels of land which have been occupied for ten years and upwards, by persons who have resided upon them, not only without any grant, but without any pretence of legal title, and who, in America, are usually designated by the appellation of "squatters," but who, notwithstanding, have not been disturbed in that occupation. When the company shall actually have been incorporated, Lord Bathurst will advise His Majesty to convey to them, upon the conditions subsequently stated, the whole of the crown reserves, and one-half of the clergy reserves, in those townships which, on or before the first day of March, 1824, were actually laid out in the several districts before mentioned, in the Province of Upper Canada; it being understood that the several portions of the crown and clergy reserves which, as above mentioned, have been granted or demised on lease, or occupied on the license or promise of the government, or appropriated to public or clerical purposes, or occupied without disturbance for ten years, or which may be peculiarly convenient or necessary either for the public service or the ecclesiastical objects already mentioned are to be wholly excepted; so that there will be conveyed to the company one-half of that part only of the clergy reserves which will remain, after deducting these excepted lands from the entire quantity originally reserved, and the whole of the crown reserves which will remain after making the corresponding deduction of the excepted lands from them.

7th.—In order that the exceptions mentioned in the preceding paragraph may not operate more extensively than is at present contemplated, Lord Bathurst will immediately instruct the Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada to adopt all necessary measures for preventing any new grants or leases being made, or licenses of occupation given, of any part either of the clergy or crown reserves. But as until the proposed charter of incorporation shall be granted, the corporation already existing in Upper Canada, for the management of the clergy reserves, will in point of law be invested with the power of granting leases of those lands, His Majesty's Government is not to be held responsible to the company, if any intermediate leases shall actually be granted; a contingency, however, which it may be presumed is highly improbable. To obviate any danger of misconception upon so important a subject, it is to be most distinctly understood, that the present arrangement is not in any degree whatever to affect the right of the clergy of the Province, or of the corporation established for the management of the clergy estates, or of the King as head of the church in Canada, to manage, cultivate, and settle that portion of the clergy reserves which is not to be included in the sales to the company; but that when the portion of the clergy reserves which is still to be reserved to the clergy, shall be ascertained and set apart, as is subsequently mentioned, every restriction upon the corporation, in respect of granting leases or otherwise, relating to the management of such portion of the clergy reserves, shall be at an end.

8th.—The lands to be granted to the company when incorporated will be conveyed to them in fee simple, to be held in free and common soccage.

9th.—The company will have no claim to become purchasers of any lands which may be reserved for the crown or for the clergy, in any townships which may be laid out in any part of the Province subsequently to the 1st day of March, 1824.

10th.—It is arranged, that so soon as the proposed charter of incorporation shall have passed the great seal, (and sooner if the company should think fit,) five commissioners shall be appointed, who shall proceed to Upper Canada, with power to ascertain the quantity and to determine the price to be paid by the company for the said reserved lands.

11th.—Of the five commissioners, two will be nominated by Lord Bathurst, and two by the committee or Court of Directors of the proposed company. These nominations being made, the Court of Directors shall then name three other persons as candidates for the office of fifth commissioner. If any two of the four first named commissioners concur in objecting to any one or more of the three candidates, the name or names of the person or persons so objected to shall be withdrawn, and other names substituted by the court of directors, until three candidates shall be named, to no one of whom any two of the four first-named commissioners concur in objecting; of these three candidates, Lord Bathurst will select one who will be the fifth commissioner.

12th.—The decision of the commissioners in every case will be guided by the majority in number of votes. The senior commissioner appointed by the crown will be the permanent chairman of the commission.

13th.—In the event of a vacancy occurring by the death, resignation, incapacity, or permanent sickness, of any commissioner, the vacancy is to be supplied by the same party and in the same method as the commissioner creating the vacancy was himself appointed; but until the successor can be nominated in England, a provisional appointment may be made in the Province, either by the Lieutenant Governor, if the commissioner creating the vacancy was appointed by the crown, or by the surviving or continuing commissioner of the company, if the commissioner creating the vacancy was appointed by the company, or in the mode prescribed in the preceding paragraph, No. 11, if the commissioner should create the vacancy; the Lieutenant Governor will in that case have a right of selection from the three candidates presented to him. A secretary will be attached to the commission, to be appointed by the commissioners themselves, with a salary not exceeding £500.

14th.—The remuneration of the two commissioners nominated by Lord Bathurst, will be provided for by His Majesty's Government; the company will remunerate the commissioners appointed by themselves. The remuneration of the fifth commissioner and of the secretary, and all the expenses which may be reasonably incurred by the commissioners in travelling or otherwise, by reason and in the execution of the commission with which they are to be charged, will be equally divided between His Majesty's Government and the company.

15th.—The five commissioners thus nominated will receive a commission under the great seal of the Province; for their guidance in the execution of the duties to be committed to them, they will receive written instructions from Lord Bathurst. If in the progress of the commission it should be necessary to issue further instructions, they will be given by Lord Bathurst in concert and communication with the Court of Directors; subjoined to this minute is a copy of the commission which it is proposed to grant, and of the instructions which will immediately issue for the guidance of the commissioners.

16th.—Upon their arrival in Upper Canada, the commissioners, assisted by every means which the local government can command, will proceed to ascertain what is the price to be paid by the company to His Majesty's Government for the lands proposed to be granted to them. In fixing that price they will be governed by the principles and rules subsequently laid down.

APPENDIX.

17th.—The commissioners will first inquire what sales of land have been effected in each district of Upper Canada, for ready money, during the period of the last five years preceding the first day of March, 1824. By the expression “Sales effected for ready money” will be understood not only sales in which, upon the conveyance of the land, the money was actually paid to the seller in cash, but also sales in which the purchase money was paid by bills of exchange, whether home or foreign, at the usual sights. In such inquiry reference shall not be had to sales of single lots of not more than 200 acres, or smaller parcels of land, or to sales of lands which at the time of such sale were cleared or cultivated; all the lands so as aforesaid to be granted to the said proposed company, being uncleared and unoccupied, and the arrangement between the parties and the intent and meaning of this agreement being that the most recent transactions and the largest sales which shall be found to have taken place previous to the said first day of March, 1824, shall be the criterion or standard by which the commissioners shall be principally regulated in the prices which they are to ascertain and determine. Having ascertained, as far as possible, the most recent, and the largest classes of the ready money sales thus affected during the before mentioned period in all of the districts in Upper Canada, the commissioners will proceed to strike an average ready money price for each district, upon equitable principles, regulated by the facts so to be ascertained, and by every other information, in conformity with the terms and spirit of the arrangement made between the parties.

18th.—As it may happen that the value of lands in different parts of the same districts may be materially different, sales effected in one part of such a district would afford no criterion of the value of lands in another part of that district; for the purpose of the intended average valuation, the existing division of the territory into districts which was adopted for political purposes merely, may perhaps be found entirely inapplicable. Adjoining parts of different districts may bear so strong a resemblance to each other, in those circumstances which constitute the value of lands, that a fair average would be most effectually obtained by classing together lands which lie in different political divisions of the Province. If these suppositions should prove to be consistent with the fact, it will be in the discretion of the commissioners, if they shall think fit, in forming the general average to observe the following rules:—They will ascertain the population of each township in the Province, according to the latest census; they will then consider, without reference to the existing division of the Province into districts, what townships most nearly resemble each other in population, in advantages or disadvantages of locality, and in natural fertility of soil. They will place together in one class as many townships, whether lying in the same or in separate districts, as may appear to them sufficiently to resemble each other in the three particulars already mentioned, of population, fertility, and locality.

19th.—In fixing the price to be paid by the company for the lands to be granted to them, the commissioners will have regard to the ready money price of lands in each district, when thus ascertained and averaged. These averages will be regarded as the first and most important, but not as the single criterion, by which the price to be paid by the company to His Majesty’s Government is to be determined. To correct any misconception as to the valuation which might arise from having agreed to this single test of value, the commissioners will also have regard to the extent of the purchase to be made by the company, and to the advantages to the Colony with which the introduction of so large a capital may be attended; & they will be at liberty to take into their consideration every fact of a distinct and specific kind, which may enable them to draw a more sound and satisfactory conclusion upon the question of value; it being, however, understood that the criterion derived from ready money sales actually effected is always to be adopted, unless reasonable ground may exist for supposing, that in any particular case it would lead to conclusions substantially and materially erroneous.

20th.—In order to obviate any doubt as to which part of the Clergy Reserves is to be granted to the proposed company, the commissioners will cause an exact transcript to be made of the public or government charts of each township, in order that on such transcript they may mark the lots which are to be granted to the company, and the lots which are still to be retained for the maintenance of a protestant clergy. For this purpose, after marking the various lots in the transcripts of the chart of each township, falling within any of the exceptions enumerated in the preceding paragraph numbered 6, with the word “excepted,” the commissioners will, upon the same transcript of the public chart affix a numerical mark upon each of the remaining lots of the clergy reserves, proceeding in order from No. 1, to the highest number corresponding with the number of lots thus to be divided. The commissioners' marks will be made in red ink, to distinguish them from the numerical marks of the government offices. Those lots of the clergy reserves which shall thus appear upon the transcript of the government chart, bearing in red ink the alternate numbers 1, 3, 5, &c. shall still be retained for the support of a protestant clergy. Those other lots of the Clergy Reserves which shall then appear upon the same transcript, bearing in red ink the alternate numbers 2, 4, 6, &c. shall be those which the company are to purchase from His Majesty.

21st.—During a period of fifteen years, to commence and be computed from the 1st day of January 1826, the company shall in each year enter into possession of so much of the lands to be conveyed to them as, according to the valuation to be made by the commissioners, shall be of the value of £20,000 sterling.

The company will nevertheless be at liberty, during the year 1825, and in any one of the years during the said period of fifteen years, to take possession of a larger quantity of such lands, if they shall think proper so to do.

22nd.—On the Monday next following the 25th day of March, the 24th day of June, the 29th day of September, and the 25th day of December in each year during the before-mentioned period of fifteen years, the Company shall pay to such civil or military officer connected with the receipt of His Majesty's Revenues in the Province, as His Majesty shall from time to time appoint, the sum of £5,000 sterling at the least. On each of the days last mentioned, the Company, or their agents duly authorised in that behalf, in the Province, are to deliver to the Lieutenant-Governor or other person administering the Government, a return, stating particularly and minutely the several lots of land which during the preceding quarter of a year have been occupied by or on behalf of the Company, or by or on behalf of any persons claiming by virtue of any grant or lease from them. If it shall appear that, during any such quarter of a year, the Company or their agents, grantees, or lessees, have entered into possession of lands which, according to the Commissioners' valuation, shall exceed in value the sum of £5,000 sterling, the excess of value is to be paid to such civil or military officer as aforesaid in addition to the quarterly payment of £5,000.

23rd.—If the Company, their agents or grantees, shall in any year enter into the possession of any lots of lands not included in any of the the quarterly returns of that year, the lands so entered upon, with all their improvements, shall be forfeited to and resumable by the Crown at pleasure.

24th.—The Company will be bound in each quarter of a year to take possession of the lands to be granted to them, in the proportion of one lot of the Clergy Reserves for every two lots upon which they may enter of the Crown Reserves, so long as a sufficient quantity of lands of both descriptions, remains unoccupied.

25th.—Subject to the preceding conditions, the Company will have the right of deciding which of the lands included in the proposed grants to them shall be occupied by them, their agents, grantees, or lessees, at any particular time; and His Majesty will not control the power of the Company to select such districts or townships as to them at any particular period appear best adapted for effecting settlements.

26th.—A receipt, under the hand and seal of the civil or military officer who may be appointed to receive from the Company the quarterly payments before-mentioned, such signature being attested by one credible witness, shall be a good and sufficient discharge to the Company, for every sum of money acknowledged in any such receipt to have been received by the officer granting the same; and for obviating any doubt as to the proper officer into whose hand such money is to be paid, notices will from time to time be transmitted to the office of the Company in London, from the Secretary of State, signifying what officer in the Colony has been appointed to discharge this duty and grant the proper receipts.

27th.—Upon producing to the Lieutenant-Governor, or person administering the government of the Province, a receipt, signed, sealed and attested, in manner before mentioned, a grant will be issued to the company under the great seal of the Province, of all the lands occupied by them, their agents, grantees, or lessees in the preceding quarter of a year. Four such grants, therefore, and no more will be issued in each year. It is to be understood, that the quarterly payment of the money due, and the delivery of the receipts and conveyances, are to be strictly contemporaneous acts, and that such arrangements as may be necessary for that purpose, will be made in the government offices of the colony. The Company will execute under their common seal or otherwise, grants or leases to their own grantees or lessees.

28th.—The successive grants of land will be made to the Company gratuitously, without any fee, that is of office, demand, or duty being due or payable to any public officer in the Province for preparing, expediting, sealing, or issuing the same.

29th.—Persons claiming lands in Upper Canada under any grant, lease, licence of occupation, or other conveyance from the Company, will hold such lands under and subject to all the laws and regulations which may be then in force within the Province, in reference to the grantees or lessees of the crown.

30th.—The company will, in each year, during the before mentioned period of fifteen years, place one half at least of the lands, which during that year may have been occupied and purchased by them, in the possession of settlers, either as grantees or as lessees under them, in the proportion of one head of a family, or one adult unmarried settler for every two hundred acres of such lands; and a proof of such actual settlement of one half of the lands so to be occupied and purchased by the company shall be admitted and received by the provincial government as an equivalent for the performance of the partial clearing and improvements usually required, under the name of "Settlement Duties;" it being agreed that such actual settlement of one half of the lands, or such expenditure in compensation for the same, as is hereinafter provided for, shall acquit the company from the performance of any settlement duties on the remaining or unsettled half of the said lands purchased by them. On the Monday next following the 25th day of December in each year, the company or their agents will deliver to the Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of the Province, a return of the names of all settlers placed on such lands during the then current year, with a description of the lands upon which they have been so placed.—If it shall, upon any such return, appear that more than one half of the lands delivered during the then current year into the company's possession remain unsettled, then for every lot of 200 acres so remaining unsettled over and above the said one half of the whole which may remain unsettled and in compensation for the performance of settlement duties as aforesaid, on the whole of the lands purchased in such year, the company shall, within six calendar months next after the expiration of the year in which such settlement duties ought to have been performed, expend and lay out for each such lot, the sum of thirty-five dollars, in opening, constructing, or improving, public roads and bridges, in some one or more of the different townships in which the lands purchased by the Company shall be situated, such expenditure to be made in the discretion of the Company's Agents, and the fact of the money being so expended in such public improvements, to be certified to the satisfaction of His Majesty's Surveyor General, for the time being, or any other officer, whom the Executive Government of the Province may appoint for that purpose (or the Company, shall become liable to pay to His Majesty the sum of 25 dollars for each such lot, which sum will, by His Majesty be expended during the next succeeding year, in opening, constructing or improving, the public land or water communications of some one or more of the townships in which the lands purchased by the Company shall be situated.)

31st.—Any lands which in pursuance of this arrangement may be granted to the Company, or which the Company may grant or demise or lease to any person or persons, shall be resumable by His Majesty in case the same should be required for canals, roads, the erection of forts, hospitals, arsenals, or any other purpose connected with the defence or security of the Province, such requisition to be made by the Provincial Legislature, or by the Executive Government of the Province, and in any such event, one arbitrator shall be named by His Majesty, and another arbitrator by the Company, or their grantees or lessees, as the case may be, who shall concur in choosing a third; and the price to be paid to the Company, their grantees or lessees, for any lands so resumed, shall be decided by the majority in number of such three arbitrators.

32nd.—If within the lauds to be sold and conveyed to the Company, any persons shall be found, who without any legal title, have been, or are, in the actual occupation of any particular lands, the Company will have the option either of declining to proceed with the purchase of any lot in which such illegal settlements have been made, or of accepting a grant thereof upon the conditions already stated, with the power of proceeding, in due course of law, at their own expense, to dispossess persons who may be found in any such unlawful occupation. It will be understood that this provision does not apply to the case of persons who, without any legal title, have held the quiet and undisturbed possession of lands for ten years, such persons being included within the excepted cases enumerated in the preceding paragraph numbered six.

33rd.—His Majesty's Government will recommend to the Legislature of the Province of Upper Canada, the adoption of any laws which it may be thought expedient to pass there, for carrying into full and perfect effect the arrangement between His Majesty and the Company, as explained in this minute.

34th.—In case the charter which may ultimately be offered to the company by His Majesty's Government, or the bill which may ultimately pass through every stage, except the last reading in the two Houses of Parliament, should be considered by the company insufficient to give full effect to the present agreement; and if they should, therefore, by a notification made to Lord Bathurst, through their chairman, deputy chairman, secretary or solicitor, decline to accept such charter, on the ground of an essential variance from the terms of this agreement, or having accepted it, should, within seven days before the last reading of the proposed bill in Parliament, by a notification made as aforesaid, signify their desire that on such grounds as aforesaid such bill should not pass into a law; and if by reason of such alleged variation, the company should claim to be relieved from the payment of their share of the expense incurred by the commission; the following process shall be observed: Lord Bathurst will nominate one person, being either a sergeant at law, or one of His Majesty's Council, and the company will nominate another person, holding such rank as before mentioned, in the profession of the law, which two persons will be arbitrators, with power to nominate an umpire, holding the same professional rank; and such arbitrators, or in the event of their disagreement, such umpire, shall, within one calendar month next after the reference to them, give their opinion in writing, in answer to the following question: viz. "Whether the charter offered by His Majesty's Government, or the bill which may ultimately pass through every stage, except the last reading in the two Houses of Parliament (according as the objection of the company may be taken, either to the charter or the bill,) is or is not such as to give full and fair effect to the agreement contained in the present minutes, and especially to the memoranda subjoined, of the heads of the proposed charter and bill, according to the fair and reasonable construction of those instruments, and without reference to variations not affecting their substance and spirit?" According to the decision pronounced by the arbitrators or their umpire, the expense of the commission will be divided between His Majesty's Government and the company, or will be borne wholly by His Majesty's Government. If, however, the company should think proper to proceed without an act of Parliament, they will, of course, bear the whole of their share of the expense of the commission.

35th.—If any event should occur which should render it impossible for His Majesty's government to execute their part of the agreement, by granting and delivering possession of the lands, this arrangement is to be considered suspended during such inability on the part of the government, and the period of such suspension not to be calculated as any part of the fifteen years before mentioned, but the same portion of the fifteen years as remained at the time of such suspension is to continue and remain at the time of the removal of such suspension; and in the mean time, it is not to be considered that any debt has been contracted by the company to His Majesty, in respect of the payments which would have become due but for such suspension.

36th.—It is understood that until the proposed company shall be legally constituted, the individual subscribers do not by the present arrangement incur any personal pecuniary responsibility; but by this stipulation the individual subscribers do not intend to deny their liability (subject to the preceding condition No. 34,) to defray their moiety of the expense of the commission.

A memorandum containing the heads of the Provisions to be introduced into the Charter to be granted to the Canada Company.

1st.—The objects with a view to which the company is established will be stated in the charter, by way of preamble, in the same or similar terms as those employed in the preamble, or introductory paragraphs of the preceding minutes.

Canada Company Charter.

APPENDIX.

2nd.—It will be recited as a matter of fact, that a capital of One Million sterling has actually been subscribed towards the undertaking, and that of this capital a certain part has been actually paid up by the subscribers.

3rd.—The Charter will then grant to such gentlemen, being shareholders, as the Company shall nominate, and to all the other shareholders, whether present or future, a corporate character, and the style of the Corporation will be "The Canada Company."

4th.—Perpetual succession, the power of suing and being sued, and the power to use a common seal will be granted to the Company.

5th.—The specific object of the Company thus created will be declared to be that of purchasing waste and uncleared lands in the Province of Upper Canada and of settling, clearing, and disposing of such lands.

6th.—It will further be declared that the Company is established with the view of carrying into effect all such other lawful objects as it may be necessary to pursue, in order to the efficient accomplishment of the primary object designated in the preceding paragraph. Among these subsidiary purposes will be enumerated, in express terms, the making advances of capital to settlers, the opening and improving of roads, and other internal communications, and the promoting the cultivation of such articles as can advantageously be exported from the Province.

7th.—The Charter will then recite the conditions upon which His Majesty will grant, and subject to which the Company are to hold the lands to be conveyed to them in Upper Canada, so far as such conditions are specified in the preceding minutes.

8th.—It will immediately be declared that the Company are to have for the management of their concerns, a chairman, a deputy-chairman, eighteen directors, four auditors, and a secretary.

9th.—The names of the first chairman, deputy-chairman, directors, and auditors, will be mentioned in the charter; and it will be declared that the persons thus named shall continue in office until the 25th of March, 1829, and until such cessors in their respective offices have been elected; with a proviso, that any intermediate vacancy, arising from the death, resignation, or disqualification of any of these officers, shall be filled up by the election of a successor.

10th.—A power will be granted, to enable the Court of Directors to appoint two or more commissioners, resident in Upper Canada, to conduct the affairs of the company in that Province, with power to contract for and bind the company to such extent, and subject to such restrictions, as the directors may see fit to direct and impose. It will, however, be provided, that any restrictions as to the power of contracting for and binding the company, which may be imposed upon the commissioners, shall be made publicly known in the Province, to the intent that all persons with whom they deal may know the extent and limits of their authority.

11th.—Provision will be made for holding annual general courts of the company, for the election of the directors and auditors.

12th.—That at all general courts, the shareholders are to vote according to the following rules:—A person holding five shares and less than ten, to have one vote. If holding ten shares and less than twenty, he will have two votes. If holding twenty shares and less than twenty-five, he will have three votes. If holding twenty-five shares or more, he will have four votes, that being the largest number of votes which any person is to have.

13th.—At each annual court which may be holden after the 25th of March 1829, six directors and one auditor at the least must retire from office, and an equal number of persons be chosen in their stead to fill the vacancies thus created.

14th.—It will be determined by rotation, which of the directors and auditors are to vacate their offices at each successive annual court; but in the year 1829, and in each of the two following years, this question will be decided by casting lots, there being no seniority of appointment, as between the original officers of the company, by which, in those years, the rotation could be determined.

15th.—Directors and auditors vacating their offices shall be capable of being re-elected, if otherwise properly qualified.

16th.—Every director must be a holder of twenty-five shares, at the least, of the capital stock of the Company, in his own right; and every auditor must possess a similar qualification. Every director or auditor diminishing such qualification shall forthwith vacate such his office, and a person shall be elected in his stead to serve for the remainder of the year.

17th.—A power will be given to the general court to grant such salaries and allowances to all, or any of the officers of the Company, as may be deemed expedient; provided that circular notices, convening any such general court, shall issue at least one month before the meeting of it, and shall contain a distinct statement that a motion will be then made for the grant of such salaries and allowances.

18th.—Two general courts at the least will be held in each year, when the half-yearly dividends shall be declared.

19th.—Special general courts may be held, which the directors will be bound to convene, on the requisition of any two or more proprietors, and in default of the directors issuing the necessary summons, such proprietors may themselves convene such special general courts by advertisement under their hand, in the London Gazette.

20th.—General courts, or special general courts, will be invested with the power of making or confirming bye-laws, and making all resolutions relative to the affairs of the company, such bye-laws and resolutions not being repugnant to the charter or to the laws of England. The bye-laws must be duly recorded in a book, to be kept for that purpose, to which all members of the company may have access.

21st.—Notice is to be given in the Gazette, and by circular letters addressed to all members of the company in England, whose residence is known, of all general and special general courts; and such notices must state the particular objects or business, with a view to which such courts may be so convened.

22nd.—The directors are annually to choose, from among their own number, a chairman and deputy-chairman, within fourteen days next after the annual election of directors. In the absence of the chairman and deputy-chairman, the court of directors, or the general court of proprietors, as the case may be, may elect a person to act on that occasion for and to represent the chairman.

23rd.—The chairman, or deputy-chairman, or the director, acting as chairman for the day, and presiding at any court of directors, or general court of proprietors, may vote on the question under discussion, and may also give a casting vote.

24th.—The company will be authorised to raise an additional capital, amounting to 1,000,000 sterling, or other smaller amount in pursuance of any resolution adopted at one, and confirmed at another general or special general court; and the new subscribers will be entitled to all the privileges and advantages of the old.

25th.—Power will be granted to the company to cultivate, settle, clear, hold, and dispose of such waste lands as they may purchase from His Majesty, in the Province of Upper Canada, with powers to make loans of money to the settlers on any such lands, upon mortgage or other security.

26th.—Power will also be granted to the company to purchase, hold and dispose of, lands situate in any other part of His Majesty's dominions, which it may be necessary for them, to acquire, in order to the carrying the purposes of this charter into more complete effect; provided that the lands so purchased in England be not altogether of more than the annual value of £2,000; and also provided that any such purchases as aforesaid be made in conformity to the local laws and statutes in force in those parts of His Majesty's foreign dominions in which the lands so to be purchased may be situated.

27th.—A power will be granted to the company to purchase, and send to the Province of Upper Canada, all such matters and things as may be necessary or convenient for the cultivation, clearing, or improvement, of the lands which may be purchased by them therein; and they will also be empowered to receive, and to sell and dispose of, all goods and merchandize which may be consigned or remitted to them from such their lands, in payment and satisfaction of any rent or purchase money arising from the occupation or sale of any such lands; and they will further be empowered to receive and negotiate in England, bills of exchange, notes, or other negotiable securities for money, which may be remitted to them on account of any such rent or purchase money.

28th.—The company will be empowered to make loans to the Upper Canadian Government, in case any loan bill should receive the royal assent.

29th.—The appointment of secretaries, solicitors, and agents, the fixing their salaries, and the power of displacing them, the general conduct of the business of the company, and the nomination of sub-committees, will be entrusted exclusively to the court of directors.

Canada Company charter.

APPENDIX.

30th.—The corporate seal must never be affixed to any instruments except in pursuance of a written resolution of the court of directors, and in the presence of at least two directors.

31st.—No person holding the office of chairman, deputy-chairman, director, secretary, or auditor, may, in his own personal and individual character, enter into any contract with the company.

32nd.—No dividend may ever be declared, by which the capital stock of the company will be diminished; but this not to affect the right of paying interest not exceeding four per cent. per annum.

A memorandum, containing the heads of the Provisions of the Bill which Lord Bathurst proposes to bring into Parliament.

1st.—The bill will contain a clause enabling the King to sell and convey to the Canada Company that proportion of the clergy reserves which is mentioned in the preceding minutes.

2nd.—The bill will prescribe a simple form for the registration and transfer of the shares of individual proprietors of the company.

3rd.—It will be declared that the shares of the company are to be regarded as personal estate.

4th.—Provision will be made for the forfeiture to the company of the shares of persons who, after a certain period, shall fail to comply with calls for paying up their subscriptions; and such persons will in the meantime be declared incompetent to sell their shares, or vote or act as members of the corporation.

5th.—A short and simple form of conveyance of lands from the Company to individuals will be prescribed and declared effectual in the law, to all intents and purposes.

6th.—Power will be given to the Company to purchase and hold lands in England, which it may be expedient for them to acquire, in order to their carrying the purposes of their incorporation into more complete effect, and to dispose of such as may not be required for such purposes; provided that the lands so purchased and held be not of more than the annual value of £2,000.

Commission to be granted to the commissioners appointed to value the lands in Upper Canada.

George the Fourth, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and so forth; To our trusty and well beloved Francis Cockburn, Lieutenant-Colonel in our army, Simon McGillivray, Esquire, Sir John Harvey, K. C. H. Lieutenant-Colonel in our army, John Galt, Esquire, and John Davidson, Esquire, greeting: Whereas, we have deemed it expedient to cause an inspection and valuation to be made of the lands which have been reserved to the use of us, our heirs and successors in the townships which were laid out previous to the first day of March, 1824, in the several districts of our Province of Upper Canada, and which are usually known by the name and description of the Crown Reserves; and we have also deemed it expedient that a similar inspection and valuation should be made of one moiety of the lands reserved within the several townships aforesaid of our said Province, for the support of a Protestant Clergy; Now know ye, That we, being well assured of the loyalty, integrity, and skilfulness of you, the said Lieutenant Colonel Francis Cockburn, Simon McGillivray, Esquire, Sir John Harvey, K. C. H. John Galt, Esquire, and John Davidson, Esquire, have nominated and appointed, and do hereby nominate and appoint you to be our commissioners for making the valuation aforesaid; and we do hereby appoint you, the said Lieutenant Colonel Francis Cockburn, to be our senior or chief commissioner for the purposes hereinafter mentioned; and we do hereby give and grant to you, and each of you, full power and authority to inspect and value the several lands aforesaid: And for the better carrying into execution and effect the objects aforesaid, we do further give and grant to you, and each of you, full power and authority to summon, and by all lawful ways and means to compel the attendance before you, of all our officers, civil and military, within our said Province, when it may appear to you necessary or expedient to examine in or for the execution of this our commission; And we do further grant to you, as such commissioners as aforesaid, full license, power, and authority, to inspect and to cause to be brought before you, all public maps, plans, charts, or other official and public papers and documents, of what nature and kind soever, which may be necessary or expedient for you to peruse, inspect or examine, as such commissioners as aforesaid; and in the execution of the duties hereby committed to you, it is our will and pleasure, that you shall and do, in all things, conform to such orders and instructions as shall or may be given to you, in that behalf, by our Principal Secretary of State, having the department of the Colonies: And we do charge and command you, when and so soon as you shall have completed such your valuation of the lands aforesaid, to make a report thereof in writing to us, under your hands and seals at arms; And we do hereby command and require all our officers, civil and military, and all other our loving subjects within our said province, to be aiding and assisting you in the execution of this our commission, as they will answer the contrary thereof at their peril. Witness Sir Peregrine Maitland, (add his proper titles and designation) at York Town, in the Province of Upper Canada, this day of , 1824, in the fifth year of our reign.

Instructions to the Commissioners appointed to value the Lands in Upper Canada.

DOWNING STREET,
29th December, 1824. }

GENTLEMEN,

I enclose for your perusal a copy of a document, which on the 26th ultimo, I communicated to the merchants and others who have associated themselves together as a Company for settling certain lands in the Province of Upper Canada. From this document you will learn what are the nature of the arrangements into which I have entered with the proposed Company. Especially, you will perceive that it has been determined to appoint five Commissioners who are to proceed to the Province, there to make a valuation of the lands which the Company are to purchase.—You have been selected to be Commissioners for this purpose, and therefore, in pursuance of the arrangement with the proposed Company, I proceed to give you such instructions as appear necessary for your guidance in the execution of the trust committed to you.

1st.—You will proceed with all convenient despatch to the province of Upper Canada, and on your reaching the town of York, you will report your arrival to the Lieutenant Governor, or officer administering the government.

2nd.—You will receive from the Lieutenant Governor a commission under the great seal of the Province, authorising you to execute the duties of your office; and so soon as you have received that commission, you will enter upon the discharge of those duties.

3rd.—You will also receive from the Lieutenant Governor, commissions to act throughout the province as justices of the peace; you will, however, distinctly understand, that you are to be invested with that character merely with the view of promoting the objects of your commission, and therefore you will entirely abstain from exercising your powers as magistrates, except when it may be necessary to make those powers subservient to the due execution of your office as commissioners.

4th.—You will receive from the Lieutenant Governor, and all His Majesty's civil and military officers in the province, such co-operation and assistance as they may be able to render. Especially, directions will be given to the proper departments of the colonial government, to lay before you all public maps, charts, surveys, or admeasurements, of the several districts and townships in the province, with all other documents in the charge of any of those departments from which any useful information can be derived, respecting the topography of the province; the natural or artificial divisions of it; the value of lands throughout the several districts; or respecting any other subject which it may be necessary for you, in your character of commissioners, to investigate.

5th.—You will be allowed to take copies of any of the maps, charts, surveys, or documents mentioned in the preceding paragraph; but you will consider yourselves as receiving such copies under a strict obligation not to communicate them to any persons, nor to permit transcripts to be made from them, either for the use of others or for your own use, after your public duties have terminated. Before the commission is actually closed, you will return all documents of this nature in your possession, to the various public departments from which you may have received them. You will, however, consider yourselves at liberty in making the report subsequently mentioned, to annex to it any copies of or extracts from any of the said documents above mentioned, which may seem to you necessary to elucidate such your report.

6th.—His Majesty's civil and military officers in the province will further be required to communicate to you all such information connected with the object of the mission, as their personal knowledge may enable them to afford, with the exception only of such matters as they may consider themselves bound under any obligation of official confidence and secrecy to conceal. Whatever official communication may take place between yourselves and any of the public departments of the province, will pass through the medium of the Lieutenant Governor, whom you will, in every such instance, request to transmit your inquiries to the subordinate officers of Government, and through whom answers to such inquiries will be communicated to you.

7th.—In the execution of the duties of your commission, you will understand that you are not separately and individually to represent the particular party by whom you are appointed, so as to consider yourselves as agents deputed to protect and promote the interest of either party as opposed to that of the other; but you will all regard yourselves as impartial arbitrators, and as bound without affection or favour to make an equal and impartial award upon the questions submitted to your decision.

8th.—For maintaining order and regularity in the performance of your duties, and to obviate doubts and misconception as to the effect and nature of your proceedings, you will, from the day on which you receive your commission, keep a regular journal of all your public transactions. In this journal will be entered,—1st. A minute of all deliberations held, and of all resolutions adopted at any meeting of the commissioners.—2nd. A minute of every material occurrence which may happen in the execution of your duties.—3rd. If any one or more of the commissioners shall dissent from any resolution of the majority, and shall conceive that the subject in controversy is of adequate importance, he will be permitted to enter upon the journal a minute containing the grounds and reasons of his dissent.

9th.—A meeting of the commissioners will be held once at the least in every two weeks, when the minutes of the proceedings at their last meeting, and of all subsequent transactions, will be read over and confirmed or corrected, as may be necessary; all the commissioners will subscribe their names to the minutes when ultimately confirmed, to obviate any dispute respecting their authenticity.

10th.—You will correspond officially with this department only. Every such communication will, by this department, be transmitted to the office of the company in London, for the information of the directors, and all official communications which I may have occasion to make to you, will also be previously communicated to the directors. All official communications from you to this department, must be made in the name and on behalf of the commissioners in general, and signed by the senior commissioner. If any one or more of the commissioners should think it right to make any official communication in which the rest refuse to concur, he will be at liberty to do so; upon condition, however, that before it is actually transmitted to England, it be entered upon the journals, for the perusal and consideration of the other members. No attention will be paid to any official communication which may be transmitted to this department, in violation of this regulation. All official communications from this department must be entered at length upon the journal.

11th.—In the event of the illness of any commissioner, or any other occurrence which for a time may prevent his attending to the duties of his office, the rest of the body will proceed in the execution of the commission, postponing, however, the adoption of any formal resolutions until the whole body can re-assemble and act together. The commissioners at large will not be considered as assenting to or bound by any act or resolution, which is not done or entered into, or subsequently approved, at a meeting at which you shall all be present, nor unless at such meeting, three at least of the commissioners concur in the vote for doing, entering into, or approving such act or resolution.

12th.—At every meeting of the commissioners, the senior commissioner will preside as chairman. The secretary to the commission will be charged with the duty of giving to the commissioners a written notice of the time and place at which every meeting is to be held.

13th.—The written arrangement between this department and the proposed company has defined the nature of the duties which you are to perform, and has settled, as accurately as possible, the principles by which you are to be guided in performing them. Upon that subject, therefore, I have only to refer you for your guidance to that document.

14th.—When you have completed your valuation of the lands to be purchased by the company, you will draw up a written report, stating with all practicable precision what are the particular lands in each township which are to be sold to the company, and stating the average price which such lands are to bear; such average being calculated in the manner and upon the principles mentioned in the annexed minutes of the arrangement with the Canada Company; any such report being approved by the majority of your members, at a meeting at which you are all present, must be adopted by you all; and you will then cause three copies of it to be engrossed on parchment, and signed and sealed by each of you. One copy of this report, together with your original journal, you will transmit to this department; another copy of your report will be sent to the office of the company in London, and the third to the Lieutenant Governor of the Province. You will make this report before you quit Upper Canada, and having made it, you will consider your commission as closed.

ANNO SEXTO.

GEORGII IV. REGIS.

CAP. LXXV.

AN ACT to enable His Majesty to grant to a Company, to be incorporated by Charter, to be called "The Canada Company," certain lands in the Province of Upper Canada, and to invest the said Company with certain powers and privileges, and for other purposes relating thereto.

[27th June, 1825.]

WHEREAS by an act passed in the thirty-first year of the reign of His late Majesty entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the four"teenth year of His Majesty's reign, entitled, 'An Act for making more effectual "provision for the government of the Province of Quebec in North America, and to "make further provision for the government of the said Province,' " it was enacted that it should and might be lawful for His Majesty, His Heirs, or Successors, to authorise the Governor or Lieutenant Governor of each of the said Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada respectively, or the person administering the Government therein, to make, from and out of the lands of the Crown within such Province, such allotment and appropriation of lands for the support and maintenance of a Protestant Clergy within the same, as might bear a due proportion to the amount of such lands within the same, as had at any time been granted by or under the authority of His Majesty, and that whenever any grant of lands within either of the said Provinces should thereafter be made, by or under the authority of His Majesty, His Heirs or Successors, there should at any time be made in respect of the same a proportionable allotment and appropriation of lands for the above-mentioned purpose within the township or parish to which the lands so to be granted should appertain or be annexed equal in value to the seventh part of the lands so granted; and whereas in pursuance of the said Act such proportionable allotments and appropriations of lands as aforesaid have from time to time been reserved for the purposes therein mentioned, which lands are known by the name of "The Clergy Reserves." And whereas, the greater part of the said Clergy Reserves in the said Province of Upper Canada have ever since continued and are now waste and unproductive; and it is expedient that means should be adopted for clearing and cultivating the said lands, and for that purpose His Majesty should be authorised to sell and dispose of certain parts thereof to the company to be established as here mentioned. And whereas certain other lands in the said Province of Upper Canada have been reserved for the use of His Majesty, and are known in the said province by the name of "The Crown Reserves;" And whereas divers persons have united together to establish a company for purchasing, improving, settling, and disposing of lands in Upper Canada, and especially for purchasing and settling the whole of the before-mentioned lands known by the name of "The Crown Reserves," and such parts of the said lands known by the name of "The Clergy Reserves," as His Majesty may be so authorised to sell and convey to them, and for such other lawful purposes as to His Majesty shall seem meet; and the said persons have, in order to carry such purposes into effect subscribed a capital of one million pounds, sterling, upon which the sum of ten pounds, per centum, has been paid by the several subscribers; and they have humbly besought His Majesty to grant to them a charter of incorporation; Be it therefore enacted, and it is hereby enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, That in case His Majesty shall, within three years after the passing of this Act, be pleased, by charter of incorporation under the Great Seal of Great Britain and Ireland, to declare and grant that such and so many persons as shall be named therein, and all and every such other person or persons as from time to time shall be duly admitted members into their corporation, shall be a body politic and corporate, by the name of "The Canada Company," and to declare that the said Corporation, so to be made and created shall be established for the purpose hereinbefore mentioned, and for such other lawful purposes as to His Majesty may seem meet, then and in that case it shall and may be lawful for the said corporation to hold to them and their successors such lands, tenements, and hereditaments within the said Provinces, as shall or may be granted by His Majesty to them and their successors, within the said Provinces, or as subject to the restrictions hereinafter mentioned, shall be contracted for, and purchased or acquired by them therein; and to hold, alienate, sell, and dispose of all such lands, tenements and hereditaments, upon, under, and subject to such conditions, provisoes, limitations and restrictions, as His Majesty, by such his charter, may impose, direct or prescribe.

If His Majesty shall grant a charter the Canada company may hold lands &c.

His Majesty may sell to Company the land called clergy reserves.

2. And be it further enacted, That His Majesty shall be, and he is hereby empowered to sell and convey to the said Company and their successors, in fee simple, for such valuable considerations as shall be agreed upon between His Majesty and the said Company, as he shall deem expedient, and upon such conditions, and with and subject to such restrictions, limitations, and provisoes, as His Majesty may be pleased to impose, one equal half part, and no more, of the said reserved lands in the Province of Upper Canada, called "the Clergy Reserves," lying in those townships of the said Province, which on or before the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-four were actually laid out in any of the several Districts thereof; Provided always, That the several portions of the said Clergy Reserves which have been granted or demised to any person or persons by any lawful authority, or which have been occupied under any license or promise made or given by any lawful authority, or which have been specially appropriated or set apart for any public purposes, or which have been occupied by any person or persons without disturbance, for a period of ten years, shall not, for the purposes of any such grant or conveyance, be considered as forming any part of the Clergy Reserves, whereof one moiety may be sold and conveyed to the said Company, as aforesaid; Provided also, that the purchase money which shall be paid by the said Company for the lands so to be granted to them, in whatever securities the same may be vested, shall be appropriated exclusively to the support and maintenance of a Protestant Clergy, and shall be in the place of, and remain to the same uses, and for the same purposes, to and for which the said Clergy Reserves have, by virtue of the above recited Act, been allotted and appropriated: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to limit or restrict any other grant by His Majesty to the said Company, which by His Majesty's Royal Prerogative he is authorised and empowered to make, or to restrict or prevent the said Company from taking, accepting, and enjoying the same, in as full, ample, and beneficial a manner as His Majesty may be pleased to direct.

3. And be it further enacted, That in case His Majesty shall see fit to set apart and appropriate in the said Province of Upper Canada other waste lands of and belonging to His Majesty, of equal value with that part of the said Clergy Reserves which His Majesty is so empowered as aforesaid to sell and convey to the said Company, it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, and he is hereby empowered by any order to be by Him for that purpose made, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to declare, that the lands so set apart and appropriated shall thenceforward be substituted and change for such last mentioned part of the said Clergy Reserves; and then and in that case such substituted lands shall, from and after the issuing of any such order, be held, set apart, and appropriated upon, for, and to such and the same uses, trusts, interests and purposes, upon, for and to which the said Clergy Reserves are now held, set apart and appropriated.

4. And whereas, it may be necessary for the purpose of raising the capital for the proposed undertaking with a view to the accomplishment of the beneficial objects aforesaid, to vest in the said Company such powers and privileges as cannot be granted without the aid of Parliament; Be it therefore enacted, That the shares in the said undertaking, and in the profits and advantages thereof, shall be and be deemed personal estate, and as such personal estate shall be transmissible accordingly.

5. And be it further enacted, That if any subscriber or any proprietor or proprietors of any share or shares in the said Company, his or their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, shall neglect or refuse to pay his or their part or portion of the money to be called for, in such manner as may be directed by letters patent, to be granted as aforesaid, during the space of six calendar months next after the time appointed for payment thereof, together with the lawful interest from the appointed time of payment, then and in every such case such person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, so neglecting or refusing, shall absolutely forfeit his or their share or shares in the said Company, and all profits and advantages thereof, and all monies theretofore advanced by him, her or them on account thereof, to and for the use and benefit of said Company; and all shares which shall or may be forfeited shall or may at any time or times thereafter be sold at a public sale, for the most money that can be gotten for the same, and the produce thereof shall go to and make part of the capital stock of the said Company; and such share or shares, forfeited and sold, shall be assigned and transferred to the purchaser by an instrument under the common seal of the said Company, in the manner required upon other transfers: but no advantage shall be taken of such forfeiture of any share or shares, until the same shall be declared to be forfeited at some general or special meeting of all the said proprietors, which shall be held not earlier than six calendar months next after the said forfeiture shall happen, and that every such forfeiture so to be declared shall be an absolute indemnification and discharge to and for the proprietor or proprietors, or his, her, or their, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, from all liability in respect thereof.

6th.—And be it further enacted, That after any call for money, shall have been made and become due and payable by virtue of the provisions which may be introduced for that purpose in any charter or Letters Patent to be granted as aforesaid, no person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall sell or transfer any share, or shares which he, she, or they, shall possess in the said stock of the said company, until the money so called for in respect of his, her, or their, share or shares intended to be sold shall be paid, and until such money so called for shall be paid, any such sale or transfer of any share or shares shall be void; and all and every person and persons body politic and corporate, making default therein, shall be subject and liable to forfeit such, his, her, or their, share or shares in the said

SIR :

Mr. Galt, who has been appointed by the directors of the Canada Company to proceed on a special mission to Upper Canada, will have the honour of delivering this letter, and he is instructed to convey the strongest assurances of the personal respect of every member of the court, for the character and government of Your Excellency.

The directors are convinced that the interests of their important establishment are identified with the prosperity of Upper Canada, which under the auspices of Your Excellency has acquired so many advantages and attracted such distinguished attention, and that their interests will be best promoted by a liberal co-operation in every measure calculated to advance the general improvement of the Province. This sentiment they will always impress on their officers and servants, and they are assured that in those transactions to which Mr. Galt may have occasion to solicit the consideration of Your Excellency, he will experience every facility which the subject may require or he can possibly expect.—By the authority of a court of directors held this day.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your Excellency's most Humble and very obedient servant,

(Signed) JOHN HULLETT,

Chairman.

To His Excellency

SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K. C. B.

Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada,

&c. &c. &c.

Downing Street, 23rd May, 1826.

At a meeting held this day at the colonial office at which Lord Bathurst and Messieurs Downie, Hullet, Fullerton, McGillivray, Logan, and Galt, were present, the following arrangement was made and concluded between Lord Bathurst on behalf of His Majesty's Government, and the said Messieurs Downie, Hullett, Fullerton, McGillivray, Logan, and Galt, on behalf of the Canada Company.

1st.—It appearing from the award of the commissioners that the clergy reserves valued by them, comprised 829,430 acres, and those lands being valued at three shillings and sixpence, current money of Upper Canada, per acre, the Canada Company would have to pay to His Majesty's Government the sum of £145,150 5s current money of Upper Canada, if those clergy reserves had been conveyed to them. In lieu of the before mentioned 829,430 acres, His Majesty's Government will grant and convey to the Canada Company, for the same price of £145,150 5s currency, a block of land containing one million of acres, in the territory lately purchased from the Indians, in the London and Western Districts.

2nd.—One third part of the before mentioned sum of £145,150 5s. currency, shall be expended by the Canada Company in public works and improvements within the said block of land, and the remaining two third parts only of the said sum of £145,150 5s. currency, shall be actually paid to His Majesty's Government.

3rd.—By the terms "public works" and "improvements" will be understood canals, bridges, high roads, churches, wharves, school houses, and other works undertaken and calculated for the common use and benefit of His Majesty's subjects resident within that part of the Province of Upper Canada, in contradistinction to works intended for the use and accommodation of private persons.

4th.—The plan and estimate of every such undertaking will originate with the Company, and must be invariably submitted by them to the Governor in Council prior to his consent being given, that the expense of such undertaking shall be received in part of payment; and in the event of any difference of opinion arising between the Company and the local Government respecting the advantage or expense of any such proposed undertaking, or respecting the time or mode in which the same may most conveniently be carried into execution, the question is to be referred to the Secretary of State whose decision shall be final.

5th.—Upon the completion of any such undertaking, the Company shall lay before the Governor in Council a statement of the cost incurred by them in effecting the same, and if the Governor and Council shall deem such work to have been duly executed according to the plan upon which the estimate was founded, and in such a manner as was intended at the time that the estimate was formed, the Company shall be allowed credit in account for the amount actually expended, provided it has not exceeded the estimate. If, however, the expense should in any instance exceed such estimate, and the Governor in Council shall deem such excess to have been justified by special circumstances, the Company shall in that case also be allowed credit in account for the amount actually expended, provided such such sums do not exceed in the whole one third of the said purchase money of the said million acres.

6th.—The block of one million acres of land to be allowed to the Company shall be selected by them from such part of the lands, lately purchased from the Indians, as are situated in the London and Western Districts. The block shall be marked out by the Surveyor General or his deputies, and shall approximate to the form of some regular mathematical figure, as nearly as may be, consistently with preserving any well defined natural land mark or boundaries.

7th.—The provisions contained in the original contract of the 26th November, 1824, respecting the resumption of lands by His Majesty for public services; and generally all the provisions contained in those arrangements for the security and benefit of the public, shall be applied to, and affect, the lands to be substituted for the Clergy Reserves.

8th. The block of one million acres of land will be surveyed, and a road will be made through the blocks of Clergy Reserves in the District of Gore, such survey and road will be made at the expense of His Majesty's Government.

The Company shall be allowed sixteen years to commence from 1st July, 1826, for the fulfilment of their contract with His Majesty's Government.

9th. In substitution for the provisions contained in the minutes of the agreement respecting the mode of paying the purchase money to His Majesty's Government, it is agreed that the Company shall pay—

In the year commencing the first July 1826, and ending the 1st July, 1827,.....	£20,000
In the year ending the first July, 1828,.....	15,000
In the year ending the first July, 1829,.....	15,000
In the year ending the first July, 1830,.....	15,000
In the year ending the first July, 1831,.....	16,000
In the year ending the first July, 1832,.....	17,000
In the year ending the first July, 1833,.....	18,000
In the year ending the first July, 1834,.....	19,000
In the year ending the first July, 1835,.....	20,000
And in each of the seven succeeding years the like sum of....	20,000

10th.—The sums above mentioned are the amount of what the Canada Company is actually to pay to His Majesty's Government, and do not include the sums which they are to invest in public works and improvements in the block of land in the London and Western districts.

The preceding sums are the greatest amount which in each of the years above mentioned, the Canada Company shall be obliged to pay to His Majesty's Government; but this arrangement is not to prejudice the right of the company to lay out any greater sums of money in any of those years according to the terms of the original contract.

11th.—In the year ending the 1st July, 1843, the company shall either take up on the terms already stated all the lands then remaining to be taken up, or shall terminate the contract and abandon all claim to such lands as have not at that time been taken up by them.

12th.—If any of the lands to be sold to the company shall be alleged by them to be altogether unfit for cultivation, either in arable or in pasturage, arbitrators shall be appointed in the manner prescribed in the 31st article of the original contract; and such arbitrators shall decide both whether such lands, or any of them, are totally unfit for cultivation, and what is the amount of the compensation or equivalent to be allowed to the company in respect of any such lands; and the lands which shall have been thus decided to be totally unfit for cultivation, shall be thenceforth considered as having lapsed to the crown, and belong exclusively to the crown.

13th.—Lord Bathurst will immediately take the necessary measures for completing the charter of the company with all practicable despatch.

Lord Bathurst does not consider that the formation of high roads would be a legitimate application of money within the meaning of clause No. 3, except in those peculiar and special cases in which the formation of the road may be directly conducive to the public interest of the Province, and His Lordship will instruct the Lieutenant Governor, that he is to approve of expenditure on high roads under this clause only in those cases where such general interests may be promoted by the undertaking.

(Signed) BATHURST.

CANADA COMPANY'S CHARTER.

GEORGE the FOURTH by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and so forth.

To all whom these present shall come,

GREETING :

WHEREAS in and by a certain Act of Parliament, made and passed in the sixth year of our reign, entitled "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant to a company to be incorporated by charter, to be called 'The Canada Company,' certain lands in the Province of Upper Canada, and to invest the said Company with certain powers and privileges, and for other purposes relating thereto," after reciting, among other things, that divers persons had united together to establish a company for purchasing, improving, settling, and disposing of, certain lands in the Province of Upper Canada, and for other lawful purposes; and in order to carry into effect the purposes aforesaid, had subscribed a capital of one million pounds, sterling, upon which the sum of ten pounds per centum had been paid by the several subscribers, and had humbly besought us to grant to them a charter of incorporation; it was enacted, that in case we should, within three years after the passing of that act, be pleased, by charter of incorporation, under the great seal of Great Britain and Ireland, to declare and grant that such and so many persons as should be named therein, and all and every such other person or persons as from time to time should be duly admitted members into their corporation, should be a body politic and corporate by the name of "The Canada Company," and to declare that the said corporation so to be made and created, should be established for the purpose therein before mentioned, and for such other lawful purposes as to us might seem meet; then and in that case it should and might be lawful for the said corporation to hold to them and their successors, such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, within the Province of Upper Canada and Lower Canada, as should or might be granted by us to them and their successors, within the said Provinces, or as, (subject to the restrictions hereinafter mentioned) should be contracted for, and purchased or acquired by them therein, and to hold,

Canada Company charter.

APPENDIX.

alienate, sell, and dispose of, all such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, upon, under, and subject to such conditions, provisoes, limitations, and restrictions, as we by such our charter might impose, direct, or prescribe; and further provisions were in and by the said act of parliament made for raising the capital of the said company, and for transferring the shares, and for other matters therein mentioned.

NOW KNOW YE, That upon the prayer of the several persons hereinafter named, and others, and also of our special grace, certain knowledge and mere motion, we have given, granted, made, ordained, constituted, declared, and appointed, and by these presents us, our heirs and successors, do give, grant, make, ordain, constitute, declare, and appoint, that Charles Bosanquet, Esquire, William Williams, Esquire, Robert Biddulph, Esquire, Richard Blanchard, Esquire, Robert Downey, Esquire, John Easthope, Esquire, Edward Ellice, Esquire, James Wm. Freshfield, Esquire, John Fullarton, Esquire, John Galt, Esquire, Charles David Gordon, Esquire, William Hibbert, the younger, Esquire, John Hodgson, Esquire, John Hullett, Esquire, Hart Logan, Esquire, Simon McGillivray, Esquire, James McKillop, Esquire, John Masterman, Esquire, Martin Tucker Smith, Esquire, and Henry Osborne, Esquire; together with such and so many other person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, as have become, or shall at any time hereafter become, subscribers or shareholders of or for the capital stock hereinafter mentioned, in manner hereinafter provided, and their respective successors, executors, administrators, and assigns; and such other person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, as shall from time to time be possessed of or entitled to, such shares as are hereinafter provided, shall be one body politic and corporate, in deed and in name, by the name of "The Canada Company," and by that name shall and may sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, in all courts whether of law or equity, and shall have perpetual succession, with a common seal, which may by them be changed or varied at their pleasure.

And we do declare, that the said corporation shall be, and is, established for the purpose of purchasing, holding, improving, clearing, settling, and disposing of waste and other lands in our Province of Upper Canada, and for making advances of capital to settlers on such lands, for the opening, making, improving and maintaining roads and other internal communications for the benefit thereof, and for promoting the cultivation of such articles as can advantageously be exported from the said province, and for the other purposes hereinafter mentioned, with all such powers, privileges, and authorities as are in and by the said act of parliament contained and expressed.

And we do further declare and ordain, that the present capital or joint stock of the said Company, to be used and applied in establishing and carrying on the said undertaking, and for the purposes aforesaid, shall be a sum of not exceeding one million pounds sterling; to be raised in shares of one hundred pounds each: and that the shares in the said undertaking, and the profits and advantages thereof, shall be and be deemed personal estate, and as such personal estate shall be transmissible accordingly.

And we do further declare and ordain, that all and every person and persons, bodies politic or corporate, by or from whom any subscription shall be made or accepted, or any payment made pursuant to the provisions herein contained, for that purpose, for or toward the raising of the said capital sum of one million pounds, as aforesaid, his, her, or their successors, executors, administrators, and assigns, respectively, (no such subscription being less than one hundred pounds) shall have and be entitled to a share of and in the said capital or joint stock of the said company in proportion to the monies which he, she, or they, shall have so contributed towards making up the same, and shall have and be entitled to a proportionable share of the profits and advantages attending the capital stock of the said company, and shall be admitted to be a proprietor or proprietors of and in the same.

And we do further declare and ordain, that the said Company, or the directors to be appointed by virtue of this our charter, shall cause the names and designations of the several persons and bodies politic and corporate who have subscribed for, or may at any time hereafter be entitled to, a share or shares in the said Company, with the number of such share or shares, and also the proper number by which every share shall be distinguished, to be fairly and distinctly entered in a book or books, to be kept by their Clerk or Secretary.

And we do further declare and ordain, that the several persons, bodies politic or corporate, who have subscribed for and towards the said capital, or who shall at any time hereafter have or hold any share or shares in the same, shall, and they are hereby required to pay the sum or sums of money by them respectively subscribed, or such parts or proportions thereof as shall from time to time be called for, pursuant to or by virtue of the powers and directions of this our charter, at such times and places, to such person or persons, and in such manner as shall be ordered and directed by any Court of Directors for the time being of the said Company; and in case any person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall neglect or refuse to pay any such sums of money, at such times and in such manner as shall be ordered and directed by the Court of Directors as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said Company to sue for and recover the same, together with lawful interest, from such appointed time of payment, from such person or persons, bodies politic or corporate; or in cases where two or more persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall have jointly subscribed for, or be jointly possessed of, any one or more share or shares in the said Company, then from all, any or either of such persons, bodies politic or corporate.

And we do further declare and ordain, that whenever two or more persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall be jointly possessed of, or entitled to, any share or shares in the said Company, the person whose name shall stand first in the books of the said Company as proprietor of such share or shares, shall, for all the purposes of the said Company, and of this our charter, be deemed and taken to be the owner or proprietor of such share or shares; and all notices required to be given to the owner or proprietor of any share or shares in the said Company, shall or may be given to or served upon such person or body whose name shall so stand first in the books of the said Company; and such service upon such person or body shall be deemed and taken to be a service upon all the owners or proprietors of such share or shares, for all the purposes for which such service is intended to be made upon the owners or proprietors of such share or shares; and all such owners or proprietors shall be entitled to give their vote or votes, in respect thereof, by the person or body whose name shall stand first in the books of the Company, as such proprietor of such share or shares, and his vote shall on all occasions be deemed and allowed to be the vote for and in respect of the whole property in such share or shares, without proof of the concurrence of the other proprietor or proprietors of such share or shares.

And we do further order, declare, and ordain, that it shall be lawful for the several proprietors of the said company, their executors, successors, and assigns, to sell and transfer any share or shares, of which they shall respectively be possessed, and every such transfer shall or may be in the form and to the effect following, that is to say:—

(I, or we) _____ of _____ in consideration of _____ paid to (me or us) by _____ of _____ do hereby bargain, sell, assign, and transfer unto the said _____ the sum of _____ capital stock of and in the undertaking called the Canada Company, being _____ (share or shares) (number or numbers) in the said undertaking, to hold to the said _____ executors, administrators, or assigns subject to the same rules, orders, and regulations, and on the same conditions that (I, or we) held the same immediately before the execution hereof; and (I, or we) the said _____ do hereby agree to accept and take the said _____, (share or shares,) subject to the same rules, orders, regulations and conditions; witness our hands and seals this _____ day of _____ in the year of our Lord _____, or such transfers shall be in some other convenient form, to be devised by the said company; and every such transfer shall be under the hand or hands of the member or members transferring such share or shares, or of some person or persons lawfully authorised by him, her, or them for that purpose, under which transfer the person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, to whom such transfer shall be expressed to be made, or some other person by him, her, or them, lawfully authorised, shall sign his, her, or their name or names, signifying the acceptance of such transfer; which said transfer shall be made and entered in a book to be kept by the said company for that purpose, for which a fee shall be paid to and for the use of the company, not exceeding ten shillings for each share transferred, to be from time to time fixed by the said court of directors, in addition to the stamp duty, payable in respect of such transfer, and that such transfer so to be executed as aforesaid, shall affect the transfer of such share or shares, and shall convey the whole estate and interest therein of the person or persons so transferring, or authorising the same to be transferred to the person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, so taking or accepting the same—which person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall thereby forthwith become in all respects members of the said company in respect of such share or shares, in the place of such person or persons so transferring the same or authorising the same to be transferred; and that until such transfer shall be made and entered in such book, in manner aforesaid, no person or persons claiming an interest in any such share or shares, by purchase or otherwise, shall be deemed the proprietor or proprietors of such share or shares, or shall be entitled to any dividend or beneficial interest in the said capital stock in respect thereof, nor until six calendar months, after such transfer shall have been made, be entitled to vote at any meeting or meetings as proprietor or proprietors of the said company in respect of such share or shares; and a copy of such transfer extracted from the said book wherein the same is made and entered, and signed by the said clerk, secretary, or other officer of the said company duly authorised thereto, shall be sufficient evidence of every such transfer, and be admitted and received as such.

Provided always, and we do further order, declare, and ordain, that after any call for money shall have been made and become due and payable by virtue of this our charter, no person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, shall sell or transfer any share or shares which he, she, or they, shall possess in the said stock of the said company, until the money so called for in respect of his, her, or their share or shares intended to be sold shall be paid, and until such money so called for shall be paid, any such sale or transfer of any share or shares shall be void; and all and every person and persons, body politic and corporate, making default therein, shall be subject and liable to forfeit such his, her, or their share or shares in the said company, to and for the general benefit of the said company, unless he, she, or they, shall at the time of such sale or transfer, pay to the banker of the said company, or such person or persons as the court of directors for the time being shall appoint to receive the same, the full sum of money called for upon every share so to be sold or transferred, such forfeiture, nevertheless, to be first notified and declared in manner directed by this charter with respect to forfeiture of shares for not answering the calls to be made thereon as aforesaid.

And we do further declare and ordain, that when any person or persons shall claim any part or share in the said capital or joint stock of the said company, or the profits thereof in right of marriage, an affidavit, or solemn affirmation by Quakers, of such marriages containing a verified copy of the register of such marriage, or the purport of such register, shall be made and sworn to or affirmed or made by some credible person before one of our justices of the peace, or before a judge of some court of record in the United Kingdom, or in any of our Colonies and settlements abroad, or before some person duly qualified to administer an oath, if in any other country, and shall be delivered to and left with the clerk, secretary, or other proper officer, for the time being, of the said company, appointed for that purpose, who shall preserve the same, and make an entry thereof in the book or books which shall be kept by the said clerk for the entry of transfers and sales of shares in the said company, before such person or persons shall be entitled to sell or assign any share or shares, or to claim payment of any dividend or dividends in respect thereof, or to vote as the proprietor of such share or shares. And when any person or persons shall claim any part or share in the capital or joint stock of the said company, or the profits thereof, under or by virtue of any will or bequest, or in a course of administration the probate copy of the will, or the letters of administration in case the proprietor shall have died intestate, shall be produced and shewn to the said clerk, secretary, or other officer aforesaid, who shall make an entry of such will, or of so much thereof as shall relate to the disposition of the share or shares of the testator, or of the letters of administration in case the proprietor shall have died intestate, before any person or persons shall be entitled to sell and assign such share or shares, or to claim payment of any dividend or dividends, in respect thereof.

Provided nevertheless, that no bequest, clause, matter, or thing, in any such will contained, shall bind or affect the said company with notice of any trust or disposition of any share or shares in the capital or joint stock of the said company, or the gains and profits thereof, but the registry of every such share or shares shall be in the name or names of the executor or executors who shall prove the will of such testator, or the administrator or administrators of his effects, whose receipt or receipts to the said company for the gains and profits thereof, and to any purchaser or purchasers for the amount of the purchase money paid upon the sale and conveyance of such share or shares, shall be good and effectual, and shall bind the cestueque trusts, and all other persons claiming in trust or otherwise under such testator.

And we do further declare and ordain, that the directors hereafter mentioned or the directors for the time being, or such of them as shall be present at and constitute a court of directors, or the major part of them, shall have full power to make such call or calls for money from the several subscribers and proprietors, for the time being, of the said company, their respective executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, not exceeding in the whole the sum of one hundred pounds on each of the shares of and in the capital stock of the said company, held by him, her, or them, respectively, as the said court of directors shall from time to time find wanting and necessary for the purposes of the said company, so that no one such call do exceed the sum of ten pounds sterling for or in respect of any one share of one hundred pounds, and so that no call or calls be made but at the distance of three months, at least, from another, and the sum or the several sums of money so to be called for shall be paid to the bankers of the said company, for the time being, or to such other person or persons, and at such time and place, as shall be appointed by the said court of directors, of which time and place twenty days previous notice, at least, shall be given in the London Gazette, and in such two or more of the daily London newspapers, as the said court of directors shall direct.

And we do further declare and ordain, that if any subscriber or any proprietor or proprietors of any share or shares in the said company, his, her, or their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, shall neglect or refuse to pay his, her, or their part or portion of the money to be called for by the court of directors as aforesaid, during the space of six calendar months next after the time appointed for payment thereof, together with lawful interest from the appointed time of payment, then and in every such case, such person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, so neglecting or refusing, shall absolutely forfeit all his, her, or their share or shares in the said company, and all profits and advantages thereof, and all monies theretofore advanced by him, her, or them, on account thereof, to and for the use and benefit of the said company, and all shares which shall or may be so forfeited, shall or may at any time or times hereafter, be sold at public sale for the most money that can be gotten for the same, and the produce thereof, shall go to and make part of the capital stock of the said company; and such share or shares forfeited and sold shall be assigned and transferred to the purchaser by an instrument under the common seal of the said company in manner required upon other transfers of any share or shares, but no advantage shall be taken of such forfeiture of any share or shares until the same shall be declared to be forfeited at some general or special meeting of the said proprietors, which shall be held not earlier than six calendar months next after the said forfeiture shall happen; and that every such forfeiture so to be declared, shall be an absolute indemnification and discharge to and for the proprietor or proprietors, or his, her, or their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, so forfeiting, against all actions, suits, and prosecutions, from all liability in respect thereof, and for any breach of contract, or other agreement between such proprietor or proprietors, his, her, or their executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, and the said company, in respect of such share or shares, with regard to the future carrying on and management of the said company.

And for the better ordering, managing, and governing, the affairs of the said company, and for making and establishing a continual succession of persons to be directors and auditors of the said corporation,—We do by these presents, for us and our heirs and successors, grant unto the said company and their successors, and we do hereby ordain and appoint, that there shall be from time to time, constituted in manner hereinafter mentioned, out of the members of the said company, a governor and a deputy governor, who shall also be directors, and sixteen other directors, as hereinafter mentioned, and four auditors of the said Company, and a secretary; which governor, deputy governor, and other directors, or any five of them, shall constitute and be called a court of directors, for the ordering, managing, and directing, in the manner, and under the provisions hereinafter contained, the affairs of the said Company; and that the said Charles Bosanquet shall be the first governor, and the said William Williams shall be the first deputy governor, and the said Robert Biddulph, Richard Blanchard, Robert Downie, John Easthope, Edward Ellice, John Fullarton, Charles David Gordon, William Hibbert, Junior, John Hodgson, John Hullett, Hart Logan, Simon McGillivray, James McKillap, John Masterman, Martin Tucker Smith, and Henry Osborne, shall be the first directors, in addition to the said Charles Bosanquet, and William Williams; and that Thomas Starling Benson, Esquire, Thomas Poynder, Junior, Esquire, Thomas Willson, Esquire, and John Woolley, Esquire, shall be the first auditors, and that the said governor, deputy governor, and other directors and auditors, shall continue in their respective offices until the first Wednesday after the twenty-fifth day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine, and until others shall be duly elected in their respective offices, unless they, or any of them, shall sooner die, resign, or become disqualified, as hereinafter mentioned; which election shall be had and made in manner hereinafter in that behalf provided, and the persons then so elected to such offices, shall be in the places of the first governor, deputy governor, other directors and auditors.

And we do, by these presents further ordain, constitute and appoint, that it shall be competent to the said Company to manage and conduct the affairs of the said Company, in the Province of Upper Canada, by a board of commissioners, to consist of two or more persons resident in Upper Canada, with such powers and authorities to contract for, and bind the Company to such extent, and subject to such restrictions as the court of directors of the said Company shall, from time to time, determine; and such commissioners shall, in all things, conform themselves to such directions, regulations, and instructions, as shall, from time to time, be communicated to them by the court of directors of the said company.—Provided always, that such restrictions as shall be imposed by the said court of directors upon the powers or authorities of the said commissioners to contract for and bind the said Company, shall be, from time to time, publicly made known in the said Province, by transmitting a copy of such restrictions to the clerk of the peace of the said Province, which the said commissioners are hereby required to do, and to certify the same under their hands, which copy the clerk of the peace shall permit all persons to inspect at all reasonable times; and the said commissioners shall, from time to time, communicate to the said court of directors in London, full and particular information of all transactions, acts, deeds, matters, and things, concerning the affairs of the said company, or in anywise affecting the same.

And we do further, by these presents, ordain, will, and appoint, that it shall and may be lawful for all and every the members or shareholders of the said Company, from time to time, to assemble and meet together at any convenient place or places, for the choice of their governor, deputy governor, other directors, and auditors, and for the making bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations, for the government of the said Company, and for other affairs or business concerning the same, twenty-one days previous notice thereof being given by advertisement in the London Gazette, and in two or more of the daily London newspapers, and a notice in writing also affixed upon the Royal Exchange of London, at least fourteen days previous to the time appointed for such meeting, and all the members of the said Company, or so many of them as shall be so assembled, shall be and be called a general court of such Company, which court shall assemble and meet at such times, and in such manner, as hereinafter mentioned, and that such meetings being so duly assembled shall, with the majority of the proprietors so assembled, have power to adjourn from time to time as shall be convenient; and that on some day or days between the tenth day of January, and the first Wednesday after the twenty-fifth day of March, inclusive, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty nine, and in every succeeding year; there shall be yearly and successively chosen all succeeding directors and auditors of the said Company as hereinafter provided, out of the members of the said company, by the majority of the votes of all and every such members of the said company in general court assembled, as shall be personally present, and of all bodies politic or corporate, who may vote by deputation under their common seal at such meeting, who shall be entitled to vote in respect of their shares in the said capital stock of the said company, in the proportions following: that is to say, that every holder of five and less than ten shares in the said capital stock shall be entitled to one vote; every holder of ten and less than twenty shares, to two votes; every holder of twenty and less than twenty-five shares, to three votes, and every holder of twenty-five shares or upwards, to four votes, and no more; which succeeding directors and auditors shall severally and respectively continue in their offices to which they shall be so elected for the period, and in manner, hereinafter provided, and until others shall be duly chosen in their places respectively; and the election of such directors and auditors at the annual or other elections, shall take place by ballot, or in such other mode as shall be determined by any bye-law of the company, to be made as herein provided. It being hereby ordained and declared, that one third of the said directors, and one of the said auditors, shall go out of office in rotation every year, to commence with the said election in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine; and another election of six directors and one auditor shall thereupon take place; but, nevertheless, the directors and auditors so going out of office in rotation for the time being are, and shall, at all times hereafter, be capable of being re-elected to their said offices, or elected to any other offices in the said company, if otherwise properly qualified, and in regard that the said rotations cannot take place during the three years including and commencing with the said year one thousand, eight hundred and twenty-nine, the directors and auditors hereby appointed respectively who are to go out of office, as aforesaid, on the first Wednesday after the twenty-fifth day of March of the same three years, shall be ascertained and known by drawing lots for that purpose at any of the meetings of the said directors and auditors respectively, in such fair and proper manner as the said directors shall in their discretion agree to and approve of, so always that the names of the directors to go out by rotation shall be declared, and notice thereof affixed in some conspicuous place in the office of the company, at least fourteen days before the day of the annual election for the choice of directors; but the governor, or deputy governor, shall not be included in the ballot or list for drawing lots within the year one thousand, eight hundred and twenty-nine, or one thousand, eight hundred and thirty, but shall vacate their offices with the directors upon whom the lot shall fall to go out of office in the year one thousand, eight hundred, and thirty-one, and shall, with those directors, be re-eligible, if otherwise properly qualified; and the governor, deputy-governor, and other directors or auditors, so, from time to time, elected and chosen shall be elected and chosen for the term of three years, unless such governor, deputy governor, or other director, or auditor, shall be elected in the room of some other governor, deputy-governor, or other director or auditor dying, resigning, or becoming disqualified, in which case he or they shall be elected for such period or time as the governor, deputy-governor, or other director or auditor in whose room or stead he or they were elected had to serve. Provided, nevertheless, That in all cases of a vacancy of governor or deputy-governor, at the annual or any other election, it shall be competent for the proprietors duly qualified to elect any of the continuing directors, or any of the directors to be chosen at such election, to be governor or deputy-governor, such proprietors declaring and specifying by their vote or ballot, the name or names of the person, whether a continuing director or directors elected or re-elected at such election, for whom such proprietors vote to be governor or deputy-governor; and if any continuing director or directors shall be chosen governor or deputy-governor, he or they shall be governor or deputy-governor for the period he or they shall have to serve as director at the time of election as governor or deputy-governor; and if any new director or directors shall be chosen governor or deputy-governor, he or they shall be governor or deputy-governor for the period which he or they shall be chosen at such election; Provided also, that the person who shall have served the said office of director or auditor shall, if otherwise properly qualified, be eligible to be re-chosen to the said office.

And we do further, by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, grant unto the said company and their successors, and will and ordain, that no person shall, at any time, be capable of being chosen governor, deputy governor, or other director or auditor of the said company, unless he shall, at the time of such election, be a natural born or naturalized subject of the United Kingdom, and shall also have, in his own name, and in his own right, twenty-five shares or more of the capital stock of the said company; and that no director or auditor shall continue in his or their respective offices longer than the continuance of such their respective interest in such number of shares in their own names and rights, and to their own uses respectively:—and in case any governor or deputy governor, other director or auditor, shall be in any manner divested of or part with such of his shares as to reduce the same to any lesser number than aforesaid, then the court of directors for the time being, at their next meeting, when such fact shall be made to appear to them, shall proceed to declare the said respective offices or places of such governor, deputy governor, other directors or auditors so divested of, or parting with, their said shares as aforesaid, to be vacant, and the said vacancy or vacancies, so declared, shall be filled up in the same manner as in the case of other vacancies at the general court of the said company, which shall be duly held next after such declaration; and that in every case where any governor, deputy governor, other director or auditor, shall happen to die, or resign his office, before the annual election of such officers, the major part of the members of the said company, qualified as aforesaid to be assembled in a general court, shall and may elect and choose any other member or members of the said company, qualified as aforesaid, into the office of such governor, deputy governor, other director or auditor, that shall so die or resign; which person or persons so to be elected, shall continue in his or their said office for such and the like period as the governor, deputy governor, director or auditor, had to serve in whose place or stead he shall be so elected.

And we do further ordain and direct, that the want of, or failure to elect all or any of the directors to compose a competent court of directors, shall not in any manner tend to work the dissolution of the said corporation, but that the general body of members shall and may be lawfully assembled and convened at some day to be fixed by the remaining directors or the major part of them for the election of the requisite number of directors in manner hereinbefore provided, which directors so elected shall have and continue all powers, privileges, and authorities, hereinbefore provided for the continuance and government of the said corporation.

And we do further by these presents, ordain, constitute, and appoint, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said company, at any general court, to grant such salaries and allowances to be paid to the said governor or deputy governor, and other directors, and auditors, and secretary, of the said company, as may be deemed expedient, provided that circular notices convening such general court shall issue at least one month before such meeting, and which notices shall contain a distinct statement, that a motion will be made at such court for the grant of such salaries and allowances.

And we do further will, direct, and appoint, that for the better ensuring the good government and prosperity of the said company, there shall be holden two general courts of the said company, at the least, in each year, some time in the course of the months of June and December, on a day to be appointed by the court of directors, and with such notices as are hereinbefore provided, at which the half-yearly dividends shall be declared; and if there shall at any time hereafter be a failure of holding a general court in either of the said months as aforesaid, then and in such case, any three or more of the said directors shall and may, giving such notices as are hereinbefore directed, summon and call a general court, which shall be holden in the month next ensuing the month in which such general meeting should have been holden, as aforesaid, or as soon after as the notices hereby directed will allow.

And we do further will, direct, and appoint, that fourteen days before the general court to be held in the month of December in every year, the accounts of the said company shall be submitted to and audited by the auditors for the time being, or any two of them, and a statement of the income and outgoings of the said company, being the result of such accounts, shall be signed by the said auditors, or any two of them, and laid before the then next meeting of the said court of directors.

And further, we do, by these presents, direct and appoint, that upon the requisition in writing of any twenty or more of the members of the said company, each having not less than ten shares in the said capital stock, the court of directors shall, within twenty-one days after such requisition, (and of which such notices shall be given as are hereinbefore directed,) summon and call a special general court, either for special or general purposes, to be held of the members of the said company, qualified to vote as electors as aforesaid, and in default of the court of directors, to summon and call such court, it shall and may be lawful for the said twenty or more members, having such shares as aforesaid, upon fourteen days previous notice, by advertisement under their hand, in the London Gazette, and in two or more of the daily London newspapers, and by writing affixed on the Royal Exchange in London, to summon and hold a special general court, and there to consider and debate upon any business relating to the government or affairs of the said company, and in case such special general court shall have been convened for any special purpose, then to proceed in such special matter, and to come to any determination, or to despatch any business belonging to such special purposes, or otherwise to come to any resolution or resolutions for the further examination into the matters relating to the affairs and government of the said company; and that it shall and may be lawful, in pursuance of any resolution by the major part of the members composing such special general court, to adjourn the same to a day then to be fixed upon, and so from time to time, and that such special general or adjourned general court, composed of members qualified as aforesaid, shall be holden finally to determine by the majority of their voices upon all resolutions relating to the affairs and government of the said company. Provided always, that in every such case the requisition and summons for a general court shall express the purpose thereof.

And we do hereby further, for us, our heirs and successors, give all power to all and every the members of said company, qualified to vote as aforesaid in a general court duly assembled by the majority of the votes of those there present, to make and constitute such bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations, for and relating to the affairs and government of the said company, so that such bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations, be not repugnant to the laws and statutes of this realm, nor repugnant to any of the enactments herein contained. Provided always, that such bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations be duly recorded in the public book of the said company, so that the same may be at all seasonable times accessible to the members and officers of the said company.

And, we do further constitute, direct, and appoint, that the governor, or in his absence, the deputy governor, shall preside and act as chairman of the said court of directors and general meetings of the said company; and if it shall so happen, that at any meeting of the said directors, or at any general meeting of the said company, neither the governor or deputy governor shall attend, it shall be lawful for the major part of the directors then present to appoint a chairman for that occasion; and in case no director shall be present at a general meeting of the said company, or in case the director or directors present shall not appoint a chairman for such occasion, it shall be lawful for the members of the said company then present, or the major part of them, to appoint a person to preside at such meeting; and the governor, deputy governor, or other person presiding at any such meeting, shall, in case of any equality of votes, have a second or casting vote.

And we do hereby, for us, our heirs and successors, ordain, declare, limit, direct, and appoint, that all sums of money paid and received in respect of the shares of the said company, together with all requisitious or investments whatsoever, whether real or personal, or wheresoever lying, being, and situated, in the United Kingdom or elsewhere, whether vested in the said company in their own name, or in the names of trustees, or in what manner soever the same shall be vested, shall form and constitute the joint or capital stock of the said company and their successors for ever, and shall be liable and answerable for the debts, liabilities and engagements of the said company.

And we do further, by these presents, for us, our heirs, and successors, grant unto the said company, and we do will and direct, that in case the sum already subscribed shall be found insufficient in the opinion of the court of directors of the said company, to carry into full effect the beneficial purposes aforesaid then and in such case it shall be lawful for the members of the said company, for the time being, in pursuance of any resolution adopted at one and confirmed at a subsequent general, or general special court, to raise and contribute amongst themselves, in such shares and proportions as they shall think proper, or by the admission of new subscribers, any further or other sum of money, not exceeding the sum of one million pounds sterling, and every subscriber towards raising such further sum of money shall be a proprietor of and in the capital of the said company, and shall have a like vote in respect of his or her shares in the said additional sum so to be raised, and be liable to such forfeitures, and stand interested in all the rights, profits and advantages of the said company, in proportion to the sum he, she, or they, shall subscribe to the said capital so extended, to all intents and purposes, as if such further or other sum hereby allowed to be subscribed for or raised, had been originally part of the capital of the said company, anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

APPENDIX.

And we do hereby further, for us, our heirs and successors, grant unto the said company, and their successors, and we do will direct and appoint, that it shall and may be lawful for the said company, for the purposes aforesaid, not only to purchase, take hold, sell, let, and dispose of, all such lands in the provinces of Upper Canada and Lower Canada, as aforesaid, and more especially any such lands as shall be granted by us in virtue of our royal prerogative, or by the authority of Parliament, and also to contract for, bargain, purchase, and export, all such merchandizes, matters, and things, as may be necessary or convenient for the cultivation, clearing, or improving of the lands which may be purchased by the said company, as aforesaid, or as hereinafter mentioned; and shall also be empowered, and they are hereby authorised, to import and receive, and to sell and dispose of all goods and merchandize which may be consigned or remitted to them from such their lands, in payment or satisfaction of any rent or purchase money arising from the occupation or sale of any such lands, and to receive and negotiate in England bills of exchange, promissory notes, or other negotiable securities, for money which may be remitted to them on account of any such rent or purchase money; and also to purchase, take, hold, sell, and dispose of, all lands, tenements, and hereditaments situate in Great Britain and Ireland, or in the said provinces of Upper Canada and Lower Canada, or elsewhere in our dominions, which it may be necessary or convenient for the said company to acquire, in order to the carrying the purposes of this charter into more complete effect; Provided, that such lands, tenements, and hereditaments, as may be purchased in Great Britain and Ireland, be not altogether of more than the value of five hundred pounds per annum at the time of such purchase; and also provided, that any such purchasers in the said provinces of Upper Canada and Lower Canada, be of such annual value only as we, by any order or orders to be by us issued, with the advice of our privy council, may from time to time authorize and direct, and be made in conformity with the local laws and statutes in force in those parts of our dominions in which the lands so to be purchased may be situate; and that the said company may do all other acts and things in relation to the premises in all respects as beneficially as any other body politic or corporate, or any subject of this realm is by law entitled to do.

And we further will, declare and appoint, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said company, to advance and lend money to the local governments in the said provinces of Upper Canada and Lower Canada for any purpose whatsoever, or to any trustees, commissioners, or other persons having the care of making or executing any public works in the said provinces, or either of them, at such rate of interest as may be agreed upon in every such case, and to take and accept from such government, or from any such trustees, commissioners, or other persons, such assignment, grant, demise, or other security, of or upon any public revenues of the said provinces, or upon any rates, tolls, charges or assessments within the said provinces, or any or either of them, or such other security for the payment of the money so to be advanced, and also for the interest thereon, as to the said company shall appear satisfactory, and which shall be good, valid, and effectual, for the purposes expressed therein, and shall and may be enforced for the benefit of the said company, their successors and assigns.

And we do further, by these presents for us, our heirs and successors, grant, direct and appoint, that the said governor, deputy governor, and other directors, for the time being, or any five or more of them, shall and may from time to time, and at all convenient times, and when, and as often as they shall think fit, assemble and meet together at any place or places for the direction and management of the affairs of the said company; and being so assembled, shall in such direction and management in all respects conform themselves to such bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations, as shall from time to time be made by any general or special court of the said company, and subject to all such bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations, shall and may direct and manage the affairs and business of the Company in all and singular the matters and things hereinbefore particularly set forth in the disposition and investment of all cash, bills, notes and other securities to the company, and in all other the traffic, commerce, and dealings of the said company, and that they shall have power and authority to enter into all contracts whether under seal or otherwise, on behalf of the company, and to make and execute all assignments, conveyances and all other acts to which the corporate seal is required to be affixed, and to appoint a clerk, secretary or secretaries, solicitors, attorneys, commissioners, factors, agents, or servants, which shall, from time to time be necessary to be employed in the affairs and business of the said company, and to allow and pay them reasonable salaries and allowances, and to displace and remove them, or any of them, as they shall see cause, and generally to do and act in all matters and things whatsoever, which they shall judge necessary for the well ordering and managing the said company, and the affairs thereof; and to do, enforce, perform, and execute all powers, authorities, provisions, acts and things in relation to the said company, and to bind the said company as if the same were done by the whole corporation. Provided always, that all matters and things which the said directors shall, in manner aforesaid, and in writing, order and direct to be done by sub-committees, or other persons appointed under them, shall and may, by virtue of such orders, be done by the said sub-committees or other persons appointed.

Provided also, that in no case shall the corporate seal of the said company be affixed to any instrument whatsoever, except by order in writing of the court of directors, and in the presence of at least two of the directors, who shall attest by their signatures such sealing, and that the same was done by order of the court of directors, which attestation shall be evidence of the fact of such order.

Provided always, and we do further declare and ordain, that all and every contract or contracts made or entered into, by or on behalf of any governor, deputy governor, director, auditor, or secretary, of the said company, or in which any such governor, deputy governor, director, auditor, or secretary, shall be either directly or indirectly interested or concerned for doing or causing to be done, any work for or on behalf of the said company, or for supplying any of the articles, materials, or things, to or for the use of the said company, shall be absolutely null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and every such governor, deputy governor, director, auditor, and secretary, who shall enter into any such contract or contracts as aforesaid, shall, ipso facto, cease to be such governor, deputy governor, director, auditor, or secretary, as the case may be, and a new election of some other proprietor, duly qualified, shall take place in manner herein mentioned. Provided nevertheless, that all acts done by such governor, deputy governor, director, auditor, or secretary, in his official character, on behalf of the company, before such successors be elected, shall be valid and binding.

And we do further direct and appoint, and our will is, that interest calculated to the tenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six, shall within one month from the date thereof, be payable to the members of the said company, at and after the rate of four per centum per annum, from the respective periods at which the said deposit and subsequent calls (if any) shall have been paid, to be calculated upon, and in respect to such deposit and calls, and on the tenth day of January and tenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven, and on each and every tenth day of January and tenth day of July, until and ending with the tenth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, further interest at the like rate shall be calculated and become payable to the said members upon the said deposit, and upon the amount of the several calls which shall or may have been made upon and paid by them. And from and after the tenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, it shall and may be lawful, to and for the said court of proprietors, twice in every year, in the said months of June and December, if the state of the affairs of the said company shall warrant the same, to declare such dividend to and amongst the members of the said company, for the half year ending on the tenth day of July and tenth day of January, next succeeding such respective general court as to the said court of proprietors shall appear proper, in addition to such payment of interest, as aforesaid; and in declaring such dividends respectively due, regard shall be had to all the debts and engagements of said company, and the risks and contingencies affecting their assets and securities, and so as no dividend nor interest, after the said tenth day of January, one thousand, eight hundred and thirty-one, be in any case paid out of the capital of the said company, or otherwise, than as a division of the whole, or a part of the gains and profits of the said company.

And we do further will and direct, that all conveyances which shall be made by the said company, to any individual or individuals of any part of the lands to be granted to, or purchased or held by the said company, may be made in manner, and may be in the form prescribed in and by the said act of parliament.

And we do for us, our heirs and successors, grant and declare, that these our letters patent, or the inrollment thereof, shall be in all things valid and effectual in the law, according to the true intent and meaning of the same, and shall

DUPLICATE OF AN AGREEMENT

ENTERED INTO

BETWEEN HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT,

AND THE

CANADA COMPANY,

ON THE 28TH MARCH, 1828;

ACCOMPANIED BY A LETTER FROM JOHN GALT, ESQUIRE,

DATED 10TH JUNE, 1828.

CANADA COMPANY'S OFFICE,
York, 10th June, 1828.

SIR,

I have the honor to enclose a duplicate of an agreement entered into between His Majesty's Government and the Canada Company, on the twenty-eighth March, of which an official transcript has probably been transmitted from the Colonial Department to the Lieutenant Governor—and I have to beg you will represent to His Excellency that, as arrangements have been made for setting a portion of the Huron Tract, some of the intending settlers being actually arrived, it is very desirable that the Surveyor General should be instructed to direct the surveys as soon as circumstances will admit.

APPENDIX.

I have to beg the favour of your also mentioning to His Excellency, that having been furnished with a map of the manner in which the directors propose to lay out the Huron Tract, together with a pro forma diagram of a township to be called Goderich, I have lodged the same with the Surveyor General.

On the present occasion, it is my duty to state, that although the names given in the townships have been inserted the list is yet subject to the approbation of the Lieutenant Governor. They consist of those of the actual Court of Directors with the addition of Horton, Goderich, Stanley, Hoy, and Stephen, and in anticipation of the tract being hereafter formed into a county it has been called Huskisson. On this subject you will have the goodness to report to me the pleasure of His Excellency.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your Most Obedient

Humble Servant,

JOHN GALT.

GEORGE HILLIER, Esquire,
&c. &c. &c.

Downing Street, 23th March, 1828.

At a meeting held this day at the Colonial Office, at which Mr. Secretary Huskisson, and Messrs. McGillivray, Hullett, and Easthope, were present, for the purpose of definitively settling certain questions of difficulty which had arisen upon the agreements entered into between Lord Bathurst and the Canada Company, of the dates of the 26th of November, 1824, and the 23rd of May, 1826, and also for ascertaining certain points not therein provided for; the following arrangement was made and concluded between Mr. Secretary Huskisson, on behalf of His Majesty's Government, and the said Messrs. McGillivray, Hullett, and Easthope, on behalf of the Canada Company.

1st.—As it appears that in some of the lots of the crown reserves to be sold to the company, the original land-marks and lines of survey have been so effaced as to render a re-survey necessary; in all such cases such re-survey shall be made under the direction and at the expense of His Majesty's Government.

2ndly.—As in the report sent by the Surveyor General to the Commissioners, certain lots of the crown reserves appear to have been returned as vacant, which were actually possessed by persons having either legal titles, or occupation under licence from the provincial government, or undisturbed residence for ten years and upwards, which lots according to the sixth article of the contract of 26th November, 1824, were to be excepted from the lands to be granted to the company, and as on the other hand it appears that other lots of the said crown reserves were so returned in that report as excepted, which were either not occupied at all, or occupied by persons having no such legal claim, or licence of location, or undisturbed residence as aforesaid; it is agreed that the Canada Company shall receive in lieu of the first class of lands an equal extent of the second class; it being understood that the company in selling to the before-mentioned unauthorised settlers, the land upon which they have so established themselves, are to sell it at the price of wild land, to be settled by arbitration, allowing to such settlers all the benefit of their improvements.

3rdly.—The Canada Company abandon all pretension to any land in townships which, though laid out, were not surveyed prior to the 1st March, 1824, and which are therefore not included in the report of the commissioners.

4thly.—The Canada Company having expressed a wish that their land not yet surveyed, should be surveyed upon a different plan from that surveyed by the government, and which plan, varying according to local circumstances, and requiring with a view to sale more minute subdivision admeasurement of lots, with detailed reports of the quality of soil, will necessarily cause increased expense; it is agreed that such survey shall be made by the Surveyor General in such manner as the company shall require, subject to the approbation of the Lieutenant Governor, and that for such survey His Majesty's Government shall pay at the rate usually paid for ordinary surveys, the company defraying the difference of expense. All surveys so taken are to be deposited in the Surveyor General's office as evidence of title, in common with those of other lands, executed under the directions of government.

5thly.—The instalments to be paid according to the ninth article of the agreement of 23rd May, 1826, shall be paid within the province to such officer as His Majesty shall from time to time appoint to receive the same, half-yearly in equal moieties, that is to say, on the 20th December, and the 20th June, respectively in each year, and titles or grants shall be given for any quantity of land, not exceeding in value the amount of such instalments within three months after payment of the same. Provided always, that when the whole quantity of land, for which titles may be so required, shall exceed in value the amount of the instalment previously paid, such additional land shall be paid for at the time of applying for the title, and shall not in any way be taken as a diminution of the instalment to become due at the following half-yearly payment.

6thly.—Simon McGillivray, Esquire, as chairman of the committee of correspondence of the Canada Company, having by the direction of that committee, addressed to Mr. Secretary Huskisson, a letter, bearing date the 13th day of March, instant, in the following words, that is say :

SIR,—

I am directed by the committee of correspondence of the Canada Company, to submit to your consideration the following statement and remarks, with reference to the 21st and three following articles of the arrangement, dated the 26th of November, 1824, between His Majesty's Government and the company.

The effect of those articles may be shortly stated to be, that the company are at liberty to select for settlement such parts of the lands comprised in their intended purchase as they may deem best adapted for that purpose. They are to be restricted neither as to the quantity nor as to the situation of the lands which they are thus to occupy. But they are bound to make quarterly returns of all the lands of which they may so take possession, and to pay in each quarter the whole price of the lands so occupied, upon receiving from the crown a grant of them in fee simple. The effect of these provisions is, that the settlements of the company must always be limited by their power to command the necessary capital for defraying the price of the land upon which they may enter. A minimum is fixed, below which the annual investments of the company may not fall, and to that minimum their investments will necessarily be confined, unless they should have at their command funds enabling them to exceed it.

The consequences of this part of the contract will, it is apprehended, be equally detrimental to the company and to the public.

It is obvious that if no such restriction existed, the company might with comparative rapidity effect their ultimate object of settling the territory they have contracted to purchase. The province would thus reap all the additional benefit to be anticipated from the more early introduction of population and capital.

The company, on the other hand, by the abolition of this restraint, would be enabled to anticipate the location and sale of a large part of their territory, which must otherwise remain for many years in a wild and unproductive state; they would at a comparatively early period hope to enter into the receipt of profits, and be enabled with the less pressure upon the general body of proprietors to meet the annual demands of the government.

The increased rapidity which might, by these means, be imparted to the operations of the company would have the effect of preventing the settlement of unauthorised intruders. The crown would thus be relieved from much of the expense and trouble which it must otherwise sustain by ejecting this class of persons, in order to make an effectual transfer of the property to the company. It is further submitted, that the crown would sustain no loss by the concession which is thus proposed. If the settlements of the company be limited to the territory for which they are actually able to pay, large tracts must remain awaiting their future purchases in a state totally unproductive of any intermediate profit to the public.

Neither is it apprehended that by placing the company in possession of territory exceeding in value the price which they may be able to pay, the crown would incur any risk of ultimately losing any part of the purchase money. The Company do not presume to ask for any grant or legal conveyance of any land until the price has been actually paid. They solicit only permission to occupy such territory as they may think desirable on a merely permissive title. If the prescribed payments should fall in arrear such a permission could not destroy or impair the right of the crown to resume possession of the land so occupied.

The Company further presume to suggest, that the delay which arose in granting their charter, for which they certainly were not responsible, has given them a strong claim to the favourable consideration of the government on this occasion. That delay had unavoidably the effect of depreciating their capital stock, and of augmenting the difficulty of making calls upon the proprietors for advances of capital; since the original contract was made with the company, the government have also unexpectedly, offered lands to settlers upon terms so advantageous as to raise a formidable competition against the sale of the Company's territory. This circumstance also, it is humbly conceived, affords the company a strong claim to some relaxation of the terms of that contract.

If it be deemed necessary to require that the Company should give to His Majesty's Government any security for the due payment for lands occupied before the payment is actually made, the company would be willing to engage that if any instalments should be in arrear, the crown should, at its option, either resume possession of a part of the occupied but ungranted lands equivalent to any such arrear, or should receive a quit-rent chargeable upon the whole of the occupied but ungranted territory, equal to — per cent. per annum, upon the amount of such arrears. If the crown should elect to receive such quit-rent, it would of course be redeemable by the Company upon the arrears being paid up.

Under these circumstances I am directed to request that a license of occupation may be granted to the company, enabling them to take immediate possession of the whole or any part of the territory included in their purchase, upon condition, that such license of occupation shall not prejudice or alter the existing contract, so far as respects the payment of the stipulated instalments to the crown, and also upon condition that the company shall not be entitled to any grant or legal conveyance from the crown of any lands of which the price has not been actually paid.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant,

SIMON MCGILLIVRAY.

Mr. Huskisson having regard to the considerations stated in the preceding letter, engages on behalf of His Majesty's Government, that the Canada Company shall receive from the local government of Upper Canada, an immediate license of occupation of the whole or any part of the territory to be comprised in the company's purchase upon condition that such occupation shall not prejudice or affect the right of the crown to receive the half-yearly instalments, which the company are at present bound to pay, and also upon condition, that the company shall, by all necessary deeds, or other instruments, convey and assure to the crown, the option, either of resuming a part of the occupied but ungranted lands, equivalent to any arrears of any such quarterly payments, or of receiving a quit rent at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, upon such arrears, chargeable upon the whole of such occupied but ungranted territory, and redeemable in the manner stated in Mr. McGillivray's letter.

The company however, reserve to themselves the right of declining to receive such license of occupation any time within the next twelve calendar months, if they should upon further consideration, find reason to think that the interests of the company would be best consulted by declining to receive it.

7th.—Mr. Secretary Huskisson will at an early period of the present session of parliament, introduce a bill for the purpose of amending the act of the 6th Geo. 4th, cap. 75, so as to enable the company to make conveyances of the lands comprised within their contract, in such form as to constitute good and valid titles in Upper Canada, and to exempt such conveyance when executed in England, from the payment of any stamp duties, and in the event of any modification of the laws of Upper Canada in regard to the registry of such conveyances being found requisite, His Majesty's Government will recommend the same to the provincial legislature.

8th.—By the twelfth article of the second contract, it is stipulated, that if any of the lands sold to the company shall be alleged by them to be altogether unfit for cultivation either in arable or in pasturage, arbitrators shall be appointed in the manner prescribed in the 31st article of the original contract, and such arbitrators shall decide both whether such lands or any of them are totally unfit for cultivation, and what is the amount of the compensation or equivalent to be allowed to the company in respect of any such lands, and the lands which shall have been thus decided to be totally unfit for cultivation, shall be thenceforth considered as having lapsed to the crown, and to belong exclusively to the crown.—In lieu of all claims which may hereafter be made under this clause, His Majesty's Government being informed that a large portion of land of this description must necessarily be included in the block of a million of acres, independent of lakes, &c. agreed to extend the million to eleven hundred thousand acres, according to a map, (a copy of which is deposited in this office) and the territory comprised within which is from its contiguity to Lake Huron, to be called the Huron Block or Tract, with the distinct understanding, that the north eastern boundary line of the tract, as at present drawn includes not less than 50,000 acres of swamp, or lakes, or ponds, situated in such swamp, or land unsaleable and wholly valueless to ordinary settlers, lying together within such north eastern boundary.—In order to bring this understanding to a definitive result, it is agreed that His Majesty's Surveyor General for the Province of Upper Canada, shall be instructed to ascertain and to report the extent of swamp, including lakes or ponds therein situated, or land unsaleable and wholly valueless, to ordinary settlers, lying together within such north eastern boundary, and that if by such report, the quantity shall be found to be less than 50,000 acres, the company shall pay for the number of acres by which it shall fall short of 50,000, in the same manner as hereinafter provided, in regard to the excess, if any, of the whole tract over 1100,000 acres.

9thly.—Should the Huron Tract, upon actual survey, be found to contain more than eleven hundred thousand acres, the company are to pay for the excess at the price fixed for the other lands in the same tract, should it be found to fall short of the above amount, a ratable deduction shall be allowed to the company. The additional 100,000 acres being granted in lieu of all claims or exceptions which might be advanced by the company, under the 12th article of the second agreement hereinbefore mentioned, it is admitted at the same time, that the part of that clause which provides, that the lands so objected to, and "which shall have been decided to be totally unfit for cultivation, shall be thenceforth considered as having lapsed to the crown and to belong exclusively to the crown," shall cease to operate, the present agreement being, that the tract of 1,100,000 acres, including swamps, lakes, sand hills, and such other varieties of soil as it may contain, shall belong and be granted to the company on payment of the price formerly agreed on for the million of acres.

Sealed by order of the Court of Directors, in our presence.

County of Prescott.	Hawkesbury.. } East & West	242	229	258	222	951	The population of the township of Gloucester has decreased 363; in the course of the last year this decrease is accounted for by the fact that the last year's return included a great number of labourers & their families, who, having for a long time found employment on the works of the Rideau Canal, still lingered around the scene of their former labour, but have since removed to other parts of the country. Notwithstanding this apparent diminution, the township of Gloucester has received an accession of 29 ratable inhabitants with their families during the past year, being an increase of more than one-fifth in actual settlement.

APPENDIX.

Of the Select Committee on several Petitions for paying the balance of expenses of W. L. Mackenzie, Esquire, during his Mission to London as the Agent for 24,500 Petitioners to His Majesty for a redress of Grievances.

COMMITTEE—MESSIEURS,

GIBSON,
ALWAY,MORRISON,
THORBURN, & LOUNT.To the Honorable the House of Assembly.

The Sel. Committee to whom was referred the Petition of John Hugill, Joseph Cawthra, Edward Wright John Edwd. Tims, Joseph Shepard, John Leys, Daniel Brook, Wm. Cawthra, Robert McKay, James Hunter, John Montgomery, & others, Freeholders of the Home District; the petition of Jeremiah Smith and others, Freeholders of the said District; and the Petition of William Reid, Senior, Israel Lundy, Murdoch McLeod, Samuel Hughes, William Johnston and others, Freeholders of East Gwillimbury and Georgina, in said District, have, in obedience to the orders of the House, enquired into the facts stated in the petitions, and beg leave unanimously to report:

1st.—That the people of the County of York held 18 Township Meetings in their several townships during the summer and autumn of 1831, at each of which a petition to the House of Assembly for the removal of substantial grievances was almost unanimously agreed to.

2nd.—That these Petitions were all, or nearly all entrusted to W. L. Mackenzie, Esquire, one of the representatives of the District, who presented them and supported their prayers.

3rd.—That Mr. Mackenzie was soon after the commencement of the 2nd Session of that House expelled, because a newspaper he conducted had expressed opinions unfavorable to the political course pursued by the majority of its members.

4th.—That, on the first week-day of January, 1832, the Freeholders of the county of York met, re-elected Mr. Mackenzie, and expressed their approbation of his political conduct, and disapprobation of the House of Assembly; this they did by an almost unanimous vote, one elector only being in the negative.

5th.—That the said Freeholders waited on Sir John Colborne, and prayed His Excellency to dissolve the House and allow an appeal to be made to the general body of the electors, but he would not.

6th.—That Mr. Mackenzie being re-elected, took his seat, and was soon after re-expelled, for the publication of his political opinions, which opinions were those of the large constituency he represented.

7th.—That he was elected the 3rd time to that House by a majority believed to be the greatest ever given to one individual over another, in this Province.

8th.—That the Freeholders of the Home District met in great numbers on the 19th January, 1832, in this city, to consider of the best means left them to preserve their civil rights as British subjects, and it was agreed upon, that the only constitutional course left them to pursue, was humbly to address His Majesty, and to crave the aid of the prerogative vested in the Crown for the protection of the people.

9th.—That the Agent they appointed was also chosen by many of the other towns, counties and places of the Province, to carry home addresses expressive of the attachment of the people to His Majesty's Government, and of their confidence, that such constitutional means as were in the power of the Crown, would be used for the redress of the grievances of which they complained. These memorials were signed by twenty-four thousand five hundred of the male adult inhabitants of the colony.

10th.—That the agent of these petitioners took his departure for London with a part of his family; was absent from his home about 18 months, upon a difficult and expensive mission, in no way connected with his private affairs, which were left in the care of one of the Freeholders, a Farmer from the country, who was unfortunately sick a great part of the time.

11th.—That during this period and after the return of their agent from England, the electors of the County of York were kept almost continually employed electing a representative from whose services in the House they were enabled to derive no benefit, because he was expelled as often as re-elected.

12th.—That laws were passed during this period for raising taxes and applying revenue, to which they were opposed; that the wages of their expelled representative were exacted from them, but not paid to him; and that when they refused in some townships to elect officers to collect such taxes, the Justices of the Peace appointed Tax-gatherers and expended the revenue thus raised.

13th.—That the said Electors were not only deprived of their due share of the representation, but also put to great trouble and expense; an excitement was created exceedingly unfavorable to active and regular industry, and injurious to the prosperity of the country.

14th.—That the yeomanry of the Home District appointed a standing committee to attend to their political affairs, which collected by subscription only £150, beyond the amount of their own expenses, and disbursements, but depending, as we think they justly might, on the country whose best rights the Electors were defending, and of whose petitions Mr. Mackenzie was the bearer, they borrowed on the individual responsibility of some of the members, £400 and upwards from Joseph Cawthra, Esquire, Toronto, and Mr. Alex. Montgomery, Senior, of York Township, Farmer, which sums, with the interest, now amount to nearly £500, and are unpaid. Of these sums a part was paid to Mr. Mackenzie when he left for Europe; £180 were transmitted him in the charge of the Rev. Egerton Ryerson, afterwards, and the remainder on his return, to enable him to liquidate debts he had unavoidably incurred in London, and on his way back.

15th.—That petitions signed by many thousands of the inhabitants of Upper Canada, from Halton, Wentworth, Leeds, the District of Niagara, Middlesex, Oxford, Lennox and Addington, Stormont, Glengarry, Grenville, Frontenac, Hastings, the Ottawa, Durham, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Dundas, &c. were entrusted to the Committee, and sent by or to its agent; while the amount of money to defray expenses, received from all these places, was under £65. A very small additional sum has been since received.

2 Report on paying Mr. Mackenzie's expenses in London.

APPENDIX.

16th.—That as two of the petitions pray for a remuneration to be made to Mr. Mackenzie for his services, this Committee enquired whether he was desirous to receive such remuneration. His reply was as follows :

“ My journey to England, and detention there were caused by the unjust conduct of the Legislature towards a large constituency, whose rights I was bound to exert myself to the utmost to maintain—my exertions here and in England were intended for the common advantage of the people—my expenses have been paid by the Committee here, and I think that any further attempts for my remuneration, especially by the Legislature, would be injudicious, and calculated to impress the public with the opinion, that private advantage, more than the public good had been my object.—I submit however, that as the House, by an overwhelming majority, has decided that my expulsions in 1832, 1833, and 1834, were acts subversive of the rights of the whole of the Electors of Upper Canada, that it is the House of Assembly, and not the few electors of the County of York, whose names are held for my expenses, who ought to pay Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Cawthra,—but on this question the House and its Committee are the best judges.”

Your Committee do not consider that Mr. Mackenzie's good or bad success as the agent of the petitioners, who were at the time perhaps a majority of the whole male adults in this Province, ought to guide the House in its decision on the petitions for remuneration ; although if that had been the criterion, the measure of his success far exceeded the public expectation.

He was recognized as the representative of the yeomanry of Upper Canada by His Majesty's Ministers, who frankly admitted that the people were right and the executive and its officers wrong, on the great constitutional question raised by his expulsions.

He was admitted to many audiences of the Ministers of the Crown, and successive Secretaries of State for the Colonies received and listened to his opinions on important matters of policy and government, and avowedly acted upon many of his views and suggestions.

He has been enabled through the House of Commons and the consent of His Majesty's Government, to place on the records of the Imperial Parliament, and to expose to the view of the colonists and the nation, the secret revenues of the Post Office Department of the Canadas, and their misapplication ; the correspondence of Military Governors, traducing the people and their representatives ; the operation of the Legislative Council in its continual rejection of measures of great and general utility prayed for by the people.

He was enabled to prove to the satisfaction of the British Government, that the moment it would attempt to uphold and maintain Canadians in the rights of Englishmen, the Legislative Council of this Province would not even allow the King's Despatches, sent them by his Minister through their Lieutenant Governor, to appear on their Journals, or to lie on the table of their Legislative Chamber.

And it is probable his representations to the Colonial Office, directed against the public conduct of the Crown Lawyers who had acted in direct opposition to the avowed policy of His Majesty's Government, was a means of their summary dismissal by His Majesty.

He was admitted by the Secretary of State to the honor of examining the official records of the Colonial Office, the secret annual returns of the Government of Upper Canada, of the finances of the colony, the journal of the Executive Council, and other documents of importance to the country.

He was enabled to bring the condition of the Post Office department so efficiently before His Majesty's Government as to induce it to send for the Postmaster General of these colonies to London and parliament to pass a bill declaring that the colonists of right ought to control that revenue.

He was enabled to give much information on the subject of Upper Canada to members of the Imperial Legislature, and through the press to the British public ; and also to send some useful information on public affairs to Upper Canada.

He was also authorised to act on behalf of the two Committees, who had transmitted by George Ryerson, Esquire, the petition of the several religious denominations in 1828, signed by 8008 persons, and in 1830 by 14,000, against the Rev. Dr. Strachan's chart, and a Church and State union, and procured from His Majesty's Ministers a recommendation to Dr. Strachan and Bishop McDonell, to quit party politics and the Council Chamber, and attend to their duties in their congregations.

Mr. Mackenzie appears to us to have done what he could on behalf of the rights of the people, and it is to be regretted that he was so strenuously opposed by the Executive Government and both branches of the Legislature.

Your Committee recommend to the House, to guaranty to Mr. Cawthra and Mr. Montgomery, the balances for which they respectively hold the notes of a number of the members of the Committee of the Freeholders, and to pay as a contingency of the House, the wages of their representative, from the time at which it is declared on the Journals that his expulsions were acts subversive of the rights of the whole of the electors of Upper Canada.

P E T I T I O N

JAMES CULL, CIVIL ENGINEER TO HIS EXCELLENCY, THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,

Transmitted by Message, 4th April, 1835.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, Knight Commander of the Bath, Lieutenant Goernor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein.

The Petition of James Cull, of the City of Toronto, Civil Engineer,

HUMBLY SHEWETH:

That your Petitioner has read with great surprise a Report addressed to your Excellency by the Trustees for Macadamizing the Yonge Street road.

However small the claims of your Petitioner may be as a private individual; yet as a British emigrant who has in the performance of his professional duty and his best efforts to bring into practice the system of road making adopted in England (and so far as the road in question is concerned it is admitted successfully) is at least entitled to justice.

Cull's Petition.

APPENDIX.

Your Petitioner humbly assures your Excellency that although he was desirous of aiding by his knowledge in the formation of this road and repeatedly offered his services gratuitously, he refused to become a contractor until he was strongly urged so to do by Mr. Small, one of the Trustees—and not then until he was assured by him and another of the Trustees that he should have all the assistance the Trustees could give him.

Your Petitioner further begs leave to state to your Excellency that he was led to believe that the Trustees were gentlemen of probity and honor, and as your Petitioner had only lately arrived in the colony and finding that some of them were filling places of trust and emolument—and forming his judgment from the known character of men filling similar offices in England, he placed great reliance on their honor—but had your Petitioner at that time known the character of Mr. Boulton, the chairman, no consideration of professional reputation, profit, or public utility should have induced your Petitioner to have had any thing to do with any public work in which he was concerned.

Your Petitioner further assures your Excellency that he was led to believe that all persons having stone on their property adjoining the road would have sold it at the market price, and no intimation to the contrary was given till after the contract was made—whilst their refusal to do so has added full £500 to the cost of the road made by your Petitioner. That notwithstanding this great disadvantage which the Trustees have had the benefit of, a very slight examination of the Report of the Trustees will confirm the justice of the decision of Captain Bonycastle, of the three Arbitrators, and the two Committees, of the House of Assembly, by shewing that the part of the road made by your Petitioner has cost less in proportion than that made by the Trustees.

The whole expenditure in making 2½ miles of road has been, ..£5866 13 10

Being at the rate of £2346 12 8 per mile.

From which must be deducted sundry articles, stones, plank, tools, &c. used by them,.....		146	16 0
		£1528	4 0

It was proved by the witnesses for the Trustees that for this sum full two-thirds of the mile was made. The road was 20 feet wide—the two new bridges, had been erected—1400 yards of deep tunnel drain laid—two swamps have been filled up and the hills lowered as may be seen by examining the banks.

The Report of the Trustees states that 2½ miles of road are made which has cost,.....	£5866	13	10
Deduct from this amount the sum paid to Petitioner,.....	1528	4	0

Leaves the cost of road by Trustees,..... £4338 9 10

The road made by the Trustees is only 16 feet wide, few or no underground drains are made which is the cause that the road is in a worse state with a few months wear than that of the other part though it has had the wear of two years.

Your Petitioner further begs respectfully to state to your Excellency that the assertion of the Trustees that the reports made by the Committee were not allowed to be placed on the Journals of the House is in accordance with the mean and unworthy system of deception which has been practised from first to last. The facts are as follows:—When the first report was brought up, Mr. Ketchum moved that it be recommitted, and that Mr. Berczy and Mr. Robinson (Mr. D. Boulton's brother-in-law) be added to the Committee. The Committee brought up a second report the last day of the Session still more favorable to your Petitioner than the former one, and as the Chairman was reading it he was requested as matter of favor to stop for a minute whilst other business was transacted; and, on his consenting, Mr. Boulton rose and occupied the time of the House until the firing the guns announced the arrival of your Excellency to prorogue the Parliament and by that means succeeded in preventing the reports from finding a place on the Journals of the House.

And your Petitioner further most humbly state to Your Excellency that having submitted his case to Captain Bonycastle, then to three respectable Arbitrators who were unanimous in their decision,—then to two Committees of the House of Assembly, whose reports were highly honorable to your Petitioner—afterwards to a Court of Law, which gave a verdict for £504, and finally to the Court of King's Bench, to which the case was taken on Demurrer, and which confirmed that verdict—and having besides the vexatious annoyance to which during two years your petitioner has been subject, sustained a pecuniary loss to the extent of four hundred pounds, together with loss of professional business as well as of reputation, has now only to look to Your Excellency, who has always been the friend to British Emigrants to take such measures as the justice of the case demands; and to prevent the report which has so little foundation in truth, and which has been got up to gratify a vindictive spirit—and which is so unjust and injurious to all parties concerned, from standing alone, and uncontradicted, upon the Journals of the House of Assembly.

And lastly, your Petitioner accompanies this Petition by a copy of the two reports made by the late Committees to whom the question was referred as furnished by the Clerk of the House.

And your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray.

(Signed)

JAMES CULL.

R E P O R T

OF THE

SELECT COMMITTEE TO WHICH WAS REFERRED THE PETITION OF JAMES CULL, ESQUIRE, CIVIL ENGINEER.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee to which was referred the Petition of James Cull, Esquire, beg leave to Report as follows:

Your Committee, considering the vast importance which attaches to the improvement of our public roads, and Mr. Cull's application having arisen out of circumstances connected with what was intended to be a fair experiment of the expense, utility, and durability of a mile of macadamized road, has given the subject of his petition their most attentive consideration.

With a view of reducing to order their inquiries they have divided them into two distinct heads.

The first is the truth of the allegations contained in Mr. Cull's Petition.

The second, to collect all the information which could be gained by the experiment, so as to enable your Committee and the country to judge what the probable expense of making macadamized roads generally throughout the Province, would be, how far they were practicable; together with any other facts as to their utility and durability.

It appears that Mr. Cull was requested by the Trustees to make a survey and estimate of the probable expense of making a mile of macadamized road on Yonge Street, which he did. In estimating the cost of stone, he acted under an impression that the proprietors of land adjoining the road having stone on their properties would give it gratuitously to the public, or at least sell it at the market price, which was, in place, about $2 per toise, of 216 cubic feet, and in this opinion he seems confirmed by the testimony of one of the Trustees; and supposing it might cost $2 more to remove it on the road, he estimated the cost of stone at $4 per toise, and he ultimately entered into an agreement with the Trustees to make a mile of road for £1500, and to be paid for extras a sum, according to his own estimate, of £250, or thereabouts. To make a mile of road 20 feet wide and 10 inches deep requires in figures 407 toises of stone, but in consequence of loss in breaking and laying on, amounting to about 7½ per cent, it was proved that it really requires, to make a mile of road of the above width and depth, about 440 toises. Mr. Cull, it appears by the investigation, was disappointed in his expectations of obtaining stone in the immediate vicinity, as none of the proprietors would supply him, and he was obliged to go so considerable a Report on Cull's Petition.

APPENDIX.

distance for it that the hauling alone cost on the average $5 per toise; and it also appears, that for the most part, the stone he could procure was in large boulders, the proprietors having prohibited the removal of the smaller stones, so that he was obliged to blast them before they could be removed.

Although he obtained these stones without paying anything for them, yet the blasting cost him $4½ per toise, so that all the stones so obtained cost, instead of $4 per toise (the estimated price) from $9 to $10—he, however, obtained some stone at $6, delivered on the road, and it would appear that on the whole the average cost of stone, obtained by Mr. Cull, was between $8 and $9. It appears by Mr. Cull's report, that he had estimated the cost of breaking stone at 2s currency per ton; now if there are twelve tons in a toise this would be twenty-four shillings, currency, per toise; the price of breaking in the States is 15s, and in England 1s 6d sterling per ton,—but it was found from the hardness of the stone, that the lowest price at which they could be broke here is from 34s to 36s per toise, currency.

It soon became apparent to all parties, that the mile of road could not be completed for £1,500, and after considerable difficulty and delay, it was mutually agreed, that the Trustees should take the road into their own hands, and leave, to be settled by Arbitration, all matters in dispute. This agreement was committed to writing, and subsequently arbitration; bonds were signed by all parties, in a penalty of £3,000, to abide the decision of Benjamin Thorne, Duncan Kennedy and William Chisholm, Esquires, as stated in Mr. Cull's Petition.

This having been legally done, and the evidence taken by those gentlemen having been given upon oath, your Committee did not feel they were called on again to go over the ground which the Arbitrators had gone, but contented themselves with calling before them the Referees, who are highly respectable individuals, and making of them such inquiries as would be best adapted to inform your Committee on every point at issue; at the same time giving notice to the Trustees to attend, in order that any misapprehension or error into which any of the parties had fallen, should be rectified, on which side soever it might have occurred.—The Arbitration bond entered into between Mr. Cull and the Trustees, and the award of the Arbitrators were read.

BENJAMIN THORNE, ESQ., was first called on and he gave the following testimony:

Q.—Were you one of the Referees in the Arbitration between Mr. Cull and the Trustees of the road?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Were the bonds and award those now produced?

A.—Yes, to the best of my recollection.

Q.—Did you, at the referencè with the other Referees, carefully examine the expenditure of Mr. Cull?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did he produce such vouchers and receipts as left no doubt whatever on your mind of their correctness?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Are the papers now produced those which contained a statement of that expenditure, and are you satisfied that the whole amount therein specified was expended?

A.—Yes, except some trifling errors, both in favor of and against Mr. Cull.

Q.—Did Mr. Cull, on that occasion, readily, and without any hesitation, afford a full and fair exposition of his proceedings as well as of his accounts?

A.—Yes, I consider so.

Q.—From all the evidence produced on that occasion, were you satisfied that Mr. Cull, as an Engineer, had discharged his duty to the public, and that the road, so far as he had completed it, was well and skilfully made?

A.—Yes, I think the work was well done, the stone might possibly have been obtained cheaper, by burning instead of blasting, but they would have been of an inferior quality; there might possibly, at the commencement of the work, have been more laborers than were necessary.

Q.—Do you recollect Mr. Boulton's giving any pledge, as Chairman of the Trustees, that he would support the whole claim of Mr. Cull before a Committee of this House?

A.—Yes, that although the Trustees did not feel willing to pay Mr. Cull, he would support the claim if Parliament recommended it. Mr. Boulton advised Mr. Cull not to Arbitrate, but to throw himself upon the Parliament, and he had no doubt but what Mr. Cull would get every shilling, and that he, as a Trustee, would recommend it to Parliament.

Q.—Do you recollect what the evidence of Mr. Watson, Mr. Bell and Mr. Thompson was, as to the proportion of the road which Mr. Cull had done?

(Mr. Thorne here referred to his notes of evidence taken before the Referees, on oath, as follows:)

“ John Bell called by the Trustees—worked for Mr. Cull, thinks the work “ was well done—was employed by the Trustees to see that the work was “ well done; could not tell what the stone from Bishop's field cost Mr. Cull— “ is doubtful whether a sufficiency of stone could be obtained at 30s. per toise. “ He received £4 10 0 per rod for the road, 16 feet wide and 10 inches metal bed “ for the piece of road formerly made at the Blue Hill, there would be some addi- “ tional expense in laying stone on a curved instead of a flat metal bed,—thinks “ it would cost £1,700 per mile, besides draining, &c.—thinks there were 733 “ yards of road laid—thinks two-thirds of the mile were made, taking into consi- “ deration the culverts, Bridges, and the quantity of earth that had been removed, “ offered to make the remainder of the mile for £900, being about half a mile, in “ which Mr. Thompson, one of the Trustees, would have joined; the men were “ not under so good control after the rumpus.

“ Leonard Watson called.—All circular work was considered extra expense; “ a circular shape is an improvement to the road; the lower part of the mile, “ done by Mr. Cull, was the most expensive part—says that the men under his “ control did work diligently—was Foreman to Mr. Cull.

“ Joseph Craig, Foreman to the Blasters, under Mr. Cull, proved that the “ accounts were kept by himself; it was copied by Mr. Cull, shewing the labor— “ proves that the price of blasting is 22s 6d per toise, and that the workmen em- “ ployed were good hands, and did the work well—were paid after the rate of one “ penny per inch for boring, and were not paid 5s unless they bored sixty inches “ per day, and in that proportion.

“ Henry Sheppard, Foreman to the Stone collectors under Mr. Cull, produc- “ ed and proved the accounts of the labor and the men under his charge.”

End of Mr. Thorne's Notes of Evidence.

Q.—Supposing that Mr. Cull was occupied four months, and his whole time and attention had been given to the road, what should you think he ought to receive as a compensation, including that the keep of a horse was indispensable?

A.—I think 22s 6d per day would not be too much.

Q.—You have seen the road often, are you still of opinion that the part made by Mr. Cull is well and substantially made?

A.—Yes, I think it the best piece of road in North America.

Q.—By Mr. Ketchum, one of the Trustees—to Mr. Thorne. For all you know, or for all the Trustees know, may not Mr. Cull have paid double price for the stone?

A.—No, and repeated the evidence given by Mr. Craig. Mr. Thorne added, that at the time of the arbitration he examined the Foreman of the works, Leonard Watson, who proved Mr. Cull's daily accounts—all the men worked well, though some would require looking to.

By the Committee.

Q.—Did the sum of £475, awarded to Mr. Cull, include anything for his time and trouble?

A.—No, Nothing.

Q.—How was it that although there was proved to be due to Mr. Cull £538, you only awarded 475?

A.—We did it because we thought it well to be unanimous, and I felt that as Mr. Cull had under estimated the expense, he ought to bear part of the loss.

Mr. KENNEDY was next called in, and stated as follows:

Q.—Were you appointed by the Trustees as Referee?

A.—Yes.

Report on Cull's Petition.

Q.—Did you, with Mr. Thorne and Mr. Chisholm, carefully investigate Mr. Cull's accounts of the expenditure on that occasion?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Were you fully satisfied that the statement he produced was just and true?

A.—I saw nothing to the contrary.

Q.—What sum did you award?

A.—I do not recollect.

Q.—Do you recollect what proportion of the work of the road was done by Mr. Cull, and by whose evidence it was substantiated?

A.—Two-thirds.

Q.—In the award of £475, did you allow anything to Mr. Cull for his time, trouble, and personal expense?

A.—That was spoken of by Mr. Thorne, but nothing was allowed in the award.

Q.—Do you recollect Mr. Boulton's giving any pledge as to what he would do when the question came before the House?

A.—Not a pledge exactly. In substance, respecting the House of Assembly, he said he would use his own influence that Mr. Cull should recover what he claimed.

Q.—What did Mr. Boulton state to be his own estimate of the cost of the road?

A.—Mr. Boulton said that he had several estimates, and that all were wrong, but he had made an estimate of his own, which was correct, which was £2300, and that he had made it upon the calculation of Mr. Macaulay, in whose judgment he had great confidence.

By C. SMALL, Esq., one of the Trustees, to Mr. KENNEDY.

Q.—Was there any item for stone bridges, &c. &c., and what was the sum allowed for that item in the award?

A.—About £200 for that and other excavations, &c. Mr. Kennedy added, he thinks Mr. Thompson, one of the Trustees said he thought that two-thirds of the work of making the road was done by Mr. Cull.

COL. CHISHOLM, M. P. P. was then called, and stated.

Q.—Were you chosen as umpire by Mr. Thorne and Kennedy on an arbitration between Mr. Cull and the Trustees for improving the Yonge Street road, and did you attend with the Arbitrators the several meetings?

A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Were the accounts then produced carefully examined by the referee so as to leave no doubt on your mind that the items were correct and the sums fairly expended?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What sum did you award?

A.—£1,700, including £25 0 0, the expenses of the Arbitration; the balance awarded to Mr. Cull was £475 0 0.

Q.—Will you state to the Committee whether any, and what pledge to support Mr. Cull's petition to the House of Assembly was given?

A.—Mr. Boulton would not pledge himself for what the other Trustees would do, but he would use his influence that Mr. Cull should have all the money he had expended, if the petition was referred to the House of Assembly. This was repeated several times.

Q.—Do you recollect who stated that two-thirds of the mile were done?

A.—It was estimated by the best evidence before the Arbitrators, that two-thirds of the expense of completing the mile of road was incurred. Mr. Chisholm added that the Arbitrators examined every man's name and found the accounts very correct; the Arbitrators were quite satisfied that the amount of money had been expended; Mr. Cull swore to the accounts at Mr. Boulton's suggestion, and he (Mr. B.) drew up the affidavit. In fact the award was made upon Mr. Boulton's own estimate. I awarded to Mr. Cull less than he expended, because I thought it advisable for all parties that the award should be unanimous, and Mr. Kennedy refused to go beyond £475 0 0, though the actual expenditure was £530 0 0.

Questions put to Mr. Chisholm by Mr. Boulton.

Q.—Did the Arbitrators take the original agreement into their consideration?

A.—Yes, I repeat. I believe the agreement was invalid from informality, but if it was ever so binding it was clearly broken by the Chairman of the Trustees refusing to pay Mr. Cull money when it was due to him, and that it was due to him was stated by a majority of the Trustees present. Mr. Chisholm and Mr. Kennedy then both agreed that Mr. Boulton, as one of the Trustees, pledged himself, not for the rest of the Trustees, but as an individual Trustee, to support Mr. Cull's petition.

LEONARD WATSON, Mr. Cull's Foreman, and since then acting as Foreman for the Trustees, stated.

Q.—Were you employed as Foreman by Mr. Cull on the Yonge Street road?

A.—Yes.

Q.—How much have you paid for expenses incurred since?

A.—The book will tell by referring to it. By Mr. Boulton £1131 14 7.

Q.—What will it cost to complete the road?

A.—By Mr. Boulton £143 15 4.

Q.—How much road 20 feet wide and 10 inches deep do you find in practice can be made from one toise of stone.

A.—Four yards.

Q.—What price have you paid for stone?

A.—Six and seven dollars.

Q.—What have you paid for breaking stone?

A.—Four shillings per cubit yard.

It was conclusive from the united testimony of all these witnesses, that a most strict investigation had taken place, and that Mr. Cull's expenditure had been faithfully and honorably stated, and that the road had been constructed with great ability and judgment; and your Committee feel compelled to say, in justice to that gentleman, that they agree with the Arbitrators, that nothing could be more fair and honorable than the whole of his conduct appears to have been throughout these protracted inquiries.

Mr. Cull had stated that he was induced to apply to the House at the recommendation of D'Arcy Boulton, junior, Esq. who, he stated had promised to support his petition, and if the House recommended it he would consent to pay the money. Mr. Boulton denies this, but independently of the testimony of the Referees, Mr. Cull called Clark Gamble, Esq. whose testimony is as follows:

Q.—Were you employed by Mr. Cull professionally as to his claim on the Trustees of the road?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you advise him to present a petition to the House of Assembly?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Were you induced to do so in consequence of Mr. Boulton's recommending it, and did he not tell you he would not oppose Mr. Cull's claim, but on the contrary, use all his influence to obtain a favorable report, in which case the Trustees would pay the claim awarded by the Referees?

A.—They all referred me to the Chairman, and said they would be bound by what he said. Mr. Boulton said he could not consent without consulting their legal adviser, Mr. Draper. I then mentioned to him, that it was Mr. Cull's intention to petition the House of Assembly, and I understood from Mr. Boulton, that he would further the petition as far as he could, and for this cause, that though the Trustees thought the award unjust, and that as public officers they would not feel themselves justified in paying it; yet if a report in his favor should be made, it would relieve them from their responsibility and the claim would be paid.

Q.—Have you in your possession, or if not, have you not seen a paper signed by Mr. Boulton, as Chairman, and Mr. Cull, mutually pledging each other to abide the decision of the Referees, and did you not draw the Arbitration Bonds in conformity with that agreement?

A.—I believe I have that paper in my possession at present—(Mr. Boulton here produced a paper which he said was the one in question, in his (Mr. Boulton's) handwriting, and shewed it to Mr. Gamble, who said he did not think that was the paper, but he could not be certain.) The paper was as follows:

“Mr. Cull proposes to put the road, tools, stone in the fields or elsewhere,

Report on Cull's Petition.

“ broken and unbroken, into the hands of the Trustees, in order that no delay “ may be suffered in a work of interest to the country, provided the Trustees will “ refer all matters in dispute between the parties, to the consideration and award “ two indifferent parties, whose award shall be kept by the respective parties.”
 “ Approved.”

D. BOULTON,
 J. CULL.

“ York, 16th September, 1833.

Mr. Gamble had some doubts as to its being the paper, but would not say positively.

It is not very easy to reconcile these discrepancies, nor is it perhaps very material as to the merits of the case at all events.

Q.—Have you not more than once expressed your conviction that a regular award having been made, Mr. Cull ought to be paid, and that you would give your vote accordingly?

A.—I am always in favor when there is a dispute between parties to leave it to Arbitrators. I proposed submitting this case of Mr. Cull's to arbitration as one of the Trustees; at the time of the submission, Mr. Cull had received £1,200, and from evidence before us, it appeared that not more than one-half of the road had been completed; Mr. Cull at that time made a claim against the Trustees, of £1,500, or thereabouts, for money he had paid and was liable for on the road.—The Trustees thought that they could not, in justice to the public, pay Mr. Cull his demand, and accordingly left the case to arbitration, but was informed by the Trustees, that the Arbitrators had awarded about £175 more than the claim, which at that time we all objected to pay, subsequently in consequence of knowing that many of the workmen were kept out of their just dues who were frequently applying to myself and other Trustees, I have more than once expressed my desire that Mr. Cull should be paid the amount of his demand, at the time the case was left to Arbitration, being about £300; and I have since stated that as the matter had been left to arbitration, and the Arbitrators had made their award though I think they have awarded a much larger sum than I think Mr. Cull ought to receive, I would advocate the payment of the award to enable the payment of such just dues as the laborers have against Mr. Cull.

By the Chairman.

Could the road have been made for the sum for which it had originally been contracted?—Undoubtedly not.

Was the work well done?—That is admitted by all the Trustees.

MR. GEORGE TAYLOR DENISON, one of the Trustees, called in and examined.

Question by Mr. Cull.

Did you not expect before I contracted to make the road, and at the time, that persons whose land adjoins the road would have given the large stones for nothing?—Yes, I must acknowledge I certainly did think they would have done so, and was surprised when I found they would not sell them.

EVIDENCE FOR THE DEFENCE.

January 17th, 1834.

Committee met.

PRESENT—MESSRS. John Willson, Chairman,
 Werden, and Duncombe.

Mr. Boulton read a paper, which he promised to give to the Committee.

Mr. Cull's original report was produced and admitted, as made by order of the Trustees.

Questions put by MR. BOULTON to MR. CULL.

APPENDIX.

What amount did you claim from the Trustees?—£1758.

What quantity of metal was laid by you?—737 yards; besides a large quantity of broken stone ready to be laid, and also of unbroken stone, besides having levelled and drained nearly or quite three quarters of the mile.

LEONARD WATSON called in and examined by MR. BOULTON.

How many yards of metal were laid by Mr. Cull?—737 yards; there might have been two or three yards difference in the measure.

How many yards of metal did Mr. Cull provide?—76 yards of Kingston stone, 5 or 6 toise of hard stone on the ground not used; 5 or 6 toise of hard stone on the ground not used; 8 or 9 toise bored and not blasted.

Examined by MR. CULL.

How many toise of stone did you get from Bishop's field?—3 toise gathered and 2 in the field; one toise will do 4 yards, 20 feet wide and 10 inches thick, taking wet and dry weather together.

How many bridges did Mr. Cull make?—Two.

What did they cost? I do not know; the large one was built by contract, the smallest by day work. The Masons contracted to build the large one for £30, but that did not include the labour of digging up the old bridge, or backing up, or plank for foundation, or side walls, &c.

Did the Trustees build any bridge?—No.

How many yards of drains did Mr. Cull make?—Something about 1,100 yards, exclusive of the laps.

How many yards of drains were made by the the Commissioners?—453 yards.

Did you include in the 1,100 yards of draining, that above the upper bridge being part of the last quarter of a mile?—No.

Who paid the men for breaking the twenty-one toise of Kingston stone?—Mr. Cull employed them.

How many yards of stone have the Trustees laid on the road?—I cannot tell, but the book will shew.

Mr. Cull having called every witness necessary to the support of the allegations of the Petition: Your Committee feel bound, in duty to that Gentleman to say that it was their unanimous opinion, that he had succeeded in proving them, and they then called on the Trustees to state their reason for their not complying with the award, and also to induce any testimony at variance with the statements which had been made.

All the Trustees attended more or less, but Mr. D. Boulton, the chairman, constantly officiated as their representative.

It appears that the Trustees had acted under an impression that the Arbitrators had no right to decide that the original agreement between themselves and Mr. Cull was vitiated; and they were also impressed with a conviction that such an agreement having been made, by which the road was to have been completed for £1,500, and an additional sum for bridges and extras, that they would not be justified in complying with the award without the approbation of your Honorable House.

Your Committee are, however, clearly of opinion, that the Arbitrators gave the subject a thorough investigation, and exercised a sound discretion in the course they adopted, and could not have done otherwise. The arbitration bonds refer all matters in difference to the award of the Arbitrators or Umpire; the agreement was one of those matters in difference, and we agree with them that the refusal of one of their number who was chairman for the time being, to pay the money when it was voted by a majority of the Trustees, at a public meeting of the Trustees, to be right, was a breach of the original agreement. At any rate, the circumstance of the Trustees taking the road into their own hands was a clear abandonment of the agreement. The referees had therefore to ascertain what was the real expenditure, and if that expenditure had been judiciously made, they decided that the sum of £1738 had been expended, and that the road had been well and skilfully made in every respect; but they awarded Mr. Cull only £1675, as appears by the evidence; because Mr. Kennedy, the referee chosen by the Trustees, refused to allow the larger sum, but was willing to allow the smaller sum, and, because the original estimate had been so much below the actual expenditure, Mr. Cull ought to submit to some loss, and thinking it was desirable for all parties that an unanimous award should be made, the other Arbitrators acquiesced in the award.

Report on Cull's Petition.

APPENDIX.

At that time the road was not more than two-thirds done, as it appears in evidence before the Arbitrators, and it was impossible to state accurately what it would cost. It is now more nearly completed, and the Committee have been enabled to arrive at the result, which is as follows:—

The Trustees have labored under great disadvantages in the increased expense of completing the road, &c., so late in the season. On the other hand, Mr. Cull had the commencement of the work to do, which is always most difficult, and was particularly so in this case. It was distinctly proved before the Arbitrators that Mr. Cull had done two-thirds of the work of the mile; this is now denied by the Trustees, but if he had done only half, he has for this £68 4s 2d excess of money paid over that expended by the Trustees, done 556 yards more of box drains, &c. more than the Trustees—built 2 stone bridges, one forty feet wide, with a six feet arch, with stone water course parapet, &c.; the other about 45 feet wide, with 3 feet arch, &c.—Filled and drained to swales across the road, and that near the upper bridge, he has used nearly all blasted stone instead of burnt, besides the distance he had to go for them.

On the whole Your Committee fully agree with the Arbitrators that no charge attaches to Mr. Cull for extravagance, or waste or want of skill; on the contrary, it appears to your Committee that he done quite as much, and even more, for the money expended by him than the Trustees have done for the sum they have expended; and they cannot but regret that the statements he speaks of in his petition, which were injurious to his professional reputation as well as to his character for integrity and honor, have been made, all of which, if such were made, your Committee feel bound, in justice to that gentlemen, to say, are unjust and wholly unfounded.

Under these circumstances, your Committee feel themselves bound to recommend to the Trustees, to pay the sum awarded by the Arbitrators to Mr. Cull, of £475, together with the costs and expenses of the reference, and also allowing him a reasonable compensation for the time he has consumed and his personal expenses, more especially when it is recollected that the country will have derived the benefit of his experience.

And your Committee are of opinion that the Arbitrators would have been fully justified by including in their award a fair and reasonable allowance to the contractor for his personal services.

It only remains that your Committee proceed to report such practical information as they have been able to obtain from the investigation.

The road in question is 20 feet wide and the metal 10 inches thick. The metal bed is an exact curve of a convex shape, rising four inches in the centre and excavated to the depth of ten inches. The metal forms the same curve as the bed on which it is laid.

This is a very excellent arrangement, because, by it there is no part of the bed level, so that should the water pass through the metal before it becomes united into a solid mass, it will run to the side of the bed, where it is carried off by drains made for that purpose; and the natural soil forms a strong abutment to the road.

There are 1570 yards of deed box drains, 12 inches square, laid down the sides of the road, sufficiently deep to be out of the reach of the frost, and which carry off all the springs which run great part of the year, and which used to break up in the middle or run across the road.

The foot-paths are five feet in width on each side the road, and next to them are floor ditches to take off the surface water into the natural water-courses. Great attention seems to have been paid to the draining the road; on which it is evident everything must depend. On the sides of the road were formerly deep gullies formed by the washing of the winter streams; these have been filled up, and the earth to do so, obtained by taking off the tops of the hills, so that the entire mile is now nearly a regular declivity.

The ditches occupy about 5 feet each, and as the whole road is 66 feet wide, about 13 feet of road is left on each side of the macadamized road, which is composed of the natural soil.

By computation, a mile of this road requires 407 toises of stone; but in consequence of a loss in breaking and laying, of about $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., it will take 440 toises—that is one toise of 216 cubic feet will make four yards of road.

It appears that the granite boldres, of which this road is principally made, are extremely hard, so as to resist the blows of the best steel sledges, and they become harder by exposure to the air; as those masses which have been recently blasted are more easily broken than the round heads as they are called, many of which could not be broken at all.

The two modes resorted to for breaking the large boldres are blasting and burning. In blasting, holes are bored, about one third of the depth of the stone, into which gunpowder is rammed, and the explosion breaks it into large masses. In burning, firewood is heaped upon the stone, and when in a heated state water is thrown upon it, it splits into pieces; or if still greater heat be applied the attraction of cohesion is destroyed and the stone is easily broken. It is obvious therefore, that burnt stone must be less durable than that which is blasted, though it requires more labor to break the blasted stone into small pieces.

The expense of blasting, as paid by Mr. Cull, has been 22s 6d. per toise; but a higher price is usually paid for it, and expert workmen must be employed to do it at the price.

The expense of burning is stated to be something less, but the person who made the statement had fuel close at hand, which cost him nothing; and it is very doubtful how far there would be much economy in burning stone if the fuel is to be purchased or brought from any distance.

The boring seems to have been conducted on a plan of great economy, the men employed were paid one penny per inch, and every man was expected to bore 60 inches per day. The blasters were paid 6s. per day in consequence of the danger and skill required.

Should the estimate of the Trustees prove correct for the expense of completing the road, the whole expense of the mile, will be £3,014, including bridges, drains, lowering hills, and all other expenses, except superintendence, which, including plans, surveys and estimates, ought not to be less than 10 per cent.

Your Committee however are of opinion that this experiment will not prove

Report on Cull's Petition.

APPENDIX.

a fair criterion by which to judge of the probable expense of macadamized roads through the Province, and for the following reasons:

The road in question is wider than will be found generally necessary, though not wider than it ought to be in the approach to the capital of the Province.—Much more has been done in levelling than will be required in a general way.—Wooden culverts may be substituted for stone bridges, and if they are constructed in the way Mr. Cull recommends in his report to the Trustees, will be very durable and efficient. He proposes that they should be made of cedar logs hewed from a pattern, each log to form a portion of the arch, so that when they are put together they form a segment of a circle and in order to prevent their moving, he proposes that a strong dowel or pin be driven at intervals so as to connect the whole together.

There is also no doubt that the disputes between the parties have added to the expense of the road, both in the expenditure of Mr. Cull arising out of the difficulties he has had to encounter, as well as that of the Trustees, from the loss of the season; and, it appears probable that the part of the road lately done will be less durable, and at any rate require a larger expense in repairing.

The forming roads in general will probably cost much less, especially if the metal bed is much narrower, and it is quite notorious that the mile of road in question was probably the very worst in the Province.

There are however two items which form a very important object in road making; these are, the cost of the stones, and the breaking them. The cost will generally depend on the hauling; when they are not to be obtained within a distance of two miles of the site, the hauling cannot be less than 20s to 25s per toise; a team of strong horses will carry a toise in ten loads, and in tolerable roads; if the distance is greater the expense will greatly increase—10s is the lowest price which can be considered a remuneration for collecting, &c., and 30s per toise for the stone on the road under the most favorable circumstances. The breaking will cost at least 30s per toise, and the spreading and laying will amount to 3s 6d per lineal yard at least.

Your Committee are of opinion, that in all future acts of Parliament for macadamizing roads, a clause should be inserted rendering it compulsory on all persons having stone on their land to sell it to the Commissioners at a fair market price, and being compensated for any damage which may be done in its removal. Commissioners should also be authorised to take stone from adjoining lands, and the beds of rivers, &c.

The whole of which is most respectfully submitted.

Committee Room, Commons House of Assembly, }
23rd January, 1835. }

The claimants on the Road having presented a petition to the House. Mr. Ketchum proposed that it should be referred to the former Committee, with an addition to their number of Mr. Robinson and Mr. Berczy; Mr. Robinson declined acting, and Mr. Morris was named, who also declined acting.

The following is the second report of the Committee:

That your Committee were appointed in the following manner—the Select Committee to whom was referred the Petition of James Cull, Esq., Civil Engineer, were appointed upon the reading of the petition in the ordinary way. They were Messrs. John Willson, (Chairman,) Duncombe, and Werden, all of whom, after a thorough, faithful, and impartial investigation, entirely concurred, and unanimously agreed to the report upon that petition; which was submitted to your Honorable House on the 30th day of January, 1834, and by them unanimously received. Some time afterwards, upon a motion being made to refer the petition of Joseph Price and others, to a Select Committee, Mr. Ketchum moved that the report of the Select Committee upon the petition of James Cull be not entered upon the Journals, but that it be referred back to the Select Committee from whom it emanated, together with the petition of Joseph Price and others, and that Messrs. Robinson and Berczy be added to the Committee, which was adopted; Mr. Robinson declined acting on the Committee, and some days afterwards moved to have his name struck off from the Committee, and that of Mr. Morris added to the Committee, which was adopted; Mr. Morris refused to serve on the Committee.

APPENDIX.

Your Committee being required to report by order of your Honorable House, have prepared the following, to which they beg leave to call the attention of your Honorable Body, notwithstanding their remonstrance before your Honorable House, against the report being referred to themselves again. They therefore respectfully express their firm conviction of the truth, correctness, and justice, of their former report, which is herewith presented for a more careful investigation and more mature deliberation of your Honorable House; fully confident that when your Honorable House shall have carefully investigated the subject they will come to the same conclusion that your Committee have done, and the more especially when they find that two of the Trustees, Mr. Small and Mr. Dennison, are willing to abide by the award of the Arbitrators upon this question.

Your Committee feel that they ought to urge upon your Honorable House the importance of your receiving and adopting this report, that His Majesty's subjects in this Province may remain satisfied that there is firmness and independence enough in this House to do justice to all; and that they will not shrink from their duty for fear of the vengeance that may be poured upon the heads of those, who, regardless of consequences, fearlessly oppose oppression, though supported by the united influence of wealth, respectable connections, party prejudice, political and official power, while in defence of truth and justice about to be violated in the person of a respectable English emigrant; wealth concentrated, and exercising a powerful monopolizing influence, highly dangerous to the liberties of a free people, in a Bank that controls and regulates more than two-thirds of the circulating medium in this Province; connections who are highly respected by your Committee, and who may not sanction the conduct of the Trustees in this matter, yet the excellence of whose characters powerfully shields the Trustees from the decided expression of public opinion, while it unavoidably exposes your Committee to the consequences of being supposed to be the enemies, especially if aided by party feeling, supported by political and official power.

All of which is most respectfully submitted to the consideration of your Honorable House.

JOHN WILLSON,
Chairman Committee.

Committee Room, House of Assembly, }
4th March, 1835. }

To the Honorable the House of Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, in the Provincial Parliament Assembled.

THE PETITION OF JAMES CULL OF YORK, CIVIL ENGINEER.

Humbly Sheweth:

That in the month of May last your petitioner was requested by the Trustees appointed, to improve the roads in the vicinity of York, to make a survey, and report upon the best mode of forming a mile of macadamized road, together with an estimate of the probable expense thereof.

That although Your Petitioner repeatedly declined entering into any contract to make such a mile of road, when asked to do so, it being incompatible with his practice as an Engineer, he was at length induced. (at the earnest request of one of the Trustees,) to undertake to make the mile of road for £1500, and to be paid an extra sum for stone bridges, &c. which Your Petitioner estimated at about £250 in addition; and the money expended was to be paid to Your Petitioner every Saturday.

That Your Petitioner had, in his report, estimated the cost of the stone for the road at 4 dollars per toise, upon the expectation, that the quantity required would be obtained in the immediate vicinity, where it is to be found in considerable quantities, and the price at which stone was then selling in this place was 2 dollars to 2½ dollars, and calculating that it might cost 2 dollars more to get it into the road—in this, however, Your Petitioner was deceived, as no stone could be purchased from lands adjoining the road, except in one instance, and in that case an exorbitant price was asked. The stone was therefore obliged to be obtained from a distance where the hauling alone cost full 5 dollars per toise, which made the price of stone more than double the estimated price; and as it required 447 toise of stone to make a mile of road, that item alone added between 400 and £500 to the cost of the road above the estimate.

Petition of Jas. Cull, Esq. Civil Engineer.

Your Petitioner had estimated the cost of breaking the stone at about 27s. per toise, which is nearly double the price paid in England—whereas from its excessive hardness it has cost 37s. per toise, which added above £200 more to the cost of the road above the price estimated.

When Your Petitioner had done about two-thirds of the entire work, and had expended £1750, he had received from the Trustees £1,000, besides £200 advanced by two of the Trustees, Messrs. Small and Denison, together 1200—leaving due to Your Petitioner £550, the Trustees refusing to advance any more money, your Petitioner was compelled to stop the work on the Road. It had been agreed by the contract, that if any dispute arose it should be referred to Captain Bonnycastle, Commanding Engineer, whose decision should be final.

On your petitioner requesting that this should be done, it was refused by the Trustees, until, at the desire of His Excellency and with the consent of Mr. Small Captain Bonnycastle was requested to examine and report. Your Petitioner's accounts were all laid before him, and on examining them and inspecting the road, he reported that the sums stated by Your Petitioner had been properly expended—"that the road was well made," and he recommended that Your Petitioner's demand should be paid.

This, however, the Trustees refused to do, but they proposed that if Your Petitioner would give up the materials on the road, and the necessary tools, with immediate possession, and leave his claim to the decision of two indifferent persons or their Umpire, they pledged their honor as gentlemen to abide their decision. To this Your Petitioner acceded, having first reduced to writing the proposal, which was signed, and soon after Bonds of Arbitration were also executed, by which all parties were bound in a penalty of £3000 to abide the decision of Benjamin Thorne, Esq. and Duncan Kennedy, stone mason, who had selected as their Umpire William Chisholm, Esq. member of your honorable house.

After many days of strict investigation of the accounts and examination of witnesses, on oath, the referees unanimously agreed that the road had been well and skilfully made in every respect; and there was due to Your Petitioner £475, and further, that the expense of the reference was £25 which sums they awarded should be paid by the Trustees, on or before the 18th of October last, which award was legally made and executed, and a copy thereof sent to the chairman of the Trustees, D'Arcy Boulton, Junr. Esq., but no part of the sum has ever been paid, and your petitioner has been put to great inconvenience and has suffered irreparable injury in his credit and professional reputation in consequence thereof, nor can Your Petitioner obtain from the Trustees an alleged cause for so dishonourable a breach of trust and honour.

Your Petitioner is informed that if he succeed in a Court of Law in recovering his demand on the Trustees, many months will elapse before he can do so, and he will therefore be obliged to sell his private property at whatever sacrifice to pay the debts incurred in making the road, for all of which he is liable, and more so especially as a considerable amount is due to poor distressed labouring men with large families.

Your Petitioner is further induced to apply to your Honorable House for relief, because the Trustees, who refused to pay his demand, have repeatedly urged him to do so, on the ground that they do not feel justified in taking such a step without the consent of your Honorable House, and promising at the same time that they would not make any attempt to dispute your Petitioner's claim when it should be brought before you.

Your Petitioner refers with confidence to William Chisholm, Esq. a Member of your Honorable House, who was the Umpire in the Reference as before mentioned, and who strictly investigated the case, for his testimony, as to the correctness and accuracy of your Petitioner's accounts as well as to the evidence given by the different witnesses as to the attention bestowed on the work by your Petitioner, and the skill with which the road was constructed.

Your Petitioner further begs leave to state, that although the Referees awarded, as due to him £475, he has expended £550 more than he has received, and your Petitioner believes that the majority of the Referees were well satisfied that this was the case, but that they were induced to give the smaller sum to obtain an unanimous award.

APPENDIX.

Your Petitioner further respectfully states, that in this sum there is no charge or allowance for the time, labor and skill of your Petitioner, while employed during nearly four months with the expense of his horse, from 5 o'clock in morning, until 9 at night, in superintending the work and keeping the accounts, which was rendered extremely difficult by the circumstances attending it.

Your Petitioner cannot but deeply regret that circumstances have arisen which will prevent the mile of road in question from being the fair experiment it was intended to be, either as to expense (or as to part of it) as to its cost or stability. Considerable extra expense has been incurred by the difficulties thrown in the way of your Petitioner, as well as that due preparation ought to have been made in the supply of stone and a clause inserted in the Act rendering it obligatory on those who have stone on the road to sell it at a fair price to the public; and your Petitioner fears that part of the road in question, having been made when the metal bed was in a soft or frozen state will prove less firm than the part made under his own inspection, in a proper season of the year.

That since the time when your Petitioner gave up the possession and finishing of the road into the hands of the Trustees, he has been informed that it has cost them to complete the work, as far as is now done, the sum of £730, or thereabouts, and this, exclusive of a large quantity of material left by your Petitioner on the said road, as well as of a large quantity of tools, amounting together in value, your petitioner believes to be, near £70, or thereabouts; and there still remain from 1 to 2 hundred yards of road to make complete the whole; and as it was adduced in evidence before the above named Arbitrators, that your Petitioner had completed two-thirds of the work, which cost the sum of £1750, your Petitioner humbly trusts, that this circumstance alone, will convince your Honorable House that your Petitioner has neither acted extravagantly or carelessly in expending the amount which he has done in forming that part of the road which he completed, which was by far the most difficult part of the work.

Your Petitioner, therefore, under a full conviction that he has fulfilled his duty skilfully, faithfully and honorably, trusts to the justice of your Honorable House to take such measures as will ensure to your Petitioner the payment of the money which he has expended, & such reasonable sum in addition as shall be thought proper for his time and personal trouble and expense—and that if Your Honourable House should not feel authorised to compel the payment of the aforesaid money, that you will recommend the Trustees to pay the same to Your Petitioner, and thereby to save him from the most serious possible injury.

And as in duty bound your Petitioner will ever pray.

JAMES CULL.

REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF EDUCATION—OTTAWA DISTRICT.

To His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

We the undersigned, a majority of the Board of Education of the District of Ottawa,

HUMBLY REPORT :

That a public meeting of the said Board was this day held at the village of L. Original in the said District.

That the Common Schools within the District continue to be conducted in a satisfactory manner; the number of Schools and of pupils continuing about the same as last reported.

That there is a great demand for school books, which the board is unable to supply, the last remittance of books having been long since distributed.

The Board recommends that the sum of three hundred and forty-nine pounds, nineteen shillings and nine pence be appropriated to the support of the said Common Schools for the current year, ending on the first day of June next. This amount includes six month's allowance in favour of the school on lot number 12 in the 8th concession of West Hawkesbury, which was erroneously reported by the trustees, and allowed in the last year's appropriation list, but not paid, on account of a mistake in the description of the school. Also, six months allowance in favour of the Common School in Clarence, which was also comprised in the appropriation list for the year ending June 1st, 1833, but which was not paid by the Treasurer on account of some informality in the requisition. Also three month's and four month's allowance to two Schools respectively in the Village of Longueil, which, having been established between the 6th day of January last and the 1st day of June last, would not therefore be included in the last year's appropriation list.

All which is humbly submitted.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION—EASTERN DISTRICT.

To His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The Board of Education for the Eastern District,

RESPECTFULLY REPORT :

That during the half year ending 31st December, 1833, there were eighty-five Common Schools in this District, and two thousand three hundred and seventy-five pupils; and during the half year ending 30th June 1834, there were eighty-one Schools, and two thousand three hundred and sixty-three pupils receiving their education in said schools. The branches of education taught are geography, arithmetic, reading, writing, spelling, English grammar, and, in a few schools, latin. The amount of public money received by each Teacher for the year 1833 was nine pounds fifteen shillings. The Board of Education has received a box of books lately, they are now in the course of distribution to the schools in the most remote parts of the District, the number sent being too few to give to all the schools.

The Board of Education is well convinced that much benefit is derived from the encouragement given to Common Schools. The Trustees of the several schools report generally that the teachers employed conduct themselves with propriety, and the Board hopes that encouragement may still be extended for the purpose of improving and increasing Common Schools throughout the Province.

REMARKS.—In the above distribution, a difference is made in the amount assigned to those Teachers who had taught in the District the six months preceding, and received the smaller proportion of the public money provided by Law, (being only £5 5 0)—and those Teachers, who have taught a School during the six months embraced in the above return.

The claims of some deserving Teachers having been overlooked in the distribution of the annual grant for 1833, it is deemed just and expedient to award to them the same amount then paid to other School Masters out of the grant for the succeeding year.

The Reports of Schools in this District, for the past year, indicate an increase in the No. of Pupils and Schools, and a more satisfactory progress in the leading branches of an English and Commercial Education is ascertained. It may, however, be necessary, to require the Teachers to undergo a more strict public examination by the Board of Education before another dividend of public money be made, in order to enforce greater attention on the part of the Trustees of Common Schools, generally, to the character and qualification of Teachers employed by them, with the expectation of receiving the allowance hereafter.

THOMAS CREEN,
Secretary

ROBERT DICKSON,
ROBERT MCGILL.

The Hon'ble G. H. MARKLAND,
Inspector General.

The branches of education commonly taught in the above Schools are spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar and geography.

FELIX HANDS, C. B. E.

The Board of Education for the Western District beg to report, that, during the last two years, persons, who have undertaken the tuition of Common Schools in this District, have proved not only of a more respectable class in appearance, but also in talent. This must indubitably be attributed to the increased sum of money given for the promotion of these institutions in 1833 and 1834. The emoluments accruing from a Common School are indeed so inadequate to support a man even with the augmented stipend, that it is difficult to procure Teachers, who have the requisite acquirements; they, who possess those abilities, humble as they are, can earn a better livelihood from other avocations and with infinitely less irksomeness. Education, though still in its infancy in our District, is perceptibly on the advance; but we conceive it would endure a severe check, if the statute conferring that additional grant were to become inoperative.

The Board cannot close their Report without expressing their opinion, that if some encouragement were also held out for the establishment of female schools, especially in towns, it would prove of important benefit to the community.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES

OF THE

DISTRICT SCHOOL: OTTAWA.

To His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

The undersigned a majority of the Trustees of the District School of the District of Ottawa,

HUMBLY REPORT:—

That the Annual examination of the said School was this day held at the District School house, at Longueil in the said District, pursuant to public notice duly given to that effect.

That the number of pupils at present taught at the said School, is Twenty-two, exclusive of three other occasional students.

Two of the pupils are engaged in the study of the Latin Language, and the rest are more or less advanced in the ordinary branches of English education.

The undersigned are happy to state in conclusion, that the exertions of Mr. Gregor, the Teacher, are satisfactorily proved by the progress of his pupils.

All which is humbly submitted.

REPORT OF THE

JOHNSTOWN DISTRICT SCHOOL

FOR 1834.

BROCKVILLE, 3rd January, 1835.

LT. COL. ROWAN,

SIR,

Inclosed herewith, I have the honor to transmit for the information of His Excellency, a statement from the Teacher respecting our District School. It will afford more information than a formal return which cannot well be furnished the School having been so lately organized under Mr. Smith.

The want of a small fund for the purposes mentioned is seriously felt and is a great draw back upon the prosperity of the school.

I have the honor to be,

Sir, Your Obedient Servt.,

JONAS JONES, Chairman.

REPORT OF DISTRICT SCHOOL, &c.

The Johnstown District School in Brockville was opened anew under John Smith, A. M. on the first day of May. There were at the commencement only twelve scholars, some of whom came with their Teacher from Kingston. The number since that has constantly augmented, so that at this present recess, the number was thirty-six, and there is still the prospect of considerable increase. If the accommodation for the School had been either large or convenient enough to admit females also, the number would have been much larger. The want of such suitable accommodation has been, and still is a great injury to the school.

The branches which have during this period, been taught in the school, are, besides those of an ordinary English Education, the dead languages, viz. Latin and Greek,—Geography, both in a popular and a more scientific form,—History Composition, and Elocution,—short hand, with the various branches of Mathematics, practical and elementary (according to the annexed table of terms and arrangement). No Scholar has, during this period, finished his education, yet several of those in the School have made extensive and rapid progress, especially in Mathematics.

The accommodation for the School, as has been already intimated, is exceedingly deficient. The place in which it is now held does not properly belong to the district but was built by private subscription. It is well situated being both in a retired and healthy place. It consists of a single room, of frame work, which is extremely cold and uncomfortable, especially, for the Junior scholars during the severity of winter. It of course affords no apartment for the superintendent—whose constant presence would be of great advantage, but this is of comparatively small moment. The impossibility of dividing the scholars according to their sex, age, and studies, or of sending the different Classes into separate apartments, for the study and recitation of their various lessons, must always prove a great detriment to their progress and entail much trouble on the Superintendent, and those who assist him. This evil is yet more sensibly felt from the small size of the room itself—which will scarcely admit with comfort or utility of any increase of attendance. If another room only, of equal dimensions were added it would confer a large amount of benefit on the School and Teachers.

There is no manner of apparatus belonging to the School, two or three old benches and tables of no use, were all the furniture left. During the first quarter these were obliged to suffice, because the School which was then small was kept in an incommodious confined room of a private dwelling. The House which is now occupied and is nominally the District School house, was at that time used as a Barrack, since it was again procured, the teacher has been obliged to fit it up at his own cost, trusting that the District and Trustees will refund him, and not allow so heavy an expense to fall on him alone. Of other Apparatus there is absolutely none. A small Terrestrial Globe and some other things, did at one time belong to the school; but these are lost, either worn out or abstracted. If the school be ever destined to be useful, and to answer the undoubtedly benevolent intention of the Government, which, with paternal care, has founded and endowed these Institutions for the general encouragement of learning, as well as the advancement of youth in true knowledge, some adequate Apparatus is highly expedient, not to say necessary. Besides a set of large and accurate Globes and Maps, a good Telescope, or Theodolite and Telescope combined, with some of the more simple and immediately useful inventions for illustrating subjects in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, would be requisite. A small sum of money entrusted to the Trustees and to be laid out by their authority annually, in the gradual accumulation of such Apparatus; and a Juvenile Library would very much advance the design of such an Institution, and confer an incalculable advantage on the cause of education throughout the whole District.

The system of Education adopted in the school is, as nearly as circumstances will permit, the same with that employed in the Minor College. The difficulty of suddenly and violently changing old systems, of substituting new forms and getting youth cordially and energetically to adopt them—besides the want of full sets of books and the unwillingness of Parents to be at the expense of procuring them, while the old ones remain in their hands—these have partially obstructed the full operation of the system. But they are all passing away, and in the space of another session will probably have terminated.

If, besides the adoption of the improvements suggested, a few appropriate rewards and prizes should be given to the most deserving in each department, the good effects would be speedily apparent. The Teacher has given a few such rewards from himself, and from the benefit that he witnessed by it intends to continue the practice. He earnestly recommends the distribution of a few of more intrinsic value and of a more public nature, such as would at once excite and reward attention, diligence, and talent.

APPENDIX.

TRUSTEES' REPORT

OF THE

MIDLAND DISTRICT SCHOOL, 1834.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

We the undersigned Trustees of the Midland District School most respectfully report for the information of Your Excellency that the annual examination of the Scholars of the aforesaid School was held in the school House in this town on Monday the fourth day of August last, although under circumstances peculiarly ill adapted to do justice to the attention of the master, or to mark the progress of the pupils. The state of the public health caused by the sudden and violent irruption of the cholera, (which was on that day singularly fatal in Kingston) requiring the almost incessant attendance of the Clergymen on the sick, and fully occupying the minds of all who generally take an interest in the school, it was impossible to devote the same time or examine the several classes in rotation with the usual care and patient attention, though there was satisfactory evidence that Mr. Baxter had not relaxed in his exertions to bring forward his scholars according to their several ages and abilities.

The number of pupils at present under Mr. Baxter's tuition are thirty-six, being four less than the number in attendance at the period of the last report, and six more than the number in 1832. During the past year, one or two have removed to Upper Canada College where we understand that Mr. Baxter's pupils almost invariably take a good standing on entrance. Some have left Kingston with their parents for other parts of the Province, while a few have entered on the business of their future occupations. The School as at present constituted is divided into four classes, the senior of which is composed of six boys between the ages of twelve and fourteen years, who were examined in the Greek Grammar, in Ovid and Cæsar and gave proof of respectable proficiency. A schedule of the several classes taught in the school at present is appended to this Report.

In the discharge of their duty the Trustees of the Midland District School have already repeatedly pressed upon the consideration of Your Excellency the the delapidated state of the present School House, and the just claims of this District for an augmented allowance by way of endowment, together with an adequate sum for the erection of a suitable building: and they again most anxiously solicit Your Excellency's attention to this subject, and appeal to Your Excellency's sense of justice in behalf of a District which has been so much neglected, at the very time when an immense expense both in building and endowing Upper Canada College has been incurred, the benefit of which institution, though particularly experienced by a limited number of the more opulent inhabitants of the Province is chiefly felt by the Home District. They cannot but express their disappointment that the modest claims of this District to participate in those funds so largely appropriated by Your Excellency's generosity to that favoured establishment have been unavailingly urged. In a very short time the present School House will be altogether uninhabitable, and unless funds are placed at the disposal of the Trustees there will be absolutely no place in which the Master can teach, unless he himself hire one at his own expense.

It would, therefore, be unreasonable to expect, under these circumstances, that the Trustees of the Midland District School should put on the appearance of satisfaction or express themselves contented—they feel that in the present condition, both of the building and endowment, any such expression or appearance on their part would betray an entire ignorance of their duty, the very purpose of their appointment being to watch over and promote the interests of the School.

All which is humbly submitted.

REPORT

OF THE

SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE ACCOUNTS, &c.

RELATING TO THE

—•••••—

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee appointed by Your Honorable House to report on the Accounts and various other matters relating to the Welland Canal Company.

Beg leave respectfully to Report:—

That with respect to the Accounts submitted for their consideration, it appears from the balance sheet submitted by the Secretary of the Welland Canal Company, marked A, that the receipts and expenditures during the past season, amount to the sum of £43,601 11 4 for detailed expenditure of which see Nos. 1 to 4 and 5 to 10.

By the information received from Doctor Charles Duncombe, one of the Directors appointed by this House, it appears the Estimates are returns of all the work executed on the line of the Canal by different individuals.

The plan adopted by the Company being in all cases, where practicable, to place the work under contract, after giving timely notice, to the lowest responsible bidder.

The Engineer or Superintendant makes out a Return of the work done monthly, according to Contract, or by the day or month, if not under Contract which is examined and signed by the Secretary as well as the Engineer or Superintendant; this statement is submitted to the Board of Directors, who approve of it, and the President signs the Documents so approved, on which voucher the Secretary is ordered to pay the different individuals, and those minutes are again read over at the ensuing meeting in the manner proceeded in by this House from day to day, to correct any error which may have arisen.

The old Accounts and Notes are balances due on work, &c. from last year and forms a part of the £25,000, due by the Company, as per their statement made at that time.

The Committee not having each description of work particularly specified and not having an opportunity of examining the same, cannot judge of the economy of the expenditure. This House has the power to appoint three Directors from year to year, to approve of those expenditures, the manner in which they are made and entered in the books of the Company; and as the names of each individual to whom the money was paid is given in detail, reference can hereafter be made by the Directors, or by any future Commission appointed by this House, whether the same has been economically or correctly expended.

They regret, from the information received, that the expenditure for a Steam Dredge proves almost entirely useless, the Engine not answering the intended object.

2nd.—That with respect to the Report of the Directors appointed by this House, submitted to the Committee on the subject of the Hydraulic Works, a copy of which is appended hereto, marked B.

Your committee after having carefully examined the minutes of the Board relating thereto think it inexpedient to close the purchase from the hydraulic company.

3rd. That with respect to the petition of the Welland Canal Company complaining of the refusal of the payment of tolls on the Chippawa cut, alleging that the jurisdiction of the company does not extend to the same.

The committee have examined the statute relating thereto, and from the best consideration they can give the subject are unanimously of opinion that it was intended by the statute to authorise the company to collect toll, and they herewith report a Bill amending the Act so as to extend the jurisdiction of the Welland Canal company over that cut.

4th. That with respect to the petition of the said Welland Canal company for leave to erect a toll bridge over the mouth of the river Welland, and also the petition of sundry inhabitants against it; your committee feel sensible a durable bridge is required at that point, but as the committee are assured the present bridge will continue for some time without repair they have not recommended the prayer of the petition.

Report on Welland Canal

APPENDIX.

It appears the amount loaned by the Province in aid of the Welland Canal is.....	£	s.	No. 12.
The amount of Stock.....	100,000	0	No. 13.
The total cost of the work.....	107,500	0	No. 14.
The amount of interest for which the Company are liable.....	403,055	0	No. 15.
	7222	4

It appears that contracts are already entered into, and the work now in operation for extending the Lock at Port Colborne to 125 feet in length, widening the canal from thence to the Rock six feet—cutting a basin for vessels to pass or turn on the north side of the lock, deepening the rock excavation at the curve, or new route, twelve inches, widening the canal from the junction to Port Robinson, making a guard gate at Port Colborne, and one at the junction, a new culvert at Hall Davis's level, deepening the canal from one foot to eighteen inches, from Cambell's lock to Davis's basin, also, from Marlett's level to lock No. 35, in Thorold, to rebuild one side of lock No. 30 and of 24, 22, 20, 15, 17, and the two lower ends of No. 12, and extending the west pier at Port Dalhousie—also for deepening and widening the feeder from the junction to the curve, cutting basins every half mile, for the passing of steam boats, making a new culvert at Broad Creek, and for extending the berm bank from thence to Cranberry Creek, which is reported to cost about £12,500, which will leave the company in debt about £2381 4—see No. 16, besides the annual interest of £7222 4, to repay which they will have the amount of tolls they may receive next year; it therefore appears obvious that a further grant will be required the ensuing year to enable the company to keep up this navigation, they therefore submit whether it would not be expedient under the circumstances to appoint a commission, consisting of three persons, with power to examine the canal books of the company—to employ an Engineer, Secretary, Clerk, or such persons as they may deem necessary, with a view of reporting to this House at their next session, whether it would in their opinion be advisable to purchase the Hydraulic Works, the canal, make further loans, or what method is most advisable to adopt with a work in which this Province hold so large an interest.

All of which is humbly submitted.

CHARLES DUNCOMBE,
Chairman.

Committee Room, House of Assembly.

Report to the Committee by the Welland Canal Directors.

To the Honorable the Committee appointed by the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly, in Provincial Parliament assembled, to take into consideration the accounts, matters, and affairs of the Welland Canal Company.

The Directors appointed by the Legislature during the the last session, beg leave most respectfully to report:

That their first attention was directed to carry into effect the recommendation of the last commissioners appointed by the Legislature, Messrs. Robinson Macaulay and Shade—By removing any obstacle to making this Canal a public work, the necessity of which appears to them manifest.

On the 7th June a report was made by the directors, acting on behalf of the House of Assembly, to the Board of Directors of the Welland Canal Company.

In conformity to which the transfers have been duly executed, but not registered

The Directors have since given this subject the most mature and deliberate consideration, and have no reason to alter their opinion; on the contrary, the experience of the past season affords abundant evidence of the wisdom of the measure; the rents on sale of water power alone, since it was in the possession of the Company, amount to £442 10, which induce them to believe in a few years the interest on hydraulic power alone will overbalance the interest on purchase; leaving land and property entire to the Company. (See Statement, No. 11.)

Since then.....	442	10	0
Amounting to.....	£982	10	0

Report on Welland Canal.

APPENDIX.

Besides the actual increase in the sale of water power, the rent of lands, lots, and interest on the sale of the same, and the enhanced value of property must be taken into consideration. The water power is enhanced in value and quantity from the recent increase of the feeder now in complete operation.

The terms on which water is granted to the Niagara Canal Company was to pay in proportion to the cost of work, until it reached that point where it diverged to the town of Niagara, which of itself would far exceed the amount contemplated by this purchase.

All which is respectfully submitted,

WM. CHISHOLM,
CHA'S DUNCOMBE.

REPORT

APPENDIX.

OF COMMISSIONERS FOR HARBOUR AT LONG POINT.

LONDON, 4th March, 1835.

SIR,
Enclosed you will receive a statement of what monies have been expended at the Pier at the opening at Long Point.

The work is at present in an unfinished state and the Pier has suffered some by the violent gale last fall, but not so much as might have been expected. I think the damage done may amount to about £400. The Crib has upset but not washed away and when repaired again will be the strongest part—there is £700 left and all the necessary materials on the spot to go on again next summer.

We met with more difficulties than were anticipated and those increased by the violent gales; we intend to commence operations as soon as the weather will permit. This report would have been sent before, but it had to go to Colonel Burwell and Colonel Salmon.

I have the honor to remain,
Your obedient Servant,
JOHN HARRIS, President.

WILLIAM ROWAN, Esq. P. S.

R E P O R T

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

Duncan McDonell, Esquire.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly, in Provincial Parliament assembled.

The Select Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Duncan McDonell, Esquire, praying for a grant of money for the erection of a Bridge over the River Boudette, on the main Road leading from Cornwall to the Ottawa.

Respectfully report :—

That there is an urgent necessity for the application of a considerable sum of money in the erection of a Bridge at the place referred to in the Petition ; inasmuch as at certain seasons of the year, from the overflowing of the River, the principal communication between the two great Rivers, St. Lawrence and Ottawa, is nearly impracticable, and not unfrequently in a very dangerous state. The ground in the immediate vicinity of the River is for a considerable extent very low and liable to be overflowed, and it will therefore be necessary to construct a Causeway in a substantial manner to make travelling at all times safe. The materials for the erection of a Bridge and Causeway are to be found at no great distance from the River, and the Committee are therefore of opinion, that the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds, though perhaps insufficient for the object, should be granted to aid the inhabitants in making the necessary improvements suggested by the Petitioner. The Committee would not feel it necessary to recommend the granting of this sum if they were not confident that the Statute Labour and other available means in the District are insufficient to effect the improvements which the public convenience and the safety of travellers require.

All which is respectfully submitted.

A. CHISHOLM,
Chairman.

Committee Room, 11th March, 1835.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON COMMUNICATIONS.

Leeds Election.

The Committee to whom were referred Copies of Letters addressed to Adiel Sherwood, Esquire, Returning Officer for the late Election for the County of Leeds, by S. P. Jarvis, Esquire, Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery, which were communicated to this House, have met and taken the same into consideration, and agreed to the following as their first report.

Your Committee are of opinion, that Adiel Sherwood, Esquire, Returning Officer for the late Election for the County of Leeds, executing a Writ of Election, ordered by the House of Assembly, and consequently being only responsible to the House of Assembly for his conduct, should be directed by the Speaker to attend forthwith at the Bar of this House, with all documents which have been, or are now in his possession, as also all correspondence or communications from or to the Executive Government, Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery, or any other person, relative to the said Election, and have also reported an Address to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor requesting him to lay before this house copies of all correspondence with any person or persons whatever, relating to the late election for the county of Leeds, as also any instructions or directions given by his Excellency to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery requiring the said returning officer to give his immediate attendance at Toronto to complete the execution of the said Writ for the county of Leeds, by annexing the Return according to law, and also to inform the house by whose advice or council his Excellency was induced to give such directions to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery; which they recommend for the adoption of your honorable house.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF Nathaniel Landon.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom were referred the petition of Nathaniel Landon.
Beg leave to submit their report:—

They have examined the subject and find by the testimonials of Libeus Gardner and John Gardner that he sustained losses during the late War with the United States of America, by contributing towards carrying on the said war by having his horse and oxen pressed into the service, and not returned, and by himself contributing towards the support of the oxen, while in the employ of the officers of the Government, for which he never received any compensation—that he called upon the Commissary, and afterwards upon General Vincent, and was put off with a promise of payment at some future day, but which was not made; that he afterwards presented his claim to the Commissioners appointed to investigate the claims of sufferers during the said war, and was informed that the claim should have been paid out of the military chest, and that his claims did not come within their authority to enquire—that he was poor and had not the means of obtaining any remuneration for his losses, but by applying to your Honorable House.—Your Committee therefore recommend granting to the said Nathaniel Landon, twenty pounds, in compensation for the losses he thus sustained.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

George Hamilton and others.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Select Committee to whom was referred the petition of George Hamilton, Esquire, and others, of the Ottawa District, praying for a grant of money to build two Bridges, one of which is over the South Petite Nation River, at New Inverness, and the other across Des Atica Creek, both on the Front Road in said District.

Report as follows:

Resolved, That Your Committee having carefully investigated the merits of the petition, are of opinion that the completion of the said Front Road, between

APPENDIX.

L'Original and the River Rideau (a distance of about sixty miles) is of the utmost importance to the Province generally—it being the natural route and thoroughfare from Montreal to Bytown, Kingston, and Toronto, by which the mail would be regularly conveyed twice a week in all seasons of the year.

That the want of those two Bridges presents a grand obstacle to the completion of the said road, thereby rendering it impossible to travel the same until they are built—and which your Committee are fully convinced cannot be done without Parliamentary aid.

Your Committee have therefore arrived at the conclusion, that for the erection of a sufficient Bridge across the South Petite Nation River will require a grant of not less than five hundred and fifty pounds, and for the erection of a Bridge across Des Atica Creek, will require a grant of one hundred pounds—and your Committee respectfully recommend the same to the favourable consideration of your Honorable House.

Chairman.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

Dean S. Howard.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament Assembled.

Your Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Dean S. Howard, praying for remuneration for extra work and labour performed in constructing the River Trent Bridge, as also materials furnished, have examined the same, together with a plan of the said Bridge and specification of the contract, the statement of Mr. B. Ketcheson, who had acted throughout as superintendant of the work under the Commission, and after full examination in conjunction with Messrs. Peter F. Swartz and Jacob Ford, and also the certificate and recommendation of the Commissioners and several other very respectable persons in the neighbourhood, recommending Mr. Howard to the favorable consideration of His Excellency Sir John Colborne, in as much as the Bridge had been built in a most substantial and excellent manner, and the exceeding low rate at which the contract was taken, and after full consideration are of opinion that the said Dean S. Howard has done extra work and furnished materials to the amount of £575—the payment of which sum to the Petitioner Your Committee have no hesitation in recommending. It appears also, upon reference to the specification and contract that materials were furnished and labour performed in filling up the approaches to the Bridge to the amount, say of £325, about which however, there may be some difference of opinion as to whether the said Dean S. Howard should be allowed that sum as extra, and above the contract, as the specification is not clear, but rather ambiguous on that point. Your Committee under all the circumstances, considering the very creditable and praiseworthy manner Mr. Howard performed and completed the work, notwithstanding the low rate at which he had taken the contract, which was considerably lower than was tendered for by others, competitors for the said work, consider it no more than an act of justice to Mr. Howard to direct the attention of Your Hon. House to this circumstance.

All which is respectfully submitted,

REPORT

OF J. G. CHEWETT AND HUGH RICHARDSON, ESQUIRES.

On Windsor Bay, Lake Ontario.

Big Bay appears to possess facilities, and good natural properties for forming a harbour that can command, in the present low state of the lake, water seven feet in the channel of its Bar.—within the Bar is a large expanse of water, varying in depth from five to twelve feet; of this latter depth however there is very little space, the whole forming an irregular estuary, comprising a surface of about two hundred acres in extent. A point of land projects at the entrance of the Bay from the east, and from the west, in a westerly and easterly direction, and from these points, shoals extend in the same direction, the westernmost, which is by far the largest, stretching over towards the east side, and that from the east towards the west; these form the Bar, and between them on the east side of the Bay is the channel, or best water; carrying, at the present low state of the lake, about seven feet. Presuming the best means of forming this harbour to be, to follow the line marked out by nature for it, and that piers were extended from the projecting points of land along the top of each shoal until they met the channel, they would nearly land lock an area of water of about two hundred acres in extent capable in any part, from the nature of the bottom, of being dredged to a depth to suit the convenience of large vessels, whilst smaller ones may choose their water any where from the shore to five and six feet.—The natural features of Big Bay present the ground work for constructing a better artificial harbour than any that has yet been made on the British side of Lake Ontario; if we except Burlington Bay, vessels here would not have to lie surging alongside of piers, exposed to the agitation of the lake, but could run in, come to an anchor, or land alongside of a wharf, in a basin well sheltered from every wind. It is observed that a current sets in and out of the present estuary of Big Bay according to the prevailing winds; and that the water rises and falls at periods, to the extent of 2½ feet. This current will be much more felt when the channel shall be contracted by piers, and will undoubtedly serve to deepen it, but it must be expected, as the natural consequence of the current, that a small Bar will form within and without the entrance. The expense of making this harbour is considerable, but when made, it will be a more efficient one than any between Toronto and Kingston.

The following two estimates of the expense, exclusive of dredging for constructing a harbour at Big Bay, was the result of a survey made during the present month.

The first is an estimate for constructing 2500 feet of pier, 30 feet wide, filled with stone, similar to the pier near the Garrison of this place, amounting to £9410 13 9.

The second is an estimate for constructing a breakwater and pier, agreeably to the plans herewith; amounting to £7454 5 0.

First Estimate.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF George Truscott, Esquire.

To the Honorable the House of Assembly.

The Select Committee on Trade to whom was referred the petition of Messrs. Truscott, Green & Co., Bankers of this City, have, in obedience to the order of the House, enquired into the circumstances and standing of the Agricultural Bank, and from the statement sworn to before the Mayor, by the senior Partner and Cashier, the inference is, that there are ample means on the part of the establishment to meet the demands that may be made against it—and that the private fortunes of the Co-partners afford a good ground for believing that if the affairs of the Bank continue to be managed with even ordinary prudence and circumspection, the public will have a fair and reasonable security afforded them against risque of loss.

In the course of Mr. Truscott's examination, your Committee ascertained that it sometimes happened that the Bank has taken as collateral security from persons borrowing, on notes of hand for ninety days, conveyances of their landed estates, giving them back bonds to re-convey the property in the event of punctual payments. This appears to be an objectionable course—not within the strict limits of banking operations.

Your Committee report the evidence, with the statement of the affairs of the Bank already referred to—that statement is drawn out in such a form as the Co-partnership thought the most expedient, and contains such information as they consider it expedient for a private Bank to afford to the Legislature. Whether its details are or are not sufficiently ample and satisfactory, is a question on which, in the case of an Institution requiring no exclusive privileges from the Legislature, your Committee will not undertake to express an opinion. In England many similar establishments carry on business without restriction, except as to the number of partners. In the State of New York they are prohibited. In Nova Scotia and Lower Canada, any number of unincorporated Banks may be established. In Scotland there are thirty Banks not Chartered, in some of which, the partners are few, while in others, they extend to the number of four or five hundred.

PRESENT—Messrs. Wilson, Durand, Gibson and Mackenzie.

The Petition of Messrs. Truscott, Green & Co. was read as follows :

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly, &c. &c.

The Petition of GEORGE TRUSCOTT and JOHN CLEVELAND GREEN, of the Agricultural Bank, City of Toronto, respectfully sheweth :

That Your Petitioners have, in the month of May 1834 entered into a co-partnership, under the firm of Truscott, Green & Co. and have, in the same month, opened a Banking Establishment in this City, entitled "the Agricultural Bank, City of Toronto."

That from the commencement they have been most anxious to place before the public a statement of their affairs, and to inspire confidence by furnishing satisfactory evidence of their solvency.

That hitherto they have had no opportunity of doing so, their Bank being altogether a private one, and subject to no other control than what may be exercised over it by the Legislature.

That they have not as yet been called upon by Your Honorable House to make such statement of their transactions, as they humbly conceive the country has a just right to expect from them.

That in the absence of such inquiry or investigation into the state of their affairs, reports injurious to their credit and stability have been industriously circulated by a rival establishment, and that therefore, as well for the protection of their own character as to afford satisfaction to the public at large, they humbly pray that you will be pleased to institute an immediate inquiry into the capital and operations of the Agricultural Bank from its first commencement, with a view to its being placed before the public for their consideration and satisfaction.

And Your Petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray,

Toronto, 9th March, 1835.

TRUSCOTT, GREEN, & Co.

GEORGE TRUSCOTT, Esq. Banker, Toronto, called in and examined.

Have you any statements prepared of the funds and property of your establishment, and of its means to meet its engagements? I place before the Committee several documents.

Here the witness delivered into the Committee a statement of the funds and liabilities of the Agricultural Bank, and of the private estate and property of its partners, sworn to by the senior partner and Cashier before the Mayor of Toronto, and marked A; also a letter from the firm of Truscott, Green, & Co. addressed to the Committee and marked B.

Who compose the partners? Mr. John Cleveland Green, of Stamford Cottage and myself, the third partner who was to have joined the firm was detained in England by the sudden illness of his brother-in-law, since dead. We are now in treaty with a gentleman of large property in this country, who is expected to join the firm.

We understand the statement you have given in to mean that there is a balance in favour of the Bank of £9688 17 8, over and above the liabilities, and independent of the bullion, specie, notes of other establishments, and government debentures, in your hands. Is it so? Yes.

Do you take any landed security on loans? Only as a collateral security on 90 days notes in lieu of endorsers.

Have you in any case taken the conveyance or deed of a man's property in security for a 90 days note, giving him a bond? Yes.

In how many cases? Perhaps in a dozen cases or more.

Do you consider this as a part of the regular business of Banking? It has at all times been considered so in England, but it has injured a good many private Banks in that country. They gave loans on landed security when land and prices of grain were extremely high; and consequently, when these securities fell perhaps a hundred per cent on the return of peace, low prices and cash payments, the Banks became embarrassed.

Do you intend to continue the practice of taking deeds as collateral security for the payment of 90 day notes? We would prefer the other mode, but must be guided according to circumstances.

What is the condition of the bond given to you? To reconvey whenever the debtor pleases to make payment.

If any 90 day notes is not paid when due what steps are taken? The co-partnership can proceed in the same manner as if it were a mortgaged estate.

What is meant by the words "general drawing Accounts," in your statement? The balances due to individuals which they may draw out of the Bank at pleasure.

What is the greatest amount of Notes you have ever had in circulation? We have never signed more than £45,000, consequently the circulation must have been under that amount, part being in the hands of our brokers, and a sum on hand at the Bank.

What is your opinion on the question, whether a Bank could be established on a principle of long credit, to suit the farmers? A Loan Office might do on that plan, but a Bank is unfitted for it. By the renewal system, the borrower in reality, pays 10 to 12 per cent., if the expense and trouble be considered.

The Honorable Chairman of the Board of Trade.

SIR,

In placing before you the accompanying statement of the Assets and Liabilities of the Agricultural Bank, I beg to state, that under present circumstances, when the Bank of Upper Canada, is endeavouring, by means of their large capital, and the advantages which they derive from their connexion with the Government, to effect our ruin, which they seem to be determined on, at any cost to themselves.

We do not think it prudent to declare the amount of our cash and other resources immediately available in Toronto, New York, and England, all we have desired to shew, in our statement is that independently of these resources, which we do not specify, and supposing them not to exist, our Bank is perfectly solvent, and able to meet its engagements from the funds we have above particularized.

We have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient humble servants,

OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE BURLINGTON BAY CANAL.

To His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The Commissioners appointed for the Burlington Bay Canal, beg leave most respectfully to Report, upon the state of the work entrusted to their care.

Since the Commissioners had the honor of making their last report to Your Excellency, nothing has been done to the Canal, either in deepening it or otherwise repairing it, for the want of funds—excepting some repairs made to the bridge, which has been done upon the responsibility of the superintendent.

The whole of the work laid down by Mr. Kerr remains permanent and secure. In consequence of the fall of water in Lake Ontario, it will be necessary to deepen the Canal for a considerable extent, some of the steam-boats, and heavier schooners have experienced much difficulty in passing through, during the past season.—And to prevent the sand forming into bars, within the channel of the Canal, it will be necessary to construct an inner work, on the Lake Ontario side, similar to the one laid down in 1832—thereby contracting the channel of the Canal to an uniform width, which will have the effect of forcing out all sand that may be driven in during the easterly winds, and to make the entrance of the harbour more safe and convenient, it is necessary that the North Pier in Lake Ontario should be extended 120 feet, which will check the cross sea, experienced at present in entering the harbour in an easterly gale.

The Piers, or cribs laid down in 1831 by Messrs. Mann and Spaun, late contractors, particularly the South Pier in Lake Ontario, will require filling up with stone, which will add much to the security of the work.—The Superintendent has been directed to furnish estimates for the improvements recommended; which the Commissioners request Your Excellency will be pleased to recommend to the consideration of the Legislature.

All which, is most respectfully submitted.

REPRESENTATION

FROM MAGISTRATES OF THE NIAGARA DISTRICT.

[COPY.]

To His Excellency, Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

The Magistrates of the Niagara District, in General Quarter Sessions assembled, HUMBLY REPRESENT:—

That they have to lament that the number of Prisoners at present confined for claims alleged to have been by them committed, but not cognisable by a Court of Quarter Sessions, has increased since last Court of Assize and Oyer and Terminer, in proportion, exceeding what any past year has brought to the Bar for Trial. Debtors too, and of the poorest description, have also increased, and the Gaol of the Niagara District, situated on the Frontier, seems fated to be the receptacle for Debtors and Criminals from every quarter.

Your Petitioners regret, moreover, that among the Prisoners, are Women and young Children, and many of the Men, in a state of starvation and nakedness.

That the Grand Jury of the present General Quarter Sessions have laid before the said Court, a Presentment, comprehending various subjects, and therein have adverted to the crowded state of the Gaol, for their consideration, and appealed to the humanity of the Magistrates, for the temporary relief of the Prisoners.

Your Petitioners now particularly beg leave to call the serious attention of Your Excellency to the absolute necessity of extending to the District of Niagara a second Court of Assize and Oyer and Terminer. The advantages to be derived will be incalculable—Culprits will be brought to an earlier trial—the innocent will be restored to Society—and the guilty brought to punishment without undergoing a lengthy, dreary and solitary imprisonment before their acquittal or condemnation.

Your Petitioners would further represent, that individuals unhappily confined under the Law of Imprisonment for Debt would sooner acquire the privileges extended to them by the Law of Insolvency, and the Creditor, whom delay often makes the Debtor, would be enabled to recover his claims earlier and avert a similar impending evil.

Your Petitioners, therefore, most humbly request Your Excellency to grant a second Court of Assize and Oyer and Terminer to the Niagara District. And if the prayer of your Petitioners to the fullest extent cannot prevail, may Your Excellency then be pleased to extend to this District a Special Commission for holding a Court of Oyer and Terminer in the vacation between Hilary and Easter Terms next, and thereby afford relief to the responsibility of the Sheriff, the expense of the District, and the miseries of the unfortunate fellow-creatures confined.

And as in duty bound, your Petitioners will ever pray.

By order of the Magistrates in General Quarter Sessions.

I beg respectfully to report that I have shewn this Memorial to my brother Judges, and that we are all of opinion, that the answer given by us in a former reference by His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor upon the propriety of establishing a second Circuit, contains all that it is in our power to say on the subject. We observed, that our former report was brought under the consideration of the Legislature, and we are not aware that any measure has been adopted in consequence.

PETITION

FROM THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTION, KINGSTON

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

The Petition of the undersigned, the Committee of Management of the Kingston Mechanics' Institution;

HUMBLY SHEWETH:

That the Institution, which your Petitioners represent, is one which has been established by the Mechanics and some other inhabitants of the town of Kingston, for the cultivation of Science, Literature and the Arts, for the foundation of a Library, and the collection of a Museum of specimens illustrative of Natural History.

Your Petitioners would represent to Your Excellency, that the said Institution has been formed for nearly a year, and that during that time, it has prospered to a degree which those who interested themselves in its establishment could have scarcely expected, considering the difficulties which had necessarily to be encountered. They have the satisfaction of stating, for the information of Your Excellency, that several hundred volumes of a Library have been already given to the Institution; that a Reading Room for the use of the Members have been established; and that a great number of fossils, minerals and other natural curiosities have been collected.

Your Petitioners would beg leave further to represent to Your Excellency, that the prospects of the Institution are most encouraging, and that if the means at its disposal were commensurate with the wide field of exertion open to it, the most useful and gratifying results would ensue.

Your Petitioners therefore, relying upon that attention to the subject of Education which has ever been manifested by Your Excellency, and confidently appealing to Your Excellency's sense of the great importance of improving the mental condition of the working classes, and thereby increasing the spirit of honorable enterprise, and exalting the moral character of the people, humbly beg that Your Excellency would recommend a grant of money to be faithfully applied to the legitimate objects of the Kingston Mechanics' Institution.

And your Petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

MEMORIAL

OF M. BURWELL, ON THE SUBJECT OF EDUCATION.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The Memorial of Mahlon Burwell, Esquire. most humbly sheweth:—

That although your Memorialist is at present a private individual, he trusts that he may beg permission to draw Your Excellency's attention to the subject of Education, which of all others deserves the serious consideration of the Legislature, and that having devoted much of his time, and a great deal of labour to this important matter, he may be pardoned for urging Your Excellency to crown your prosperous administration of the colony by exerting all your influence with the Parliament now in Session, to perfect such a system of Education for the Province as the improved state of society requires, and which is no less necessary for the happiness of families than the stability of good Government.

This rapidly growing Colony, advancing as it is doing beyond any other country in population and commerce, and becoming the asylum of thousands of intelligent and respectable emigrants from the father land, may be pronounced at this moment totally uneducated—for the little instruction given to the children under the name of education has no influence over their morals—does nothing to open or expand their intellectual faculties, much less to direct them in their conduct through life—English reading imperfectly taught, something of writing, and the first five rules of arithmetic, which the teachers we employ are seldom able to explain, make up the meagre sum total of what the rising generation learn at our Common Schools.—The law passed in 1816, for the establishment of Common Schools throughout the Province doubtless contains many useful provisions, and may be considered in reference to the time of its enactment honorable to the Legislature, more especially as it was sustained by a liberal appropriation, but unfortunately this liberality was of short continuance, and when nearly two-thirds of the original appropriation was withdrawn, the efficiency of the measure was entirely gone. Several attempts have been made to amend this law, and to encrease the assistance given from the Provincial Treasury to more than its original amount, but hitherto without effect. In 1832, a Bill was reported to the Commons House of Assembly for this purpose, by the Select Committee on Education, embracing all the benefits of the Scotch and New York systems, and making such financial provisions as would ensure its efficiency. In preparing this measure, information was anxiously sought from all quarters—those gentlemen most conversant with the subject, living in the Province, were consulted, letters were addressed to others at a distance; the admirable systems adopted in Prussia and Bavaria for the instruction of youth, were explored so far as authentic information could be obtained. From all these sources the Committee selected and arranged, in the form of a Law, what they considered most beneficial, and after much research and deliberation reported the same Bill, with some small amendments, during the last Session, for the adoption of the House of Assembly. It was well calculated, as they believed, to place the instruction of the youth of the Province on a substantial basis, and contained within itself, the power of extension to the most distant settlements, the moment they were formed. The labours of the Committee have proved hitherto unavailing. No progress has yet been made towards passing it into a law. It is, however, ready at hand, to be taken up by any Member, and although it is not presumed to be altogether perfect or incapable of improvement, it may be truly said, that more time and research and consideration have been spent in its preparation, than are commonly bestowed upon any measure that comes before the Legislature; and it is earnestly hoped that this Session will not pass away without taking it up and passing it into a Law, with such alterations and modifications as in the wisdom of the different branches of the Legislature may seem meet.

Your Excellency's Memorialist begs respectfully to state, that the attention of the Select Committee was directed to the situation of the District Schools—these had remained as they were first established in 1807, without any material alteration, although the population of the Province had increased nearly six-fold, and its wealth more than twenty-fold. The measure proposed by the Report of the Select Committee on Education, in reference to District and Grammar Schools, was accompanied by a Bill which had two great objects in view. First, distributing among the District and Grammar Schools in the way of endowment, & on equitable principles, portions of the land which had at a very early period, been set apart for the support of such Seminaries, and which his Majesty had recently with Royal munificence, placed at the disposal of the Colonial Legislature—provision was also made for building proper School Houses, of durable materials, and residences for the Masters, on a regular and uniform plan; and authority granted to assist such Grammar Schools, other than those named District Schools, which might grow up in populous Towns, or neighbourhoods. The second object was to establish a proper vigilance and inspection, that these superior Schools might be efficient and in every respect answer the intention of their institution, and so connect them with the Common Schools as to make them part of one great system of Education, adapted to the whole Province, and containing in itself the power of embracing new Townships and Districts as they become organized and require the higher degrees of instruction which the District and Grammar Schools are intended to furnish. Indeed, the scale on which such Seminaries were by this measure to be ultimately established, that of two Classical Masters—one Mathematical Master, and a Teacher of Reading and Writing and all the Common Branches of English instruction, would, when brought into full operation, have placed within the reach of the inhabitants of the Province, an Education for their children, which left little further to desire.

From this brief review, it appears that the Committee on Education, appointed by the last House of Assembly, had matured a system of Common School, and District and Grammar School Education, in all their branches, for the whole Province, and that its labours had been great in accomplishing this object.—Suffer your Memorialist therefore to entreat Your Excellency to call the attention of the Legislature, during the present Session, to the consideration of these measures, so nearly advanced to a state of maturity, and to the great necessity of passing them without delay, with such alterations and modifications as may to their wisdom appear expedient.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

REPORT

OF THE

SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE MESSAGE OF HIS EXCELLENCY AND DOCUMENTS

RELATIVE TO THE PROVINCIAL PENITENTIARY.

The Committee to whom was referred the message of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor and the Documents accompanying the same relative to the Provincial Penitentiary, and the Petition of George Oliver and others on the same subject ;

RESPECTFULLY REPORT :

That the Legislature of the Province having determined on the expediency of building a Prison or Penitentiary for the reception of convicts, and having granted a large sum of money for the erection of a suitable building at Kingston, which is now so far completed as to be ready to receive such criminals as are at present in confinement, or who may hereafter be condemned to punishment by the Courts of the Province, in order to carry into effect the object of the Legislature, it becomes indispensable to provide means for defraying the expense that must necessarily be incurred in the superintendence and proper management of such Prison or Penitentiary, from the public funds, for at least a limited period.

The employment of convicts in the manufacture of various articles, from the sale of which a fund may, in future years, be raised to defray the expense of the Prison, is a question to be dealt with by the Legislature in the manner they may deem the most wise and expedient, but the Committee venture to express a decided opinion that the labour of convicts should never be permitted under any circumstances, to come into injurious competition with the honest and industrious mechanic, and therefore if at any time it should be thought advisable to permit the manufacture of articles of any description in the prisons of the country it is recommended that they be exported, and sold without the limits of the Province.

The chief, if not the only labour, however, that the Committee would recommend that convicts should be employed in, is the breaking of stone to Macadamize and repair the highways of the Province, and in quarrying stone in the rough for building, and it probably would be of advantage to establish depots for the sale of those articles in places throughout the Province, to which they might be easily transported, and where stone is not abundant or generally found, the proceeds being paid into the Provincial Treasury.

The Committee are further of opinion that as the several Districts of the Province will be relieved from a heavy charge in maintaining the convicts that have heretofore been confined in the different gaols—a sum proportionate to the expense they have heretofore been subject to, should be paid from the funds of each District annually towards the support and in defraying the charge of maintaining the Penitentiary.

As the Committee have no satisfactory evidence of the amount that will be required annually for the efficient management of the Penitentiary, they recommend that a bill be passed authorising the Lieutenant Governor or person administering the Government of the Province to advance the necessary amount from the public funds for the ensuing year, which sum will form a data on which to estimate future specific grants.

The draft of a bill specifying the labour which the convicts in the opinion of the Committee should be engaged in, and the manner of disposing of such labour accompanies this Report.

Eastern District.

To the Honorable the House of Assembly.

The Committee, upon the Assessment of the Eastern District, have to Report to your Honorable House, that they are unable to come to any conclusion upon the matter submitted to them in consequence of the Treasurer of that District having declined complying with the request of the Committee, which is contained in the following Letter :

To Alexander McLean, Esquire, Treasurer Eastern District.

SIR,

Pursuant to a Resolution of the House of Assembly, of which the following is a copy :

“ That Donald Æ. McDonell, Colonel Alexander Chisholm, Peter Shaver, and Dr. Bruce, be a Committee to enquire into the expenditure of the Assessment of the Eastern District, and that they have power to send for persons and papers.”

In order that the Committee may be enabled to make a satisfactory Report, pursuant to the above resolution, I am directed by the Committee to request that you furnish them with a statement of the different loans from the Bank or Banks, for the erection of the Gaol and Court House, together with the amount repaid the Bank as principal or interest, with the dates of such payments, as also the amount paid to the Gaol and Court House Commissioners, including the date of such payments.

The Committee also request that you will include in your account the amount of the half yearly rate of Assessment since first levied.

The Committee further request that you will furnish them with a statement of taxes realized upon wild lands advertised for sale, and the appropriation thereof, also the amount of taxes upon unoccupied lands paid to the Treasurer since eighteen hundred and twenty eight, including the lots upon which this money has been raised, and the appropriation thereof, also a statement of the debts of the district, up to last Quarter Sessions. By order of the Committee.

I am

Sir,

Yours respectfully,

D. Æ. McDONELL,

Chairman of Committee upon Assessment, Eastern District.

House of Assembly Committee Room, 30th Jan'y, 1835,

In answer to this Letter your Committee beg leave to Report :

That the Treasurer of that District has refused to comply with the reasonable request of the Committee. The Treasurer endeavouring to screen himself under an authority of the Magistrates of that District.—Your Committee further Report, that as they were unwilling to take any step, that could be construed into a stretch of power, came to the resolution of applying to him a second time by letter, of which the following is a copy :

House of Assembly, 10th March, 1835.

SIR,

I have laid the decision of the Magistrates of the Eastern District before the Committee upon the Assessment of that District: I am directed by the Committee to acquaint you, that unless you comply forthwith with the request of the Committee heretofore made, that immediate steps will be taken to compel your personal attendance, with the necessary documents.

Yours, &c.

D. Æ. McDONELL,

Chairman of Committee on Assessment, Eastern District.

APPENDIX.

In consequence of no answer being returned to this letter, the Committee have come to the following resolution :

Resolved, That this Committee are of opinion, that the Public Accounts of the Eastern District are in such a state as to require a public investigation, and are of opinion that the conduct of the Treasurer of that District has been improper in refusing to comply with the request of the Select Committee of Your Honorable House.

D. Æ. McDONELL,
Chairman of Committee on Assessment, Eastern District.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

W. J. O'Grady.

To the Honourable the House of Assembly in Parliament Assembled.

The Select Committee to whom was referred the petition of the Reverend Dr. W. J. O'Grady, praying that the proprietors of the Advocate and Correspondent may be paid for publishing the debates and proceedings of the Legislature during certain sessions of the last Parliament in like proportion as was paid to the other editors of newspapers in this city, respectfully report as follows :

Your Committee perceive that while the proprietors of the Courier, Freeman, Guardian, Observer and Patriot, were, either by themselves or their agents, assisted with public money, by vote of the House of Assembly, from year to year, in circulating thro' the press to their readers the debates and proceedings of that House, the conductors of the Advocate and Correspondent newspapers were left to their own resources, except the £50 voted to James King, Esq. the late proprietor of the Correspondent for the year 1833.

Your Committee called on Mr. Mackenzie to explain why he had declined to comply with the wishes of the last House of Assembly, as expressed by their vote in the Session of 1834, calling on him to present his claim. His answer and the petition of the proprietor of the Correspondent are annexed hereto.

After having given the matters contained in the petition the most serious consideration, the committee are of opinion that the Correspondent and Advocate Newspapers were no less deserving of support from the House of Assembly, than the other papers, which by the vote of the House in the Session of 1834, have been so liberally recompensed, and they therefore recommend that there be paid to the Rev. Dr. W. J. O'Grady, proprietor of the Correspondent, out of the contingent funds of the House, for Reporting during the Session of 1834, the sum of £ and William L. Mackenzie, Esq. proprietor of the late Newspaper called the Colonial Advocate, the sum of £ payable out of the same fund, for having published during the years 1832, 3 and 4, the votes, debates and proceeding of the House of Assembly.

All which is respectfully submitted.

DAVID THORBURN,
Chairman.

*Committee Room, House of Assembly, }
March 25th, 1835. }*

To the Honourable the House of Assembly, &c. &c. &c.

The humble petition of the Rev. W. J. O'GRADY, B. D. Proprietor of The Correspondent newspaper in this City.

Sheweth :

That in consequence of certain Resolutions adopted by Your Honorable House, in the last Parliament, the Press of this City was encouraged to report its Votes, Resolutions, Debates, &c. under a belief that if grants of the public money were made for such services, they would not be confined to the presses alone which agreed in opinion with the majority of that Assembly and the local government, but would also be extended to those presses which conscientiously opposed their measures; or in other words, that no favouritism would be shown, on the score of political opinion, having a direct tendency to build up certain presses and put down others.

APPENDIX.

That, on referring to the Journals of your Honorable House, your petitioner finds, that the payments made to the presses, here, under this protecting system, were as follows :

For Session of 1832.

To the Courier.....	G. Gurnett.....	£150 0 0
To the Advocate.....	W. L. Mackenzie.....	Nothing.
To the Guardian.....	S. Junkin.....	50 0 0
To the Observer.....	J. Carey.....	100 0 0
To the Freeman.....	F. Collins.....	100 0 0

For the Session of 1833.

To the Advocate.....	W. L. Mackenzie.....	Nothing.
To the Courier.....	G. Gurnett.....	£150 0 0
To the Correspondent.....	James King.....	50 0 0
To the Guardian.....	S. Junkin.....	100 0 0

For the Session of 1834.

To the Courier & Patriot ...	per M. Walton.....	£100 0 0
To the Courier (additional).	G. Gurnett.....	25 0 0
To the Guardian.....	S. Junkin.....	100 0 0
To the Freeman.....	F. Collins.....	50 0 0
To the Correspondent.....	Dr. O'Grady.....	Nothing.
To the Advocate.....	W. L. Mackenzie.....	Nothing.

It will thus appear that the oldest press in this City, the Advocate, a paper of avowedly liberal principles, and well known extensive circulation, was overlooked, and that although, a Committee was appointed to remunerate Reporters in 1834, no enquiry was made, with respect to the Correspondent.

Your petitioner, as proprietor of the latter Journal, respectfully submits, that a faithful account of the proceedings of the last Session, was, through its medium, placed before the public; and he therefore requests Your Honorable House will be pleased to give that consideration to his claim, and to that of the Advocate, for reporting, as the other presses have been in the habit of receiving for similar services, not more faithfully rendered.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

W. J. O'GRADY.

*Correspondent Office, Toronto, }

York Street, Toronto, 17th of March, 1835.

Sir,

In reply to your question, why I declined to present any account for publishing in the Advocate the votes and proceedings of the Legislature, after the late House of Assembly had decided on upholding the press of this city in that way, and had called on me to offer a claim, I beg to state, that having been greatly injured by that house, and put to much trouble and expense by its unjust and unconstitutional proceedings towards me and towards the constituency I represented, and having also been subjected to a long continued series of ungenerous representations, through the presses, it upheld by votes of the public money, I thought it would be the right course to decline the application it made, I believed it probable that the people, at the then next ensuing elections would select representatives who would not forget to do justice to any equitable claim I might have upon the justice of the country.

I am,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

WM. L. MACKENZIE.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

A. A. Rapelje and others.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Abraham A. Rapelje, Esquire, and others, praying for a further grant to complete and secure the Canal across Long Point in Lake Erie, and the Message of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, with the Report of the Commissioners for the construction of Piers at the said Canal,

Beg leave to report as follows:—

The Committee learn from the statement of John Harris, Esquire, the President of the said Commissioners, and also from the evidence of Benjamin Van Norman, one of the Contractors for constructing the said Piers, that about six hundred feet of Pier, on the West side of the Canal or opening, has been constructed in such a manner as to withstand the storms—that some additional Piering has been done, but without equal success as to durability; damage to the amount of nearly four hundred pounds having been done to this portion of the work which it will be necessary to replace in such manner as to render the same permanent; and also to extend the work considerably further than has yet been effected.

The Commissioners report that of the sum of three thousand pounds appropriated by the Legislature for this work, they have expended the sum of two thousand, two hundred and eighty-eight pounds, nine shillings and four-pence, leaving a balance still in their hands of seven hundred and eleven pounds, ten shillings and eight pence, which sum it would appear, from the statements of the said Contractor and of the Petitioners (taking into consideration the damage which the work has sustained) will not be sufficient to complete the same.

Your Committee therefore submit, for the consideration of your Honorable House, the expediency of complying with the prayer of the Petitioners, so far as to appropriate the sum of one thousand pounds, in addition to the sum remaining in the hands of the Commissioners aforesaid, to assist the completion of this work.

All which, is respectfully submitted.

F. L. WALSH,
Chairman.

At a Meeting of the Committee appointed to examine and report on the Petition of A. A. Rapelje and others, praying for a further grant to complete and secure the Canal across Long Point in Lake Erie Met in the Committee Room, 23rd March, 1835.

PRESENT—MESSRS. Walsh, Chairman, Wilkinson, and Merritt.

BENJAMIN VAN NORMAN, called in and examined.

Q. Are you a Contractor for building Piers at Long Point?—A. I am, together with my brother.

Q. What is the nature of the contract entered into?—A. We agreed to frame, sink and pile Piers, —varying from 10 to 20 feet in width, at the rate of £1 12 6 per foot, forward—Piles 6s. 3d. each, but not pile them with stone.

Q. What length of Pier is erected?—A. 600 feet on the West side of the Cut, which is permanent, and about 110 feet in length, which is undermined and nearly capsized.

Q. In what manner are those Piers fitted together and sunk?—A. They are fitted by cross-ties, dove-tailed, 5 feet apart, in the usual manner.

Q. Have you any brush under the Piers?—A. No.

Q. What sum will be required to secure this additional 120 feet, and make all permanent as far as the Piers have gone?—A. About £600, which the Commissioners now have on hand.

Q. What additional Piering do you conceive absolutely necessary to prevent the sand coming round from the West?—A. At least 600 feet.

Q. How wide is the channel at the entrance, from the West?—A. About 2200 feet.

Q. Do you think it necessary to contract the channel at its entrance, by a Pier from the opposite or East side?—A. I think it necessary to sink a sufficient Pier to prevent the channel wearing wider than at present, but not for the purpose of contracting it.

Q.—What sum is necessary in your opinion to complete the work, and render it secure?—A. I should say at least £4000, but perhaps one thousand pounds will answer for the present year, on the West side.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

Nathan Smith Coho.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Nathan Smith Coho, a wounded Militiaman, from the First Regiment of the Militia of the County of Lincoln.

Most respectfully Report to Your Honorable House as follows:

That Your Committee having examined into the claim of the petitioner, Nathan Smith Coho, commonly called Nathan Coho; find that he was struck off of the Pension List in consequence of the report of the Medical Commission, appointed under the Act passed in the 2nd year of the Reign of King George the Fourth, but that latterly the wounds received by him in action with the enemy, which caused him to be placed on the Pension List, as years increase upon him, have become worse, so as in a great measure to render him incapable of earning a livelihood by hard labour.

Your Committee beg leave further to report to Your Honorable House, that in order to satisfy themselves of the actual state of the Petitioner at this time, as regards his ability to gain a living by labour; they caused him to be examined by several Medical Gentlemen.

And from all the circumstances that have come to their knowledge, they consider him as entitled to the favourable consideration of Your Honourable House, and beg leave to recommend that the prayer of the said Petition be granted, and have prepared a bill for that purpose.

All which is respectfully submitted.

F. L. WALSH, Chairman.

Committee Room, 31st March, 1835.

We the undersigned certify, that we have examined Nathan S. Coho, and find that he is not a sound able-bodied man, but lame in his shoulder, apparently occasioned by a gun shot wound in the shoulder joint.

SIR:

The Arbitrators appointed by an Act of the Legislature to award the damages done to individuals by the operations of the Welland Canal Company have not able to make any awards as will appear by a certain memorial to His Excellency on that subject from two of the Arbitrators, Samuel Street, Esquire, and the undersigned, I therefore beg in their behalf, that you would be pleased to draw His Excellency's attention to that memorial, so that the case may be brought under the consideration of the Legislature by message from His Excellency.

SIR :

As Arbitrators appointed under an Act of the Provincial Parliament to ascertain and award damages sustained by individuals by the operations of the Welland Canal Company, we beg leave to enclose a memorial to His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor together with copy of a memorial preferred during the last Session to the Honorable the House of Assembly and the Honorable the Legislative Council, which we request you will be pleased to present to His Excellency, and

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The Memorial of Samuel Street and David Thorburn, of the District of Niagara, Esquires ;

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :

That at the last Session of the Provincial Parliament, your Petitioners preferred to the Honorable the House of Assembly and the Honorable the Legislative Council in their Legislative capacity assembled, a memorial (a copy whereof is hereunto annexed) praying that the Legislature would be pleased to pass an Act investing them with certain powers therein mentioned.

That during the said Session of Parliament no Act was passed to amend the one in the said memorial referred to, and that in consequence thereof serious inconvenience has been felt by those who are entitled to receive remuneration at the hands of the Arbitrators, for the loss of property sustained by the operations of the Welland Canal Company.

Your Memorialists, therefore, most respectfully pray, that Your Excellency will be pleased to adopt such measures to bring the matter before the Legislature during the present Session, in order that proceedings may be thereupon had—as to Your Excellency, in your wisdom, may seem fit.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, &c. &c. &c.

SAMUEL STREET,
DAVID THORBURN.

Stamford, January 12th, 1835.

[COPY.]

To the Honorable the House of Assembly, in Provincial Parliament assembled.

The Memorial of Samuel Street and David Thorburn of the District of Niagara, Esquires.

Respectfully represent:—

That your Memorialists, along with the late John Warren, Esquire, now deceased, were in the year 1831, by an Act of the Legislature of the Province, passed in the first year of His Majesty's Reign, (chapter 18;) appointed Arbitrators to settle and award damages sustained by individuals whose property has been injured by the operations of the Welland Canal Company.

That in the course of the Summer and Autumn of that year, the above Arbitrators entered upon the duties required of them, by the said Act, and spent several weeks in close application, at different places along the route of the Canal, in hearing and examining the evidence produced in support of these claims.

That the said Act requiring that the award of the Arbitrators on all matters submitted to them should be according to evidence, rendered the investigations extremely tedious and procrastinated making decisions, which your Memorialists, from the tenor of the Act, are of opinion could only be made upon the testimony given in, leaving the Arbitrators no discretion in exercising their own judgment.

That by a subsequent Act of the Legislature, passed at its last Session, three Commissioners were appointed to act in conjunction with your Memorialists to arbitrate and determine the amount of said damages—but from the remote residence of all of these Commissioners from the District of Niagara, it has not been found practicable to procure an attendance of a majority of the five, whereby the decisions on the different claims are delayed, and the claimants, with good cause, much dissatisfied.

Your Memorialists therefore respectfully request that your Honorable House will be pleased to pass an Act authorising any two or more of the present Arbitrators to act in investigating and awarding upon the before-mentioned claims for damages, and in doing this, that they may have power to exercise their own judgment on view or other the best information they can obtain making their decision in all claims for damages brought before them.

And your Memorialists, as in duty bound, will every pray.

SAMUEL STREET,
DAVID THORBURN.

Resolved:—That £85 4s. be paid to Thomas Appleton, Teacher of the Common School of this place, in the years 1822, 1823, 1824, 1825, 1826, and 1827 for Public monies due him and withheld by the Board of Education, and for the Interest thereon accruing.

NO. 66.

FIRST REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON ROADS.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Petition of Rear Admiral Vansittart and others, and Ensign Rexford and others,

Beg leave respectfully to Report:—

That every improvement effected in the means of conveyance has obviously the same effect upon the cost of commodities that have to be conveyed, as an improvement in the method by which they are raised or manufactured, good roads bring the various parts of a country near to the towns and cities and the towns and cities near each other, by which the competition of cities and towns is communicated to the country, the excitement that is constantly kept up, the collision of so many minds brought into frequent contact, and all endeavouring to outstrip each other in their respective departments, develop the resources of the human mind, and while cities and towns are splendid luminaries radiating intelligence, invention and enterprize to the remotest parts of a country, the country in turn supplies the food and fuel to the city by which this beautiful healthy and harmonious action is continued.—Agriculture never arrives at any considerable, much less at its highest degree of perfection, when it is not connected with trade, that is, when the demand for the produce is not increased by the consumption of trading cities or towns or a certain steady foreign Market. Good Roads also mainly conduce to the growth of cities and towns so that the citizen cannot say to the farmer the Roads are exclusively for your benefit, as their advantage is mutual.

APPENDIX.

It is plain therefore that good roads are both directly and indirectly a prime source of Agricultural improvement—directly by reducing the cost of conveying farm produce to Market, and indirectly by providing for the growth and indefinite extension of cities and towns that is, of the markets of Agricultural produce. Look at Upper Canada as she was twenty years ago, when her roads were so bad, that it took 12 days to go from York to Delaware, and return with but half the load that is now conveyed the same distance in less than half the time, it was then a journey that required great preparation for man and beast and heavy expenses—the Mail was carried by carriers on foot who took the whole week to make one trip from Ancaster to Delaware and return. No stage did or could then travel through any parts of the Province. Now the stages leave this city at several times every day for different parts of the Province and make their longest trips in two or three days. Yet this time may still be lessened one half with a proportionate increase of load by putting the roads in as good a state of repair as the resources of the Province and the positive demand of the Inhabitants will warrant. Suppose that it now takes three days to travel from Toronto to London in the present state of the roads, and that we have the means of making the road so perfect that the journey with the same ease to man and beast could be accomplished in one day and a half by the regular line of stages, and in the same proportion by all other conveyances; and that only twenty, two horse teams, and one four horse stage was on the route each way daily, with an average of only one man to each horse, this would make a clear saving daily, of the wages of 44 men and 44 horses on this one route, and on all the other routes in the Province in the same proportion, suppose the average wages of one man and one horse to be only five shillings a day, and that the expense of the man and horse upon the road was only five shillings a day more, you would have £22 saved to the Province on this one route alone daily, equal to 32, 120 dollars annually, besides interest on outlay, quicker returns in business, less damage to goods, during transportation, and increased pleasure and convenience; and in this country where labour and capital are the materials in highest demand, every additional facility of conveyance, by bringing such products more rapidly to their destination and enabling them to be sooner applied to the purposes for which they are intended, renders large quantities of capital available for industrious purposes that are at present completely locked up or absorbed in the business of traffic in which they are employed. And on this route alone forty four men would be released from the business of transportation to that of growing or manufacturing, whereby the wealth of the Province would be again increased,—Mr. Cullock says that in the reign of Phillip and Mary the first law was passed in England requiring statute labour to be performed by the residents along the roads.

Good roads have very properly been denominated national veins and arteries supplying the body politic with whatever may be necessary to its healthy action, and supporting and relieving it from all its redundancies, and are as indispensable to a country as arteries and veins are to the existence of individuals,—good free roads are to communities what a healthy circulation is to individuals.

The question relative to the importance of good roads being in the opinion of your committee established, their next enquiry was directed to the best mode of making the roads generally throughout the province, and the means to be employed in their construction. Upon this point your committee are of opinion, that the Township Officers' bill, which has passed the assembly, will, if passed into a law, answer almost every purpose for making the common roads in the several townships, inasmuch as the inhabitants of the several townships, at their township meetings will be authorised to determine to what extent any person liable to perform statute labour shall be required to commute for the same, or what duty shall be imposed on any particular description of property for the improvement of roads, not exceeding a penny in the pound, &c., the whole, whether commutation or other monies, or statute labour, to be laid out in the township except otherwise agreed upon at the meeting, under the superintendence of three commissioners, appointed by the inhabitants of the township, at the said meeting, who are also to have the laying out all money for the township arising from the wild land assessment, as also fines under the summary punishment act, and various other fines and forfeitures, and to whom the several overseers and other persons required to perform statute labour will be accountable, by which plan and arrangement the several townships may adopt such a course or system as will best suit the interest or circumstances according to its peculiar situation—for instance, commutation might be carried to a considerable extent without much inconvenience, and with great advantage in an old settled township, where the roads have become fixed and established, and the time has arrived to make them solid and durable, and where the inhabitants are enabled to procure money to pay in lieu of labour, while in newly settled townships where the roads at first are opened in many instances, at random, and require all the statute labour and means of the people for keeping them in repair, to put them in such a state as to enable the inhabitants to go in and out, and where it is almost impossible for the inhabitants to procure money, in such cases commutation would be not only attended with a vast deal of inconvenience to the settlers but would fail to render the same service to the roads as would the statute labour, if properly applied; and again, it might be deemed expedient to impose a duty for roads in one township, on some particular kind of property, and in other townships on different kinds of property, leaving those matters to be arranged by the people themselves at their several township meetings, agreeably to the situation and circumstances of the various townships, will be most likely to give general satisfaction, and which will have the effect of gradually doing away with the prejudice now prevailing against commutation, if one township should adopt the principle of commutation, &c., and if the thing worked well, it would create a spirit of enterprise and emulation in adjoining townships, who would not like to be behind their neighbours, and also if a township had the means within itself of making the roads good, it would set them to thinking how and by what way and means the thing could be best effected—it would at once become a subject of discussion at the township meeting, and eventually adopted, which would be at the same time a means of extending useful information among the people.

In this way your committee as before stated, believe nearly all the common roads in the several townships might shortly be made at least tolerably good, and a foundation laid on which to build a permanent road, with no more assistance than some few occasional grants for some especial bridge, hill, or other difficult place in some of the new, poor, or thinly settled townships.

Your committee beg leave further to remark, that with regard to the main, or post roads through the province, through such parts of the country where it would be inconvenient and out of the power of the township through which they run to complete them with their own means, that all such parts or places as will properly admit of toll gates, such as bridges over large streams or views, high or difficult hills, as also some particular pieces of road should be made permanent, good and substantial, either by a chartered company, who should be entitled to the tolls, or by public grants, and tolls collected to repay the outlay. By these means the expense of making such particular piece of road or bridge would be borne by those who use, and are benefitted by the same, which, when divided among so many, would scarcely be felt by any, and although some little prejudice might be excited against it at first, your committee have no doubt but the people in general would become reconciled to it when they began to experience the benefits and saving that a good road would bestow—and that such parts as will not properly admit of tolls being exacted to pay the expense, should be completed by annual public grants out of any monies at the disposal of the legislature, or by effecting a loan for that purpose.—Your committee are aware that it will naturally take some time before a proper system can be brought into full operation, and the benefits of the Township Officers' bill fully realized, in the mean time there is an urgent necessity for something to be done immediately, and would therefore recommend that a bill be passed to raise by loan, on the most favourable terms, or by some other method, the sum of £50,000, for the ensuing year, one half to be expended to make, in a substantial manner, some particular pieces of roads, or bridges, as aforesaid, to be laid out by commissioners, who should be required to report to the government by the next session of parliament, what would be a just toll to be levied in order to meet the interest, and eventually to liquidate the principal, expended in the construction of such work, and the other half to be properly divided among the several districts, to be laid out on such roads and bridges as most require it.

Your committee deem it worthy of the consideration of your Honorable House to consider how far it would be expedient to impose a tax on all lands through which the post, or main roads run, for the liquidation of the interest and principal of the several grants for the completion of the main or post roads.—This your committee think might be done by passing a bill fixing the rate per acre of the several lots through which the said post road should pass, or which was adjoining the said road, as also the rate per lot in every city town, or village through which the said roads do pass, and either require the several owners or occupiers to pay the said tax into the hands of some person in the district, who should transmit it to the Receiver General, or authorise the collectors of the several towns and townships to collect the same from the owner or occupier at the same time, and by the same process that he collects the other rates of the town or township, and pay the same over to the treasurer, who should transmit it to the Receiver General; and in case any lot or tract of land through which such post road do pass shall not be occupied nor the said rates paid on it for the space of a certain term of years, to sell the same, or so much thereof as will be required to meet the demand as taxes on the same.

Your committee would also recommend, that in future, when there are three or more commissioners appointed to lay out and expend any particular sum on the roads and bridges, that they should be authorised to appoint one of their number to act more particularly as a superintendent of the work, and allow him the sum of ——— for each day he may be employed as such superintendent, not exceeding however, a certain number of days, out of the money granted, and include the sum in their account.

Your committee also beg leave to suggest to the consideration of your Honorable House the expediency of trying the experiment of authorising the Receiver General to issue government bills or notes of from twenty five pounds to one hundred pounds each, bearing a certain rate of interest, payable at a given time, to the amount of the sum that shall be granted for the public roads this session, which would have the same effect as introducing the same amount of capital into the province, and would pass current in the province.

All which is respectfully submitted.

Chairman.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF Elizabeth Thomson.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Elizabeth Thomson,
Respectfully Report:—

That the services and personal exertions of the late Hugh Christopher Thomson, Esquire, to obtain information, and in preparing plans and estimates by which to guide the commissioners appointed to superintend the erection of the Provincial Penitentiary at Kingston, were of much value, and such as would have entitled him to compensation and reward from the public funds had he lived to make the claim. That it appears to your committee that the family of the late Mr. Thomson were left at his death in straitened circumstances, and they are therefore of opinion, that should the legislature concur in the recommendation of the committee, now made to vote a sum by way of compensation for the services referred to, that it should be given to the petitioner, the widow of Mr. Thomson, for the benefit of his surviving family.

All which is respectfully submitted.

CHRISTOPHER A. HAGERMAN,
Chairman.

DESPATCH AND CORRESPONDENCE

APPENDIX.

ON CLERGY IN NORTH AMERICA.

1834.

No. 68.

[Copy.]

Downing Street, 5th August, 1835.

SIR,

I have the honor to transmit to you the enclosed printed copies of a correspondence between this department, the Treasury, and the Society for the propagation of the Gospel, by which you will perceive, that from the 1st of April last the whole charge of the missionaries now doing duty in Upper Canada is to be borne by the local government; you must not however consider yourself authorized to draw the entire amount of £6,506 from the Casual and Territorial, which fund would be quite inadequate to such a charge; but after appropriating the clergy funds as at present, to so much of the missionaries emoluments as they will defray, you will only supply from the Casual and Territorial Revenue whatever additional sum may be requisite to constitute a payment of 85 per cent on the former salaries of the Missionaries.—In this manner the Casual and Territorial Revenue may be expected to meet according to the calculation contained in the concluding part of Mr. Stanley's Despatch, No. 54, of 27th January last, the object now in view.

Having afforded this explanation, I have only to add my desire, that you will take the necessary measures for making the present arrangement known among the parties interested, and that you will report without delay all casualties which may occur among the individuals whose names appear on the list of the Society, as at present employed in Upper Canada.

I have the honor to be &c.

T. SPRING RICE.

M. General Sir JOHN COLBORNE,

No. 1.

COPY of a Letter from R. W. Hay, Esquire, to the Hon. J. K. Stewart, dated Downing Street, 23rd April, 1834.

SIR,

In reference to two letters from the under Secretary of State for this Department, dated respectively, the 21st November, 1831, and 18th January, 1832, proposing to relieve the Parliamentary Estimates from very extensive charges for the support of the Church, and the promotion of education in the North American Colonies. I am directed by Mr. Secretary Stanley to acquaint you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, that he fears it will be unavoidable to apply to Parliament for the continuance of a vote to the amount of £4,000, which at the date of the above mentioned communication, it was hoped might cease without inconvenience after the present year. In conveying to you this opinion I am desired by Mr. Stanley to recapitulate the circumstances on which it is founded; merely observing in the outset, that the object in view is not to increase the clergy estimate from the amount to which, by gradual diminutions, it has already been reduced, but only to render the further reduction of £4,000, which, under the present arrangement, is to take place next year, contingent upon the determination of existing interests.

Until the year 1832, payments had been made to the Clergy out of the army extraordinaries, and out of the grants on various colonial estimates to the amount of £9,500; but in the year 1832 all these payments were collected into one distinct estimate, styled the North American Clergy Estimate; and it was intimated that, on the death of the individuals holding the benefices or offices for which application was then made to parliament, no grant would be asked for their successors. In the reduction effected by this measure, provision was made, it will be observed, for the persons actually in employment in the colonies. At the same time it was proposed, that whereas, previously, a grant of £16,000 had been voted annually to the society for the propagation of the Gospel, the grant in 1832 should be limited to £12,000, and that in every following year it should be reduced by a diminution of £4,000, until it should cease. In the abolition of this latter grant, no provision was made, as in the other case, for the parties actually in employment in the colonies.

In consequence of the withdrawal of the aid heretofore received from Parliament, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel appears to have found it impossible to maintain its former establishments; and it announced last year, that in Upper Canada, where government had been able to provide an annual payment of £100 to each missionary at present employed, the present average being £200, the allowances of the society to its missionaries would be discontinued after the year 1834, and that in all the other North American Colonies they would be reduced by one half after the year 1835. The communication of the society to the bishops of Quebec and Nova Scotia, embodying these determinations, accompanies this letter.

The intelligence of the measures above described appears to have excited much alarm and disappointment in the colonies, both among the missionaries and among the congregations committed to their care. On behalf of the missionaries, Mr. Stanley has been called upon, by various and earnest appeals to him, to consider the hardship of depriving these ministers of the salaries which were offered to their acceptance, when they were induced to quit their homes for their present distant employment. On behalf of the congregations, (many of them the inhabitants of remote and thinly-peopled settlements) his attention has been directed to their poverty, and to the extreme difficulty which they must experience in finding a suitable maintenance for a minister, after providing, as they are at any rate required to do, for the erection and repairs of a church, and for the building of a Parsonage House. One parish in the province of New Brunswick is at this moment severely pressed by a debt which it has been obliged to contract in execution of the latter purposes. On a review of all the representations which have reached him, Mr. Stanley cannot but regard it as much to be lamented, that the missionaries should not receive the emoluments of which the expectation was held out to them when they proceeded to the colonies. The principle of protecting persons actually in employment from loss was sanctioned by Parliament in the case of the rest of the North American Clergy; and although there are unfortunately not the means of carrying this rule fully into effect in the case of the missionaries, Mr. Stanley feels the justice of acting upon it so far as circumstances will permit.

Such being the conclusion at which he has arrived, it remains to describe the manner in which he would endeavour to carry it into execution. In order more clearly to explain his views, a comparative statement has been prepared, which is hereto annexed, shewing the funds which were appropriated to the payment of the missionaries in 1832 (the latest year for which complete accounts could be rendered) and the funds which it is proposed to apply to the same use hereafter.

APPENDIX.

The payments made by the society for the propagation of the gospel in 1832, amounted to £22,294; but as £12,000 was granted to the society by parliament in that year, the sum actually drawn from its own resources was £10,294. The society has declared that it is willing to continue to bear an expenditure to that amount. Now, it will be seen from the statement to which I have alluded, that if the society were relieved from all charge on account of the missionaries in Upper Canada and Nova Scotia, and if it were not called upon for a larger payment than £3,800 in New Brunswick, the entire demand upon it for maintaining the present establishments in North America would fall within the prescribed limit of £10,294. The question for consideration is, whether the government can undertake to afford the required relief in the colonies above mentioned.

Mr. Stanley is constrained to acknowledge that, considering the limited means at its disposal, the government can neither with propriety engage to provide the full amount of the salaries of missionaries in Upper Canada and Nova Scotia, nor yet to supply the difference between £3,800 and the full amount of the salaries in New Brunswick. Much as he laments the fact, he perceives it to be undeniable, and he sees for it no remedy. But he would not on that account abstain from making such an effort on behalf of the clergy as is practicable, and commensurate with the means which government can command. The Lords Commissioners of the Treasury are aware that in Upper Canada, where the crown revenues already contribute a sum of £3,630 in aid of the payment of missionaries, such a further sum could, though not without difficulty, be derived from the same source, as would constitute a payment of 85 per cent on the entire amount of their salaries; and in New Brunswick, even if the Territorial Revenue be made over to the Assembly, on the moderate terms on which it has been offered to that Body, the commuted revenue would still afford the small sum which would be requisite (in addition to the amount of £3,800) for a payment of 85 per cent on the present salaries of the missionaries. In Nova Scotia there are no local resources available for the object in view; but, if Parliament should convert into a vote for the clergy of this colony the grant of £4,000, intended to be made to the society for the propagation of the gospel this year, and should continue the vote during the lives of the present missionaries, the amount would suffice to make on this station a larger payment than was contemplated by the society in the communication to the Bishops in North America, to which I have already adverted.

Such are the arrangements under which Mr. Stanley thinks that, from the 1st April, 1834, His Majesty's government might undertake to relieve the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel from all charge on account of the missionaries at present in Upper Canada and Nova Scotia; and from all charge above £3,800, on account of missionaries in New Brunswick, the society being engaged to make the remaining provision requisite for the support of its clergy employed in North America. It has been ascertained by Mr. Stanley that the society would cheerfully acquiesce in such a plan. I am therefore to request that you will acquaint me whether it meets the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, and whether their lordships would be prepared to sanction the proposed employment of a part of the Crown Revenues of Upper Canada and New Brunswick, as well as the application which, if these recommendations be adopted, must be made to parliament for the appropriation and continuance, in favor of missionaries in Nova Scotia, of the grant to be made this year to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

I am, &c.

R. W. HAY.

APPENDIX

Copy of a Letter from the Hon. J. Stewart to R. W. Hay, Esquire, dated Treasury Chambers, 15th May, 1834.

SIR :

I am commanded by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury to acquaint you for the information of Mr. Secretary Stanley, that my Lords having had under their consideration the circumstances urged in your letter of the 23rd ultimo, with respect to the missionaries employed in the North American Colonies by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, cannot but admit that the interests of the parties who have been induced to engage in the missions by the stipends which the aid of Parliament enabled the society to offer should be protected, so far as may be consistent with the imperative demands for economy in every branch of the public expenditure. My Lords are therefore willing, with the view of alleviating the distress to which the missionaries would be exposed by the very large reduction of their stipends, which is provided for by the society's letter to the Bishops of Quebec and Nova Scotia, of the 1st July last, to accede to Mr. Stanley's recommendation for the adoption of such an arrangement as may ensure to the present missionaries the continuance of salaries somewhat below the rates they have hitherto received, but exceeding the rates to which the society, if deprived of all aid, would be constrained to reduce them.

My Lords will accordingly sanction the appropriation out of the territorial revenue of Upper Canada of a sum not exceeding £6,506 per annum for payment of such stipends to the missionaries now doing duty in that Province as shall be equal to £85 per cent of the stipends they received from the society, and from the government, for the year ending 1st July, 1833, with the understanding that, as the present missionaries drop off, this appropriation is to diminish and eventually to cease.

My Lords will likewise sanction the appropriation out of the territorial revenue of New Brunswick of a sum not exceeding £552 per annum, in aid of the provision of £3,000 per annum, to be made by the society so long as such aid shall be requisite for continuing to the missionaries, already settled in that province, stipends equal to £85 per cent of the stipends they received for the year ended 1st July, 1833; but which aid is to be reduced and wholly discontinued as any diminution takes place in the number of the missionaries already engaged.

In further pursuance of this arrangement, and on adverting to the proceedings that have already taken place for obtaining from Parliament the grant of £4,000, in aid of the funds of the Society for the propagation of the gospel, my Lords conceive that it may be sufficient that the Society should for the present year undertake to apply the whole of this grant to the support of the Missionaries in Nova Scotia, assigning them such proportionate rates of stipend, with reference to what they received for the year ended 1st July last, as that grant may afford the means of paying; and my Lords will be prepared to sanction future applications to Parliament for such proportion of the grant of £4,000 as may be necessary to continue the payment of the rates of stipend, to be assigned for the present year to such of those individuals now employed as missionaries in Nova Scotia as may remain in the discharge of their spiritual duties in that Province. As these arrangements will take effect from the 1st ultimo, and as the Society will have received the grant of £8,000 for the year ending at that day, my Lords presume the Society will be able, and will consent to make good to the missionaries up to that period the rates of stipend to which they will be entitled under this arrangement, instead of enforcing the whole of the reductions provided for by the letter of the Bishops in North America of 1st July, 1833. My Lords also consider their sanction to have been given to this arrangement upon the distinct understanding, that the Society will be prepared to support the present remaining missionaries upon the scale adopted in the statement which accompanied your letter, and especially that the allowances will be continued from its funds to the five Rectors in Lower Canada, and that no further claims on this account will in any event be made on the public revenue of this country or of the Colonies.

As the sole object of this arrangement is to secure some competent provision for those individuals who have heretofore been engaged as Missionaries and as it is not intended to apply to any future missions or to any other system of ecclesiastical establishment in these Colonies, my Lords would further request to be favoured with a statement specifying the names of the Society's Missionaries now employed in Upper and Lower Canada, in New Brunswick and in Nova Scotia, the periods at which they were sent out by the Society, the places at which they are stationed, the amount of the stipends they received prior to the 1st of July, 1833, either from the Society or from the Colonial funds, or other sources, and the amount of the stipends to which they will now be entitled; and my Lords conceive it will be proper that copies of these statements should be transmitted to the Governors of each of the respective Colonies, with directions to report all casualties that may occur amongst the individuals whose names appear in them, in order to the gradual reduction and eventual discontinuance both of the applications to Parliament and of the appropriations of Colonial funds, as the parties may die off, or otherwise remove from or resign their missions.

I am, &c.,

[Signed] J. STEWART

No. 3.

Copy of a letter from R. W. Hay, Esquire, to the Hon. J. Stewart, dated Downing Street, 13th May, 1834.

SIR,

I am directed by Mr. Secretary Stanley to acquaint you for the information of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, that an application for pensions from two Missionaries lately employed in the diocese of Quebec, having been referred to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel for investigation, the enclosed letter has been received from the Secretary to the Society, containing a report that the Rev. Mr. Parkins appears to have established his right to a pension.

In the year 1813 a pension of £100 per annum was promised by Earl Bathurst, with the concurrence of the Board of Treasury, to such Missionaries employed in the North American Colonies, as after ten years' service should be disabled by age or infirmity from the performance of their duties. This promise (which was itself only a repetition, with some modifications, of a promise made by the Earl of Liverpool in 1811) has not been retracted and it has been commonly held out by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel as one of the inducements to Clergymen to undertake a mission to the North American Colonies. There is no doubt that the engagement remains in force, and it is certain that the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel will not after the loss of the aid formerly derived from Parliament, undertake to defray the pensions which the Government, under the circumstances I have stated, seems bound to grant. I am therefore directed by Mr. Secretary Stanley to request that you will bring the subject generally under the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, and more especially that you will submit to their Lordships the claim of Mr. Parkins to be allowed from such fund as they may deem proper, a pension of £100 per annum. As Mr. Parkins resigned his employment more than a twelve-month ago, and has only drawn an allowance of £80 per annum since that time, granted to him temporarily by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, he will, for the period that has elapsed have a claim to the difference between the allowance he has received and the amount of the pension to which he is deemed entitled.

I am, &c.

Copy of a letter from the Honorable J. Stewart to R. W. Hay, Esquire, dated Treasury Chambers, 28th May, 1834.

SIR,

I am commanded by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury to request that you will state to Mr. Secretary Stanley, that before my Lords can come to any decision upon the subject of the retired allowances, proposed to be granted to two Missionaries, lately employed in the diocese of Quebec, to which your letter of the 13th instant refers, it is necessary they should have before them the lists of the Missionaries, required by their communication to you of the 13th instant. My Lords would accordingly request, that those lists may be procured from the Society without any avoidable delay; and in the mean time they would suggest that any final arrangement with the Society, in regard to the stipends of the existing Missionaries, should be deferred until they may have opportunity to consider whether any stipulation should be made respecting the retired pensions or allowances of that portion of the Missionaries for whose stipends it is proposed that provision shall be henceforward made by the Society.

I am, &c.,
[Signed] J. STEWART.

SIR,

With reference to your letter of the 28th ultimo, on the subject of the retired allowances and stipends of Missionaries employed by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in the Colonies, I am directed by Mr. Secretary Spring Rice, to transmit to you the accompanying list of all Missionaries so employed at present, and to inform you that the decision contained in your letter of the 15th ultimo, has not been conveyed officially to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and that the communication of it will be deferred until the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury shall have had an opportunity of considering whether any stipulation should be made respecting the retired pensions and allowances of that portion of the Missionaries for whose stipends it is proposed that provision should henceforward be made by the Society.

I am, &c.,

SIR:

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury have had under their consideration a letter from Mr. Lefevre, dated the 11th instant, transmitting a list of the missionaries employed under the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in the Colonies; and I am to request you will state to Mr. Secretary Rice (with reference to your letter of the 13th ultimo, forwarding to this Board the report of that society on the applications for pensions to the Rev. Mr. Parkin, and the Rev. E. Burton, and to your previous communication of the 23rd of April, and the reply from this department of the 15th ultimo, respecting the arrangements to be made with the society for the support of the missionaries who have heretofore been induced to proceed to, and are at present employed in the Colonies, that although, upon full consideration of all the circumstances connected with these subjects, my Lords would not feel warranted in incurring any further amount of charge on account of these missions than the provision in aid of the society's funds sanctioned by the letter to you of the 15th ultimo, they will be prepared to extend that arrangement so far as may become necessary to provide for the pensions that may be claimed by the missionaries in Upper Canada or in Nova Scotia, or by their widows, under the agreement with the society, notified to them in Mr. Goulburn's letter of the 19th of May, 1813, provided the society will undertake to meet the similar claims that may be preferred by missionaries on the other stations, or their widows, and my Lords would also be further prepared to sanction the continuance of the payment of £552 per annum, out of the territorial revenue of New Brunswick, or the requisite portion of it so long as the expenditure of the society for the existing missions in that colony, either in discharge of the salaries of the missionaries or of the retired allowances and pensions now in question, may exceed the sum of £3,800 per annum, which it is understood the society will be willing to devote to it.

Adverting to the very large proportion of the charge for the present missionaries from which the society will be wholly relieved by these arrangements. My Lords entertain little doubt but that the society will readily accede to them; and in that case they have only to repeat their requisition in the letter to you of the 15th ultimo, for statements of the Missionaries in Upper and Lower Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. But should the society object to become responsible for such retired allowances and pensions as might be claimed, under the agreement of the year 1813, by missionaries employed elsewhere than in Upper Canada and Nova Scotia, or by their widows, it will be necessary for my Lords to re-consider the terms upon which any future aid should be granted to the society; and my Lords accordingly request that in any communication to the society upon the subject of that aid, it may be expressly stated that it is contingent upon their acceding to the present proposition respecting these allowances and pensions.

REPORT

OF SELECT COMMITTEE OF GRIEVANCES ON PETITION OF

James Beattie.

To the Honourable the House of Assembly.

The Select Committee on Grievances have made inquiry at the Post Master General, Quebec, relative to the complaint of money lost through the Post Office by Mr. James Beattie, Trafalgar, as stated in his petition referred to us.— We report Mr. Stayner's letter of explanation and the correspondence.

The committee also report a letter addressed to Dr. Charles Duncombe by the Treasurer of the London District relative to some part of the evidence given by Dr. Dunlop.

With reference to the petition of Mr. Campbell respecting the location made to him by the late Colonel Mount, this committee entered into a correspondence with the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Mr. Campbell's complaint has been redressed.

London, 16th April, 1835.

Dear Sir,

In an article in the Liberal it is stated that Doctor Dunlop before the Grievance Committee should have said that the Canada Company had paid into the London District Treasury £1800. I do declare that the Canada Company have never paid into the Treasury one farthing. You will oblige me by showing this to the chairman of the Grievance Committee.

Report on the Petition of J. Beattie.

Letter from the Deputy Post Master General to the chairman of the Grievance committee.

APPENDIX.

General Post Office, Quebec, 4th April, 1835.

Sir,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th March (post marked 21st) addressed to me in your capacity of chairman of the committee of grievances, conveying a petition to the House of Assembly of Upper Canada, from James Beattie of Trafalgar, Yeoman, praying relief in a case where it would appear he transmitted by the mail the sum of £10 15s in bank notes, and a note of hand for £40, addressed to the Cashier of the "Bank of Upper Canada, York" which remittance never reached its destination! The committee of grievances requests my interference in the matter, to the end that "the petitioner may if possible obtain his money or such other recompense as the Establishment can afford"—and that "steps may be taken to discover the offender."

The loss or robbery in question occurred in July 1833 (when I was out of this country, and my duty was temporarily discharged by F. H. Thompson Esq.) and I knew nothing of it, till shortly after my return in October last, when I received a letter on the subject from Mr. Beattie calling my attention to the circumstances of the case and requesting relief.—This letter which bears date the 18th October 1834, I beg to inclose a copy of together with copy of my letter in reply and copy of a second letter from Mr. Beattie with my remarks thereon. Likewise extracts from several letters from Mr. Howard, by which you will be satisfied, I think, that that gentleman, as well as others belonging to the department implicated or interested in the affair have used every caution to discover the author of the abstraction.

I inclose also copy of a letter from Mr. Spragge the Post Master of "Credit Office," by which you will perceive he strongly denies the justice of fixing the crime upon his office.

Circumstances of this kind are extremely annoying and mortifying to me, as they must be to every honest man connected with the Establishment, and it never can be fairly imputed to me that I have lent an indifferent ear to complaints of losses of letters, or of property, entrusted to the mails, or that I have not promptly and energetically applied myself to the investigation of the cases; but in despite of all the care that can be taken in a Department so extensive as the Post Office has now become in these Provinces, losses may occur occasionally, and every attempt to trace them prove unavailing—Accidents of the kind are not unfrequent, even in England, where the management of the Post Office is superior to that of any country in the world.

Mr. Beattie is wrong in stating in his petition that there were only three offices where the abstraction could have been effected—there were five, or it is possible that it may have been accomplished by the Mail Carrier, as is hinted in one of the accompanying documents—but upon what individual to fix the guilt, is, I conceive, beyond human wisdom.

The General Post Office does not acknowledge a liability for losses of property by the mail—and unless I were to indemnify Mr. Beattie out of my own pocket, I know not how to afford him the satisfaction for which he has applied to the House of Assembly.

Your very obedient Servant,

Extracts of Letters received at the General Post Office, Quebec, from J. S. Howard, Esq., Postmaster at Toronto City, U. C., having reference to a money letter stated to have been lost by Mr. James Beattie.

27th August, 1833.

"This morning I received your letter of the 19th inst.—I received a letter yesterday from Mr. Proudfoot, brought by a Mr. Beattie, who, it appears, by Mr. Proudfoot's letter, mailed a money letter on the 27th July, for T. G. Ridout, Esq., of the Bank—this mail appears by my Red Book not to have been received. Mr. Proudfoot has omitted to state how much money it contained—I have written him to day, for further information. All the intermediate Post Offices will of course, as well as Mr. Proudfoot's office and my own, be implicated, and it will be necessary for us to clear ourselves of blame.

"Will you please to refer to the road bills and say who signed them on the morning of 27th July. As the mail passes through those offices early in the morning on the way to York, it is more than probable that the principals are absent during the examination and changing of the mails—as it regards my own office I have not the slightest reason to doubt or call in question the honesty of my clerks."

2nd September, 1833.

"Mr. Proudfoot, P. M. of Trafalgar, called on me on Saturday morning concerning the abstractions of the packets from his office for this—his suspicions attach to the clerk at the Credit office, which is grounded on the circumstance that when questioned he appeared much embarrassed and said that about the time the packets were lost a hole was in one of the bags, and that they might possibly have got out that way—as to the hole spoken of by the Credit clerk we have no recollection of it, and if it had been the case I think it could not possibly have escaped our observation."

1st. October, 1833.

"In reference to your letters of the 19th August and 4th ult., relating to the loss of the packet between Trafalgar and this office, I beg to inform you that as yet I have not been able to effect a discovery of the perpetrator, notwithstanding I have done every thing in my power towards it—nor can I, by the copies of the road bills you sent me, attach suspicion to any individual. I know not what fur-

SIR:

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 22d ultimo, respecting certain letters stated to have been mailed for York, from the Post Offices at Trafalgar and Streetville, which have never reached their destination, therefore supposed to have been abstracted from the mail bag at one of the intermediate offices. It appears to me quite as possible for these to have been suppressed at the offices where they are said to have been mailed, as purloined at the intermediate offices. The assistant in this office (and no other besides myself have access to it) is a respectable young man in my employ—John Young, a nephew of the Postmaster at Perth—and is I believe perfectly trustworthy; his oath was forwarded last January. By delaying I was in hopes that something would turn up, from quiet and diligent observation and inquiry, that would put us upon the right track, but nothing has transpired here to throw any light upon the subject. I shall continue to use my utmost endeavors to discover the delinquent, and thus remove the suspicion that is cast upon this and other offices mentioned.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your very obedient servant,

SIR:

I take the liberty of addressing a few lines to you, in consequence of a loss I sustained through the Post Office, some time in July of 1833. I had an occasion to send a remittance to the Bank of Upper Canada, containing ten pounds fifteen shillings, together with a renewal note for forty pounds, which appears from the books of Mr. Alexander Proudfoot's post office was regularly forwarded from the said office, and has never been heard of since. I would have wrote to you, Sir, long ago, but, in consequence of your being in England, Mr. Proudfoot thought it better to wait till your return. I have been put to a great deal of expense and trouble since, being a poor man, and not able to bear the loss. I made many fruitless attempts to find out the thief, as there was strong suspicions rested upon a young man in one of the post offices between Mr. Proudfoot's and Toronto City. I got two magistrates to sit for an examination of witnesses, but could not make out any thing that would criminate. A statement of the examination is in the hands of the magistrates for your information. It is admitted by all concerned that the money was lost by the Post Office Department, I am out more than ten pounds of expenses, and that sum, I therefore humbly hope you will take my case under your most serious consideration, and grant me that relief my case requires, and in doing so you will greatly oblige your humble servant,

[Signed]

JAMES BEATTIE.

N. B. I had to pay law costs on my note that was in the Bank at the time, as I did not know of the robbery for a month after it was done. I hope you will send me an answer by the return of post. Direct to James Beattie, Trafalgar, U. C.

General Post Office Quebec, 8th Nov., 1834.

SIR,

A great pressure of business has put it out of my power sooner to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th October, in which you represent that in July 1833 you posted at the Trafalgar office a letter containing £10 15 0 and a renewal note for £40 addressed to the Bank of U. C. (at York I suppose) and that the packet containing the said remittance, had never reached its destination—and expressing a hope that I would take your case into consideration, and grant you the relief your case requires.

Report on Petition of J. Beattie.

In reply to this communication I beg to say that I sincerely lament the loss you have sustained, but at the same time I must explain to you that the Post Office Department is not liable for losses of money sent by Post, and that if I were to undertake to reimburse you, I must do it out of my own pocket. It is to be lamented that you did not state your case to this office at the time it occurred, or as soon as you knew of it. For then a better chance would have been afforded of tracing out the author of the robbery, whereas now so much time has elapsed, that there is very little probability of bringing it home to any body. I should be glad however to know to what office between Mr. Proudfoot's and Toronto City your suspicions apply, for I am disposed even now, late as it is, to leave no means untried to discover the thief.

(Acknowledged 14th January, 1835.)

SIR,

I received your favor of the 8th Nov. last and I felt a good deal disappointed in my expectation after paying for a service to be performed me and that not done, and my property taken besides, it is a hard case, besides I spent nearly as much in trying to find out the thief as I lost in the first instance I expected it was in your power to have paid me for my service, in that way, and had I taken the business into my own hands in the first place, I expect I could have obtained money and thief too, but I was advised by Mr. Howard and Mr. Proudfoot to leave it to them and they would manage it better, and what was the consequence?—Mr. Howard wrote to Quebec to your Deputy, and he wrote back to each of the Post Offices between Toronto City and Mr. Proudfoot, apprising them of the circumstance—which put the person on his guard, and put it out of my power to detect him as I otherwise might have done—you'll see from the above statement that your office was apprised of the circumstance as soon as it was discovered by Mr. Howard. After waiting nearly six months found nothing could be done, I then applied to Mr. Howard and Mr. Proudfoot for assistance, they seemed willing to do all they could but said they had no power in their hands as they were only Deputy Post Masters themselves, I would have wrote to you but your absence prevented me, I therefore had to act for myself, and had it not been for Mr. Spragge of Springfield who tried to screen his young man from a close investigation and he took a very active part to prevent any discovery that might have been made—This is the office that was suspected—he Mr. Spragge, has since turned the said young man off for irregularities. By applying to Mr. Proudfoot you can obtain a statement of the examination that took place before Mr. Thompson and Mr. Jervis, two of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace. If I had an interview with you Sir, I could give you a better explanation, I hope Sir you will consider my case and at least allow me for my trouble and expense in trying to find out the robber and by so doing you will greatly oblige

Your most obedient

Humble Servant.

I acquainted Mr. Beattie in answer to this letter that it was utterly out of my power to make him the allowance demanded.—I had ascertained by reference to the correspondence which took place shortly after the property was missed, that nothing had been left undone by Mr. Thomson the acting D. P. M. G. and by Mr. Howard the post Master at Toronto to trace the robbery or loss; and I knew not at so remote a period, what further steps to take.

From Mr. Beattie's own statement it appeared that the young man at first suspected, a Clerk in the "Credit" Office kept by Mr. Spragge had been dismissed: where then was it possible for me to look for satisfaction for Mr. Beattie's loss.—The General Post Office does not acknowledge a liability for such losses, and to indemnify Mr. Beattie I must have done it out of my own private funds, which he could hardly expect me to do.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

George Boyd.

The Select Committee appointed to consider and report on the Petition of George Boyd, wood-cutter for your Honorable House, beg leave to report that they have examined several witnesses whose evidence is herewith appended, by which it will appear that the Petitioner has discharged his duty in a proper manner for five years past, and as he has a wife and four young children dependent on his daily labour for support, your Committee earnestly recommend that the Sergeant-at-Arms be permitted to continue him in the employment of the House so long as he conducts himself with propriety and in an industrious and sober manner.

Your Committee cannot think that the servants of this House should be dismissed without any other cause than rumour out of doors of their having been found fault with by the Corporation of this City on account of work said to have been improperly performed for that body.

ALLAN N. MACNAB,
Chairman.

Committee Room, House of As- } sembly, 1st April, 1835. }

DAVID MACNAB, ESQUIRE, SERGEANT-AT-ARMS.

What is your opinion of the conduct of George Boyd, wood-cutter for the House of Assembly?—I have found him attentive to his duty as wood-cutter, and have never had reason to find fault with him since he has been employed by the House of Assembly.

How long has he been employed by the House?—About five years.

Had you any reason to find fault with him?—I never had.

Is it usual to discharge such servants at the close of each Session?—It is not.

Did Boyd visit you at Hamilton last autumn, how often, and mention particulars?—He called on me in Hamilton twice—in the first place he said he had called on me to know if he was not to continue as wood-cutter for the House of Assembly, and that the Clerk desired him to do so before he would allow him to commence his work. I told him he was, and to return and go to work—the next day, however, he returned again and said that the Clerk would not allow him to go to work without a written order from me to that effect. I thought there must be something wrong in the conduct of Boyd, or that the Clerk would not put him to the trouble and expense of making a second trip to Hamilton. I therefore told him, that I should go to Toronto the following day, when I should see the Clerk, and enquire into his conduct, and if there was nothing against him, he should be employed as usual, and that he (Boyd) must meet me there—which he did, and he was allowed to go to work again, and continued so to do till dismissed.

JAMES FITZGIBBON, ESQUIRE, CLERK.

States that the Petitioner, George Boyd was not industrious, and that during the autumn when wood was wanted he enquired for Boyd and could not find him, in consequence another person was employed—told Boyd that if he brought an order from Mr. Macnab he would employ him—employed Boyd during several weeks after the commencement of the present Session till the work was not very pressing—does not recollect employing another person to saw wood last year in the autumn, although Boyd was at hand and offered to do it.

The Clerk adds that he declined to employ Boyd when he presented himself before the opening of the present Session, partly because he (Boyd) had removed from town to his land without having made his removal known to him—and the Clerk took for granted that he had entirely withdrawn himself from the service of the House. But he declined to employ him principally because he frequently saw him while in the employment of the House idling his time in the yard, or working very lazily, and for which he more than once rebuked him, and threatened to report him to the House.

The Clerk had Boyd employed under him on other duties and had reason to think unfavorably of him, which he stated to the Speaker, and also expressed his opinion that Boyd was not an eligible person to be continued in the service of the House.

ENEAS BELL states that last year in the autumn as Mr. Fitzgibbon told him to get some person to cut wood and witness brought a man named Bailey who cut 12 cords. The year before two persons cut wood, the one 88—the other 10 cords—thinks Boyd worked well—as well as the person who is now employed.

JOHN FENWICK says that George Boyd did his work well, and was willing and obliging, and did his work as well as the person at present employed.

JOHN BRIGHT was employed during the cholera season to examine the depth of some graves and found several not more than 18 inches deep—does not think Boyd dug them, as several persons brought bodies there during the night.—Thinks he was an industrious man while employed by the House of Assembly. A man (not Boyd) acknowledged that he dug the graves in the row where they were so shallow.

OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE BRANTFORD BRIDGE.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The undersigned Commissioners appointed by an Act of the Provincial Parliament, passed the third year of His Majesty's Reign, for the erection of a Bridge over the Grand River at Brantford, would respectfully Report :—

That early in April, 1833, the necessary notices were given, and early in May, tenders with plans and estimates received, and a contract entered into with Messrs. Homnell and Moe to have said Bridge completed on the first of December thereafter. The Commissioners agreeing to remove the old bridge early in June—but owing to a disposition of certain individuals who had paid large sums in its erection, and keeping the same in repair, the Commissioners could not remove the same until the 20th of July, without a liability of being resisted by force. In consequence of this delay, the contractors on the first of December had the bridge only so far completed as to admit of the safe passage of teams, and at the meeting of the Commissioners, they took a surrender of the bridge, giving the contractors the right of occupying one tract to enclose and finish the same by the first of June thereafter.

At this meeting a further contract was entered into for the construction of a bridge resting on stone abutments over a waste wier at the West end of the Moira Bridge of 60 feet span. Also to erect a toll-house, together with some extra work on the main bridge, not specified in the contract.

The Commissioners also levied the following tolls, and employed a toll-gatherer to collect the same :

Leaving a balance due the Government of £1482 1 0 $\frac{1}{4}$ —Reducing the debt after paying the back interest £17 18 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ on the 9th of March, 1835.

The small sum collected from 1st of December to June is accounted for by the winter being exceedingly open and the roads bad; and another cause which probably operated to reduce the receipt very much was that of the public being opposed to toll-bridges, and they would cross on the river, and many would leave their teams on the west side, and cross the bridge on foot and do their business in town, and by those means avoid the tolls. Others would pass the Bridge late in the night, after the toll-keeper had gone to bed, and as the Bridge was unfinished would get over without pay.

From the rapid growth of the town of Brantford (having doubled its inhabitants since the new bridge was finished) it is fair to anticipate that the bridge will rent for at least 25 per cent more the coming year than the last, which will enable all the funds to be returned to the Government in five years.

The bridge being built upon good stone piers and abutments resting on piles, and the remaining posts and all the timber work covered in and painted, no essential repairs will be necessary for a great number of years.

The thousand complaints and the public alarm that at first existed against toll-bridges is now dissipated, and a great share of the public have expressed themselves satisfied that all large bridges are cheaper to the community, with a light toll, than free, as they are in a safe condition at a less expense, and it is the business of some person to look after them.

The Commissioners regret that owing to a misunderstanding of the time of paying the money into the Receiver General's Office, their Treasurer, Major John Westbrooke supposing that the money would only be received by the government in yearly instalments, and not wishing to keep the same himself, loaned the three first quarters rent to Messrs. Wilkes, Gage, & Fay, to the first of June, taking the best security for the repayment, with interest, on that day.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON

FIRE & LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY BILL.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament assembled.

Your Committee to whom was referred the Bill to repeal part of and amend an Act passed in the 3rd year of the Reign of His present Majesty, entitled, "An Act to Incorporate a Company under the style and title of the British America Fire and Life Assurance Company."

Beg leave respectfully to Report, that they have examined the said Bill, and compared it with the Act it is intended to amend, and find that it does not affect the principles of the before recited Act except in the liability of the Stockholders to the public, by the 12th section of the Act in existence it is declared that all policies of Assurance under the seal of the Corporations shall be binding and obligatory upon the whole corporation, in the same manner, and in the like form as if under the hand and seal of each individual member of the said corporation," as a difference of opinion may arise upon the construction to be given to this clause, and as it is not probable that any number of persons would embark in an undertaking that might by a forced construction involve the whole of their private property it has been thought advisable to propose the repeal of that part of the said section and in order that the public should at the same time be protected against fraud, it is proposed in the Bill now reported to give the Directors the power of compelling the Stockholders to pay up the subsequent shares of stock as the same may be required, after the institution is in operation, instead of their being permitted as by the present law, to forfeit the same. As an objection might be made to this clause by the few Stockholders who have not signed the petition praying for the amendment of their charter: Your committee have for their protection added a clause to the bill, to enable such Stockholders to withdraw their names from the association within three months from the passing of the Act, and to demand and receive from the managing Director such amounts respectively as they may have paid in as stock in the said company. With this protection to the non assenting stockholders and the public, Your committee would respectfully recommend the passing of the bill reported, as upon the evidence of R. Sullivan and Thomas W. Burchell, Esqrs. two of the Stockholders in the institution, the first also the solicitor, and the latter the managing director of the same, that an institution of this description is loudly called for by the Province at large, as the foreign insurance companies who have agencies in Toronto have lately made a very heavy advance upon the premium of insurance, and have in fact refused altogether to insure wooden buildings. Your committee would also notice that by enabling an institution of this description to go into operation a great amount of money would be saved to the Province which is now paid to the United States and England.—Your committee perceive no necessity for a clause in the bill reported to prohibit Banking power to the Institution as a clause to that effect is contained in the original act, which it is not attempted to repeal by this bill. Your committee have also added a clause to the bill to enable the Provincial Parliament to repeal or alter any part of the said acts at any future period as in their wisdom may seem right and expedient.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF THE President, Directors and Company of the Cobourg Harbour.

To the Honorable the House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom were referred the Petition of the President, Directors and Company of the Cobourg Harbour,

BEG LEAVE RESPECTFULLY TO REPORT:

That they conceive that the Harbour constructing at Cobourg has contributed greatly to the prosperity of the Town as well as of the surrounding country, and will, if completed, be of great utility and convenience for vessels and Steam Boats navigating Lake Ontario. That the erection of a Harbour at that place, altho' of manifest public advantage, has proved too great an undertaking for the company which embarked in it, and Your Committee would observe that it appears that the tolls for the year 1833, amounted to £595 8 7—and for the last year to £698 0 3½, and will probably increase in nearly the same ratio—That out of the tolls the sum of £130 per annum is paid the Secretary and Collector of the Company—That the Company have timber and materials on hand estimated at £1034 11 5—that the company have proceeded with the work as fast as their means would admit, but are now unable to complete it without further aid—that from the present depressed state of the country it is very difficult to obtain pecuniary aid from private individuals—that a further loan of £1000 would, in the opinion of Your Committee, enable the Company to complete the work, which otherwise will in all probability have to be abandoned. Your Committee therefore recommend that the sum of £1000 should be granted by way of loan to the Cobourg Harbour to be secured on the tolls and works thereof, payable with interest, half yearly in four years. Your Committee also further recommend that the period for completing the said Harbour should be extended to ten years from the period of the incorporation.

All which is respectfully submitted, he has allowed 3s. 9d. per day in the depth of winter, he worked himself and charged the public. In 1831, 33 pounds, as he stated, was granted for the roads, for which half work was not done—he refused to let it out by auction. In 1834 and the previous year, there was granted, to be laid out by Keenan on the town line between Adjala and Tosorontio, £25, and if it had been let out by auction and the cash paid to the labourers, £10 would have done more work; had the work been laid out by auction that was given to Keenan in different places, the farmers would have obtained good roads to go to market.—There was a meeting called by Michael Hailey, at Mr. Robinson's suggestion, which decided that the money ought to be laid out on the swamp, agreeably to the petition—afterwards Mr. Robinson said he would give one half on the swamp, but did not do so.

APPENDIX.

MICHAEL HAILEY, called in and examined.

The evidence of Thomas Langley, read to Witness, who was then asked:—

Are the circumstances stated by Mr. Langley such as you know to be true?—They are—Mr. Robinson told me that our petition for the swamp road was granted—he afterwards denied that.

ROBERT KEENAN, THE COMMISSIONER complained of, was called in, and in answer to the questions of the Committee, he gave the following explanation:

Did you ever come to Mr. Robinson during the last Session of Parliament and ask him to change a grant made or supposed to be made to the swamp road, to another road as is stated in the Petition?—No, I never did.

Did Mr. Robinson ask you last winter what road most required improvement in Adjala?—He did—and the money was granted to be laid out on the road I told him of.

Was there any conversation then about the swamp road?—None that I recollect of.

The evidence of Langley and Hailey having been read over to witness, he was asked—Have you any observations to make to the Committee on the subject matter of the complaint made against you?—No answer was made.

[Mr. Keenan produced no witnesses to disprove the charges in the petition, and although Mr. Robinson was called on for any observations he might desire to make, he made none.]

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

Andrew McGlashen and Others.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Andrew McGlashen and others, report as follows:

That from the facts set forth in the said petition and other information laid before the committee by the Trustees of the York roads it appears that it will tend much to the public advantage that a sufficient sum by way of loan should be raised to enable Trustees to be appointed by this House to extend the Macadamized road to Holland Landing.

The committee would therefore recommend that a sum not exceeding £60,000 should be granted on such securities as the House may deem proper.

All which is respectfully submitted.

SECOND REPORT

Of the Committee on Finance.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

Your committee beg leave to call the attention of your Honorable House to the advantages and benefit to the Province by negotiating all future Loans in England: It brings a new capital which never would be introduced, and it is by the exhibition of the former Report of your committee, a vast saving. It is not conceived, by adopting this system, that any of the capital destined to be brought here by emigrants would be affected, nor is it calculated to disappoint or injure persons with money for investment, as there are abundant private and unquestionable securities always to be obtained. It is also recommended that in negotiating Bills on London, the Receiver General should be authorised to adopt such measures as he may think most conducive to the public interest, and not confine himself in the sale of those Bills to the Province, but to resort to the best market and to take such steps as will produce the highest rate of Exchange as the sale of so large a sum of money in Upper Canada must soon supply the demands for remittances and the natural consequence would be that the Province will not give that premium which might be obtained by resorting for instance to New York, as the Exchange at that place is generally $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 per cent higher there than it is here, and it is about 1 to $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent against Upper Canada, consequently the Receiver General might be able to add in this way to the transaction. In fact every means should be taken to make as much as possible; and your committee are quite satisfied that by giving the Receiver General full powers he will exert himself to the best interests of the Province.

All which is respectfully submitted.

R E P O R T

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON HIS EXCELLENCY'S MESSAGE

AND

Despatch from His Majesty's Government,

RELATING TO THE

Collection of certain Duties at the Port of Quebec,

OF WHICH THIS PROVINCE RECEIVES NO SHARE.

The Select Committee appointed to consider and report on the Despatch of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, sent down to this House by His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, on the 26th instant, respecting certain Duties collected at the Port of Quebec, have examined several documents which shew that from the passing of the Canada Trade Act, in the year 1823, till the year 1831, inclusive, a sum exceeding £118,000 was collected at the Port of Quebec, under the authority of British Acts, no part of which has been paid into the Treasury of this Province. As the amount collected under these Acts in 1831 was £20,000, it therefore would seem, even if the Revenue has not increased since that period, that at least £60,000 were collected during the three past years, which, together with the amount above, makes a total of £178,000 raised in Lower Canada, as Duties collected on Goods, Wares and Merchandize, imported at Quebec, no portion of which, in consequence of the opinion of the Executive Council of that Province, dated 8th December, 1825, has yet been paid to the Receiver General of this Province. Although the subject has long been pending the decision of His Majesty's Government it appears by the said Despatch that an Act of the Imperial Parliament is deemed necessary before the claim of Upper Canada can be satisfied.

That your Honorable House may fully understand the nature of the objections to the claim of this Province to a just share of these Duties, the Report of the Council above alluded to is appended hereto, and in order that the amount of such claim may be officially known to your Honorable House, the Committee herewith report an address to His Excellency, requesting His Excellency to apply to the Governor-in-Chief for a statement of the annual amount of Duties collected at the Port of Quebec, under the Imperial Acts 3 Geo. 4, chap. 44, 45 and 119, and 6th Geo. 4. chap. 114, from the year 1823 up to the 1st of January last.

Report of Council at Quebec, 8th December, 1835, on the subject of the share of duties claimed by Upper Canada.

[COPY.]

To His Excellency, the Earl of Dalhousie, G. C. B., Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Province of Lower Canada, &c. &c. &c.

Report of a Committee of the whole Council—Present, the Honorable the Chief Justice in the Chair, Mr. Kerr, Mr. Perceval, Mr. Perrault, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Hale—on a reference respecting the proportion of Duty due to the Province of Upper Canada.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP—

The Arbitrators were empowered to ascertain the proportion to be paid to Upper Canada, of duties levied in the port of Quebec under the authority of any Act or Acts passed, or to be passed therein, upon Goods, Wares and Commodities imported therein by Sea, and the award accordingly is, "That for the four years next succeeding the first day of July, 1824, $\frac{1}{4}$ of the Duties levied in the Province of Lower Canada, under the authority of any Act or Acts passed or to be passed therein by Sea, shall be paid to Upper Canada."

It appears to the Committee that the Duties now levied in consequence of the British Acts, 3rd Geo. 4th chap. 44, 45 and 119, are not levied under the authority of any Act passed in the Province of Lower Canada, but are levied under authority of Acts passed in the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

Sundry Reports.

APPENDIX.

Then as the award is limited to Duties levied under the authority of Acts passed in the Province of Lower Canada, and the Statute Geo. 4. chap 119, is silent as to any Duties levied under any British Act of Parliament, save and except the 14 Geo. 3. chap. 88. it appears to the Committee that the Province of Upper Canada has no claim to any proportion of the Duties levied under the Statutes 3rd Geo. 4. chap. 44, 45 and 119.

At the same time as the question is one which affects the interests of the Province of Upper Canada, it is the opinion of the Committee that it should be referred to the consideration and decision of the Imperial Government and, in the interim, that things should remain in their present condition; the Government being made acquainted with the course which has been adopted.

All which, is respectfully submitted to Your Excellency's wisdom.

OF COMMISSIONERS ON PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

Second Report of the Commissioners appointed by an Act of the 3rd Session of the 11th Parliament, to carry into effect the provisions of the said Act.

The Commissioners in their first Report to Your Excellency, dated 28th November, 1833, stated that a further grant of £1800 was required to finish the Parliament building in a proper manner, and to construct an area around it to the East and West sides of the Portico, and to level and improve the grounds appertaining or adjoining to it. It was further stated, that in that sum was included £508, the estimated expense of covering the roof with tin, and opening an easy communication thereto from the second story, which they considered indispensable for the safety of the building, which had already once narrowly escaped burning, by a spark from one of the chimnies, which fell on the shingles.

This further grant has not been made, and the commissioners beg leave now to state further, that the decked part of the roof admits the rain water through in many places to an extent which must have destroyed the ceilings in both chambers of the Legislature, had not constant attention been paid to place vessels to receive the water.—And that notwithstanding every care some damage has been done to the interior, in other places where water came in and where vessels could not be placed. During heavy rains the basement story has been much wetted, and the walls and floors injured, which can be prevented only by the proposed area.

The Commissioners therefore beg leave earnestly to recommend that the roof of the building be covered with tin, and the area around the house be constructed with the least possible delay.

Considering the damp and unwholesome air in the basement story, and that the clerks have already suffered in health from it, the commissioners feel themselves called upon to state the fact to Your Excellency, and to recommend that apartments for their accommodation should be erected in rear of the building, in connexion with the rear entrance to the respective houses.

All which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT

OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR SUPERINTENDING THE ERECTION Of a Light House on Point Pele Island.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The undersigned Commissioners, acting under the authority of a statute passed on the 19th day of February, 1833, entitled, "An Act for granting to His Majesty a sum of money to defray the expense of erecting a Light House on Point Pele Island, and for appointing Commissioners to superintend the same."

Humbly Report:—

That as soon as possible after the enactment of the said statute, and our appointment, we proceeded to examine the place alluded to, in order to ascertain and fix upon the most proper site for the Light House we were directed to construct, and decided Brushey Marsh Point, on the above mentioned Island, to be the best for that purpose, and advertised for tenders, the contract was on the 24th day of April, given to John Scott of Detroit, as the lowest bidder, for the sum of £675, Province currency, to complete the said Light House, according to specification, by the 1st of October last.

The detailed account of our disbursements, amounting to £712 15, Province currency, as well as a draft of the building, and a copy of the advertised specification, accompany this Report.

It will be remarked that this Light House is, in every respect, a neat and well-finished, and most substantial building, well pointed and whitewashed on the outside, which has been found preferable to rough-cast, and it cannot fail to last for ages.

There being a vast range of water coming up the lake, we would recommend an addition of three lamps, reflectors and heaters to the said Light House to be procured as soon as possible, and also a suitable dwelling house to be erected for the Keeper, without which we would deem it difficult to get the Light House properly attended to and taken care of, and it is to be lamented, that the law did not provide for this object at the time, as it might have been done with more economy along with the building of the tower.

The island on which the Light House is built, is in possession of Wm. McCormack, Esq., under an old Indian lease, and he offers to give 10 acres of well-timbered land gratis, for the use of the Keeper, besides the ground on which the building stands, which gift we would recommend to be secured as soon as possible.

We now approach the subject to which our attention has been particularly directed by the 3rd and last section of the Statute, viz: "What Tonnage or other duties upon vessels of all description, navigating Lake Erie, will in their (the Commissioners) opinion be sufficient to defray the charge of maintaining the said Light House, and to repay the sum of seven hundred and fifty pounds, with the interest accruing thereon and in what manner and in what place the duties can be most conveniently collected." To this subject we have applied our best attention with a view of collecting and aying before the Legislature the most correct information within our reach.

The result of our investigation on this subject has been that the general opinion in this section of the country is that the expenses for building and maintaining the Light House ought to be defrayed by appropriations from the general revenue and not by special duty on the shipping with which our views perfectly coincide, for the reason, 1st, that any such duty would eventually and exclusively fall on the shippers of produce to and the consumers of goods from the Lower Province residing in this small part of the Western District west of the light house. 2nd, that any augmentation of the existing charges on transportation on the Lake, would tend to give a decided advantage to all shippers of produce, east of the Light House, on our own coast, as well as to the Americans, who ship large quantities of Wheat, Pork, Beef, Pearl and Pot Ashes, from the states of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and the North Western parts of the state of New York, to the Lower Province, and of whom no duty could be expected, in any shape, because they do not pass the Light House.

The vouchers for the different items in our subjoined statement, are in possession of Wm. Elliott, Esquire, who will transmit them to Your Excellency, and at the same time give an explanation of the unexpected circumstances, which have prevented us from making this our report in due time.

REPORT

ON THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF William Weller.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament assembled.

Your Select Committee to whom was referred the Petition of William Weller, beg leave to Report:

That at the last Session of the last Parliament the sum of £500 was granted to improve the hill at the River Rouge, and erect a new Bridge over the said river, in this District.

It appears that the Petitioner did on the 23rd of June last enter into a contract with Francis Leys and Charles Fothergill, Esquires, commissioners appointed for the expenditure of the said sum of money, by which he bound himself to complete the same by November last, the consideration of the said contract being £500, the whole amount of the above grant.

The Petitioner sets forth in his Petition aforesaid, that in consequence of his being disappointed in the nature of the soil, it being a hard pan or limestone, through which he had to excavate in prosecuting the work, he entirely failed in completing his agreement within the time specified.

The Petitioner has also handed to Your Committee a detailed statement of the expenses incurred in the work so far as the same is finished, to which Mr. Daniel J. Estey, Deputy Provincial Surveyor has attached his deposition of its correctness, and of a due observance of economy in the expenditure of the money, as he was himself the superintendent of the outlay, under the contractor, which is hereto annexed, (No. 1.)

The Petitioner states that he has expended on this improvement up to the present period, the sum of £500, having received from the Commissioners only £350, of that amount.

Your Committee have also received a Communication from Mr. Estey (No. 2.) corroborative of the statements of the Petitioner, viz:—that the Commissioners before they entered upon the work assigned them by the Legislature, did not expect that the £500 granted would complete the work contemplated, and also a report on the state and nature of the work performed by the contractor Mr. Weller.

Your Committee regret that there is no return before Your Honorable House from the Commissioners themselves of the work performed, as it would have enabled them to form a more correct opinion as to the amount of any further grant necessarily to be made to accomplish the intention of the Legislature.

Your Committee however, under all the circumstances of the case, are well convinced that the work could not have been completed for any thing like the sum granted, and therefore feel themselves warranted in recommending the further grant of £600, to enable the Contractor to finish a work of so much consequence to the public, it being on the only stage route from this city to the Eastward, and in its present condition, (what it has ever been) most dangerous to the lives and properties of persons travelling that road.

All which is respectfully submitted.

APPENDIX

March 10th, 1835.

Sir,
Being the person employed by Mr. Weller to superintend the expenditure of five hundred pounds in building a bridge across the River Rouge and improving the road by making an excavation thro' the hill forming the Eastern Bank of said River, I take the liberty to report to you for the information of the Select Committee the following particulars touching the matter in question.

In June last an application was made to me by the Commissioners to examine and report to them the height and distances from a certain point marked, which I accordingly attended to, and gave a plan and report shewing the height of the hill from a horizontal base to the summit, as also an imaginary line passing through the hill at an angle of five degrees, being the same which is generally used in surveying works of that nature, all of which was submitted to the Commissioners, and it was then taken into consideration by them and fully agreed upon that the sum granted would be altogether insufficient to carry the work thro' at that angle (5°) and therefore an angle of seven degrees was adopted and the contract executed accordingly under an impression that if the whole could not be completed for the sum, it might not be impossible to make a road passable until another application could be made to Parliament, and their sanction obtained for an addition to the former grant; but not at the time, supposing that the work could be permanently concluded the then present allowance.

APPENDIX.

With this object in view the work was commenced according to contract, by raising an embankment from the point mentioned, at an angle of seven degrees, to the river, and a good abutment raised at the Western end of the Bridge, which was contracted for by another person. In the meantime preparations were making to go on with the excavation by removing the trees, stumps, &c.; this part you will easily perceive must progress very slowly as the trees were all pine, the stumps of which cost great labour to remove them, and from the whole having to be done by men alone, as the steepness of the hill would not admit of the use of oxen.

I beg further to state, that much greater difficulties were to be surmounted than could have been supposed from the nature and growth of timber on the land, which would warrant the belief that the whole cut would be thro' a bank of sand and gravel; but on the contrary, at the depth of two feet from the surface we came in contact with a hard marle, which requires the use of great quantity of powder to remove it, thereby with other necessary preparations such as wharfing with logs securing them with binders, bushes, &c. to make the road permanent, rendering the task extremely tedious. Perhaps it will be excusable in me to give an instance which I think will go to prove this statement. In July last, six men, Miners from Cornwall, in England, engaged to remove 500 yards in the following manner: to dig out the clay, keeping it only twelve feet behind them (which is not more than half the labour required to place it on the road) and as it would be their advantage, I have every reason to believe that they used every means in their power to forward their work, and notwithstanding, at the end of six weeks, they had only excavated 480 yards for which they received the sum charged in the account per Edward Manders receipt.

As to the permanency of the work as far as it goes we may judge something from the circumstance of its having stood the test of winter in the very worst state in which it could be left, the operation stopped at a time when we could not secure the earth properly, but although great quantities of water have washed the face of the road through the winter, there is no part which has given away in the least.

I would beg further to state, with regard to the log-abutments on the East side of the stream of which something has been said; that it was found impossible to lay up logs or any other thing so as to secure the earth in the road on the steepest part of the hill in any other way, as the timber could not be got to the spot without the help of a team, which in that case was every moment in danger of being swept down the bank and killed, accordingly after many narrow escapes of the kind we adopted the method which we pursued—leaving the space between the walls sufficiently wide to secure the embankment properly within.

I have been induced to give this Report under a conviction that a great deal has been surmised—and feeling fully that every thing has been done on the part of the contractor within his power.

Firmly believing that this arduous undertaking could not have been in the time and for the sum expended put in a greater state of forwardness by any management.

I have the honor to be

Sir,

Your Ob't. humble Servt.

DANIEL J. ESTRY.

TO THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

January 31st, 1835.

[COPY]

Government House, January 31st, 1835.

SIR :

With reference to the several Addresses of the House of Assembly, respecting the Accounts of the Casual and Territorial Revenue, and certain Returns of Clergy Reserves and Glebe Lots, I am directed by the Lieutenant Governor to request, that you will have the goodness to examine the accompanying documents, which have been forwarded to this office with a view of their being laid before the House, and to point out to the Heads of Departments and Accountants any documents, which do not appear to you to be complete, or to contain all the information required by the Assembly.

His Excellency desires me to add, that you are to consider yourself authorised to transmit to the House of Assembly such details, accounts or vouchers, of every description of Revenue and Expenditure, under the control of the Crown, as the House may deem it expedient to apply for, without further instructions.

I have the honor to be, &c.

WM. ROWAN.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.

P E T I T I O N
OF THE INHABITANTS OF KINGSTON.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

We, His Majesty's dutiful subjects, inhabitants of the Town of Kingston, BEG LEAVE TO STATE,

That the intercourse between this part of the Province, and the opposite portion of the American frontier country has been hitherto kept up principally by means of a road across Wolf Island, and by ferries from the Island to Kingston and Cape Vincent, a means of communication that has ever been found uncertain and liable to frequent delays and obstructions.

That in consequence of the inconvenience of this route, your Petitioners have recently turned their attention to the practicability of opening a direct and uninterrupted water communication with Cape Vincent by a Canal across Wolf Island.

A reference to the map will shew that between Ferguson's Bay, immediately in front of Kingston on the North West side of the Island, and Big Bay or Bayfield's Bay, (as it has lately been called) on the South East side of the Island, there is but a low and narrow strip of land, by cutting a channel thro' which, boats and small steamers might be made to pass and repass with regularity and expedition at inconsiderable cost and with great and growing advantage to the public on both sides of the Boundary Line. In order to determine the cost of such a work, an Engineer of adequate skill and judgment was some time since engaged; and he has explored the course of the proposed Canal and found that it afforded extraordinary facilities. According to his report (of which, your Petitioners have the honor to append a copy and a diagram) the length of excavation required to connect the navigation of Ferguson's and Bayfield's Bays, is about eighty-seven chains, and the nature and quality of the soil are such as to render the excavation easy and cheap. For a Canal of four feet in depth with forty feet of width at the bottom, (locks, of course, being needless) the Engineer has calculated the cost at less than eighteen hundred pounds, currency, and your Petitioners place confidence in the accuracy of this estimate.—Your Petitioners have proposed to themselves the excavation of this work for the common benefit of the public, by raising a general subscription, the funds obtained by which, are to be applied without any pledge or expectation of reimbursement, and they further intend that the Canal, when completed, shall be free and open to the use of all persons, without control, and without the exaction of tolls or dues of any kind.

Your Petitioners have the pleasure to state that in furtherance of this enterprise, the inhabitants of Cape Vincent and its vicinity, on the American frontier, have come forward with laudible alacrity, and offered a subscription very honorable to their liberality and public spirit, and it now rests with the Legislature to afford the projected work its countenance and support, and to ensure its completion by a reasonable appropriation from the public funds.

Your Excellency's Petitioners beg to represent that the utility and advantage to be derived from this Canal would not be limited to the people residing in its immediate neighbourhood on either bank of St. Lawrence. At this prominent point of the frontier communications of Upper Canada, there is, at all seasons of the year, a great deal of travelling; and the inhabitants of the Province from the Eastern boundary upwards as far as Cobourg and Port Hope are more or less interested in the accomplishment of the purposed improvement, in the means of crossing the River from Kingston to Cape Vincent.

Wherefore, your Petitioners humbly request that your Excellency will be pleased to take the subject of this statement into consideration, and recommend to the Legislature the grant of such public aid to your Petitioners as the nature and general benefit of the work in which they are about to engage may appear to justify and require.

And your Excellency's Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

APPENDIX.

Copy of Col. Nickles Report of Survey.

After attending to the duties which I have been called on to perform—I would beg leave to report that I have examined with caution the contemplated canal route, from Ferguson's Bay, on the North shore, to Bayfield's Bay, on the South side of the island, and find the descent to be about three feet from the North to the South side, as will be ascertained by each station through the line—I also find that it is necessary that the line of said canal should be on a curve from West to South, in order to evade a point of land which intervenes, and to save the expense of extra cutting.—I would also remark, that so far as we have been able to test the earth, we find from 2 to 3 feet of clay, after which appears to be sand, and no rock to the depth required.—You will observe from the profile that merely to bring the bottom of the canal upon a level, that from the summit of its termination at the Marsh, it will not admit of four feet water, consequently it is required to be excavated to the depth of four feet or nearly so, that the water may be on a gradual descent from the commencement to its termination, for which I have accordingly made the calculation in the estimation.

From station No. 22, we were not able to examine the march or creek through which the canal is to pass, therefore I am unable to make any accurate calculation as to the distance required to be improved, or the expense, but believe it will not be more expensive than the cutting through the march on the north side of the island, which we examined, and which could be easily made navigable by the aid of a scow or a boat constructed for that purpose.—In fine I cannot discover any serious objection to the completion of the work, as it is in my opinion highly practicable, and can be easily accomplished with the necessary means.—As respects the mode of construction I would recommend that there should be a committee appointed whose duty it shall be to superintend its construction, with the aid of some person who is acquainted with the business, and a practical Engineer, whose expenses will be saved by a close application to its location and mode of construction.—You will also be particular to have the banks left with a slope of at least to an angle of 45 degrees, and as the bottom requires to be 40 feet in width, you will in all cases see that the earth is removed to a sufficient width at top, where there is more than four feet in depth required, that the banks may be secure, and prevent slipping by front, th s calculation as to the expense, is also made per yard, according to the depth and width required, as will be seen on the profile accompanying this.

I am,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

(Signed)

ROBERT NICKLES,

Civil Engineer.

No. 84.

R E P O R T

OF COMMISSIONERS ON KINGSTON HOSPITAL.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C.B., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

The undersigned Commissioners appointed by an Act passed in the second year of His Majesty's reign, "to superintend and manage the erection and completion of an Hospital in or near the town of " Kingston, and to purchase or otherwise obtain, choose, and determine the site thereof."

Most Humbly Report :

That they had confidently hoped on the present occasion to confirm the anticipations hazarded last year by one of their number on their behalf, by certifying that the building assigned to their management was completed and ready for the reception of patients. They regret to say that in consequence of the prevalence during many weeks in the summer of a destructive malady, the progress of the building has been greatly retarded. The contractors for some time found it difficult to procure as many mechanics and labourers as were required for the due performance of their work within the period prescribed by their respective agreements; and the Commissioners sensible of the disheartening circumstances in which those individuals were placed, were not disposed to be severe in exacting what they were bound to perform. The Hospital thus remains incomplete, and unfit as yet, for use. It has been roofed, the floors have been laid in every story, and one coat of plaster has been put on throughout the building. In the ensuing spring, the remainder of the work specified in the contracts will be finished, and the Hospital may then be appropriated to those purposes of benevolence and charity for which it has been designed. The Commissioners venture to think that a more commodious building of the same description, has not been erected at the same cost in any country.

The accounts of their disbursements are herewith submitted by the Commissioners, made up in as complete and clear a manner as circumstances will at present allow. On the due fulfilment of the contracts, regular vouchers for the two largest items in the general statement shall be prepared and laid before your Excellency. It will be seen that the sum total of the public grant and private contributions that have been collected up to this date, amount to.....£3,695 4 4

And that the amount of disbursements is..... 3,309 14 9½

Leaving a balance in hand of.....£ 885 9 6½

This balance will not discharge the claims yet open, and it is not even certain that the amount of unpaid private subscriptions, added to the sum on hand will suffice for this purpose; for in consequence of the great mortality which has occurred since the passing of the statute, as well as of other events, there are many more subscriptions that are irrecoverable, than could possibly have been anticipated at the time when the contracts were made. It may thus happen that notwithstanding the precaution observed by the Commissioners in keeping, as they imagined, far within the limit of their means, they may eventually find themselves responsible for a sum considerably beyond it. In such a case, however, if it should unfortunately occur, they will confidently rely on the public spirit and benevolence of their fellow townsmen for additional contributions to the required extent.

It remains to be stated, that after all the work contracted for shall be completed, the Hospital will not be prepared for the actual reception of patients until the wards appropriated for the sick, and the rooms designed as dormitories for the servants of the establishment shall be furnished with the necessary bedsteads and bedding—the closets with suitable baths—the kitchen and laundry with their appropriate implements—and the several apartments be provided with stoves.

Besides the purposes above stated as necessary to precede the reception of patients, it is desirable that on the opening of the ensuing spring, the grounds adjoining the building should be cleared of rubbish, levelled and put in order, and the yard provided with suitable fences, and the roof and inside of the building painted. And it would add much to the comfort and convenience of the establishment, as well as subserve the purposes of future economy, to sink a cistern, and form an artificial pond contiguous to the building;—both of which purposes could be accomplished at a moderate expense, and would secure a constant supply of water for all ordinary purposes.

To accomplish these improvements, the necessity of which they trust will be apparent to Your Excellency, the Commissioners are of opinion that the further sum of five hundred pounds would be requisite. And as this Hospital has been confessedly patronized by the Legislature as a provincial institution, the Commissioners conceive that the bare allusion to this matter, as well as the expediency of providing annual aid in support of the Hospital, will be sufficient to attract to it the due consideration of the Legislature. Annual contributions will doubtless be made towards the maintenance of this charity by the people of Kingston, as cheerfully as in times past their aid was afforded to institutions of similar character, though less extensive in their scope; but this is a source of revenue and support which alone is manifestly inadequate for an Infirmary designed for the relief of persons taken from a wide range, and embracing not only destitute and diseased emigrants, but also, sick and disabled paupers from the eastern sections of the Province.

On the subject of the management and government of the Hospital on its completion, the Commissioners do not feel it incumbent on them to enter. If not provided for by royal charter, it will probably not be overlooked in the course of legislation, at the approaching session of the provincial parliament.

Kingston, December 31st, 1834.

John Hammell and Benjamin C. Perce, in connexion, and after consulting with our Engineer, it was supposed that the proposal was sufficiently low to warrant our closing the Contract with them, which we did, and soon as the proposals were accepted, the Contractors commenced their operations. The Contract is for widening the embankment from Welland Canal Feeder Bridge to the Head Gate of a Mill Pond, a distance of twenty feet; making a Bridge across said Head Gate, twenty-six feet long and seventeen feet wide; the widening the embankment from said Head Gate to the Welland Canal Ware House, a distance of sixty-two feet, now ten feet to the width of twenty feet on top, from said Ware House to the abutment of the main Bridge, a distance of seventy feet, to be filled in for making the approach to main Bridge good; the main bridge across the River, six hundred feet long and seventeen feet wide, placed upon twelve Piers, six feet wide, filled with stone, with good abutments at either end and approaches, then the embankment from main Bridge to a waste wier on south side of the River, now six feet wide, to be made fifteen feet wide on top, a distance of two thousand feet, to be protected by a stone wall, two feet thick and three feet high, with three layers of timbers under said wall, all supported by Piles, drove sixteen feet in muck and clay, and four feet above water, ten feet apart; at the end of this embankment it was necessary to erect a Bridge over a waste wier of a hundred and fifteen feet; and also a Bridge over what is called Sulphur Creek, a distance of two hundred and fifty-five feet, by seventeen feet wide, built upon Piles—the whole to be completed by the first day of Dec. last past, for the sum of eleven hundred and forty-two pounds; upon this Contract, we are sorry we have to report that the Contractors could not keep their contract good in point of time, in consequence of the prevailing sickness at this place during the summer season, the same cause has operated against the Contractors in increasing the expense of said work; yet, notwithstanding, the main bridge is nearly completed, and that over the waste wier finished, the abutments to the bridge over Sulphur Creek, are laid and filled, and all the materials for completing, except plank, are on the spot. The work, as far as finished, is universally allowed to be done in the best manner. We are sorry to add, that the Contractors are likely to sustain a considerable loss in their contract. We find, also, that it will be necessary to increase the stone wall, from two to three feet thick, and also to add a stick of timber the whole length of the wall, for coping, which is not included in the contract, and there is other extra work which must be done: such as painting the bridge for its preservation, and hand-rails on the embankment, which will make the aggregate sum exceed the sum granted by Parliament, nearly two hundred and fifty pounds.

May it, therefore please your Excellency to recommend to the House of Assembly to grant a further sum of two hundred and fifty pounds for the completion of said work which we confidently expect will be completed by the first day of May next. The sum advanced to the Contractors, and for other necessary expenses is nine hundred and seventy pounds, there yet remains in the Bank, unexpended, two hundred and eighty pounds up to this date.

We have the honor to be Your Excellency's most dutiful and obedient servants,

WILLIAM MYLNE,
ALPHEUS S. ST. JOHN.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

John McDonnell and Thomas Mears.

The Committee upon the Petition of Messrs. John MacDonell and Thomas Mears, of the Ottawa District.

REPORT TO THIS HONORABLE HOUSE,

That they have duly considered the prayer of the Petitioners, and as they are of opinion that your Petitioners acted under the impression that they would be reimbursed by the Legislature, and as the expenditure was made upon the public high way and for the good of the community—and also taking into consideration the character of the Petitioners, are of opinion that they would not advance any claim but a just one.

Your committee have further to report, that upon enquiry for documents, they find that any papers which could throw light upon the subject had been consumed in the Government buildings.

They do therefore recommend the Petition to the favourable consideration of this Honorable House.

quence at the ensuing election for the county of Leeds, no responsibility can rest with the House of Assembly, that body having by so large a majority adopted such a remedy as they deemed most expedient to secure a fair and independent election and return, but that the Executive government must and will be held responsible for any and all unhappy proceedings and results that may occur at the coming election in consequence of the recommendation of the House of Assembly being so utterly disregarded. Taking all things into consideration your committee refrain from recommending an address to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, requesting him to appoint a more distant day for holding the said election, as they have but too good reason to apprehend, from what has already taken place on this subject, that it would be unavailing.

All which is respectfully submitted.

FIRST REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF MARGARET DRUMMOND AND JAMES BRUCE.

The Committee to which was referred the petition of Margaret Drummond, Executrix of the last will and testament of the late Robert Drummond, deceased, and Joseph Bruce, Executor to the said Will—beg leave to make a first Report:—

That during the prevalence of cholera in Kingston, Mr. Drummond fell a victim to the disease—that the well known industry and enterprise of Mr. Drummond had led him to embark in many works, which were not only creditable to himself, but very beneficial to the section of the Province in which his talent, and industry were exercised.

That in the progress of his business, many contracts had been made, and accounts to a large amount were outstanding against the said Robert Drummond at the time of his sudden death.

That upon ascertaining the amount of claims against the estate of the said Robert Drummond, it was discovered by the petitioners that the personal property of every description would be insufficient for the satisfaction of such claims. That the said Robert Drummond died possessed of real estate to a large amount. That the petitioners being desirous of discharging demands against the said estate as soon as possible, and with the least expense, are desirous of disposing of such a portion of the said real estate as may suffice for that purpose—that as doubts have arisen whether the petitioners have by the terms of the said Will, sufficient authority to sell and convey any part of the said real estate, that doubt operates to their disadvantage in three ways—First, if the lands be sold by Sheriff's sale, there must accrue not only the cost of a great number of actions, the delay of satisfying creditors, but the certainty of a lower price than should the same quantity of land be sold by private sale under the authority of the executors, might be obtained.

The committee would therefore respectfully recommend that a bill be passed in accordance with the prayer of the said petition, constituting the petitioners Trustees for the benefit of creditors only,—and under those restrictions contained in an Act passed in the first year of His present Majesty's reign, constituting William Warren Baldwin, Esquire, a Trustee to sell and convey the estate of the late Laurent Quetton de Saint George.

A copy of the said Will, the committee beg leave for the information of the House to append to this report. From the terms of which it appears to your committee, the intention of the Testator evidently was to authorize the petitioners to sell such portion of the real estate as might be sufficient, not only to discharge all just claims against his estate, but also to defray the legacy of £1,000 to his wife.—Yet the committee feel convinced that intention cannot be carried into effect so beneficially for the other legatees, without an Act to remove the doubts which persons wishing to purchase, might probably entertain.

All which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT

ON THE PETITION OF LIEUT. DONALD McDERMID.

To the Honorable the Commons of Upper Canada in Provincial Parliament assembled.

The committee appointed to take into consideration the petition of Donald McDermid of Martintown,

Respectfully report:—

That from the petition and documents accompanying it, as well as from the personal knowledge and observation of some of the members of the committee, it is clearly established that the petitioner was severely wounded in action at the capture of Ogdensburgh—that in consequence of such wound and the disability arising from it his name was entered on the pension list of this Province, and that he enjoyed a pension of twenty pounds a year up to the year 1821, when, as the petitioner states, after a slight examination, by the surgeons appointed to examine and report upon the wounds of the militia pensioners, his name was struck off. That the Petitioner, at the time of this examination and for a considerable period after, was resident in Lower Canada, and in charge of a Government School with a respectable salary and was not in a situation to avail himself of the right given by the Provincial Statute, to appeal from the decision of the surgeons who examined him to the Medical Board, which appeal would necessarily require his personal attendance, and a considerable expenditure of money.—That on retiring from the charge of his school in Lower Canada on a pension (of which he has since been deprived in consequence of his being in the enjoyment of a small annual allowance as a teacher in this Province) he came to this Province with his family to reside; that the period limited for an appeal to the Medical Board having expired, no means have been open to the petitioner of having his name restored to the pension list.—That he has since repeatedly applied to the Imperial Government, as well as to the government of this Province for the pension to which he considers himself entitled as an officer, and also for the allowance of a year's pay on account of his wound, under a regulation of His Majesty's government, but without success, having been referred by the latter to the Provincial Government, which had not the means or the power to grant him redress.—The committee believing these circumstances to be strictly true, consider the case of Mr. McDermid one of peculiar hardship, and therefore strongly recommend it to your Honorable House, that a bill may be passed during the present session to authorise any three surgeons in the Eastern district, duly authorised to practice as surgeons according to the law of this Province, to examine the wound of the petitioner, and to certify as to any disability to earn a livelihood by hard labour arising therefrom, and that in the event of the petitioner being actually disabled his name may be entered by His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor on the pension list of this Province, and that he may receive such arrears of pension as His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor may consider him reasonably entitled to claim.

All which is respectfully submitted.

The committee on contingencies beg leave to make the following report :

That on an application to your committee on behalf of Mr. S. O. Tazewell, requesting that he may be paid for Lithographing two several plans by order of your Honorable House during the present session, they have enquired into the circumstances, and have ascertained that his bill amounts to £25 for the two plans ordered by your Honorable House to be Lithographed, and that he urgently requests that the said bill be paid to relieve him from a pressing necessity.

Your committee therefore respectfully recommend, that the said sum be paid to him without delay, out of the money in the hands of the Honorable the Speaker.

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF

J. Malloy and others.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly of Upper Canada in Parliament assembled.

The select committee to whom was referred the petition of James Malloy, Esq., and others of the Ottawa district,

Report as follows :

That your committee have examined the merits of the petition and the prayer of the petitioners, and find, that a certain water fall called "the Pitch off" about one mile above Chessers mills, on the Petite Nation River, consists of two several Bars of Rock, extending across the river, and near each other, forming a positive barrier and obstruction to the navigation of the river in ascending and descending to and from Chessers mills—causing a portage of several rods during summer and autumn—over which all water crafts and loading have to be taken over or past this water-fall by land, to the great inconvenience of all the inhabitants settled above this place on the river, and its tributary streams—the river itself being deep and navigable for nearly thirty miles, following its course upwards to the High Falls, and that the said inhabitants of the surrounding country above are obliged to go to Chesserville for their milling in the above seasons by water, and have to pass this place for that purpose as well as for all their trading and the public business of that part of the district—and further that this water fall and the small quantity of water falling over it totally obstructs the floating down of lumber during the season of low water—and your committee are moreover fully convinced that these bars across the river operate and have the effect of a dam, and set the water back for a great distance, so as to flow many thousand acres of land that would become valuable for cultivation if this natural obstruction was removed so as to draw off the water in due season.—And in order effectually to remedy the aforesaid inconvenience it is necessary to excavate a channel through the bars of rock of sufficient width and as deep as the bed of the river, which would afford a free navigation to and from Chessers mills ; and for that purpose the petitioners have prayed that your Honorable House will be pleased to grant the sum of three hundred pounds to enable them to make the necessary excavation, which in the opinion of your committee is of the utmost importance both to the improvement and settlement of an extensive country—all which they recommend to the favourable consideration of your Honorable House.

REPORT

OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE KETTLE CREEK HARBOUR

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B., &c. &c. &c.

The Commissioners appointed to superintend the construction of a Harbour at the mouth of Kettle Creek, beg leave to state:—

That having been very explicit in their Report of the 10th of January, 1834, it is only necessary to add in continuation thereof, that after repeated attempts made by the contractors during the spring and part of the summer of last year to excavate the channel to the required depth, and without effect,—the commissioners deemed it expedient to relive them in some measure, by requiring only a depth of ten feet instead of eleven, and in lieu thereof to excavate certain portions within the basin to afford greater convenience to the shipping—also to take down the angle on the Western Pier to the waters level in order to do away with the heavy cross seas formed by winds from the eastward.

This had the desired effect as to the sea, it did not however prevent the deposit of sand opposite the end of the old Eastern Pier head.

The contractors made some progress in the basin, but meeting with the same obstacle as in the excavation of the channel, they have not as yet been able to complete the undertaking.

We present Your Excellency with a statement of the expenditures, and feel annoyed that the result has not proved more beneficial.

Lastly, we beg leave to call your attention to the excessive high rates of toll imposed, when compared with those exacted at other harbours on either lake—the direct tendency of which is to force the produce of the country into other more hazardous but less expensive channels.

Your obedient servant,

JAMES HAMILTON,
President K. C. Harbour Commission.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON WINDSOR HARBOUR.

In the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly in Provincial Parliament assembled.

The Select Committee to whom were referred the message of His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, together with the plan and report of the Commissioners who surveyed the Harbour of the town of Windsor in the township of Whitby, in the Home District, beg leave to report:

That at the last session of the last Parliament, a resolution was adopted authorising the survey of this Harbour, and a report and plan of survey was accordingly made agreeably to the same.

Your Committee are happy to find that it is reported by the Commissioners that Big Bay, otherwise Windsor Bay, possesses facilities and good natural properties for forming a Harbour, that can command in the present low state of the lake waters seven feet in the channel of its bar. Within the bar is a large expanse of water varying in depth from five to twelve feet (of this latter depth however there is very little space) the whole forming an irregular estuary, comprising a surface of about two hundred acres in extent. A point of land projects at the entrance of the bay from the East and from the West, in a Westerly and Easterly direction, and from these points shoals extend in the same directions; the Westernmost, which is by far the largest stretching over towards the East side, and that from the East towards the West.—These form the bar, and between them on the East side of the bay, is the channel or best water, carrying at the present low state of the lake about seven feet. Presuming the best means of forming this harbour to be, to follow the line marked out by nature for it, and that piers extended from the projecting points of land along the top of each shoal until they meet the channel, would nearly land lock an area of water of about two hundred acres in extent, capable in any part from the nature of the bottom, of being dredged to a depth to suit the convenience of large vessels, whilst smaller ones may choose their water any where from the shore to five and six feet. The natural features of Big-Bay present the ground work for constructing a better artificial harbour than any that has yet been made on the British side of Lake Ontario, if we except Burlington Bay. Vessels would not have to lie surging alongside of piers exposed to the agitation of the Lake, but could run in, come to an anchor, or land along side of a wharf in a basin well sheltered from every wind. It is observed that a current sets in and out of the present estuary of Big Bay according to the prevailing winds, and that the water rises and falls at periods to the extent of 2½ feet.—This current will be much more felt when the channel shall be contracted by piers, and will undoubtedly serve to deepen it; but it must be expected as the natural consequence of the current, that a small bar will form within and without the entrance. The expense of making this harbour is considerable, but when made, it will be a more efficient one than any between Toronto and Kingston.

Your Committee perceive that according to the estimate, the expense of the erection of the said bay into an artificial harbour would be considerable. They recommend two plans:—the one and the first, by piers sunk, filled with stones amounting to £9420 13 9. The second estimate is by driving piles and constructing the piers on them as a base, filling them in also with stone, by which there would be a saving of nearly £2,000; the total amount of which estimate is £7450 5. Which of the plans it is most reasonable to adopt, Your Committee are unable to judge, but they believe a cheaper construction still might be had, and would therefore recommend that any Commissioners appointed by Your Honorable House for the superintendance of the construction of this Harbour (if this important and necessary work is entertained) should be instructed to employ some competent and practical Engineer to survey the same and report for their information the most practicable means of ensuring a cheap, permanent and commodious harbour.

Your Committee viewing the increase of wealth and population of this part of the country in which this bay is situated, and the want of such harbour by an extensive Northern settlement, feel no hesitation in recommending this improvement to the favorable consideration of Your Honorable House; they also feel justified in stating that as that part of the Province has greatly increased in wealth within the few last years, and as this increase is still progressing, the accomplishment of the undertaking with pecuniary advantage may be safely looked for.

Your Committee would not only recommend this from an isolated advantage the vicinity might attain by making an artificial harbour in that part of the Lake, but the undeniable gain the Province would require to its shipping interest and commerce generally, as frequently, in stormy weather, much loss of property and life is sustained from the want of a safe harbour between the port of this City and Presquise the only one considered in any degree safe between this and that of Kingston.

All which is respectfully submitted,

CONDITIONS PROPOSED BY HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT IN SETTLING EMIGRANTS IN BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

British Provinces in North America.

Liberal encouragement by His Majesty's government to settlers inclined to proceed from Great Britain and Ireland, and provision by vessels, &c. for their passage to Quebec with their families.

It is the intention of His Majesty's government to encourage settlers, to proceed from Great Britain and Ireland, to the British Provinces in North America, and for this purpose a certain number of vessels will be appropriated for the conveyance of such persons as may be properly recommended, together with their wives and children to Quebec, to which port only the conveyance of settlers free of expense, with other advantages, will be limited during the year.—Lands will be granted to them either in Upper or in Lower Canada, in which extent is comprehended a choice of climate and of soil adapted for every branch of cultivation.

The encouragement and advantages intended to be afforded to settlers will be, as follows:—

A passage and provisions during the voyage will be furnished by government, and on their arrival in the colony, a grant of one hundred acres of land will be secured to each family, of which they will be put immediately in possession, and all their male children actually residing in the Province, will be entitled on attaining the age of twenty-one years, to a similar grant of one hundred acres each.

APPENDIX.

For the first six or eight months, as it may be found necessary after their arrival, (in order to enable the settlers to establish themselves upon their respective grants, and to clear and to cultivate a portion of the land), they will be allowed rations from the public stores, and in case from unforeseen events it should be found requisite, further aid in this respect may be afforded according to the circumstances of the case, by issuing rations for a limited period, at a price under prime cost.

Axes and other necessary implements will also be furnished to them, under certain regulations, at a fixed price, not exceeding half the prime cost.

Should any number of families proceeding from the same part of the United Kingdom, or possessing any joint stock or funds, be desirous of settling in the same neighborhood in Canada, care will be taken to allot them the lands, as nearly as possible, contiguous to each other; and a sufficient portion of land will be appropriated in the midst of such settlers for a church, and for the maintenance of a clergyman, and a school-master; and in case a sufficient number of settlers so united should be accompanied from the United Kingdom by a person of either of the above functions, who possesses their confidence, and can be well recommended, and who shall be approved of by government, a salary will be provided of one hundred pounds per annum to such Minister, and fifty pounds per annum to the school-master, for such period as shall afterwards be specified.

Persons who may be allowed to proceed to Canada as settlers from Scotland, must embark in the month of April, from such port or ports in the Clyde, as shall be noticed in a future advertisement, where vessels will be ready to receive those for whom the necessary accommodation will be provided.

In order to prevent persons from making an unwarranted and improper use of the liberality of government, it will be required that every person embarking for Quebec, should at the time of embarkation deposit in the hands of the government Agent, the following sum.

Every male person above sixteen years of age, sixteen pounds sterling—every woman, being the wife of any person so embarking, two guineas;—children under sixteen years of age, will be conveyed free of expense;—and whatever sums may be so paid by them will be repaid to them or their representatives in Canada, at the end of two years from the date of their embarkation, upon its being ascertained that they are settled on the grant of land allotted to them.

John Campbell, Esquire, writer to His Majesty's signet, Abercrombie place, Edinburgh, is appointed by government, Commissioner and general Agent in Scotland for this business, to whom communications may be made.

As the time of embarkation of settlers is limited; such as are at a distance, and who wish to embrace the present opportunity of settling in British America, will do well to send by post their proposals and certificates without any delay. Those testimonials must certify the general good character of applicants—their professions—former pursuits—whether married or widowers—the number of their children, distinguishing male and female—and the ages of all.—These must be obtained either from justices of the peace, clergymen, or elders of the parish, or other respectable persons.

It is recommended that the utmost care be taken by those who grant certificates, that they are satisfied from personal knowledge of the facts contained in the representation of the circumstances.

SIR,

I herewith transmit to you the copy of a letter from Mr. Campbell, the agent employed by government in arranging the emigration of 1815 and 1816, relative to some difficulty which exists in fulfilling the terms under which the settlers proceeded, on the part of the colonial government of Upper Canada.

As Mr. Campbell's statement is strictly correct, and as copies of the terms together with nominal lists on the subject, were at the time transmitted to the Governor General, a reference to which will ob-

SIR,

His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief will have communicated to you the necessary instructions for the reduction of the corps specified in the margin, and for making such of the individuals composing them as may be willing to settle in North America, the offers of land and other encouragements, which were held out to them during the war with the United States, as the best testimony of the sense, which His Majesty's government entertains of their faithful services.

You will therefore, with respect to the officers and men, who may be willing to accept of grants of land in the Province, carry into effect the instructions conveyed to Sir George Provost, and Sir Gordon Drummond, in my letters of 12th July and 15th September, 1814, and 20th of March and 3rd June 1815, of which copies and extracts are enclosed for your information and guidance, keeping always in mind, that the grants of land are not to exceed the proportions specified in Sir Gordon Drummond's letter, No. 61, of 23rd September, 1815, and that those are to be made in conformity with the regulations proposed in Sir Gordon Drummond's previous correspondence and approval from hence.

Explanations of the conditions for settling Emigrants in the British North American Colonies.

Copy.

By the authority of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and communicated by the right honorable Earl Bathurst, one of the principal Secretaries of State.

CANADA.

Explanation of the conditions for settlers in Upper and Lower Canada, already published, dated 22nd February last.

The commissioner in the agency for government has received a vast number of letters, requesting information in regard to the terms that have been published for applicants to be settlers in Canada.

It has been impossible to give answers to all these letters, consistently with the necessary attention to other branches of this business, especially as the time of embarkation fixed by government (i. e. in April in the Clyde) fast approaches.

Many of the questions put, may be easily solved, by an attentive re-perusal of these terms or by having recourse to intelligent neighbours, and are to be found in all the newspapers published in Scotland for several weeks back, and they have been already transmitted for publicity to every clergyman, and will be immediately pasted upon every post office throughout Scotland. They will also be seen or delivered at the office in Abercromby Place, Edinburgh, and at Mr. Duncan's, printer to the University, Morison's Court, Glasgow.

It cannot be too much impressed on the minds of applicants, nor too often enforced by those with whom they advise, that the wishes and intentions of His Majesty's Government are directed, not to an increase of emigration from this part of the United Kingdom, but to divert to the British Provinces in North America the surplus population which would otherwise proceed to the United States. Accordingly, no solicitation whatever has been used by this office to induce persons or families to go to Canada.

The agent for the government, agreeably to the instructions received, has uniformly abstained from exciting any desire for leaving Scotland that did not before exist, and has repeatedly pointed out, especially to the more ignorant of the persons applying, every circumstance of information, to prevent misunderstanding and to preclude the possibility of disappointment.

The following particulars published by authority of His Majesty's Government, will serve as an explanation of the terms offered to settlers, properly recommended, and will supersede the necessity of answering these letters, and of many verbal enquiries.

APPENDIX.

LANDS.

1. The Settlers shall have the option as to the Province, whether of Upper or Lower Canada, but the precise spot must be regulated by the Governor of the colony.
2. The grants of land will be made under the same regulations as all grants of land in Canada are made. No new ones will be imposed.
3. The grant will be made on their arrival, by Deed, free of expense, and will as all other grants do, revert to the Crown, on being abandoned, or not cultivated by the settlers.
4. In answer to a query which has been frequently put, whether government sell lands in Canada?—It will be noticed that there is no difficulty in making purchases in Canada, or in obtaining leases of Crown Lands to any extent. Persons with capital, who take out labourers, will receive larger grants, proportioned to their capital and their means of cultivation.

DEPOSIT.

5. The deposit of £16 for persons above the age of sixteen, and two guineas for wives, &c., is indispensable. No security in lieu of money can be taken. This is intended both as a pledge that the settlers shall perform the conditions on their part, and to prevent persons from availing themselves of a passage to the United States. It also prevents persons of bad character from obtruding themselves among respectable settlers.

CERTIFICATES.

6. Applicants are desired to be particular in the certificates they lodge, in the terms of the paper formerly published, of 22d February last.—General good character—their occupation—former pursuits, if changed—whether married, unmarried, or widowers—the number of their children or grand-children, distinguishing male and female, the ages of all.
7. Recourse must be had to parish registers for proof of marriages and births, or where this cannot be obtained, other satisfactory evidence. Application may be made for this purpose to magistrates, clergymen, elders of the parish, schoolmasters, or other respectable persons with a reference to persons here or at Glasgow, when necessary.
8. It will be necessary that those who have made up their minds to proceed to Quebec, shall immediately produce the necessary certificates, and lodge their deposit, in order that when the number is filled up for this season, the public may be apprised, to prevent disappointment, especially to those at a distance.

LIMITATION OF NUMBERS.

9. His Majesty's Government have judged it expedient to limit the number to be provided with passages from Scotland to Canada, for this season to 2000 persons of the age of 16 and upwards, with a proportion of children.

ACCOMMODATION ON THE PASSAGE.

10. The freight or charge for children above 16 and under 21, to be paid for as grown persons.
11. Bedding and other accommodation will be provided for each settler, the same as troops embarked for Canada receive.
12. If surgeons are required for the voyage they will be provided by the Transport Board.
13. If settlers shall export articles liable to export duties here, or import duties in Canada, they cannot be exempted from the usual custom-house regulations.
14. No travelling expense paid to Glasgow. From thence the settlers will be conveyed in small vessels to the transport vessels.
15. Settlers will be carried out in transports, under the same regulations as those under which troops are carried out, two tons being allowed per man.
16. The necessary tonnage will be in the Clyde in April, and proceed to Quebec as soon after as circumstances will permit.
17. In regard to pensions of sergeants, privates, &c. measures will be taken by government for continuing their pensions and for their payment in Canada.

OTHER PARTICULARS.

18. As to single men, (for instance two brothers,) who may be under or above, 21 years of age, they go out as independent settlers, i. e. each brother, above 21 years old, will have a grant of 100 acres. If one brother only is above that age, he may take out his brother, who will, on attaining the age, have a similar grant of land given under similar conditions.
19. A young man, under or above 21, may take out his sister on the same terms as a wife, as specified in the regulations, upon depositing two guineas, but not more than one sister.
20. The settlers will be forwarded as troops are forwarded, from Quebec to their place of residence, either on foot or otherwise, as may appear most expedient to the Governor.
21. Any settlers wishing to settle together will be permitted to do so, on stating their intentions previous to sailing. Each settler above 21, will, whether single or in company with others, have 100 acres as stated in the conditions.
22. Single women will not be permitted to proceed as settlers, unless they are daughters of a settler, or, as above mentioned, the sister of a settler.
23. No encouragement will be given to widows, with families or without; but her children may go out as independent settlers upon the footing already stated.
24. A wife may follow her husband at a future embarkation, in case such shall take place, upon her depositing two guineas.
25. Grand-children will be permitted to go out, and will receive the same encouragement as children accompanied by their parents, on their obtaining the age of 21.
26. The term prime cost as relative to implements and rations, is to be understood to be what the articles cost in this country, (Great Britain) and is therefore sterling money.
27. All persons above 16 must make the deposits required, whether servants or others.

28. His Majesty's Government are to extend the bounty mentioned in the terms already published for clergymen, pastors and schoolmasters, without any distinction of religious sect, and they will each be entitled to 100 acres. They must each deposit the same money as the common settlers.

29. The assistance required in building their churches, chapels, houses, school-houses, &c., or inclosures, if such be required, must be given by the settlers who accompany them.

30. In answer to a query put—whether government give arms and ammunition to settlers, or any part of them, for protecting themselves?—They will be protected, as all other settlers are; but there is no necessity, from the nature of the place, for arming individuals, except in case of actual war; and in regard to arms for private use, every man may, in this, exercise his own discretion, as in other British dominions.

31. Rations will be allowed, free of any charge or deduction, for a limited time, as per condition of 22nd February last. The Governor will exercise a discretion afterwards on this point, according to the circumstances of the case.

32. It is not intended to encourage other Mechanics than those who may be useful in agriculture, or in making a first settlement, such as Carpenters, Masons, Bricklayers, Smiths &c.

No person whatever in the Highlands, or Hebrides, or elsewhere, have any delegated authority from the Government Agent, to induce persons to become settlers in Canada.

Executive Council Office, Toronto, 21st March, 1835.

Extracts of a despatch from Lord Bathurst, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to Lieutenant General Sir Gordon Drummond, dated

Downing Street, 20th March, 1815

"The restoration of peace with the United States having rendered it necessary to despatch from this country to Canada, a considerable amount of Transport Tonnage for the purpose of removing some part of the Force now serving in Canada, His Majesty's Government have determined to give during the present year, free passages to such persons as may be desirous of proceeding with their families to Quebec, as permanent settlers in the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada."

"I enclose for your information, a memorandum of the conditions, under which such persons will be permitted to proceed."

"The whole number is not expected in any case to exceed 4000, and it is expected, that the ships will leave this country in the course of the next month; you will not fail to make the necessary preparation for the reception and establishment of the settlers immediately on their arrival at Quebec, it being important in every point of view that they should be placed in the Lands allotted to them at as early a period as possible."

"From the communication which I have had with Mr. Bouchette the Surveyor General of Canada, I am induced to recommend, that those settlers, who prefer an establishment in the Lower Province should be placed in those townships which lie to the Southward of Quebec, between the River St. Lawrence and the parallel of 45° of Latitude, taking care at the same time, that no settlements are made on any portion of Territory, to which the right of His Majesty has not been admitted as indisputable.—As however a considerable portion of the persons about to proceed to Canada may prefer a settlement in the Upper Province, it will be for you to decide in what part of the Province they can be settled, with the least expense to Government and the greatest advantage to themselves as well as to the Province."

"As the extent of the grant promised to each settler proceeding from this country is only 100 Acres, it is the pleasure of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, that after the receipt of this despatch all grants of land to common applicants in Canada, should be limited to 100 acres, instead of 200 as has been heretofore the practice."

The petition of the Emigrants and discharged Soldiers of the Perth Military Settlement;

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your petitioners feel grateful for Your Excellency's gracious attention to their petition of the 18th June last, on the subject of their claim for a grant of land for their sons.—That your petitioners are subjects of our gracious Sovereign by birth-right, and (from principle) have never joined in those popular clamours, which at present and for some time, have agitated the public mind in this Province.

That from experience and principle, petitioners have an unbounded confidence in the generosity and integrity of their gracious King and government, and on this ground they cannot doubt the grant of land, (as they conceive by the order of the 18th July, 1818) they had every reason to expect.

That petitioners regret, that the honorable the Executive Council do not regard the order from the Quarter Master General's Department, as a sufficient authority to grant the land, although your petitioners were located by that department.

That petitioners do not wish to approach your Excellency with popular expressions of loyalty, as most of them bear on their bodies, those marks received in the field, which are the best proofs.

Sundry Reports.

APPENDIX.

That petitioners have been assisted by their children in wading through great hardships and privations, at and since the formation of this settlement, and were greatly encouraged by the prospect of obtaining land for their sons.

That should Your Excellency not accede to their application, they humbly request Your Excellency will be graciously pleased to forward their petition to the right honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, with such observations as your Excellency may deem proper; which will add to the many meritorious acts of your Excellency's life.

All which is humbly submitted, and petitioners will pray.

MEMORANDUMS.

First—The sons of emigrants and discharged soldiers, located at the settlement, as they arrive at age, will be recommended for the usual indulgence of land, &c. to Head Quarters, when an authority for their being received, will be transmitted in return.

Second—Edward Morton to be located for town lot No. 2, south side Craig street.

Secretary and Store-keeper Daverne, to be located either for town lot No. 4, on the south side De Watteville street,—town lot No. 4, on the north side of Brock street, as a matter of indulgence and not as a claim.

John McNee, emigrant from Scotland, town lot No. 5, north side De Watteville street.

John Ritchie, emigrant from Scotland, town lot No. 2, south end of the town, forming a continuation of the Scotch line.

Third—All emigrants and discharged soldiers in the settlement, must be directed by public notice, that when they may have applications to prefer to Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, they are to give them in at the Superintendent's office, to be forwarded through the Secretary, who will accordingly transmit them with his report on each case.

Fourth—The location authority in favor of Lieutenant Dalgatty, half-pay, 89th Regiment, dated August 5th, 1817, is cancelled.

DOWNING STREET, 4th July, 1832.

SIR,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your despatch of the 24th February last, inclosing the petition of certain emigrants and discharged soldiers settled at Perth, in which they state, that they were led to believe, from a document transmitted to them in 1818, by the Deputy Quarter Master General at Quebec, that their sons would be recommended for free grants of land, on their being able to cultivate their respective allotments.

I have to acquaint you in reply, that the indulgence to which the petitioners refer, was never held out to them by this Department, or sanctioned by His Majesty's government, and I am, therefore, to desire, that you will acquaint the petitioners, that it is impossible to comply with their request, and that they can only acquire an additional quantity of land for their children by purchasing it according to the established regulations.

At a Council held at York, in the Executive Council Chamber, on Saturday the 4th Nov. 1815 :

PRESENT :

His Excellency, FRANCIS GORE, Esquire, Lieutenant Governor.
 The Honorable THOMAS SCOTT, Chief Justice.
 The Honorable WILLIAM DUMMER POWELL.
 The Honorable SAMUEL SMITH.
 The Honorable and Reverend Doctor JOHN STRACHAN.

His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor informed the Board, that His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, in behalf of His Majesty, had been pleased to authorise and direct the location and grant of lands in Upper and Lower Canada to certain emigrants from Europe and reduced soldiers.

That the preliminary measures to carry into effect His Majesty's pleasure, in transporting, victualing and providing the settlers with tools and implements of husbandry, were so intimately connected with the several departments of the military command, that all the arrangements, except in what related to the Surveyor General's department, had hitherto been made without the participation of the Civil Government.

That His Excellency had had a personal conference on the subject with Sir Sydney Beckwith, Quarter-master General of the Forces in Canada, from which had resulted the fullest conviction to His Excellency's mind, that it would be expedient and best tend to further the Royal intentions, that all the previous steps to the actual grant of the land, should continue to be directed by the Commander of the Forces and the agents appointed by him.

That to favor such an arrangement, orders would be given to the Surveyor General to report from time to time, vacant and grantable locations to satisfy the requisitions of the superintendent of those settlers, which being approved by His Excellency in Council would be subjected to his disposition.

That His Majesty had been pleased to associate the Executive Council to the trust of granting the waste lands of the Crown; he invited the board to concur in an act of government which should sanction the proposed arrangement and be a pledge to the settler for the future grant in the terms of the Royal Instruction.

Whereupon it is ordered, that the Surveyor General do from time to time, report for settlement, such vacant and grantable lots, not excepting Crown Reserves, as may be required for the accommodation of the emigrants and reduced soldiers referred to in His Excellency's communication; and that upon the confirmed report of location by the authorised agent, and his subsequent certificate of actual settlement and improvement in the terms of the Royal Instruction, the present order be sufficient warrant in each case to the Surveyor General to issue his description and to the Attorney General to prepare his fiat for the patent.

As there may be applications before the Council for leases of Crown Reserves and from various circumstances settlers may be found on lots supposed by the Surveyor General to be vacant, it will be desirable that the superintendent and agents should be cautioned to forbear location on any lot actually occupied until report shall be made to the Executive Government and its special sanction obtained.

CASTLE OF ST. LEWIS,
Quebec, 1st December, 1830.

SIR,

I have the honor of transmitting to you herewith a copy of a paper, which has been addressed to me by the Chief Justice and the Puisne Judges of the District of Montreal and Lower Canada, pointing out some of the evil consequences which result from the want of a line of Boundary, duly and officially determined, between the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, as exhibited in a case which has been brought before them for decision.

I am sure you will readily concur with me in opinion, that it is highly important this question of the Boundary should be set at rest by the adoption of some arrangement which shall have for its object, to determine the precise line of division between the Provinces, an object, the importance of which must daily increase with the increasing value of land in that part of the country.

I am not exactly informed with regard to the steps which may have been taken hitherto to ascertain the point in question, but the fact which is now apparent, that it has never been officially decided, leaves it open for the adoption of such measures as may be judged necessary without reference to former proceedings.

It is with this view that I have now the honor of addressing you, and I would propose that the Surveyor General of each Province, accompanied by a third person, (to be named by them conjointly) in the character of Umpire, should be directed to proceed, early in the spring of next year, to the frontier, there to decide the precise line of Boundary; having done which, two plans, duly certified as being exactly similar, should be made out and deposited, one in the office of each of the Surveyors respectively.

I shall be glad to have the honor of receiving any communication you may be pleased to address to

MY LORD,

I have the honor to state, in reply to Your Lordship's communication of the 1st instant, that the importance of settling definitely the Boundary between the two Provinces, cannot, I think, be more strongly pointed out than in the representation of the Judges of the District of Montreal.—Without reference to the consideration given to the subject on various occasions by the government of Upper Canada, I beg leave to express my concurrence in the measure proposed by Your Lordship for the immediate appointment of Commissioners to ascertain the true Boundary line; but to suggest, that instead of naming an arbitrator, it might prove more satisfactory to the parties concerned, to direct the Surveyors General to transmit their reports to the Executive Council of both Provinces; and should either of the Councils, after the examination of their statements, still entertain a doubt of the correctness of the lines drawn, to refer the question to the King in Council.

The boundary having been fixed by a Royal Proclamation, it is now only intended by appointing Commissioners, to ascertain the exact line specified in that Instrument. I have no doubt therefore of the competency of the Executive government of this Province to make such arrangements as may be required to correct the errors of the surveyors, who were employed on the original disputed survey; and I shall lose no time in appointing three Commissioners to act in conjunction with those named by Your Lordship, with a view of laying their decision before the Legislature of this Province.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Select Committee to whom were referred the Petitions of William Jackson, of John Ardiel, and of Levi Lewis, all of the Talbot Settlement, London District, beg leave to submit their 2nd Report.

That they have obtained what information they are at present able in relation to the above Petitions, and beg leave to present the same to Your Honorable House.

[COPY.]

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein,
IN COUNCIL.

The Petition of William Jackson, son of Robin Jackson of London, Yeoman, Most Humbly Sheweth—

That Petitioner's father emigrated from Ireland to this Province in the year 1819, and was located by the Honorable Colonel Talbot in the Autumn of the same year, on a Lot of Land in the Township of London.

That Petitioner being the eldest son of his father and having obtained the age of 17 years, Colonel Talbot in the year 1823, allowed him to locate 100 acres of Land upon which he made considerable improvements, and which he retained in his possession until last May, when Colonel Talbot in consequence of having heard that Petitioner and his father had signed the petition commonly called the Grievance Petition, gave the said Lot to a young man named Canaday.

That Petitioner with his father on hearing of this Report went to Edward Allan Talbot Esq. and offered to make oath before him, that they had never signed or caused to be signed the said Petition, and further that they never saw it.

That Mr. Talbot on being informed by Petitioner, that he had reason to believe that James Parkinson Esq. was the person who gave this information to Colonel Talbot, advised Petitioner to make oath before Mr. Parkinson, that Petitioner acting in accordance with this advice, did with his father make oath as above before Mr. Parkinson, and took the Affidavit as signed by Mr. Parkinson to Colonel Talbot with the hope that the Colonel would on being undeceived restore to Petitioner his Land.

Petitioner however regrets to state to Your Excellency, that he received nothing but abuse from Colonel Talbot, was called by him a REBEL, and refused even a patient hearing in defence of his conduct and loyalty.

Petitioner, regarding as he does his character as a loyal man of much more consequence than even the possession of his property, is induced to transmit to Your Excellency the enclosed letters in order to shew that if he is guilty of disloyalty or disaffection he has not walked in the path marked out for him by his aged Father.

Petitioner, if Your Excellency should think proper to take his cause into consideration, and to restore to him his Land, will at any time required by Your Excellency transmit to the Government Office the most indubitable proofs, that not only have he and his Father ever been loyal subjects, but that all his connections, as well in this Country as in their native land had always been regarded as such.

Petitioner's father, now an old man, has got a wife and ten children to support from the proceeds of a single 100 acres of land, and being now thirteen years in the Province after having previously served as a Sergeant for upwards of fifteen years in the Armagh Yeomanry, he fondly hopes that Your Excellency will not regard his son as an unfit object to partake of 100 Acres of the Royal bounty of his beloved Sovereign.

Petitioner sees around him many, very many young men, the sons of American citizens, enjoying a share of that bounty; and without wishing to see them deprived of their Lands, whatever may be their political feelings, he fancies that if loyalty to his King, and an unshaken attachment to our glorious Constitution, are any recommendation, that he has a stronger claim to be restored to that Land, which he has many years esteemed as his own, and for which he has, ever since he got it, paid Taxes and done statute labor, than those persons have to theirs, who care little about King or Constitution.

Should Your Excellency favourably regard his claim, it will cheer the hearts of a numerous family and prevent the grey hairs of his aged Parents from descending with sorrow to the grave. And he will himself as in duty bound ever pray.

WILLIAM JACKSON.

APPENDIX.

London, 19th October, 1832.

SIR :

I had the honor to receive your letter of the 26th September, informing me that my Petition had been referred to the Honorable Colonel Talbot, and that the Colonel replied that I had been entered for 100 Acres about TWELVE YEARS ago, and that having never occupied or improved the Land, he located it to another Emigrant last spring. I thank His Excellency for the disposition which he has on this as on all other occasions evinced to do justice to a complaining party, and I feel it due to His Excellency to give him an opportunity of judging fairly and impartially between me and the Honorable Colonel Talbot; and as I can prove to the satisfaction of the Lieutenant Governor, that I have been only entered for the Land for about nine years, and that I have both occupied and improved a considerable portion of it, as will appear manifest from the fact of the present Locatee having caused my improvements to be surveyed and offered me payment for them. Colonel Talbot also says that he gave the land to another Emigrant; but the person to whom he gave the land is a lad of about nineteen years of age, who has resided in London in the house of his father for the last thirteen years.

If His Excellency will do me the justice as I have no doubt he will, to cause an enquiry to be made into this affair, I shall most cheerfully relinquish all claim which I may have to the Lot, should I fail satisfactorily to establish the facts to which I have adverted.

I am most desirous that His Majesty's Government should be put in full possession of all the facts in relation to the manner in which I have been deprived of my Lands—the circumstances of my case are so fully detailed in my Petition to His Excellency, that it becomes only necessary for me to transmit to you the enclosed documents in order that they may accompany my Petition to be laid before His Majesty.

Mr. ROBERT JACKSON, called in and examined,

Says, that he moved into Westminster in the summer of 1819, with his son William Jackson the Petitioner, who was located by the Honorable Colonel Talbot on the South half of Lot Number 24 in the 9th Concession of the Township of London, from which time, witness paid Taxes and did the statute labor for said lot, for eight or nine years, the said William occasionally laboring on the lot until he had five acres chopped down, and the road chopped open across the end of the Road except a marsh at each end of the Road at the corners of the lot. Witness commencing to make a farm out of a wild lot of land and the said William being the eldest son, was required to stop at home with his father occasionally working on this lot in the same manner as improvements were made on other lots in the Township, where the settlers being poor, the improvements on the land progressed slowly; that in 1832 the Honorable Colonel Talbot did take the said half lot from the Petitioner and gave it to a lad under age, at the time said to be about nineteen years of age, who was in the Province previous to the witness; that the occupant got a deputy Surveyor to measure the ground chopped, and two more to appraise the same—the Surveyor reported that five acres had been chopped, and yet the petitioner has never received one shilling for the lot or for the improvements he made on the same.

Witness believes that the Honorable Colonel Talbot's reason for taking the Petitioner's only hundred acres of land from him, was, his having heard a report that petitioner had signed a petition called the "Grievance Petition," and to remove this prejudice (unfounded in fact) from the mind of the Honorable Colonel Talbot, Witness took his own and Petitioner's Affidavit, that they had neither of them signed said petition, made before a magistrate in the Township of London to the Honorable Colonel Talbot, who threw the Affidavit on the floor, and told witness that he was a Methodist Rebel, and that witness, nor one of his family should ever have an acre more of Land in the Province; which is further substantiated by the Affidavit of Levi Lewis, (whose Affidavit is annexed:) at which time witness presented the Honorable Colonel Talbot with a letter from the Reverend Mr. Roswell and a recommendation from William Robinson Esq. praying that the sons of witness might be allowed to settle on some of the village lots in the town of London, as witness with five sons had only one hundred acres, but this was peremptorily refused.

Witness two years since engaged Colonel Burwell to ask the Honorable Colonel Talbot to grant witness one vacant Town lot in London for his son, since the former lands had been taken from him, but Colonel Burwell told witness that the Honorable Colonel Talbot told him that he would not give witness any land.

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of Upper Canada. &c. &c. &c.

The Petition of John Ardiel of the Township of London, humbly sheweth, that your petitioner having about thirteen years ago located a lot of land in the said Township by direction of Colonel Talbot, and having cleared part of it, paid taxes for it, and looked forward with hope to its being his home, was unjustly and illegally deprived of it by direction of the aforementioned Colonel Talbot, who gave it to another; and thus been inhumanly and capriciously turned adrift, he begs to solicit redress from your Excellency.

That your Excellency, may be informed of the unjust manner in which your humble petitioner has been treated, he submits the following statement; and any proofs necessary to substantiate them will be promptly forwarded when required.

4 Report on Petitions of William Jackson and others.

APPENDIX.

Your Petitioner emigrated from Ireland in the year 1819, with his aged father and mother and their large family. Your Petitioner and his father got from Colonel Talbot a 200 acre lot of land (100 for each). His father not being able to do much work, and the very existence of his helpless family, depending in a great degree on the exertions of Your Petitioner, he resolved that he would assist his father, thinking that while they worked together, even on the one part of the land, they would not be dispossessed. They cleared a field along the Concession line, some of which was on each 100 acres, if the lot were divided lengthways. This field being wet or swampy and unfit for tillage, they commenced clearing farther back, on another part of the lot fitter for that purpose, and more contiguous to water. There they built a house and barn, and cleared 25 acres under the impression, that they had now an improvement on each 100 acres, whether divided crossways or lengthways and even a building on each. It can be seen by the Affidavits of two of their neighbors, that they (your petitioner's neighbors,) as well as themselves believed that even part of the late improvement was on each hundred. Besides your Petitioner cleared part of his concession line and partially cleared the rest and chopped some more land.

By this time through your petitioner's unwearied exertions &c. his father was enabled to raise food for his family, but they were in the greatest need of clothing and other necessaries. Your petitioner, in order to procure them, went to the Welland Canal to earn money. No money could be got for his labor nearer home. He remitted to his father his earnings, and intended returning in a few months; but he sickened and had to remain at the Canal longer than he wished or anticipated. While thus absent on an errand of filial and fraternal affection, and pressed down with affliction, a man named William Armitage applied to Colonel Talbot for your petitioner's land, telling the Colonel that your petitioner had gone to the United States. It appears that Colonel Talbot refused at first, to give away the lot; Armitage however returned to London and got a certificate signed by some of his family connexions, stating that your petitioner had gone to the United States, had made little improvement and had left no one to take care of it! All of which assertions were infamous falsehoods, for Your Petitioner did not go to the States, did make considerable improvement, and did leave his father to take care of it; who preserved the crops, did the statute labor for it, and paid the taxes. On seeing the certificate, Colonel Talbot wrote to a Mr. Harrison of said Township to inspect the land. Armitage took him to see it, and shewed him only the first mentioned clearing, but never told him of the larger clearing and the buildings that were only a few rods behind a small piece of woods lying between. Harrison being too inexperienced or too indolent to look over the whole lot or lots, took the Report of Armitage for truth, and deceived himself—he misinformed Colonel Talbot who then gave the 100 acres to Armitage. However when Harrison saw how he was led into error he advised that your petitioner should be sent for. Your Petitioner returned in a few days went to Col. Talbot, offered to bring many witnesses to prove that his case was as is here stated. But the Colonel would only tell him that if he could settle with Armitage, he might have it again, (thus recognising his right to it, tho' in the possession of another by his authority) Armitage on this agreed, that if your petitioner paid him for some work which he did on it, he would relinquish it. Three men were accordingly sworn, they valued it and your petitioner paid him, and got a receipt in writing, which receipt your petitioner took to Colonel Talbot (who still holds it) and he then put your petitioner's name on the map again. In this manner was your petitioner put once more in possession of his land, built a house and made further improvement. But Armitage went again to Colonel Talbot told him that he did not get value for his work done on the land but that your petitioner forcibly dispossessed him. And though Colonel Talbot had Armitage's receipt in his hands, and tho' he had been plainly told of the deceit practiced by him, though he had ocular demonstration that your petitioner was not in the States, and though he had repossessed your petitioner of his right, which he held for several years,—once more erased his name from the map.—Armitage then took forcible possession of it, and still retains it; except the clearing first mentioned and the house built by your petitioner after getting possession the second time.

Your Excellency's Petitioner humbly begs that your Excellency taking into due consideration the hardships of his case, the deceitful and violent and unjust methods taken to deprive him of his property, will order his land to be restored speedily, that he may not be under the painful necessity of waiting the tedious process of applying to the Colonial Secretary.

And your Excellency's Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray.

JOHN ARDIEL.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL ROWEN.

SIR,

The bearer of this Robin Jackson will call at your office to solicit an answer from His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor in relation to some land business which he will explain to you, and as I also petitioned the Governor on a similar subject some time in October last, I will thank you if the Lieutenant Governor does not think my petition worthy of any reply, to procure for me from his Excellency the petition to which I allude.

I have the honor to be

Sir,

Your very obedient and very humble Serv't.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, }
York, 2nd, March, 1833. }

Sir,

With reference to your petition of the 17th, October, 1832, and your letter of the 28th, January last, I am directed by the Lieutenant Governor to acquaint you, that your petition was referred to Col.

Report on Petitions of William Jackson and others.

Talbot on the 24th, October 1832, for such remarks as might enable the Lieutenant Governor to judge as to the correctness of your statements, and how far it might be necessary for the Executive Government to interfere in the case which you have stated, respecting the lot of land of which you allege that you have been unjustly deprived.

APPENDIX.

Colonel Talbot informs the Lieutenant Governor, that you were ten years entered for 100 Acres of land, and that you did not perform the settlement duties during that period, which he has been authorised by His Majesty's Government to require, nor did you reside on the land.

I am therefore to observe, that, as certain tracts of land in the London District, have for many years been placed by His Majesty's Government, under the direct superintendence of Colonel Talbot, to be located by him, on the conditions which have been hitherto acted on, with much success, His Excellency does not consider your case one which will warrant his interference; he will however lay your petition before the Executive Council and transmit it to the Secretary of state for the colonies if you wish that course to be pursued.

I am
Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

SIR :

I have had the honor to receive your letter of the 2nd March last, in which you intimate to me, that His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor does not consider my case as one which will warrant his interference, but that he will if I think proper lay my Petition before the Executive Council and transmit it to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

I am most desirous that His Majesty's Government should be put in full possession of all the facts in relation to the manner in which I have been deprived of my Land. The circumstances of my case are so fully detailed in my Petition to His Excellency that it becomes only necessary for me to transmit to you the enclosed document in order that it may accompany my Petition to be laid before His Majesty.

Edward Allan Talbot, Esq. one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the District of London, this day personally appeared before me John Tenbroeck, Esq. Commissioner for taking affidavits in the Court of Kings Bench in the London District, and made oath that he is acquainted with John Ardiel for about thirteen years, that in the month of October 1830 he was called upon as a Magistrate by the said John Ardiel to give him possession of a lot of land being the North half of number nine in the Seventh Concession of the Township of London which Lot of land had been taken possession of without his consent by one William Armitage. That on making enquiry into the nature of the case, Deponent ascertained that Ardiel was in possession of the said Lot for upwards of ten years, that he cultivated a part of it for that period, and that he lived in the house of his father on the adjoining lot. That William Armitage in consequence, it is believed, of having through false statements induced Colonel Talbot to give him permission to go upon the said land, assumed the possession of it, and Deponent further swears that not being able to discover any reason why a person who had enjoyed peaceable possession of a Lot of land for ten years, should be thus summarily ousted after taking the necessary affidavits, proceeded with a Constable to the land with a view of restoring him to his possession under the Statutes of 15 Richard 2, ch. 2, and 8th Henry 6, ch. 9.

That on Deponent pointing out to Armitage the impropriety of his holding possession of another man's lands and also the power with which he was invested as a magistrate to restore him to his possessions, "without enquiring into the right or title of either party," Armitage consented to restore Ardiel to his land, on condition that he should pay him the said Armitage, for the improvements which he had made. This condition was immediately complied with, and peaceable possession of the land given by Armitage to Ardiel, in the presence of this Deponent. And Deponent further swears, that he has reason to believe that the said Armitage has since resumed possession of the said Lot without the consent, and contrary to the wishes of the said Ardiel, and further that this Deponent is unacquainted with any cause why the said Ardiel should not be restored to his land. He is an Emigrant loyal and industrious, and is surrounded by a very numerous train of relations of well known loyalty.

Deponent further swears that he does not consider that the reason alleged by Colonel Talbot, namely, that he did not perform his settlement duties, a good cause why the said Ardiel should be de-

JOHN ARDIEL, London, }

COMMITTEE ROOM, }
March 27th, 1835. }

JOSEPH O'BRIEN, called in and examined.

How long have you been in this Province ?

Seventeen years, Emigrated to this Province in July 1818, and been in the same ever since.

Do you know John Ardiel of the Township of London ?

Yes I do.

When did he come to this Province ?

In the year 1819.

Was he located on any land by Colonel Talbot in the Township of London ?

He was, I was present when Colonel Talbot put his name on the map for the north half of Lot 9 in the 7th Concession.

Did he make any clearing on that land ?

He did, I helped him to make it, in chopping, fencing, and saw it laid down in grass.

Do you know how much he cleared ?

The clearing was done by himself, and his father conjointly, on both these Lots, the father having located the adjoining half, there was no division fence kept up between them, as they both lived together, there was also chopping done on John Ardiel's Lot, consisting of some Acres, the exact number I do not recollect, and had chopped some on the Concession Road in front of it.

How long has he been in possession of the land ?

Since the year 1819 till the year 1830, when turned off of it by one Armitage, who said he had Colonel Talbot's authority, he was away a short time from his land, working at the Welland Canal to earn money to support the family, and aid him in farming his land, he is his father's only son, on whom his father solely depends for his support, and without his aid he could not obtain such support, except through other benevolent assistance.

Was he dispossessed of his land ?

He was, one Armitage having applied for the Lot to Colonel Talbot, and obtained the land by false representations as I heard Armitage say, and I did see Armitage in possession of the land in 1830 —I have heard, that Colonel Talbot agreed that if Armitage and Ardiel would make some mutual agreement on the subject, he would again put Ardiel in possession of the Lot, there was such agreement entered into by the parties,—Armitage having received valuable consideration from Ardiel in presence of witnesses, and I saw Armitage agree to leave the land and did see him move off; and again saw Ardiel in possession of the land in 1830, and working on it, and I helped him to work on it. Ardiel was again dispossessed after this, in the fall of the year 1830—by Armitage coming in by forcible means driving Ardiel off the Lot, whether by order of Colonel Talbot or not, I cannot say of myself, but it is so reported that Colonel Talbot gave Armitage the authority for so doing and Armitage is now in possession of the land, Ardiel merely retaining a small portion of the clearing.

IN COUNCIL.

The Petition of Levi Lewis, of the Township of London, Yeoman. Most humbly sheweth, That Petitioner was born in the District of Niagara, in which he resided until 1824, when he came to this Township and obtained from Colonel Talbot 200 Acres of land, being Lot No. 21, in the 8th Concession, upon which he has ever since resided.

That a short time ago Colonel Talbot gave one half of his land to a person named English as he supposes, owing to some information which the Colonel had received in relation to his political conduct.

That Petitioner being never out of the Province in his life entertains none but British feelings, and when the Address commonly called the Talbot Address was handed to him by Edward Allan Talbot, Esq. he at once affixed his name to it, as will appear by the enclosed certificate.

Petitioner having a large family amongst which are five sons and having been accustomed to hold out to them the idea, as he thought, certainty of their one day becoming the owners of this land, he trusts Your Excellency will order it to be restored to him,—and he will as in duty bound ever pray.

LEVI LEWIS.

This is to certify that Levi Lewis, and Benjamin W. Lewis, are sons of John Lewis of Grimsby, a very respectable Inhabitant, loyal to His Majesty's Government, and an industrious farmer, both the sons were born in this Province, are industrious young men, and doing their duty as Militia men, they have always shewed a willingness and activity whenever called upon.

8 Report on Petitions of William Jackson and others.

APPENDIX.

Knows Levi Lewis since the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-four—Lewis lives on Lot No. 20 in the eighth concession of the Township of London, on the south half of which lot he, Lewis, has cleared and fenced in a good manner about twenty acres—had at the time Colonel Talbot took the north half from him about twelve acres cleared and fenced. The first house Lewis put up was unfortunately burned and all he had in it, about a year after he commenced clearing on said lot—Immediately after, or about nine years ago, Lewis built a second dwelling on said lot, in which he has ever since resided, he has also a barn and orchard on the said lot, which improvements were all made at the time Colonel Talbot took the north half of the lot from him. At the time Lewis got the land from Colonel Talbot, others were getting two hundred acres from him. Witness knows other settlers to whom Colonel Talbot has given two hundred acres of land; and who still retain the same, altho' they have done only improvement on the one hundred. Thomas English who got Lewis's half lot from Colonel Talbot threw up a hundred acres he had previously got from the Colonel in favour of his father, to make up to his father a two hundred acre lot; English has never lived on the lot which he got Colonel Talbot to take from Lewis, but merely put up a small log House on it, and sold it to another person for three hundred dollars.

Witness knows Lewis to be an honest industrious and respectable man, and who has a large family of small children.

JOSEPH O'BRIEN, again examined.

Knows Levi Lewis about ten years and agrees with the foregoing testimony in every part.

Knows a person by the name of Phillip Swartz, who got an hundred acre lot from Colonel Talbot, which lot the Colonel took from him—and which lot the Colonel gave back to Swartz, in consideration that he Swartz, would perform settlement duty on a lot of Colonel Talbot's own, for no consideration whatever, but Colonel Talbot allowing him to repossess the lot he had previously taken from him, said lot of Colonel Talbot's was, witness thinks, No. 29, in one of the Concessions of the Township of London.

The Affidavit of Ambrose Powell, Yeoman, of the Township of London, who personally came before me, Wm. Armitage took possession of it, as he said by Colonel Talbot's permission, and upon Ardiel's attempting to resist said Armitage's usurpation, Armitage offered to give up peaceable possession of said lot, if Ardiel would pay him for some improvements done on said lot, while he Armitage was on it, to which Ardiel consented, and deponent was appointed to give Armitage his pay, after a valuation of both improvement and property given in lieu thereof, that Armitage took it and gave a receipt for his pay and went off the premises, declaring he never would have come on the lot but for bad advice—deponent further saith that he heard Colonel Talbot say, if Ardiel and Armitage would agree among themselves he, the Colonel had no objection to Ardiel's still having the lot and that after the above mentioned occurrences had taken place, Armitage again forced himself on to the premises with a furious party assisting him and to the present holds forcible possession of the same, and as far as deponent could ever hear, Colonel Talbot sanctions the proceedings of Armitage and his party.

I hereby certify that I was called on to value some improvements done by Wm. Armitage on a lot of land which he said was given him by Colonel Talbot, that I knew to be in the possession of John Ardiel for a number of years previous to Armitage's claiming it, and that I was requested by him (Armitage) to value the said improvements with two other persons indifferently chosen and sworn, and that he came attended, and shewed us the improvements himself, and that after our valuation of said improvements, we valued property, and seen him receive it as his pay for the improvements, saw no resistance whatever, seen him and wife help to clear out their effects, and he told me himself that he never would go on another man's lot again, and the very next day went and bought the improvements of another's lot and passed his notes for the pay thereof, in from one year to six years; and have been told by George Fitzgerald that he was very willing to go live on the lot he last purchased, that it was he (Fitzgerald) that drew the writing between Armitage and the other parties and gave his notes for the pay of the improvements on the strength of Mr. and Mrs. Gleeson giving him a writing to Col.
 Talbot to get his name on the map.

I hereby certify that I was called on to draw notes between William Armitage, and James Dag, and Eleanor Gleeson, for the improvements done on James Dag's lot, which I did on the 11th, day of October last, and saw him quite willing to pass said notes to James Dag, and further said that he was paid by John Ardiel for what he had done on a lot, belonging to the said Ardiel and was then willing to pass the above notes by Mr. and Mrs. Gleeson giving him a writing to Colonel Talbot to get his name on the map, which writing they gave him as value for the above notes.

GEORGE T. FITZGERALD.

London, October 22nd. 1830.

P. S.—After his return from Colonel Talbot's he told me that he never shewed Mr. Gleeson's writing to Colonel Talbot as he was again in expectation of getting back Ardiel's lot.

[COPY.]

I hereby certify that Mr. Armitage called on me to inform me that he had got pay from John Ardiel for improvements done on his lot and had given up possession to Ardiel and would now wish to buy James Dag's improvement which he said you declare you would give out. But that he did not want to take it without paying for the improvements, and that if we did sell them to him, he would get the lot without pay, in consequence of which he got a writing from us, for which he passed me notes payable in six years, which I hope said Dag shall have his pay on his lot.

A statement of the particulars connected with the petitions of William Jackson, John Nixon, John Ardiel, and Levi Lewis of the Township of London, transmitted to the Secretary of state for the Colonies.

William Jackson, an Emigrant from Ireland, was located by me for 100 acres of land, subject to the conditions of performing certain settlement duties and being an actual settler on the land, which I required should be complied with, within two years, but I extended my indulgence to Jackson by keeping his name entered on the land for ten years, during the latter part of that time repeated representations were made to me, that the lot was not improved and remained a wilderness and unoccupied and applications were made by new arrivals of Emigrants for the land, I accordingly made enquiry, and learned that Jackson had, during this length of time, only cut down a few trees, or as it is termed in Canada "slashed" some of the timber, which practice tends more to injure than benefit a new settlement; upon being satisfied that this was the case, I relocated the land to an English Emigrant.

John Nixon an Irish Emigrant, I located on 100 Acres—I did not dispossess Nixon off the land which continues located to him.

John Ardiel, an Emigrant from Ireland, was located on 100 Acres, and I indulged him to the same extent that I had William Jackson, and similar representations were almost daily made to me, that the land remained unimproved and unoccupied, and further that he was and had been more than a year absent from the Township, however, some of Ardiel's friends that resided in London, contradicted these reports, and assured me, that John Ardiel had more ground under cultivation on the lot than I required for the settlement duty, together, with a good house and barn, but that his clearing was made in the interior of the lot, and could not be seen from the Concession Road, still persons not connected with Ardiel, declared the whole of their statement not to be true; therefore to ascertain the fact, I directed a licenced surveyor to examine the lot, and report to me as the case might be found—accordingly when the surveyor went on that duty he was met by Ardiel's friends, who conducted him to a stake, which they stated was the north west boundary of Ardiel's lot, from which stake the surveyor commenced running the division line between two lots, and to his surprise, after running a short distance he got into a large clearing with a house and barn on Ardiel's side—fortunately the surveyor suspected, that there was deception used; and he returned to the stake, from whence he had started, and measured the distance from the west stake to the eastern boundary of the lot, when he detected the fraud, by the west stake having been removed from its proper position so far westwardly, as to make the clearing appear to be on Ardiel's lot, and nothing but a few trees slashed down on the lot he was sent to examine—such being the case, I relocated the 100 Acres, to another Emigrant.

Levi Lewis, a Canadian by birth applied to me for land, stating that he was the son of a U. E. Loyalist and as such entitled to 200 Acres, accordingly he was entered for that quantity of land; some years after some other persons applied for one half of the Lot I had located to Lewis, I replied that I could not grant their request, as Lewis as a U. E. Loyalist was entitled to the whole Lot of 200 Acres, when I was informed by the applicants that Levi Lewis was not a son of a U. E. Loyalist, and that he had frequently boasted of how he had imposed upon me by representing himself as a U. E. and further that Lewis was so lazy that he would not ever clear ten Acres, having this statement proved, I enquired on what part of the Lot, Lewis had worked; and was told on the South half, consequently, I limited him to the usual quantity of land, granted 100 Acres, and located the North 100 Acres of the same Lot to another Settler.

THOMAS TALBOT,
Superintendent of the } Talbot Settlement. }

Port Talbot, February 1st, 1834.

COLONEL TALBOT, called in and examined.

Levi Lewis came to me and reported himself as a "son of a U. E." being entitled to 200 Acres—located him in the Township of London, on 200 Acres, as supposing him such, found he was not so—therefore took one hundred Acres from him, being the usual quantity a settler is entitled to and no more, does not know when he found out he was not a "son of a U. E." nor by what means—I sometimes located persons on 200 Acres not "sons of U. E's." or "U. E's. sons," as I saw fit in certain cases.

State what those certain circumstances are?—I refuse to answer that question.

What reason have you for thus answering this question? Because I think it a sufficient answer, Lewis was represented to me to be a lazy person, and by what means I know not, I have no written documents to that effect.

Who informed you that Lewis was not the "son of a U. E.?" I cannot tell you, but was so informed by several persons.

Did you not state in your communication to the Government Office who it was that informed you Lewis was not son of a "U. E.?" I do not recollect that I did.

You have given us a reason why Lewis was deprived of 100 Acres of his location, that he was lazy,—who informed you of this? I got it by hearsay.

Do you usually dispossess persons of their locations by hearsay.—Not commonly, except it is from persons I can depend upon—the principal grounds I dispossessed him of 100 Acres of his location was, that he was not what he represented himself to be a "S. U. E."—I cannot tell whether a patent has issued for this 100 Acres formerly located to Lewis.

Col. Talbot's Evidence on Ardiel's case.—I have no written statements at present on which I founded my report to his Excellency the Lieut. Governor in the petitions of John Ardiel, Wm. Jackson and Levi Lewis. I made the same on recollection. I cannot say where I received this or any information on these cases relative to their delinquencies, whether in four or ten years, nor do I know from whom I received it. I never give 200 acres as jointly to father and son when the latter is under age, I always make each person I locate individually liable for the conditions of settlement, I don't recollect that I had previously located Armitage in any other part before I located him on the lot I had at first located Ardiel.

How is it that you are so forgetful as to dates and persons, and yet recollect facts on which you make your Report? The facts made an impression on my mind—I know nothing of those things of myself personally.

Were any of the persons who made these representations those who were endeavoring to get the lands for themselves or their friends? No they were not, to my recollection.

How do you know they were not?

I do not know indeed. He makes a general practice of relocating when persons do not perform the settlement duty required, or the persons located are not actual residents, by various representations, sometimes in writing, and sometimes not, frequently when clearing is made, compels last locatee to pay the same by valuation of it.

Under what authority do you act?—Under the authority of the Home Government, and made known to the Officer administering the Government in this Province.

Do you consider yourself amenable to the Local Government under this authority?—I do not, nor do they (I believe) consider me so.

What quantity of land have you under your control?—About twenty or thirty Townships, but I cannot at present exactly say the quantity, it may be ascertained in the Surveyor General's Office.

Can you produce your authority from the Home Government? I have no written authority under which I act, only I know that such a despatch is communicated to the Government of this Province, which I have seen, and I act from verbal information, and the thing is all understood.

Do you call the persons before you, who are interested in the representations before alluded to? and have a regular investigation? I do not, I generally proceed according to circumstances, or on the information or certificate of persons I can depend on.

APPENDIX.

Can you state the reason of your removing William Jackson from the 100 acres on which you located him? Because he had not performed the settlement duty that I required in my regulations, and refer you to my report to the Governor on this case.

How did you know the settlement duty was not performed? I got information on the subject but do not recollect exactly how, I have no kind of written record of the fact.

Can you state any general plan by which you ascertain the conditions of settlement are not complied with? I have none—I enquire about the facts of individuals, who may be acquainted with the facts, and receive wholly viva voce testimony on the subject.

Did you let Jackson, Ardiel, and Lewis, know that such representations were made? No, I do not know that I did but I fully expect they knew such were made.

REPORT

OF

Select Committee,

ON THE

PETITION OF JAMES DAVIDSON.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Select Committee to which was referred the petition of James Davidson of the Township of Nelson, in the County of Halton, beg leave to report:

That by the petition and documents in confirmation of its statements, appended, it will be seen by your Honorable House, that the petitioner has been subjected to wrong (without means being afforded him of obtaining redress) by an order of the Executive Council for "removing the name of William Dickson from the map, upon condition that the Welland Canal Company, furnish to the heir or person having a claim recognized by the Council, a lot, of a value equal to that at the time the location was made," that petitioner's claim as the heir of William Dickson, is acknowledged, and the transaction by that means becomes simple and unequivocal—The first reason intimated for the removal of the name of the original nominee for the lot of land in the Township of Humberstone, viz, the neglect of building a house on said lot, however feasible it might appear, had it been generally acted upon under similar circumstances, is apparently quite insufficient under the every day practice between the Executive and the Locatees of lands in the earlier settlements of this Province. The second reason, viz, that of facilitating the designs of the Welland Canal Company in the accomplishment of a work (even though acknowledged to be of paramount importance to the Country) could only be justified by laying the Company under the necessity of conveying to the claimant an equivalent compensation in land (as to quantity and value) at the time the lot was transferred by the Executive Council to said Company, and not Report on Petition of James Davidson.

APPENDIX.

by merely making over to the petitioner, a lot of land of equal value to that taken, estimating that value at the time it was first located by William Dickson.

These reasons your Committee deem to be insufficient to justify the transaction.

The petitioner is an infirm man, with a large family, incapable of affording him much assistance, and too far advanced in years to expect much relief, from a rheumatic disorder under which he labors.

Under all the circumstances your Committee report an Address to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor hoping that His Excellency will so far agree with the views of Your Honorable House on this subject, as to be induced to look into the matter, and procure for the Petitioner that justice which his case demands, and which is only attainable through His Excellency's interference, without at least greatly protracting the period of restitution.

Your Committee recommended that a copy of this report and documents appended hereto, may accompany the address to His Excellency.

All which is respectfully submitted,

CALEB HOPKINS.

Chairman.

Committee Room, Commons House of Assembly, }
8th April 1835, }

To the Honorable The Speaker and other Members of the House of Assembly of Upper Canada in Provincial Parliament Assembled.

The Petition of James Davidson of the Township of Nelson, in the Gore District, humbly sheweth.

That whereas William Dickson late of the Township of Stamford, in said Province deceased, had located lot No. 27 in the 1st. Concession of the Township of Humberstone in the said Province, and he having died without issue—Your Petitioner (his sister's son) being the only surviving branch of the male line of that family, became heir to the said lot of land. The proof which your petitioner produced to the Executive Council having proved satisfactory, he was recognised as the true claimant for the said land, but as this lot joined Lake Erie, and as there was a brook leading from it to the Lake, the Welland Canal Company thought it proper to bring their Canal into the Lake by that channel—therefore the Council consigned the said lot to that Company, on condition that they would transfer to your petitioner any lot unlocated upon the line of that Canal which might be selected by your petitioner, subject to the approbation of the commissioners appointed during last session to report upon the Welland Canal.

It appears that two reasons induced the Council to this decision; first, that the original terms of building a house on said lot, had not been complied with by the original nominee or his heir.—Secondly, by giving it to the Company, it would be applied to public purposes, and a general benefit would be conferred.—In regard to the first of these considerations, it seems to rest on a very weak foundation, for that order of Council never was complied with by any, and this is the first time your petitioner ever heard it called for, and several people located land on the same Township, who did not comply with the said order, but no such objection was brought against their claims. The second reason was very proper, and your petitioner would have had no objections, so far as the prosperity of the colony was concerned, that the Company should be allowed every indulgence which might be consistent with justice. But this was not the case in the present transaction, for the unlocated land on the line of that Canal, and which they intended to give was of no use to your petitioner, being nothing but Swamp—for your petitioner being unable to travel, and having no means of conveyance, employed a very respectable gentleman living in the vicinity of that Canal, to examine the land, who made me the following reply.—The land which the Welland Company means to give you in exchange, is an entire swamp unfit for cultivation, one thousand five hundred pounds would not effectually drain it; and if that were done no person could reside upon it; and if you do not take such land, they are going to offer you a location ticket, neither of which would bring two shillings and six-pence per acre.

The last letter which your petitioner received from the Council on that subject, is dated the 10th of March 1834 and is as follows. "Ordered—that a patent for Lot No. 27 in the first concession of Humberstone do issue to the Welland Canal Company, they having complied with the terms of the order in Council relating to the said lot."

[Signed]

JOHN BEIKIE.

C. E. C.

What terms of the said order they may have complied with, are unknown to your petitioner, but this he certainly knows, that he has not yet ever received any remuneration for the said lot, nor has any ever been offered to him worthy of acceptance, and to take his land from him and not to allow him a fair value, would, in his opinion, be an act unprecedented in the annals of Upper Canada.

Your petitioner further begs leave to represent to Your Honorable House, that he is far advanced in life, and that by reason of painful diseases, is rendered unfit for labor; and he indulged the pleasing hope, that this property might be the means of supplying his wants and smoothing the path of his declining life; but these hopes are blasted, and he is left to pine under the pressure of painful disease.

The value of the land thus taken your petitioner does not attempt to point out; but he has been informed by people who have seen it, that the lot was worth five hundred pounds, Provincial Currency; and from this information he is inclined to believe that he might have sold it for that price.

Your petitioner therefore humbly prays that Your Honorable House will be pleased to take his case into consideration and allow him such compensation as you in your wisdom may think proper to grant.

APPENDIX.

And Your Petitioner as in duty bound, will ever pray,

JAMES DAVIDSON,

Done at Nelson, this 24th, day of February, }
in the year of our Lord, 1835. }

I do hereby certify that I have been personally acquainted with James Davidson the within petitioner during a period of 30 years, and I believe the statement he hath given in the said petition to be correct, as the documents which he can produce will satisfactorily prove—I am also well acquainted with his private circumstances, and can further certify that he has a large family of children, most of whom are females, consequently are unable to render him that assistance which a man in his situation might necessarily require, he having been severely afflicted with rheumatic diseases for as much as twenty-two years and particularly that kind called Sciatica, by which his hip bone appears to be quite dislocated, in so much that he is rendered almost entirely unfit for labor.

Sir,
Agreeably to the following order of Council, I am prepared, as the person in whom the lands of the Welland Canal Company are now vested, to transfer to you the lot of land according to the said orders.

COPY OF ORDER.

"It is respectfully recommended that the order in Council of the 14th November 1831 be rescinded and that petitioner is recognised as the true claimant to whom the Welland Canal shall be required to transfer any unlocated upon the line of the Welland Canal which may be selected by him, subject to the approbation of the Commissioners appointed during the last session to report upon the Welland Canal."

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Simeon Kellogg and others, praying for a Grant of Money to enable them to construct a Wharf at Freeman's Point in Presque Isle Harbour.

Beg leave most respectfully to Report:—

That they are of opinion if a good Wharf were constructed at the before mentioned place, it would greatly promote the prosperity of the surrounding Country as well as facilitate the shipping interest on Lake Ontario.

Your Committee therefore recommend to Your Honorable House that a sum of Money be granted to aid in the erection of a Wharf at the place before mentioned.

Sir,

You are already aware that a Royal Charter for establishing a University in the Province of Upper Canada has passed the great Seal, and of which Dr. Strachan is the bearer.

As Doctor Strachan was sent home to solicit this Charter and has been detained on the concerns of the church and other matters of great interest to the Province, you will consider yourself authorised to make him such a remuneration from the Clergy Reserve fund and any other fund at your disposal, as on account of the length of his detention in this Country and the trouble and expense to which he has been exposed, may seem reasonable.

Letter from the Honorable and Venerable ARCHDEACON STRACHAN, to MR. SECRETARY ROWAN.

Toronto, 17th, March, 1835.

[COPY.]

Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 7th, inst. enclosing an Address from the House of Assembly requesting various returns respecting Upper Canada College and the University of King's College, and beg leave to state for His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor's information, that as the returns required seem to embrace a complete transcript of all the books of these Institutions, I very much fear, that it will be impossible to satisfy the said Address to the letter, during the present session of the Legislature, but every practicable exertion will be made and in the mean time every particle of information that can be deemed, either useful or necessary, the proper officer has been directed to furnish with as little delay as possible.

In regard to one head of inquiry, number three "a copy of any communication from His Majesty's Government by authority of which £712 16 2 was paid to Archdeacon Strachan out of the College funds as expenses of a journey to England performed by him;" I most respectfully submit that this money was paid to me in consequence of a despatch from Lord Ripon, then Goderich, dated I believe in June or July 1827, doubtless to be found in the Government Office.

To anticipate the trouble of future inquiry it may be convenient to state, that confining myself merely to the expenses incident to my journey and long detention in England, a journey be it remembered, made at the express desire of His Majesty's Government, I claimed and was allowed £1100 (eleven hundred pounds) payable in London, where the money had been furnished me on credit, and chiefly expended, and where it remained at interest till repaid. This sum included £226 14 Sterling paid for the performance of part of my duty, during my absence, and double passage money, which the fulness of the ship obliged me to advance on my voyage home-wards, leaving about a guinea and a half per day, to cover my expenses, while in London and on my Journey.

My services were principally devoted to the subject of Emigration, to withdrawing the Clergy Reserves from what was judged an improvident sale, to the procuring an Act of the Imperial Parliament to dispose of one fourth of the said Reserves, now in operation, and the Charter establishing the University of King's College.

From the nature of these various services, it was deemed reasonable to pay one half of the eleven hundred pounds Sterling, which including interest and exchange, and difference of Currency, amounted to £1356 13 4 from the Clergy Reserve fund, and one half from the funds of the University of King's College.—The former half or £678 6 8 was paid in July 1828 the latter not till May 1829, at which time, the accruing interest being added it came to £712 16 2.

The services I was enabled to perform were duly appreciated in England, and I feel justified in declaring, for it is now matter of fact, that they have been and ever will be beneficial to the Province, nor is the time far distant when the university of King's College, the establishment of which on a more liberal footing than any similar Institution in Great Britain or America, I was the humble instrument in effecting, will shed light and glory over the Colony and embalm the names of its promoters in the grateful affections of posterity, when its ignorant and rancorous revilers are forgotten or deservedly consigned to contempt and execration, as having been ready to sacrifice the most important interests of the present and future generation in deference to a popular clamour, which they themselves had for the purpose excited.

REPORT

Of Select Committee

On Petition of Doctor William Rees.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of William Rees Surgeon. Respectfully beg leave to Report:—

That it is universally established that there is no subject more important to the welfare and prosperity of a new country, than a thorough knowledge of its Physical Geography, an investigation of its natural productions in the Animal, Vegetable and Mineral Kingdoms, its Lakes, Rivers, and their tributaries together with its medical Topography, comprehending the nature and extent of such causes as influence the production of epidemic and endemic diseases in particular Districts. and peculiar to certain situations, the climate and other external causes which influence the health and lives of the inhabitants, circumstances which it will be readily admitted by every friend to humanity, and to the best interests of the Province, well deserve the attention of an enlightened Legislature.

E

APPENDIX.

The results of such investigations, performed during a residence of nearly fifteen years in different parts of British America, where he has had access and every facility afforded him of examining Official Returns, Registers of Churches, Hospitals, &c. compose the principal materials which your petitioner is desirous to publish.

Your Committee further remark, that a popular view of the Medical Topography, climate, &c. more especially of the Canadas, illustrated by meteorological and statistical tables, by which to establish its comparative salubrity, the health, longevity and mortality of the inhabitants, with the British Isles and continent of Europe, is much called for, and that it would tend materially to correct the gross errors entertained in these particulars and to establish its true character, whilst it would be a desideratum in every other respect; no work of the same nature ever having been published of this Country. It is a fact worthy of notice, that the health, longevity, &c. of the inhabitants of some parts of this Province especially of Sandwich are not less than those of any other part of the known world.

Your Committee therefore entirely acquiesce in the views of that to which this petition was referred in the last session of Provincial Parliament, (herein embodied) that such a publication would be calculated to remove the objections made by wealthy emigrants to a residence in Upper Canada, thousands of whom being on the continent of Europe, without the prospect of acquiring real estate who would gladly give a preference to this Country, and Your Committee recommend to Your Honorable House to grant the prayer of the Petitioner by authorising His Excellency, when such a work shall be published, to defray the expense of five hundred copies, as a means of enabling the Petitioner to meet the expense of its publication.

Parliament Buildings.To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

Your Committee to whom were referred the message of His Excellency and Report of the Parliament Building Commissioners, beg leave to report as follows.

Your Committee have examined the building and find that in order to secure the basement story and render the foundation permanent, it is necessary that an area be formed with a protecting wall, and proper means taken to carry off the water, which now, by settling under the ground floor, renders the rooms very unhealthy, and subjects the timbers to immediate destruction by rot.

Your Committee have also inspected the roof, and find it much exposed, by its peculiar construction to fire, as a spark falling from any of the chimneys at a season of the year when the shingles are dry might by the help of a breeze of wind, kindle and gain such ascending before discovery, as to greatly endanger, if not consume the whole building.

The danger of this is so great at present as to preclude the possibility of assuring from fire, the company not choosing to subject themselves to so great risk.

The roof in its present state, is also quite inefficient in keeping out the rain, and the interior of the building has to be protected by the means of buckets being set under the various parts which leak during a storm, to keep the water from penetrating the ceiling of the Halls and entirely destroying the edifice.

Your Committee are not aware of any means which might be used for making the roof both safe and effective by a cheaper process than that of tinning, which though in the first place is costly, is durable, free from leakage and secure.

Your Committee would also call the attention of Your Honorable House to the total inadequacy of this building to the use for which it was designed, from the want of suitable Committee Rooms and Clerk's Offices so situated as to be of ready access to the house, and convenient for the transaction of the accumulating business of each successive session.

Your Committee need hardly mention the inconvenience and uncomfortable situation of the Legislative Chamber appropriated to the use of Your Honorable House by means of the illy contrived structure of the building.

Your Committee under all the circumstances would not hesitate to recommend that the building may be sold, or disposed of for other purposes, if any case be found for which it is at all fitting, or in case it may be considered susceptible of alteration, to make such as will better adapt it to the accommodation of the Legislature.

For the present, Your Committee recommend that one thousand pounds may be appropriated for the purpose of the improvements mentioned, namely, the area and tinning the roof, as the present apartments occupied as Clerk's Offices and as a depository for the Records, must necessarily continue to be so occupied, until more suitable places are prepared, and they are altogether, in their present state, unfit for either of those purposes, but by means of the area mentioned, will be much improved.

ON
Petition of F. Hewson and others.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Francis Hewson, Esq. and others praying that the County of Simcoe may be set off into a separate District, with Barrie for the District Town—make the following Report:—

The Committee having enquired into the extent of the County of Simcoe, (consisting as it does of more than twenty Townships most of which are partially settled,) and the great distance of many of them from the city of Toronto to the present District Town, are of opinion that the prayer of the Petition should be granted, so soon as the number of Inhabitants and amount of Assessments collected, will warrant it.

The present population of the County according to the Returns for 1834, does not exceed eight Thousand—and the amount of taxes paid into the District Treasury is about £290.

Under these circumstances, the Committee are not disposed to recommend the immediate separation of that County from the Home District—particularly as that District is still in debt; and the County of Simcoe forming part of it, is of course liable to pay a proportion of the amount.

With respect to the proper site for the District Town, the Committee have carefully examined the map of the County; and from the peculiar manner in which the same is divided by the Waters of Lake Simcoe, and also the uncertainty as to the speedy settlement of many of the Townships in the western part of it, they are not prepared to recommend any particular place,—leaving the same to be determined when the County shall become more thickly inhabited and the wishes of the people on this subject fully ascertained.

Petition of John Carey.To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of John Carey, Editor and Reporter, beg leave to submit to Your Honorable House, that upon investigating his claim, they found that he reported the proceedings during several sessions without receiving any remuneration for the same, with the exception of the session of 1832, for which he was paid 100*l.*— We therefore recommend his claim to the consideration of Your Honorable House.

ON THE

Petition of Andrew Deacon, Esq.To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

Your Committee appointed by Your Honorable House to try the merits of the Petition of Andrew Deacon, Esq. Collector of Customs at the Port of Hallowell, and it appears to Your Committee, that the per centage on dutiable articles having been stopped since the year 1822, 23, 24, 29, and since the mentioned year it has increased to 100*l.* which according to the statements received from the Inspector General's Office, the sum of three hundred and twenty one pounds nineteen shilling and eight pence currency, to remunerate the said Andrew Deacon, Esq. seeing that the said sum is only taken out of one hand and put into the other, that is the said sum must be immediately paid over to the Receiver General of the Province, to be disposed of by him like all other monies of this Province, and the accounts of the said Andrew Deacon cannot be settled by any other means, therefore Your Committee most respectfully submits the same for the consideration of Your Honorable House.

REPORT

OF THE

Select Committee,

ON THE

Petition of the Inhabitants of Cornwall:To the Honorable the Commons of Upper Canada in Parliament Assembled.

The Select Committee to whom was referred the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Cornwall praying that a Basin may be constructed connected with the Canal passing through that Town and that an additional Culvert may be made for the convenience of persons residing in the West part of the Town.

Respectfully Report:—

That in discharge of the duty imposed upon them by the House, a Letter has been addressed to each of the Commissioners of the St. Lawrence Canal for the purpose of ascertaining if any and what obstacles exist to prevent a compliance with the prayer of the Petitioners, and that answers have been received from four of the Commissioners some approving of the application, and others disapproving on account of the additional expence which would thereby be incurred, but in all cases, except one, expressing a readiness to comply with the request of the Inhabitants if a Resolution of Your Honorable House or of both Houses of the Legislature should be passed, conveying an opinion as to the propriety of the undertaking—Your Committee also addressed a Letter to the superintending Engineer of the Canal with a view to ascertain the additional expence of a Culvert and Basin, and from his report communicated through the President of the Board of Commissioners, it appears that such expence will amount to about 6000*L*. It appears to Your Committee that justice to the Inhabitants of Cornwall requires that they should not be placed by the Canal in a worse situation than they have heretofore been, and that as they will be completely cut off by the Canal from all access to the River, it is essential to the well being of the Inhabitants that such access may be afforded by means of Culverts as may be practicable, and that a Basin may be constructed for the accommodation of the increasing trade of the place, and the Country in its vicinity. The Commissioners have made arrangements for the construction of one Culvert in the East end of the Town, but this cannot be deemed sufficient for the convenience of a place having a front of a mile on the River, and having heretofore a ready access to every part of the River for the purpose of procuring Stone, Fire Wood, Lumber and all other articles usually supplied to the Town by Water. Your Committee fully sensible of the great injury and inconvenience which must be inflicted on the Inhabitants if the prayer of their Petition is not complied with; and satisfied that they will derive much less benefit from the completion of the Canal than those parts of the Province above the Long Sault, strongly and earnestly recommend the construction of the Works prayed for, more especially as a Basin may be so made as to answer either as a wet Dock for the convenience of the Town, or a dry Dock for general accommodation.

All which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT

OF

Select Committee,

ON THE

Petition of Samuel Kennedy and others.

To the Honorable the Commons' House of Assembly.

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Samuel Kennedy and others beg leave to Report.

That they have examined different witnesses relative to the prayer of their petition, and find that by the "survey of Mr. Jones, of part of the Township of Scarboro' his return appears partially different from the first made by him" the first being half a chain off Scarboro' $\frac{1}{2}$ chain off the township of York, by the latter one chain wholly off the Township of York, as per Mr. Chewitt's evidence and other evidence, That the inhabitants were instructed by the late Surveyor General, the Honorable Thomas Ridout, and Deputy Surveyors who had been regulating their boundary lines, to consider that the road was wholly taken from the Township of York. By the evidence of John Fenton, Police Clerk for the Home District, it appears "That John Hopper, Henry Earl, John Rawson, and —Beard were fined the sum of two pounds and costs each— which yet remains in his hands by order of the Magistrates until the boundary line be legally defined and settled" as these magistrates did not apply the said fines but ordered the same to lie in the hands of their clerk, until said boundary was determined. As said boundary is not likely to be determined without an expensive law suit which neither party seem willing to enter into.

Your committee viewing the peculiar hard case of the petitioners, they having settled according to the original survey of that line; —Mr. Chewitt's evidence taken from the Records in the original survey, and surveys made by licensed Deputy Surveyors, justifying it,—and under the pressure of the imposition of a heavy fine in consequence. feel no objection in recommending an address to His Excellency requesting His Excellency to recommend to the magistrates to order the same to be repaid to the different parties.

Statement of Surveys by authority of the surveyor General's department made at different periods in the Township of Scarborough.

In 1791 Mr. Deputy Surveyor Jones was ordered to survey the Base Lines for a range of Townships with the division line between each from York (now Toronto) to the River Trent, the allowance for roads being each way from a line produced north 16° west at the end of every ninth mile; Scarborough being one of this range of Townships. In 1793 Mr. Deputy Surveyor Lewis Grant was ordered to survey A. B. C. 2 & 3 and 4 & 5 concessions, to run and mark the side lines of the Township of Scarboro' from the 5th concession to the Lake, and govern himself by Mr. Jones' survey, the ground work of the Township. In 1795 Mr. Deputy Surveyor Jones was again ordered to survey part of the Township of Scarboro' and his return appears partially different from the first, made by him, he states in his field notes 1791 Lot No. 35 first Concession 20 c. 50 l to a pine tree marked on four sides "1795 Lot No. 35 between Concession C & D 20 C 50 L N. 60 E. 5 links a Basswood tree marked" these are in the centre of the Road, continuing the survey of 1795 Lot No. 35, between the concession B & C. 20 Chains, leaving the Road altogether to the west of the line.

Instructions were given in 1833 to Mr. Galbraith to finish the fifth concession of Scarborough, and he was ordered to make his survey in the same manner with that by Mr Jones in 1791.

COMMITTEE ROOM
HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY. }

Mr. ASA PATRICK, called in and examined.

How many years have you resided in the Township of Scarborough? About 35 years.

On what side of the original line between the Townships of York and Scarborough, have you considered the allowance for road to be? On the west side.

What have you to shew that fact? I have been acquainted in the Township when the stakes were principally standing, and the marks of red chalk plainly on them; I recollect on no place seeing red marked on the east side of the line, but always on the west, and distinctly recollect seeing No. 35 marked on the east side, and never had any doubts in my mind, but the allowance for road came off the west side.

On what side of the original line have Deputy Surveyors left the allowance for road? Hudson and Gibson, have uniformly left it on the west side of the line, and during the life of the late Surveyor General Mr. Ridout I never heard it disputed.

How does the quantities of land hold out in those lots that have been measured on the Town line? The lots in York Township have more than their quantities, after the allowance for road is taken off. In Scarborough some lots are deficient and some have an overplus.

Were you called to give evidence by Henry Earl, John Rawson, John Hopper and Beard when they were prosecuted for placing their fences in the public highways as appeared by oath of the then pathmaster James Long? I was.

What was your evidence? The Magistrate would receive no evidence, but that of the pathmaster and the certificate of the Surveyor General.

Mr. JOHN FENTON, Police Clerk for the Home District, called in and examined,

Were John Hopper, Henry Earl, John Rawson and—Beard, fined with costs, in the Police Court of this District? And what was the nature of the offence for which they were so fined? The above named John Hopper, Henry Earl, John Rawson, and—Beard were fined sometime in the month of— in the year— for obstructing the public road between the Townships of York and Scarborough in the Home District, on the complaint of James Long, pathmaster, the fine was two pounds each and costs which yet remains in my hands by order of the Magistrates, until the boundary line be legally defined and settled.

JOHN FENTON.

Toronto, April 11th, 1835.

Were you pathmaster for the Township of York as appointed by the people at their meeting in 1834? Yes.

Do you know of which of the two Townships, Scarborough or York, the allowance for road, between these Townships is taken off, by the original blazed line? I do not know of myself, but on applying to the Surveyor General's Office for information on the subject, I was informed that it was taken, half from each Township, a certificate of which I obtained from Mr. Hurd the Surveyor General, I therefore informed the persons living on that line, who were encroaching by their fences on the said road, and gave them the usual legal notice, which they would not obey, and of consequence were fined; copy of certificates I now hand in.

I certify that I am of opinion from the original field notes, that the Town line between Scarborough and York is 50 links on either side from the adjoining lots on the centre of the allowance which will I think, be borne out by the act protecting original Monuments.

MR WILLIAM DEVENISH, called in and examined.

Do you live in the Township of Scarborough and in what part? Yes, on Lot No. 35, on the Town ship line between Scarborough and York.

How many years have you lived there? Nearly 30 years.

Did you ever consult the late Surveyor General, on which side of the line the allowance for road was situated between the Townships of York and Scarborough? Yes, I went along with Mr. Pilkey to the late Surveyor General Ridout, and was informed that the allowance for road was all on the west side of the line, between the Townships of York and Scarborough.

OF JOSEPH SWETMAN, KEEPER OF THE LIGHT HOUSE ON FALSE DUCKS ISLAND.

(COPY.)

To His Excellency Sir John Colborne, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

THE PETITION OF JOSEPH SWETMAN

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That Your Petitioner has been keeper of the Light House on False Ducks Island from the time of its erection until the present period, during which he has been in the receipt of one hundred pounds per annum, until the Session of the Provincial Parliament in 1833, when the said Salary was reduced by that House to Sixty-two pounds ten shillings, the sum then fixed for the Light Houses generally without any reference to situation or local circumstances.

That Your Petitioner has a large family entirely dependent on him for support and has no other means of providing for them than by his salary as Light House Keeper, the land on the said Island being incapable of cultivation from the barrenness of its soil, and consequently Your Petitioner is obliged to purchase his provisions.

That Your Petitioner being bound by his duty to make the Island his constant residence, until the close of Navigation is thereby necessarily compelled to remain thereon during winter, by which he is subject to many privations (there being no other resident on said Island) which are further augmented by the decrease in his salary, so that he is not only unable to provide against sickness and other casualties, to which he is liable from being out off from all society, to which he may flee for succour, but also much straightened to procure a sufficiency of absolute necessaries.

That Your Petitioner being compelled periodically to leave the Island is obliged to employ the elder branches of his family at such times to superintend the management of the Light House, whereby he is prevented from procuring for them any other subsistence by their own industry.

That Your Petitioner from his Isolated situation is prevented from engaging in any other pursuit, whereby he might add to his means of support, his present reduced salary being altogether inadequate for that purpose.

That Your Petitioner entertaining every confidence that his salary as Light House keeper in a situation so exiled would never have been reduced, and the reduction being altogether unexpected, has involved him in difficulties.

That Your Petitioner conceives the sum of sixty-two pounds ten shillings on the main land for the attendance of a similar light house preferable to one hundred pounds per annum on this Island, and Your Petitioner humbly prays Your Excellency will be pleased to recommend, that the sum of one hundred pounds be paid to him as heretofore, and that the arrears of the last two years up to January first 1835 be allowed him, making the said sum of one hundred pounds per annum.

And as in duty bound Your Petitioner will ever pray.

JOSEPH SWETMAN.

R E P O R T

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE PETITION OF
Daniel Armstrong and others.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The Select Committee to whom were referred the petition of Daniel Armstrong and others, praying for the imposition of a duty on articles of produce imported from the United States of America, into this Province, as also several other petitions on the same subject, have met and agreed to the following report :

Your Committee first directed their enquiry to the question whether or not it is proper and expedient to impose a duty on various articles coming from the United States, into this Province, which are now admitted, duty free, and are of opinion that in order to afford a proper encouragement to the agriculturist, and various other inhabitants of this Province, a proper protecting duty should be imposed on several articles which are not now subject to duties, viz : live stock, Indian corn, and other grain, fruit and vegetables—various kinds of meal—fresh meat—hams and bacon—beef and pork and many other articles ; in as much as the said agriculturists and others are the principal consumers of various other articles which are subject to duties, and in some instances heavy duties, and therefore, if for no other reason, are entitled to equal protection.

And further Your Committee would observe that many of their products are not allowed to go into the United States on the same terms, that the like articles are admitted into this Province, from the United States, thereby giving that country a decided advantage over this Province—and also Your Committee beg leave to state that a duty of six pence per bushel is required to be paid on all salt used in putting up beef, pork, &c., in this province, while the salt used in putting up beef and pork in the United States, is exempted from the said duty, while, at the same time, the said beef and pork are admitted into this Province, duty free. Your Committee would remark that various other reasons might be advanced in favour of the imposition of said duties, but refrain from troubling Your Honorable House with any further remarks or arguments, as it appears to them that the propriety of such a measure must be very apparent to every reflecting mind. Your Committee's second object was to ascertain if possible whether the Legislature of this Province were prevented by the Imperial Statute, now in force, from imposing by a Colonial law, duties on such articles coming from the United States, into this Province ; and, upon full examination, Your Committee are most happy to find that although, for several years past, the Colonial Legislature, have been precluded from imposing duties as aforesaid, by Provincial enactments, yet, in the 57th section of an act passed on the 28th August, 1833, in the 3rd and 4th years of the reign of King William the Fourth, chap. 59. it is enacted as follows :

" Provided always, and be it further enacted and declared that no exemption from duty in any of the British Possessions abroad, contained in any act of Parliament, does or shall extend to any duty not imposed by act of Parliament, unless and so far only as any duty not so imposed is or shall be expressly mentioned in such exemption."

By this act, therefore, the Legislature of this Province are authorised and empowered to impose by Provincial enactment such duties as they in their discretion may deem expedient on articles or commodities imported into this Province from the United States of America, such articles or commodities not being exempted, or the said Legislature not being prevented from legislating relative thereto, by some express provision in the Imperial Statute in force in this Province.

Your Committee are not able, positively, to state to Your Honorable House, upon whose recommendation His Majesty's Government have been induced to make the said provision, but deem it to be no more than just to His Majesty's Government, to presume that it arose from a disposition, on the part of His Majesty, to listen to the just request of His faithful people in this Province, and his desire to remove a grievance that may be felt by his loyal subjects and brought under his gracious consideration in a direct but respectful manner, as was this most important subject in a respectful address transmitted to His Majesty's Government in the year 1832, from the counties of Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds, and perhaps some other parts of the Province, setting forth the partial and unjust operation of the Commercial intercourse laws and regulations, and at the same time pressing upon His Majesty's consideration, the unquestionable fact that the Provincial Legislature, would more satisfactorily regulate the duties to be collected here upon products of the United States of America, imported into this Province than, for the want of the requisite local information, it could, by possibility, be done by the Imperial Parliament; and which address no doubt had its due weight with His Majesty's Government in coming to a conclusion on this interesting subject. Your Committee therefore recommend the immediate passing of an Act imposing a suitable protecting duty on various articles of the products of the United States imported into this Province, and therefore herewith submit resolutions which they recommend to the favourable consideration of Your Honorable House,

APPENDIX.

PETER PERRY,
Chairman.

Resolved,—That, in order to afford a proper protection and encouragement to those engaged in Agricultural pursuits and other operatives in this Province,

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL CHAMBER, at York, Wednesday, 9th Sept., 1813.

PRESENT—The Hon. James Baby, Presiding Councillor, Samuel Smith, and Rev. John Strachan.

To His Excellency Sir Perigrine Maitland, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

On Your Excellency's reference as to the best means of putting to immediate use the Hospital reservation in the town of York, the committee have the honor to report:—

That by an order in Council dated 9th June, 1818, and approved by his Honor the Administrator, the Hospital reservation is granted to the Hon. Chief Justice Powell, the Hon. James Baby, and the Hon. and Rev. John Strachan, and to their heirs and assigns forever. In trust to observe such directions, and to consent to and allow such appropriations and dispositions of them as the Hon. the Executive Council for the affairs of this Province for the time being shall from time to time make and order, pursuant to the purpose for which the said parcel or tract of land was reserved, viz: for an Hospital, and to make such conveyance of the same to such persons and upon such trusts as His Majesty's said Executive Council for the time being shall from time to time direct.

Wherefore it is recommended that the said trustees, viz: the Hon. Chief Justice Powell, the Hon. James Baby, and the Hon. and Rev. John Strachan, be directed to lay out lots along the three sides of the Hospital Square, which are bounded by streets (of 60 feet front by 100 in depth) for building lots to be given out on leases of 21 years, and on similar terms as those on which the market lots are now leasing, the said trustees to reserve 200 feet in the middle of the south front as an entrance to the interior part of the square where the Hospital is recommended to be built.

The committee beg leave to state, that there are 6 lots, each containing one acre, which were set apart for French refugees, and have since been resumed by government, and are therefore at Your Ex-

Presiding Councillor.

A true Copy,

JOHN BEIKIE,
Clerk Executive Council.

Extract from the Minutes in Council of 15th Oct., 1819.

It is ordered that the lots of land on each side the road from the town of York to the Don Bridge be granted in trust to the Hon. William Dummer Powell, Chief Justice, the Hon. James Baby, and the Hon. and Rev. Dr. John Strachan, to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of the same towards raising a revenue for the support of the town and county Hospital, in the town of York—the proceeds to be paid into the hands of the person constituted treasurer of the Hospital, to be expended under the sanction of the Governors thereof, and account for to the Executive Council of the Province annually, when required.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

PROPOSED FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE General Hospital.

GENERAL HOSPITAL PATRON,

The Lieutenant Governor Sir John Colborne, K. C. B.

SECTION 1st.

Election of Governors, Officers, &c.

Persons contributing £25 to the funds of the Hospital, or £2 10s. annually, may be chosen Governors or Directors.

Persons contributing £10 to the Funds, or £1 5s. annually, shall be entitled to vote at the election of Governors.

The whole number of Governors, including the Trustees, shall in no case be less than thirteen.

The Governors to be elected, whose number shall not be less than seven, shall be chosen from among those who pay £2 10s. annually towards the support of the Hospital, or Donors of £25.

The votes shall be given in the ratio of the contribution, that is, one vote for every £1 5s. of annual contribution, provided that no person be entitled in any case to more than five votes.

No person shall be eligible to the office of Governor, unless he be in a situation to discharge its duties, being resident in York or its vicinity.

No subscriber or contributor shall have a right to vote at any election of Governors until he shall have paid his subscription or contribution for the current year.

The Governors shall be elected on the first Tuesday in the month of May in each and every year, in the Committee Room of the Hospital, at 11 o'clock A. M.

In case the number of Governors elected shall at any time, by death, resignation, absence, neglect of duty, or refusal to act in their office, be less than thirteen, their number shall be filled up for the current year by the board.

At their first meeting, which shall take place on the Monday after their election, the Governor shall choose a President, a Vice President, a Secretary, Treasurer and Committee of Management, to consist of three Governors, and the Medical attendants, any three of whom shall be a quorum and who shall remain in office one year from the date of their appointment.

A meeting of the Board of Directors shall be held in the Committee room of the Hospital on the first Tuesday in February, May, August, and November, which shall be called Stated Meetings, all other meetings being known by the name and style of Special or Extraordinary Meetings.

Any two Governors, by application to the President, or in his absence to the Vice-President, with his concurrence shall have power to call a meeting of the Board of Governors, giving at least one day's notice.

The Secretary shall state in his notice calling such special meeting, the business to be laid before it. Five Governors, with the President, or in his absence the Vice-President, shall be a quorum, and shall have power to transact all business relating to the Hospital, according to the existing rules and regulations.

The Governors shall have power at any ordinary or extraordinary Meeting, to appoint such officers, and fix their compensations or salaries, as they may deem necessary for the management of the Hospital.

It shall be incumbent upon the medical officer in charge to attend at the Hospital at least once a day, and if he is prevented so doing by sickness, or urgent professional avocations, he shall give notice thereof to one of his coadjutors who may be able to attend for him.

An ample supply of Medicines having been procured for the Dispensary, and a Resident Apothecary having been appointed, any indigent persons whose cases are not of a nature to require Hospital treatment, may receive advice and Medicines by attending personally, without any recommendation, at the Hospital, at the hour of noon throughout the year.

SECTION 2nd.

Of the President and Vice President.

The President, or in his absence, the Vice President, with the concurrence of two Directors, shall call a meeting, whenever he shall think it necessary, giving, at least, one day's notice thereof.

The President, or in his absence, the Vice President, or in their absence, any member, who may be elected by a majority of those present, shall preside at all meetings of the Board of Directors.

SECTION 3rd.

Of the Treasurer.

The Treasurer shall give such security as may be required by the Board of Directors, for the due accounting for, and payment of the monies which he shall receive from time to time, for the use of the Hospital.

He shall receive all monies belonging to the Hospital, and pay out the whole, or any part thereof, on receipt of a written order from the Board of Governors, or the Committee of Management, but not otherwise.

He shall deliver to the Secretary, seven days, at least, previous to the general annual meeting, held on the first Tuesday in May, in each and every year, a full statement of all his accounts, with the vouchers for the preceding year to be laid before the said meeting.

SECTION 4th.

Of the Secretary.

The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Board of Governors, take minutes of the proceedings of each meeting, and transcribe the same into a book.

He shall, at each meeting of the Board, read the proceedings of the last meeting.

He shall keep another book—into it, he shall transcribe the minutes of the Committee of Management, which meeting, it shall also be his duty to attend.

Through the Secretary, all communications, of whatsoever nature, shall be made to the Board of Governors, and by him, from the said Board, to the public, or any department of the Hospital.

He shall, within two days after the election of the Governors, or other officers of the Hospital, give notice thereof to the different persons so elected.

On the day preceeding each and every meeting of the Board of Directors, (special or stated,) it shall be his duty to send notice of the time and place of each meeting, to each Director and Medical Officer of the Hospital.

He shall, twenty days before any election of Governors, hang up a notice in the Committee room of the Hospital, and shall state therein the persons entitled to be elected, and the qualifications required of the electors.

He shall, on the Saturday preceding their week of attendance, notify, by letter, the weekly Visiting Directors.

He shall keep the necessary books for entering all the transactions of the Hospital, and abstracts of all the accounts.

On the first Tuesday in April, in each and every year, the Secretary shall send a monitory letter to each and every person whose subscription shall be in arrears.

SECTION 5th.

Of the Committee of Management.

The Committee of Management shall meet at the Hospital, at least, once a month, and shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to inquire strictly into the domestic economy of the house, to order all things necessary for the same, to inquire into the conduct of officers, matron and servants of the Hospital, to examine and order all repairs, to oversee and control every thing connected with the management of the Hospital, to credit, inspect and approve all accounts, and to order payment of the same, and to report, by the Secretary, a statement of all their transactions to each quarterly meeting of the Board of Governors.

Sundry Reports.

They shall have the general charge and care of the property of the Hospital, and shall enforce all necessary attention to economy, cleanliness and good conduct.

They shall have power by application to the President, or in his absence to the Vice President, to call whenever they think it necessary, a meeting of the Board of Governors.

They shall at their meetings make minutes, which the Secretary shall transcribe in a book kept for that purpose.

They shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to engage and discharge all servants of the Hospital, and to fix their wages.

The committee of management shall, five days previous to the General Annual Meeting, or the 1st Tuesday in May in each and every year, draw up a Report of the state of the Hospital, and of the state and number of patients admitted and discharged, and an abstract of the proceedings of the Board of Governors, and of all the accounts of the Hospital for the preceding year.

SECTION 6th.

The Steward or Purveyor.

The Steward or Purveyor shall purchase under the direction of the Committee of Management, fuel, provisions, and all other stores for the use of the Hospital, except Medicines and Medical stores. He shall present to the Committee of Management every three months, or oftener if required, a statement of his accounts.

SECTION 7th.

Admission of Patients.

It shall be the exclusive prerogative of the Medical attendants to judge if the person or persons recommended as patients be fit objects for admission.

Every Governor and Medical Officer of the Hospital, and the Clergymen belonging to such congregations of this town as make collections in aid of the funds of the Hospital, may recommend patients for admission.

Subscribers to the Institution not eligible as Governors, may recommend patients to the extent of their subscriptions, at the rate of one shilling per day for each patient, but such recommendation must be countersigned by one of the Governors.

That no Governor or Subscriber be allowed to send their servants as patients to the Hospital, unless they pay one shilling per day during their stay, for subsistence.

That no patient be admitted by the Steward unless he produce a recommendation signed by a Governor, except in case of violent wounds and severe accidents.

No patient shall be admitted into the Hospital whose case shall be considered incurable, or who is insane, or an idiot, nor any whose cure does not require the particular benefit of in-door practice.

No woman advanced in pregnancy shall be admitted as an in-door patient.

Such patients as are unable to pay for their maintenance, shall be received as paupers; such as are able to pay, shall be admitted into the Hospital as pay patients, at the rate of not less than one shilling per day.

The person recommending any patient or patients shall mention in the recommendation for admission if they are paupers, and if not, the sum they are to pay per week; in case of any doubt as to the ability of the patients to pay the Hospital dues, the Committee of management shall send to inquire the same.

More than twenty pauper patients cannot be provided for; it is therefore necessary that no patient from a distance should rely upon being admitted without a previous communication with the Directors: it is earnestly hoped, however, that such assistance may be afforded by the Provincial Legislature, as may enable the Directors to extend the benefits of the Institution more generally.

Patients admitted into the Lock Ward, shall pay 1s. 6d. per day.

When a pauper dies in the Hospital, the Steward shall give notice to the Clergyman to whose congregation or Church he or she may belong, that the burial may not be at the expense of the Hospital.

SECTION 8th.

Of the Patients.

Any patient absenting himself without leave, or being guilty of drunkenness, or any irregularity, such as swearing, or speaking or acting disrespectfully to any of the servants of the Institution, or breaking through any of the regulations, or neglecting the directions prescribed for his behaviour and recovery, by the Medical Officers, shall, upon being reported, be immediately dismissed by any member of the Committee of Management.

SECTION 9th.

On the first Tuesday of the month of May, a general meeting shall be held of the Trustees, Governors, and subscribers, before which, a report of the state of the Hospital shall be laid, detailing the number of patients admitted and discharged, an abstract of all the proceedings of the Board of Governors, and of all the accounts of the Hospital for the preceding year, with such other matters respecting the Institution as may be thought worthy of consideration; and after such proceedings on this information as may be deemed proper, the meeting shall proceed to the election of Governors for the ensuing year.

"Circulars to Boards of Health and applications for assistance during the prevalence of the Cholera."

CIRCULAR.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE,
Toronto, 18th August, 1834. }

SIR,

I am directed by the Lieutenant Governor to acquaint you, that from the general prevalence of the Cholera in the Province, and the peculiar difficulties which many townships in your neighborhood may experience in procuring Medical aid, His Excellency will place at the disposal of every Board of Health in the Province, such a sum as the members of the Board may consider indispensably necessary, to enable Medical attendance to be afforded to persons who have no means of procuring it, and to towns or villages in which the disease may appear to render the aid of the Board requisite.

I have, &c.

WM. ROWAN.

Chairman Board of Health.

(Copy.)

BROCKVILLE, 19th July, 1834.

SIR,

The Board of Health for this town made a representation to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, a day or two ago upon the state of the indigent and sick emigrants who are subsisting upon the charity of its inhabitants.

Since then, a report which was in circulation of the Cholera having broke out in Montreal and Quebec, has been satisfactorily confirmed. There have a number of deaths occurred at both of the above mentioned places, and along the line of communication to this place. The ravages of the disease have not been confined to emigrants, but a majority of cases have occurred among the inhabitants as we have been informed.

Last evening one death happened here—the unfortunate individual was a female emigrant, who was attacked a few hours before on her way up in a barge. This morning, a child of about 6 years of age, who came up in the same boat has been attacked, and in the opinion of Dr. Edmondson, a member of the Board, cannot long survive. Under these circumstances, and under the firm conviction, that the inhabitants here are about to experience the dreadful effects of this disease again—the Board have determined to take upon themselves to open the Hospital; in doing which they intend to observe the strictest economy, and trust, that any expense, which they may incur in what they consider a conscientious discharge of their duty, will be reimbursed by the government. The Board beg to request that they may receive an answer to this as well as to their former application as soon as convenient; as, in the event of His Excellency's declining to place them in possession of funds, they must desist from their undertaking.—The Board beg leave also to request, that they may be favored with any regulations, that may be made by the Governor in Council, concerning the entry and departure of boats or vessels, as they feel, that a great necessity exists at this place for something of the kind. In the mean time the Board will endeavour to supply the want of such regulations by acts of their own.

I am directed by the Board to make this communication to you, to be submitted for the consideration of His Excellency.

I have the honor to be, &c.

DAVID JONES.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, }
Toronto, 29th July, 1834. }

SIR,

I beg to state for the information of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, that Asiatic Cholera seems to prevail to some extent in this City at present.—On Saturday last I believe the first decided case occurred in March Street and proved fatal—since then, several cases have made their appearance there and elsewhere in the City, which have also terminated fatally.—As far as I can gather from information received, there appears to have been up to this time, 12 cases, 8 of whom have proved fatal—this I do not report on regular official returns made to the Board, but on facts within their knowledge, or derived from other authentic sources,—there is also a circumstance worthy of remark, that the disease of this season seems to be so rapid in its progress and not preceded by any premonitory symptoms, that before medical advice can be obtained, the collapse state is so completely formed as to resist all salutary effect of medicine.

I am directed by the Board to request you will have the goodness to state to me for the information of the Board, whether His Excellency has it in his power to assist them with funds to meet the extraordinary expenses occasioned by the existence of this dire disease among us—this application they are urged to, both from a number of the victims being recent emigrants, and the limited means at the disposal of the Corporation arising out of City Assessments, &c.

I have the honor to be, &c.

T. D. MORRISON,

Chairman of the Board of Health.

KINGSTON, 30th July, 1834.

DEAR SIR,

I deem it my duty to state to you for the information of His Excellency, that the Asiatic Cholera broke out here on Saturday last and has been raging with great mortality, and I can state that no less than 13 interments took place yesterday—the disease came very suddenly, and from the concealment in the Lowe Province, the same precautions were not used,—The Board of Health being without funds, considered it absolutely necessary that an Hospital should be opened, and the members individually become responsible for £100, which they borrowed, conceiving that His Excellency would make good from funds at his disposal, such outlay as may be unavoidable under the present crisis.

To
Lieut. Colonel ROWAN, &c. &c. &c.

I have, &c.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, }
9th August, 1834. }

SIR,

I am directed by the Board to state to you for the information of His Excellency, with reference to your letter of Thursday last, that every possible attention has been given to the Hospital—that the Surgeons in attendance have been furnished with such articles as they required, with attendants and with money, so that those articles the Steward might be in immediate want of, could be purchased with the least possible delay.

I am also directed to state that the Corporation have assessed the inhabitants two pence in the pound for this year, being double the rate of last year—that owing to the irregularity of the assessment laws, this tax has been found to bear heavily on the humble classes of the citizens—that several members voted against even two pence in the pound as too much—that about £400 of arrearages have been left unpaid by the district magistrates and made chargeable on the funds of the City—that the original assessment of one penny over and above the City assessment has to be paid to the district funds, and that the surplus funds derivable from the market stalls and block, over and above the interest of the bank debt, which were formerly applied to City purposes, are by the charter ordered to be employed to liquidate the debt to the bank.

Under these circumstances some of the members of the Corporation became security to the Agricultural bank for a loan of £1,000, payable in three months—with this money the Corporation have been improving the streets and lanes, removing nuisances, making side-walks, and all necessary alterations in the buildings they occupy, with other casual charges—nor have they hesitated to relieve distress as far as it was in their power, and to make provision for the reception of patients at the Cholera Hospital.

If the funds derived from tavern licenses within the City were under their control, there would be no difficulty in proceeding without a further supply of money, but under existing circumstances, and in consequence of what His Excellency stated to Doctor Tims yesterday, the Board of Health have directed me to apply to His Excellency for £500, or any sum that may be required for purposes connected with the Cholera Hospital, or the health of the City, to be carefully employed only for those purposes, and accounted for in detail to the Legislature at its next ensuing meeting, or in any other way His Excellency may direct.

To
Lieut. Colonel ROWAN, &c. &c. &c.

I have, &c.
JAMES LESSLIE,
Chairman of the Board of Health.

LETTER from Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery to Returning Officer for county of Leeds, notifying him of the intention of the Legislature to pass the bill granting an extension of the time for holding the election for said county.

Toronto, 23rd Feb. 1835.

DEAR SIR :

A bill extending the time for holding the ensuing election for the county of Leeds to 14 days has passed two branches of the Legislature, and now only waits for the Royal Assent to give it legal effect.

His Excellency had intended to go down to the Council for this purpose to day, but something interfered to prevent it, and the ceremony will not take place before to-morrow.

His Excellency is particularly desirous that it should be known in the county of Leeds as early as possible that the electors will have this additional time to poll their votes, and he has therefore requested me to say to you, that you have his permission to make the circumstance known as soon as you receive this letter.

By to-morrow's mail I shall transmit to you printed copies of the bill.

I have the honor, &c.
SAMUEL P. JARVIS.

SIR,

By this days mail I enclose to you fifty copies of a bill which has just received the Royal assent, extending the time for holding the ensuing Election for the County of Leeds to fourteen days—and it is His Excellency's command that you lose no time in giving it publicity throughout the County.

I have transmitted copies of the bill to the four candidates and to several other gentlemen in your district.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient,
Humble Servant,
SAMUEL P. JARVIS,
Clerk Crown Chancery.

SIR, I have to acknowledge the receipt of a packet from you by mail of this day, under date from Brockville the 4th instant, covering the writ of Election for the County of Leeds—the poll book—your oath of office—a protest against the election by Messrs. Buell and Howard and your explanatory letter.

I take the earliest opportunity of informing you that the Indenture or Return was not annexed to the Writ, neither was it enclosed in the parcel which contained the Writ.

The omission is particularly unfortunate, as I am, in consequence unable to communicate officially to the House of Assembly the result of this election, and until I do, the members elect cannot be sworn or take their seats.

I trust that the omission has been discovered by you and that I shall receive the return by to-morrow's post.

SIR, I yesterday addressed a letter to you acknowledging the receipt of a packet containing the Writ of Election and other papers, relating to the recent election for the County of Leeds—and informing you that you had omitted to annex to the writ, the return or indenture, or to enclose it to me with the other papers.

I was greatly in hopes that the omission would almost immediately be discovered by you, and the indenture transmitted by the Post of the following day.

This not being the case, I am now commanded by His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, to require your immediate attendance at Toronto, to complete the execution of the Writ by annexing the return according to law.

LETTER from the Receiver General to the Civil Secretary on the subject of the Casual and Territorial and Canada Company's Revenues.

*Receiver General's Office, }
Toronto 28th Feb. 1835. }*

SIR,

The accounts required by the Commons House of Assembly in a message to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor of the 17th inst. conveyed to me in your letter of the 26th, will take a long period to prepare, with the limited assistance in my office, which is scarcely sufficient to discharge the ordinary and daily duties which must be done. In order therefore that the information may be furnished with as little delay as possible, I beg leave to transmit original copies of accounts attested on oath of the Casual and Territorial Revenue, as well as the Revenue derived from the Canada Company, for the years 1826, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, and 32, in as full and detailed a manner as I am able.

The Originals have been forwarded to the Board of Audit in London for examination.

These accounts I have to request, may be kept with care, and returned to me when done with, or they may be deposited in the keeping of the House of Assembly, if they may be accessible to me or to my order.

The payments to the Right Reverend Bishop McDonell as well as all the other items specified in the address and paid out of these funds, will be found in the accounts. You are no doubt aware that the appropriation of these funds is made by instructions from His Majesty's government in England from time to time.

With regard to the balances, the public accounts furnished to the Assembly will shew the amount in my possession, and for which the public have ample security, viz: £10,000 Sterling in London, and £40,000 Currency in this country, independent of my own Bonds for £30,000 more.

All my arrangements are made to suit the public interest, accommodation and convenience, with a due regard to my own security. I have held the office for nearly 15 years, and all demands on the Treasury have met with instant and punctual satisfaction; even when the whole of the funds have been exhausted. The balances are active and fluctuating, and the Fund under the control of the Legislature has very seldom much money in it; reference to the account on the 30th of June last, will shew it in advance £2347. The debt of the Government can and always has employed any balance which may have been unappropriated. But if the Legislature wish the Balances to be employed so as to produce interest, and can devise any mode in which this can be done, I shall be very happy, as far as it may be in my power, to facilitate such an arrangement; in this case however, I should expect that my sureties will be entirely exonerated, as neither they nor myself could justly be held responsible for the safe keeping of the Public Funds in such selected places of deposit.

I have the honor to be, &c.

LETTER from A. B. Hawke Esquire, Emigrant Agent, with statements shewing the expense incurred on account of Emigration for the years 1831, 1832, 1833, and 1834.

Emigrant Office, }

SIR,

Toronto, March 13th, 1835. }

I have the honor to transmit herewith agreeably to the Lieutenant Governor's instructions, statements shewing the expenses incurred and payments made on account of Emigration in the years 1831, 1832, 1833, and 1834.

I would beg to observe, that the different items in the statements are supported by vouchers, which have been sent in with the accounts to the Inspector General; and that the dates of the payments, the nature of the services, and the periods at which they were performed, as well as the rate of wages, and prices of the articles furnished, are stated at length in the vouchers.

I also transmit herewith statements shewing the expenses incurred and payments made on account of Roads and Bridges in the years 1833 and 1834. Before the Contractors were paid, suitable persons were appointed by the Government to examine, measure, and report upon the Roads made, to enable the Government to ascertain whether the work was performed according to the contract, and that the charges made by the contractors were correct.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obedient humble Servant
A. B. HAWKE.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON PETITION OF Joseph Turton.

Report on the claim of Mr. Joseph Turton, Builder, for a balance of £290 15 8 on work and materials expended on the Parliament House, in 1830, 1831 and 1832.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly.

The select committee to whom was referred the petition of Joseph Turton, of this city, Builder, BEG LEAVE TO REPORT:—

That Mr. Turton was a sub-contractor for the erection of the Parliament buildings, he having taken the contract which Mr. Priestman felt himself unable to fulfil; on making up his accounts he (Mr. T.) considered that a balance was due him from the government of £290 15 8, to this as a just debt he made oath before James Fitzgibbon, Esq., one of the Commissioners, on the 3rd of March, 1834, and applied to the House of Assembly for an enquiry into the justice of his claim, and for payment.

The House referred his petition to a select committee, composed of Mr. Jarvis, then member for the city, Mr. John Roblin, and the late Colonel Thomas Hornor, member for Oxford, who called before them and examined Grant Powell and James Fitzgibbon, Esquires, James G. Chewett, Esq., Mr. William Heather, Surveyor, Mr. Edward Wood and Mr. George Norris. They had also in evidence the certificate of forty master masons and carpenters of the town of York. (No. 6 in Appendix.) Mr. Turton's account of work done and payments made, Messrs. Ewart and Parke's remarks on the said account, (Nos. 2 3 and 4 of Appendix) and the specification under which Mr. Turton became a contractor (see appendix No. 10).

On the day before the session closed, the committee agreed to a report which was signed by Colonel Hornor, their chairman, and is hereto annexed and numbered one. It states that on competent evidence they had recommended that payment should be made of Mr. Turton's claim. But it appears that an opportunity was not given Colonel Hornor to present the report, consequently Mr. Turton continued unpaid.

Early in the present session Mr. Turton again applied to the House, and it was pleased to refer his memorial to this committee, who re-examined Messrs. Chewett, Heather, Wood, and Norris; these witnesses adhered severally to the testimony they had given in 1834.

By far the greater part of Mr. Turton's claim is made up of a difference in the measurement of brick work. Messrs. Ewart and Parke have only allowed 15 bricks to the foot, while Mr. Turton insists that the customary and proper method of measuring such work in this city is by allowing 16 bricks to the foot.

Mr. Turton is supported in this opinion by Messrs. John Richey, Jacob Latham, James Turner Robert Petch, John Harper, William Heather, Robert Ford, Isaac White, Daniel Morrison, William Hutchison, Joseph Hill, Robert Stewart, James Dunn, and a number of other highly respectable master workmen, whose certificate is appended (No. 6). It even appears that in some cases 17 are allowed to the foot. Mr. Chewett corroborates the testimony of the builders, and states that in the range of houses he lately erected 16 bricks were allowed.

On a reference to the specification the House will perceive that Mr. Turton was compelled to furnish bricks of a given size, but that no special agreement was entered into by him for an admeasurement of his work done for the country upon terms different from what is customary and proper in all similar cases.

Messrs. Heather and Norris's testimony, and the facts furnished by the contractor himself, has enabled this committee to confirm the decision of the committee of last session, with regard to the plastering, which forms the other material item of difference. It is to be regretted that a tradesman having so fair a claim for remuneration, as Mr. Turton's appears to be, should have so long been deprived of the reward of his labour, and we respectfully recommend that provision should be made for the payment of his account.

DAVID GIBSON,
Chairman.

Committee Room, House of Assembly, }

No. 1.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Joseph Turton, respectfully report:—

That the petitioner was employed as a sub-contractor in the erection of the buildings for the use of the Legislature, and as such contractor received from time to time a sum of money amounting to £4325 6 6½, which sum was paid to the petitioner by the commissioners, under the certificate of Messrs. Ewart and Parke, who were employed to measure the same. The petitioner complains that in such measurement, fifteen bricks only were computed to the square foot, when, in fact, sixteen bricks by the usage of the country are always computed to the square foot, by which estimate, and a difference in measurement in other items, the petitioner declares to be due to him the sum of £290 15 8. And your committee having had before them, competent persons, whose evidence, together with the original specification of the Parliament buildings, substantiate the claim of the petitioner, recommend to Your Honorable House the payment of the above sum, and have hereunto subjoined the documents relative thereto, for the fuller information of your Honorable House.

Chairman.

Sir,—In compliance with your directions we have measured the work done to the Parliament Buildings by Joseph Turton, under his contract with Matthew Priestman, bearing date, the 19th of July, 1830, and having carefully examined his Account rendered of the same, beg leave to submit the following remarks on its several items, separated and numbered.

No. 1.	422 Toise of stone work, at £1 15 0 per toise,.....	738 10 0
	This item agrees with our certificate of the 12th of January, 1831.
No. 2.	829 thousand, five hundred bricks, at £2 12 6 per M.....	2177 8 9
	This item also agrees with our certificate of the above date.
No. 3.	55 thousand, three hundred, by adding one brick to each foot, they being usual and customary allowance, viz: 16 bricks to each foot of reduced brick work, 144, 18, 3.....
	We believe this charge to be incorrect.
No. 4.	122 thousand, five hundred, of workmanship in openings, at 15s.....	91 17 6
	This item agrees with our certificate of January 12th, 1831.
No. 5.	40 thousand laid this last season, in chimneys, arch in hall and beam filling, &c. £105.....
	There is only 33 thousand bricks in this item, the difference, we presume has occurred by mistake, at £2 12 6.	86 12 6
No. 6.	Extra brick work for projections of 12 large and 5 small windows.....	37 10 0
No. 7.	Amount of day work as per bill,.....	30 7 8½
	We believe this item to be correct.
No. 8.	Use of scaffolding for carpenters and painters, £10.....
	This accommodation has been fully compensated in the use of scaffolding for plastering.
No. 9.	1,120 y'ds and 4 feet of pugging and deafening under floors, at 9d per yard, £42 0 4½.....
	In measuring this work, we find it contains 895 yards, at 9d.....	33 11 3

We the undersigned, Master Masons and Carpenters of the Town of York, do hereby certify that the usual customary and proper method of measuring brick work, when the wall is one and a half brick thick or what is technically called reduced brick work, is by allowing bricks 16 per foot. We instance several buildings in this Town, both public and private, that are built with statute bricks, and which have been measured and allowed 16 and in some buildings 17 per foot. The College buildings and the Attorney General's private house are of the latter description. The College buildings measured by Mr. Duncan Kennedy, and approved of by Colonel Fitz Gibbon. The Scotch Kirk measured by Mr. Parke the partner of Mr. Ewart. The Honorable Colonel Allan's private house. Also the Jail and Court House and many others to numerous to mention.

I certify that I have had occasion to make enquiry respecting the measure of Brick laid up in Walls, and that I have ascertained the number required for each foot, to be from sixteen to seventeen and a half, but most commonly sixteen which is the number used in my own buildings.

J. G. CHEWETT.

York 3d March 1834.

DEPOSITION OF WILLIAM HEATHER, SURVEYOR, &c. OF YORK, U. C.

Deponent has been engaged for a period of about 26 years as a Measurer and Practical Builder (four years of which in this town) during which time he has had great practice in measuring buildings, and upon all occasions has never allowed less than 16 bricks to the foot, and when the bricks are less than the statute size a larger quantity in proportion to their size. The Statute size may be seen by referring to the Statutes at large, 17 Geo. 3, Chap. 42, which Enacts that all Bricks made for sale shall be when burnt eight and a half inches long, four inches wide, and two and a half inches thick.

WM. HEATHER.

Item No. 8.

Deponent is aware that the Scaffolding of Joseph Turton remained up for the use of the Carpenters and Painters nearly one year after the Brick work was up, and the charge for which in my opinion is very moderate. And as to what is said that the scaffold for the plastering being an equivalent for the above I by no means consider it so.

WM. HEATHER.

Item No. 9.

Deponent prior to any of the floors being laid measured this work and is satisfied that the quantity charged is correct.

WM. HEATHER.

Item No. 14.

Deponent also measured this work including the Cornice on two sides of the Assembly Room which was finished and afterwards taken down and altered by direction of the Architects employed by the Commissioners, having girted all the Mouldings, is every way certain that the quantities charged in Turton's account is correct.

WM. HEATHER.

Item No. 26.

Deponent also measured this item, and is prepared to shew by the dimensions, &c. taken at the time, that the quantities charged is correct.

WM. HEATHER.

DEPOSITION OF GEORGE NORRIS, OF YORK, PLASTERER.

Deponent was employed in running off the Cornice in the Assembly Room, the two long sides of which was finished, and which has since been taken down and altered to its present form, has the Mould here with which the first Cornice was run.

GEORGE NORRIS.

No. 9.

DEPOSITION OF EDWARD WOOD, BRICKLAYER, &c.

Deponent was employed by Joseph Turton in building the Parliament building in the year 1830. In the year following he was also employed in doing the following works: Carrying up and finishing chimney above the Ceiling floors. Taking down part of walls and building Arch under the Hall, and piers under do. Sundry beam filling in both the Legislative Chambers of which the walls were one and a half bricks in thickness,* and were added on the 2 cross wall, making large brick drain across the building and sundry other jobs, which in the opinion of deponent must have taken 40 M bricks.

EDWARD WOOD.

* Those walls were measured by Messrs. Ewart and Parke as being only one brick thick.

REPORT

OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE LAST ELECTION FOR THE COUNTY OF LEEDS.

The COMMITTEE of PRIVILEGE to whom were referred the Letters of the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery to the Honorable Speaker of the House of Assembly have examined the same, together with several other documents, viz:—
The Writ of Election, two Indentures and other Records, and several Witnesses.

The Writ of Election is dated 17th February and directed to the Returning Officer for the County of Leeds, commanding him to hold an election for the election of two Members for the said County, and to attach the Indenture to the Writ, and return the same forthwith. It appears an election took place; and after the adjournment of the Poll the first day, Messrs. Buell and Howard, two of the Candidates at the election, protested against the further continuance of the said election on the grounds that there was force, violence and intimidation on the part of the friends and supporters of Messrs. Jameson and Gowan, so as to prevent the freedom of election, and claimed to be returned as the Members elect.

On Tuesday the 3rd, the Poll again opened, and after polling some time, it appears the Returning Officer closed the Poll; and on Friday the 6th, placed in the post office a packet addressed to the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery containing the Writ, the Poll Book, the Protest and a Letter—but through mistake omitted to attach one of the Indentures to the Writ. Two Indentures have been shewn to Your Committee; one transmitted by the Returning Officer to the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery, which was mailed on the 13th and received by the Clerk on the 18th instant; the other was submitted by the Returning Officer, and upon examining them, they appear to have been executed at the same time, and by the same persons.

Your Committee herewith attach an examination made before them of the Returning Officer relative to his letter to the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery—in which it was intimated there had been certain riots and other improper conduct at the said election on the part of the aforesaid friends of Messrs. Jameson and Gowan.

Your Committee beg to state that it appears by the evidence of the Returning Officer, that altho' he received an intimation from his Deputy Mr. Powell, that his personal safety was in some danger, and altho' there was a good deal of violence and improper conduct on Monday, yet he did not continue the election and execute the Indenture on Tuesday from any fear and apprehension of his personal safety.

On the subject of the proceedings of the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery in not immediately reporting to the House, Your Committee would observe that it appears by his own evidence that he received the Writ from the Returning Officer about 11 o'clock the 10th instant, and that he discovered the deficiency in the office of the Solicitor General and in Mr. Hagerman's presence, between 2 and 3 o'clock, and that he did not report the circumstances to the House until late in the afternoon of the next day, the 11th instant, and not until he had written two letters to the Returning Officer, one on Tuesday the 10th merely informing him of the omission, the other by the direction of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, requiring the Returning Officer's immediate attendance at Toronto to complete the execution of the Writ for the County of Leeds by annexing the Return according to law.

Your Committee are clearly of opinion that it was the imperative duty of the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery to have reported the circumstances to the House immediately, and with the least possible delay on receiving the papers from the Returning Officer, and not to have presumed to hold any official communication with the Returning Officer in regard to the election and return or to have issued any orders to the Returning Officer, requiring him to give his attendance at Toronto to amend or alter the Writ or supply any deficiency by attaching any thing thereto, either upon his own responsibility or under the direction of His Excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, or any other person or body, except the House of Assembly; the said Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery being merely a ministerial officer, and the House of Assembly being the only tribunal to whom the Returning Officer is or can be the least amenable for his conduct as Returning Officer, and who alone has any or the least control over him, or can in any wise punish him for his conduct as Returning Officer; and whose orders alone the said Returning Officer was, or is bound to obey, either in giving his attendance at Toronto, or to alter, amend, or supply any deficiency in the return, and undoubtedly wrong for the said Clerk to take it upon himself to wait until late in the afternoon the next day, or even from the hour of eleven o'clock in the forenoon until between two and three in the afternoon of the day he received the papers, (that being the time he states he discovered the omission, a space of between 3 and 4 hours,) while he could have performed the same in the course of as many minutes, the Secretary's office being only a short distance from the House of Assembly, and the Government House and the Solicitor General's office being on the road between the two. However, it appears by the evidence of the said Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery, and that of several others examined before Your Committee, that there is some discrepancy on the subject of the time he discovered the omission and some other matters, in consequence thereof Your Committee conceive it is proper to report the evidence relative to the same.

Your Committee consider it of the most vital importance to the freedom of elections, and in order that Returning Officers should be removed entirely from any influence, either executive or of any other character, and clearly understand they are subject to no power or body for the due execution of their important trusts, but to the Commons House of Assembly, and that it is proper that it should be known, that for any body or power to interfere or presume to exercise any control over any Returning officer or for any Returning officer to alter or amend any return in pursuance of such order must be conceded as a high breach of the privileges of the Commons House of Assembly.

All which is submitted.

21st March, 1835. }

EVIDENCE OF SAMUEL P. JARVIS, ESQUIRE, C. C. CHANCERY.

I received the return Writ for Leeds, about 11 o'clock, on Tuesday the 10th instant.

There was accompanying the Writ, the Poll Book; the oath of Returning Officer; a letter from the Returning Officer, giving a short history of the proceedings of the Election; and a protest by Messrs. Buell and Howard.

There was no return or indenture annexed to the writ, nor enclosed in the envelope, nor that accompanied it. About an hour after, I received the packet containing the Writ and the aforesaid papers, I proceeded on my way to the House of Assembly, to report the circumstance, supposing that the Return was regular. The Returning Officer having requested me to communicate the contents of his letter to His Excellency, I called and delivered the letter—after I left His Excellency's office, and before I had drawn up the usual report of the Return for the Speaker, I examined the Writ, and then discovered that the Return was wanting; before then I had merely broken the seal of the packet, or read the letter from the Returning Officer.

I afterwards returned to my office, and supposing it was an omission of the Returning Officer, purely accidental, I wrote to him to apprise him of the omission, and I determined to wait until the arrival of the mail on the following morning, before I made a report on the subject, for I could not help thinking that the absence of the Return was unintentional.

This morning, the 11th instant, I called at the Post Office, and found nothing addressed to me by the Returning Officer.

On my way to the House, about noon this day, (the 11th instant,) I again called on the Governor, and stated to him the omission of the Returning Officer to affix a Return to the Writ.

His Excellency seemed much annoyed at the circumstance, and desired me to write to the Returning Officer to repair immediately to Toronto; and likewise desired me to lose no time, in reporting to the House the circumstances, which I did forthwith.

I think the first time I communicated to His Excellency's Secretary the omission on the part of the Returning Officer, to annex the Indenture or Return to the Writ, was on the morning of the 11th inst near 12 o'clock, but I was at the Government Office on the afternoon before, and I may have spoken of it. I think there was some conversation about the election; I think I first discovered the omission in Mr. Hagerman's office, sometime about 2 or 3, P. M.

—called at the office to see Mr. Gilkinson—Mr. Hagerman asked me what paper I had in my hand: on saying it was the Writ of Election for Leeds, he asked me, if I had received any particulars respecting the election: I opened the parcel, and looking through the papers, I think this was the time I made the discovery of the want of the Return. I made no report or communication to any person on the subject, but returned to my office and wrote to the Returning Officer the letter to which I have before alluded, which neither His Excellency, nor any other person in his office, has ever seen to this day that I know of.

His Excellency's Secretary on the morning of the 11th instant, when I called, said it would be as well for me to see His Excellency.—I did so—and His Excellency desired me to write to the Returning officer, and desire him to repair to Toronto, and immediately to report to the House.

I wrote the first letter in the Secretary's office.

Mr. Hagerman was present when I discovered the omission.

My reason for not reporting to the House immediately on receipt of the packet from the Returning Officer, and as soon as I discovered the omission, was my perfect conviction that it was merely an accidental omission, and that the return would arrive by the following post.

I had received the packet from the Returning Officer, before I received a note from Mr. Perry, requesting me to inform him if I had received the return of the Leeds Election, which note I answered by saying I had not received the return.

I received another note from Mr. Perry to-day on the same subject, which note I did not answer, as I was just leaving my office for the House of Assembly, to report officially to the Speaker the circumstances respecting the writ.

This day (the 11th instant), both the Attorney General and Mr. Gowan, at different times inquired of me whether I had received the return to the Leeds Election, I answered that I had not, and I inquired of them whether they or either of them had brought up the duplicate; they replied they had not, and they further stated that the Returning Officer on being requested by them or either of them to deliver one part of the indenture, declined, stating that it was his custom to retain the one part himself—Mr. Gowan's queries were made this morning about ten o'clock—the Attorney General's in the House of Assembly in the afternoon of to-day; previous to which I had no conversation respecting the matter with them. Neither the Attorney General nor Mr. Gowan have called on me to administer the oaths to enable them to take their seats.

MR. JARVIS, Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery, again called in and examined on the 18th instant.

Says Mr. Gowan has asked him, the witness, every day when he met him in the street, whether he had received the indenture,—and he told him no.

Has had no conversation other than the above.

Has called every day, sometimes twice or three times at the Post Office, to see whether the return had been received.—Has had no conversation with the Attorney General.

After he got the letter, he called on his way up here, and got a letter which he had with him—(opened the envelope in presence of committee and found it to contain a return and a letter from the Returning Officer.)

MR. SOLICITOR GENERAL, examined.

Did His Excellency advise with you respecting sending for the Returning Officer?

1st. No—Neither was I consulted by any other person, and gave no opinion or advice upon the subject. I was not aware of the order for the Returning Officer to come up until told of it yesterday the 11th instant by the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery.

2nd. I had heard from some quarter that there was a defect in the return on Monday, but knew nothing of the letters written to the Returning Officer on that or the subsequent day—the first certain information I had of the deficiency in the return was after I came to the House yesterday.

3rd. The papers sent up by the Returning Officer to the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery were submitted to me, and I do not remember that I ever looked at or examined them; I certainly was never required to do so. I think I saw the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery on Monday—but when he came to me I do not think he was aware of any deficiency in the return—it is probable that he then had the papers with him, but when he left me I do not think he knew that there was any actual deficiency in the return.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S Evidence.

Mr. Attorney General was present when the late election for the County of Leeds closed. There was an Indenture entered into and executed in duplicate. It was a printed form only changed from the usual form by changing the name of York to Toronto—has not the duplicate—heard Mr. Gowan ask for the duplicate—Returning Officer said he usually kept the duplicate himself—declined giving it and preferred keeping it himself—has not seen the duplicate since, nor the return—happened to be present when the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery came into the Government House, and said with some surprise that he had opened the envelope and found the writ and letter from the Returning Officer but not the return—thinks this was about 12 on Tuesday the 10th instant—heard the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery say that he would write to the Returning Officer instantly—His Excellency was present—There was no conversation other than that the Returning Officer had left it by mistake, or the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery must have left it on the table—Saw the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery again the same day for a moment—no conversation passed, only that he said it was not enclosed with the writ in answer to my enquiry—has not heard from the Returning Officer since—has not made application since to any person to administer the oath—not considering that the officer was required to administer the oath until the return was before the House—was on his way to the House to take the oath when he heard that the return was not sent—from what Mr. Gowan stated yesterday, he had not heard from the Returning Officer any thing about the return.

MR. SECRETARY ROWAN called in and examined.

Heard from the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery sometime in the forenoon on Tuesday the 10th inst. that there was a deficiency in the return of the Writ of Election for the County of Leeds—saw the protest and letter of the Returning Officer, with a parchment supposed to be the writ of election.

The clerk of the crown in chancery came to report to His Excellency, that the Returns to the Writ had been received, took him in to His Excellency, and a short time afterwards he came to know if he could have left any of the papers in the Government Office. All this occurred between the hours of ten and twelve, A. M., probably within a short time after eleven—saw the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery at my office, on Wednesday morning the 11th instant; he said he had not received the return which he had expected by post. This was the whole conversation with the Clerk of the Crown-in-Chancery. There have not been any official papers received at the Government Office, respecting the election of Leeds, since the election.

The Postmaster gave the packet to Col. Rowan's messenger to deliver to Mr. Jarvis.

Mr. FITZGIBBON, CLERK OF THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY, called in and examined.

Had been applied to by Mr. Gowan to be sworn in a member of the House of Assembly, on Monday morning, as he thinks—has not since been applied to by Mr. Gowan—has never been applied to for the same purpose by the Attorney General.

Mr. Jarvis, C. C. C. told the clerk of the House that the Speaker did not approve of his reporting to the Lieutenant Governor, and writing to the Returning Officer—and he was afraid he would be blamed by the House for so doing.—This was on Tuesday the 10th instant.—This statement was made to the clerk of the House, in his room.

PETER PERRY, Esq., examined,

It appears by the evidence of the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery that he wrote you a note respecting the return of the Leeds election.—What were the contents of that note?—(*Note produced?) It appears this note is dated the 9th March, inst.—at what time did you receive it?—Answer—I received it on Monday, the 9th instant, and it is the only note I received on the subject.

* Dear Sir—I have received no official account of the Leeds Election—I saw in a Brockville paper, (I think on Saturday) that the Attorney General and Mr. Gowan had been re-elected.

I am, &c.

SAMUEL P. JARVIS-

MR. SHERWOOD THE RETURNING OFFICER FOR THE COUNTY OF LEEDS.

Says he received no communication from any person excepting from the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

Had received no communication from the Speaker of the House of Assembly, requesting his attendance at the bar of the House, with papers and documents relative to the Leeds Election and Return. Had received two Letters one dated 10th and the other the 11th at the same time on Saturday 14th at two o'clock from the clerk of the Crown in Chancery, relative to the deficiency in the Return, one of which required his attendance at Toronto to complete the Return, and started immediately for Toronto, by the first stage, previously to the arrival of the next Western Mail. (Produced the letter, the one dated the 10th, Mail marked at Toronto 11th, and no mark on it as having been received at the Toronto Post Office too late.)

2nd. The first that he learned any thing of the deficiency was on Friday, the Hon. Charles Jones told him that Mr. Whiting had arrived from Toronto, and said that the Indentures were not sent up with the writ, and other papers relative to the Election, he went immediately home and found it among his papers. He immediately forwarded it to Toronto, previously to having received any communication from the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

It appears by your letter to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, that violence and improper conduct was used by the Attorney General's and Gowan's friends—please to state to what you refer.

He commenced polling about one o'clock P. M. He had erected the Hustings with an opening on each side, and assigned one opening to each candidate, which he made publicly known to the people, that they might understand it—thinks they did understand it. The thing was so arranged as to render it unnecessary for the friends of Buel and Howard, and those of Gowan and Attorney General to intermix. After the Polling had proceeded for a short time, he observed several of Messrs Gowan's and Attorney General's apparent friends and supporters interfering at Mr. Howards window, not so as to prevent their voting at the time, yet in such a way as he believed would lead to unpleasant transactions. One person had a large drum, and continued beating it close to the window. The returning officer went out once or twice and requested them to desist, stating that they had no business there, that window was for Mr. Howard's friends.—Returning Officer took hold of the man with the drum and told him to stand back; he did so a little way, saying at the same time, is that far enough, but did not go away as he thinks he should have done—they appeared to pay but little attention to him. About two o'clock he adjourned for an hour, and then again proceeded to take votes, and the like interference again commenced, and Mr. Jonas Jones went out through Mr. Howard's window to keep the peace. Mr. Jones afterwards came in with his head bruised and much injured, and demanded of the Returning Officer and the authorities to assist in quelling the riots and keeping the peace—said the conduct was very improper and brutal, and said something about adjourning or closing the poll after finishing the vote then at the window. He did adjourn until the next day at nine o'clock. He saw a Mr. Shipman and Elliott who he understood was assisting Mr. Jones to keep the peace, who was also injured. Shipman had his head badly cut. During the day a board was torn off from the Hustings, by Gowan and Jemeson's supposed friends, and near Mr. Gowan's window, he, the Returning Officer insisted, that he would not proceed with the election until it was replaced, it was again nailed on, after which an attempt was made and partly succeeded in tearing off another board from the side occupied by Mr. Howard—he the Returning Officer was advised by Mr. Powell, his deputy, to take care of himself, stating that he had heard something which made him fear that the Returning Officer was not altogether safe in his person, this was after the Poll had adjourned at Lewis's inn, a large party of Gowan and Attorney General's friends and supporters attacked the house—saw a man knocked down with a stick near the house, they broke down the door as he was informed, and rushed into the house. The bar-keeper and others were knocked down and much injured, with clubs, the females of the house escaped out of the back window of the kitchen, himself and others were up stairs, and although several attempts were made by the party to get up stairs they did not succeed, they continued their depredations for some time, during which time they turned over a metal stove and scattered the fire about the room which made a great smoke, and it was said the house was on fire, which created a good deal of sensation for a time, but it was soon found to be a mistake—during the row, Rich'd. D. Fraser and Dr. Breakenridge, two Justices of the Peace, stood in the stair-way and prevented by force the crowd from rushing up stairs, where he Returning Officer and Messrs. Buell, Howard, Gowan, and Jameson were.

Mr. ADIEL SHERWOOD, RETURNING OFFICER—Called in and again examined.

Saturday, 8 o'clock. A. M.

Were you in any kind of fear of your own personal safety in consequence of the threatening said to be made against you, as communicated by your Deputy Mr. Powell? No, I was not as I looked upon the threat as arising out of my polling the votes of Messrs. Buell and Howard the last,—thereby placing them at the head of the poll, this arose out of the arrangement agreed to by the candidates, of polling 5 votes for each alternately—had no hesitation of continuing the poll on Tuesday morning but on legal grounds and in executing the indentures, had no apprehension that if he had not done so, he would have been liable to any injury in his person or property,—he continued the election, and made the return as he did, notwithstanding his belief of the friends of Messrs. Buell and Howard being intimidated from coming forward,—there were two or three instances of votes taken for Gowan and Jameson at the openings intended for Buell and Howard—whether these votes were taken at the openings of both these latter gentlemen, or that of one of them, I do not recollect—however, this did not give Jameson or Gowan any advantage on the Poll Book.

No. 126.

REPORT

OF SELECT COMMITTEE ON PETITION ON T. G. MILLER AND OTHERS.

To the Honorable the Commons House of Assembly,

The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of T. G. Miller and others, beg leave to submit the following report, for the consideration of your Honorable House.

Your Committee have carefully investigated the subject matter of complaint contained in the said Petition, concur in the opinion of granting a sum of money for erecting a Bridge across Cox's Creek which intersects the main road leading from the Township of Waterloo to the town of Elora in the Township of Woolwich in the Gore District.

The Committee therefore recommend to your Honorable House that the sum of £100 may be granted as prayed for, to build the said Bridge, and that a Bill may be passed your Honorable Body to enable the Petitioners to carry the same into full operation.

All which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES DURAND.

LETTER from the Keeper of the Light House at the False Ducks Island to Lieutenant Col. Rowan.

COPY.

To Lieut. Colonel ROWAN,

I am sorry to be under the necessity of troubling you again, to request you will have the goodness to present the enclosed petition to the Lieutenant Governor.—Your doing so will very much oblige me.

I beg to state, that I was unwilling to trouble His Excellency a second time in any case, but was informed that as it is now a new Parliament, it would be necessary to do so, and it would not be strictly Parliamentary for the House of Assembly to raise salaries unless recommended by the Crown.

I am respectfully,

JOSEPH SWETMAN.
