TRUE LOVE'S PASSION.

CHAPTER XIX. A Suspicious Scene.

Great Heaven! was it only a fortnight since her lovely head had rested against his heart, since she had murmured, "I love you!" in his ear? Was it really his Norah, his queen and pearl among women, who sat there smiling at Guildford Berton's whispered talk? Or was it all some hideous dream?

"I'm afraid you have danced away all your appetite, Mr. Burne," said the countess, with a smile, as she wondered what all the handsome young man who answered her at random, and kept declining the good things offered him.

"I—I have had my supper, Lady Tressington," he replied, absently. "Let me give you some more champagne."

"That isn't champagne, but claret cup," said the countess, laughing. "But no more, thank you."

The meal appeared to Cyril to stretch into eternity; but Lady Tressington rose at last, and he took her back to the ballroom.

As he passed through the division between the two tents he almost ran against Becca South. She was standing half-hidden by the folds of a big flag which served as drapery, and she was looking into the supper-room, and at something or some one so intently that she did not see Cyril and the countess until he ran against her.

Then she started and drew back, but not before Cyril had noticed the pallor of her face and the look of misery and desperation in her eyes.

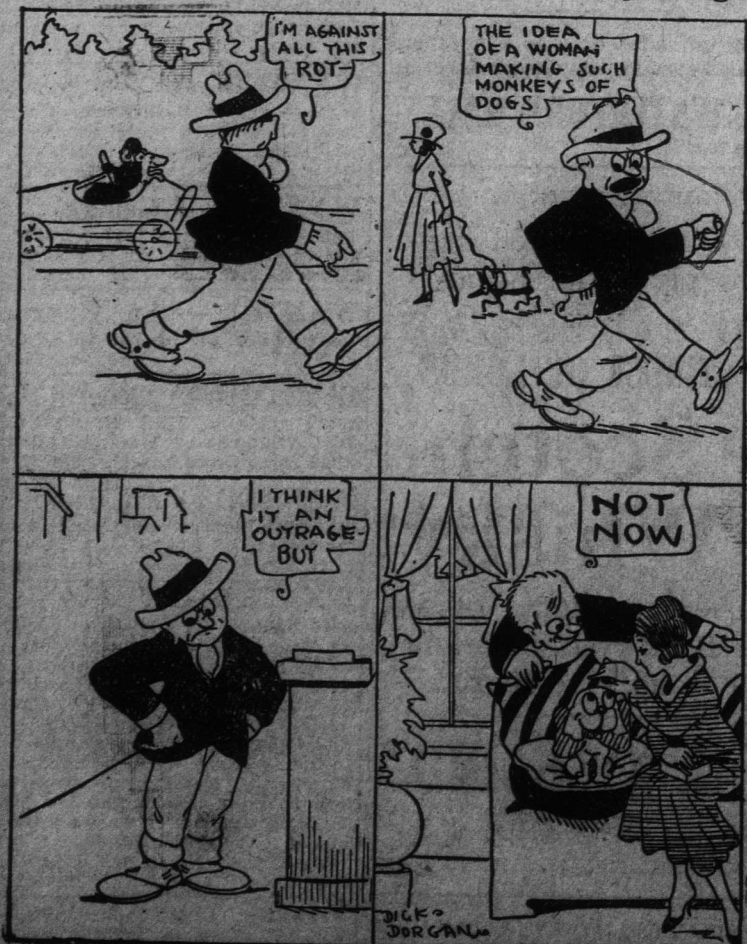

He nodded and smiled at her encouragingly as he passed, and Becca forced a woebegone smile in response, and then he forgot all about her.

The guests came trooping into the ballroom, like giants refreshed, and apparently rather more eager for dancing than before.

"Now you have done your duty, Mr. Burne, don't let me keep you," said Lady Tressington, settling herself in the chair she had occupied during the whole of the evening. "Can you tell me the time? I suppose it will not last much longer. I have a young daughter here somewhere, and we must be thinking of going."

Just Everyday Life :—

By Dorgan.

long day, and she has been so good in helping us! She has gone into the house, and to bed, I hope; but I am really sorry that you should miss your dance."

Cyril stared at her for a moment aghast, then in a bewildered kind of way he made for the cloakroom, and got his hat and coat, and went into the open air.

There he stood with his hands thrust into his pockets, staring vacantly at the stars.

Norah gone! The last chance of seeing her and speaking to her lost! And he was going away perhaps for months. And there was no way of communicating with her!

He laughed, a hard, desperate laugh, and bit his lip.

Go! Leave her with nothing to take with him but the remembrance of her strange, inexplicable coldness! Not he! Lord Nowell and his pictures might go hang! Then he thought of his high resolve, of the chance which luck had given him, of what Jack would say, of what Norah herself would say if he let it slip; and he groaned.

Was there no way of letting her know where he was going and why, no way of telling her how cruelly she had made him suffer that night, and begging her for an explanation?

Even as he asked himself the question he saw Becca South coming from the tent.

She was wrapped in a shawl, and was evidently going home in company with some of the girls of the village who were with her.

Her presence naturally supplied him with an idea. She had carried a message for him once; she should do so again.

Joining the group, he went up to her, and, touching her arm, whispered her name.

She started, and turned her face to him, and its pallor struck him as it had done when he had run against her on his way from the supper-room.

"Come with me a minute, Becca," he said in a whisper.

She did not hesitate for a second, but obeying him as if he had a right to command, took her arm from that of the girl next to her, and said, "Go on, Emily; I'll catch you up directly."

The girl, indeed the whole of the little group, looked at her and at Cyril, and the one she had addressed as Emily giggled knowingly, and whispered something which made the rest laugh as they looked over their shoulders.

Cyril went half-a-dozen yards in the darkness, Becca following. Then he stopped.

"Becca," he said, "will you do something for me?"

She nodded, her black eyes fixed upon his face.

"That's a good girl," he said. "I want you to take a letter to—she faltered for a moment—"to Lady Norah."

Becca nodded silently again.

"I—I wanted to say something to her," said Cyril, "but could not get a chance to-night. Will you give her a note from me; give it to her when you are alone with her? You took a message from me once, you know—"

"I know," said Becca, in a dull voice. "Give me the letter, Mr. Burne."

Cyril laughed drearily.

"It isn't written yet, Becca, and where am I to get— Wait! He hunted his pockets and found an old letter. "Come this way," he said, quickly.

Becca followed him to the edge of the shrubbery, and, kneeling down, Cyril spread out the half sheet of paper on his hat.

"Now take this matchbox and light a match—one after the other; keep them going till I've finished. There's a good girl, Becca," he said.

She struck a wax match, and held it close to the paper, and lit others in succession as he wrote the following:

I have been absent on important business. I could not come to you. I could not write. Are you angry because of my absence? I have done nothing to deserve your coldness. Tomorrow—to-day—I must leave England. I may be away months. I cannot leave you without a word begging you to tell me why you have treated me so cruelly. Norah! Have you forgotten in a short fortnight all that has passed between us? Write me a line, and at once, to "Lorient, Brittany." I shall know no happiness un-

Quick Way to End Coughs, Colds and Croup

An Excellent, Inexpensive Home-Made Remedy that is Prompt and Sure.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, just try this pleasant tasting home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This prepared, you have 10 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy—one that can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief at all times.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It soothes and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heats the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is a really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiaol and is noted for its speed in overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. Its millions of enthusiastic users have made it famous the world over.

There are many worthless imitations of this noted mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

til I hear from you, till I know that you still love me.—Cyril.

"There," he said, with a kind of groan. "You will give it to her, Becca? And soon! And—I've no envelope, Becca!" And he looked up at her.

"No one shall see it," she said, quietly, in the same dull, depressed voice. "You can trust me, Mr. Burne."

"Yes," he said, gravely, "I can trust you, Becca. Take it, then—and for God's sake take care of it. You can't know how important it is—" His face was pale in the light of the match, and his lips quivered.

"You can trust me!" she repeated. He watched her intently as she carefully hid the letter away in the bosom of her dress.

"Thank you, Becca," he said. "And good-by for the present. I must go now. Let me see you on your road."

"No, no," she said. "I understand," he said. "Perhaps we had better go separately—" Even as he spoke a young man and a woman passed close to him, and looked curiously at them, and the girl called out:

"Good-night, Becca."

"Go on now, then," said Cyril. "I will wait here until you have got into the road. Good-night, and thank you! I hope your trouble has all gone now, Becca," he added.

She looked at him as she touched his hand, and he was rather startled by the expression of her face, and the dry, feverish heat of her hand.

"My trouble?" she said, dully, and with a little catch in her voice. "Oh, yes, yes, sir. Good-night. You needn't fear about the letter. You can trust me."

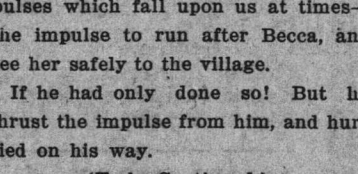

And she went.

Cyril looked after her, anxiously, thinking only of his precious letter; then he set off across the park at a sharp trot.

Once he pulled up, suddenly smitten by one of those unaccountable impulses which fall upon us at times—the impulse to run after Becca, and see her safely to the village.

If he had only done so! But he thrust the impulse from him, and hurried on his way.

Quebec Church is Destroyed by Fire.

Edifice at Limoulin, Valued at $180,000,
Razed by Flames.

Quebec, Nov. 24.—The splendid church of Limoulin parish, this city, was burned to the ground early today. It was valued at close to $180,000 and was only protected by partial insurance. The flames were discovered shortly before five this morning by the furnace man. When he entered the church he found it filled with smoke, apparently coming out of the furnace rooms. Flashes were quick by on the scene but the fire had gained too much headway and despite a general alarm that brought the whole force on the scene at six thirty this morning the place was burned down.

This is Limoulin's second church fire. The present structure had been erected after the other one was destroyed by fire some fifteen years ago. The present structure had only been finished a few months ago for the parish had to wait a number of years to embellish and decorate the church.

This work is not yet paid for and the fire is a heavy blow to the parish which is under the guidance of the Capuchin fathers. The edifice will be rebuilt.

Wedding Bells.

McDONALD-LAWLOR.

A very pretty wedding took place at the R. C. School Chapel, Portugal Cove Road, on Sunday, Nov. 26th, when Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McDonald was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lawlor, Portugal Cove Road. The altar was very prettily decorated for the occasion, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. J. Gough, P. P. of Portugal Cove. The bride was handsomely attired in a suit of dark blue broad cloth and was attended by her niece Miss Sadie McDonald, who wore a dress of white silk poplin. The groom was supported by his brother John. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous supper was served to over sixty guests. Rev. F. J. Gough, who was present, proposed the health of the bride and groom. After supper dancing, etc., was indulged in until morning. The presents received were numerous and costly. The Telegram joins in wishing the happy couple many years of happiness.

You're Bilious! Let
"Cascarets" Live
Liver and Bowels

Don't stay headachy, constipated, sick, with bad breath and stomach sour.

Get a 10-cent box now. You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold—Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Women who wear their hair high in the evening finish their coiffure with a Spanish comb.

Delicate Young Girls, Pale, Tired Women

There is no beauty in pallor, but proof of plenty of weakness. Excitation makes your heart flutter, your back and limbs ache, and you sadly need something to put some ginger into your system. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they make you feel alive, make you want to do things. They renew and purify the blood—then come strong nerves, rosy cheeks, laughing eyes, robust good health. You'll be helped in a hundred ways by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are an old family remedy of great renown. Thousands use no other medicine and never have a day's sickness of any kind. Human Ostriches.

Men Who Diet Themselves on Broken
Glass and Iron Rivets.

The people who at fairs and elsewhere smash up glass tumblers and eat, or pretend to eat, the powdered fragments, varying the feat by seemingly swallowing tin tacks and other equally indigestible articles, are usually impostors. These "human ostriches," as they style themselves, for the most part rely upon sleight-of-hand for their performances.

There are, however, real human ostriches. They are sufferers from a complaint known technically as "pica," or the unnatural craving for abnormal diet.

This curious complaint it not infrequently seen in a mild form in young girls, who will eat powdered slate pencils, chalk and even candles with seeming relish. It passes off, as a rule, as they grow into womanhood.

The more serious chronic cases of pica in adults are usually confined to the male sex. One sufferer—a dock labourer—on being admitted to hospital and operated upon, was found to have in his stomach nearly four pounds of metallic objects, amongst them being a chisel, five inches long, and an assortment of bolts, cotter nuts, rivets, wire nails, tin tacks, screws and hooks.

The patient recovered, but six months later he was back again in hospital, having found the craving for an ostrich diet irresistible.

Some years ago a genuine human ostrich used to frequent public houses in the East End of London, and for a small wage he would take a drinking glass from the bar counter, grind it to fragments beneath his heel, and eat it. He was several times admitted to hospital, and twice operated upon. Eventually he died of an ulcerated stomach, due to his strange diet.

Sunlight and Health.

There is a striking analogy between the beneficial effects of sunlight and air upon plants and upon human beings. One of the principal requisites for our physical welfare is haemoglobin, the colouring matter of the blood. Sun bathing and outdoor life are the best means of getting it. Everyone knows what happens to flowers that grow in the shade.

Physiologists tell us that haemoglobin of the blood is to the human body what chlorophyll is to the plant, and its growth is facilitated in the body by sunlight just as the growth of the green chlorophyll in the plant is facilitated.

Miners who work underground become pale. Flowers that grow in dark places have little colour and the leaves are pale. Human beings and animals are affected in much the same way for want of sunlight, excepting those that by nature are adapted to this life.

The sunlight does more than tan the surface of the skin. The colouring matter is formed and developed deeper in. The sun's rays strike down and the effect penetrates perhaps for an inch or two into the soft tissues, so that the influence of the sun is felt on the interior of the body as well as on the exterior.

Your Boys and Girls.

To the baby's bonnet get a yard of satin or taffeta ribbon about three inches wide and make a small bow on each end. There should be about five inches of ribbon between the bows.

Fasten one bow securely to the bonnet and sew a hook on the under side of the other bow. Then sew an eye on the bonnet and be sure it is sewed even with the opposite bow.

I have found this way to be much better than wet and soiled bonnet strings.

Jellicoe and Beatty.
Britons the world over will be pleased with the information contained in the early messages of today that the British Government has made Sir John Jellicoe First Sea Lord at the Admiralty Board. It looks as if public opinion in Great Britain has at last forced the Government to take steps to deal with the submarine menace, and it is very easy to associate Sir John Jellicoe's name with the Government's intention regarding that rather serious situation. It is no less gratifying that a man of Beatty's calibre should be appointed to the command of the Grand Fleet. He has since the beginning of the war, been second in command, and conducted the operations in the Dogger Bank affair in January, 1915, and the Jutland Battle on May 31st last with great brilliancy. With such men in charge of naval affairs it will give Britons the world over a greater (if that were possible) confidence in the ability of the Grand Fleet to dispose of the enemy if he ever decides to come out of hiding and risk battle with our matchless fleet.

Poultry Show.
In opening yesterday evening's Poultry Exhibition at the Prince's Rink, His Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter E. Davidson, expressed the great pleasure it gave him. He spoke of poultry raising from an economic standpoint and congratulated the Nfd. Association and every member thereof for what they had accomplished in encouraging and fostering superior poultry breeding in this country, evidence of which he could see around him. He referred to the prominent place poultry raising was taking as a national industry and in conclusion trusted that all would continue to manifest that keen interest which had characterized their good work thus far. His Excellency, accompanied by Lady Davidson, then spent an hour with other interested spectators, view-

To-Purchase No More War Goods in U. S. A.
Great Britain and France Able to Manufacture All Supplies.
New York, Nov. 23. (Toronto Globe)—Britain and France will no longer purchase munitions of war from the United States. Efforts are now being made to secure cancellation of previous contracts for arms and ammunition placed by Great Britain and France in this country. Hereafter Great Britain will be able to manufacture all supplies needed in the war with Germany except in cases of extreme emergency. This fact became known in New York through sources from persons in personal touch with the British commissioners who supervise contracts and the purchase of munitions in this country. Attempts made by representatives of Britain and France in this country toward cancellation of all munitions orders have progressed to such an extent that Entente orders are now held in abeyance in several of the munitions factories.

Wesley Ladies Aid Successful Sale.
The annual sale of the Ladies' Aid of Wesley Methodist Church was opened yesterday at 5 p.m. by the Hon. J. A. Robinson. The ladies at once became very busy particularly at the tea tables, on which there was a bountiful spread, and from that hour till 8 o'clock a steady stream filled the tables. At the fancy goods stall home-made work table the ladies were also kept very busy. At the bachelors' table and vegetable market there was also a brisk trade carried on, and the receipts for the evening exceeded $400. Teas will be served again this evening after which a concert will be held commencing at 8 o'clock to 9.30 when a soup supper will take place. There was a large number of Wesley people and their friends present.

Ten Recruits Registered Last Night.

At last night's recruiting meeting Mr. T. Lyons, father of three sons serving the Empire, presided, and in an earnest and appealing address urged the young men of Newfoundland to come forward and enlist. The Chairman then introduced Corp. Parsons, Gallipoli hero, who in a very able manner, related his experiences since the day of enlisting up to the time he was wounded and returned unfit for further services. While he admitted home life had more comfort than the trenches of Gallipoli he had no regrets to make and was looking forward to the time when he would be back again on the firing line. "Do you know that at this present moment in the trenches 'Somewhere in France,' your fellow-countrymen are asking one another how many recruits are they getting at home tonight. If you don't know, I do, and for goodness sake come forward and sign on; I am only waiting to go back and I am sure you are all as good as I am."

Sergt. Nugent, schoolmaster, and the oldest man in the Regiment, was the next speaker and in a very fatherly and sentimental appeal, he outlined the work of the Allies and the doings of our boys at Gallipoli and France. "Young men," said the veteran Sergeant, "are you satisfied to stay at home while the bones of your fellow-countrymen are bleaching on the battlefields of Gallipoli and France, without making an effort to reach the object they have failed to gain though striving so hard to reach. What do you think of the outrages committed on the women and children of Belgium and France; what are you going to do when the boys come marching home with glad and gallant tread and are given the greatest of all welcomes by their country, will you then say I was going to enlist; but too late, if you want to redeem your self now is the time, come forward—sign the roll and don't be classed as a 'shirker.'" Sergt. Nugent is the proud father of twelve children and his patriotic action should put to shame young men of military age and fitness.

The following young men signed the roll: M. Ebbett, St. John's; M. Lebr, St. John's; G. Rickard, St. John's; T. Collins, St. John's; J. Kavanagh, St. John's; G. Lewis, St. John's; H. Evans, St. John's; H. Kearney, St. John's; W. Triffid, St. John's; R. Dunn, Renewa.

BIG SHOW FRIDAY NIGHT

ROSSLEYS.

At the Rossley British Theatre Friday night the usual competition will take place and its safe to say there will be fun and variety aplenty to please all. A clever fellow sang all the time. The pictures are the best in the business. There will be sketch, songs, dances, jokes and stunts. To-night a masterpiece film—House with the Closed Shutters—two reels; a Vitagraph "The Most Prodigious," two reels, and "Looney Now," a very funny comedy two reels. Good orchestra; a comfortable theatre, and a grand crumpling song. In preparation for Rossley's sixth annual Christmas dole. Something new, novel, original.

Not Afraid to Love.

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are some people in this world for whom I care more than for me. There are other people who (I think) care more for me than I for them. And I am not ashamed of the fact and I do not see why they should be ashamed of the second. And yet there are a great many people who are ashamed if they feel more friendship or love for any other man than that other for them.

Perhaps as the centuries pass and the world grows better, and we get into more perfect tune with the infinite, that will be one of the happy adjustments. And surely it's going to be that way in the next life.

Loving and Exactng Are Different Things.

We were talking about this subject the other day and someone said: "But haven't you ever been bored by someone you didn't care for, and who insisted on absorbing your time and attention? Wouldn't you hate to bore anyone else that way? That's what makes me afraid to care more for others than they for me."

"You needn't be afraid," I said. "For loving people don't mean imposing yourself upon them. I'd never be ashamed to love anyone ten times as much as they loved me, but I'd be ashamed to try to exact of them the least bit of affection or time that they could not freely give."

To love is one thing. To exact is quite another.

Tit-Bits of General Information.

George Hix, who was engaged at the House of Lords for a fortnight as a temporary hand in 1867, has been working there ever since. He is eighty years old, and sometimes arrives at his place of work—near the engine house—at 5 a.m.

That great French cinema comedian, Max Linder, is to appear once again in pictures, after having served his country for two years in the war zone. He is now released from the French army, and has been engaged by the Essanay Company at a salary of £1,500 per week.

Among the Russian prisoners who have recently escaped and made their way back to the Russian lines is a man who was employed by the Austrians in Lemberg to slaughter worn-out horses for food for the troops. He says that the price of cows in Lemberg is now about £64 and of pigs about £53.

BEATTY SUCCEEDS JELlicoe.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Sir John Jellicoe was to-day appointed First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, being succeeded in command of the Grand Fleet by Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, who commanded the British battle cruiser squadron in the Jutland naval battle.

ARTILLERY AND TRENCH ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Artillery and trench activity in some sectors of the Franco-Belgian front is reported in to-day's official statement.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 29. In the region of Wakahka we have taken possession of a hill ten versts southwest of this point and captured prisoners. In the region of Kiribaba our troops gained possession of a ridge of heights east of Kiribaba, compelling the enemy to retire from their first positions and capturing eleven officers, seven hundred men, six machine guns and a bomb mortar. South of Kiribaba in Dovetona valley we captured a ridge of heights along the whole of our front.

RUSSIAN CHANGES.

LONDON, Nov. 29. A semi-official despatch from Petrograd says that Count Beterinsky has been removed as Minister of Agriculture and appointed Grand Master of the Imperial Court. Michael Degtin, Russian Ambassador to Rome, will probably be appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs in the new Trepoif Cabinet. The despatch says that if appointed M. Degtin will pursue the same policy as that associated with the name of Sergius Sazonoff, namely complete solidarity of Russia and her Allies.

GERMANS DRIVING FORWARD.

LONDON, Nov. 29. The Roumanian retreat is unchecked, the Germans driving forward towards Bucharest along the whole front from Transylvania Passes to the Danube. The Russians are fighting hard, but the British see little hope for Bucharest.

SUNK BY GUN FIRE AND TORPEDO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. A report of the torpedoing of the Schemung was received by the agents for the ship in a cable to-day from Capt. Duffy, saying she was sunk by gun fire and torpedo by an Austrian submarine, 14 miles east of Cape Cata, on the 26th. All the crew are safe.

RAID ON ZEEBRUGGE.

LONDON, Nov. 29. British naval airplanes made a raid upon the harbor of Zeebrugge yesterday, it was officially announced to-night. What damage they inflicted is not known. All the machines returned safely.

ROUMANIAN TOWN CAPTURED.

BERLIN, Nov. 29. Clucecti, in Roumania, 65 miles northwest of Bucharest, has been captured by General Von Falkenhayn's troops, the war office announced to-night officially.

GREEK CROWN COUNCIL SUPPORTS GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 29. The Greek Crown Council has voted to support the Government in opposing the Allies' demand for the surrender of arms and munitions, according to an Athens despatch. The despatch says this decision was reached after a session of an hour and a half, which was presided over by King Constantine.

THE GOVERNMENT QUESTIONED.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Ronald McNeil, Unionist, asked the Government in the House of Commons to-day whether with a view to the discovery of intrigue in America or elsewhere having for its intention the bringing of peace before the declared objects of the Allies were attained, it would be possible to make a declaration that no question of a temporary cessation of military operations could be entertained so long as German troops remained in occupation of any territory of the Allies. Bonar Law, replying for Premier Asquith, who is confined to his home with a cold, said the question was one for the Allies to consider in concert. Until it was considered he could not make any statement except that the Allies whose territory is occupied by the enemy may be assured the full support of the British Government. Law said he doubted the advisability of making any announcement such as McNeil suggested, because it might be taken as meaning that it is all we are asking for.

GERMANY AND NORWAY.

LONDON, Nov. 29. An Amsterdam message to the Exchange Telegraph Co. quotes the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, commenting on the report of the Norwegian Government, concedes that the submarine restrictions contained therein cannot be maintained, and says as follows: It may be supposed a final agreement will soon be reached, but in addition to the submarine question there is also trouble over the question of the position of Norway as an independent neutral to be considered. To maintain good relations with Germany, she must alter her economical politics to accommodate herself to Germany's will.

RUMORS UNTRUE.

LONDON, Nov. 29. In the House of Lords last night Earl Derby, Under Secretary of War, set at rest the rumors in circulation that there was friction between General Sir Douglas Haig and the Home Authorities. Alluding to Lieut. General Sir Frederick Clayton's relinquishment of the post of Inspector General of Lines of Communication in France, Earl Derby said there was no connection between his retirement and the appointment of Sir Eric Geddes to superintend all questions of all railway docks and inland transport, leaving to the Administration the rest of the lines of communication as heretofore. The Secretary of War, said Earl Derby, in order to satisfy himself as to the adequate means for transport of the ever increasing amount of ammunition to the front, sent Sir Eric with General Haig's consent to investigate the matter. General Haig was greatly impressed with Sir Eric's report and requested that Sir Eric be appointed to carry out his own suggestions. The rumor that he had imposed upon General Haig was absolutely false. The Army Council had the greatest confidence in Haig and did its utmost to fall in line with all his suggestions, and rumors that friction existed were untrue.

OWNERS PREFER TO TAKE RISKS.

LONDON, Nov. 29. With reference to the much discussed question of arming all British merchant ships, it is said that the Admiralty in some instances had recommended that owners arm cargo steamers, and offered to provide a gun and gunners for them on condition that the owners undertake the cost of strengthening the decks, but the owners preferred to take the risks rather than incur the expense.

HALDANE INTERRUPTED.

LONDON, Nov. 29. Viscount Haldane, former Secretary of War, also former Chancellor, speaking before the Royal Society of Arts to-day, was subjected to a succession of violent interruptions from a number of well-dressed women, who excitedly accused him of being a traitor, pro-German in sentiment, and an enemy to his country, deserving of being sent to war. The women had to be ejected from the building.

Silent Ambassador,
Sir Cecil Spring-Rice

Has Consistently Discouraged Frequent Attempts to Launch Pro-British Propaganda.

By F. CUNLIFFE-OWEN.

Erin's sons are renowned for their eloquence rather than for their reticence. Yet the Irishman to whom the British Empire has confided the care of its diplomatic interests in the United States in this the greatest crisis of its existence has earned for himself renown among Americans as the most silent Ambassador ever sent to Washington by any foreign Power. Although he has been residing in the United States for some three years past, he has never yet been known to make a speech or to give an interview for publication. Yet he cannot be described as taciturn or even as reserved in manner. He is very genial, pleasant and democratic, with none of that disposition to pomposity and aloofness that so often characterizes the English official classes. He is an excellent and most sympathetic listener. He is usually smiling. His eyes frequently twinkle with merriment. He attracts those engaged in private, informal conversation with him by his disarming frankness and sincerity, as well as by the truly Irish wit and keen sense of humor which he has inherited from a long line of Irish ancestors.

There has been a disposition on the part of some political adversaries of the administration in London to find fault with Sir Cecil Spring-Rice for his distaste for publicity and for his persistent refusal to have recourse to those somewhat noisy efforts at propaganda which have distinguished the representatives of the Central Powers in the United States since the beginning of the war. And some of these criticisms, originating with adversaries of the Asquith Cabinet and voted by Englishmen whose superficial judgments do not penetrate below the surface, have found an echo in a few organs of the American press. That the course pursued by Sir Cecil commands, however, the fullest approval and complete confidence of his government has been proclaimed in no uncertain language on at least two occasions recently, by Sir Edward Grey, speaking as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in the House of Commons, while the bestowal upon the Ambassador of the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, on the occasion of the last birthday of King George, cannot be regarded as otherwise than a royal token of his sovereign's satisfaction.

From the very outset of the present war Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, who, in addition to his Celtic gift of intuition, possesses a very extensive knowledge of the American character and of conditions in the United States, has persistently set his face against everything in the nature of pro-British propaganda. When in the late fall of 1914 a whole shipload of English literary lights steamed from Liverpool on a self-imposed mission of conducting a crusade throughout the United States in behalf of Great Britain, for the purpose, as they explained it, of putting before the American people the rights of the Allies and the crimes of Germany and Austria, they were met on their arrival at Quarantine in New York by an emissary of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, who succeeded in convincing them that their projected activities would do far more harm than good. The majority of them returned home by the very next steamship, while the very few of them—the least important of the lot—whose vanity outweighed their patriotism became so discouraged after a few weeks here by the disapproval of their countrymen resident in America, by the manner in which they were ignored by the Embassy and by the consulates of Great Britain and by the indifference of the public generally, that they soon returned to England sadder, and it is to be hoped wiser, men.

Ban on Propaganda.

Undismayed by the fate of this shipload of literary stars, a few other Englishmen of minor rank and weight have landed in New York from time to time with the avowed object of laying before the people of the United States the position of Great Britain in her life struggle with Germany, and incidentally in the hopes of receiving some of the popular attention which they had failed to obtain at home. Some of them endeavored to convey the impression that they had gone to the United States with the approval of their government, charged with some more or less secret mission and invested with the confidence and good will of leading members of the Asquith administration. But none of them received any recognition on the part of the British Embassy at Washington, while in one particularly gross case the difficulty was met, not by any direct allusion to the individual, which would have given him the publicity for which he craved, but by a timely circular to all British consular agents throughout the country reiterating the stringent orders which they had been given to abstain from and discountenance anything in the way of pro-English propaganda.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice has lived long enough in the United States, first as Secretary of Embassy and more recently as Envoy, to know that the American people are perhaps the shrewdest, the most wide-awake and the most capable of forming an independent judgment of their own of any people on earth. There is no nation that has so immense a newspaper reading public or a press so far-reaching, so well informed and so independent in its presentation of news, free from all those trammels of government censorship that interfere so grossly with the presentation of news in the Old World. Sir Cecil and, on his advice, the British government have taken up the position since the beginning of the war that any attempt to influence American opinion by propaganda was nothing more nor less than an insult to the intelligence of the United States, that the latter were thoroughly well equipped to form their own judgment from the facts as presented to them, and on the editorial pages but in the news columns of the press, and that any effort or manoeuvre to influence them in favor of Great Britain would be equivalent to an admission that the cause of England was both weak and bad and in need of explanation by specious argument.

That Sir Cecil's high estimate of the American character was correct is shown by the results. There is no doubt that at the moment of the outbreak of the war sympathies were pretty equally divided in the United States between the belligerents, the sympathies for Germany being largely due to the good will enjoyed up to that time by the German-American element of the population, who had acquired for themselves a name as a most law-abiding, industrious and prosperous element of the great American commonwealth. Moreover, owing to the role which many of them had played in the war of the Union, their American patriotism and their devotion to the Stars and Stripes were above suspicion.

Sympathy For The Allies.

To-day the sympathies of close upon ninety per cent of the American people—indeed, the sympathies of the bulk of the nation—are with the Allies. And if so much of public sentiment in the United States has become alienated from the cause of the two Kaisers it is not alone attributable to the frightfulness of the methods of Teuton warfare in Belgium and in the northeastern provinces of France, nor to the destruction of American lives

Was Completely Laid Up With Severe Case of Piles.

Sworn Statement From a Man Who Has Unbounded Confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There is no longer any debate as to the best treatment for itching, bleeding or protruding piles. But since about one person in every four suffers more or less from this annoying ailment it is necessary to keep on telling people about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Wm. Shaw, Island Brook, Que., writes: "I am writing this to let you know the benefit I have derived from your Ointment. I have suffered more or less for years with protruding piles and last winter I got so bad, I was completely laid up with them. I went to our local storekeeper and asked him if he had anything that was good for piles and he recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment. I purchased a box and took it home and used it according to directions and for over one year I have not been troubled with piles. I had tried other remedies before but they only gave me temporary relief and that one box of your Ointment did more for me than all the others, as I have not been troubled since last winter. I consider it to be the best remedy for piles I have ever used and shall always carry a box with me, although I don't think I will need it for piles. We have used it for other purposes in the family, such as burns and cuts, scratches, etc., and my wife says it is one of the best remedies for such purposes we have ever had in the house. Although you only charge sixty cents a box for it, it is well worth $5 a box for any one afflicted with piles. Now, you can use till let me know if you wish or refer anyone to me who wants to know about it for piles. I might say that in my business I am known all over the English portion of Quebec, and an having this statement sworn to before a Justice of the Peace."

Sworn before me this first day of April, 1916. M. M. Holbrook, J. P., Island Brook, Que. Dr. Chase's Ointment 60c. a box, all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

St. Joseph's Bazaar was continued yesterday afternoon and night in the C. C. C. Hall and was even more largely patronized than on the opening day. The various booths and stalls were replenished with an abundance of goods of different lines, which were again disposed of promptly by the ladies in charge. The T. A. Band were present last night and rendered lively airs. This afternoon the Sale will be resumed and will close to-night. Intending purchasers will do well to visit the Bazaar early to-day and avail of the bargains that will be going. None should miss the opportunity. Beginning at 8.30 this evening a concert will be held at which the C. C. C. Band and some of the leading artists of the city will assist. No doubt there will be a large patronage extended the event in view of the object.

TO-DAY'S Messages.
10.30 A.M.
COLD-BLOODED MURDER.

NEW YORK, To-day.
Cold-blooded murder, nothing else; the way in which forty-one American survivors of the British steamer Larina, who arrived at this port today, described the sinking of that ship, without flinching, by German submarine off the coast of Ireland on October 28th.

CHANGES IN NAVY POPULAR.
LONDON, To-day.
Vital changes in the management of the Navy announced to-day have been greeted enthusiastically by the country.

SEBASTIA COMMUNICATION.
SANTOPI, To-day.
A communication from the Serbian headquarters at Santoopi to-day reads: After military fighting, the arrangements occurred on Tuesday along the whole front.

TEUTONS CAPTURE RAILWAY JUNCTION.
Although the Russians, probably as a diversion, have started and are carrying on, with great intensity, an offensive in the Carpathian regions, around Kilibaba, northwest of the Roumanian border, the advance of the Teutonic Allies all along the line in walks us towards Roumanian capital, Bucharest, apparently is meeting with little impediment as the left flank of the forces of the Central Powers have now captured the important railway junction of Poteesti, 65 miles from Bucharest.

OXO CUBES
exactly meet to-day's needs.
OXO CUBES exactly meet the needs of all classes of the community.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.
LONDON, To-day.
Official from British headquarters in France issued last night reads: "We repulsed enemy raid this morning south of Neuve Chapelle, hostile bombardment east of Arras, also failed; we carried out two successful raids east of Ypres taking 21 prisoners; hostile artillery was active again; at Quendecourt and our front on both banks of Aisne, we bombarded enemy lines at Bois-De-Bizet north of Arras."

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
PARIS, To-day.
A bulletin issued by the War Office to-night reads: "German attack on one of our small posts at Laflie Aisne was repulsed; grenade fighting and intermittent cannonading occurred on the rest of the front; more activity in the sector of Douaumont and Vimy."

CONTROL OF COAL MINES.
LONDON, To-day.
Under the Defence Realm Act, the Board of Trade announces, from Dec. 1st, will assume control of all coal mines in South Wales. The Committee appointed representing the Board of Trade, Home Office and Admiralty for the administration of the mines, will meet tomorrow to consider the question of wages.

AMERICA'S VIEW.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
Ambassador Gerard conferred with President Wilson to-day and received final instructions on views to be presented to the German Government regarding deportation of Belgians, and maintaining warlike. No written communication have been given the Ambassador, but Wilson outlined to him fully the attitude of the American Government toward the pending crisis.

GENERAL SMUTS WILL GO TO FRANCE.
CAPETOWN, To-day.
It is understood here that General Jan Christian Smuts, as soon as he has wound up his campaign in German East Africa, where he is in supreme command of the British forces operating there, will go to the front in France to take command of the South African contingent there.

KING CONSTANTINE'S PROMISE.
LONDON, To-day.
A despatch from Athens dated Thursday, says Admiral DuPortail, Commander of the Entente Allied naval forces in the Mediterranean, on Wednesday night issued an announcement reassuring the populace, saying he would immediately repress disorders and hold the organizers of them responsible, an hour later he withdrew the announcement. It is understood he received a letter from King Constantine promising that order would be maintained.

LONDON PAPERS ON NAVAL CHANGES.
LONDON, To-day.
Gratification and hopeful expectation generally are expressed in the London morning papers at the naval changes, although not without certain qualifications. It is universally admitted that the new appointments will be popular, but there is a disposition rather to hope than to be confident that the arrangements will work well.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.
The tops of woollen stockings make good mitts for the children, and also fine knee-protectors for small boys, for they cling closely, and a couple of small safety pins above will keep them in place.

CUTTING A BULLET OUT OF THE HEART.
Dr. Maurice Bessanont, who had already extracted a piece of grenade from the right ventricle of a man's heart, told the French Academy des Sciences recently of a second similar operation performed with success.

Soldiers' Boots
4,000,000 Pairs Ordered for the Winter.
Where do Tommies get their boots from? "Somewhere in England" there is a building nearly three times as large as Somerset House where our Army's boots are handled.

Leather Will Become Scarce.
No fever that 4,000,000 have been ordered by the War Council for the coming winter. These include 1,000,000 pairs of Russian Cossack boots, which are similar to our black riding boots, only much stronger; 2,500,000 pairs of British Army boots; 1,000,000 pairs of boots for Italy, which will probably have special features in account of the mountainous district where our gallant Ally is now fighting.

Face Masks For the Wounded.
There is, perhaps, no kind of wound so much dreaded by soldiers as one which disfigures the face. Aided by experienced surgeons, Lieut. Derwent Wood, A.R.A., who in peace times is a well-known sculptor, has now come to the aid of many sadly disfigured soldiers by making masks to cover the face of the face destroyed by wounds.

McMurdo's Store News
THURSDAY, Nov. 30, 1916.
Many children suffer from winter cough, a trouble not alone annoying to parents, who are frequently troubled at night by the almost incessant coughing, but positively dangerous to the child's life.

Here and There.
LOUISBERG AT CLARENVILLE.
The "Louisberg" reached Clarenville to-day with a load of coal.
"ARE WE DOWNHEARDED-NO?"
The British Army's new marching song, words and music by Robert Harkness, 40c. post paid.

SISTERS TO BE NURSES.
The Misses Johnson (2), daughters of Mr. Justice Johnson, left to-day's express for England via New York where they will become Red Cross nurses. At the station to see them off were Sir Joseph Outerbidge, Mrs. Browning of the Red Cross Society, and a large number of friends.

FLORIZEL SALES.
The Red Cross Liner Florizel sails this evening for Halifax. These passengers are booked to go in saloon: Capt. Storm, W. M. and Mrs. Clapp and two children, W. S. Bruce, Dr. H. V. Miles, E. L. Loker, Miss B. Whiteway, W. Moore, J. S. Isaacs, Capt. Courtney, Miss B. Fitzpatrick, T. Bentley, Mrs. P. Foster, Miss A. Geary, C. Laver, L. M. Trask and 25 in second class.

Household Notes.
The tops of woollen stockings make good mitts for the children, and also fine knee-protectors for small boys, for they cling closely, and a couple of small safety pins above will keep them in place.

Pro Patria's Damages Slight.
By the S.S. Sable I, which reached port this morning, we learn that the damages to the S.S. Pro Patria, which went ashore and was since refloated, as previously alluded to, are not as great as at first thought.

Ladies' Fur Coats, $46.00 to $105.00 each.
Only ten left of this rare collection of superior quality furs. Distinctive styles in Seal and Wolf, with cape collar and very full at skirt.

Ladies' Tweed Coats, $8.80 to $39.00.
Striking patterns of best Tweed, style as above, have proved to be most popular. Only a few left.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?
"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once.

No Old Maids.
Although it is not likely that men above forty will be utilized for field purposes by the Roumanian military authorities, it is quite true that Roumanian's total able-bodied manhood, if it include men up to the extreme age limit of forty-six, falls little short of 1,100,000.

Sarrail's Achievement.
(From the Boston Herald.)
When the history of the Monastir campaign comes to be written, it is to be hoped justly will be done to a commander who has triumphed over difficulties such as few generals have been able to overcome.

LADIES' COSTUMES, $10.00 to $39.00.

The Women's Domestic Guild.

On three previous occasions within the past few months we made reference to the hiring of young girls for domestic purposes, by an association known as the Woman's Domestic Guild of Montreal, whose business it is to obtain domestics for (supposed) good homes at the place mentioned and other large cities throughout Canada. A Mrs. Francis representing the above organization, paid us a visit and engaged rooms at a residence on Bond Street, remaining in the city for about one month, in which time she was successful in raising a contingent of girls most suitable to her wishes. To be exact one hundred and twelve were obtained, 40 of whom were despatched by the Reid Nfld. Co.'s express and the remainder by the Red Cross boats in drafts of 40 and 32. As will be remembered, we drew attention to the fact that many of these girls were leaving very comfortable homes and in no case was it necessary for them to go out as house servants. The majority of these girls whose ages were between sixteen and eighteen years, were inexperienced in the ways of big cities, and as 'might be expected found their new abode lacking many of the home comforts and privileges that once was theirs to enjoy. Reaching the French-Canadian metropolis they were taken to the headquarters of the association and from there were one by one despatched to the various places for which they were engaged. Many were the heart-breaking scenes as sisters, cousins and life-long friends were separated with the possible chance of not seeing each other for years. While it is true some of the girls were fortunate enough to secure good homes, we are not so sure about the others. Upwards of twenty of the number have since returned to their former homes, after having an experience they will not soon forget. Being daughters of a free country they strongly resented the unlady-like actions of some of their employers and on explaining matters to their parents by letter, they were forwarded sufficient money to pay back their advance fares to the Domestic Guild and to purchase a return ticket to Nfld., or in other words buy back their freedom. Prior to the European war this organization carried on its domestic traffic with the British Isles, but owing to certain reasons best known to themselves, this well-established market had to be abandoned, and as "necessity is the mother of invention," they arranged a scheme whereby they could open up markets nearer home, and of course we were called on to contribute our share.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen.—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of Inflammation.
Yours,
W. A. HUTCHINSON.

Future Deeds.

Sweet friend of mine, it doesn't pay to tell of things you will achieve; the golden era is to-day; and promises too oft deceive. "To-morrow I will cut much grass, to-morrow prizes will be won." To-morrow! But to-day, alas, goes by and you have nothing done. To-morrow is a vision dim, that makes the dreamer's heart feel good. To-day the man of sense and vim goes forth and sows three cords of wood. To-day we know we are alive, our bones and thews obey our will; it is our privilege to strive, and put some kopecks in the till. To-morrow, when the maddening crowds of workers throng along the pave, we may be wearing jaunty shrouds, all neatly dolled up for the grave. The things I've done may count a bit, and gain some measure of applause, when I this daily round have quit, when I have crossed my purposeless paws. The lofty deeds that I pursue won't make a record till they're won; the things that I intend to do, will never count until they're done. And so, my friend, again I say—and, saying it, I'm strangely moved—the golden era is to-day; don't let it vanish unimproved.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Which is the correct way to eat soup or other liquid food, from the end or side of the spoon?" asked Jane.
"Soup should be sipped quietly from the side of the spoon," answered her mother.
