OR,
CHAPTER IV.
AT THE TOWERS.

Fortunately for the horse, she had struck her knees upon the bank, and was uninjured—for Lord Cecil, with unusual indifference, quite forgotten her, and it was not until he had ridden into the court-yard of the Towers, and met the surprised stare of the groom who came forward, and he remembered the animal.

"I've had a tumble," he said. "It was my fault not Polly's. Give her an extra feed and wipe down," he added, as he patted her. "She isn't hurt, I'm glad to say."

"But you are, my lord, I'm afraid," said the groom.

"Not a bit," said Lord Cecil, with a smile, and he hurried across the court-yard and up the stone steps to the terrace.

The long walk, laid in Carrara marble, and running the whole length of the house, was perfectly empty, and everything was suspiciously quiet.

"They've begun dinner," said Lord Cecil, with a shrug of his shoulders. "That's unpleasant! I don't know my uncle very intimately, but I have a shrewd suspicion that he is the sort of man to cut up rough. Well, no, I don't suppose he would be rough if I burnt the place down, but he'd be unpleasantly smooth."

He hurried along, past a long line of windows, screened by their curtains and then past one through which the light came in innumerable streaks of colour—it was the stained oriel window—and at last reached the great hall.

A groom of the chambers, attired in a dark purple livery that looked almost like a court suit, came forward with something like a solemn gravity.

"I'm late, eh?" said Lord Cecil, and his clear, young voice, musical as it was, sounded large and loud in the solemn, subdued air of the place.

"Dinner has been served twenty-two minutes, my lord," was the grave reply.

"Oh, hang the two minutes!" said Lord Cecil. "I shouldn't be long. And he bounded up the stairs, apparently to the amazement of the official and a couple of stately footmen, who looked after him with surprise. It took him some two or three minutes to reach his room. The Towers was a huge place, but which, huge as it was, the marquis only dwelt in for a month or two once in three or four years—he had so many other and huger places—and Lord Cecil found his valet waiting for him. "Look sharp, Parkins," he said, slipping off his coat. "It's awfully late. Has the marquis inquired for me?"

"No, my lord," said Parkins, as he sat about his ministrations with quiet celerity. "Mr. Scobie, the butler, did mention that his lordship never waited for anyone."

"I'm glad to hear it," said Lord Cecil. "It's bad enough to spoil one's own dinner without ruining other people's. All right? What are you fumbling at?"

"I was trying to hide the cut on your forehead, my lord."

"Oh, never mind that," said Lord Cecil, impatiently, and he hurried down.

And the Worst is Yet to Come— and that the hands were snowy in colour and of quite feminine shape and texture.

This imposing figure stood upright until Lord Cecil had taken his seat, the hard, steel-like eyes regarding him with an impassive, ice-like courtesy, then sank into his seat again.

It was not until he had done so that Lord Cecil was startled by seeing that a third person was present—for he had been unable to remove his eyes from the marquis's while they were on his face. Now he saw that between him and the marquis sat a lady; and Lord Cecil, as his senses woke to the fact of her presence, was guilty of an astonished stare.

It is not given to everyone in one day to meet the two most beautiful women he had ever seen; but this was Lord Cecil's fate. The day was young, with a fair and perfectly-tinted face, with dark brown eyes, and hair that shone like raw silk under the mellow light that fell from the candelabra above.

Her presence was so unexpected that Lord Cecil might be pardoned for expressing in his gaze something of the surprise he felt.

The sound of the marquis's voice, low and yet clear, like the sound of a treble-bell, recalled him to himself and his manners.

"This is Lord Cecil Neville, Lady Grace," he said, and he just moved his snowy hand. "Cecil, I think I told you that I expected Lady Grace?"

Lord Cecil bowed, and she inclined her head with a smile.

"As we are strangers, and Lord Neville has probably never heard of me, marquis, perhaps you had better add that I am Lord Peyton's daughter."

The marquis bowed.

"Of course I have heard of you, Lady Grace," said Lord Cecil.

The dark brown eyes opposite him grew rather keen as they rested on his, but for a moment only, then she smiled again.

"If I had known that you were here—" He stopped and laughed. "Well, I was going to say that I'd have been at home earlier; but the fact is I met with a slight accident and was detained."

The dark eyes seemed to flash over him, then fixed themselves upon the cut on his forehead.

"You were not hurt, I hope?" she said. "I see you have a cut on your brow."

"No," he said. "It is nothing."

"How did it happen?" asked Lady Grace.

The marquis had not condescended to make any inquiry; indeed, for any sign of interest he might have been stone deaf.

"Got pitched over the hedge," he said.

"By a man?" she asked, raising her brows.

He laughed.

"No, by a horse. By the way, sir," he said, turning to the marquis, "I am glad to say that the horse it not injured."

"No?" said the marquis, with slow indifference. "Perhaps that is as well. Horses are valuable," and the tone more than the words seemed to add, "and men—especially Lord Cecil Neville—are not."

Lord Cecil glanced at him quickly; but the pale face was set and impassive, as if innocent of any intent to insult.

After this cheerful remark the conversation rather naturally languished. Lord Cecil was hungry, and devoted his attention to his plate; the servants moved to and fro, waiting with subdued and watchful assiduity; the marquis ate his dinner with slow, weary glance, his eyes fixed on the great golden epergne in the centre of the table, as profoundly silent as if never meant to utter another word.

Now and again Lady Grace raised her eyes and scanned the handsome face opposite her, and Lord Cecil would have returned the compliment, but when he ate his dinner he was thinking of that other face with the dark hair and blue eyes, which had bent over him by the brook, recalling the sweet voice, which still rang in his ears like distant music.

He started when the low, soft voice of Lady Grace said:

"Have you been at the Towers long, Lord Cecil?"

It was rather an awkward question, for this was his first visit to any house of the marquis, his uncle, for ten years.

"Two days," he replied, simply.

Lady Grace's eyes grew keener, and she glanced from the young man to the old one.

"I have just been trying to tell the marquis how intensely I admire the place," she said.

The marquis inclined his head to her in courtly acknowledgment, but without a word.

"It is the prettiest—no, the grandest—old place I have ever seen. I am surprised to hear that the marquis seldom visits it. The view from the terrace is simply magnificent. The country round about must be very beautiful."

"I think it is," said Lord Cecil. The marquis made no sign. "I haven't seen much of it."

"I shall expect you to act as guide to what you have seen," she said, with a smile that seemed to flash like a beam of light from her white face.

"I shall be most happy," he responded.

"I think the country is at its best in the spring, and I am always glad to get a little while, a short breathing time, before the London season commences. Let me see: you are in the Two Hundred and Fifteenth, aren't you, Captain Neville?"

"I was," said Lord Cecil, with a momentary embarrassment, and a glance at the marble-like face at the head of the table. "I have retired."

"What a pity!" she said, and her eyes seemed to take in at a glance his broad chest and stalwart limbs.

"Do you extend your sympathy to the army or to Lord Cecil?" asked the marquis, in a voice too smooth for the sneer which his question conveyed.

Lord Cecil's eyes flashed, and his colour rose; but he contained himself and smiled.

"Oh, for both, of course. Surely the commander-in-chief cannot afford to lose a good officer, and Lord Cecil must be sorry to leave the army."

"No," murmured the marquis. "I do not suppose the commander-in-chief can afford to lose a good officer. Lord Cecil must have been a great loss," and his icy glance rested for a moment, without a spark of expression, upon the handsome face which had flushed again under his cruel taunt.

"The loss was all on my side, Lady Grace," he managed to say, with a smile; "at any rate, the duke bears up wonderfully well."

Once more the marquis had succeeded in freezing the conversation, and Lady Grace, after toying with a strawberry, rose to leave the table.

And as Lord Cecil opened the door for her, she put up her fan, and in a remarkably low voice murmured:

"You will not stay long?"

"I certainly shan't," he replied, emphatically, and in an equally low voice; but, low as it was, the marquis appeared to have heard it.

"I shall not detain you long," he said. "You drink, of course?" and he touched the decanter.

The tone, and not the words, again seemed to convey an insult, and Lord Cecil shook his head, feeling as if he would rather have perished of thirst than drunk a glass of the wine thus offered.

"No?" said the marquis, and he managed to make even this single word offensive. "I thought it was the present custom with young men."

"No, sir," said Lord Cecil; "we have changed the fashion."

The marquis inclined his head as the retort was a compliment.

"Ah! the present age has no vices, I presume. Is it because they have no strength for them?"

"I don't know," said Lord Cecil, almost coldly.

The marquis filled a glass with the rare and costly wine, and as he sipped it, allowed his eyes to stray over the rim to his nephew's face.

"I think I told you Lady Grace was expected?" he said.

"I think not, sir," said Lord Cecil.

"Ah! it escaped me. Her father is an old friend of mine." The pause conveyed the sneer which lay in almost every sentence he uttered, and was expressed by tone or word. "He did me a great service, and I owe him a debt of gratitude."

(To be Continued.)

Fashion Plates.

A DAINTY DRESS.

2389. This portrays a style as attractive for foulard, embroidered crepe or voile, as for serge, gabardine or satin. The underwaist and sleeves may be of crepe de chine, or georgette, chiffon or net. Linen and organdie, serge and satin are good combinations for this design.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 will require 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, if the skirt is made with tucks, and 4 1/2 yards if edge is about 1 1/2 yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

A COMFORTABLE HOUSE DRESS.

2378. Here is a model that is especially desirable for mature figures. The sleeve may be in wrist length, close fitting and finished with or without a cuff, or it may be in elbow length made without tucks. Width at lowest with a neat cuff finish. Width of dress at lower edge is about 2 1/2 yds. Percale, drill, khaki, chambray, gingham, poplin, flannel and lawn may be used for this design.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 6 yards of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

New Relief For Constipation,
"LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

Promptly at 6.30 to-night Umper- Chief Chesman will call together the Red Lions and Wanderers in the last game of the first round. A win for either will place them in the first division so that an exciting contest may be assured. Both teams have been considerably strengthened and it is likely some of the old timers will be requisitioned in an effort to recover lost ground.

LEADING.

Duggy French is leading the league with his big stick, though his fielding average is much below Joe Murphy's. The latter has still to make an error.

STILL WONDERING.

All local fandom is still wondering how it was that Claude Hall allowed himself to be caught off third when the Irish first baseman had to cross the 60 yards of the diamond to chase him back to the bag. The unexpected and almost incredible play gets results sometimes.

ANDY CLOUSTON TO HIS BASE-BALL BAT.

The official "poet" of the Cubs is responsible for the following effusion:—

Andy speaks thus:—
Four seasons have you slumbered,
But now the War is through,
Your days of sloth are numbered,
Their work for you to do.
Oh! lighter than a rifle,
Oh! safer than a bomb,
I ope once more my bottom drawer
And haul you out therefrom.

When guns from out the distance
Delivered balls that "broke,"
You lent me no assistance
Though I'd to make a stroke.
But off I thought about you,
Beneath an alien sun;
On many a day out Flanders' way,
I longer to "triple" and "run."

But now we're re-united,
Yet I am anxious lest

G. F. S.

The annual prize distribution to the G. F. S. Candidates took place at the Synod Hall last night, the awards being distributed by Miss Harris, daughter of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Harris. His Lordship Bishop White presided and among the many present were Lady Horwood, Mrs. and Miss White, Mrs. Bolt, Mrs. P. Knowling, Miss A. Hayward and Rev. J. Brinton. Following a programme of songs, dances, etc. in which Misses Elsie Andrews, Isabel Butler, Bessie Williams, Gladys Scott, Myrtle Butler, Olive House, Stella Hemons, Marjory Mercer, Daisy Green, Gladys Parsons and others took part, the prizes were distributed and then came a playlet in which the characters were represented by Misses Olive Lukins, Bessie Williams, Clara James, May Pitman, Gladys Parsons, Phyllis Gardner, Phyllis England, and Mabel Byrne. The prizes were donated by Messrs. R. B. Job, E. R. Bowring, Harold Hutchings, Misses Gladys Carter and Elsie Crowley and awarded as follows:

Queen, Mary's, Needlework, Guild Badges:—Gwendolyn Piercey, Myrtle Butler, Dorothy England, Marjory Mercer, Jean Mercer, Joannie Piercey, Louise Whelan, May White, Mildred Cadwell, Marjory England.

Hemming:—Gwendolyn Piercey, Olive Lukins, Bessie Williams (equal). Darning:—Olive House, Myrtle Butler.

Attendance at meetings, not missed:—Gwendolyn Piercey, May Pitman, Hazel Seymour, Myrtle Butler, Olive House.

Missed once through illness:—Bessie Williams, Olive Lukins, Jennie Piercey, Daisy Green, Phyllis England.

Very regular and did good work:—Marjory Mercer, Jean Mercer, Doris Stick, May White, Mabel Byrne, Hazel Byrne, Maud Stick, Elsie Andrews, Gladys Parsons, Mary Noseworthy, Mildred Cadwell, Belle James, Mary Bear, Clara James, Mabel Hookey, Maggie Fowlow, Mary England, Marjory England, Jessie Keats, Irene Newman, Phyllis Gardner, Nellie Martin, Lois Payne, Susie Curaw, Beatrice Hookey, Laura Tulk.

At the close the Bishop proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Harris for her kindness in presenting the prizes, was carried by acclamation. The proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

To-day's Messages.

SOLEMN SERVICE SUNDAY.

LONDON, July 2nd. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster has issued an order to the clergy, directing that there be a special exposition of the Blessed Sacrament in all Roman Catholic Churches on Sunday next, with singing of the Te Deum, to mark the signing of Peace. It is expected that many Canadians will be present at the service in Westminster Cathedral, at which the Cardinal will officiate.

CANADIAN JURIST ATTENDED.

LONDON, July 2. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Mr. Justice Duff, of the Canadian Supreme Court, attended the meeting of the Privy Council at which the proclamation of peace, publicly read in London to-day, was signed.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

LONDON, July 2. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Reports of British officers, on the economic conditions prevailing in Germany, are issued in a "White Paper" describing a visit to Silesia in April. The officers report that Germany possessed a sound case for claiming early relief. There was a genuine shortage of staple foodstuffs and the health of the population had suffered severely in the last three and one half years, so that the stage had been reached where the working classes could no longer be trusted to keep the peace or to combat Bolshevism. Count von Brockdorf, when interviewed, repeated a statement he had made at a secret cabinet meeting in January, that Bolshevism was the only subject upon which Germany and the Entente could possibly meet at the conference table, and act conjointly in the interests of all. He was prepared to go any length to convince Britain, France and America of his bona fides. What knowledge he had he was ready to disclose, if thereby the peril of Bolshevism could be better understood and combated. He did not consider the situation beyond repair. The officers who visited Breslau, were shocked at conditions in the poor quarters. Soup kitchens brew spinach for babies of from three weeks to three years. The sight of babies sucking spinach soup instead of milk from bottles, was distressing. The average weight of a baby was four pounds and charts showed that the babies at the end of the third year weighed little more than at the end of the first year. In Berlin there was no evidence of an amelioration of food conditions. Compared with January there was an increasing tendency for the people to give way to despair, and the impression has been gained that Berlin was totally corrupted.

SONG OF THE CUBS.

You may roast us while we're on the old toogagan,
You may kid us while we're drifting down the chute;
We're a shining mark for panning in this current age of fanning,
We draw nothing but the cold and clammy hoot.
BUT when we hit the high-spots later in the season,
Then remember that we stood the festive quip,
Don't forget to give us credit—
You can even double lead it—
We'll forgive the time you had us on the hip.

HO! HO!

There is every possibility of Fred Chesman spending a safe and sane Fourth of July this year as there will be no baseball game to-morrow night.

CURRENT FICTION.

Fair and warmer.

Local Fishing.

Local traps have been doing fairly well of late, some of them early in the week hauling 30 quintals. Hook and line men have also secured good fares, the fish caught running to large sizes.

Ice Does Damage.

From Cape St. Francis along St. John's Shore considerable damage has been done by the numerous bergs. It is thought many will lose their twine. Yesterday a schooner nearly went ashore at Torbay, but escaped with the loss of her motor boat which was carried away by the running ice. Further particulars will be to hand as soon as the fishermen can get on the grounds and ascertain the full amount of damage done. This is to be regretted, the more so as there is a good sign of fish and every indication of a prosperous voyage.

Here and There.

REMOVAL OF SHRINE. — Considering it advisable that the shrine at Bannerman Park be removed during the week, the Memorial Service Committee request that those who wish to take away the wreaths placed thereon on Tuesday, do so before noon to-morrow.

DINNER SETS.—Best English make, very neat designs, 26 pieces, $17.80; 40 pieces, $40.00; 70 pieces, $55.50. Also Job Lot of Queen's White Dinner and Teaware, odd pieces, at bargain prices.—G. KNOWLING, LTD., China & Glass Department, June 30, 51

NOTE OF THANKS. — Mr. James Roberts and family desire to express their sincere thanks to all those who showed them so much sympathy in their recent loss of a kind, loving, wife and mother, especially Mrs. A. Richards, Mrs. M. Donovan, Mr. A. Morris, Mrs. G. Button, Mrs. A. Green, C. Spooner, S. Garland, Mrs. F. Rowe, Mrs. H. Green, Mr. Robt. English, Capt. Frampton, and Mrs. G. Noseworthy, and also to those who sent wreaths. The Bricklayer's and Mason's Union, Mrs. Chas Pike, and the N. H. Troop of Life-Saving Guards, and to all other kind friends who tried to lighten their sorrow.—adv.

DIRIGIBLE DUE HERE TO-MORROW MORNING.

LONDON, July 3.

The British Air Ministry announced to-day that it expected Dirigible R-34, now in mid-ocean, to reach St. John's, Nfld., Friday morning, and Long Island early Saturday morning.

tween the Allies and Germany on Saturday, and a majority for the ratification of the instrument has been secured, according to a Weimar despatch to the Politiken.

Pedestrians' Peril.

With the rapid speed with which motor cars rush through the city thoroughfares, conjoined with the devil-may-care attitude of cab drivers, foot passengers have all that they can do to dodge these vehicles. Should the pedestrians one of these bright days make a bid for their own protection and safety, there will be something doing, and to avert anything of an anti-motor uprising we would suggest to chauffeurs and chauffesses that they pay a little more attention to the rules and regulations of the Motor Association.

Bergs in the Bay.

There are a number of icebergs in Conception Bay at present. There are two in Portugal Cove which by foundering have played sad havoc with the fishermen's traps and twine. Yesterday during a strong breeze and heavy sea, Harding and Churchill went out on the grounds to inspect their twine and found the kegs used to float the mooring gear had broken loose and driven away. It cannot yet be estimated the amount of damage done by the bergs.

NERVE SUPPORT!

Overwork, worry and concentrated mental effort cause excessive wear and wastage of the nerve cells, which frequently result in nervous breakdown. To guard against this, extra food must be supplied to rebuild the worn-out cells. Nothing is quite so good as "OVALTINE" for this purpose, as it contains just the food elements necessary, in a light, concentrated and easily digestible form, to build up the nerves and meet the extra demand on the system. As a restorative in fatigue there is nothing equal to it.

Built Like a Big Gun.

You know how the great guns are built—how the long bore muzzles are made, with their many layers of steel. First the thick, rough outside, like a ponderous piece of piping; then, inside this, goes a plating of steel—exact to the millimetre—fitting like a key in a lock. And then comes the scientific work: another inside coating of tempered steel, coiled in graduations, overlapping—pliable as a steel spring, to withstand the concussion of a rushing shell—

And That's the Great Principle

that an English firm has built into a raincoat—lined and interlined. There's the heavy proofed outer cloth where the wear and tear comes most—on the outside—the foundation for scientific work. THEN, RIGHT BACK OF THIS, where, in other coats, there's only COTTON, is the wonderful lining of oiled silk. Water won't get past the outer cloth, because that's proofed AND PROOFED—PROOFED till wet as a rag with rain repelling liquid. AND WATER CAN'T—a CAN'T with all the backing of an impossibility—CAN'T in all the world, get through the oiled silk interlining. AND THEN, there's the additional lining—made to keep you warm in any weather—as comfortable as the wool on a sheep's back.

Littledale Anniversary.

Sunday, June 29th, was the fourth anniversary of the consecration of Archbishop Roche. It was marked especially by a fine programme executed in his honor and carried out by the pupils of Littledale with that thoroughness and skill which is characteristic of the training received there. After luncheon at 1.30 p.m., to which His Grace, His Lordship Bishop March of Harbor Grace, and several of the clergy sat down, the entertainment began. The Aulus Maxima was thronged, and the programme lasted two hours, taking from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Needless to say it was skillfully executed from start to finish. First one of the pupils read a beautifully worded congratulatory address on the attainment of His Grace's fourth anniversary after which several other addresses as elocutionary efforts were delivered by the pupils which showed especial care and cleverness in preparation and a surprising mastery in delivery as well as distinctness in enunciation. Other very pretty features made up the long and most interesting schedule. Misses McCarthy and Krentzlin displayed in sweet song their vocal powers, their rich, clear young voices filling the hall with melody.

His Grace heartily complimented the youthful performers and pupils generally on the excellent progress made during the year and impressed upon his hearers the efficiency of Littledale's work and eloquently dwelt on the great influence for good such an institution possesses not alone in St. John's but on the most remote sections of our Island. Home-

After wishing the pupils a very pleasant vacation, he hoped they would all return renewed in health and energy to begin another year's work.

It is quite apparent that the pupils of Littledale indeed enjoy many advantages not given to many other female scholastic institutions. Besides the purely educational side of the training received which is well exemplified in the annual results as shown by the C. H. E. exams, there is another aspect to be considered of far greater importance and significance, (and which in fact occupies the chief place) this is the spiritual life than the institution from which they will bring out with them into the world all that goes to make up a successful course here and a bright crown hereafter.

side of the training of the pupils as well as the development of character and no account of Littledale as character-forming establishment could be complete without enumerating these aspects, in its work. The measurement of the Academy's efficiency, if it is to be correctly gauged, must include the spiritual training above all, along with the purely scholastic side. And since both go together and are perfectly interwoven, the spiritual with the secular training, no place ought commend itself so highly to parents who are desirous of equipping their children for the battle of life than the institution from which they will bring out with them into the world all that goes to make up a successful course here and a bright crown hereafter.

A Word to the Wise.

Certain parties in the city are getting fed up with the visits of police detectives, who are searching for needles in haystacks, and it is suggested that the searchers after concealed liquor devote their attentions to the places where it can really be found. If still hunting is to become the popular form of police amusement there isn't any reason why the zealous officer should not get on the right trail, and trace the output, evidences of which are seen nightly on New Gower and other streets, to its true source. Verbum sap.

Every Saturday evening after 7 o'clock, Choice Ends of Beef, Mutton, Lamb, Pork will be sold at cost. ELLIS & CO., LTD., 203 Water Street.—nov29.

How the North Sees It.

It is rather difficult to make much of a guess as to political conditions in the capital from the three or four daily papers received in the past three weeks. The Telegram, Herald and Daily News are all walking softly with the new Caslin Government, and saying as pretty things as possible of them. On the other hand the Advocate is handing out a line of the old time hot stuff, which though perhaps not pretty is a change from its old milk-and-water attitude during its support of the late Coalition Government. The Daily Star, a paper that seems to be forging ahead of all competitors, smites right and left, but we strongly incline to the belief that before long it will be championing Mr. Coaker's cause.

Mr. Morine, at once the oldest and cleverest of local politicians, seems to take a good deal of the lead in the new government; and as it is rumored that Sir Michael and Sir John both propose to retire before long from politics, it is quite possible that the Honorable Alfred B. may be the leader of the conglomerate party in the Fall's Election.

Meanwhile Mr. Coaker is not idle, and is threatening vengeance on all and sundry who oppose him. At present the letters appearing in the Advocate bear very strongly the Coaker trade mark, and are from employees of the Trading Company, chairmen of councils, or sometimes only vaguely signed "Union Council." But there is no stirring of the people—as yet. Mr. Coaker had the greatest chance that ever mortal man in this country had of winning the confidence of the into a slough from which he finds it difficult to extricate himself, and ruined very largely the great confidence many people reposed in him. Nevertheless Mr. Coaker is by no means dead. His fortunes hinge largely on a question of finances. In the northern districts the present government is very unpopular. Can Mr Coaker revive his old time enthusiasm there, and at the same time capture some of the southern and western Districts? Time will tell. As Sir Patrick says "Wait and See."—Twillingate Sun.

KNOWLEDGE.

There's always something more to learn, however much we wot of now; important truths, that thro' and burn, man ought to store behind his brow. Physicians dwell in every town whose unused minds have gone to seed; they turn the helpful journals down, they do not study, think or read. They have diplomas on the wall; what more could any patient wish? They wait for the infrequent call, and sigh, "Dad blame it," or "Odsfish!" And there are lawyers on our street who quit their studies long ago; in fourth rate court rooms they repeat the few moth-eaten things they know. The doctors who are winning fame, the lawyers who oare coining dust, know well that in life's busy game none can afford to carry rust. The things we learned in days of old will make a base, the seers relate, on which to rear a structure bold of knowledge fresh and up-to-date. The men who think they know enough will cut but little grass below; they'll always find the sledding tough, and few to mourn them when they go. No man can know so much, in sooth, he shouldn't to his books return; there's always room for one more truth, there's always something more to learn.

Pink Elephants With Green Ribbons On Their Tails.
A hobby of mine has long been if I awakened in the night, to think of the things I had been dreaming about because the disjointedness of such images seemed to lead to drowsiness. I have just been delighted by finding corroboration of this from high places. "When you retire and try to sleep and cannot," writes Dr. Lulu Peters, "try this: You know when you are passing over, your mental images become distorted and grotesque. I artificially induce that state. If I find myself rehearsing about two hundred times the witty logical remarks which I could have made at the club discussion, but didn't I begin after this fashion."

"Pink elephants with green ribbons on their tails, red rhinoceros—of smiling peanuts. Woman's city Club—Social Health Insurance—why didn't I say—I wish I had said (here, get you out annoyance,) pink elephants—and so forth and so forth."

Fads and Fashions.

Some long silk tunics come within two inches of the foundation skirt.

Nut-brown charmeuse with palest pink crepe is a pretty combination.

Plumb and Ivory foulard may be very well made up with plum satin.

A dress of wood brown tulle is be-ribboned in gold mental and left blue.

A smart little dance hat is of wired Chantilly lace decked with pink roses.

Black satin with white embroideries may be chosen for afternoon gowns.

Black tulle make the most engaging of all evening gowns for a fair woman.

The soft toques of folded straw are so light they can hardly be felt on the head.

A blue serge coat is richly embroidered by Bulgarian embroidery in linen thread.

For sports wear is a skirt of oyster-white pongee with a blouse of gray tricotee.

Some of the new materials are reminiscent of the fashions of the eighteen-forties.

A smart frock of black taffeta has rosesway, Digby Co., N.S.

a huge apron of tucked and embroidered batiste.

With the Directoire hat, the Directoire cane is a very natural part of a woman's toilette.

Ivory-colored foulard powdered with dots of currant red is a gay and thaeily summer frock.

One of the prettiest items in the dress just now is the tassed sash. Of tulle, it is charming.

THE TROUBLE WITH GETTING AWAY WITH IT.

He got away with it all right, he pulled a shady little trick. And no one saw the thing he did; he made his bit of cheating stick; The throng applauded him at night, he carried home the silver prize; No one suspects that he was false and never shall a question rise. And yet the trophy that he took he hides to-day upon a shelf, He fooled the whole world cleverly, but found he couldn't fool himself.

He got away with it all right! As far as mortal ever can

He has successfully deceived his rival and his fellow man.

But through the days and nights since then he's heard a little voice repeat:

"The praises that you hear are lies, for you are just a common cheat. You'll never look with joy upon the silver cup which you have claimed."

I'll make you grow to hate the thing and turn away from it, ashamed."

He got away with it all right! He owns a costly silver cup,

But day by day he wishes now that for you are just a common cheat.

The records show that he was fair, and publicly they print his name, But he knows what he did to win, and he recalls it now with shame.

There is no lustre in the prize, upon a shelf the thing is hid,

To him it's but a symbol of a shameful deed that once he did.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—This fall I got thrown on a fence and hurt my chest very bad, so I could not work and it hurt me to breathe. I tried all kinds of Liniments and they did me no good.

One bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, warmed on flannel and applied on my breast, cured me completely.

Reid's Will Be Storm Centre.

(Twillingate Sun.)

It looks very much as if the coming election campaign will be fought very largely around the Reid Nfd Company as the storm center and the antagonists of the Government have many strings to their bow in such a fight. For years the Reid railway through Nfd. has been a joke to the natives accustomed as they are to "roughing it" and a very real terror to the outsider who travelled for the first time over our trunk line.

But bad conditions as had always been the past few years have created a condition of things that is a positive menace to life and limb. A few years ago a passenger car tipped over and a number of people burned to death. Some of our own citizens escaping from the burning car by little short of a miracle. There was the usual nine days talk; the cars were going to be electrically lighted; yet to-day train after train goes through with oil lamps burning while every branch train has the same old oil lamps.

Passengers now breathe a sigh of relief when they arrive at the end of a train journey and their relatives wait with anxiety their arrival.

The Reid Nfd. Company is a dangerous opponent for any reformer.

Every employee (and their loyalty to the firm is one of the few bright spots in the system) is an active apologist for the shortcomings of that system and the reformer is therefore met everywhere by the "explanations" (many of them masterpieces in their way) of the difficulties under which that concern labors.

But the railroad though run by a private concern is a public utility and it is a disgrace to the country and a stigma to our citizenship that we set so idly by while life and limb of our fellow countrymen who travel thereby are in perpetual danger.

Under these circumstances we can quite believe that the outcry being raised against Reids—much of it most justifiable, too—will be a not inconsiderable factor in the coming election campaign. The regrettable feature of it is that much of the negligence is due to the silence of Mr. Coaker, Juring his to the silence of Mr. Coaker, Juring his period of amalgamation with the Morrisites, on this very point, and the fact that he was then an active apologist for Reids.

For travelling, a taffeta coat which covers one entirely is useful.

Select a Responsible Investment House

For the average investor, one of the most important considerations in selling or buying bonds is to be assured of the character of the firm with which he is doing business, its experience and the facilities which its various departments afford for selling, buying and investigating the worth of any security.

As an investment house with eighteen years' experience in buying and selling high-grade Canadian bonds we invite you to consult us in regard to your investment problems.

An Answer to the Germans.

Germans, in business circles, are nothing if not thorough. Before the war the travellers of their manufacturing concerns had penetrated every nook and cranny of the Globe, exhibiting cheap and shoddy wares, sometimes bearing the motto "Made in Germany," but whenever import regulations prescribed that articles of German manufacture were prohibited, the astute Hun invariably found some way in which to outwit the authorities, and with much success. German sale methods were very much superior to those of other manufacturers, and their terms and conditions of purchase were more accommodating. The object of German salesmen was to capture the market, and to accomplish this to the discomfiture of rivals was the crowning ambition, fostered by promises from home of speedy advancement and preference, for in all cases the German Government was behind the manufacturer and the capturing of the world's trade meant much to the fatherland.

While the war was on it was impossible for German firms to do business with the outside world. The Allied blockade effectually prevented them from being competitors. But since the signing of the armistice trade firms in Germany have been endeavoring to win back their lost patronage and custom, notwithstanding that the name of German is nauseating to all lovers of fair play and free exercise.

That Newfoundland has not been exempted from the machinations of German manufacturers, the appended correspondence will show, and it is to the eternal credit of the firm to which negotiations for a resumption of trade relations were presented, that they repudiated categorically the overtures of the Huns for a return of commercial relations. We are privileged to give the correspondence, and trust that other firms receiving similar requests will treat them in the same manner as the firm in question, whose attitude towards Germany and things German is plainly set forth in their reply.

Correspondence.

Bonn Am Rhein, Germany, Feb. 2, 1919.
 Accompanying this I send you my price list of surveying instruments. The price of these instruments of the same quality and make as you have often ordered from me before, are now to be obtained at an increase of 175 per centum. I shall be very pleased to be honored with your further orders, and remain,

At your service,
 KURT WOLTZ.

St. John's, Nfld., June 25th, 1919.

Kurt Woltz,
 Bonn Am Rhein, Germany.
 Your catalogue of 1914 received, also post card advising that your prices had advanced 175 p.c. since issue of this catalogue.

I thank you for this post card, the reason for which is that I have been looking forward for this pleasure for four years, i.e., the pleasure of being able to reply to a firm or firms in Germany who anticipate doing business in the Allies countries again.

If your prices had been reduced 500 p.c. under your 1914 prices it would be no inducement to open up business with you.

Never again so long as I live will there be any business transactions carried on between any German firm and myself. The war is over but it will never be forgotten.

You personally may contend that you are not responsible for the war. Germany, however, has proven herself, through those in authority, and you as a people have allowed those in authority to carry on for the past four years the most brutal and uncivilized warfare that has ever been fought. We might have expected this from a country of savages, but from a country of what were supposed to be civilized people, it was not expected, and as I have already said, it will never be forgotten.

The man who did business with you before in connection with surveying instruments, etc., is my son, and he is to-day in France, never to return. He gave his life for the protection of others; and you, as well as every other citizen of Germany, are just as much responsible for this one man as you are for the 650,000 that have joined the army of the dead.

Please do not write me again, as I do not wish to have any more correspondence with you or any other firm in Germany. You can have my name posted throughout Germany, and you can paste this letter on the Gates of Hell, so that those who did not see it in Germany may read it on their Homeward journey.

After Long Service.

Two senior officers of the Terra Nova Constabulary, in the persons of District Inspector Sparrow, and Head Constable Dawe, have been placed on the retired list. The former has given 45 years and the latter 46 years' service, and their retirements on pension date from June 30th. The many friends of both wish that they may long be spared to enjoy the evening of life.

Ice Conditions North.

A gentleman who arrived from Green Bay on Tuesday, informs us that never in the experience of the oldest inhabitant, has there been such an immense field of ice as now blocks the coast in that portion of the island. Some of the immense pans are a mile in length and nearly the same in breadth. It is impossible for the fishermen to do any work. There was a sign of caplin at Little Bay a few days ago.

STRAITS CLEAR.—A message to the Assistant Collector of Customs, from Blanc Sablon, advises that the Straits of Belle Isle are clear of ice, and that there is a good sign of fish.

IN MEMORIAM.

BEAUMONT HAMEL—JULY 1st, 1916.

(A. J. O'REILLY.)

When the Great War ensanguined all the earth,
 Destroyed the Belgic fane, the Frankish hearth
 Uplifted the tillage, crashed the altar down,
 Burnt great Louvain, dispersed the cap and gown—
 Louvain, where culture with fierce Kultur strove,
 With lance of courtesy and Christian love,
 Poetic art, philosophy's mild sway,
 And one Great Precept pointing out the way.

Then Britain called. Her fledgeling-nations brood
 Came clamoring to her o'er the seething flood.
 Oft had that mother bared her breast to save
 Her helpless fledgelings nesting by the wave,
 As on St. George's dim lagoon, the teal,
 In narrowing circles oft is seen to wheel.
 In fond desire the hunter to decoy—
 To save her helpless fledgelings from annoy,
 Offers her breast the deadly lead to stay,
 To save them scathless till that future day
 When, wise, and strong of wing, they cleave the ether grey.

And with the first our Terra Novans came;
 Men skilled in all pursuit of savage game;
 Men trained to toil with ready hand and brain;
 Men trained to search the foe, to reap the main—
 Inured to dangers of a rock-bound coast,
 Inured to hours when all, e'en life, seemed lost:
 Trained, they, to snatch life's wreath from chill Despair,
 And set the glowing garland in their hair—
 Trained, too, in arts of peace and virtue's way,
 In sheltered hamlets, on each Sound and Bay,
 Ideals, idols were, and none had feet of clay.

Young, peerless knights, who rose at Duty's call;
 Who heard the message, aye, and believed it all!
 They fought for right! They fought in Freedom's cause!
 They fought for equal justice, equal laws!
 Fair are the blossoms on yon bending spray,
 And sweet the perfume that we breathe to-day;
 But should a canker lurk within the bloom,
 Not bloom's fruition but bleak death its doom:
 But did the message hidden purport bear,
 Not theirs the fault, who feared no canker there—
 They struck for all things right; they struck for all things fair!

July, the Month that perfumes all our ways,
 That wreathes with summer mists our gleaming bays,
 Our summer's glory, Terra Nova's pride,
 That makes a heaven of each country side;
 That tenders gifts with every perfumed breath
 Oh, why, Gift Bearer, hast thou offered death!
 On Beaumont Hamel's blood ensanguined plain
 Thou offer'st us a holocaust of slain!
 Can we forget the hour, forgo the day;
 Can e'er its sadness vanish quite away,
 Can e'en the glory won wipe all our tears away.

They breast the slope, with eager youthful pace;
 Their one desire the hidden foe to face.
 The sky-line shows—a very rain of death
 From front, from left, from sky,—from earth beneath
 A very flood of death is on them poured—
 (No foe to meet, no gleam of lance or sword)—
 The poison gas, the aeroplane's dread bomb,
 The mine that slays—that excavates their tomb;—
 These, these are all; but onward still they go.
 Ten thousand men might lay this strong-hold low—
 The thousand can but die with faces to the foe!

They fall upon the plain,—the fair-haired boy,
 The dark-haired youth, his mother's pride and joy.
 Gaze on this plain, Ambition's Slaves, from 'far
 Who won by this a ribbon or a star!
 Look on this plain, more guilty vulture crew
 Who from the war your blood-stained profits drew;
 Who, with loud clamor, urged these o'er the foam,
 Then plundered those, dependent, left at home,
 Pray that His Vengeance, stalking wide of late,
 Be not already knocking at your gate,—
 He hath a bitter curse, who hath an orphan's hate!

Peace, peace! These loved their kind; they died for Right;
 They died to end the mighty rule of Might;
 They saw the vision of the Holy Grail,
 Their vision comes, or human hope is frail.
 Their vision comes, for which they gave their life,
 Comes Peace, the Holy League, the End of Strife,
 Freedom to all, and right and reasoned laws,
 And Justice weighing the oppressed one's cause.—
 Oh, friend, at Hamel slain, the time is meet
 To weave for thee the Victor's laurel wreath
 And lay, with smiles and tears, the chaplet at thy feet.

Found Drowned.

The Deputy Minister of Justice received a wire from Dr. G. Bowden, Wesleyville, yesterday, stating that Mrs. James Blandford had been found drowned there at 5 o'clock in the morning. No further particulars were given. An enquiry will be held.

Enjoyable Dance.

The annual solree and dance held at Smithville by the members of the Truckmen's Union on Monday night, was a success in every particular. The catering was performed by the Misses Furlong in their usual thorough manner, and the music by Prof. Miron's orchestra, composed of Ballely, Tom Bennett and himself was, it is needless to say, up to its high standard. Dancing was kept up until 3 a.m., when the fifty couples returned to their homes delighted with the result of their Annual of 1919. Mr. Thos. Rice was master of ceremonies.

H. M. S. Cornwall.

There is nothing definite to-day from H.M.S. Cornwall, and it is presumed that the ship is still fog bound in Bonavista Bay, no change having taken place in the weather.

From Cape Race.

Special to Evening Telegram.
 CAPE RACE, To-day.
 Wind light and variable; weather fine, foggy off shore; ten bergs are in sight here; no shipping sighted; Bar, 29.68; Ther, 58.

NO PARTICULARS.—On enquiry at the office of G. M. Barr, the principals of the firm announce that they have, so far, not received any particular details of the loss of their vessel, Thomas W., which was abandoned when about 60 miles from Barbados, on the voyage to this port. The crew, however, are safe.

Wonderful Machine.

NOMINEE, Mich., June 21.—A farmer man operating the newly invented Lloyd loom so impressed G. M. S. McNeillage, member of the Australian legislature, during a visit to the Lloyd Manufacturing Company's plant here that arrangements were completed by cable to the Australian government for the purchase of 250,000 of the Lloyd looms as well as Lloyd's new method of production. They will only be used in giving employment to returned and crippled soldiers and sailors. The Lloyd loom is the first mechanical device ever made which will weave reed or fiber for bay carriages, furniture or baskets. From the very earliest time—even when Moses was found in the bullrushes, tucked into a hand-made reed basket—these articles have been woven by hand. Marshall B. Lloyd, one of the best known American machine inventors, struggled many years over the task while scores of others failed. Success has finally come in a machine which will weave these fabrics thirty times faster than the most skilled hand-worker can and with much greater perfection. The gap of ages has been spanned in an industrial manner and reed and fiber manufacturers look for a complete revolution in their industry as a result of the Lloyd loom.

A machine is now enroute to Australia. More will follow soon and a large factory will be built in which returning heroes will be employed. The facts that physically deficient men can do the weaving on the Lloyd loom instead of the most deficient hand workers and that Australia is doing everything possible to aid its wounded prompted the expenditure of one-quarter of a million dollars for a single machine.

Their Worry.

The Newfoundlanders object that the noise of the airplanes which have been infesting their coast in large numbers lately, startles their hens and prevents them from setting. Such is the force of example. No doubt what worries the hens is not the noise but the irresistible desire to "help off."—Columbia, S.C. State.

Hint to Trappers.

Jim Buckley of Peace River, Alberta, stopped his wife just as she was throwing away a spoiled egg. "Give it to me," he said. "I've heard that foxes are crazy about rotten eggs and I want to try the idea out." Reluctantly she handed over the egg, with instructions to take it far away. That evening Buckley baited his fox-trap, hoping to catch a red fox on the following morning. Instead, to his surprise, he found a silver fox in his trap. The pet sold for $340.

Methodist Conference.

CARBONEAR.
CONFERENCE SUNDAY, June 29.

Conference Love Feast.

A number of the ministers and lay delegates availed themselves of the opportunity of attending the Love Feast, held on Sunday at 9.30 a.m. in the church. One of the oldest veterans of the Methodist Church is the Rev. Jas. Wilson, who has labored incessantly in the colony as a Christian minister for over forty years, presided over the meeting. It was indeed a service of sweet fellowship of "saints below," and blessed community with our Heavenly Father.

Conference Service.

There was a splendid congregation on Sunday morning to hear the Conference address, the preacher being the Rev. Dr. Bond, President of the Conference, assisted by Chairmen of the Districts the Rev. Dr. Saint, Rev. W. T. D. Dunn, Rev. Chas. Howse, and the Rev. J. T. Newman. The President took for his text, Ezekiel II. (1) "Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak with thee." The prophet is here telling us something about his communion with God. It is a great thing to hold fellowship with the Master. It is indeed the greatest thing a man can have. It was a real communion; and mark you, it was held by a man of like passions as ourselves. We sometimes forget that, the prophets, like the leaders of to-day, were men who had to deal with the problems of the community. They had put themselves into relationship with God that God might speak to them and through them to the people. Brethren that is our duty as well as our privilege. "Stand upon thy feet."

(2) The Appropriate position of Respect. When the Governor comes into our presence we stand and pay our respects. When we enter into the worship in the sanctuary we stand and sing. The lack of proper reverence is an evidence of mental ineptitude and moral decay. Alas, it characterises the age in which we live. God demands more outward respect.

(3) Attitude of Attention. If a soldier was going along the street and heard some one shout—tion: he would unconsciously stand to attention. It is but the force of habit. God calls to us, but with the voice of God comes many other voices, each calling our attention. Listen to the voice of God. He is ready to make wonderful revelations to man, if only man would put himself into right relationship with Him. The call comes to each one of you brethren to play the part of a man, to walk with your head erect; you cannot disobey this call and be a real man, for in this there is a challenge to real manhood. It is only when you are at your best that you can hear God, and that God through you can serve the present age. God wants your intellect; ignorance is not the mother of worship. It leads to sin, and sin causes you to stoop. There is a tendency to compromise. In the very act of compromise you are stooping. You can't stand upon your feet and sin. When a man stoops, he knows it, and hates himself; but if he keeps on sinning he becomes unconscious that he is playing the lower part in the battle of life. To-day pretty names are applied to sin. Men call pet sins by pet names; but whatever name you may give to the various forms of sin, it is still the same.

Let me point out to you that the voice we listen to is the voice we obey. And the voice we obey, becomes our master. Man's religion consists not in church going; that is a great mistake. True religion is revealed in life and conduct. Life is always the answer to a call. "Stand upon thy feet, and I will speak to thee." That is God's call. In St. John's the great trouble with the telephone is that you may ring up a person on the 'phone, and he may hear but refuse to answer. Oh, how God has been ringing us up and we have refused to obey Him.

God calls to every man and woman in this congregation this morning. Are we listening? Some years ago two men were seen going up Signal Hill. One had a box under his arm. They came to a house, and one set up a kite and took the string into the house. There was an instrument in that building, and for hours that man sat there, but suddenly there was a click, click, click. On the other side of the ocean a man was sending a message, and Marconi was receiving it. That was the beginning of the wireless telegraphic system. Over that stormy ocean thousands of messages have been flashed. The idea is old; God in heaven has been flashing messages to this earth of ours; have we received them. God is wanting to speak; are we listening. He speaks in such a way that every one of us can understand. He has spoken to us by His Son. He has redeemed the world by the blood of Christ. Thank God for the many who have stood upon their feet, and once again redeemed this world by that blood. "As Christ died to make men holy, they have died to make men free."

In our lesson (Heb. I) we read that in these last days God has spoken unto us by His Son. In St. John's Gospel we read, "In the beginning was the Word . . . and the Word was made flesh." You and I are called upon to receive that Word. We want to be a re-incarnation of the Word of Christ; that it might be true of us that God is speaking by His Son.

I heard a man once say, "a middling physician is a poor thing, a middling lawyer is a poor thing; but God save me from a middling man of God." I would emphasise that. God save us from middling men of God. If you go into an electric station you may get near enough to learn all about it, and to tell others about it, but it is only when you put your hand upon the conductor that you can feel the thrill. No one will be able to tell you what it is, you must realise it yourself. And if you were to stand upon a glass stool and put your hand upon the conductor you would become so electrified that if you were to put your finger near a gas jet you might ignite it.

God wants you to-day to put your hand upon the conductor and be electrified with the spirit. There is a story of a Scotchman, who it is said, shook hands with Prince Charles, and because he had shaken hands with bonnie Prince Charles, he refused to shake hands with any one else. Let us never shake hands with anyone else but Jesus Christ, and then go out and tell the world for Him.

An anthem by the choir and the Benediction by Dr. Curtis closed the service.

—J.A.W.

and subsequently a ministerial session was held.

WELCOME RECEPTION.

At 6.30 p.m. Saturday, June 28, the members of the Conference were elegantly entertained at a sumptuous repast prepared by the kind friends of Carbonear. I am sure that every member of the Conference and every returned hero, who were also invited, is deeply grateful to the ladies for so hospitably entertaining them. At night a public reception was held to welcome especially the ministers and probationers of our Conference who had so nobly and heroically upheld the traditions of Methodism, even on the bloody battle-fields of Europe. Several of the returned ministers spoke for a few minutes on the subject of their religious experiences at the meeting. The choir beautifully rendered the anthem, "The House that stood the Storm."

Chairman's Address.

We are met here to-night to do honor to the men who have so valiantly fought for us, for our Newfoundland, for the Empire, yea, for the world. The world must be the better for their suffering. I am always glad to be in any meeting that recognizes the valor and sufferings of our men.

I was in a street car not long ago when a wounded soldier came in. I immediately rose and said, "I take off my hat to you, Sir." Mark you, I wouldn't take it off to a politician, but to a wounded soldier, yes, every time.

There is one thing I admire about the returned soldier, and that is, you can't get him to tell you about his own experience. He will gladly tell you about the noble deeds of his chum, but of his own experience he is dumb. There is a reason for it; not that of modesty only, but every soldier is anxious to forget the devilry of war.

The first to address the meeting was the Rev. Albert Johnson, a member of the Royal Flying Corps.

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen, I shall not detain you long, but there are a few things I should like to say. It is not always gloomy; there is a bright, a humorous side. I think of a Methodist district meeting which five of us held just behind the lines. We had just come out of the lines for a rest when I unexpectedly met some friends from this side. It was always a joy to meet a person you know on the other side. We sat by the side of an old bench, while Bro. Barnes, many of you know him—was in the trench reaching up biscuits and tea to us. Once again we were billeted in an old barn. It was Sunday, and there had been no church parade. As a rule the soldiers hated church parades, not that they disliked religion. Some of them were noble men, but they disliked the idea of being forced to go to church. Give the soldier the free and easy meeting and he enjoys it. This cold evening we were sitting there when one of the soldiers said to me, "You're a bit of a parson, aren't you? Let's have a bit of a service." I did my best. We sang some old familiar hymns, prayed, and read to them the Scripture, then in a humble way I spoke to them of Christ.

I shall never forget my last experience in the air. We had been in action for two or three days, and then I was sent back for a rest. When 5 p.m. that day, I received word to go into action. The battle had begun for Cambrai, and the Germans gave us a hot time. We were sent to observe over the enemy's lines and he was determined to prevent us. Shells were bursting all around us, and for a time it got very warm. But that was not the worst. As I looked I saw seven German machines coming, and we were alone. To escape was impossible. My pilot did all that could be expected. There 12,000 feet in the air, the enemy put a bullet in our gasoline tank and our machine took fire. The machine came to earth at a terrible rate, and there with the machine burning and my tunic aflame, I gave myself to God; but here again Newfoundland came to the rescue, for as I lay unconscious two on this very platform rescued me—B. Warr and N. Cole.

I have often thought for what purpose did God bring me back from the jaws of death. Was it not because He has still a work for me to do in Newfoundland. That to me was a positive call to God's work. I trust that these experiences will make me a better minister of the Gospel than ever I had hoped to be.

Methodist Conference.

Miss Stevens, of M. A. University sang a solo, and Dr. Chown addressed the meeting.

He said: I feel greatly honored to be on this platform this evening. We have heard addresses from several Canadian soldiers, and I have been trying to link myself up to them. I am a son in the 1st Canadian Division Machine Gun. We have heard from one to-night who was on that position as a signaller. I was always told that I had a military training. When I was 15 years of age I enlisted and at 17 years I saw active service and won this medal that I am always proud to wear. I studied at Kingston Military College and received my commission. When the war broke out I wired the officials at Ottawa and offered my services but I was told that I was too old. I was instrumental in raising two battalions. Have you ever heard of the battalion of Dry Black Devils. You see now, for they made me their Colonel in Chief. I do not say these things out of vain glory, but to link myself up to these noble men that you have heard to-night.

When I was overseas as a Chaplain I had the privilege to address the officers of the battalion, and I asked one if he was a Methodist, and he answered, "Why, yes. I was born a Methodist and remained a Methodist until the day of discretion and I have been a Methodist ever since."

Faith of a Soldier. I was speaking once on this subject, when one of the boys said, "By Jove, he's right." The soldier does not carry in his old kit a cut and dry theology, but he carries the fruit of Christianity. They do not want anything else but the real genuine theory.

There is also the lesson of sacrifice. This fundamental truth of the Christian religion has been reborn. We have seen it exhibited again and again. Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friend. A man who has reached the age of 40, and has not learned this lesson is still a baby. But the man who has learned it is indeed a soldier of the King of Kings.

I received a letter from my son while he was in France; he spoke about the fact that 13 out of 15 of his college companions had paid the Supreme Sacrifice; then he added, "Dad do not fear for me. I am ready for anything. We do not fear death here. It is just like passing to something higher."

These soldiers know how to fight. But not to hate. When the enemy has surrendered, how often our boys treat them as if they were personal friends. They can endure pain but they do not want to inflict it. I have often stood beside the wounded soldier and asked him what I should tell his mother, and although in many cases he was severely wounded, he would say, "Oh, slightly wounded, Sir, only a scratch."

I am proud to see so many here to-night. It is a joy to know that so many of our ministers and probationers responded to the call; 551 entered the service of the King and Empire. Many of them will never return. But they have fought a great fight. They have kept the faith, they have finished their course.

Rev. W. W. Cotton, D.S.O., ex-Captain of the 1st Lancashire Fusiliers, then spoke of his religious experience. I do not agree with all that has been said here to-night, for I believe that the whole thing was but one great religious experience, even if you were tickling the fancy of a big bestial German officer with the bullet of a revolver. Whatever one could do to haul down the German flag was nothing short of a religious experience.

We have heard of some wonderful experiences to-night; but not one of these has had an experience equal to mine. Bro. Johnson has been telling us about sky larking; the others have been thrilling us with this story and that; but I challenge them to-night that not one of them has read his own obituary notice. True the Germans nearly got me, I received some wounds, but they didn't get me altogether.

Capt. Cotton then spoke about his trip in the air with one of the most reckless of the air force. "You wouldn't get me to do it again." The war has taught us just this that you must play the game. You must be a man.

The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Morning Session, Monday, June 30, 1919.

The session opened at 9.40 a.m., the President in the chair. Hymn 54 being sung, Secretary of Conference read a passage of Scripture, then prayer was offered by Rev. P. Ward and Mr. J. Vatcher.

Journal of previous session was read and on motion adopted.

Report of the State of the Work Committee was presented and adopted.

The ex-President was granted permission to leave Conference, and on motion was appointed to be the Conference representative at the Memorial Service to be held in St. John's July 1st.

The following resolution re the home-coming of the Rev. S. H. Soper was then adopted:

Resolved, that the Conference welcomes home to his native land the Rev. S. H. Soper, our missionary in China, and thanks Almighty God for all that our brother has been enabled to accomplish for the Kingdom in that great country, and wishes him a most enjoyable furlough and prays for him many years of useful work in that great mission field of the church.

Afternoon Session, Monday, June 30, 1919.

The session was opened at 2.30 p.m. After the singing of hymn 147 the Rev. W. J. Morris led in prayer. The resolution re Memorial Service was presented by the Rev. W. T. D. Dunn, and adopted.

Resolved, that this Conference assembled in Conference most heartily unite in expressing our deep and sincere gratitude for the service and sacrifice of the noble and heroic men who have laid down their lives for all that we hold dear in relation to life and liberty. We rejoice that under God and with His Divine blessing their sacrifice has not been made in vain, and we unite in earnest prayer that the God of all grace may abundantly comfort all who have lost their loved ones in this great world war.

The Report of the Social Service and Evangelism was read and adopted.

Report of Committee on Social Service and Evangelism.

Your committee expresses its gratitude to Almighty God for the great victory which has crowned the Allied arms during the past year and for the prospect of a near and enduring peace.

To our ministers and probationers who have been spared to return, we extend a hearty welcome. We are honored by their valour, heroism, and self-sacrifice. We pray that their experiences may still further equip them for the greater conflict in which they are to engage. We are also grateful for so many soldiers and sailors, doctors and nurses who have returned. They have done "better than the best." We ask their whole souled co-operation to make this land also better than the best.

Education.—Your Committee rejoices in the splendid success of the recent educational campaign which was carried on in St. John's and heartily congratulates the committee. The magnificent response of city Methodism to this work indicates the interest which is being taken in the education of our young people, and promises well for the future. We recommend that Conference place itself once more on record as being in favor of amalgamation of Public Schools.

Your committee places on record its appreciation of the visit of the Rev. Dr. Moore to our Conference and to the Twillingate District in particular, and would draw attention to the increased interest in the work of the department as shown by the large income of $448.00 for the Fund from Twillingate District alone.

Your committee would express its appreciation of the page in which the portion of the Greeting has been conducted by the Rev. Harry Royle, and feels assured that by this work a great deal of information is given to our people to their profit and good.

Your committee would urge upon the Conference the necessity of special interest in the welfare of our returned soldiers and sailors with the hope that Conference will make some pronouncement upon the whole question of reconstruction and would suggest the possibility of this matter receiving special attention on Saturday at the time set apart to welcome our men home.

Your committee nominates the Rev. W. W. Cotton, D.S.O., to be our representative at the General Board.

Prohibition.—Your committee strongly recommends that in view of present conditions Conference takes steps immediately to invite the co-operation of other religious bodies who shall be asked to associate with us in forming a committee which shall have power to prepare a strong pronouncement of their position in reference to the carrying out of the Prohibition Act.

Your committee, having learned of much unrest re the working of the Prohibition Act urges the Conference to place itself on record as absolutely against any change in the Act which shall in any way make it easier to obtain intoxicating liquor.

Further, your committee recommends that Conference shall take such steps as may be necessary to bring before the proper authorities, the fact that the burden of proof now rests upon the police in all cases of alleged breach of the Act, whereas in our opinion the burden of proof should rest upon the person who is found in possession of intoxicants.

In view of the alarming abuse in the use of essences, all essences shall be sold only by licensed grocers and in only small quantities to householders.

Your committee recommends that wherever practicable on circuits and missions, the Boy Scouts or similar organizations be introduced, and that every effort be made through social agencies as well as through established means to develop and train our young people and capture them for the church and the Kingdom of God.

R. S. SMITH, Secy.

A deputation from the Lord's Day Alliance—Revs. Dr. Jones and the Hon. R. A. Squires, was introduced to the Conference by the Rev. Dr. Curtis.

Dr. Jones gave a very eloquent and educational address, giving various reasons why we should give our whole hearty support to the Lord's Day Alliance.

Hon. R. A. Squires spoke on the Sabbath from the legal point of view, and urged upon the Conference to petition the Government to establish a law in Newfoundland, similar to the Canadian Sabbath Observance Act.

The following resolution was then adopted: "The Conference having heard the inspiring addresses from the Lord's Day Alliance deputation, Hon. Dr. Jones and Hon. R. A. Squires, it desires to place on record its deep appreciation of their efforts in preserving the Lord's Day as a day of rest, and pledges itself to support the Alliance in any and every effort it may make in obtaining for the people of Newfoundland the observance of the Lord's Day, and we strongly recommend that the Lord's Day Alliance use its great influence with the Government in view of having incorporated in the Laws of Newfoundland a Lord's Day Act, similar to the Sabbath Observance Act of Canada."

The Conference then adjourned.

Evening Session, Monday, June 30, 1919.

Session opened at 7.45 p.m., the President in the chair. Hymn 56 was sung and the Rev. E. Broughton and F. G. Willey led in prayer.

Journal of previous session was read and adopted.

The Educational Campaign Resolution was then taken up, and on motion adopted.

Resolution re Educational Campaign:

"Whereas the Board of Governors of the Methodist College has decided to make provision for the erection of a new college residence and college extension at an early date; and Whereas already a large sum of money has been pledged for the enterprise by the City of St. John's; Be it therefore Resolved that the Conference give its complete approval to the undertaking, and that we pledge ourselves to do all in our power to commend it to the practical sympathy and generous support of the Methodist people throughout the country, so as to bring it to a glorious consummation."

After a long discussion, the Conference unanimously adopted the resolution.

The Report of the Board of Governors was then read and adopted.

The Report of the Department of Finance also was adopted.

The Benediction was pronounced by Dr. Bond.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE BOARD.

Methodist College for Year 1918-1919.

The following report for the past year is respectfully submitted:

The total enrolment reported for the year was 465, an increase of 30.

The kindergarten department under Miss Dingle with the assistance of Miss Kendall, was conducted with the usual efficiency, and had 54 in attendance.

The second room in charge of Miss White with Miss Kendall's assistance when not required in the Kindergarten shows a high standard of proficiency with an attendance of 71.

The highest room of this department shows an advance of 7 for the year, the enrolment reaching 92 with an average attendance of 86. Miss Badcock with Miss Leslie's assistance maintains a high degree of proficiency in this room with excellent results.

The College Proper.

From the Principal's report we gather that the total enrolment for the year was 248, showing an increase of 28 over the previous year.

It is satisfactory to know that the results of the year's operations as shown by the C. H. E. Examinations were highly creditable.

(1) Senior Associate.—The results in this grade may be considered good. Five candidates succeeded in passing the examination, 4 in the Honours Division; Gertrude Gittleson was awarded the Jubilee Scholarship of $1200; 13 distinctions were secured.

(2) Junior Associate.—In this grade the results are on the whole very good.

In addition to this, during the vacation the Ladies carried out the complete renovation of the interior of the College, and made considerable additions to its equipment and furniture, all of which was done at a considerable cost.

The improvement thus effected is very important, and reflects the highest credit upon the Ladies, and we most cordially place on record our thanks and appreciation of their invaluable service to the institution.

At the close of the last year Mr. A. Allen, B.A., resigned his position as Senior Master, and was succeeded by Mr. W. S. Curtis of Mount Allison, who was induced to accept the appointment for this year only.

Rev. Louis G. Hudson, B.A., also resigned from the staff, and was succeeded by Mr. Geo. Hudson.

staff are not in the interest of the College, and it is to be hoped that something will be done to prevent withdrawals occurring so frequently.

The following extracts are taken from the report of Rev. T. B. Darby, M.A., Guardian of the Home:—

"I beg to report that we have had in attendance at the residence during the year a total of fifty students; of that number thirty-one were females, and nineteen males. Three of these withdrew through ill-health, others were here for a part of the year only. All our work during the year has been much interrupted by sickness, especially was this true of the epidemic of influenza last fall. Owing to the hospitals being full we had to treat our patients in the residence. It is gratifying to know that of the sixteen sufferers all recovered, and all are still at work. We are rather proud of this record considering the fatalities in the hospitals; and attribute it under the blessing of God, to the splendid attendance given by Dr. Cowperthwaite, and the careful nursing of the ladies of our staff.

Three weeks of the five, during which the college was closed, owing to the epidemic, the students at the residence received instruction for the part of the day in some classes. Mr. Harrington, Mr. Whiteway and Miss Fraser kindly undertook this task, to whom the pupils and their parents are indebted.

Under instructions from the Board, I visited a number of outports in the interests of the new residence, and our work generally and found among our people quite a considerable interest in the project, and assurance of help when the time came to solicit subscriptions. We are all gratified, I am sure, at the splendid response of the people of this city as shown a few days ago, and when the appeal is made later to the outports, the response, I believe, will be equally gratifying.

Financially the year has been a hard one, as the prices of things which we buy are much higher than they have been at any time during the war. Our books are not quite finalized, and I am not quite sure whether we shall pay our way or not.

In closing our report we venture to express the hope that the interruption to the work of the college due to the epidemic will not seriously effect the results of the coming exams, and that our report next year will be still more encouraging.

Report of the Department of Finance. Not until March 1st was the Secretary of this department permitted to give full time to his work.

Much of the work assigned to the department is not spectacular but nevertheless it is of great value. Those familiar with the various functions assigned to it will have no question as to its activities. To those who do not recall these we beg only to remind you that they include the following:—

- (1) The cultivation of Christian Stewardship.
- (2) The administration of the General Conference Fund.
- (3) The Church and Parsonage Aid Fund.
- (4) The General Conference Statisticians work.
- (5) The registration of church property.
- (6) The execution of all property documents pertaining to the church at large.
- (7) The standardizing of church and parsonage plans.
- (8) Assistance to embarrassed churches.
- (9) Co-operation and advisory relations with other church departments regarding financial support of their work.
- (10) The undertaking, if found advisable, of an Insurance Department for the church.

With such varied responsibilities of such limitless scope the church can scarcely be hypocritical if all functions are not immediately and uniformly developed. The future undoubtedly will prove the wisdom of organizing such a department. Already there is a tendency to regard it as a clearing house for other departments.

Last November a temporary executive of the Board of Directors was appointed by correspondence and met to discharge business the same month. In April our Board met. The Directors were well represented. Much business was transacted. A few words as to various items pertaining to the work of the department may be of interest.

Nothing is of greater importance in making the work of our church effective than that the principles of Christian Stewardship should be generally accepted by our people. We think not of their administration of their income only, but of a becoming sense of glad responsibility to Almighty God for the right use of every power, entrusted by God to His people. What tremendous spiritual resources are ours if only we were to employ to the full our powers in prayer, soul winning, etc. And what vast contributions would we now make to the progress of the Kingdom if our people were revived of their stewardship in matters of money. Improved methods of Finance would no doubt produce better results than we get, but even then improved methods would be this true appreciation of our obligations to God for the right use of our income and property.

The General Conference Committee thereon has recommended (1) Steps be taken to secure treatment of stewardship themes in S. S. Lessons and Epworth League topics. (2) Supplying matter on stewardship for publication in our connectional papers. (3) Study classes in our colleges and summer schools. Already communications received from Heads of Departments, editors of periodicals, and principals of colleges, indicates that these doors are all open to us and heartiest co-operation is assured. (4) A campaign throughout the entire church next autumn, stirring stewardship or prayer, soul winning. "If vacation and stewardship of possessions. This will probably be merged with and become part of the great United National Campaign. Sympathetically participated in, it has in it the germs of a gracious spiritual uplift for the whole church.

2.—In relation to the General Conference Fund many will be interested in knowing that the expense of the last General Conference amounted to $31,589. The preceding General Conference cost $19,533.67. The difference was due to the greatly increased cost of travelling and everything required for the Conference. Much increased expense for this department has been caused by the General Conference itself adding to its charges, the expense of the Department of Finance, the Archives Department, Christian Stewardship and by legislating that each member of each annual conference is to receive a copy of the Year Book at the expense of the General Conference Fund. This last item alone will probably cost $25,000 to $26,000 for the Quadrennium. It is yet to be seen whether the present rate of assessment will cover all these charges.

The Church and Parsonage Aid Fund is worthy of a much heartier appreciation than it has received in the past. There are at present 135 loans outstanding amounting to $98,000. Eight more were authorized by the Board of Directors, totalling about $12,000.

A new type of service is possible for this Fund. Many churches of unquestioned security are paying 7 and 8 p.c. for mortgages which the Fund might care for at 6 or 6 1-2 p.c. if its scope were widened somewhat and greater care in its investment. The Board of Directors have a committee appointed to study this and report later.

The existence in the Maritime Conferences of separate church and parsonage aid funds, suggests the wisdom of enquiring whether or not it would be mutually advantageous to associate all in one fund. We invite the attention of those interested in these various Conferences to consider whether it is better to continue as at present or to bring about a change.

4. Registration of Church Property. The brethren who have been filling up the Property Registration Schedules will know the Department is taking quite seriously the task assigned in this regard. We have already realized how great is the need for this in handling the transfer of certain church properties. For many of these it is impossible to find title papers or surviving trustees.

It would have been wise had instructions been issued to make the Department of Finance custodian of all titles not in the hands of mortgagees. We are prepared to take care of any of these which may be committed to us.

5. Our Board has approved of the proposition to collect suitable publications containing church and parsonage plans and securing from well known architects copies of plans of churches designed and built under their supervision.

It would help in this greatly if we could have from all of our Conferences copies of plans of their best designed and most useful and attractive buildings. We make an appeal now to the representatives of any charge having attractive buildings, to forward us their plan, if such remains in their possession, or to report to us the striking characteristics of their property.

6. Financial Co-operation. How largely or how little this department will be permitted to co-operate or advise with other departments of the church "in regard to the financial support of their work," remains to be seen. Should it never be privileged constitutionally or practically to serve the other departments, it can at least sound this warning note, that the multiplication of insistent appeals which are being thrust before our people from the pulpit, representing both connectional and outside objectives, are tending much to irritate and weaken our influence with a large class of people whom we are seeking to interest and save. It is not that the people have given too much but that they are appealed to, too often.

Our Board has appointed a committee to study this matter and devise some method which shall harmonize as far as possible the views of all departments and point the way to a saner system than now used in most of our churches.

7. Insurance. It is a fact generally conceded in insurance circles that churches are not high-class amongst preferred risks. Such things as inefficiency of certain janitors, absence of persons about the property when fires may break out, forced heating at week-ends, lack of careful inspection of heating and electrical wiring systems, high spires, etc., make them hazardous. Notwithstanding these difficulties, the Wesleyans and Primitive in England, the National Church Mutual of the United States and other church insurance concerns have made a success of carrying church risks. We do not doubt that we can do the same.

It is important that the church should do this for several reasons. The hope of ultimately cheapening insurance for our weaker congregations, and the prospect of making some money for the church are not the only reasons. The educational propaganda which would thus result in reducing the hazards of fire in our churches and the development within the church of the spirit and practices of co-operation are additional reasons.

We might begin by one of several methods. (1) Form a joint stock company of our own, all profits to go to the connexion. (2) Organize a mutual of our own. (3) Adopt an assessment system covering all church property in the connexion (in other words carry our own insurance) or (4) begin by accepting an agency for the stock companies.

Readers of the Guardian of May 7, will have found it was pointed out there that if the church were to undertake insurance, it would seem wise to begin by accepting an agency for existing companies. This would (1) permit the accumulation of business necessary whilst awaiting the time that a church mutual or company would safely carry its own risks. (2) It would provide considerable profit on the business; (3) it would give the maximum of security; (4) also variety to meet the demands of mortgages; (5) it would have for its management the most expert type of insurance people and the most scientifically correct insurance ratings.

Current Needs of Various Departments of the Methodist Church for the Conference Year, 1919-20.—Statement Issued by the Department of Finance, according to Discipline, Par. 355.

With the exception of the amount named for Missions, the following amounts have been reported by the Department Secretaries of the respective Departments named below, as their current requirements for the Conference Year 1919-20. The amount stated for Missions is the amount now being reported to the Conferences in connection with the United National Campaign.

Required for Year 1919-20.
Missionary . . . . .	$1,125,000
Educational . . . . .	125,000
Evangelism and Social Reform . . . . .	65,000
Sunday Schools and Y. R. Societies . . . . .	35,000
Superannuation (Assessable) . . . . .	1,350,000
Superannuation (Assessable) . . . . .	350,000
Total . . . . .	$1,700,000

In addition to the Budget reported above the following funds authorized by the General Conference have requirements as here stated:

General Conference Fund (Assessable) . . . . .	30,000
Church and Parsonage Aid Fund . . . . .	6,000
Army and Navy Board . . . . .	25,000
Total . . . . .	$1,761,000

Personal Mention.

Mr. Isaac Wakeley, J.P., of Harbor Buffett, arrived yesterday and is registered at the Crosbie.

Mr. John Carroll, formerly of King's Cove, B.B., who had been visiting friends at his home town, left by the s.s. Sable I. on Tuesday, for Halifax.

Sergt. P. J. O'Neil and bride are among the passengers on the incoming express.

Rev. P. W. Browne, who was at Carbonar, attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Browne, left by the Sable I. en route to New York.

Capt. Harris, R.A.M.C., who arrived by the s.s. Cassandra, is a son of Mr. Samuel Harris, of Grand Bank. He gave considerable service in France, and after the armistice was, by request, transferred to the Royal Nfld. Regiment, in order to expedite his return home.

Ice Blockade.

A message to the Fisheries Department from Blanc Sablon, reads as follows:—

"American yacht Carmen, New York to Hamilton Inlet, has returned from Hawks Harbor and reports a solid jam of heavy ice close packed inshore. Unable to proceed North."

Hungarian Reds Defy Entente---German Ratification of Treaty Next Week---Peace Proclamation Read in London.

REQUEST TO ATLANTIC STEAMERS.

NEW YORK, July 2. All ships in the Atlantic have been asked by Brigadier General L. H. O. Charlton, British Air Attache in this country, to send weather reports by wireless to Cape Race, Nfld., to aid in the navigation of the R-34 on its trip to the United States and return. General Charlton asked that the reports be continued for ten days, in case the dirigible was held up here longer than expected after landing at Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N.Y.

R-34 IN A THICK FOG.

LONDON, July 2. The British dirigible R-34, which left East Fortune, Scotland, at 1.48 o'clock Greenwich meantime this morning, reached 50 degrees, 7 minutes north latitude 14 degrees 50 minutes west longitude at 12 o'clock Greenwich time in her attempt to cross the Atlantic. Major Scott, the Commander, in his wireless despatch said that the dirigible at that time was making thirty-two knots an hour in a thick fog. The position of the R-34 at noon Greenwich time was approximately three miles west of Penzance, England, indicating that the big airship had travelled in a southerly direction along the coast of Ireland. The mail carried in the R-34 includes a letter from King George to President Wilson.

POSITION AT 4.30 P.M.

LONDON, July 2. At 4.30 o'clock this afternoon, Greenwich time, the British dirigible R-34 had reached 53 degrees 50 minutes north lat. and 18 degrees west long. In her attempted flight across the Atlantic.

GETTING PLENTY INFORMATION.

LONDON, July 2. The R-34 answering a wireless question by East Fortune as to whether it was receiving adequate weather reports, replied: "Yes, we are in touch with Ponta Delgado, St. John's, and Clifden, Ireland."

DUE TO-MORROW MORNING.

LONDON, July 2. The Air Ministry has received a report from Commander Scott, that at Greenwich time (4.15 p.m. New York time) the Dirigible R-34 was flying westward at 30 knots, 2000 feet above the sea. At this height the R-34 was above the clouds and enjoying brilliant sunshine. Commander Scott expects to arrive Friday morning.

NEW BANK OPENS.

MONTREAL, July 2. Concurrent with the signing of the peace terms the Bank of Montreal has announced its advent into the French banking field, in the opening of their Paris office on Dominion Day.

LOYAL TO EX-KAISER.

ZURICH, July 2. Officers of the German general staff who offered their resignations have withdrawn them upon condition that the Government does not deliver the former German Emperor to the Allies, it was announced in Berlin, according to despatches received here to-day.

DEFYING THE ENTENTE.

COPENHAGEN, July 2. Defiance to the Entente Powers is expressed in a proclamation to the Red Army, issued by the Hungarian Soviet Government, according to a Budapest despatch received here.

PLOT UNEARTHED.

BERLIN, July 2. A plot to blow up elevators containing food shipments has been uncovered at Hamburg, according to the Lokal Anzeiger. Those involved, it was said, were some of the convicts released from the Hamburg jail by mobs during the recent riots there. The authorities gained knowledge of the plot through members of the Seamen's Union, whose aid was sought by the conspirators.

ONLY ON A VISIT.

PARIS, July 2. Despatches received at Geneva regarding the former German Crown Prince whose reported escape into Germany was denied, state that the returned prince made a flying visit to Potsdam and returned to Holland. The reports from Constance and Munich said the former Crown Prince crossed the Dutch frontier in an automobile and visited his family in Potsdam.

EVACUATION BEGUN.

BUDAPEST, via Copenhagen, July 1.—In accordance with instructions from the Allied Governments, it was announced to-day that Hungarian troops have begun the evacuation of Czecho-Slovak territory, into which they had advanced.

WILL RATIFY TREATY NEXT WEEK.

PARIS, July 2. The Germans expect to ratify the Peace Treaty the first of next week, according to a note sent to the Allies. The note was one acknowledging the Allies' stipulation that the blockade will be raised when the treaty is ratified. The Germans also expressed the hope that the German war prisoners would be released at the same time.

DESTRUCTIVE EARTHQUAKE.

FLORENCE, July 2. The earthquake in this district Sunday caused 100 deaths, made several thousand homeless, and destroyed 200 houses, six churches and several public buildings, according to the latest computation.

CHINESE WILL SIGN AUSTRIAN TREATY.

PARIS, July 2. The Chinese delegates to the Peace Conference expect to sign the treaty with Austria, C. T. Wang, a member of the delegation, told the Associated Press correspondent to-day. He said the Austrian treaty contains nothing objectionable to his government such as was included in the League of Nations covenant. He said the Chinese would gain membership in the league in that manner. The Chinese will also sign the Hungarian treaty, he said, as China declared war against Austria-Hungary, but they probably would not sign either the Turkish or Bulgarian treaties, as war was not declared against those countries by China.

READING THE KING'S PROCLAMATION.

LONDON, July 2. The quaint medieval ceremony of reading the King's proclamation declaring that a state of peace now exists with Germany was read to-day at five points in the city. Rain unfortunately marred the occasion, but there nevertheless were large crowds at each of the five points.

TREATY BILLS INTRODUCED.

BRUSSELS, July 2. The Belgian Foreign Minister introduced bills in the chamber to-day ratifying the treaty, with Germany and the agreements connected with the treaty.

Always Gets Them.

Head Constable Crane, of Channel, is now en route to the city having in custody a young man named Woodland, who is suspected of lifting the sum of $340 from a General Hospital attendant last week. The suspect endeavored to get out of the country via Port aux Basques but the police officers there were on the qui vive and apprehended him. It's not easy to escape the authorities at the Western terminus of the railway, as more than one would-be emigrant have discovered.

Have You Examined the Tyres on Your Car of Late?

Do any of them look as if you had taken a coarse file and used it crosswise or at an angle on the tread?

If they do, the wheels of your car are badly out of alignment and it would be wise to have them attended to at once.

Perhaps the error of alignment is slight and the extra wear on your tyres will not be noticed quickly.

But if it is there, you will notice it on your tyre account. Just a little error may cost you thousands of miles of wear.

To be safe we suggest that you drive around to our garage frequently and let us measure up your wheels for you and see that they are kept straight.

It will take only a few minutes and our work will be free. It's part of our service as a Good year Dealer.

Advertising Causes Blasphemy.

"I have been swearing since I saw you advertising Sunkist Marmalade," said a prominent grocer yesterday "I have just laid in a large stock of a fairly good brand of Canadian marmalade but from what I know of the reputation of Sunkist Marmalades in the United States, I am convinced that within one month of your introducing Sunkist Marmalade to the local public there will be no marmalade but the Sunkist brand sold here." (He then proceeded to place a nice order for "Sunkist.")

That little story which is quite true shows what men well up in the grocery business think of Sunkist Marmalade. They think that when once the public becomes acquainted with the Sunkist Marmalades that no other brand of Marmalade will be sold here and that it will be useless for the drummers of Canadian marmalade firms, who are too mean to appoint Newfoundland agents, to make periodical trips here trying to sell their wares.

The shipment of Sunkist Orange Marmalade, Sunkist Grapefruit Marmalade and Sunkist Orange Jelly, which arrived on the Adolph, is packed in One pound glass jars which retail at 60 cents each—a few cents more than other brands of Marmalade but then Sunkist Marmalade is absolutely pure and some of the other brands are composed of glucose, glycerine and other adulterants that you wouldn't insult your tummy with if you knew you were doing it. Sunkist Marmalades will be selling at the following stores on Saturday morning next so you will be able to get a jar for Sunday's breakfast:—Ayre and Sons, Ltd., W. E. Beams, Bishop Sons & Co., Ltd., Bowring Bros. Ltd., C. P. Eagan, T. J. Edens, Ellis & Co., Ltd., E. J. Horwood, Wm. J. Murphy, Royal Stores Ltd., Soper & Moore, and Steur Bros. The trade supplied by P. E. Outebridge, Sole Agent, Telephone 567.

Obituary.

MRS. R. SHORTALL.
Within two short months of the passing of her husband, the summons came to Mrs. Shortall, daughter of the late Capt. Foran, whose demise we regretfully chronicle today. After a short illness, during which the deceased lady suffered much, the call came, and it is a sad coincidence that death occurred on the anniversary of the death of her gallant son Lieut. Richard Shortall, whose life was given on the field of Beaumont Hamel. Among those left to mourn an irreparable loss, and to whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathies, are three daughters, Mesdames G. Byrne, J. Harris, J. Sinnott, and two sons, Messrs. John and Stan. The funeral took place at 2.30 this afternoon.

Brought Wrecked Crew.

The schooner General Currie, 21 days from Lisbon to Marystown with salt, brought home the crew of the schooner Burleigh, which was abandoned in mid-Atlantic, while on a voyage from Lisbon to Burgeo with salt cargo for R. Moulton, Ltd. The Currie came along at the moment that the Burleigh was on the point of foundering and took aboard the Captain and crew of the ill-fated vessel. The General Currie was the sch. which collided with S.S. Portia at Marystown on Sunday night, doing considerable damage to the steamer, but escaping without serious injury.

Fishery Prospects.

Between Pass Island and Gaultois the catch of codfish to date is 10,600 qtls., with 200 for last week. Thirty traps, 200 dories and skiffs and 5 boats are fishing. Prospects are fair and sufficient bait is obtainable, but so far the traps have done very little. East of Trinity very little has been done with codfish to date, but at Trouty and Dunfield the traps have done very well. Jas. Clifford at Trouty is reported for 600 qtls., and four or five other traps haul for about 200 each, and the others have from 50 to 100. The total catch between Trouty and English Harbor is about 2920 qtls.

Between Connors and Red Island, Burgeo district, the catch of codfish is 8040 qtls. to date; with 300 for last week's catch. There is no sign of caplin yet, but from 1/2 to 2 qtls. of cod per boat is being taken with hand-lines and trawls when is procurable.

G. W. V. A.

The War Veterans' Association are making preparations for moving into their new quarters on Water Street (MacKay Building) and expect to take up occupancy early in August.

Before his departure for England, Mr. E. R. Morris, who is so actively energetic in the welfare of our soldiers and whose services in connection with the Newfoundland War Contingent Association have been invaluable, promised to send a billiard table for the club rooms, a gift that will be much appreciated and enjoyed. He will also regularly send supplies of current literature, and in addition has promised a yearly donation to the funds.

The Veterans' have been most energetic in organizing branch associations, one being recently started at Fortune (Burin District) with the following officers:—Pte. W. H. Lake, (C.E.F.) President; C.S.M. Butler, Vice-President; Sergt. S. Piercy, Secretary. In addition to the above and those already installed at Grand Falls, Bell Island and Bay Roberts, it is hoped before long to open others at Twillingate, Heart's Content and Bonavista. Sergt. E. Shea has gone to the latter town for promoting purposes.

Gen. John J. Pershing.

Information from abroad is that General Pershing will return to America as chief of staff, replacing General Peyton C. March, who has been filled that important and responsible post, the latter reverting to the command of the expeditionary forces during the remainder of their stay abroad. It will be a rather empty honor for General March, for in case the Germans refuse to sign the peace treaty and the march to Berlin is resumed, it will be General Pershing who will see the show through.

Nevertheless, it cannot be denied that great recognition is due "Black Jack" Pershing, whose untiring energy and capacity for great organization in the marshalling in France of the great army built up in such an incredibly brief period of time put him almost immediately on a par with the great leaders of the French and British forces. He insisted on doing Americans things in the American way, and the Allies admit now that much of their ultimate success was due to the smashing tactics of the Yanks when they did go in. Some handiers were made, and serious ones, but they were the result only of over-caution and inexperience.

General John J. Pershing deserves the signal honor which it is predicted will be bestowed upon him, and all others which may be suggested.—Vancouver American.

DISEASED GUMS AND TEETH.
Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by the diseased gums and teeth are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.
