LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;
— or the —
Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XVI.

"You will see some to-night," said John Bardon; "but the most beautiful of all is Lady Iris Fayne, the daughter and heiress of Lord Caledon of Chandos. You have heard of her, of course?"

"I should say that almost every one in England has heard of Lady Iris Fayne. She is the beauty of the day, is she not?"

"Yes, and she is as proud as—well, as proud as she is beautiful."

"We are all proud, I think," said Captain Osburn, with a smile, "but we show it in different ways. Her pride will not cause me any concern."

"She will not show it to you, Osburn. She is certain to like you—I am sure of that. I will introduce you, and you will see if I am not right."

John Bardon tried to look and behave as usual; but after this little conversation, he lost his ease and went about with a pale anxious face.

CHAPTER XVII.

The ball-room at Hyne Court was magnificently lighted and superbly decorated. On either side rose great banks of flowers, interspersed with palms and ferns. Little fountains played in the conservatories, which were lighted by lamps of golden hue, and pretty cool nooks were to be found amongst the greenery.

John Bardon felt very proud of his home as he stood by the side of his wife to welcome her guests.

"Chandos never looked better than this," he told himself; "and even Lady Iris must own it."

Although his house was filled with visitors and the elite of the county were expected at the ball, his thoughts

Dad, Mother, Ironized Yeast for Rheumatism

Do You Realize What Ironized Yeast-Vitamins Will Do For Rheumatism and Lumbago?

Do you know that vitamins and iron are part of your very life? Do you know that the tissue-and-blood factory in your body needs these two materials, and needs them every day? Do you know that if your body furnace does not get enough of these, that quest poisons, joint poisons, muscle poisons, acid poisons are formed instead of the healthy flesh and the rich blood you used to have in days gone by? If you hobble in your gait, if pains distort your body, if bending over is an unendurable agony, if your pain makes you breathe heavily and you do not grumble at the roughness of the way—quite rightly, there is a rainbow ahead. Things are different now than they used to be in the days of limonates, salves, complicated drugs, and all that—remember! The happy secret today is ironized yeast, one of the greatest body-and-blood builders of all time. Begin taking Ironized Yeast today. Beware of imitations and substitutes, because ironized yeast is not a mere combination of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance that is sold all over the world, sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package and containing 36 tablets, each tablet assayed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Hitchin & Co., Inc., Toronto, Sales Agents. Say goodbye to rheumatism from now on!

it absurd, I love the man—no other word expresses it."

Lady Iris liked her companion better at that moment than she had ever liked him before.

"I do not wonder," she said, "and your enthusiasm is catching, Mr. Bardon. Tell me about your friend. What regiment is he in?"

He told her, adding that he had heard in his praise.

"They tell me," he continued, "that he is one of the most promising officers of her majesty's service; and that is saying a great deal, is it not?"

"Yes, a great deal; but he looks as though it were true. His friends would have an easier time of it than his foes."

John Bardon laughed—and, though she did not detect it, there was a strange, weird sound in the laugh.

"I do not often quote poetry," he said—"it is not my line; but a few words of a verse that I came across years ago fixed themselves in my memory, and I have never forgotten them. They describe his character exactly."

"What words are they?" she asked curiously.

"The words of Tennyson—'Truest friend and noblest foe.' That is just what he would be; and, to tell you the truth, I would far rather that I were his foe than the friend of another."

"You give him high praise," she said gently. Every word that he uttered—she could not tell why—delighted her.

"I could not speak too highly of him if I were to try," he answered; "and I am not given to exaggeration."

He looked at her face, and must have seen something there that startled him, for his own grew paler and graver.

"Osburn," she said musingly. "It is a good name; but I do not remember to have met any Osburns, except the family of Lord Gower. Does he belong to them?"

"No," replied John Bardon, "he may be. I believe he is, distantly related to them, but the families have not been friendly for many years."

"Is he one of the Osburns of Sketchley?" she asked.

His lips grew whiter, and he paused a moment, then he thought of his revenge. "I will have it," he said to himself—"I will have it, if I suffer afterward!"

"What did you ask me, Lady Iris?" he inquired, as though he had not heard her words.

"Is he one of the Osburns of Sketchley?" she repeated.

He knew that if he answered affirmatively the falsehood would not be so easily discovered as if he said that he was one of the Gowers.

"Yes," he replied deliberately; "he is one of the Osburns of Sketchley. I could not think of the name."

"Then he is a gentleman!" she cried. "I felt sure of that. He looks like a man of noble birth."

Again John Bardon's heart gave a great bound. Was she falling so readily and easily into the trap.

"You must not speak of Sketchley to him," he said, "as he cannot bear any allusion to it; but he is very wealthy. There is a little romance about him too."

"Is there? Tell it to me, Mr. Bardon," she requested eagerly.

Republican Fears.

DREAD NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.

WASHINGTON, October 13th (By Canadian Press)—The Republican Old Guard is looking forward with no little anxiety to the November elections. For that matter, the progressive elements of the republican party are likewise awaiting the outcome with concern. If the democrats could capture control of the House in November, it would amount to a hard rebuke for the Old Guard leaders and their policies. It would be a blow at the Harding administration, which has worked in close cooperation with these leaders in Congress. Indications now are that the republicans will not lose the House, but that their margin of control will be much reduced. The question of whether the Old Guard is to remain in the saddle in Congress and in the republican party will be answered quite as much by the fate of certain senatorial candidates as by the House results. Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, who has been renominated for the Senate by the republicans, has a stiff fight with Governor Edwards for the election. Edwards is a wet candidate and may beat Frelinghuysen. The latter is dry, although a consistent follower of the Old Guard leaders in the Senate. The defeat of Frelinghuysen would tend to weaken the Old Guard's grip on things. Then, too, there is the fight of Senator Lodge in Massachusetts and of Senator McLean in Connecticut each has a sharp campaign on his hands, and though each is expected to win, there are possibilities of an upsetting. The amount of dissatisfaction or approval felt the country over on the tariff bill is an unknown factor when it comes to reckoning votes and may prove to be extremely serious for some of the republican leaders. Senators Townsend of Michigan, Calder of New York, and Sutherland of West Virginia are among the republican Old Guard members who have opposition in their own party because of their records. The democrats hope to capture one or two of these places. With Senator New of Indiana, and Senator McCumber of North Dakota already beaten in the primaries, the Old Guard republicans in the Senate feel they can ill afford to lose any more of their number in the elections. A powerful movement has already begun in the House, engineered by the agricultural bloc, to capture control of the republican organization in that body provided the republicans continue to dominate the House. The purpose is to elect a leader and a steering committee friendly to the agricultural interests. This is a movement directed at the Old Guard whose leaders are not friendly to the purposes of the agricultural bloc.

Legalized Robbery.

THE ENORMOUS DUTY ON SUGAR.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—In Thursday night's Advocate there appeared an item reading as follows:

"THE CURRANT" SITUATION.

A rumour on the street to the effect that the Government will be approached to take control of the "currant" situation is stoutly denied by the parties concerned. On the other hand those who speak for the authorities affirm that on no consideration will the currant importations be taken over and further importation prohibited; no matter how the Government will be importuned to do so.

It is quite easy to understand why the Government will not be importuned into controlling the "currant" business, for the simple reason that there is a law to the effect that Currants Imported from Greece are to be admitted duty free, and fearing any trouble with our Greek fish customers, the authorities are chary about putting any duty on this fruit and roasting the public as they are doing with the Sugar outrage.

In connection with Sugar, perhaps, Mr. Editor, you are not aware that on a shipment of one hundred barrels of this commodity, costing four cents per lb. C.I.F. (or delivered here) and valued at approximately $1400.00, the huge sum of over $2100.00 is demanded and collected as duty on this particular importation. If this is not a "hold up," or a clear case of "legalised robbery," well then I can only add that we are a very submissive community and deserve this tyrannical treatment from the hands of our tax gatherers.

Of course it is practically useless to look for any relief from this hardship while the present Government waste and extravagance continues, but at the same time it may not be out of place to refer to this "Sugar Scandal" from time to time with the hope that the authorities may be conscience stricken at least, and as a last resort do something to wipe out one of the greatest blunders of the Coaker-Squires administration, by removing the indecent and exorbitant tariff on our Granulated Sugar.

Yours truly,
CONSUMER.

C.C.C. Band Dance

C.C.C. Hall.

The grand opening dance takes place in the C.C.C. Hall on Thursday next, October 19th. This Hall for the past two months has been thoroughly renovated and painted and many improvements effected. The ventilation of the Hall will be greatly improved by the addition of a large window on the western side of the building. The gallery has been cleared of the unsightly platform, and in future will be used exclusively for the dancers and spectators for sitting out after each dance, the band platform being removed to the head of the Hall. The floor has received special attention and all the bad spots replaced by new lumber, and all knots removed, and the Electric Machine of Thomas Brothers has now made the floor as smooth as glass. The Orchestra of 14 men will be a feature, composed of 2 Cornets, 2 Clarinets, 2 Saxophones, 1 Piccolo, 2 Eb Tenors, 1 Trombone, 1 Baritone, 1 Eb Bass and Drums and Effects. This combination will replace the heavy brass band of former days. On Thursday the C.C.C. Orchestra will be at their best in all the very latest. And last, but not least, the catering by special arrangements will be in the hands of Mr. John Robinson and staff, the well-known caterer. The tickets are as follows: Ladies' $1.00, Gents' Single $1.50, and Double $1.90.

S.S. Hong Inge Arrives.

DIVER MAKES EXAMINATION.
S.S. Hong Inge, which loaded fish on Labrador for J. W. Hancock, and later grounded at Dark Tackle, arrived in port at 8 o'clock last night. Diver Taylor went down this forenoon to examine the ship. It is believed that the bottom is not much damaged as the ship is making but very little water. The Hong Inge has 13,500 qts. of codfish on board consigned to Hawes & Co. Messrs. Harvey & Co. The Furness Withy Co. are agents for the ship and cargo.

English Trawler in port.

SUCCESSFUL FISHING TRIP.

S.S. King's Gray which has been trawling on the Grand Banks during the past two months arrived in port last evening for supplies. The King's Gray is owned in Hull, and with a sister ship, was sent out as an experiment, the headquarters of both being at North Sydney. The King's Gray has 2,400 quintals of fish on board, after an eight weeks trip. She carries a crew of 57 men. The sister ship has sailed from North Sydney direct for England. The King's Gray will sail this evening. Hon. Tasker Cook was the ships agent.

Pony Carriages Collide.

WOMAN BADLY INJURED.

Mrs. Coffin, wife of the well-known Jeweller, Mr. C. Coffin, was badly injured in a collision, on Saturday night, whilst proceeding to her home on Freshwater Road. It appears that Mr. Coffin with his wife and son were driving homewards in a pony wagon, when a similar outfit driven by Mr. Martin Doyle met in collision. The impact threw Mrs. Coffin out of the wagon. She was picked up and brought to the residence of Mr. A. Rice, where medical attendance was summoned. After treatment Mrs. Coffin was removed to her home.

Susu in Port.

S.S. Susu, Capt. Roberts, arrived in port from the Fogo Mail Service yesterday morning bringing a full freight, mostly fish and oils. The following passengers also arrived by the ship: H. J. Duder, J. Robbins, J. Gray, J. R. Whiteway, H. Anthony, Mrs. R. Parsons, Mrs. A. Miller and child and Miss E. Templeman. The Susu sails again to-morrow afternoon.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service—The Evening Telegram

From Kidney Trouble to Dropsy is Next Step.

(Monday, Health Talk No. 5.)

(By Dr. W. H. MacPherson, D.C., Ph.C.)

Dropsy is listed as among the incurable diseases, but in most such cases, chiropactic is successful, particularly in this true when the case is taken before the condition becomes too far advanced. In dropsy there is under elimination of the fluid wastes of the body, and though other organs may be involved the principle cause always is kidney weakness.

The cause of this under elimination of fluid wastes, of course, is weakened mental impulses over spinal nerve lines, due to displacement of spinal bones. Where there is displacement of spinal joints there is narrowing of the spinal nerve opening. The spinal nerves emitting through this opening are pinched, and the normal flow of mental impulses over these nerve lines is impeded. When the organs affected are the liver and kidneys there is under elimination, and a gradual poisoning of the system results. Chiropactic spinal adjustments are necessary to restore the perfect mechanical condition of the spine, and thus remove the cause of disease.

Health turns the Clock Backward

UNCLE BEN SAYS "Religion is more popular than ever. Nervy. The fellow who says its unpopular means the kind that is worn on Sunday only."

Dropsical Condition Goes After Adjustments.

"This is to certify that for two years I suffered from chronic appendicitis and kidney trouble and I was in a dropsical condition. I then turned to chiropactic and during a course of twenty adjustments I lost fourteen pounds. The adjustments were continued and to-day I am feeling better in every way. The appendicitis has not troubled me since the first adjustment. I cannot recommend chiropactic too highly to those who may be sufferers such as I was." C. M. Welch, Chiropactic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1341W.

The American

John Brown.

John Brown of Ossawatimie, who must not be confused with John Brown, Queen Victoria's servant, was born in Torrington, Connecticut, U.S.A., on May 8, 1800. He was descended from Peter Brown, who came over in the "Mayflower" in 1620, and in early life he wandered about, working at surveying, shepherding, farming and similar occupations. He married twice and had twenty children. In 1855 he settled in Kansas where there was then a violent controversy as to whether that state should be a slave holding one or a free one. He became a most determined supporter of the movement for the abolition of slavery, and in a series of desperate border fights, which were practically civil war on a small scale, he became known as a brave and fearless leader of the abolitionists, a man who would defend and even enforce his opinions with his rifle. He got many slaves away to Canada and had plans for making a defensive station for fugitives in the mountains of Virginia. But the larger idea at the back of his mind was for a general rising or insurrection of the slaves and at last he tried to put it into practice. On October 16, 1859, with six of his sons and only sixteen others, he seized the U.S. Arsenal at Harper's Ferry, hoping that the slaves would rise and join him. He took the place without much trouble but, having allowed a train to pass, the news was carried far and wide. No slaves came to join him and next day he was surrounded by U.S. troops. He made a desperate resistance, and did not surrender till he was severely wounded and most of his men killed. He was tried, found guilty of treason, and hanged at Charlestown, December 2, 1859. His seizure of Harper's Ferry and his death convinced most citizens of the U.S. that the question of slavery or no slavery could only be settled by war. By the abolition party he was regarded as a martyr and within 18 months of his death the Union was riven in two and the northern regiments were marching into battle singing—

John Brown's body lies a-mouldering in the grave,
 But his soul goes marching on.

Walking Cure.

72-YEARS-OLD MAN'S REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.

A man of 72, Tommy Hall, an old-age pensioner, of Sheffield, took part in the Surrey Club's walking race from London to Brighton. To be able to compete he had walked almost the whole of the distance from Sheffield to London, 165 miles. After resting in Brighton for a night he started to walk back to London. He intends to walk to Sheffield.

A little, grey-haired man, Tommy Hall swung into Brighton 11hr. 34 min. 42sec. after leaving London. "I don't believe in paying railway fares while I've two good legs," he told a Daily Mail reporter.

"I started walking from Sheffield with an awful backache and gout in my knee and now I'm as fit as a fiddle. There's nothing like walking to cure rheumatism and complaints like that. You can always walk them off."

Seeks Missing Link.

SAN FRANCISCO. — Captain Edward A. Salisbury, scientist and explorer, is en route for the Malay Peninsula, where he will search for what has been termed in science "the missing link". Captain Salisbury said rumors had come across the Pacific Ocean from time to time about a tribe of wild men in the jungles of the Malay Archipelago, who had short, vestigial tails. More, the report said, their foreheads rounded and their brow ridges protruded after the manner of the neanderthal man of semi-mythical pre-history. The object of the expedition is to investigate the source of these reports in an effort to find man in his most primitive form.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

SHIP IN COLLISION.
LONDON, Oct. 14.
S.S. Empress of Britain at Southampton, yesterday, reported shortly after leaving Cherbourg yesterday morning that the Spanish steamer Nadia collided with Empress, penetrating plates to a depth of three feet. Both proceeded.

CAN GET BUNKER.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.
All restrictions upon a supply of bunker coal to ships of United States and foreign, at all United States ports have been removed. It was announced yesterday.

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.
QUEBEC, Oct. 14.
Preparations are being made for the opening of the next session of the Provincial Legislature, which will take place on Tuesday, October 24.

EVACUATING THRACE.
ADRIANOPLE, Oct. 14.
Evacuation by Greek troops of eastern Thrace is due to begin to-day, and it is reported that Greek commanders have been given orders to withdraw at once.

LABOR IS BANGUINE.
LONDON, Oct. 14.
A call to labor to rally to win the coming electoral fight, is a big type feature on the front page of the Labor Organ, Herald, to-day. It says a general election is imminent, and the tide is with labor, and if the opportunity is taken by men and women workers throughout the country, it will lead to a great electoral triumph. Four hundred seats in parliament will be contested by laborites.

FRANCE IN NEW ROLE.
PARIS, Oct. 16.
An inspired note, issued yesterday, in answer to Lloyd George's Manchester speech, places France in the role of peace maker in the Near East crisis. "at Great Britain's request," declaring that Great Britain, when tearing her forces at the scene of trouble, not sufficient to stop the advance of the Turks, sent Curzon to France, requesting Poincare to use his influence with the Angora Government to check the Turkish advance. There followed the departure of M. Franklin Bouillon for a conference with Kemal Pasha, with satisfactory results. The note concludes, "It seems well established that the intervention of French Government had a decisive influence upon the maintenance of peace."

CABINET CRISIS IN ITALY.
LONDON, Oct. 16.
A despatch to the Times from Rome says it is believed a ministerial crisis is in the air, and that Premier Facta will announce the resignation of Cabinet immediately on the return of the King from Belgium. Divergence between anti-Fascist and Fascist members of the Cabinet has become so acute that resignation seems imperative.

WANTS CONFERENCE AT SMYRNA.
ANGORA, Oct. 16.
The Nationalist Government declined the Allied suggestion of a Peace Conference to be held at Scutari. They desire that Smyrna be chosen, thus enabling Kemal Pasha to attend. In the event of conference tugs to pull ship off, being held outside Turkish territory. Kemal is to be represented by the Foreign Minister, Yusuf Kemal and the Ministers at Paris, London and Rome.

STEAMER ASHORE.
MONTREAL, Oct. 16.
The steamer Glenora grounded on a mudbank in the St. Lawrence near Longue Point yesterday, and was still ashore last night spite of efforts of tugs.

CHINA'S TROUBLES INCREASE.
AMOY, CHINA, Oct. 16.
The Pekin Central Republican Government, which has been seeking to unite all China under its control, has another menacing foe in the form of General Hsu Chihui Chen, who on Saturday installed himself as leader of an Independent Government in Foo Chow, capital of Fukien Province, which his army captured with little fighting on the evening of October twelfth.

DUE TO CURRENTS.
HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 16.
Captain Whittle and fifteen members of the crew of the wrecked Gloucester schooner, Marshall Koch, arrived here Sunday on the Government steamer Stanley, and leave to-day for Boston. Captain Whittle said he thought his schooner was fourteen miles south of Sable Island when she was stranded, and blames the accident upon strong currents, which carried vessel off her course.

WINNER WILL RACE MAYFLOWER.
GLOUCESTER, Oct. 16.
The schooner Henry Fox, victor in the American Elimination Race for fishing vessels, will challenge the Bluenose, Canadian defender for the International Trophy, to be raced for off Gloucester next Saturday. It has been announced that the victor in the International event will race the disqualified Mayflower, over the same course, two days after the close of the championship series, for a purse of five thousand dollars, three for the winner and two thousand for the loser.

A Social Call.

EARLY MORNING VISIT FOR CIGARETTE.
A well-known resident of the Dardanelles was charged before Judge Morris this morning with assaulting a friend who lived on Murphy's Square. On Saturday morning complainant said he fell asleep on a couch in his home. Hearing a knock on the window, he raised the blind and looked out. Accused was outside and asked to be let in. The door was opened and defendant and his wife came in. He gave the former a cigarette and a light, and in the meantime, the woman staggered across the room against the sideboard. Complainant told defendant to take his wife and get out and the reply he got was: "No, you had me fined $25 once, and I am going to take it out of your hide." Complainant then put accused out, but he came back, kicked the door and broke a pane of glass. He remained nearly an hour in the yard, throwing stones at the house. Complainant said that in putting defendant out he was hit twice on the body and neck.

Defendant, in the box, said he had called because complainant had told him to go in at any time, drunk or sober.
His Honour—"Oh, that's too general an invitation."
Witness insisted that he had only gone to complainant for a cigarette. He said further that when he and his wife were going out, plaintiff hit them with a tomahawk and cut the woman's hand. There was no evidence of assault on the part of the defendant, but His Honour had to condemn his conduct. The case was dismissed.

YOU CAN GET BACK YOUR GRIP ON HEALTH.

Thousands have stated that they have spent large sums trying to obtain relief from stomach trouble and run down condition, only to find that Tanlac proved the one medicine to bring the desired results. These facts were emphasized only the other day when Joseph Benedetto, well-known machinist of 182 Grafton St., Halifax, N.S., said Tanlac did him more good than anything else he ever tried, although he spent over a hundred dollars on different remedies for his stomach.
"I got into mighty bad shape," he declared. "My food would sour on my stomach and cause gas so bad I was miserable for hours. I couldn't get a good night's sleep, even though I was always completely tired out at night, and it was all I could do to get up mornings and drag myself off to work. My appetite was gone, and many a time I went off without a bite of breakfast. I suffered all the time with constipation, too, and had headaches so bad I felt like the top of my head was coming off."
"But Tanlac and the Tanlac Pills put me back in fine shape and I always keep them on hand now. I can sleep sound again, feel brimful of energy and my stomach trouble is a thing of the past."
Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Obituary.

GEORGE SQUIRES.
On Thursday night last, Mr. George Squires, one of the few remaining sturdy old residents of Chamberlains, passed away at the home of his brother, Sgt. Jos. Squires. The deceased had been suffering for several months from the incurable malady, cancer of the throat, and though knowing that his illness could end only in death he faced the inevitable without complaint or fear, and his passing was a peaceful, being thoroughly resigned to fate. His surviving relatives are a brother, Sgt. Joe, three daughters and two sons. He had in his last moments the ministrations of two daughters, Mrs. Chas. Squires and Jennie Squires, the latter having come here from Toronto early in the summer to be with him to the end. The funeral, which took place on Sunday, was held at the Society of United Fishermen and a large number of neighbors. Interment was in the C. of E. Cemetery, and the service was performed by Rev. Mr. Pittman.

The Silver Falcon.

MAJOR COTTON'S NEW MACHINE.
Major Cotton has tested the new Martinsyde, which he has named the "Silver Falcon" as it is finished in silver paint. The machine has proved satisfactory in every way. Major Cotton has flown to Lomond from the Company's base at Botwood, and now proposes to fly along the northeast and northwest coasts taking photographs, and for this purpose Mr. Corrie, the Company's photographer, is accompanying him with special equipment. Mechanical apparatus, enabling the pilot or passengers to speak to anyone on the public telephone by the simple system of getting in touch with the wireless station, and getting the wireless station to connect through. The machine is well equipped for winter flying, and the passengers' cabin is fitted with heating apparatus, which can be controlled by suit the passengers' requirements. This makes it possible for passengers to fly in the coldest weather without having to use special flying clothing.

An Impasse.

The meeting of the fishermen from North and the exporters of the city, held on Saturday forenoon in the Council Room of the Board of Trade, has unfortunately ended in an impasse. No decision was arrived at, and if we are to judge by the report of the meeting as published, none could be arrived at. It is extremely undesirable that such a position must continue. The effect on trade generally will incontrovertibly prove disastrous. Upon fishermen on the whole it will mean the ruin of their hopes, and place them in the position of having produce of which they cannot dispose, and consequently unable to either settle their current accounts or make their customary purchases of supplies for the winter. Either way it is taken the position is unfortunate. That a compromise could have been arrived at on Saturday appears improbable from the attitude of the parties in their discussions and deliberations. The exporters were unreservedly hostile to the demands of the fishermen, as set forth in their resolutions, while the latter were as equally determined not to yield a point, or to recede from the position taken up. This attitude was doubtless strengthened by the sentiment of the messages read by Mr. Hill, one of the delegates, at the termination of the conference, the tenor of which were that there must be no giving way or surrender of principle.

The position taken by the Exporters was that conditions abroad were such as to almost put a period to fish sales with any prospect of making both ends meet at the present time. The speakers were unanimous on this, and without exception emphasized it. Other circumstances arising out of foreign affairs were fully discussed, with a view to setting forth how utterly impossible it was to do business while monetary and other conditions were so unsettled and so insecure. The delegates were obviously not greatly impressed with these arguments. They had the fish, they owed for their outfits, and naturally they wished to get a fair return for their produce, in order to settle up with the supplier and buy stocks of provisions and other necessities for the winter. They adopted the attitude that it was useless for them to spend time and money at the fisheries, only to come out at the end with a loss. They claimed, and the claim was perfectly just, that the present price of fish was not giving them a chance. With that the exporters agreed, but advanced a contention that neither could they afford to keep on purchasing fish at prices which would not net them any profits. And so the first chapter ends, not however, so pleasantly as many anticipated, but one thing, and that an important one, was demonstrated, viz, that both parties now thoroughly understand each other. Whether that newly formed knowledge will help toward a solution of the problem, which both have to face, to-day, cannot be said with any degree of confidence, in the light of Saturday's proceedings; but it may help. Surely a bridge can be built over which all can cross to the required objective, and this, we believe, can be accomplished if all the parties concerned will assist mutually and earnestly in erecting such a structure. It is not too late for another conference, which may produce the desired result. Let it be fervently hoped that such will ensue instantly.

Marine Mystery.

EYEWITNESSES DECLARE THEY SAW STEAMER FOUNDER.

Last week the Canadian Press Service reported the foundering of a two-masted, single-funnel steamer off Cape North, Cape Breton Island, and much conjecture was raised as to the identity of this ship, which was supposed, by those who saw the alleged sinking, to be a collier. Since then the mystery has deepened, as no report of any such craft being missing has been made. The ship was about two miles off Cape North, apparently heading in the Gulf, when she was observed to go down by the head and after some minutes disappear beneath the surface. Those who saw the occurrence are confident that the occurrence was not the result of a mirage. There has been an exhaustive investigation of the circumstance conducted by the marine authorities at Sydney and North Sydney, but no light has so far been thrown on the mystery. Four people state that they distinctly saw the ship do down by the head and after some minutes disappear beneath the surface. Those who saw the occurrence are confident that the occurrence was not the result of a mirage. Agent Falls Overboard.

STEPS OVER HARVEY'S WHARF. Mr. Robert Miller, a city insurance agent, received an unpleasant ducking as he walked over Harvey's wharf at dark on Saturday. He was rescued in an unconscious state by two men from a nearby schooner and was resuscitated by Dr. Fallon after half an hour. Mr. Miller did not know he was so near the edge of the wharf on account of the darkness. He is none the worse to-day for his unpleasant experience.

Income Tax Cases.

DISPOSED OF SATURDAY. The cases against the score or more of citizens who were summoned last week for not sending in their Income Tax Returns to the Assessor came up for hearing in the Magistrates Court on Saturday. As most of the parties had sent in their returns and paid their taxes after summonses had been served upon them, the cases against these were withdrawn. In a few instances, owing to the parties concerned being out of town, action against them was postponed until the 15th inst. As also to city Water Street business man and an accountant, who were given until the same date to have their returns duly filed. In future, it was announced in Court, it is the intention to have the penalty provided by the Act imposed upon all delinquents who have failed so far to forward their returns. Proceedings are also to be instituted against persons owing Income Taxes and accrued interest on same.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, Oct. 16. There is no doubt that rats and mice destroy a very considerable amount of good provisions, and in some localities bid fair to become a regular plague. There are several means, more or less effective for destroying vermin, but one of the best of these destroyers certainly is Common Sense Rat Exterminator, which is eaten greedily by rats and mice, but which never fails to "get" them. Rats destroyed by the Exterminator die inside in the house, and so no unpleasant or unhealthy odor is found as a result. Price 35c. a tin.

A Copper Find West.

EIGHTY CLAIMS STAKED. Recently two prospectors made what is supposed to be an important discovery of copper on the West Coast. The discovery was made on Gregory River, some distance north of Bay of Islands. Analysis showed the ore to be very high in copper content. So many claims have been staked on the property.

Imported Milch Cows.

Four splendid Holstein Milch Cows imported by Mr. A. V. Ross, arrived by Sable I. this morning. The animals, which are pure bred, will be a valuable addition to his herd, which is probably one of the largest in the city environs. SHIPWRECKED MARINERS COMING.—Captain Coward and crew of the ill fated Madeline Constance are expected to arrive home by S.S. Silvia. The shipwrecked mariners were landed at New York a short while ago.

Manslaughter Trial.

CHARGED WITH HIS BROTHER'S DEATH.

The trial of Denis O'Brien, charged with the manslaughter of his brother, opened in the Supreme Court this morning before Mr. Justice Johnson. The principal witness examined during the morning was Dr. Thomas Anderson. Mr. J. Barron appeared for the Crown and Mr. T. F. Hall for the defence. The jury consisted of the following: Jas. H. Harvey, Peter Skirling, Fred J. O'Keefe, Wm. H. Ebbary, Geo. Cook, M. J. Byrne, Cater Davis, Michael O'Reilly, Jas. Baggis, Thomas Stevenson, H. Pitcher. Mr. Barron, in opening the case for the Crown, explained the circumstances leading to the death of Thomas O'Brien, brother of the prisoner. Briefly, these were that Denis O'Brien had two imbecile brothers, of whom, after his father's death, he assumed the guardianship. This guardianship included the care of property left the two imbeciles by an uncle, part of which had been sold. In August, 1920, the two brothers were living in a stable on the part of their property still unsold. A slight partition separated the men from a cow and a horse, also lodged in the stable. In February, 1921, Patrick O'Brien, the other brother, was removed to the Lunatic Asylum, and Thomas O'Brien was left alone in the stable. He was a cripple besides being mentally defective, and was unable to take care of himself in any degree. It was asserted that he was driven to the time he lived in the stable he was cared for wholly and solely by the English family, who lived not far from him. Counsel opened his case by calling Dr. Thomas Anderson.

Dr. Anderson said that on the afternoon of Sunday, March 26th, he visited a stable on the Oxon Pond Road in the company of Sgt. Benoit of the Constabulary, and there discovered the body of Thomas O'Brien, lying naked under a sheet on an improvised bed. The body was very emaciated and dirty, and it was obvious that there was vermin all over it. He judged death to have been caused by an acute illness, complicated by heart trouble and aggravated by gross neglect and malnutrition. The building in which he found the body appeared to be a first class stable. The stable seems to have been recently cleaned out. Human habitation did not consider it fit for human habitation.

Cross examined by counsel for the defence, witness said that when he visited the stable, it was dark enough to make a lantern necessary but this he brought with him. He saw Thomas O'Brien stated that his opinion as to the cause of death had been based on casual observation. He had not thought of a detailed post mortem necessary. A history of the case given to him by the English family had helped him to come to a decision. Asked if emaciation was only caused by malnutrition, witness said yes, but that malnutrition might be due to a variety of causes, including inability to assimilate the food taken.

The Fish Situation.

EXECUTIVE MEETS THIS EVENING. Since the meeting at the Board of Trade rooms on Saturday the delegates of the fishery have not made any further progress so far as can be learned, and they are now waiting the result of a cabinet meeting, which is being held this afternoon. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Hon. W. F. Coaker, came to town by S.S. Prospero and this morning was in office. That he has any solution of the present conditions could not be ascertained. It is said, however, that the fishery will press for the putting on of the Fish Regulations, at least regarding time and quantity of shipments.

Gold Rush Continues.

OVER 200 CLAIMS TAKEN OUT. The rush at the Crown Lands office to secure claims in the vicinity of the recent gold find on Labrador was greater than ever this morning, and for a time a queue was formed. Practically all of Big Brook River has been taken up, and the rush has been transferred to Black Duck River, some miles to the South. About 120 claims covering a distance of 30 miles have been taken on the first morning mentioned, and over 50 claims have been staked on the Black Duck River. There is only one other river of any size in Stag Bay, but whether its sands contain alluvial gold is not certain.

The New Cab Stands.

BLOWING AWAY MONEY. Workmen are experiencing much difficulty in laying the water main which was found to be in the way of the cab stand, east of the Court House. It is stated that this place, which will not hold more than three horses, will cost in the neighbourhood of $15,000. The stand erected at the western end of the Court House is estimated to have cost close on $5,000. The completed is of no utility and its making is simply blowing away money.

Prospero's Passengers. MADE VERY GOOD TRIP. S.S. Prospero, Capt. Field, arrived in port from the Northern Coastal Service at 4.30 p.m. yesterday. The Captain reports plenty of fish at St. Anthony, but the weather has been too stormy to permit large catches. In White Bay and Twillingate, conditions are not very good, as the fishery has been poor. The weather during the trip was fine but some snow was seen at Concho, while the ponds near St. Anthony are frozen over.

Halifax Marathon. VICTOR McAULEY WINS CUP. The following official message was received from Halifax Saturday night by Mr. Harvey Thomas: "Victor McAuley, N.S., maritime champion Marathon runner, won the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail 10 mile road race to-day for the third time, thus winning the cup outright. McAuley ran a splendid race going over the course in a record time of 54.07 mins. Laurie Jackson, Imperial Club, Dartmouth, N.S., came second. McAuley's time is one minute better than last year."

MR. GEORGE'S SPEECH A DISAPPOINTMENT

MANCHESTER, Oct. 14.

Premier Lloyd George's speech before the Manchester Liberal Reform Club was a disappointment because it gave no intimation regarding the plans of his programme. He said in regard to the Near East: "We have not been war mongers but peace makers. The war of 1914 was practically begun in the Balkans. We had to act promptly and firmly. I am sorry the Liberals have been misled. It is no use trying to bluff first fighting animals. It is always a mistake to threaten unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it and that's why we have peace. I am glad we have departed from the methods of old diplomacy. That's very good. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war the world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1914 at least brought peace. If there is to be a change, no man will welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell and a hard one. I love peace. There are lots of things I want to say. It will be an interesting experiment to see the work of others. That is one of the joys I have in here. I shall watch many things, such to see how we are to forgive necessary reparations, yet make France pay more than ever, how are we to forgive the United States all we owe her and forgive every other country all they owe us. I will support any government that devotes itself to measures that will not inflict permanent injury upon the country, be they revolutionary or revolutionary."

THE SPEECH

MANCHESTER, Oct. 15.

Addressing the Manchester Reform Club on Saturday, Premier Lloyd George said in part: "What let were engaged in this most difficult task, the Near East negotiations, which have been assailed with misrepresentation, abuse and innuendos such as no government in conducting international affairs has hitherto been subjected to and the country will resent it, but it bears that at that time we did not answer these charges. We had to be quiet while it was suggested we were war-mongers, for the reason that we could not place the whole circumstances before the country without interfering with the work of our representative on the spot. Our men in the actions we took were wise. First, to secure the freedom of the Straits for the commerce of all nations. Second, to prevent the spreading in Europe, with all its conceivable possibilities and confusions. Third, to prevent repetition of Constantinople and Greece of the same in the terrible horror which had been enacted in Asia during the six or seven years. It is not necessary to point out the importance of securing the Straits against a repetition of what happened in 1914. That brought the war two years, and nearly brought the Allied cause irreparable."

our Allies. We thought they meant it. How were we to believe they only intended one side to hear? Mr. Asquith asks why we did not emulate the patient and forbearing policy of Lord Grey in 1914, instead of the amateur tactics of Downing Street to-day. No one knows better than Lord Grey that when you come to the portals of International affairs there are factors over which you have no control. His proposals in 1914 were admirable, but he was not the Kaiser's adviser and had no influence over the German Gen. Staff. It is just possible that language less direct or language more emphatic might have prevented war in 1914, but it is easy to be wise after the event. I am not criticising, only pointing out the most calamitous diplomatic failure the world has ever seen, and it was due to conditions over which Lord Grey had no control. Lord Grey tried to prevent Turkey and Bulgaria from entering the war against us, but German diplomacy was too strong for him. I never faulted Grey with that. I am told our policy has been a series of improvisations flung out of what was supposed to be a futile plan. The policy was to secure the freedom of the Straits and take Turkish rule from Christian people. I did not improvise the policy, I came into it. When I came into office in 1916 I found a series of agreements with Russia, France, Italy, even Greece, which completely partitioned Turkey. Viscount Grey and Mr. Asquith did that. I was a member of the Government and approved it and the policy was approved by the Liberals and Conservatives and I think I may say, by the Labor leaders. Its direction was in the hand of Mr. Asquith and Viscount Grey. Turkey had been almost completely partitioned by the agreements. Why did it fail? Because of the circumstances over which Viscount Grey, Mr. Asquith or myself had no control. The first was the fall of Russia. Armenia, Constantinople and the Straits had been given to Russia. I was bound to confess it was a very shortsighted policy, because if the Russian revolution had come off as planned you would have had the Bolsheviks this moment in Constantinople and the Straits. It was a mistake, but we were all in it. I am not blaming anybody. Also, the Italian Ministry responsible for the policy of taking Southern Anatolia into occupation by Italian troops fell. Neither Viscount Grey, Mr. Asquith or myself were responsible for that. The next was the French diplomatic defeat in Cilicia, which made them recast their position. The next was when President Wilson of the United States was under the impression that he could persuade America to take a mandate for Armenia. His health broke down. Then one of the greatest disasters of all fell, the banishment of that great, wise and sagacious statesman, ex-Premier Venizelos of Greece, and the substitution of a feeble, futile and foolish administration. All of these were circumstances over which no government in the country had any control, so we have had to recast our policy. We have made the best of it and succeeded in securing the freedom of the Straits of the Dardanelles, and holding peace until you had established the freedom of the great and gifted people the Arab race, and also some sort of protection for the minorities in Eastern Europe. I never sought the present position. Bonar Law, Balfour and Curzon can tell you that. I am prepared to serve under anyone of experience prepared to conduct war efficiently. I gave up one of the most powerful positions in 1915 to take a new, then humble office, because I thought I could serve the country better. I begged Balfour, Bonar Law or anybody to take the Premiership. I begged Asquith to remain as long as the conditions were assured in his Premiership I thought necessary to efficiently conduct the war. Three years ago I was anxious to go out and at the beginning of the year I suggested that Austria Chamberlain should take the Premiership. I threw myself upon the people, whose cause I have never betrayed during thirty-two years of strenuous public life. I shall play no personal or party games. I shall place national security and prosperity above the interests of anybody and if in consequence of that I am driven alone into the wilderness I shall always recall with pride I have been enabled, with the assistance of loyal colleagues in the dark hour of this nation's history, to render it no mean service. I shall be proud of the fact that I have attempted things which even yet have not reached maturity or complete success, but I shall be prouder than ever of the fact, if this were the last day I held this proud position—I should be prouder than ever of the fact that it was given me in the last days of my premiership to invoke the might of this great empire to protect from indescribable horror the men, women and children by hundreds of thousands who were trusting to the pledged word of France, Italy and Britain, as their shield and their defence and who are thanking God at this hour that Great Britain has kept the faith."

disaster. It was vital to us and to humanity, and we could not give away the biggest and most important prize of victory over the Turks in the Great War. As to spreading the war into Europe you would have only to think what would happen if the Turks, flushed with victory, with no army to resist, had crossed the Bosphorus, pressed into Thrace and occupied Constantinople. Do you think we would have stopped them in Eastern Thrace? Who would have prevented the Turks from going into Western Thrace and possibly into Salonica? You know that would have meant war, and the war in 1914 was practically begun in the Balkans. It was a situation full of peril, and yet we had to act promptly and firmly. Sir Charles Harrington warned us what might have happened in Constantinople; the population is only half Turkish. There are hundreds of thousands of Armenians and Greeks there. General Maurice said that if we did not hold Chanak there would be scenes in Constantinople, by the side of which the fires of Smyrna would be pale. Since 1914, according to official testimony, the Turks have slaughtered in cold blood, a million and a half of Armenians, men, women and children, and five hundred thousand Greeks without provocation. I think it right, that before the Turkish army was allowed to cross over into Europe in the full flush of victory, and with the blood of Smyrna on their hands, they should have had time to cool and we should have guarantees that there would be protection for minorities. That is all we did. We are pledged to shield these people. I am sorry that Liberals have been pleading that it was none of our business. That was not the old Liberal policy, the Englishmen, Scotsmen and Welshmen should every morning repeat, "am I my brother's keeper?" and that Britain should face the world with the brand of Cain upon her brow. Speaking of Lord Gladstone and his denunciation of the Government, Lloyd George said:—"It was a shock to see a Gladstone denouncing us because we were trying to protect large minorities against the Turks. Lord Gladstone has given himself airs, such as his great father, in his most excited days never took upon himself. He is the living embodiment of Liberal doctrine quality or hereditary. There is not a more ridiculous spectacle on the stage than a dwarf struggling before the footlights in garments inherited from a giant. We were told we were right in keeping the Turks out of Europe but ought not to have used force. We ought to have argued with them. Lieut-Gen. Harrington attributed the fact that the negotiations succeeded, largely because of the reinforcements sent him. Great Britain had on the spot a very large number of airplanes and guns, and by no means a negligible force of infantry. That is the sort of thing the Turks understood. It is no use trying to bluff a first rate fighting animal, and the Turk is that, whatever else. You can bluff with cowards, not with brave men. One critic asked why we did not have an understanding with our Allies. We did. Only a few weeks ago we received a message from the French Government that if the Greeks or Turks invaded the neutral zone, they would be resisted by the force of

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

ON GRACEFUL RECEIVING.

A friend of mine has an elderly relative whom she furnishes with most of the latter's spending money. One day while I was at the niece's home she had a letter from Auntie in which the latter mentioned the fact that her niece's birthday was on the way and wanted to know what she would like for a birthday gift.

"Now what," said the niece, "can I think of that Auntie can make and that won't cost her too much?"

"Why don't you tell her not to bother to give you anything," suggested someone. "You know it just comes out of your money. It's really absurd for her to give you anything when you have to pay for it in the end."

As Much a Luxury as the Movies.

"Why is it any more absurd than for me to pay for her to go to the movies once in a while or to pay her carfare when she wants to go visiting," asked the niece. "She loves to do things for me and I wouldn't deprive her of that pleasure any more than I would of any pleasure I could afford to give her. Nothing I could do would hurt her feelings more than to bring it home to her that she has nothing to give. I usually suggest something I would have to buy myself and get round it that way. But even if I couldn't, I wouldn't hurt Auntie by not giving her a chance to give me something."

I like that, don't you?

I think that girl shows a fine sense of values and a fine ability to put herself in the other person's place.

Oh, Don't Bother!

I think there are many people who are generous about gifts and about doing things for people but are not generous about letting other people do things for them. I have known sons and daughters placed in relation to their parents as this woman was to her aunt who were very generous about doing for the parents but very selfish about letting the latter do for them. "Oh, don't bother," they would say when they were asked what they wanted for Christmas or birthdays. "I wish you wouldn't try to give me anything." And when the parents did manage to compass some small gifts the children received them with thanks commensurate to the size of the gift and its value to them, instead of commensurate to the amount of the love and eagerness and longing to give pleasure which these dear old folks had put into their gifts.

On the whole I think the generous giver is more common than the generous receiver.

I suppose that is because it takes sympathetic imagination to make a generous receiver.

Sent Her Away Poorer.

I know a woman who is known among all her friends as to an exceedingly generous giver. I saw her do one of the most unthinking things in the way of graceless receiving. I have ever known. An old Italian woman who had worked for her and for whom she had done a good many kind things brought her two bottles of wine. She knew the woman was very poor and could not afford to give even that and she was so intent on the fact that she completely failed to put herself in the woman's place and realize that the latter might love to give as she. "Oh no, I couldn't take it," she insisted, "you need it yourself. You keep it," and sent the poor old thing away feeling far poorer than she would have at the parting with the wine.

Sympathetic imagination is another phrase for: "Putting yourself in his place." It is a quality that is the basis of many other good qualities.

He Liked Them.

"Yes," said the young man with plaid trousers and a big watch-chain, "I must confess that I am deficient in musical taste."

"Perhaps the modern music bores you," said the pleasant young woman. "It does many people, you know."

"Yes, I don't care for modern music. There is one thing about the old songs that I like very much."

"What is that?"

"The fact that nobody sings them."

Jumping on a General

AND OTHER ROLLICKING STORIES.

General Bruce, who led the recent Mount Everest Expedition, is an extraordinarily muscular man, writes Major-Gen. Woodruff, C.B., in "Under Ten Viceroys."

When in mess, he used to lie on the floor and get the heaviest man in the room to jump up and down on his stomach. A sixteen-stone officer did this one night, and when asked about it the next morning, said: "I was greatly afraid, I should hurt him with my sixteen stone, but he only told me to jump higher."

There are many good stories in the book. Here are a few:—

The colonel of a certain battalion was making his weekly inspection of married quarters. Arriving at a sergeant's house, he thought that the place seemed clean only on the surface, so, walking up to a bed, he pulled down the quilt to look underneath. The sergeant's wife, who had been eyeing him with disfavour, throughout the inspection, snapped out:—

"Praps you'd like to get into it next!"

There are a fund of other good stories in this book.

When Lord Dufferin was appointed Viceroy of India, he called together his staff to tell them how he wished them to work. Coming to the question of entertaining, the Viceroy, who was a great ladies' man, remarked:—

"I want you to quite understand that I expect you to devote your energies to the elderly ladies. You need not trouble about the young and pretty ones; I will look after them myself."

A friend of the author was taking part in one of the hill campaigns in India one Christmas time. On Christmas day he arranged for as good a dinner as was possible on active service, and asked a native Mohammedan officer as a guest to the mess.

The native officer arrived, and was shocked to see that there was no tablecloth on the table. He was informed that tablecloths could not be got on active service.

"But that will never do," he said. "It will not be like a real dinner without the tablecloth. Now, I am a guest, and it will be my privilege to provide one."

Away he went, and soon returned with a spotless clean cloth.

During dinner one of the party asked him how he managed to get such a beautiful cloth.

"Well," he replied, "to tell you the truth, I thought I might be killed in this war and so I brought my shroud with me, as my religion demands. As it now appears to me I am safe, I thought I might lend it to you."

Queen Alexandra, soon after her visit to India with the King, ordered that the "Queen's Own" 3rd Gurkhas should in future be known as "Queen Alexandra's Own."

A special parade was held on this occasion and a large painting of the Queen was placed by the flag mast, each company saluting it as it passed.

General Woodruff's wife, meeting a Gurkha after the ceremony, asked him if he knew what all the fuss was about.

"Yes," he said, "it was because we have now become the regiment of the great Rani (King's Consort) Aleck-Jalander. But we all want to know, is she the number one wife?"

Mrs. Woodruff did her best to explain that Britishers only had one wife pointing out officers as an example.

"Well, yes, only I thought that was because officers were too poor to afford more," he replied. "But with rich men it is different.—Pearson's Weekly.

HISTORIC MANSION PACKED IN CRATES AND SENT ABROAD

An historic old English homestead, Norland Hall, near Hall'sax, is being dismantled and prepared for removal to San Francisco, where it will be re-erected.

The stone and timber comprising the Hall are being packed into big crates. These crates are transported to Liverpool docks on motor wagons.

It has been decided to remove the fine old barn to its new site in sections.

American Politics.

WASHINGTON. (By Canadian Press)—Ship subsidy and soldiers' bonus legislation would hardly seem to have any close relation, but there is much evidence that the President's veto of the bonus measure will increase the difficulties of subsidy legislation. The President wants to call Congress back to Washington in extra session about November 15 for the purpose of taking up the subsidy bill. He is being advised by some of the House Republicans that he will find the time not opportune for getting a subsidy bill through, and that there will be a disposition among many House members who wanted the bonus bill passed to do their utmost to prevent passage of the subsidy bill.

COALS OF FIRE.

WALT HAZEL

read him limb from limb before my race was run. But in my heart emotions dread don't flourish much or thrive; "To punch my neighbor's dome," I said, "won't make my cats alive. Some day, no doubt, he'll realize how sinful was his deed; with briny streaming from his eyes, for pardon he will plead." That night my neighbor's cow lay ill, upon her couch of hay, and by her side, with dope and pill, I sat till break of day. I bent above that ailing cow, a proud though childlike form, and gently fanned her fevered brow, and gave her mashes warm. "You've saved her life," my neighbor cried, "you've played a noble game; ah, humble is my wicked pride, and I am sunk in shame. If I but had a pair of cats, I'd aim them at my dome; 'twas I who slew the pale blue cats that frolicked round your home." "Now let the stricken cats sleep on," I said, "let dead things be; come forth and sit upon my lawn, and eat a pie with me."

"Radio" or "Wireless."

Those two words are on everybody's lips to-day. Some people speak of wireless, while others—usually those with the technical knowledge—prefer to say radio.

Which is really correct? "Radio" is the word you should use when speaking of this latest method of signalling. The word radio is an accurate word which says what it means, while "wireless" might mean anything. Signalling with a couple of flags or a mirror is as much a wireless method of signalling as any other.

There is a further point in favour of the word radio. It is a word employed by a great many of the civilized races of the world, and like the method of signalling it refers to, has become international.

And, in addition, at a recent radio conference, which included representatives of many different nations, it was unanimously proposed to accept the word radio in preference to any other.

So, to be exact, call it radio, not wireless.

Potato Crop Record.

What is claimed to be a world record in potato growing is reported in Ilkeston, Derbyshire, where, in the presence of a large number of people, Mr. F. Peel, a member of the Hallam Fields Garden Association, lifted 324 pounds, 6 ounces of potatoes, produced from one pound of seed.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The sad news was received in town by wire this morning from Britannia Cove, acquainting us of the death of the Rev. W. H. Browning. The Rev. gentleman had been in failing health for a long while but it was not expected, until quite recently, that his condition was serious and the end was near. He had gone to Britannia Cove, accompanied by Mrs. Browning, and had hoped, after spending a time there he would be able to attend the General Conference at Toronto, but it was ruled otherwise, and after life's final fever, he sleeps well. As pastor of the Methodist Church here, his passing is deeply regretted by the congregation and his many other friends, who offer to his esteemed wife their sympathy in her great loss.

Mrs. Bridget Butler, of whom mention has been made recently of her being seriously ill, passed away Tuesday evening. Her daughter, Miss Josephine Butler, came to town from Boston, Mass., and arrived by Monday's train. Mrs. Butler's son Patrick, who has been in the U.S. for a number of years also came to visit his mother. Another daughter, residing in the U.S.A. was not privileged to be with her during the last few days, as did the two children mentioned above. To these, as well as other relatives and friends, we tender condolence in their bereavement. The funeral was held this morning and interment made in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. R.I.P.

The death of Mrs. Ernest Sheppard occurred on Monday after a short illness. Deceased had not been enjoying the best of health the past summer, but the latter part of last week was taken seriously ill, and lived but a few days after. She is survived by a husband, the well-known Ferry Master, and two sons. Mrs. J. T. G. Ford is a sister. The family and friends have our deep sympathy in the unexpected passing of Mrs. Sheppard. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended, her remains being laid in the Church of England Cemetery.

Dr. W. S. Goodison who has been for the past six weeks at Catalina, Bonavista and other places on a professional visit, returned by this afternoon's train. Mrs. Goodison who had accompanied him part of the time, also returned to-day.

Miss May Davis of E. Simmonds', spent last week in St. John's on a holiday and returned again by this afternoon's train.

Schr. Banbury, Capt. R. Perry, went on dock on Tuesday and came off again to-day.

Miss Barbara Langmead of St. John's came to town to-day, and is the guest of Miss Stella LeDrew.

Mr. L. H. Simmons, of Spruce Brook paid a brief visit to town during the week, and returned on Wednesday. CORRESPONDENT, Oct. 12th, 1922.

LIFE'S SEASONS.

Troubles come and troubles go,
Never lingering very long,
First the winter with its snow,
Then the springtime with its song.
Then the summer filled with bloom,
Happy skies above us all,
Then a day of dark and gloom,
And the first cold frost to fall.
Winter follows, long and drear,
Bitterly the blizzards roar,
Then a robin's song we hear
And the spring has come once more.
So with us, whose'er we be,
Troubles fret us for awhile,
Hurt and grief fall bitterly,
Then it comes our time to smite.
Joy is followed by the tear,
Grief and all its hours of pain,
Then a friendly voice we hear—
Life is at the spring again.

THE GREAT POLICE CONFERENCE.

(By OBSERVATOR.)
WORLD-WIDE NET FOR THE PRECAUTION AGAINST BANDITS AND BURGLARS.

Crime has been defined as the product of the aggregate social condition of a society of a people at a given moment in its history. Actions which are regarded as heroic and which have elevated the authors to rank of the gods, in another bring same during spirits to a dungeon on the scaffold. "The connection between law and order," as judges of the Court not long ago said, "is not nearly so close as it is generally imagined. In law nothing which the law itself does not do." But what I mostly want to mention here is the world-wide Police Conference the preliminary organization of which has just been inaugurated in New York at the International meeting of police officers.

At this moment in a position whether Newfoundland had any representative there. But, "if why not?" (We understand that Detective Head Constable Byrne attended this convention—Editor.)

LOGICAL STEP IN NECESSARY DEVELOPMENT.
According to the New York Evening Post, "the organization was a logical and an absolutely necessary development. An immediate result will be a closer co-operation among police departments the world over. Eventually there may even be an international headquarters that will oppose the mobility of the modern crook the resources of science and speed the disposal of all governments." Representatives of 700 cities in the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico and high police officials of Europe attended the Conference and perfected plans for a standardization of methods of detection and mutual co-operation in a more vigilant war on crime.

come out when he thought it safe. If he was determined to go straight there would be nothing to deter him. Despite the assertions of reformers, the police are the reformed criminals' best friends, and they obtain more jobs for criminals who want to go straight than all the reform associations put together. An ounce of crime-prevention is worth a pound of cure. The bureau will also collect valuable information in regard to the improvements of police work all over the world. Such improvements and innovations will be bulletined in every department of the country and abroad. It will keep the police of every city in the world abreast of the best police thought anywhere. As conditions are at present, police heads learn by chance. There is just now no system of keeping them informed of new ideas in police work and they are thus handicapped in the performance of their duties.

THE POLICEMAN'S PERPLEXING AND TRYING POSITION.
True it is that the casual observer fails to appreciate the perplexing and trying positions in which a policeman may be placed. His life is one of continued difficulty and danger. There are many arrests which cannot be made without liability of serious bodily injury. He is called upon to use the greatest discretion with the boldest daring; he is expected to be as gentle as a child while curbing the lawlessness of the meanest criminal. Representing as he does the "power and dignity" of the law, his misdemeanors and other indiscreet acts of conduct are considered and treated as far more censurable than those of the average citizen. We deem it the greatest inconsistency for the guardian of the law to be himself the violator of that law. The conduct of the ideal policeman is marked by uniform good behaviour, an example to be emulated by all peace-loving members of the community.

A Strange Will.

LONDON, Oct. 14th.—By a peculiar provision in the will of James Gibson, a London merchant, who died 150 years ago, his tomb is opened once a year. This has been done every year for the past century and a half, and will be continued until Gibson's last descendant is laid away in the family tomb. The annual opening takes place on August 12, the anniversary of the merchant's death, and must be witnessed by the churchwardens. The tomb is in Sutton Parish Church-yard.

Just why this behest was made is a mystery. There is no mystery, however, about the regular observance of it, as it ensures the gift from Christ's Hospital of a sum of money to be distributed among the poor of Sutton.

When the last descendant of James Gibson is interred, the entrance to the family tomb will be locked and kept locked forever afterwards. Provision for this is also made in the will, the terms of which stipulate that after the burial of the final link in the Gibson family chain the entrance to the tomb securely fastened the key is to be taken aboard a specially chartered ship and conveyed to Palestine, and there flung into the Jordan.

The will says nothing about the continuance of the gifts to charity after the sacred waters of the Holy Land have covered the key from the eyes of men. The assumption is that when the final interment takes place the poor of Sutton will have to shift for themselves.

28TH LEAGUE MATCH.
STAR vs. K.A.C. Result—STAR 9 Goals; K.A.C. 1—Played on Llewellyn Grounds, Aug. 26, 1898.

The closing game of the League fixtures was played last night under trying circumstances, the continuous downpour of yesterday made the ground sodden, and the dense fog that prevailed at the "kick off" was an inconvenience to all. The K.A.C. came started playing under great disadvantages, only seven men being on the field, and right from the start the Star boys were on the "job." Three minutes from the start, Browning scored the first goal. The next was sent in by Brophy, and the K's goalkeeper, holding the ball too long, was carried over the goal line by the advancing host of Stars. Two more of the K's now turned up and they continued to the close with nine players. The third Star goal was scored by Ned Power, and then the play was kept down on the Star goal for a short time, but very soon, Browning (who at the time was playing off-side) got possession, and passed to Ryan who tallied up the fourth goal. Then the K's had another turn at pressing, and just before the whistle blew for half time, Feaver essayed a long shot from the right wing, and beat Goal for their only goal of the match. This was one of the prettiest shots for the season and was loudly applauded. The teams crossed with the score, Star 4; K.A.C. 1. It was now so thick that the individual players could not be distinguished and after one look in at the Star goal by the K's the ball was kept down on the K.A.C. goal for the balance of time; five goals being added to the Star score in rapid succession, and all felt glad when the final whistle sounded, giving the Stars a nine to one victory. The teams were:

STAR—Gaul, English, Marshall, J. Vinnicombe, Collins, Cowan, Brophy, Ryan, Condon, E. Power, Browning.

K.A.C.—Soper, Stranger, White, P. Knowling, G. Knowling, Williams, Comerford, W. Knowling, Feaver.

REFEREE—F. Maynard.

LINESMEN—J. L. Noonan, Jr., J. Larkin.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

It was the final game of the '98 series. The score being the record for the season, and also gives the "Star" second place and silver medals. They also hold the goal record for the season and are to be congratulated.

The final games for the "Tie Cup" put up by the League for the 4 leading Clubs, will now have to be played, but as the C.L.B. and B.I.S. are equal in points, they will have to play off to decide 4th place, and we understand the match will be played on Monday night, 29th inst.

William Collier Stars in New Select Picture

"THE SERVANT QUESTION."

NOTED COMEDIAN WHOSE STAGE SUCCESSSES ARE COUNTLESS NOW STARRING ON SCREEN.

William Collier, affectionately referred to throughout the country as "Willie," and whose record in stage history discloses that he helped make laughing a pleasure, has capitulated to motion picture. Heretofore only those theatregoers who patronize spoken comedy had opportunity to see and hear Collier, but beginning to-day he will be shown at the Majestic Theatre for 2 days in "The Servant Question," a Select Picture which transfers the infestious Collier humor from stage to screen.

Collier has been a player since childhood, and made his first appearance in a children's opera company, playing "H.M.S. Pinafore." He was a member of the famous Daly Company at Daly's Theatre. Among some of the successes in which he appeared were "The Man from Mexico," "Take My Advice," "On the Quiet," "The Dictator," "Nothing but the Truth," and "Caught in the Rain."

"The Servant Question" is a photo play which gives Mr. Collier opportunity to solve many problems besides that of domestics in his inimitable, laugh-provoking and rib-tickling manner. He "cleans up" crooked card games, impersonates a butler, runs down some international gamblers, and wins "the only girl"—and all in his best Collier-esque manner.

More Tariff Revision.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT'S PROBLEM.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12th. (By Canadian Press.)—Another tariff revision in two years is the problem that confronts the United States Government. Congress has just passed through the throes of passing one tariff measure but it is recognised generally as temporary. Belief is that another tariff measure will have to be enacted either in the regular session of Congress in the winter and spring of 1924 or an extra session early in 1925. Representative Gren of Iowa, who will be the new chairman of the Ways and Means Committee to succeed representative Fordney of Michigan, frankly says the tariff law will have to be replaced by a new one before long. He thinks it will have to be done in about two years. He says that the changing world conditions made it out of the question that the present law should be kept long on the statute books. While the new law has flexible provisions, they will not take the place of an actual revision of the law in case the new measure is found to be unsatisfactory or conditions materially change. Not on v. is this obvious from the fact that the President under the flexible provisions will be hampered by the Congress in the future, but the tariff commission seems disposed to m't's little attempt to operate under the flexible provisions for some months until it has larger appropriations. High tariff men in Congress want to see the commission do as little as possible and hope the flexible tariff will prove a disappointment to the country and will be eventually knocked out by the courts. Altogether there are many obstacles in the way of the flexible or elastic tariff and this point seems to point more clearly than might otherwise be the case to another revision of the tariff by Congress at a comparatively early date. The matter of another tariff revision is of the utmost importance to Can-

Fisherman's Friend

Queen Mary and Mary Queen.

(From the London Post.)

A happy incident marked the visit of the Queen to Aberdeen, where she received the honorary degree of LL.D. of the University. Her Majesty's engagements included a visit to the Aberdeen Orthopaedic Sub-Centre. One of the patients at the Centre is the ten-year-old daughter of a soldier who died in the war. The Penisons Ministry had sanctioned her admission to the institute, with the view of the cure of infantile paralysis from which she suffers. When her Majesty came to the child's cot, the little occupant lifted a bouquet of sweet peas from the coverlet and handed it to the Queen. "What is your name, dear child?" asked her Majesty. "Mary Queen," replied the girl. The Queen naturally imagined that the young patient had misheard her question and was greatly delighted when informed that the girl's name actually was Mary Queen. Patting the child on the head, the Queen smilingly remarked: "A coincidence, indeed, and a very nice name, I am sure you will agree."

"I have been trying to get the room quiet so that I could hear a pin drop!" he roared, "but you make so much noise that it's been impossible to hear it. How do you think I can do it while you children are romping about and turning the place into a bear-garden?"

Cherry Tommy put his head from under the sofa and piped out: "Tis a dumb-bell to the pin, father!"

Pies and Pastry!

The digestibility of Pies has been called into question but, when properly made, pies are as easily digested as anything else.

Until quite recently it has been taken for granted by the majority of people that it was impossible to make good pastry out of Manitoba wheat without using a large amount of shortening—the proper kind of which is very expensive.

They have thought it necessary to keep two kinds of flour—one for Bread and the other for Pastry. This idea is erroneous.

"Windsor Patent" Flour (which is acknowledged all the world over as Canada's best) makes the most delicious pastry when the same amount of shortening is used as with ordinary pastry flour.

TRAFFIC PROMISES UNFULFILLED.

The Evening Telegram.
 Sir—I have been over 20 years in this country, and have never seen things in general so bad as they are to-day. Trade, work, houses, and the disposal of fish, have reached the climax in this city. I venture to say never before has trade been so dull and so scarce to obtain. A man who walks Water Street, Middle Street, and other business sections from morning till night and hears the cry "There is no chance of a trade" is pretty dull. The business report scarcely anything but a fact not enough trade going on full staffs. Take the housing problem. It seems houses never so hard to obtain as now. It seems to me Newfoundlanders are so one-to-day to look after their interests. Squires, Gogers, Campbell, and other politicians all claim they have good intentions about work, but at all they have never put their intentions, as per manifesto in practice. I wonder do they know they care about the thousands who are walking around seeking employment, most of them on short rations, whilst themselves are on picnics and unamiable of the people? They want or the promised reduction of taxes. Where are all their elections promises for the betterment of the lower class, the cleaning up of the streets, better roads, better rates on land and sea, enable us to have cheaper food, better schools, better houses and, in a better Newfoundland? These are the things in sight and conditions are not that ever. Where is Premier's housing plans, (as per manifesto) for working men's homes? Why are they going down in the land of poverty, whilst money is being spent trips abroad, and for departments of no worth. Now is the time for the Messrs. Collishaw, Dorey, Anderson, who have housing in view to get busy and so may Government. I venture to say if they began and built houses for the rental plan for the public, for the labouring classes, they would find it the best paying venture had ever known, for houses were needed in this town more than in any other town in the world. It would give a lot of employment, and one and all, City Council, Assessor, Government, all, combine! for the betterment of the town, and your fellow man, act. It is to-day for the night is coming when no man can work.
 Yours respectfully,
 PLAY FAIR,
 St. John's, 1922.

Great Picture of

Manliness at the Nickel

WILEN MOORE STARS IN "COME ON OVER."
 Expert Hughes has hit the bullseye again with his new Goldwyn "Come On Over," which will be shown at the Nickel Theatre tonight. Its characters are as man and lovable as those in his masterpiece, "The Old Nest." Humour is wholesome and persuasive and infectious and through its shows a vein of Irish wit that Mr. Hughes has been able to bring to the screen in all its delightfulness.

Story is simple, but has the stress and breeziness of a sunrise over one of Ireland's greenest hills. Story starts in Ireland but soon goes to New York and deals with the fate of Shane, who leaves his wife, Moyna, behind when he goes to his fortune in the new world. He meets in New York after 10 years, the love affair runs anything but smoothly until a contest of Irish dances is staged. The dances get into their blood, and their lead them together in the dance once in each other's arms, every-thing is straightened out.
 Fred Greene directed this brilliant picture, chief in the cast are W. Moore and Hugh Graves. They are ably assisted by Florence Drew, Farrell MacDonald, James Marshall and others.

To All Concerned.

TO ALL CONCERNED.

The Company will endeavour as far as possible to forward all freight via North Sydney and Port aux Basques, but reserves the right, whenever circumstances in the opinion of the Company require it, to forward freight, originally billed via North Sydney and Port aux Basques, and designated steamers:

Via Halifax, or via Louisburg, collecting extra charges over connecting lines, between North Sydney and Louisburg, and also the right to forward same by any steamer owned or chartered by the Company from North Sydney or Louisburg, or Halifax, direct to St. John's, or Newfoundland ports other than Port aux Basques.

Shippers or Consignees when effecting Marine Insurance, should bear this in mind and have their policies cover accordingly.

A PROMINENT AMERICAN MILLIONAIRE SAYS:
 "Early in my business career I made it a rigid rule to invest a third of my net yearly income in Life Insurance. Now, at age 55, and with an estate of a few million dollars, I can truthfully say that the third I invested each year in Life Insurance to-day constitutes the greater and best part of my estate."

YOU need more Life Insurance NOW. Let us "fit" you with the proper kind of Policy.
