CHAPTER XXXIII

At Charing Cross he examined the interior of his cab, and picked up the telegram, which Dora had carried in the sleeve of her jacket.

He read it, and sniffed the air, suspiciously.

"It ain't all on the square," he muttered, doubtfully. "This smell o' sweet apples means chloroform. The lady is Mrs. Locksley, and the old man called himself her dad. Now what's the best thing for me to do?"

He turned his eye upon the official form of a policeman, who paraded the platform, and smiled contemptuously, adding:

"I'm a better 'tec myself than he is!" This opinion seemed to give him great satisfaction and he resolved to keep his eye upon the house at Islington. He would do so that very night.

Just then another train was signaled, and his thoughts turned to the possibility of a fare. He only hoped that he would get one who wished to be taken some part of the way to Islington, as that would facilitate matters greatly.

"I've got my twenty-seven and six to hand in to-night, or there is no cab for me to-morrow," he thought. "That must be paid. Hullo! Here's a chance, and another Richmond train, too!"

A young man was hurrying toward the cab rank, yards ahead of everybody else.

"Keb, sir—keb?"

"One question," the young man said, rapidly. "Can you tell me if you or any other cabman here saw a young lady who came by the 6.15 from Richmond?"

"I'm your man," replied the cabby gleefully. "Here! read this."

He handed the telegram to the young fellow who read it quickly, uttered an exclamation of satisfaction, and said:

"You took the lady somewhere?"

"I did; with an old gentleman who met her. And I've marked the house, sir!"

"I am Frank Rogers," said the young man, "and as I never sent any such telegram, there is foul play. Take me to the house where you left Mrs. Locksley. Quick!"

Men are finding in Stacomb what they have always sought—an easy, natural way to keep the hair looking always as trim and neat as their favorite barber leaves it.

Women find Stacomb just the thing to control stray hairs, to make the curl stay in, and to keep bobbed hair in place. Stacomb is a smooth, velvety, invisible cream—non-staining and non-greasy. It comes in jars and in tubes—compact, economical. You can get it at all drug and department stores.

cries of warning from the police on duty.

As it dashed into the station yard, Frank jumped out, and ran onto the platform.

"Ticket!" said the official at the gate as he barred the way.

The whistle sounded, and pushing the man roughly aside, Rogers raced onward, shouting:

"This train must wait! I am a detective!"

CHAPTER XXXIV

The guard was in the act of giving the final signal, but he paused, and a hundred heads shot out of the carriage windows. Among these was the terrified face of Richard Marlowe.

Had it not been for the vigorous grasp of Esther Marsh, he would have left the train, and tried to escape among the crowd.

"It is that accursed Rogers!" he gasped.

"Keep your wits cool," Esther retorted. "We are not outside the law. I'll face it out!"

"I am a detective!" repeated Frank. "And am under the impression that a lady is aboard this train, under the influence of chloroform. She is being abducted by one Marlowe. Yes," he added, "coolly stepping toward the compartment occupied by Marlowe, Esther Marsh and the insensible Dora, "this is my man!"

"Produce your warrant!" sneered Esther. "This young lady is my mistress. We are acting under the instructions of her legal guardian."

"Unlock the door, guard," Frank said, quietly, "and signal an officer at the station. I charge these people with decoying this lady from her home by means of a false telegram in my name; with administering to her a drug, for the purpose of producing insensibility—which is, in itself a criminal act. I shall also charge them with forgery and conspiracy."

Mr. Marlowe and Esther Marsh were ordered to quit the train forthwith. It could not be kept waiting any longer. They protested indignantly, but were told that they had their remedy, if they could prove that the charges were false.

The station detective was commissioned to keep both in confinement until the young lady had recovered her senses, as her testimony, together with that of others, would not admit of the prisoners even being released on bail.

Dora was taken to a private room beyond the refreshment bar, where she awakened from her dreamful sleep, knowing nothing of the danger from which she had been rescued.

In the meanwhile, Rogers sent the cabman for Fred Fairfax, and that night a number of serious charges were made to a police superintendent against Marlowe and Esther Marsh, among which, and foremost of all, was the suspicion that they were directly implicated in the strange disappearance of Edmund Locksley, and might yet have to answer for the crime of murder!

After her first expression of rage, Esther Marsh contented herself with sending a message to her friends in Deal, one of whom was Captain Deane; but Marlowe was sallow with fear.

"I did not know that Locksley had been murdered," he protested. "I honestly thought that he had run away. The game is up, and I am ready to admit my share of it. Oh, dear, I must not stand in the dock. It will ruin me, commercially and socially. Withdraw your charges, gentlemen. I beg of you, and I will confess all that I know—everything."

"No," replied Fairfax. "We shall press it to the utmost, until the mystery of Locksley's fate has been cleared up. This much I will tell you—his hat has been found in the Thames."

Marlowe groaned with horror.

"I knew nothing of this—I never suspected it."

"You inserted the libel about him in a scurrilous society paper," was the stern rejoinder. "And represented yourself to be Captain Deane, or some near relation of Mrs. Locksley."

"I only did it under the instructions of another," Marlowe sobbed.

"Oh, this disgrace—the disgrace of being charged in open court with these things, will ruin me—will kill me!"

"It is all you deserve," was the bar-riester's cold reply. "Who has been your tutor?"

"I will tell you to-morrow—after I have seen him," Marlowe promised. "I am sure that I can clear myself! I have only obeyed Captain Deane in most things!"

THE COUNSELOR.

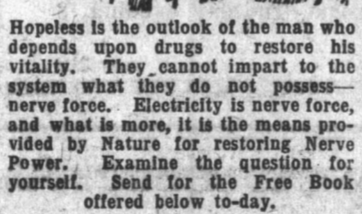

I sometimes offer good advice to youths who smoke cheroots; I say, "You'll pay a fearful price for this, you young galoots! I heard you counsel wise and ripe, at which you should not shy; I shall wait until I light my pipe, and I will tell you why. Tobacco is a solace fine when you are young and hale; it has an influence benign, if you are feeling stale. It cheers when grievous problems fix, this friendly nicotine; yet all the time gets in its work on heart and nerves and spleen. Tobacco is a snare to catch the feet of heedless men; has one among you got a match? My pipe's gone out again. Oh, children, harken to my rede, don't be tobacco's slaves; avoid the rank envenomed weed that fills untimely graves!" They say, "It came with evil grace, the counsel you just spoke, while you were blowing through your face all kinds of rancid smoke. If you would guide the erring Jay from habits base and mean you ought to throw your pipe away and wash your whiskers clean." Such sophistries I always meet when anxious to advise and save from ruin and defeat the young and growing guys. Oh, who is in a better place to roast the deadly weed than one from whose protesting face tobacco smoke is freed? The youngsters cannot understand why one who puffs and stokes, would see the weed forever banned, and pates it, while he smokes. But smoking graybeards are sincere when they address the lads, and say, "Avoid this habit dread—be wiser than your dads!"

RESTORED BY NATURE'S REMEDY

Make no mistake; you cannot bolster up your balance of health by resorting to drugs that give but false hopes, or medicines that are a fallacy.

Nature's best remedy has but one name, "Electricity," and this is the only means by which Vitality and Life Power are regained.

Every sign and symptom of nervous debility denotes a physical debasement which only the "Ajax" Dry Cell Bhd. Battery can restore to a perfectly healthy condition.

Hopeless is the outlook of the man who depends upon drugs to restore his vitality. They cannot impart to the system what they do not possess—nerve force. Electricity is nerve force, and what is more, it is the means provided by Nature for restoring Nerve Power. Examine the question for yourself. Send for the Free Book offered below to-day.

You are listless—your blood crawls sluggishly in your veins—you have no desires for the pleasures of life—your stomach rebels—your kidneys fail to act—you are "liverish" and despondent.

These portents indicate that you need now—at once—the regenerative benefits which so freely flow from the "Ajax" Battery.

Simply by one hour's wear a day—in your leisure moments—you can re-bathe your body with the exhilarating boon to the nerves which the "Ajax" unremitting electrical streams bestow.

It turns the darkest physical night into the glorious daylight of health.

Despondency takes wing—debility vanishes—every taint of weakness disappears, for Nature reasserts herself and Electricity disperses all the ills which threaten your well-being.

Perfect manhood—yes—ideal in every respect, this is the inestimable blessing conferred on the "AJAX" wearer.

Manhood, in its richest sense, regained—nothing less.

You must be interested in your own welfare, and to help you we offer a free, post-paid copy of our famous illustrated "AJAX" book. Write for this to-day. Special booklets for Ladies and Gentlemen, please specify which is required when writing.

In order to save time correspondents should, when writing for the Free Booklet, state their age, sex and full details of their case, for then precise advice can be sent by return mail. All letters are treated in the strictest confidence.

BUICK BEAUTY

When you ultimately own a Buick, you will appreciate its beauty even more than you do now.

Now, when you see one parked in front of some fine home or passing on the highway, you see only one of the many features which have made Buick the most widely owned of quality motor cars.

A Buick owner knows that the outward beauty of this famous motor car, pleasing as it is, is only the visible evidence of inner beauty and perfection.

He has an engine with an extra reserve of power, the famous Valve-in-Head. His car understands its steering wheel more readily than any car he has ever driven. The mechanical 4-wheel brakes stop it firmly and safely. No car is so reliable, more staunch, or more sure of itself. Nor is there another that is so carefully or so nationally.

There are more than a million of these Buick owners. There would not be, if Buick had not, through many years, produced motor cars of superior performance and uniform excellence. Buicks are beautiful in every sense in which the term "beauty" ever is used.

AMERICAN RAILWAY EXPRESS

"When commercial aviation is once well established," declares Robert E. M. Cowie, president of the American Railway Express Company in Forbes Magazine (N.Y.), "there will be no such thing as isolation in this country. Furthermore, commercial aviation is not a vision for future generations; it is a live issue of the present moment."

"When Henry Ford listened to the whirr of the propeller on the all-metal plane which made its first trip a short time ago, carrying Ford parts from Detroit to Chicago, he witnessed as great a revolution in the transportation progress of the country as was ever brought about by railroad train or automobile. For this trip was in no sense a demonstration; it was a great progressive scheme for more rapid transportation, accomplished by a man who has been a leader in seeing visions which he invariably brings into reality.

"I think I am safe in saying that within the year we will be using the air commercially for many practical purposes."

"Flying is not a fantasy of Jules Verne, nor a war emergency measure. It is a practical engineering feat which will commercialize for transportation purposes the unlimited expanse of space over our heads."

"There is no question whatsoever in my mind but that serious efforts will be made immediately to inaugurate some sort of a widespread aviation service, and whenever a well-organized and dependable air service is available the American Railway Express Co. is prepared to co-operate with it and offer this expedited transportation service to the public. The benefits we know will accrue urge us on to this action, for in my opinion no great new enterprise revolutionizing existing methods ever loomed up so large or with such practical benefits as commercial aviation."

Called early on Sunday morning to attend to the landing of two car loads of cattle for the Abattoir Company. Also called to the West End of the city to put to death a horse which had been paralyzed. Attended to the landing of twenty-four head of choice cattle from S.S. Sable I.; also two car loads from the Railway Station. The cattle were all attended to by Mr. Halliday, and taken away immediately after landing. Put to death a dog for a resident of Cabot Street. The animal had been an annoyance to the residents of that locality. Also put to death a dog on McParlane Street which had bitten a young lady very severely. The dog was kept for two days before it was put to death, as an owner could not be found. Seven cats have been humanely put to death during the week. I would like to say that it is very necessary for people leaving town and going to the country for the summer to see that cats are either taken with them or put to death before leaving, and not left to perish in the house. The latest report from Our Dumb Animals paper is a case where two defendants were fined $5 each for abandoning their cats, $20 for inserting buttons in a cat's ears, and for kicking a cat to death. Harbor Grace Notes

A sad drowning accident occurred here on Tuesday morning, which suddenly cut short the life of a young man, in the person of Mr. Cecil Dawe, of Port de Grave. At about 10 o'clock, with two other members of the crew of the schooner "Little Shamrock," he was in the act of laying out a kedge anchor, when their boat capsized, throwing the occupants into the water, two of the men managed to hold out until a rescue was effected. One of the rescued party was in an unconscious condition, but Dr. Cron was quickly summoned, and after a time the man recovered.

Owing to the extremely high wind, it was impossible to commence trawling for the body of the unfortunate man until it moderated. In the afternoon an effort was made, but the body was not recovered until eight o'clock in the evening, when it was taken to Parsons' Undertaking rooms. A motor boat arrived from Port de Grave that night and conveyed the remains of the late Mr. Dawe to his home town, for burial.

The schr. Little Shamrock, Capt. J. Snow, had arrived from Bay Roberts on Monday, and was awaiting a chance to go on dock. We understand that deceased was but twenty-three years of age, and is survived by his parents and two sisters. This extremely sad accident cast a gloom over the town, and the heartfelt sympathy of all goes out to the family so suddenly bereft of their dear one.

At a meeting of the Alexandra Cricket Club, on Monday, 18th inst., the following officers for the year were elected:—F. C. Archibald, Capt.; M. Martin, Sub-Captain; F. Parsons, Secretary. The Delegate to the League Executive are: Messrs. F. C. Archibald and E. L. Oke. The Club is the proud possessor of the Jones' Inter-Town Cricket Cup, and every effort will be made by them to still own the Cup at the conclusion of this season's events. At this meeting high tribute was paid the late captain, Rev. W. R. J. Higgett, for his endeavors and keen interest, which was shown by him all through, not only in cricket, but sport in general. At an early date the Club will hold a concert to secure funds necessary for the payment of new gear, and also work on the pitches.

To-Night Last Performance of
"The Rosary"

NEXT WEEK POSITIVELY FINAL
WEEK OF ARLIE MARKS CO.

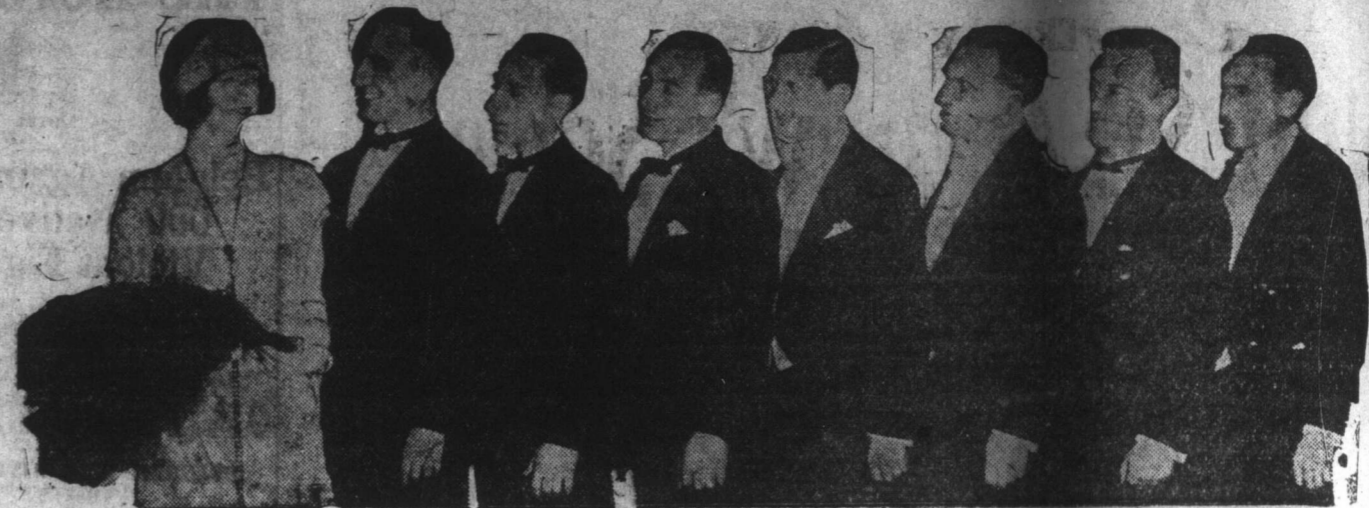

The general consensus of opinion is that the Arlie Marks production of "The Rosary" by Bernard McConville is one of the best interpretations of this popular play seen in a decade. The production is exceptionally well staged and the casting shows unusual description on the part of the director. The various roles are all well taken and the story is brought out in such a manner as to please even the most critical taste for dramatic entertainment. The outstanding character in the play is Father Brian Kelley who is portrayed with splendid realism by H. Webb Chamberlain, a dramatic actor of exceptional ability. Miss Nettie Davenport gives a faithful portrayal of Vera Walton. Her acting and actions fit the role character admirably. Paul Brady and Ray Wasmund do well in the roles of Bruce Wilton and Kenward Wright. Walter Delana gives the bill excellent comedy relief in the role of Lee Martin. Agnes Stutz and Louise AdDel are seen to good advantage in the characters of Lesura Watkins and Kathleen O'Connor respectively. To-night is the last opportunity to see "The Rosary," and all who have not seen it should make a special effort to attend.

On Monday, the Arlie Marks Players enter on their last and final week of their lengthy engagement in Nfld. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday commencing with a big bumper matinee Monday, the bill will be "The Marriage of Betsy" a beautiful rural comedy-drama with the entire acting company of twenty people. The play for the latter part of the week and positively the final bill will be "The Game," the strongest play of crooked politics and high social life ever staged. Book early for next weeks plays.

Another Advocate of Cricket

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir:—In last night's edition of your valuable paper there was a letter in the "Sports Column" from a Cricket enthusiast who signed himself "Not Out."
With your kind permission I would like to say that I implicitly agree with him in the view he is expressing. However, I am not inclined to take as gloomy a view as he does when he says it is shameful that Cricket should ever have been allowed to die out.

Cricket is not dead, it has only experienced a temporary lull in popularity, and the wholehearted work of a few real enthusiasts would no doubt restore it to its former self. Newfoundland is at present without a real good summer game which everyone can play. It must be admitted that football is a game for the cooler season, and not one to be played in the broiling heat of a summer's day. In England the mere thought of playing

As to the rejuvenation of Cricket, I am inclined to think that if a mass meeting of the many Cricket enthusiasts was advertised in the Telegram the meeting would be crowded. "Zeebrugge" Will Come to the Nickel

Reproduction of British Naval Raid
Is Most Thrilling.

Permeated with that British spirit which won the war is the British film "Zeebrugge," which was shown for the first time in Canada at the Regent Theatre, Toronto, February 2nd. The film is a reproduction, with the assistance of the British Admiralty and the Belgian Government, of that wonderful British raid on "Zeebrugge" on St. George's Day, 1918, and contains elaborate and stirring, patriotic, educational, and entertaining. It depicts accurately, with many surviving officers and men taking part in the reproduction, what took place at Zeebrugge Mole, and with the victory attained one feels that it is a glorious thing to be British.

It is a great relief from the common photoplay, such as seen every day in Toronto. So realistic and so soul-stirring is the story of the action that one actually takes part in the raid, and at the height of the battle on the Mole feels that they are hand in hand with "the boys" of that glorious and successful exploit.
This remarkable film is to be shown at the Nickel Theatre shortly.

MARATHON CHAMPION TO RUN AT N.Y. STADIUM ON MAY 26TH.

NEW YORK, May 18—Final arrangements were consummated yesterday by officials of the Finnish-American A.C. to stage a twilight track and field meet at the Yankee Stadium on Tuesday evening, May 26, at popular prices, featuring a special half mile race between Paavo Nurmi, Finland's peerless runner, and Alan Helffrich, the recognized leader among America's middle distance runners.

The other feature attractions and handicaps will be on the "Yankee" card. One of these will be a one mile race, featuring Albin Stenstrom, of Finland, winner of the Olympic marathon race in France last summer, against half a dozen of the best middle distance runners in America. Stenstrom will try to erase the American record of 19 miles 1,492 yards, made by Charlie Peres, June 1, 1919.

The other features will be announced later.

It is planned to start the meet at 7.30 in the evening, which will allow for the first half of the programme being conducted without artificial light. The flood lights which are a part of the equipment of the "Yankee Stadium," will be turned on for the second half of the programme.

Hugo Quist, who has been acting as Nurmi's sponsor since Nurmi's arrival in the United States, stated last night that Nurmi did not want to return to his home in Finland without meeting Alan Helffrich in a special half mile race, which is the distance that close followers of track athletics feel will prove to be Nurmi's Waterloo.

GENE TUNNEY DOWN TO HARD TRAINING.

SARATOGA LAKE, N.Y., May 18—Gene Tunney increased his boxing to six rounds to-day in preparation for his fifteen-round bout with Tom Gilbons, at the Polo Grounds, on June 5. He boxed two rounds with Charley Rosen and then stepped four rugged sessions with Jack De Mave, his heavy-weight sparring partner.

Tunney is settling down to hard training. His morning road run covered more territory since his arrival here two weeks ago. He had been content to confine his footwork to four miles of alternate running and walking, but this morning stretched the distance to seven miles before returning for breakfast. Afterward he hid himself to the beautiful McGregor links for a 9-hole round of golf.

In the afternoon Gene put in his usual session in the gymnasium, punching the bag and clouting the big dummy, skipping the rope and winding up by boxing Rosen and De Mave.

THE DERBY.

LONDON, May 23—(By Can. Press)—The Derby Stakes, the blue ribbon of the flat racing season, will be run for the 142nd time at Epsom on May 27. There is no popular idol this year and the scratching of Picaroon leaves the race one of the most open of recent years.

The Derby is not the oldest of the classics, nor does it always bring together the very best of the season's three-year-olds, and its richness alone, though it was worth £211,755 last year, does not account for the popularity of this great event. But the fact remains that Derby has come to be synonymous with the best, and when the thoroughbreds go to the stakes next Wednesday, people throughout the world will be watching the result.

In England, Derby Day is ranked with the Boat Race and the Cup Final days as the year's greatest sporting event, and it is the chief topic of discussion during the week.

Cross Bow, Lord Astor's bay colt by Gay Crusader-Popinjay, will have strong support, following his win in the Newmarket Three-Year-Old Stakes on May 13. In that race he defeated the Aga Khan's Zolotar by three lengths. Cross Bow was second to Picaroon in the Craven Stakes in Apr.

il, defeating Solario, though he never challenged Picaroon's lead.

It does not seem likely that Lord Derby, whose ancestors founded the great classic, will repeat his win with Sansovino last year. His Conquistador is a chestnut colt by Stedfast-Santa Cruz, which, after running last in the Union Jack Plate at Liverpool spring meeting progressed better and in the Hastings Plate at Newmarket beat the favorite Sparus, running at the finish as though no distance was too great for him. As a two-year-old he ran fourth in the Criterion Stakes, which brought out some of the finest of this year's classic candidates.

Manna, H. E. Morris's winner of the season's first classic, the Two Thousand Guineas at Newmarket, on April 29, and Sir George Bullough's St. Bevan, who finished second to Manna, by two lengths, are also well fancied. Manna is a bay colt by Phalaris-Waffles. He had an interesting two-year-old career, being placed in all his five attempts.

A disappointment, however, is the scratching of Picaroon. A. R. Cox's champion colt, who has twice asserted his marked superiority to Manna. Had Picaroon's leg not prevented him from running in the Two Thousand and the Derby the former result would likely have been different and the public would have a choice worthy of their faith for next Wednesday's classic. Twice last year, at Kempton and at Newmarket, the Manton colt decisively defeated Manna.

A great many are of the opinion that St. Bevan will prove a surprise packet for the Derby. Though Manna beat him by two lengths in the Two Thousand, St. Bevan was not distressed, and it is obvious that his training has been timed for the Derby. The Two Thousand was run over the Rowley Mile whereas the Derby is a mile and a half and 29 yards, run over a trying course that calls for staying power. St. Bevan is a Hurry On-Cyprian colt.

H. H. Aga Khan's Zolotar, the boy colt by Spearpoint-Judea, on his brilliant two-year-old record, was the warm favorite for the Two Thousand and the Derby on Picaroon's withdrawal, but he made a disappointing showing in the early classic, finishing fifth. Solario was ahead of him by a length and in turn Solario was beaten by two lengths for third place by Sir Edward Hulton's Oajah. Zolotar ran second to Cross Bow in the Newmarket Stakes.

Oajah, Sir Edward Hulton's chestnut colt by Bachelor's Double-Connter, was another good two-year-old, and he finished third in the Two Thousand, but he was blowing freely at the finish. At that, he defeated Zolotar and Solario. It is not expected that Oajah can reverse his form and defeat St. Bevan and Manna over the longer course.

The chief claim of Ptolemy II. to a place among the favorites is that he is to be ridden by the premier English jockey, Steve Donoghue. Capt. J. D. Cohn's entrant is a brown colt by Teddy-Macedonia.

His Majesty's Runnymede, which ran respectably and finished sixth in the Two Thousand, just behind Zolotar, J. P. Hornung's Bucellas, the Aga Khan's Frouse Mahal, third in the One Thousand, and Sir John Rutherford's Solario, fourth in the Two Thousand, and expected to be greatly improved by Derby Day, will all likely have a goodly number of backers.

The Derby was established in 1780, a year later than the Oaks. This latter classic, which like the One Thousand Guineas is for fillies only, is run over the same course as the Derby two days later. In 1787 Lord Derby's Sir Peter Teazle won the Derby, but no horse carrying Lord Derby's colors won again until Sansovino captured the classic last year.

An indication as to the possibility of Manna, the Two Thousand winner, capturing the Derby, is given in the records which show that in the past 112 years just 26 thoroughbreds have won both classics. There were Smolensko, Caland, Day Middleton, Cotherstone, West Australian, the Marquis, Gladiator, Lord Lyon, Formosa, Petrarch, Pretender, Shotover, Ormonde, Ayrshire, Gormon, Isinglass, Ladas, Saltee More, Flying Fox, Diamond Jubilee, Rock Sand, St. Amant, Minoru, Fommern, in 1915, Gay Crusader in 1917 and Gainsborough in 1918, the last three substitute races at Newmarket.

When forfeit was declared on the last Tuesday in March only 61 of the original 354 nominations were "left in." If more than 20 of these go to the post it will be one of the largest fields in late years. There were 30 starters in 1922 and 1914, and some large fields between 1840 and 1870. Last year 27 ran.

The value of the Derby Stakes this year to the owner of the winner, and the second and third prizes, will be very close to $60,000.

NFLD. BOY WHIPPED POPULAR WELTERWEIGHT BOXER.

Sid Taylor, that highly esteemed welterweight from the U.S.S. Texas, received the surprise of his career last night at the Grimes Battery smoker when a young unknown ripped him for eight rounds and won the popular decision, although judges called the fight a draw.

The newcomer, who signed himself Dick Fahey, substituted for Garson Williams, originally billed to meet Taylor. Texas veteran oozed with confidence as he stepped into the ring, and his followers gave Fahey the grand raspberry before the war started. They figured Fahey lucky if he stayed two rounds, but none of them had seen the young rookie in action. Fahey carried the fight all the way, slapping Taylor with both hands and forcing the former welter champ to miss repeatedly. Taylor made a number of futile efforts to land a knockout, but Fahey was entirely too fast for him.

Pane roared disapproval when judges called the bout a draw. The following is taken from the Virginia Pilot, May 9th:—
The best fight on the card was staged by Sid Taylor, of Texas, and Fahey, of the Base, the latter substituting for Kid Williams. It was a slashing, driving match, and both men left the ring covered with blood. They were in there every second trying to put each other out, but both were able to absorb punishment. The Judges declared the fight a draw. It was unpopular, many in the crowd favoring Fahey for a decision.

Dick Fahey has just arrived at Hampton Roads, Va., to enter the Naval College there, consequently his ability as a boxer was unknown.

The Passing of The Hero of Ypres

Field Marshal Sir John French, Earl of Ypres, a soldier who has figured most prominently in the history of British military affairs ever since the days of the South African campaign, has passed away in his seventy-third year following an operation.

The oldest son of a Naval officer, he joined the training ship Britannia at the age of fourteen, and served as a cadet and a midshipman for four years. Deciding, however, that the army had a greater attraction for him, he effected a transfer, and in 1874 joined the 8th Hussars.

During 1884-85 Lieutenant French saw active service with the 19th Hussars in the Sudan campaign, and from 1889 to 1893 he was in command of that regiment. Later he was appointed in turn A.A.G. of Cavalry on the staff, Brigadier in command of the 2nd Cavalry Brigade, and Major General of the 1st Cavalry Brigade at Aldershot. In 1899 Major General French proceeded to South Africa to command the Cavalry Division in Natal. Having made this arm of the service his special study, he was the right man for the job, and his services were invaluable in the campaign against the nimble footed rough riders of the veldt. At Elandslaagte, Reitfontein at Lombard's Kop, in the operations round Colesburg, in those which resulted in the Relief of Kimberley, the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria, and in fact in all operations up to the end of the war General French played a part which won for him the highest honours and proved him to be one of the greatest cavalry leaders of the day.

In the year previous to the commencement of the Great War, a Field Marshal's baton was conferred upon him, and with the outbreak of hostilities, he was sent to France as Commander-in-Chief of the First One Hundred Thousand. The glorious events of those days, which have made a chapter of history that will never fade, are still fresh in our minds and need not be recalled in detail, but the mastery with which Sir John French overcame the numerous difficulties which confronted his gallant troops; the manner in which they bore the brunt of the attack of five German army corps following the fall of Liege; the skill with which the retreat from Mons was conducted in order to make a junction with reinforcements from Paris, and the brilliant strategy shown on September 7th, when the German right was turned, and their army driven back to the Marne, and thence to the line of the Aisne—these are events with which his name will ever be remembered both in Britain and France. As these engagements saved Paris from falling into the hands of the enemy, so too a few weeks later his victory at Ypres saved the Channel ports from being occupied, and averted the danger of an invasion of the British Isles.

As a reward for his services, the Commander-in-Chief was made a Viscount, and numerous honours were showered upon him by the various allied powers. Retiring from the command in France, he became Commander-in-Chief of the troops in the United Kingdom, which position he filled until he was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1918. At the time of his illness he was Captain of Deal Castle.

Empire Day

Empire Day, which is observed on the birthday of Victoria the Good, not only recalls to our minds her long and eventful reign and the remarkable influence which she exercised, but it takes our thoughts off our own personal concerns for the moment, and bids us remember the great privileges which we enjoy, because we are members of that far-flung Empire, and not only our privileges but our responsibilities as well.

True, the task of keeping watch over the interests of the 500,000,000 of people who find safety and security under the British flag, and of preserving intact the 13,000,000 square miles of territory falls for the most part upon the statesmen who sit in the Mother Parliament, but so complete is the system of Government, that each dependency is in regard to its own affairs practically a power to itself, and in most of them the individual enjoys in a greater degree than under any other flag the rights and privileges of citizenship.

Races of every creed and colour go to the making up of this great family of nations, and yet they are united by no binding agreements such as exist between federal states. Outside nations have been at a loss to understand what keeps the Empire intact, and they are not satisfied with the explanation that it is due to nothing more than the love and respect in which we hold the Sovereign and our cherished institutions.

Such bonds may be slender, but time and again their strength has been tested and they have stood the strain. It might even be said that such tests have but added to their strength. Long may that loyalty to the Crown remain, for whatever plans may be devised in the future to bring the various parts of the Empire into closer touch with each other, the love and respect in which we hold the British Sovereign must ever prove the most indissoluble bond.

Taking a Holiday in England

Inspector J. B. Peet, accompanied by his wife, left by S. S. Digby today to spend a vacation in the Old Country with relatives and friends of Mrs. Peet. Inspector Peet has rounded off his term in the Constabulary. Having joined the force in 1877 he served under Inspectors Carty, Fawcett, McCowan, Sullivan, and the present Inspector General Hutchings, doing duty at Flower's Cove, Carbonear, Harbor Grace, Upper Island Cove, Spauldard's Bay and Curling. From the latter place he was transferred to the city in 1922 and since has been engaged on special duty. Although in his sixty sixth year and the oldest member of the police force on active service he is as supple as many people of half his years. Inspector Peet has been given three months leave of absence which his many friends hope he will thoroughly enjoy.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

May 22nd—Up betimes this day feeling much better, being that my pains and aches are now high gone and I to suffer very little discomfort from them. Being come to Water Street, do meet in Mr. Kearney's shoppe Mr. Campbell that is a player of the "Originals," and perceive heer buying a straw hat, he wears it on the street, and in the first I have seen for the year. But Lord, methinks he is a mighty brave fellow, being that he doe jink the weather with his new hat, it will get him in great trouble. My wife this day tells me of the latest fashion in Paris, which is to wear silk hose which have on them ornamental clocks and flowers, done in phosphorus to illuminate them in the night time. Indeed, it do seem how there is no extreme of foolishness to which women will not go, and like that the men of Paris will have further need of opticians, being they will now be subject to severe eyestrain by night and by day. By despatches out of England, news of the death of my Lord Ypres, and was the first Commander of the British troops in France, where he did earn undying fame. Indeed, it seems how the strain of the war years do weigh heavily on our generals, being the 5th that has died in recent years. By my English news sheets do see how Mr. Churchill stops the dumping of American cars in England by making the McKenna duties retroactive on all cars over the average number that have been imported each month since the duties here removed by Mr. Snowden. This is done because the retrospective of the duties did cause American makers to greatly increase their export of cars to have them in England before the new tariff was imposed. This night to the Club and play at Bridge, to my great content.

HEALTHY BABIES.
 "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

Baby's First Clothes—Why are we so fond of wrapping baby up tight? Binders and safety pins—some of us are so fond of them. If you bind up your arm or put it in a sling, you lose the use of it. Use your arm and the muscles develop and the arm gets strong. It's the same with baby's body. Cotton or Flannelite has weight, but not warmth. Woolies are light and warm. If baby has too much weight to carry on his body, it saps his energy and he will not grow fast enough. Wrong clothes often make baby cry.

Think more about baby's clothes, and use your common sense. East End Centre, St. Joseph's Hall. It's getting near the time for the prize for the "best attendance on Tuesday." Don't forget to come next Tuesday.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

FRENCH OPERATIONS SUCCESSFUL.

PARIS, May 22. An official communication issued this evening, regarding the situation in Morocco says, General Count De Hambrun's French troops have routed the Rifians in the region of Tounait in the operation began yesterday, and sent the rebels flying in a northwesterly direction. The rebels are being pursued by artillery fire and airplanes which are effectively taking the role of cavalry in the campaign. The losses to the Rifians are described as heavy, and the French casualties slight in proportion to the results achieved. The besieged French posts in the Taoutat region were freed of the pressure they had been under for several days, and the tribes along the river, which had been subjected to violent arguments by Abd-el-Krim's men, were freed from their unenviable position, in which they risked losing their heads if they refused to rally to the support of the Rebel leader, or took the chance of being counted among the heavy losses among the invaders from the French fire, if they consented to join Abd-el-Krim.

BRITISH STEAMER LOSES PROPELLER.

NEW YORK, May 22. Radio broadcasting was halted for half an hour to-night, while the British steamer Cleomeceon, which left Havre April 18th for Kaolack, and which was bound back to its home port along the African coast, reported the loss of its port propeller.

KING HAakon's INSTRUCTIONS TO AMUNDSEN.

COPENHAGEN, May 22. That Canada long ago annexed any land discovered northward of the Dominion, was pointed out here to-day by Peter Freuchen, the Danish Polar explorer, in commenting on King Haakon's authorization to Capt. Roald Amundsen to take possession in the name of Norway of any territory discovered in the course of his present polar flight. Freuchen added that he considered it highly improbable that there was any land there. Any Norwegian claims would be disputed, Freuchen thought. The North Pole was also claimed by its discoverer Peary, for the United States, he said.

FORMER PREMIER RECIPIENT OF UNUSUAL HONOR.

LONDON, May 22. The Right Hon. James Ramsay MacDonald, former Prime Minister, will sail for Canada on the Megantic, on October 2nd next, and will spend some time visiting the important centres of the Dominion. This evening the ex-Premier was the recipient of an unusual honor, a dinner given him by the Father of the House of Commons, P. T. O'Connor, in recognition of Mr. MacDonald's high personal and political character and a speaker. The dinner was entirely non-political and was a notable event. The guests included Sir James M. Barrie, Signor Marconi, Dean Inge, Viscount Chelmsford, former First Lord of the Admiralty, and Baron Thomson who was Air Minister in the MacDonald Cabinet. Politicians representative of all parties attended. Among others who wrote regretting their inability to be present were the Archbishop of Canterbury, George Bernard Shaw, Lord Birkenhead, the Earl of Reading and the French and United States Ambassadors. Mr. O'Connor presided in toasting the guest of the evening, he said that the dinner was "a very striking manifestation of the great and almost unbroken, and I think, the same law, in our political and parliamentary history that political differences should not interfere with personal relations." He also paid tribute to Mr. MacDonald as "a great brother of our great brotherhood. I should put him as perhaps the best educated parliamentarian in our Empire." Mr. MacDonald, in responding, made a speech filled with happy reminiscences especially concerning his early career.

A Remarkable Vessel An Unbeaten Record

(H. F. SHORTIS.)
Was it chance that brought the Brigantine "Charles W. Oulton" to Harbor Grace on the 5th day of October, 1874? She was a new vessel of 184 tons register just launched in Nova Scotia and brought a load of lumber from Pugwash and was commanded by Capt. McKenzie. That she was brought down for sale we have no record, as Capt. McKenzie as soon as her lumber was discharged chartered her to John Munn and she was at once put on the berth to load oil for Liverpool, England. She was quickly loaded and ready to sail, getting away on October 5th.

Strange to say, I do not know under what circumstances, but she had for first mate a man who a few years later was to make history in this same vessel. This man was Charles Layton. Layton was not a young man by any means as he had been sailing for years as Master of Ridley's vessels out of this same Harbour. No doubt, owing to Ridley's closing he was open for a position and ready to work himself in and went as Mate in this new Brigantine. Anyway we find him on board and we will hear much of him later on.

The voyage across in November was very stormy and the vessel met much damage, being badly torn up and moreover the British Board of Trade coming down and taking a hand in the repairs, ordered much to be done with her, such as iron straps, six on each side from deck to keelson, butts restrained by copper bolts, etc., etc. These things, together with the repairs to sails, mast and spars soon ate up the oil freight, and when the owners in Nova Scotia were called on for more money they were not able to respond, and so work was at a standstill. William Tarbet, agents of John Munn & Co., were appealed to, and had to come to the rescue, and with the consent of Mr. Munn advanced the money for the necessary repairs on the security of a bottomry bond on the vessel, guaranteeing it would be repaid on the completion of the next voyage. I think the Bond called for £2900.00 so work was completed and the vessel was chartered to take out to Hr. Grace a full cargo of spring goods. She was soon on her way out again, but in all her life this was the longest and most unfortunate passage she was to make, leaving Liverpool early in February she met ice on the Banks and no matter how she would work it she was unable to get in, and after some weeks she was fortunate enough to get into Halifax, N.S., where again, after her hard time, she required fitting out and so ran away with what was left of her outward freight. The hard voyage and anxiety was too much for Capt. McKenzie so he turned the command over to Layton, who in time brought her safely to Hr. Grace, arriving there on April 26th. On her arrival

ANAEMIA

A remarkable discovery has enabled thousands of worn-out, tired, nervous, anemic people to increase their strength and energy, often in two weeks' time, and to quickly change their leaden pallor and listless look to the pink skin, rosy lips and sparkling eyes of glowing health. Formerly they were given the old-fashioned tinctures and pills made from mineral iron, which many doctors now say are scarcely assimilated at all, and so give little benefit. But since the discovery of a new combination of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which, being like the organic iron in our own blood, is promptly taken up by the blood, thousands have found that they can banish every trace of tiredness and dizziness, those peculiar pains and that nervousness incident to old age, in a few short weeks. Furthermore, Nuxated Iron does not injure the stomach or disturb the bowels. It quickly helps build up rich, red blood, that carries strength, vitality and youth to your whole body. No matter how weak and ill you feel, or how many other medicines you have tried in vain, make this convincing test: Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks, and if you do not realize a wonderful improvement in strength and energy and look years younger, the druggist will promptly refund your money. Nuxated Iron is sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.

There the owners were appealed to for to liquidate the Bottomry Bond, but were not able to do so in any way. It was then decided that Mr. Munn would again send her to Liverpool on the understanding that the vessel would be sold there and John Munn & Co. reimbursed. She left Hr. Grace on May 11th and made a good run over and on discharging the vessel was put up for sale. She lay there for six weeks with a broom to the mast head, and no purchase in view till W. F. Munn, who was there, decided that they would buy Mr. Oulton and Capt. McKenzie out and take her for their own trade, so she arrived back to Hr. Grace in August, 1875. Capt. Keefe was placed in command and he held her till March, 1877, making five round voyages to Liverpool. He then handed her over to Capt. William Hennessey. The "Oulton" did good work under these two men, never meeting any mishap and always going backwards and forwards to and from Liverpool, with one exception, when Capt. Hennessey took a load of herring to New York from Labrador. Capt. Hennessey retired in 1878, and took up the Labrador business. In starting that firm business (establishment) at Turasvie, where he was always noted for the excellent quality of fish shipped, unexcelled by any part of the coast for its cleanliness and whiteness.

It was in April, 1878 that Hennessey retired and our old friend Charles Layton was given charge. I can quite imagine John Munn with his stick under his arm, calling Layton into his private office and giving him a lecture, saying this fine ship was for him, but he must keep up to Keefe and Hennessey and make good passages as these veterans, little thinking that Layton was going to beat them all, yes, and everyone else and make a record that would live for all time that sailing vessels were to sail, as I am sure Layton's record was never beaten nor ever will be.

I can give you the facts and figures for anyone who would care to dispute me, and so will give some of them to you now. If anyone can prove that I am not right in what I say I will eat my hat. Layton took the "Oulton" in April 26th, 1878. In 1878 she made—on ten months—she made three voyages to Liverpool and back and also a Sydney trip for a load of coal. The round was 67 days on the first and 79 days for the second and third. But the "Oulton" is not into her stride yet. Layton has better work than this.

The next year 1879, she left Harbor Grace on Feb. 16th, the run to Liverpool in 18 days, her next trip from Hr. Grace is in May and 15 days is her run to Liverpool; in all she made in this year of ten and a half months four round trips to Liverpool and back.

Leaving Hr. Grace in January 28th, 1880, she is again in Liverpool in 16 days and back again to Hr. Grace on April 22nd. On June 1st she is again East bound and completes, and August she has home again, a round of 60 days. Fifty-five days is the next round trip bringing her home on Oct. 16th. Twenty days for a Sydney trip and on the Oil berth again loading for England, and in January she completes her fourth round trip and also a Sydney trip, for the year.

In 1881 she leaves Hr. Grace Feb. 14th; 20 days sees her safely in the old St. George's Dock where the big Liverpool Board of Trade Offices now stand. This trip has been very stormy. She reports damage and jettison, but April 19th sees her home again, 45 days on the round. May 26th sails again and in 12 days is at Bristol, where she gets reclassified. She is home again on August 2nd and only 12 days on her next run to Bristol. By Jan. 14th, 1882 she has completed her four voyages for 11 months.

In 1882, from Jan. 31st to Jan. 11th she again makes her four voyages. Her four passages eastward from Hr. Grace to England done in 16 days. One takes 17 and the last 14.

In 1883, from Feb. 3rd to the 18th is 15 days; in these few days the "Oulton" was running from Harbor Grace to Plymouth. On April 4th she leaves Liverpool with the spring goods and arrives in Hr. Grace on May 6th. As usual she finishes up her round of four trips in one year and one day.

In 1874 she starts out again on Feb. 25th and in 11 months, she has three voyages and a Sydney trip to her credit. For 1885, in 11 months, she has her four voyages, 2 to Liverpool and 2 to Bristol, the rounds being 72 days, 61 days, 67 and 51 days for each. In 1886 she leaves Hr. Grace March 8th, a round is completed in 53 days, only 15 days from Liverpool to Renew, where she put in for ice on April 30th.

The next trip, 13 days going East to Bristol; the next 18 days and the next 16, finishing up her four trips on Feb. 2nd. On this trip she lost ready been lost on the quest of this cargo. The "Oulton" got it on board but the treacherous fogs and currents of St. Mary's Bay, dragged him in on the rugged rocks of Golden Bay, where he was forced ashore, and abandoned as a total loss. So ends the log of the good old "Oulton," July 10th, 1889.

Of all the seafaring men who sailed on the "Oulton," I know of only two alive to-day, viz. Magistrate Squarey, of Channel, who was mate with Capt. Layton, and John Butler, the trusted watchman in the employ of Baine, Johnston & Co. of this city, as fine a sailor as ever reeled a sail when the storm was at its height.

Englishmen Break Through Crowd AND SHAKE HANDS WITH KING.
London, May 18. (C.P.)—In connection with the action of two Englishmen who broke through a cheering crowd at the British Empire Exhibition Saturday night and shook hands with the King when the royal party was making a tour of the grounds, the unmistakably instant disapproval which the throng displayed towards his Majesty's two impulsive subjects, will probably prevent a repetition of such incidents in the future. The great crowd of Londoners who witnessed the incident of Thursday, when an American visitor from Iowa, presumably a stranger in the country, thrust himself forward and grasped the hand of the King who was visiting the Fair, were disposed to be tolerant, but they are likely to be otherwise when their own countrymen overstep conventions.

Despite the hard things which are sometimes said about their manners by folk who come here from a distance, Londoners are always careful to maintain their self-possession and dignity in the mass when in the presence of members of the royal house, or indeed of eminent people of any rank. One commentator said, "If democracy is to command respect it must make possible the reign of human dignity. Every man is to be treated as an equal for no other reason than his possession of a personality. To suppose that a king is to be approached with a display of familiarity, which we should blush to bestow upon a stranger of whatever his station in life, is to make a travesty of an ennobled principle of human conduct."

When Your Speedometer says, "500 miles" -- STOP
Remember the 20 to 60 vital spots that cause most all repairs—exposed bearings below the body line. Neglected chiefly because of old-fashioned inaccessible oil or grease cups, these bearings run up repair costs—in the past three years the motoring public has actually spent more for upkeep than for new cars. Recently this has been changed. Most manufacturers now equip their cars with

Up in a Seaplane 28½ Hours

Others in the crew were Capt. L. M. Woolson, aeronautical engineer, and Charles Sutter, mechanic. Describing the conclusion of the test, the correspondent tells us:
The PN-9 gracefully glided to the surface of the river as a crowd of about 300 employees of the aircraft factory and other divisions of the navyyard cheered the crew.
The crew still wore smiles on their grimed faces as the PN-9 was towed near to shore. They were greeted by Capt. G. C. Westervelt, manager of the aircraft factory, as the crowd continued to cheer and applaud.
"How did the trip go?" Lieutenant Schildauer was asked.
The men, deafened by the steady roar of the engines for more than a day, were barely able to hear questions shouted into their ears.

Lieutenant Schildauer answered: "Fine. We slept in half-hour shifts at first and then Lieutenant Kyle and I slept an hour at a time. I crawled up in the forward cockpit and slept between a thermos bottle and a coil of rope and an anchor.
"It was pretty hard to try to sleep in such a position and the roar of the engines made it much harder. We all became so weary after a time, however, that it didn't require much effort to doze when our time came."
"It was a wonderful piece of work," said Captain Westervelt, as he shook hands with each member of the crew.
Lieut. Schildauer, after being greeted, immediately visited the factory office, where he was weighed. He said he lost four pounds since yesterday morning, when the trip started. He then ate dinner and retired for a much needed rest.
At the start the PN-9 carried 1,300 gallons of gasoline and 150 gallons of oil, making the total weight of the plane, with four passengers, 19,000 pounds, or nine and one-half tons. The weight was diminished somewhat as the gasoline and oil supply dwindled.
An airplane, contrasting with the PN-9 as a sparrow and a hawk, took off from the navyyard with an official photographer and joined the larger craft as it made the turn over the river. The smaller plane hovered over the PN-9 as it raced down the river for another trip.
The previous record, 14 hours, 53 minutes, was made by Lieut. F. W. Weed and J. D. Price, at Washington, July 11, 1924.
Up to 9 o'clock this morning the plane had been making the round-trip of the course between the navy-yard and Fort Delaware in sixty minutes, but on the last round it took an hour and fifteen minutes.
At 7:12 a.m. a message was dropped by the aviators, which apparently indicated that the seaplane would not be able to keep aloft for a full 30 hours, the original goal of the flight.
The message said: "After twenty hours have covered 1,370 knots, still 240 gallons gasoline left. Using forty-five gallons hourly. Speed, sixty-four knots an hour. See you about noon."
The purpose of the flight, according to navy-yard officials, was not to smash any time records, but to test the manner in which such a machine stands up under a flight of thirty continuous hours.
This was the third endurance flight the plane has made, having been freed down by engine trouble the first time after nine hours and twenty-one minutes and by a driving rain storm on the second flight. The plane maintained an average speed of eighty miles, although it was announced that her engine was capable of much greater speed. She flew at an altitude of about 1,000 feet.

On his account of the PN-9's remarkable record-breaking performance, a Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Times, reports these facts:
The seaplane was in perfect condition when mechanics overhauled it after the landing. No repairs were made during the flight. The crew were badly wind-bitten and their faces showed the effects of their strenuous ordeal.
Soon after the crew came ashore a telegram was received from Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, which read: "The Bureau of Navigation is highly gratified with the result of the endurance test flight of the PN-9. The officers and personnel of the Bureau join me in hearty congratulations to the management and personnel of the aircraft factory and to the pilots and crew of the PN-9 on this splendid achievement."
The two new 500-h.p. Packard motors with which the seaplane is equipped, will be taken out of the ship and will be further tested.

They will then be shipped by rail to San Diego, while the all-metal hull will be sent via the Panama Canal to the Pacific Coast port, where the seaplane will be reassembled. It is expected that the Honolulu flight will be made about July 1.
Hington when a group of the League of American Pen Women sang the song as a wreath was placed at the tomb.
Gena Branscombe, though, now living in New York, was born in Picou, Ont., and retains many warm friendships on this side of the line. She has been a successful composer of songs, including "Bring You Heartsease," operettas and other compositions, and recently has been engaged upon an opera.

Death Caused in Peculiar Manner

MERRITT, B.C.—At a coroner's inquest inquiring into the recent death of the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Veale, ranchers, near here, and whose death mystified local medical practitioners, it was discovered that a wood tick had bored into the child's head and a verdict was returned that she "died from the infection caused by a wood tick entering her body near the nape of the neck."
The parents noticed the child became "dopey" and consulted a physician who had her removed to a hospital for observation, where she died shortly after admission. Ticks often kill sheep and cattle, but instances of them attacking human beings are rare.
Very good for the invalid is a sandwich of toast and a filling of a little finely chopped raw beef.

People Tired of Prohibition

London, Ont., May 12.—That Bishop Williams' opinion remains unaltered with respect to the Ontario Temperance Act was evidenced in his address at the opening of the Anglican Synod of Huron to-day, when he said, "the plebiscite on the O. T. A. showed that the people were rapidly growing tired of prohibition."

No Shingled Hair in Court Circles

LONDON HEARS IT IS REGARDED WITH DISFAVOR IN COURT CIRCLES.
London, May 12.—Shingled hair, it is understood, is regarded with disfavor in court circles, therefore many ladies who have received coveted invitations to Their Majesty's Court next week are endeavoring to conceal from observation adoption of this style of head dress.
A natural wavy bandeau is the latest thing for covering shingled heads. Court hair dressers make these chiefly from the hair of French and Italian peasants who sell their hair for about £4 and therefore wear mob caps to hide the loss of their natural covering.
Whether anybody really at the top of the Royal circle troubles at all about shingled heads is doubtful. Last year, when so many transatlantic visitors attended Buckingham Palace garden parties, a special edict was issued that tall hats were not essential, nevertheless there were heroic attempts on the part of many men to comply with convention in this matter. Some of the visitors considered "crush" opera hats as a pardonable substitute for the usual silk hat.

To Raise Revenue From Billboards

MONTREAL, Que., May 10.—(By Canadian Press)—For years this city has presented a strange spectacle to the visitor in the shape of theatrical billboards on which pieces of paper have been clumsily stuck over such things as revolvers or knives. This censoring was carried on by a city official. Now Montreal is to go a step further and magazine book covers, paintings or drawings which may be exhibited publicly can be "purified" by this censor. The city also hopes to raise a little revenue out of the process and before the official stamp "approved" can be secured so much per foot of the poster must be paid. A fine of forty dollars or two months in goal is the penalty to be imposed for dodging inspection.

3 Generations, 224 Years

Mrs. Dill, aged 101, widow of Dr. Richard Dill, who lived to the age of 89, has died at Hove. Her father, General Sir Charles Wall, was at the siege of Gibraltar, 1781, and died at the age of 81.

Her grandfather was born in 1701—before the victory of Marlborough at Blenheim (1704).

Three successive generations have thus covered 224 years.

Mme. Caillaux Again a Social Leader in Paris

At a reception at the British Embassy attended by practically all the ministers of the Palaise Government, and their wives Madame Caillaux, in pink georgette with close bobbed hair, was the centre of interest. She is a brilliant conversationalist.

It is now nearly nine years since Mme. Caillaux shot and killed Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, because of attacks upon her husband who at the time was Minister of Finance in a cabinet of which the present President Doumergue was Premier.

Friends of the slain editor claimed Calmette had been about to expose Caillaux's dealings with Germany.

Madame Caillaux said her victim had threatened to publish letters exchanged between her and her husband before either had obtained the divorce that made their marriage possible. Caillaux's private life had always been an open target for his enemies.

A French jury found Madame Caillaux not guilty, but the storm that was aroused by the incident drove her husband from the cabinet.

Then in January, 1918 came Caillaux's arrest upon orders of Premier Georges Clemenceau. After two years under guard he was convicted of commerce and correspondence with the enemy, something akin to treason.

Mme. Caillaux suffered the vicissitudes of banishment with her husband, who was deprived of his political rights and forbidden to enter the larger cities of France.

Now with her husband's return to power, she is again in the foremost rank of French society and making the most of it.

Quebec Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Madame E. Trembley suffered with neuralgia, headaches and pains in her back.

Grosses Roches, Que., May 22—(Special)—No place appears to be too small to furnish at least one person who is prepared to say that they owe their health to the great Canadian Kidney Remedy. Madame E. Trembley, a well-known resident here, is one of them.

"Your Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me much good. I am very satisfied with the results. I had pains in my back and head. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and my appetite was fitful. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me much good."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys so they can do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been used for backaches, diabetes, rheumatism, dropsy, urinary troubles and heart disease. People who use them are loud in their praise.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Letter From Mrs. Ayars Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Spring Valley, Sask.—"I took the Vegetable Compound before my last confinement, when I got to feeling so badly that I could not sleep nights my back ached so across my hips, and I could hardly do my work during the day. I never had such an easy confinement and this is my sixth baby. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the 'Farmer's Telegram' and wrote you for one of your books. We have no druggist in our town, but I saw your medicine in T. Eaton's catalogue. I am a farmer's wife, so have all kinds of work to do inside and outside the house. My baby is a nice healthy girl, who weighed nine pounds at birth. I am feeling fine after putting in a large garden since baby came. (She is as good as she can be.) Yours is the best medicine for women, and I have told about it and even written to my friends about it."—Mrs. ANNE E. AYARS, Spring Valley, Sask.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system so that it may work in every respect as nature intends. All druggists sell this dependable medicine. Give it a trial.

Our Trial by Jury

How It Differs From That of Other Lands.

The thing that impresses a foreigner at an important trial in this country is the absolute quietness of the whole proceedings. That is because the great point of the English trial is to exclude sentiment.

In the United States, however, it is different. Over there, weeks may have been spent in "challenging" the jury. One member ten years before argued against capital punishment, or in favour of it. Obviously, then, he is biased, and one or other of the counsel engaged will object to him.

When at last a jury is obtained to which no objection can be raised, the first thing that happens during the hearing of the case is that both counsel try their utmost to touch their feelings.

With us, the jury has nothing to do with sentiment. Their one business is to make a finding of fact from the evidence presented to them.

If the jury bring in a verdict of "guilty," and the quiet old gentleman, who is the judge, sentences the accused person to death, the prisoner has the right by law to appeal—but only on points of law.

There will be no jury, no evidence of facts, and no recital of the crime. Only a bench of judges of appeal arguing points of hard law as to whether this point and that ought to have been put to the court—in other words, whether or not the prisoner had a fair trial.

In France, again, things are very different. There a bench of judges acts as prosecuting counsel, as deciding jury, and as sentencing judge, all in one.

"Why, prisoner," they demand, "did you kill the man?"

Little by little the supposed details of the crime are "reconstructed."

In the end, something like the truth is generally reached. Either the prisoner breaks down under the ordeal, or establishes his innocence, against the pitiless questioning.

But there is much to be said for the quiet dignity of the English Court, with its strained silence, its almost cloistered jurors, and its attentive judge.

Stepping Stones to Beauty

An improper diet will do more to ruin the complexion than anything else.

A well-made salad, containing good olive oil is a meal in itself, and a great aid to health and beauty.

To keep the "schoolgirl complexion" a woman must avoid salt or dried meat rich sauces, pickles, and spices, also twice-cooked meat in the form of hash or mince.

Better and Better

Dependable ten years ago, and five years ago, and more dependable than ever to-day, Dodge Brothers Motor Car simply represents the latest phase in a process of continual betterment.

The first cars Dodge Brothers built established a world-wide reputation. The cars they are building to-day incorporate the accumulated refinements of those ten intervening years.

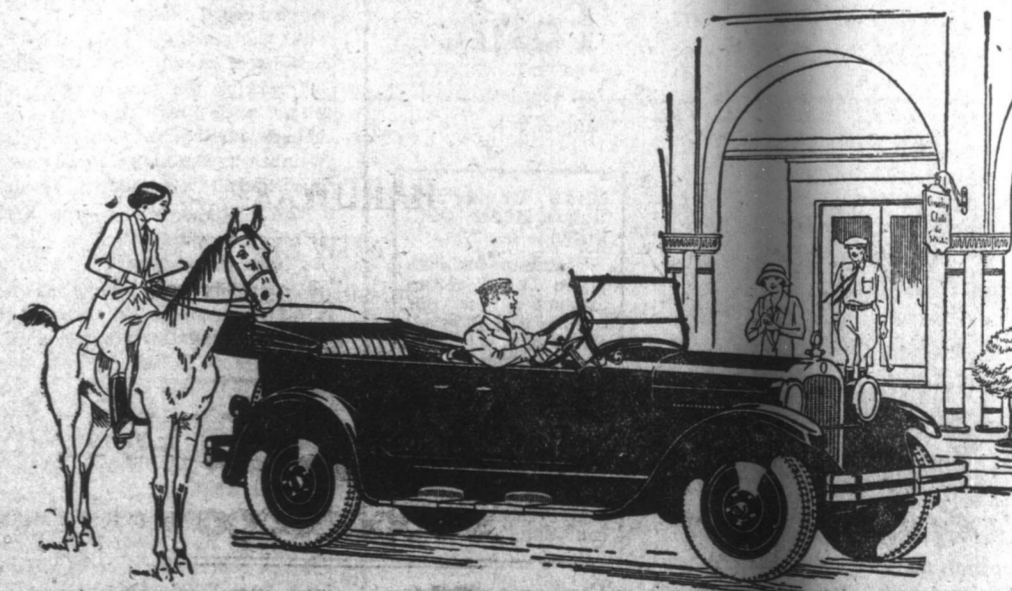

That important improvements in the comfort and appearance of the car are made from time to time, implies no basic departure from Dodge Brothers traditional policy of PROGRESSIVE rather than SEASONAL development.

skin, improving the action of the blood, thus bringing a rosy flush to the cheeks.

It is hardly necessary to stress the point that a proper amount of exercise is absolutely necessary if beauty is to be attained.

After a hot bath, a sponge down with cold water should be taken.

Walking is as good an exercise as one can take. Women demur that they have no time for long walks. It is quite easy, however, to get a good deal of walking exercise in the course of an ordinary day—by restraining from jumping on the bus or tram-car. Walk instead, if only half the way.

A woman cannot be blamed if she hasn't that "Cupid's Bow" of a mouth. A little care and attention, however, will go far to overcome Nature's deficiencies. "Massage the mouth, stroking with the finger-tips inwards to the centre; outwards in the case of too prominent lips. To keep lips soft, a little emollient cream should be applied.

Presentations to the Rev. G. H. Maidment, Bonne Bay

The Mission Priest of Bonne Bay has been unwell for the past twelve months. During the winter the disease became so acute that he was obliged to travel to St. John's for treatment. He received a temporary respite, but has now to seek further advice and treatment. General regret for this has been expressed by all classes and crowds in Bonne Bay and its vicinity, and many tangible tokens of their sympathy have been given to Mr. Maidment.

The following presentations were formally made at various times during the past week, by the organizations mentioned:—

- The Epiphany Sunday School, Woody Point . . . . . $ 20.00
- The Guild of the Good Shepherd, Norris' Point . . . . . 45.00
- The Girl's Friendly Society, Norris' Point . . . . . 40.00
- St. Mary's Guild, Woody Point 100.00
- The Good Shepherd Sunday School, Norris' Point . . . . . 20.00
- The C. of E. Women's Ass'n., Woody Point . . . . . 100.00
- The Congregations of Woody Point, Birch Head and Lomond . . . . . 155.75

Mr. Maidment was moved in receiving those manifest tokens of his people's affection and generosity. He replied briefly to the presentations, but was unable to say much under the circumstances. Two points, however, emerged from all the replies. The one was that he felt that it was the people's respect and veneration for the high and holy office which he had held amongst them for the last twelve years which impelled them to these signs of sympathy and regret. He was sensible at the same time that he had succeeded in some measure in winning their personal affection as well, and he was gratified at the form their expression of it had taken.

The second point which he impressed was that, while he valued the monetary gifts which they had made him, and he would find it very useful to him during his trip abroad, yet more than money and more than its usefulness he valued the kind, the thoughtful and generous spirit of the givers, which lay beyond their gifts. Mr. Maidment and his mother were also the recipients of many personal gifts, both in money and in kind, and the general sympathy and regret which is expressed on all sides because of the necessity of their leaving, has softened the blow and given them great encouragement.

We are authorized to say by Mr. Maidment that no definite arrangements have yet been made in connection with the Mission. He hopes to be able to come back again with renewed health and vigour, and to continue the work of the Mission. This will, of course, depend wholly upon the state of his health, but in any case, even if it is found that he cannot take up the work again, he will not be leaving the Mission definitely until September.—Western Star.

LORD BRADBURY'S WAY.

Lord Bradbury, the financial expert, speaking at Manchester, said that our external debt was much more serious than our internal debt.

He believed the best method to have adopted to get reparations from Germany was that of the Prussians after the Franco-German war (1870-71), and to have fixed a definite indemnity from Germany once and for all and then to have negotiated on the other things to which we were entitled.

In regard to debts owing to us by the Allies, he thought it would be unwise for political and moral reasons to put any immediate pressure upon France.

Vatican to Bank in Great Britain

London, May 13—The Daily Telegraph reports that the Vatican intends to make large financial deposits in Great Britain and that there is keen competition among the banks to secure this business. Before the war the Vatican banked largely in Germany, and it is said to have suffered much loss through the depreciation of the mark.

Mutual Investments Help Men Sleep at Night

THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA has had the benefit of shrewd, far-sighted counsel in the placing of its investments. Government bonds, Municipal bonds and debentures and such securities form a very large proportion of the total investments of the Company. Many of these, purchased during the war period and its aftermath, will yield high interest for long terms to come.

The strength of these selected investments means absolute security for Mutualists. The profitable income they assure lowers the cost of Mutual insurance, because under the Mutual principle, the entire net profits are paid back to policyholders.

Let us send you the Mutual Book which explains in full detail.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

Now let me think, Little Reader, where and how I ended the last story. Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit were following the Fairy Bunny through the forest, weren't they? Of course, they were, as sure as you're a foot high and I'm your Uncle Dave.

Well, pretty soon the Fairy Bunny came to a brook, so over he went on his wings, just like a bird. But, goodness me! The old gentleman rabbit had no wings, neither did the bunny boy. "How are we to follow you?" they both asked in the same breath.

"I forgot you are wingless," answered the Fairy Bunny, turning around at the question. "Let me see," and he wrinkled his pretty forehead, just the way you and I do, Little Reader, when we are worried about something. Just then a big black spider looked out of her web that hung on a fern close to the water's edge. "I'll spin a bridge over the water," she agreed, and at once setting to work, she spun a long cable and tossed it over to the opposite bank, where it clung to a bush. Then running along it, back and forth, I can't remember how many times, she wove and spun one long rope after another until, wonderful to relate, she finished a nice little bridge, over which dear Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit hopped very carefully. Oh, my yes, they were very particular not to cross at the same time nor to hop heavily and clumsily.

When they were safely on the other side, they hopped quickly after the Fairy Bunny, who was now some distance ahead. In a few minutes he stopped beside a little flower, shaped like a cup and as blue as the skies. Peeping in, he gave a shout of joy. "Ha, ha!" he exclaimed, "it's full of Magic Syrup. Have you a little bottle in your knapsack?"

"Let me look," answered Little Jack Rabbit, slipping it off his shoulder atter carefully hanging his red-striped candy cane on a bush near by. "I've found it," he cried gleefully, holding up a tiny bottle with a glass stopper. "One of mother's cologne bottles. Lucky I put it in my knapsack."

"Yes, indeed," replied the Fairy Bunny, carefully bending the stalk to let the Magic Syrup flow into the little cut-glass bottle. "Now, be careful," he cautioned, handing it to the old gentleman bunny. "Take two drops before breakfast, three after lunch and four after supper. Repeat this for three days and then say:

"Magic Syrup, cure my toe; Eny, meeny, miny, mo."

"I won't forget," laughed Uncle

Lucky. "I remember when a boy reciting a little verse that went something like it. Goodness me, though it was years and years ago before a wink at his bunny-nephew, funny Uncle Lucky tucked the little bottle in his pink waistcoat pocket. Then, lifting out his big gold watch, he exclaimed:

"Gracious me, how time does fly; We must be going, you and I," and taking Little Jack Rabbit's paw, he hopped into the next story.

Saved Baby's Life—

For the benefit of mothers we print an extract from a letter received from Mrs. F. Weaver, Military Works, Secunderabad.

"It is with the greatest pleasure and gratefulness that I send you a photograph of my daughter Margaret aged three years . . . From birth she was a weak child and I was unable to breast-feed her, consequently the various changes of milk and foods did her little or no good as she could not digest them, but thanks to "GRIPE WATER" things changed, and I confidently say it saved her life . . . She did not suffer a single day's illness during teething which I attribute to the good effects of Woodward's Gripe Water."

Woodward's Gripe Water is a safe and pleasant remedy, not only for baby's indigestion and teething troubles, but also for the stomach disorders of older children and adults. It is perfectly free from opiates.

The Dangers of the Road

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—In a comparatively recent issue of your interesting and deservedly popular daily appeared an editorial dealing with a matter of the utmost moment to the people of this city.

It had reference to the dangers which beset the wayfarers on our streets and suburban thoroughfares during the summer months, and contained warnings which should be heeded and advice which, if taken to heart, must minimize if not altogether obviate the danger of accidents, which all dread, and necessarily so, because of the unfortunate occurrences of past years.

An article of this kind serves a good purpose because it impresses upon the whole public the necessity for taking the ordinary precautions which common sense dictates to ensure safety.

We are, however, too prone as a people to forget the admonitions tendered in all sincerity for our well being, distracted as we are with our worldly cares as well as pleasures, and now that Spring is merging into Summer (the season when danger is most in evidence), I deem that I may not be unduly taxing your busy columns or tempting your patience, by what might appear to be an unnecessary iteration of a subject already so fully covered by the Telegram. As my object, however, is identical with the worthy one which you also avow, I am encouraged to anticipate your indulgence and hope that before concluding I will advance some suggestions that may further the ideal of every well meaning citizen—the public safety.

There are now in St. John's almost double the number of motor vehicles in evidence last year. If conditions continue as they were, if a warning campaign is not instituted, if the public is not thoroughly aroused to a sense of danger, is it unreasonable to assume that the number of accidents will be doubled also?

The danger to pedestrians in the city is great, but on the suburban roads it is greater, for there the motor driver or a large percentage of the genus lets himself out and "steps on the gas" regardless of anything but speed.

The careful driver may cause an accident, the speed hog will, and to eliminate him I would suggest that the suburbs be patrolled by five or six of the police in mufti, with nothing to indicate their office, and riding fast motor cycles. The eventual universal knowledge of their presence and mission will reduce, I should think, the possibility of accidents to a great degree. Anyhow the unfortunate pedestrian will possess a new sense of security from the knowledge that they are about, although even this should not impel him to relax the care Jones and the Coo-Coo Club, assisted by Dorothy Maskell, Soprano, and Selected Artists.

accidents on such roads a simple rule only is necessary to observe on the part of the pedestrian. Keep to the right. The car or other vehicle coming after the pedestrian will keep to the left, their own side of the road, and must of necessity avoid the walker. The vehicle coming towards the pedestrian though on his (the pedestrian's) side will be seen by him and the driver also, and both can thus easily keep a few paces off and avoid any danger of collision.

People who are keen observers have often said to the writer that the road around Quidi Vili Lake and up the South Side (except on Sundays and Holidays as well as Regatta Day) should be reserved for pedestrians, children's bicycles and small vehicles like pony carts.

I may hope, Sir, that what I have here set forth may emphasize the warning you have already given as to the danger always present on our streets, and if I have unwittingly encroached on your space let the importance of the subject be pollution sufficient for the transgression.

Very sincerely yours,
ALTRUIST.

By Ruth Cameron.

WHY THEY DIDN'T LIKE THE NEW BOY.

A new little boy had come to our neighborhood. He was a bright appearing young fellow, polite and good looking, but I noticed that he did not seem to be much with the other boys, and when I asked my nephew how he liked him, he showed a distinct lack of enthusiasm.

When I inquired further, he was evasive and inarticulate, as children, and especially boys, always are when you ask them about their thoughts and feelings.

But finally I got what I think was the nub of the trouble.

That Instinctive Resentment.

"Oh, yes, he's smart, and nice enough, but he's always showing off. He makes us sick. I wish he'd stop it. He'd be all right if he wouldn't show off so much."

"How instinctive and deep rooted is that dislike of the person who is always showing off. The smallest children feel it. And they never get over it, either."

I think there are few tendencies that parents owe to their children's future, to nip in the bud, more than the tendency to show off unduly.

I say "unduly" because all children (and grown ups too) will show off sometimes under some conditions.

When the new little girl comes to town, the little boy next door will, of course, walk on the high fence rail and jump off the shed roof, and order his little sister around, for her benefit.

Always Playing To The Gallery.

But to be constantly trying to make an impression on someone, to talk and act most of the time with an eye on the gallery, to be always trying to grab the centre of the stage, to be constantly saying and doing things just for effect, are ways that do not endear either the child or the grown up.

Children are tremendously responsive to flattery and attention. They have not the sense of proportion, the experience, to know what often lies behind these attentions, and how easily flattery can become behind-the-back criticism or mimicry. The bait almost always gets them. They show off and perhaps never realize until years later what a show they must have made of themselves.

Years Afterwards She Blushes.

A friend of mine once told me that though she is a middle aged woman, she still sometimes blushes to remember a time when she was led on by some older folks to talk about the books she had read, and to show off in a most disgusting fashion. "I didn't realize until years afterwards what a frightful little fool I made of myself," she said. "I suppose I did the same sort of thing other times but that was the worst. I'm going to teach my children never to show off, if I don't teach them another thing."

Of course grown ups often show off as badly as children, but if they were made to realize in their childhood the bad taste and the inevitable bad impression created by the habit, they would learn to control the instinct more carefully.

Something to Eat Anyhow.—His wife had gone to visit her mother, and had telephoned that she would not be returning until the morning.

When she got back she said to her husband, "You managed to find something to eat last night, didn't you, dear?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, cheerily. "I had the steak that was in the pantry and fried it with some onions I found in the cellar."

"Onions!" she gasped. "Darling, you've eaten my bulbs!"—Tit-Bits (London).

Yain Self-Denial.—A bishop was eating dinner with his host before the afternoon service at which he was to speak. He ate little or nothing, explaining that it was not good for a speaker to eat heavily before a sermon. The housewife could not attend the service, as she had to stay at home and prepare supper. When her husband came home, she said, "Well, how was he?" The husband, drawing a sigh, replied, "He might just as well of 'et."—Christian-Evangelist.

LASTING FRIENDSHIP.

"Well," said I, "in lookin' ground, Thinkin' of the friends I've found And the laughter and the tears That were sprinkled through the years.

All the work I've ever done, And my cares have hurt me none, These old friends so good to know, They've had many a hill to hoe.

"All that's ever been worth while, Every cheerin' word and smile, Every lastin' friendship true, Came from men with work to do; Men with fields to plow and trees They must guard against disease, Earn to build and stock to tend, That's the sort that makes the friend.

"I've known idlers, rich and poor, Followin' pleasure's shinin' lure And I used to think that they Were life's favorites, but to-day Lookin' back I realize Only men who work are wise, And the ones you grow to love Idleness knows little of.

"Not from loafers come your friends, Love on service true depends, Every worth while man you know Wakes at dawn to work to go; Out of toil and out of care Friendship blossoms everywhere, Only men with tasks to do Have it in them to be true."

Prospero Returns From North

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Wesley Kean, returned from the Cook's Hr. route last night, bringing a small freight and the following saloon passengers: Messrs. Curwin, Lewis, Tobin, Noble, Hillier, Parsons, Earle, Master Earle, Rendell, Barry Clarke, Brown, Murphy, Rev. G. Alcock, Woodbridge, Penney, Clouter, Somerton, Lockyer, Coleridge Rev. Belbin, White, Mufford, Hodder; Mesdames Hunt, Cuff and 3 children, Oke, Woodbridge, King, Clifford, Ash, Barnes, Belbin; Misses Purchase, Hunt and Cadet Jones.

The ship made all ports of call on the round trip, and fairly good weather was met with until St. Anthony was reached on the run North. Here the steamer was obliged to butt her way through heavy ice, and this had to be contended with until Cook's Hr. was reached two days later. At Quirpon ice conditions were found even worse, the ship having to butt a channel through heavy standing ice to reach Gullivers wharf. Capt. Kean reports a poor sign of fish along the coast, except at Herring Neck, where fishermen have secured a few barrels daily. At Twillingate the men have done well with salmon. Before the ship left Hampton, thirty families took passage for their homes along the French shore, where a large number of sick people were taken from different points to the Hospital at St. Anthony. The hospital is at present overcrowded, and provision had to be made for a number to be sent to the Social Hall. Mrs. Henry Hunt, who left here last fall to spend the winter at St. Anthony, returned by the steamer in a delicate state of health, and had to be removed from the ship to the ambulance. Captain Kean reports that Ambrose Payne has already reached Bell Isle in his schooner, and the schooner Ping Pong, Capt. Waterman, was at Quirpon, also bound north. The Prospero sails again on Wednesday. Purser Scanlon was obliged to remain at Port Union yesterday, owing to the sudden illness of his mother, and will join the ship later.

Bowring Brothers and Ivory Soap

Perhaps there is no business concern in Newfoundland so well and favorably known as Bowring Brothers and possibly there is no toilet soap so well and favourably known in the country as IVORY SOAP. The two are linked together to-day, for this old and reliable firm, is to-day presenting all its patrons in the grocery department with a complimentary cake of the old and reliable IVORY SOAP. Bowring's have a reputation for stocking only the best there is in merchandise, and it is very natural then that they should choose IVORY as the correct soap to present to their patrons, for IVORY cannot be excelled in purity and general high quality. You are cordially invited to visit Bowring's to-day and receive your complimentary cake of IVORY.—may23.11

Bridge Drive for Worthy Object

At the Star Hall, on Thursday afternoon, a most successful bridge drive was held, under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Hunt and Miss Maggie Furlong. The affair was organized as the beginning of a fund to be raised to help outport women of all denominations to enter the Grace Maternity Hospital. The proceeds amounted to $100.00, which was considered very satisfactory. Lady Allardyce was present and donated the prizes which she graciously presented to the winners. Lady Allardyce remained for afternoon tea, which was served under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Fraser, assisted by Mrs. F. Stirling, Mrs. Holway, Miss Ada Willis, Miss Annie Hayward and Mrs. C. H. Hutchings. The ladies in charge very much appreciate the kindness of the Star R.R. & B. Committee, who gave the hall for the afternoon, free of cost, and also permitted the gas to be used without making any charge for it. Mr. J. Murphy, Vice-President, was present during the afternoon and rendered much valuable assistance. Thursday afternoon's affair is the first of a number of efforts to be made for the same object.

Beaver Skins Brought the Best Prices at Auction in New York Yesterday.

New York, May 13—Active bidding for beaver was the outstanding feature of the second day of the auction of raw furs here. Medium-sized skins sold relatively better than larger ones but the entire collection moved well. Top prices for beaver was $37.75, and general prices averaged 10 per cent. above winter sale level. No comparison was made on the marmot offering, but all other furs sold during the day declined. Best otter brought $32.50. This offering dropped 10 per cent., as did Kollinsky. Best ermine touched $2.84, but the collection was off 15 per cent. from winter sale prices. Squirrel dropped twenty per cent., and nutria was off 15 per cent., although best fetched $6.10.

Mrs. Gordon Lester, Mount Pearl, wishes to announce to the public that she is now prepared to serve Teas and Afternoon Teas. Ten minutes walk from Bowring Park; five minutes walk from Mount Pearl Station. Everything served is home-made.

Radio Owners Complain of Interruptions

Many complaints are made by the owners of radio sets in the city because of interruptions caused by the operator at St. Pierre, Station H.Y.S. It is said that the messages sent out in Morse code from that station are on a 450 metre wave length and in consequence causes considerable interference with local receiving sets, as it is impossible to cut them out. British, American, Canadian and Newfoundland ships, we understand, are prohibited from using a 450 wave length within 250 miles of their coasts and, without desiring to make an international question of the matter, we would suggest the authorities in St. Pierre might be notified of the inconvenience, with a view to ascertaining if it is possible to overcome it.

Forget-Me-Not Day

Arrangements are now being finalized for the annual Forget-me-not Day which is being held this year, on June 30th. The day will be recognized all over the island and it is hoped that a substantial sum will be realized, as the object is a worthy one, mainly to provide funds to help disabled war veterans and their dependents. The city forces of sellers will be under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Fraser, who has in the past so successfully conducted this day.
