MR. W. J. HOLLISTER, of New York, called at this office Thursday. He was anxious to make a deal with us to publish "Pastor" Russell's sermons each week. As Pastor Russell is a pastor for revenue only and his doctrine not at all in keeping with the teaching of the Bible it took us a very few minutes to turn the proposition down, as we consider that many of our readers are sufficiently sceptical without the pastor's teaching.

We learn that the cyclone which visited Regina, Sask., this spring destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McKenzie, formerly of Watford. F. H. is now engaged in a departmental store in the above city. Their daughter, Lela, was reclining on a lounge which she had left to enter another room when the cyclone demolished the wall, the debris falling over the lounge which she left but a few minutes previously. The family fortunately escaped injury.

Saint Swithun and the Rain.

On account of the frequent showers of rain this summer the late lamented Saint Swithun, rightfully or wrongfully has come into vogue, and some people not posted on Saint lore are asking what the deal and gone Saint had to do with the matter.

It seems that some time ago—say in the neighborhood of a thousand years or more—there lived a saint who so loved his wine that, save for the purpose of bathing, he never touched water. This particular person was called Saint Swithun and, to be in style with the rest of his saintly friends, he needs must have a day set aside in which he be honored. This day was the fifteenth of July, and it came to pass on the fifteenth, when our old friend was preparing to celebrate, that it poured like sixty. This made old Saint Swithun peevish, and so as a punishment it rained for forty days. Since then each year that it has rained on the fifteenth, Saint Swithun's day, for forty days after the rain has fallen—sometimes just a sprinkle or two—but it rained. Fate decided that nineteen hundred and twelve was to get her share and so on the fifteenth the water dropped, and with the exception of a few days we have had wet weather, not only for the forty days, but up to the present time. Why the rain did not let up after the expiration of forty days has not been explained, but this being the one thousandth anniversary probably calls for a little extra moisture as penance for the Saint's peevishness.

Mr. Benj. Shelley, porter at the Holwell House, Theford, is confined to his bed suffering from a bad shock and bruise on his hands and face. WATFORD, SEPTEMBER 6, 1912.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

All prosperity, both in the country and in the city, depends largely upon the success of the rural population. Stop and think what your work on the land means to the country. Its importance can scarcely be realized. Stop the plow and the reaper, and what would be the result? Even in years of light crops the outcome is serious enough. A realization of the importance of the calling should stimulate every individual engaged therein to put forth great efforts, should induce others to turn to agriculture as a means of livelihood, and should influence all to make a more thorough and complete study of the agricultural principles which insure success.

Teaching agriculture and the rudiments of English in the country schools is praiseworthy work, but parents should not leave the teaching of morals and manners to the overworked schoolmistress. These should be taught at home, and the instruction should begin early, for it is absolutely true that as “the twig is bent the tree's inclined.” Many brilliant men and women have had cause to regret the carelessness in speech and deportment in the home in their tender years; and many youths and maidens, surprised into sin, have had cause for lasting regret that they were not sufficiently fortified in their early days against the insidious pitfalls of life.

Nothing is better calculated to ruin a small boy than for him to have two homes, to either of which he is permitted to go at will. If mother reproves or chastizes him for his naughtiness, he takes his hat and goes over to grandma's or auntie's house. There he is received, cajoled, petted and permitted to remain for a day or two or perhaps a week. Then, because of some overt act, he is reproved and he picks up his hat and goes off home where he is kindly received and no reference made to his former misconduct. In this way he is permitted to oscillate between two homes, all the time developing his disregard of the restraints of rightful authority. Trained in this way, he grows up self-willed, has no regards for the rights or wishes of others and unless some remarkable freak of grace interposes to check his wild career, he is pretty certain to land in the penitentiary.

Great Cost of Weeds.

(Guelph Herald.)
Prof. Thomas Shaw, a Canadian who is in Dakota, and formerly professor of agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, estimates that the farmers of that state lose from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 annually because of weeds in their grain fields. A drive through the country around Guelph will show that in Ontario, too, there must be a heavy loss from this cause. One farmer stated, when the amount of mustard in his field was shown to him, that it was useless for him to pull it out, as he was formerly in the habit of doing, because his neighbors allowed theirs to remain, and his field was re-seeded with a new crop for the next year. Combined effort is needed before weeds can be reduced to a minimum.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Break Up the Old Pastures.

This is a bit of advice which farmers in general would do well to follow. Some of our most troublesome pests find their breeding places in land that has been left for some years under grass. Wire worms and white grubs, which are often-times very destructive to crops of all kinds increase and multiply in such places where they feed upon the roots of the grass. Wire worms in their adult stage are known as Click Beetles, oblong, dull-colored creatures. White grubs turn into what are commonly called June bugs or May beetles. These worms take from two to three years to grow to maturity and during that long period they feed upon roots and are out of sight and out of reach. There is a popular idea that salt will kill these creatures and the question is often asked, “How much salt should be used per acre?” Like many other popular superstitions, there is nothing whatever in this material for the purpose. Enough salt to affect the grubs would completely prevent the growth of any vegetation and it is doubtful if any amount whatever will kill the insects. Many other substances have been tried but so far without success. The remedy is, therefore, to break up the breeding places. This should be done by plowing up the grass fields deeply late in the fall in order to expose the grubs and their winter quarters to the frost and rain, and also to the various animals and birds which feed upon them. The safest crop to grow during the first year is peas. After that a hoed crop, preferably turnips, would be the safest; after the second year there will probably be no grubs left. During the first year any that there are in the ground would feed upon the sod that had been plowed under and would let the growing crop pretty well alone. To grow corn, grain, potatoes or mangels at the outset would be very risky indeed. Besides these two insects, old pasture lands, especially where the soil is dry, are productive breeding-places for grasshoppers which spread from these fields to crops. In the Southern Counties of Ontario bordering on Lake Erie, there is another serious pest which also breeds in old pastures where the soil is light or sandy. This is known as the Rose Chafer. The beetle appears usually in great swarms about the time the roses come into bloom and devours, not only these flowers, but all sorts of others that may be growing in the garden. The worst damage it does is to the blossoms and young fruit of grape vines, of which it is particularly fond. These four serious pests, which are extremely difficult to control, may be greatly reduced in numbers, if not got rid of altogether, by a short rotation of crops and especially by keeping pastures not more than three years under grass.—C. J. S. Bethune, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Loynes—Thompson.

A very interesting event took place at Woodstock on Tuesday, Aug. 19th, when Miss Rosellia M. Thompson became the bride of Mr. G. J. Loynes, Manager of the Northern Crown Bank, of Luwood. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Thompson, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Loynes left on the noon train from Woodstock for Sarnia where they will start on a trip up the lakes.

Nineteen Below Zero on 15th of June.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—Prof. Herschel Parker of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Belmore Brown, of Tacoma, who came within three hundred feet of reaching the summit of Mount McKinley last June, returned from Alaska late last night. Prof. Parker and Mr. Browne left Seward February 2nd, reaching the foot of Mount McKinley April 25th. In June an altitude of 20,100 feet was reached. There, with only three days' provisions left, they were unable to withstand the terrible cold, and gave up their hope of reaching the summit.

Prof. Parker, in explaining the severe cold on the mountain, said that at a height of 15,000 feet on June 15th it was nineteen degrees below zero.
“I found that pemican, the special food used by Arctic explorers and made of beef tallow and raisins, is of no value at the high altitudes,” said Prof. Parker.
“We were soon afflicted with severe cases of indigestion, as the food was too heavy and we were unable to use a large part of our rations. About the coldest weather we experienced was at an altitude of 13,000 feet when the temperature fell to twenty-six degrees below zero.”
Both Prof. Parker and Mr. Browne said they had made their last attempt to reach the top of Mount McKinley.

It has been computed that for every 10 messages sent by first-class mail 15 go by telephone.

Prescott, Ont., Aug. 29.—A month ago Miss Nellie Theresa Carroll accidentally drenched William Joseph Coress, while she was spraying the front lawn of her home. She apologized very prettily and a mutual friend passing, the two were introduced to one another. A week later their engagement was announced and yesterday they were married at St. Mary's Church, Dundalk, N.Y.

FOR TIN WEDDING.

There Need Be No Monotony In Gifts For This Anniversary.

NEW INDIVIDUAL MOLDS.

Of Delightfully Shaped Cake Tins There Are No End This Season—They Come In Sheets Containing a Dozen and a Half For Fancy Cakes.

A young matron went shopping recently to find something for a tin wedding present and at the tinsmith's she was confronted with such an assortment of dessert molds and molds of all sorts, shapes and sizes that she is still talking about them. She was so fascinated with the molds that she has invested in a supply for herself.

The large molds for fish mousse now have small individual fish shaped tins to match. A most pleasing effect can be obtained by arranging the small molds of jellied fish around the larger fish on a large oval platter. Ring molds are always a valuable acquisition to one's kitchen, as they are made to hold one or more quarts and used for the concoction of artistic dishes, such as macaroni paste, rice mold, aspic meats, cornstarch puddings or cranberry jelly.

KITCHEN CABINET FOR YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.

For frozen desserts there are all tight molds in all kinds and shapes, and these are necessary for things needing to be packed in salt and ice. Among the very newest molds are hollow affairs in cone or pyramidal shapes, like irregular peaks. Other molds turn out wonderful desserts resembling bunches of flowers and fruits. There is a pronounced revival of the huge molds for frozen desserts, like the old time monumental affairs used by our grandmothers. No doubt some of these curious old metal molds are stored away in pantries and cellars. If so they should be brought out and put to use.

The gift chosen for this particular tin wedding was a dozen individual molds, so pretty for Spanish cream or other frozen cream desserts. The dozen included three hearts and the same number of diamonds, spades and clubs, particularly suitable to use for card party refreshments. These attractive little molds come in many other fascinating shapes, such as shells, stars and bunches of cherries or grapes.

Of cake tins the shopper found a bewildering assortment. They come in sheets containing a dozen or a half dozen, for the most decorative little fancy cakes for afternoon tea, children's parties and special occasions. Among these are beasts, birds, dolls, etc.

No gift appeals more to the young housekeeper than the conveniently equipped cabinet seen in the cut. Nothing seems to be omitted, from clock and scales on top to a casserole and baking pans and measuring cups in the cupboard under the mixing board. The stationary flour sifter is particularly handy, and the best thing about the cabinet is that everything tucks out of sight and the doors close at the day's end on all the culinary implements of the day's work.

Ribbon Trimmed Hats.

Dame Fashion shows many signs of remaining faithful to the warm affection which she showed last season for ribbon trimmings of every sort and kind, and it is now a foregone conclusion that some of the smartest and most effective hats for late spring and early summer will be adorned with giant bows of ribbon and tied with long ribbon strings and streamers. A special advantage is that it is practically weather proof.

In other instances flowers and ribbons are very successfully grouped together with an effect which is altogether admirable. Yet another excellent result is brought about by the use of those flowered chine ribbons which are patterned with large clusters of roses in brilliant colors, surrounded by very natural looking foliage in soft shades of green grouped on an ivory white ground.

"FEEBLE STOMACH"

Causes Digestive Weakness and Poisons the Entire System.

"No one can have suffered more than I did with stomach trouble," writes Phil. E. Pascalet, well known at St. Andrews Corners. "My doctor told me my indigestion and sleeplessness were due to poisons in the blood. Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes from the druggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet quite strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. My stomach gained strength rapidly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I improved so much that in eight weeks I could eat and digest all ordinary food. Depression and weariness passed away and I am, thanks to Dr. Hamilton's Pills, enjoying robust good health."

No remedy for biliousness, indigestion, headache, sick stomach, or constipation that compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse substitutes. Sold in 25c. boxes. All dealers, or The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

What kind of a silo will yours be?

Wood—or Concrete?

If you were to build two silos—one of wood, the other of concrete—side by side, and then could see them as they will look after five years of service, you wouldn't have to think twice to decide which is the best material. In a few years more there wouldn't be much of the original wooden silo left—the repairing you'd have to do would be as troublesome and cost as much as the building of an entirely new one. But the passage of five, ten, fifteen or even twenty years will make no difference to the hard-as-rock wall of the concrete silo.

CONCRETE SILOS LAST FOREVER

WIND, rain, fire and lightning are alike defied by concrete. You need no insurance against its destruction, because it cannot be destroyed. Concrete silos are best for another reason. The concrete keeps the ensilage at an even temperature, so that it "cures" better, and therefore contains more food-value for your stock.

YOU CAN BUILD ONE YOURSELF

No matter whether you have ever used concrete or not, you can build a concrete silo. Our book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," gives all the information you will need, not only about silos, but about scores of other uses for concrete on the farm. It isn't a catalogue, nor an advertising circular. A handsome book of 160 pages, well illustrated, and written for farmers. It is free. Just send your name and address on a postcard or in a letter and the book will be sent free by return mail.

WATFORD, SEPTEMBER 6, 1912.

Destructive Cyclone East of London.

Ingersoll, Sept. 1.—A small section of Dereham township was swept by a destructive cyclone early this afternoon, buildings, trees and fences being blown down and heavy property loss entailed. The path of the cyclone was comparatively narrow, but practically everything in its path went down. The wind accompanied a terrific downpour of rain.

At Zenda, ten miles southeast of here, the end of a large shed in connection with the Methodist church was blown in, and several buggies so badly damaged that it was impossible to use them. The damage to the building is considerable, but had it been struck sidewise it undoubtedly would have been totally destroyed.

On the first concession of Dereham the wind played havoc on the farm of Mr. William Hughes. A large barn was torn to pieces as easily as if it had been constructed of paper, even the foundation being laid in ruins. A small orchard on the same farm was also destroyed. Here the effect of the wind was strikingly peculiar, it being described as a "twister." As it encountered the trees they seemed to revolve, and were then literally picked out by the roots and carried away. Not one was left standing.

Across the road from the Hughes farm Mr. James Wilford had an entire field of oats carried away. The wind struck the grain, which was in shock, after the manner it swept over the adjoining orchard, and the entire crop was scattered in such a way as to be a total loss.

At Falden's Corners, West Oxford, a valuable span of horses on the farm of Mr. J. G. Clifton were killed by lightning. They were both struck, one of them having nearly all its hair burnt off. Mr. Clifton's silo was also struck. Further to the east, in the vicinity of Sweborg, a windmill on the farm of Mr. Geo. Wiseman was blown down. Throughout the section many silos were blown down, and the storm is conceded to be the worst that has ever been experienced here.

CHOP STUFF.

Mr. McCordie, principal of the Forest public school, has resigned and is now teaching in Sarnia.

Henry Payne, hostler, Forest, was crushed to death beneath a wagon, the team he was driving becoming frightened.

The Strathroy Daughters of the Empire will have a tag day at the Strathroy Fair in aid of the proposed hospital.

Geo. Greenough has sold his residence property on Main St., Forest, now occupied by O. Dew to Dan. McIntyre for $800. Mr. Greenough bought L. Coleman's residence property on Main St., for $1,000.

The ratepayers of Tilbury, by a vote of 171 to 5, carried a by-law to grant a loan of $5,000, repayable in ten years, without interest, to the Imperial Rubber Company, to assist in building a factory to manufacture rubberized cloth.

During the severe electrical storm which passed over Zorra early Monday morning, lightning struck the barn on John Todd's farm and the structure was entirely consumed by fire together with the season's crop and some of the live stock.

Sarnia, Aug. 30.—During one of the amusement acts at the fair Friday afternoon a number of people crowded on to a platform to watch a strong man perform. Suddenly, the structure gave way and in the mix-up Mrs. Fletcher, of Point Edward, had her leg broken.

Miss Charlotte Edwards, of Mooreville, was found dead in her bed on Saturday morning. The deceased who lived alone had been dead some days before the body was found, heart failure was supposed to have caused her death. The remains were interred in Nursery Cemetery.

The tangle over the Sarnia waterworks has at last been straightened out, and at Friday night's special meeting of the council it was decided, by a vote of 10 to 7, to install a system which will be operated by steam. It is believed that this will be more reliable in every way than an electrically operated plant.

Kingsville ratepayers will vote on a by-law to raise by way of loan the sum of $10,000 to meet the present indebtedness of the corporation incurred for various permanent improvements to streets, bridges, waterworks system and plant, to erect a pavilion for public use and convenience on the town park, and to further improve the park.

The Council of Tilbury East Township has received word from the Provincial Analyst that the dog which bit two children of A. Bennie, of Leamington, while at the home of Township Clerk Farquharson, was mad, and the Council has ordered that all dogs be chained or shot. The children were sent to Toronto for treatment.

A very important deal in apples was put through recently when J. G. Anderson, M.P.P., purchased from the Nor-

MISS MARION L. FRANKLIN,
Star of the Franklin Stock Co.

ON Saturday evening next at the Lyceum, Miss Marion L. Franklin with Mr. Edwin Weaver and a supporting cast of ten first-class artists, will place before the public the sparkling farce-comedy "A Boy Wanted," which will be presented with special scenery that the company carries with it. This Company plays three nights this week in Petrolia and only comes to Watford to fill in a spare date between engagements in larger places. The company is spoken of as being first-class in every particular and those who patronize this entertainment are promised a clean and laughable show. Prices 25 and 35c. Don't miss it.

folk Fruit-growers' Association, through J. E. Johnston, of Simcoe, Ont., their entire pack estimated to run between forty and fifty thousand barrels, and is considered to be the fanciest lot of apples grown in Canada. They are intended for both export and western markets.

The Oil Springs Advance records the death of Doon, Ont., on July 1st, of Mrs. Marshall in the 90th year of her age. The deceased was mother of Mr. James Marshall, of Corley, Alberta, who was a well-known resident of Watford 30 years ago, having been engaged in the tinsmith business there and afterwards conducted a similar business in Oil Springs, and later resided in Petrolia. He removed to Alberta last summer.

The Ridgeway Dominion says:—Robert Buller is in Aldborough this week purchasing more land for the British syndicate. It is said that Mr. Buller has already purchased over 11,000 acres of land in that township, mostly in one block. The land will be cut up into small farms for truck gardening and fruit. There are about 75,000 in Aldborough all told, so Mr. Buller has secured over one-seventh of the total area.

Henry Beer, a highly respected resident of Forest, passed peacefully away on Sunday in his 83rd year. Deceased, who was a resident of the town for several years, farmed successfully in Bossanquet township prior to retiring. The funeral took place Tuesday, from his late residence, McNabb street, to the Ravenswood cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. Thomas. The pallbearers were Messrs. Caleb Rawlings, Herbert Rawlings, Fred Lapham, H. Ford, J. Clemens and Caleb Travis.

A fatality from drowning was happily averted at Grand Bend on Sunday afternoon. Several of the campers occupied the pier enjoying the lake breeze after the sweltering day. Little Boise Griffithson of Mr. O. A. Griffith, separated from those sitting on the south side of the pier and lay down on the narrow ledge on the north side. He either fell asleep or became dizzy and rolled off into the lake which is over five feet deep. His absence was not noticed until two boys walking along the pier saw him lying on the bottom with his arms extended and cried out, "There's somebody drowning here." Roy Clinger, of London, who has been camping with his parents in their cottage, Rufan-Redy, plunged in and brought Boise to the surface. Mr. Clinger, who has been connected with the Y. M. C. A. rescue class of London applied restorative measures and with the help of a physician, who was near at hand, Boise was brought to. He is now none the worse of his sudden dip and close call.

John A. McVicar, an old Lobo boy, died at Buffalo last week aged 47 years.

Three men arrested at Amherstburg early on Saturday morning for looting two drill socks made their escape from the town lock-up between midnight and 5 o'clock Monday morning. The building in which the lock-up, is situated is moss-grown and ancient; there is no one on duty there after six o'clock in the evening. The robbers, who are from the American side, had no difficulty in gaining their freedom. They simply removed bricks one by one, piled them neatly to one side, and when a hole of sufficient size had been made in the wall they walked out free men.

DARK ROOM TESTING

Every child on reaching the age of seven years should have the eyes examined. Many children have defective vision, and it often happens that one eye only is affected. This throws all the work on the better eye while the other through disuse frequently loses its function entirely. With proper lense correction this trouble will be wholly overcome. If accompanied by parents we will be glad to examine children's eyes free of charge.

The annual car shortage, which is just beginning to be felt, will be more severe this winter, than ever before. With the increasing volume of traffic in all lines of business, which will directly follow a bumper harvest, and COAL SHIPMENTS sixty days behind time, the railroads anticipate that after October 1st conditions will be as acute as to seriously cripple business. The shortage will be 150,000 cars.

Equipment and Maintenance of Telephones.

A pamphlet is being distributed from the press of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario containing extracts from a report on the independent telephone systems of Ontario and containing also an article written by the Board's telephone adviser, Mr. Francis Dagger, on the subject of "Municipal ownership of rural telephone systems." In this article some interesting information is given on the working of the new telephone act and some figures of the cost of installation and operation of a number of municipal telephone systems in different parts of the province.
In the following table compiled from this report A represents the number of subscribers in the different companies named, column B the original cost of the system per subscriber, column C the annual assessment to subscribers for 10 years in repayment of the cost of the system with interest at 5 per cent., and column D the annual payment by subscribers for cost of operation.

†For five years, plus each payment of $15.00.
‡Do not own central switchboard and pay Bell Co. for switching.
§Pay Bell Co. for switching half system.

It is pointed out that the payments under B cease at the end of ten years, the original debt being wiped out. It must not, however, be understood that at the termination of this period subscribers will obtain service at the figures given at the article under heading D as provision will then be made for such construction and renewals of plant as may from time to time be rendered necessary by depreciation and obsolescence. The cost of this provision will have to be assessed against the subscribers, in addition to the amounts now paid for operation and ordinary maintenance. What the actual amount of such an assessment would be depends very much upon the quality of the equipment and the manner of its construction when the system was first built. For this reason it is important that municipal systems be well constructed and only the best equipment adopted in the first place, as a badly-constructed system, with inferior, because cheap, equipment, may require almost total replacement at the end of ten years, which would necessitate the continuance of an assessment nearly approaching the figures in column C.

With a properly engineered and well built system, using high-grade equipment, a yearly amount not exceeding half the original assessment should be ample to take care of all necessary repairs and reconstruction. Assuming this to be so, in a system such as Chingacousy, the subscribers of which will pay $9 in repayment of principal and interest, plus $3 cost of operation, would at the end of ten years pay $4.50 plus $3, or $7.50 per annum, instead of $12 as at present. In considering this matter there is, however, another element to be considered, which is that the Act provides for additional subscribers paying the same assessment as the original subscribers who shared the cost of building the main pole leads and of equipping a central office to accommodate many more telephones than were installed at the start. It will be apparent that the cost of connecting additional subscribers using the same central office equipment and pole leads which have already been paid for by the original subscribers, is very much less than the amount paid by these original subscribers. This difference is available by the municipality as a reserve fund to be expended on maintenance, re-construction and extensions, and it is within the range of possibility that by the end of ten years this fund may have reached a proportion which would considerably reduce the amount to be assessed against subscribers on account of depreciation or obsolescence.—Electrical News.

A Son of the Samurai
A Lesson From the East to the West
By CLARISSA MACKIE

Mr. Briscoe, though he would only have a Japanese servant, was not always good tempered. Something was wrong with his dinner, and it irritated him. Picking up a plate, he threw it at his cook.
Tado Hashojuri dodged Briscoe's carefully aimed plate, and the china crashed against the opposite wall, and the fragments tinkled to the floor.
"Mr. Briscoe is not satisfied with the dinner I have so carefully prepared," remarked the Japanese as he brought another plate and set it down before his master.
Ned Briscoe glared in astonishment at the oriental who had taken his reproof so calmly, or was it contempt in the oblique black eyes bent upon him?
Briscoe knew he had not acted like a gentleman, and it made him angry because he knew the reason why—the wine he had drunk exerted its usual quarrelsome effect upon him. If he was with friends when he took liquor in any form he was minus one friend when the next day dawned. When he dined alone it was the waiter, and when at home in his own apartment it was Tado, his cook, valet and general factotum, who bore the brunt.
"Huh," muttered Ned sulkily as Tado brought in a delicious salad. It was made of nuts and white grapes and was Briscoe's special favorite. He trifled with it and refused anything more except a cup of black coffee. This he quaffed in two gulps and left the room.
He would have been angry if any one had told him it made him feel ashamed to see the imperturbable countenance of his cook staring at him.
"It's awful to be a cad and not be able to help it," groaned Ned as he

"Ah, my old friend, Mr. Briscoe" throw himself on the couch in his den. "I wonder what's the matter with me anyway?" Somehow the answer rang in his ears almost as if some one had heard his query and replied to it.
"Too much money, too little energy and perseverance, too lazy, too fond of pleasure, no sense of obligation to his fellow men or his country." Ned Briscoe knew it all and despised himself for it.
"What's the use of having money if I can't get some fun out of it?" he grumbled weakly, and that was always the way his conscience was driven into the background.
In the kitchen Tado Hashojuri was frowning over the fragments of the shattered plate. It had been a long time since Mr. Briscoe had thrown the companion plate at his cook, valet, etc., and the memory of the first insult had grown dim. Now it was revived as the sensitive Japanese gazed upon the porcelain.
"Wait, wait, wait! Some day I must teach this scallawag how gentlemen should be treated even in kitchens when much drink is full of wine," muttered Tado, with sudden incoherent rags bubbling over. He flung the fragments of the plate at his gas range, and there was another tinkling crash. He smiled with satisfaction. It had relieved his tension. Now he understood why Mr. Briscoe threw plates at him, but it did not remove the sting of indignation.
One day three months later Tado Hashojuri received a letter from his home in Japan, and straightway he packed his cheap American trunk, cleaned Briscoe's apartment from end to end, served a delicious dinner and at its close laid the key to the refrigerator at his master's elbow.

"I leave" with much dissatisfaction all around," bobbed Tado solemnly.
"Huh?" demanded Briscoe, who was drinking nothing but water now.
"I go tonight after dishes are washed. I am needed at home," patiently explained Tado.
"Oh, well; why didn't you give me notice?" demanded Briscoe indignantly, and as the Japanese made no reply he continued, "I don't see that I am compelled to pay you wages when you are leaving me without notice."
Tado's eyes narrowed, but he only shrugged his narrow shoulders and turned away.
"Here!" thundered Briscoe, and tossed a yellow back upon the table.
"Thanks," returned Tado laconically.
"Where do you live?" asked Briscoe, not as if he cared a hang whether his erstwhile servant lived or died.
"Tokyo, sir, Mr. Briscoe."
"I may be in Japan myself next winter. If you will give me your address, Tado, I'll look you up if I need a valet," remarked Briscoe patronizingly.
"Mr. Briscoe is most too kind," murmured Tado, with a smile in his eyes. He took from his pocket a neat white card inscribed with a few characters in Japanese.
"Most anybody can direct the honorable foreigner," he hinted and so faded from the room, only to appear at intervals during the meal, and when morning dawned he appeared not at all, and Briscoe ate at his club.

The idea of a trip to Japan appealed to Briscoe's jaded sense of enjoyment. He had never visited the orient, and it was only a few months after his valet's departure that Ned Briscoe found himself crossing the Pacific to Nippon's fairy islands.
He had been in Tokyo three weeks and had quite exhausted all the gayeties in the foreign quarter before he thought of Tado Hashojuri. Then it happened that he came across the neat card among the folds of his wallet.
"I've missed the services of a man," mused Briscoe, turning the paper over in his hands. "Suppose I look him up. Very likely he will be glad of a job with me. No one could shave me like Tado."
After a leisurely breakfast Briscoe called a ricksha man and gave him Tado's card.
"Take me to that place," he said, getting into the vehicle.
The man stared at the easy going American, and an added respect came into his voice and manner as he lifted the shafts and started down the long street that lifted into a hill in the distance.
It was an hour's ride at the swift trot, and the man between the shafts seemed tired. Ned Briscoe felt rather bored at first, but presently the beauty of the suburban landscape and the manifestations of tireless industry as exhibited by the tiny farms scattered everywhere and yielding produce from every inch of soil set him to thinking.
He could see that each of the peasants bent above his daily toll was doing some share in the work of the universe. Soldiers' drilling barracks showed him where one might serve his country. All about him were tense, purposeful faces. He thought of the bored reflection that had met his own face in the mirror that morning.
Now they were passing beautiful country estates, and over high hedges he caught glimpses of gardens laid out in miniature reproductions of nature's wildest fancies.
Now the thought of Tado occurred to him.
"By Jove, he must be working out in one of these places!" he thought uneasily.
Nevertheless he said nothing, and when his ricksha finally turned into a gateway flanked by great stone lanterns he would not have been surprised if he had been whisked around to the kitchen entrance.
Instead of that, the vehicle drew up under the formal portico of a handsome dwelling, and an obsequious maidervent pushed back the paper door and invited him to enter the reception room.
Briscoe removed his shoes and thrust his feet into the straw slippers waiting in the veranda and followed the servant into the reception room. Here he waited while his card was carried to his lae cook. He had hesitated about this ceremony. He had asked for Tado Hashojuri, and the maid had nodded and smiled and disappeared.
Presently she appeared and beckoned him to an inner guest room. Here the light was dimmer, but there was little Tado Hashojuri standing attired in rich robes with a queer smile on his lips and an added dignity in his manner. He was talking to the American minister, whom Briscoe knew very well.
"Ah, my old friend, Mr. Briscoe," murmured Tado in his halting English and with a flash of white teeth at the newcomer. "Welcome to Nippon!"
"Thank you—much obliged, I'm sure," stammered Briscoe, quite taken aback by the evident prosperity of his late servant.
"If I may have one word with the honon—you will excuse us, Mr. Briscoe?" asked the American minister.

and as Tado accompanied the diplomat to the door Ned Briscoe had time to do a little more thinking before his host returned.
"Well, Baron Tado," said Ned when Hashojuri returned to the room, "it seems I've been putting my foot in it all along. Please explain."
Tado did. He said he had gone to America to study the country and its people. Suddenly his father had died, and he had to return to Japan as the head of his house.
"I was much anger," he said politely, "at some plate episodes in our experience, and I think maybe when you come to Nippon I might revenge my honor for I am the son of a samurai, Mr. Briscoe, and pass not insults! But when I returned to my own country, what I left behind, insults and all, seemed small and mean beside the great questions of war and one's country and life and death. So I forgot—and am your very good friend!" He held out his hand, and Briscoe was glad to clasp it.
Strange to relate, it was through the man who had one time been his valet and cook that Ned Briscoe reached a realization that he, too, had a country to serve in some capacity and that his wealth had been given him to use widely. In the case of Ned Briscoe it was an occasion when the east taught another lesson to the west.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid rising in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Fierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. Auto Burned on Main Road.

A handsome $6,000 touring car, occupied by three men from Buffalo, while passing along the London road, opposite the home of Mr. Chas. Stewart, jun., caught on fire in some unknown manner from underneath.

Before it could be stopped, the draught from its own motion fanned the flames to such a fury that parts of the framework were red hot, and when they reached the gasoline there was such a rush of fire that the occupants of the car had barely time to save themselves by jumping.

The car burned so rapidly that in a few minutes nothing was left but the engine and steel frame. All that was saved was a spare tire, which one of the men grabbed as he jumped.

The autoists proved themselves cheerful losers by smilingly watching their car "go up in smoke," and gave Mr. Stewart a five-dollar bill to pull the remains off the road, went to the nearest phone and called for a car from Sarnia, which came promptly, and they proceeded on their journey.

Richest Dog in the World.

The richest dog in the world is said to be Billy, who belongs to a mining magnate at Nome. His dogs, of whom he has several, are fed on the best the market affords, and sleep at night on beds furnished with mattresses. His favorite and inseparable companion is a large dog known as "Billy." On one occasion he was piloting his master and a companion to their cabin in the mountains. The companion was confident that the dog was misleading them, and, kicking the intelligent brute, struck out in an opposite direction. The master, though equally bewildered, trusted to his dumb and faithful guide, who soon led him to his cabin, whereupon, having seen his master safe and comfortable, the sagacious animal set off and rescued the man who had kicked him. So grateful was he that, according to the Rev. L. L. Woods, writing to Our Dumb Animals, that he presented "Billy" with a collar studded with gold and opened a banking account in his name, which will only be disturbed to give him an honored burial.

Proof Positive.

John D. Crimmins was praising the good that Irish stock had worked in America.

"The proof of this good," said Mr. Crimmins with a smile, "is as strong as the proof of Dawson's marriage."

"A man, you know, asked another man if Dawson was a benedict or a bachelor."

"Well," was the reply, "I don't know Dawson, so I can't say positively, but last Sunday morning I saw him pushing a baby carriage, with two women on either side of him, and, as I passed, the younger woman said: 'You brute, you've been like that twice this week—you can't deny it!' And then the older woman, who looked like the younger one's mother, exclaimed, 'Lizzie, if you don't make him put another thousand on his life before his liver's altogether gone, you're a bigger fool than I took you for!'"

Young Jack Thayer.

The striking heroism of little Jack Thayer, one of the Titanic survivors, was related by Dr. Arthur J. Smith as an inspiration to the young people of the churches to do valiant deeds during the summer in open air and tent work.

"Little Jack," he said, "when his mother was put in one of the lifeboats, refused to go with her. He told them he would stay with his father and let the women be saved. No persuasion could induce him to go in the boat. Clasp his father's hand, he was seen awaiting the sinking of the ship."

He was found unconscious in the water by one of the lifeboats and awoke in his mother's arms. The first thing he said as he opened his eyes, looking at his mother, and then at the others about, was this:

"I stayed until the last, mamma; I tried to be a man."

Nothing Pure.

Four flies, which had made their way into a certain pantry, determined to have a feast.

One flew to the sugar and ate heartily; but soon died, for the sugar was full of white lead.

The second chose the flour as his diet, but he fared no better, for the flour was loaded up with plaster of paris.

The third sampled the syrup, but his six legs were presently raised in the air, for the syrup was colored with aniline dyes.

The fourth fly, seeing all his friends dead, determined to end his life also, and drank deeply of the fly-poison.

That, too, was adulterated. He is still alive and in good health.

He that layeth up vengeance for his enemy setteth a snare for his own soul.

FRUIT SALADS.

Delicious Entrees to Serve at the Time of the Year.

Cherry Salad.—Drain a can of cherries, the large cherries preferred; remove the stones and fill the cavities with cream cheese which has been mixed to a smooth paste and slightly seasoned. Serve on lettuce leaves, using a sufficient number to make a little nest, and garnish with mayonnaise dressing.

Orange Salad.—Take five thin skinned sour oranges and cut in very thin slices, then into quarters. Mix one-third of a cupful of olive oil, one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of lemon juice and vinegar, one-third teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of mustard and a dash of paprika. Marinate the fruit with this mixture and serve on a bed of watercress.

Fruit Salad.—Peel two oranges and remove the pulp separately from each section. Peel three bananas and cut in one-fourth inch slices; remove the seeds and skins from one-half pound of malaga grapes. Break into pieces the meat of fifteen English walnuts. Mix all together and serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

With Fruit and Nuts.—Cut into pieces a few bits of cheese, then chop six or eight olives. Break some English walnuts into suitable pieces. Then remove the skins and seeds from a bunch of white grapes; also slice a banana and an orange, adding to the mixture several sweet pickles cut thin. Mix all lightly, adding a little mayonnaise and serve in apple shells decorated with artificial leaves. For the apples select the prettiest of red ones, polish brightly and scoop out, reserving the top to replace and form a cup.

Fruit Cocktails.—Mix one-third of a cupful of shredded pineapple with one-half cupful of sliced orange pulp and bananas and one cupful of strawberries. Pour over the mixture a third of a cupful of melted currant jelly, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a half cupful of sugar, the jelly and sugar being heated and the lemon juice added. Chill thoroughly and serve in glasses, reserving a strawberry for the top of each glass.

Work is a human service. It is a mutual giving, receiving and concession. It is better for a man to earn than to inherit. Work is a producer, a maker, a builder. It creates wealth and should share it. It supplies your needs, attends to your comforts, adds to your happiness. Work is an ever-moving force, propelling the great wheels of progress upon the highway to prosperity.

It's but seventy-two years since the first photographic portrait was made in America—a picture of Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper—made by her brother, Professor John William Draper, of the University of the City of New York. It took an exposure of five minutes in the full glare of the noon day sun.

To-day it takes but a fraction of a second, even in the softly modulated light of a studio. Clever photographers and fast plates and lenses have made having your picture taken a rather pleasant experience these days.

Hay Fever.

Hay fever now romps merrily upon the scene and commands the services of the orchestra.

Hay fever is an imaginary complaint to those who do not have it. It is more than a complaint however—it is a habit. Once it fastens its hold upon its victim, it does not let go until old age steps in and makes a red nose and watery eyes of no further importance.

At this time of the year many railway and steamship companies subsidize entirely upon the receipts from hay fever people who are travelling in search of relief.

A confirmed hay feverite enjoys his affliction greatly, because it is one of the few diseases the symptoms of which may be released over and over to listeners who know the story backward.

Hay fever is not a common trouble. It is not something which may be secured by everybody. It selects its people. The richest man in the world cannot buy hay fever, and the poorest man cannot dodge it if it starts for him.

Gillis Munro's blood mare died the other day at his place, Bosanquet. She was 23 years of age, and was the dam of Black Diamond, who had a mark of 2.08.

James Edgecombe, formerly of Strathroy, died in Hamilton recently. It is said that he was the first man in Canada to place canned goods on the market.
