Indications Are That Germans Will Press Northward to Chosen Battle Line.

Whether as a result of weariness after the two weeks of incessant fighting or because of the greatly increased strength in man-power and positions of the enemy forces before them, the allied armies on the Scissons-Rheims front have noticeably decreased their efforts to clear the salient of Ger-

If the pause in the offensive is attributable to weariness, the armies of the German Crown Frince also must be worn out by the pressure they have been under for the fortnight, for, notwithstanding the fact that huge reinforcements were sent to their in their hour of dire peril, they have lacked the hardiness to endeavor to throw bac: their antagonists, and recoup

The fourteenth day of the great allied offensive, which resulted in driving back the Germans from the Marne region northward across the Ourcq River and in materially bending in the east-ern and western side of the great pocket with its mouth running cross-country 36 miles from Soissons to lheims, saw little activity on the part of either of the contending forces-except in the nature of reciprocal bomefforts were entirely fruitless.

A watchful eye is being kept by the Germans on the Americans standing at the apex of the battle line near Fere-en-Tardenois, and the enemy guns are showering their positions with great quantities of high explo-sives and gas shells. The enemy also jealously to guard with huge effectives the extreme eastern vestern flanks of the salient to ward off possible surprise attacks. May Retreat Further.

The latest Berlin official communi cation asserts that more than 4000 prisoners have been taken by the Germans in the past few days and that since July 15 in excess of 24,000 allied troops have been captured.

Liege Was Heavily Punished For Celebrating Allies' Success

London, July 31.-The Maastricht newspaper, Les Nouvelles, says the inhabitants of Liege, Belgium, held an enthusiastic public demonstration over the success of the entente offensive on the Marne salient, during which the Marseillaise was sung. Because of this, the newspaper adds, the German governor has ordered the curfew rung at seven o'clock in the evening for several weeks, and the city also has

Plowing for Fall Wheat.

Our farmers were discouraged at the failure of their fall wheat last winter. But they've got to keep on and plant again this autumn. There is more chance of success, of avoiding "winter killing," if they plow in the summer and work they've got to get the water away; if of smothering ice on the plants.

So the big job these days is to plow every day between harvest work; better You can't have much fall wheat without the most generous working of the land. #### AUSTRIAN FOOD CRISIS CLAIMED OVERCOME

Amsterdam, July 21. — The food crisis in Austria is almost overcome and presumably will never recur, says Food Minister Paul, according to The Neue Freie Presse of Vienna. He says that harvest prospects are promising and that the situation, especially as to fodder, is better than the previous year. Cattle have sufficient fodder so that the prospects of an autumn supply of milk and meat are better than hitherto. A note of warning, however, is sounded by the minister, who says:

The food department will make an effort to have sufficient supplies for the whole population of Austria as a basis for the joint plan of action with Germany and Hungary to defeat the entente allies starvation plan. We have arrived at an understanding with Hungary, and Germany has recently proved her loyalty in this important domain."

The Struggle in the Salient.

It is obvious from the intensity of the fighting in the Rheims-Soissons salient that one or both parties in the straggle is determined on having a decision. The Germans have thrown a million men into the cockpit, where they have scarcely room to turn around, and General Foch has turned loose American, British and French troops in great strength and with such artillery that the whole field is being raked with fire. The kaiser is having some experience of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object. We may conclude that whichever gives way first will endure a great disaster. Our view is that the entente allies will not give way.

As we have suggested before, it is absolutely necessary for the Germans to get a decision this year, before being overwhelmed by American troops in 1919. CHAPTER CXLVIII.

CHAPTER CXLVIII,

That winter we again took up our social life. Kenneth was so well, such a good baby, I had no reason to remain at home, or to refuse to entertain. We had a thoroly responsible nurse, and George would not hear to my letting the fact that we had a baby in the house, interfere with us in any way.

I had ceased trying to make George over. Whenever the thought would cross my mind that I might be happier if he were different, I dismissed it at once. I really loved my husband, had always loved him. And now that I had learned to know him, to take him as he was, I had ceased to kick against the pricks and was calmly happy and contented. Then one day they brought him home. An automobile had knocked him down as he crossed the street, and he had struck his head on the pavement.

"Concussion," the doctor said as he bent over him.

A trained nurse was installed, the house took on the air of stillness which usually accompanies such an illness. Even Kenneth seemed fo realize that something was wrong, and was unusually quiet.

For days my husband's life hung in the balance. For days I had scarcely left him, an unspoken prayer constantly on my lips: I. God would only spare him. He was not easy to care for in those days of convalescence, but I was so happy that I scarcely noticed when he was cross and grouched because he couldn't get up. The shortage of food served the interests of certain friends of governments and was therefore not looked upon as any great harm.

Post war legislation must be carefully studied, particularly as women were in industry to stay with it. Mr. Varley advocated the establishment of laber exchanges which would see that returned men were completely discharged from the army, only when decent positions had been found for them.

To a member of the audience he said he was endorsed by all the labor organizations in the city and at least tacitly by the G.W.V.A.

The chair was occupied by Pte. McGuigan of British Columbia, and among the speakers of the evening were Pte.

T. A. Barnard of New Westminster:
Pte. McLeod of Toronto, and Lieut. Jack Munro, all returned men who all stated they did not appear officially for the G.W.V.A., and strongly appealed for the support of returned soldiers for the soldier labor candidate in the coming election.

There have been many motion pictures dealing with the war, having elaborate battle scenes staged for the purpose, but it remained for that master producer. D. W. Under the authority of the British and French Governments. Mr. Griffith and his company of players were able to enact scenes within the danger zone, many times amid the bursting of shells.

A charming love story was woven about a boy and girl in a small French village, which was captured by the onrushing Germans immediately after the outbreak of the war. The courageous French troops beat back the Huns and recaptured the village, after a terrific battle, and the boy who went to war and the girl who stayed at home were happily reunited.

"If Only the Sweet Moments Could Last!"

THERE were times, in Ruth and Brian's married life, when they seemed perfectly compatible—when their companionship was complete.

Then the storm clouds would come again, and the period of happiness would be over; once more they would find themselves quarreling over trifles and jarring on each other's nerves.

At these tempestuous periods, Ruth would wonder if they had not made a mistake in marrying each other. Brian, too, had these misgivings in regard to the suitability of their marriage.

But wait! Does not the fact that there were sunny periods at all, leave just the possibility that there might be sunshine all the time, under the right conditions? Of course it does. And do the right conditions ever come?

War Garden Bulletin

Enlist the aid of the whole family in getting your war garden vegetables canned and dried. Father helps to eat them. Why shouldn't he lend a hand in preparing them?

Care should be taken to see that the fruit and vegetables you dry are young and tender. Vegetables should be cut into slices or strips from one-eighth to a quarter of an inch thick. For slicing, a sharp kitchen knife or a special slicer may be used. In some cases the meat-cutter answers very well. Most root vegetables should be peeled before slicing.

TO MAKE FUEL OIL FROM CANNEL COAL

London, July 31. - The best method of obtaining fuel oil from home issued by a committee under the chairmanship of the Marquis of Crewe. The committee was appointed by the minister of munitions to investigate the question. Cannel coal could be carbonized in existing vertical retorts at gas works, altho no very largely increased quantity of oil can be obtained from this source during the war owing to the difficulties of labor, coal and transport.

The report indicates that other sources of supply will be available in the future. These include drilling for oil in Great Britain, further development of the Scottish shale oil industry, and increased carbonizaindustry, and increased carboniza-tion of raw oil. The Picketing Requirements.

What would our legislative sciolist think of the value of pickets so planted on the big Dome or on any one of a dozen other properties that might be named, where veins outcrop for thousands of feet? The fact is that, if the picketing licensee sticks to his "block," as the act intends, he has only a parallelogram 50 x 150 feet, while his competitor may search at will within a square 1320 feet each way, and one that also includes the block. No sane prospector would waste time and money in setting up pickets under such conditions.

Mr. Carman was the original discoverer of the Bothwell Pool, twenty-one years ago. He sold out his interests there, however, and went to California. An affliction of blindness came on while there, and his memories reverted again to the Ontario oil fields. He carefully studied such geological information as could be obtained, with the result that he sent an agent into the Glencoe district to secure leases. This was about two years ago. His efforts were successful and resulted the working properties a few days ago and found to their satisfaction that the stories told of the new oil field had not increased in the telling. Long before the wells had been reached the rich scent from the new mown hay came permeated with the pungent odor from the oil tanks, and on reaching the Rockwood property throbbing gas engines and ambling jerker lines connecting the various wells stood out in strange contrast to the fields of luxuriant corn and other growing grains.

The form of lease in Glencoe is similar to that in other Ontario fields, the

Difficutites Overcome,

The roll in the Connel occurred between the 250 and the 300-foot level. It presented a phenomenon with which the engineers acting for the Mines Leasing & Developing Co. were not familiar. There was no drag or any of the usual evidences of faulting, and this induced the view that the vein had entirely pinched and disappeared. This theory, however overlooked the fact that the vein had clean-cut walls and high contents in gold, which could have come only from the zone of flowage far below the crust of the earth. But the engineers were not to be convinced, and they decided to abandon the property. Then junk and debris of various kinds from the upper levels were thrown down the shaft, which had attained a depth of 410 the contents of the carted the responsible for most failures. # Gilt-Edged Opportunity For Investment

Important developments are taking place which bid fair to change the whole aspect of gold mining. and incidentally restore the gold mining shares to a position as favorable as before the clouds of war loomed on the horizon.

For the past four years the plight of the gold mines has gone unnoticed and unrelieved, the governments of the Allied countries being too much engrossed with the winning of the war. But there are signs which indicate a growing concern over the gold situation.

The Allies needed steel-prices were fixed on the raw product, and its output was stimulated. Copper and other metals, essential in carrying on war, were of paramount importance—they also were broug to the fore and their production speeded up by fixing the price at a higher figure than ever before. The same course was followed in the endeavor to encourage the farmers to produce more wheat.

Only recently the price of silver was fixed at $1 per ounce, an advance of almost 100% over the prevailing prices for years back.

Gold mining has now been placed in the category of the "essential" industries. If the production of gold is essential, it is worthy of encouragement, and the next logical step is to adopt such measures as will overcome the present handicap on gold mining. It is believed that the bonus system will be the most effective means to this end.

Frequent warnings have been given by authorities on the gold situation, and predictions have been made that, unless the gold mining industry were stimulated in some way, the gold miners would have to discontinue taking the metal from the ground and a drastic shortage would result.

Figures show that during the past two or three years the output of gold from all sources has declined seriously, and the end is not yet. Evidence of the handicaps under which the gold mines are laboring is best exemplified by the closing down of most of the mines in Porcupine and in the western states of the United States, and the decline in profits to the vanishing point of the big producers in the Rand fields of South Africa.

The United States and the British Government have now apparently awakened to the critical nature of the situation. The rapidly decreasing output of gold, and the even more rapidly expanding credits of the Allied nations, which are based on the gold reserves of these countries, have brought about a condition which those in high authority state will eventually force the price of gold, at present standardized at $20 per ounce, to a premium, unless some action is undertaken.

To avert such a situation it is rumored that the British and American authorities, acting conjointly, are considering the giving of a bonus to gold producers in order to encourage them to increase their production, which, under present existing conditions, is out of the question.

Ten dollars per ounce bonus has been reported as being the figure decided upon. In other words. the mines would receive $30 per ounce for gold as against the present price of $20.

The effect of such a decision would undoubtedly be to electrify the gold mining business. Under such a stimulus, the Canadian gold mines could resume operations on a profitable scale, the camp would hum with activity, where at the present time the tendency is to remain closed until conditions become more favorable, and the old time market activity in the gold securities would return.

With so many rumors of future aid to the gold mines floating about, it is not surprising that the gold stocks are becoming restive.

The big interests have for a long time been accumulating the leading gold stocks at present low-record prices in full confidence that sooner or later conditions would right themselves.

As the result of this accumulation, the market is comparatively bare of stocks, a wonderfully strong technical position in the event of the bonus or some other equally effective measures being adopted to increase production.

The "golds" show distinct signs of regaining their former popularity, which popularity we predict will grow over night into a boom.

We believe that this is the opportunity of a lifetime, but the lifetime of such an opportunity is usually brief, so act accordingly.

Accumulate holdings of the better gold stocks.

CORN DECLINES AFTER ADVANCE

Many Holdings Closed Out on Last Day for July Delivery.

Chicago, July 31,-Month-end profit taking by longs more than wiped out in the corn market today an advance due largely to rapid falling off in ardue largely to rapid falling off in arrivals at leading primary markets. The close was weak, 1-4 to 7-8 net lower with August 153 7-8 to 154, and September 154 7-8 to 155. Oats finished 1-2 off to 2 1-4 up. In provisions the outcome ranged from 20c decline to 65c advance.

Heavy selling in which houses with eastern connections were prominent forced a sharp break in corn prices during the last hour of trading. The closing out of many holdings had apparently been postponed to the furthest limit in order to take advantage of any congestion in the wind-up of of any congestion in the wind-up of the July delivery. No congestion developed, however, and the weakness that ensued formed a decided contrast to the strength which had characterized the market until today. Relative lightness of receipts together acterized the market until today. Relative lightness of receipts, together with prospects of further decrease in the movement from the country, had much to do with shaping the temporary upward course of values. Besides eastern cash demand continued good. Something of a bullish flurry in July oats resulted from belated covering by shorts. August and September oats weakened with corn. Nearly all deliveries of provisions reflected the strength of the hog market.
