WAR IN EVERY PROVINCE CUBAN REVOLT SPREADS

Rebel Leaders Will Respect British Flag on Cuban Central Railway Trains.

Havana, Sept. 2.—There is war now in all the provinces. It has been ascertained without doubt that the rebel band that is operating near Maron, Puerto Principe Province, is led by Garcia Canizares, former president of the house.

Bahia Honda, in the Province of Pinar del Rio, near the American coal station, fell into the hands of a force of rebels led by Carillo, and Representative Marquetel. After seizing horses and arms, they withdrew without having done any damage to the property of foreigners. The rebels are strong in Santa Clara Province.

Manager Cameron of the Cuban Central Railway has held a conference with insurgent leaders Guzman and Portela near Cienfuegos, and an agreement was reached that passenger trains bearing the British flag would be respected if they were not carrying troops.

The town of Rancheoela, in Santisimo Province, has been raided by insurgents, who took $1700 from the safe of the treasury and derailed a train. They left after holding the town for hours.

Insurance Commissioners to Report in November

Investigation, Resumed To-Morrow, Will Be Concluded By End of the Month—Foreign Companies Must Explain Their Business Too—Mr. Langmuir on English Insurance.

The report of the insurance commission appointed by the Dominion government will be ready for presentation within the next two months.

This is the confident assertion made by Commissioner J. W. Langmuir, who has just returned from a three weeks' vacation in England.

The commission will resume its sittings to-morrow, beginning with an enquiry into the Home Life, and following with the Woodmen of the World and others of the smaller companies. The affairs of the I.O.F. will also undergo examination, after which the commission will go to Montreal. Mr. Langmuir expects the Toronto session will last about a week or ten days.

"We will clean up as soon as possible the public enquiry part of our work, and will then deal with foreign companies doing business in Canada," he explained. "Their Canadian business must be gone into as thoroughly as with our own companies. We intend to continue the investigation without any breaks, to a conclusion, and should be through by the end of September. It will take the greater part of October to prepare the report, which will then be ready for parliament the session opening in November, as far as possible."

The report of the committee of the British house of lords prescribing conditions under which United States life insurance companies should do business in Great Britain will not seriously affect the Canadian situation, in the opinion of Mr. Langmuir. He considers that the recommendations made are exceedingly conservative.

"What will affect the business of these companies more than anything else is what came out thru investigation," he said. "The feeling of business men with whom I was brought into contact appeared to be that while there might not be any great loss of business now carried it would be a bar to future progress."

Mr. Langmuir added that the stability of the companies was not seriously questioned, but that great light had been shown in the methods of investment and in the general management.

"The system of inspection brought out was a revelation to the English people," he commented.

"The English insurance companies, he believes, are very sound in their investments and the system of inspection very rigid."

"In the old country they can always get very safe investments, and the companies seem to select the very highest class of them," remarked Mr. Langmuir.

PTE. MEADE HIGHLANDERS WINNS GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S

Leak of Queen's Own Second in Big Match, Only One Point Behind.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—The highest honor the Canadian shooting world fell to-day to Private Meade of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, who won the Dominion Rifle Association Medal, which includes the Governor-General's Prize.

It was the biggest surprise of the meeting. Up till to-day Private Meade had done nothing beyond finding a place in one of the extra series. He was never, therefore, reckoned seriously for the medal, and the odds for him were 25 to 1.

It was in a way a fitting termination to the meeting, for as a regiment, the 48th had been by far the best shot present at the D. R. A. this year, and if any deserve the honor they certainly do. It was only to institute a comparison, it might be said that Toronto and British Columbia divided the honors of the meet.

Private Meade is 35 years of age. This is his fourth year at the D. R. A., and it is the first time he has won any competition. He is exceedingly shy, and took the congratulations that were showered upon him very modestly.

While Toronto provided the winner of the D. R. A. Medal, the runner-up also belongs to the Queen's Own. Private Leask of the Queen's Own was only one point behind. In contrast with Private Meade, he shone conspicuously in the water polo.

The weather to-day was of the worst for accurate shooting. The wind was strong and the air very damp. The found difficulty in even getting the targets. The result was that the D. R. A. Medal was won with 186 points, as compared with 185 last year. With the exception of this event, all other matches were won with higher scores than last year.

The Hon. Wm. Templeman and Lord Aylmer presented the prizes, after which the Dominion Rifle Association presented the prizes for another year. The following are the results:

D. R. A. Gold Medal and $500—

Winston Churchill Sends Message to Canadians

Regrets Inability to Visit This Year, But Will Come in 1907—Hamar Greenwood, M. P. for York, Discusses Political Affairs—Will Reintroduce Bill for Repeal of Cattle Embargo.

Yesterday afternoon Hamar Greenwood, Liberal representative in the imperial house of commons of the City of York and parliamentary secretary to Winston Churchill, under secretary of state for the colonies, arrived in Toronto. Mr. Greenwood is a native of Whitby, Ont., but quite a few years ago he took himself to England, where he has had an eminently successful career. Now on holiday till parliament resumes, he is in the merchant's member for York in the competition. However, his win evoked all the greater demonstration. The Toronto Highlanders went with delight and cheered him again and again round the camp.

In a way it was a fitting termination to the meeting, for as a regiment, the 48th had been by far the best shot present at the D. R. A. this year, and if any deserve the honor they certainly do. It was only to institute a comparison, it might be said that Toronto and British Columbia divided the honors of the meet.

FOSTER NOT WITH LEADER AT CONSERVATIVE PICNIC

Advertized as Star Attraction, He Disappoints Labor Men of Sydney Mines.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The Conservative leaders of Cape Breton are "dumfounded and not a little put out at Hon. George E. Foster. He had been extensively advertised as the star attraction at the big Conservative Labor Day picnic to be held at Sydney Mines to-morrow.

The people were anxious to hear him and some came for that purpose last night from Antigonish and other points on the I. C. R. Large crowds are expected from Glace Bay and other parts of the island, and also R. L. Borden is also to speak there are many who will principally come for the purpose of hearing Foster.

So anxious were the local leaders to have him here that they kept in close touch with him by correspondence, and as late as Friday he received a letter saying he will come to-morrow. Please have some one to meet me at the station; I will take no chances, but will be on the first train."

Yesterday a committee went down the line to meet him. He did not appear, but the committee, on their return gave out a message that he had stopped out at Sydney, S. I. and the Sydney people are being told that he went on to Sydney Mines. The local leaders here in this way to draw the crowd, but it will be awkward when they are called upon to explain in response to messages. Mr. Foster has wired from his summer home in New Brunswick that he will write an explanation to-morrow morning. It can not be received before Tuesday morning.

The meeting to-morrow is regarded as most important. In the last provincial election the miners and iron workers largely deserted the Murray government and joined the Liberal majority in this riding by 1300. At present they are disposed to act as a unit in political matters, but many of their leaders fear a third party movement. Mr. Borden's speech to-morrow will largely depend on the effort that is being made to attract this large and influential body of voters to the Conservative party.

Guerra Declines Battle.

Col. Ayalas, who is in command of the rebel forces that are operating in the Province of Pinar del Rio, reports that he followed Pinar del Rio for two days and that Guerra constantly refused to accept battle. Col. Ayalas has 900 men, and says Guerra's force does not exceed 300. Ayalas denies that Guerra ever had over 1000 men. He says the reports purporting to exaggerate the numbers of the rebels are the work of the newspapers that favor the revolution. The bands around Guanaco hold the last possible position on the island.

Neither Can Win.

"Neither side can whip the other," is the concise statement now heard everywhere in Havana, and it may also be fairly construed to be the growing conviction of thoughtful persons throughout the island.

In Havana, at least, this conviction has led, among all unprejudiced persons, to a realization of the fact that the propogative of the Platt amendment soon will be utilized by the United States for the purpose of actually putting an end to a condition that everybody believes is otherwise bound to grow more and more intolerable.

Insurrection Growing.

"That the insurrection is growing constantly is undeniably evidenced every day, and the records of gardens extended by the government has brought no appreciable change in the situation."

One of the few Americans who joined the insurgent ranks came into Havana to-night. He said that the 15,000 insurgents moving south of Artemisa in scattered parties shortly will concentrate with others from the vicinity of Guanayay, with the intention of capturing both Artemisa and Guanayay, and holding the entire width of Eastern Pinar del Rio provinces.

Insurrection Growing.

"They will thus control the situation far better than did the Spanish troops in the days of the famous trocha, and at precisely the same place."

Letter from Pinar del Rio.

A letter from the insurgent leader, Pinar del Rio, received in Havana, contains the following:

"The revolutionists like not American intervention if the latter means insular occupation of the island and the establishment of an American administration here. We want our independence. The Americans want merely to make us slaves. The kind of intervention we want is that the American Government recognize the elections as fraudulent and send a note to President Palma, requesting him to call new elections and stop play. We are fighting against tyranny. The Americans come to deprive us of our independence. We will fight also against them."

Officially Reported at Cobalt.

Cobalt, Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The Columbia Mine has made a most remarkable discovery by cross-cutting at 50 feet deep from the big shaft, cutting thru their large vein, finding beautiful ore. This assures the company of a great success. The Simons, the manager, who is at the Queen's Hotel, has a fine exhibit of the ore at the exhibition grounds, under the grand stand.

UNFINISHED HOUSES WRECKED AND MANY TREES UPROOTED BY FORCE OF RAIN AND WIND

West and North Portions of City Experience a Fierce Storm—Several New Buildings, Tents and Trees Blown Over.

Which moved rapidly across the great lakes on Sunday, and was accompanied by a heavy rain, with gusts of wind. The telephone company reported wires down on Avenue-road and Temperance-street, caused by falling trees. The tents in the Metroplex and many residences were having difficulty with their lighting. In the Metroplex a tent was blown away, and the tent was a wreck.

JEW'S BRAINS OF REVOLUTION RULING CLASS MORE HOSTILE

Week Sees Launching of Two New Parties Who Aim to Exclude Hebrews From All Political Activity and Service in the Army.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—The renewal of terrorism on a large scale has greatly intensified the hostility of the ruling classes against the Jews, who long have been regarded as the brains of the revolution, and it is believed has correspondingly diminished the chances of the Jews of obtaining more than a nominal enlargement of their rights.

THE WINNER.

Private Meade is a mechanic and is a member of Capt. Harbottle's company (A). He joined the regiment four years ago and had done no shooting previous to that time. He has done well in the regimental matches and was also well up in the O.R.A. meeting of week before last.

How does Canada stand in the estimation of the British people?

"Never so high," said Mr. Greenwood, "Canada is, and will long remain, the favorite country for emigrants. There is a general sentiment abroad throughout the country that Canada is best adapted for British people, and that the administration is better and more in sympathy with that to which they are in response to messages. Mr. Foster has wired from his summer home in New Brunswick that he will write an explanation to-morrow morning. It can not be received before Tuesday morning."

What would like to be known also.

"I would like to be known also," continued Mr. Greenwood, "that the imperial government is animated by the kindest of feelings towards each and all of the British states and colonies, and it is his anxious desire to further the country that Canada is best adapted for British people, and that the administration is better and more in sympathy with that to which they are in response to messages. Our Friend From Cannington Gets a View of Senator Cox

The Man From Cannington put on his best bib and tucker and went to call on Senator Cox. It was his first visit to the busiest man in town, and he couldn't just focus him. The plate of his mental photographing apparatus wasn't fast enough, but the Man From Cannington made the error never to let it go at that.

If I hadn't seen Senator Cox getting off the elevator and passing thru to his private secretary's room, I would have sworn when I saw the man framed by the doorway, that it was not the senator at all, but a life-size picture hanging against the wall. He looks so much like a Dutch print of David Harum come to town, turned up possibly to a second generation of city life—when all the cereals have been combed from the beard and a frock coat and plug hat no longer itch—that you are rather tempted to go up and pinch him to see if he is really alive.

The face has one expression invariably, and you could no more imagine a bolstering laugh coming from those lips than that May-flowers should bloom in December. Yet the lips smile a little, too—just a little, and cling in repose—as if Senator George Cox had a very pleasant opinion of himself, and was only so rich because he didn't know any better.

Indeed you are much inclined to ask him for the loan of a million on the spot to set you up in a matrimonial way and give you the heart to ask the girl—then you pause! There is a half-waxed, half-automatic courtesy about that face that might refuse so easily, so pleasantly, so complacently and with so little ruffle to itself, and that is Cox.

I call him that because his secretary called him "sir", and because no man, if you would be better than a mere puppet, has a right, in the customary way, to require "sir" of any other. So as before that is Cox. You can imagine him looking pleased always, but you cannot imagine yourself always being pleased with him. His courtesy is much like the colored ribbon—it is colored—that unwinds in the stock exchange with the reports. It is everlasting, but it is relentless, and when a man goes down it, doesn't know. That's Cox again.

But there is one thing certain—those eyes can never roll in the head; they were set there for the direct purpose of expressing the difference in that respect between a negro and a white man. And it is equally sure that no comb is responsible for the perfect massing of those rather long drab whiskers—dulled in their square outline, not out—another phase of the direct indirectness of the man! They grew there of their own accord in one piece.

The senator's upper lip is long. You could never conceive its hanging in oscillations—other than a Parisian smack.

The nose above is shapely—the best feature of the face, and neither tilts nor swoops. The head is bald; and the forehead and back bend on each other with the uniform curve of a steepie. And Senator Cox is something of a steeple in himself—not referring to church steeples. With one whisker, some fat-kind or other, he has driven him into life; and with a round kind of civility he sticks there and all the king's horses cannot pull him out. It may be rusty; but there he is.

And you cannot ruffle him any more than you could his whiskers; for that side of the needle's eye which the camel cannot pass is a thing utterly inconceivable. But it is to be hoped there is no wire-pulling there.

Cox is also tall and walks with a rather easy fling of his feet. You do not always know he is coming to you, but a part of him, too—secretly. He mentioned an hour's chat—some other time—but I don't think he meant that. The shoulders stoop a little, as if resting themselves—but not from the burden of life. You can depend that the man who makes other shoulders for carrying it. The eyes smile at you thru a mask, but do not overdo themselves at it. And the mask is George Cox, who seems to have little of the elemental things left.

He was not in the habit of giving interviews for publication, but he had refused to break the habit. We could have a pleasant chat some other time, but just now he was busy—very busy. Yet he was sitting there cool and soft-blowing as a jack-o'-the-pulpit in a greenhouse.

Perhaps my first question was too much for a grumpy mouthful. And anything but such could not pertain to Senator Cox. I asked him in plain language how much he was sitting there leading up to the borrowing of the million, of course.

He did not enlighten me—perhaps he thought I was going to borrow. But he said one or two good things which he killed with a promise of silence. I left him serenely awaiting the "yes" of his secretary.

There was a fellow selling bananas on the street corner, hollering at the top of his voice—and I was glad to see him open his mouth.

However, that is the CANNINGTON OPINION OF SENATOR COX—right or wrong—and it may or may not be either.

Before Captain Smith of The Weekly Sun sat down to talk to me, he kissed his daughter—in her teens—good-bye as she was going to the fair. I liked the captain from that moment, and I like him still. He did what he felt like doing, and he didn't care. He was not afraid to carry his family affection into his business office; and it is the way of doing these things that makes business as heartless as it is—from the Cannington point of view.

THE MAN FROM CANNINGTON Meets His Old Ontario County Friend, Hamar Greenwood, M.P.

I was at the Union-Station at 4:40 Sunday afternoon, as the International Limited from Montreal pulled in on the minute. Out of the tail of the train stepped my old schoolboy chum and fellow-native of the old County Ontario, Hamar Greenwood, M. P., or, as we called, and I hope still call, him, Tom Greenwood.

He wore a grey tweed suit and soft grey hat. He recognized me and we exchanged hearty greetings.

It is 30 odd years since I knew him as a boy. He was from the south of the county, from a place called Whitby, while I was then and still am of Cannington. He remarked that I was the same old shotgun. I rode up town fifth him and I asked him a few questions along the route.

"You are about 37, Tom," I said, "I am to go by the parliamentary handbook and not by the old church register of the family Bible records. And I suppose, as a public man, you prefer to have your teeth and mouth examined for age from the first mentioned standpoint," said I.

"I am 37," he said, "and feel very like it."

"I say you were at the Bryan dinner in London," I said.

"Yes," he said, "Bryan got the finest reception in London that was ever given to an American. He was dined by the King, by C.B., by Morley, and he attended the house regularly for two weeks. He is an able man, and I suppose, as a public man, you prefer to have your teeth and mouth examined for age from the first mentioned standpoint," said I.

"I am for peace," and yes, I do bring a message of peace, notwithstanding Col. Denison's spurs having been buried in the flanks of the old mare at home."

"Then, I may ask, have you returned to save the country, Tom?" knowing that many of Canada's favorite sons were most anxious to undertake the job.

"No," he said, "Canada never saw me. I am here, and I am here to stay, as you needed me."

"I think it was in the Rome Bible he said that," I replied.

"And I also, in some way, Tom, couple you up with Romeo and the ladies at the matinee."

"I am for peace," and yes, I do bring a message of peace, notwithstanding Col. Denison's spurs having been buried in the flanks of the old mare at home."

BUSIEST DAY AT STATION KEEPS EVERYBODY HUSTLING

Trains Were From Minutes to Hours Late—Immigrants Swallowed Up.

Relatives and visitors are a nuisance during exhibition time when trains are late and beds are full. Expectant, disappointed were compelled to wait Saturday, jammed together in the enclosure provided for those on the watch for incoming friends at the Union Station, and there from one to four hours. Here is the schedule as marked on the black-board, showing the arrival of incoming trains:

No. 64, C.P.R. from North Bay, connecting with trains from Northwest, due at 2:55 p.m.—4 hours late.

No. 84, T. H. & B. from Hamilton, due at 3:00 p.m., on time.

No. 6 (first section), G.T.R. connecting with Chicago and west at Windsor, due at 3:00 p.m., on time.

No. 1 (second section), same route, due at 4:00 p.m., 1 hour 20 minutes late.

No. 14, G.T.R. from Buffalo, due at 4:40 p.m., 20 minutes late.

BLUNZON—THE SERGE OF SHERES.

"When first we made the 'Blunzon' serge," said the president of a Canadian woolen mill, "we thought we had attained the acme of perfection, and that Canada would produce no better. But we found a way of making it better and better—methods which added to the cost to be sure, but our customers, the Semi-ready Company, agree to take all we make of the 'Blunzon' even at the advanced price. Semi-ready Blunzon serge suits are now selling at $20. The Blunzon serge is the prize of the Canadian mill, and it is the first Canadian woolen product to probably prove itself 'made in Canada.'"

AT SHEA'S THIS WEEK.

Mr. Shea will introduce to his patrons this week for the first time the Brun Grand Opera Trio, singing selections from "Il Trovatore." Mme. Le Brun is the late prima donna of the Italian Grand Opera Company of New York and the Savage English Grand Opera Company. Fritz N. Huitman, the well-known tenor, and James F. Stevens, baritone, with Mme. Antoinette Le Brun, are giving vaudeville, the best singing number ever presented, and the scene from the Verdi opera is attractively staged, adding materially to the charm of the act. Others on the bill are: Eleanor Falk, dainty singing comedienne; Eugene and Willie Howard, the Hebrew messenger boy and the thespian; Mr. and Mrs. Perkins D. Fisher, presenting "The Half-Way House"; Quigg, Mackey and Nickerson, comedy and harmony; McCrea and Foote, modernists; The Signers O'Malley, a daring and sensational tight-wire artists, and the cinematograph.

ATTACK ON SAM LANDERS BUT IT DIDN'T BEAT HIM

Election of Canadian Representative to Garment Workers Proves Rather Exciting.

A rather undignified scene ensued at the final session of the Garment Workers' convention Saturday, during the election of the Canadian representative to the executive board. Sam Landers of Hamilton was accorded the office, but it developed that a strenuous canvass had been made during the week by supporters of Mr. Luffy in opposition to Mr. Landers, which resulted in a number of the Canadian delegates, who had been approached on the subject, leaving the meeting before that order of business came up. When the name of Samuel Landers was proposed by Robert Noven of Chicago, W. Malloy of Toronto opened an attack on Mr. Landers, while the chairman denounced as little short of libel.

The assailant averred that the delegates had no confidence in the nomination, and that he was a resident of New York, for which he was receiving a salary of $30 a week. Did he want the earth? Cries of order! order! brought the president to his feet, and he insisted that the speaker sit down, admonishing him for giving voice to the most uncalculated for attack he had ever heard. The time to have made known an executive member's incompetency and lack of interest was during the proceedings of the week, not at this late hour, with an ulterior motive in view.

Mr. Landers was elected by a majority of 10 votes. He will continue to edit The Bulletin and will come to Canada at regular intervals. The officers elected were as follows: President, T. A. Hickert, Chicago; secretary, B. A. Large, Bellevue, Ky.; treasurer, J. Haskins, New York; acclamation; general auditor, Chas. Baker, Syracuse; trustees, Robert Noven, Chicago; Vic. Altman, Buffalo; Mayor Schwartz, Cincinnati; executive board: S. L. Landers, Hamilton; Margaret C. Daley, New York City; Bernard Abrams, New York; A. C. Thompson, St. Louis.

The next convention will be held at Milwaukee in 1908. Delegates elected to American Federation of Labor, which meets at Minneapolis in November, were: T. A. Hickert, B. A. Large, M. A. McMahon, Paterson, N.J.; Miss Sarah Hazan, San Francisco.

CHEAP FOOD FOR THE PEOPLE.

The movement that benefits the whole people is a wholesome one.

The action, legislative or otherwise, that aims at the advantage only of the classes as opposed to the masses, has in it the seed of injustice.

With this regard, the remarks of Chief Justice Falconbridge before the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association will be received with the favor which is their due.

That game fish and game thru the attraction they form to tourists are a most valuable financial asset to the province, and that, therefore, their protection should be encouraged.

That the food fish in our waters should be conserved and regulated for the good of the masses of the people and not wasted or used for the benefit of one small class of the community.

That certain game birds and song and insectivorous birds are an immensely valuable friend to the farmer, in destroying harmful insects, weevils, rodents, etc., and the lack of knowledge by the public on such subjects should be combated as early as possible.

That the wild lands of the province suitable to game and the waters of the province suitable to game fish should be ever kept the property of the public, and that the association must always endeavor to prevent the acquisition by individuals or groups of individuals of large tracts of territory for the purposes of forming private game preserves.

That the association should have no connection with politics or any political party.

These pronouncements form the basis of the policy of the Fish and Game Protective Association, and from the standpoint of the masses of the people are wholly acceptable.

TEACHING IMPERIALLY.

While beyond doubt an excessive degree of not merely ignorance but misconception exists in the United Kingdom regarding Greater Britain and its individual parts, it would be a mistake to believe it so great and universal as in some quarters it is represented to be.

HEADING OFF THE WHITNEY-BECK POWER POLICY.

The following three deliverances appeared in papers identified with the electric ring. There is a beautiful sameness running thru them; if they have a common source, as we know they have, then it shows how far-reaching is the effort to head off the public distribution of electrical energy in this province.

As the intermediary between power producers and power consumers, the latter being represented by municipal corporations, the commission [Ontario Hydro-Electric] is bound to deal fairly by both sides (the public and the private companies). Its object is to promote the use of electrical power as an economy.

Under these conditions there can be no excuse for failure, and the public naturally expect to enjoy the advantages of their heritage of "white coal." The whole question is one of price.

THE BETTER FIGHT. Every once in a while we hear men, sometimes big men, denounce militarism. It is a big word, quite an ordinary mouthful, and a man can wax eloquent over it.

Let us agree that a standing army is bad habit, but it is a habit a nation catches from watching a brother nation. Germany has it, but the war lord will tell you he was exposed to the habit in France and it took.

And thus we come to the root of the matter. Militarism has its being in the nature of individual man, right down in his heart, close by his bedside. Tennyson grapples with this thought. He says:

This Huckerster put down war! Can he tell Whether war be a cause or a consequence? Put down the passions that make earth Hell!

Down with ambition, avarice, pride, Jealousy down! Out from the mind The bitter springs of anger and the fear; Down, too, down at your own fireside, With the evil tongue and the evil ear. For each is at war with mankind.

The standing army will disappear when man can stand it. "It is to fight for the good than to rail at the ill."

JEALOUSY IN GAPON SLAYING

Jewess' Sweetheart Now Declared Murderer of Russian Priest. London, Sept. 2.—It has leaked out that Scotland Yard detectives are shadowing in this city a man supposed to be the murderer of the notorious Father Gapon in Russia.

It appears that a beautiful Jewess was high in the councils of the revolutionaries, and that a strike leader in St. Petersburg, who had assumed the name of Moritz, was madly in love with the girl.

Moritz discovered that the girl had had secret meetings with the priest, and he shadowed her, finally becoming assured that his suspicions were well founded.

Moritz then helped himself to the priest's personal effects and fled from Russia. He wandered about Europe for some time, and now is believed to be in London.

Should not fall to make side trip to the beautiful Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Georgian Bay, Kawartha Lakes, only a few hours' ride from Toronto. Tourist tickets are on sale daily at Grand Trunk city office, northwest corner King and Yonge streets.

SATURDAY AT EXHIBITION

Continued From Page 8. ered it remarkable that all his To- ronto, patients thus far have been twins. The Seedless Apple. Spencer Seedless Apple Co. are ex- hibiting specimens of this wonderful apple in the building east of the direc- tors' old dining room. The apples are preserved in liquid, but show perfect- ly the formation entirely without the core of the ordinary apple. The exhib- it is worth an examination. Mr. An- derson, who is in charge, says that the company are offering for the first time to dispose of trees of this variety. The seedless apple will ultimately displace all others, and the first fruit put on the market will command a fabulous price. The apple is a winter variety, a beau- tiful red—a fair size and flavored sim- ilar to the Baldwin. Picked Up at Random. The sheep have not yet been judged, and look as if competition would be keen in all classes. Leicester, Cots- wolds, and Dorset horns are espe- cially fine. The shepherds are put- ting the finishing snips on the smooth coated varieties yesterday, and the larger fleeced breeds were having their coats unravelled by patient hands. The animals paraded in the heat under their heavy coats, and looked better fitted for winter than summer. The members of the Dominion Short- horn Association will give a dinner in the Queen's Hotel Wednesday evening to Mr. William Duthie of Aber- deen, Scotland, who is the largest breeder of shorthorns in Great Britain and is judging at the exhibition. The art gallery appears next to the Band of the 2nd Life Guards, to be whether in children or adults, can be cured by the use of Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. It has been a household remedy for 60 years. It is Rapid, Reliable, and Effectual in its action. It is Pleasant and Harmless to take. It does not leave the bowels in a constipated condition. It is for sale by all dealers. It has many substitutes. Do not accept them. They may be dangerous. MRS. FRED J. BROOKS, Shelburne, Ont., writes: "I have a large family and have been using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for years for Diarrhoea and Cramps, and I always intend to use it, for I know of nothing else so good for both children and adults. It gives almost instant relief in all cases of bowel complaint."

FIRST WEEK AT THE FAIR

CROWDS BIGGER THAN EVER And With Fine Weather To-Day, the "Biggest Ever" is Expected. The first week of the exhibition has proved highly gratifying to those who are in a position to know the attend- ance and receipts. In spite of the reports based on "estimates" the as- surance is given that the receipts are in excess of those for the first week of the fair for three years past any- way, while the attendance has been larger. Saturday's attendance was the best for any first week day on record and the crowd to-day is expected to eclipse "the best ever." In order to ensure the safety of all, it has been decided that no driving around the grounds in rigs or autos will be per- mitted. They may enter the grounds and proceed south to the lake front, but that is the limit. Exit for vehicles will be by Strachan-avenue gates only. The grounds will be in splendid shape, if no more rain comes. There was only a brief shower there yester- day, the storm being to the north. For the directors' luncheon to-day the invited guests include officers of the trades council, board of trade, builders' exchange, city council, ex- mayors and ex-members of the board of control, and presidents of various clubs and organizations. The dog show opens to-day, with a large entry list. The entries in the poultry show at the fair this year are so numerous as to sadly overtax the space avail- able. There are about 2500 entries, 400 more than last year, with barred rocks and Wyandottes particularly to the fore. There is also shown in the in- creased number of pigeons exhibited a healthy growth in interest. There are about 1100 birds entered, or some 260 more than were cataloged last year, while it is stated that more than half the number are shown by United States fanciers. The Jacobins are es- pecially numerous with 86 entries, while the Pouters show 45. In these classes and in owls the Canadian exhibitors more than held their own, while the invaders had the best of it at both services to the bereavement sustained by Dr. Elmore Harris in the death of his son. Next Sunday evening the presiding Bishop, Dr. Fallows, will preach and conduct a confirmation service. To Muskoka Lakes at 11.30 a.m. Toronto passengers for Muskoka Lake points will leave on 11.30 a.m. express, as 11.30 a.m. train has been discon- tinued. Make parlor car reservations at city office, northwest corner King and Yonge-streets. Two Out for Mayor. Chatham, Sept. 2.—Ald. Thomas Scul- lard and Ald. HEARST'S BOMB FOR BRYAN

Sheddy Has Details of Meeting With Pierpont Morgan. New York, Sept. 2.—A story emanating from the Hearst headquarters in Europe, the details of how an employe of Mr. Hearst for two months and a half had shadowed Mr. Bryan thruout his travels in Europe. This person, it was reported, brought back the details of a meeting in Europe between Mr. Bryan and a representa- tive of J. Pierpont Morgan. It was to discover if Mr. Bryan met any agent of Morgan, Belmont or Ryan while abroad that the Hearst employe was sent, and it had brought back the information he sought. Emmanuel R. E. Anniversary. The third anniversary of the present pastorate of Emmanuel Reformed Epis- copal Church, 3-Av-street, Tor. afo, was celebrated yesterday. The pastor, Rev. George Orman, preaching in the morning, Rev. SHERBOURNE ST. PULPIT FILLED BY NEW PASTOR

Rev. George Jackson of Edinburgh, Makes a Deep Impression on His Congregation.

A new and very considerable force has been added to the religious agencies of Toronto in the advent of Rev. George Jackson, Sherbourne-street Methodist Church was yesterday the scene of his first labors as the pastor of that congregation, and the crowds that attended both services are likely to be increased rather than diminished as the fame of the preacher and his message is spread.

Simplicity is the note of the new generation of gospelers, and in this respect Mr. Jackson will appeal strongly to all who abhor pretence and affectation.

"There is no humbug about him," was the hearty endorsement of many a message there is the same intense directness, stripped of florid ornament, but lovely in the living grace of power and activity. There is nothing of the coldness of marble, but all of the beauty of sculpture transfigured into life in his splendid naturalness.

Mr. Jackson has not many advantages of presence, or at least not many prepossessing advantages. Among the architects and engineers of this country you will find many of just his physical type. He is of good height, and a kindly, not uncomely countenance, with the student's glasses hooked behind his ears. A voice neither strong nor harsh obediently pliant to the speaker's will conveys his thought with more earnestness than one realizes until the cumulative effect of entreaty and argument, pleading and warning, reaches its climax.

Now Won't you Get That Roof Fixed with due stages of insistence and emphasis in well high irresistible strength.

Of gesture there was much, but nothing obtrusive. It is only the speaker's thought that obtrudes. Presence, speech, gesture, all else is subordinate. It is not easy to forget what this man has to say to you.

Mr. Jackson felt the heat last night like everybody else, and was warm to try and take things easy in the hot weather. But it would be as easy to restrain the storm of which he spoke as to hold back the influences which wield themselves in the nature of such a preacher. The insistent message seeks utterance, and no half-birth is possible for the mature completeness of the truth he has to speak.

After the Young Man.

Mr. Jackson has no desire to commit himself just yet to any statement of the plans he desires to carry out in the three years he has determined to spend here.

"But when you talk of aims," he said, "young men are what I am after presently." He spoke of this as the work in which he had been most successful, and as that in which he hoped to be recognized in Toronto by those whom he sought. One could divine the soul of another Drammind in the yearning of the preacher, akin to the wistful affection of the Master, for the young man, John.

"Reading, as I shall always do in the case of the New Testament, from the Revised Version," explained Mr. Jackson, as he gave out the Scripture lesson last night. He would use the Revised Version of the Old Testament also in the morning, but for the responsive readings, in which the congregation join, so many of them will retain the King James Version. The passage was the Gospel of John, 1st chapter, 4th verse, to the end. It was the story of Jesus and His heart.

"No one, I think, who has read His New Testament with care can have failed to be struck by the entire absence from it of anything like what we call hero-worship. Biography there is next to none. The characters appear and disappear, are taken up and dropped again, in the most bewildering way, until we find the determining principle of it all.

"This was the opening sentence of the sermon, definitely arresting attention. The evangelist had omitted far more than they recorded, and there was only one object in their selection of incidents. Everything they told bore directly on the character of Jesus.

"These things are written that ye may believe that Christ is the Son of God, and that believing ye may have life in His name."

Nathaniel was identical with the Bartholomew mentioned in the three lists of the Apostles given by the evangelists, and this was the narrative of how he came to be called. It seemed too easy to come to be read. A word he expatiated. His difficulties were all brushed aside, and in a moment he passed between the Master and the disciples was not recorded. What Jesus said was not the only agency at work. Something went out from His eyes, forth from His heart.

Truth From Fiction.

"You read about some man in a work of fiction that he had looked in some woman's face, and how, in a moment something happened which changed his whole life. Would you put the book down, crying, 'Stupid and nonsense?'" asked the preacher.

Could you not believe that the presence of the Son of God was able to accomplish a similar change?

The intense realization of the presence and power of Jesus as a direct and actual influence is basic in Mr. Jackson's thought. Presently he turned to Philip and said: "Look at this man that brought Nathaniel to Jesus."

"Jesus saith, Philip, 'What is the next thing you read about Philip?'"

"Philip saith, Nathaniel."

"It was God's method to work thru intermediaries. How should men hear without a preacher?"

"In the long run everything hangs on the human agent."

"God saves men by saved men," was a corollary. There was no way to Christ for Nathaniel, but thru Philip.

He would draw a bow at a venture, remarked the preacher, for he did not know the congregation yet. "There were some there who had been in the church for five, ten, twenty years.

"Who is your Nathaniel?" he would ask such. "Were there any who looked to them, as all his life long, Nathaniel must have looked to Philip?"

"Many of our notions of the next thought and feeling concerning Christianity often did not only no good, but harm. But where men stood to each other in the relation of Philip to Nathaniel, an ounce of testimony was worth a ton of argument. No word went so unerringly to its mark as a frank, honest face to face word of personal experience. Philip was a man to whom unquestioning obedience came naturally. Before Nathaniel could call to have his questions answered and his doubts resolved.

"Let no young man be troubled because his faith is not for him the comparatively easy thing it is for others."

An Honest Doubter.

Were it not so hackneyed a phrase he would call Nathaniel and honest doubter. Many men to-day used doubt as a screen behind which to hang an unclean life.

"For all such there is no other answer, no, not from the lips of God Himself," was his comment on the narrative of a sceptical officer in India.

whose life was not immaculate. He found fault with the Bible for its contradictions and difficulties, and the regimental chaplain blurted out:

"Well, the seventh commandment is plain enough!"

Philip was a simple-minded man, but he never showed more wisdom than in the way he brought Nathaniel to Jesus. There was no use arguing with a prejudiced man.

"You might as well argue with the storm that swept over our city a couple of hours ago."

"Come and see," said Philip and Nathaniel was strong enough to put his not afraid to make a personal reckoning of the claims of Jesus.

"Will you do that? Will you come and see Jesus?" These blundering church folk will let them stand aside and stand in the presence of the Master yourself?

There were no words to convey at second or third or fifth hand what the life of the Master meant to men. He had attempted once to describe Switzerland in a lecture.

"What can any words or any pictures do to convey the dread majesty of the mighty mountains or the desolate wastes of everlasting snow," he explained. How much less easy to tell of Jesus.

"You who are bogged in the morass of partial moralism, the Book of Jonah or the numbers of the books of Moses. Come and see Jesus!" he appealed. If there was one book in the world which could best be read backwards it was the Bible. They should study the New Testament first.

"With a light in your hand, go back to Genesis and Isaiah. The rough places will be made plain, and the way will be clear for all of you."

He closed with a touching insistence on the value of the personal knowledge of Christ. It was many years he told them, since their preacher had been found by Jesus. If there was any merit in the work he had done it flowed from that.

"Will you also be His disciples?"

The service was ended with the singing of the hymn:

There's a wideness in God's mercy
Like the wings of the seraphim
There's a kindness in His justice
Which is more than liberty.

For the love of God is broader
Than the measure of man's mind,
And the heart of the Eternal
Is most wonderfully kind.

If our love were but more simple
We should take Him at His word;
And our lives would be all sunshine
In the favor of our Lord.

CHURCHILL SENDS

leaving religious teaching to the churches. This is Mr. Chamberlain's view, and a compromise not to be effected. The crucial point is whether religious instruction in the state schools should be left in the hands of the regular teaching staff, and what the nature of that instruction should be. As it stands, the bill which has been introduced is an even more satisfactory to the extreme Nonconformists, whose disaffection accounts for the drop in the government minorities in certain of the committee divisions.

Prosperity in Britain.

Speaking as regards to the economic and industrial situation in Britain, Mr. Greenwood said that the country was entering upon a period of prosperity unparalleled even in Canada. Nothing stood in the way of relieving even the agricultural depression but the semi-fundamental system which prevailed. Were British holdings available on anything like the terms offered in Canada, the country would provide an even better field for the agriculturist. Why the legal expenses of transfers alone were greater than the prime cost of land in Canada.

"Is there to be a home rule bill next year, Mr. Greenwood?"

"I think the relations with a majority of the Liberal representatives in the house of commons are pledged against the introduction of any measure repeating Gladstone's proposal, during the existence of the present parliament. But next session, Mr. Bryce, the secretary for Ireland, will undoubtedly introduce a bill calculated to improve the system of Irish administration and the position of the country generally."

"Is there likely to be an entente cordiale with Germany?"

"I think the relations with Germany are improving, and that this will probably continue. Indeed an entente cordiale all round is in the air of Britain just now. I do not consider there is any real ill-feeling between the peoples of Britain and Germany. The situation is considerably less distrustful regarding the aims and designs of the Kaiser, largely owing to his capacity for saying the wrong thing, but the Germans are restless over their political isolation in Europe and he appeared inclined to cultivate better relations with Britain."

"What about the reform—should Mr. Chamberlain be removed from active participation in the movement?"

"Fiscal reform," said Mr. Greenwood, "is in my opinion burst, but in any event Mr. Chamberlain's disappearance from public life is his extinction as a political factor. Movements of this kind are, in my opinion, dependent on personalities. Until Mr. Chamberlain took it upon himself to be discredited, and its advocates, such as Sir Howard Vincent and Mr. Chaplin, were in the account, he had no weight in the formation of public opinion. Undoubtedly there are numerous supporters of fiscal reform among the Conservatives, and he has always been, but except Mr. Chamberlain they have no leader of ability."

Asked about the position of Lord Rosebery, Mr. Greenwood said that he had practically placed himself outside the party sphere. This was due to his speech against home rule—not so much to the general effect of it as to the personal spirit displayed towards Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. But for that speech he would certainly have been included in the Liberal cabinet. Since its delivery he had said nothing.

Recall of Embargo.

"Will the cattle embargo be removed?"

"I think so," replied Mr. Greenwood. "The cabinet and the great majority of the ministerial party are against the embargo, and but for the fact of being talked out a division would certainly have been taken and resulted favorably. It is my intention to reintroduce the bill next session."

"I understand," Mr. Greenwood remarked in conclusion, "that Mr. Buxton, the postmaster-general, has submitted to Mr. Lemieux, the Canadian postmaster-general, a comprehensive scheme for reduction in the postal rates on books and magazines, and that it is likely to be accepted as a basis for a satisfactory arrangement."

DONS' FALL REGATTA.

Candidates in the Four and Novice Singles for September 15.

The annual fall regatta of the Don Rowing Club, which takes place Saturday, Sept. 15, in front of the boat house, will be the scene of some keen struggles. Eleven members will compete for the novice championship of the club in the singles, and a valuable gold medal. This is an exceptionally large entry, and the men have been training for this race for the past month. The four-oar event will be the Argos' Long Cup, and gold medals. Strokes are asked to report to their crews at once. The four are:

W. Leslie stroke, H. Marsh stroke,
W. O'Connell 2, W. Mulligan 3,
C. Lamoreaux 2, W. Dixon 2,
W. Clements 2, H. Dyer 2,
