BRITISHERS ALWAYS AS ONE BEFORE THE WORLD

Viscount Milner Speaks To Times on Large Questions

Believes Dominion Naval Contributions Should Bring Voice in Empire Affairs—Sees in Eastern Canada Place of Much Opportunity—What he Says on Home Rule

(Canadian Press)

"I am an Imperial Unionist, and it is my ideal to see all the nations under the British flag remaining united forever and standing together as one nation before the world."

"The word loyalty is sometimes misapplied. If it stands for devotion to the mother country alone or to Canada alone, it is not good. The British may feel a stronger love for his own part of the empire, and the Canadian may feel a strong attachment for his own country, but both are capable of a common devotion to the empire, primarily as a group of self-governing nations, and owing allegiance to the British Crown."

"If Canada's loyalty to the empire leads to her contribution to the naval defence, I think it is only right that she should have a voice in the government of the empire in proportion to such contribution."

"These are some of the views expressed by Viscount Milner, of St. James, in an interview granted to a Times reporter this morning. Lord Milner, who has given twenty years of distinguished service to the empire in South Africa and Egypt, is now making a tour of Canada. He has visited Sydney and Halifax and came from Halifax through the Annapolis Valley by Digby, crossing the Canadian Club this evening on imperial matters, and will leave for Fredericton tomorrow morning, proceeding thence to Montreal."

"In appearance Lord Milner is a typical Britisher; tall and built, of distinguished appearance and commanding presence. His years of service in high positions are indicated in his authoritative bearing, but he is not without his geniality and his approachability."

"Referring to the fact that this was not his first visit to the Dominion, the British nobleman expressed his regret that he had not been able to visit the eastern portion of the Dominion on his last trip four years ago, and is now making amends for this. He was deeply impressed with the western Dominion, but since landing this fall he has been much impressed with the east."

ATHLETICS TO TONE UP SOX FOR WORLD SERIES

Connie Mack's Men Will Give Boston Pointers on How to Beat Giants—Mordecai Brown To Be Let Go

(Canadian Press)

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—When the Boston Red Sox come here this week to close the baseball season, the home team expects to put the new pennant winners through a course of practice that will do greatly in fitting them for the world's championship.

Connie Mack's men have been through the fire of two world's series, one of them with the New York Giants. The local Americans expect to give Jake Stahl's men many pointers. This they will do partly through their loyalty to their own league, and partly because James McAleer, president of the Boston Americans, managed the two teams of star plays that kept the Athletics on edge for their series against Chicago and New York."

LAWRENCE STRIKE NOT SUCCESS

Armed Attempts To Intimidate Workers do Not Keep Them From Mills—Some Fighting

(Canadian Press)

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—Despite armed attempts to intimidate intending workers, the twenty-hour strike ordered by the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, as a protest against the improvement of the Lawrence mill, today. It was estimated that not more than 7,000 operatives remained away from the Lawrence textile mills.

Fickett lines were drawn up in Essex street, and the men were snatched from a group of pickets who had brushed her face. Fathers and brothers, some of them armed, escorted daughters and sisters to the mills. One boy was struck on the head with a bottle and rendered unconscious.

TEAMS BROKEN DOWN

There is at least one family in Indian-town of the opinion that the troubles of the coal market are not in the matter of high prices alone. This morning with the first chill of autumn air a coal cart loaded with the precious material arrived before the door, and the driver started back his wagon into the alley to get near the bin. He got safely across the street and about eight feet into the yard when the planks of the alley gave way beneath the weight and horse and wagon went through. The animal was taken safely out, but the cart stayed where it was, and the distance from the wagon to the coal hole seemed longer at every shovel-full that had to be carried.

DON'T SCOLD CROSS, IRRITABLE CHILDREN

If Tongue is Coated, Stomach Sour, Breath Ferrous, Bowels Clogged, Give "Syrup of Figs"

Mother! look at the tongue see if it is coated. If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomachache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and thirty feet of bowels are filled with poisons and clogged up waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours the foetid, decaying constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of the little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatic it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mother! always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed - a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

LA MARQUISE de FONTENOY

The Bishop of Winchester - Spain's Bereavement - Von Moltke and the Kaiser

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Co.)

The Bishop of Winchester, who is now attending the International Missionary conference at Lake Mohonk, is the prelate of the Order of the Garter, and wears his badge, fastened to a garb of ribbon, around his neck, both in his ecclesiastical robes as also in evening dress.

Like the Bishops of Durham and London, he ranks with the earls in the House of Lords; and while the Archbishops of Canterbury and York rank with the dukes, all the other prelates occupying seats in the upper house of the national legislature as spiritual lords of parliament rank with the barons.

The stipend attached to his see is something more than $200,000, but there are so many demands upon his purse in the shape of charities, and also in connection with the upkeep of his stately official residence, Farnham Castle, in Surrey, that it is only a man with some private fortune of his own who can afford to occupy this castle, his home near London.

The present Bishop of Winchester was one of Queen Victoria's favorite chaplains, and for twenty years was attached to the College at Oxford, and was translated from the bishopric of Southwark to that of Winchester last year. He is married to the Hon. Lavinia Lytton, sister of General Sir Neville Lytton, also of the headmaster of Eton, and of Alfred Lytton, who was secretary of state for the colonies in the last Unionist administration. He himself is a member of the historic house of Talbot, and through his father, a grandson of the second Earl of Talbot, Viscount of Ireland, under George IV, the head of the house of Talbot is now the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot.

Farnham Castle, his home near Guildford, is a wonderfully picturesque old place; first built by King Stephen's brother, Henry Du Bois, Bishop of Exeter, besieged and badly damaged by Oliver Cromwell and his troops in 1662, and tastefully restored by George Monmouth, Bishop of Winchester, in the reign of Charles II. It is surrounded by a beautiful park, at the gates of which stands a fine avenue of trees, which seems to have grown up around the castle of the Bishops of Winchester. It may be said that prior to the building of the castle 700 years ago, its site was occupied by a manor house, which was even then the residence of the Bishops of Winchester, in whose Cathedral church King Alfred the Great lies buried.

The announcement of the marriage of the London Baron Walter von Redek to Marguerite Burton, of Burlington, N. J., serves to recall the fact that in November, 1908, a Baron Walter von Redek, forced by his English friends to proceed against Captain Somerset Sanderson, of Castle Sanderson, County Wick, and whose younger brother, a daughter his home here with his wife, a member of the House of Commons, and the Hon. Archibald Sturges, Captain Sanderson had publicly proposed that Baron Walter von Redek was unfit to move in English society. In consequence thereof the baron had been excluded from several houses where, among them had been a welcome guest, among them being that of the now widowed Lady Numburgh, who had been a member of the court, and accumulated such a mass of sensational evidence concerning discreditable transactions in Germany, that on November 3, 1908, the case came up in the high court for trial before Justice Bigelow. King Alfonso's divorce suit, which had been a welcome guest, among them being that of the now widowed Lady Numburgh, who had been a member of the court, and accumulated such a mass of sensational evidence concerning discreditable transactions in Germany, that on November 3, 1908, the case came up in the high court for trial before Justice Bigelow.

Sudden death seems to be the fate of the members of the present reigning dynasty in Spain, and the startling unexpected death of King Alfonso's only surviving son, the Infanta Maria Theresa, is no exception. She was married to her cousin, Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria, famous as an accuser and gynecologist at Munich. Stories have been printed to the effect that the union of the late Infanta Maria Theresa with her Bavarian husband was a very unhappy one, owing to his alleged brutality, drunkenness and neglect, but there is no more foundation for these tales than there has been for similar rumors about King Alfonso's treatment of his wife and of his mother. Indeed, since Ferdinand with his wife and children lived both at Madrid and at San Sebastian under the same roof with King Alfonso and the Queen Mother Christina, it is to the last degree improbable that he would have ventured on any misconduct towards his wife, and there is every reason to believe that his marriage was wholly unclouded. His three children are in the line of succession to the throne, coming however, after the two children of the late Infanta Mercedes and, of course, after all the children of the King and Queen of Spain.

The great Field Marshal Von Moltke was famous for his taciturnity, and for the rarity of his words. His nephew, General Jans von Moltke, the most recent successor as chief of the general staff of the German army, is similarly celebrated for never smiling and always having an appearance not only of profound gloom, but even of downright misery, impressed upon his countenance. To such an extent was this the case, that the Kaiser always addressed and speaks of him as "Der traurige Julius," which may be translated as "the gloomy Julius."

There is, it must be confessed, some reason for this gloom, for the emperor is a difficult man to satisfy in military matters, and the general is perfectly well aware that his master does not consider his work as chief of the staff up to the mark. In fact, the only reason why he has been continued in office has been the difficulty of finding a suitable man for the place. But in the meanwhile he is a constant subject of imperial criticism.

What is "A Decent Bringing Up"?

By RUTH CAMERON

A LITTLE group of women were discussing the subject of race suicide the other day.

One woman, who has been married four years and has a family to match, said with a good deal of vigor that she thought that these women were wrong who were married three or four years before they had any children at all.

And then, of course, someone spoke up with that familiar argument behind which so many young married women who avoid motherhood try to shelter themselves absolutely wicked.

"I don't think it's any excuse at all for many of the women who justify themselves by it."

"You think these two statements are inconsistent?"

"A bit. It certainly isn't kind to bring children into the world when you can't afford to bring them up decently. But it is these women's idea of 'decent' with which I quarrel."

By a "decent bringing up" they do not simply mean enough good food to build a healthy body, enough education to develop an intelligent mind, and enough care and training to help form the kind of character a good citizen ought to have.

Indeed so.

When they say they can't afford to have children because they can't bring them up decently they mean they can't afford to usher them into the world with all the fuss and fanfare which the modern baby often makes his advent even into the most modest home; that they cannot afford to surround their children's babyhood with all the paraphernalia with which their wealthier friends make babyhood complex and unnatural; that they cannot afford to give them as children all the expensive playthings, the fancy frocks and elaborate gowns in which to apt their elders, and the lavish supply of spending money which the modern child must have "because all the other children do."

There are dozens of children that have a penny or two every day, said she, "and some have a dime a day, and there's one boy from up your way that comes in with a quarter almost every morning."

I remember when I was a little girl another girl told me that she and her cousin, who was visiting here, were each to have a penny a day for a week. Ever after, that girl was a marked person to me - my youthful idea of a plutocrat.

I wonder if children nowadays couldn't manage to have a happy and profitable childhood without all these luxuries and frills which we have come to consider part of "a decent bringing up."

Yes, my friends, it may be some excuse for avoiding motherhood that you really can't afford to bring up a child decently, but is it any excuse that you don't want to undergo the least accidental or loss of freedom yourself, or that you can't give a child every luxury and pleasure and thrill you might enjoy giving?

CHRISTOBAL PANKHURST ENJOYS LIFE IN PARIS AND CONTINUES TO WORK FOR VOTES FOR WOMEN

Paris, Sept. 29-Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who has been in hiding for several months, has come out from retirement and is often seen in the streets here. She is writing for English publications and is also doing individual work here to advance the cause of women's suffrage. After the window breaking in London last spring Miss Christabel escaped from the police, though her mother and many of her associates were arrested and imprisoned. Miss Christabel came to France and for several months remained in a village on the English channel within sight of England. She says now that she has no fear of the English authorities, as the offense with which she is charged is not extraditable, and she does not believe that the British government is eager for her to return to England even as a prisoner.

Five members of a family party, were drowned yesterday afternoon in the Pigeon river, near Omeene, when their canoe was overturned by the pull of a 14-pound mackinac on a trolling line held by William McCaffrey, assistant supply manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, Toronto.

The dead are: William McCaffrey, aged 38, 16 South drive.

Laura Sager McCaffrey, aged 36, his wife.

Mrs. Mary McCaffrey, Omeene, his mother.

Grace Maxine McCaffrey, aged 12, his daughter.

Howard Sager McCaffrey, aged 8, his son.

Mr. McCaffrey, a son of Charles McCaffrey, of this town, came here with his family on Friday to spend a short holiday.

With his wife, mother and two children, he started down the Pigeon river yesterday morning on a fishing expedition. The weather was fine and though rain came on towards evening, there was nothing in the nature of a squall.

No member of the party was seen alive after the canoe passed down the river. When the party did not return towards evening, Charles McCaffrey, father of the drowned man, became alarmed and organized a search party.

Seven miles down the river the canoe was discovered, floating bottom upward. Drugging operations were commenced immediately. The search continued until 9 o'clock on Sunday morning, by which time four bodies - those of McCaffrey, his wife, mother and son - had been recovered. The body of the little girl was not found until 10 o'clock this morning.

Clutched in the hand of Mr. McCaffrey when his body was found was the end of a trolling line. On the hook was a live mackinac, weighing fourteen pounds.

REGULATE HOURS OF SERVANTS

Sydney, N. S. W., Sept. 29-The government of New South Wales is contemplating introducing legislation dealing with the working conditions of house servants of all classes.

The addition to the state's industrial legislation will probably be in the direction of including all domestic servants in the schedule of the state's arbitration act, which will provide them with a wages board and regulate the hours and conditions of their employment.

DOUBLE DOMESTIC TRAGEDY

Man and His Friend's Wife Suicide in Presence of Wife and Husband

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 29-William Johnson, thirty-one years old, a business man, and Mrs. Harriet Wyman, are figures in a strange double suicide at the Wyman home.

Johnson and his wife were frequent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman. Johnson called alone and talked for two hours with Mr. and Mrs. Wyman. He said he was tired of living and wished he were dead. His wife thought his friend was crazy and went to the Johnson home for Mr. Johnson.

The four talked for more than an hour. Johnson and Mrs. Wyman then went into another room. When they returned, Wyman and Mrs. Johnson fell to the floor and both expired almost immediately. While the others were absent, they emptied two ounces of carbolic acid into a glass and each drank half of it.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

A Play With Real Merit at the Opera House Tonight

In The Fortune Hunter, Winchell Smith presents a cozy, breezy American comedy, comically funny in its conception, with a unique and carefully developed plot. The story is about a young man, who, reared in wealth and luxury, with an impractical education, finds himself at the death of his father obliged to work for a living. After many unsuccessful attempts to get along, he finally accepts the proposition of a mutual friend to go to a small town where eligible men are scarce, and win the hand of some girl whose father is wealthy.

A set of rules is laid down and a small Pennsylvania town is chosen as the place of action. How he eventually succeeds, how his experience develops his hidden business ability, and how he finally works out his own salvation and makes a huge success of his life is left to the story to unfold.

This splendid play has been given in all the first class theatres of the large American cities and begins its engagement of three days at the opera house this evening.

IN MEMORIAM

A loving memory of Mary McCormack, beloved wife of Bedford McCormack, who departed this life, Sept. 30, 1911.

Our dear one has passed and still we miss her.

"O, there is that lonely space, and we think we hear her calling, for we see her vacant place, and mournful was our parting, for the one we loved so dearly has forever passed away."

ENCOURAGING HER. At a recent birthday party a young lady gave a song:

"The autumn days have come; ten thousand leaves are falling."

She began too high, "Ten thousand" she screamed and then stopped.

"Start her at five thousand!" cried an actor who was present.

He was very affable and free with his opinions, was this young man, but that was about all he was free with. To the man who had carried his not unsteady leg to the little country-side station he had given one whole nickel.

Notwithstanding the forlorn look on the man's face, he still continued to chat in an easy manner.

"I shall never forget," he continued, "the splendor of the scenery when I was in Switzerland. It was an education to see the sun rise, tipping the little blue hills with gold."

"Ah!" interrupted the man who had talked with his bag, "them hills was luckier than me, weren't they?"

STREET RAILWAY WAITS ENGINEER'S WORD; HE FOR OFFICIAL NOTICE

Net Result is No Start Yet Towards Extension to Kane's Corner

The first steps towards extending the street railway line to Kane's Corner have not yet been taken. The management of the company said this morning that they are still waiting for the city engineer to be laid. The matter was referred to the road engineer by the city commissioner with instructions to await the return of the city engineer before commencing work.

Mr. Murdoch returned on Friday from his trip to Washington but said this morning that he had not been officially notified of the situation and intended to take it up immediately.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES

Montreal, Sept. 30 (N. B. Evening Star).—The city engineer, Mr. J. S. Fleming, has been in the city since his return from Washington. This summer has been the first in thirty years in which he has been entirely free from the cares of his office. Mr. Fleming left for Ottawa today.

PRIZES THAT HAVE BROUGHT WINNERS FAME

W. T. Stead Began Career By Winning Premium Of Boys' Paper

MASCAGNI'S START

"Cavalleria," Declared No Good, Later Wins Competition—How Mrs. Henry Wood, Zangwill and Other Novelists Learned Their Vocations

(London Tit-Bits)

That famous journalist, W. T. Stead, began his career as an author by winning a prize in a competition organized by a boys' paper.

It was in the 'sixties that a boys' journal, of which young Stead was a regular reader, offered a prize of a guinea, to be spent in books approved by the editor, for the best effort in a literary competition. The winner was announced as "W. T. Stead" and the books he chose were several volumes of the poets. It was this success which made Stead resolve to be a great writer and editor himself.

Several years back a young Italian, extremely fond of music, eked out a precarious living as the chief of the village band. He could barely keep himself and his wife comfortably, so he set about writing an opera, with the view of making money by its sale. When the book was finished he showed it to a friend, whom he took to be a critic and impartial judge of such things, and the Italian conductor's chair may well be imagined when this candid friend told him the music was "no good" in deep dejection the musician took home his work, pushed it into a drawer, and left it there for several years.

Mascagni's Good Luck

The composer thought he might as well try his luck, so he sent it to his publisher. He had to wait a long time before he was told that "Cavalleria Rusticana," given to the world and Signor Mascagni's name and fame were raised. When the opera was recently Mascagni received £2,000 a week for some weeks for coming over from Italy to conduct this same opera in London, one can imagine what his success in this prize competition has meant to him.

That prolific and most successful author, Mrs. Henry Wood, whose novels are said to have sold to the extent of over 4,000,000 copies up to now, began her career by winning a prize of £100 of each tale entered, to be by Mrs. Margaret Balle-Saunders. Since that time this clever lady has rapidly made her way to the front rank of present-day novelists, and she always frankly acknowledges that she owes her striking success to the winning of that prize competition.

A young girl in Scotland, with the idea of writing short tales well implanted with in her breast, determined to go in for one or two competitions of the kind she saw advertised in some of the weekly papers. To her great delight she won the prize for such stories—perhaps a guinea or a few volumes of books—more than once, and so she came to the conclusion that she might perhaps make a sovereign or two a year by writing tales, and delightful occupation in her leisure hours.

Archbishop of York as Prize Winner

Imbued with this notion, the young Scottish girl began to send editors her short tales, and found a ready market for them. Then she launched out into longer stories, and soon the reading world recognized that in "Annie Swan" she had found a new writer of genius whose work was always acceptable and always worth reading.

It was too, as a winner of literary prize competitions that the present Archbishop of York first found his name appearing prominently before the public. When a boy in Glasgow he was extremely fond of trying for the prizes for the best essays, criticisms of books, etc., offered by the monthly paper of the Sunday School Union. And in many cases he was the successful candidate, winning a silver medal and many volumes of books. Doubtless, though the Archbishop's name was not then in vogue, it was to produce such a brilliant preacher, thinker, and social worker as this Grace is today.

COMMON COUNCIL MATTERS TODAY

The Common Council met this afternoon for their weekly session.

The commissioner of finance and public works reported that he had before him the petition of barristers and solicitors praying that William M. Stillwell be reinstated as a constable, but after having read the evidence taken at the police court in the complaint of The King vs. Stillwell, he feels that it would be inexpedient to reinstate Mr. Stillwell, he therefore recommends that his appointment be cancelled.

The commissioners of harbors, ferries and public lands reported, recommending that motor vehicles of every description be prohibited from entering upon any city street or warehouse property on the western side of the harbor, and that notices to that effect be posted on all such property.

That the following tenders be accepted and contracts entered into:—John A. Adams, plankton platform on the northern side of No. 3 shed Sand Point, 67 cents a square yard; repairing approaches to the wharf, 87 cents a square yard; that the approaches to the ferry on the eastern side of the harbor be shored up with oak and that tenders be called for the work according to specifications, the cost thereof to be paid by a bond issue.

The commissioner of public works reported, having called for tenders for repairing the sidewalks of Charlotte and King streets, made necessary by the paving by Mrs. Balle-Saunders. She won the £100 prize for the best story, and she was awarded a £50 prize for the best story of a certain length sent in to him by a new writer. The winning story was "Saints in Society," and this was discovered, from the sealed envelope accompanying each tale entered, to be by Mrs. Margaret Balle-Saunders. Since that time this clever lady has rapidly made her way to the front rank of present-day novelists, and she always frankly acknowledges that she owes her striking success to the winning of that prize competition.

A young girl in Scotland, with the idea of writing short tales well implanted with in her breast, determined to go in for one or two competitions of the kind she saw advertised in some of the weekly papers. To her great delight she won the prize for such stories—perhaps a guinea or a few volumes of books—more than once, and so she came to the conclusion that she might perhaps make a sovereign or two a year by writing tales, and delightful occupation in her leisure hours.

MC 2035 POOR DOCUMENT

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1912

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPTEMBER 30, 1912.

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE UNIONIST TREASON
All the white people in the British Empire outside of the British Isles would comprise considerably less than two cities the size of London. The fact of the Empire and its solidarity is entirely due to the Liberal policy of Colonial freedom and self-government, which the different elements composing it enjoy. The loyalty and co-operation of other races in that Empire have been secured, not by fiscal or political restrictions, but through the wise grant of free institutions.

The policy which the Unionists so nobly advocate for Ireland, applied to the other parts of the Empire, would result in complete dismemberment. Centralization and federal control may be good things, but decentralization and local control have been the policies of the Empire since long before our time.

The Imperial Parliament legislates for an area one hundred times greater than the United Kingdom, and for nearly one-third of the world's population. It covers every range of latitude and touches every variety of temperament. It is a dignified and august assembly, but at present it is regarded with suspicion by a large and growing assembly, and it is a matter of public opinion, and a board of health that will follow the public command and the public conscience. There are intolerable conditions that are beyond the control of the individuals whom they injure, but they are not beyond the control of the society that tolerates them. In the warfare against the pernicious forces in our cities the first need is for information, and the second need is for united action among all those forces that hope through different methods to introduce lasting reforms.

The audience at the Canadian Club this evening should be one of the largest on record. Lord Milner is an Imperial missionary of uncommon gifts, and his thoughtful and reasonable address during his former tour of Canada were heard with wide appreciation.

Ulster Day did not provide much more than fireworks. H. F. Gadsby, in a cable to The Telegraph, says of yesterday's demonstration: "About the strongest sentiment quoted was the Duke of Abercorn's slogan, 'We will not have Home Rule.' This is not exactly an epigram, but it sounds heavy coming from a duke." The speaker thing now about the Ulster situation is that the Asquith government will proceed calmly with its Home Rule measure.

So cool a morning as this one should remind the Mayor and commissioners, and the management of the street railway, and the city engineer, that the time remaining for the extension of the street car line to Kane's Corner is now very short. Some days ago it was said the situation awaited the arrival of Mr. Murdoch, who had been in the United States. Now that he is home we must hope that the last obstacle of progress has disappeared.

Mr. Arnold Rowntree, a British member of parliament, who has been touring the Canadian West said at Winnipeg—"I think it would be a great deal better if we from Great Britain came among you here in Canada as learners, and not as teachers. There are matters on which the people should not be brought in question by anyone from the old country, no matter who." Mr. Rowntree doubtless means that visitors should refrain from giving advice on purely domestic questions. There is much to be said for that view. It is well, also, to remember that not a few Canadians who recently visited Great Britain have given there considerable gratuitous advice about matters of which no one expected them of knowing very much.

MORNING LOCALS
On account of the fright which has accompanied both at St. John and Digby the steamer Prince Rupert was compelled to make an extra trip yesterday. She left here at 7:30 in the morning and returned about 10 o'clock. She carried a full load of freight each way.
M. E. Grass and Dr. James Manning returned on Saturday after a hunting trip to Queen's county. They shot a fine moose and secured a good bag of partridges.
Rev. Dr. J. A. Moran, who is at present in this city, has been appointed by the governor of Illinois to represent the state at a prison reform convention in Baltimore from Nov. 5 to 14. He has not yet decided whether or not he will accept.
In a report of the temperance rally in Queen Square Methodist church last Thursday night, it was said that Colonel A. J. Armstrong spoke briefly and "complimented" Rev. Mr. Robinson on his address, etc. This was a mistake. It was Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Anderson, Col. Armstrong's successor at the army, who spoke. Colonel Armstrong was unable to attend.
Carl Cunningham, a machinist in Williams' machine shop, in the North End, had his hand torn between the thumb and index finger while he was working at one of the large drills in the shop on Saturday. Dr. McCarthy rendered medical aid.
The ferry steamer Ludlow is again in commission, after having undergone overhauling. The Governor Carleton has been laid up for repairs.
W. D. Pearce, who made many friends in St. John two years ago when he came here with the string running horses which furnished good sport at the Moosepath Park, is in the city, registered at the Dufferin. He is now representing the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, of Canada, Limited, manufacturers of billiard tables, bowling alleys, etc., and he says that a maritime branch is to be opened soon, possibly in this city. Mr. Pearce will be in this territory until Christmas.

LIGHTER VEIN

THE SADDEST DAYS.
The melancholy days are come,
The saddest of the year,
Oh, pause and sympathize with him
While father sheds a tear.
It is a time that breaks the heart—
A time that rends the soul
For he has just been out and bought
His first ton of hard coal.

TOO SENTIMENTAL.
First girl—"So you're not engaged to him any longer?"
Second girl—"Oh, no; I had to break it off."
"Why, what was the matter?"
"The simpton got too sentimental. He was beginning to talk of marriage."

THE "HAPPY" ENDING.
"Myrtle, can you cook?"
"No, Emmet. Can you afford to keep a motor car?"
"No, dear."
"So you did not marry, and they lived happily ever afterward."

TOO MUCH.
"Doesn't your choir sing at the prison any more?"
"Several of the prisoners objected on the ground that it wasn't included in their sentence."

A PENCIL BOX.
Two children were talking.
"What do you get the pencil box?" asked one.
"Down at the little store by the school."
"Fifteen cents. It's got a key."
"I'm going to have a better one than that."
"Are you?"
"Yes, I'm going to have one with clouds in it and a picture on it like in a picture. It's going to cost a quarter."
"I think mine is pretty nice."
"Aw, just wait till you see mine. Mine's going to have places inside for erasers, and a board of health that will follow the public command and the public conscience. There are intolerable conditions that are beyond the control of the individuals whom they injure, but they are not beyond the control of the society that tolerates them. In the warfare against the pernicious forces in our cities the first need is for information, and the second need is for united action among all those forces that hope through different methods to introduce lasting reforms."

VERY SERIOUS.
A medical man is a keen cricketer, if an unlucky one. Occasionally he turns out for the local club on a Saturday afternoon. He had long nursed the hope that some day he would score a hundred runs, but that was in his own mind, and he was preparing to "knock the next delivery off the earth," when a little interruption occurred.
The scorer's son suddenly left the scoring box and raced across the turf towards the pitch.
"Doctor! Doctor!" he gasped, as he ran.
"You're nearly done! Only one run wanted, and—"
"Yes, I know," returned the batsman, rather testily. "Run away, my boy."
"But, doctor, it's very serious!" persisted the youngster. "Only one run wanted, and—"
"I'll be damned if I'm going to let that doctor field after that!"

PROPHETS OF FROST.
Some say we've had our summer time.
Some swear that we have not;
'Twas cold and rainy, only I'm
Sure that one week was hot.
But, cold or warm, each autumn storm
Strikes from a nest to me.
The sounds that call the coming fall
Bring terror to my ear;
And ere the sun goes down the land
I listen with a fright.
To the locusts in the daytime and
The katydid at night!
The grasshopper may rasp all day,
The cricket chirp at eve;
It may be June, it may be May,
I do not hear or grieve,
The teeming grow-up, the balling grow-up
And soothe me to my rest;
I love the words the little birds
Repeat from a nest to me.
But oh! I hate and cannot stand
The harsh, prophetic spite
Of the locust in the daytime and
The katydid at night!
We smell the autumn from afar
Unless we have hay fever;
We know what all her symptoms are,
And yet we don't believe her;
We can't attack the almanac,
And yet we could forget
The mild cold cough such hints to lose,
But these two bends won't let it!
They scrape our nerves, destroy our sand,
They very soon they light,
The locust in the daytime and
The katydid at night!

NEAL DAY DRINK 3 CURE

NERVOUS DRINKING MEN

Men Who Have to Drink to Keep From Becoming Nervous MAY BE CURED IN JUST THREE DAYS

The nervous drinking man; the man who has to take a drink before breakfast, and two or three after breakfast, and several during the day, to keep from becoming nervous, will find the Neal Treatment cures perfectly in just three days. It relieves them entirely of the necessity of drinking for any cause, as it steadies the nerves, supplies the nerve centres with vital force which rebuilds the whole nervous system. It restores the digestive organs, the drinking man's weak point, purifies the blood, eliminating every trace of alcoholic poison from the system, in just three days, thus restoring the drinking man to a normal mental and physical condition, so far as the effects of alcohol are concerned.

A railroad attorney traveling on a personal mission, requested the train conductor to file a telegram at an approaching station and was curtly advised to attend to his own business.

As the train came to a stop, he sought to leave his car but found the vestibule doors locked. By the time he had run through the train it was too late for him to accomplish his desired purpose, and an important connection was missed.

Meeting the conductor, he informed him of his status with the road and roundly scolded the man for his business. "Why didn't you tell me who you were?" was the reply. "I would gladly have accommodated you; I took you for one of the passengers in the tourist car. I am sorry that I was hasty."

"You are not sorry that you were disobliging," rejoined the lawyer, "but sorry that you made the mistake of being incontinent to some one with sufficient influence to have you reprimanded."

There are far too many little men who mistake a tiny responsibility for great power. The average citizen is constantly humiliated and inconvenienced by minor employes who overestimate the extent of their authority. All men who pay an equal price for services are entitled to an equal degree of civility. The world is filled with petty bullies. One of the hardest tasks of public service corporations is their inability to secure complaints against their servants. Big business, however much it may be criticized for its grasping and greed, is none the less intelligent and realizes the profit that lies in good will. Every protest against neglect and official inactivity guarantees better treatment to the next man.—Herbert Kaufman in Woman's World for October.

"Uncle Ike" to "Dear Bertha" (Winnet correspondence Hartford Courant).

Do you know "Dear Bertha" or "Uncle Ike"? If so, you are in a position to do one or both a favor and incidentally aid the employees of the Winnet post office in the performance of their duties. There is a card at the office for "Bertha" and the message that it contains is such that Postmaster Glynn and his clerks are anxious to have it reach its destination. The message is as follows:

"Dear Bertha—If you go to the church I left some cheese on the plate near the organ. Will you take it away, if there is any left, and put in the furnace."

"UNCLE IKE."

The writer neglected to add Bertha's address, and consequently when the card reached the office it was posted in the lobby with the dozens of others that are held for one reason or another.

Girl in the Taxi Scores Success at Once, But Grass Widows the Opposite—Somerset Maugham Returns to Play Writing

(Times' Special Correspondence)

London, Sept. 17.—Just as the moment when we were all congratulating ourselves on the brilliant opening of the autumn season there has come a very distinct slump to chill our enthusiasm. Of course, the set-back is only partial and has practically had no influence upon successful novelties. At His Majesty's for instance, "Drawn to the Stars" continues to perform, and gives every appearance of having settled down to a long and prosperous career. Trees told me that on Tuesday last they had done the biggest booking at the box office ever known, having taken close upon $2,000 across the counter. This is independent of what the Bond street libraries are doing. And I need hardly state they are not idle.

To return, however, to the question of the slump. Among others mentioned are, of course, "Milestone," Marie Tempest's new comedy "Art and Opportunity," and "Princess Caprice," but even such recent productions as "Ready Money" at the New Theatre and "The Girl in the Taxi" at the Haymarket acknowledge a slight fall in receipts.

In the last week two musical comedies have challenged public judgment, "The Girl in the Taxi" at the Apollo, and "The Grass Widows" at the Apollo. As to the fate of each there never was the slightest doubt. "The Girl in the Taxi" was as evidently destined to attain success as a dollar evening than that spent at the Apollo I have rarely known.

Constantin Djerassi jumped into fame with "The Chocolate Soldier" could do nothing with a part devoid of opportunities and, although he was not accorded heavily in the bravura song, "My Man," the circumstances served only to confirm the old adage, "The show must go on." In writing the score, Gus Kerker has evidently aimed at beating "The Chocolate Soldier" for its most serious vein.

"The Grass Widows" and Graham Moffatt's comedy "The Girl in the Taxi" had the two unquestionable failures of the season, although I very much fear that "The Girl in the Taxi" will have a comparatively brief career. Should this prove to be the case I expect we shall see "The Girl in the Taxi" before many weeks are over. There is just a possibility, on the other hand, that Charles Hawker may have with a new farce by "George Birmingham," which is the pseudonym adopted by a well-known dramatist, who has hitherto devoted himself to the writing of novels.

Bernhardt in Vaudeville

Sarah Bernhardt comes to us next Monday in vaudeville. Her engagement at the Coliseum for six weeks has been chosen an act of Victor Hugo's "Lucrèce Borgia" for her reappearance. We are getting up what has been called a "national tribute" to her. This takes the form of an address written by a popular novelist, Max Pemberton, to which the signatures of all sorts and conditions of people, from the highest to the lowest, are to be attached. Separate sheets have been distributed widespread through the length and breadth of the land, and these have been signed and returned they will be bound together in a handsome volume and presented to the divine writing of that event I spoke of her as "being sixty-nine" from her home in Belle-Ile—she sends me a kindly correction that she will be only sixty-eight; and as at her advanced age even a twelve-month counts for a good deal she asks me to give all publicity to the circumstance. This I gladly do.

It may be within your recollection that Somerset Maugham a short time ago announced his intention of giving the stage a rest in order to revert to his first love, novel writing. The glamor of the footlights has proved too strong for him, however, and, although he is keeping the fact particularly secret, I happen to know that he is getting on rapidly with a new play. I can only wish him better luck with it than that which he had with his last, "Leaves and Fishes."

Of the three dramatists responsible for Charles Frohman's new triple bill at the Duke of York's two have returned to town. These are Pinero and Bernard Shaw. J. M. Barrie still lingers in the wilds of Scotland, or rather on the shores of a remote island far away in the Hebrides. He writes from there that banded salmon fishing there is little or nothing to be done. He appears, nevertheless, to be enjoying himself fairly well. Pinero has already started rehearsals of his little piece, the two principal characters in which are to be played by Fred Kerr and Cyril Maude's charming daughter, Margery Maude. In producing it he will have the assistance of his brother, who will also produce Barrie's playlet. Bernard Shaw in all probability will take charge of his own.

George Alexander, after a few weeks at Marlborough, went off to Sandwich to polish up his gun on the famous links there. He is particularly ardent in his pursuit of the little ball, generally spending his week-ends at Chertsey, where he is in an excellent course. So enamored of the neighborhood is he that he is building himself quite a large house there. He returned to town yesterday and on Monday will resume rehearsals of "The Turn of Mind" as the version of Henry Kistemaecker's "La Flambee" is to be called at the St. James'. I twitted him rather on the subject of so lengthy a holiday—it has extended to two months. But he only laughed and answered "Why not? I have had a very good year with 'Bella Donna,' and I think I deserve an equally good rest." To which proposition I could only give an unqualified agreement, for if

Every Woman a Success

I think you may take it that "Every Woman" is a success at Drury Lane. Arthur Collins has put the piece on most sumptuously and many of the scenic effects are altogether admirable. Piccadilly Circus at night with its motor cars, its crowd of promenaders and its animated glimpses of the interior of the Criterion restaurant makes a particularly striking picture; elsewhere Walter Browne's ideas have been carried out in a manner which he, had, he been alive to witness the production, would certainly have appreciated highly. Alexander's "Belle Donna" looked singularly beautiful and, in the title role, carried off acting honors. H. Irving, on the other hand, proved

OFFICIALS VISIT MACHINISTS

William H. Johnston and Louis Bestion, respectively president and vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, arrived in the city on Saturday and on Saturday night addressed a large meeting of machinists. They are touring eastern Canada in the interests of the association. At Saturday night's meeting nine joined and fourteen applied for membership.

The International Union of Machinists now has a membership of more than 80,000 men in good standing, and has organized eighty locals so far this year. Mr. Johnston was much pleased with the eastern parts of Canada, and expressed the opinion that there would be big developments in St. John and Moncton in the next few years.

CONDITION OF THE ARMENIANS IS DECLARED DESPERATE

Protests to Turkish Government Bring Only Regrets, While Slaughter Goes On

Constantinople, Sept. 30.—The massacres in Armenia have spurred the patriarch, the bishops and the leaders of the Armenian church to action. They have decided to submit to the Sublime Porte telegrams from the interior containing information concerning these crimes, and to implore speedy assistance. This kind of demonstration on the part of the Armenian authorities is always ineffective, and the Armenians know it. They protest in a mechanical way, so chronic is the evil, so desperate the situation.

A day or two ago the Armenian Patriarch appealed to the minister of the interior. The latter replied that he knew the grievances, but that means of communication in the far-off provinces is so deficient that speedy help was impossible. Meanwhile departing outrages continue to reach the metropolis. The Kurds are unmoved, their sufferings are unceasing, and their work of plunder and violation, of incendiarism and slaughter. They are unpunished and no one dares to afflict upon them any chastisement.

Of all the people who inhabit the Ottoman territories the Armenians are the most unfortunate and the most to be pitied. Their lot is tragic in the highest degree, their sufferings are unceasing. There is no manner of atrocity which they have not been submitted to, no kind of martyrdom they have not undergone. Scarcely a day passes without news of pillage and massacre in the Armenian provinces of Van, Bitlis, or Diarbekir, but the people of Constantinople have become accustomed to such tidings. One only shakes his head, clasps his hands, and sighs in hopeless despair.

The Armenians themselves look upon their misfortunes as their inevitable destiny, irremediable and beyond the possibility of cure. Their senses have been blunted, their wills dulled. They have become apathetic to the unexampled cruelty of their fate.

After the deposition of Abdul Hamid, it was believed that the lot of these people would soon improve. sanguine hopes were entertained that with the advent of a liberal regime a new era of freedom and peace would dawn. Everybody was disappointed. The terrible massacre of Adams was a grievous answer to the expectations of the Armenians.

Almost everything has been changing in the Ottoman Empire, only the tragic condition of the Armenians has remained the same. Of late this condition has become worse, as the Ottoman government are so preoccupied by immediate political affairs, nigh at hand that they have forgotten the oppressed Armenians. Other nations in Turkey suffer terribly from mismanagement or reckless neglect of elementary duties on the part of the Ottoman government, but they are capable of helping themselves. They rise in revolt, make heavy reprisals, and frequently obtain redress. This is the case with the Arabs and the Albanians.

It is, however, altogether different with the Armenians, who are not a warlike people, and have forgotten how to use arms. Although at one time they were brave and skilled in the art of war, they have become now, through ages of subjugation and oppression, so debilitated that even the ordinary spirit of self-defence has long left them.

NEW CATHOLIC COLONY BY ARCHBISHOP OF VANCOUVER

Seventy Families at Pitt Meadows, B.C., Placed on Rich Land

Pitt Meadows, B. C., Sept. 30.—Representatives of Archbishop McNeil and of a colony now established in Phoenix, B. C., met in Pitt-Meadows recently to discuss arrangements for the reception of a settlement of seventy families here. This is part of a colonization scheme inaugurated by Archbishop McNeil, of Vancouver, for Catholic colonies in British Columbia. Some 700 acres have been secured so that each of the families will probably be allotted ten acres.

MAKER OF AEROPLANES IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Baroness de la Roche, First Woman Aviator, is Seriously Injured

Lyon, France, Sept. 30.—Charles Voisin, constructor of aeroplanes, was killed in an automobile accident, and Baroness de la Roche, a noted woman aviator, was seriously injured. The Baroness de la Roche was frightfully injured by a fall at Rennes on July 8, 1910, and has not been taking a very active part in air work since. The Baroness was formerly a show girl in the company of the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre. Six years ago she left the stage and married the Baron de la Roche. She was the first woman in the world to learn how to drive an aeroplane, and made her first flight in a Voisin biplane in October, 1910.

The Indians of several western states have all the rights of citizens, but are not allowed to draw their money from the bank except on the presentation of an order from the Indian agent. One Indian is said to be worth $10,000, which he obtained by the sale of land, but he is unable to draw a dollar of it without the agent's permission.

A man in Edgemoor, S. D. who is advertising in the newspaper for a wife, concludes his advertisement as follows: "I want a big, strong woman who is a good worker in the field at light work like plowing, digging potatoes and loading hay. So it is no use for foolish, trifling girls to answer this, for I mean business. Not necessary to be beautiful or very young."

BELIEVED HIMSELF A MURDERER; YOUTH PUT END TO HIS OWN LIFE

Cobalt, Sept. 30.—After shooting three times at George Wilkes, proprietor of the Ottawa House here, and thinking he had killed him, J. K. Wilkes had garbed McDonald's wages at the Nipissing Mine, and McDonald's grievance rose over action.

BRITISHERS ALWAYS AS ONE BEFORE THE WORLD

(Continued from page 1) contribution itself. If it is right in principle for Canada to contribute to imperial defence, I feel, and the majority of our people in the old country feel the same, that Canada should be invited to contribute to the government of the empire in proportion to such contribution. As an imperialist, I do not think it is right that we should stand together in the presence of other nations, but I have not cut and dried plan to suggest.

"I believe that the vast majority of the British people are in favor of giving Canada a seat in the councils of the empire. Our idea of Canada is not as a tributary nation, but as an ally and an associate, and I do not think it is right that we should stand together in the presence of other nations, but I have not cut and dried plan to suggest."

Speaking of the home rule discussion in Great Britain, Lord Milner said that the question at stake seemed to be whether Ireland should continue in the same relation to Great Britain as one of the provinces, or whether it should be separated and become a position more similar to that existing between Canada and Great Britain. He did not wish to commit himself to any expression of opinion regarding the merits of the controversy, and said that if a referendum was held on the subject, he believed that the people of Great Britain would find to be almost equally divided.

The Basis of Cost in Clothes

What makes the difference in cost of clothes? Why $25 and why $50? Cheaper wools and shoddy mixtures can be bought in Suits as low as $10 and $12. But these are fabrics which cannot be guaranteed.

Whether it is fine wool or coarse wool counts for more than the difference in weave or pattern. Every new pattern is first shown in the expensive or finer grade of wool, and is afterwards copied in the coarser wool.

There is little difference in the cost of work when it is done by machinery, so that the chief difference in the cost of a suit lies in the quality of the wool and the other fabrics and materials used in the tailoring of the suit.

A $15 suit is of necessity made of cheaper wool than the $35 suit. The relative fineness is as 80 to 40 in coarser wools, and as 80 to 26 in the fine and the coarse wools.

There is a pound of wool or more in every yard of cloth. Better linings and materials are used in the making of fine clothes.

In a first-class tailor shop, where skilled labour is employed, the cost of making and trimming a suit ranges from $12 to $18. Some costmakers are paid as high as $12 for making a coat. In these shops a Semi-ready suit at $30, or one of the same quality of cloth and workmanship, will cost $45 to $50.

In an immense business like Semi-ready Tailoring, with an organization extending from the Wool Exchange in Bradford, England, to every point in Canada, every basic of economy and quality is studied. Semi-ready suits at $15 to $35 are the best value you can possibly buy at the label price.

One Planned For November—King Desires For Prince of Wales to Visit Canada—English Movement for Better Observation of Sunday

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Sept. 17—Many among the organizations that depend for funds mainly on the support of subscription lists are complaining the approaching winter season with keen anxiety.

While, naturally, none of these agencies is prepared to admit the extent of their losses from this cause within the last year or two, there is general agreement that it is increasingly difficult to coax money from the public, and that the financial problem is becoming acute.

SOME DAY A PEER; IS NOW A SQUAW MAN

Educated and Accomplished; Traverser is Trapper in Peace River Country

WEDDED TO INDIAN GIRL

Five Years in Mounted Rifles in South Africa, Then Brilliant Officer in North West Mounted Police—Story Romantic

(Times Special Correspondence) Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 30—Trapping and hunting big game and fishing along the upper reaches of the Peace River district in the silent north, accompanied by his young wife, a full-blooded Indian, acknowledged to be the most beautiful woman of the Cree tribe, and the child, a man who will eventually be a peer of the British nobility. He is known as Traverser, an educated and accomplished officer in the North West Mounted Police.

Traverser was one of those unfortunate known in the old country among the higher classes as a 'younger son.' When six years of age, his family shipped him off to South Africa, where he served five years in the Mounted Rifles.

CLYDE HIT BY PREFERENCE GIVEN CANADIAN FIRMS

But There Was Ten Per Cent Against Them

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Sept. 17—Shipping circles are concerned at an item to which prominence has been given by the 'Shipping Gazette' which states that a well-known firm of Clyde shipbuilders were recently in negotiation with the Canadian government regarding the construction of two dredgers for service in the St. Lawrence.

The firm was not successful in obtaining the contract but they learned that the Canadian government was not to be put off by the fact that the last minute the dominion authorities gave a preference of ten per cent to home firms.

TURKEY STILL ASKING FOR EXPLANATIONS

Constantinople, Sept. 28—According to the official count of the attack on Aleksandar, Sept. 23, the attacking party was not composed of Malissort tribesmen but Montenegrins. Eight Turkish soldiers and two boatsmen were killed and 18 were taken prisoner.

The foreign minister replied that the assignment was detained because of the doubtful attitude of Serbia. Dr. Nemadovich declared that the Serbian police was unchanged, and that Serbia desired friendly relations with Turkey.

The Turkish foreign minister then asked for a written statement embodying these assurances. The Serbian minister has referred the matter to Belgrade, and is awaiting instructions.

WHITE SLAVE TRADERS CARRY OUT THEIR WORK NOW IN RHODESIA

London, Sept. 29—The white slave trade has penetrated to Rhodesia. Very serious reports to hand tell of cases in which women have been decoyed across the frontier of the British South Africa Company's territory into Portuguese East Africa.

Some little while ago advertisements appeared in the local papers stating that barmaids were wanted in Mozambique, and offering very high wages.

It is a growing belief that the Canadian boards of trade must in a great measure be the instruments of trade expansion between the two countries and if they succeed in removing the cause of its present limitations a great work will be accomplished.

Mr. Sclanders expresses his surprise at the inexplicable apathy of English manufacturers and speaks of the 'unreasonable discrimination of your merchants and manufacturers to grant to our solid business concerns such terms of payment, etc., as our exigencies demand.'

"Most British houses now dealing half-heartedly with our merchants," he says, "demand cash in return for bill of lading, the goods meantime being retained at Montreal. Consequently our people are required to pay for old country goods about three weeks before they arrive here."

Saskatoon, he says, has not had a single commercial failure and British houses can easily get information respecting the standing of its merchants through agents of Canadian banks in London. The lesson brought home is that the trade is going to America and until British methods are altered this will continue.

Woodstock, Sept. 29—It has been decided that the contract for the Fisher Memorial Library will not be let this fall. Tenders for the work have been received, and the contractor of the poor estate announced that the contract will be awarded early in the spring. The building is to cost $25,000.

Missionaries of Empire are These Traveling Commissioners of English and Scotch Papers

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Sept. 17—It has been frequently noted that so great is the demand of the British reader for up to date information about Canada that British editors now allot a considerable portion of their space to this space and in many Scotch weekly papers no item is looked forward to with greater interest than the letters from natives who speak of the country.

Scottish Surveyor Came Through Much Excitement and Adventure

DEATH OF NATIVE KING

Stewart Recounts Strange Ceremonies at Funeral and Quinary of People as to Which of Three Sons Would Succeed Monarch

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Sept. 17—In the hinterland of Liberia, on the west coast of Africa, the natives are waiting because of the death of King Bango, and the dead king's three sons are trying to settle which of them shall occupy the throne and inherit their late father's large herd of cattle.

James Stewart, a Scottish surveyor, who with a party of special commissioners arrived through the district, has just returned home, after an absence of three years.

Mr. Stewart says that these were three years of "intense excitement and prodigious adventure," and one of the most interesting events at which he and one of his companions were present was the funeral of the African king.

This dumpy monarch was Bango, nearly as the name can be translated, and he ruled over a region where white men are seldom seen, and where the only white man who came to the country was a trader.

The king who had just died had been a very great man indeed, and he was feared more than usual, for he was a ruler that was a grandson of a half-breed.

Salvation Army. IN FRENCH CAPITAL. (Continued from page 8). For only 120 of the 1,000 which left Rome arrived at Paris. Their subsequent career was as chequered in France as in England; but it seems to have been left to 1912 for them to become the cause of something very like an international complication.

New York to Paris Race. London, Sept. 30.—An international motor race from New York to Paris is to be arranged. Sir Thomas Lipton has agreed to build a motor boat to enter this race, provided there are three other entrants. He suggests an alternative course, from Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—Boston on both eleven suffered from the deadly bowling in the second day's play of the cricket match between the gentlemen of Philadelphia and London, finishing at the House of Commons on Westminster Day. The change has not been acquiesced in up to the present. It is thought the French government will offer more encouragement for the race.

LOCAL NEWS

BURIED TODAY.
The funeral of Mrs. H. B. Brown took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from her late home in Sheriff street. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. Hutchinson, and interment was in Fernhill.

I. C. R. LABOR SCHEDULE.
Two officials of the department of railways and canals, A. G. Bell and W. B. Cope of Ottawa, are in the city today. Their visit is in connection with the schedules of wages and labor among the employees of the I. C. R. Among other details, they will endeavor to learn to what return is being given for the wage paid.

DINNER TONIGHT.
The executive of the Y. M. C. A. are making preparations for a good time at the dinner to be given to C. D. Howard, the newly appointed physical director, in Bond's restaurant tonight. The president of the association, W. C. Cross, will preside, and an excellent programme of addresses and songs has been arranged. There will also be a short musical and literary programme. The chair will be taken at 8:30 o'clock.

HOME FROM WEST.
Mr. and Mrs. H. Patchell returned to their home in Stanley street this morning after a visit to the west. Mrs. Patchell left early in June and has been on a visit to her sons in Edmonton, Winnipeg, and Calgary. Her husband joined her about six weeks ago and they returned today. Mr. Patchell, while greatly impressed with the possibilities of the west, is content to stay in St. John which he says is good enough for him. While away he was pleased to note that much interest was being evinced in what was known as the awakening of the east.

FORMER ST. JOHN MAN.
After an illness lasting only three days, Frederick Dalzell, formerly of St. John, died on last Thursday at his home, 125 Florence street, New Bedford, Mass. The sad news came to his brothers Joseph and James, here, Mr. Dalzell was fifty-two years old and is survived by his second wife and several children. His first wife, who died some years ago, was Miss Agnes Cooper of this city. While here Mr. Dalzell was engaged in cabinet making. He is sixteen years since he left St. John for the states but many here hold him in pleasant memory and will be sorry to learn of his death.

MANY TO WISH GODSPEED.
At the Eastern S. S. Company's pier on Saturday evening, on the departure of the S. S. Galvin Austin for Boston, gathered a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Jones to bid them farewell on leaving for Los Angeles to make their home there. Among the incidents was the presentation of a handsome bouquet to Mrs. Jones by her husband's friends including Mystic Shriners, Mr. and Mrs. Jones were accompanied by their son Ralph. Also with them was Miss Madeline Francis, who will spend a year with them in Los Angeles, Miss Marie Flagler, on her way to Boston to spend two months, was also of the party.

TO SAVE $700 A YEAR TO THE CITY

Commissioners See Chance at Ferry Landing—New Survey of North End

A plan which is expected to save the city $700 a year was recommended for adoption at the meeting of the commissioners at noon today. In the past the cost of repairs to the piling at the ferry has averaged $1,600 a year and to lessen this the commissioners have decided to sheath the piling with oak planks. A careful estimate indicates that this will reduce the annual repair bill to not more than $900 a year. Another important matter discussed this morning was the need for a survey of the North End of the city which has not been surveyed since the time of the great fire in 1877. The old plans are still in existence and they have been the only guide for this part of the city. As conditions have changed materially in the last thirty-five years a new survey is needed and the commissioners decided this morning to authorize the engineering department to proceed with the work as soon as possible. It will be undertaken this fall. The commissioners also made a grant for a telephone in the residence of David Doig, superintendent of water and sewerage.

MARRIED THIS MORNING

In St. Peter's church with nuptial mass and six o'clock this morning a pretty wedding took place when two popular people of North End, William J. Kelly, and Miss Bridget, daughter of Mrs. Hannah McIntyre were united in marriage by Rev. A. J. Duke, C. S. S. R. in the presence of immediate relatives and friends. The groom was supported by Frank Howard, while Miss Ellen McIntyre, sister of the bride, assisted her. The bride was nicely gowned in blue serge tailored costume, and wore a large picture hat. She carried a white prayer book. Her sister, as bridesmaid, was prettily attired in blue with hat to correspond. After the wedding, breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 150 Victoria street. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly received many handsome presents of a useful and valuable nature. The groom's present to his bride was a handsome mother-of-pearl prayer book to the bridesmaid a beautiful mother of pearl rosary, and to the best man a neat set of gold cuff links. Among those present at the wedding were Mrs. J. Scribner and son, Samuel, of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will reside in Victoria street.

THE POLICE COURT

ST. PETER'S THROGGED AT OPENING OF MEN'S MISSION ON SUNDAY

Eleven Hundred at Evening Service and Church Filled Again Early This Morning

Nearly 1,100 men congregated in St. Peter's church, North End, last evening at the opening of their mission. They filled every available seat in the main portion of the church, crowded the gallery, and occupied special reservations inside the altar railing and at the rear of the church. It was a great sight, an entire male congregation, married men and single, old and young, their ages covering a wide range, many still in their teens, and many others past the allotted threescore and ten. They came from all parts of the city and surroundings, but mostly from St. Peter's parish itself. This morning also, there was another large male congregation at the mission mass celebrated by Rev. Edward Scully, C.S.S.R., of Toronto, at the early hour of five o'clock. The services for men will continue all this week.

The services last evening consisted of the recitation of the rosary, congregational singing, sermons and benediction. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Hogan, C.S.S.R., of Toronto, and he was followed with close attention in an inspiring discourse on the "Saving of the Immortal Soul."

His words fell upon appreciative ears and his sermon made a deep impression upon all. Father Hogan spoke upon the value of the soul in the eyes of Almighty God, dwelling at length upon the text: "What would it avail a man to gain the whole world if he lose his immortal soul?" The various sins for which the soul must suffer were scored by the speaker, aims against the commandments of God and the precepts of His church. He discoursed upon the necessity of at all times adhering to the commands of God, and endeavoring to lead as truly a Christian life as possible. Intemperance and impurity were dwelt upon by Father Hogan, and he compared the constant demand to the best of the field, modifying his statements in favor of the dumb animals. The sufferings of Christ, from His birth on the December evening in the little stable at Bethlehem, to His passion and death upon the cross, were appealingly described by the missionary. He took his listeners back nineteen hundred years and more to the Garden of Gethsemane, to the Court of Pilate, and to the mount of Calvary, emphasizing the love of Jesus for His people, the sacrifice He made for their redemption, allowing His blood to flow that they might be saved from sin, and offering Himself to His Holy Father for their sake that the entrance to Heaven might be opened unto them.

In closing, Father Hogan appealed to the men in the congregation to try to so conduct themselves as to show to their Divine Redeemer their great love for Him, their appreciation of His work, and their realization of the fact that by dying upon the cross on Calvary He made it possible for them to enjoy the eternal joys of Heaven in company with Himself, His Virgin Mother, and the angels and saints. This could be accomplished by remaining in a state free from sin, by frequent absolution in the tribunal of penance, and by endeavoring to go all in their power to lead good Christian lives, to spread worthy example, remaining out of the danger of mortal sin, which left a blackening blot behind and which rendered it difficult to attend to the saving of the immortal soul.

The mission for the women of the parish was a distinct success and brought out a large crowd. It was finished yesterday afternoon at three o'clock when the church was filled to overflowing.

INTERSCHOLASTIC FOOTBALL LEAGUE IS ABOUT REORGANIZED

Meeting Here on Saturday—Three Teams To Contest For Honors

At a meeting of delegates from the Fredericton High School, Robbsey College and St. John High School here on Saturday, the Inter-Scholastic Football League for the season was practically reorganized. C. M. Lawson of this city, formerly coach of the Fredericton team, represented Fredericton; B. D. Millidge and D. W. Macnam of the St. John High School, and Messrs. Hunter and Lockhart were present in the interests of the Robbsey team. The meeting was held in the High School building.

A schedule for the season was drawn up but was not satisfactory to all and it was decided to allow this matter to stand over for the present. It is likely that the first game will be played here on or about October 5, the opposing teams to be Robbsey and St. John. The Fredericton team are anxious to have the first game take place at the capital.

All three will have better teams on the field than last season, although some of the departments may be a trifle weaker. The local school fifteen have been practicing diligently of late and expect to be in good form when the whistle is blown for the opening game.

In speaking of the Fredericton team, the Fredericton Glensay says:—"The local school will have a strong team in the field this year and as they won the championship last year they will try hard to hold the cup for another year. Eight of last year's team are available this year and there is much promising new material."

"The games will be played in College Field this year as Captain Hal Murray of the U. N. B. team has kindly placed the field at the disposal of the High School management."

"It is the intention of the local school to have the first game played here Oct. 12."

ARTILLERY PROMOTIONS

The promotion of Captain J. T. McCreary, 3rd N. B. Regiment Canadian Artillery to be major, vice Major S. B. Smith, resigned, has been gazetted. The militia orders also contain the announcement that that part of the orders of May 25 relating to the resignation of Major S. B. Smith are cancelled, and Major Smith is transferred to the Corps Reserve. The departure of Major L. W. Barker from the city will leave another vacancy in the regiment. Captain F. C. Magee is next in line for promotion to the rank of major.
