Commission Expels Germans from Burgomasters to Carpenters.

People's Party Leader in the Reichstag Arrested—The French Give Up Seized Money Intended for Pay of British Troops.

(Canadian Press)

Coblenz, Feb. 27.—The Rhineland high commission has ordered the immediate expulsion of forty-nine Germans, ranging from burgomasters to carpenters, because of their hostile attitude toward occupation.

The commission also has barred from circulation in occupied territory further Berlin and Munich newspapers.

Berlin, Feb. 27.—Dr. Otto Hugo, the people's party leader in the Reichstag, was arrested by the French at Strasbourg, when about to leave the Ruhr.

He was permitted to continue his return trip into unoccupied Germany only after having been detained for three hours under investigation, according to semi-official advice.

The arrest of Dr. Hugo is said to have been based on a French order that the German governmental deputies are to be treated as provocative agents.

London, Feb. 27.—The French have agreed to surrender that part of the German money seized at Cologne last Saturday which was intended for use in paying British troops, it was said here today.

The Cologne correspondent of The Times reports that the British authorities firmly demanded the return of the money intended for the army.

He adds that several British officials resent "the humiliating position in which they are placed by the establishment of a corps of French posts, which now completely blanket the British zone."

Erasmusburg, Maine, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Ethel Bean ready for trial in Maine—Slain Man was Guide.

Erasmusburg, Maine, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Ethel H. Bean was ready to go on trial today for the murder of her husband, Otis A. Bean, near their home at Haine Landing, on the night of October 6 last.

She was indicted by the grand jury three weeks ago after a prolonged investigation in the course of which two young woodmen were held in jail for four months on murder charges.

They were released after the grand jury reported.

Bean was shot about 200 feet from his home just after he had brought in the mail from the Rangleys Lakes, where he was employed as a guide.

Mrs. Bean told the authorities that she was alone in the house at the time and knew nothing about the shooting.

The authorities have indicated that they will advance as a motive the theory that Mrs. Bean was jealous because she believed her husband to be infatuated with another woman.

Los Angeles, Feb. 27.—A "prop" fire at Universal City, a motion picture suburb, yesterday resulted in painful burns to ten employees, including Katharine Dalton, Kathleen Cahoon and Wm. Desmond, actors.

Desmond and Miss Dalton were playing in a cabin set and flames were used to simulate flames igniting woodwork. They did their work too well.

Desmond carried the actress out of the cabin and extinguished her burning clothing by rolling her in the weeds.

ALLIES TO PAY U. S. ARMY COST?

Baldwin Tells Commons the Matter is Under Discussion

Move Against Communist Teaching in Schools of Britain—Labor Plan for Exchange of Views Relative to Ruhr Occupation.

(Canadian Press)

London, Feb. 27.—In reply to a question in the House of Commons as to whether he had information that the U. S. Government was about to demand from the Allies payment for the cost of the U. S. occupying army, Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said:

"The Allied finance ministers received a memorandum on this question from the unofficial representative of the U. S. Government on the reparations commission during the conference at Paris in March 1922. The question is at present under discussion between the Allied and the United States Governments."

Eighty Conservative members of the House of Commons met yesterday to consider the question of Communist schools in Great Britain and unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the Government to take up the question of suppressing conditions of teaching children under 16 years.

Labour leaders gave notice of formal motion in the House of Commons yesterday favoring inviting the chambers of deputies of both France and Belgium to appoint a committee to exchange information and views with a similar committee appointed by the British Commons regarding the occupation of the Ruhr in its relations to reparations.

It was announced that the Socialist party is communicating with the Socialist party in France and Belgium with a view to the introduction of a similar motion in the parliament of those countries.

MR. WIGMORE HOME HOPEFUL AS OTHER DELEGATES

Commissioner R. W. Wigmore, of the water and sewerage department who was one of the members of the St. John delegation to Ottawa asking for the completion of the Niagara Falls break dam, returned to the city this morning.

Mr. Wigmore expressed confidence that the delegation had made a favorable impression on the members of the Federal Government who had been spoken to and he was extremely optimistic as to the result of their mission.

He pointed out that this was the first time in his recollection that a delegation representative of the province had gone to the capital to present the case for St. John and he thought that the fact that the city's requests were backed up by the Premier and past Premier of the province would carry great weight at Ottawa.

Asked this morning regarding a vote which was taken at the St. John delegation where a break occurred early yesterday afternoon, Mr. Wigmore, having got on at Montreal.

Are Helping in Work of Animal Rescue League

Members of the ladies auxiliary of the S. P. C. who have been much concerned over the future of the work of the Animal Rescue League through lack of funds to carry on, have been encouraged during the last few days—following public appearances in support of the humane work they are doing—by the receipt of several donations from business interests.

They received fifty dollars and today more donations were forthcoming. They are endeavoring to raise about $800 to secure a new home for animals rescued by the league.

FRANK WHITE SPEAKS OF HIS RESIGNATION

Objects to Absence of Members of His Executive from List of International Officials.

In regard to matters pertaining to his resignation as president of the Maritime Amateur Skating Association last night, Frank White this morning made the following statement:

"I have no personal grievance as to my retirement as president of the Maritime Amateur Skating Association, but I could not stand for the treatment handed out to some of the gentlemen who have worked faithfully with me in the executive since our organization.

These gentlemen have endeavored to help promote skating, and when their work should have entitled them to some public recognition, they were completely ignored. Others who had not turned a hand to promote skating were given positions of honor, and when these gentlemen were acting as officials in the minor events, they were completely forgotten.

"This may be some people's idea of sport. There are some people who do not see such a thing as working hard to do a job, but when it comes to holding some of the members of the executive together until after the big meet was over, so as to discuss the embarrassing situations during the carnival.

"Personally, my mind was made up to retire from office some time ago. It is ridiculous to talk about our gentlemen who have worked so hard to prevent the gentlemen who have this sport so much to heart from resigning and carrying on."

NO INDIANTOWN FERRY IN SIGHT

According to the present indications it looks as if there will be no ferry service between Indiantown and Pleasant Point after May 1, Commissioner Bullock said today.

The ferry steamer, which was to be used to carry the mail, was to be sold to retire at that time, as the contract for her operation will have expired. A new license from the steamboat inspector has been refused.

The Municipal Council refused to vote the funds for the purchase of a new craft and so far the Indiantown-Lanctot Ferry Commission has been unable to make a contract with other parties to operate the service.

THE WATER SUPPLY

Water department workmen last evening completed repairs to the fifteen-inch water main in City Road where a break occurred early yesterday morning. The filling in of the excavation was being carried out today.

Asked this morning regarding a suggestion that, if the east and west side water systems were connected, the loss in pressure consequent upon such a break as that which occurred yesterday morning might be reduced, G. G. Hare, city engineer, said that this suggestion would not be of much benefit to the city.

He explained that on an account of the difference in the levels of the source of supply, not more than 2,500,000 gallons a day could pass Bentley street from the west side, even if the entire source on the east side was shut off. As the daily draft on the east side was in the vicinity of 18,000,000 gallons, he said that the amount available from the west side system would not be sufficient to reach any of the higher levels. The general tendency, he said, would be for the water to flow from east to west rather than the reverse.

He pointed out that the proposed connection would not justify the expenditure.

London, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press)—Lord Desborough will go to Rome in March to propose to the Congress of International Chambers of Commerce a resolution favoring a fixed date for Easter.

Blonde Woman is Sought After Tragedy in Lonely Part of New York—Housekeeper Hysterical as Police Take Her as Witness.

(Canadian Press)

New York, Feb. 27.—In a lonely spot in Sound View avenue, the Bronx, a patrolman last night found the body of Fred Schneider, wealthy contractor, bolted by the steering post of his automobile.

One of the door men, who was on duty, noticed the steering wheel, which was in high gear, and when he saw the body of the man, he called the police.

The driver had been without warning while he was bowling along the little used highway, for his foot had slipped from the gas accelerator, shutting off the power.

On the rear seat of the machine, sheltered by closely drawn storm curtains, were two chow dogs, one dark, barked and frolicked when the patrolman disturbed them.

Detectives were told by Nick Fulmer, a farmer whose home adjoined the road at the spot, that a "blonde woman" well dressed and carrying a "dark bag" had hurried from the automobile and fled away, just after the car had been found.

According to the police, Schneider was married to a woman named Mrs. Anna Bussal, known also as Anna Schneider, housekeeper for Schneider, was arrested today as a material witness.

She stoutly denied all knowledge of the crime, after detectives had questioned her for six hours, and because hysterical when lodged in a cell at the Morrisania station.

Mrs. Bussal, who is thirty years old, was divorced from her husband, a suit in which Schneider was named as co-respondent. The police said she was the mother of her children, "Miss Schneider."

Meanwhile, the police continued their search for the woman who fled from the scene of the crime.

CONFESSES AND LEADS POLICE TO SCENE OF CRIME

Body of Little Dorothy Gilmore is Found—Crowd Threatens the Prisoner in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—Wylie Morgan, held in connection with the kidnaping of six-year-old Lillian Gilmore and her five-year-old sister Dorothy, confessed last night and led the detectives to a spot on the Hespany Creek, near Croydon, Pa., where the body of Lillian was found in a tree stump hole on the bank of the stream.

Croydon is twenty miles north of the city. The body was mutilated, the jawbone broken in two places and the clothing saturated with blood.

Morgan confessed the authorities said, that he had lured her and her sister from in front of their house on the pretext of taking them to an automobile ride.

Soon after the searching party returned to the city, a large crowd surrounded the station house where Morgan was placed, and threatened trouble. Threats of violence to the prisoner freely were made and it was feared an attempt would be made to storm the building. The police, however, soon gained control of the situation.

Grain Storage. The Government is not aware that stores of a character similar to that proposed at Vancouver harbor, for 22 cents per bushel, as against 90 cents per bushel at Vancouver, was an official answer given in reply to a question by Thomas Sales, (Progressive, Saltcoats). No definite estimate, it was said, has been submitted of the cost of providing the additional 500,000 bushels storage capacity to the present Vancouver elevator.

Mr. Sales was also informed that the contractors who were building for 28 cents per bushel at the head of the harbor will have "ample opportunity of building on the proposed Vancouver work."

BUOYS OUT OF PLACE ADD TO HAZARD FOR SHIPPING OFF NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Feb. 27.—Acting on instructions from Secretary of the Navy Denby, officers of the First Naval District here last night took steps to secure additional buoys and dynamite to force open ice-bound harbors on the Massachusetts coast. There was an appeal by the mayors of thirty-nine Massachusetts cities to have the Cape Cod Canal kept open so that movement of coal might be expedited.

Tomorrow and for the remainder of the week Imperial Theatre will doubtless be the mecca of thousands who want to see themselves in the movies, as well as get a pictorial review of the many exciting and entertaining things that took place during Winter-Carnival week.

Beginning with the arrival of Miss Canada from Montreal the camera records all the big functions but especially the wonderful international skating meet on Lily Lake and the thousands who braved the blasts to see it. To get an "outside" view of oneself and the great assemblages of carnival week is a very interesting bit of "looking." This picture starts with Wednesday's programme.

NEED WELL TRAINED BUT SMALL UNITS

Canada Cannot Afford to Train Large Establishments, Says Lord Byng.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Small but highly trained units are the need of Canada at the present moment of much needed economy, declare the Governor-General at the annual meeting of the Canadian Artillery Association here. His Excellency, who was introduced briefly by Brig-General C. H. MacLaren, president of the association, said that the present situation of the world is such that the nations who conducted the affairs of the Dominion did not mean that they did not wish the highest quality of military associations well. It was perfectly natural that immediately after a war, when the high cost of economy was being sounded, military appropriations should be cut down. The Government, he said, did not want large units which had only sufficient funds to partially train; but rather highly trained small units which in a time of sudden stress would respond to the country's need in an efficient manner.

The small unit highly trained was brought to a high degree of efficiency in Winnipeg, said Lord Byng. When he inspected some of them on his recent trip he was struck with the perfect organization maintained. Commanding officers should not be so anxious to have large numbers in their units, but should seek for perfection in a few selected men.

Major-General James H. MacBrien, chief of the general staff and an ex-officio member of the association, urged the great need of economy. The problem the staff had to face was the spending of the small amount available in a way which would produce the best results. The requirements of the Defence Department, he said, should be kept before the people. The general outlined the new Department of National Defence which had taken the place of the Militia and Defence Department. He believed it to be an organization which would give the Canadian taxpayer and would give its benefits in greater efficiency. However, he said, should be considered before these benefits are fully won.

In regard to the naval side of the department, he felt it only right that Canada, which at present was developing a foreign trade policy should have an efficient navy and air force to protect its merchandise. The air force, he said, would pay for itself. 1,000 times over annually in the saving of timber from destruction by fire.

NEW LIGHT ON CHARACTER OF RUSSIAN EMPRESS

More Bitter Than the Late Czar in Hatred of Germans

Grief-stricken Mother Turned to Rasputin, Believing His Prayers Brought Relief to Sick Son.

Lausanne, Feb. 18.—(Associated Press, by Mail).—A large number of Russian refugees have found a home in Switzerland, where they try to earn a living by making and selling Russian peasant handicrafts. Many of them in the old days, were among the wealthy patrons of the Swiss hotels. Here also is Pierre Gilliard, the Swiss who was tutor in the family of the late Emperor Nicholas for thirteen years. He is lecturing on the imprisonment and tragic death of Nicholas and the members of his family, and he turns over all he gains from this work to help the unfortunate.

Gilliard was with the little Caesarevitch for nearly five years previous to the boy's death in the cellar at Ekaterinburg, where he was shot by the Bolsheviks, together with the Czar, the Czarina and the four grand children. He accompanied the imperial family in exile at Tobolsk, Siberia, and went with them to the family of the Czar in the Caesarevitch household which was not executed.

Gilliard's intimate description of the serious malady which constantly threatened the little Caesarevitch's life, and the shadow which cast over the life of the Czarina, the Czar and the grand children, threw new light on the tragic death of the boy, who was a constant danger of suffering some slight accident which might end his life.

Death's Shadow

According to Gilliard, the Caesarevitch suffered from haemophilia, a disease he inherited from his mother. One of her brothers and two of her nephews died of this disease. Dr. Derwenko, physician to the Caesarevitch, explained the nature of the disease to Gilliard, said the issues of the child's veins and arteries were so thin that the slightest ailment resulted in internal hemorrhage. His blood had no power of coagulating. Consequently, any slight wound, even a nose-bleed, a scratch, caused his death. He was frequently confined to bed for weeks, and near death, as a result of a slight fall. Once he narrowly missed death from a bruise on his hip caused by accidentally bumping into a table.

Another time a slight bruise on his ankle nearly ended his life. The Caesarevitch was a person who suffers from haemophilia is called a bleeder. The disease was diagnosed in the Caesarevitch when he was only a few months old. Gilliard attributes the melancholy which was the result of the fact that the child's affliction end his son's life, to the fact that the Caesarevitch was an inheritance from his family.

BRITISH TRADE PROSPECTS.

Business factories and increasing orders are sure indications of improved and improving trade conditions in Great Britain. The improvement is not rapid, however, nor can it be so under existing world conditions. Canadian Trade Commissioner G. B. Johnson, writing the first of this month from Glasgow, whether he had returned after four months in Canada, says—

"The most striking change noticed was the almost universal sober and restrained optimism regarding the immediate future of British industry and trade compared with the hesitating and pessimistic hopes prevailing before my departure from Scotland in August. The optimism then in the air has now come down to the earth of solid facts of increasing orders and busier factories. For British industry as a whole the past year, with the exception of 1921, has been one of depression with out parallel in modern times. As a result of over two years' continuous deflation in commodity prices, every one has become completely disillusioned of false ideas about post-war prosperity, and the truth is now permeating the community that the return to individual and national well being can only be attained by hard and unremitting work, and that even so the reward may be long in coming."

Taking up the various industries Mr. Johnson finds some signs of improvement in Clyde shipbuilding and quotes a builder to the effect that the industry is at the point of recovery, which, however, will be very slow. The United Kingdom retained its place last year as the first shipbuilding country in the world, building 542 vessels of a tonnage of 1,043,000, compared with 240 of 631,000 tons by Germany, and 176 of 230,000 tons by the United States. The conditions were generally so bad, however, that any signs of improvement are of general business.

Referring to the coal, steel and iron industries Mr. Johnson finds that the export coal markets lost during the strike in 1921 have been regained, and although wages are low and the economic position of the mines is still far from satisfactory. The steel trade fared better than in 1921 and has now much brighter prospects. Coals have been lowered and prices are more stable, and the trade is better able to compete in foreign markets. The extent of the depression in the iron and steel trade is shown by the fact that the production of pig iron in 1918 was 10,000,000 tons, in 1921, it was only 2,000,000 tons, and last year rose only to 4,000,000 tons. Last year's exports, however, were double those of the previous year and the outlook for 1923 is still better. Mr. Johnson also finds prospects brightening in the engineering and machinery trades, while the wool and textile industries have been very active in comparison with others. On the whole, therefore, British trade prospects generally are brighter and more encouraging.

OVERCOMING DISEASE.

The Saskatchewan Minister of Public Health announces that the Government will this year erect a sanatorium for patients afflicted with tuberculosis, and another one next year. A Regina dispatch says—

"While the Government will own the buildings, they will be administered by the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League, and the Government will have the right to appoint three members of the directorate of that body. Dr. Ulrich announced that the Federal Government will be asked to furnish financial assistance, and the municipalities will be requested to co-operate. The Government will have the right to inspect the premises and to audit the books and accounts of the League."

The Western Provinces are well advanced in public health work, including the employment of public health nurses. The provision of sanatoria will be of the greatest benefit, as we have found in New Brunswick, in fighting the white plague. Some figures just received in Boston show how successfully the fight is being waged in that city. In spite of the great increase in population the number of deaths from tuberculosis in Boston last year was the smallest since 1882, and the rate per 10,000 was the lowest ever recorded. In 1882 the number of deaths per 10,000 from this disease was 48.68. Last year it was 9.48. It is made more and more clear every year that this dread disease can be stamped out.

A bill has been introduced in the Maine Legislature "classifying flavoring extracts and syrups, containing a percentage of alcohol which by Federal enactment renders a beverage intoxicating, as intoxicating liquor." Another bill that has also been introduced provides "that anyone who shall knowingly sell any flavoring extracts or syrups for intoxicating beverage purposes or who shall sell any of the same under circumstances from which the seller might reasonably be expected to be used for such purposes, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500 and costs and be imprisoned for not less than two nor more than six months, and in default of payment be imprisoned for not less than two nor more than six months."

WHAT'S WHAT

LIFE EVERLASTING.

What we may think, who brood upon the theme, when the old world, tired of spinning, has fallen Asleep, and all the forms, that carol of life, are cold upon her marble heart. Like ashes on the altar—just as she stops, That something will escape of sodid essence. The sum of life, to kladie other where; Just as the fruit of a high, sunny garden, Grown mellow with autumnal sun and rain, Shrivelled with ripeness, splits to the rich heart, And sends a gold kernel to the world, So the old world, hanging long in the sun, And dew enriched with effort and with joy, Shall in the motions of martyrdom, and part, and the kernel of it all Escape, a lovely wreath of spirit, in which the appearance, throated like a bird, Whence with fire, and bodied with all passion, Shall flame with presage, not of tears, but joy.

J. L. Stewart of the Chatham World Has a Whale of a Time en Route to a Sanatorium and Renewed Health.

(J. L. Stewart in Chatham World.)

My departure from Chatham, for this Mecca of the seekers for health, was made very pleasant by a little gathering of friends, some of whom, it is well to say, I thought I'd get on all right and I'd. Perhaps my experience will give confidence to some one who needs to travel and isn't rich enough to hire a companion. At Derby Junction a railway man took my grip, led the way into the station and said he'd see me on board when the express came. He did. As Montreal a policeman took possession of me when I left the train, and took me and my traps to the room. I handed him a good check, one of Col. Mackenzie's best, and he said he'd be after me when the Halifax train came. I had been going to ride on a first-class car, as I usually do, I would have entered the car, but the train was so full that I was on the road to Montreal when the train started, as that was the only car left. I was in the car, but I was not in the car, as I was on the road to Montreal when the train started, as that was the only car left. HIS TORNSHIP ON CITIZENSHIP

Bishop Richardson's Address at Rotary Anniversary in Fredericton.

President R. L. Phillips was in the chair.

The Fredericton Rotary Club on Thursday night observed the eighteenth anniversary of establishment of Rotary and at the same time heard a most able address by His Lordship the Bishop of Fredericton. The subject was "Citizenship" and fitted most appropriately with the anniversary and the objects of the organization.

The speaker was a cross between a philosopher and a statesman. His Lordship leading up to his subject remarked that it was difficult to begin first he should step aside and express views at variance with those of someone else, on the morrow there might be a different reference to the matter in the Boston Post or possibly some other paper. (Laughter.)

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

BRITISH TRADE POWER (Toronto Globe.)

A trade balance that does not figure in the books of statistics is that the United States exports and imports of brains between Canada and the United States. Most people on this side of the Atlantic think the three of the shell fish, and the fork the porter as rent for the fork. The oysters, swimming in the sea, are the brains of the world. My evening capacity was and has been for a time very small. I was on a boat one morning and had a soft boiled egg and a small piece of bread, nothing else appealing to me. THE TARIFF AND SHOES.

(Fredericton Mail)

Speaking of footwear recalls a story told by a New Brunswick man who paid a visit to Calais a short time ago. While there he thought he would look around with a view of picking up a pair of boots at a bargain price, in one establishment which he visited he saw something to his liking, and when about to make a purchase he was informed that there were Montreal made boots, but had come in duty free. The thought occurred to him that it would be unwise for him to buy a pair of Canadian boots in Calais and take a chance of being held up for the amount of the duty. "I can buy these boots as cheaply in Canada," he remarked to the clerk. "Oh, no, you can't," was the reply, "we get them at a special price and can undersell dealers on your side of the line." The man left without buying the shoes, but he does not consider that his time was wasted, because he secured some first hand information about a protective tariff which he considers worth knowing.

THE GOOD CHEER CIRCLE.

The Good Cheer Circle of the Kings Daughters held a business meeting yesterday afternoon. Miss Alice Rising presided and the members reported most successful results from the recent Valentine Tea. The farce comedy that will be presented by the Queen Square Methodist Young People's Association, next Monday evening in Centenary Hall, for the aid of the Good Cheer Circle, was discussed. Miss Rising conducted the devotional exercises.

Lesson No. 244

ALUMINUM RECTIFIER

A rectifier, of electrolytic type, used for converting alternating current into direct current. A single cell consists of two plates, one being of sheet lead and the other of sheet aluminum, these plates being immersed in a saturated solution of borax. To regulate the potential of the alternating current applied to the rectifier a transformer is connected between the power line and the rectifier. The operation of the rectifier is dependent upon the formation of an insulating film on the plates which allows current to flow from the lead to the aluminum plate, but not in the other direction. This type of rectifier may be used for charging storage batteries and when operated in conjunction with a filter may serve as a source of plate power supply or to furnish power for the operation of a loud speaker.

STATOR

The stationary member of an electrical device which possesses in addition a rotating element; for example, in the variocoupler, the primary, tapped, coil wound either on a tube or on a spherical form, is stationary and is known as the "stator." The secondary coil which may be rotated on a shaft in inductive relation to the primary coil, is known as the "rotor."

ETHER

An invisible elastic fluid which is said by scientists to pervade all space and through which vibratory disturbances are transmitted. These vibrations may be light or radio waves and the extreme elasticity and conveying power of this medium permits these waves to be transmitted through it at the rate of speed of 186,000 miles per second or 300,000,000 meters per second.

"C" BATTERY

A low voltage battery usually consisting of a number of small dry cells of the flashlight type. This battery is used for the purpose of maintaining the grid of the vacuum tube at a negative potential with respect to the filament. The battery is inserted in the grid circuit with the negative terminal connected to the grid and the amount of biasing potential impressed upon the grid may vary from 1.5 volts to 20 volts depending upon the operating conditions. This type of battery has a service life of six to ten months as it is not used as a source of current supply but merely as a means of obtaining a proper value of negative potential on the grid. When used in conjunction with amplifier tubes the "C" battery by preventing the grid from becoming positive at any time, secures amplification of the radio signal without distortion.

DUPLEX RADIO TRANSMISSION

A system of radio transmission which permits the simultaneous and independent radiation of two messages from one antenna. To obtain this result two oscillating currents having different frequencies are caused to flow in the antenna and current in such a manner that there is no interference between them.

ROTARY CONVERTER

An electrical device for converting alternating current into direct current or vice versa. It consists essentially of an armature connected on one side to collector rings and on the other side to a commutator, this armature revolving between electrically excited field poles. When supplied with alternating current through the collector rings and operated on a motor it delivers direct current. When used for converting direct current into alternating current it is known as an "inverted rotary." It has the advantage of performing in one machine the functions of a motor-generator which requires two machines.

CASCADE AMPLIFICATION

A method of securing a high degree of signal magnification by amplifying the incoming wave through several vacuum tubes successively and thereby building up the intensity of the signal. A radio receiver consisting of three amplifier tubes and one detector tube is known as a three-stage (cascade) amplifier.

Alkali in Shampoo Bad for Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multifid coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multifid at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multifid in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub the Multifid in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure you get Multifid. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

At last a photoplay has been made in which every element is of artistic excellence: story, cast, and production. In "The Sin Flood" produced by Goldwyn from "Syndafoden," a drama by the eminent Swedish author, Henning Berger, a giant stride forward in the art of the cinema has been taken.

"The Sin Flood," which is now on at the Imperial theatre, is a photoplay that can successfully challenge the most artistic, the most realistic, the most human pictures that the screen has to offer. It is a step in advance and will be hailed in future years as one of the most important milestones in the development of motion pictures from a mere amusement to an art.

In the cast are such players as Helene Chadwick, James Kirkwood, Richard Dix, Ralph Lewis, Otto Hoffman, L. H. King, John Stepping, Will Walling, William Orlamond, Darwin Karr and Howard Davis. All have been identified with exceptional screen performances in the past; and now they appear together in one of the most unusual stories.

No less a literary figure than Henning Berger, world-famous Swedish writer, is the author of "The Sin Flood," an original play, a version of which was produced in 1917 by Artur Hopkins under the title, "The Deluge." The theme of the play is human nature itself, and as the story develops, it unfolds a group of people bitterly quarrelsome and at odds with one another.

Caught by a cloudburst, they are gathered in a cellar cafe, and the conviction is brought home to them that they cannot escape alive. In this horrible predicament, with the water rising and death stalking them hour by hour, their bickerings decline to nothing as they realize that they cannot afford to meet their Maker with evil in their hearts and slander on their tongues.

A flash of heavenly insight illuminates the hostile group, and almost spontaneously they compose their differences, absolve one another from sin, and grow resigned in the face of an almost certain death. In their new attitude toward death, the antagonisms that filled their days are forgotten.

Then a miracle happens. The impending doom is averted. They are granted life once more. What shall they do? Here the religion of brotherhood has been firmly implanted in their breasts? They are but humans; their worldly responsibilities call once more.

The business enemies take up their old quarrel; the dervishes swim away on the sea; the life they thought they had left for good; but to the lovers who have gathered in the group, the lesson of love has humanely been taken root.

The crowds that saw this wonderfully spiritual picture to be deeply impressed with its power and the orchestra let no opportunity pass to make its lesson sink deep into the heart. As a foil to the serious story there was a two-reel Larry Semon comedy entitled "No Wedding Bells for Him" and the programme was begun with a splendid object lesson in tuberculosis prevention—a story with a powerful moral. Tomorrow the Imperial presents the Carnival and Championship Sleight Races in this city in 1,000 feet of specially-made motion pictures; also Agnes Ayres in a Paramount society story, "A Daughter of Luxury."

TRUCK IN SKI RUNNERS TURNED INTO POSTOFFICE
Novel Device Overcome Heavy Snows On Roads in Northern Part of Sweden.

A strange sight in Northern Sweden is a sort of traveling postoffice, consisting of a motor truck and trailer, mounted partly on ski runners and partly on tractor bands, and designed to negotiate the snow drifts in the country roads. The Postal Department of that country, after making preliminary tests, has just put this new vehicle into service, and if it proves successful it bids fair to revolutionize the mail-carrying traffic of the Northland.

The new omnibus differs from the usual passenger conveyance chiefly in the adaptability of the chassis. Thus, for the ordinary smooth road the weight of the car is supported by four ordinary wheels, of which two are directly behind and between the rear wheels, while the other four are arranged on either side of the bus, as to track with the rear wheels. For still rougher going these side wheels run on tractor bands, resembling those used on tanks during the war. And when snow would make the roads otherwise impassable ski runners are installed under the front wheels.

Besides handling mail and express packages this bus can also accommodate sixteen passengers. Most of the heavy mail is carried on the trailer. The car is electric lighted and electric heated, and it is considered remarkable that the motive power required comes from a 30-horsepower engine.

The general director of the Swedish Postal Department, Julius Juhlin, who is responsible for the innovation, reports that the old system of transportation by means of horses had become entirely too expensive.

The great Confucius, Chinese philosopher, was born in 551 B. C. and lived to be seventy-three years of age.

The oldest tree in the world is a Mexican cypress. It is supposed to be 5,000 years old.

PARIS APARTMENT HOUSE HAS RECORD

Duration of Four Tenants Residence Makes Total of 227 Years.

Paris, Feb. 27.—An apartment house in Paris holds a tenant duration record. Under this one roof four people have held leases and lived for a total of 227 years. The dean of the tenants in this house, which is the corner of rue Babouin and rue Vauquelin, is Mile. Laure Carquin, dressmaker, eighty-five years old. She has lived continually in the same apartment since she was ten years of age, and has slept during this time in the bed in which her grandmother died.

The next oldest tenant is Mile. Henot, who has resided in the same apartment fifty-two years. Mile. Milet and M. Gotselin Lenotre are tied, with fifty years each.

The newest tenant has resided in the house thirteen years, while the leases of the remainder have all run more than twenty-five years. The long residence of Mile. Carquin has just been renewed by the proprietor, who informed her that no longer will he accept rent. The old woman is to receive free medical care from a physician living in the house, and not a day passes that one of her old neighbors does not prepare and carry her some special delicacy.

WILL VISIT ROME MAY 7

King George and Queen Mary Unable to Go on May 1.

Rome, Feb. 27.—Having been asked by the British Government to choose either May 1 or 7 for the visit to Rome of King George and Queen Mary, Premier Mussolini selected May 1, announcing that he wished to show the world how tranquil and orderly the Italian capital would be on that day, whereas in the past all sorts of agitations and disturbances occurred.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances at the British court, however, the sovereigns have been obliged to choose May 7, when they will come to Rome accompanied by Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, several court dignitaries and the Italian ambassador at London, Marquis Della Torretta.

FIRE PROTECTION DOKEY MINSTREL SHOW ENJOYED

IN BEACONSFIELD

A meeting of Beaconsfield ratepayers was held last evening in the Town hall and matters of fire protection and court house accommodation were discussed. J. A. Barry acted as chairman. C. Zelle Logan moved that the district should be re-opened negotiations with the city to secure fire protection and a committee was appointed as follows:—Councillor Campbell, Mr. Logan, W. L. Fenton, James Russell and T. E. O'Leary.

Mr. Fenton suggested that Beaconsfield should secure legal advice in regard to the liability of the district for fire protection expenditures in Lancaster, if they should get their protection from the city. He believed that if Lancaster District No. 1 defaulted Beaconsfield would be liable.

The chairman remarked that Beaconsfield had been held responsible before, because of lack of provision for fire hose purchases.

Councillor Campbell said that, as a result of that transaction, there was now $800 to the credit of Beaconsfield for the purchase of fire hose.

The meeting then resolved into committee to consider matters relating to court house arrangements. It would be made clear that district No. 1 would be responsible for the fire station building. If it were on a rental basis, the rent would be so small that it would not be noticed by the taxpayers.

Mr. Russell said that the same thing had been said about the school, but the expenditure had been noticed. He felt that, in the near future the district of Beaconsfield would be throwing its lot with the city of St. John. If the tax rate kept on rising, as that would be the best way out.

The matter of the highway board was brought up and Councillor Campbell said he would accept responsibility for this. He reported having got a rate of $800 per mile for removing snow from car tracks, instead of the $850 that had previously been reported. The power company kept on raising about $8,000, he said, and he had held up some $5,000 owed for street lighting. In the matter of putting up a court building in Fairville there was some objection to Beaconsfield taking any part in the project.

John M. Keeffe, barrister, of Grand Falls, has gone to Fredericton to attend the session of Legislature, of which he is the clerk.

MURDER TRIALS

BREAK RECORD IN BROOKLYN

Verdicts in Two First Degree Cases Reached Within a Week.

New York, Feb. 27.—A record has been made in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, where two first degree murder cases have been ready and verdicts brought in within one week. The first case was that of Mrs. Lillian S. Raisin, found guilty of second degree murder in killing Dr. Abraham Glinkstein, and the second case was completed when a jury found Joseph McDermott, Brooklyn, not guilty of having shot to death Michael J. Mulroy, his brother-in-law. The speed with which the jury was impaneled on Monday, witnesses examined and the case summed up by Alexander Geissel, clerk for the state and by Edward J. Reilly for the defense is believed to constitute a record for Kings County in similar cases. Both cases were heard before Justice Crosey.

McDermott pleaded self-defense. The defendant and Mulroy lived in the same house. There was a family altercation on June 21 last, precipitated, it was alleged, by Mulroy's accusation that McDermott was neglecting his family. The latter said on the stand that Mulroy attacked him when he tried to explain, and that he was forced to shoot him to protect himself.

The jury retired at 1:30. After the verdict McDermott was congratulated by some of the jurymen. The foreman shook him by the hand as he was leaving court. The prisoner was held on a charge of having a revolver.

FRENCH DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Paris, Feb. 27.—French partisans of daylight saving are ascribing such amelioration in public life to the extra summer hour that it would be surprising if the project is voted down when it is presented to Parliament by the Government.

Using vital statistics, the daylight savers are pointing to the fact that, whereas in 1922 Paris contained 99,000 people, there were in 1918, there were last year only 6,884 deaths in the capital from tuberculosis, while in the year preceding the war there were 9,208 deaths from this cause.

A second statistical argument is that whereas in 1918 Paris counted 280,000 picture shows 60 years of age, last year there were 325,000. Backing the statistical display is a unanimous recommendation passed at the last meeting of the Syndicat des Medecines de la Seine that "daylight saving should be established in 1923 and a law should be passed making permanent this time so advantageous to finance and public health."

SOLDIER CRIPPLE GETS BRAD HE STOLE FOR WIFE AND CHILD

New York, Feb. 27.—When arraigned in Yonkers City Court on the charge of stealing eight loaves of bread, Morris Seletzki, a World War veteran who was crippled in action, said that he took the bread to feed his wife and child. Morris Weeber, the baker from whom the bread was taken, told the Judge that Seletzki could have the bread when he learned why he defied the law.

Judge Rosenwasser adjourned the case twenty-four hours and will have Agent Preston B. Chapman of the Children's Society, investigate the war veteran's story.

For three years past, said Miss Studley, "I have been in a very badly run-down condition, and when I began taking Tanlac, I had little hope of ever being my normal self again."

Switzerland Filled With Americans to Join Winter Sports

Grown Folks Romp About Like Children, Skiing, Skating Coasting in Splendour of Snow-Covered Alps.

Villars, Switzerland, Jan. 18.—(By Mail)—Many Americans attracted to Switzerland by the Lausanne Near Eastern conferences were initiated into "winter sports" as featured by those who have dotted the peaks of the Swiss Alps with high class hotels, which they keep open winter and summer alike.

With the single exception of skiing the Swiss winter sports are not unlike the cold weather pastimes of all the small boys in the Northern American states, from Burlington, Vt., to Burlington, Iowa.

Grown folks travel thousands of miles to Switzerland for a winter vacation and spend large sums for rainbow-colored sports costumes to be displayed in expensive hotels.

There are numerous curling matches and hockey games on the ice rinks. Professional skaters teach novices all the latest variations, and bands play at night on the lighted "patinoirs," or along the "luge" courses, where dignified old gentlemen, in alpine hats, and as small boys do in thousands of American communities, sleighing excursions are organized.

Disease Germs Doomed

Many have lost terrors for the Scientist

The progress of recent years in medical research is little short of marvellous. Daily, science kills germs by the million. Daily, new ones are being discovered, isolated and exterminated by the march of medicine.

There were once regarded as serious diseases are now laughed out of countenance by the doctors. Fearful they plunge naked hands into swarms of them, their only precaution being to rinse their hands afterwards with a reliable germicidal preparation.

How He Relieved His Rupture

Old Sea Captain Relieved His Own Rupture After Said "Operate or Die"

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he suddenly had double rupture that soon forced him to double bedridden for years.

Both came to believe that the keys to some of the apparent mysteries of the past concerning the Hebrews were to be found in the Hebrews and their ancient monuments, as well as in the land beyond the Red Sea, the Jordan, the Tiber and the Caucasus.

Three of the five trustees of the Foundation have been selected. They are: Mr. M. Longyear, Frederick P. Bull and James F. Lord.

The study of the beginnings of religion, especially the Hebrew belief, and its development has been pursued for many years by Mrs. Longyear, and the subject engaged the attention of her husband, John Munro Longyear, for several years before his death.

Lost Manuscript of Hebrew Religious History is Sought

Trust Fund Established by Brookline, Mass., Woman Will Finance Expedition in Palestine

Explorations in Egypt and Palestine in search of long lost manuscripts that may have important bearings on the history of the Hebrew religion are to be financed wholly or in part by a trust fund established by Mrs. Abby Beecher Kellogg of Brookline, Mass.

Already an expedition, largely supported by the Zion Research Foundation, headed by Professor M. Steiner, has been named, is seeking original manuscripts in the Nitran Desert of Egypt and at the site of the ancient monastery on Mount Sinai.

The primary purpose of this Foundation, which already has been provided with large resources, is to facilitate and encourage research in the collection of source books, translated manuscripts and other material bearings on the Hebrews and their ancient monuments, as well as in the land beyond the Red Sea, the Jordan, the Tiber and the Caucasus.

From the division record the trail led to Mrs. O'Keefe, who directed the handful of keepers carefully gathered from the battlefield grave in France, and one more was stricken from the roll of those who lie unknown overseas.

RAIL FACILITIES NEED TO HANDLE GRAIN, HE SAYS

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Fort William, Feb. 26.—Three thousand seven hundred licensed country elevators in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have a total storage capacity of more than 100,000,000 bushels.

Congestion at eastern ports could not be eliminated merely by increasing storage space, he declared. There must be railroad facilities on the other side of the eastern transfer ports, which could handle the flow. It appeared from information in his office that there were not sufficient cars to move the crop expeditiously out of eastern ports.

The Red Cross workshops for disabled soldiers now located in the building in Water Street where the Memorial Workshops were established, have a present reached about as high a state of proficiency as is possible in these premises.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way to get rid of blackheads. It is to use the Blackhead Remover. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store, and mix with a little water.

DEATH IS LAID TO SHOCK AS GIRL WALKED IN SLEEP

London, Jan. 15.—(By Mail)—J. Ebel Russell, aged twenty-one, daughter of Dr. John H. Russell, of Romford Road, London, was found dead clad only in her nightgown, says "The Westminster Gazette," and it was at first suspected that she had been poisoned.

At the inquest the doctor was handed a cup by the Coroner, and he said that the deposit in the bottom tasted bitter. His daughter did not doctor for a long time.

He was challenged by his undergraduate friends to walk from Cambridge to Liverpool Street and back, a distance of 10 1/2 miles, in forty-eight hours. Mr. Carr, who is nineteen years old, does not profess to be an athlete.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS

Mustard Works Without the Blisters—Rasier, Quicker.

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soothe soreness or get a little relief with Mustertole.

Mustertole is made of pure oil of mustard, and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes no time to apply, and it is not messy.

The Junior Red Cross membership in New Brunswick has now reached the total of 1,231 and the roll still is growing. As the work of organization of the Red Cross in the province has only been in progress for six months, the total is one of which the junior supervisors, Mrs. Harold Lawrence and Miss Jessie Lawson, may feel justly proud.

WHAT YOUR HUSBAND NEEDS

"One night my husband came home looking so ill and worn out that I thought he would faint. I knew there had been something wrong, but I could not get him to tell me what it was. Finally he confessed he was tired and sore all over. I had written it, he said, while with the New York National Guard on the Mexican border, in 1916, but he did not know how a copy might have reached France."

There were found, however, in addition to the poem, a few coins, a book with the pencilled notations "Nevada Consolidated Copper Company" and "Still Water Gazette," also a ring engraved "T. O. K."

Inquiries showed no record of any man named Wheeler or O'Keefe employed by the copper company or the newspaper and known to have been in France. The poem, however, bore the name of the author, Charles Scott, and he was located in New York City. He had written it, he said, while with the New York National Guard on the Mexican border, in 1916, but he did not know how a copy might have reached France.

POEM IDENTIFIES SOLDIER. He Had Previously Been Unknown in a French Grave.

A typewritten poem, found on the body of an American soldier killed near Binerville, France, proved recently by the means of identifying the body as that of Thomas O'Keefe, Company D, 80th Machine Gun Battalion, Seventy-seventh Division.

Records of the Graves Registration Service show that when the body was taken from its battlefield resting place it was believed to be that of Corporal Logan Wheeler, Company D, 80th Infantry, known to have been killed near the spot.

Paris, Feb. 27.—The amazing story of how a man was beaten and robbed by his daughter and his granddaughter is reported from Lorient.

Captain Reclus, a retired skipper, aged eighty-three, who lives in a comfortable apartment in Lorient, had a visit from his daughter, Madame Blanchet, aged sixty; his son-in-law, aged sixty-seven, and his granddaughter, aged twenty-seven.

London, Jan. 20.—(By Mail)—During a week end A. Emley Carr, a Cambridge undergraduate, son of Sir Emley Carr, of London, who is well known in the golf world, accomplished a remarkable walking feat, says "The Westminster Gazette."

He was challenged by his undergraduate friends to walk from Cambridge to Liverpool Street and back, a distance of 10 1/2 miles, in forty-eight hours. Mr. Carr, who is nineteen years old, does not profess to be an athlete.

GLASSES FOR DIPHTHERIA
Faker's Treatment Brought Maximum Fine in Court.
Calgary, Feb. 24.—"You are without doubt the biggest faker I have ever seen in court. I impose the maximum fine under the Act, $50 and costs, with the alternative of six months' imprisonment," declared Magistrate G. E. Saunders in police court on Thursday, when he found J. J. O'Malley, a "drugless healer," guilty of a charge of illegally practicing contrary to the Medical Professions Act.
O'Malley was summoned to court following the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, who, according to evidence given by physicians, succumbed to diphtheria. O'Malley treated the disease, it was said, by making the woman wear spectacles which contained strong lenses.
Chicago, Feb. 26.—A charge of murder was placed against Vincent Cutala after two witnesses had testified that moonshine whiskey, supposedly responsible for the death of Mrs. Katherine Thompson, had been sold by him.
This is the first instance in Chicago of a murder charge being placed against the seller of poisoned whiskey which resulted in death. Cutala, a wealthy resident of the North Side Italian colony, was booked at the East Chicago Avenue Police Station after evidence was taken before a Coroner's jury.

CHILDREN SHARED HOME WITH BEASTS
Unbelievable Squalor in the New York Hills—Carrots Sole Food.
Monticello, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Six children, whose ages range from two to nine years, two men, one woman and a horse have been found in a dilapidated old two-story house, back in the hills two miles from Willamowick, Sullivan County, subsisting on carrots, the only food in the house. Clothed in ragged garments, they lived in the midst of squalor and filth, more like animals than human beings. They had no other food than carrots for several days, and the horse, which occupied one room of the house, was without food of any kind, its only nourishment being tree twigs which were thrown in to it. A pig sheltered in an old brick nearby was starving and squeaking for food.
The family was located by Sergeant Jack Hopkins and Trooper Froehman, of the state police, who went to Willamowick to make an investigation by orders of the superintendent of the poor Fletcher Rhodes, who had received a complaint regarding conditions there.
The woman, Nora Donovan, aged 27, unmarried, mother of four of the children, three girls and one boy, aged 2, 3, 5 and 8 years, is weak-minded and said to have been thus afflicted since birth. She refused to tell who the father of the children was.

Iron, Steel, Metal and Machinery

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto makes the following comment in its Feb. 22nd issue:

Continued strength of the steel markets and increasing number of refusals to consider new business are conditions which cause buyers, who have not carried a certain amount of uncertainty.

Prices are also advancing, and to use a stock market phrase frequently used to describe a poised condition, the "ventre libre" seems to be an ascension to higher levels.

While idle tonnage was declining and rates were dropping, the sale prices of vessels in the principal European markets last year remained at an average of slightly more than $30 a deadweight ton, according to an analysis by the division of transportation of the Department of Commerce of the United States.

The average price of twelve cargo ships 6,000 to 10,000 tons, not over five years old, sold during the last half of 1922 was $31, as compared with $33 for twelve similar ships sold in the first half of 1922, and with $31 for twelve similar vessels sold in the last half of 1921.

Ship prices are below pre-war values. In 1913 a good cargo vessel could be ordered for about $45 a ton. Current prices are also below the cost of construction, as the most recent contracts placed in British yards have been around $40 to $45 a ton.

The vessels under construction in the world on June 30, 1924, amounted to 2,646,000 gross tons, on December 31, 1922, the total was 2,954,000 gross tons. The United Kingdom leads with 1,468,599 tons, or nearly fifty per cent of the total, as compared with 1,740,000 tons, or sixty per cent, of the total, in 1921.

This British total, however, includes 848,000 tons on which work has been suspended. The tonnage commenced in British yards during the quarter ended December 31, 1922, amounted to 352,200 tons; a slight reduction took place during the following quarter, and in the course of the second quarter of 1923 the figures reached 387,877, the lowest level. During the third quarter there was an increase of about 44,000 tons, and during the last three months of 1922 the figures actually reached within 80,000 tons of the total launched during the same period.

The United States has dropped back from its war peak of 4,000,000 tons to 189,448 tons, approximately the pre-war level.

General opinion in Canadian markets favors a higher price for steel. The price of $34 has should be, it is said, $35. Pittsburgh quotes $2.20 for the deficit in steel following the coal strike. Current demand, it is said, for actual consumption is well prepared for an exceptional year.

Conditions in United States and Canada are more parallel than they were five months ago. Car and truck sales in both countries are busy, and industry generally seems to be feeling the impetus of prosperous times. It is predicted, and it is well known, that the automobile market is showing this year, and the motor car companies have prepared for an exceptional year.

General opinion in Canadian markets favors a higher price for steel. The price of $34 has should be, it is said, $35. Pittsburgh quotes $2.20 for the deficit in steel following the coal strike. Current demand, it is said, for actual consumption is well prepared for an exceptional year.

Even pig iron is beginning to reflect the strength in steel. Pittsburgh explains the situation by pointing out that merchant furnaces, instead of having competition in the sales, are now having competition in their purchases. Coke remains high, and pig iron will likely advance. Buffalo market is showing remarkable strength but no change has taken place in Canadian iron.

Machine tool dealers report improvement over last year. Railway buying has helped materially. Contracts on an extensive miscellaneous list for Western shops of the National lines are to be awarded in a few days. Some selling has been done on equipment making for more economical operation and efficiency in production.

Liverpool, Feb. 26.—The cotton exchange here will be closed on March 30 and April 2, Easter holidays.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE MONEY AND STOCK MARKETS TODAY

CONSOLIDATION OF BRITISH AIRWAYS IS RECOMMENDED

Government and the Public Each to Contribute One Million Pounds.

(Special Cable to The N. Y. Times and Montreal Gazette.) London, Feb. 26.—The public should put up £2,000,000 for developing British airways and the Government should do the same in a great scheme for setting British airmen to work on a secure basis, according to a report issued today by the Air Ministry.

This report puts entirely new aspect on the future of British airways. One of the first things which the new minister, Sir Samuel Hoare, did on his appointment was to ask three eminent business men to form a committee and quite impartially go into the whole question of state assistance to aerial transport. Their recommendation, in short, is to do away with all existing methods and establish one great British air corporation, subsidised over a period of ten years by the Government. In the committee's view, the time has come to tackle the whole question of 100 miles-an-hour British airways in a big, broad, business-like way.

What may happen is this: If the report is accepted and acted upon, an air corporation will be formed which will go to the public for an immediate subscription of £200,000,000 out of the total capital of £1,000,000,000. The investor, the inducement, apart from the vital national import of a successful airway system, will be that the Government in the form of a subsidy, the details of which are to be agreed upon later, will pay to the corporation the sum of £1,000,000,000 spread over ten years. That will be the corporation's main asset. There is a provision under the committee's recommendation that investors in the corporation should receive a cumulative dividend of 10 per cent per annum.

With this state assistance of £1,000,000,000 for ten years, the British air corporation, having its own capital of £200,000,000, could establish a fleet of 200 aeroplanes, and the Government could then step back and allow the corporation to "fly by itself." It is recommended by the committee that the air ministry should exercise a minimum of control over the operations of the corporation, which should act as far as possible upon its own initiative and take its own risks.

The £1,000,000,000 from the state spread over ten years would not be a gift for the corporation. There is a provision that after the 10th year the dividend has satisfied the balance of profits in any given year to be divided equally between the shareholders and the Government. The Government, therefore, stands to get its £1,000,000,000. The proposed state payment is really in the form of a deferred loan to the company for the joint work.

It is believed in air transport circles that the three existing operating companies may come together immediately with a view to presenting some joint scheme to the authorities.

Overnight announcement of an extra dividend, Pan-American A. and B. dropped, and 4-4 points respectively. But California Petroleum gained 1-8 and Royal Dutch 2 points.

NOON REPORT

New York, Feb. 27.—The market presented a spotty appearance throughout the morning with trading on a more reduced scale than heretofore. Bear traders, aided by additional liquidation, were in the majority.

Most of the day's trading was confined to weak spots, especially in the oils, tobacco, sugars, registered chemicals, public utilities and some of the shipping, which registered losses of 1 to 3 points.

Kraze broke 8-12 points and Lige and Myers' Railroad shares were comparatively firm in response to the favorable showing made by the heavy railroads report now being published. Buying of these shares, coupled with a better demand for American Can, Utah Copper and a select list of specialties, resulted in a general hardening of prices around noon. Call money opened at five per cent.

Sir Adam Doing a Great Work for Humanity

Three Hundred Patients in Queen Alexandra Sanatorium—Splendid Educated, Overlooking Lovely Valley of River Thames.

(Cor. Toronto Evening Telegram.) London, Ont., Feb. 14.—(Special.) For good or ill Sir Adam Beck is best known to the world as the "Hydro Knight." Just as all organizations since the world began have been the shadow of one great man, so Hydro has not escaped share of the world's attention.

The buildings in the Marlow Beck Nurses' Home, which is a model of modern nursing, have their life work in the hands of the nurses who are in the forefront of the world's nursing profession.

It is in gratitude to God for the complete restoration to health of our daughter, who was threatened with a serious illness, reads a claque in the great oak case that contains the general orders and kindly young lady helpers. Here they are proud to tell how devoutly the late Lady Beck toiled during the war days.

How she washed the dishes, took the boys for auto rides, and in the midst of all this did anything and everything that the inspiration of gratitude could suggest to a noble woman.

Finds Skull of Man Believed to Be A Million Years Old

Patagonian Discovery Arouses Keen Interest as Possibly Uncovering Scientists' Views Regarding Antiquity of Men.

(Canadian Press) Buenos Aires, Feb. 27.—Discovery of a fossilized human skull of the tertiary period was announced yesterday by Dr. J. G. Wolf, who has just returned after two years of exploration in Patagonia on behalf of the Plata Museum. He declared the fossilization was that of tertiary sandstone and that there was no doubt it was formerly the skull of a human being, not an accidental formation.

The lower jaw is missing but otherwise the skull is almost perfect. The eye sockets, and what is still more convincing, the sockets of the teeth in the upper jaw, are clearly defined. The cranium is long and oval, and the forehead extremely low and sloping.

Dr. Wolf formerly was attached to the division on anthropology of the Canadian Geological Survey. He went to Patagonia primarily to study the language and mythology of the Indians and found the skull in the possession of a white settler on the Andean slope, who picked it up some years ago and kept it as a curiosity, not realising its scientific value.

Dr. Wolf said he had left the fossil in the possession of the settler whose property it was, and that he had submitted data to La Plata Museum for such action as the museum cares to take to obtain it.

Found Old Town. The scientist also announced the discovery of ruins of an ancient fortified town in the heretofore unexplored region north of Lake Cardiel, in the territory of Santa Cruz, which he believes to be remnants of a civilization probably earlier than that of the Peruvian Incas. Sections of walls forty-five feet in height, built of blocks each of three cubic feet, cut out of basalt are still standing.

Dr. Wolf said that the walls contained arches indicated that their builders had reached a comparatively high state of civilization and intellectual attainment. The walls were also carved with strange hieratic inscriptions differing from the Aste, Inca or the Chibchee in Colombia.

He noted one carving in which appeared the representation of an animal resembling the extinct glyptodon. He roughly estimated the age of the ruins at from 2,000 to 3,000 years.

Some distance farther south he found what was perhaps an ancient thoroughfare along which for more than a mile the rocks were covered with similar inscriptions.

Dr. Wolf plans to return to Patagonia next month to search for the "enchanted city" of Patagonian Indian mythology, supposed to be situated in the Andes. He believed that this place, which the Indians refer to as the home of the Sun God, will prove to be the ruins of another ancient city.

"The fossilized skull is, of course, that of a man who lived some millions of years ago," said Dr. Wolf. The people who lived in the fortified town were comparatively modern, reckoned by the age of modern man.

Upset Scientific Views. New York, Feb. 27.—The fossilized human skull, found in Patagonia by Dr. J. G. Wolf, will, if it proves authentic, antedate by hundreds of thousands of years any human relic thus discovered, so Dr. Franz Boas, anthropologist at Columbia University and world-famous scientist, declared last night.

CARROLL PLAYERS WELL RECEIVED

Stock Company at the Opera House Make Pleasing Impression at Opening Performance.

Playing to a well-filled house last evening at the Opera House the F. James Carroll players made their bow to St. John in Belasco's play, "Polly With a Past." The opening of the dramatic season was under the distinguished patronage of Lieutenant-Governor William Pugsley and Mrs. Pugsley, and, appreciating the honor done them, the players strove to please.

Miss Canada and her mother, Mrs. F. R. Blair, were present, and her arrival was greeted by the orchestra playing "O Canada." When the gubernatorial party arrived "God Save the King" was played. His Honor was attended by Lieut.-Col. Alexander McMillan, A. D. C.

J. A. Kraker, manager of the Opera House, introduced Mr. Carroll, head of the company, who in turn introduced the members of the cast, each appearing before the curtain and making a few remarks.

W. S. Fisher, president of the Associated Charities, for the benefit of whom the first performance was given, gave a brief address, expressing the appreciation of the association for what had been done for them and paying tribute to the work of the ladies of the board and of other organizations. He referred to the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor and his wife, and extended a warm welcome to Miss Canada, and paid a grateful tribute to her maidenly modesty. He spoke of the untiring efforts of Miss Grace Robertson, secretary of the Associated Charities, and thanked the press for what it had done to make the evening a success.

The Play. The play itself centred around the old story of a young man fancying himself desperately in love with a girl who did not return the affection. A scheme was evolved whereby it was planned to arouse the jealousy of the girl by engaging another girl, reputed to have had a gay past, to fall in love with him. The result was what might be expected. The forlorn lover felt head over heels in love with the second girl, and Girl No. 1 was counted out.

Lillian Foster as Polly Shannon made the hit of the evening. Pretty, vivacious and ready of tongue, she had the audience with her from the start. Her interpretation of her lines bespoke engagements in wider fields, and the audience gave her warm support.

Frank McHugh as Rex Van Zile, the lover, was very successful in his part. His facial control was excellent, and he showed a versatility of which his earlier actions gave no indication.

Clay Collum and Harry Richardson, played by Jerry O'Day and Leslie Adams, were two young men who framed up the arrangements whereby the lover was to get into the good graces of his loved one. Miss Gwendoline Williams as Mrs. Clementine Davis played the part of the mother of the girl who spurned the love of her son.

Myrtle Davis, who was so much interested in reform of various sorts that she let the love of one who wished to be her hero slip away from her. She, one of her converts from drunkenness, was well played by Maurice Clark. Parker, a maid, was played by Helen Howard. Doris Kellon, as Mrs. Van Zile, was rather stiff in her part, although she had a difficult role to handle. Malcolm Arthur as Commodore Barker proved a very amusing would-be master, and excited much merriment by his attempts to make engagements with the leading lady.

Prentice Van Zile was played by Charles Howard. Doris Kellon, as Mrs. Van Zile, was rather stiff in her part, although she had a difficult role to handle. Malcolm Arthur as Commodore Barker proved a very amusing would-be master, and excited much merriment by his attempts to make engagements with the leading lady.

KILLED IN LEAP FROM NINTH STORY

While Suffering from Nervous Trouble, Wife of N. Y. Manager of Western Electric Co. Takes Life.

New York, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Bessie Johnston, fifty-three years old, whose husband, James W. Johnston, is treasurer of the Western Electric Company, took advantage of the momentary absence of her nurse, forced the window of her apartment on the ninth floor of 1078 Park Avenue, although it had been nailed down to prevent just such an occurrence, and leaped to the court yard below. She died instantly.

The Johnston apartment is on the corner of Eighty-eighth street and Park Avenue, one of the fashionable residential districts in the city. In the summer the Johnstons live at Montclair, N. J.

Mrs. Johnston had been ill for months, and for six weeks had been suffering from a nervous breakdown. During that time she had been kept to her bed under the care of Dr. Hubert Howe, the family physician, who ordered a nurse to be in constant attendance. Mrs. Johnston's mental depression developed a tendency toward self-destruction, and as a result everything with which she might harm herself had been removed from her room and all the windows of the apartment nailed down.

Mrs. Johnston had become quite weak from her illness and had to be assisted whenever she left her bed. In view of this fact, Miss Annie Rust, the nurse, felt little hesitation about leaving her patient for a moment when the doorbell of the apartment rang. She hastened to the door, leaving Mrs. Johnston's room open.

Miss Rust said that she had been absent only two minutes when she returned to the sick room to see Mrs. Johnston climbing over the window sill. Before she could reach her patient she had thrown herself out into space. It is believed that for the moment she had gained an increase of strength, which enabled her to force the window. Mr. Johnston was at home at the time of the tragedy, but a daughter was out the city. Dr. Howe, who was called immediately, notified the office of the Medical Examiner.

BOSTON AND MAINE TRAIN DERAILED

Cars Down Bank to River
Ice—Mail Clerks Reported Seriously Hurt.

Orange, Mass., Feb. 27.—The Boston and Maine passenger train between Greenfield and Boston, leaving Greenfield about 6 a. m., left the track here this morning and the passenger coaches went down the bank into Miller's river. The engine and tender remained on the rails but the cars were derailed. It is understood that no lives were lost, but some passengers were injured. The accident is said to be due to spreading rails.

Two mail clerks, the conductor and the baggage-master were injured, the mail clerks seriously, according to word received at the railroad offices here.

Rounding a curve a quarter mile west of the railroad station, the engine safely passed a switch leading to a spur track, but the tender wheels left the rails, broke away from the engine and, taking the cars with them, went down the fifteen foot embankment to the ice of the river. When the derailed cars stopped two were resting on the ice and the third, the day coach was on the bank. The ice was thick enough to support the cars until all their occupants escaped.

CANADIAN ORDER OF UNITED EMPIRE

Count de Fronsac in St John Today Tells of Meeting Here in March.

Count de Fronsac is in the city today en route from Nova Scotia to Toronto, in connection with the plan to reorganize the Canadian Order of the British Empire. He gave the Times the following information regarding matters of great interest to United Empire Loyalists:—

"There will be an assembly of the families of the United Empire Loyalists in St. John the last of March, of which definite notice will be given later. The purpose of this assembly is to institute in St. John the headquarters for the Maritime Provinces of the Canadian Order of the United Empire of the descendants of the said Loyalist families, under the original commission granted by the British Commander-in-Chief in America in 1778 (Gen. Sir Henry Clinton) in the name of His Majesty, King George III, to associate together for mutual defense of their chartered rights and privileges under the Crown, of the Royalist Gentry and Yeomanry of the American Provinces who had rallied to the Royal Standard and had stood for Unity of Empire in America." In 1789, at Quebec, Baron Dorchester, Gov.-Gen. of British America, passed an Order-in-Council granting to these Royalist Gentry and Yeomanry a "Mark of Honour" and a Registry for its transmission to the end that their descendants be distinguished from other settlers.

Baron Dorchester, while Gov. as Sir Guy Carleton, in 1784, commanded the Registry to be taken of the Noblesse in the Province of Quebec, with their titles, feudal and armorial distinctions (a copy of which was sent to the British Government) he thus honorably carried out the provision in the Treaty of Montreal of 1760 (Art. 49), "that the Registries of the Seigneurial Jurisdiction of Canada, with the papers attesting the race, rank and arms of families shall be maintained in the department to which those papers belong." As these families, united with those of the Loyalist Registry of the Gentry and Yeomanry, constitute the Noblesse, and as they had a corporate right to organize for their continuance as an Order under the Crown in Canada, for the "preservation of their chartered rights and privileges," the various Orders have united the collection of their Registries, which is termed "The College of Arms of the Noblesse in Canada." The family of Baron Dorchester in England, desirous to assist and encourage as much as possible in the maintenance of these legal rights, has granted a fund for the manufacture of a decoration which is to go with the diploma attesting the titular and feudal rank and loyalist degree of families registered under the provision of the Treaty of 1760 and the Order-in-Council of 1788 in The College of Arms of the Noblesse.

"This decoration was approved by Sir A. Scott Galt, Garter-King of Arms in 1909 and the dies were made by the Royal Jeweler, Maker to the King and to the Order of the Garter. This decoration will be exhibited at the March assembly, and those entitled to it will be instructed how to proceed to obtain it. The dies are in charge of the Herald-Marshal and Registrar-General of the College of Arms of the Noblesse."

Are You Going to Move This Spring?

If so, perhaps you will not find a house with the spare bedroom which you like to have ready for the occasional guest, and right here is where the Kroehler Daveno offers an easy and happy solution.
It may be procured in either the short style, which opens as illustrated, or the long style, which gives a longer couch during the day, and in which the bed lies parallel to the back, instead of at right angles, as shown above. Either style provides a handsome couch by day and a luxuriously comfortable bed by night, and the crowning feature is that it is ready for use at all times with mattress, sheets, blankets, coverlets and even pillows in their places. A large variety to choose from in our stock at all times.
