AN INTERESTING CASE.

THE PAIN OF A SPRAIN.

It is not the whole thing—there is loss of tone. Sprains affecting deep parts can be cured more quickly by Nerviline than any other remedy. Because it penetrates deeply, and being at least five times stronger than other liniments, its soothing action is in proportion to its penetrating power. Not an ache or pain anywhere that cannot be reached by Nerviline. The youngest child may take it. The most excruciating pain cannot resist it. A universal family comfort, a blessing in the home, an ache savor unequalled in the history of medicine. All dealers sell it.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12, 1.37 a. m.—Public anxiety regarding the fate of the Port Arthur squadron, which has reached the highest pitch, remained unrelieved when the people of St. Petersburg retired.

The reports from Tokio and Chefoo of the sea fight which followed the departure of the squadron are so conflicting and inconclusive that a strong hope exists that the Russian ships succeeded in breaking through the Japanese fleet. Indeed, it is rumored late tonight that the admiralty has received information that the squadron has passed beyond the Shantung promontory (which would bring the squadron at least 150 miles to the southeast of Port Arthur and into the Yellow Sea).

Although unable to confirm this rumor, the Associated Press learns that the family of Lieut. Smirnov, an officer of the battleship Czarevitch, this evening received a telegram from him dated at Tsingchau today. The message contained only two words, "Alive, embraces."

Tsingchau is 160 miles southwest of Chefoo, in the province of Shantung, and is at the entrance of Kiauchau Bay. The receipt of this telegram might be construed as partial confirmation of the rumor that the squadron had reached the open sea beyond Shantung. In no other way can Lieut. Smirnov's family explain the message from Tsingchau.

It is hardly believed that the squadron itself put into Kiauchau, although some time ago it was reported that it might seek refuge in this port. It is regarded as more likely that the torpedo boat destroyers were sent there with official despatches and fled Lieut. Smirnov's telegram.

A DELIBERATE SACRIFICE.

The news of the dismantling of the torpedo boat Ryeshtoln at Chefoo has not caused surprise. It is understood that she was deliberately sacrificed so that Vice-Admiral Skrydloff might be apprised of the situation of the Russian vessels from Port Arthur, in order that he might start out with the Vladivostok squadron for the purpose of meeting them. It is denied at the admiralty that the squadron left Port Arthur because the situation of the fortress was desperate. The admiralty authorities say it is more than likely that with the Japanese close upon the perimeter of the fortress, the warships were unable to render further effective aid, and that their safety was endangered by the plunging shells dropping from Wolf Hill.

PORTS SHELLED WARSHIPS.

CHEFOO, Aug. 12, 1.15 p. m.—According to the latest information obtainable, the Russian squadron has not returned to Port Arthur. On the night of August 9th, heavy cannonading was heard at sea in the direction of Port Arthur.

Advices from the fortress say that the Japanese bombarded the town, planting their batteries in dense kaolin fields, where the shells were effectively masked. The shells dropped mainly in the western basin, where the squadron was anchored. Many of the shells fell upon the main fortress, but no serious damage was done either to the town or the fleet. Later the forts got the range of the Japanese field batteries and drove them out from their shelter in the kaolin.

On the morning of Aug. 10 the squadron put to sea where heavy cannonading was heard for several hours. The result of the battle is not known and nothing definite has been learned regarding either squadron.

CHEFOO, Aug. 12, 9 a. m.—The Russian protected cruisers Askold and Novik and one torpedo boat destroyer entered the Kiauchau Bay last night and exchanged salutes with German vessels.

KUROPATKIN'S POSITION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12, 2.25 a. m.—Even with the absorbing topic of the escape of the Port Arthur squadron, the question whether Gen. Kuropatkin will accept or refuse a general engagement at Liao Yang continues to be a subject of the liveliest interest.

Experts of the bureau of operations mostly incline to the belief that a collision between the main forces is inevitable. Colonel Dborozhsky, assistant chief of the bureau, said to the Associated Press:

BATTLE MUST COME.

"Speaking from a purely military point of view, I do not see how a combat can be avoided at this stage. Personally, I am not inclined to attach credence to the reports that our army is already moving northward. The withdrawal of a large force in the face of a superior foe closely pressing our position to the east and south would involve the risk of an immediate attack which would find us in a position of still greater inferiority.

strokes which it would be necessary to sacrifice, and secondly the Russians are in possession of fortifications of exceptional strength which discount the numerical superiority of the foe.

LIAO YANG FORTIFIED.

"It is no secret that the Russians have fortified Liao Yang for the construction of defenses was reported in letters and telegrams published months ago. One of our best engineers, General Velichko, designed and supervised the construction of those defenses, which are, therefore, the best that military science can devise."

If Colonel Dborozhsky's view be correct, it is pointed out that General Kuropatkin might reasonably expect to hold out at Liao Yang for some time, and that he could even stand a siege and be able to depend on his enormous stores to feed an army, in case the Japanese cut off his communications, pending the arrival of reinforcements from the north.

ASSISTANCE COMING.

The persistent report that Lieut. General Linevitch is moving from Vladivostok towards Mukden with from 20,000 to 30,000 men, lends color to this version. It is also pointed out that if the Russians took such care to fortify Liao Yang it was with a view of holding it against a superior force.

Notwithstanding these considerations of a purely military character, the belief is very prevalent outside as well as inside the war office that the Russian government is endeavoring to avoid staking the whole future of the campaign upon the issue of an engagement at this stage, and that he has resolved at all cost to retire to the north, if he has not already done so.

Some strategists consider that the daring scope of the enveloping movements of the Japanese show they are aware that Liao Yang is the life of a majority of its garrison.

THE DESTROYER CAPTURED.

CHEFOO, Aug. 12, 6 a. m.—(Bulletin)—A boarding party from Japanese torpedo boat destroyers boarded the dismantled torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshtoln this morning at 3.30 o'clock. The Japanese discharged their small arms, and during the firing a Russian was wounded in one leg. Daybreak showed a third Japanese destroyer towing the Ryeshtoln out of the harbor, and all disappeared. The Japanese consul claims that the Japanese were ignorant of the dismantling of the Ryeshtoln. An Associated Press representative, however, informed the Japanese naval officers of the fact when he visited the two Japanese destroyers at 2.30 o'clock this morning.

GETTING THERE SLOWLY.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11, 5.45 p. m.—Delayed advices from Amshanshan say the Japanese opposite General Mitchenko's forces withdrew eastward and when the despatch was filed were moving up on the other side of the front range. Two divisions strong toward the Taitse river, where the Japanese were reported to be bridging at Benitzu, 23 miles northeast of Liao Yang.

NOTHING DOING.

LIAO YANG, Aug. 9.—(Delayed in transmission)—It is officially stated that no important fighting has occurred in the vicinity of Mukden. The newest Japanese outposts are forty miles away and only skirmishes have occurred there.

GETTING READY FOR WORK.

CRONSTADT, Aug. 11.—Admiral Birelef, in command of the naval forces here, today ordered Vice-Admiral Rojstvensky, commander of the Baltic fleet, and his staff to take up their quarters on board the battleship Souvaroff, and to be in readiness to sail on August 14.

WARSHIPS PASSED THE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Brussels correspondent of the Daily Telegraph declares that two vessels of the Russian Black Sea fleet have already passed the Dardanelles without the intervention of any difficulty on the part of the Turkish government.

LOOKING BEFORE THEY LEAP.

LIAO YANG, Aug. 9.—(delayed) A correspondent of the Associated Press who has just returned from Amshanshan, 13 miles east of Liao Yang, says the Japanese are occupying Houtsiao, about 14 miles west of Liao Yang. They are not advancing, but are carefully reconnoitering with a view of striking. Two strong Japanese columns are reported to be hurriedly pressing forward, one towards Mukden and the other in the direction of the Tantai coal mines. The roads are in very bad condition owing to the rain of the past few days.

Durfee High School since it was presented to this city in 1887 by Mrs. Mary Fording, shot himself through the head in the basement of the school building today. Several weeks ago some of the school pupils daubed the building with green paint. Borden was shocked at this vandalism, and since that time had been despondent.

ST. ANNE CONTINUE TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT.

John Hayes is Walking About Almost as Briskly as Ever and Mrs. Fitzpatrick is Fast Regaining Her Hearing.

Some weeks ago it was told that several St. John people who visited the shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre had been cured of different ailments and many doubtful persons expressed the opinion that no cure had really been effected, but that the pilgrims to the shrine had only persuaded themselves that they were better. It appears that the improvement in conditions still exists. John Hayes of Westmorland Road, and Mrs. William Fitzpatrick of Waterloo street, were among those who received benefit at the shrine. Mr. Hayes had been troubled with a hip and knee disease for over three years and was in bed unable to move for ten months. About a week previous to his trip to Quebec he had sprained his knee and was only able to move around by means of crutches during the pilgrimage. He says that on the second visit to the shrine he felt better. On the third day his crutches joined company with the large number already there, eloquent testimonials to the cures imparted by the shrine. The excursion party arrived at Ste. Anne Wednesday and on the following Sunday Mr. Hayes was walking around without crutches. At present he is in the city pursuing his former business and is gradually and steadily progressing towards complete recovery. The swelling has gone down and without crutches he can walk on firm muscles in his thighs and hips. Two or three miles of a walk's no exertion today. Going up and down stairs is rather more difficult, but this is becoming easier every day. Mr. Hayes has yet to be careful, but all signs of disease seem to be absent and he says it is only a question of time when he will have his former vigor. Next year he plans a pilgrimage to be undertaken and Mr. Hayes intends to go again. This time he will be able to enjoy the trip more thoroughly.

STILL CURED.

Mrs. William Fitzpatrick of Waterloo street, is another person who received marked benefit in this pilgrimage. Mrs. Fitzpatrick had suffered for the past twelve years with acute auditory trouble and was unable in consequence to carry on a conversation with any but the most intimate friends. On the first day of her arrival at Ste. Anne and after she had gone through the religious rites generally followed by visitors seeking cures, there was a vast improvement. Coming back to the shrine to the hotel at which they were stopping, Mrs. Fitzpatrick said to her companion that she could hear the piano playing at the isolation house. Her friend wondered at this sharpness of hearing for she herself could scarcely hear the music. Since that time Mrs. Fitzpatrick has noticed constant improvement and today can readily converse with the most casual acquaintance and in an ordinary tone of voice. Mrs. Fitzpatrick will make another visit next year to the shrine. Several who have been troubled in the same way are seriously thinking of testing its curative powers next summer.

A PLEASANT PLACE.

Isolation Hospital is Comfortable For Those Who Have to go There.

It is not a good thing to have the amplex, but if that happens to a man he could not have a more pleasant place of refuge than the isolation hospital at Howe's Lake has been this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Walker are industrious, neat and skilful. The board of health had only to supply the plant, varnish and other material and the caretakers have done the rest. Everything has been made fresh at a trifling expense. The house formerly occupied by Mr. Howe, and afterward by Mr. Fawcett, is a roomy and airy residence and now that its brightness has been restored it is singularly well adapted to the purpose of a hospital.

During the earlier part of the summer the lines of large lilac bushes bordering two sides of the garden, was a mass of bloom. The plots of flowers, some of them contained in rockeries, constructed of curious masses of many-colored conglomerate, are arranged in a kind of artistic confusion. Along the terraces, arranged by one of the former proprietors, grow the various small fruits. In front the grounds slope gently to Howe's Lake, two covers of which where the water is shallow, are now white with water lilies.

HIS BACK BROKEN.

Accident to Workman at New Glasgow.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Aug. 10.—An accident occurred this morning at the works of the Standard Brick and Tile Co. When starting up the big engine which supplies power, the engineer called some of the men to help move the engine over the centre. When it started, one of the workmen, Robert Purvis, was caught in the wheel, taken around and badly injured. His back was found to be broken, and it is not thought he can recover.

ABOUT DOGFISH.

Information given out at Ottawa sets forth that the government has decided upon a method of exterminating the dogfish. Reduction works are to be established by the minister of marine at certain points, and the fishermen are to be paid a sufficient sum to induce them to capture the dogfish and convey them to these establishments. It is intimated that the oil and other products may be sufficient to pay the costs of operation, and that the dogfish may thus be exterminated without expense. The official announcement says that three of these reduction works will be established, one at the Margaree Islands, one in Gloucester county, and one on the Atlantic coast of Cape Breton.

It is thought here that these establishments are not well distributed. Dogfish are particularly destructive in the Bay of Fundy, and the fisheries of these waters are valuable and important. The people of Charlotte and St. John counties in New Brunswick, Digby and Yarmouth in Nova Scotia are greatly interested. The slaughter of dogfish in the Baie des Chaleurs, or the Gulf of St. Lawrence, will not reduce the Bay of Fundy fishing population of the past. St. John people interested in fishing are rather surprised that Colonel Tucker should not have represented this case to the minister, or that, if he did, no notice was taken of him. The matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Trade and a despatch was sent yesterday asking whether the Bay of Fundy fishermen were not to be considered in this matter. No answer had been received last evening.

DROWNED AT SYDNEY.

Firman of Steamer Dominion Took a Cramp While Swimming—Bonds Sold.

(Special to the Sun.) HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 11.—Another drowning accident occurred on Sydney harbor this afternoon. The victim was Peter Higgins, a fireman of the steamer Dominion, which arrived in port from Montreal this morning.

He and another man went for a swim at the International pier about five o'clock. It is supposed that he took a cramp when a short distance away from the wharf and sank. His companion was unable to save him and he was drowned in thirty feet of water. The body was recovered two hours later. Higgins was 26 years old and belonged to Glasgow, Scotland. The purchase of $30,000 worth of Sydney bonds by Coates & Co., of London, was completed today. The price was 84 with accrued interest, delivered at Sydney or Montreal.

HIS ARM AMPUTATED.

Seely the Dorchester Prisoner in a Serious Condition.

DORCHESTER, Aug. 10.—Seely, the escaped convict, who was captured in an early hour, had a very bad and almost fatal experience, as described in the evening papers. Having been driven from one train and pursued by officers of the prison staff, he made a circuit of a mile, more or less, and again approached the railroad, and succeeded in boarding the train that came near being his death-trap. Having succeeded in grasping the iron bar on the side of a car, he was in a moment swept from his position by striking a fence near a crossing. The train travelling at a reduced speed made it possible for his cries to be heard by the trainmen, who immediately held up, and he was picked up in a sadly mangled condition. Medical aid was specially summoned, and he was soon under the care of Dr. Doherty, the prison surgeon. By consultation with Dr. F. Teed, a town physician, this afternoon, it was found necessary to amputate the arm near the shoulder. He is a thankful fellow that he is alive, and told your reporter that his own folly was the sole cause of his sad predicament.

N. S. SCHOONER ASHORE.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 11.—The Nova Scotia sch. Donzella, which ran ashore on Cape Sable in a thick fog early this morning, still lies where she struck. She rests on a sandy bottom. The sea is perfectly smooth and the vessel is apparently not damaged. A lifeboat went to her assistance this morning, but this assistance was not required. The crew remain on board. The wrecking steamer Coast Guard, from this place, is now at the scene, and efforts

SOME OLD TIMERS.

More Residents of Exmouth Street.

Who for Many Years Have Lived in the Houses Which They Now Occupy.

A few days ago the Sun made mention of the remarkable length of time during which several residents of Exmouth street have occupied the same houses. This is due, in the opinion of these residents, to the perfect drainage by reason of its natural situation; to its immunity from frequent and destructive fires, and above all to the quietness of the neighborhood.

In a previous issue a short sketch was given of Robt. R. Boyer, who occupies the distinction of having lived the longest in the same house of any resident of Exmouth street. Death has but recently removed several who were formerly notable, but at the present time there remain five or six other people who have lived in this respect in most remarkable manner.

Foremost among these by reason of his lengthy period of residence is Sergeant John Hipwell, the veteran of the 1848 rebellion, who has given long and faithful service in the cause of law and order in this city.

It was forty years ago, when in 1864 the present Hipwell homestead, 82 Exmouth street, was built, that the family moved to it. The site is on the same side as the Methodist church and quite near to it. Since that time there have not been many changes on the street, and the exception of a few new houses or old ones rebuilt the scene is much the same today as in the sergeant's early manhood.

Exmouth street has suffered from one considerable conflagration, that of the late 1870s. Sergeant Hipwell remembers the excitement caused by the operations of the incendiaries who infested the city, and to whose machinations the blaze was accredited. In fact, the sergeant and the public excitement, were much alike to that connected with the fire bug doings of recent date.

Next in order is Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, widow of William Stevens. Mrs. Stevens has resided at 17 Exmouth street for the past 35 years.

In the same house was a tenant, Magnus Sabiston, who moved in 39 years ago, or in 1865, and continued living there until a few years ago, when he moved to other quarters, though not through any dissatisfaction with the house or neighborhood.

Another old time resident, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, widow of John Kennedy, has lived in the same house, 35 Exmouth street for the past 30 years, as nearly as she can remember. The house was formerly owned by Bowes & Kennedy, but when this firm dissolved their partnership Mr. Kennedy received this house into his sole possession.

Among other residents of Exmouth street who have spent a considerable portion of their lives in the houses mentioned are John Hicks, who has resided for the last twenty-three years on this street. Mr. Hicks lives in the house which his father built for him, and for which he has nothing but praise for the thorough way in which the builders of those days did their work.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid poison in the blood, and until it is eliminated and the blood purified, the body will continue to be racked by aches and pains. The South American Curative Cure neutralizes the acid. Careful to try a box of Dr. Von Stern's Pineapple Tablets. I was soon entirely restored to health. I am certain they will cure the disease, in any stage whatever.

MR. DANIEL'S REMARKS ON BAY CHALEUR TROUBLE.

He Produced an Affidavit From William G. Good, Fishery Guardian, Containing Particulars of the Shooting.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The house of commons made considerable progress on Saturday, although the latter part of the day was wasted in long discussions not of interest to the general public. Mr. Barker of Hamilton, took occasion to remark concerning the denial of the language used by him by cable to Canada, with respect to Lord Dundonald, that the Canadian cable press association seemed to be a mere party affair intended by those who run it to be used for party attacks. Hon. Mr. Field explained that the government had nothing whatever to do with the cable service, beyond the fact that the government paid a certain sum to the newspaper men who composed the news association. No member of the government had the slightest connection with the news despatches and no more control over them than had members of the opposition.

On Saturday evening Dr. Daniel of St. John, called the attention of the minister of marine and fisheries to the carrying out of the fishery regulations so far as they relate to the salmon fisheries of the lower provinces and particularly of the province of New Brunswick. Owing to the lateness of the season Dr. Daniel said he would not make any extended remarks. New Brunswick had salmon rivers with as high reputation as any in the world, but of late years they had been deteriorating to some extent. The reasons for this for the state of affairs is that the regulations of the fisheries act for the preservation of fish and spawning grounds are not properly carried out. There are two special sections in the act giving protection to the fish. One provides that no person shall use a bag-net, trap-net or fish-pool except under license granted for capturing deep sea fish other than salmon. The other provides that seines and all apparatus used for catching fish shall be raised from 5 p. m. on Saturdays till 8 a. m. on the following Mondays to admit free passage of fish into the mouths of the rivers. (Dr. Daniel had been advised that on certain parts of the Bas de Chaleurs these regulations were not carried out, and that the fisheries department has persons there charged with enforcing them. So much so had this been the case that some gentlemen interested in the act were anxious to know who was using these trap-nets and fishing engines, as they are termed. The man was convicted on clear evidence, but he took an appeal to the minister of marine and fisheries, who under the act has power to remit fines and restore forfeitures. In this case the minister remitted both the fine and the costs. It is contended that while the act empowers the minister to remit fines, it does not empower him to remit costs. That at least was the opinion of three judges of the New Brunswick supreme court before whom proceedings were taken to get a mandamus to compel the minister to collect the costs of the case. The mandamus was not granted. Dr. Daniel made the point that the remission of every penalty in this case had so emboldened these men that they are now declaring they will allow no further interference whatever and had actually, so he was told, gone so far as to threaten murder, that is if they are the ones who are guilty of the offence.)

That by instruction from the agent of the said association, I visited a number of the salmon fishing stands in the Bay of Chaleur, opposite to Salmon Beach, so called, on Sunday, 17th day of July instant, and on that occasion I also saw a number of salmon caught in a number of the swings of the said stands, and a great quantity of grise swimming around in the traps or back portions of the said swings, and also many salmon, and in some of the swings in which salmon were so caught the leader net was lifted a short distance near to where it comes to the swing; and further, that on this occasion, while I was examining the swinging of the stand of one Heber Buttner, and whilst the boat in which I and my companions were was floating on the west side of said outside swing, a shot was fired at us from the shore, and the bullet passed a few feet over our heads.

This declaration, continued Dr. Daniel, was made by Mr. Good, at Bathurst, in the county of Gloucester, who chiefly resided in Bathurst. The proceedings were taken under the following circumstances: The defendant was granted by the provincial government to a number of these fisheries at a distance of from four to four and a half miles. It appears that the defendant was a fisherman, and is subject to the jurisdiction of the hon. minister, and that he had been granted to a club called the Anglers' Association. On the representation of that body that licenses had been granted in previous years near to the estuary of the river, the department of marine and fisheries refused to issue these licenses, and, as I have stated, issued licenses at a distance of about four and a half miles. being prosecuted for carrying out the instructions of department officials and regulations governing salmon licenses. Please wire result of negotiations to P. J. Bennett. Decision of supreme court seems to have no effect on sitting magistrate.

As it was close up to Sunday morning, Hon. Mr. Prefontaine said he would make his reply on Monday when Dr. Daniel or any other member could continue the discussion.

The house had a lively time over the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Insurance bill, sent down from the senate, but finally adopted the measure. The Canadian lords had been struggling with this concern, or rather investigating it, for some weeks. The debate in the commons, like that in the senate, showed the necessity of some important amendments to Canadian legislation relating to the fishery regulations for some weeks. OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—In the house yesterday Col. Hughes on behalf of Dr. Daniel, asked the minister of marine and fisheries for an answer to the statement made by the member for St. John city on Saturday night with reference to the Bas de Chaleurs fisheries.

Hon. Mr. Prefontaine said that proceedings were taken last year against certain fishermen in Gloucester Co., who chiefly resided in Bathurst. The proceedings were taken under the following circumstances: The defendant was granted by the provincial government to a number of these fisheries at a distance of from four to four and a half miles. It appears that the defendant was a fisherman, and is subject to the jurisdiction of the hon. minister, and that he had been granted to a club called the Anglers' Association. NEW YORK IN SUMMER.

Attractions Are More Varied than in Winter. The Heat Is Not Oppressive—Sea-side Resorts Draw Enormous Crowds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Canadians on pleasure bent as a rule visit New York in winter, and see the city and the artificial life of "the season." They take in the theatres, the grand opera, a song or musical recital, the museums of art and natural history, the aquarium, some of the big stores, a fashionable restaurant or two and perhaps a Bohemian one. At the theatres or opera they may see members of the Four Hundred in the boxes, but it is more likely that the occupants will belong to the modern dollarocracy—a contractor with a political pull, a Tammany boss or a prosperous saloon keeper.

The best way to see New York is to take one of the various sight-seeing automobiles in the city. The Central Park, Grant's tomb, the stock exchange and numerous other points of interest. In the evening another automobile tour of Chinatown, Little Italy and the Bowery may be made. Another trip around the island of Manhattan may be made on one of the sight-seeing boats. These three trips may be made in one day, leaving the visitor still time to see the last of a light show on a roof-garden theatre and to have supper at a roof-garden cafe.

The trolley car rides to the various parks, suburbs and the city. Interest and natural beauty are a never ending source of pleasure to the stranger.

With the greatest attractions of New York in summer are the numerous pleasure resorts and beaches within an hour or so by trolley car or boat of the centre of the city. It is at such places as Coney Island, Glen Island, North Beach, Midland Beach, Manhattan Beach and Ashbury Park that one sees the cosmopolitan population of the city taking its pleasure with the same strenuousness that characterizes it in the pursuit of the dollar.

There are some thousands upon thousands of both sexes, young, middle aged and old, bathing in the surf of the Atlantic or the still waters of Long Island Sound, or in sight of almost in sight of the skyscrapers, and the busy homes of industry of the great city; or he will see them resting in the shade or taking refreshments in the cafes or gardens, or visiting the innumerable pie and dime shows and exhibitions, or dropping pennies in automatic machines of many kinds.

Space will not permit of any attempt at describing any of the numerous places on which millions of dollars have been spent, but mention must be made of Coney Island in particular. Its two greatest attractions are Dreamland and Luna Park and the display of electricity that they make at night creates a fairyland of light which is impossible to describe. This morning's papers estimate yesterday's attendance at Coney at more than a million.

Another summer attraction to many is the horse-racing and base ball. In some quarters it is thought that New York is too hot to visit in summer. It is true that there are many hot spots, but only in the narrow streets and the crowded tenements and workshops that people suffer from the heat.

The man of moderate means taking a pleasure trip to New York can save his expenses over half or more if he does not go to the high-priced hotels on or near Broadway, and can yet live just as well. People from nearby cities who frequently visit New York stay as a rule at an uptown hotel or a good boarding house or lodging house. These are the people who can see New York well in a week at a cost of $25 or $30.

A good way to reach New York from St. John is by the St. Prince Rupert to Digby, D. A. Railway to Yarmouth, thence by D. A. Railway Co's steamer direct to New York.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—The party of automobilists coming from the east to meet at the world's fair arrived today. Among the first to cross over the Eads bridge was a car from Philadelphia, in which were W. B. Saunders and J. J. Lagheny, who had been on the way two weeks. Not far behind was the main body, six-one in number, which left Springfield, Ill., this morning, led by W. C. Hulbert of New York.

Owing to the heavy rain of last night the roads were rendered almost impassable and the run from Springfield had to be made at half speed and the line of automobiles were pretty well spread out. At Edwardsville, Ill., the party was met by Dr. E. E. Senecy, vice president of the St. Louis automobile club, and a committee, who acted as escorts to this city. A great crowd greeted the automobilists as they crossed the bridge and gave them a hearty greeting as they rode by on their way to the world's fair grounds.

CHIPMAN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Forest Fires Threatened to Destroy the Village—Pretty Wedding.

CHIPMAN, N. B., Aug. 5.—The inhabitants of Chipman had a narrow escape from seeing their village destroyed by fire today. Forest fires in the vicinity have been more or less threatening for a day or two, but today the danger assumed alarming proportions. All the threatened villages are to the southeast in the direction of Coal Creek took on so menacing a character that the King Lumber Co's mill was shut down and a huge fire was set out to fight the flames from the village. Towards dark the alarm subsided somewhat, but about 8 p. m. a fire broke out in a high wind, the fire sprang up more furious, apparently, than before. The screaming of the mill whistle brought all the available men for

MRS. JOHN WEATHERHEAD'S DEATH. John Weatherhead, livery stable keeper, Union street, has the sympathy of his many friends in the death of his wife, which occurred Tuesday morning after an illness of weeks. Mrs. Weatherhead is survived by nine children, six sons and three daughters. The sons are William John, now in South Africa; Fred of Toronto; Joseph F. Harry, Charlie and Arthur, at home. The daughters are Lillie, Maud, and Bertha, at home.

Mrs. John Weatherhead was an adopted daughter of the late Joseph McCullough. Mrs. Benjamin Perry of Carleton, is a sister. Mrs. Weatherhead has been a life-long member of St. John's Presbyterian church.

Lorenz Treatment Has Been Successful in Case of a St. John Boy. Master Ned Bond, son of James Bond, the Mill street barber, is now well and about as usual after having been cured of a severe case of Lorenz treatment of bloodless surgery. Master Bond is a happy boy and his parents and relatives are all delighted with the successful outcome of the master stroke of the eminent Upper Canadian surgeon. Those who have known the lad since his babyhood take much gratification out of his restoration to the full use of his feet as if he were their own almost. The operation was performed some months ago and since that time Master Bond has been under the most attentive care of his parents at their home, Mill street. Their labors have been amply rewarded. Since the little fellow's feet have been straightened he has developed wonderfully in general build, and the mere child of a few months ago is now shaping towards a stalwart youth. Master Bond walks quite freely, though he cannot yet fully enjoy the strength in his lower limbs that time and care will bring about.

ALIENS AND FOREIGNERS.

The alien labor measure proposed by Sir William Mulock does not appear to give much promise of usefulness. In the first place it does not touch the aliens who are the most objectionable, Italians, Gaidians, Syrians, Greeks and other natives of Southern Europe who do not go on the land, but remain in the cities or keep moving about the country, are not included in the terms of the act. It applies only to persons from countries which exclude aliens by similar legislation, that is only to the United States. As a lesson to our neighbors in reciprocity, or as they would call it, retaliation, much may be said in favor of the legislation, but to teach in a forcible and effective manner it should be effective and should be enforced. For it is admittedly unwise that Canadians who are excluded from employment in the United States should cheerfully throw their own labor market open to people from that country. The free interchange of labor between the two countries would probably be mutually advantageous, but freedom that is all on one side could not be permanent.

But it ought to be understood that the question of the alien engineers and the Grand Trunk Pacific surveys does not belong to the ordinary class of alien labor cases. The country was not asked to interfere with the engagement of foreign professional men by a company. In this case the work is government employment. A revote was taken the other day to pay for Grand Trunk Pacific surveys. It was practically admitted that this money will be partly used to pay for the surveys already made by these aliens. They were really government employees engaged by the Grand Trunk Company, which had solemnly undertaken to employ Canadians if a sufficient number could be found. Yet the company, as agent of the government, gave the well paid positions to foreigners exclusively, refusing to seek for Canadians, rejecting those who applied, and making the whole service a United States monopoly. In this case Canada has not protested against the employment of aliens, but has contended that her own engineers should not be treated in their own country as outlaws and undesirable.

THE DOMINION EXHIBITION.

Announcement was made in Winnipeg the other day by the minister of agriculture that the grant to the Dominion Exhibition would be given to the various provinces in succession. This declaration would probably be endorsed by Mr. Fisher's successors and may perhaps be accepted as the policy of the country. Toronto had the dominion fair last year. This season it is held in Winnipeg. Next year it will probably go to Quebec province or one of the maritime provinces. It is said that Montreal has already preferred a request. The matter has been talked over in the council of the St. John board of trade and by the directors of the St. John Exhibition Association.

While the dominion grant of $50,000 is a generous fund to begin with, the city which asks for or accepts it assumes large responsibilities. If St. John should claim and receive the exhibition next year, or the year after, a considerable expenditure beyond the federal grant would probably be required. A dominion exhibition worthy to be compared with that held this year at Winnipeg would require more room and better accommodation than the grounds of the exhibition association afford. It is said that the whole or nearly the whole of the dominion grant of this year will be needed to pay for the buildings erected and grounds prepared for the fair at Winnipeg. It is necessary also to arrange a generous and comprehensive prize list, and to pay large sums for the transportation of exhibits from distant places. In our opinion St. John should speak for the dominion exhibition so that it may be held here some time within the next two or three years. If we assume that Montreal will get the next turn it should be possible for the fair to be held here in 1906. But it would be only prudent to give a careful thought to the question of the cost of property and equipment and to the other responsibilities involved, before any final action is taken. If the fair should be held here it ought to be equal to or a little better than those which have taken place elsewhere. Otherwise it would be better not to undertake it.

PASSING OF THE BALFOUR GOVERNMENT.

The conservative or unionist party in Great Britain has entered upon the tenth year of continuous rule. Not for three-quarters of a century has one party governed the country so long without a break. It was without precedent that any administration should after one term of service be given an immediate renewal of power in a general election, as happened in 1900. This continued confidence is the more remarkable as the liberals had held power less than three years immediately before they were defeated in 1895, while the previous conservative term had been nearly six years. Since the introduction of Mr. Gladstone's first home rule bill, eighteen years ago, the government has been led by conservatives rather than by liberals. Now there are signs that a change is near. The liberals are likely to have their turn once more. Nearly all the recent by-elections have resulted in the gain of a seat or a considerable gain in votes by the liberal party. The majority supporting the Balfour government is still substantial, but it is gradually growing less, and must soon reach a stage which will give the Irish home rule members the balance of power. They will use this control to turn the government out at the first opportunity.

It does not appear that the conservative leader is anxious to prolong the life of his government. He might hold office without a general election for three years yet if he could retain a majority in the house of commons. Mr. Chamberlain would probably welcome a change of ministry. At present Mr. Balfour does not go so far as he has in his views on tariff reform and imperial preference. Mr. Chamberlain believes that a majority of the people are in harmony with his own imperial policy, but he knows that the present government cannot be reconstructed on that basis and that some prominent supporters of the administration are still opposed to a tax on food. That is to say, they denounce any other taxes on food than those to which they do not recognize them as food taxes.

Moreover, it is plain enough to Mr. Chamberlain and to his friend the premier, that there are other issues besides tariff reform on which the electors of Great Britain desire to express an opinion. There is a large and influential element which considers the school law a matter of greater importance than the tariff or imperial reorganization. These must have their fling on immediate, local and sectional issues before they pass to the consideration of the great imperial questions to which Mr. Chamberlain invites their attention.

Any one can see that it would be greatly to the advantage of the Chamberlain movement that a short period of rule by the liberal party should begin about this time. If the liberal party is weak in leaders, or uncertain and divided in policy, a period in office will reveal it. If, as seems likely, a period of industrial and financial depression, or at least a period of less activity and greater anxiety, should now occur, it will be altogether in the interest of the Chamberlainites that the liberals should have a chance to meet it by their own methods, and that the full effect of the dumping habit should be felt before the tariff remedy is applied. Even if all the conditions were today favorable to the change of fiscal policy, and they are not so favorable as they are likely to be a year or two hence, the desire of the British electorate for frequent changes of administration would tell against a Balfour or Chamberlain government before the liberals have had another opportunity.

A period of opposition would have the effect of bringing together the different economic schools in the conservative and unionist party. It would eliminate from the party council some of those effete politicians who are mere followers of the traditions of the elders. The party would of necessity be reorganized on the basis of the Chamberlain programme, a thing which is impossible with the party in power. Supporters of Mr. Chamberlain form so large a majority of the conservative and unionist electors and even of the conservative and unionist members of parliament that the organization of the party on any other basis would be in opposition to the simple majority.

It seems to be on the whole desirable that the Balfour government should soon give way to a liberal administration, and it appears likely that this desirable event will not be long delayed. Mr. Balfour and his colleagues cannot be expected to announce their desire to be removed, but the premier seems to accept the loss of by-elections in a spirit which resembles indifference or satisfaction more than stoicism or Christian resignation.

RAISING THE BRITISH FLAG.

The Brooklyn Eagle wants to know what business a Canadian expedition had to hoist the British flag on certain islands in the Polar seas. This flag-raising is regarded by the Eagle as an annexation of territory, and it disputes the right of Canada to perform such imperial functions. To justify this position, the Eagle states that Canada lately desired to take possession of certain territory on the Pacific coast, and proceeded to locate a boundary on the Alaska frontier. This presumption, the Eagle would have us believe, was rebuked by the imperial government, whose representative, Lord Alverstone, is reported to have agreed to another boundary and handed over to the United States the territory claimed by Canada.

The Eagle labors under many wrong impressions. In the adjustment of boundaries to which it refers Lord Alverstone had no more power than any other of the six commissioners who were, nominally at least, sitting as judges to determine the true historic frontier. Two of these were Canadians, who did not agree with the Chief Justice, and three were United States appointees with whom he agreed. It is not necessary here to discuss the reasons for Lord Alverstone's decision. The main fact is that he was appointed a commissioner on the request of the Canadian government. After the appointment of three partisans by the United States, the British government suggested the appointment on the other side of commissioners suited to the changed circumstances. The Canadian government rejected this advice and adhered to the original plan of appointing judges. Therefore it is a simple truth that whatever concessions were made on the Pacific Coast were made from the action of the Canadian government and not from any compulsion of Great Britain.

As to the recent alleged annexations it may be said in the first place, that a Canadian expedition has the same authority to hoist the British flag in an unoccupied country as an expedition from Bristol or London. The British flag is the flag of the British Empire and of every part of it, and there is no distinction in authority between a colonial party and a party from England. In either case if the annexation were undesirable, or if the territory were in the sphere of another power, the imperial government would know what to do. In the second place, the Eagle has no way of knowing what understanding had been reached between the government of Canada and the government at Westminster concerning the Hudson Bay expedition, or what imperial authority the officers of the party might have had. Thirdly, there was no annexation of territory. The islands on which the flag was hoisted have been British for a century or two. The British flag was hoisted as a sign of the establishment of a post, but it has belonged there for several generations. Moreover, as this territory forms part of the Dominion of Canada, it is particularly the right and duty of Canadians to raise the flag on the islands about Hudson Bay and Hudson Straits. It is also their right and duty to follow the advice of one of the best and most popular of British officers and keep both hands on the Union Jack now that it has been raised.

A BETTER CONCERN.

Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann have constructed and acquired nearly 1,600 miles of railway in the west, and are rapidly adding to the mileage. They have some 300 miles in Nova Scotia, built or under construction. It is their intention to connect their eastern and western systems and establish a transcontinental railway of their own. They have filed the plan of their route through New Brunswick, which includes a direct line down the St. John Valley to this port and one across country toward the Nova Scotia terminus. It is a much more promising scheme than the grand trunk Pacific. Besides, Mackenzie and Mann do not ask the people to build the railway and then present it to them.

After Sir Richard Cartwright's decision of the appointment of Jackson no criminal or disreputable person in Canada need despair of obtaining a high place in the public service of Canada. The minister who would defend that appointment would defend anything.

Colonel Tucker seems to have forgotten all about the Bay of Fundy fishermen in his anxiety for the Magdalen Islands.

The delay in the provincial by-elections was recently explained by the government organs on the ground that the attorney general was absent. It seems that the contract was too heavy for the other four ministers. But now that the attorney general is home, what is the matter? St. John city has been vacant six months and the county nearly as long.

The attorney general is still holding out a prospect of the success of his representation claim. He proposes that the imperial parliament shall amend the acts under which the Dominion of Canada was extended to the Pacific Ocean. The prospects of such a movement do not appear to be very bright, but the case will go for a by-election manifesto.

Despatches relating to a senate debate got mixed up the other day, and Sir Mackenzie Bowell was made by some of the papers to say that Lord Dundonald's conduct was "unworthy of an officer and a gentleman." The view was expressed by Mr. Scott, the secretary of state, which is another matter.

The Seawanhaka cup is still ours, though the challenger of this year made a good fight for it. It seems to be about as hard for our neighbors to capture this trophy as it is for Great Britain to lift the America's cup.

The most extravagant session that has been closed yesterday. It was a great session for promoters and boodlers, but a bad one for the people of Canada.

WILES ARRESTED AGAIN.

Former C. P. R. Ticket Agent at Fairville is in Trouble in Boston.

Word has reached this city that Wiles, the C. P. R. agent at Fairville, who was arrested some time ago on a charge of doctoring the pay sheet and was allowed to go after pleading guilty, is now in custody in Boston and may be brought back to this city to stand trial on another charge. At the C. P. R. general offices nothing was known of the arrest, although they admitted being aware of the fact that Wiles was in Boston, as they knew nothing of the arrest. He was arrested by the Boston police, a letter from the Boston elevated railway stating that Wiles had made an application to them for a position and that he had referred them to the St. John office of the C. P. R. F. R. Taylor, of the firm of Welden & McLean, who conducted the prosecution on the charge to which Wiles pleaded guilty, said this morning that he knew nothing of the arrest. He was satisfied that the company thought he got off too easy.

BOGOTON, Aug. 11—Wiles was wanted for a forgery, which clerk with the C. P. R. in Montreal. The detectives had the federal court issue the warrant. Its legality was questioned and Wiles is not now in custody.

WEDDING AT CHATEAUX.

A ceremony of special interest at Chatham, N. B., was the marriage in St. Luke's church on Wednesday at 10 a. m. of Matilda Morrow, eldest daughter of the late James Strothard, to the Rev. John G. Hockley, S. T. B., Methodist minister, now of Weymouth, N. S., by the Rev. James Strothard, assisted by the Rev. Hammond Johnson. The bride, who had been an orphan, was brought to the altar by her father, who had been an orphan, and by other members of the church and congregation. The wedding was a beautiful affair, the altar being decorated with flowers and a large floral wedding bell was suspended. The organ was ornate, and the wedding was a beautiful affair, the altar being decorated with flowers and a large floral wedding bell was suspended. AMERICAN SILVER

Is Gradually Going Out of Circulation in St. John.

The refusal of many merchants and some of the banks to handle American silver is bringing about the desired result. This currency is gradually being withdrawn from circulation in St. John and is being replaced by Canadian silver. Anyone who takes the trouble to notice can see that there are not now in ordinary use nearly so many American coins as there were some months ago. The bank of New Brunswick accepts American silver and ships it out of the country. This is responsible for a great part of the decrease. But at the same time, and especially at this season, considerable quantities are being brought to St. John by American visitors. This tends to counteract the work of the bank, but the amounts brought in are not great as those sent out. This withdrawal of American silver is creating an increasing demand for the Canadian coins, and within the past few days several thousands of dollars worth have been put in circulation. Since the new currency was issued some forty thousand dollars worth of silver has been sent to St. John, and of this about twenty-five thousand have been put in circulation, the remainder being held for issue as required.

MONTECAL HOLD THE CUP.

MONTECAL, Aug. 10.—Nooraa won the fifth and deciding race today, defeating the White Bear by minutes and 43 seconds, and the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club retains possession of the much coveted Seawanhaka cup.

Although there was quite a difference between the pair at the finish, it was a shift of conditions that gave the race to Nooraa. Opening conditions were a fair eight-knot breeze with very little sea and while this continued during the first round, White Bear led. The challenger had a substantial lead on the first heat and though some of it was lost on the second, the American had apparently a comfortable lead when the leeward mark was reached. While beating up the second time, the wind freshened up to about two knots and kicked up a fuss on the lake. The White Bear failed to weather this so well and was outfooted to the mark. White Bear fell well on the run, getting within a few minutes of the mark at the leeward mark, but when they went at Nooraa had the best of it all through. Start 2:00.

Besides the pain and expense there is an enormous risk to life itself in accompanying every operation for piles and you are not by any means sure of a cure then. Dr. Chase's Ointment brings the most instant relief and is the most certain cure for piles you can possibly obtain. Take this case for instance: Mr. J. Mawer, Roden, Man., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation. I had itching piles for five or six years and though I tried many doctors' prescriptions, could not obtain much benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me, and that I would have to undergo an operation. "I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was completely cured in one week. As this was six months ago and there has been no return of the old trouble, I believe that the cure is a permanent one." "Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the best medicine we have ever used for constipation, stomach troubles and kidney disease." "Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edman & Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The commons will have enough business to keep it going until Wednesday. Railway subsidies were taken up today and occupied the bulk of the morning's sitting in the House of Commons.

Hon. Mr. Paterson in reply to Henderson, said the increase in tobacco customs duties collected for a year ending June 30th, 1904, on account of the higher tariff imposed in 1897, was $138,294.56. The total collections in the last fiscal year were $904,555.82. The inland revenue returns for tobacco for the same period amounted to $5,178,735.40, an increase of $1,537,234.04 on account of the new tariff of 1897.

The house then went into committee on Emerson's railway subsidies. A general regulation was made whereby $3,300 a mile shall be paid and a further subsidy of fifty per cent. of the cost of a railway above $15,000 a mile, the additional grant not to exceed the amount in the former case.

The first grant was to the Bracebridge and Trading Lake Railway Co. for a line from Bracebridge to Bay-Bruce, a distance of fifteen miles. The second grant was to the former case, Bruce Mines and Algoma Railway, twenty-one miles in all. W. F. Maclean protested against allowing aid to the Nipissing Railway until information was given as to the personnel of the concern. He asked if the company was identical with the C. P. R. Maclean said that as far as he knew it was not. "Can the hon. gentleman tell us?" His deputy is beside him," demanded Fowler warmly. Sir Wilfrid explained that the present and past governments gave subsidies to companies without investigating their standing. There was a safeguard in the fact that the money was not paid until it was earned.

Re the subsidies were discussed tonight Col. Hughes in discussing the dumping clause of Fielding's tariff argued that it would put every Canadian wholesale dealer out of business, as American goods could be imported from Canada at rates that could not be met.

Fielding had no fear of this line of work, but he recognized the danger of Americans opening consignment banks in Canada.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—In the house today at the request of Broder, concerning the Dundonald demonstration, Borden promised early consideration of a pension for P. Mulloy, who lost his eye in the South African, and for other urgent cases of permanent injuries to Canadians.
