THE ADVERTISER, LONDON, ONTARIO, FRIDAY NOVEMBER 6, 1908.—TEN PAGES

FRANCE CALLED GERMAN BLUFF BY REFUSING TO APOLOGIZE

Kaiser Told Plainly That No Regrets Would Be Expressed for the Arrest of Germans in Algeria, But That Arbitration Must Settle the Dispute.

Paris, Nov. 5. — Tonight the situation between France and Germany arising out of a Casablanca incident is less acute, and although the newspapers of both countries are talking loudly there is less danger of conflict.

The incident in question arises from the desertion from the foreign legion of the French army of a number of German subjects, and their prosecutions by the German authorities at Casablanca.

This time, however, France is resolved to stand firm. Paul Cambon, French ambassador in Berlin, has been instructed to notify Germany that France maintains her view that the whole question should be arbitrated, and that in the meanwhile she declines to release the deserters, reprimand thehas officers concerned, or to exchange re-gets with Germany.

G. T. R. Water Service Men Killed In Collision of Light Engines

Robt. Rowe and Joseph Gauthier Crushed to Death Near Bowmanville.

Bowmanville, Nov. 6.—A fatal railroad accident, in which Engineer Robt. Rowe and Joseph Gauthier, of the G. T. R. water service, were killed, and in which Foreman Young was badly scalded, and had his right arm broken, occurred here about 9:30 last night at a mile and a quarter from the G. T. R. station. The killed and injured were all on board light engine 423, coming west, which crashed, for a reason as yet unknown, into engine 747, which engine was standing waiting to push a standing freight up the grade after it had taken water.

Both men killed were from Belleville. Young also lived at that place, and he was hurried there soon after the accident.

German Town Was Scared by Quakes

Plauen, Germany, Nov. 6.—The most violent earthquake ever experienced here, terrified the inhabitants of the city at 5:40 o'clock this morning. Houses were shaken, and the people fled panic-stricken into the streets.

UPPER SCHOOL LIT. MEETING SHOP LIFTER WAS ARRESTED

The Collegiate Institute Society Thinks Well of "The Oracle."

The Upper School Literary Society of the Collegiate Institute held its first meeting after organization, Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at which the new form magazine, "The Upper School Oracle," was read.

The president, G. H. Ellis, was in the chair, and the reading of the paper was varied by an excellent vocal solo by Miss Woolley and an instrumental by S. M. Adams.

One of its best features was an article on "The Awakening of China," by Cecil Holland.

The paper is issued monthly, and the literary society meetings are held every two weeks, being confined to the members of the upper school only.

DR. SOWERLY DECLINES
A Former London Pastor Will Not Accept Call to Woodstock.

Toronto, Nov. 6. — Rev. Dr. A. T. Sowerly, of the College Street Baptist Church, has received and declined a call to the First Baptist Church, Woodstock. He is commencing his sixth year with the College Street Church and feels, with the congregation, that he has yet a work to do in Toronto.

TAYLOR BOYS MADE BIG FIND OF SILVER IN NEW ONTARIO

Struck It Rich While On a Prospecting Trip the Other Day— Mine Said To Be Worth About $150,000—The Story of the Discovery.

The Temiscaming Herald tells of a big find by former London men now in New Ontario. The Londoners, Messrs. James and William Taylor, are well known in this city, being sons of ex-Mayor Taylor, and have been in the silver lands a few years. The Herald says:

With their pockets bulging full of native silver and their hopes soaring to the skies, three Liskeard men returned to town on Tuesday to carry the glad tidings of a big strike of the real stuff to a small syndicate of local boys. A prospecting party composed of Messrs. Rub Armstrong, Louis Marguerat and Clare Walton hit upon a vein of native silver at Gow Gonda Lake last week and after stripping it for over three hun-

West London Man Dropped Dead N. Broadway Dies of Heart Failure

While Attending to Duties in the Factory of McCormick Mfg. Co.

Death came with startling suddenness this morning about 10 o'clock to Nehemiah Broadway, a laborer, in the baking department at McCormick's biscuit works.

While going about his work Broadway was seen to drop to the floor by the other employees. They rushed to his assistance and summoned Dr.

Moore, who found that Broadway had died instantly, as a result of an attack of heart failure. Broadway had been employed with the firm for about three years.

His home was in West London at 236 Wharfedale road. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Broadway is survived by one sister, Mrs. James Palmer, with whom he resided. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. G. B. Sage.

Coroner MacLaren was called, but after investigating decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

SOUTH LONDON A SHOOTING LADY INJURED THREATENED

Miss Moorehouse of Askin Street Sustained a Very Bad Fall.

Miss Moorehouse, of 86 Askin street, was brought to Victoria Hospital early this morning, suffering from very severe injuries, which she sustained at her home as a result of falling down stairs.

As far as can be learned Miss Moorehouse was taken ill about 3 o'clock this morning, and got up to get some medicine.

In the darkness she mistook a stairway for the door of a room, and missed her footing and fell headlong down the stairs.

She lay there for some time in an unconscious condition before those in the house found her.

When they did Mr. Graham was called and had her removed at once to Victoria Hospital, where he found that she was suffering from very severe injuries to the back and head.

It is feared that internal injuries may develop. At present Miss Moorehouse is doing as well as can be expected.

Truancy Age May Be Raised to 16 Education Dept. To Be Petitioned

Inspector Edwards Favors the Change and Tells Why He Does So.

The department of education will be asked to raise the truancy age from 14 years to 16, it was stated to The Advertiser this morning. Many of the truant officers of the province are convinced that the age of 14 is too young for boys and girls to be turned from school, and will ask that the age-limit be increased.

"That would be an excellent idea," said Inspector Edwards this afternoon. "I think such a move would be in the best interests of education. There are a large number of pupils leaving school at the age of 14, totally unfit for life work. A number of them have not passed the third book, and have practically no education. The fault lies with our system, I think."

Mechanically Inclined.
"For instance, there is no doubt that there is quite a percentage of pupils who have no great love for books, but who are mechanically inclined. Such pupils have no chance under the present conditions. There should be manual training for them. This would develop their mechanical bent, and would cause them to take a greater interest in school work. It has in many instances stimulated even a greater interest in books, and made students out of boys who were considered hopeless. There is plenty of opportunities for the boys and girls who are naturally inclined to books, but the type that does not take to books so readily is not so well looked after."

Manual Training.
"The reason, then, for increasing it did,

SHOULD TEACH BIBLE IN SCHOOLS

Rev. J. G. Inkster Said So in an Address to the London Teachers.

SUPERANNUATION IS FAVORED
Committee Appointed to Secure Information on the Subject and to Report Back.

The annual autumn session of the London Teachers' Association opened this morning in the assembly room of the Collegiate Institute, with a very large attendance of the members. Interesting discussions followed on several papers, and the session was very profitable.

Mr. H. B. Beal, president of the association, presided.

Bible in the Schools.
The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. J. Gibson Inkster, B. A., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. He followed with an address advocating the more frequent use of the Bible, and it was time it was recognized more in the schools of the land. The teaching of the Word of God would affect the moral life of the pupils and teach them more reverence for the Bible and the church.

Superannuation for Teachers.
A lengthy discussion followed on the question of superannuation for teachers. Inspector Edwards introduced the discussion, showing how the system obtained in other countries especially in Europe. There all teachers are superannuated after many years service, an annuity being granted by the government.

The profession, however, was looked upon as a branch of the civil service, and as all civil servants were super-

ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE

"Reddy" Coyne Was Taken Into Custody By the County Officers.

A man known as "Reddy" Coyne was arrested today by County Constable Sadler, charged with the theft of $11 from P. Willer, a neighbor.

Squire Chittick accepted bail in the sum of $500. Coyne will be arraigned on the 10th of this month.

The theft is alleged to have taken place several weeks ago at Oxford Park. Willer and several other young men had been drinking and had gone to sleep on the grass.

"I don't believe that Willer had more than a dollar on him that day," said Coyne today when arrested. "It's ridiculous to accuse me of robbing him."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY AT HAMILTON TWO IN A SUICIDE COMPACT

Young Man Shoots Girl Companion and Turns Gun on Himself—Pair Were in Love But Could Not Wed Because of Parental Opposition.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 6. — The residence of Mrs. Gamelle, 180 Rebecca street, was the scene of a double tragedy tonight, when, as a result of a compact to die together, because they were not in a financial condition to marry, Chester A. Johnson, 22 years of age, shot his sweetheart, Rose Oulmet, 20 years of age, five times, and then turned the revolver on himself, sending a bullet crashing into his brain. Johnson died at the city hospital about 12:30, and at that time the girl was on the operating table with several doctors doing their best to save her life.

Wanted to Marry.
Johnson was a shiftless character, although an immaculate dresser. He spent most of his time around skating rinks, and was the brother-in-law of the manager of a local roller skating rink. He had been in Toronto most of the summer, and returned to the city recently. This afternoon he went to Mrs. Camelle's house and told the woman that he was dead in love with Rose, that she reciprocated his affections, and they were determined to marry. He stated that the girl's mother objected to him paying attention to her daughter, but in spite of that they would defy them all and be married if he only had the means.

About 9 o'clock last night Johnson and the girl put in an appearance at the house, went upstairs to a room and stayed there for an hour. Mrs. Camelle heard seven shots ring out in quick succession, and she rushed upstairs, broke down the bedroom door with a hatchet, and found the girl, partly dressed, lying on the bed, with bullet wounds in her head, left breast, right breast, and in each arm. She was perfectly conscious, told the woman that her lover had shot her, and stated that he did the deed because they were unable to be married. Johnson, nude, was lying face downwards on the floor, a revolver in each hand. He was unconscious.

YOUNG LADY IN BAD RUNAWAY ALMOST STRUCK BY A TRAIN

At the Waterloo Street Crossing of the C. P. R.—A Thrilling Ride Behind a Frightened Horse—Policeman Fysh Captured the Animal.

A young lady who was accompanying a well-known physician on his rounds last night, had a very close call from being killed at the Waterloo street crossing of the C. P. R. shortly before 9 o'clock.

The doctor had stopped to make a call at a house north of the tracks, and left the young lady in the buggy. A C. P. R. freight from the west came through the yards a few minutes after the doctor had gone into the house, and the horse became frightened, and suddenly bolted, headed straight for the tracks.

Engineer Saw It.
The engineer of the freight engine perceived the danger and blew his whistle loudly and applied the brakes.

The whistling and noise of the train frightened the horse worse, and it dashed across the tracks.

LOOKING FOR A FRANCHISE

Independent Telephone Company Apparently Means Business in London.

The Independent Telephone Company of the United States, as stated yesterday, will make an effort to obtain a franchise in the city shortly.

Negotiations are under way, and when the time comes to discuss a new franchise the Independents will be ready with an offer.

The Bell franchise expires in January, 1910, and consequently has about fifteen months to run.

When the agreement was arrived at the Independents were not in a position to do business, as their trunk lines were not constructed.

Since then the Independents have increased largely throughout Ontario, and have now a considerable amount of property.

They expect to have trunk lines constructed as far as Brantford within a year, and then will be in a position to continue the line to London.

The Independents claim that in the United States their lines are increasing in number.

It is pointed out that in the State of Ohio they have very many lines, having almost completely honeycombed the state.

In Cleveland, Columbus and other cities there are large independent lines and they are well patronized.

Around the city hall the feeling prevails that the Independents will put up a vigorous fight for a franchise.

CROSSING IS IN VERY BAD SHAPE

Visitors to St. Joseph's Hospital Have a Grievance.

The condition of the road at Greenvale and Wellington streets, where visitors to St. Joseph's Hospital must get off the street cars, is in a most disgraceful condition at present.

Ald. Stewart called City Engineer Graydon's attention to it, and he is making arrangements to have the street made passable at least.

"I had a man go over it today, and it is very bad," said Mr. Graydon, "but we will fix it today or tomorrow."

ONE TEAM AT A TIME

May Now Drive Onto the Sidewalk on Carling Street—Surface Is Peaceful.

All is peace and quietness along Carling street at the present time—on the surface.

At the last meeting of the council the petition asking that the council amend the bylaw, allowing teamsters to drive on the sidewalk, was filed, having matters just as they were to all intents and purposes.

However, an arrangement was made whereby the council will not interfere. One team at a time may drive on the sidewalk to unload goods, and the walk must be kept clear.

This, however, does not amend the law regarding the matter. Any citizen may, if he so desires, take out a summons against the teamsters, if the police magistrate will issue it.

That has not been done as yet, and as far as can be learned nothing of the sort will be attempted for some time at least. Business continues as it has been in the past, and the series of arguments launched not long ago are now at an end.

Joyce vs Middlesex Entered for the November Jury Sitings Next Tuesday.

Two cases have been added to the list of actions to be heard at the non-jury sittings of the high court next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

This case has been carried over from the assizes, pending settlement between the parties. J. F. Faulds for plaintiff, J. C. Elliott, for defendant.

Fire Risks in the Pembroke Blaze

Pembroke, Nov. 5.—Following is a list of the chief insurance companies who held risks on the buildings destroyed in yesterday's fire, with the amounts, totalling nearly $180,000. The total amount of insurance will exceed this, however, and may reach $225,000; Liverpool, London and Globe, $18,000; North British and Mercantile, $15,950; Guardian, $18,550; London and Lancashire, $7,200; Queen's, $15,000; British American, $10,750; Western, $21,075; Atlas, $11,840; Home, $8,325; Law, Union and Crown, $4,650; London Assurance, $2,500; North American, $7,700; Equity, $6,700; Sovereign, $3,000; St. Paul, $4,500; Metropolitan, $2,550; Canadian Fire, $2,500; Ontario, $2,000; Perth Mutual, $2,200; Standard Mutual, $1,600; London Mutual, $2,800; Commercial Union, $6,300; Yorkshire, $3,000.

Republicans 115, Democrats 176

Chicago, Nov. 5.—According to returns from all congressional districts in the United States, the next national House of Representatives will consist of 115 Republicans and 176 Democrats. It is possible that these figures may be changed later by returns from a few districts, from which entire figures have not been obtained.

Regarding the presidency, there are two states still in doubt, Maryland and Missouri. The complete returns give the former to Bryan and the latter to Taft, but in both cases the majority is in the hundreds, and a recount may change the result. Missouri was yesterday credited to Mr. Bryan, and the change gives Mr. Taft 227 votes in the electoral college, instead of 309, leaving 156 for Mr. Bryan. In Missouri Attorney-General Hadley is elected governor. Mr. Hadley is the first Republican to hold the office in the state in 35 years. In Michigan Governor Warner is re-elected over the Democratic candidate, Mr. Hermans, by 22,531. But one Democrat will get into the next Legislature.

British Fleet to Encircle the Globe

London, Nov. 5.—It has been said that, following the successful manoeuvres of the United States navy, the British Government is planning to send a fleet of warships around the world. Officials of the admiralty were questioned this evening, but all they would say was:

"There is no information we can give you on this matter."

This negative statement, however, would seem to support the intimation that such a tour has been suggested, but under the present political conditions in Europe it is not thought all probable that the admiralty would dispatch a fleet in any way comparable to the United States battleship fleet. There is a possibility that the squadron under Sir Percy Scott, which is at present in South Africa, and which has been ordered to South America, may be brought home by way of the far east and the Suez Canal.

MICHAEL PONZI FOUND GUILTY

Summary Justice for the Italian
Slayer of Fellow Countryman at Ingersoll.

Woodstock, Nov. 5.—Michael Ponzi, who was charged with having thrown the stone which caused the death of a fellow-Italian, Pardi Constantine, is getting quick Canadian justice.

On Sunday afternoon at 4:30 the tragedy took place in the C. P. R. yards at Ingersoll, where gangs of Italians were living in their boarding cars.

Monday noon Ponzi was arrested at Dorchester.

The same afternoon he was remanded to jail by the Ingersoll magistrate.

Tuesday night he was committed for trial on the charge of murder.

Wednesday morning he went to a grand jury.

Wednesday afternoon a true bill for murder was brought in, and at once the prisoner was put on trial for his life before Justice Magee and a jury.

This afternoon the case went to the jury, who brought in a verdict of manslaughter. Ponzi will be sentenced on Friday.

The Boys' Story.
Three boys, Richard Davey, Charles Pilon and Wm. Douglas, saw the tragedy, and were called by the crown to give evidence. They say they saw Constantine standing in the car door, apparently quarrelling with an old man, Antonici, standing on the ground below. Antonici threw a piece of coal at Constantine through the open door. Constantine jumped down and grabbed the old man by the arms from behind. Then the prisoner jumped out of another car, picked up a flat stone which had been used as a marker in a game of coppers, and ran towards Constantine. The deceased ran, and Ponzi threw the stone, striking Constantine on the back of the head. The latter staggered and fell to the ground lifeless.

Witnesses for the defence told of seeing two members of the gang with knives in their hands, but the weapons were not used, nor was their use threatened. They admitted the other facts as outlined above. It appeared that the trouble in the gang started when Antonici and a brother of the murdered man began drinking beer together.

Prisoner in Box.
Ponzi's story was that he threw the stone at Constantine when he saw the latter coming towards him with a knife. Ponzi was put in the box as a witness in his own behalf.

W., and that tomorrow he will commence his negotiations with the Commonwealth Government at Melbourne in regard to the position which Australia is likely to assume towards the all-red line project. FOUR MINERS ENTOMBED Likely To Suffocate Before Rescue Party Can Reach Them.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 5.—An explosion at the mine of Col. W. P. Bond, three miles west of Benton, late today wrecked the shaft, and as a result four men are entombed.

So terrific was the explosion that a car and pieces of the railroad track were hurled from the bottom to the top of the shaft, more than 600 feet, demolishing a steel tippie.

It is impossible to reach the miners and their fate is unknown. A large force of men are trying to clear away the wreckage, but the work is progressing slowly. Unless the men are reached soon it is believed they will certainly be suffocated.

The names of the entombed miners are George Reed, Patrick Dalley, Percy Stevens and John Holmes.

William Myers, an Owen Sound lineman, came in contact with a live wire and his condition is serious.

SUCCUMBS TO WOUNDS INFLICTED BY COW

Goderich, Nov. 5.—George Levy, who was badly kicked and trampled on by a cow on Monday last, succumbed to his injuries today. An operation was performed on Tuesday to relieve him, but the injuries were too severe to respond to treatment.

The remains were taken to Mitchell for interment by a son who resides in Clinton. He was about 60 years old. The family reside near London.

REMEDYING ABUSES.

Our local contemporary states that the Government has been given a mandate to "reform abuses." When a statement of this kind is made, it is fair to demand that the abuses be named. Because such a remark must produce a rude jar to the reader, who has been led to believe that abuses in the Government were none, and that all talk to this effect was simply the production of the Slanderbund—London Free Press.

One may admit there are abuses at Ottawa without arraigning Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues as a gang of thieves, or swelling the chorus of the Slanderbund, as our contemporary did with its campaign slogan, "Turn the Rascals Out." The abuses to which we referred are inherent in the patronage system. It was not invented by the Laurier Government, which has taken at least one long step in the direction of reform by removing the inside civil service from party influence. The outside service should be brought within the scope of the new law. So far as possible the patronage system should be eliminated also in the purchase of supplies and all expenditures of public money. If our contemporary agrees with this, why not prod the powers that be at Toronto, as well as those at Ottawa?

The investigation into the department of marine and fisheries shows that some Government officials made a practice of secretly taking or demanding commissions on purchases. The Government would be responsible if it knowingly tolerated these abuses, but it has not been afraid to thoroughly probe a branch of the civil service in which its opponents have pretended to find most of the material for their scandal campaign. The patronage system, which both political parties have practiced since the beginning of responsible government, affords too many opportunities for unbusinesslike methods, or worse, and the people look for a remedy.

REMOVING THE SNOW.

The perennial problem of snow removal faces the city again. City councils have never had the courage to do what should be done—compel householders to clear their walks. This system might be unpopular for a time, but its benefits would be so apparent that it would be permanently accepted, as in other cities. There would be less discomfort in shovelling the snow off the sidewalks, as every pedestrian has to do in this city at periods during the winter season. Failing this common-sense method, why don't the civic authorities make the best of the antiquated plow system? Yesterday morning the plows were at work till nearly noon, and fully half the school children had to trudge through three or four inches of wet snow. Of what use are the plows if the walks are not cleared for early pedestrians going to work? This is supposed to be the one advantage of the present system, but there is inefficiency somewhere.

GERMAN MINISTERIAL RESPONSIBILITY.

It is not unlikely that the question of ministerial responsibility to parliament will be raised in the German Reichstag, which opened its session yesterday.

The possibility of such a course is suggested by the popular resentment aroused against Chancellor Von Buelow and the secretary for foreign affairs, by the discovery that they failed to comply with the Emperor's command to examine and report upon the expediency of publishing the now famous interview with his majesty, recently given to the world through the medium of a London journal.

If, however, the Reichstag insists upon holding Von Buelow accountable for what is considered a grave blunder, nothing tangible can result, for, as a matter of fact, German chancellors, including Bismarck, have held themselves responsible to no one but the sovereign. Neither does the British parliamentary system exist in Germany. A hostile vote in the Reichstag will not force the chancellor to resign. On the rejection of a Government measure of vital importance, the Reichstag is simply dissolved, and the result of appeals to the electorate under such circumstances has invariably been in the Government's favor. Should the Reichstag refuse, as it has the power, to vote the chancellor his salary, the amount is made good by the Emperor out of the crown resources.

While no chancellor has ever resigned in response to a parliamentary demand, there have been instances where a minister of minor importance has been sacrificed to legislative clamor, and it would not be surprising if in the present case the secretary for foreign affairs, who is held jointly responsible with the chancellor for the disobedience of orders may be relieved of his office to satisfy the demands of the Reichstag.

That Emperor William will yield to any demands for ministerial accountability is most improbable. Should he accept the principle in the case of the Reichstag, the Prussian House of Representatives would be sure to ask a similar concession. Prussian ministers are the servants of the crown, not of the chambers, and they are not subject to effective control of any kind on the part of the legislature. To grant such a concession to the parliament of the kingdom would be to essentially alter the structure of the Prussian monarchy and the position of the King.

THE BRITISH UNEMPLOYED.

At the present time the British Government is taking steps of a practical character to attack the problem of unemployment. In a statement recently made in the House of Commons, Premier Asquith, while admitting the situation to be acute, considered it but temporary, and did not believe it involved any question of party policy. With this latter view Mr. Balfour, the Unionist leader, agreed, having admitted in a recent speech that a change in the tariff would not ward off periods of industrial depression, or oscillation in trade.

The plan of the Government is to push such public works as can be expedited, so as to furnish more employment. For example, men will be put on repair work at various naval stations, which, under ordinary circumstances, would have been delayed until next year. Admiralty contracts which it was not intended to close till January will be placed during the present month. Meanwhile the war office is preparing to enlist 24,000 recruits in the special reserve between now and March next. The Government is also indirectly loaning money to borough governments and other local authorities in order to promote public improvements which will incidentally provide work. Such loans made this year amounted to upwards of $20,000,000. Among the works to which this money is to be devoted are waterworks, sewers, paving, etc. All these undertakings would in any event have been carried out later on, but it is manifestly sound policy to bring them on when hundreds of thousands of men are looking for employment. These men may find work at their regular trades within a year through the return of prosperity. To tide them over the period of depression is the Government's aim.

The measures taken to help the unemployed are merely temporary, and designed to meet an emergency, but the Government has promised to introduce next session legislation of a permanent nature which will go to the root of the problem. The speeches of cabinet ministers indicate that this legislation will provide for great national undertakings, such as afforestation and land reclamation, which will furnish a volume of employment, contracting and expanding with the fluctuations in the regular trade and industry of the country. It will be the most momentous social experiment of modern times.

The St. Thomas Times is a thorough-bred. It says the Pacific scandal was no scandal at all.

France's offer to arbitrate her dispute with Germany will put the Kaiser's pacific professions to the test.

The Conservative press had no fault to find with the Orange Sentinel manifesto before the election results were known.

Mr. Roosevelt gave vogue to a new word when he declared that the Democrats were "beaten to a frazzle." It may be expressive, but "frazzle" has a slangy sound.

It is quite true that the eastern division of the G. T. P. will run through a country that is practically uninhabited. That is one argument in its favor. It will help to put inhabitants there.

Morse, the inventor of the endless chain system of banks in New York, has been sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment. This is contrary to legal precedents, as he is reputed to be worth $20,000,000.

LONGBOAT'S LATEST.

The announcement has been made that Longboat, the Indian runner, had turned professional. The question at once arises was the Onondaga really an amateur? It is claimed by his club, the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club, that he was, and as such his entries have been accepted in the chief races for amateurs. There seems something wrong with the framing of the amateur status. A man with no visible means of support travels around the country rather after the fashion of a theatrical star. He, of course, is managed, and the care with which he has been press-agented would presuppose considerable gain accruing to someone. Granted he gets nothing for his running except expenses, it is not a good kind of amateurism that lets his fine efforts to be taxed week after week in order that a man or a syndicate can make money out of him. The dividing line between professional and amateur seems to need clearer definition. More cash prizes for professionals and a corresponding decrease in valuable trophies for amateurs would probably help to stop the veiled professionalism, and if amateurs could be got to run for the simple honor like the ancient Greeks for the laurel or parsley wreath, such a thing as veiled professionalism would cease.

FOWLER'S JUST FATE.

[Cowanville (Que.) Observer, Con.]
G. W. Fowler, of wine, women and graft fame, has been defeated down in New Brunswick. The defeat was deserved. He made charges against members of Parliament in an indefinite way, and refused to go further. He would not tell on the Liberals, because the Liberals did not tell on him. A man of that stamp should be given a job somewhere boiling soft soap.

WHERE THE OTHERS FAILED.

[New York Times]
A young man in quest of a situation entered the apartment of a high bank official, and made known his errand. "Well," kindly said the official, "there's an opening in the bank for the right young man, and there have been several applicants for it already. Are you energetic and willing to learn?" "Try me, sir," said the young man. "That's good for a starter. Do you gamble?" "No, sir. I have a mother to support, and can't risk my earnings that way." "Ahem! Now—here the great man squandered himself before his applicant, in indication that the most important question was now to come. "Do you ever go fishing?" "Yes, sir," replied the young man, without hesitation. "Was fishing ever your hobby?" "Ah! and what kind of a catch did you make?" "Only one little perch," smiled he. "Good! You're the young man I've been seeking. All the others answered up all right until I put that last question, then they lied!"

POLITICIAN DIED. POOR.

[Ottawa Citizen, Conservative.]
That Hon. Thomas Greenway died a poor man is no less a tribute to his innate honesty than it is a contradiction to the charge that graft is the goal of Canadian politics. For the sake of those whom he leaves immediately to mourn his loss, his lack of this world's riches is perhaps to be deplored, but no more flattering epitaph could be inscribed upon his tomb than that, with all his opportunities he left this world poor in this world's goods.

IN SOBBY FLIGHT.

[Montreal Herald.]
It seems rich people may be poor. Lord Curzon spent so much of his time and money when in India that they were dreadfully hard upon them when they got home, too poor to live in their magnificent town house. Lord Curzon's health may have succumbed to the strain. At present Lord Curzon and his children are worrying along on $60,000 a year, plus the interest on $1,700,000. Their misery is that they have to associate with people who are well-to-do.

THE PROFESSIONAL LINGO.

[Boston Globe.]
The late Bishop Potter once in his early days had occasion to officiate at a christening in a small fishing village on the Massachusetts coast. The proud father, a young fisherman, awkwardly holding his first-born daughter, was visibly embarrassed under the scrutiny of the many eyes in the congregation, and his nervousness was not decreased by the solemn wailing of the infant as they stood at the font.

When the time for baptism of the babe arrived the bishop said that the father was holding the child so that its fat little legs pointed toward the font. "Turn her this way," he whispered, but the father was too disconcerted to hear or understand.

"Turn her feet around," the bishop whispered again; but still there was no response.

The situation was fast becoming critical, when an ancient mariner in the back of the church came to the rescue. Putting his weather-beaten face and hoarse voice to the wind, he roared across the room: "Head her up to the wind, Jack!"

WHOLESALE ADVICE.

[Branford Expositor.]
Mr. John Sharp, of the Democratic contingent in the House of Representatives at Washington, is quoted as saying that a political party which has no constructive policy deserves to die.

The admonition should be heeded by Mr. R. L. Borden. The words of his plan of campaign in the contest just brought to a close was that he placed too much emphasis on destructive criticism, and insufficient emphasis on constructive criticism.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S STRANGE WILL.

[New York Sun.]
Much interest was aroused recently by the publication of the will of Col. Pilkington, an Englishman of large estates. He devised his landed estate to his sons on condition that they and their successors should not permit any public house or establishment of any kind for the sale of intoxicating liquor to be built or carried on upon it during the lives of any descendants of Queen Victoria living now and 21 years thereafter.

Many people thought that this ardent teetotaler was eccentric in the form of time limit he instituted. It was even suggested that he might have invigorated his will. But as a matter of fact the somewhat curious phrase "during the lives of any descendants of Queen Victoria now living and 21 years thereafter" is almost common form.

The English law does not allow the dead hand to retain its grip on property in perpetuity. The estate of a deceased property may leave it as he pleases at his death, and direct it to be employed in almost any way, however fanciful. But he may not wither it into restrictions in perpetuity. Any restriction he may place upon the "uses and disposition of his land" is void unless it comes to an end after the life of some person living at the testator's death, with the addition of 21 years after that person dies.

Now the living descendants of Queen Victoria are legion. Many of them are babes, of whom some will surely live some fourscore years. They are convenient lives to select, as their careers are public property, and the dates of their birth and death easily to be ascertained.

SURE, MOTHER KNOWS.

[Los Angeles Express.]
Nobody knows of the holes to mend. Nobody knows of the buttons lost. Nobody knows what the groceries cost. Nobody knows of the socks that are gone. Nobody knows of the patching done. Nobody knows—here we'll end this yarn—Nobody knows, but mother.

THE VATICAN.

[New York Sun.]
The Vatican is wholly the palace of the Pope, and he naturally has access to all its parts should he wish. The palace covers about 132 acres, of which six acres are occupied by the twenty courts. There are about 1,000 halls, chapels and apartments. The account of 11,000 apartments is a grandiose fable. Since the Italian occupation of Rome, the Vatican, the Lateran and the villa of Castel Gandolfo enjoy extra territorial rights as the surviving remnant of the States of the Church. The Vatican has been the permanent seat of the Papacy since the healing of the schism of Avignon.

A Sterling Attraction.

Since the theatrical season opened, Manager George S. McLeish, of the Grand Opera House, has given his unequalled indorsement to four shows. They were: "The Rogers Brothers in Panama," "The Gay Musician," Elsie Janis, and "Girls."

The first three came, and were seen, and the indorsement approved. The last of the quartette arrived last evening, and in the opinion of a large audience it was as big a success as any of the preceding attractions. Of this there is no question. "Girls" is as bright, breezy, wholesome, and clever a play as ever was staged here. And there have been a legion of good ones.

The first act shows the apartments of three young ladies, stenographers, for the most part. They were looking for situations, with none too much success. They chat for some minutes and prepare for bed. While so doing a young man bursts into the room, and the young ladies are embarrassed. They all claim to be confirmed man-haters, but somehow show an unwelcome interest in the young man. However, he gets away, and the girls obtain situations the next day. By a freak of circumstance the young man, who is the firm of which the young man is a junior partner, and the most amusing complications ensue. Of course, he is in love with one of the girls, but she is loyal to her vow to be a man-hater, and she repels the advances of the young gentleman. The attentions of the senior partner of the firm, a gay old dog, are directed to her, and she is in a fit of temper most of the time with her admirers. The other young lady succumbs to the wiles of a woman-hater, a clerk in the office, but he holds out manfully.

At last both girls quit, as the attentions showered on them might prove embarrassing, and begin to look for other situations. The young man, however, is pained to see the girls' ancestors to get money. However, the young men come around just in time, and the girls capitulate, and all ends happily.

The play is in Clyde Fitch's best vein. Swift and with a mild satire that was most refreshing, it kept the audience on the qui vive from start to finish. There was not a moment when there was not a laugh. One man counted 543, and that may be exaggerated, but the laughs are obtained legitimately. The dialogue, the real Fitchian dialogue, is extremely clever at all times, and in the hands of a capable company is bound to produce results.

And it is a last night. Mr. Fitch is a master-hand at sketching women, and in dealing with the stenographer class, as he did last evening, he hit the dear girls off admirably. And they're not a bad class, after all.

The company is one of the best; in fact, there are few companies on the road that are its equal. The leading male role, that of the junior partner in the law firm, a young man with a fine dash of devilry in his composition, was taken by Charles Cherry. This man is an actor of great possibilities. He has the appearance, the voice and the temperament. His style is convincing, and in his part last night won instant favor. He has a future.

Miss Florence Gordon as Miss Pamela Gordon, secretary and stenographer, a young woman full of business and with no time for the sentimentalities, was immensely appreciated. She was the part to the life. There is no higher praise than that.

Miss Ruth Maycliffe was hardly a whit less enjoyable in her role than Miss Reed. As a sweet, wholesome, sentimental little miss, she was worth the price of admission alone. Her acting was excellent. Half the men in the house were talking about this little girl when they got home, which caused some discussions in the family, it is said.

The other roles, in the hands of capable people as Amy, Agnes and Herbert Standing, John Cumberland, Zelda Sears and others, could not help but be well taken.

The company will play a return engagement here during the season, and there will be nothing short of a bumper house.

John Griffith.

Considerable interest is manifest, especially in social circles in the approaching engagement at the Grand of Mr. John Griffith, who will appear tomorrow in the elaborate revival of Shakespeare's love tragedy, "Othello," at the matinee, and Goethe's "Faust" in the evening.

The version of "Othello" presented by Mr. Griffith is that used by Edwin Booth, with whom he was associated many years, and closely followed the text of Charles Knight's standard edition, which is based on the folio of 1822. It will be found by the student of Shakespeare to differ somewhat from other stage copies of the piece; to present certain novel features of treatment which are thought to be improvements; and to be a full, adequate, correct and satisfying presentation of Shakespeare's magnificent work.

Thomas Jefferson.

Thomas Jefferson's masterly portrayal of "Rip Van Winkle" was seen at the Grand on Thanksgiving Day, and will present the play in a manner said to be more elaborate than ever given before. Thomas Jefferson has already established himself a favorite with theatre-goers of this city, who now look upon him as an artist of rare ability and well worthy of the name he bears, Jefferson, a name which has stood for all that is best in theatricals for five generations. He is happily endorsed by nature to succeed his great ancestor. He gives a splendidly sustained characterization, which possesses certain elements of strength and power that belong to the Jefferson individuality alone.

Star Theatre.

Mr. Swain, manager of the Star Theatre, has at an enormous expense, secured for next week, the great vaudeville feature entitled The American Choir Girl. This is not a moving picture, but a beautiful stage setting.

RUMORS OF WAR RISE ONCE MORE

Report in Serbia and Austria Are Making Preparations for Conflict.

London, Nov. 5.—The Balkan situation has taken on an alarming aspect in the last day or two, owing to renewed rumors that hostilities are imminent between Serbia and Austria-Hungary. The Austrian troops are said to have been interfering on the Serbian frontier, while Serbia has been making hasty preparations for war and the removal of the seat of government from Belgrade to a less exposed city.

It is difficult to ascertain the truth of these reports, which are believed to be greatly exaggerated, though doubtless both countries are preparing for possibilities. At the Serbian legation it is asserted that the rumors are unfounded and that Serbia is maintaining a correct attitude pending the proposed international congress.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Belgrade reports that the heights around the town are occupied by 16,000 troops, and that the bulletin in the National Bank will be removed to Kragjevat, together with the general staff of the army and the bulk of the war material.

Despite these military measures, says the Mail's correspondence, all danger of immediate hostilities seems past. The national assembly sat for two days in secret session and as a result of its deliberations there was an immediate relaxation in the tension.

Mr. Bryan told the newspapermen that he would rest at home for a few days and was not prepared to say what his plans contemplate beyond that. He declared, however, that his failure to be elected would make no difference as to the work he has been engaged in.

"Holding office has been an incident and not an object with me," he stated. "I had definite plans outlined before I ever went to congress, and I have adhered to them at all times since. I could not get out of politics if I wanted to. I have been in politics as much when

THE AMETHYST CROSS

By Fergus Hume

CHAPTER VI.
Purple and Fine Linen.

Mr. Michael Tait dealt mainly with the stocks and shares, but was not above any scheme, however wild or however shady, which promised result in large profits. His motto was: "Make money honestly if you can, but make money!" and he consistently acted up to this advice throughout a long career of speculation. He was not so much a spider sitting in a web to lure unwary flies, as an octopus who stretched out tentacles in every direction to draw victims into his maw. He indulged in dozens of enterprises, both openly and secretly, but all with the aim of making as much cash as possible. That many of these schemes led to much misery, that is, the misery of other people, he never stopped to inquire. And even if he had done so he would have taken no note of the answer. The race was to the swift and the battle to the strong, in Mr. Tait's humble opinion, and those who failed either in fighting or running had to make the best of their plight.

In appearance, Michael Tait was a squat, burly, sturdy man, with sandy hair and whiskers, and a pair of cold blue eyes devoid of all sympathy. He dressed expensively, wore a profusion of jewelry, and was rarely without an admirable cigar sticking out of his mouth. For the sake of luring his victims he cultivated a jolly, free and easy manner, and exhibited an external good nature which deceived many. To quote Tennyson's cutting line, he "snakelike slimed his victim e'er he gorged," and acted the Pharisee by largely advertising his charities. He was looked upon in general as a good fellow, rough, but truly kind-hearted, and possessed of a true Christian spirit. As a matter of fact Mr. Tait knew very little of Christ and his teaching, and would not have subscribed to it, save by word of mouth, had he been aware of its spirit. But he passed as a good man because he went to church and talked largely of helping the poor.

This prop of British commerce, as he was wrongly described by a too ardent reporter, possessed a regal country-house at Henley, where he entertained largely. Also he had chambers in town, but these he only used on rare occasions when business or pleasure prevented his seeking his true home. Mrs. Tait had mercifully passed many years previously under the delusion that Michael was a good man, and the Henley mansion was managed by Maud Ellis, who was the stockbroker's niece. Miss Ellis was a young lady of five-and-twenty, certainly not bad-looking, although she could not be described as beautiful. Like her respectable uncle, she was of the sandy type, but, unlike him, she possessed a tall, full figure, finely shaped. As she always dressed in exquisite taste, and had a personality of the semi-hymnical kind, she was regarded as a fine woman. The fact that she was her uncle's mistress also may have something to do with this opinion. Maud was extremely cunning and as selfish in her way as Michael was in his. He sought money, she admiration, and they did very well in their efforts to attract both. And it was this clever young woman who had chosen to fall in love with George Walker.

Of course, she knew that he was a bad match, that he did not love her, and that as his wife she would hold no very exalted position. But the fact was that the girl, after playing with various suitors, like the princess of a fairy tale, with no serious intentions, had been snared herself. Whether it was Walker's good looks, or his kind heart, or his charm of manner, it is impossible to say; perhaps one of the three, perhaps the three together; but Miss Ellis was assuredly violently in love with the young man. Having arrived at the conclusion that life would be miserable without him, she set to work to make him propose, thinking that she would have small difficulty. To her surprise, however, George proved to be quite impervious to her sparkling conversation and clever display of her somewhat limited charms. He was polite to her and nothing more, although she made her uncle ask him again and again to the palace at Henley. This conduct pleased Miss Ellis, but did not altogether displease her, as it gave her an opportunity of exercising her talent for intrigue. From a mere fancy, her passion deepened to ardent love, and she swore mentally that by hook or crook she would force the young fellow to make her Mrs. Walker. Rarely a week passed without George being asked to Henley, and Maud did her best to subjugate him. But George, being in love with Lesbia, had a very strong shield to oppose to her love darts, and managed to avoid the amorous pitfalls she spread for him. For six months the chase of this unwilling victim had been going on, and as the quarry always dodged just as the hunter was on the verge of capture, this middle-class Diana concluded that there was another woman in the case. With a view to learning the truth she watched and made stealthy inquiries, so that she speedily learned of George's infatuation—so she called it—for Lesbia Hale. To detach him from Lesbia, became the object of her life, and it was she who suggested to Mr. Hale that Lesbia might well marry Captain Alfred Sargent.

As Hale approved of Maud's cleverness, and was frequently indebted to her for getting what he wanted from Tait, he did his best to fall in with her plans, the more so, as he did not care whom his daughter married, provided it was to his interest. Maud promised if the marriage was brought about to interest her uncle in a wild scheme of Hale's contrivance. So the loving father did his best—as has been seen—to force the child into the arms of a man she loathed. George knew nothing of all this intrigue, and kept away from the Henley mansion as much as he could without openly offending his employer. But when he heard from Tim that Captain Sargent was to be a member of the Saturday to Monday house party he determined to accept this latest invitation. An interview with Sargent might clear the air of all these mysteries, and George—hating the ex-captain—was not averse to breaking his head, as Tim had advised, if there was no other way of releasing Lesbia. Also George fancied that Mr. Hale—a frequent visitor—might be enjoying Mr. Tait's hospitality, in which case he could speak to him and remonstrate about this tyranny to which Lesbia was subjected.

When George arrived in time for afternoon tea on Saturday he found that his own hopes and those of Tim were realized, that is, both Walter Hale and Captain Sargent were present. Mr. Hale looked as lean and grim, and smart as ever, while greeting the flushed young man with the air of a perfect stranger. Maud, who presided at the dainty tea-table, saw that flush, and from the juxtaposition of Hale's greened its reason. She was therefore none too pleased, but velling her annoyance with a sweet smile, she called the new arrival over to her side and poured him out a cup of tea. "You are quite a stranger, Mr. Walker," she said, graciously, devouring him with her cold, grey eyes, which only lighted up when they rested on his face. "It was here three weeks ago," said George, politely, and accepting the cake. "It would rather bore Mr. Tait if I came here oftener."

"It would never bore me," breathed Miss Ellis, "and my uncle is always very glad to see you. He looks upon you almost as his son."

George flushed again and looked awkward. "It is very kind of Mr. Tait," he remarked coldly, "seeing that I am only a clerk in his office."

"Uncle was only a clerk once," said Maud smiling. "And look what he is now, Mr. Walker. Some day you will be like him."

"I don't think so," said George, looking across to the stout, ungraceful form of the successful stockbroker, who was being waited upon hand and foot by two society ladies of the smart set anxious to secure tips.

Maud took his remark in its wrong sense. "Oh, you must hope," she declared playfully. "With influence," she spoke meaningly, "you will do much."

"I have no influence," returned the young man coldly.

"That is your own fault," retorted Miss Ellis. "The tide of fortune is flowing past your door, and you will not launch your boat."

"I am waiting for a passenger," said Walker, thinking of Lesbia. Jealous and cunning as she was, Maud was quite taken in for the moment, and smiled graciously. She fancied that he referred to her. "You need not wait long," she hinted.

George found the situation intolerable, and on the spur of the moment—although it was neither the time nor the place to be confidential—he spoke out. There should be no further misunderstandings if he could help it. "My waiting depends upon Mr. Hale," he said bluntly.

Maud bit her thin lip, and leaned back, with an artificial laugh. Inwardly she was furious, as she now knew that his remark had referred to "that girl," as she contemptuously called Lesbia. But she was too much the woman of the world to reveal her feelings, and, moreover, utilized his observation to learn as much of the truth as possible.

"Ah," she said, "a little bird told me that Mr. Hale has a beautiful daughter. But I understood that she was engaged to Captain Sargent."

"She is engaged to me," flashed out George, quite forgetting that he was speaking to a jealous woman.

"Ah!" said Miss Ellis again, controlling her countenance with difficulty. "The course of true love is not running smooth. Poor Mr. Walker, I must help you to gain your wife."

"You!" blurted out George, like a fool.

Maud sat up and erected her crest like a snake. "Yes," she said, haughtily, anxious only for the moment to save her womanly pride. "Why should I not help a friend? I look on you almost as a brother."

Still like a fool, George believed her, and, indeed, her indignant manner would have received a much cleverer man. He was very young, and very green, with regard to women, and in Maud's capable hands could be molded like wax.

She could have struck him in the face for the insult he had offered her, but hiding her rage under a friendly smile, she laid her plans to entrap him beyond hope of escape. "I shall get Mr. Hale to bring his daughter here," she said quietly, "then you can talk to her at your leisure."

"Oh, how good you are!" cried Walker delightedly. "I am sure you will love Lesbia; she is so beautiful and charming—as you are," he added with an after-thought.

Again the impulse came to Maud to strike him, and again her worldly training came to her aid. "Hush," she said softly, "you will make Captain Sargent jealous. I believe he overheard."

"I don't care if he did," said Walker defiantly.

"Then I do," retorted Miss Ellis, who could not resist paying him out a trifle, much as she loved him. "I don't want you to quarrel here. Now go and talk to Captain Sargent while I receive these new people."

Several ladies and two gentlemen entered at the moment, and she went forward to greet them, followed by her uncle. George left the chair he had occupied near the tea-table and strolled across the room—not to Sargent, but to interview Mr. Hale.

GUERILLA WARFARE IN NEW YORK STREETS

Two Thugs Fatally Wounded, But Refuse to Name Assaultants.

New York, Nov. 5.—Two men were shot, one of them probably fatally, on the Bowery early today, in a continuation of a recently revived feud between two rival gangs. One of the victims, Jacob Silver, was shot through the abdomen and will probably die. The other, Charles Harrington, will recover. Neither threats of the police nor pleas of a priest who administered extreme unction to the men, could make them divulge the name of their assailants or give any details of the shooting. Both swore vengeance in the event of recovery. Jimmy Kelly, manager of several prize-fighters and lieutenant of one of the district political leaders, was shot on Monday last after a ball at Tammany Hall. His followers laid the shooting to members of the "Humpty" Jackson clan, and since that time the rival gangs have been waging guerilla warfare on the east side.

INVESTIGATING SONS DEATH

Port Huron Man Believes Boy Met With Foul Play.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 5.—Alexander Martin, of Corunna, Ont., is in this city in consultation with Sheriff Davidson, looking to an investigation of the death of his son, Alfred Martin, whose body was found floating in St. Clair River below this city three weeks ago, after having been in the water for nearly two months. Martin made a partial investigation, which, he thinks, warrants a fuller probing by the authorities. On the left side of the lad's head was a wound apparently made by some blunt instrument. A theory advanced by Mr. Martin is that the boy was assaulted and the body thrown from a boat into the river. Martin was an expert swimmer, and if his boat had overturned he could easily have reached the shore. The officers will investigate.

Passengers on an elevated railroad train in New York saw a goat standing on a narrow billboard 30 feet from the sidewalk, eating a banana hat which he had seized from a passing business man.

It's Never Too Late To Mend

This old adage does not apply to the Mill End Sale. If you let it, and before you have filled every possible, present and future need in the merchandise it offers, the chance to enjoy the equal of its golden savings will be gone for many months to come.

Not till the manufacturers again "clean house" and sacrifice their factory surpluses, odds and ends, remnants, etc., will another Mill End Sale be possible. And we emphatically state that no sale event ever surpasses our Mill End Sale in value-giving.

Buying Clothing—and Horses

A man doesn't snap up a horse because he looks all right. As a usual thing, he leads the nag out where the light is good and strong and examines every hair of his hide. He squints under each hoof for the grand hailing sign of distress and peeks down his throat for dark secrets. He wants to know the horse's pedigree—and he is mighty particular about getting a line on the man he's doing business with. When all this is made satisfactory and the price agreed upon, the buyer will further stipulate that should the horse turn out a roarer, be balky or not otherwise as represented, he can get his money back.

This may be too much caution but it is mighty good business. A man buys a horse for use and wants him as nearly perfect as possible. Compare this caution in buying horses with the indifference usually displayed in buying clothes.

Nine times out of ten, a man takes the first thing offered. He does not examine its composition. He knows nothing about the quality, and less about the pedigree of the garments—where and how they are made.

He knows little about the man who sells the clothes.

Is this logical?

A man is in the company of his horse for a few hours, perhaps, a day.

You are in your clothes all the time you are awake.

You manage the world's affairs

- transact business
- meet strangers
- welcome friends
- make love and are married
- go to church
- in fact, spend two-thirds of your life IN YOUR CLOTHES.

"All of us can't be tailors." True enough—which is all the more reasons why we should buy clothes that have a pedigree—a reputation, and a guarantee at the back of it.

"PROGRESS BRAND" Garments are pedigreed clothes. Their pedigree—the "Progress Brand" trademark shown below—is registered at Ottawa.

They will stand the most searching examination inside and out.

They are made of the most dependable materials in one of the best equipped tailories in Canada, and sold only by the most reliable dealers with an unqualified guarantee—"satisfaction or money refunded."

Does it pay, or is it good business, to be indifferent when buying your clothes?

Building Bylaw To Be Amended Conditions Now Are Too Stringent

A Citizen Makes Complaint and
Was Listened to by No. 2 Committee.

The building bylaw again created a great deal of discussion at the board of works last evening, and it was decided to have it amended in certain particulars. The discussion arose over the complaint of Mr. J. G. Orchard that City Engineer Graydon would not allow him to complete two houses on the Wortley road, because they did not conform to the regulations of the building bylaw.

The Objections.
"Mr. Graydon does not think the walls are thick enough," said Mr. Orchard. "They are 10 inches thick, with a foundation of 15 inches. They are built of cement block, and I think are perfectly safe. The walls are only 15 feet high, and I do not see that it is necessary to construct a house with walls 20 feet high. I must admit that I did not know of the new regulations, or I would have come to the committee and discussed them before the foundation was laid. I always construct substantial houses."

Mr. Graydon Speaks.
"The foundation is not strong enough, according to the bylaw," said Mr. Graydon. "The bylaw calls for 20-inch walls and 21-inch foundations. I was told to enforce the bylaw, and I have done so. There are many infractions of it being committed every day, and I am endeavoring to make all builders observe it."

Amend the Bylaw.
"I suggest that the bylaw be amended," answered City Engineer Graydon. "I think that 10-inch walls for such houses are sufficient, but I want the bylaw to state that I do not want any discretionary powers whatever, as such would be a constant source of trouble."

People Will Be Asked to Pay Again To Resurface King St. Pavement

'Twill Cost $1 a Yard to Make
Old Road Look New—Engineer
Makes Recommendation.

The King street "Kentucky rock" asphalt pavement was again before No. 2 committee last evening, when Mr. Fleider, of Blight & Fleider, the contractors, appeared before the aldermen and discussed resurfacing the street.

The opinion of the committee was that the street should have a permanent pavement, and that it would be worse than useless to put any more of the Kentucky asphalt on it. City Engineer Graydon submitted offers from the Barber Asphalt Company to resurface the pavement for $1.25 per yard, with a ten-year guarantee. The Warren Bitulithic Company offered to do the work for $2 per square yard.

Macadamize It.
"The best that Blight & Fleider can do with King street is to make it a good macadam road," said City Engineer Graydon. "A roller can be run over it and then a couple of inches of good gravel put on it. It would be worse than folly to put any of this Kentucky asphalt on the street, as it would not last any time. I think, however, that a good asphalt pavement should have been laid."

Mr. Fleider pointed out that his company was prepared to go ahead and macadamize the road as suggested by Mr. Graydon. He did not want to put any of the material used in the both to myself and to the committee. On motion of Ald. Saunders, City Engineer Graydon was instructed to prepare amendment to the bylaw, to be submitted at the next meeting of the committee. Mr. Orchard was allowed to go ahead with his houses in the meantime.

Manufacturers' Request.
A deputation composed of Messrs. W. H. Braddon, P. R. Braddon, Harrison and Ingram appeared before the committee on behalf of the Scott Machine Company, asking that they be allowed to extend their building at 290-292 York street to within four feet of the sidewalk, about four feet on the city property. "We have no way to extend our premises except in front," said Mr. W. H. Braddon, "and if the council will allow us to build on city property, we will erect a fine office building. The business is worthy of your attention. It is growing rapidly, employing at the present time twenty experienced men. Our request is a reasonable one, in view of the fact that the Leonard Company have built on city property for a whole block."

Engineer Is Opposed.
Ald. Rose moved that the matter be referred to the city engineer to report on at the next meeting, and in the meantime the committee will look over the ground and see for themselves. "I do not think the city could possibly grant Mr. Braddon's request," said Mr. Graydon. "The residents on each side would immediately take out an injunction, and there would be a great deal of trouble and litigation. We had the same experience when we thought of allowing a man to build on the 'V' on Park avenue."

However, Ald. Rose's motion carried.

Repairing Pavements.
The Logan Brick Company, of Logan, Ohio, wrote saying that they would replace the bad bricks in the Talbot street and King street pavements in the spring. It was pointed out that this season was too far advanced to do work satisfactory to the city or the company, but they would make all necessary repairs in the spring.

Mr. Fleider, of Blight & Fleider, reported that the bonds for the Carling street pavement would be ready next week. A delay had been caused by the Asphalt Block Company not having their bonds for the blocks ready. Those present were: Ald. Gerry (chairman), Ald. Rose, Ald. Stewart, Ald. Saunders, Mayor Stevely, City Engineer Graydon and Secretary Kirkpatrick.

Can Be Improved.
"With very little trouble, the street can be made a good one," said Mr. Graydon. "A surface asphalt can be laid for $1.25 a yard. I think every resident would be willing to pay $1 a yard, the city to pay the rest, or at least divide the difference in the cost between the city and Blight & Fleider. It was suggested that a man from the city hall be sent to the property-owners along the street and lay the proposition before them. They are so heartily sick of the whole business that I think they would be willing to pay $1 a yard for a good pavement," said Ald. Stewart. "This would give them a good pavement at about the same price it could have been laid for in the first place."

Mayor Agrees.
Mayor Stevely thought the idea a good one, and he will make arrangements to have one of Assessment Commissioner Grant's assistants interview the property-owners. City Engineer Graydon pointed out that there might be some difficulty passing one bylaw overlapping another. He was instructed to interview the city solicitor and get his opinion on the subject.

BORDEN GOING ABOARD.
Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Mr. R. L. Borden will probably go to England for a short visit, it is stated here. The matter has not yet been definitely arranged, however.

STRAIN ON ENGINEERS ON VERY FAST TRAINS

Flyers Are Hard on the Drivers of Locomotives.

The Canadian Journal of Medicine and Surgery says:
As the exigencies of modern travel have introduced "flyers" on Canadian railroads, the duties of locomotive engineers have become more severe. As far as is known, duty on fast trains does not cause the same severe strain. On very fast trains, it is said that engine duty cannot be endured for more than a few years. Some of the engineers on the "flyers" are said to develop neurasthenia after working four years, or even less. Nervous breakdown is said to appear in them suddenly, not only from exhaustion, but from the cumulative effect of the millions of little traumas produced in their tissues by the jarring, shaking, jolting engine, driven for many hours at terrific speed. A locomotive engineer affected with neurasthenia would be unfit for duty, especially as nervous breakdown in neurasthenic persons may appear quite suddenly. The results following from a slight error of judgment in such a case may be awful. As the wear and tear of the tissues of the locomotive engineers are increased by the speed of these "flyers," frequent examinations of the engineers as to the accuracy of the nervous and muscular systems are necessary. Railroad surgeons are aware of these truths, and, doubtless, give them the consideration which their importance demands.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Harry Plant, of West Toronto, a street car conductor in the employ of the Toronto Railway Company, appeared in the police court this morning charged with theft from the company. The case was adjourned for a week. The company claims that Plant for a long time has been abstracting tickets and 5-cent pieces from the fare box. Plant has a wife and two children.

Wives and Mothers
SAVE THE LOVED ONES FROM DRINK EVIL BY USING ORRINE—CURE EFFECTED OR MONEY REFUNDED—CAN BE GIVEN SECRETLY.

If your husband or son has fallen a victim to the drink habit, stop pleading, scolding and crying. Use Orrine, which is recommended by thousands of leading physicians throughout the country because they know the good it has accomplished. Hundreds of letters attest to the remarkable cures made by Orrine. Polk Miller Drug Company, of Richmond, Va., writes: "Mother and sisters have told me of husbands and brothers who since they were given Orrine (in most cases without their knowledge) seem to have lost all desire for drink. Thus your preparation has brought much comfort and happiness to once desolate homes."

This successful remedy can be given secretly if desired, using Orrine No. 1, or the patient can take it of his own free will, using Orrine No. 2. Either form destroys the desire for strong drink, making the user strong and well, a man in every sense of the word. Write for free pamphlet on cure of alcoholism to the Orrine Company, Washington, D. C. Sent in plain sealed envelope.

The regular price of Orrine is $1 a box. There is no risk in buying Orrine, as there is a guarantee in every box which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Orrine is for sale by C. McCallum & Co., corner Dundas and Richmond streets, London.

The age of retirement for British ex-cadre officers has been fixed at 61, and in certain cases at 60 years. In the customs department, which is soon to be amalgamated with the excise, the present retiring age is 65. In both cases the new rule will come into force on April 1, 1909.

Boxing, Hockey,
BasketballJuniors to Play Intermediates
For City Rugby ChampionshipTwo Local Teams to Clash Next Monday Afternoon.

As a result of an argument as to which is the better team, the London junior and intermediate Rugby teams will meet Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to settle the city championship. This is the first time in many years that such a contest has been played in London, and the stands should be packed on the occasion.

Bobby Yohn will play on the junior team, and it is reported also that Grafton may line up with them. With these players on, the juniors ought to give their heavier opponents a great battle.

The juniors are not a bit backward in predicting a victory for themselves. The battle will be a most interesting one, no matter which side wins, for all of the players are local boys, and are well-known to every Rugby fan in the city. The admission to grounds and stand will be 25 cents.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

BY SOUTHPAW

THE ADVERTISER bowlers will tackle the Grocers again a week from Monday, and in order to have a light workout previous to the game, they challenge the Free Press athletes to a game of tenpins on Wednesday evening next at the Ideal alleys.

GET YOUR TICKETS for Bennett's big hockey benefit from the players, the management of the team, or St. John's Athletic Club.

"POP" BICE predicts that the juniors will get a good spanking when they clash with the Intermediates Monday afternoon. One Mr. Wilson, however, replies by intimating that "Pop" will have less thought-dome covering than he now boasts of when the dust—or the snow—has settled.

"VARSITY HAS BEEN coming along fast, and with Grafton and Yohn out for business, it looks as though the Intermediates will have to work every second to nose out a victory. It'll be a great battle anyway.

THE HAMILTON SCRIBES are still banging away at one another, and from here it looks like a case of "take your pick." "Spec's" bad boy is in wrong, though, on that interprovincial official business. He's a too-happy-go-lucky kid for the job.

AS EVIDENCE of this fact it need only be cited, that although one day remains to decide the question, the local juniors do not know whether they are to play tomorrow at Stratford or in Halifax. Stratford people, it is said, declare that they will have anything that looks like a Petrolia or London football player arrested on sight. Besides, The Advertiser can state on good authority that the Stratford grounds cannot be procured.

THE NATIONAL ALLEY BOWLING TEAM, of London, wants to know just where, when and how the Hamilton trundlers get off. "They have some few face-muskers in the rugby line down there," said "Manager Mike" today, "but when we challenged the best they had in a bowling way we were greeted with a silence as intense as that permeating the Bryan camp at present."

Wake up, you Tigers!

NEW YORK RACE FANS are as blue as the blue, and have not yet become reconciled to Hughes' re-election. A Gotham exchange offers the following:

Well, here we are, pounded to a pulp. Two years more under the sign of the whiskers without even a chance of a few months off for good behavior. Horse-racing is dead for the present. Unless something is done to fracture the law and have it declared unconstitutional on the grounds that it restricts the religious liberties of people who worship horseflesh, we might as well make up our minds to revel in chess for two long hard summers.

Chess is a great game, but s-s-s-h, don't let the governor hear about it; he might make us renig on chess, because the knights have horses. Dice shaking will be under the ban soon because of the expression: "That's a horse on you." The governor is becoming so wrapped up in his pet project that he hardly has time to sleep.

A few days ago a gentleman standing near Mr. Hughes said: "Well, we have two races here in Albany every day, and I don't care who hears about it."

Very much shocked by such depravity, the governor turned around and frowningly demanded the guilty details.

"We have the white race and the black race," said the gentleman. "I won't allow it," said Mr. Hughes, decisively.

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID of the game last Saturday, and a great deal can still be said, but this is certain, that the Dundas team is responsible for the rough play. Averaging fully ten pounds heavier than the Cubs, they started out from the beginning to hammer their opponents, and when they got their own stuff back in double doses they were not sports enough to take it without a whimper.—Spec's Bad Boy.

THE TIGERS II should have no great difficulty in defeating Dundas next Saturday. Olinan, who performed in the second scrimmage two seasons ago, will wear a yellow and black uniform, and should strengthen the team.—Hamilton Times.

Team in Good Shape for the Argos

If London does not defeat the Toronto Argos tomorrow there will be some surprised fans hereabouts.

The intermediates leave via the C. P. R. at 8:30 Saturday morning for Toronto, and they will take with them a fast team.

The line-up will be somewhat as follows:

Full, Heal; halves, Wilkins, Sage and Routledge; quarter, Corcoran; outside wings, Moore and Baker; scrumage, Smith, Marshall and J. Routledge. The other positions will be played by some of the following players: McColl, Bice, Strachan, De Winton and Wright.

"Tim" Corcoran, the brainy little quarter, stated today that the team was in excellent trim, and capable of giving any of them a stiff argument, even without the services of Yohn and Grafton.

"Wilkins is coming up strong," said Corcoran, "and the rest of the boys are improving every day. Watch our smoke tomorrow."

Longboat May Get Trimmed
In His First "Pro" RaceDeerfoot II., the Apache Wonder, Is Credited With Five Miles in 24:52

Toronto, Nov. 6.—The Star says: Tom Longboat's first opponent in the professional game will be Matthew Deerfoot, an Apache Indian, said to be a relative of the famous Deerfoot.

If this young wonder from out of the west can put within a minute of the time he is credited with he will make Tommy Longboat look like a spavined crab, and if he beats him it will be your Uncle Thomas under the sink with the rest of the pipes. His $20,000 fortune will have disappeared like mist before a squall.

This young Deerfoot, from out of the west is credited with rambling five miles so fast that he makes any of the Onondaga's five-mile records look like a dead march at the old soldiers' home.

Five in 24:52.

Western men say Deerfoot has rambled five miles in 24:52.

Alfie Shrubbs' world's record for five is 24:22-5, made in 1904.

The professional record has stood since 1883. It is 24:40, and J. White is the holder.

Longboat's best five miles was made at the C. A. A. U. championships at Halifax, where he ran in 26:05.

He is credited with 25:30 indoors at Belleville, but he didn't do it. The distance must have been half a mile shy, because the Indian is notoriously a poor merry-go-round performer. Between 26:05 and 24:52 there is a quarter of a mile, and a quarter of a mile is a terrible trimming at five miles. Of course, no one has yet chased the Indian hard for five miles, and so there is no real line on him, but he is not now in shape for a gruelling five miles, nor can he get there in time for this Buffalo race with Deerfoot if it comes off on Nov. 13.

Chicago Dope.

The Chicago dope about Deerfoot II. is interesting. Here it is:

"Matthew Deerfoot, said to be a relative of the famous Deerfoot, the great Indian runner, arrived here from Colorado en route to New York, where he proposes to issue a challenge to the Italian runner, Pietro Dorando, who is expected in the metropolis soon. Deerfoot, who is said to be a greater distance runner than Shrubbs or Longboat, is being sent east by a syndicate of western mining men, who are prepared to back him heavily against any professional runner in the world. Young Deerfoot, who is twenty years old, lanky in build, and with all the characteristics of the distance performer, is thought to be one of the best runners ever produced in the west. He has beaten many good men in the events in which he has competed, but little has been heard of him in the east. His record in Indian races in his native states is remarkable, according to report. Recently he ran five miles in competition in 24:52, which, if authenticated, is a very fine performance.

Confident of Victory.

"The western Indian while east will probably not only turn his attention to Dorando, but will try to inveigle Shrubbs and Longboat into matches, which he believes he can win."

Meanwhile the headstrong Indian and his friend, Tom Claus, are idling away their time, holding this western wonder in contempt.

Pride goeth before a fall, they say. Shrubbs' Position.

The following statement by Shrubbs explains his position in reference to the forthcoming races with Longboat, Dorando and Hayes:

"I am perfectly willing to engage in a race against Dorando, Longboat or Hayes, or would consent to meet all in a race, provided I am given a series of races. One race is not an honest test, as the contestants may not be right when the race is run. It would not be fair to have the true abilities of the men decided in one event."

"If Dorando will consent to meet me in one or two shorter races, I will gladly consent to meet him at the distance run by Hayes in London, which, I understand, is approximately twenty-six and a quarter miles. I would suggest that the distances prior to the big race be at ten and fifteen miles.

"While I would prefer Longboat, I will only be too anxious to run Dorando or Hayes, provided they will find time to absent himself from his theatrical engagements."

HOCKEY BENEFIT
AT BENNETT'SNo "Pro." Hockey in London
This Winter—Better
Accommodations.

The tickets for the hockey club benefit to be given at Bennett's popular vaudeville house the week of Nov. 16 have been issued and can be procured at the following places:

St. John's Athletic Club, the management of the London Intermediate Hockey Club, or the players themselves.

The club will receive a percentage of all tickets sold at the places mentioned, and local hockey fans who have the interests of hockey at heart will purchase tickets.

As usual the performance will be a high-class one, and those who attend will be treating themselves to an excellent vaudeville performance, besides assisting local sports materially.

No "Pro." Hockey.

It has been settled now that pro hockey will not be given an opportunity of obtaining a foothold in London this season. A junior team may be encouraged, although this is by no means certain, providing that a city league is formed. London needs either a city league or junior hockey to develop players.

The improvements on the rink will begin at once, and by the time King Winter arrives with ice London will have to all intents and purposes a new rink.

Arrangements are being made to do away with the high railing in front of the gallery, which will be tilted, so that a good view of the game can be obtained from any angle.

London last year enjoyed a hockey boom, but it will be tame in comparison with the coming season, which is likely to excel all records in point of attendance. Londoners will pay to see good hockey any time, and especially when suitable seating-accommodation is provided.

MR. BRENT RESIGNS
FROM THE C. A. A. U.

Owing to business reasons Mr. Stanley Brent, of the local Y. M. C. A., has resigned his position as commissioner of the C. A. A. U. in this district.

Mr. Brent has given entire satisfaction in the office, but owing to slight differences which have sprung up with a few local athletes, decided to give way to someone not so prominently connected with local athletics.

INDOOR BASEBALL
AT THE ARMORIES

Two games of indoor baseball were played at the Armories last night, the winners being the Buglers and A Company, over G Company and E Company; 15-9 and 14-7 were the respective scores.

The teams lined up as follows:

Buglers—Callahan, Allport, McColl, McCrimmon, Brodson, Ball, Wilson, Smith, O'Connell.

G Company—McQueen, Patterson, Anderson, Hayes, Dobbs, Baker, Stinson, Allport, Monahan.

Umpire—Jeffries.

E Company—Hunt, Treleven, Gold, Eggleton, Pope, Kingsmill, Watt, Dobson, Raymond.

A Company—Walker, Nichol, Tice, Callahan, Langley, Owens, McGuire, Greer, McCoombe.

Umpire—J. Jeffries.

ELEVEN YEAR OLD
BOY RUNS 6 MILES

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 5.—The students of St. Mary's College had their first big road race on Saturday. The distance, six miles, was covered by the winner, Frederick McCafferty, in 40 minutes. Lester Skinner secured second place, only two yards separating first and second. John Quinn was a good third, was only one minute behind McCafferty. The feature of the race was the running of Alfred Mackasey, a boy of only eleven years, who covered the distance in 43 minutes, and ran with grit and style, which might be imitated with advantage by many of our adult Marathon competitors.

CURLING.

Ayr, Nov. 5.—The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Ayr Curling Club held tonight: W. Lounsbrough, president; H. M. Lay, vice-president; Jas. G. Fair, secretary-treasurer; W. Ramsay, R. Moggie, E. Whitson, managing committee; John Goldie and Geo. Graham, representatives to association meeting in Toronto.

FINAL SOCCER
GAMES MONDAYNorth End Meets Chelsea and Queens Plays Asylum.

There will be no soccer games tomorrow, but on Monday the final games of the season will be played, when the North Enders and the Chelsea teams clash at Carling's Heights, and the Queen's Park and Asylum teams get together on the Asylum grounds.

The first game will be played at 10 a.m. and the second at 3 p.m.

The North Enders have so far been the king-bees of local soccerdom, having yet to lose a contest. Chelsea is the league tail-end, but has strong hopes of winding up a bad season by trimming the leaders. Hard luck has been largely responsible for the bad showing of Chelsea, which has lost the services of a number of goalkeepers who could not get away from their work top lay.

The weather will cut no figure in the soccer games, which will be played if it is raining snowballs. Alf Hogg, one of the finest of the Carling Heights contest, and is certain to keep the boys moving all the way.

The second contest will prove as fast as the first one, and a good crowd will doubtless be in attendance.

PITRE AND ROSS
JOIN MONTREAL

Montreal Nov. 5.—With the signing of Pitre and Ross, which will probably take place today, Montreal will have the nucleus of a pretty strong hockey team. It is asserted now that Ross will bring Glass and Johnson with him to Montreal ranks along with Small. If these predictions are carried out, there is no doubt about the strength of Montreal's team this winter. National Hockey League applied for admission to the senior hockey league, but the outlook is not bright, as they have no players outside of Laviolette and Gauthier.

BILLY PAPKE
BEGINS TRAINING

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6.—Believing that exactly three weeks' solid work will fit him exceptionally well for his fight Thanksgiving Day with Stanley Ketchell, Billy Papke today began the first of his stunts, picking up the work at San Rafael.

Three days will be devoted to light work, and by that time the middleweight champion will be prepared for the roughest sort of training. He is going in for rough work, as he intends to make a rushing fight of his next meeting with Ketchell. He is satisfied that the former champion's heart was broken in their last meeting, and that he will not be able to weather another storm like that.

Ketchell's manager is still grumbling about the conditions of the match and the impression is becoming widespread that Ketchell will find it impossible to make the middleweight limit in time for the engagement. This is denied by the Ketchell party, but they are making many objections that it looks as if the match might finally be declared off.

SOX PLAYERS ARE LISTED INELIGIBLE

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 5.—For participating in ball games with the Logan Square Independent Club, in Chicago, which is in violation of the rules of the national baseball commission, nine players of the Chicago American League Club have been placed on the ineligible list, by a ruling promulgated by the commission today. The players upon whom the ruling is made are: White, Atz, Donohue, Elene, Smith, Altrock, Purcell, Owen and Roth.

Several weeks ago members of the Washington American League Club and the Minneapolis and the Milwaukee clubs, American Association, were placed on the ineligible list for playing against the same independent club. The clubs having title to the players against whom rulings were made, have been requested not to enter into any contracts with any of them until the ineligibility shall have been removed.

Stanfield's Underwear

(Chapter 6)

Cutting and Sewing

After the best wool has been selected, washed, shrunk, combed, spun and knitted—the pure woolen fabrics go to the cutting room. Just as the tailor and dressmaker cut out garments by hand, so in the Stanfield mills, all the cutting is done by hand.

Some Underwear is cut out by machinery. Now, we have machines which do what human hands can't do. 18 of our spinning machines spin as much yarn as 16,546 spinning wheels. 88 of our knitting machines knit as much underwear as 17,234 women with needles—and do it without a dropped stitch or broken thread.

But we have never seen a machine that could cut out cloth as well as it can be done with shears in the hands of a skilled cutter. This is why Stanfield's Underwear is cut by hand.

On the other hand, all Stanfield's Underwear is sewed by machinery. It is quicker and better, because the sewing machines are run by electricity and because they sew inter-locking stitches, which make it impossible for seams to ravel.

As fast as garments are completed, they go to the laundry, to be washed by being revolved in big machines for an hour to determine that they are absolutely unshrinkable. Then each garment is tested on models—which range in size from 22 to 70 inches chest or bust measure—and its size thus exactly determined.

When you buy Stanfield's Underwear, you know that you are getting Underwear

- made of the purest, strongest wool
- that can't rip or ravel
- that won't shrink or stretch
- that fits perfectly
- that wears longer.

Your dealer has all sizes and weights or can easily get them for you.

BOSS SULLIVAN
RESIGNS POSITION

New York, Nov. 6.—James E. Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, yesterday declared his resignation from that office. Sullivan has served his term of office, and is not seeking a third.

It is unknown how he will spend his spare time in the future. For the last quarter of the century Sullivan has had an active career in the cause of amateur sport, and has acquired himself with distinction. He has filled every office in the National A. A. U.

It is as though his policy that the association was transformed from a hopelessly penniless body a few years ago to a state of financial independence today.

Charles H. Carter, of the Boston A. A. U., of Boston, Mass., is the man most favored to fill Sullivan's shoes. He is one of the board of governors of the A. A. U., and has a wide knowledge of all divisions of the sport.

TWO MONTHS RACING
AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 6.—Announcement was made last night that New Orleans would have two months of racing this season. Manager Jack Lovocano, of the Louisiana Driving and Racing Association, said that no form of betting prohibited by the Locke bill, would be tolerated.

The races will start on Thanksgiving Day.

THE HOME OF
RUGBY PLAYERS

Jack Corkery, on the half line for Ottawa College; Ben Simpson, on the back division of the Hamilton Tigers; Murray and Hal Kennedy, half backs for Ottawa Rough Riders; Allan Campbell, playing quarter for T. A. C.; Ross Craig, at inside wing for the Dundas interprovincial team; Gordon Campbell, starring on the back division of the Trinity College school team; and Ross Dobbin on the wing line of Varsity III., are all Peterboro boys. No other town in Canada can make anything like that showing.—Peterboro Examiner.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
SLABSMEN LEAD

"Christy" Mathewson, of the New York Giants, by virtue of winning 209 out of 312 games he had pitched in eight years, leads all pitchers in the big leagues in the figures.

Sam Leever and Addie Joss are tied for second place. Leever, with 10 years' experience, and Joss, with three less. Both have a percentage of .655, 14 points less than the Gotham slab star.

The real leaders are Young, Griffith, and Nichols. Although Griffith and Nichols are not now pitching, they were in the game recently enough to fairly claim representation in such a table. Young's record is remarkable, especially so when it is considered that for many years he was with a team that landed very low down on the column.

In considering such a table, it is to rely largely on his support. A pitcher with a weak team behind him never has the same chance to make a record as the pitcher who is properly backed up by eight other men.

A pitcher's ability can never be judged by his winning average, and the custom of so doing is a most inexcusable one. Nevertheless, this table is given for what interest it may possess. It is not complete, but contains

USED THE GAS HAD NO METER

Alex Russell, of Rectory Street,
Was Found Guilty of Theft and Remanded.

Alex Russell, of 323 Rectory street, was arrested by Detectives Nix and Rider at his home last night on a charge of stealing from the City Gas Company, by using gas without any meter.

Both Russell and his wife appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Some time ago the City Gas Company took the meter from Russell's house and they noticed recently that gas was still being used there.

Caught in Act.
When the detectives entered last night with the gas company's man, it was found that Mrs. Russell was using the gas stove, which had been connected to the supply pipe by Russell.

In court this morning, Mrs. Russell was told that she would be allowed to go on suspended sentence. Her husband was remanded to jail for a week for sentence.

This is the second case of this kind that has been heard before Magistrate Love in the last year.

Other Cases.
Chris Moriarty and R. Scott were fined $10 each for being drunk. Neither had the money and so they were committed to jail for three weeks.

Peter Fraiburn was fined $5 for being drunk.
Emily Scott, on a charge of drunkenness and vagrancy, was sent to the Central Prison for six months.

PLANS NOW IN ARCHITECTS' HANDS
For the East London Amusement Hall on Dundas Street.

The promoters of the new theatre and amusement hall for East London are working vigorously on the scheme and have placed the plans in the hands of a well-known architect.

The building is to cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, and will be composed of a vaudeville and picture theatre, as well as stores and halls for other amusements. There will, however, be no pool parlor in connection with the establishment.

The site for the theatre has already been procured by a well-known real estate man.

"There are a few details yet to be carried out," he told The Advertiser, "and were these completed, I would break ground tomorrow."

The land is east of the Duke of York Hotel on Dundas street, and the building will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible.

COUNCIL WILL DEAL WITH THE MATTER
Of Delays to Workmen at Railway Crossings in East End.

The complaints of numerous workmen and others regarding the time lost at railroad crossings of the city, particularly Adelaide street, at the C. P. R. and Rectory and Egerton streets on the Grand Trunk, has resulted in the choosing of a special committee of the council, composed of the mayor and Ald. Rose, Beattie, Greenleafs and Gerry, to meet the superintendents of the roads entering the city on Tuesday morning.

For some time there has been considerable trouble regarding the blocking of Egerton street, and recently a deputation interviewed Ald. Rose on the matter.

An effort will be made to have the shunting done at an hour that will not interfere with workmen going to and from their homes.

REMAINS OF LATE CHARLES HIGGINS.
Arrived in City, and Funeral Was Held to Mount Pleasant.

The remains of the late Charles Higgins, whose death occurred at Mount Pleasant, Mich., on Nov. 3, arrived in this city this morning, and were accompanied by his wife and Rev. Jos. James, of St. Marys. Mr. Higgins was well known here, having resided in this city before his removal to Mount Pleasant, Mich. The funeral took place this afternoon from Smith, Son & Clarke's funeral parlors, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker, of South London Baptist Church. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

WIRK ON FIREHALL IS PROGRESSING
Structure Will Be Completed in a Few Weeks.

Work on the new fire hall, No. 5, at the corner of Adelaide and Grey streets, is progressing very rapidly, and the building will be completed within a few weeks.

The hall will have accommodation for five men and the horses and apparatus, and will be thoroughly modern.

The dormitory is situated on the upper floor, and from it lead two sliding poles, one at the front and the other at the rear.

The big horse tower was completed a few days ago.

ANGELICAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSOCIATION
Annual Business Meeting Held in All Saints' Church.

The annual business meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association of All Saints' Church was held a few nights ago, and the officers for the coming year elected.

The members elected Miss Ella Jones and Miss Hattie Basin captains, and a contest is now on between them. The young ladies will endeavor to bring in as many new members as possible during the coming three months, each being in charge of a team.

A resolution was passed in which the young people decided to begin a campaign to raise $250 for church work during the winter season. The following officers were elected:

Patron—Rev. T. B. Clark, re-elected.
President—Mr. E. R. Doughty.
Vice President—Mr. Jack Hart.
Secretary—Miss Vera Mellen.
Treasurer—Miss Bertha Rysler.

EAST END NOTES.
A baptismal service was conducted last evening by Rev. J. W. Baird, of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Collier, of Rectory street, their infant daughter, Helen Jean, being baptized. About twenty-five guests were present and were served with refreshments after the ceremony.

The motor on an Ottawa car gave out yesterday afternoon at 1:30, stalling the car and blocking the line.

The Cost of the City Hospital

Over $30,000 Now as Compared With $7,500 in 1898.

The figures appended show that the cost of the city hospital to the taxpayers of the city of London has increased over four-fold in ten years. The figures by years are:

1898—$7,500.

1900—$12,000, plus $7,000 overdraft, Total, $19,000.
1901—$16,000, plus $3,500 overdraft, Total, $19,500.
1902—$12,000, plus $5,000 special work and $6,500 overdraft. Total, $23,500.
1903—$17,000 and $6,000 special. Total, $23,000.
1904—$20,000.

Estimated cost $29,250, plus estimated overdraft of between $3,000 and $4,000. Total, between $32,000 and $33,000.

The splendid new isolation wings of the hospital will, of course, add to the annual expenses.

None of the above figures include the interest on debentures issued for hospital purposes.

Small Boy Smashed the Window

Yesterday afternoon when the 2:10 Michigan Central train for St. Thomas was pulling out of London and passing across the space between Hamilton road and Horton street, a boy threw a snowball through one of the windows, and narrowly missed injuring a passenger, who was sitting in a seat opposite.

The window was shattered into many pieces.

Detective on Case.
Detective Michael Heenan, of St.

Thomas, arrived in the city this morning, and together with the local police, is endeavoring to locate the culprit. The offence is a serious one, and if caught the lad will be dealt with in a manner that will serve as a warning to others.

Many complaints have come from railroad men lately that stones are frequently thrown at them by boys in the neighborhood of Philip street, and the police are also looking into this matter.

The Hotel Men Are Not Frightened

Hotelkeepers are not concerning themselves much about the threat of the Trades and Labor Council to ask for a reduction of the license.

They do not think the move will result in anything serious, as it is decidedly unfair in their opinion, and not warranted.

The human mind has limitations. An astronomer argues that space beyond our universe must contain other vast universes, because an absolute void is inconceivable. But who can conceive of an infinite space filled with an infinity of universes.

"We are not going to pay any particular attention to it," said Mr. W. S. Lashbrook. "We do not see the reason for it. We have kept the laws, and have spent large sums of money improving our places. There was a reduction three years ago, and there are now not too many hotels."

"We are going to form an association, but it has no connection whatever with the action of the Trades and Labor Council. We have no use of the opinion that we should organize for social reasons, and to promote a better understanding and feeling in the trade. It will be more of a social organization than anything else."

This plan has been under discussion for some time, and it is expected that the organization will be perfected shortly.

PROF. BARNES
4TH. LECTURE
Spoke of the Renaissance Period to Interested Audience.

St. Andrew's schoolroom was crowded last evening, when Earl Barnes gave the fourth of his series of lectures. He took as his subject "The Awakening of Europe, Arts and Theology."

"The middle ages," he said, "form the youth of the modern world. People after the seclusion of this period stretched outward and sought to see more of the world. We have the movement of the crusades and other outgoing impulses."

"We can hardly realize how people wantonly overthrew the splendid products of Graeco-Roman civilization. Latin was the language of the whole educated world at this period. Dante was the great poet of the early part of this age. His great poem, 'The Divine Comedy,' deals with an age of transition. Dante could not express all that he would of the old age, but he retained all that was vital and vigorous and best in art."

The Renaissance.
"Dante had in him a new spirit of the world around him. He became struck with the beauty of the ancient world, as contrasted with the world of his day, and tried to preserve all the beautiful statues and works of art that were ruthlessly destroyed. Boccaccio and Partriarh followed in Dante's views, and others, until the great ideals of the Renaissance were evolved."

"The art of this period is particularly indicative of reverence and of its uncounted appearance. All Italian art ended with Michael Angelo and Leonardo da Vinci. After them there are no great names."

"The great house of Medici appears at this time, and was founded by Cosmo de Medici, the great political boss and banker of ancient Florence. Cosmo de Medici was a great patron to all the arts. Lorenzo the Magnificent, his grandson, carried this work of cultivating art and literature to its culmination."

Discovery of America.
"The change of the world at this time was centred from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic. For a thousand years Europe had sat with her back to the Atlantic, looking across the Mediterranean, but now she changed her face to America by Columbus' discovery of this. Before this time the mariner's compass had been discovered, and now maps were brought into general use. This aided much in discovery, and a new spirit took possession of mariners. The shortest route to India was the great thing sought, Columbus' discovery wrought an immense change throughout the world. The new territory was divided between Spain and Portugal, from whom it was taken by England and France."

"Henceforth the centre of the world shifted to the western coasts, and looked out over the Atlantic. The enormous wealth of the Incas and other nations found in America, and brought to Spain, caused men to readjust their views in regard to economics. In northern lands came an introspective period, while south of the Alps the opposite was the case. At this time also there came a great change in religious doctrines. Men were told they must regret and confess their sins. Penitence was introduced to bring home to man the facts of his sin. Religious institutions, like the American universities of today, accepted the money which was poured into their coffers, and did not inquire too closely where it came from. The temptation to get money in any way became great."

"The great Protestant revolution," said Prof. Barnes, "grew from this. The growth of Protestantism never was essentially a growth of the Renaissance."

NOTHING DEFINITE
RE PACKING FACTORY
Company Will Likely Ask the City What It Is Ready To Do.

Nothing definite has been learned about the intentions of the Canadian Packing Company, although Mayor Stevely stated this morning that on the return of Mr. E. Rehnitzler from England within a week or ten days, the manufacturers' committee would be asked what the city would be willing to do for the company.

"I had a talk with Mr. Light, secretary of the company," said his worship. "He told me that Mr. Rehnitzler would return very shortly and that the city would be asked what terms would be given the company to remain in London. When he comes home we will take the matter up with him. I still think they will rebuild in London."

It is known, however, that generous terms have been offered the company by Petrolia and Chatham, much more generous than the city has offered any firm for some time.

The special power committee will meet this evening at the city hall to discuss the legal aspects of the question. City Solicitor Meredith will be present, and will take up the question of the city asking that the hydro-electric commission be made co-defendants with the city in the litigation now pending. The matter of having the city council ask the Legislature to validate all bylaws will also be taken up.

Small Blaze.
The firemen had a run to 512 Colborne street yesterday afternoon about 3:15. Some excelsior became ignited in the cellar. The blaze was extinguished by the chemical engine with little damage.

Trees Don't Care.
A number of trees have been planted by the board of health around the smallpox hospital. "They will be an improvement to the grounds," said Medical Health Officer.

Bicycle Cases Postponed.
Owing to the length of the police court this morning Magistrate Love decided to postpone the hearing of the 25 charges against bicycle riders for riding on the sidewalks until Tuesday morning.

Farmers Have Money.
G. A. Hatch, the well-known auctioneer, reports farm stock, feed, implements, etc., selling first-class this season. Mr. Hatch says the farmers are in first-class shape and have plenty of cash. The total receipts for Mr. Hatch's auctions for the past two weeks were $15,100.

Liberal Whist.
The weekly whist tourney of the South London Liberal Club will be held this evening in the clubrooms. Valuable prizes will be offered for competition. There was a very large crowd last Friday evening, and it is expected that a larger attendance will be on hand tonight. Every Liberal is invited.

Health Is Good.
"The city continues extremely healthy," said Medical Health Officer Hutchinson this afternoon. "There are only a few cases of contagious diseases at present. There are five cases of scarlet fever reported to me, and one case of diphtheria. I think there are two or three cases of typhoid, but further than that there is very little contagious disease. It has been a very healthy year."

Huron College Appointments.
Huron College appointments for Sunday are: Sarnia, Rev. Principal Waller; Christ Church, C. N. Ward; Norwich, J. Morris; Delaware, W. Roberts; Durham, P. Harding; Inwood, A. Currie; Lakeside, J. Tully; Napier, H. Hutton; Markdale, B. Law. On Wednesdays during November Mr. A. Currie will conduct services at the Buried From Citadel.

The funeral of Capt. Wilbur Cresswell was held this afternoon from the family residence, 322 Burwell street. After a service at the house the funeral proceeded to the Salvation Army Citadel, where a special service was conducted by Col. Sharp and Adjutant Howell. A large number of army officers from outside places were in attendance. Floral offerings from all over the Province testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The pall-bearers were chosen from the local army officers.

A CLEVER CAPTURE
Ottawa Police Catch Two of Bad Burglar Gang.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—The Ottawa police made a clever capture yesterday afternoon, when they landed the two men guilty of burglaries in Brockville, and doubtless spoiled plans of the men to operate on Ottawa streets. The men are Stewart Gray, formerly of Ottawa, 22 years of age, and E. W. Dorrington, alias William Wilson, aged 25. A number of revolvers and other goods stolen in Brockville were found on the prisoners, and then Gray confessed. It is thought Dorrington is the leader, and that he may have been connected with recent Toronto burglaries. He had a Toronto police constable star on him. The men will be taken to Brockville by Chief Burke, who arrived this morning.

LIVELY CASE IN THE DIVISION COURT

In Which Vegetables Figured at Great Length.

Apples, furniture and potatoes were joined together with delightful abandon in the case of Brown vs. Elson, heard before Judge Elliott in the first division court today. The case was finally adjourned in order to give the defendants an opportunity of producing additional evidence.

Mr. Jos. Brown, the local auctioneer, was the plaintiff, and Messrs. Kent Elson and George Elson, the former of this city, and the latter of Westminster Township, were defendants.

The bone of contention was a balance of $10 which Mr. Brown alleged the defendants owed him.

The latter in turn entered a counter claim for $10, alleging that they had delivered to Mr. Brown's house apples, potatoes, etc., to that value.

Mr. Brown said that if the goods were delivered he failed to see them. The defendants admitted that Mr. and Mrs. Brown were out when the apples and potatoes were delivered, but insisted that a neighbor of Mr. Brown had assisted in unloading the goods.

Mr. J. A. Vining appeared for Mr. Brown, and Mr. E. W. Scatterd for the Messrs. Elson.

YOUNG MAN WAS

Pearson was an employee at the works and for some time cakes and biscuits have been missing.

This morning a number of cakes and other articles were found in Pearson's possession and he was at once arrested.

BALM-ZOIN

Balm-Zoin is a delightful lotion for healing and softening the skin. We have made it for a long time. We have never heard anything but praise for it, and its sale increases all the time. It is used by the large proportion of the ladies of this locality, and is, we believe, as perfect a preparation as can be made. It heals and soothes, and removes all roughness and redness of the skin. It is not greasy or sticky. Gloves can be worn immediately after applying. Price, 25 cents.

GOES TO COBOURG

Dr. W. T. Wilson Made Superintendent of the Asylum There.

Toronto, Nov. 5.—It was announced this afternoon that Dr. W. T. Wilson, assistant superintendent of the Toronto asylum, has been appointed to the superintendency of the asylum at Cobourg. This position was made vacant about a month ago through the death of Dr. C. E. Hickey. Dr. Wilson has spent some thirteen years in the provincial asylum service, having been at Kingston, Brockville, Mimico, London, Hamilton and Toronto. He has always been counted an especially efficient officer.

SPENT MILLION ON TARS

Amoy, China, Nov. 5.—The second squadron of the American battleship fleet which, under the command of Rear Admiral Emery, has been in Amoy since Oct. 20 as the guest of the Government of China, brought its visit to a close this morning, when at 8 o'clock it steamed out of the harbor, bound for Olongapo, Luzon. In the Philippines it will join the first squadron under Admiral Sperry. The distance to Olongapo is about 700 miles, and the vessels should reach there early on the morning of Nov. 8.

The departing warships were given a demonstration in marked contrast to the apathy which was noticeable on their arrival.

The cost of the reception here has exceeded $1,000,000.
