

E. R. DENNIS AS CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR'S CHAIR

City Trades Council Election Fight In Acute Stage

BUSINESS MEN'S SLATE HEADED BY E. R. DENNIS FOR MAYOR AND COUNCIL

Preparations Already in the Making To Run Mr. Dennis For Mayor's Chair in December, With Hand-Picked Council Candidates in Every Ward.

LABOR MAY ALSO FIGHT MAYORALTY

They've started to pick the mayoralty candidates earlier this year than ever in the history of the city. Preparations for a real old-fashioned "bang-up" municipal campaign next December are already under way. The Advertiser was informed today, and a determined effort is being made by one element to induce E. R. Dennis to enter the mayoralty race, with a business men's aldermanic slate behind him.

Questioned subsequently by The Advertiser, Mr. Dennis stated that he was leaving for Quebec on a vacation, and did not care to discuss municipal affairs at this moment, or at least until his return to the city. Mr. Dennis has long been prominent in municipal affairs, sitting first for two years as a member of the public utilities commission, and later for four years as a member of the board of education, of which organization he was chairman. During his stewardship on the school board he was interested in the administration of the London Technical and Arts School, and was chairman of the committee in charge of this phase of educational endeavor.

The prospective candidate is a past president of the local Builders' Exchange and the National Building Association, and is now a member of the London Housing Commission.

Extensive Program.

Those who are already urging him to prepare himself again for a general interest in municipal affairs outlined in detail to The Advertiser today their plans for the campaign.

They propose, if Mr. Dennis will accept their nomination, that there be at least eight aldermanic candidates in the field—at least two in each ward—upon the expectation that he would have working with him a number of the council. If he should decline the nomination, however, all plans would be temporarily upset it would seem, although his name would be offered, that they might seek elsewhere for a choice.

Those citizens behind the move hastened to explain further that there are of course certain members of the present council whose stewardship to-date has been quite satisfactory to them and who would be offered places on the slate, as contemplated. In fact it is known that two or three of them have already been casually approached in the past, but that although nothing definite has transpired, pending Mr. Dennis's decision.

Won't Discuss It.

No official statement has been forthcoming from these men, however, although it is further known that they were approached no later than today. The answer of one of them was identical with that of Mr. Dennis to The Advertiser, "I am going away on my holidays and will be back when the weather is cooler." There is naturally much speculation as to who those who will be groomed for the aldermanic race, exclusive of the favored ones now in the city council. And the question also arises naturally, why at this early date, should plans for the next campaign be so advanced.

What Labor Will Do.

The only answer has been that a number of happy taxpayers, representative of all classes, entertain the belief that a change should be made and in order to insure the success of their plans if possible, they are starting early upon the assumption that there is no time to be lost.

It is self-evident that Labor is destined to play its important role in the next campaign, although there is no assurance that a mayoralty candidate will be entered. Rather than be undismayed by their remarkably feeble showing at the recent election, representative Labor leaders insist that Labor is coming back stronger than ever and plans for a general re-organization for the municipal campaign will even be outlined at the next regular session of the party.

The Labor men assert that they also propose to stage a determined fight to send a majority of representatives into the city council.

JURY TO INVESTIGATE DROWNING OF CITY GIRL

Coroner Ferguson Orders a Probe Into Death of Isabel Storey.

Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson has empaneled a jury to investigate the death by drowning of Isabel Storey, the 15-year-old girl who lost her life yesterday afternoon while swimming outside the lifelines at the municipal swimming pool at the foot of Grosvenor street.

A preliminary inquest was held at noon today at Killingsworth's undertaking parlors when the members of the jury viewed the remains. The jury then adjourned until Friday evening when a thorough investigation of affairs at the swimming pool at the time that the girl was drowned will be made.

The members of the coroner's jury are as follows: Foreman, Percy Ashton, Eli Bice, Herbert Thorne, Charles Finchamp, Walter Belton, Hugh Wilkins, Frank Smith, and Charles Sumner.

ASSURE IMPROVEMENTS FOR INDUSTRIAL AREA

Local improvements for London's industrial area are now practically assured, according to Ald. McKay's announcement at yesterday's session of the board of works.

The council has already "initiated" this work on a ten-year basis, but Ald. McKay explains that several of the ratepayers to be affected have told him they will not object if the cost can be extended over a 20-year period.

The committee, therefore, recommended to the council that 20-year debentures be issued in lieu of 10-year debentures as originally planned.

This Tiny Bit of Faded Silk Floated At Historic Boyne

Just a little piece of faded silk, battle scarred, wind swept, discolored with the Irish mist, and tinted with the smoke that floated across the fields at the Battle of the Boyne, it rests now in safe keeping in the locket shown. This relic of 1690 is probably without a peer in the country, and came into the hands of a Londoner in a most interesting way that is told on another page of this issue.

OPTIMISTIC OVER BUSINESS TREND IN CANADIAN WEST

Huron & Erie Officials Return From Survey of Commercial Conditions.

VALUE NEAR NORMAL

Victoria Only City Found To Be Still Suffering Depression.

M. Aylesworth, assistant general manager, and C. J. Clarke, treasurer of the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation, returned to London Monday from a five week's survey of conditions throughout the west.

They bring back tidings of a more optimistic feeling, more especially the prairie provinces. Their journey took them to Victoria, B. C., and they called at all of the cities between here and the coast and with the exception of in Victoria found that business is improving and that people are taking hold with a new feeling of hope based on better and saner values.

Pleased With Conditions.

Both Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. Clarke are particularly pleased with conditions in the wheat country. Here they find land value deflated to a normal level and basing business conditions on this fundamental index, they see better times ahead for the western provinces.

The wheat crop, they say, gives prospect of being the largest in the history of the Canadian west and unless something unforeseen occurs this alone should put the west once more on its feet.

Mr. Aylesworth said that each year the area devoted to mixed farming is increasing and that the time is not far ahead when a poor wheat crop will not longer be able to prostrate the west financially.

The sure indication of improving times is the common sense value that is now being placed on improved land. He said: "For the first time since the war it is now possible to purchase improved land in the west with some hope of being able to make a legitimate investment in the capital invested. Those who bought land at the foolishly inflated price that was asked following the war have been struggling to get out of it, but the fact still stands that the present values are a sure indication of returning stability."

When asked if he thought that the immensity of this year's wheat crop would not result in a falling off in price he said: "No, I don't think so. If a falling off takes place, it will be counterbalanced by the great bulk of the crop which the farmer will have to dispose of unless he can get a better price for it. I believe the farmers will emerge on a better footing than they have known since the war."

Swung To The Opposite.

Victoria was the only city of which Mr. Aylesworth was not optimistic. Here he said that the real estate market had swung to the opposite extreme and today property in Victoria can be bought at values that are very discouraging and the depression is still reflected in the business life of Victoria.

ONTARIO'S NEW SPEAKER. Hon. Joseph E. Thompson, speaker designate of the new Ontario Legislature, and Mrs. Thompson.

Six-Year-Old Cherub Owns Large Bump of Mischief

Works Well-Known Civic Official For Afternoon's Motor Ride and Winds Up in Juvenile Court.

At the tender age of six years, and with a face like a cherub, a bareheaded lad eyed and inspected the various equipment of the juvenile court this morning with a naive curiosity, apparently blissfully unaware that he had caused a prominent public official and several other persons numerous hours of anxiety last night and this morning.

Behaving in rather an obstreperous manner in one of the city's play parks the youngster, in spite of his age, showed sufficient ingenuity to "wangle" an hour and a half of very interesting motor ride about the various show places of the town, out of the public official. Offering to drive the kiddie home, the gentleman was given seven addresses in more or less rapid succession, with the result that the six-year-old enjoyed the comforts of a very modern coupe for a delightful journey. At the end he had to be taken to the Children's Shelter for the night.

Apart from the appeal of the handsome little boy, the case presented one of the most difficult with which the juvenile court has had to deal, since little solution to the difficulty offered itself. The mother was evidently wrestling with the responsibility of a family of small children. Unable to leave a small baby long enough to take the boy to Sunday school each week, she had been for the past weeks faced with the added responsibility of looking after him in hours when he might formerly have been at school. The youngster is already, endowed with a firm mind of his own, and minds his mother only to the extent that he returns home punctually every night.

The little boy has been placed under probation to Major Bradshaw, and an effort will be made to have him placed in a summer school in the city where for a few hours each day at least he will be out of mischief.

STORM IN MICHIGAN CAUSES TWO DEATHS

Laborer Overcome by Heat in Factory at Grand Rapids.

Canadian Press Despatch. Detroit, July 11.—A boy and a girl were killed and considerable damage was done to crops and farm buildings by an electrical and wind storm that struck several sections of Lower Michigan late today. One death from the heat occurred at Grand Rapids, where the maximum temperature was 91.

Dorothy Honan, daughter of a Toledo, Ohio, fire captain, was struck by lightning as she stood at a window in a cottage at Little Wolf Lake, near Jackson.

Wallace Vannot, 15, was killed while working in a field at his father's farm near Ashley. Joseph Cantill, 66, a laborer, was overcome by heat at work in a Grand Rapids factory and died a few hours later. Many prostrations were reported in Grand Rapids. A wind, rain and electrical storm that swept through that section did much damage to fruit trees and buildings. Many cherry trees were blown down, and crops standing in the field were ruined.

Unable To Swim, Tries Rescue, Dies

Grace McKenzie Drowns in Dam, Trying To Save Chum.

Canadian Press Despatch. Indian Head, Sask., July 11.—When Gladys Hood fell into the deep waters of the forestry farm dam near here yesterday, Grace McKenzie, seventeen, although she could not swim, plunged into the water to save her. Miss McKenzie was drowned, and the Hood girl was rescued.

TRADES COUNCIL COMMITTEE TAKES UP ELECTION ROW

Demand For Resignations of Secretary and Treasurer Will Be Pressed.

SPLIT IN RANKS

Representatives of Two Unions Threaten Secession If Their Demands Are Ignored.

The controversy among the labor men, centering around F. D. Burke and Fred Young, secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the London Trades and Labor Council, is headed for a "show-down." The Advertiser was informed this morning.

A special meeting of the Trades Council grievance committee will be held tonight, when the demands will be heard from the Stove Mounters' and Carpenters' locals, who ask the resignations of these officials, charging that they "exploited" the name of the Trades Council for political purposes in the recent provincial election.

This question received certain attention at the last regular session of the council, but was referred to the committee for a definite recommendation. Just what the outcome will be is not known, although it has been learned that the members are divided in their opinion as to the rights of individual members of the council.

In the last campaign, the secretary and the treasurer, in public statements, explained they would find it impossible to support Dr. Stevenson, the Labor nominee. They contended since they had every right to vote as they chose and to support the same if they felt so disposed, basing their reasoning upon a communication from Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trades Congress.

The Trades and Labor Council is a non-political organization, but members of the London Labor Party, the political labor movement, who were also identified with the trades union movement, have taken exception to this, demanding their immediate resignations.

The stove mounters and carpenters are two of the protesting unions to bring the question to a show-down, and they have already threatened secession from the Trades and Labor Council if their demands are not favorably received.

The fruit crop throughout Ontario promises to be a very heavy one, and unless more help is available for the later crops than was forthcoming to handle the cherries in the Burlington and Niagara districts, the season's crop harvesting will be attended with enormous waste, say the growers in the principal fruit districts.

Strawberries were a short crop in the London district on account of unusually dry weather preceding the harvest, but raspberries and the later fruits give every indication of being bumper crops and will require a lot of help if they are to reach the consumer in good shape.

The cherry crop is an extra heavy one, especially in the late varieties, and the price has dropped to the unprecedented level of 25 and 30 cents per six-quart basket at Toronto and Hamilton.

The labor shortage has made itself felt in the Niagara district, and this, coupled with the extremely low prices has caused many of the growers to leave the bulk of their crop on the trees.

Raspberries, according to government crop reports, will be a large crop, and the picking should be easier to get, as the children who form the bulk of the berry pickers are from the schools, now thus overcoming a difficulty at strawberry time.

Plums are reported as being only a light crop, but the quality of the fruit is excellent, and the fruit remaining on the trees being free from blight and the ravages of the plum curculion, a small insect which cuts crescent-shaped scars on the stem-end of the plums.

The apple crop is very fair, and the earlier varieties will be over two-thirds a whole crop, and with abundant rains falling now at the height of the growing season, it is expected that the size and quality of the apples will be good.

Grape growers say their vines are well loaded, but as this is a late crop it is too early as yet to give an accurate forecast as to size and quality at picking time.

Burford Burning

Special to The Advertiser. Burford, July 11.—With flames now under control, a disastrous fire broke out about 1 o'clock today in the village of Burford, nine miles west of this city. At 1:20 o'clock, the Burford fire department received an "S. O. S." call and Chief Lewis immediately dispatched the "motor" truck and a crew of men.

As far as is known here, Ruthersford's house, Mason's garage, a blacksmith shop and an adjoining house have fallen, prey to the flames. The whole populace of the village has formed itself into a volunteer fire brigade and is fighting the fire.

LOSES GUN AND MONEY IN CITY POLICE COURT

Chief Doubts Story of Youth Found With Revolver in Possession.

Francis Rosely, 712 Queen's avenue, is out an expensive gun and $25, the result of an appearance in police court this morning, when he was charged with having a revolver in his possession without a permit.

Rosely, who works in a garage at 647 Dundas street, told the court that he had purchased the revolver from a man last night for $7, the man telling him that he needed the money to go home. He had taken the revolver to the garage to show the other men when P.C. Pope walked in on them and arrested him.

Chief Birrell stated that it was a very expensive revolver and could not be purchased at anything less than $50 and doubted the story of the youth having secured it for $7. He quoted the section of the criminal code which said that no one shall "buy, sell, give or lend a revolver" without having permission to do so. A fine of $25 and costs or 30 days was imposed, together with confiscation of the revolver.

POLICE RAID PARTY, MERRYMAKERS FINED

Participants Contributed $65 to the Civic Coffers Today.

An expensive party was that staged by a citizen last night, with the result that four participants appeared in police court this morning charged with disorderly conduct. Fines totaling $85 were levied by Deputy Magistrate Gladman.

No evidence was called for the pleading guilty to the charges. The host, a married man, invited a male friend and two girls to his house last night after having met them at Springbank. Alcohol and refreshment was indulged in, and the party then grew rough, according to Sgt. Last, who investigated the case and found the defendants talking and carrying on in a loud manner.

NAME LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

Canadian Press Despatch. Sydney, N. S., July 11.—At a convention lasting only 35 minutes, F. L. Kelley, of North Sydney, was chosen as Baddeck yesterday afternoon as the Liberal standard-bearer in Cape Breton North and Victoria.

OLD RESIDENT OF LONDON TO BE BURIED AT WINDSOR

Mrs. Margaret Brady, for many years a resident of this city, died in her 89th year yesterday afternoon at Mount Hope. The remains were forwarded to Windsor on the Grand Trunk Railway, and the funeral will be held Friday morning from the home of her son in that city.

SIR CHARLES FITZPATRICK will retire from the lieutenant-governorship of Quebec in the autumn, it is reported.

FRUIT GROWERS LOOK FOR HEAVY CROP THIS YEAR

Possibility of Difficulty Through Labor Shortage at Harvesting Time.

PALESTINE ARABS SEEK FREE GOVERNMENT

Musa Kasim Claims Britain Must Establish National Constitution.

Associated Press Despatch. Jerusalem, July 11.—An independent Arab government for Palestine is the minimum that will satisfy Arab aspirations, declared Musa Kasim Pasha, chairman of the Palestine Arab executive, in an interview here on the eve of his visit to London, where he will persist for British recognition.

"We shall strive in our demands," said Musa Kasim, "and cannot renounce anything. If England wants an understanding with us it must establish a national constitutional independent government."

WENIGE DENIES HE CONDEMNED MINISTERIAL BODY

Mayor Still Maintains Swimming Pools Should Be Open Sundays.

OWN PRIVATE VIEW

Believes Children Should Be Allowed Use of Authorized Bathing Places.

Notwithstanding the public announcement from the members of the Ministerial Alliance, and the action of the public utilities commissioners, who closed the city's bathing pools last Sunday, Mayor Wenige still maintains that they should be available on the Sabbath day as well as throughout the week.

Voicing Personal Opinion.

"I note that Philip Pocock has said that I was condemning the Ministerial Alliance," Mayor Wenige observed today. "He is wrong. I was not condemning the Ministerial Alliance at all. I was merely voicing my own personal opinion as the mayor of this city and voicing my opinion as to what I considered, after carefully weighing the facts, to be in the best interests of the majority of the people."

"I was not condemning the members of the Ministerial Alliance," The pools will be open Sunday again if Mayor Wenige's vote will help the move, he reiterated again today.

"I still maintain," he said, "despite all contrary opinions, that the underprivileged children of this city should be afforded the use of authorized bathing places on Sundays."

"There are scores of parents in the city who will not allow their children in any pool unless they accompany them there, no matter if there were a hundred supervisors on duty. And Sunday is generally the only day free from household and other duties that they have available."

"What then happens if you shut these pools? The children will swim anywhere, and they will be in danger and risk their lives in unguarded spots in the river or else be arrested for swimming."

Parents Cannot Afford.

"Every parent who has children these days to take his children to Port Stanley. The cost is too great. We take, for instance, a family of four, a mother, a father and three children. Their fare to Port Stanley will be $1.50. The use of the L. and P. S. bathhouse and necessities will require at least another dollar or so. All this is an expenditure that means something to the workers of this city, and it would be discrimination to close these civic pools available at little cost to the city as a whole."

FRANCE PREPARING TO WIN NEXT WORLD CONFLICT

FRANCE BUILDING WAR MACHINE TO CRUSH ENEMIES

Will Strengthen Aviation Branch of Service—Ready To Strike First.

ANNONS FOR AIR

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, July 11.—The plan for the organization of France's army of 600,000 men was distributed among members of parliament yesterday. Col. Jean Fabry, reporter for the number army commission. It contemplates a modernized force, based on the lessons of the great war, with special attention to new development in aviation and war materials.

Aviation and gas, the report says, are menaces of the future. Germany, in a force of circumstances, must seek a field of action in the air, and therefore France must be strong there.

Three Conclusions.

Col. Fabry presents three conclusions:—First—"France, so long as she bases her existence and respect for her rights upon the prestige of her strength, must, because of her will to peace, maintain a strong army."

Second—"That the army, solidly constructed upon the lessons of the great war, ought to be definitely guided toward the utilization of air and search for more perfect armaments than those with which the enemy can be equipped, so that the army may remain in the preponderance of force we are going to give it."

Third—"The time may come when those who must decide whether to refuse or accept, or even anticipate war, will have to bear a heavy responsibility, and because of the first brutality and efficacy of the first blow struck, it is important to have them, instead of reacting them."

Charge Aviation Force.

The plan, which is the third and final stage in the reorganization of land and air defence, provides for the division of infantry, each with its own regiments and detachments of cavalry, engineers and artillery, the cavalry being reduced to five divisions. Reserves would be formed of 30 regiments of cavalry and 48 regiments of artillery. The army would include also a great number of technical units.

Reduce Officers.

The officers would be reduced about one-fifth from the period before the war, the remaining 107 generals, 1,000 colonels and a total of about 30,000 officers.

A table comprising the proposed organization with the army at the end of the war shows a slightly less percentage in the infantry, hospital and administrative employees, and a greater percentage of cavalry, artillery and aviation.

The total army will number 660,000 and will be composed of 461,000 French troops, 139 colonial troops and 10,000 foreign legionaries. It is proposed to have these colonial troops more closely interwoven with the French troops.

BOTH RUNS AMUCK WITH LOADED RIFLE

McWilliams Arrested After Terrifying Villagers At Clachan.

Special to The Advertiser. Bothwell, July 11.—Glen McWilliams, aged 20, the son of a prominent Aldborough township farmer, was captured yesterday afternoon and lodged in the Bothwell county jail, and afterwards removed to the county jail in Clachan, after a charge of being insane and dangerous to be at large, and was remanded for one week. In the meantime a medical examination of the prisoner will be conducted, and a further inquiry made into the happenings in the village of Clachan yesterday.

ACTURES HER LIMB WHILE PICKING CHERRIES

Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, July 11.—While standing on a step-ladder picking cherries in a yard, Mrs. Charles M. Bowers, 68, of Brantford, fell to the ground, fracturing her left leg below the knee, the break extending into the joint and tearing some ligaments as well. She was taken to the hospital, where she is making fair progress.

WILL TAKE LIQUOR VOTE IN MANITOBA

Electorate To Decide Question of Sale of Beer In Hotels.

INTEREST NOT KEEN

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, July 11.—For the second time within three weeks the electorate of Manitoba will go to the polls today to vote for or against the legalized sale of intoxicating liquor. The issue will be the proposed bill of the Beer and Light Wine League, sponsored by the Manitoba Hotelmen's Association, providing for the sale of these beverages with meals at hotels licensed by the government. The polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Voting has been proceeding at an advance poll in this city since Saturday morning. The poll closes late tonight, and it is believed that about 650 voters cast their ballots, or slightly less than one-half of the number that voted in the advance poll. The issue is a referendum on the Moderation League's bill, providing for the government sale of liquor, which was introduced by more than 40,000 majority on June 22.

The diminution in the balloting at the advance polls is a fair indication of the general apathy regarding the bill expressed here since the government control measure was carried. The campaign has been very quiet on both sides, only the hotelmen and the newspaper as a medium of placing their claims before the public, while the prohibitionists, who did extensive newspaper and billboard campaigning during the last referendum, have confined their opposition to a few meetings and statements.

The bill would be tantamount to the return of the bar and further extension of privileges to the liquor traffic.

URGE RESUMPTION OF HIGHER WAGES

Western Chairmen Will Ask War-Time Scale For Railwaymen.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, July 10.—A return of the war-time wages of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be suggested to the rank and file of the two railroad organizations as the result of action taken today by the Western Association of General Chairmen, which closed its executive session here.

The action of the western chairmen in favorably concurring in the suggestion for an increase in wages of the railway employees in the territory west of the Mississippi River was a significant move, as the two organizations are for the return of the wages granted by Decision No. 2, on the railway labor question, concerning the labor of the railway employees, which was approximately ten cents an hour to the wages of the two classes of employees.

WILL DISCUSS METHOD OF REMOVING EMBARGO

Question Expected To Be Brought Up At Imperial Conference.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Eng., July 11.—Right Hon. Sir Robert A. Saunders, president of the board of agriculture, replying in the House of Commons yesterday to the question of where it was intended to introduce legislation to place all other dominions in the same position as Canada in regard to the importation of cattle, said that the government had conveyed to the dominions the question of the removal of the restriction of removing the restrictions on the importation of cattle from their territories was raised at the imperial conference and if mutually satisfactory arrangements were reached, legislation would be introduced to give effect to such arrangements. The question of the removal of the restrictions on the importation of cattle from their territories was raised at the imperial conference and if mutually satisfactory arrangements were reached, legislation would be introduced to give effect to such arrangements.

ETON COLLEGE SUFFERS FROM LIGHTNING STROKE

Associated Press Despatch. London, England, July 10.—Unusually severe thunderstorms, one of which struck London late last night, continued today in various parts of the country. Among the buildings struck by lightning was Eton College, one of the pinnacles of the lower chapel being split off and thrown to the roadway. Notwithstanding the heavy rainfall, the heat wave continued increasingly.

Mouse Causes Death of Three

Special to The Advertiser. Marquette, Mich., July 10.—Three employees of the Marquette County Road Commission were drowned near Champion today when the truck which they were riding in crashed through a fence and down a steep bank, turning over in a pond of water four feet in depth. The driver lost control of the truck when a mouse jumped upon his shoulder and he, who, frightened, jostled the driver, causing him to let go of the wheel.

The men drowned were in the body of the truck, and were attempting to catch the mouse when it jumped into the front seat. When those in the front saw that the truck was heading down the embankment they leaped to safety.

ANNOUNCE WAGE SCALE FOR WOMEN WORKERS

Minimum Board Sets Standard For Mail Order House Employees.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 11.—Notice that a minimum wage scale, applicable to all women and girls employed in mail order houses in the province, would soon be brought into effect was given last night at a public hearing of the Ontario Minimum Wage Board. In cities in Ontario with a population of more than 50,000, excepting Toronto, the minimum wage will be $12 a week for experienced employees of the age of 18 years or over.

For inexperienced adults of 18 years or more the pay will start with $10 as the minimum for the first six months, and for the second six months, after which the pay will be that of experienced adults. Girls under 18 shall start at not less than $8 for the first six months, $9 for the second six months, $10 for the third, and $11 for the fourth, after which they will be paid as experienced adults must start.

SLEEPS IN BUSH ALL NIGHT WHILE NEIGHBORS SEARCH

Special to The Advertiser. Cargill, July 11.—Herbert Zettler, son of Paul Zettler, a Brant township farmer, living near Dunkeld, wandered away from the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Sutter, in Brant, Saturday, March parties were out all night, but secured no trace of the lad until about 11 o'clock Sunday morning, when he was discovered on the farm of John Forsythe, in the bush all night.

W. M'DERMID, GUELPH, SHOCKED BY ELECTRICITY

Canadian Press Despatch. Guelph, Ont., July 11.—W. M'Dermid, Preston street, was severely shocked by electricity yesterday. He is in the employ of the city parks department and was engaged in cleaning up some trees when he came in contact with a tree heavily charged with electricity. He was thrown unconscious to the ground, but is expected to recover. He was removed to the hospital.

CHARGE MOTHER OF EIGHT WITH SELLING MOONSHINE

Special to The Advertiser. Windsor, July 11.—Mrs. Mary Romanik, 28 years old, mother of eight children, was remanded until Wednesday for trial when arraigned in police court today, charged with selling moonshine whiskey at her home, 963 Marion avenue. Mrs. Romanik was remanded in custody as she had no money to furnish bail. According to the police, who raided her home, she was about to throw five quarts of moonshine down the sink when the police grabbed the jug from her hands.

MANITOBA WET MAJORITY IS NOW PLACED AT 40,937

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, July 11.—With official final figures still to come from three constituencies, the majority for the Moderation League bill now stands at 40,937. A voting record was established in the referendum on June 22, when 130,000 out of a total electorate list of 253,800, cast their ballots. This is the heaviest vote in the history of the province.

SUFFERS SEVERE INJURIES IN MISHAP NEAR CHATHAM

Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, July 11.—Gordon Thomson was admitted to a local hospital Tuesday night, having suffered injuries in a motor accident, which occurred when he and his brother, Alden, were motoring here last night from Windsor. The couple, in which they were driving, was badly wrecked, and was brought to the city this morning for repairs.

REFUSE TO WORK IN MINES UNLESS WAGE PACT MADE

Union Leaders Will Not Budge From Decision Concerning Contract.

SESSION IS SECRET

Associate Press Despatch. Atlantic City, N.J., July 10.—Anthracite operators, meeting in subcommittee with the mine workers today to arrange a new wage contract, again proposed that the workers agree to remain at work after August 31 in the event no agreement is reached by that time, but the union leaders made the same reply they gave yesterday.

The operators wanted such an understanding so as to "allow public apprehension of a recurrence of the lamentable conditions of last winter." The miners said that if both sides applied themselves diligently to the task there was plenty of time to reach an agreement.

The committee also discussed the question of recognition of the union, with special reference to the check-off. No action was taken, the committee adjourning until tomorrow afternoon. The session was held behind closed doors.

Detective Pigeon, on the witness stand, testified that the miners quickly indicated they had not changed their minds. They argued, according to the subcommittee, that the subcommittee could not make an agreement by August 31. It was also argued by the union that such agreement would have the effect of insuring no contract by August 31, and would take away the necessity of reaching an understanding on wages and working conditions by that date.

BIG PICNIC MEETING FAILS TO FUNCTION

Absence of Firemen's Representative Holds Up Project of Union Outing.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, July 11.—The meeting of representatives of the "big four" railroad brotherhoods, called for 8 o'clock last evening in the council chambers, failed to take place, owing to the absence of the representative of the firemen. The meeting was called to discuss the project of a great union picnic to be held on civic holiday, August 6, with all organizations in the city invited to attend. It was felt that with the railroad brotherhoods holding their picnic on this day the affair would be a successful one. The failure to do so leaves the situation much in doubt. The parks committee have taken the matter in hand, and are holding a meeting Thursday evening, to which all civic organizations are invited to send representatives to arrange a program for the city's municipal holiday.

ALLOWED ALL TO VOTE HE BELIEVED QUALIFIED

Keppel Township Deputy Returning Officer Thought To Have Made Peculiar Error.

Canadian Press Despatch. Owen Sound, July 11.—Believing that he was entitled to permit any one to vote whom he knew had the proper qualifications, whether their names appeared on the voters' list or not, the deputy returning officer at No. 2 poll, Keppel Township, allowed nine persons to vote, according to a note found in the ballot box which was opened for the recount of ballots cast in North Grey. Proceedings were continued before Judge Sutherland, and a total of 23 disputed ballots have been set aside for consideration on the last day of the recount, which will probably be Thursday.

Application for a recount was made by William Breese, the Conservative candidate. Taylor, the U. F. O. candidate, was elected by a majority of 50, according to the official count.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING, BARN IS DESTROYED

Severe Electric Storm Visits Sombra Township and Causes Heavy Loss.

Special to The Advertiser. Sombra, July 11.—About 5 o'clock this morning the barn on the Wiley farm, lot 16, concession 11, Sombra Township, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. It was one of the best barns in the township, of large dimensions, having a stone basement of nine feet. The farm was being operated by Ernest Smith, and he was the loser of considerable hay, together with a new wagon and other implements in the building. The storm came from the northwest, and was one of the heaviest electric storms of the season.

STRATFORD POPULATION SHOWS INCREASE OF 66

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, July 11.—Half-yearly vital statistics as compiled by the city clerk's office indicate a healthy growth in population here for the first six months of 1923. Up to June 30 there were 203 births registered, 68 marriages and 137 deaths, a net gain of 66 in the population.

MOTOR LEAGUE COMMENDS APPOINTMENT OF HENRY

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 10.—A resolution expressing satisfaction over the appointment of Hon. Geo. S. Henry, M. L.A., as minister of highways for Ontario, was passed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Ontario Motor League here this afternoon.

Knights of Pythias Hold Meeting in Telephone City

Mrs. Park of London and Other Pythian Sisters Address Convention, Urging More Temples.

Special to The Advertiser. Brantford, July 10.—The grand lodge, Knights of Pythias of Ontario, in annual convention in this city today and tomorrow, devoted most of this afternoon's session to changes in the laws and constitution of the grand lodge. Considerable discussion also took place as to the next annual convention, and it was decided to meet in Toronto in August, 1924, which will be the same time as the supreme lodge convenes.

There were 12 past chancellors in waiting when grand lodge opened to receive the Pythian delegates. The following D. D. grand chancellors were present: A. S. Kappe, Stratford; James Cochrane, Hamilton; H. Lockhart, Sarnia; C. A. White, St. Catharines; Oakley R. De Witt, Toronto; P. O. Kirby, Oshawa; W. T. Irwin, Ottawa; and H. J. Paddington, Fort William.

A deputation representing the Pythian Sisters, composed of Mrs. F. B. Hubert of Hamilton, and Mrs. Park of London, addressed the members on behalf of this branch of the order, urging the representatives to encourage the institution of Pythian Sister temples in their respective localities. The sisters were given a very hearty reception, and the grand lodge gave the deputation assurance that their hearty co-operation awaited the sisters in the establishment of further temples, realizing in a measure that the success of the order in the future depended much on the work of the Pythian Sisters.

Mention and praise was given to Mayor F. C. Billo of this city and a member of the Knights of Pythias for his brave action in diving into the electric swimming tank and rescuing from drowning a 15-year-old Brantford girl, Beatrice Parker, 95½ Colborne street.

THINK COVERING OWNED BY ABBE

Quilt Found On Victim Similar To One In Sister's Home.

TRIAL SPEEDED UP

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, July 10.—Matters speeded up to some extent this afternoon in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme, charged with the murder of his half-brother, Raoul. A procession of witnesses passed through the stand, and while there were strenuous objections to the testimony of the last of these, Detective Pigeon, the others were not cross-examined at all, and questions by counsel for the defence were brief.

Features of interest in the evidence included the proof from the McGill Observatory that the weather on the day of the murder and those immediately following it was not cold, being well above zero, and that there was little if any snow, although some sleet and rain fell. Other points were the statement that the shoes of the victim had been very little used, and the question as to the quilt which had been used to cover the victim's head, together with two others taken from the room of the deceased sister, all had been stitched by the same person, and with the same machine.

The committee also pointed out the fact that the witness who testified that he had seen the abbe when interrogating him on January 27, although at the time the detective declared he had no suspicion of his possible connection with the crime.

His lordship said that while he was absolutely sure of the facts about the murder of the point, he would adjourn his decision to tomorrow. Another question as to the admissibility of the evidence of the witness who testified that he had seen the abbe when interrogating him on January 27, although at the time the detective declared he had no suspicion of his possible connection with the crime.

PREDICT ALBERTA TO HARVEST FINE CROPS THIS YEAR

Despite Damage By Storms Optimism Prevails In South Section.

MAY EQUAL 1915

Estimates Presented Allow For Losses Caused By Hail.

Canadian Press Despatch. Lethbridge, Alta., July 11.—Despite the damage done by the hailstorm on July 1, which was one of the worst known, Southern Alberta, as represented by the area served by railway lines centering in Lethbridge, will this year harvest a crop of 46,000,000 bushels of all grains, made up as follows: Wheat, 35,000,000 bushels; oats, 8,000,000 bushels; other grains, 3,000,000 bushels.

This estimate is the result of carefully compiled information gathered by the Herald for its tenth weekly crop report issued today.

Only conservation prevents making the estimate larger, for at this date, though the crop may be a few days later than in 1915, the outlook, except in the area touched by the hailstorm, could not well be better.

The wheat area is 1,200,000 acres. There is nothing to indicate that the yield of wheat will not be as high as in 1915, when Southern Alberta averaged just over 32 bushels. However, the crop is estimated at 30 bushels, average, with 1,000,000 bushels deducted for hail damage.

CROPS CUT DOWN

Canadian Press Despatch. Brandon, Man., July 11.—Crops were cut down along a path eight to twelve miles long and from two to three miles wide, roadways flooded, telephone service disorganized, and railway trucks halted on a track during a terrific hail, wind and rainstorm in the district of Kenney, west of here, yesterday afternoon, according to word reaching Brandon today.

HEROIC GIRL SAVES TWO FROM DROWNING

The First Tragedy of the Inclosed Pool.

Sincere sympathy and regret will be expressed because of the sad drowning accident at the foot of Grosvenor street in the Thames River. The members of the utilities commission will join in these feelings probably more than any others outside of the immediate relatives of the unfortunate little girl who lost her life.

There should be no general condemnation of the bathing place idea; rather there should be an effort to make the regulations more strict.

The roped-off area is large at this place, and as far as The Advertiser knows, it is free from holes; the bottom of the river had been previously examined with this end in view.

The fact that bathers go outside the ropes at their own risk is not enough to warrant them in being allowed to do so. There must be a certain well-defined and well-maintained area over which supervision can be exercised. There is plenty of room in the roped area.

It is also a fact that some children are in the habit of staying in the water too long. This has a weakening effect, and should be discouraged.

It had been hoped that the 1923 season could be conducted without a mishap of any kind. A tightening up of the regulations should make it possible to make the bathing places even more safe than they are at present.

The great majority of people using these spots are children, and as in other places enforced discipline is the safest and best method for all concerned.

London Still the Center.

The world's financial center is still London, England, and not Wall Street, New York. During the years of the war when United States was piling up huge credits all over the world, and when she was carrying on a ship-building program with the idea of emerging from the war period as the great sea-carrying power of the world, Britain's position was being crippled.

When the war was over Britain had to start on another, a long uphill battle to win back her trade; to bring her pound sterling up to a point where it would once more be regarded as the standard of currency of the world.

The action of the Bank of England in increasing its discount rate from 3 per cent to 4 per cent is a healthy sign; it means that there must be a demand for money for legitimate trade expansion or business development.

The New York Times of July 9 pays tribute to London as the "world's financial center," despite the fact that New York now controls half of all the monetary gold of the world, and in spite of the added fact that Britain has not yet returned to the gold standard, which was suspended during the war.

United States has found that the channels of trade deeply worn; that London is in the geographical position to act as the clearing house of Europe, and her conservative and sane methods of doing business have made her a center whose influence is not to be easily shaken.

The Times concludes: "But the real secret of London's continued supremacy is the perfected machinery of its money market. Its marvelous discount market, its expert appraisal and knowledge of world markets for goods of practically every kind, its complete and tested system of insurance, and, largely as a result of all this, its low interest rates—these are the things that have kept London's position relatively secure. These constitute a machine that cannot be built up overnight. It is the result not only of the lifelong training of the individual British banker but of the generations of training and tradition behind him."

The British may "bungle along" in some matters, but in money and shipping they have won and kept their prestige by positive and constant thoroughness.

The Coal Bin Next Winter.

Mr. C. A. Magrath urges people to buy coal now for use next winter. That is very good advice, very old advice, yet very ordinary advice.

It is exactly what the coal barons of United States want. Nothing could please them better than to have the idea firmly established that Canada is going to make a rush for United States coal, and that Canadians at the idea firmly established again that they will be squeezed stiff if they do not get coal from United States.

So far we are not any farther ahead in getting Alberta coal for Ontario. Several newspapers, at their expense, carried on most of the experimenting this year, bringing the coal here and sending it out for people to try.

In a few weeks Canadian lines will be busy carrying grain to the head of the lakes, and in that period cannot touch coal to any extent.

We are simply drifting along, while the great game of making Canada independent of U. S. coal is waiting at the side of the road.

The Most Effective Sermon.

Rev. Dr. Kerr of New York, aged 65, surprised a lot of people in the act of stealing missionary funds from a house. The thief, armed with an axe, inflicted such wounds on the minister that he may die.

From his bedroom he sent an offer of forgiveness to the burglar, and coupled with it a desire to lend him a helping hand to a better life.

That is the greatest sermon he ever preached.

They Come and They Go.

By the time fire got through with the town of Goldfield, Nevada, there was not much left of the place. One dispatch said the damage amounted to $1,500,000.

The figure might as well have been written down at two or three times that amount because any sum would at best be a guess.

Goldfield is one of those peculiar spots that is thrown to the surface by a peculiar combination of luck, adventure, wild-catting and foolishness. All these elements come along and add their quota—in turn they depart, and with their departure the town just naturally drops back to the status of the sage bush and alkali.

Goldfield saw millions upon millions of dollars made, gambled and squandered in its boom days. Men used to pay as much for the privilege of sleeping on a bunk shelf in a shanty there as they ever paid for sleeping in the best hotel in the country. Tex Rickard was one of the men who ran the old Northern there, a gambling house where in the palm days of 1906 miners cashed checks for $7,000,000. In that hot, dry land there was always the danger of fire, and on more than one occasion it was averted by moving the shacks and houses that looked as though they were in danger of catching.

Mining countries all have their deserted cities.

Were one to go through the Crow's Nest Pass in the southern part of British Columbia today and ask for Morrissey he would have quite a time getting his information unless he came upon an old-timer who had seen it rise and fall. Yet Morrissey existed in the days when the coal deposits there looked to have a great future. It had its main street, its stores and hotels and houses; it even boasted a newspaper. When the coal was found too difficult to take out on a commercial basis, the boards that were intended for more buildings were used to nail across the doors of existing ones.

A little farther west along the same pass one comes to the town of Hasmer, where the abandoning of a great coal mine spelled the shutting down of the town. The main entrance to that mine was as fine a piece of work as could be seen, but there were too many "faults" in the coal deposits, and it was left. Undoubtedly millions were spent developing that mine. It was not such a speculative effort as Goldfield, but its end was much the same. Rossland is another, and all through the mining area of past years are similar monuments.

Miners and workers, prospectors and engineers were all there; the gamblers and the tin-horns and those of easy virtue all came and went. These places have all seen life at its wildest and witnessed disappointment at its bitterest.

Great Work for a Human Being.

A sentence of 20 years in jail has been given to T. W. Higginbotham in Florida.

This man held the position of whipping-boss in a prison camp.

It was his job to flog prisoners who had been hired out to contractors who bid for prison labor.

He did his job so well that he killed a slip of a farm lad who was sent to jail as a vagrant in the first place. The whipping-boss has appealed against the decision of the court.

Court should cancel that sentence at once and send him down for life.

The Farmers Cannot Do It Yet.

The United States Bureau Federation urges farmers to withhold 200,000,000 bushels of wheat from the market in order that prices may be stabilized.

The idea is that the farmers could dispose of this when prices get better, as they usually do after the crop has passed into the hands of the marketers.

The farmers of United States cannot do it for the same reason that nine-tenths of the farmers of Canada could not do it, viz., that the banks, implement people and other creditors will be pressing for the payment of accounts and urging the farmer to sell at once, regardless of price.

If the farmers of United States or of Canada had the necessary machinery to do this thing—regulate the flow of wheat to the world markets—they could do much to secure a better return for their product, a return to which they are justly entitled.

They have not that machinery, and it will take time and money to secure it. For that reason they cannot follow the advice of the United States bureau.

A couple of cases in London court in recent weeks brought up that fine old point of when is a man drunk. Surely our legal lights are not going to clutter up the courts with all those old arguments that proved nothing and arrived at no decision. The easiest way of settlement used to be from the angle that it was quite easy to tell when a man was sober.

Apparently the county council of Bruce moves around for its sessions. Bruce papers have had columns about a session at the "Tub" in the top end of the peninsula some year or so ago, but only this week has a serious charge been made about it, viz., that the councillors were badly bitten by large and very active bedbugs on that trip. Being a councillor up in Bruce is apparently quite a real man's job.

THE DUTY OF A NEIGHBOR.

(From the New York Times.)

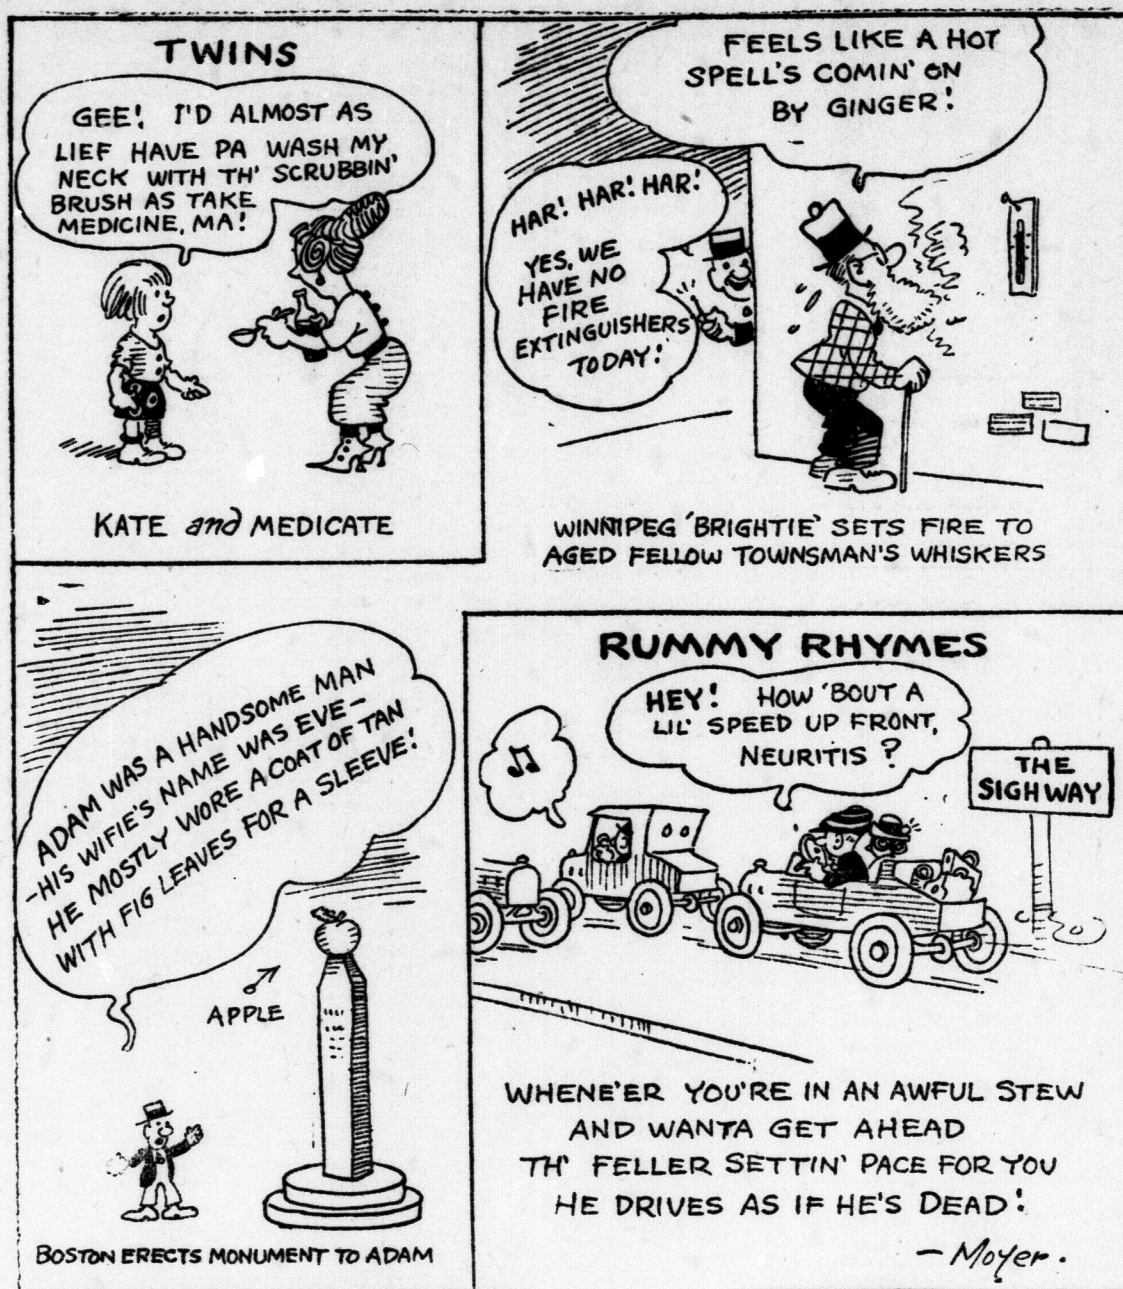

Canada's parliament received very coldly, a few days ago, the proposal that it should pass a law penalizing in some way or degree the activities of Canadians who are making money, and lots of it, by "running" intoxicants across the border into the United States. This the members, or a majority of them, said was legitimate business so far as Canada and Canadians were concerned, and they saw no reason for interfering with it. The high officials in the Canadian government are more courteous than the lawmakers, and, in response to communications from Washington, they are saying, in effect, that they will see what can be done in the way of helping a good neighbor in the performance of a hard task.

The premier, Mr. King, took occasion this week to tell the members of the House of Commons of the request for assistance, and, while he did not make any definite promises, he at least had the good sense to declare that his government had every desire to co-operate with the American authorities, just as he would expect those authorities to co-operate with him in enforcing Canadian laws if need for such assistance arose.

This is not much, but it is something, and it is more than has been done in London, where no real disposition seemingly exists to stop the use of the Bahamas as a base for rum-running.

Your Health

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO ABOUT BUMPS, SPRAINS AND BRUISES

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Besides all the accidents which break the skin and produce open wounds, there are the endless numbers which injure the deep tissues without opening the surface. Blows from the fist, or from a club, pinches half the time, or the arm or leg falls on the head, running into a door, or being run into by an automobile, turning the ankle or twisting the elbow or wrist—any one of these accidents may injure the deep tissues. In this way are produced bumps, bruises and sprains. They are among the most common of human ailments.

We differ in the strength and thickness of our blood-vessel walls, and in the resistance of our tissues. Some of your friends have black and blue spots half the time, and you may never be so afflicted. This is due to the greater elasticity or greater thickness of your vessel-walls and other tissues.

Age is a great factor, too. With increasing years the vessel-walls become hardened and a trifling injury will cause a rupture, followed by an escape of blood into the tissues.

But this is not the kind of an injury I want to speak about today. I want to discuss conditions which result from hard blows, crushing injuries or twisting of the joints. In these injuries there is damage to the soft tissues and to the muscles. They may be seriously torn and mutilated. The blood and fluid parts of the blood ooze out into the tissues. In nature's efforts to repair the parts and to carry away the products of inflammation, the vessels are filled with blood. Naturally, therefore, the part is swollen, causing a big welt or bump.

What should be done in such injuries? The first thing is to stop the bleeding, which is going on under the skin. Elevation of the part, gentle pressure and cold applications will accomplish this.

I am assuming that the accident has just happened. A few hours later, or the next day, these measures will be of little use. But when the bump is first felt, or the bruise has just been received, they will be most helpful.

Gratification is very important in considering what to do to stop bleeding. If a damaged part can be elevated above the rest of the body it helps a lot. Ice packs or frequent applications of cold water will go far toward stopping hemorrhage. A small ice pack bound on by bandaging will be useful.

To take down the swelling which continues the next day, hot applications will help. Dip a towel in water as hot as can be tolerated, apply this to the bruise, bump or sprain, and cover it with a dry towel. Keep this up for 15 minutes and repeat the application every two hours. This will support the tissues and guard against pressure and strain on the damaged tissues.

Answers to Health Questions. DAILY READER: Q—I have been told that I have a leaking heart valve. I am a man in my 50's, and would like to know whether this condition is curable.

A—While this condition cannot be cured, you can live a normal life, provided you do not overwork yourself, worry or become excited or fatigued. Consult your physician for treatment occasionally.

CONSTANT READER: Q—What can I do for large pores in the face? A—Try hot and cold applications alternately, each for 10 minutes at a time, followed by massage with a good cool cream.

HIDDEN SINS.

While I kept silence my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long.—Psalms xxxiii, 3. A sin concealed is like a hidden fire. It eats into the very life and consumes it with the weariness of old age.

It "weighs upon the heart." It dries up the springs of innocent joy and peace, so that existence becomes like a thirsty, tedious fever. There is no relief in "roaring."

All the complaints and murmurings, the outcries of disgust with life and the growlings of a sullen, discontented spirit, are in vain. Swear that "the times are out of joint"; swear at the world for a cheat; swear at yourself for a fool—all this will bring no relief, no comfort.

The disease (and that means the want of ease) is too deep for any remedy that you can devise.

There is but one Physician who can heal it. You must bring it to him, frankly, freely, with no reserve, and learn that an honest confession is good for the soul, and that God's mercy is great enough to blot out every sin except that which is hidden. No half-repentance can possibly succeed, and no full repentance can possibly fail.

J. B. P. Q—I am a boy 15 years of age, 5 feet tall. Will you kindly tell me what my correct weight should be?

2—I do not eat any meat. Is this injurious to my health?

A—For your height, you should weigh about 120 pounds.

2—It is not necessary that you eat meat if you eat plenty of other nourishing food.

P. A. Q—Will you kindly tell me how to develop my legs and ankles?

A—Exercise will help this condition. Rise on the toes a number of times daily. Also massage with cocoa butter.

T. B. Q—On arising in the mornings I notice I have puffs underneath the eyes. Is this a stomach disorder?

2—What causes a person to wake up at a certain time every night? Is this nervousness?

A—You may have Bright's disease. Consult a physician for a urinalysis and follow the advice he gives you.

2—You probably are nervous. Keep your general health built up. For full particulars on good health, kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

PUZZLED. Q—My nose is deformed and interferes with my breathing. Will you please tell me whether anything can be done to correct this condition?

A—Yes, this condition can be corrected. Apply at a nose and throat clinic for an examination and treatment. Be guided by the advice the doctor gives you.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally, if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Looking Abroad

By DOUGLAS McREYNOLDS.

Englishmen in their love for travel are continually stumbling upon some new or little-known place, and then returning to London to tell about it. One of the most interesting of these journeys has just been described by Mr. Francis Rodd at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, when he gave a talk on his journey in one of the least-known regions of Africa. He had just arrived from Air, a rocky area in the Central Sahara, which is inhabited by that mysterious race known as the Tuareg, or People of the Veil.

The Tuareg, Mr. Rodd said, were commonly believed to be part of the Berber race, the pre-Arab inhabitants of North America. They are for the most part a nomadic people, remarkable for the uniform practice among the men of veiling their faces with a dark blue or white strip of thin cloth called a tagelmus. This face drapery is about eight inches wide and six feet in length, and is wrapped around the head to form a hood over the eyes and a covering over the mouth and nose. This arrangement of the veil leaves only a narrow slit through which the wearer could see the world.

Quite the opposite of the custom of the followers of Mohammed, the women of the Tuareg are never veiled. Some might draw a portion of their outer garments over their faces in the presence of strangers, but this is not a normal practice. When walking in the roads or busy with their household duties whether indoors or out, the faces of the women are but rarely covered. On the other hand, the men never unveil themselves. In fact, to appear with the face uncovered would be for a male Tuareg almost equivalent to committing an act of indecency.

The Tuareg in North Africa are divided into various groups, but according to Mr. Rodd they have no name other than Kel Tagitimus, or the People of the Veil. Within each division they are subdivided into very distinct categories of noble tribes called Imajeghan and servile tribes called Imghad, in addition to the numerous slaves which they still possessed, although the practice of slavery under the tribal laws is forbidden. At present there is no regular traffic in human beings, but master and slave continue to regard each other by mutual consent in the light of their original relationship.

The traditions of the Tuaregs of Air indicate that the first tribes reached these Central Sahara mountains from Auja, an oasis in Southern Cyrenaica. They were a proud and warlike people, who resisted every attempt at conquest. Their descendants inherited these characteristics, and it took the French more than 30 years to occupy the Ahaggar district and to finally after many disasters and battles which form a glorious page in the history of the French army in the Sahara.

Air itself, according to Mr. Rodd, is essentially a Saharan area which is not, as most people imagine, a vast uniform waste of sand. On the contrary, the Sahara consists of very varied regions, ranging from moving sand dunes to high mountains with perennial water. Like most nomads, the Tuareg are thieves and raiders by choice when an opportunity presents itself. They are poor, as only people who have possessions can be poor, but as hard and as tough as any race in the world.

The food of the Tuareg varies according to conditions. The grain is available they eat it; otherwise the milk and cheese of camels and goats with the seeds of the grasses of their arid mountains constitute their diet varied only with an occasional dish of tomatoes and onions if they possess a garden.

Londoners and Their Hobbies

Dr. S. Woolverton's Attic Houses a Huge Museum

Thousands of Specimens Form One of the Finest Collections in Canada.

Why, doesn't London have a museum? How often that question is asked. And it is so easy to answer.

London has a museum. And one of the finest in Canada. Thousands upon thousands of specimens have been gathered together here in London and put in glass cases, especially prepared for them. The few who have seen them have been filled with amazement at the great number and quality of the specimens which make up this extraordinary collection.

There are hundreds of Indian relics of every description; fighting arms from the time of primitive man up to the present day; minerals, specimens of the hundreds of thousands of precious stones; corals and shells from all over the world; curiosities from the mammoth cave; fossils innumerable and rare; deep sea specimens; petrified animal and vegetable life; coins back to the time of Carthage and ancient China; paper money of defunct banks; valuable military medals; eggs from the ostrich to the humming-bird; valuable old Bibles and other books which include a collection of London authors; skulls and human bones; and hundreds of other miscellaneous articles, all of which are intensely interesting.

Famed Throughout Continent. Although the majority of people in London are unaware of the existence of this wonderful collection, its fame has spread throughout the continent and visitors from different parts of Canada and the United States are more numerous than the visitors from London itself.

The only pity is that the collection is a private one, and that is largely why it has not been better known here in London. It is the result of the personal efforts of Dr. Solon Woolverton, and is housed in the large attic of his Grand Avenue home. Dr. Woolverton, owner and curator, is well known throughout the city as a geologist and naturalist. His den is filled with interesting specimens, and it has been generally supposed that he had a few more similar specimens at home.

But only a very small circle of people, intensely interested in history and geology, have been aware of the marvelous collection, hidden away in his attic, the result of a lifetime's work at his favorite hobby.

For Most Part Canadian. Although the museum contains many rare and fascinating things from different parts of the world, the bulk of his collection is Canadian. He believes that a Canadian museum is far more valuable in Canada than quantities of foreign specimens.

Dr. Woolverton is not a young man, as far as years go, and yet his youth has never left him. Constantly studying world history in a practical way, and handling the relics of the thousands of years ago, he has managed to retain a youthful interest in life which has not dwindled with the passing of the years. A black imperial beard gives dignity to a still boyish face. And as he passes from case to case in his attic museum, carrying an oil lamp to light the way, his eyes gleam with delight. He is still a boy at heart, and still retains a boyish delight in collecting things. There's no beginning and no end to the museum. The visitor after making the rounds, is bewildered. There's so much to see, that it would take several visits to give any idea of the vastness and complexity of the collection. Out of the maze of things, however, stand a few which cannot be forgotten, even after a superficial visit.

There is the beautiful silica sponge, woven like a spider's web, of silvery threads of silica, which was found near the Philippines, and is exceedingly rare. The formation is somewhat similar to coral, the little animals which do the work, secreting silica instead of lime.

Another rare and interesting specimen is the huge petrified head of some prehistoric amphibious animal, somewhat after the nature of a crocodile.

World's Oldest Coins. The oldest coins in the world are also part of this extraordinary collection. There is even money from China, over 3,000 and 4,000 years old, and Chinese dragon money of great antiquity, not to mention Carthage.

sinian coins of 1046 B.C. A rare Victoria medal with three bars won at the Crimean War is another valuable relic. Among the paper money is a lottery ticket, fashioned like a money bill, which was used for raising funds to build London's first Masonic Temple, on Richmond street.

Few citizens know that this building was built by lottery. The extent of which was $200,000. $100,000 was used in the erection of the building and the other $100,000 for money prizes. The first prize, $15,000, was won by a ditch digger in Eastern Ontario, the second prize, $7,000, by the late Mr. Strong, druggist, and the third prize, $2,500, by the late Colonel Lees, of this city. The local prize-winners were members of syndicates, however.

Dr. Woolverton first began the study of geology as a boy at Grimsby. With a mountain on one side of the house and the lake on the other, a splendid field for the collection of his fossils.

Housed in a Hayloft. His first collection was housed in a hayloft, because his mother thought he was bringing too much dirt into the house in pursuit of his hobby.

Later, as it became larger, it was transferred to a room in the main street of the town. When Dr. Woolverton moved to London he brought his geological collection with him, for another move yet. In the new science building now in course of construction on the Western University grounds the entire top story will be given over for a museum, and Dr. Woolverton expects that eventually his large collection will be classified there.

Another Museum. Dr. Woolverton tried to establish a small museum on the second floor of the public library some years ago, but as the library grew the space was needed and the eight or ten cases of specimens there were given into the care of the University.

Dr. Woolverton is curator of the London and Middlesex Historical Society, and has been curator ever since the inception of that society over 22 years ago. The Historical Society documents are kept in his museum. Miss R. M. Jones, who is in the museum include the first journals of Upper Canada from 1792 to 1810, and the oldest diary in Canada, written in 1800 by Joseph Willcocks, secretary to Lieut.-Governor Russell of Upper Canada.

When I was a boy, while my brothers and sisters were playing cricket and baseball, I was away in the mountain collecting my fossils," says Dr. Woolverton.

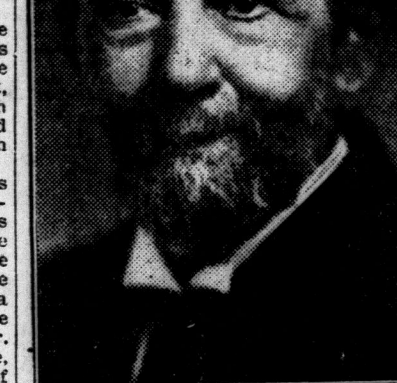

And the museum is the result.

Jones-Tambling Nuptials Pretty Event of Tuesday

Miss Margaret A. Tambling Weds Mr. Mervyn Holcroft Jones at Home of Bride's Parents.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Tambling, 512 Maitland street, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding yesterday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Margaret A., was married to Mervyn Holcroft Jones of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Jones, Wolfe street. Rev. R. J. Uren of Colborne Street Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

Quantities of marigolds were arranged in the living room, with palms and ferns, and here the ceremony was performed. The wedding march was played by Miss Gladys Roeding and during the signing of the register, Miss Wanza Jones, sister of the groom, sang "O Promise Me." Miss Roeding was given in marriage to the bride by her father, and the bride and groom were a smart French frock of orchid georgette with an orchid hat.

DR. SOLON WOOLVERTON.

Miss Muriel Pegler, in a pretty summer gown. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left later on a trip to the coast, the bride traveling in a peach colored sport suit, with a tan felt sports hat, and a fox fur. On their return they will reside in the Taylor apartments, Piccadilly street.

The guests included, Mr. and Mrs. George Tambling the latter wearing a gown of rose silk crepe, with a white hat; Mrs. A. T. McMahon, aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Atkins, the latter in a smart blue gown; Mr. and Mrs. Linton Jones; Mrs. Jones, a recent bride, wearing her wedding gown of ivory tulle; Mr. and Mrs. Lebert Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Norville Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones and Miss Minnie Jones.

AT HOME IN THE PARK. Walking through one of our local parks the other day, I was interested to watch a young mother who had evidently decided to set up her summer home there. I knew she must live in one of the tenement buildings a few blocks away, with hot-baked ground in place of green lawn, and the scorching pavements for little feet to step out on.

She sat quietly sewing on a shady bench, a straw cushion under her and a double cushion thrown over and there are graham crackers and a little cup of spinach for my little girl, and some sandwiches for me. I have a book and a mail bag, as well as my sewing, and when I tire of sitting in one place, we take a little walk and find another place farther on.

"Both the children take their naps out here—the baby in his go-cart, for you see the lower part turns up, for little feet to step out on. And my little girl sleeps on a bench on the cushions which I have brought. While they sleep, I sit on my shawl on the grass and lean against a tree. "You see it is just as if this were my own great estate, with the lake, the flowers and the great trees. City people need not feel shut in so long as there are these beautiful places everywhere for us to live. After our supper, my husband and I often come out and spend the evening here, letting the baby sleep in his cart, and our little girl on a rug on the grass. No rich man could have more beautiful or comfortable grounds to roam about in. We are most grateful for all this!" (Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

Miss Isabel Armstrong Receives At Hyman Hall

Active Workers In the Recent Political Campaign Are Guests of the Liberal Candidate At the Tea Hour.

An interesting social event of yesterday afternoon was the reception held at Hyman Hall by Miss Isabel Armstrong, Liberal candidate in the recent provincial election. The guests of the occasion were the active workers in the election campaign, who waxed most enthusiastic at the prospect of definite organization in the early fall.

Assisting Miss Armstrong in receiving the many guests was Mrs. E. W. Grange, who wore a modish French blue dress and blue hat. Miss Armstrong was wearing a black and white costume, and large black picture hat.

Tea was served in the large club-room, which had been made lovely with large bouquets of Rambler roses, while Rambler roses banked the mantelpiece. Centering the table was a silver basket filled with delphiniums and cerise mullin pink. Here Mrs. Andrew Robson, presided, wearing a smart gown of silk satin and large black hat. Assisting her were Mrs. Fred Phelps, Mrs. North, Mrs. Gunn and Mrs. Murray Armstrong.

Although the gathering yesterday was purely a social affair, the prospect of a definite women's Liberal organization in the fall was discussed. The plan is to study politics, and the municipal, provincial and federal laws of the land. Possibly committees will be formed to report on progress at the provincial and dominion houses, as well as in city council and board of education meetings. The Liberal women of the city are determined to become informed as to what is actually taking place in the country, and will study accordingly.

Zona Gale Says:

"A Community Has No Place For a Backyard—A Backyard Is But a Potential Garden."

What Nietzsche called "the garden of earth" is upon us. If the Greeks were imaginatively profound in conceiving of the earth spirit as a woman, then surely she is feminine enough to feel joy when men adorn her deep, strong bosom with gardens. For gardens are her jewels—worn in the rapture which stirs her when the sun, her heavenly lover, turns northward.

It would be well for the city dwellers, if the word "backyard" were expunged from the dictionary, omitted from common speech and forgotten in fact. A gentle and civilized community has no place for a backyard. A backyard is but a potential garden. It is an unfortunate piece of ground that has not yet realized its destiny. Given self-determination, it is quite certain that every backyard would choose to be a garden. What a backyard with any feeling for the fitness of things would not rather bring forth flowers or vegetables than to be the spawning place for tin cans, old shoes, ashes and discouraged patches of struggling sod?

There ought to be a law making the world safe for gardens. When it is safe for gardens, it will be safe for democracy—and for other flowers of our civilization. For the garden mood is a social mood. One wishes to share a garden. It is a place for one's friends. And the garden voice within—the voice, maybe, of the Maker of all gardens—calls for the expansion of the definition of friends.

To the lover of gardens all who love gardens are friends. Even conquering Caesar swept the people of Rome to his heart when he bequeathed to them his gardens. Aristocracy, as though to link its pretensions to earthly power with nature's quiet strength, always has created regal gardens. Perhaps the yokel peering through at a vista of Versailles at first felt more content with the Bourbon oppression which controlled so much of his life.

Perhaps, always, everywhere, Privilege—not excepting our modern brands of Privilege—cunningly seeks a more valid claim to rulership by giving back in lawns, groves and

AT DRUGGISTS ONLY

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary macrolized wax. Discolored or freckled skin, so common at this season, is gently, gradually absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of macrolized wax at any drug store and use it like cold cream. This will help any skin at once and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably clear, young and healthy.

Carroll and Leverage Talk Over Naomi's Story But Find Themselves Still Very Much in the Dark

"The man who did the actual shooting," he said quietly—"have you the slightest idea as to his identity?"

"No." Her manner was almost indifferent: the strain was over—she was hardly conscious of what she was saying. "He was smaller than Mr. Warren—a man of about my husband's size."

She stopped abruptly! Carroll's gaze grew steady—he made a note of the expression of horror in her eyes. "About your husband's size?" he repeated softly.

CHAPTER XXI

Carroll Decides.

For a moment she was silent. It was patent that she was groping desperately for the correct thing to say. And finally she extended a pleading hand—

"Please—don't think that!"

"What?"

"That it was—my husband. He wouldn't!"

"Why not?"

"Anyhow—it is impossible. He was in Nashville. He didn't get home until morning."

Carroll shook his head. "I hope he can prove he was in Nashville. We have tried to prove it, and we cannot. And you must admit, Mrs. Lawrence, that had he known what you planned he would have had the justification of the unwritten law."

Her eyes brightened. "You think, then—that if he did—he would be acquitted?"

"Yes. More so in view of your story that there was a fight between the two men. That would probably add self-defense to his plea. However, I may be wrong in that."

"You are indeed, Mr. Carroll. My husband—just that kind of a man. And even if he had done the shooting—he could not have concealed it from me for this length of time. He would have given a hint."

"No-o. He wouldn't have done that. If he shot Warren he would have been afraid of telling even you."

She walked to the window where she stood for a moment looking out on the dead December day. Then she turned tragically back to Carroll.

"You are going to arrest me?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"Because I believe your story, Mrs. Lawrence. And as long as there is any way to keep you from the hands of the whole miserable mess, I shall do so."

"But if you arrest my husband—"

"I have no intention of doing that, either—unless I am convinced that he was in the city when the shooting occurred. I am not in favor of indiscriminate arrests. In this case, they can do nothing but harm."

"You are very good," she said softly. "I didn't imagine that a detective—"

"Some of us are human beings, Mrs. Lawrence. Is that so strange?"

She did not answer, and for several minutes they sat in silence—each intent in thought. It was Carroll who broke the stillness:

"Do you know William Barker?"

"Barker? Why, yes, certainly. He was Mr. Warren's valet."

"I know it. Have you seen Barker since the night Mr. Warren was killed?"

"Yes. He could scarcely distinguish her answer. "Twice."

"He called her?"

"Yes."

"Was your husband at home on either occasion?"

"No."

"Why did he come here?"

She hesitated but only for the fraction of a second. "It was Barker who was driving me to distraction. He knew that I was the woman in the taxicab. He really believes that I killed Mr. Warren. He has been blackmailing me."

"A-h! So that explains his visits and his plentiful supply of money?"

"Yes. Oh! It was shameful—that I should be so helpless before his demands. It didn't matter that I had nothing to do with the killing—it was enough that I had to pay any price to keep my name clear of scandal."

Looking back on the affair now, Mr. Carroll—I cannot understand my own weakness. But I felt that I owed it to my husband and my sister to protect them from scandal at any cost—and I have paid Barker a good deal of money."

"I see," Carroll rose. "I want you to understand, Mrs. Lawrence, that"

Miss Hopper you shouldn't let the barber put Smelladora on you hair when you get it rebobbed take a letter to The Advanced College of Automotive Engineering, Rear End, Michigan. Gentlemen:

You certainly do write a smooth letter where you start in by telling me I can earn from $2,000 to $20,000 a year in the automobile repair business after he somebody of importance in my community and there are times when it certainly is encouraging to think that somebody so far away as you are has so much confidence in me.

You are probably right where you say there is nobody needs thorough instruction in the science of automotive engineering more than I do as it is the one walk of life where the zest and exuberance of youth are at their best advantage but most of our trouble comes from the zest and exuberance of the 15-year-old member of the family whose natural optimism leads him to try and beat Tommy Milton apostrophe s track records with a 3-year-old car on country roads and if you think your course compiled by the world's foremost scientists on international combustion engines will get the young man interested in staying home long enough to fix the car right including your free wooden models of piston, crank shaft and transmission you can let me know what it will cost.

Yours for community importance, THE SUPREMACY EMPORIUM, Per D. D.

Leverage to remain. The orderly disappeared—and in a minute, the door opened and a woman entered. Carroll sprang to his feet with an exclamation of surprise.

"Miss Gresham!"

Hazel Gresham nodded. She advanced toward Carroll. Every drop of color had been drained from her cheeks. Her manner indicated intense nervous strain. Her eyes were wide and fixed.

"I would like to speak to you alone."

"Yes—this is Chief Leverage, Miss Gresham."

Leverage acknowledged the introduction and would have left but the girl stopped him. "On second thought, Mr. Leverage—you might remain."

Eric paused. His eyes sought Carroll's face. Both men knew that something vital unexpected was about to be disclosed. They waited for the girl to speak—and when she did her voice was so low as to be almost unintelligible.

"About her husband, gentlemen—I read the story in The Star. I—I she faltered for a moment, then went bravely on—"I came right down to save you the trouble of sending for me."

Silence: tense—expectant. "You don't want?" queried Carroll.

"I can't do that. I want to save you the trouble—the embarrassment of sending for me." She looked at them eagerly. "I have come to give myself up."

Carroll frowned. "For what?"

"For—the murder of—of Roland Warren."

The detective shook his head. "I don't understand, Miss Gresham. Really I don't. Do you mean to tell me that you were the woman in the taxicab?"

"Yes," answered Carroll frankly, "I have."

"You think you know who killed Warren?"

Carroll's mind still busy with Naomi's story, answered casually, "I believe I do. That is just a belief, mind you. But there is an outside chance that there will be important developments within the next twenty-four hours."

"If anything at all happens, it will be definite."

Then Carroll excused himself and sought Eric Leverage. Under pledge of secrecy he told Leverage the entire story as he had heard it from Naomi Lawrence's lips.

Leverage slammed his hand on the arm of his chair—"Gerald Lawrence, or I'm a bum guesser," he stated positively. "Look at that! That was the man who killed Barker!"

"What I hate about the idea is that if Lawrence is the man there will be no way on earth to keep Mrs. Lawrence's name out of it."

"You're right—How about Barker?"

"I believe Barker's story. So does Mrs. Lawrence. She believes that Barker thinks she killed Warren in the taxi."

"Leverage glanced keenly at his friend. "You are going to arrest Lawrence?"

"No-o. Not yet. He may not have done it," sizzled the chief of police, "if he didn't and Barker didn't—who the devil did?"

Carroll shook his head hopelessly. "I don't know, Eric. If neither of those two men did, we'll be left hopelessly in the air."

"Exactly. We know that one of 'em did the killing. We've covered this case from every angle, and if we believe that the shooting was not done by Mrs. Lawrence, we must suspect one of the two men involved."

"You are sure it wasn't Barker?"

"Let's wait a little while longer," counseled Carroll.

"The two men sat in Leverage's office and talked. They discussed the case again from the beginning to its detail in the hope that they might have overlooked some vital fact which would give them a basis upon which to proceed. Their efforts were fruitless. The investigation had developed results—true enough—those results were not at all satisfactory."

And it was about an hour later that a knock came on the door. In answer to Leverage's summons, an orderly entered. In his hand he carried an evening paper—

"Just brought this in, sir. Thought you and Mr. Carroll might like to read it."

The orderly retired. Carroll spread the paper—then did something very rare. He swore profoundly. His eyes were fixed on the enormous first page headlines:

CARROLL HAS SOLVED WARREN MYSTERY

Identity of Clubman's Slayer Known to Famous Detective.

Will Make Arrest Within 24 Hours. Sensational Developments Promised by David Carroll in Exclusive Interview with Reporter for The Star.

It all came back to Carroll now. The eager reporter, the news-hunger, the head-furiously through the story. It proved to be one of those enormous masterpieces which uses an newspaper as a medium for the expression of a personal conjecture—the report of a writer of the story which had given spur to the vivid imagination of the headline writer.

"So now," questioned Leverage—"what are you going to do: deny it?"

"No!" snapped Carroll—"I can't. He hasn't misquoted a single line of what I said. It just makes things—makes 'em mighty embarrassing."

He sat hunched in his chair staring at the screaming headlines and reading the lurid story. Again an orderly entered.

"Young lady out there," he announced, "who wants to know if Mr. Carroll is here."

Instantly the mind of the detective leaped to the tragic figure of Naomi Lawrence. "She wants to see me?" he questioned.

"Yes, sir."

"Show her in." He motioned to

When a Feller Needs a Friend.

Reddy and Mrs. Reddy Fox Deny Having Seen Anything of Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit asked everyone he met for news of Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse, and not a thing did he learn. No one had seen them. No one knew anything about them. No one had given them a thought. Peter grew more and more worried. He couldn't help from thinking about Danny and Nanny were two little neighbors whom Peter had always liked to have about. Several other besides Carol the Meadow Lark and Bubbling Bob the Bobolink told him of having seen Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy spending much time hunting on the Green Meadows.

"They caught Danny and Nanny. Yes, sir, they caught Danny and Nanny," said Peter to himself. "I just know it. The Green Meadows will never be the same again. No, sir, the Green Meadows will never be the same again."

It was just at dusk a few evenings later that Reddy Fox came prowling along the edge of the dear Old River Patch. He saw Peter safely sitting grinned. "Have you seen Danny Meadow Mouse lately?" he inquired.

Then Peter found his tongue. "You know very well I haven't," he retorted angrily. "You know I haven't, and you know why, you big red robber!"

Reddy chuckled. Peter misunderstood that chuckle. He thought Reddy was chuckling because he had caught Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. Reddy was chuckling to see gentle Peter Rabbit so angry.

"I haven't the least idea why you haven't seen Danny and Nanny. The reason is this: either you or Mrs. Reddy have caught and eaten them."

Wrong, Peter, quite wrong," replied Reddy. "I wish it were true, but it isn't. Goodness knows, we've tried hard enough to find them. I thought you might know something about where they are, and so that is why I inquired."

"I don't believe you," declared Peter. "What you believe or don't believe doesn't make any difference," replied Reddy Fox. "Facts are facts, and truth is truth. It is both a fact and the truth that I came down here tonight especially to look for Danny Meadow Mouse. Do you suppose I'd waste my time looking around here if I knew he wasn't here?"

"Well, he isn't here," snapped Peter. "He isn't anywhere around in this part of the Green Meadows. If you haven't caught them, probably Mrs. Reddy will tell you where they are."

"I wish I could," said another voice. And there was Mrs. Reddy, peering into the tangle of brambles at Peter. "I've already wasted a lot of time looking for them. It must be that someone else has been smarter than we. Come on, Reddy, it is no use wasting time here."

Reddy and Mrs. Reddy started off. Peter watched them. As they crossed the Green Meadows he could see that they were hunting just as usual. "Look it up in 'Digested Readings,' thought Peter. "What can have become of Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse?"

The next story: "Peter Watches Old Man Coyote."

Wrong, Peter, quite wrong," replied Reddy.

in his favorite place, under a thick tangle of brambles. "Good evening, Peter," said Reddy, in his pleasantest voice. "This is a fine summer evening. Don't you want to talk a walk with me?"

Peter didn't say a word, but he did his best to glare angrily at Reddy Fox. That glare wasn't much of a success, for Peter's eyes are too soft to ever look very angry. Reddy Fox

CHAPTER XXII.

The Problem is Solved.

Within an hour Garry Gresham appeared at headquarters in the company of Cartwright. The officer left the room and the three men were alone.

Gresham's manner was nervous, but he showed no fright. Leverage, regarding him keenly, found reason to doubt Carroll's positive statement that Gresham was the person who they sought. The young man stood facing them bravely, waiting—

"Gresham," said Carroll softly. "Your sister is in that room yonder. She read the afternoon paper—the report that I knew who killed Roland Warren. She immediately came here to give herself up."

"Yes, sir," said Gresham, his expression of utter bewilderment crossed young Gresham's face. Then he started forward angrily: "Why are you lying to me?"

"Easy, Gresham—easy there. I am not lying to you."

He saw Garry's eyes dart to the door behind which the sister was sheltered. "What did she give herself up for, Carroll?"

"For killing Roland Warren." Gresham took a firm grip on him—said, "She didn't do it," he stated positively.

"Oh, that's too much work. All that writing."

"Bring me your book and I'll see what you've learned. Let's see. Rights of citizens. Suffrage. What is meant by the Bill of Rights?"

"Oh, he won't ask us that. That's in the fine print. All I got to know is the big print. Ask me that."

What these young citizens need is the knowledge that work is bound up in anything that they will ever hope to accomplish. Work that demands a steady, close application to the job in hand until it is finished. Work that calls for a bent back and a nose pointed toward the center of interest, and held there until the last move is made and the answer stands out clean and clear whether it is an equation cleared or a patch of potatoes hoed.

If the youngsters have left school this June with a glossed over job and the flowery bed idea, can't you dig up a job for them that will point them toward honest-to-goodness work? Vacation need not be empty. (Copyright, 1923, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

DARK DIPLOMACY.

By Martha McCulloch-Williams.

Blurred through the hush of August afternoon came Aunt Priscilla's drone:

"Zaccheus he, did climb a tree, His Lord and Mars-ter for to see!"

over and over until the reiteration became unbearable. Richie Fair had listened frowning until patience, worn threadbare, snapped. She sprang up, stamped her small foot, and cried through the window: "If you don't change that tune, Mammy, I'll come out there and murder you!"

"I ain't no-ways 'feared," Priscilla retorted. "You caint spaur me—not ontwell you're safe married. Who else in all de worl' gwine bake cake an' make later custards, and cheese-cakes, an' cooks tukkey, an' hams an' things, fitten for de President, er eben de King?"

"Now—my Lawd in heaben! yo' po' pappy don't git no peace ob his life, wid all de runnin' back and fo'th; all de time he's gwine eatin' de same ole fodder, all de scalawags warin' out his fine Turkey carpets, and habbin' ter tell sombody two-three times er week, 'No! You caint! You caint! You caint! I hope, an' I ain't got de heart to let ye try ter do your past mortal man; make her know what she wants and how she want it fer a week, much less a life-time."

"What's been telling you?" Richie demanded giggling. Through the window she saw mammy's plump shoulders heaving. Tilts such as this brought joy to both of them.

But her question was for so long unanswered she went on impatiently: "I reckon you're trying to make me say something hateful, so you'll have excuse not to make me the finest basket of all at the reunion. How'd you like it if I said I wouldn't take any at all? I've a great mind not to take a scrap to eat when I can go with—anybody I please."

"Speech you'll please ter ride wid Tom-Bob Wimberly," mammy commented serenely. "An' I lay he won't go dar widout good ratings. Wants um ter match dat dar fine new kyar he done bought him. All I got ter do is tell him: 'Marse Tom-Bob I done sign my han' ter de be dinner ever went ter dis here reunition crowd'—an' he'll take all I fetch out—an' glad er de chance."

"Umph-huh! But I'm goin' with Pete Mason—one of the family—his great-grandmammy was a half-Fair, he says," from Richie exultantly.

"Be mo'n two words ter dat bargain," mammy said, dropping the knife with which she was peeling fruit for drying and wadding within. "Yo pappy'll bust up de whole combination rudder'n to hab you ride up in de face ob all yo kin wid dat dar sculaway."

"He won't know it—in time," Richie pouted. Mammy grunted: "I knows. Leverage enough," then softening, "Babe, don't you go be ugly. Liest at me. Pete Mason got a fine outside—dat I ain't denyin'—but inside he's a rotten egg. You better trust yourself wid him I'll telegraph Marse Tom-Bob ter shoot him. Dis ain't foolin' needer—hit's de word wid the mark on it. So you be good."

"I wouldn't now, not even if I wanted to," Richie cried defiantly. "I'll go with him, dance with him—all the time if I feel like it—and snap my fingers at all the Fairs and Conways and Partridges, and all the rest if they want to look cross-eyed over me."

"Pears like you was bawmed ter make trouble," mammy said, sighing, but her eyes twinkled knowingly once she was outside.

The reunion was the occasion of seven counties in that it brought together yearly the widespread descendants of three pioneer strains that had come a hundred years back from the southern seaboard to settle in the blue grass.

A clannish lot—to be of the blood, was a letter of social credit—and much more if you did honor to the blood. Pete Mason had a fine presence, the outer seeming of a gentleman, also money in both pockets and a charming knack of spending it without ostentation.

Coming from the far southwest, he had been accepted—with reservation—because of that Fair great-grandmother. Charles Richard Fair, father of a wilful daughter, had rather stressed the reservations—all the more possibly for realizing Mason's surface charm. So far he had said nothing to his daughter—time enough to speak when he had tangible cause. His life centered on her—she had cost him her mother—naturally her marriage was a matter of moment.

Young Wimberly had all three strains of the blood, if he lacked the name. He was, moreover, a country gentleman—born to yawn, saying Col. Richard yearned to have him succeed himself as master of Fairways.

Richie went early to bed, pleading headache. She was hardly upstairs before Mammy signalled her employer that she must speak with him privately.

Obediently he followed her to the bottom of the big garden. Even there they talked in whispers, save that once or twice the colonel swore aloud. Mammy soothed him, saying in her huskiest undertone: "Nawber, you mind, Marse Dick. Leave all dis matter ter me. And you sleep easy. I know de ropes, bet'en I does de feller days gwine tie."

Next day was perfect reunion weather—all roads leading to the grove where shade of primeval trees within sound of big, booming spring tinkling down from a gray bluff was early thronged with merry-makers.

Yet Richie sat upon the piazza, hatless, knees crossed, waiting for the first glimpse of Mammy hovering in the background. "I wouldn't go at all, only it is sinful to waste victuals, and I know you've got enough to feed half the crowd."

"Marse Dick done tooked de basket," Mammy flung back.

Richie smiled wickedly. "So he dared to go and leave me waiting here for Pete. I call that the right thing for a well-trained parent. You may wait to see me start if you like. Pete's car is bran-new, shiny, and the finest in the country."

An hour passed. Richie began to fidget. She wanted to be late enough to make her arrival a sensation, but not so late as to be smothered in the ruck of the tag-rag-and-bobtail from everywhere.

Once she started to the telephone, but paused half way, and flung herself down upon the broad hall divan, saying pettishly: "Mammy! I believe I'm hungry. Get me something please—"

"Spect you nebber eat 'er bite of breakfuss," Mammy commented, but without stirring from her seat on the front steps. Distantly came the humming of a car driven at speed; Richie smiled exultantly. "Mammy! I believe I'm hungry. Get me something please—"

STATES SOMEONE DODGING QUESTION OF CIVIC SALARIES

Alderman May Urges Board of Works Settle Matter
Immediately.

URGE PAVING PLAN

After a careful survey of the situation, Ald. John May has concluded that "someone is trying to dodge the city hall salary question."
Picking up the gauntlet at a session of the board of works yesterday, Mayor Wenigke wanted to know why any person would desire to evade the issue.
"Well, why not discuss salaries now, then?" persisted Ald. May as his colleagues moved for the exits. "What has been done?"
"Nothing," elucidated the mayor, and Ald. May opined "that's just the trouble. I understood that it was ruled at the last council meeting that

These are the days when thrifty people (that means everybody) will welcome the fine new soda fountain, which has been installed at the New Service Lunch, 363 Richmond street. Cold drinks, sodas and sundae of every description are on the list. Provision has also been made whereby the ladies will be cordially received. The fountain, like the restaurant, is open for business at all hours.

APPOINTED SECRETARY
Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, July 10.—George Clarke of Toronto was appointed executive secretary of the Big Brother Association at a meeting of directors here today.

each committee would deal with those employees under their supervision.
"I have seen no recommendations yet from the heads of departments," asserted Mayor Wenigke. "And you want to remember that you have only a limited amount at your disposal for this purpose."
Some Up Sleeve.
"Well, you have some up your sleeve yet," the mayor was informed. "But you had better exercise caution. One of these hot nights you are going to take off your coat, roll your sleeves and you'll be exposed."
"Well, this is not fair," countered Ald. May, obviously unwilling to jest about the matter. "It looks to me as though someone was trying to evade the question."
"Why, there is nothing on your agenda about salaries," challenged the mayor.

"But there is," corrected Ald. McKay, while Ald. May reminded that a report had been shelved earlier in the meeting because his worship had announced that a special session of department heads had been set for Thursday night to consider salaries.
Ald. Hayden thought it would be better to wait until after this conference when the committee would be in a better position to act upon recommendations. This advice was followed.

Urging Paving.
The members of the board of works, with but one exception, Ald. Frank McKay, are determined that the three paving projects shall not fail, Richmond, Oxford and Wellington streets, and they recommended that these jobs be sanctioned without delay with a two-thirds vote of the council.

"These are important thoroughfares," Mayor Wenigke warned. "And I do not want to retard the city's growth by holding up this work. The initiation bylaw was never meant for these cases."
"This should never be delayed," Ald. Hayden concurred, referring to the Oxford street job, because of the objection of one ratepayer.
Ald. Hayden contended further that the proposition had been misrepresented, while Ald. Watt explained that one party had been telling people that they would have to shoulder the street railway's share. A recommendation goes to the council that the work on these streets be undertaken immediately after a two-thirds majority of the aldermen have consented.

Will Inspect Trasties.
The committee sustained the action of Mayor Wenigke who, meeting recently with representatives of the Ontario Railway Board and the London Street Railway Company, agreed that the city should shoulder any expense incurred through any repairs necessary on one city bridge which links up with the street railway bridge. Engineers will inspect the railway trestles and the local company has agreed to do any work ordered.

The committee passed favorably upon a request for co-operation from the board of education, pertaining to the proposal to open up Belgrave avenue in South London and the purchase of additional property in the vicinity of the Tecumseh avenue school.

A strong deputation from the school board appeared; headed by Trustee Silverwood, who outlined the proposal. As Mayor Wenigke pointed out, there was one obstacle in the way at this moment, although the council would be willing to the question of finances.

Held in Trust.
The mayor believed that some arrangement could be made to hold in trust certain property that the board desires until 1924, and a special committee will confer with a special committee from the trustees and the city treasurer to determine what course to pursue.

Trustee Silverwood explained that the transaction and future school additions contemplated on the property would solve the public and high school situation in South London for many years to come.

The special recommendations from the special traffic committee, including notice of the proposed parking restrictions on Dundas and Richmond streets in the downtown area, were passed on to the council for final approval.

WHO WILL STEP DOWN TO GIVE DRURY SEAT?
Defeated and Elected U.F.O.
Members Will Decide
This Week.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 11.—Before the elected and defeated U. F. O. candidates meet in party caucus on July 26, the elected U. F. O. members of the Legislature will hold a meeting to decide which one of them will resign his seat to make an opening for Premier E. C. Drury, a Toronto paper announces.
The meeting scheduled for this week at the parliament buildings may take place today.

The news item continues:
"One of the defeated farmer members stated that the elected group is practically a unit in its desire to have Hon. E. C. Drury come back. The Legislature to lead them. Despite his downfall in the recent election they regard him as the real political Moses of the farmers of the province, and will recall him to the Legislature by the by-election route."

BOY IS BURNED TO DEATH IN MOTOR LAUNCH FIRE
Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—While the father and friends stood on a dock helpless to render assistance, Arnold Hall, 15 years old, was burned to death, following an explosion on a gasoline launch on the Red River here last night. While the men were making the launch fast to the dock, the boy returned to the cabin, the boat to stop the engine. He shut the gas off and immediately there was an explosion and the craft was completely enveloped in flames. The concussion hurled Richard Hall, father of the lad, and two friends on to the dock, all three sustaining slight injuries.

PREVENT GIRL JUMPING INTO NIAGARA RAPIDS
Jennie Campbell, Tillsonburg,
Caught While Climbing
Rail of Bridge.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Niagara Falls, July 11.—Caught as she was climbing the rail preparatory to throwing herself into the Niagara rapids above the falls, Jennie Campbell, aged 19, of Tillsonburg, was taken into custody yesterday across the river. Difference between her mother and herself was given as the reason for the young woman's act. At the police station she told the officers that her father and mother are separated, the father living in Pennsylvania and the mother in Tillsonburg; her home town. She is employed in domestic service in Buffalo, and was sent back there this afternoon in care of friends.

HUNDREDS SEEK TO ESCAPE HEAT AT SPRINGBANK

Brotherhood of Threshermen
Conducts Annual Outing
At River Park.

PICNICS NUMEROUS

Springbank was flooded with picnickers yesterday. Hundreds flocked to the park to seek relief from the oppressive heat, and the grounds were spotted here and there with groups of people enjoying the cooling breezes and glad to be away from the hot city.

The Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen held the largest picnic of the day, when over 300 people came from all over Western Ontario to attend. The feature event of this outing was the baseball game between two picked teams of the Western Ontario district. Middlesex played Lambton in a nine-inning game, and the former team won 13 to 8 after a hard-fought battle. The teams lined up as follows: Middlesex—E. McCallum, J. Lewis, R. Stuart, L. Lang, H. Chapman, G. Hicks, L. Chapman, R. Currie, D. Lewis; Lambton—A. Beatty, G. Brown, D. Thompson, E. Johnson, B. Johnson, L. Hartwick, I. McRoberts, H. Bodkin, G. Bliton. A full program of sports was arranged for young and old.

Following are the winners: Boys under 10, Lorne Drysdale, Glen Trace, B. Miller; girls under 10, Norma Chapman, M. Chapman, Norma Chapman, young ladies' race, Leyda Chapman, Iva Chapman, Mrs. Brown; young men's race, Harry Bodkin, I. Currie, Dap Thompson; married women's race, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Branton, Mrs. Bodkin; married men's race, Rupert Miller, Jim Drysdale, W. Chapman.

Mothers and Children Play.
The Wootley Road Mothers' Club spent an enjoyable afternoon at the park, when many mothers and children from London South attended their annual outing. The afternoon was spent in running of the sport events, in which more than 50 people entered. Shows were given by the children. Following are the winners in each of the events: Girls 8 and under, M. Finch; boys 8 and under, J. Prosser, M. Coates; boys 10 and under, A. Sharp, K. Coates; girls under 14, M. Smallman, E. Stevens; boys under 14, Jack Mowat, A. Sharp; married ladies' race, Mrs. Coates, Mrs. Dutton; clothspin race, Mrs. Finch and Mrs. Martin; relay race, Mrs. Coates and Mrs. Finch; Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Vollick; pop-drinking competition, Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Vollick; throwing the ball, Mrs. Vollick, Mrs. Finch; threading the needle, Mrs. Finch and Mrs. Martin; Prosser and Mrs. Patterson; men's race, Mr. Smith, Mr. Dorman.

The fourth annual reunion of the descendants of the late Humphrey, Anthony and James Braddon was held yesterday at Park. Over 75 members of this large family attended the picnic, and people came from such distances as Ohio to join the picnickers. The majority of the members of the family reside in this district. Rodney Dutton, St. Thomas and London all had representatives.

A large program of sports was held, and prizes were presented to the winners.

Many Contestants.
Following is the list: Boys under 7, Allen McArthur, Roy Allen, Allen Cornell; girls under 7, Edith Berry; boys under 12, Ken Berry, Charles Dorman, Clayton Silcox; girls under 12, M. Henry, M. Silcox, E. Littlejohn; boys under 15, C. Dorman, K. Berry, M. Henry, M. Silcox; boys over 15, C. Dorman, K. Berry, C. Silcox; girls over 15, Elsie Dorman, Gladys Dorman, Thelma Braddon; men over 18, Leonard Chapman, Charles Allen, Bert Braddon; clothspin race, George Braddon and Mrs. Silcox, Angus Braddon and Mrs. Dorman, W. Silcox and Mrs. Dorman.

Another largely attended picnic was that of the Ealing Mothers' Club. Races were held for the children, and lunch and supper in the round pavilion for the many picnickers.

Following are the winners in the sport events: Boys 13 to 16, George Hillier, M. Cannon, Ronald Boast; girls chum race, Phyllis Pierce, Alice Ayres, Rose Pierce; boys chum race, George Miles, Sydney Vorp, Bill Cannon, Ronald Boast, Stanley Burgess and Ronald Boast; married women's race, Mrs. Hampton, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Moat; girls under 5, Nellie Hill, Shirley Ayres, Vera Pierce; girls under 8, Lorraine Chapman; girls under 12, Elsie Halstead, Nora Markham, Rena Weston; boys under 12, Leonard Chapman, Charles Burgess, Cyril Moat; girls under 16, Rose Pierce, Phyllis Pierce, Violet Halstead.

DOES LONDON WANT A RIVER OR MERE DITCH?

WENIGE WANTS PEOPLE TO TAKE ANOTHER VOTE
ON NEW SPRINGBANK DAM

Mayor Says City Should Decide Soon Whether To Have Real River or Unsightly, Unhealthy Ditch Filled With Stones, Weeds and Rubbish.

BUCHANAN FAVORS ERECTION OF DAM

Mayor Wenige wants the people to have another opportunity next December to vote upon the proposed replacement of the Springbank dam. "We'll have to get this project under way," he asserted today, "and let the people vote again. Let us propose the proposition to them in a proper way. It behooves the city to do something with the River Thames. They should have another chance to say whether they want a real river or a big ditch filled with stones, weeds and rubbish."

E. V. Buchanan, when asked what the thought concerning the reconstruction of the dam at Springbank said: "I believe it would be a great asset to the city in that it would give the citizens a real river where they now have only a dry river bed and an unsightly accumulation of rubbish. The dam in my opinion should be built farther down the river in order that Springbank Park would share in the added beauty which the full flowing stream will give."

Asked whether he considered the building of the dam would result in any power economy over the use of Niagara power, he said, "No, there would only be 1,000 horse power developed and this, although it would operate the Springbank pumping station in the case of a temporary tie-up, would not be sufficient to warrant the public utilities commission in building such a dam for power purposes alone."

Might Build Power House. He added that in the event of the city deciding to rebuild the dam, the public utilities commission would feel justified in erecting a power house which would be generated by the dam, and that the electrical energy which could be generated by the dam would be able to work the pumps in an emergency would not be sufficient to warrant the capital and interest charges on an expenditure large enough to cover the cost of the dam and power station. It was decided in the 1920 probe in connection with the reconstruction of the old dam that no part of the wrecked structure could be used as the dam which washed away was incorrectly placed and of the wrong type for the vicinity.

The dam recommended by the engineers who reported on the matter is a hollow reinforced concrete dam with a large apron of concrete on the downstream side of the dam to prevent undermining from the overflow which at the time of freshets would rear over the entire width of the structure.

This type of dam although rather more costly than the old type, would be necessary as the river bed at this point is of a springy quicksand nature and calls for a dam with a footings which covers a large area with a great underbase to distribute the load or weight on the river bed.

Estimate of Cost.

The cost of such a dam as estimated in 1920, if erected in the same vicinity, would cost in the neighborhood of $224,610, the annual on which would have amounted at that time to $21,981.

If it was decided to include locks as part of the structure with the ultimate extension of building another dam in the future at Killworth to give a longer stretch of navigable water the cost on the initial dam would increase to $224,610.

These figures are reproduced from the "Live Wire," the official organ of the public utilities commission.

He added that in the event of the city deciding to rebuild the dam, the public utilities commission would feel justified in erecting a power house which would be generated by the dam, and that the electrical energy which could be generated by the dam would be able to work the pumps in an emergency would not be sufficient to warrant the capital and interest charges on an expenditure large

MINE OPERATORS
REFUSE TO GRANT
BIG WAGE BOOST

Willing To Give Anthracite Coal Miners Only Five-Cent Increase.

DEADLOCK REACHED

Workers Resent Attitude of the Owners, Who Also Refuse to Recognize Union.

Special to The Advertiser. Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Decision of the anthracite coal mine owners to stand pat on their refusal to recognize the United Mine Workers as a union and to grant only a 5 per cent wage increase, apparently has deadlocked the conference of miners and operators here today.

Recognition of the union is the first of eleven demands submitted by the miners as the basis for a new agreement to replace the agreement which expires Aug. 31. A wage increase is the second. When the bi-partisan committee, four of whom were chosen by the miners and four by the operators, renewed their session today they were still far from agreement on any one issue.

The miners declared they resented the prospect of being without beer and tobacco within the next few months. Owners of tobacco shops have announced that they will not buy anything smokable if the new tobacco tax—amounting to 10,000 per cent of the pre-war tax—goes into effect.

Some of the brewery workers have announced that they will stop making beer October 1 if the next 200 per cent tax goes into effect, at that time without alcohol. Some officials contend that the conditions laid down by a joint board of army and navy officers were favorable to the navy. While army officers, the ex-German battleship crew, Oest Friesland, they want to show the world that the battleship is obsolete in the face of aerial bombs.

Want Moving Targets. Moreover, the army airmen want moving targets. They do not want a storm of criticism after the test, with assertions that they sank stationary ships. Arrangements will be made to make the tests more towed. Plans are also being made to demonstrate the effectiveness of gas in connection with aerial bombing in the tests. Army officials are eager to test some of the huge modern aerial bombs, said to be the largest yet developed by any nation. These will include the 4,300-pound bomb, charged with 2,000 pounds of T. N. T.

In recent tests at Aberdeen, Maryland, it threw earth 1,000 feet in the air and tore a hole nineteen feet deep and of 65 feet diameter in the ground.

REAL DELILAH STEALS GOODS AS WELL AS HAIR

New York Merchant Victim of Clever Hoax Started by Beautiful Woman and Finished by Sturdy Barbers.

Special to The Advertiser. Newark, N. J., July 11.—A beautiful female raffles, with a Delilah finish, proved the undoing of a prominent Newark merchant, whose hair and purse are shorter today for her visit to this city.

Madame entered the merchant's store, sweeping in from her tailored limousine with an air that meant money to the merchant. Except that she did not realize whose money.

She brought $1,200 worth of expensive things. She had no money with her, but her husband was a short distance away at a hotel, where the merchant sent some one with the goods in Madame's limousine to receive payment from the spouse? The merchant would himself accompany her. They drove to a hotel barber shop entrance, where Madame explained her husband was just inside being shaved. She accompanied the merchant to the door. Two husky barbers seized him and forced him into a chair despite his protests. A third cut his hair vigorously.

The lady disappeared with the merchandise. It developed she had told the barbers she was bringing an eccentric relative, whose hair must be cut despite his protestations.

Workers and Store Owners Protest Enormity of Tax Imposed by Government and Refuse To Make and Buy Products.

By GEORGE WITTE. Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News, Copyright. Berlin, July 11.—Germany faces the prospect of being without beer and tobacco within the next few months. Owners of tobacco shops have announced that they will not buy anything smokable if the new tobacco tax—amounting to 10,000 per cent of the pre-war tax—goes into effect.

FIGHTS IN RUMANIA ON CANADIAN CHARGE

Nick Rutka Wanted for Welland Murder, Strongly Opposes Authorities.

Canadian Press Despatch. Welland, Ont., July 11.—Nick Rutka, wanted for the murder in Thorold last August of Adam Solton, is putting up a strong fight for his life in Rumania, where Rutka is being held at the request of the Canadian authorities. So strong is the defence being made that the evidence given before Magistrate Goodwin here has to be re-taken and forwarded to Rumania.

The photograph of Rutka has also to be re-identified, as his main defence, according to information received here, is that he was never in Thorold. Magistrate Goodwin yesterday commenced the re-taking of evidence and will conclude today. So far there has been no variation by the witnesses from their testimony given previously.

The photograph of the man held in Rumania was yesterday positively identified as one of the three who stabbed Solton to death. The other two, Nick Thomas and Harry Rutka, are now in Kingston Penitentiary, their death sentence having been commuted to life imprisonment.

Unearth Murder Done Century Ago

Montreal Coroner Rules Skelton Found Points to Crime.

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, July 11.—"That the death of this unknown man was probably due to a crime, committed about one hundred years ago, and that the criminal escaped from justice," was the verdict of Coroner McMahon given here yesterday on a skeleton found at Pointe Fortune last Wednesday on the farm of Adolphe Durocher. Investigations among the aged residents of Pointe Fortune brought to light an old story of a mysterious disappearance of a pedlar who had lodged at the farm-house 100 years ago and had never again been seen.

DROWNS IN HOLE. Canadian Press Despatch. Regina, Sask., July 11.—Trapped by an unsuspected hole in the bed of the swollen waters of Wascana Creek, Norris Beatty, aged twelve, was drowned yesterday and two companions narrowly escaped the same fate.

U. S. ARMY AIRMEN
ASSERT PLANES

Officials Seek To Make Bombing Tests Against Battleships.

OFF VIRGINIA CAPES

Dissatisfaction With Last Year's Experiment Prompts Request For New Trial.

Special to The Advertiser. Washington, July 11.—Another series of bombing tests to prove to the world that a fighting airplane can blow the modern man-o-war out of the water is being planned by army air service officials today.

Dissatisfaction with the tests off the Virginia Capes, which last year left the superiority of the battleship and the airplane a moot question, is largely responsible for the decision to hold new tests.

Strictly Army Show. It will be strictly an army show. Only army airmen will participate. The only function of the navy will be to manoeuvre the battleships Virginia and New Jersey, which the army will ask the navy to turn over under authority of an act of congress.

While the time and place have not yet been definitely determined, the tests are expected to be made in the latter part of August off the Virginia Capes. Langley Field as an operating base. The controversy over the former bombing tests still ripples with army air officials. Some officials contend the conditions laid down by a joint board of army and navy officers were favorable to the navy. While army officers, the ex-German battleship crew, Oest Friesland, they want to show the world that the battleship is obsolete in the face of aerial bombs.

ASK THAT PRINCESS BE RELEASED ON BAIL

London Friends Seek Liberty For Egyptian Noblewoman Held For Murder.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. London, July 11.—Friends of Princess Marie, held in jail here charged with the murder of her husband, Prince Ali Khamy Bey of Egypt, will attempt to obtain her release on bail if the tests. Army officials are eager to test some of the huge modern aerial bombs, said to be the largest yet developed by any nation. These will include the 4,300-pound bomb, charged with 2,000 pounds of T. N. T.

The princess was reported about to undergo an operation early this week and if an operation is necessary she will be compelled to content herself with a room in the prison hospital. The authorities do not seem willing to accede to the requests of the princess for special privileges. They have granted her only one concession. Yesterday when she was leaving the hotel for jail, she asked that she be permitted to ride in a taxicab instead of the Black Maria, and the police consented.

The inquest into the princess's death will be held tomorrow. It was learned that the princess embraced Mohammedanism to overcome objections of the prince's family who opposed the marriage on religious grounds.

WOULD REPEAL LAWS ON STATE PROHIBITION

American Legion Post in Detroit Calls For Popular Referendum.

Associated Press Despatch. Detroit, July 11.—A movement to repeal the state prohibition laws was started here last night when Charles A. Learned, post of the American Legion, the largest in Michigan, adopted a resolution expressing "unqualified opposition" to prohibition and demanding a popular referendum on the repeal of the dry amendment to the state constitution. Adoption of the resolution was virtually unanimous. The post has 2,000 members.

Regrets Promising Trade Should End So Soon—Will Protect All Sales.

Canadian Press Despatch. Sydney, N. S., July 11.—The British Empire Steel Corporation issued the following official statement last night:

American coal can be delivered at Montreal and ports in Ontario much more cheaply than Acadian coal can be sent by water, and so it is the intention of the corporation to protect its commitments by buying American coal to apply on contracts. Water shipments will, therefore, have to be discontinued from Pictou Landing and other dispositions made of the vessels now chartered for the Pictou Landing-Montreal trade, unless speedy resumption of work takes place at the Acadia collieries.

HUNDREDS GET HELP FROM TITANIC MONEY

Fund Still Supplies Wants of Dependents of Those Who Lost Lives.

Associated Press Despatch. London, July 11.—Seven hundred and twelve people are still receiving financial aid from the Titanic fund, says the public trustee in his annual report.

A subscription was raised by public contribution for use as a principal from which annual payments are made to dependents of passengers and members of the crew lost at the time of the sinking of the ship. It amounts to £220,813. The interest is distributed in pension payments to 104 dependents of passengers and 608 dependents of members of the crew.

The Lusitania fund totals £23,654, the proceeds from which go to care for 48 dependents of passengers. The £28,651 comprising the Empress of Ireland fund helps sustain 75 dependents of passengers and 132 of members of the crew.

THINKS WILLARD
ABLE TO SURVIVE
FIROO'S PUNCHES

Fair Play Gives Kansan Giant More Than Outside Chance.

FIROO IS FAVORED

But It Is Possible the ex-Champ Will Stage Surprise—In Splendid Condition.

By FAIR PLAY. Copyright.

New York, N. Y., July 11.—Jess Willard will enter the ring against Luis Firpo in Jersey City on Thursday night in splendid condition, a visit to Jess at Yonkers in which the big fellow's appearance and actions were carefully scrutinized and studied places the writer in a position to make this report to the fans of the country.

But, mind you, no man can look inside of a fighter and tell what is there. It will be well said that, outwardly, Jim Jeffries fooled even the shrewdest boxing critics when he was preparing to enter the ring and face Jack Johnson. It required a man like the late Mike Strykowski, the great University of Pennsylvania trainer, to tap the big Californian and make other tests which Mike's genius suggested in the process of discovering that Jeff was naught but an empty shell.

We could wish that there was some one like Mike Murphy today to go over the Pottawatomie Giant and pass opinion as to his fitness. But there was only one Mike Murphy. His like has not since been known. One who is under no obligation of any sort to any prize-fighter, and who has been.

Will Take Punches. Thus appraising Willard, the writer feels that he is fit to take the punches, which are coming to him. No prediction can be made as to how long he can stand up, but certainly he looks as though he will stand up longer than one of Firpo's most distinguished wallopers to send the big man to the mat.

Jess offered to present his stomach to the writer's foot. In other words, he offered to be kicked in the stomach. He was not put to the test, but he was serious.

Everyone associated with Willard says that Firpo will never hurt him with his famous body punches. That he must shoot to the jaw to do damage. Probably Firpo will reach the jaw, but the fight continues long enough. Firpo is no sharp-shooter, but the law of averages says that sooner or later he will get to the button.

But before this happens what will Jess do? Will he be as good as a gazelle, and never has been. But he won't have to be to land on the aggressive Argentine. I don't think that Willard can hit—he is a bruising hitter with both hands and has been. He has been said, Firpo's left is something to wave, not to do damage.

Willard can be hurt. Jack Dempsey showed that, but when Willard went to the floor at Toledo he was facing the greatest hitter of the era. He was at least that for the ring has ever seen. History records that Jess was hit and came up for more upon seven occasions in that first round at Toledo. What did this mean? Nothing other than that he is game as they come.

Firpo can hurt too. Remember when Joe Louis hit Jess on the jaw and sent him down for a six count in Newark alone? Remember that the writer was at the ringside that night and studied Firpo curiously as he recovered from his knock-out? Just as he recovered or cowed as he pulled himself together. His eyes glowed with the ferocious glare of a new bull, and you could hear his teeth grinding. In short, instead of cowering him on the floor, he knew how to infuriate him. If Willard stings Firpo Thursday night an exhibition of his own killing rage may be expected from the Pampas Rider. Jess' safety will be in doing something to stir up his opponent, and he has it in him to do just that.

TENDER GOOD WISHES TO DEPUTY GLADMAN

Members of Local Bar Congratulate New Deputy Police Magistrate.

As police court opened this morning with Deputy Magistrate Gladman on the bench, J. M. McEvoy, K.C., rose to his feet and tendered the new appointee the wishes of the members of the legal fraternity of the county on his appointment as deputy magistrate. He expressed the hope that Mr. Gladman, charged with the duty of working harmoniously together at all times.

In reply, the deputy magistrate stated he would do his utmost to uphold the traditions of the bench, and he was sure he would get able assistance from the lawyers.

The first case which was that of W. R. McDonald, charged with driving a motor car with the wrong markers on it. He stated that he was taking the car, which he had just sold, to a buyer who was going to get the new markers that he had taken them off his other car for the purpose of handing over the vehicle. Magistrate Gladman fined him $10 and costs.

Charged with the theft of bicycle accessories in the form of an electric battery and lamp, a youth of 18 pleaded guilty and will appear tomorrow for disposal.

The boy, who is the sole remaining member of a family of four children still living with the mother, created a favorable impression on the court, and evidence was given by his mother, who is a working woman, that he gave her all his wages every week. He had worked at the Murray Shoe company for several months, drawing $2 per week. He then went to McCormick's for more money, but was discharged when it was found that he could not do the work required.

The value of the fixtures stolen was $4, and they were found on the boy's wheel. They were produced in court none the worse for the owner's ownership, and will be returned to the owner.

The boy was allowed out on bail furnished by the mother. Magistrate Gladman being loth to confine him to jail, even for one day.

U. S. RAILROADS HANDLE
HEAVIEST FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, July 11.—Freight traffic during the week ending June 30 was the heaviest ever handled by United States railroads. The total number of cars loaded, the car service division of the American Railway Association reported today, was 1,021,770. The nearest total to this ever recorded previously came during a week in October, 1920, of the fall months, when fuel and crop movement is greatest, and amounted to 1,018,539 carloads.

PRESIDENT HARDING LEAVES TO TOUR INLAND ALASKA

Associated Press Despatch. Juneau, Alaska, July 11.—After a 24-hour stay at Alaska's capital, President Harding left here this morning on the troopship Henderson for the 600-mile voyage across the Gulf of Alaska.

The trip to Seward, where the president is to begin his tour of inland Alaska by railroad and highway that will bring him out again at Cordova, is expected to occupy three days.

TORONTO AUTOS CRASH,
THREE BADLY INJURED

Car Driven by H. Murray Collides With S. Wonders' Machine.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 11.—A motor car driven by Samuel John Wonders of St. John's road was badly smashed up, and its three occupants seriously injured, when it was hit in a terrific broadside collision, by another car, driven by Howard Murray of MacDonnell avenue, on the central lakeshore road at Stop 2, about 1:35 this morning. As a result of the impact, the car driven by Wonders was hurled fully twenty feet against the cement curbing on the south side of the street car tracks, breaking the left rear axle, and bending in the whole left side of the car.

The injured are Mrs. Samuel J. Wonders, aged 50 years; Samuel J. Wonders, aged 56, and Mrs. Victor Stephens, aged 37, of St. John's road. They are in St. Joseph's Hospital. The women are reported to be seriously hurt.

Howard Murray is being held by the police.

SOMETHING ABOUT LONDON LODGES

Tomorrow is July 12th; tomorrow is the anniversary of the most outstanding and important event in the history of Orangeism; tomorrow is the supreme day of days, when the Orange Order the wide world over celebrates the victory that gave birth to their order and courage to their resolution. All through the empire there is a program today, of sports and dances, of the quick march behind the fife and drums, and the procession of gaily colored banners with their mysterious cabalistic signs and their bright hued fringes.

The Orangemen of London and No. 1 district, together with the men in the county and all the brethren in Western Ontario, will make Chatham the city of their pilgrimage this year. Everything has been arranged for the happy and successful culmination of a year's hard work in the order, and if the weather man is indulgent and the sun shines with his usual jovial July smile, then this 1923 celebration in Chatham is destined to be the greatest of them all and to live in Orange memory as the glorious twelfth.

Special trains will leave London at nine in the morning, and the Orangemen are above all things home lovers and in love with their wives, all the fair ladies and the children will go along. The trains will be full, and it goes without saying, happy and jolly. In Chatham a program for the day has been drawn up that includes sports, band concerts, and games, baby shows, and all the rest of the contests that from time immemorial have been associated with the order.

Of the Orange Order in general volumes could and have been written of the Orangemen in London and the district there is a story tale that only awaits the telling.

Englishmen. The lodge does not meet in July or August, and, unlike all the other lodges, does not march in any Orange parade as a lodge. Pro Patria has an orchestra and one or two lecturers and speakers who do a great deal of work in connection with the order in the winter months. The lodge is essentially a social club. They have a ball team which has far more success than they own under the careful management of I. Thomas. Pro Patria also has the honor of being the only lodge in the district to have sent a cablegram of condolence to the widow of Brig-Gen. Wilson, when the general was shot in England, and her reply of thanks, "dorns the walls of the lodge rooms."

The title of the lodge is also the crest motto of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and the essence of the spirit which animates all the members of this lodge. The Rev. Roy D. Mess, was the first master of Pro Patria, a returned man, and the present master is Roy T. McLeod, also a returned man. The deputy master is Gordon Scott.

LANGEMARK LODGE. Then there is Langemark, a lodge whose name comes from the town in Flanders, where many a sturdy Orangeman lies, and which was at one time the center of operations in the Great War. The lodge was organized in 1915 in the old Egerton Street Baptist Church. The Rev. Capt. W. C. Riddiford being the first master. The lodge has an original membership of eleven, which has increased until today Langemark is one of the largest Orange lodges in the district. The lodge is in their own hall on the corner of Laird street and Dracena avenue. The present worshipful master is H. C. Barnes, and the recording secretary is J. G. Spirling. The lodge won the Orange carpet ball cup in the last two competitions, and is now leading in the Orange League. The lodge has a very enthusiastic leadership of Bro. George Potter. Among the prominent men who are members of Langemark are: Bro. G. B. Drak, Harry Winnett, ex-Ald. Fred Watkinson, and the Rev. Capt. W. C. Riddiford. There are two ladies' lodges in the district, Langemark L. O. E. A. and Edith Cavell Lodge. The first lodge is an active and vigorous organization, which meets in the Langemark hall, and is affiliated with the Orange Order. They were organized in April, 1917, and at present have a membership of over two hundred. They have one of the best degree teams in Canada. Mrs. Annie Owen is the present mistress. Edith Cavell Lodge, the other ladies' lodge, named after the heroine who was brutally murdered by the Germans in Brussels, was formed in June, 1918, with a small membership. Mrs. G. Burridge being the first worthy mistress. At the present time there are over one hundred members, and Mrs. A. Cross is the worshipful mistress.

AHOGHILL, 230. The oldest Orange lodge in the district is Ahoghill, 230, which was opened in 1850. Not only is it one of the oldest lodges in the district, but there are very few in Canada that can boast of an older foundation. Ahoghill—it takes a Scot or a north of Ireland man to give the name its full value, and they call it "hoche" with a real good "hoche"—owns its own hall in the north end of the city, and has been enlarged several times during its vigorous history, in 1880, 1890 and in 1912.

The name, which is the most unusual one, is derived from the little town of the same name in County Antrim, Ireland. The banner carried by the lodge has on one side a painting of the Rev. George Walker, the famous hero of the siege of Londonderry, and on the reverse side a picture of King William crossing the Boyne. This banner was made in Scotland and presented to the lodge by Mrs. F. Walker, a lineal descendant of the hero of Londonderry, and a member of an Orange family that has all a proud history, and is closely identified with this old lodge.

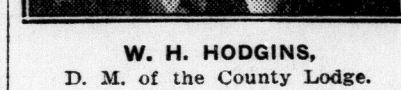

On the walls of the lodge rooms hang many historical pictures of battles fought in defense of the Empire, and some very rare and extremely interesting old relics, in a number of Orange certificates more than a century old. The present worshipful master, Bro. Todd, presented the lodge last year with handsome framed portraits of the late King Edward and the present sovereign, and a Queen Mary. There is also a fine bronze tablet on the walls bearing the names of the members of the lodge who gave their lives in the Great War.

The officers of this great old lodge for 1923 are:

W. M.—J. H. Todd.
I. P. M.—T. H. Hueston.
Treasurer—James Fleming.
Chaplain—H. Henry.
Honorary Chaplain—Rev. H. B. Ashby.
Financial Secretary—E. L. Hueston.
Recording Secretary—J. E. Worrall.
Director of Ceremonies—Earl Holmes.
First Lecturer—William Prevo.
Second Lecturer—E. Simpson.

PRO PATRIA LODGE. From the oldest lodge, let us turn to the youngest, Pro Patria. This, the baby of the order in the district, has many distinctions. Starting in 1922 with twelve members, it has increased to upwards of fifty. It is a lodge that does not advertise, believing that the best interests of the order are most successfully served by quiet and earnest endeavor. A long roll and a large membership have never been part of the lodge outlook, but they have chosen a wonderful group of men to fill the ranks.

Over 90 per cent of the members are returned men, and includes one D. S. O. and two D. C. M. winners. It is entirely a Canadian lodge, and has only five men born outside the Dominion, two Irishmen and three

Miss Mary Cullum Gave Her Name and Support to Many Lodges.

LIVED IN GUELPH
Organized First Ladies' Lodge in Hamilton on Dec. 5, 1886.

The following interview with Miss Mary Cullum, founder and for many years grand mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, is of special interest, telling as it does of the progress of that branch of the order.

Miss Cullum, who is widely known and respected by the members of the Orange Order throughout Canada, was born in the village of Alma, Wellington County, Ontario, the daughter of the late David Cullum, who, at the age of seven, emigrated in 1834, with his parents, to Canada from County Longford, Ireland. The family settled in Guelph, where Mr. Cullum was initiated into the Orange Order in the year 1849, with which he was actively connected until his death 45 years later. At the time of his death, in 1894, he was a member of L. O. L. No. 286, Hamilton, and of the Scarlet Chapter. The principles of Orangeism were early inculcated in the mind of Miss Cullum, and from her girlhood the organization of an Orange society for women was her greatest ambition.

She mentioned her idea to Mrs. John J. Tulk, now provincial grand mistress of British Columbia, who became immediately an enthusiastic ally, and together the two ladies set about the attainment of their aim.

First Meeting in Hamilton.

On Dec. 5, 1886, Mrs. Tulk sent out a notice (to which she signed Miss Cullum's name) to the members of L. O. L. No. 286, Hamilton, with the request that they have their wives and daughters attend a meeting on Dec. 12, in the evening, at the Hamilton street, for the purpose of organizing in the interests of Protestantism. A large number of ladies and prominent members of the L. O. L. were present, some of the ladies present being Mrs. John J. Tulk, Miss Mary Cullum, Miss Eva Cullum, Mrs. Elizabeth Cullum, Mrs. Jennie Gordon, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Weston, Mrs. Andrews, Miss Pearce and Mrs. Hoey. At this meeting the chief reason advanced for the founding of the organization was that there were many girls coming into the city from their country homes who had no friends in the city. It was thought that they would be glad to join a benevolent society composed of women of their own faith. After several addresses it was decided by unanimous vote to organize a ladies' Protestant society, and a committee was appointed, with power to formulate plans for adoption at the next meeting, which was called for January 12, 1887. County Master Richardson was present and informed the ladies that they could not organize a ladies' Orange lodge until authorized by the Grand Orange Lodge of British America. He advised them, however, to go ahead with their plans and call the organization by another name until they received permission from the grand lodge to make use of the title "Orange." This promise his whole-hearted support, as did several of the brethren present.

The Ladies' Protestant Association.

On January 12 a second meeting was held, when it was decided not to adopt the name of Orange until the permission and special recognition of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America had been obtained. In the meantime they were to be known as the Ladies' Protestant Association. At this meeting the election of officers took place. Miss Mary Cullum being elected president; Mrs. John J. Tulk, vice-president; Mrs. Cullum, chaplain, and Miss Eva Cullum, secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a ritual and constitution.

The first official act of the society was a petition to the Grand Orange Lodge of British America for recognition as the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association. The petition was endorsed successively by the primary, district, county and provincial lodges, but on its presentation to the Grand Lodge of B. A. at Goderich, in 1889, it was defeated by a large majority, and the society was refused recognition. Rev. George Worl then wrote Miss Cullum, asking her to organize in conjunction with and under the name of the Loyal True Blue Association. Miss Cullum was firm, however, in her desire to have her society officially recognized by the Grand Orange Lodge, and she refused the offer of Mr. Worl. In the fall of 1890, however, the ladies in 1890 again presented the petition to the Grand Orange Lodge, and this time it was moved by Bro.

Extracted From the Orange Seeds

What finer deed can there be than this, from the program of an Orange celebration: "I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good, therefore, that I can do or kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer it or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

The banner of the Star of Bethlehem Lodge contains a picture of the three wise men of the east following the star.

Both Nassau and the Star of Bethlehem have got pictures of the head and shoulders of King William, and have broken away from the usual figure on the triumphant horse.

On July 13, every year in Scarva, in County Down, Ireland, there is a sham battle between opposing forces of Orangemen representing the two armies that fought at the battle of the Boyne. Scarva is about 60 miles from Belfast, and there are always large and enthusiastic crowds to see the scrap. The two armies wear the old uniforms of the time of James and William, and the battle is quite a realistic affair, though they all join in "a wee doch nad doris" at the end of a perfect day.

In the council chamber in the city hall are the portraits of two Orangemen, mayors, E. T. Essery, the man who tore up the track as the London Street Railway laid them, and Francis Cornish, who was mayor longer than any other Londoner in 1861, 1862, 1863 and 1864. They were both past grand masters of the order, and had their full share of the fighting spirit that is part of the makeup of every genuine Orangeman.

Captain R. C. Riddiford, master of Langemarck, was presented with his master's jewel while on active service in France, and was the author of a rather unusual feat. He went through the Vatican on a sightseeing tour at the close of the war wearing this jewel, probably the only occasion on which the jewel of a master of an Orange lodge has been worn in the Vatican.

A well-known Orangeman in the city was in the trenches in France one famous July 12th. He was in the trenches, and things were very quiet. Everyone was joking and wondering what the Orangemen at home were doing. "I'll bet they are having more fun than we are," they said. Just then came a burst of shrapnel and the light of the usual star shells. This was followed by a row of rockets and the racket and roar of the most exuberant Orangemen. Next morning the Londoner met a fellow from Deconter, who was in the unit, and asked him what he thought of the glorious Twelfth that had just gone by. "Well," answered the Yankee, "I'm a member of an Orange lodge in Detroit, and I called the Martin Luther Lodge, but I'll tell you one thing if I ever get back it's going to be changed to something else. Those countrymen of Luther's who were shelling us last night were too unfriendly to make me want to belong to any lodge with a name like that."

William Nicholson, presiding grand master of Ontario West, who is alive today, seconded by Judge Fitzgerald, the immediate past grand master, that a committee be appointed to meet and go over the work with the ladies and decide "in their wisdom" whether it would be wise to give the ladies authority to go on with their work. This committee consisted of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, grand master, the late Robert Birmingham, grand secretary, Bro. Parkhill, grand treasurer, the Hon. W. N. Fitzgerald, and Bro. Nicholson.

In September of that year, in the Old District Hall, Hamilton, the committee met for consultation with the ladies, consisting of Mr. Broadeson, of London, a member of No. 2; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Tulk, Mr. John McKin- nish, and Miss Mary Cullum. At this meeting the ladies were granted the recognition of the grand lodge, and immediately assumed the title, "The Ladies' Loyal Orange Benevolent Association of British America." A few days later Mr. Clarke Wallace met Miss Cullum at the home of Mr. Alex. McKay, M.P., and there presented to her the warrant. At the annual meeting of the grand lodge at Kingston, in 1891, the action of the committee was ratified. By this time a constitution and ritual had been drafted, and on September 3, 1891, received the ratification of the M. W. G. M., N. Clarke Wallace.

UNION JACK HAS SPECIAL MEANING FOR ORANGEMEN

It Occupies Place at the Very Heart and Core of the Order.

FLAG KNOWLEDGE

How To Tell When It Is Carried Correctly in Orange Processions.

At the very heart and core of the order stands, or rather flies, the Union Jack. It is carried in many Orange processions, and some, alas, are flown upside down and are accordingly a signal of distress. This error is repeated year after year, unfortunately. Here is the way to know whether the Jack is being flown correctly:

If the length of the flag is less than twice its width, two of the points of the red diagonal cross are blunt and the other two sharp, where the St. George's Cross is superimposed. If the flag is correctly made, to start with (as these were in the parade), the error is repeated year after year, unfortunately. Here is the way to know whether the Jack is being flown correctly:

The old flag of England was simply the broad St. George's cross, red on a white field, with the cross of St. Andrew superimposed. When Ireland was united with Great Britain, the cross of St. Patrick, being red and diagonal on a white field, was superimposed over the cross of Scotland and reduced in width. The diagonals of the Irish cross are not in alignment with each other, and the narrow strips of white on the diagonal cross do not constitute a part of the flag proper, but are in accordance with a law of heraldry which the other two crosses follow. As the cross of St. George held priority it is thrown into greater prominence by a wide strip of white separating it from the other two crosses. A little study of the history of the flag is a good thing at this time. For it is indeed a flag worth knowing, and "The flag that braved a thousand years, The battle and the breeze?"

FOREST CITY LODGE.

Forest City Lodge is the only lodge in the city that has a uniformed band. In the church parade that was held last Sunday the band did a great deal to dispel the tired effect of an exceedingly hot sun, and made the long four miles' jaunt seem much shorter than it would otherwise have done.

The officers of Forest City, a very old lodge with some 125 members, are: W. M. Fred Wakeling; D. M. Percy Collins; chaplain, Brother Burgess; recording secretary, James Clugston; financial secretary, Frank Neely; treasurer, William Weems.

What the Orange Order In Canada Has Done

From the Orange Sentinel of July 3, 1923.

Taught its members the principles of sound government and the duties and responsibilities of citizenship, with the result that they have done their duty in every national and imperial crisis.

Provided in its constitution and organization a pattern for confederation of the Canadian provinces.

Taken an active interest in every great public question and contributed materially to Canadian progress and national stability by exercising a healthy influence in public life and training and inspiring its members for public service.

Was largely responsible for the adoption of public school laws in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island and in preventing the imposition of separate schools upon these provinces at confederation.

Exposed the inefficiency of the bilingual school system and prevented the French language from being given an unconstitutional status in the schools of Ontario.

Always championed the public school and the English language as the only means of assimilating new citizens and producing national unity. Prevented Dominion and Provincial governments from fastening racial and sectarian schools upon Manitoba.

Supported orphanages in all the provinces for the care of dependent Protestant children and, at a cost of thousands of dollars, rescued many Protestant children from Roman Catholic institutions.

Carried the appeal of Mrs. Tremblay to the privy council and, at a cost of $15,000 and a legal battle lasting eight years, secured a judgment from the highest tribunal in the empire to the effect that Canadian civil law is supreme and that the canon law of the Church of Rome has no legal status in this country.

Defended the open Bible, propagated the Protestant faith, promoted Christian living and good citizenship, and always stood for civil and religious freedom.

Lodge is one of the most energetic of them all and numbers about 200 members. The lodge was formed on January 20th, 1920, and started off with 100 charter members.

The officers for this year are: W. M. W. C. Clark; D. M. C. O. Smith; I. P. M. W. J. Wray; chaplain, Rev. F. Anderson; recording secretary, W. B. Orr; financial secretary, G. Morrison; assistant recording secretary, Percy Cooke; treasurer, Art Wilkes; director of ceremonies, E. Keam; first lecturer, H. H. Wild; second lecturer, Dr. McCutcheon.

THE ROYAL SCARLET.

Added to the ordinary lodge is the Royal Scarlet Chapter, founded by E. T. Essery who was the first worshipful companion in command. Past commanders and companions include, R. H. Smith, R. Brodson, S. H. Wood, Joseph Murray, A. Niven, Ernest Langford, G. Walker, and William Cross.

LONDON MAN HAS RELIC OF BOYNE OF GREAT VALUE

J. R. Craig Proud Owner of Shred of One of King James' Standards.

HOW HE GOT IT

Came From Cathedral in Derry and Was the Gift of Verger.

London has one unique distinction that is probably without its peer in North America and that is a piece of one of King James' Standards that flew before the king's troops at the Battle of the Boyne and was captured in the battle by the men under William and Schomberg. It's just a matter of two inches by three, just a little fawn colored, faded, thread-worn remnant of a bright and brilliantly-hued flag that inspired men to fight and give their lives in another war and in another age.

J. R. Craig of 880 Princess avenue is the proud possessor of the relic, and he gave The Advertiser the following account of the way in which it came into his possession.

"About 12 years ago," he said, "my brother-in-law was home on a holiday in North Ireland, and while in Derry came to be very good friends with the old verger of the cathedral. When the time came to leave, the old man, who had meanwhile taken a great fancy to my brother-in-law, said, 'Now, I'm going to give you a little remembrance that you can take back to Canada with you. It's a piece of one of the old flags that used to hang on the walls of the cathedral here and that was captured from William's men from James.'

"This old flag hung here for centuries and finally broke away from the pole and fell into the church. The British Museum authorities came across and took it back to their own place where they could take better care of it. However, here was quite a large piece, perhaps a square foot left hanging to the pole, and I took it off and have kept it ever since, and I am going to give it to you as a remembrance of Derry." So the old gentleman was as good as his word, and when my brother-in-law came back he gave it to me, and it was in a lock, which is perhaps a little careless."

Mr. Craig placed the tiny morsel of silk in an old lock, and carries it on his watch chain, and the most extraordinary thing is that, though he is tremendously enthusiastic over all things Orange, and all things that belong to the highest side of the order, he is not himself an Orangeman, even though he has in his possession a relic that most of the lodges in the country would give their whole resources to possess.

JOHN GUY OF WATERFORD INJURED IN FALL TO ROAD

Special to The Advertiser.

Waterford, July 11.—John Guy, a young foreigner, was thrown from his buggy Sunday evening and his head was badly cut, but he was conscious for 20 minutes. Dr. Teeter was called to the scene and removed him to his office, where he recovered enough to be taken home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and J. B. Savage and daughter motored to Burlington Monday.

Mr. Jack Meen and Mr. Cook of Toronto spent Sunday with T. C. Savage.

Inniskilling 834, Langemarck 936, and King Solomon 937. The black and white preceptories of the order make August 12th their great day, in the year and pay less attention to July 12th. August 12th is the anniversary of the relief of Londonderry and this year all the black preceptories will go to Sarnia to celebrate the occasion.

ONTARIO HAS ORANGE LODGES CENTURY OLD BUT YOUNG IN SPIRIT

Processions Contemplated as Early as 1826, and First Grand Lodge Met in Brockville in 1839—First "Sentinel" Approved in 1825.

LODGES OF THAT DAY STILL FLOURISH

The origin of the Orange Order in Upper Canada is deeply veiled. It seems certain to have originated in the early days of the 19th century, as processions were contemplated in 1826, and from the fact that, according to the report of the first meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, held in Brockville on January 1, 1830, there were 13 county lodges, and 11,242 members enrolled in the order. There were large settlements of Irish Protestants all over Ontario, particularly in the eastern portion of the province, and in Peel, Simcoe, and Halton Counties, and in the town of York, now Toronto, which was an early Orange center and still has a lodge in existence, Nassau No. 4, which was opened on September 16, 1831, while the city was still called York. English and Irish warrants were brought to Canada by many of the masters who migrated, and who, in the early days of Orangeism, were the custodians of the warrants.

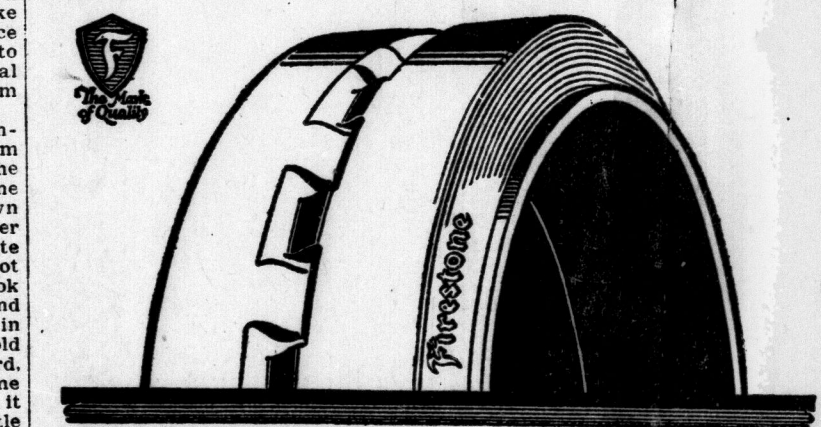

In November, 1829, there arrived in Montreal an Irishman named Ogilvie R. Gowan, native of County Wexford, who had, while a very young man, played a conspicuous part in the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland and in the Benevolent and Loyal Orange Institution, the latter of which had been in existence from 1825 to 1828, during which time the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland had gone out of existence, through the passing of what was known as the Algerine act. Ogilvie R. Gowan soon became a prominent figure in Canadian Orangeism and a leading member of the legislature. It was due largely to his executive ability that the Orange Association was organized into a powerful body in 1830.

The following was the number of Orangemen in the various counties in 1830: Dundas, 103; Grenville, 298; Leeds, 2,047; Carleton, 1,011; Lanark, 1,200; Frontenac, 801; Lennox and Addington, 84; Prince Edward, 111; Northumberland, 627; Durham, 1,950; York, 1,000; Simcoe, 601; and Halton, 1,117.

Under Lieut.-Col. Ogilvie R. Gowan, M.P., the order grew rapidly and lodges were formed all over Ontario. Nos. 4, 136, 137, 140, 213, 275, 291, 375, 387, in Toronto, and still going strong were organized before 1840. The first warrants issued by the Grand Lodge of British America were for the organization of two primary lodges in Brockville. Old No. 1, which was formed about the same time as the grand lodge, and is still doing business, started with Bro. Arthur McLean as W. master and 22 members. Old No. 1 held a celebration of its own on July 12, 1831. On July 4, 1831, Lodge No. 2 was instituted in Brockville, and Bro. Arthur McLean was the first master of this lodge also.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Traders Meet With But Slight Opposition From Buying Quarter.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

Wall Street, New York, July 11.—

Prices went somewhat lower again on the stock exchange today, but it was not the same sort of declining movement that characterized the last three weeks of June. In that period, the volume of trading was much heavier. It included a lot of real liquidation from over-burdened speculative positions. In addition to active professional selling, but today there was very little stock coming in from the public. Where prices went down it was because traders were encountering no effective opposition from the buying side. The common was driven down below 30, partly in further reflection of the decrease in unfilled orders which was so much larger than expected, and partly because of the proclamation by the American Federation of Labor that it intended to make another effort to unionize the steel mills.

That Cuban sugar had sold below 30 for the first time since the rise was checked two months ago, had not been appreciated at the close of the previous last night. This morning the sugar stocks were promptly offered down. The street quickly ignored the news, and the Cuban producers have disposed of three-quarters of their crop at good prices, and are satisfied with the price of their product. The refiners, with large stocks in their hands, are not at all being hit.

Baldwin Locomotive was one of the special subjects of attention from the bear element, but here there was no pretense of declining business. Orders in the books of the locomotive company are still at their peak, and there is no prospect of their being any let-up in the demand for cars and locomotives. Baldwin is simply a stock which can be manipulated very easily either up or down.

Among specialties General Asphalt made a new low record, and Mack Trucks was off 4 points from the Monday high. Selling of Burns Bros. issues was not resumed. Interests closely in touch with the company explained Tuesday's sharp decline as due to delayed liquidation of speculative accounts that had not been cleared up during the June decline.

WALL STREET FEATURES.

Miami Copper.—Word has just reached the street of important developments at the mines of the Miami Copper Company. The reports indicate that the company has struck perhaps the richest ore yet discovered on the property. It is the opinion of people who know most about the matter that it will be reflected in the price of the stock, and increased dividends, Miami pays $2 annually in dividends, and it is expected that the rate will be increased in August to $3.

The Sugar.—After yesterday's decline in the sugar stocks, further weakness was displayed today, and it was attributed quite generally to the conditions in the sugar industry. The trouble seems to be in the refined sugar market. There is reported to be only a small amount of sugar still on hand in Cuba, and the leading producers there said to have sold approximately three-quarters of their crop. However, refiners who bought rather heavily some time ago, and metted the raw product, have not been able to marketable refined sugar.

Nash Motors.—The publication of the Nash Motors report for the quarter ending May 31, and the declaration of a $2.50 dividend on the common stock, brought forth a strong rally. Well-informed quarters that in October or $6 on the junior stock, and in total for the year of $10 or $12. For the first half of the fiscal year net income amounted to $4,141,547.

Finished steel prices continue to be well held, apart from the concessions in reinforcing steel and hot-rolled steel, but buyers are watching closely the new relation of capacity and consumption, and are attaching more significance to the decline in pig iron, coke and scrap.

COURT REMANDS RYAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD

City Auto Mechanic Pleads Guilty to Falsely Obtaining Money.

Thomas Ryan, 659 Dufferin street, was remanded a week for sentence by Deputy Magistrate Gladman, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining money by false pretences.

Ryan, who is an automobile mechanic, issued a check on the Imperial Bank for $20, getting a local merchant to cash it. The check was returned marked "no account" and information was laid against Ryan. In court this morning he stated that he had an account in the Bank of Montreal and had intended crossing out the words, "Imperial Bank," and substituting "Bank of Montreal," but had forgotten to do so. He stated that when the check was issued he had $28 in the bank.

Inquiry at the bank brought forth the information that Ryan's balance at the time the check was issued was $17.44, and that since six weeks ago two checks for $20 had been refused payment by the bank. Restitution had been made for these.

You are just at the parting of the ways," declared the court, "and I think you must be made to realize it. You have, as far as can be ascertained, been a good citizen for 21 years you have lived in London, and have looked after your family well. Latterly, however, you seem to have been going downward and started drinking, causing you to neglect your home and business. There is no doubt but that you knew you did not have the funds to meet this check."

"I will remain you for a week for sentence, and if restitution is made inside that time, I will take that into consideration," concluded the magistrate.

TO GIVE INFORMATION ON POSTAL SERVICES

Department Issues Slides For Illustrated Talks.

In order that postal people might give illustrated talks to the public at young people's meetings and gatherings of business people, lantern slides showing different phases of post office work, and ways in which the public can co-operate and make better service possible, have been prepared, and the local postmaster is in possession of them now.

The views follow the course of a letter through the mails, and show the special services given by the post office, such as registration, insurance, C.O.D. and money order service. The desirability of co-operation on the part of the public is emphasized by slides of Post Office Directory service, dead letter service, inquiry wicket and suggestion box. Scenic views to illustrate the extent of Canada and the Canadian postal service will also be shown.

WILL RALLY RECRUITS FOR A COMPANY 26TH

It Is Proposed To Bring Unit To Strength and Drill Strenuously.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, July 11.—Recruiting has commenced for "A" company of the 26th Regiment, Middlesex Light Infantry, for the purpose of getting the company organized as an active unit. Under the direction of Major Allan McCabe and Capt. D. Campbell, it is proposed to recruit the company to strength and do thirty-six hours' drill this summer and fall. This drill will be done in the evenings.

"B" company, at Lucan, is being similarly organized under command of Capt. Duncan Ross, while "C" and "D" companies, which are at the Monks and Oneida reserves, are doing their quota of drill this week.

Col. O. L. Berdan of this town is in command of the 26th Regiment.

WARNS AGAINST RIDING BIKES ON SIDEWALK

Judge Warner Gives Good Advice to Three City Boys.

Several boys left the juvenile court and the presence of Judge Warner this morning with an added incentive toward a life of future law-abiding and peace. Suspended sentence hangs over their heads. A second trip to the court, other than a friendly visitation will mean that they will be obliged to separate themselves from a certain amount of coin of the realm.

Three of the lads were charged with riding bicycles on the sidewalk, but it appeared that all were conscious of the bylaw regarding this, and had merely made a convenience of the sidewalk for distances of about half a block in each case.

One of the boys had merely jumped on another fellow's wheel to ride to a nearby house and obtain baseball equipment.

In each case Judge Warner made plain the necessity of the city bylaw against the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk, and warned the boys that a second offence, or any evidence to indicate that the riding occurred with a deliberate disregard of municipal law, would not be dealt with lightly.

WEST MISSOURI PUPILS PICNIC ON SCHOOL LAWN

Students of School Section 6 Make Merry At Annual Outing.

Special to The Advertiser.

Thorndale, July 11.—Friday afternoon was a gala day in S. S. No. 6, West Missouri, when the teacher and pupils entertained the parents and friends at a picnic on the school lawn.

Then followed a peanut scramble in which all the pupils took part. A game of baseball between the boys and their fathers resulted in a victory for the boys. Lunch was served by the pupils, and a game of football was played. The proceeds of the booth amounted to $21.

POLICE DRAG POND; FIND RIMS AND TIRES

Spoiling of Chatham Romance Opens Way For Other Investigations.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, July 11.—When the irate father of a Chatham township girl sought the aid of the county police in locating Harry Vernon Hart, who eloped with his daughter on Thursday last, he little thought he was opening up a way for the police to investigate a series of alleged thefts of auto tires and rims.

Hart married the girl in Detroit on Thursday last, but was arrested by the Detroit police on a charge of attempting to evade the immigration laws of the United States, and together with his pretty wife, was arrested for the Kent county police on Sunday. They were brought to the city yesterday by a Kent county constable. Hart was lodged in jail, but his wife was returned to her people.

Acting on information supplied them, the police dragged a pond where the McCready farm in Harwich township this morning and secured a large number of automobile tires and rims which had been thrown there by the alleged thieves. The men implicated in the thefts are Jesse Wallace and Orville Otto. They will probably receive a preliminary hearing in the county police court to-morrow morning.

Alleges Noted Museums Bought Spurious Antiques

Jean Vigouroux, Charged in Parisian Court With Diversion of Funds, Makes Sensational Charges Against Employer.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, July 11.—The United States is heavily loaded with bogus "antiques" and the Louvre of Paris and the Metropolitan Museum in New York have been buying spurious pieces for years, Jean Vigouroux told the court yesterday at the opening of his trial on charges of diverting funds and art treasures, filed by the Parisian antiquarian George Joseph Demotte, whose New York branch was formerly managed by Vigouroux. The specific charges against Vigouroux are based on the alleged diversion of $7,000 of the branch's funds and the disappearance of Persian manuscripts valued at 1,000,000 francs, later recovered by M. Demotte. Vigouroux was arrested when he returned to France, as he claimed, to obtain justice.

Vigouroux denied any wrongdoing, offered explanations of the alleged irregularities, and turned the trial into a public denunciation of Demotte as "the world's greatest antique fakir."

NORWICH GIRL IS HURT IN BUFFALO ACCIDENT

Lorraine Palmer Has To Be Treated At Hospital After Auto Crash.

Special to The Advertiser.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 11.—Lorraine Palmer, 14 years old, of Norwich, Ont., Oxford County, was injured here last Sunday afternoon, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a machine driven by Charles Troy of 566 West Delavan avenue, this city. She was taken to the Lafayette General Hospital, where she was treated for a bad cut on the head. According to the police the automobile in which the girl was riding, driven by Miss Mary Anderson of 160 Leroy avenue here, with whom she is staying, was traveling south on Lincoln Boulevard in Delaware Park. The other machine was crashed into Miss Anderson's automobile, when Troy swerved to avoid striking a third machine, which had just turned from the curb.

FIRE DESTROYS PLANE AFTER BOLT STRIKES

Lightning Ignites Gasoline In Hydroplane Buckeye At Detroit.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, July 11.—Trees were bowled over, telephone and telegraph poles left poised precariously, and streets and cellars flooded by a severe lightning and rainstorm, which swept over the city at 1:40 this afternoon. Wind coming from the north reached a velocity of 42 miles an hour, and the temperature dropped from 91 to 69 in 10 minutes.

Women's Missionary Society Holds Successful Three Days' Convention.

Special to The Advertiser.

Rodney, July 10.—The fourth annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society, Canada branch, met in the Evangelical Church, Rodney, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. In the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. G. Burn, the convention was opened by Rev. C. Baker, returned missionary from China. There were delegates present from Kitchener, Waterloo, Elmira, New Hamburg, Tavistock, Crediton, Hanover, Bridgeport, Ayrton, Elmwood and Roseville. The first speaker was Mrs. E. H. Hight, president of the W. M. S. branch in Canada. Her theme was "Our Fourth Milestone," which she presented in a very able manner. Mrs. L. Lieberman of Detroit was in charge of the devotional phase of the convention.

The chief speaker was Rev. A. Gulliland, D.D., pastor of the Italian mission in Milwaukee. He gave three addresses, the first being on "Training for Citizenship." The second address was on "My Work Among the Italians," in which the speaker related his varied experiences during the years of his labors among these people.

The third address was given Sunday night—"My Life Story." Dr. Gulliland's words made a vivid impression on the minds of the delegates.

The Evangelical choir rendered excellent service, likewise the male quartet and the ladies' quartet. Inspiring solos were given by Mrs. A. H. G. Misteel of Waterloo.

At the close of the Friday evening service the "Anti-Cant" class of the local church presented a demonstration, "Two Ways of Doing It," which portrayed the contrast between interested and disinterested classes in the study of missions.

The hospitality of the people of Rodney extended to the visitors was much appreciated.

The officers for the Canada branch of the W. M. S. are: President, Mrs. F. Hight, Waterloo; first vice-president, Mrs. E. M. Graft, Hanover; corresponding secretary, Miss A. C. Bender, Kitchener; secretary young women's work, Mrs. A. K. Grassman, Waterloo.

Reward Bravery of Girl Who Prevented Bad Wreck

Canadian Press Despatch.

Englehart, Ont., July 10.—The waiting-room of the Englehart station was the scene of an interesting event today, when Miss Claudia Tennant, aged 14, of Krugerdyot, was officially recognized by Chairman George Lee of the T. & N. O. Commission for her presence of mind and bravery in connection with the escape of a T. & N. O. passenger train from what might have been a serious wreck.

The act for which Miss Tennant was presented with a solid gold Elgin watch, together with $25 in cash, occurred on May 10 last. At the time she was returning home from school on that date the girl noticed a broken rail on the T. & N. O. track near her home, and courageously stepped on the track and by waving her hat brought the train to a standstill. In appreciation of the girl's keen powers of observation, bravery and presence of mind, Chairman Lee presented her with a letter of commendation, while the gold watch and cash were presented by J. B. Stewart, supervising principal of the North Bay public schools, and E. H. Lowry, principal of McIntyre street public school, who happened to be accompanying Mr. Lee on his tour of inspection.

RED CROSS ENTERTAINS BYRON MEN AT PORT

Arranges Picnic On Invererie Heights For Patients At Sanatorium.

Almost 100 patients from the Byron Sanatorium were the guests of the visiting committee of the London Red Cross Society at a recent picnic at Port Stanley. Many of the men had never seen this summer resort, and were delighted with the treat which was tendered them there. Supper was served up on Invererie Heights, the men having been taken to the lakeside by special London and Port Stanley cars. Music furnished by their own orchestra helped to make the picnic pass merrily.

The energy of Mrs. Ronald Harris, president of the Red Cross Society, and Mrs. S. J. Ashplant, her visiting committee, as well as the generosity of citizens who donated cakes, etc., toward the supper, was largely responsible for the success of the picnic.

WEDDINGS

KEEBLE-THORNTON.

The marriage took place on Tuesday, June 26, of Jessie Muriel, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Thornton of Montreal, formerly of Chatham, to Mr. Edward Aubrey Keeble.

STEINHOFF-CAREY.

Monday afternoon a quiet wedding took place at Park street Methodist parsonage in Dufferin avenue, when Maude Gladys Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Carey of Oil Spr., and Mrs. Alfred E. Carey of Oil Spr., was united in marriage to Harry Alexander Steinhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Steinhoff of Moore Township. In the absence of Dr. H. W. Crews, pastor of the church, the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Marshall. After a wedding trip, and a honeymoon at Moore Township, the bride will reside at Moore Township.

BALLANTYNE-MIHILL.

Stratford, July 10.—Two of Stratford's most popular and best known young people were married this afternoon, Miss Frederica Mihill, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mihill, becoming the bride of Mr. P. J. Ballantyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ballantyne, London, the Rev. J. A. Shaw officiating.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, with only the immediate families of the young couple present. Miss Frederica Mihill, sister of the bride, played the wedding music. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in a gown of hazel georgette, and carried a bouquet of Ophelea roses.

At the close of the wedding luncheon, the happy couple left by motor for a short honeymoon, accompanied by the best wishes of their host of friends. On their return they will take up their residence at the Stratford Apartments.

THOMPSON-MACVICAR.

One of the prettiest summer weddings took place at the home of the bride's parents, when Katie Ann, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. MacVicar, was married to John Walter Thompson of Wilton Grove. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Stewart of Belmont Presbyterian Church. Only the immediate families were present.

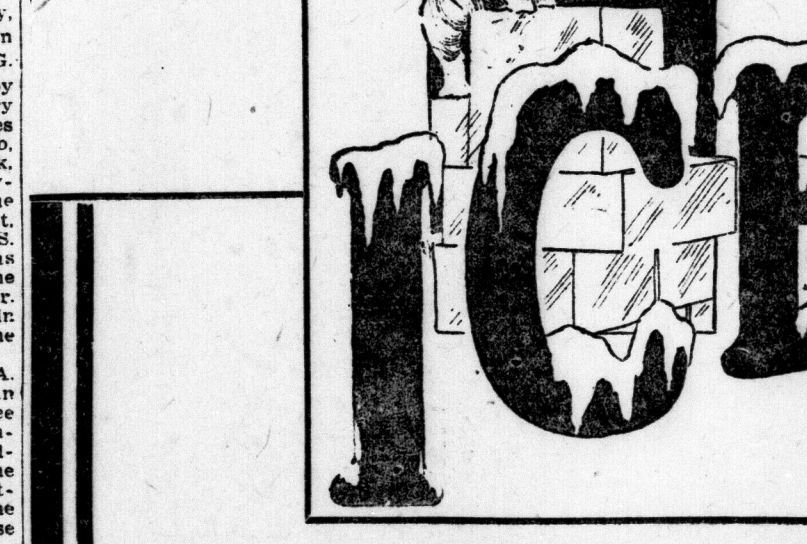

TO ENTERTAIN PATIENTS.

Miss Brennan, one of the vocational aides at the Westminster Hospital, is entertaining 27 of the patients at a picnic at Port Stanley. The visiting committee of the Red Cross Society is supplying cars to transfer the men to the lakeside.

Stage and Screen

Gone to England.

After the completion of her work in "The Woman With Four Faces," the last of her films under her Laskey contract, Betty Compson left for England, where she is to make four features in London under the direction of Graham Cutts. The first will be called "Woman to Woman." Miss Compson was a first violin soloist on the Pantalone circuit, then a Christie bathing girl, and then made her big hit in "The Miracle Man." Her Laskey contract was of two years duration.

"Three Weeks."

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has purchased the film rights to Elinore Glynn's novel, "Three Weeks." She will come from England to supervise the filming. Choice of the leading woman is said to hover between Theda Bara and Ellen Pringle.

Mantell in Movies.

Robert Mantell has signed to act the part of Cardinal Richelieu in "Under the Red Robe" for Cosmopolitan.

Brief Return to Stage.

Charles Ray has completed the filming of "The Counting of the Ways," and may spend a few months on the stage before starting a new picture.

A New Contract.

Helen Jerome Eddy has been signed to appear in a series of J. L. Prothro productions.

"Harbor Bar."

Thompson Buchanan is working at the screen adaptation of Peter B. Kyne's "Harbor Bar," which will be produced by Associated Artists.

To Screen Prize Play.

Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer prize play, "Ann Christie," will be screened by Ince.
