KING IN DUBLIN.

CHEERING CROWDS THROUGH ALL THE STREETS.

Hopes His Reign Will be Coincident With a New Era of Peace and Progress.

Dublin, July 23.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant, the Earl of Dudley, and Princess Victoria, their suites and other officials, drove from the viceregal lodge to the castle early yesterday. Crowds along the route greeted their Majesties with continuous cheering. The King received in the throne room a large number of deputations prior to the levee, which opened at noon.

King's Interest in Ireland.

Replying to the Dublin Citizens' Committee, the King said there was no part of his dominions in which he took greater interest than in Ireland. The Queen and himself had long been in sympathy with the movements tending to advance the social and material well-being of the community, and they hoped now to become acquainted with the conditions under which the people lived, and to learn what could be done to brighten the lot of the people.

Replying jointly to the other addresses, his Majesty said he rejoiced to hear of the awakened spirit of hope and enterprise among his Irish people, which was full of promise for the future. It would be a source of profound happiness to him if his reign was coincident with a new era of social peace and industrial and commercial progress for Ireland.

The King visited Trinity College, where he spoke briefly, saying he was proud his name was numbered on the rolls of the college which boasted of Swift, Berkeley, Burke and Grattan. The Queen, after presenting badges to the jubilee nurses, drove to Alexandra College.

In the meanwhile King Edward held a levee at the castle, which was attended by a great number of prominent people from all parts of Ireland. After the levee the King returned to the viceregal lodge, where he was joined by the Queen.

No Protection Needed.

It is understood that when arrangements were being made for the Irish tour King Edward resolutely refused to sanction the proposal of Scotland Yard to send a number of detectives. "I want no such protection," said the King; "all the protection I want I shall receive from the Irish people. On that point I am perfectly satisfied." Maude Gonne (Mrs. McBride) hung a black flag outside her residence yesterday in memory of the Pope, she said. It was pulled down by the police, whereupon Maude Gonne, supported by lady friends, hung out another black flag, and, arming themselves with pokers and boiling water, defied the police, who summoned reinforcements. But they made no further attempt to haul down the flag, which was again displayed to-day.

Senator Vidal Acquitted.

Ottawa, July 23.—The Privileges and Elections Committee of the Senate have found that Senator Vidal has not committed a violation of the independence of Parliament act. Although a building at Sarnia was leased to the Militia Department in that gentleman's name, he was merely trustee for Mr. A. R. T. Nesbit, and there has been no infringement of the act. In this report the Senate has concurred.

The Cunard Contract.

London, July 23.—It is announced that the Government has completed the agreement with the Cunard Steamship Company and that it will be shortly submitted to Parliament and the shareholders. It is understood that the Government will pay considerably over $5,000,000 for the construction of two additional steamers, and that the whole fleet of vessels will be at the Government's disposal as cruisers. The agreement provides for an improved Atlantic mail service.

China Refuses to Open Towns in Manchuria.

Peking, July 23.—Prince Ching, the President of the Foreign Office, has written to United States Minister Conger refusing to open towns in Manchuria. In his letter he dwells upon the impossibility of China opening to foreigners towns which are not in her possession, but which are held by Russian troops, and points out the complication which would be likely to follow. It is believed here, however, that a compromise may be reached by including one town—Tungtong—in the new commercial treaty.

DO THE WOMEN SWEAR?

HALIFAX MINISTER'S SENSATIONAL CHARGE.

Rev. W. J. Ancient Says They "Swear Like Troopers" on the Golf Links—Society People of the City Highly Indignant.

Halifax, July 23.—Halifax society women are in a flutter over sensational charges made by Rev. W. J. Ancient, Diocesan Secretary of the Anglican Synod, in a sermon preached at St. Luke's Cathedral, the fashionable Anglican church of Halifax, on Sunday night. Mr. Ancient said he was informed that women, he was going to say ladies, who come to church and approached the holy communion with all appearance of sincerity and humility, went on the golf links the next day and swore like troopers. There was a titter said the preacher, when a gentleman, forgetting himself, and using profanity in the presence of a lady, would instantly apologize in the most humble manner. "What are we to expect of the men now," said the preacher, "when the women look upon profanity as the correct thing?" The Halifax Golf Club is one of the most exclusive institutions, and numbers among its members many prominent in the smart set of this city, as well as in army and navy circles. Several of its members belong to St. Luke's, and the preacher's charges have made a great sensation.

The lady golfers are highly indignant, and yesterday a delegation from them waited upon Mr. Ancient and demanded a retraction. This Mr. Ancient declined to make, and reiterated what he had stated in his sermon. In an interview later he further stated that Ven. Dean Gilpin had told him that ladies not only swore, but smoked, on the golf links.

The affair has caused a lively sensation, and the golf club will take official action to secure the vindication of their lady members, who indignantly deny the preacher's aspersions. Mr. Ancient, however, is not likely to abandon his guns. He has at all times the courage of his convictions, and has a record for heroism of which any man might be proud.

At the memorable wreck of the White Star liner Atlantic, off Sarnia, in 1873, Mr. Ancient rendered heroic service in saving the drowning, swimming out to the wreck with a lifeline, and was thus the means of rescuing many lives. The outcome is likely to be interesting.

RICHARDSON COMMITTED.

To be Tried at Sandwich For Matthews' Murder.

Windsor, July 22.—The preliminary hearing in the case of Oliver Richardson of Colchester township, charged with the murder of Edmund Matthews, colored, was held before Magistrate Bartlett. The court room was crowded with a curious throng, who listened to a repetition of the testimony introduced at the coroner's inquest. The only witnesses examined were Dr. McKenzie and Joe Matthews, son of the dead man. Richardson was committed for trial at the High Court in Sandwich in September.

He surprised his comrades by turning up at Cape Town when he made his escape from the Boers. Deceased belonged to Fredricton, N. S., where he leaves a wife and child.

The action of P. S. Evans of Windsor against some of the directors of the Canada Cycle & Motor Company was dismissed.

PUPILS WHO HAVE PASSED

Results of the Kent County Public School Leaving Examinations.

A Valuable Factor in Educational Work—Splendid Showing of Candidates.

The County Board of Examiners has been engaged in making up the results of the P. S. L. examinations and the outcome cannot fail to be most gratifying to everyone concerned. Those having the necessary standing, one-third on each subject and fifty per cent. of the total, as required for the Departmental Examinations, were found to be much more numerous than expected—194 out of 238. This examination has had a wonderful effect in stimulating the teachers of this County and their advanced pupils in doing the work of the Fifth Form and thus securing to the pupils before leaving school a more intimate and practical knowledge of their school work, and such as should prevent their early training from passing out of their minds after a few years spent out of school. That so large a number should present themselves for examination is a guarantee of the extent to which this most important part of the Public school curriculum is being taught in the County and the educational advantages resulting from this action on the part of the Board of Education and of the County Council are most important and far reaching. The County grant to the schools from which the successful candidates come will be considerably larger, far beyond that of any preceding year but the impetus given to the work of the Public schools would be cheaply acquired were the amount four times as large. It is safe to say that no County in the Province can show any day and substantial results found in the County of Kent. The work of the candidates was closely and carefully read and was found to be, upon the whole, excellent, reflecting the highest credit upon both pupils and teachers. The following are the lists of successful candidates at the various centres:

KILLED BY A HORSE

Wallaceburg, July 23.—A very sad accident occurred in Sombra Township on Tuesday last, when Roy Swift, son of James Swift, of Lot 6, Con. 15, while taking the halter from a horse received a blow from its foot just above the stomach, also receiving bruises on his arm, and died in about 15 minutes.

The lad, who was 13 years of age, evidently did not think that it was serious, as he told his brother, who standing near, that he would be all right in a short time. In a few minutes, however, he became unconscious and his death occurred about 15 minutes after. A father and three brothers are left to mourn his loss. The funeral took place to-day from his father's residence to the Mooretown cemetery.

HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

Figures Showing the Prosperity of the West.

Winnipeg, July 23.—Homestead entries made in the Canadian northwest for the year ending June 30, 1903, number 31,002, as compared with 14,289 for the year ending June 30, 1902, an increase of 16,712. These figures speak eloquently of the development of western Canada, and show the result of the bold and progressive immigration policy adopted by the Department of the Interior. The figures for June, 1903, show 6,644 entries, compared with 3,449 for the corresponding month of last year, an increase of 3,195. These latter figures prove that there is no decrease in the tide of immigration which is flowing into western Canada.

EXTORTION MONEY.

Wrung From Builders and Contractors by Unions.

New York, July 23.—Before Judge Newburger in General Sessions the taking of testimony began in the trial of Lawrence Murphy, former Treasurer of the Journeymen Stonecutters' Association, for grand larceny, in the theft of all the funds of the association, amounting to $12,704. The Evening Post says: "It developed in the trial of the former Treasurer of the Journeymen Stonecutters' Association for grand larceny to-day that his counsel will put in the defence that the funds he is charged with stealing were not legitimate dues and fines of the organization, but extortion money, wrung from builders and contractors under threat. Questions were put by defendant's counsel to make it appear that counsel was in possession of information that in the last year over $50,000 had been paid to unions in this city by bosses and employers for fines, assessments and 'extortions'."

THURSDAY, JULY 23.

POPE LEO XIII.

The death of Leo XIII. removes one of the most remarkable men of his time. or, of any time, points out the Woodstock Express. Since his illness began and during that wonderful struggle for life which has just ended, testimonies have appeared from all quarters of the globe, to his greatness and his goodness. For weeks the eyes of the whole world have been turned upon that impressive deathbed scene. From the most unlikely sources, from people who have no sympathy with the claims of the Papacy and no liking for the Roman Catholic church, have come the most genuine tributes to the dead Pope's greatness as a churchman and his goodness as a Christian gentleman.

When Pope Leo XIII. came to the chair of St. Peter in 1878 he found many tasks awaiting him. His predecessor a short time before had been shorn of his temporal power; there was trouble between the Vatican and France—nothing unusual, by the way—the relations with Germany were strained, and there were grave ecclesiastical difficulties in Belgium. Leo was little better than an invalid; it appeared that he would not have strength to cope with all the antagonistic forces that were at work, and the prophecies were plentiful that the influence of the Pope's person and of the institutions and traditions he represented would soon disappear also from the politics of the world. But it did not take Leo long to show the prophets that they had miscalculated from the beginning. One by one the difficulties began to disappear. Even Bismarck admitted that he had met his match in diplomacy. In France, notwithstanding all the provocations of the anti-clerical campaigns, the Pope maintained his friendly relations with the French president. In Great Britain he displayed the most commendable tact in many very trying and delicate situations complicated by the politics of Ireland. In all his dealings with all people he showed the same spirit of gentleness, patience, conciliation and perseverance. Before many years the Papacy was one of the great factors in the world's politics, and it is not too much to say that under Leo's guidance it began to exert an influence it had not enjoyed for centuries—it may be doubted if any other Pope ever wielded the influence possessed by Leo XIII. When he spoke the greater part of the Christian world listened with attention. He did not speak to Roman Catholics alone. His pronouncements were read with interest by students of current events of all races and creeds.

Leo will be remembered not merely as a statesman and as one of the greatest of all Popes; the purity, the simplicity, the piety of his life will always be regarded as one of his greatest legacies to his church. He was a statesman, a great churchman, a finished scholar, and a poet of no mean ability; but above all he was a good man, earnest, simple and humble. He found the Papacy lower in the estimation of the world than it had been for many years; without the prestige of temporal power, with nothing but his own zeal, his own moral force and his genius for diplomacy, he raised it to a point of influence as high at least as it had ever reached before. All this he did without the aid of army or navy, sword or gun. He did more; he extended his lines without exciting jealousy or enmity; he built up the power of the Papacy and at the same time allayed the fears and suspicions that were more or less pronounced throughout the non-Catholic world; he became one of the most prominent men of the world in his day, and remained one of the most humble.

It is not very reassuring to learn that it has been considered necessary to appoint a royal commission to ascertain the cause of degeneration among the school children of London, Eng. According to a report of the London school board, two per cent. of the pupils are so deficient as to be unteachable; 10 per cent. have so defective eyesight that they are thrown back in their work, and 10 per cent. hearing is seriously defective, and one per cent. have defects in their ears, which lead to a fatal result. Classes have been opened in sixty-one centres for feeble-minded children, while the percentage of actual imbeciles has grown so that the asylum accommodations at present available are entirely insufficient. Early marriages, under-feeding, drunken parents, bad air and neglect are mentioned as causes of this terrible state of affairs.

ning for Pope. If such a distinction should come to the United States, the eagle would shriek itself black in the face and perhaps die of apoplexy.

PREMATURE JOY.

Ottawa Citizen.
Our esteemed friend Mr. Smith, of the Bobcaygeon Independent, will be heartbroken. Some weeks ago he detected with delight the first symptom of army reform in Great Britain as a result of the lessons of the recent terrible war which robbed the empire of so many thousand valuable lives. It was an order that in future white linen collars may be worn with the new undress frock coats, provided they do not show more than one-eighth of an inch above the regimental stock. Unfortunately Mr. Smith's congratulations were premature. Notification has now been issued by the war office that there has been a mistake. The order was not intended to be general, but to apply to the Seventh Hussars and Oxfordshire Light Infantry only.

THE SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

Officials Are Exiles and Criminals—Most Varied Callings Represented.

"Ever since the various sections of the Siberian Railway were thrown open to passenger traffic there have been," says The Engineer, "increasing complaints of robbery. Not only has passengers' luggage been rifled in the baggage vans, but there has been a great deal of robbery from ordinary goods in transit by goods trains. To these drawbacks must be added the many shortcomings in the management of the line, and the frequent cases of accidents and derailments. A Russian publicist, M. Sentyanin, has been inquiring into the education and moral worth of the staff employed on the line, and he has published some very interesting details referring to the staff in 1901. During that year there were employed about 18,000 officials and workmen on the Siberian Railway. In January 1902 officials were employed permanently, while two years before in 1898, only 5,004 were employed. The staff increases so rapidly every year, and the demand for officials is so great that it is impossible to maintain a high level of education or of moral worth among the aspirants for service to the line. M. Sentyanin was able to investigate the social value of 11,112 persons; of this number 2,341 were illiterate, 3,829 had had no proper school training, 4,376 had attended elementary schools, and only 123 had received a higher education. To the last category belonged chiefly the surgeons.

"Strange to say, the educational standing of an employee seems to have but very little influence upon the rate of pay. Thus, posts with a yearly salary of 3,600 rubles were held by illiterate persons; badly educated officials held many posts at a yearly wage of from 1,200 to 1,800 rubles, while 'university men' were being paid from 120 to 360 rubles a year. These latter were exiles, and they were appointed to posts on the Siberian Railway in 1901, and of that number the past life of 886 could be traced; 597 men had been banished for murder, robbery, and other violent deeds, and 24 for theft and forgery. These men are employed on the eastern sections of the line partly in the railway offices and partly as watchmen. Of late the taking of criminals into the service of the railway has been restricted, and some of those already employed have been dismissed. The most varied callings are found represented among the Siberian Railway officials. There are journeymen and artists, teachers, governesses, innkeepers, clerks, apothecaries, photographers, painters, organists, untroubled pastors, policemen, and gendarmes. The profession of literature is not represented, at least officially. Evil tongues maintain that there is a special reason for the absence of literary men on the staff of the Siberian Railway; a little time ago the heads of certain departments gave strict orders to their men that no details concerning the line were to be allowed to find their way into the press.

"European Russia furnishes the greater number of officials, as 84 per cent. were born there, while Siberia furnishes only 16 per cent. The subordinate posts are held by immigrants from the Eastern Governments, Perm, Orenburg, and Samara, and the higher posts by immigrants from Central and Western Russia. The distribution of the officials according to their capacity for work is curious. Thus, the better men, mainly former officials on the Samara and Zlatoust railways, were assigned to the West Siberian sections of the railway. Such men as proved to be failures were transferred eastward to the central sections of the line. If on these latter sections no employment could be found, and the demands of the railway authorities were extremely modest, then the seekers after work traveled again eastward to the Trans-Baikal and Manchurian Railways. Thus, the Siberian Railway became a route for tramps, who looked out for a chance to make a living somewhere along its great length."

Odd Pets of Sailors.

At the recent review before King Edward at Malta, the pet donkey of the British warship Bechamte marched in front of the men. A donkey is a rather bulky sort of pet, but probably no more troublesome than the pet deer of the British warship Terrible. The privileges of keeping pets is much appreciated by sailors, who lavish their spare time and some of their spare cash on strange animals. The British warship Centurion once had a monkey that used to eat with a spoon from a plate and drink from a glass with a dinner napkin tucked under his chin. Cats and dogs, of course, are common board ship. The French warship Marceau had a batman cock named Boulanger as a pet, which crowed whenever the guns were fired. The German Prinz Wilhelm had a grey stork, and the Chicago, of the American navy, had a pig. Doves, pigeons, blackbirds and peacocks are popular with Italian seamen, and the unfortunate Almirante Oquendo, of Spain, had a pair of cassowaries as pets.

Buttermilk a Liqueur Cure.

A buyer for one of the largest importing liquor houses in New York, who is compelled to sample enough wine and spirits every day to put an ordinary man out of business, says that buttermilk is his salvation. "I not only buy five or six glasses a day at the dairy restaurants or street stands," he says, "but I drink it all the time at home, instead of tea or coffee. I never touch beer, or anything like that. I keep a stone crock of buttermilk in the cellar and let it get just a little stale. It is better than if taken fresh. A man who insists on drinking liquor will find very little trouble if he takes plenty of buttermilk. If he wants to swear off buttermilk will help him. It is a splendid stomachic. Two quarts of good buttermilk a day will cure any case of nervous indigestion."

HANDICAPPED.

The man who started to run a race in chains and fetters would be visibly handicapped. No one would expect him to succeed. The man who runs the race of life when his digestive and nutritive organs are diseased is equally handicapped.

In the one case his strength is over-weighted, in the other it is under-mined. Success demands above all else a sound stomach. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. When this is done food is perfectly digested and assimilated and the body receives strength in the only way in which strength can be given—by the nutrition derived from digested and assimilated food.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen and ink. James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1234 1/2 Mifflin Street, Huntington, Pa., was taken with what our physicians here said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote to you and you sent me a question blank to fill out, and I did so, and you then advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped, being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, sent free on receipt of stamps to cover expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Activity of a Musician's Brain.

In the course of a lecture at a conference of musicians in Dublin, Ireland, some interesting particulars and some astonishing statistics were given relatively to the amount of work accomplished by the brain and nerves in piano playing. A pianist, in view of the present state of pianoforte playing, has to cultivate the eye to see about 1,500 signs in one minute, the fingers to make about 2,000 movements and the brain to receive and understand separately the 1,500 signs while it issues 2,000 orders. In playing Weber's "Moto Perpetuo" a pianist has to read 4,541 notes in a little under four minutes. This is about nineteen per second, but the eye can receive only about ten consecutive impressions per second, so that it is evident that in very rapid music a player does not see every note singly, but in groups, probably a bar or more at one vision. In Chopin's "Etude in E Minor" (in the second set) the speed of reading is still greater, since it is necessary to read 3,950 signs in two minutes and a half, which is equivalent to about twenty-six notes per second.—Scientific American.

Spiders as Aeronauts.

Spiders cannot actually fly, but the young of many species are expert aeronauts. When, on some autumn day, these little adventurers prepare to start, they stand on some high point of vantage, facing the wind. Then the tip of the tail is raised, and little spinnerets emit threads which are caught and carried by the breeze. These vary in length with the weight of the spiders and are buoyant enough to bear their owners aloft for a considerable distance.

The glittering filaments which are thus spun and ultimately settle on the ground and bushes are familiar to us all as "gossamer" and are produced by many species of these most interesting insects.

Some spiders again are expert leapers. A beautiful example of this sort has been found at Sydney, New South Wales. It has a curious flap on either side of its body, which can be extended like a kite or parachute. Aided by this, it can readily cover short distances, though we cannot speak of this method of motion as real flight.

CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

Latest Words of Science on This Dangerous Malady.

The prevalence of rheumatism in some form or another, and the largely fatal character of its effects, have for a long time set physicians to pondering and investigating as to its cause. The cause ascertained, it would remain only to find the most effective means of removing it. The verdict of experience and study at the present day is that rheumatism, of whatever nature, is a blood disease, and the best authorities agree that it is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. The efforts of students of this affliction, therefore, became concentrated on the most effective means of cure. A remedy must combine the most effective specifics and it must be prepared with such care and skill as to leave no possible element of uncertainty. The result of such study and care is known as "Bu-Ju." This is a vegetable compound in the form of pills which act upon the kidneys in such a way as to stimulate weak organs and overcome clogged or sluggish conditions. The kidneys are the filters of the body. When they work imperfectly the poison they should excrete and expel from the system is returned to the blood. Then ensues blood-poisoning. When the kidneys are well the excess of uric acid and other poisons is expelled, the blood is purified, and rheumatism may be left to nature's recuperative action. Bu-Ju is put up in boxes of 50 pills, selling at 50 cents at all drug stores. The Claffin Chemical Co., Ltd., New York, N. Y., and Windsor, Ont., control the sale of this specific in the United States and Canada.

THE SCOLD'S BRIDLE.

Brutal Punishment to Which Women Were Once Subjected.

The brank, or scold's bridle, or goship's bridle, was neither more nor less than a muzzle. It was in general use in Great Britain from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, and in Scotland as well women were muzzled for certain offenses, some at least of them more imaginary than real. The instrument of torture, even a dog's leather muzzle, is uncomfortable; how much more the scold's muzzle? It consisted, according to a high authority, Mr. W. Jewitt, of a kind of crown or framework of iron, which was locked upon the head, and it was armed in front with a gag, a plate or a sharp cutting knife or point, which was placed in the poor woman's mouth so as to prevent her moving her tongue, or it was so placed that if she did move it, or attempt to speak it was cut in the most frightful manner. With this cage upon her head and with the gag firmly pressed and locked against her tongue the miserable creature, whose sole of fending perhaps was that she raised her voice in defense of her social rights against a brutal and besotted husband or had spoken honest truth of some one high in office in her town, was paraded through the streets, led by a chain by the hand of a bellman, the bridle or the constable or chained to the pillory, the whipping post or market cross, to be subjected to every conceivable insult and degradation, without even the power left her of asking for mercy or of promising amendment for the future, and when the punishment was over she was turned out from the town hall or the place where the brutal punishment had been inflicted, maimed, disfigured, bleeding, faint and degraded, to be the subject of comment and jeering among her neighbors and to be reviled by her persecutors.

EGG LORE.

Eggs constitute the most universal human food of animal origin.

Plover eggs are esteemed a great delicacy in England and Germany.

The flavor of eggs may be influenced by the food eaten by laying hens.

Hens' eggs have a white or brown color, but ducks' eggs are bluish white.

Hens' and ducks' eggs are commonly offered in our market, but turkey eggs are seldom eaten.

In Virginia gulls' eggs are commonly eaten, and in Texas the eggs of terns and herons are gathered along the coast.

Turtle eggs are highly prized in countries where they are abundant and, though once commonly eaten in America, are now seldom offered.

On an average a hen's egg is two and a quarter inches long and one and three-quarter inches wide at the broadest point and weighs two ounces.

Recent official government figures show that eggs and poultry in the eastern states constitute from one-twelfth to one-sixth of the total value of all farm products.

Cures For Insomnia.

To an overworked little woman who suffers from insomnia an old doctor delivered himself as follows:

"Shun all the devices one hears so much about, such as counting up to 5,000. They are maddening. Never take night baths if their action is too stimulating. Go in for a few physical exercises, including deep breathing. After the exercises walk backward on tiptoe round the room until forty or fifty steps have been taken. When in bed, relax the body completely. Take long, slow, deep breaths, and if you must think of something imagine yourself surrounded and supported by a soft, strong, gray cloud which is bearing you off to slumberland. Drinking a glass of warm milk just before retiring sometimes hastens the trip."

Queer Looking Worms.

New Zealand, Australia, the Samoan and the Solomon Islands as well as portions of the Hawaiian group are the homes of various species of worms with thick, heavy bodies and with a well defined neck connecting the body with a head that is a startling reminder of that of the monkey. In the Sandwich Islands they are called "meta-lu-ki," which means "creeper with a child's head." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time they were of immense proportions and threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

The Old Man's Snake Story.

"And you say the snake was fifteen feet long?"

"Well, she, he looked dat long 'w'en he stretched his full length ter strike me."

"But—a snake never strikes unless he's in coll."

"Marce Tom," said the old man, "we better end dis conversation right whar it is. Either I'm a natchel bo'n liar or long drinkin' hez made you a fust class authority on snakes!"

Only One Bar.

"Yes, I think he'd be a poet if it were not for one thing."

"What's that?"

"He isn't rich enough to be able to indulge in unprofitable pleasures."

"But poets are often poor."

"Well, he isn't poor enough to be utterly discouraged either."

Sympathy.

"Oh, let me like a soldier die!" exclaimed the leading man of the barnstormers.

"Oh, if I only had a gun!" exclaimed some one in the gallery in a tone that savored of genuine sympathy.—Chicago News.

S. K. Warnock, North Dakota, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Warnock, St. Clair street.

Jos. King, Dover Tp., has 85 acres of wheat. It is all cut, shocked and tamped. His brother Tom has 45 acres.

Earl, the young son of City Clerk Merritt, has received a rubber ball from England. The ball is a fine one and was sent to him by Mrs. Hall.

Weeds are growing in the heart of the city and yet an excursion is coming here from Port Huron. Dynamite alley, with its weed crop is a pretty sight for strangers.

Roger Hutehison, of this city, who is schoolmaster at Stewart, passed four pupils out of four in the Public school leaving examinations and six out of seven at the entrance exams.

Many are complaining about the sidewalk on the east side of the north approach to the Fifth St. bridge. One citizen pointed out that it was being repaired when it ought to be condemned. The sleepers are rotten and so are the planks, and the walk is a disgrace.

The man who delivers the ice has a complaint to make these days. Owing to so many streets being broken up, he is delayed in his work, and also has to carry the ice quite a distance. The iceman's work has thus been doubled, so that there are but few now who would like to be the iceman.

Jennie Kettle appeared before Judge Houston this morning and was assessed $1 and costs, $5 in all, for an over-indulgence in liquor. Her uncle, Robert Smith, paid the fine. Jennie told the court that she was innocently guilty. When departing, P. C. Dodson cautioned the woman not to use liquor again. "Well, I'm not going to die for the want of it," was the tart reply.

The scene and the find are playing ball this afternoon. The boarders at the Hotel Garner have for some time had a public challenge against any other aggregation of misfits. Ald. Archie McColig and J. G. Kerr, having fallen in love with the way the game is played on Walpole Island, decided to accept the challenge.

George Perrin is managing the Garner Hotel team. They are an all star aggregation, George says, not star boarders but star baseball players. The following are the teams—

 Out there in the centre of the diamond there is something doing. One, Walter W. Scane, Esq., with a pair of field-glasses, a huge and threatening Winchester and a warlike visage, directed manoeuvres. Umpire Scane was surrounded by a guard of honour composed of Capt. F. B. Stevens, who carried the snows of war and superintended the mess and rations, and Major-General William Holman, K. B. C., V. C., etc., who declared to participate in the actual warfare. "It may spoil the fun a little," said William, alluding to his withdrawal, "it will lessen the work of the scorers in the error column."

WEDDED AT CROTON.

One of the prettiest of the summer weddings took place at Croton on Wednesday, July 15th, at the home of Asa Newcombe, when his eldest daughter, Miss Bertina, was united in marriage with J. Alex. Webster, of Florence. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McMullin, of Florence, at 4 p. m., under an arch of evergreens on the lawn.

The bride's sister, Miss Alice, made an attractive bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by his cousin, Ernest Webster, Florence. The groom's sister, Miss Louise Webster, played Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride wore a charming white dress of India lawn with white trimmings and white carnations. Her travelling dress was of blue Venetian broadcloth with white trimmings. The bridesmaid was daintily gowned in white, dotted, Swiss muslin trimmed with pink and white.

The bride and groom have been two of the most popular young people of Croton and Florence respectively, a fact strongly evidenced by the many beautiful gifts they received. Among these were noticed a fine parlor suite and $25 in cash, the gift of the bride's parents, also some handsome armchairs and rockers from the groom's relatives.

At about 8.30 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Webster left, amid the usual showers of rice and good wishes for North Thamesville, where they took the train for their honeymoon tour. They will visit Detroit and Washington, and on returning will take up their abode at the groom's new residence near Florence.

Among the 80 guests those from a distance were—F. Sangster, London; Mr. and Mrs. H. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. W. Craehell, Mr. F. McEwen and Mr. and Mrs. N. McEwen, Chatham; Mr. and Mrs. W. Heneker, Blenheim; Mrs. A. Allen, Dutton; Mr. and Mrs. E. Newcombe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Newcombe, McKay's Corners; Mr. and Mrs. D. McEwen, Merlin; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. POPE LYING IN STATE.

Diplomats, Princes, Ecclesiastics at the Bier.

Rome, July 23.—The first of the great ceremonies of Pope Leo's funeral commenced yesterday, when the body lay in state in the throne room of the Vatican from 9.30 a. m. until 1 p. m. All the diplomats accredited to the Vatican, the Roman Princes, Dukes, Barons, and other representatives of ancient families remaining faithful to the Papacy, all the high dignitaries of the Church, the Archbishops, Bishops, Patriarchs and heads of the religious orders, passed in solemn procession before the bier of the late Pontiff. The Papal throne had been removed and in its place under the famous red silken canopy on a small bed lay the body of Leo XIII.

In the meanwhile the Congregation of Cardinals met in the hall of the Consistory, under the Presidency of Cardinal Oreglia. It was determined to arrange for the accommodation of the Cardinals during their enforced seclusion at the conclave, in exactly the same manner as when Pope Leo was elected. Mgr. Merry Del Val to-day took up the duties of Secretary of the Consistorial Congregation.

Cardinal Oreglia received the following telegram from King Edward: "His Majesty received the news of the death of the Pope with profound grief, and orders me to transmit to your Eminence assurances of his sincere sympathy. His Majesty will always preserve a grateful recollection of the recent visit to his Holiness."
 (Sgd.) Lansdowne."

IN THE FALL of the CAMPANILE

By Clinton Dangerfield

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"I tell thee," returned old Jacopo querulously and with the same impatient gesture he had often used to the St. Mark pigeons when they grew too familiar—"I tell thee thou canst not have the girl!"

"But I love her," urged Charlie Harkness, with the blind belief of lovers that this argument is sufficient.

"What if thou dost?" said the old guide sharply. "Thou art but an American seaman, speaking our sweet mother tongue most vilely, and who doubts but thou hast a light of love in every pore thou hast touched on?"

"That is false," said the American quietly. "Any one of my shipmates would tell you so."

"To the devil with thy shipmates and thee!" answered Jacopo petulantly. "One thing I swear to thee—my Tessa shall no man have unless he dwell within sight of the campanile."

As he spoke he glanced affectionately at the great bell tower crowning St. Mark's. Under the benign smile of the golden angel poised on its graceful height had Jacopo in his long gone youth pledged his troth.

To that dead Tessa had he first told the story of the campanile—how Doge Pietro Tribuno had begun it centuries ago, how the loggia had been a meeting place for the haughty nobles of Venice. So well had he told it that she suggested to him the occupation of guide, and under her inspiration he had succeeded beyond his hopes. He grew to be a great favorite among all tourists, and to people of many different lands he repeated, never wearying, the history of the bell tower.

Though a man of no education, he was strongly tinged with the poetry of his passionate country and often comprehended far better than most of the sight crammed tourists who trotted after him the unparalleled beauty of the whole group of buildings on the famous piazza.

That an American should dare to think of carrying Tessa away forever filled him with dismay. Suddenly turning, he plunged into an alley and disappeared from view. Harkness was left to wander disconsolately through the piazza and to ponder on Tessa's gentle but firm assurance that she could not marry without her father's consent.

"As if our redwood trees and some of our canyons weren't worth a thousand bell towers!" he muttered wrathfully. Then suddenly he grasped the arm of a bystander and, pointing eagerly to the campanile, demanded in his usual curt Italian if "that" had always been there.

"That" proved to be a crack yawning in the campanile itself. In his surprise and horror the Venetian overlooked the sight to his dignity.

"Signore, no," he said anxiously. "The authorities must be informed." The authorities were informed, and a careful inspection resulted in the discovery that this supreme treasure of Italy was in danger. So at least said the city magnates, but old Jacopo refused to believe.

"When thy bones and mine have been a century decayed," he said scornfully to Harkness, "the campanile will stand there."

So thought most of those in the city, but yet they paid some heed to the warnings of the guards set by the city council and generally avoided the piazza. Not so old Jacopo. He felt as certain of the security of the tower as did the pigeons drifting to and fro beside it in the mellow Italian sunlight. The Monday following the discovery of the crack he was persistently lingering near the campanile, though much irritated by the presence of Tessa's lover, who continued to urge his suit.

That the American had found this flaw in the tower annoyed the guide bitterly, and he turned the deafest of ears to all the young man's pleading, so deaf indeed that at first he took the ominous cracking sound rising sharply from the tower for an explosion elsewhere in the city. But at Harkness' cry he whirled around and fac'd the awful sight of the campanile crashing down toward them both.

In full reach of the sinking angel he stood gaping. Then two powerful arms lifted him like a feather, and the American ran for both their lives.

As Harkness put it, "It was a narrow shave." When the dust from the fallen stones settled, the two found themselves standing, unharmed indeed, but not six feet from the crushed figure of the once mighty angel.

Jacopo suffered the young sailor to lead him home, still with the stunned air of one who could not understand what had happened. He made no answer to any questions except to say stupidly that he was not hurt and, in spite of Tessa's anxious ministrations, refused all food for nearly two days, lying languidly on his simple pallet.

At last he ate, but the food held no savor. The physical terror he had suffered, combined with his bitter grief over the fall of his beloved tower, was too much for his feeble resources. Hourly Tessa saw him fading, but at last, with a flash of his old energy, he sat up and called the girl and Harkness to him.

"I said you should marry no man who did not dwell in the shadow of the tower, Tessa mio," he said quietly, "but where may such a man be found now? Shadow indeed the campanile throws no longer, and the lowest building in the city is higher than the labor of the masters! Never again shall thou and I, my daughter, let our boat drift in the blue waters of the bay and watch the setting sun lay a crown of splendid rays on the bright angel—that angel who for countless years has watched the white sails of the Venetian craft come and go! Never again—but I grow confused! Wed her, American, since she loves thee. 'Tis the old marvel—how a maid's heart is stronger than her native land!" His mind began to wander. "Oh, ay—the pigeons, signore. It is easy to feed them. They are always tame! See how they wheel downward, signore. There sits one upon the bronze doors. Such doors you cannot find elsewhere, and when one enters through them!" The old voice trailed off into a dying whisper, for other doors had opened, and through them Jacopo had passed.

How Iron-ox Tablets Completely Cured Jas. Huston of 20 Years' Serious Trouble.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

Solomon's Horse.
By a great many people Arabia is supposed to be the home of the horse. From ancient Roman, Grecian and Jewish history we readily learn that the horse was unknown in Arabia long after he was a common factor in the life of southern Europe. The horse was scarcely known to the Hebrews prior to the days of Solomon, that worthy and illustrious sovereign having been brought into contact with the horse by his marriage to a daughter of Pharaoh, the reigning king of Egypt, whose gorgeous wedding outfit was supplemented by a large number of elegant horses, adapted alike to the service of war and the chase.

The appearance of those beautiful animals as they sped swiftly along the streets of Jerusalem excited the envy of a few jealous princes, but added to Solomon's popularity with the masses. After his marriage with the Egyptian princess Solomon began buying horses from his father-in-law, and so rapidly did he multiply them by purchase and breeding that those kept for his own use required, as it is written, "4,000 stables and 40,000 stalls."

His Unspoken Opinion.
Richard M. Hunt, the artist, honest in his opinion and blunt in its expression, was appreciated by budding students. What he said in criticism sometimes necessitated the destruction of a picture, but the advice eventually was profitable.

A lady called on Mr. Hunt one day, requesting him to select a frame suitable for a sketch which a dear nephew had painted. "A frame in harmony with the thought suggested by the picture," was desired.

Artist Hunt betook himself to the woods. A few days after he called on a picture dealer, saying that he wished the sketch framed in the material he had collected.

"Impossible!" exclaimed the picture dealer. "Can't frame the picture with this stuff. It's rotten wood."

"You must," said Mr. Hunt gruffly. "This frame is to be in harmony with the picture."

The Blood as a River.
The blood is a very river of human life, its pulmonary and systematic circulations constituting an intricate network of canals, making the body a sort of corporeal Amsterdam or human Venice, writes George Dana Boardman in "Ethics of the Body." Each corpuscle is a barge, moving with varying rates of speed in different parts of the body, tolling through the capillaries at the rate of two inches a minute, rushing through the arteries at the rate of from twelve to twenty feet a second, ceaselessly carrying on the organic functions of the body by perpetually exchanging freight, depositing at the depot of this and that tissue oxygen and taking up dioxide of carbon. What money is to society that blood is to the body. It is the means of exchange or the circulating medium.

Being Restored to Caste.

A Fyzabad Hindoo was restored to his caste by the following process of "purification." He lost caste eating cooked food in a railway carriage, in which persons of another caste were traveling. He had to pay his own weight first in rice, the value reaching 180 rupees, and then in wheat. After being twice weighed in this way he was made to sit on a square stone while his body was covered with manure, the face only excepted. He was then taken up by two men and thrown into the river, and after a bath was received by the Brahmans, fully restored to caste fellowship.

Might Have Made a Difference.
"I say," said Berkeley to his wife yesterday at dinner, "you didn't say anything to any one about what I was telling you the night before last, did you? That's a secret."

"A secret! Why, I didn't know it was a secret," she replied regretfully. "Well, did you tell it? I want to know."

"Why, no; I never thought of it since. I didn't know it was a secret."

Character.
"The only thing that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried is character." That is true. What a man survives him. It never can be buried. It stays about the home when his footsteps are heard there no more. It lives in the community where he was known; hence we should take care to build into our character only beautiful things.

Right at Home.
"Now," said Mrs. Biggleson's cousin at breakfast on the morning after her arrival, "don't make company of me. I want to be treated just as if I were one of the family."

"All right," replied Mr. Biggleson, helping himself to the tenderest part of the steak, "we'll try to make you feel right at home."

Distance Lent Enchantment.
Some anecdotalist tells a story of Washington Irving, who was fond of the theater and who on one occasion went into transports over the acting of a famous woman star, yet when an accommodating friend volunteered to introduce him he instantly replied: "Please don't. It would destroy the illusion."

Thought She Knew.
"Say, mamma," queried little Elsie, "what is a stag party?"
"Stag, my dear, is an abbreviation of stagger," replied the knowing mother.

Perrin Riding Plow.

The following is one of the many testimonials received for one of our No. 2 2-Furrow Plows. We have just received a carload of the plows, and will put them in the field for trial. They are guaranteed to give the best of satisfaction. Guaranteed to pull as light as a walking plow, to do as good work in all kinds of ground; call and see the New 2-Furrow Perrin Riding Plow before you purchase.

A. H. PATTERSON, Esq., Chatham, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have thoroughly tested the Perrin No. 2 2-Furrow Riding Plow with the John Deere two furrow plow. I must say that the John Deere Plow is not what is required for all kinds of plowing, and is a dangerous plow to work with, which I know to my sorrow, having broken my collar bone, from plow upsetting.

I kept the Perrin Plow in preference, returning the John Deere Plow.

I consider the Perrin a much better plow in every respect.

CLOSE OBSERVERS.

Savages Note Things to Which Civilized Eyes Are Blind.

Savages are supposed to have keener senses, especially a keener sense of sight, than civilized races. The author of "Idle Days in Patagonia" does not accept this theory. He believes that savages have no keener senses, but that they pay closer attention to what comes within the range of their perception. As an instance of quick response to an impression he tells the following story:

On March 12, 1861, a company of hunters were camping beside a grove of willows in Patagonia. About 9 o'clock that evening, while they were seated round the fire roasting their ostrich meat, Sosa suddenly sprang to his feet and held his open hand high above his head for some moments.

"There is not a breath of wind blowing," he exclaimed, "yet the leaves of the trees are trembling. What can this portend?"

The others stared at the trees, but could see no motion, and they began to laugh at him. Presently he sat down again, remarking that the trembling had ceased, but during the rest of the evening he was very much disturbed in his mind. He remarked repeatedly that such a thing had never happened in his experience before, for, he said, he could feel a breath of wind before the leaves felt it, and there had been no wind. He feared that it was a warning of some disaster about to overtake their party.

The disaster was not for them. On that evening occurred the earthquake which destroyed the distant city of Mendoza and crushed 12,000 people to death beneath the ruins.

The subterranean wave extended east to the Plata and southward into Patagonia was afterward known, for in the cities of Rosario and Buenos Ayres clocks stopped, and a slight shock was also experienced in the Carmen on the Rio Negro.

PEOPLE WHO APPEAR OLD.

How They May Preserve the Beauty and Freshness of Youth.

People who appear old must expect to be considered so, and, if they apply for positions with every appearance that senility has struck them and that they have gone beyond the point of no return, they cannot expect favorable consideration. If gray haired applicants for positions would only appreciate the value of appearance and would "brace up" when they seek situations—go "well groomed" and well dressed, with elastic steps, showing that they still possess force, and enthusiasm—they would eliminate an obstacle greater than their gray hairs.

We think ourselves into incapacity by looking for signs of age and dwelling on them, and the body follows the thought. We should, therefore, avoid the appearance of age in every possible way—by dress, carriage, conversation and especially by our attitude toward people and things. It is not difficult to preserve the buoyancy and freshness of youth, but it must be done by constant effort and practice. A musician who expects to make only one or two important appearances a year must keep up his practice. Youthfulness cannot be put on for a day if old age has had a grip on you for months.

It is important to preserve the fire of youth as long as possible, to carry freshness and vigor into old age by keeping up a hearty interest in everything that interests youth. Many of us seem to think that youthful sports and pastimes are foolish, and before we know it we get entirely out of sympathy with all young life, and consequently really old, whatever our years. We must think youthful thoughts, associate with young people and interest them. When a person ceases to interest the young he may be sure that he is showing signs of old age.

A Shrewd Client.

An amusing story is told among lawyers of a Wallonian peasant who had gone to law with a neighbor. In a conversation with his lawyer he suggested sending the magistrate a couple of fine ducks.

"Not for your life," said his adviser. "If you do you'll lose the case."

The judgment was given in his favor, when he turned to his lawyer and said, "I sent the ducks." Astonishment on the latter's part turned to admiration when his client continued, "But I sent them in my neighbor's name."

Simply Impossible.

"Have you got the plans for your new house completed yet?" some one asked him.

"Not quite," he replied. "There is a difference of opinion between my wife and me as to the interior arrangements. She says the pantry is too large and that there are too many closets."

Without another word the medal for the biggest lie of the evening was awarded to him.

His Idea Capacity.

"I read somewhere the other day," said Mr. Henpeck, "that one of the big mercantile corporations pays a certain man $1,000 for each idea he furnishes. George, I'd like to have a chance of that kind."

"Wretch!" exclaimed Mrs. Henpeck. "Do you want your innocent wife and child to starve?"

So Smart.

Gerald—May I kiss you?

Geraldine—Mother is in the next room.

Gerald—That's all right. Your father can kiss her.

It is a sign you are growing old when you read the obituary before the marriage notices.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Summer Pruning.

Summer pruning of grapes and other small fruits will soon need attention, and it is best done with the finger and thumb. In the case of grapes it is simply pinching out the lateral buds that come out above the fruiting spurs, shortening in the ends of the leading canes and pinching off all surplus buds that start up from the roots. The most popular way of training the grape is on the Fuller system, using three wires, one about twelve inches from the ground, one at the top of the trellis, about 4 1/2 feet from the ground, and the middle wire about half way between the two. The two main arms are tied to the bottom wire, and the canes grow from these to the top of the trellis. When they reach the top they are stopped by pinching off the terminal shoots.

Raspberries and blackberries should be pinched out 2 1/2 to 3 feet high. This stops the upward growth and, instead of a long, sprawling cane, you will have a stout, stocky one, with plenty of laterals, and it will carry its load of fruit without bending over. If the laterals grow too long they should be pinched back before the end of the season. This summer pruning can be done rapidly and easily.

When young apple or pear trees are being top-worked to some other variety, they should be examined often during summer, and the suckers or sprouts that come out below the grafts rubbed off after the grafts get a fair start, otherwise they will take the sap that should go to the graft to push it along. Where a graft has failed to grow it is well to allow a number of the shoots that come out near the end to grow in order to keep the limb alive and healthy, and next spring it can be re-grafted by cutting it off a little farther back; the end where the cleft is being covered and protected with wax, a few sprouts allowed to grow, will be found quite healthy and fit for grafting again when the time comes to do it.—London Farmers' Advocate.

A Story of Queen Victoria.

A youthful and newly-made equestrian was one day going the rounds of the Royal stables at Windsor, when he noticed a little old lady in a plain black dress and a basket on her arm, alone with a muckster on her arm. Anxious to do his duty thoroughly he went up to her, and politely informing her that no outsiders were allowed within the Royal precincts, he conducted her with alacrity to the nearest exit, saying: "Her Majesty would be annoyed if she found you here when she comes to visit the horses."

"Quite so, quite so; I understand," replied the old lady smiling, and she departed with her basket on her arm, whilst the equestrian returned to his duties.

"What in the world were you doing with Her Majesty?" demanded a fellow-equestrian of mature years, who had noticed the scene from afar.

"What do you mean?" gasped the other, a sudden dread taking possession of him.

"Why I saw you talking to her very familiarly, I thought, and I want to know what it was all about, and why she went away so suddenly."

But the youthful courtier was too overcome to answer; he longed that his last hour might come there and then. But when next day he craved Her Majesty's pardon on bended knees, Queen Victoria laughingly exclaimed, "You were quite right to do your duty. But take a good look at me now, for I don't want to be turned out again."

IS IT PREJUDICE

That, Makes You Suffer from Dyspepsia When Others Tell You Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure It, Sure.

"I have always had very strong objections to patent medicines, but the cures of Dyspepsia by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are wonderful. For two years my life had been a burden without having a pain across my stomach. Doctors did me no good. One box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets completely cured me. The Dyspepsia has never come back."

This is brief is the statement of Marie Ann Bujold, of Maria Cap, Bonaventure County, Quebec. Does it not strike home to you? Are not your prejudices against the so-called "patent" medicines causing you misery? Can't you overcome your prejudice and your Dyspepsia at the same time?

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will assuredly cure any case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. They will digest the food themselves, giving the stomach a chance to rest up and return to its normal condition.

ECHOES

ERIEAU

Master James Boyd has been appointed as agent of The Planet at Erieau. Subscribers of this paper who fail to receive it regularly at their cottages will please report the matter to him and he will receive and forward any orders from those who desire The Planet sent to their cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. B. Stevens are visiting at Erieau.

An excursion from Dresden spent yesterday at Erieau.

Mrs. Ripley and daughter, of Chatham, spent yesterday at Erieau.

Miss Bertha Northwood is visiting her brother, E. B. Northwood, Centerville.

Dr. George Fletcher, Hamilton, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Laird, Centerville.

Miss Lillian McGregor, Detroit, returned to Blenheim today after a visit at Drumbochty Lodge.

Mr. Laidlaw has joined the union of ironworkers, otherwise known as the Sheet Metal Workers' Union.

Mrs. Dr. McKeough, Miss McKeough and Stuart and Grant McKeough all spent yesterday at Erieau.

The car ferry Pere Marquette was at the dock last night. She brought in a number of loaded cars and took back empties.

Misses Beatrice and Nora VonGuntzen, Helen and Ethel Paxton and Ella Kemp arrived at Erieau yesterday to spend a week.

Captain Fellows, lighthouse keeper, has been in charge of Erieau light for the past 14 years. He is one of the best known and liked lighthouse keepers in Canada.

When the schooner Petrol was in at the lighthouse last week she left 300 American gill nets which had been seized in Canadian waters down the lake from Erieau.

The date for the Scotch picnic has been fixed for Thursday, August 13. An effort was made by Blenheimites to have the picnic at Port Stanley this year but the effort failed.

The cottagers had another splendid dance last evening and lots of fun. The music was furnished by Dr. M. Egan, W. W. Scobie and George Taylor. The music was excellent but was a little too fast. However, that only added to the fun. The platform was in splendid shape.

Dr. S. Story, Blenheim, spent yesterday at Erieau. Rowing up the creek for water lilies is fast becoming a passionate and popular pastime with the maidens of Erieau.

A hat on top of a telegraph pole near the Lake View House was arousing the curiosity of the cottagers last night. They were wondering if the wind storm had put it there.

Arrangements are being made to hold an indoor baseball match on the sands to-night. E. B. Northwood is the promoter and it is expected that the girls will pick a team from themselves to oppose the boys.

Henry Dugneau is very proud of himself to-day. Last evening, while he and his nephew were fishing on the pier, they landed an eel 26 inches long. This is the first eel that has been caught at the Eau in some time.

Victor Skirving yesterday jumped from the balcony at the top of the lighthouse into the channel, a distance of some 60 feet. He bobbed up like a cork and then swam across the channel. Mr. Skirving says that isn't much of a jump. While attending military school at Kingston he has often jumped from the top of elevators in the harbor in that place, which were twice as high. Mr. Skirving is an expert and fearless swimmer. Very few witnessed his daring jump yesterday.

When Baby Is Fed on LACTATED FOOD It is Safe from Cholera Infantum and Dysentery.

Below, we give two medical opinions regarding the value of Lactated Food as a diet for infants and children. One eminent doctor says—

"I can unqualifiedly recommend Lactated Food as a food for infants and as a positive remedy for diarrhoea and dysentery. I have just gone through an epidemic of the two diseases, and have learned to rely on Lactated Food with more confidence than I have been able to place upon any other food heretofore used in my extensive practice."

Another able and busy practitioner says—

"Having several children under treatment, where the bowels seemed to cause the trouble, I decided to test Lactated Food, which I did with very gratifying results, one case of cholera infantum being very severe and the child greatly reduced. Many mothers report to me great improvement in symptoms after the first feeding."

GAYNOR-GREENE CASE.

The Privy Council Grants United States Leave to Appeal.

Montreal, July 23.—Interest in the famous Gaynor-Greene extradition case was revived here by the receipt of a cablegram by Messrs. MacMaster & Hickson from Mr. Donald MacMaster, K.C., who is in London, saying that the petition presented on behalf of the United States Government for special leave to appeal from Judge Caron's judgment, whereby these two men were released from custody, had been granted. The Lord Chancellor, in the course of the argument, stated that one Judge could not interfere with another on serious and important matters, and that, in his opinion, the offences charged were clearly extraditable. The facts of the case are well known. The charges laid against Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor were misappropriation and embezzlement of more than $2,000,000 in connection with river and harbor improvements at Savannah, Ga., in 1897. They were arrested, but while out on bail fled to Canada. They were arrested at Quebec, May 17, 1902, on a warrant issued by Extradition Commissioner Lafontaine, and brought to Montreal. Two days later they were taken back to Quebec on a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Mr. Justice Andrews, who held that the arrest on the Montreal warrant was without jurisdiction. In face of this, however, Judge Caron, on August 13, granted writs of habeas corpus, and the men were released from custody. An important contention on the part of the petitioners all along was that the Extradition Commissioner, Lafontaine, was seized of the case, and could not be ousted from his jurisdiction. The petition to the Privy Council was for special leave to appeal from the judgment rendered by Judge Caron.

CHARGE AGAINST MR. LOY.

Violation of the Independence of Parliament—Labor Estimates.

Ottawa, July 23.—Mr. Monk has formally charged Mr. Loy, the member for Beauharnois, with a breach of the independence of Parliament act, and the Privileges and Elections Committee will meet this morning to inquire into the charge. It appears from the statements made in the House to-day that a lot which had been owned at one time by Mr. Loy was purchased by the Government as a postoffice, and Mr. Monk claims that the transfer of the lot by Mr. Loy was a colorable transaction. Mr. Tarte said that if Mr. Loy were guilty he was more guilty, as he had initiated the purchase of the lot. The Premier and Mr. James Sutherland supported Mr. Loy's denial of any impropriety. A protest by Mr. Borden against the delay in introducing the Government's railway policy caused a two hours' discussion. This morning the Brockville & Sault Ste. Marie Railway bill was talked out in the private bills hour. The labor estimates were disposed of, and in the course of the discussion Mr. Puttee stated that the present strikes are formulated for political purposes. The House rose at 12:30 a.m.

AN INJURY TO CANADA.

Paying Passage of Imported Workmen Back to Great Britain.

Toronto, July 23.—E. W. Day, the Secretary of the Employers' Association, yesterday discussed the action of the Moulders' Union in attempting to send the mechanics brought to this country by the Canada Foundry Company, back to their homes. Mr. Day said that the strikers might be within their rights in refusing to work, but they were certainly obstructing all law when they refused others the right of earning their living; and this, he claimed, was the attitude taken by the local union in sending British workmen back to Great Britain with the information that there was no room for mechanics in Canada.

At the regular meeting of the Iron-moulders' union in Richmond-Hall last night it was stated that the situation in sending British workmen back to Great Britain was brighter than ever before. The local union admit that the foundry company has fifty men at work in the moulding shop, and it is said that the company claims to have 68 moulders on their pay roll. All of the important union men who are having their passage paid by the local union. The Carpenters and Joiners held a joint meeting last night and agreed to resist all attempts to reinstate the regulations governing a nine-hour day.

JAMES SMITH'S DEATH.

Evidence of a Blow on the Head Puzzles the Jury.

Stratford, July 23.—An inquest on the death of James Smith of Edgecomb, found dead on Thursday last, was held at Newton last night before Coroner Rankin of this city. A verdict was returned that the deceased came to his death through a wound on the head, but the jury were unable to say how the wound was received. A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that the deceased must have received a blow of some kind on the back of the head, as a mere fall on the floor would hardly produce death.

Considerable evidence was taken, but thus far the mystery of how Smith died is no nearer solution than it was a week ago.

PAINTERS vs. MASONS.

The painters have organized a baseball club and have accepted a challenge of the brick and stone masons. Joseph Tilt, as manager of the painters' team, says as soon as he gets his bunch in shape off comes the game, and it won't take him long to get them in good enough shape to trim the masons.

HIGHGATE FRIDAY.

The Highgate baseball team comes here Friday to play the Maple Leaf baseball club of this city. The Highgate aggregation is a pretty strong one. It trimmed Tilbury for fair on July the one at Ridgetown, so a first-class game may be expected. The same team that defeated the Tilburys here a week or so ago will represent the Maple Leaf club.

BOWLING.

Chatham bowlers at London are not doing as well as they might possibly do. A. E. Jewett's rink is holding up Maple City honors pretty well. In the first round for the Labatt trophy R. G. Fleming's rink lost to M. H. Rowland, of London, 24 to 12, and A. E. Jewett's lost to Bingham, of Aylmer, 23 to 20. Thus both Chatham rinks were out of it for the trophy. They, however, entered the association match. Mr. Jewett's rink defeated James Davis' London rink 19 to 9. Mr. Fleming drew a bye. In the third round Jewett's rink lost to J. D. Tytler, of London.

R. Porterfield's Ridgetown rink was defeated by London in the Labatt trophy, but Graham's rink from Ridgetown defeated Brampton 17 to 14. Little's Ridgetown rink defeated Cornwall, of Thamesville, 13 to 2. In the first round for the Labatt R. L. Gosnell, Blenheim, defeated Seaford 26 to 20. Graham's Ridgetown rink lost to Clinton 19 to 14 and Little's Ridgetown rink lost to Dr. Ayler, of London, 14 to 12. In the second round R. L. Gosnell's rink lost to J. Hoover, of Clinton, 23 to 19, and Little's rink, of Ridgetown, won from Rowland, of London. In the first round of the association match Dr. J. W. Wiley, of Dresden, lost to Ayler, of London, 14 to 12. St. Thomas and R. Cornwell, Thamesville, lost to Toronto. In the second round R. Porterfield beat Brampton 18 to 8 and Graham lost to Aylmer. In the third round R. L. Gosnell defeated Bingham, of Aylmer, 15 to 14.

LACROSSE

RIDGETOWN 1, CHATHAM 0.

The intermediate lacrosse club went to Ridgetown yesterday and crossed sticks with the team of that town, the result of the game being a win for the home team by a score of one goal to nil.

The game was a good, keen contest all the way through and was anybody's game till the finish. It was 7:15 p.m. before the game got going, owing to the fact that Ridgetown did not have its men on the field.

The Chatham home worked hard and many shots were made, but without success. Dr. McLeary in goal for the home team made many fine stops. The Chatham defence, too, was on its metal. Morley and Hutchison doing splendid work. "Pete" Chrysler, as usual, was there "with the goods" and stopped many difficult ones. Ridgetown scored its goal in the third quarter, when Stevenson shot from the centre of the field, and no one seemed to see the ball coming. Walter Elliott made an excellent referee and satisfied everybody.

Shots on Goal.

A little too dark.
A pretty good game.
There should be a return game shortly.

Both goals had about an equal share of work.

Eddie Williston in centre played a good game.

That was excellent buttermilk. Thanks awfully.

One to nothing's not so bad after a long, tiresome ride.

The boys report excellent treatment at the hands of the home team, and appreciate it very much.

About 600 of Ridgetown's populace turned out to see a good game, and were not disappointed.

Who's the only field captain? Leek Heath, of course. What a foolish question, say the intermediates.

People seldom improve when they have no other model but themselves to copy after.

CANADIANS AT BISLEY.

King's Prize, Secretary for War and Other Matches.

Bisley, July 22.—In a murky, drizzling rain, which afterwards cleared up, shooting in the five hundred yards stage of the King's Prize commenced this morning. Half a gale of wind is blowing across the ranges, but otherwise the weather is fair. Private McGregor of the Governor-General's Foot Guards; Lieut. Vroom, 60th Regiment; Major Spearing, 53rd Regiment, and Pte. Peddie, 5th Royal Scots, all scored 34 out of a possible 35.

Spearing, who finishes fourth in the Secretary of State for War match, is the only Canadian inside the money in this match. He wins £5.

In this match the Canadians scored as follows:—Skeddon, 44; Hayhurst, 43; Stuart, 43; Elliott, 42; McGregor, 42; Peddie, 42; King, 42; Dwydale, 41; Crowe, 40; Jones, 40; Ammand, 40; Smith, 38; Russell, 38; White, 37; O'Brien, 35.

In the King's Prize at 600 yards the Canadians scored as follows:—Bayles, 31; Stuart, 30; Hayhurst, 27; Morris, 27; McGregor, 27; Peddie, 27.

In the King's Prize there are already two scores of 101 and six of 100. Over five hundred competitors are shooting. The Canadians are not doing well. They blame the variable wind for their poor work.

In the Stock Exchange match Anand and White have each won prizes of £1. Peddie and Stuart, with six Americans from the Palma team, are engaged in a special match, East v. West. They represent the West. While Major Fremantle and seven Britishers compose the Eastern team.

The highest scores so far in the Canadian team are:—King, 103; Vroom, 101; Spearing, 100.
