THE PRESIDENT GIVES THANKS

victory rests with the Conserva-tives.

This is due primarily to the splen-did candidate chosen last December, His unparalleled ability as a can-wasser, his free, frank and fearless discussion of the many issues affect-ing the constituency, his untiring zeal and genial kindly manner constituted a force difficult if not impossible to overcome.

But while much is due the candidate great praise must be given also ot those who worked so harmoniously with him to bring about the splendid results achieved in this campaign.

To the rank and file of the electors our best and heartiest thanks are due, for on them rested to a great extent the burden and heat of the

A Statement to The Planet After the Election Had Been Conceded Last Night.

ter it was conceded that Clements was elected.

Mr. Stone said,

"There's no doubt that the personal charges against our candidate affected the result to a great extent, but, to my mind, the main item in the result was the complete personal canvas of Mr. Clements.

"There is no particular landslide anywhere in the riding but it seems a general all-round slump. The local association cannot in any way be blamed. We did all we could. We worked hard and it's no fault of the association."

NEW MEMBER

Brief Sketch of West Kent's Popular Parliamentary Representive-A Splendid Record

Herbert & Clements M. P. for West Kent, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clements, and was born in Dover Township in 1865. His mother died some five years ago. He married Miss Jessie McGarvin, daughter of John McGarvin, of Hagwich. Previous to the last few years Mr. Clements was always interested in farming in the Township of Dover and was always konsidered by the residents of the Fownship as one of the first class farmers of the section and, knowing the way they have been neglected regarding the tariff, he attribytes his election to the stand he took advocating the proper protection for the farmer, Jaborer and mechanic. Mr. Clements is a young man, full of energy, one who will work for the entire constituency regardless of party. West Kent should feel proud of her member. Kent, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. in 'particular and the Conservative party in general.

But only those who were in close touch with the campaign can form any estimate of the herculean task necessary to impart force, to avoid mistakes, to be perfectly just to all, to hold your friends and convert your enemies. in a word to be "wise as a serpent, harm'ess as a dove."

And this is what The Planet has accomplished. To one and all we extend our heartiest thanksgiving, and the one word of advice we have to effer is, "Be prepared to repeat this great victory when the opportunity offers by sending a Conservative to Toronto to represent West Kent in the local legisture." When this becomes an accomplished fact, then cad only then, will the people of West Kent have done their full duty.

The Planet interviewed Returning the best I ever saw, why its got Very earnestly THE PLANET would suggest to the Liberal-Conservatives of West Kent the early calling of their convention to nominate a candidate for the Provincial Legislature. Whether the elections come soon or later, let us be ready.

The splendid victory of Herbert S. Clements, M. P., has enthused and rejuvinated the Liberal Conservatives of this constituency. They are not now weary in well doing. They are ready to continue the good work.

But the Liberal Conservatives will not be alone in the coming contest. They have already the assurance of a considerable support from our friends, the Liberals themselves. The fight this time will not be so much a political one as a moral one-a campaign for the maintenance of purity and integrity in public life. It is a campaign in which, we feel assured, all the rightthinking men of both parties will heartily join. And the candididate selected to champion the cause of cleanlin ss, of uprightness and of justice, should be elected by a thousand of a majority.

The men of both parties, therefore, who are interested in obtaining this splendid result should get together early and place their representative in the field.

Most heartily we commend the proposal to keep the present splendid organization of the constituency intact. The decision to continue the weekly gatherings of the workers in each district of the constituency for reports and progress is a capital one. Then with the proposition of the organization of the Kent County Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association we are enthusiastically in accord. This is particularly a spiendid enterprise. The formation of the various branches in the different localities with their own officers and meetings will give wonderful results, while when the union gatherings are held they will London, Nov. 5.—Hyman's majority is only 22. Mr. Gray, in a speech, said: This fight which has been put up by our men has been a clean one, but it is not so with our opponents. Friends have come in from the various subdivisions and have informed me that many ballots which were marked for me were thrown out by the Grit deputy returning officers. There will be a recount. The rascality that has taken place in this city yesterday should put shame upon every Loudon Lib-eral. Men were carried out of the city by Tom Lewis and others of the city by Tom Lewis and others of the Grit gang, and many of the business men of this city, who hold their heads high, will be shown up sooner or later. The Conservatives expect-ed a fight, but they did not bargain for anything like this. In one subdivision they have thrown out 16 of my ballots, and I am assured by many friends that a recount will surely give us the seat. We will have a recount as soon as possible.

Mrs. Machlan Kennedy will receive for the first time since her marriage at her new home, corner of Victoria Ave., and Thames St., on Wednesday, Nov. 9, from 3 to 6 in the afternoon, and from 8 to 10 in the evening.

The Misses Tackaberry entertained about twnety-five of their girl friends to a Hallowe'en party Monday night. A feature of the gathering was a handkerchief shower to Miss Margaret Houston. Amongst the original verses was the following hit by Miss Flo. Glass, a clever Maple City writer, "A maiden's wishes are but three, o'er all the world where'er she be, to handsome grow and have a beau, and to the bridal altar go."

Thursday afternoon Mrs. A. J. Bedford, Selkirk St., gave a five o'clock tea, at which the officers of the Ladies' Aid of Victoria Avenue Church were invited to meet Mrs. Harry. Bloom, who is leaving the city short-ly to live at Vancouver. During the afternoon Mrs. Bedford read an ad-dress to Mrs. Bloom expressive of apdress to Mrs. Bloom expressive of appreciation of her personal character, the work she has so faithfully performed as an officer of the L. NEURALGIC PAINS.

ARE THE CRY OF THE NERVES FOR BETTER BLOOD.

Enrich the Blood and Neuralgia Will Disappear-It is Only Those Whose Blood is Poor and Watery That

No part of the human system more sensitive than the nerves. Many of the most excruciating pains that afflict mankind come from weak, shaky, shattered nerves, and among shaky, shattered nerves, and among the nerve pains there is perhaps none causes more intense suffering than neuralgia, which generally attacks the nerves of the face and head, sometimes causing swift, darting, agonizing pains — at other times a dull, heavy, aching feeling, which makes life miserable. There is only one way to get rid of neuralgia and other nervous troubles and that is other nervous troubles, and that is through the blood. Poor, watery blood makes the nerves shaky and invited disease. Rich, red blood makes the nerves strong and banishes all nerve troubles. No medicine in the world can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and nerve Fills as a blood builder and nerve tonic; every dose helps to make rich, red blood, and every drop of this new blood feeds and strengthens the nerves and banishes all nerve aches and pains. Among those who offer strong proof of this is Mr. John McDermott, Bond Head, Ont., who says: "A few years ago while working as a carpenter in Buffalo I got wet. I neglected to change my clothes and a carpenter in Buffalo I got wet. I neglected to change my clothes and next morning I awoke with cramps and pains throughout my entire body. I was unable to go to work so called in a doctor. I followed his treatment, but it did not help me. As I was unable to work I returned to my home at Bond Head. Here I consulted a doctor wno said I was suffering from neuralgia, but though he treated me for some time he also

MUNYON'S WITCH HAZEL

I wish those who value a good head of hair to shampoo their heads with my Witch Hazel Soap. It will positively cure the worst cases of dandruff and all scalp diseases. It gives new life and vigor to the scalp, and has a tendency to produce a glossy and beautiful growth of hair. For the complexion it is the best soap made. It makes the skin soft as velvet. For baby it has no equal. Cures eruption, allays itching, and makes baby sweet as roses.

To those who have sallow or dull complexion, or who have pimples, eczema, or any skin eruption, I can recommend my Paw-Paw Laxative Pills. They positively cure constipation, billisuness and all liver allments. If you have dyspepsia, or are weak and nervous, these pills will make you well.—MUNYON.

'ANOTHER PAIR OF SLEEVES.'

Time was, not very long ago,
When Mabel's walking skirt
Trailed half a yard behind to show
How well she swept the dirt,
But "short and sweet" are in again;
No more the grievance rankles,
For Mabel's now curtailed her train
And shows her dainty ankles.

But Mabel has a thrifty mind To supplement her charms; The frills that once she wore behind The trills that once she wore bening She fastens on her arms.

Her sleeves are made in open bags Like trousers in the navy;

No more she sweeps the streets, but drags

Her sleeves across the gravy.

Dyspepsia Tablets.

Hale and hearty at the age of eighty-two, Mr. Angus MacMillan, of Laggan, Ont., is a splendid specimen of those grand old Scotchmen Glengarry County produces. But if you ask Mr. MacMillan to what he owes his splendid health he will reply, "Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets." His explanation is this:

"I suffered with Dyspepsia for more than 20 years but never met anything to cure me till I commenced taking Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. After I had taken the Tablets for two days all the pain and restlessness left meentirely. I feel it my duty to tell the public of the good Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done me."

If you would live to a hearty old age keep your stomach in order with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

THE AFTERMATH

There are several stories in circula ion as a result of the election. It is stated that a local liveryman when the Conservatives wished to hire his hack for Thursday night asked $20 for it. The winners had to explain that they didn't want to buy it nor did they wish him to wait three years for his money, like he had to do when the Grits hired it last election

Another incident occurred election day. About noon a man was brought to the hospital from Raleigh. A Grit doctor heard of it and called up the hospital and asked a Liberal nurse to find out if he had voted, and if he was a Grit or Tory. A Conservative worker had been hurt about noon on St. Clair, street. He was taken to the hospital unconscious, but about this time he began to recover. Its front feet will also show marks above hoofs where hobble has worn hair smooth. dence that there is a sure and complete cure in existence is thankfully received. And there is abundant evidence that Dodd's Kâdney Fills is just such a cure. This district could furnisk a dozen cures, but one is enough for an example. The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy. She says:

"I suffered for thirty-eight months with a pain in my back. I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Fills and I have never been troubled with the pain since. I also recommended Dodd's Kidney Fills to other people; who complained as I did and in every ease the Fills did their duty and brought relief."

The Only Sure Cure is Cuticura.

If there were not another external skin disease known, eczema would be a sufficient infliction on mankind. It pervades all classes, and descends impartially through generations. While some are constantly enveloped in it, others have it confined to small patches in the ears, on the scalp, on the breast, on the palms of the hands, on the limbs, etc., but everywhere its distinctive feature is a small watery blister, which discharges an acrid fluid, causing heat, inflamma-tion, and intense itching, scaling and an acrid nuid, causing heat, infiammation, and intense itching, scaling and crusting.

The Cuticura treatment is at once agreeable, speedy, economical and comprehensive. Bathe the affected parts freely with hot water and Cuticura Sosp, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Cintment to allay itching, irritation and infiammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, or Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood. This treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure of torturing, disfiguring humours, eczemas, rashes and infiammations, from infancy to age, when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

HEALTH AND DISEASE. HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cureall, and mind you this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur. In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

A censored despatch from the Associated Press correspondent with the Japanese army does not give any particulars of a general engagement going on at Port Arthur, but it is certain that it occurred and that some forts were captured. Terrific explosions heard here indicate that the Russians have exploded mines and destreyed other property.

The Japanese calculate that if the Russians do not surrender new they will be capable of prolenging fighting by making their final stand at Liaoti Promontory and Tiger's Tail for a month longer, with the mere hape of continuing the struggle.

The Japanese have not occupied the main forts and highest points of the east hills, but they occupy in overwhelming numbers which will enable them to drive the Russians back whenever they desire. When the Japanese occupy the east ridge they will completely dominate the other Russian forts with their artillery.

Prince, a hospital dog of Northwich, Australia, has been presented recently with an illuminated address by the people of that town in recognition of his services in behalf of charity.

Prince is a fox terrier of no especial distinction of lineage, but during the past two or three years has collected over 2,000 coins for the Northwich Victoria Infirmary. It was under singular circumstances that he developed a penchant for money. A soldier was putting some change in his purse when he dropped a for it, but the quest was futile. Its disappearance was rendered all the more mysterious by the fact that there were no cracks or crevices about the floor. Ultimately it was given up for lost, but about half an hour afterward Prince proudly walked into the room with the coin in his mouth and laid it at the owner's feet.

Coppers were afterward thrown for the dog to pick up and so great did its liking for money become that it began to sit up and beg from customers on its own account. Feats of Canine Mind Readers

Clever and Marvellous Performances by Scotch Collies—solves Intricate Arithmetical Problems.

In a recent issue an account was published of the marvellous performances of Hans, a Berlin horse, that solves all manner of difficult and intricate arithmetical problems. A somewhat similar case of remarkable intelligence on the part of four-footed animals is that of a number of Scotch collies, owned by George B. Clason, a resident of Chicago, who has trained them to such a point that they have developed what must almost be regarded as the power of mind-reading. One of the cleverest of these dogs was tricate arithmetical problems. A somewhat similar case of remarkable intelligence on the part of four-footed animals is that of a number of Scotch collies, owned by George B. Clason, a resident of Chicago, who has trained them to such a point that they have developed what must almost be regarded as the power of mind-reading. One of the cleverest of these dogs was Bozzie II., whose marvellous performances astonished and mystified the whole world. Sad to relate, however, Bozzie 's no more, a dose of poison having put an end to her life some months ago. Mr. Clason had repeatedly refused an offer of $5,000 for her, but his love for her was too great to allow him to part with her, and when she died her body was enclosed in a silk-lined coffin and respectfully buside. in a silk-lined coffin and respectfully Bozzir II., however, was only one of Bozz: II., nowever, was only one of a numerous family of collies gaised and trained by Mr. Clason, the sur-viving members of which, four in number, are as remarkable for their intelligence as this famous and lanumber, are as remarkable for their intelligence as this famous and lamented relative. Two of these, Lady Tess and Floretta, are sisters of Bozzie II., and one, Mike, is a brother. The fourth dog is a daughter of Bozzie II., and, though only eighteen months old, equals, if she does not surpass, all the others in the accuracy and rapidity of her mental performances. Her name is Bozzie III., and she is the third animal in a direct line to which Mr. Clason has devoted his time and skill as a trainer. The feats performed by these dogs appear increditable to the average person who has not witnessed them, but hundreds and thousands of residents of Chicago can vouch for the truth of the claims made for them, because Mr. Clason has for years been taking part with his dogs in entertainments for churches and charitable institutions in Chicago and its suburbs. Psychologists who have seen the dogs perform what are called their "tricks" have declared that they are nothing less than canine mind readers But itet the reader index for lutely true.

Mr. Clason is reclining on a coach in his room when the visitor enters, and his wife occupies a rocking chair opposite. After Lady Tess or Bozzie III. (for the description will answer for either, both having been tested in presence of the writer) has been introduced, one of the first questions put to her is: "How many people uin the room?" Three sharp barks in rapid succession firnish the answer. "How many men, Tess?" Two barks settle this question, and one bark is given in reply to the query: "How many women?"

Problems in addition, subtraction,

Problems in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division are then submitted, and their answers correctly given in barks with the greatest promptitude. One proof that there is no deception in the case is that the dog will answer questions propounded by any person present with as much alacrity and accuracy as those put by her trainer. Here is a problem that was given for solution to Lady Tess by the writer-"Multiply 2 by 3 by 5, subtract 10, "Multiply 2 by 3 by 5, subtract 10, divide by 5, add 4, divide by 8, multiply divide by 5, add 2, subtract 1 and divide by 2." Quicker than the smartest boy or girl of fifteen could answer Lady Tess barked the result decisive ly in two sharp barks, and wonder assumed large proportions in the mind of the beholder. The dog does not appear to go through the several mental processes involved in the problem but is evidently aware of the result by means of some sort of mental telegraphy or thought transfer-ence. She becomes aware of the pro-blem's answer because of its being known to the mind of the person submitting the problem.

That this is true is even more evident from the following test — Mr. Clason will tell the visitor to think of some number and to fix his mind to the control of some number and to fix his mind upon it intently. Then he will say to Lday Tess—"What number is the gentleman thinking of, Tess to In the case of the writer the number thought of was 4, and the dog, without a moment's hesitation, barked four times in response to the question. And I long for the dear old river
Where I dreamed my youth away;

And a toiler dies in a day.

I am sick of the showy seeming Of a life that is half a lie; Of the faces lined with scheming f In the throng that hurries by. From the sleepless thoughts' endea-

I can feel no pride, but pity
For the burdens the rich endure,
There is nothing sweet in the city
But the patient lives of the poor.

No, no! from the street's rude bustle, From trophies of mart and stage, I would fly to the wood's low rustle And the meadow's kindly page. Let me dream as of old by the river, And be loved for the dream alway:
For a dreamer lives forever,
And a toiler dies in a day.

REJECTION OF AYLESWORTH

The defeat of Mr. Aylesworth signifies the prevalent revolt in the Prowince against the Ross machine and its active agents. This gentleman went into West Durham with such a Liberal flourish that for the time no doubt his candidature was thought to be invincible. An able barrister who had achieved some notoriety in the Alaska case, and who was slated for Cabinet position, came upon the Riding with a certain halo. The electorate appear, however, to have taken Mr. Aylesworth's true measure without loss of time. It was remembered that he is was who by a legal quirk deprived the previous Conservative member, Mr. Thornton, of his wellwon triumph. Mr. Thornton had made his deposit by "marked cheque" instead of in cash, and upon this paltry technical quibble, his election was set aside. It was remembered also that Mr. Aylesworth was the permanent counsel of the Ross government, in which capacity he had been joinly concerned with J. R. Stratton, in defence of some of the worst election infamies that came before the election courts. He it was who defended the West Elgin atrocity in which the scoundrels of the Preston gang perpetrated every form of electoral rascality, causing poor Macnish to confess and retire in disgrace rather than that higher personages should be brought in. Aylesworth was also Stratton's confidential agent in the Gamey bribery. The people of West Durham have done well to reject such a man whom they have regarded as the creature of Ross in his effort to "see Laurier through." The idea of such a man becoming Minister of Justice in the Dominion must revolt the sense of the whole people.-London Free Press.

THE GLOBE - DUNDONALD.

Ottawa Citizen. That Globe raised the cry that Lord Dundonald's dismissal by the Liberal government at the instance of Mr. Sidney Fisher was justified because he was a menace to peace loving Canadians and had advocated conscription. A letter from Lord Dundonald has just been published which absolutely refutes these charges. The Globe produces an editorial in reply in which it admits that its main attack as to "compulsory" service utterly fails. Knowing, however, that there is not time to hear from Lord Dundonald again before election day the Globe formulates another charge which it claims is founded on Lord Dundonald's letter itself. The charge is that Lord Dundonald said that he did advocate that Canadian boys between 14 and 18 should take a certain number of drills and that this would be an arbitrary hardship on boys who had already commenced business. What Lord Dundonald did say is "That this drill would of course, have been done under the new regulations for school cadet corps." This is a sample of the attacks which have general. The Globe does not seem to realize that the suppression of the

 TABBIE DECEIVED

BY A CATBIRD. *******

Sometimes a cat gets credit for more wisdom than it really deserves. I vividly recall an instance where a catbird grossly deceived a Tabbie, and cuasing her much unavailing grief.

Tabbie was owned by a farmer, and, in course of time became the devoted mother of a large and interesting family. It just so happened that Mrs. Farmer had no use for Tabbie's numerous progeny. So, between drowning and giving the kittens away, one bright morning in June Taboic discovered that she was alone.

Her breavement was tr ly pathetic and even touched the heart of the and even touched the heart of the farmer's wife. Tabbie was simply inconsolate in her grief. She wandered to and fro mourning and mewing in a piteous manner. That the poor cat did not don crape, was no fault of hers. Tabbie refused to eat, and forthwith betook herself to the woods and orchard bewailing the loss of offand orchard bewailing the loss of offspring.

A short distance from the barn was a spring, all around which the willows grew thickly and rankly. It was a favorite resort for birds. They bathed about the spring, disported in the waters, and sang sweetly amidst the dense clump of green oziers. Every day a great flock of different kinds of songsters, collected in that cool, shady covert. It was mating and nesting season, and much love-making prevailed. ing prevailed.

nesting season, and much love-maxing prevailed.

Soon, this bird colony was joined by two cheerful little catbirds. They were domestically inclined, and began at once to build their home. A pretty, delicate nest was presently constructed, several eggs magically appeared, and then Mrs. Catbird began the sitting. Her lover-husband was tender and devoted, bringing dainty morsels to the bride-wife, and merrily singing in his peculiar feline way, all the long, beautiful June days. So passed as a dream the dainty honey-moon.

About the time the callow brood appeared, Tabbie met with her sore bereavement. One day she wandered disconsolately down to the spring and, for the first time heard the catbird's call. She thought it was one of her

The catbird kept up his cheery note, and Tabbie continued her heart rending wails. She wandered through the willow thicket calling, and vainly seeking for the lost kittens. Not finding them, she at length gave up the search; but, the following day Tabbie was again at the spring mewing piteously and searching the ozier covert. This scene was repeated for many days. The cotbird seemed after while to comprehend the situation, though his little heart was untouched by poor Tabbie's great sorrow. For by poor Tabbie's great sorrow. The Value of Charcoal into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.
Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

Physical exercise for the passengers on big trans-Atlantic steamships is being developed more and more every day, and it will not be many years before everyone of the steamships of the more important lines will be equipped with a gymnasium in which will be found the same exercising machines that are to be found on shore. It has been found by the officers of ships on which atbletic games are encouraged during the voyage that the general health of the passengers is much better than on ships where people loll about all day, and that a generous amount of such exercise is one of the best preventitives of sea-Physical exercise for the passengers one of the best preventitives of sea-sickness. As an experiment the Hamburg-American Line some time ago installed a gymnasium on the ex-press steamship Bluecher, where both men and women may exercise, and it has been found, since its installation, that the services of the ship's doctor have decreased to a remarkable de-DOCTOR STARTED THE PRACTICE

The beginning of regular exercising on board the big liners was the result of the observation of a doctor who noticed that the majority of travellers who became seasick on the steamship on which he was employed were the people who sat about the most. He also noticed that those who, when they felt seasickness coming on, moved about or were at all active, were the least affected. Now the ship to which he is attached never comes to port without a tale of spirited athletic events at sea, and with a ruddy-looking lot of passengers.

looking lot of passengers.
On the ships that do not carry passengers the officers have for a long time used different methods of keeping in trim. The officers on sailing vessels that are at sea for months vessels that are at sea for months at a time and the officers on steamships that ply courses to Australia, the Far East and other distant points have exercising down to a science. In almost every man's room can be found a pair of Indian clubs, while others have a full oufit of dumbbells and weights. Some time during the day they find time to use them, supplementing them by a run several bells and weights. Some time during the day they find time to use them, supplementing them by a run several times about the deck. Friendly wrestling matches are also engaged in among the officers, not with the idea of gaining supremacy over any man, but to keep from going stale. On the trans-Atlantic passenger ships there is always some one officer whose duty seems in part to be concite interest among the passengers in athletic sport. That officer, circulating among the passengers, starts culating among the passengers, starts one game and then another without arousing suspicion as to his motives, until sometimes, before the ship is well to sea, most of the people aboard are engaged in carrying out the pre-arranged plan.

On some of the German liners the first night at sea, is usually devoted to a dance. On the British, American and French lines, shuffleboard is the chief amusement for the first day, and then, when the passengers are better acquainted, races of all kinds are arranged.

AMUSING HANDICAP RACES. A race is usually run the length of the deck and back again, but some-times there is a handicap which tak-es the runners from almost the bot-tom of the ship to the top deck or the same distance in the other direction. For a race from the topside down, canvas chutes are placed over the companionways, and a racer on reaching one of the chutes jumps into and lands a second later on the deck below. Interest is added to the race at this point because some men land in a sitting posture while oth-ers strike the deck on all fours. Women are usually barred from this The egg and spoon race is usually each contestant is provided with a

THE CIGARETTE RACE.

A cigarette race is not the least exciting or amusing. In this, men and women are paired off. Either can do the running, but the men usually usurp that honour. The runners start from one end of the deck, while the partners wait at the other end. Each man is provided with a cigarette and each woman with some matches. The partners must meet, end. Each man is provided with a eigarette and each woman with some matches. The partners must meet, light the cigarette, and then the runner must return to the starting point, his cigarette still lighted, the one to get back first winning the race. The women are compelled to strike the matches to light the cigarette. They are not allowed to strike them on any part of the ship, on a matchbox, or on the soles of their shoes, which leaves "man fashion" practically the only way in which they can ignite the matches. The efforts of some of the women to be mannish is often extremely humorous, and the inability of many women to ignite matches in that way often loses the race to a swift man. Tug-o'-war is popular with every class of traveller, On each vessel that arrives the compliment of passengers includes several nationalities, and it is the custom to match representatives of each nation against the sengers includes several nationalities, and it is the custom to match representatives of each nation against the others. The Germans are more enthusiastic about this game, and usually come off victorious, though not long ago a number of British Parliamentarians outpulled the teams representing America, Germany and France.

It doesn't help a sick baby to give it "soothing" drugs. On the contrary, it lessens baby's chance of recovery. If your little ones show any signs of being unwell promptly give Baby's Own Tablets and see how speedily they, will be bright, cheerful, well and happy. This medicine is sold under a guarantee that it contains no poisonous soothing stuff, or hurtful drug, and it cures all the little ills of babyhood and childhood. Mrs. W. H. Austin, of Farmington, N. Mothers who use the Tablets will have no trouble with their babies." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"BE GENTLE UNTO ALL MEN"

The Moral Leaveners of the World Have Always Been They Who Believe in the Gentler Methods Which Produce Life, and Not in the Fierce, Passionate Methods of the Iconeclast, the Anarchrist and the Firebrand.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1904, by William Baily, of Terento. at the Dep't of Agriculture. Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—In this sermon the preacher tells of the beauties and the potentialities of gentleness and human kindness in the home, in business and in our everyday dealings with friends and enemies. The text is 11. Timothy ii, 24, "Be gentle unto all men."

The great moral leaveners of the The great moral leaveners of the world have used but little blasting powder. They are not past masters n the "High Order of Babbling Quarrelers." Like the laborers, lifting higher and higher the walls of Solomon's temple in Jerusalem, they make but little noise. They tread the pathway of life with feet, for the most part, sandaled in velvet. Their voices are not an angry growl, but a dulcet whisper. Their breath is not cyclonic, but a summer zephyr. Their countenances are not twisted with the demoniac passions of a Hogarth's caricature. Their eyes are not flashcaricature. Their eyes are not flashing with the lightnings of a Mediterranean euroclydon. They are red lipped and laughing eyed and rosy cheeked, with the happy smile of a glorious June sunrise. They believe not in the strenuous life, with its swords and spears and battle-axes and clubs and bludgeons and conflagrations. They believe not in hurling storm cloud against storm cloud, until the deluge comes, and Their eyes are not flash cloud, until the deluge comes, and the bridges are swept away, and the harvest fields are battered down, as though two mighty armies had turnthough two mighty armies had turned the valleys into a gigantic battle-field, where the heavens were resounding with the cannonading of the elements. But they believe in the "gentle life." They believe in the golden pulleys of evaporation, gathering up the waters into the reservoirs of the clouds, to be scattered abroad in the blessed refreshment of April showers. They believe in the gentler means, which produce life, and not in the fierce, passionate methods of the iconoclast, the anarchist and the firebrand, which destroy life.

Nature has her storms, eruptions

Nature has her storms, eruptions and earthquakes, which in her angry and earthquakes, which in her angry moods carry death and destruction in their path, but the gentle ways are always used by nature to accomplish her greatest good. Standing upon a ship's deck some day, I say, "Where did yonder tall, straight mast come from?" "Why," say, "Where did yonder tain, straight mast come from?" "Why," you say, 'hundreds of years ago a bird was flying over the Maine hills toward her nest with a little seed in her mouth. The keen eye of a hawk spied her. When the hawk began to soar higher and higher in the heavens that he might make one terrific plunge upon his prey, the little bird saw him. Before she fied to safety she gave one little frightened cry. When she uttered the cry her bill opened and the seed dropped to the ground. A gentle wind blew up the valley and covered over that seed with a little soil. A little shower then came and moistened that soil, and the little seed began to sprout. It took root. It grew into a bush, It grew up into a sapling. It rounded out into a great big tree. One day a Maine lumberman came through that valley. With his ax he marked that tree for the shipyard. The tree was cut down. It was dragged to the river and floated down to the sawmill. It was scrapwas dragged to the river and floated down to the sawmill. It was scraped and fixed for a mast. When this ship was launched that tree was seed in its present place for man's Nature developed that tree, not in the upheavels of a day, but by the sentle ways of maturing years."

"What will become of that tree?"

"Why," you answer, "by the same gentle means with which that seed was changed into a tree nature will also change that tree into something else. Perhaps next week or next month there will be a storm. This ship will roll and tumble in the trough of the sea and threaten to trough of the sea and threaten to founder. The captain in order to lighten the ship will put his trumpet to his lips and cry. 'Cut away the mast!' When the boat gives a lurch to leeward over will go the mast. That mast will float around the sea until after awhile it will become waterlogged. Then it will sink to the oceans; bottom. Then the waters will cover over that log with submarine deposits. Years later that log will be changed into coke. Then by a gentle process the coke will be log will be changed into coke. Then by a gentle process the coke will be changed into coal. Then, years later, the bed of that ocean by certain changes will be lifted. The submerged continent, which now lies buried between African and America, again may be raised above the waters and toss back its wet locks and put on another crown of green foliage. Then the miners with their pickaxes will begin to dig out the coal. They will come to the old tree now changed into coal. This tree as coal will ed into coal. This tree as coal will then be thrown into the open grate of some home to be built a thousand years hence. Then about that burning coal another Ik Marvel may have his reveries, or perhaps before its glow we young lovers may plight their troth while the flames leap and sputter and laugh at the old, old story which they hear—that old, old story of love which is ever new. As nature gently and quietly changes the seed into a bush and the bush into a sapling and the sapling bush into a sapling and the sapling into a great tree, so it will gently change the tree into coke and the coke into coal."

Nature deals gently with her own in her wonder workings. Paul, the old gospel veteran, tells young Timothy, who is about to succeed him to deal in the same gentle way. Timothy, who is about to succeed him, to deal in the same gentle way with the human trees he is about to try to develop into spiritual maturity. Paul practically says, "Kindness and gentleness and love will accomplish far more for Christ than hate or bitterness or fault finding."

The old pealwist gried out in repu The old psalmist cried out in rap-The old pasimist cried out in rap-ture, "Thy gentleness hath made me great." May we by gospel gentle-ness make others great, even as Christ's gentleness can make us gentle life of the Christian be manifested toward those with whom we come into closest contact. We first of all should be gentle to our parents, our wives, our hus-bands and children and brothers and bands and children and brothers and sisters and home associates. We should be gentle when we arise in the morning and prepare for the breakfast table, be gentle when we are fixing the children for school, be gentle when we kiss our wives goodby as we start for the train, be gentle when we come home at night from the store be very gentle when gentle when we come nome at night from the store, be very gentle when we tuck away the little ones into their beds for the night, for it is by the gentle words. the gentle deeds and the gentle memories that we hold our greatest influence over our dear ones and not by the rebukes and the consoriousness of our bitter tongues. We all know that it is only by gentleness we have our greatest influence over our loved ones. Yet, strange to say, when anything goes wrong at the store or in the home and we lose our tempers we nearly always turn our anger against our own children or our own wives or tur own husbands or our own broth-ers and sisters. If the cook is mean and suddenly leaves us in the lurch or the laundryman ruins our best washed dress or we become fatigued from the spring or the fall house eleaning or our clerks cheat us at the store, then we are very apt to tent our displeasure upon our helpless children or our wives or husbands, who have done nothing. The domestic squalls and upheavels are often due entirely to outside causes and not to inside dissensions. Now, my friends, let us one and all learn or the laundryman ruins our best my friends, let us one and all learn to guard against speaking harsh words against those we love. Let us deal gently with those who are by our side and who are bound us by the strong ties of domestic affections.

Remember that in the influence of

Remember that in the influence of the "gentle life" in the home we can serve God just as truly in the small things and in the little duties as in the great. "In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness," wrote Edward Howard Greggs, "we must not underestimate the value of a simple, good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability, that is an ideal as noble as it is diffi-cult." But that is an ideal which God will let us all reach if we daily go to him in prayer. That is an ideal we all should try to reach, for in order to have our loved ones spiritually sweet we must set them an petty anger and irritability. We ourselves must learn by practice to be true types of the Christian's "gentle life."

"gentle life."

Thousands of men are ready to say they will be kind and gentle to their friends. They are not ready, however, to say they will be kind and forgiving to their enemies. They pride themselves upon the fact that they are good lovers. They also pride themselves upon the fact that they are good haters. If a man does them a kindness they store that fact away in the most secure treasure room of the "temple of memory." They will wait, if need be, ten, twenty, thirty or even forty years to pay back that kindness. But though some people never forget a friend, on the other hand, others never forgive an injury done by an enemy. They may have hand, others never forgive an injury done by an enemy. They may have to abide their time a quarter or even half a century, but when the time comes they are as vindictive as though the past injury was of yesterday. Now, my text emphatically says: "Deal gently with friends. Deal gently with the enemy also." Love those who love you. Yes. But love those who hate you and ill treat you and despise you. That is the commandant of my text also.

Dare you disobey God's orders to deal gently with those who have done you an injury? If you do God will make you rue your defiance in more ways than one. The "sword of hate" is two-edged and keener than any Damascus blade. With one stroke it slays a foe, but when the swordsman draws forth the "blade of vengence" whetted with mortal blace.

man draws forth the "blade of ven geance," whetted with mortal blood of his dying enemy, this sword springs back with its unused edge and slays the vindictive swordsman also. Two lives are generally destroyed, and not one. Now, my text demands that you shall try to destroy your foes not by crushing them, troy your foes not by crushing them, but by winning them to your ranks. You are to destroy them, even as Napoleon on his escape from Elba made Marshal Ney and his grenadiers fall at his feet, because they felt he loved them. You are to destroy them by dealing gently with them, by forgiving as well as forgetting the evils of the past.

But greater sweep than the establishment of harmonious relationships lishment of harmonious relationships with our personal enemies has the application of my text.

To bring the lost sheep back to the Shepherd's fold ought to be the high-Shepherd's fold ought to be the highest wish and desire of every Christian. And that is not to be done by menaces and denunciation. God, as Elliah found, is not in the earthquake nor in the fire, but in "the still small voice." Men may be wooed back to God, but they are seldom driven. And why should we not deal gently with God's wayward children? Do you for one instant think those people who spiritually and morally have gone astray are having a good time? Do you for one moment suppose that the man who, like Laocoon, knows that he and his family are struggling amid the crushing coils of deadly serpents on account of his sins would not gladly be res-of his sins would not gladly be rescued from those enveloping coils it we could only go to him gently in Christ's name and offer to him the peace and the pardon and the hope and the eternal life of the gospel?

Ah, yes, my brother, he would, he would!

No man enjoys drinking the bitter dregs of remorse. No man for mere pleasure would allow Satan to keep on flaying him alive, as Satan is doing to his victims all around us. Sometimes at first looks are deceiving in reference to this. From the opened door of the saloon or low haunt of vice we hear the songs and the guifaws of laughter. Then we opened door of the saloon or low haunt of vice we hear the songs and the guffaws of laughter. Then we say, "Oh, what a high carnival is sin?" But stop. Is that all? Do you see that young man who now comes toward us in seedy attire? His step is staggering. He is blear-eyed and maudlin in drink. He turns down a side street and staggers on to his lodgings in the upper room of a poor tenement, where live his wife and four or five half-naked and half-starved children. That young man only ten years ago was dressed as well as you or I. He had then a finer business than you have to-day. He once had just as happy a home. Tell me that man is happy? Is that the man whose wife so proudly stepped to the altar to give herself to him in marriage? Is that the young man her friends congratulated her upon marrying?
Call that fun? Fun to be kicked to the altar to give herself to him in marriage? Is that the young man her friends congratulated her upon marrying?

Call that fun? Fun to be kicked out of your home? Fun to have the sheriff sell your store over your head? Fun to have all your old friends turn their back upon you and look upom you as an outcast? Through the midnight darkness I hear the echoing of the song of ten years ago now singing, "The wages of sin is death." Oh, no, my brother; that young man is not happy. The worst taskmaster on earth is the devil. No man so much wants to crush the power of sinful temptation as that man who has been compelled to drink the bitter dregs of despair. Do not despise him; pity him, and with gentle words try to win him back to honor and to Christ. He deserves your commiseration. Therefore, if you and I are ready to go to God's outcasts, if we are ready to go to the sinners in Christ's name and say gently, "Brother, Jesus is ready to save you, Jesus wants me to be your friend and help you," there would be no difficulty in most cases about the spiritual rescues. But the trouble with this old hateful and hating world is, as Josh Billings quaintly put it, "When a man starts downhill it seems as though everything was greased for the occasion." And when a man once strikes the bottom of the hill but very few people are ready to fing him the gospel rope and haul him up out of the mud. Oh, mah, can you not hear Christ speaking to you in behalf of God's wayward children, as David, the broken-hearted father, once said to General Joab about his wayward boy: 'Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom.'' man, even with Absalom."

Oh, how many sinners could be brought to Christ if we would only practice the gospel of a gentle life! It is said that one of the hardest criminals of an eastern penitentiary was converted by the gentleness of a was converted by the gentleness of a little child. This little girl and her father were being shown through the prison wards. When the party came to a long flight of stairs the warden turned to this hardened life prisoner. turned to this hardened life prisoner, and murderer near by and said, "Jack, carry her upstairs." When the hard-featured convict stooped down to pick up the little girl she looked up into his face with a smile and said, "Jack, will you kiss me?" And when he was about to put the little one down she said, "Now, Jack, will you let me kiss you?" No sooner were those last words spoken than the old criminal's heart was melted. God struck the rock of Horeb and it gushed forth with tears of penigushed forth with tears of peni-tence. Kindness did it. The gentle-ness of a little child accomplished what the blows of the keeper and the iren bars could never do. Oh, man, will you not start forth from this moment to win sinful men and wo-men to Jesus Christ by the omnipo-tent power of a gospelized "gentle life?"

To save immortals for Christ ought to be the chief mission of man. In view of which fact again I ask the same question I asked before, Why should we not be gentle with the why should we not be gentle with the sins and wrong-doings of other people? Has not God been very gentle in his dealings with our sins? When William E. Gladstone, the "great commoner" of England, was dying commoner" of England, was dying his son was reading to him this beautiful verse from Paul's epistle to young Timothy, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners," and no sooner did the son come to the word "sinners" then the dying statesman finished the verse, "of whom I am the chief."

We have seen how man in his do the chief."

We have seen how man in his devotion to man was ready to sacrifice his all for an earthly master. Cannot we, at least in the same ratio, be willing to sacrifice our lives to the service of Jesus Christ, to bring sinners to Christ through the influences of a "gentle life."

Amid a large gathering in London of literary men William Makepeace

Thackeray one night said in reference Thackeray one night said in reference to Shakespeare, whose name was be-ing discussed, "I should like to have been Shakespeare's shoeblack, just to have lived in his house, just to have worshiped him, just to have run on his errands and have seen that sweet, serene face." If the great-est of all English satirists was est of all English satirists was ready to give such devotion to the greatest of all English dramatists should not, we be willing to do what a living Christ wants us to do? Should we not, shall we not, gladly go forth to bring sinners back to the altar of mercy by kindness and Christian love? Charles Wagner, the Alsatian preacher, in pleasure-loving Paris has rung the changes in the powerish as the state of the changes in the power shall be supported by the changes in the power shall be shall b is has rung the changes in the power of "the simple life." To-day I preach the gospel of the "gentle life"—the tender gentleness by which God made David great and by which we cen. through Christ, make others great and, through Christ, become great

The list of catarrh cures is as long as the moral law and the forms in which they are administered, numer-

The success and popularity of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is largely because it not only cures catarrh but because catarrh sufferers who used these tablets know what they are taking into their system. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets being composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar valuable and antiseptic ingredients, and are pleasant to the taste and being dissolved in the mouth they take immediate effect upon the mucous lining of the throat, nasal passages and whole respiratory tract.

The cures that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have accomplished in old chronic cases of catarrh are little short of remarkable, and the advantage of knowing what you are putting into your stomach is of paramount importance when it is remembered that the cocaine or morphine habit has been frequently contracted as the result of using secret catarrh remedies.

Cleanliness of the skin, and making one look and feel younger.

Cleanliness of the skin has a great effect on the general health, and it is well known that if one has been exposed to infection the best thing to do by way of prequition is to take a hot bath immediately.

It is a mistake to remain to long in a tepid bath. Throughout the winter, and early spring it is best, if oen is at all liable to chills, to take bath at night, just before going to the bath at a tight, just before going to deal if taken in the daytime, brisk exercise—either walking or dumbbell practice—is highly beneficial.

"That does seem rather more suitable for it, doesn't it?"

I meant to hang it up in the hall rack as I came in."

Niblick laughed and hung up his hat. But when he changed his linen that evening, to go out he tossed what he had discarded on the floor of his dressing room. When on the same place, he told his wife that the floor nad not been swept.

THE COMMON THINGS.

The sunshine and the gentle rain,
The clear bird song that halls the morn,
The meadow land with flowers stain,
The swaying banners of the corn,
The grass that whispers to the breeze—
What common things are these?

The broad blue mirror of the lake sky:

That smiles back at the sleeping sky:

The billows, too, that leap and break And fling their foamy jewels high;

The sliver clouds that one by one Toss back the lances of the sun.

The stars that blaze as jewels blaze, And make the world old mystery, while they, on their appointed ways, Go speeding through eternity

Across unfathomed seas of space on paths that we not dimly trace—

All these are common — brook and bird,
And rose of red, and meadow green;
So common that they seem unheard,
So common that they seem unseen,
And yet there is no day or night
But bestows all of their delight.

No common thing is held apart
From us, or pent with look and Rey,
But in the goodness of his heart
They are all made for you and me,
It always seems God loves the best Things he makes the commonest.

The available farm land in Indian Territory is estimated at fifteen million acres. These figures are taken from the records of the Dawes Commission. Of this 15 per cent, was in cultivation last year. There are about two million acres of land where pine is found in commercial quantities and there is an abundance of hard wood of all kinds. The latest statistics obtainable give the value of farm animals at $55,000,000. The per cent, of the population engaged in agriculture is exceeded in only three—Mississippi, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER FARM WORK RY ELECTRICITY

Ejectricity has at last been applied successfully to agriculture, says the November World's Work. Already, on farms in southern France, horses are replaced by motors. The farmers of the province of Aisne have discarded their horses, and are threshing their grain, grinding their flour, outing roots, and pumping water by electricity. The owners of large farms have their own motors. The smaller proprietors club together to buy a motor, which is moved from from farm to farm as each farmer needs it.

charles E. Norris, of Dever, Col., who dropped dead in Chicago not long ago, was probarly known to more telegraph operators and rallway men than any other person in America, and for several years had been a subject of inquiry by physicians interested in the cure of consumption. That was because Norris, after passing the age of 64 years, had walked more than 14,000 miles in an effort to rid himself of the disease.

In his trobules he had sonsulted with everybody who had made more than a casual study of tuberoulosis, visited every saultarium where cases of the kind were treated, and amassed a fund of information on the subject, but in spite of his open-air life and exercise he failed to completely recover his health, and in the last few months had been a physical wreek.

WALKED 14'000 MILES TO GET RID OF CONSUMPTION

Measurements taken by surgeous of the Japanese army show that the Japanese smallness of statute is due to an almost dwarfed condition of the legs. This is probably due to the legs. This is probably due to the fact that from early childhood a really unnatural way of sitting is constantly practised. The adult japanese is accustomed to sit with Japanese is accustomed to sit with his legs bent under him. As soon as the child is old enough to be set upon the floor his legs are bent pander him in imitation of the custom of his elders. This, in time, dwarf the growth of the limbs. Actual deformity is less common among the peasants than among scholars, merchants and others of sedentary habits.

A decorator named Paul Reimers was so fond of reading his Bible during working hours at Cleveland, O, that the foreman took it away from him. Often the railway man had warm meals waiting for him and he was always permitted to sleep on newspapers spread on the floor of the station behind the stove. He used to say this was as comfortable aplace as anybody would desire in winter, and in warm weather he slept under a tree or in a cart. The railway men were always glad to see him, because he brought with him all the gossip of the road.

Norris had gone from Denver to Omaha, where he obtained work in a newspaper. There he caught a cold, which developed into consumption, and three years ago his physician told him that unless he kept constantly in the open air his life could not be saved. Norris gave up his position and started to walk. He weighed 98 pounds then. First he walked back to Denver, but finding that the air there apparently did him no benefit, he decided to go to California. esting."

A few months pass, while foreign eyes daily scan the paper for news of the battery. At last the editor gravely informs his readers that "new guns for the battery now building have arrived."

Aha," says the intelligence man, "our agent in London must have a look at that." And accordingly one day a pleasant foreigner arrives at the bar, and is a good list tener when yarns about the new battery are told. Finally, he departs, and sends his report to his chief, who hands it on to his expert branch for close invest gation.

GETTING AT THE TRUTH.

Humdrum work it seems, but it is really only on rare occasions that romance enters the life of the intelligence man. Every Government has its Press Department. The Press Department and its Intelligence service.

Often the military attache alone can aftend to this. For example, let us assume that a new gun has been issued to the troops. Military as well as non-military papers in our days or which all papers agree, so that slow which all papers agree, so that slow which all papers agree, so that slow brivate firms interested in the manufacture of the gun may be built upform all these daft, and the mompetitors. NOT AS ROMANTIC ASITIS PICTURED rises before their eyes, writes "One rises before their eyes, writes "One who Has Served," in the London Express.

When people read or hear of a secret service agent, the picture of a man, armed to the teeth with gevolvers and stilettoes, a mixture of a Sherlook Holmes and a Bill Sikes rises before their eyes, writes "One Who Has Served," in the London Express.

Now, as a matter of fact, the best secret service agent in the world and the one most generally relied upon by the nations is—the editor of the local paper.

Let us call the town Greenbeach, and assume that the Government has decided to build a hidden battery close by. The editor of the "Greenbeach Gazette" will announce in his columns that Inspector or Captain So-and-So has arrived at the local hotel to superintend some work for the Government. Next week tenders will be invited for bricks, cement and slags. The forign intelligence man, reading this news in Paris, Berlin, or St. Petersburg, begins to chuckle, "This is going to be interesting."

secretis.

On this account, of course, prices are not so high as is generally believed. For example, a Government would rarely pay "several thousand pounds" for the purchase of a signal book. Was not the secret of the French field guns sold in 1898 to Germany for five thousand francs (£200), and such a secret has a hundredfold the value of a signal book. Altogether, the life of the secret service man is not devoid of interest. He gets hardened to the business, and if it were not for the exciting fact that where other people deal in goods he deals in the lives of nations, it would soon pall.

Of course, on the first occasions when you have been sent to a foreign country, and carry papers in your pocket which, if found on you, would obtain for you twenty years' hard labor free of charge, it is difficult to keep perfectly at ease when talking to a high police officer or military official. In the end, however, you are caught.

The main agents of Russia and France are ladies, while Germany prefers men—so does Britain.

The main agents of the French policy of employing female spies was celebrated in Italy, when a well known lady of the French Embassy maniady intended to occur from the first th tary secrets. There are furthe deserters, who, arriving in action ountry generally without meturn the knowledge they have quired during their time of secrets.

In only two more days it would sail, and Tunis would belong to Italy, when during one of the fovers' meetings the Italian Minister let the secret out. The rest belongs to history. France arrived first and occupied Tunis.

THE BRITISH SERVICE.

Here is another fact which may appear hardly creditable, but is absolutely true. At the beginning of the South African war I had to consult with the Intelligence Department of a large German gun firm, and for fun the chief of the department showed me the record of the arranaments of the Boers. Well, this record was true to the last line, while the port of the British Intelligence Department of the British Intelligence beartment contained not even the list f guns sold to the Boers by British rms previous to the war. Great Britain has an excellent bags, than any small secret service. We pry less, perhaps, than any other power, but no important subject is left uncovered. We spend, perhaps, £5 against £50 by our continental neighbors, but much of our intelligence costs nothing, being accepted from honorary sources. For this reason it is frequently valueless. In the South African war many mistakes were made through inaccurate news and the employment of people who would go to any length to justify their employment for the time being.

The complication of facts is fairly easy in British avossessions. Foreign officers can always secure admission to factories and dockyards, and the openness of their treatment is not equalled in any other country.

It may be that other people have lived not, so had all the joy, of discoverers at having invented the invented so paradoxical a thing. One vented have been nothing else, and the next evening as we watched the sun go down behind the lake, we lighted a great fire of pitch pine knots and the pine was left to pine knots and the pine was such joy of our 'own creation that we sat, worshipping before it like pagans, until midnight, rejoicing that gloom was banished forever from tent life.

The hive-shaped stove was built of stones laid up in mortar made wf Portland cement and sand from the lake shore. On the side next the tent an opening was left to fill one breadth which was ripped and tacked to the mantel, 'a rustic affair, of beautifully weathered driftwood. Some cement spread over the board floor made the hearth and our fire screen was a piece of wire neeting fastened to two pieces of lath and hung in froat of the fire, Three lengths of stove pipe gave the required heights for the chimney, which was firmly held in place by wires fast, ened to the tent poles.

In every summer camp there are cold, rainy days, when it takes courage and pride to keep "game" in spite of damp air and damper bedding, whehn mroning after morning one may be awakened by the rain pelting ummercifully on the roof of his frail dwelling, and begin to long in secret for civiliaztion. The fire place has "changed all that" for the gloomy evenings and rainy days are filled with recollections of many books read aloud by our genial, fragrant pine-knot fire,—Outing.
