Disquiet Develops in Dublin and Other District of Ireland

DE VALERA TO SPEAK Meeting Called by East Clare Member Prohibited By Government

REVOLT THREATENS Uprising Denounced By Leaders Among Catholic Clergy

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Nov. 3.—Concerning the political situation in Ireland, The Daily Mail, in its second edition today, says:

"There is reason to believe that a feeling of disquiet has developed in Dublin and some country districts over the Sinn Fein situation. Prof. De Valera's meetings fixed for Sunday at Newbridge and Kildare have been prohibited."

Prof. De Valera is member of parliament for East Clare, but has never taken his seat. Denounced Uprising. London, Nov. 3.—The Sinn Fein movement has suffered during the last few days a serious check in consequence of the denunciation of any sort of armed rebellion by some prominent members of the Roman Catholic clergy, according to the Dublin correspondent of The Daily Mail. The correspondent refers especially to a sermon by the Rev. Thomas P. Gilmarin, bishop of Clontarf, on the eve of the recent visit to Loughrea of Prof. De Valera, one of the prominent Sinn Fein leaders. Bishop Gilmarin declared that a recourse to armed force under the present circumstances would be morally unlawful.

When De Valera spoke at Loughrea he showed himself, according to the correspondent, very apprehensive of ecclesiastical influence and his language was much more pacific than at any Sinn Fein conference. The important newspaper, The Irish Catholic, denounces strongly Sinn Fein physical force methods. "It," adds the correspondent of The Daily Mail, "the Sinn Feiners continue to preach a hot gospel of revolution, they will be denounced by the church."

KITCHENER ASSIZES By Courier Leased Wire. Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 2.—Chief Justice Sir William Mulock sentenced Harvey A. A. Bricknell, former bookkeeper of Kitchener Water Commission, found guilty on three counts of the indictment in which he was charged with embezzlement, to six months in the common jail. His Lordship again criticized the city council for their appointment of auditors who were lax in the performance of their duties and stated Bricknell could not be held entirely responsible for the defalcations.

CANADIANS SUFFERING. Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 2.—Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. S. Bryan received a letter from their son, Private Elburn Bryan, who went overseas with an Ottawa battalion and was gassed and is now in hospital in England. He referred to the arrival of a wounded soldier named Dion of Toronto, who was brought in terribly wounded. "What are they going to do with the rest of us here?" said the letter, "leave us to be slaughtered? We have no much of the line to hold and we have to hold it. If reinforcements don't soon come we will only have one division."

WEATHER BULLETIN Toronto, Nov. 3.—Since yesterday morning a few local showers have occurred in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys. Otherwise the weather has been fair over the Dominion except on the British Columbia coast, where rain has fallen heavily. Forecasts. Moderate winds, fair and comparatively mild to-day and on Sunday.

Present German Withdrawal May Prove as Momentous a Retreat as That of Last Spring--Allies Pressing Foe Hard

By Courier Leased Wire.

Another German retirement is under way in France. For the second time within eight months Allied pressure has caused a withdrawal of the Teuton line on the Western front.

The Germans have retreated from the hilly front of the Chemin des Dames, northeast Soissons and south of Laon, according to Berlin, which, however, fails to define the limits of the retirement accurately. The French official statement of Friday night has not yet reached this country and the other side of the Berlin report is not known. The German statement says the troops of the German Crown Prince systematically withdrew their lines unnoticed and undisturbed by the enemy."

Probably the Germans have only retired across the Ailette River from Ohavignon to Craonne, a distance of about 13 miles, or they may have started on a retreat paralleling that of last March on the Somme, when they finally fell back before Anglo-French pressure from Arras to Soissons.

Even if they have only withdrawn across the Ailette it is not unlikely because of General Petain's successful drive of last week when he reached the Oise-Aisne canal eight miles southwest of Laon and captured more than 12,000 prisoners. From the positions gained then the French could and did bombard the Germans clinging to the hilly strip between the Chemin des Dames and the Ailette.

The hills on the northern bank of the Ailette generally are not as high as those on the south and the Crown Prince may have gone back to the line of the River Ardon which runs southwest from Laon and joins the Ailette north of Chavignon. It is improbable that the Germans did not retire across the Ailette as not to do so might place them in a worse position than on top of the ridge.

The retirement might include Laon, the reputed southern citadel of the Hindenburg line of last March, but if the front of the Ailette is given up, a line from St. Quentin through La Fere, Laon and Montargis to Neufchatel-sur-Aisne, along the railroad between La Fere and Neufchatel might offer a good halting place. A retirement only to the northern bank of the Ailette between Chavignon and Craonne might not affect the line from Chavignon north of St. Quentin, but a further retreat would involve the present lines as far as La Fere at least. On the eastern end of the Chemin des Dames if the retirement is not made secure quickly, there is the possibility of a French blow at Champagne which might straighten out the entire line from Craonne to Verdun.

General Cadorna has halted on the western bank of the Tagliamento to face the on-coming Austro-German. The eastern bank of the river, Berlin reports, has been cleared of Italians from the Fella valley, where the Tagliamento turns westward to Tolmezzo to the Adriatic. Italian guns are bombarding the invaders along the new line, but apparently no attempt has yet been made by the Austro-Germans to force a crossing of the river. There are no indications as to the whereabouts of the Austro-Germans reported driving through the Carnic Alps early in the week in an attempt to turn the flank of the Agliamento. Reports from Switzerland say the Germans are hurrying troops and guns into the Trentino. This might mean either to strengthen the Austrians there, or to start a drive south from Trent in an attempt to cut off the Italians now on the Venetian plains.

PLOT AGAINST FORD By Courier Leased Wire. Detroit, Mich., Nov. 3.—It became known to-day that federal agents in Detroit are investigating an alleged plot to abduct or kill Henry Ford II, infant son of Edsel Ford, and grandson of the multi-millionaire manufacturer. A letter demanding $10,000 from Edsel Ford as the price of the baby's safety, was turned over to post office inspectors several days ago. It is understood that one man has been detained and that several arrests are impending. The letter was signed "Sicilian anarchist association." It demanded that the money be sent to Gus Adams, and said it would be called for at the general delivery department.

CONSCRIPTION Paul Mongeau Thinks His Writ May Obstruct Military Service Act

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Paul Emile Mongeau, the anti-conscriptionist under arrest on a charge of violating the Military Service Act, who has applied for a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Saint Cyr from giving judgment in his case, addressed a meeting last night at St. Mary's Labor Club. He expressed the hope, gathered from his lawyer's view of the case, that the proceedings he has taken will lead to a delay of five years in the operation of the Military Service Act.

HUN RAIDER DESTROYED BY BRITISH

German Cruiser "Crocodile" Is Sunk in Scandinavian Waters FIVE TRAWLERS SUNK British Destroyers Sent Six Foe Vessels to the Bottom

By Courier Leased Wire.

Copenhagen, Nov. 3.—A German commerce raider and five armed trawlers have been sunk by British destroyers in Scandinavian waters.

Elsinore, Denmark, Nov. 3.—"Wounded men from a German auxiliary cruiser, sunk in the North Sea, were landed here to-day."

Copenhagen, Nov. 3.—The sinking of a German raider named Crocodile and of five German armed trawlers is reported by men on two Danish steamships. They say they sighted the German vessels in flames and later saw her sink.

The Crocodile was a new ship of nearly 1,000 tons and carried a crew of 100 men.

London, Nov. 3.—The Admiralty announces that certain British forces have been engaged in the Cattegat, an arm of the North Sea, between Sweden and Denmark, and that prisoners are being brought in. No further information is yet at hand. Copenhagen, Nov. 3.—The commerce raider which was disguised, and the trawlers, were sunk in the Skagerrak, an arm of the North Sea, between Norway and Denmark. The British destroyers thus effected another clean-up of German naval forces in Scandinavian waters.

Picket Foundered. Washington, Nov. 3.—The Navy Department has been advised that a picket boat of an American battleship in home waters has foundered and its crew of twelve men are missing. It is believed the men are lost. The Navy Department issued this statement:

"The Navy Department announces that on October 30, the picket boat of the United States, S. Michigan, foundered. Apparently the entire crew were lost. The finding of the bodies of three of the crew and the failure to find any trace of the boat or its occupants leads the department to believe that all were lost."

Kerensky's Statement, Rather Than Threat to War, An Affirmation of Russia's Loyalty to Allied Cause

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, Nov. 3.—Most of the morning newspapers print Premier Kerensky's interview conspicuously, but the comment is not general. The Petrograd correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who is now in London, writes:

"Premier Kerensky's statement seems to have been taken a little too seriously in some quarters. It even has been construed as a hint that Russia is toying with the idea of a separate peace. This theory should not be allowed to establish itself."

RUSSIA GAVE WHAT SHE HAD

Probably all Kerensky wished was to indicate facts, familiar to close students of Russia for some time, and they are such as to arouse sympathy rather than suspicion. It is true that Russia is worn out and it has been true for a much longer time than has elapsed since the outbreak of the revolution. Unfortunately until that event military exigencies prevented the truth from being told about Russia's share in the war which has been greatly under-estimated. The essential fact is that what Russia had she has given."

RECALLS RUSSIAN HEROISM

The writer then tells of the immense sacrifice in men that Russia has made recalled the revelations in the trial of General Soukhomlinoff, former minister of war, of how Russian heroes stood up with only sticks, stones and fists, against the organized German troops. He believes that the Russian casualties have been higher than any other of the main belligerents.

The Graphic says: "We should hate to regard the statements as authentic. They have the ring of pro-German propaganda."

The newspaper then says that Kerensky "if he has made such a statement" should be reminded that France and Great Britain have been in the war as long as Russia, but are not yet weary and do not desire to shirk their responsibilities. Russia, it declares, also has received generous assistance from the allied and United States. The Graphic concludes:

"Now is the time to prove her devotion to the ideals of the allies, not by lip service, but by good hard blows on the weakened Austro-German lines in the east."

Criticizes Kerensky. London, Nov. 3.—General Gurko of the Russian army, who arrived recently in England from Russia, in an interview in The Daily Express, says that Premier Kerensky showed lack of political sense and tact in blaming the British fleet for not entering the Baltic. He declared that such entry was not only impossible, but that it could not have been carried out in time to prevent the Germans from landing on the islands in the Gulf of Riga.

General Gurko considers it true to a certain extent that Russia bore the brunt of the fighting in the first 18 months of the war, but it realized that if the allied cause was not to be ruined this was necessary. He agreed with Kerensky that Russia is exhausted for the time being, but adds that Russia should be able to undertake her share of the fighting.

LABOR CANDIDATE

By Courier Leased Wire. North Bay, Ont., Nov. 3.—At the convention of Win-the-War Independent Labor party of Nipissing, held here last night, Charles Harrison of this town was the unanimous choice of the gathering. All portions of the riding were represented. Senator Robertson and Messrs. Marks and Bancroft of Toronto spoke. Mr. Harrison has been a resident of this town for many years. He is a Canadian Police conductor, has strongly identified himself with the labor movement, and is at present chairman of the Order of Railroad Conductors.

HEARTLING SUCCEEDS MICHEALIS

Official Announcement is Made of New Appointment to Chancellorship SUPPORT HOPED FOR Conservatives in Reichstag Are Opposed to New Chancellor

By Courier Leased Wire

Count von Hertling, it is announced officially from Berlin, has been appointed Imperial German chancellor in succession to Dr. Michaelis, who retires to another, but unnamed, official position. The new chancellor apparently has the support of all the Reichstag elements, except the Socialists and the Conservatives. The Socialists, however, will give no active opposition until the Count's policies are known more clearly.

Copenhagen, Nov. 3.—Count Geo. F. von Hertling has been appointed Imperial German chancellor. This is announced in an official statement received here from Berlin. The Kaiser, in a rescript to Dr. Michaelis, the retiring chancellor, expresses a desire to employ him further in the imperial service. It is understood that Dr. Michaelis will take over another high imperial office, for which his qualifications are admitted generally.

Berlin correspondents report that Count von Hertling has succeeded in establishing satisfactory working arrangements with all parties except the Socialists and Conservatives. Even the Socialists, it is added, although not abandoning their attitude of reserve, can be counted upon to make no difficulties for the new government unless unforeseen conditions develop. This virtually amounts to a continuance of the existing Reichstag bloc, with the active support of the National Liberals. In the Reichstag, the Conservatives alone maintain an adverse attitude towards the incoming chancellor.

It is not known here whether Friedrich von Payer has yet been appointed vice-chancellor or Herr Friedberg, leader of the National Liberal party, who has been given the post of vice-president of the Prussian ministry, although Berlin probably is fully informed of the decision in these cases.

French Advance; Huns Retreat

By Courier Leased Wire

Paris, Nov. 3.—The French are advancing between the Oise canal and the region of Corbeny and have reached the south bank of the Ailette River, the war office announces.

The Germans have retreated to the north bank of the river. The bridges across the Ailette were destroyed by the Germans. Since October 23, the French have captured 422 guns and 720 machine guns.

AIRPLANE SUPPLY IS UNLIMITED

American Plants Will Soon Be Able to Meet all Allied Demands DESIGNS PERFECT Neither Plane Nor "Liberty Motor" Require Improvement

By Courier Leased Wire

Washington, Nov. 3.—That great progress has been made in the construction of airplanes and that there are no demands of this or the allied Governments which the manufacturing facilities of American plants cannot supply after next July, was officially announced last night. Known officials of the Aircraft Production Board said few changes in the design of either the plane or in the "liberty motor" were believed necessary and that production in quantity of the fighting machines soon would be in progress in many factories.

with a strictly "temperance beverage" and passed it around the board, each member drinking a silent toast. After dinner the tables were speedily cleared away and the floor made ready for dancing, which continued all evening to the strains of Beatty's Orchestra. A novel innovation was "The Pumpkin Dance," when the lighted pumpkins formed the only light for the dancers. The midnight chimes brought one of the most successful evenings in the history of the club to a close, many members expressing the wish that it be repeated next year. A number of men from Toronto were present at the dance, also several ladies from out of town were among those present.

Says the Toronto Globe of the marriage of a former curate of Grace Church, Brantford: The marriage of Marguerite Coursoles, daughter of the late Clarkson and Mrs. Clarkson Jones, to the Rev. Jerrald Potts, took place yesterday in St. Thomas' Church, of which the groom is the curate. The Rev. C. Ensor Sharp officiated, assisted by the Rev. Sutherland Mackinnon. The bride was given away by her brother, Dr. Ogden Jones, and wore a gown of white net, with Honiton applique the train being formed of her mother's wedding veil. Her own veil was of tulle, edged with Brussels lace, and caught with orange blossoms. Miss Gladys Jones, the bridesmaid, was dressed in pale blue brocaded butterfly of lace. Her hat was of tulle velvet. Dr. Victor Moonhouse was groomsmen. The service was followed by a reception, and later the bride and groom left for their honeymoon. Mrs. Potts wears a dark brown poplin, with coat of brown broadcloth, and brown velvet hat. On their return they will reside at 509 Huron St. Mr. F. C. Thomas, organist of Grace Church, was one of the Brantford guests attending the wedding, and presided at the organ during the ceremony.

Board of Education to Apply for Exemption for Teachers

NO COAL FOR SCHOOLS Difficulty Met With In Securing an Adequate Fuel Supply

Write Simcoe Agency, Box 311, or phone 356, all matters regarding delivery or subscriptions, news items or advertisements.

(From our own Correspondent) Simcoe, Nov. 3.—At a largely attended meeting of farmers of the township of Charlotteville held yesterday in the township hall at Walsh it was decided to call a convention of the electors of the county, to be held in Simcoe on Nov. 15th for the purpose of nominating an independent candidate to contest the riding at the impending federal election in the interests of farmers and laborers. The bills for the meeting call for polling sub-division meetings at 8 o'clock on the evening of November 14th to select three delegates from each. They are signed by N. S. Palmerton, of Walsh, an ex-reeve of the township, who sat at the head of the table for many years, and has always been regarded as a staunch Conservative, and by Carl Wilson, of Victoria, a Conservative. Mark Gibbs and Wm. Fredenburg were prominent speakers.

There was a large turnout to the meeting, and the trend of discussion was the necessity of getting more men from the land into parliament to insure that wealth and big corporate interests shall bear their share in the matter of liquidating the enormous debt incurred in the prosecution of the war. There was no protest registered against the war legislation of the recent government during the meeting.

The appointment of this new factor, attended as it was by, we are informed, as many Reformers as Conservatives, goes to show that the late member, besides being unsatisfactory to the Conservative element, was not before stated, lost the confidence of a large and influential section of his former supporters. It is the general complaint that Mr. Charlton took no interest in the riding, that even during the trying times since the war broke out, he has not appeared at a public meeting in the county, to encourage, direct, or lead any movement, and that though reputed to be financially very comfortable, his name never appeared upon any of the many subscription lists by which many thousands of dollars have been given to support war effort, and that his sole claim to further represent this riding at Ottawa is based on the theory of "Divine Right."

The development at Walsh shows conclusively that the proposition of half a dozen select Liberals of Simcoe to battle the question of Norfolk's representative in camera here, was wisely nipped in the bud. From Port Rowan also comes news of general unquietness, and a demand for a change in Norfolk. Simcoe, Nov. 3.—(From Our Own Correspondent) —The following members attended the meeting of the Board of Education last night: Chairman, A. M. Monroe, Messrs. Edmond Burt, Kelly, Marston, Aiken, Martin, Everett and Lawson.

Communications. (1) Acknowledgement for school children's donation to British Red Cross Fund, $37.00. (2) From T. W. Martin, for an increase to $1450 per annum owing to extra work and high cost of living. (3) From Dr. Richardson, certifying to the indisposition of Mr. Thos. Haddon, janitor. Non-Resident Fees Again. (4) From F. E. Curtis, solicitor, re fees from non-residents. The advice suggested that the estimated cost per pupil of maintenance and instructions should be $2.00 instead of $1.00 and that a non-resident property holder is entitled to send pupils in free of charge even though children attend school from the said property. The principal was instructed to collect fees as advised by the solicitor. It was suggested that adjacent sections should pay part of this tax, but the initiative for such arrangement should come from the parties concerned. (5) From Dr. Bowley advising the Board that he had advised Miss Porter to remain out of school till after Christmas. The principal reported that Mrs. Norman the substitute teacher in this room would leave presently and that Mrs. Francis who supplied for Miss Bauslaugh is willing to supply for Miss Porter at the salary previously received plus the superannuation tax. The management committee was authorized to make a satisfactory arrangement with Mrs. Francis and Miss Porter was given leave of absence without salary till January 1918.

This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful. You can surely have pretty, charming lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

IF YOU AND THE VICTORY LOAN If you, Mr. Citizen, had a debt of Fifty Dollars coming due a few weeks from now, and if you, Mr. Citizen, lost the Fifty Dollars which you had on hand to discharge that debt, and if you, Mr. Citizen, knew that the safety of your home and of Mrs. Citizen and of all the Little Citizens would be imperilled if the debt were not paid—Wouldn't you scrape up another Fifty Dollars somewhere and PAY THAT DEBT? Of course you would. And the point is that you can raise at least a moderate sum if the need is urgent enough. Then see here: "Your country needs money"—needs it, must have it. It needs it to finance the purchase of munitions which the Allies are making in Canada, the munitions which afford work to thousands of Canadians and which are required in ever-increasing quantities if victory is to be won. It needs it for many other purposes in connection with the war, and remember: Upon the winning of this war depends the safety of your home and of Mrs. Citizen and of all the Little Citizens. Mr. Citizen, your country needs money and it comes to you. It does not ask you to give; it merely asks you to lend, and it will pay you handsome interest. THE SITUATION.

Recent victories of the French and British have forced a retirement of the Germans on the Aisne front. The Berlin war jords in making the official announcement, boast that the movement was made "unnoticed and undisturbed by the enemy." Under such circumstances it will be quite in order for them to tell the people of the Fatherland that it was a glorious victory. The incident is one more evidence of the fact that the Allied pressure on the Western front is commencing to tell in a material way and that the Teuton offensive is beginning to crack at the key arch.

News from Italy is more reassuring. The people in face of a common danger are stated to be united and anxious to get into the fray. French and British troops have arrived and it is hoped that a successful stand can be made before Cadorna's main forces sustain a crushing blow.

There is something very pathetic in the message issued by Premier Kerensky with regard to the state of affairs in Russia, and the need for outside aid. With the success of Italy now imperative it is not clear that the other Allies can do much for the Muscovites at present.

In Palestine, British troops are still hammering the Turks and taking prisoners.

The large German colonies in Southern Brazil have been getting out of hand, paralyzing railway traffic and other things. The announcement is made that the "severest military measures" have been taken against them.

CHARACTERISTIC MISREPRESENTATION

"There are not a few Ontario constituencies in which it has been impossible to fuse the old political parties into one for the purpose of selecting a candidate. One of these is Wentworth. Here the late Conservative member, Mr. Wilson, refused to accept re-nomination from a Conservative convention, and signified his willingness to run as a supporter of the Union Government. The Liberals put up J. H. Dickenson as their candidate some time ago, and after the union government was formed a conference between parties was held, there being 16 representatives from either side. A deadlock resulted, the Liberals withdrew, and the Conservatives therefore proceeded to nominate Mr. Wilson. Now there are to be two candidates in the field, and a straight party fight. Mr. Wilson, it is presumed, having held a seat in the late parliament, will be recognized as the government nominee, while Mr. Dickenson will, unfairly, be made to appear as being against the government. The situation in this riding will be duplicated in many others if the utmost forbearance be not exercised, and if the spirit of union does not pervade the different constituencies to a larger extent than has thus far been displayed."—Expositor.

Nice little innocent version, isn't it? Now what is the truth in this matter?

When the representatives of both sides met, it was moved by the Liberals that the names of both Wilson and Dickenson should be cut out and a list of entirely new men be submitted. The design was to obliterate Wilson, a strong man in the riding, with a splendid Parliamentary record, while as for Dickenson, he had no parliamentary record to lose. The thing was so rank that one of the Liberals, Mr. Bertram, refused to vote for it, and the proposal was rejected 17 to 15. Then it was that the Liberals, felled in their despicable design, walked out of the room, and Wilson got the nomination.

Why wasn't the organ fair enough to tell the truth in the matter, instead of putting up a whine on behalf of Dickenson?

FURLONGS IMPRACTICABLE.

By Courier Leased Wire Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Department of militia to-day announces the following: "Much misunderstanding has arisen from, and it is feared that disappointment will be caused by the suggestion that all the original members of the first division, now serving in France, be given a furlough. Nothing is known in the Militia Department of any such intention on the part of the military authorities in France, and it is believed that the existence of the military situation forbids the adoption of such a course. It is to be noted that it is stated in press despatches that the Australian government, after considering the matter, has abandoned the proposal to grant furloughs to the original members of the first Australian expeditionary force now serving."

A SCHEME THAT FAILED.

The Expositor continues to shed crocodile tears over matters in the two Brants, conveniently ignoring the unquestioned fact that its own friends are responsible for the same. The position of affairs was that the two ridings had been represented for six years by two loyal supporters of "win-the-war" measures and that the local Grit pullers, in connection with the formation of a Union Government, thought they saw a chance to wrest the ridings from said representation.

The organ may squirm as it likes, but quiet measures were inaugurated with that end in view.

It was a very pretty program, but it has most markedly failed to eventuate, much to the chagrin of the plotters, one of the speakers at the second Harold convention even going so far as to compare the Conservatives to the Huns.

The Expositor denied that any meetings took place and this paper retorting that one occurred in the city the very night that Mr. W. F. Cocksbutt was re-nominated as a win-the-war candidate in this city, the organ makes answer:

"In a vain effort to show that the Liberals were plotting against Mr. W. F. Cocksbutt before the Conservative convention was held, The Courier states that a meeting of Liberals was held in Mr. Lloyd Harris' house the very night of the convention. It is true that there was a meeting of Liberals held on that night, but it was called merely to canvass the situation, and discuss what ought to be done. Any uncertainty in this regard was speedily removed by the telephonic information that the local Conservatives, paying no regard to Premier Borden's appeal, had thrown down the gauntlet by naming a win-the-war candidate of their own."

As a matter of fact, this paper never mentioned Mr. Lloyd Harris' house, but let that pass. The whole intention then, as previously, was to corral one of the Brants and two if possible, and the inference of our cotem that the gathering was called to admire the winter landscape or something of that sort, is a childish little fairy story not calculated to deceive anyone.

It is useless for the Expositor to say with regard to the North riding that "all that Mr. Harold asked was a fair deal and he was quite prepared to accept loyally the decision of a joint committee properly constituted," because Mr. Harold told the convention of this week that he was confident that in such a gathering he would have been selected.

On what grounds he based that faith the Courier is not aware, but it shows that when he hopped out of a party nomination he expected a party ditto and falling that he promptly jumped back into the field once more as a straight party nominee, saying in his speech of acceptance that he would not even stand aside for Hon. Mr. Rowell.

The Grit scheme having failed in the North, the edict has also gone forth with regard to the South riding that Mr. W. F. Cocksbutt must be defeated at all costs.

Well, we shall see. If our friends the enemy want a fight in these two ridings they will be very properly and effectively accommodated; no doubt at all about that, while at the same time consistently straight win-the-war advocates in every particular will receive the endorsement of the people.

It is regrettable that such a brazen attempt should have been made at this time to put party before the critical needs of the hour, but the public know where the responsibility rests and will act accordingly.

The Courier speaks of the formation of a Union Government as an act of great condensation on the part of Sir Robert Borden.—Expositor.

The Courier has more than once had to complain of the first in misrepresentation organ putting words in the mouth of this paper which it has never uttered and the above is another sample. If the Expositor finds itself incapable of making points fairly, then it should at least have enough decency not to try and make them at all.

HOLLAND HAS OBJECTORS

Associated Press Amsterdam, Netherlands, Nov. 3.—Although Holland is not at war, it has conscientious objectors, and the problem which they constitute may be brought more prominently before the Netherlands parliament in the coming session. An instance is related of a struggle between a party of soldiers and an objector, who refused to change his civilian for his military clothes. In the end the man sat naked in his cell for a day and a night, and was transferred from one prison to another in like condition.

Men who have refused to do military duty in the Netherlands number 150. Some proved not strong enough physically to endure imprisonment. The will of others was broken, and they were induced to take service. Others persisted in their attitude despite repeated sentences of months of imprisonment.

U. S. Troops Had Thrilling Tales to Tell After Being in Trenches

With the American army in France Nov. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Some of the American soldiers, who have just been relieved after service in the trenches, had thrilling stories to tell on returning to the billets. On clear days especially German snipers became active. Bullets went singing harmless overhead. American infantrymen were told to attend to any sniper who became active, and more than one of them will snipe no more. This game of sniping the sniper was highly popular. The only complaint heard to-day was that there was not enough rifle shooting to satisfy the infantrymen. Several of the soldiers said they went out to fight but did not get enough. There is no scarcity of expert riflemen when a sniper starts in. The artillery on both sides was rather more active during the last days in which the first contingent of Americans was in the trenches. The Germans shelled the back areas and approaches, putting shrapnel and high explosive shells in the direction of the trenches and battery positions. Aside from living up things for a while, nothing was accomplished by the enemy.

GREAT DEMAND FOR ORTHOPAEDIC SHOES

Returned Soldiers Will Engage in Special Branch of Shoemaking. The making of orthopaedic shoes has become a business of volume as well as importance since the war, and many soldiers who have returned unable to follow their previous trades will be trained in this skilled branch of shoemaking in the Military Hospitals Commission's vocational training classes. Fitting shoes to feet which are not mates and making them appear so is an art, and the number of men demanding such attention will be larger than shoemakers ever dreamed of before the war. Many wounds which men sustain cause foot difficulties which require special shoes and to fit these feet with suitable shoes will be the business of a large number of returned soldiers.

WAR LOAN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Canada's Victory Loan. The Republic of Brant County and the City of Brantford: On behalf of Brant County Victory Loan Executive, I desire to bring the attention of the people of this county and city through the medium of the public press. What is the Canadian Victory Loan? The lending by the people of Canada to the Government of the Dominion of one hundred and fifty million dollars for war purposes, said loan to be repaid in five, ten or twenty years, and to bear interest meantime at the rate of five and one half per cent per annum payable half yearly without reduction of principal at any bank in Canada. The loan may be advanced to the government in installments of from ten to twenty per cent, as desired, it may be paid up in full, after allotment and a discount allowed on the installments.

What is the Security? The property of the whole Dominion of Canada and its available works, its lands, mines, fisheries and timber. Everything this country possesses. What better security could be given?

Why is the Loan Necessary? The war is costing Canada nearly one million dollars every day to maintain our men at the front, and to provide for their wives and families and others dependent upon them while they are fighting our battles and protecting our wives and families from the awful fate that has fallen on the women and children of Belgium, France and other lands invaded by the German barbarian.

Are Not the Customs and Other Taxes Sufficient? No. While the revenue of the Dominion has greatly increased since war broke out, the funds available for war purposes after providing for ordinary expenditures is comparatively small, as against the immense sums required. Every country involved in this war has had to resort to borrowing. Our Allies, the United States have in the last few days, raised from its own people Five Billion dollars which would be equivalent to a loan by the Canadian people of Five hundred million, and it must be remembered that the rate of interest to be paid on the American loan is but four per cent, as against five and one-half per cent.

Cannot Our Government Borrow Elsewhere? No. Great Britain has loaned immense sums to the smaller nations and the United States, although the richest country in the world, is actively prosecuting a war campaign which calls for the expenditure of the largest sum of money that the world has ever known. It is, therefore, quite apparent that Canada must finance for her own requirements, and at no time in her history was she so able to do so.

For What Other War Purpose is the Money Required? To provide credits for Great Britain. We must win the war, and advancing such credits is one of the most important ways of helping to accomplish victory. For years past Great Britain has furnished us the funds to carry on our public works, to build our railways, to develop our cities and towns, and supply our necessities. It is only fair that we should lend to the farmers throughout Canada. To-day Britain asks us to establish credits here so that she may purchase large quantities of our products, and thus continue to help during the war time to help build up our agricultural, industrial and general prosperity. If it had not been for the vast volume of war orders placed in Canada during the past three years, we should have experienced a serious business depression, and if we do not continue to help to finance these orders by fully subscribing our war loans, that depression may yet come.

How Much Has Britain Bought From Us? The total value of war orders placed with us chiefly by Britain up to the end of 1916, from the beginning of the war, by the end of this year, will considerably exceed one billion five hundred millions of dollars. Canada has been acting as a big merchant and selling all the goods it does not need at home, to Great Britain. Britain needs more, but must have credit. The conditions above outlined cannot continue unless the people of Canada, save every cent possible and invest every dollar possible in war loans. Canada's self preservation at this time, its prosperity, its activities, depend almost entirely upon the extent of our ability to save and invest in war loans.

Who Should Invest in the Victory Loan? Everybody. From the capitalist to the smallest wage-earner. The slogan of the campaign is "A bond in every home." The last loan in Canada was subscribed to by less than fifty thousand people. We are going to do better this time, for we recognize as the people of the United States did in subscribing for their Liberty Loans that full subscriptions of war loans will bring the war to a successful and speedy conclusion and in so doing will continue our activity and prosperity while the war lasts. We are all interested in this, the manufacturer and the merchant, the farmer and the miner, the wage-earner, and in fact, there is not one person in all this broad land but should be interested and give of their money or their time.

How Can I Raise Even Fifty Dollars? This is a question which will be asked by many, and the answer must come from the knowledge that everyone has of his own affairs and his sense of the duty and responsibility which he owes to this country for the privileges he enjoys, and which he can only continue to enjoy provided the German menace is beaten to the ground. Ten per cent, only is required to be paid down and the balance can be paid in installments, and any bank in Canada will help you to finance.

In conclusion, every home and place of business will be canvassed and every person given an opportunity to subscribe. Think about it now and receive the official canvasser cheerfully. Our men at the front have sacrificed everything for us. What sacrifices are we prepared to make for them? We can all do much more in the future than in the past. The local executive feel assured that Brant County will measure up to its responsibilities and that the objective sought in this county will be far more than realized.

A. K. BURNELL, Chairman Brant County Committee.

To The Editor of The Courier. Brantford, Nov. 3rd, 1917. Editor Courier: Dear Sir—From the "Expositor's" report of yesterday's Liberal meeting in Paris, which report is practically the same as the "Courier's," it would appear that Mr. J. J. Hursey and Mr. Scott Davidson, lost not only their heads but also their tempers in their personal attacks on Col. Harry Cockshutt, and John Fisher. Both these gentlemen are too well known in Brant, for these entirely uncalculated attacks, to have any effect, and they will only recoil on the heads of the two men who made them.

I trust that the supporters of Col. Cockshutt will conduct the campaign on a higher level. Your truly, UNIONIST.

THE MARKET. Potatoes, in spite of the large crops that have been harvested this year, are bringing a high figure on the local market and this morning $1.75 was asked for a bag of the Murphys. In some extreme cases farmers braved the designation of profiteers and would not sell under two dollars. Dairy products remained about stationary with the exception of a few cases, when advances of a cent were recorded. Vegetable and meat prices remain unchanged from last week.

MUSIC IN THE HOME. You can save time and money on that new piano you intend to buy for the home before Christmas by taking the matter up now with H. J. Smith and Co.

"Facing the Music." A society event about which more than the usual amount of interest centred, was the delightful little comedy "Facing the Music" which kept the large audience in gales of laughter last Tuesday evening, at the Grand. Under the capable direction of Mr. Edward Keane of New York, the play ran without a hitch from start to finish, reflecting great credit on the talented amateurs, who took their parts exceedingly well.

During the evening the ladies of the east, Mrs. T. H. Whitehead, whose clever impersonation of a middle-aged English housekeeper was much enjoyed, was the recipient of two beautiful bouquets, one of chrysanthemums, the other a bunch of pink roses. Miss Evelyn Buck, as Mrs. John Smith, gave an exceedingly delightful characterization of a young society matron, who is regarded as an usurper in her own home. She received a huge armful of yellow "mums" while Miss Kathleen Buck, whose impersonation of the other Mrs. John Smith, a very exacting role, was marked by rare charm and ability, received an arm bouquet of white "mums."

Mrs. Douglas Hammond, who was largely responsible for the whole production and by whose untiring efforts the success of the play was largely due, gave a very clever portrayal of the role of Miss Fotherlingay of "The Bijou." She looked very stunning in a handsome suit of Burgundy with moleskin trimmings. The stage, which was most artistically arranged to represent the breakfast room in a London apartment, was the work of members of The French Club, the furniture for the setting being loaned by various members of the club.

During the intermission of "Facing the Music," Miss Hilda Hurley, looking very handsome in a black evening dress with touches of rose, sang a popular air entitled "Don't take the call, laddie," while a soldier in khaki held the Union Jack in the folds of which Miss Hurley draped herself at the conclusion of the song. After repeated encores, Miss Hurley responded with a dainty little encore "The Sweetest Flower that Grows." At the end of this selection she received a lovely bouquet of pink roses.

Altogether "Facing the Music" can be said to have been one of the most thoroughly enjoyable amateur events ever staged in this city.

MARQUARD'S RECORDS KEEP EM ALL GOING

The Rube Has Only One More Mark To Reach Before Retiring—His Big League Career a Strange Medley of Ups and Downs

New York, Nov. 3.—The next thing Rube Marquard, maker of records, will shoot for is the 24-inning record of Jack Coombs, who in 1906 won the longest major league game ever played. Rube, however, could retire from baseball to-morrow with more records than any baseball pitcher ever achieved. In 1912 Rube tied Tim Lincecum's old record by winning 19 straight, and in 1914 he pitched the longest National League game ever fought up to that time, defeating Pittsburgh in a 21-inning contest. Recently Marquard got into the twenty-second inning of the game played between Brooklyn and Pittsburgh on Ebbets field in time to get credit for winning the longest hit in the 42 years the National League has been in existence.

It is a strange coincidence that Pittsburgh should twice be the team used to establish a new National League record and that Marquard should be the winning pitcher each time. Fortunately Marquard was not forced to extend himself in this game, as Rube has had tough times after making his records. After Marquard's winning streak was broken in 1912 he just dubbed around until the end of the season, being of very little use to the Giant team. He found himself in the world's series that fall, winning two of the three games won by New York from the Red Sox in 1912.

Famous Tie Game of 1902. After Marquard established a new National League long distance record in 1914, by beating Pittsburgh on July 17, he did not win another game that year. He lost 10 straight. He then started the 1915 season with a blaze of glory by pitching a no-hit game over Brooklyn, only to go to pieces after that. In mid-season he was released to Toronto, but Brooklyn saved the player from the minors and for new records.

Long distance baseball has for years been an interesting topic for the fan. For many years whenever long games were under discussion the last word was the famous 24-inning game played by the old Chicago White Stockings and the Cincinnati Reds in 1892. The game ended in a 7 to 7 draw.

A great feature of this game was that, at the start both Tony Mullane of Chicago, were hit most freely, each team scoring seven runs in the first five innings. After that both men settled down, and though there was no change of pitchers, there was no further scoring during the next 15 innings.

That game was matched in Philadelphia on Aug. 24, 1905, when the Chicago Cubs beat the Phillies in 24 innings by a score of 2 to 1. The pitchers were Ed. Reulbach, a husky youngster just out of college, and Frank Spinks, a slender veteran. Though Frank never carried a lot of weight he was reported to have lost seven pounds while pitching this game.

Coombs' Great Feat. That game was considered quite a hummer for the time being, but it had to take a back seat the following years, when the Athletics and Boston Red Sox played what was the most remarkable game ever contested in the big leagues. Two old pitchers, Jack Coombs, out of college just two months, and Harris, plucked from the minors a brief competition in factory made goods among discriminating purchasers because in color, tone and wearing qualities they are much superior.

Rugmaking and Basketry Handicrafts to be Met by Disabled Soldiers

Montreal, Nov. 3.—The demand for the artistic products from hand looms of the villagers in Quebec and the Maritime provinces, has given rise to a plan by which disabled Canadian soldiers may find an occupation which not only affords a good living, but is within the scope of their diminished strength.

Capt. T. R. MacKeen, District Vocational Officer of the Military Hospitals Commission, conferring with Mrs. James Peck, for many years president of the Canadian Handicraft Guild in Montreal, whose aim is to foster the artistic hand crafts of the peasant settlements in Canada, has made arrangements to teach the men textile weaving on hand looms as vocational training during their convalescence in the Military Convalescent hospitals. The start has been very successful among the men in the three hospitals in Montreal where "bed cases" are being treated.

Textiles in Demand. The demand for hand-woven textiles is increasing every day, not only for clothing but for artistic household furnishings, and the market is waiting for the goods. The supply is far below the demand, and the appreciation of such materials by an ever-increasing number of people insures the future of the trade.

As the Handicraft Guild markets the products of the scattered communities from coast to coast, paying the express charges from any point and returning the price intact to the producer, they can well market materials from soldier communities in the same way. A slight advance over the producer price is asked from the customer by the Guild to cover its overhead expense in running the establishment, but there is no margin of profit for the Guild.

Today homespuns are selling at three dollars a yard. They have no nothing is to be sold for its sentimental value according to the retail market worth such as will withstand competition, must be the standard. Throughout the United States as well as the Dominion, Canadian hand-woven textiles, rugs, curtains and bed-covers are much sought by those well able to pay for hand work as well as to appreciate it. As an occupation for men who, due to injuries or tuberculosis, will not be able to attempt continuous or heavy work, artistic weaving and basketry are ideal, and offer a solution to one of the greatest problems of the Commission, according to the vocational officers who are seeking occupations for disabled men.

Communities in suitable localities might be established with weaving as the chief occupation for the members, although a man could have a loom set up in his own home anywhere. Wherever he chooses to go buyers will make a road to his door through the agency of the Guild.

RAMADIE TAKEN BY TO STRENGTHEN EVERY FRONT

OLD TIME WARFARE "War of Inaction" is Not Policy of Maude's Mesopotamian Army

London, Nov. 3.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—General Maude's victory at Mamadine in Mesopotamia, was the result of a battle of the old picturesque style before the "war of inaction" swept the spectacular element out of modern warfare. The movement which determined the whole action was the sudden swinging around of the British right until it became the left, and the enveloping movement of the cavalry, which robbed the Turkish garrison of its last free line of retreat. The idea was admirably executed, but even the staff strategists of the British army scarcely anticipated the surrender of the whole Turkish force without a blow by the waiting cavalry.

The British "eyes-witness" writing from Ramadie, says in his account of the battle: "We captured Ramadie to-day, and with it the whole Turkish garrison, including its commander, Ahmed Bey, and a number of field guns, pom-poms, machine-guns and rifles. Our force moved in two columns in the night of September 27 from an advanced camp on the Euphrates, west of Feluja, one column on the right, the other on the left, and at dawn they attacked Mushaid Ridge, a low line of dunes running north and south from the Euphrates to the Habbaniyah Canal.

"To clear the ridge and cross the canal was our first objective. The first knolls were quickly occupied. At dawn we bombarded the crest of the ridge, but the Turks had evacuated it. "We then changed our line of attack. The right column was withdrawn, and swinging round west, behind the left column, became the left wing of the force. Our front, three and a half miles in breadth, now lay between the Habbaniyah Canal on the right and Azizliyah Canal on the left, a point nine miles from the Euphrates.

"Our cavalry made a wide sweeping movement across the desert round the right flank of the Turks and occupied a line five miles west of Ramadie. By this move the Turks were cornered. Their only chance was to drive in determined counter attacks and to break through before we drew the ring in closer.

"The expected attack began after three o'clock the next morning when the Turks tried to break through the cavalry and the river. The action lasted for two hours until dawn, when it degenerated into casual sniping. The nearest Turkish dead were found within fifty yards of the cavalry trenches.

"Soon after daybreak the infantry column took up the attack again, and carried the last outlying defenses of the Turks on our left. An intense bombardment was opened on the Turkish trenches.

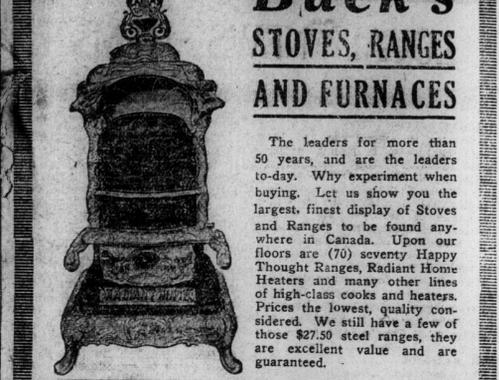

"Our line of cavalry, far away west, soon saw the dark masses of the enemy approaching, and apparently prepared for bloody battle. The Turkish guns were silent, and white flags went up all along the line. It was a general surrender. Ahmed Bey, the Turkish commander, who has been on the Euphrates all through the campaign from the Battle of Shabba, in March 1915, and whose troops confronted us at Nasaravah all last summer and autumn, came out and surrendered with his whole force."

MONUMENT TO BATTLE OF MARNE

Memorial Erected by U. S. Funds Will be Presented To France

AT CLOSE OF THE WAR

By Courier Leased Wire
 New York, Nov. 3.—A monument commemorative of the battle of the Marne and built by funds subscribed by Americans, is to be presented to France at the close of the war, it was announced here to-day by a committee which has been planning the memorial. To avoid any possibility of conflict with war relief work, no donations will be accepted until the end of the conflict, it was said.

It is inconceivable that the battle of the Marne, which may prove to have been the greatest in history—possibly the saving of civilization—should not be memorialized in some such manner," said the committee in making the announcement.

HARD AND SOFT OR ANY KIND OF CORN

Tells how to loosen a tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called frezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a stick substance which dries the moment it is applied and is said to simply shrivel the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

"The Quality Goes Clear Through"

THE DOUBLE GUARANTEE.

TWO reputations guard your investment when you purchase a Gray-Dort.
 Two liabilities are your assurance of doubly-satisfactory use and service.
 Two institutions striving in united effort to maintain the foundation on which they have been built—full value to you, the purchaser.
 In Chatham, Ontario, the Wm. Gray & Sons Company and Gray-Dort Motors Limited—the one hale and solid at sixty-two, the other strong and lusty in two years.
 In Flint, Michigan, since 1885, the Durant-Dort Carriage Company; since 1915, the Dort Motor Car Company.

Under his guiding hand the Gray institution has been built solidly on its original foundation—value and service to the purchaser.
 When others rushed into the motor car industry, Robert Gray bided his time.
 Others experimented—on the motorist.
 Others gained the reputation of a day—and lost it.
 Robert Gray knew that the car bearing his name must have the same underlying qualifications as the Gray carriage—so he waited.

They chose as the engineering groundwork for their organization, Etienne Planche, designer of the world-famed Peugeot motor. They surrounded him with men of equal calibre, who round out an institution unique in its man-power.

After Such Preparation—

With two institutions so solidly founded the first Gray-Dort was built.

Is it any wonder that in three days the entire 1916 output was sold?

It was to be expected that a doubled output for 1917 was heavily oversold.

The output for 1918 is doubled again—and may be inadequate.

Gray—the Industry and its Builder

Our fathers and grandfathers rode in Gray Carriages—and found them built on honor and character.
 In 1855, William Gray built the first of them—built them so well that Gray quality became proverbial.
 Growing up in this atmosphere of big business, of successful enterprise, of worthy endeavour, was Robert Gray.

Dort—at the Same Time, in Flint

Paralleling the growth of Gray in Canada, was a similar institution in the United States.
 Blue Ribbon Buggies were to Americans what Gray Buggies were to Canadians.
 J. D. Dort, too, was building in Flint, as Robert Gray was building in Chatham.
 J. D. Dort, too, was analyzing the motor car industry.
 In 1915, Robert Gray decided that a good motor car could be built and sold at a reasonable price.
 In 1915, J. D. Dort, studying the situation from the same angle, came to the same conclusion.
 The two men met. Their identical views and aspirations inevitably attracted them to one another.

GERMANS RETIRE BEFORE FRENCH

Have Withdrawn From the Trenches Along the Chemin-des-Dames

London, Nov. 3.—The Germans have retreated from points along the Chemin-des-Dames, in the Aisne sector of the front in France, according to the German official communication issued last evening. The communication gives no reason for the manoeuvre, but says that it was made during Thursday night systematically and without interference by the French troops. The text of the communication follows:—

 "Unnoticed and undisturbed by the enemy we systematically withdrew our lines from the hilly front of the Chemin-des-Dames last night."
 The entire line to the north of the Aisne where the Germans were last reported as facing the French is retreating in character from the Soissons sector eastward to the vicinity of Craonne, and therefore it is impossible to delimit from the rather terse acknowledgement of withdrawal the terrain which has been given up.
 Nevertheless, it seems apparent that the Germans, tired of the terrible ordeal they had been forced to undergo for some time from the French artillery and violent infantry attacks, have decided to fall back upon Laon, capital of the Department of the Aisne, which with its network of railways, has been the quest of the French. It is possible and seemingly probable that the withdrawal of the Germans will compel also the falling back of the German forces in the turn of the battle-line in this region running northward to St. Quentin, if indeed it does not affect the German positions as far north as Arras.

CONSCRIPTION LIBERALS CONFERRED IN HAMILTON

Hon. Frank Carvell Gives Notice of Increased Income Tax, Which Will Place Heavier Burden on Those Able to Bear it

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 2.—An audience which filled every available foot of space in the hall of the Connaught Hotel, was this evening carried to the highest pitch of enthusiasm for Sir Robert Borden's Union Government by the simple, unvarnished statement of the cause of Union Government by Hon. Frank Carvell, Minister of Public Works, at an open meeting of the conscription Liberals. Mr. Carvell dealt with his subject as if he were having a heart-to-heart talk with a few intimate friends. He told why he had abandoned leadership of many years for Union Government, but, above all, he told of a few things that Union Government has to face and a few things that Union Government intends to do, and if there were any in the hall who did not agree with him at the outset, his entire audience was with him when he closed.

Mr. Carvell gave notice of a substantially heavier income tax, which is to be imposed, he hoped, shortly after the new Parliament first meets. He promised that the rich man would, under this tax, pay a great deal more to the state than ever before, and he declared that the tax will affect men of all incomes on the principle that all men should contribute to ease the country's tremendous financial burdens.

Abolish Patronage System.
Mr. Carvell also gave notice that, while he is head of the Department of Public Works contracts will be not only by public tender, and to the lowest bidder. He pointed out that, in saying this, he intended no slight on any predecessor in office, but merely to denounce the patronage system, already denounced by Sir Robert Borden. He said also that only necessary public works will be carried on in future.

He stated that no alterations of any consequence whatever are to be made in the tariff, threatened those whom he termed "safety first soldiers," and made an earnest appeal to the people to subscribe to the "Victory Loan."

Prefacing his address with an assurance that he is still the same radical as of old, and excusing himself for what slight change there may have occurred in his opinions by the assertion that war has made such a change in the world that no man would be justified in holding the same ideas he held four years ago, Mr. Carvell took up his reasons for joining the Union Government and told of a few things that the Union Government intends to do in the near future.

"The world," he said, "does not have any idea where it stands today, so economic questions will have to be held in abeyance until the end of the war. We will work that Canada will do her best to bring the war to successful conclusion and to take care of her soldiers up to the time of demobilization of our forces. When that time is expired our contract ceases."

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism is real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

RED CROSS GRANT.

Recommendation will be made by the Finance Committee to the City Council on Monday night that the city's grant toward the British Red Cross fund be in proportion with last year's grant. This will mean the city will give between $9,000 and $10,000 toward the fund this year.

MANY TO JOIN R. F. C.

Applicants for enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps are daily interviewing members of the R.F.C. recruiting board in this city, with headquarters at the police station, and a meeting will be held in the early part of next week when several likely young men will be examined and their qualifications inspected. One meeting was held this week when a number were recommended and furnished with transportation to the headquarters of the unit in Toronto.

SNIDER SUFFERED MOST ALL HIS LIFE

Feels Better Since Tanlac Overcame Trouble Than He Had in 35 Years

"I'm feeling better to-day than I have in thirty-five years and it's all due to the good work of Tanlac," said James A. Snider, of 17 Jackson street west, Hamilton, recently. Mr. Snider has the distinction of being one of the fastest coopers in Canada, but was forced by ill-health to give up his trade. He has returned to work, however, and is employed by the Pattersonburg Chapter, I.O.D.E. Mr. Snider is well-known both in Hamilton and vicinity, and, although sixty-nine years of age, he has the appearance of a man many years younger. Continuing his statement, Mr. Snider said:

"A medicine that will make a person my age gain in weight and relieve them of troubles of thirty-five or forty years' standing is certainly wonderful. I had been suffering from a bad stomach nearly all my life. I had no appetite and just had to force myself to eat. At times I felt like there was a hundred-pound weight on my stomach, and I was almost doubled up with misery. Gas would form from what I ate and make my heart flutter, and I often had dreadful smothering spells. I have had the best treatment both in the United States and Canada, and have taken all kinds of medicines. I would feel a little better for a day or so and then feel as bad or worse than ever.

"Tanlac did for me just what others say it has done for them and I want to make this statement because I feel like it may help lots of people who are in the same fix I was. Why, before I took Tanlac I had rheumatism in my knees and the pain was so severe I couldn't straighten up, and now the rheumatism is nearly all gone and I can walk as good as anybody. It has put my stomach in good condition, the gas has stopped forming and I don't have any more of those awful smothering spells. My food agrees with me and I know it is building me up because I have already gained several pounds, and have just finished my second bottle of Tanlac. All the pain is gone now and I want to say again I feel better than I have in thirty-five years. I can't say enough in praise of Tanlac and I'm going to tell everybody I can about the good it has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Brantford by Milton H. Robertson and Co., Ltd., in Paris by Apps Limited, and in Mt. Vernon by A. Yoemans, and in Middleport by William Peddie.

COUNTY ROADS

Work on the county roads system for this year has been practically finished, and County Roads Supt. A. R. McVicar is engaged in making a few scattered minor repairs. Arrangements are being made for the installation of stone crusher at the county gravel pit recently acquired near Bishop's Gate on the Burford road. At the last meeting of the county council, the roads and bridges committee was authorized to secure a gravel crusher, and this has been done, and a saving effected by Reeve A. J. McCann and his fellow members of the committee by renting a crusher in good condition from the Township of South Dumfries. If the weather gods are propitious, about two miles of road will be gravelled on the Burford road before the winter, after which stock piles of crushed stone will be made preparatory to the opening of the work in the spring.

ORANGEMEN INVITED.

Local Orangemen have received invitations to attend a divine service in Paris to-morrow with the Orangemen and Sons of England of that town. The service will be held at half past two.

BUY-AT-HOME CAMPAIGN IS FORECAST OF GREATER BRANTFORD PROSPERITY

Citizens Generally Are Being Roused to Value of Campaign which the Courier is Conducting to Curb Ruinous Practice of Buying Blindfolded—The very Future of the City Depends on How Far its Citizens are Prepared to Go on Strengthening Local Trade by Buying at Home Whenever Possible.

From manufacturers, merchants, professional men and representatives of local trade and labor interests have come congratulations to The Courier on the splendid start of the campaign to keep Brantford dollars at home, inaugurated by this newspaper.

Leading citizens of every class have expressed their interest in this campaign and their wish to see it prove successful. They know what it means to this city and district. Realizing the sums of money—in the aggregate—an astonishing figure—that are sent out of Brantford every year to mail order houses in the big cities of Canada and the United States, they have given a glad welcome to this organized effort to shake from the city the shackles of mail order monopoly.

But something more than sympathy is needed to make the Buy-at-Home Campaign the splendid success The Courier hopes it will be. Active practical support is essential. The manufacturer, the merchant and the consumer have each a duty to discharge in this respect. Will they rally to the call and help to emancipate their city from the trammels of unfair outside competition? Will they throw themselves wholeheartedly into the fight for a better and a bigger Brantford, conserving its resources and keeping its money circulating within its own territories to the mutual benefit of all the people who make their homes here?

The Courier is conducting a campaign through the columns of its paper in the interests of the Buy-at-Home movement. The purpose is to stimulate the patronage of the local merchant to the exclusion of the mail-order house, and outside dealers. The aim has been to conduct a campaign of education along these lines, appealing to the reason more than to sentiment.

If Brantford people want to see the city grow they will purchase everything they can in Brantford.

Every dollar spent within the city puts money into the banks, adds to the value of real estate and increases the general prosperity of the community.

Buy-at-Home and insist that your household do the same. And The Courier will keep on talking about this subject—for it means much toward the welfare and prosperity of Brantford.

"FEEL THE TOUCH"

Co-operation is a Winner in Every Phase of Life

"It ain't the guns nor armament, nor funds that they can pay, but the close co-operation that makes them win the day; it ain't the individual, nor the army as a whole, but the everlasting team-work of every blooming soul."

—Kipling.
Drawn up along the sandy desert of the Soudan, stood a troop of English infantry with fixed bayonets—out on the plains before them rode back and forth thousands of the wild followers of Mohammed, their beautiful Arab steeds, their white, flowing robes, their turbaned heads, their swarthy visages, making a fantastic picture silhouetted against the grey clouds. A tremor was felt around the hollow square—a rookie fresh from the streets of London, his first time under fire, quivered and his bayonet shook—a tremulous wave like the flash of a wireless went around the square and was felt by an old sergeant stationed at the far corner. Without taking his eyes from the dashing horsemen, he gripped his gun a little tighter, and shouted, in a stentorian voice, "Feel the touch, feel the touch." Instantly, elbow pressed against elbow, shoulders stiffened, bayonets became steadied, and the attack was repulsed.

BUY AT HOME

The Courier asks the women of this city to stop and think before they make their purchases, to consider each individual advertiser upon the "Buy at Home" page of this paper, which appears every Saturday; use the products of the manufacturer upon that plan, look up their brands, ask about their goods, try them out, and be convinced.

Be it large or small dealer, they are all mighty important, good local business concerns. Go to the various retail dealers and other business interests represented there, and buy from them. They will serve you correctly.

Help them to realize that you are heartily interested in this plan, speak to them about this plan. It will encourage and help them and to a world of good.

Say a good word about it—pass it on.

ARE WE PULLING TOGETHER OR IN OPPOSITE WAYS?

Only Benefits We Can Share With Neighbors Count

Are we, as a community, pulling together? Or are we pulling in opposite directions?

Organization is the great community need of the day. Without organization men and women are apt to sink below the level of mules. Even mules, in times of danger or panic, have been known to co-operate. They sometimes kick together. If it were given to mules to think, they would wonder at the ways of men.

That men and women, living and working in the same community, should refuse to co-operate, is one of the riddles of civilization. The only benefits that count are those we can share with our neighbors. Individual benefits count for little.

It is the co-operative effort that brings everlasting good. Good roads, factories, better schools, good markets can only be secured when all pull together.

A MAIL-ORDER BABY

Arthur has long believed that a baby in the family was desirable, since most of his playmates came from homes provided with this adjunct. In good time his mother told him confidently that his oft-expressed wish for a family baby would probably be gratified. The news was too good to keep, and Arthur was promptly boasting to his nearest chum. "But when are you going to have it?" demanded the friend. "Oh, I don't know—fore long, I guess," answered Arthur. "Huh," sniffed the other, "what's the use of waiting? What good's a baby if you can't have it when you want it? Why don't you get it right away?" "Well, you see, it's this way," explained Arthur, driven to his wits' end: "we've ordered the baby, but haven't paid for it yet!"

This Happens Frequently—But

There's always the remedy. You can, of course, return unsatisfactory goods to the mail-order house, but stop and figure the delay, the vexation, the running to the express office or post office, the worry that the next garment may not be just right. Now for the remedy for disappointments like the above, Buy-at-Home. That's the remedy in three words. Not half the chance of getting unsatisfactory or misfitted garments in the first place—and then the satisfaction of knowing that a message to the local dealer will right the difficulty. Isn't it worth while to "Buy-at-Home?"

The Business Men Endorse Campaign

With only a few exceptions Brantford's business men endorse the Buy-at-Home Campaign. This means that each of these merchants, needing what another merchant sells, will make his or her purchase locally. This is as it should be. The pledge to buy at home is easily kept, and will, without doubt, be of much value to the city.

Already the following local business firms are giving their support to the campaign for a Bigger and Better Brantford, which was inaugurated by The Courier:—

WATCH OUT FOR THE BOTTLE WITH CLOSED-IN LOWER END WHEN BUYING FROM TOUTS

Speaking of solicitors working out-of-town houses there is the man who tries to sell you bottled goods. Watch him carefully. You may discern several ingenious tricks in his business. When the solicitor offers you a two-ounce bottle of extract for the price you have to pay for a one-ounce bottle elsewhere, see that there is more than a one-ounce cavity in his 40-ounce flask. See if the liquid shows on the entire bottom of the bottle. Some bottles are so nearly closed at the bottom that the liquid shows only the thickness of a case knife.

Patent medicine bottles are nearly always made this way for the soliciting agents. The way they carry on their graft is something like this: To show that he knows that his remedies are O.K. and will do the work, he leaves perhaps five $1.00 bottles at your place and you pay only for what you have used when he comes again; i.e., if you use below the arrow mark you pay $1.00 and that bottle is yours.

Let us suppose that among the bottles left at my house was a bottle of "Pain Kiler." Some night a child would be stricken with something that I thought the medicine on hand was recommended for and so used below the mark on the bottle without relief, and had to get the doctor after all, or perhaps lose my child. When the agent called to settle up would I not refuse to accept the bottle on the ground that it failed to do as recommended and make him take it back, or could I not fill the bottle with water till it registered above the arrow and refuse it because I did not exceed the limit?

Stuff Will Make the Rounds Again

Out of several thousand bottles distributed, he might take back a thousand bottles partly used and partly adulterated with water, etc. It would perhaps take 300 of these to refill the remaining 700. Wouldn't that make an excellent bunch of stuff to distribute? He surely would get some of them back again adulterated a little more with—who knows what—and after that it wouldn't be fit for the hog-trough, but it unquestionably would have to make the rounds again.

The distributor's patent medicines as a rule are below the standard strength without adulteration. If you want good, reliable medicines go to the drug store, where you will find only standard goods and run no risk of getting adulterated dope not fit to use.

There is also a solicitor who is to be pitied, not censured. It is the boy or girl who is induced by some firm to sell, say $5.00 worth of cheap jewelry, some cheap post cards, some fake medicine or the like, and forward the amount and get a handsome premium. The premium would perhaps be a 45-cent watch. This would be the pay for several days of hard labor.

COME, LET US MAKE A GOOD RESOLUTION

Let us all resolve to make every day remaining in 1917 a "Shop-in-Brantford" day. Let us make our town the best trading town in this locality.

Not only once or twice a year, or once a month, or once a week; but every day. That is the only goal worth striving for.

We can do it. Other towns have done it. We have the same means that they had.

All we need is to get together. We can fight off mail-order competition by displaying each day the Shop in Brantford banner. Each day let us demonstrate the value of home buying.

A PLAIN TRUTH

A man may patronize the mail-order houses for years—send them in that time hundreds of dollars—and at the same time they wouldn't accommodate him with a two-cent stamp. This is the plain, unvarnished truth. If you think otherwise try it for yourself and see. These out-of-town houses do not know YOU—do not CARE to know you—are not interested in you in any way—only in the money you send them. Spend your money with Brantford townsmen, who know you for what you really are, who appreciate your worth, your business, your assistance in building up home interests.

MY PLEDGE

As a Resident of Brantford I Herely Pledge Myself:—

1st.—That I will Boost Brantford at all times.

2nd.—That as a Booster I will buy, as far as possible, everything I need for myself or for my family, in my home city.

3rd.—That I will, where possible, purchase Brantford-made goods in preference to goods manufactured in other cities or towns.

4th.—That I will, on every occasion, urge my friends and neighbors to buy in Brantford and Boost Home Industries.

A CHANGE IN CANADIAN LIFE
 Many Must Get into Touch With the Authorities on or Before November 10

The coming into operation of the Military Service Act made an important, if temporary, change in Canadian life. It placed a large section of the public under the necessity of getting into touch with the authorities before November 10.

The British subject in Canada who is between the ages of 20 to 34 inclusive, a widower without children, or who was unmarried on July 6, 1917, must go to a post office and report for service or claim exemption on forms provided there before November 10. Otherwise, he will be severely punished as an offender under the law.

"THE CALL OF THE EAST."
 In "The Call of the East," a remarkable photoplay of the Orient and the Occident, Sessue Hayakawa returns once more to his native land which he deserted some time ago to come adventuring to the great United States where he first studied English and English literature at the University of Chicago.

"The Call of the East" was written by Beulah Marie Dix who also arranged the story for the screen especially for Hayakawa. Tsuru Aoki, winsome little wife of the actor, who has played opposite him in many previous Paramount productions, is seen again in support of her husband in this photoplay.

As a native Japanese girl she wears some of the most gorgeous and elaborate apparel ever shown on the screen. In addition to this, her hair and that of Margaret Loomis, the well-known actress who created a sensation with Hayakawa in the screened version of Robt. Louis Stevenson's "Bottle Imp," is dressed in true native Japanese style, piled high in shiny loops and coils.

For most of the exterior scenes, Hayakawa and his company spent their time in beautiful Bear Valley, California, living on ham and eggs and such fish as the Japanese star and his wife felt inclined to angie for. Good fishing in Bear Valley is found only in the very early morning, and the fact that Hayakawa telegraphed several times for fresh fish from Los Angeles, indicated that his well known habits of late rising were still with him.

Having established himself as a comedian in "Hashimura Togo," from the stories by Wallace Irwin, which appeared in the Good House-keeping magazine and were also published by one of the large newspaper syndicates, Sessue Hayakawa turned to the serious drama in "The Call of the East." This is a photoplay with all the exotic mystery of the Orient and the charm of that land of cherry blossoms and lanterns.

In support of Mr. Hayakawa are several of the most popular players of filmdom, including his wife, Tsuru Aoki, Margaret Loomis famous for her impersonation of the Hawaiian girl in the screened version of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Bottle Imp," in which she recently appeared with Hayakawa; Jack Holt, who gave the clever impersonation of the German officer with Mary Pickford in "The Little American," and many others. "The Call of the East" is to be shown on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Rex Theatre.

"THE DARLING OF PARIS"
 The part taken by Miss Theda Bara in "The Darling of Paris," is one of the most interesting characters she has ever been called upon to interpret since becoming identified with the silent drama. It is an unusual one, dominating the story from beginning to end. There are but a few moments when she is not in the picture, which adds all the more importance to the production in which she is seen as filled with far more than passing notice. When she appears in a play it is an event—a real dramatic event—one that attracts attention throughout the entire country, because of her popularity wherever she is known, and her fame extends throughout the world. "The Darling of Paris" was her first production. The scenes are located in Paris. The first of next week.

THE BRANT.
 A special attraction at the Brant Theatre first of next week will be "Waste Not, Want Not," an educational motion picture issued by the Provincial Government to aid in food conservation. The Leo Hop Company will present a Chinese musical offering of exceptional merit, with special scenery and costumes. The last of the week, Berry Nelson and Berry appear in a dancing acrobatic novelty direct from Ben Turpin, Slim Summerville and Ethel Teara star in the Keystone comedy, "Roping Her Romeo."

NOT AS ADVERTISED.
 George Bertholon, director, was in St. Augustine, Fla., with the Mary Garden troupe filming scenes for "Thais." He returned to the hotel after a brief shopping tour with annoyance in his voice and on his countenance.

"The old slave market is a bunk," he announced in a tone that left no room for doubt. "It's a bunk. They haven't got a slave in stock."

DESERVED EXTRA PAY.
 The ways of motion picture stars are beyond comprehension sometimes, it seems. An electrician and his helper at the Goldwyn Studios in Fort Lee were watching Mary Garden at work in the studio lot on scenes for "Thais."

"Great, ain't she?" demanded the electrician.

"Ain't she, though," agreed his helper.

"Works long hours, too, don't she?"

"Sure does."

"Yep, here it is three o'clock and she's still at it."

"JACK AND THE BEANSTALK."
 William Fox's version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" to be seen at the Grand Theatre last three days of next week, requires a modern setting or prologue before Jack's adventures begin, bringing the beautiful film story right down to every-day reality. Jack, at first, is just a healthy normal kiddie who in modern life is known as Francis, and his beautiful little neighbor is called Virginia. (These are their real names, by the way.) When we first meet them in the picture the mothers have gone to an afternoon tea, leaving Francis and Virginia with a nurse-maid. She does the most natural thing in the world—reads them a story of "Jack and the Beanstalk." Then the wonderful idea comes to Francis. He is quite sure that all that is necessary to find the Enchanted Forest is to go and look for it. He has his toy automobile, too. And so he con- Francis became the role of Mary Virginia—and they start forth, with their dog, "Sport," to find the place in the woods where the terrible giant lives.

Fortunately the children take plenty of wraps with them, for the inevitable dark creeps upon them and even the courage of the giant-seeker is taxed a bit as he listens to the screeching of the owl, and he feels that sleep is creeping upon him. Then Francis himself succumbs, and the Dream God waves his magic wand, and lo, and behold, Francis becomes the back of Beanstalk fame, and Virginia is the Princess Regina.

Everybody knows the age-old story of "Jack and the Beanstalk." Jack sells his mother's cow for a sack of beans. Instead of being delighted with his bargain she scolds him roundly and throws the seeds out of the window. They are magic seeds, however, and the sprout immediately. The next morning the seeds have become a wonderful vine, which grows until it has reached the clouds.

Jack is filled with the spirit of adventure, and, besides, his fairy godmother has told him that fortune awaits him if he can climb the stalk. Jack starts out and finally reaches the top, arriving in a country where a terrible giant dwells. Here again Jack's fairy godmother meets him and tells him he must slay the giant and secure all his riches, thus avenging Jack's father. While in the lands above the clouds Jack meets the beautiful Princess Regina, whom he rescues from the giant. Jack finally causes the terrible giant's death and marries the Princess—and they live happily everafterward.

"SPREADING DAWN."
 In "The Spreading Dawn," which is the attraction at the Brant Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Goldwyn pictures present another famous actress as their star. She is Jane Cowl, reputed to be one of the greatest emotional stars in America, and lately distinguished as a dramatist through her co-authorship of the two Broadway successes, "Lilac Time" and "Daybreak." It was Jane Cowl who created the role of Mary Turner, heroine of "Within the Law," and played the leading part in "Common Clay."

This is not only the first appearance of Miss Cowl as a Goldwyn star, but also her screen debut. It is said that she photographs admirably and rises in superb fashion to every opportunity afforded her in a remarkable role. "The Spreading Dawn" in which she appears, is an adaptation of the story by Basil King which lately appeared as a tremendously popular story in the Saturday Evening Post. It provides Miss Cowl with the part of a society belle of the Civil War period.

"The Spreading Dawn" details the story of a romantic girl who meets with a heartbreaking disappointment in her love, only to have her faith restored in a remarkable manner. The action begins with a prologue.

"THE SUNSET TRAIL"
 Vivian Martin, the winsome Paramount star, is known to the world not only as a great actress, but what is perhaps a more unique distinction as a famous cook. Miss Martin is the author of the "Vivian Martin Cooking Chatter" which was circulated throughout the great newspapers of this country by a syndicate some months ago.

Her latest Paramount photoplay is "The Sunset Trail," a thrilling drama by Alice McIver, prepared for the screen by Beulah Marie Dix. The story has to do with Bess Aiken, who lives with her father and mother in the California mountains. The mother, an ex-actress, tires of a humdrum existence and leaves with a new admirer, Trelor, whose nephew Bess has met also.

Later when her mother invites Bess to visit her, she meets the young nephew, Kirke, again. Soon after that, Camilla, the mother, is caught in a compromising position by her husband, and Bess makes the sacrifice of her own reputation to save her mother.

How matters are eventually readjusted is brought about in a most unusual and unexpected manner. The production, which abounds in exceptionally beautiful photographs, was made under the direction of George Melville. To be shown the first of next week at the Brant Theatre.

FILMETS.
 "Patty" Arbuckle astonished the military census authorities this week by announcing that he could run anything that boasted a motor, not discriminating against moving trucks, Ford cars, or washing machines. He added the information that he would be equally gifted as an air-pilot or the commander of a submarine. The talented Mr. Arbuckle is soon to be featured in a new comedy "The Rough House" on the Paramount Program.

Lieut.-Col. C. W. F. Ramsey.

AMONGST the most prominent Canadian railwaymen with the Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps is Lieutenant-Colonel C. W. F. Ramsey, formerly Engineer of Construction for the Eastern Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Lieutenant-Colonel Ramsey has won the Companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. His record is an example of the rewards that result from energy and perseverance. Born at Burr's Quebec, in 1883, he began to serve his apprenticeship at Desormier Avenue Shops, Mechanical Department, in 1908. Later he was draftsman, trainman, assistant engineer, division engineer, and, in 1912, was made Engineer of Construction for Eastern Lines. In February, 1915, he went on leave to command the Canadian Railway Construction Corps in France. Besides having received the distinction already referred to, on June 3rd, 1916, he was several times mentioned in despatches. The C. P. R. has given 7,000 recruits to the army, and many of these are adding to the glory of the allied railroad makers in France.

The work of the Canadian Overseas Railway Construction Corps has been the subject of a great deal of praise from all sections of the British Army at the front. The Military Department at Ottawa has just issued an article received from war correspondence headquarters, France, describing the importance of the service rendered by these brawny recruits from the railway systems of the Dominion. The article says: "In this devastated country, where a pile of broken bricks overgrown with weeds and a sign with a map location designate a former village, where roads have altogether disappeared and even cross-country trails melt in a single night, the Canadian railway men construct and maintain their lines. They are shelled by Fritz, if anything, more persistently and in greater volume than the infantry, yet night and day tons of ammunition and rations and men go forward over repaired lines, feeding guns and men alike. The experiences of the railway troops are not lacking in excitement."

A striking instance of pluck is thus detailed: "During one of the recent attacks Sergeant Oscar Samson, of Alberta, was seriously wounded in the arm. Instead of trekking for medical assistance back in the rear, he attempted to 'carry on' at his job of mending lines destroyed by Hun shells, so that more ammunition could be rushed up. Finally his arm got so painful, he decided to go forward on the track that had been mended, to an advanced dressing station that he knew of. His wound had been fixed by a comrade, and his arm was tied up in an improvised sling. Samson climbed on a tractor which was hauling a trainload of Stokes gun ammunition. When they got to a junction near the front line both guard and driver were wounded by splinters from a high explosive shell. The little train had made the crest of the grade and was gathering momentum every second with the driver of the tractor hanging limp and unconscious from his seat. Samson pulled him up to a place of safety and shut off the engine, but the heavy train had too much headway to be stopped, and in addition the brake gear had been blown away by another shell. Climbing back to try and set the brakes on the cars, Samson came across the wounded guard. He had been knocked off the top of the truck, and his foot catching in the framework of the car he was being dragged along with his head and shoulders bumping on the ballast. The Canadian sergeant released his foot, but failed in his attempt to gather him up into the rapidly moving car. About one hundred yards ahead was another ammunition train; its cargo of high explosive shells being unloaded at a battery position. By good luck and knowledge of braking, learned on the grades in the Rockies, Samson managed to slow down his train just as it reached the standing trucks, and a serious collision and explosion was avoided. Then, although the shell fire was extremely heavy, the sergeant went back and rescued the wounded guard. Samson won the Military Medal for this splendid exhibition of pluck."

BARBARITIES OF GERMANS IN EAST AFRICA HORRIBLE

English Civilian Prisoners Degraded and Native Pri- soners Tortured

WOMEN ARE VICTIMS Details of Cruel Practices Made Public in "White Book"

A white paper "on the treatment by the Germans of British prisoners and natives in German East Africa" was issued by the British Government on September 24. Among the victims were missionaries, women and children.

According to some of the testimony the aim of the ill-treatment seemed to be to annihilate British prestige among the natives. Whites were made to work side by side with the blacks in the fields and even to serve them. Women were insulted and degraded before their former servants and forced to perform the lowest sort of toil. Native prisoners were tortured and threatened with death in an attempt to make them testify falsely against the English and Boers.

Among the prisoners quoted, most of whom were released when the Belgians entered Tabora, a year ago, were the Rev. Ernest F. Spanton, Zanzibar; James Brown-Scott, a civilian; Harold Malcolm Ross, assistant on rubber estates, Province of Soba; the Rev. Ernest W. Doullton, secretary of the Church Missionary Society in German East Africa; Zahallya Mazingo and Mika Munyambwa, native teachers, and Clement O. Andrews, Archidiaconal Inspector of Schools, Zanzibar.

Mr. Spanton tells how those having money were obliged to accept worthless war notes in exchange, how the native mission teachers were put in chains, and how many succumbed to ill-treatment and improper food. Of the scandalous treatment of the women, he says: "I need not enter into details of this matter, as I believe the evidence of Miss Dorendorf is being sought by the committee."

Denied the Right to Complain. The experiences of Mr. Brown-Scott were typical of those of all the prisoners, and the following passages are taken from his report: At Kilimatin-di: "An English-speaking German named Thomson met us and read us a set of rules which stated that our time for exercising would be from 4 to 6 p.m., outside the walls of the fortress in a given space of about 100 yards square.

About a fortnight after our arrival one Fraser J. Cooper, a British manager of an English rubber estate, was confined several days in cells without any trial for complaining about the food.

A letter of complaint was then written on behalf of all prisoners and addressed to the Governor asking that conditions might be improved. A verbal reply was given us that we as prisoners had no right to make complaints.

Any further complaint lodged by a number or body of men was, under German military law, regarded as a revolt and would be treated as such.

The outcome of this was further restriction imposed, hours of liberty shortened, and our native servants whom we had up to this time had been allowed to retain were all dismissed, from which time the prisoners were compelled to do all the work at the camp, washing, etc. "On October 13 about fifteen prisoners arrived, including Universities Mission to Central Africa missionaries. They complained bitterly of the treatment they had been submitted to. Many of them had been first arrested and placed in cells on trumped-up charges of espionage, and during their long walk from the Tanga district had been pursued by soldiers surrounded by native soldiers as guards in the towns en route to impress crowds of natives who swarmed about them.

By November (1914) the food at the camp had become much worse, and consisted of meat and beans, bread made from mtama (millet), and very weak coffee without milk or sugar. "On December 1 four naval prisoners were brought into camp, affording some excitement among the old prisoners. Some one shouted, 'Are we downhearted?' and Herr Dorendorf ran upstairs and arrested the late Rev. Father Fixsen (U.S.A.).

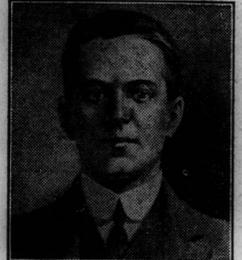

"A native guard swore to seeing Father Fixsen shout, and he was immediately placed in a small vermin-infested native cell, whereupon the man who had shouted went to the officer in charge and admitted his guilt, but no change was made. "Fixsen was in cells about a week, and the second day asked for water, which was refused. Finally he was compelled to drink the water he had washed in.

Cruelty to Major Howard. "In the last days of February, 1915, a prisoner, Major Howard, D.S.O., escaped. A large number of native askaris were sent out to scout the adjacent country, with instructions to bring him back, dead or alive, and a reward was spoken of, or promised to native village headmen, who succeeded in capturing him. The Germans did not fulfill their promise of the reward to the natives, the village receiving but a rupee each, after remaining days at the Boma to give evidence.

"On March 2 Major Howard was recaptured by natives and was brought back by native askaris to camp on the following day, with a broken rib, kidneys pierced, and a black eye, and was at once placed in

SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took
"FRUIT-A-TIVES"

ALBERT VARNER
Buckingham, Que., May 28d, 1915.
For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston but without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-tives". I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-tives", and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach, I say take "Fruit-a-tives", and you will get well!

a vermin-infested cell, 6 by 3 feet. "Howard was a few days later, tried before a native judge, but the sentence was apparently never made known. For about six months he was continually in the cell, being only allowed out for exercise on one day of the week for about half an hour.

"His sufferings were intense during this confinement. At a later date he was allowed the freedom of the camp from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. but when I last saw him more than a year later, he was still returning to cells nightly.

"The prisoner Luigi (an Italian) was given a further seven days' cells for waving his hand to Howard during his term of confinement.

"Major Howard's attempted escape brought about many further restrictions of the prisoner's liberty. Bed-time and lights out was ordered for 7 o'clock. Exercise was only allowed on the veranda, eighteen yards in length, which made any proper form of exercise impossible.

"Prisoner Luigi was given an additional four days' cells for complaining that no water had been brought to his cell.

"All prisoners civil included, were instructed to salute and stand at attention at the approach of the German guard.

"The prisoners had ample opportunity of witnessing the very harsh treatment meted out to the natives by the Germans. For the slightest breach of discipline the native askaris were given twenty-five lashes with the kiboko, a thick, long whip, usually made from hippopotamus hide.

"The German native servants not unusually received two punishments of twenty-five lashes each within fourteen days. The boys were laid out in the central yard of the prison camp each limb being held down by an askari, a fifth holding down the head while a sergeant applied the lashes with full force.

"Blood was invariably drawn by the severity of the punishment and in the case of askaris pack drill of four and five hours, with haversacks sand-loaded, followed. These scenes occurred daily in camp, and were an extremely revolting sight to the prisoners.

Women Herded With Men. At Kiliboriana: "Our meals were taken in an open shed, which was always wet with strong mists and rains prevalent at that time of the year. The food was cooked in the small mission church the altar having been converted to the Germans into a cooking stove.

"The condition of life for the prisoners was one of extreme misery. There were no separate sanitary arrangements provided for the women.

"The prisoners' punishment cell was but a thinly gratted hut thru which the winds and rain penetrated. One prisoner, M. Ross had just undergone three days' punishment for not having raised his hat properly to the German guard Dorendorf. Ross had collapsed under the strain of his punishment and had been compelled to remain in bed.

"For a period of about a month that I was at this camp scarcely a day passed without rain, and the cold was intense. Fires were only allowed in the house by the order and the mood of Herr Dorendorf.

"Exercising from 4 to 6 P.M. by walking round the house was compulsory and the women prisoners found this particularly trying, any attempt at sitting down resulting in a native askari's interference.

"A civil prisoner named Currie was ordered to the punishment cell by Herr Dorendorf for three (on five) days for admonishing a native askari whom he had found swearing at one of the mission ladies.

"The food at the camp was totally insufficient and of a very inferior quality, so that the prisoners were generally ravenously hungry. Our rations were meat and very indifferent potatoes.

"M'Neil (a very small fillet) was served to us from which to make bread, but owing to the nature of the grain it was not possible to make any substitute for bread from it.

GENERAL SHORTAGE FEARED IN DENMARK

Serious Condition Predicted in Supply of Fuel and Raw Materials

HUNS MAKE USE OF MANY SUBSTITUTES Shortage of Foodstuffs and Textiles Necessitates Cheaper Imitations

Copenhagen, Nov. 2.—(Correspondence).—Prediction of a more serious condition in the near future as affecting Denmark's supply of fuel, raw materials for industry, and fodder stuffs is made by the National Bank of Denmark in a summary of the economic and financial situation in this country. "In the latter half of the year," says the report, "owing to the German U-boat war, navigation met with such dangers as to become practically a gamble in which the stakes were life and property. Part of the navigation stopped altogether and imports were very considerably restricted, partly by destruction or seizure of cargoes, partly by refusal of exports to Denmark by the belligerent powers, conditions accentuated by the entrance of the United States into the war.

"Denmark's trade balance during the war has been good. Our agriculture and navigation have earned profits which have more than covered the expenditure, and our exports have exceeded our imports. We have, therefore, been able to pay our foreign debts and we have great outstanding debts abroad in bills, in credits and in foreign securities. This is all very well, but it would have been more fortunate if for part of the profits we had been able to obtain the articles which we want, and which are now more urgently needed than ever before. As is well known, this has not been possible. We have not been masters in our own house as regards imports, nor even as regards exports. Only when it was absolutely necessary have the latter been stopped, for export prohibition always impairs one group of home interests and exposes us to the risk of further restrictions of the import of articles in which the shortage may be even more fatal. Important political considerations also come into play here.

"The general level of prices has risen in Denmark and Sweden by 50 per cent., in Norway by more than 75 per cent., and in England by about 100 per cent."

was handed out daily, from which coffee was served to over forty prisoners and a small quantity of milk was at times distributed.

"We were allowed no news, nor were we allowed to write or receive letters."

Sentence Before Trial. At Tabora: "Service men were sent on numerous occasions under native guard to carry raw oxhides from the camp to a cattle kraal some considerable distance away. They then had to scrape and bury the skins. After a certain lapse of time they would dig them up again scrape and carry them back on poles, being compelled to pass through the Askari Barracks and the Indian encampment.

"The insufficient head protection of many prisoners caused a good deal of suffering, and in many cases absolute prostration.

"The natives could see the English prisoners performing their work and regarded it with much amusement. "For the slightest breach of rules prisoners were placed in dark cells on a prison diet of bread and water.

"Very few prisoners received any trial before punishment. A civil prisoner named Currie was placed in cells for seven days for an offense which he had never committed. When he was released he went to the office of the officer in charge, asking for the reason that he had been punished, whereupon he was returned to cells for a further term.

"The food was very bad indeed, and at times positively revolting."

ETON'S HONOR ROLL.
London, Nov. 2.—(Associated Press).—Eton College has a larger proportion of nobility among its scholars than any English school in history. The youthful peers at Eton are largely boys who have fallen heir to their titles through the death of their fathers in war. Lord Longford's father was killed at Gallipoli; Lord De la Warr's father was also killed in the army. Other pupils who will take seats in the House of Lords as soon as they reach their majority are Lord Brecknock, Lord Kinnoull, and Lord Ridley.

JAP LOAN TO CHINA.
Tokio, Nov. 2.—(Associated Press).—The Finance Department has announced the signing of a loan to China of an amount equivalent to $10,000,000. The money is to be applied to the rehabilitation of the communication Bank of China and is secured by Chinese Republic treasury bonds. The interest rate is 7 1/2 per cent, and the term three years.

It would be good policy, and a money-saving proposition, if you would secure that new piano for the home without delay. Like everything else, the manufacturers are obliged to advance the price—and they are likely to be much higher in the near future. If interested call and see H. J. Smith and Co.

The Sealed Valley

By HULBERT FOOTNER

Author of "Jack Chanly"

(From Friday's Daily.)

The opening was about two feet across. Buttressed by the fallen trees below and screened by the living ones, it was shrewdly hidden. Ralph wondered by what chance it had been first discovered. He lit a match and dropped it in. It burned until it struck the bottom. It was about fifteen feet deep. There was the trunk of a young pine standing upright within it, reaching to within a foot of the top. Obviously this was used to climb in and out by.

It was like an invitation to enter, but Ralph hesitated. Notwithstanding the reassuring light of day and the solid earth of rocks and trees, the feeling of something uncanny, something more than natural, would not quiet down.

When he laughed this way there remained very human fears.

"Who knows what may be down there?" he thought. "And what kind of a conception will I receive? Finally there were compunctions of delicacy.

"It's hardly fair to break in on the secrets behind their backs," he thought. Recollection of his own injuries wiped this out. "They weren't so careful of my feelings," he told himself.

In the end, perhaps because he was afraid, Ralph was obliged to descend. As he went down he could not take a dare from himself. Swinging his legs over the edge, he felt for the top branch of the pine tree.

At the bottom of the hole he struck another match. There were several pine-knot torches lying at his feet. Picking up the longest, he lighted it.

He was in a narrow cleft in the rock extending obliquely and downward into the mountain. It was necessary to recline partly on his back and inch himself along, holding the spluttering torch at arm's length before him. It was an awkward posture in which to meet danger. But Charley could come through he could he thought.

After only a few yards of this he issued suddenly into a much larger chamber, where he was able to stand freely on his feet.

It was a kind of spacious corridor running off to the right and left and floored with pebbles and sand. Mainly a stream had once flowed over it, but at present the floor was dry.

The thrilling impressions of a cave brought Ralph's boyhood winging back to him.

Thinking of grizzly bears and mountain lions none too comfortably, he was unarmed, he sniffed the air delicately. There was no suggestion of animal effluvia. Anyway, Charley had just passed through.

The torch made an extraordinary dancing light on the walls of the rock, reminding him of a certain flaring gas-light in the cellar at home. The cave was not like a tunnel with arching roof, as he had always imagined caves, but was still a fissure in the rock, both sides leaning obliquely in the same direction.

Overhead the split gradually narrowed; the light of his torch did not penetrate to the top of it.

Ralph was faced by the choice of turning right or left in the corridor. He followed the torch to look for footstep. In the patches of sand they were plainly discernable, many of them almost a beaten path leading off to the right.

Besides Charley's, Ralph readily distinguished the prints of his own small, straight feet, and another foot, evidently her mother's.

The sight of all these footprints had the effect of allaying Ralph's fears and of strongly stimulating his excitement. Up to this moment he had kept in view the possibility that

(this cave might be a private affair of Charley's.)

Now he could no longer doubt that Nahya's secret, whatever it was, lay at the end of this path.

He followed it, feeling himself on the brink of an amazing discovery. Nothing could have turned him back now. "With all her pains to keep me in the dark, I have been a little too clever for her!" he thought vainly.

Sometimes the corridor was ten feet wide, sometimes it narrowed down to four. The air had that extraordinary dead quality only to be found in deep caves; but it was quite pure, because the torch burned clearly. The stillness pressed on his ear-drums.

The quietest room; the quietest night out of doors was vibrant and musical by comparison. His own breathing sounded hoarse and laborious in his ears.

Holding the torch high over his head, he made his way swiftly over the smooth floor, wrought up to the highest possible pitch.

Rounding a corner of the rock, the flickering light fell on a human figure standing motionless before him. He stopped short with a horrid shock of fright.

The torch dropped from his nervous hand and was extinguished. He slowly screwed down the clamps of self-control and schooling, his voice, halted the creature. The sound shattered the dark stillness with an incredible, unnatural ring.

The sound of his own voice in that place terrified him. The silence that followed upon it was terrible.

There was no answer.

Very slowly he forced himself to pick up the torch, to light a match, and to ignite it again. He held it there. The figure was still there, motionless. Ralph went forward very gingerly, and saw that it was not human, after all, but merely a kind of scarecrow; a stick planted in the sand with a cross-piece on which was hung a coat and hat.

Evidently some of Charley's work placed there for what purpose Ralph could not conceive. He sat down, wiped his face, and allowed his shagging nerves to quiet down.

Proceeding, he heard a murmur which later resolved itself into the sound of running water. Ralph wondered uneasily if there were times when a torrent swept between these rocky walls; he pictured himself swept helplessly upon it, and his skin prickled.

In such a place he would not have been surprised by anything. The scarecrow reassured him partly.

Plainly it had been set up to stand more than an hour or two. Keeping on, he satisfied himself that the water was not coming toward him. The sound increased only in the ratio of his progress toward it.

Soon it was close ahead, not a loud sound, but the musical voice of a rapid, smooth stream. Holding the torch high, its light was reflected in pale gleams up the corridor. The water was coming straight toward him, to be suddenly and mysteriously diverted.

A few steps farther and he had the explanation.

A yawning hole in the floor of the cave received the stream entire with out a sound. It simply slipped over the lip of rock and ceased to be.

The absence of any sound of a fall below was uncanny.

Ralph tossed a little stone in the hole—and heard nothing. Not until he lay at full length and stuck his head over the edge of the chasm could he hear above the soft hiss of the descending water the distant, muffled crash of its fall.

The height suggested by the sound staggered the senses. Ralph received a new and awful conception of

THAT TERRIBLE FAVORITE STORY!

Once upon a time when I was talking with a husband and wife, the husband started to tell a story in illustration of some point. "Henry," said his wife, with a queer little gesture and a tone of calm desperation that made what she said indescribably funny, "if you tell that story again I know I shall scream."

"But my dear," protested her husband (he is one of those rare people who have enough of humor to smile even at themselves) "she hasn't heard it."

She Stepped Aside While He Told It.

We compromised finally by deciding that she should step aside for a few minutes while I listened to the story. It was really worth listening to. Quite amusing in fact. But not so amusing as her protest.

She expressed so earnestly what every wife (and husband) has felt a hundred times.

Almost every individual has certain stories of one sort or another that he likes to relate whenever he sees (or can pry) an opening in the conversation. There's his favorite funny stories, and his most exciting adventures, and the queerest thing that ever happened to him, and the most interesting coincidences, etc., etc.

So long as he knows how to tell a story and doesn't tell the same story over again to the same people, the fact that he is repeating himself doesn't matter. That is, if he is a bachelor (or she a bachelor maid). But when he (or she) undertakes to carry an audience of one about with him every where he goes, that complicates affairs.

No Man or Woman Wants to Play Only for an Audience of One.

It would be asking too much of man or woman to expect them to play only for that single audience and neglect the gallery the rest of their lives. We all enjoy the gallery's applause, however clear an importance is the audience of one.

If I were asked to put up a prescription for the situation I should suggest a very simple one—three glasses toleration plus two of separation.

Close the Ears of Your Mind

When you've heard a story so many times that you feel like screaming when you hear it coming, just learn to close your ears when you think of something else when it comes. Doubtless your partner is doing the same thing for you.

And if you find that things like your partner's nerves, remember that the same experience, and don't be afraid to give both of you a little rest from each other in any way possible.

"Yoke" used to be a favorite simile for matrimony. "Partnership" is more commonly used and it nowadays. It is an excellent change.

the goodly old phrase—the bowels on the earth.

He hastened toward it, feeling an unbounded relief. He had been prepared to face—he did not know what—some shape of mystery or terror in the darkness. And here was honest daylight.

An insupportable curiosity filled him, forcing him to run and to leap as if but a minute or two of daylight remained.

Arrived in the opening, he flung the remains of his torch in the water. The bearded bright stars over his head once more. Until as saw it he did not realize how heavily he had been oppressed by underground terrors.

At first nothing else was visible to him but the sky and terraces of rock on either side between which the little stream came tumbling down into the hole.

Ralph was up over the rocks like an ape. At the top there was lush green grass starred with flowers. Trees below still obstructed his view.

He ran on up the slope of grass until the side prospect opened to his eye. There he flung himself down to gaze his fill.

He was not disappointed. It surpassed his brightest imaginings. The first glimpse amply repaid him for the trip underground.

It was lovelier than any sight he had ever beheld—lovelier than any scene he had visited in his dreams. It was itself, and it was new. The artist in him experienced the rich, rare satisfaction of beholding a perfect thing.

He had to enlarge his conception of beauty to take it in.

WAR KITCHENS IN COMMON USE

Public Establishment Provide Food for Large Part of German People

Amsterdam, Nov. 2.—(Correspondence)—The public kitchens established throughout the German empire since the beginning of the war would now be able to supply food for about 50 per cent of the population, according to a statement published by the German war office. It would appear from this statement that there were 2200 such establishments in the Empire, and that the ordinary capacity amounted to the production in a recent month of 2,500,000 quarts of food.

There are in the German empire 563 common dining rooms, or "war kitchens," each of about 50 of these now are without public kitchens. The majority of towns report establishments providing mid-day dinners for all, although all the kitchens are equipped for supplying at least two meals daily.

In Berlin there are now 66 public kitchens, and the number of persons who obtain food from them, in a recent weeks the number of participants has averaged about 170,000 daily.

Rippling Rhymes

HEARTRENDING.

It must be trying to the soul to do at home one's part of the stunt, and hear each day the query droll, "Aren't you fighting at the front?" Perhaps the stay-at-home can spring a reason why he spills no gore, but that reason 'o'er and 'o'er. The matrons view him with disdain, as for the soldier boys they knit; their glances say, "Your life is vain—why don't you try to do your bit?" The blooming damsels, too, gaze upon the friendless, outcast wight, and say, "We'll have no truck with jays who stay at home when brave men fight." The children see him pass their school and cry aloud a ribald horde, "The corkscrew is this slacker's tool, while other young men ply the sword." He may have reasons good as wheat for staying home and being busy, while martial neighbors go to meet the Prussians in the fray; but who will listen while he tells the reason why he doesn't go? Men say, "If you'd be wiser, you ought to swat your country's foe."

(From Our Own Correspondent). Waterford, Nov. 1.—Squaw weather is here with snow and cold weather. After this spell is over probably we will have our Indian summer.

Messrs. Leonard Harrison and T. C. Savage left on Tuesday afternoon for the deer hunting in the Northern country. They will be absent for a couple of weeks.

Rev. Frank Anderson is spending a couple of weeks in Winnipeg. Saturday evening was the night of nights here, with very early in the evening some appeared on the streets in their fancy costume. A number of blackened faces were seen among the boys. One would have thought this was a negro settlement. No harm was done. Everywhere there was a party this year. The Rebekahs held one at Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merritt's, the B.Y.P.U. and Miss Church also entertained. The Methodist Sunday School held a social evening at the Methodist parsonage. All were masked parties and much enjoyment was found in guessing who your neighbor happened to be.

Mr. George Pitman, of Madison, Wisconsin, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. James J. Church. Two American troop trains passed

POLLY'S WHIZZEN-POOF

"Every night just after the sun goes down, he comes out from his cave in the mountains and sits at the edge of the road," explained Polly.

Doty and David huddled closer to her on the step.

"Did you ever see him?" asked Doty, her voice filled with wonder.

"Sure," replied Polly. "And one night when it was very, very dark he came and sat down right there, away up the road. All I could see was his great big red eye, blinking and winking at me like a beautiful big ruby."

"You are not afraid of anything, are you, Polly?" exclaimed David.

"Whizen-Poofs won't hurt you. They're sent out to warn folks that there's danger ahead. You know Whizen-poofs only have one eye and it's so bright you can't see where his tail and head begin. All you see is just one great, big, red eye, winking and blinking at you from away down the road," said Polly.

"I'd like to see a Whizen-poof, all right," laughed David. "I wouldn't be afraid of him."

"Then you want to watch this road, for he's likely to come out most any evening," replied Polly.

"That night after the lights were out, and David was quite sure Polly and Doty were sound asleep, he softly stole out of bed and climbed on a chair to look out of the window. Away up the road—right where Polly had pointed—there winked and blinked a tiny red eye.

At one time he saw a baby Whizen-poof. He thought what a great thing it would be to capture a baby Whizen-poof and have it all for his own! So, taking his popgun, David stole out of the house and quickly ran down the road. The tiny red eye began to grow larger and larger as David neared its hiding place.

"It's not a baby Whizen-poof, so it's a good thing I brought my popgun," said David to himself, and he stopped to load in the corks.

"Course it won't hurt him, but I'll scare him all right! Then I'll tie a string around his neck and take him home with me!"

"David, David, David," shouted a voice behind him, and David turned and saw Polly dragging Doty by the hand, running up the road towards him.

"Where in the world are you going?" cried Polly as she caught up with David. David pointed to the big red eye.

"I'm going to capture that Whizen-poof," he replied. Doty held tightly to Polly's hand, and then she burst out laughing.

"He knows me, so you both close your eyes and don't open them until I say ready," laughed Polly, and she led the children right up to the big red eye.

"Ready!" cried Polly, and the two children opened their eyes.

There in front of them stood a great pile of logs, and at one end hung a lantern with a red chimney.

"They always put a red light on things like that, so folks won't run into them after dark. That's my Whizen-poof!"

David and Doty sat down and had a good laugh over Polly's Whizen-poof with the great red eye. Then Polly took David and Doty home and once more tucked them in bed.

B.Y.P.U. Rally.

The B.Y.P.U. rally on Monday was not favored by the weather man as it rained hard all day and during the evening. Only a few delegates braved the storm, but they enjoyed a treat which the rest missed. Rev. E. R. Fitch delivered an address in the afternoon on "Organization," and discussed the power, purpose and fundamental principles of organization. In the evening Rev. E. G. Dale gave an interesting address on "The Value of the Soul." After showing the various estimates, the different peoples place upon the value of the soul, he told that God's estimate meant the sacrifice of his son, Rev. H. H. Bingham, B.A., of Talbot Street, Baptist Church, London, Ont., delivered a lecture both afternoon and evening. The afternoon lecture was on "Have Baptists Still a Distinctive Message?" and the evening address was the "Value and Power of the Personal Touch." He unfolded the rare privileges of one who does personal work and told of many incidents which had happened in his life.

The new officers were installed during the evening meeting, and are as follows: President, Rev. S. H. Lamb, Villa Nova; first vice-president, Mr. Lorne D. Culver, Waterford; second vice-president, Rev. E. G. Dale, Boston; secretary-treasurer, Miss Maude Fleming, Simcoe; superintendent of junior work, Mrs. H. Crabbe, Simcoe; superintendent of culture courses, Miss Clara Fellyer, B.A., Waterford; councillors, Mr. Wallace Haviland, Mr. Archie Cook, Mr. McMahon.

Miss Eva Wilson of Vittoria sang a beautiful solo during the evening meeting.

The Waterford B.Y.P.U. served a substantial supper between sessions to the delegates in the basement of the church.

Don't Stop To Count Them

There are 250 cups of strong, rich tea—all from a pound package of Red Rose.

That seems a very large number, but then you must remember that Red Rose Tea is composed chiefly of the strong, rich Assam teas from Northern India, which yield an astonishing amount of tea essence.

Why! You can brew five generous cups from about one cent's worth of Red Rose. Doesn't it seem a real war-time economy to use Red Rose Tea, which tastes better and goes further?

No. 8438 contains two distinct gumpes patterns and offers various ways of trimming each. No. 1 may be finished with a high neck and turnover or with V-neck and sailor collar, or it may have the collar with points in front and with a square or rounded back. The full is optional. No. 2 is sleeveless and has the back shoulder edges extending over the front in yoke effect. It has a large pointed collar.

The gumpes pattern No. 8438, is cut in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure. As on the figure, the 36 inch size requires 2 1/2 yards 36 inch material, 4 yards of insertion and 1/2 yard edging.

Canadian Indians Who Have Gone to the Front

Approximately 5,000 Canadian Indians Have Been Trained in Indian Companies of Overseas Units and Sent to France to Fight for the Allied Cause

(By Verne De Witt Rowell in Current History.)

In striking contrast to the bitter racial discussions provoked in Canada by the charges of the Toronto Journalistic school that French Canada has not done her duty in the matter of recruiting men for overseas service is the fervent patriotism of the old-time Indian allies of the French and English in America. In all approximately 5,000 Canadian Indians have been trained in Indian companies of overseas units and been sent to France to fight for the Allied cause. The only Indian race that has not sent its full quota of recruits to the firing line in Europe is that of the Eskimo Indians and while they might prove excellent warriors during the winter months, they obviously would not survive a summer campaign.

The once ferocious and formidable Blackfoot Indians, who lived on buffalo meat and were a terror of explorers and outlying settlements have sent several companies. The Crees of the Slave Lake and Hudson Bay regions have sent their representatives in khaki, and the Indians of Eastern Canada have in many instances sent practically the full number of eligible males in their tribes.

In the early days of American colonization, when the French and English contended in warfare, each was aided by an Indian nation, the French by the Algonquin federation and the English by the Iroquois, or Six Nation Indians. The Algonquins largely domesticated, tilled the soil and lived in more or less permanent settlements in the territory now forming the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Time and again did the French establish colonies along the St. Lawrence and the northern shores of the Great Lakes to engage in the fur trade with their Algonquin friends, but nearly always did these colonies disappear before the fierce raids of the Iroquois warriors, who made their home in Western New York, and, as the unfailing allies of the New England British colonists, swooped over the Niagara and St. Lawrence frontiers burning and ravaging the French settlements and scalping all the French palefaces they could lay their hands on. Today under the Canadian flag, the Iroquois and Algonquins are fighting side by side in the same Indian companies for the new, united cause of the French, the English, and the great nation that has sprung from the Little New England and Pennsylvania settlements of those early days.

Loyalty Their Only Politics. Since New Year's 1917, companies of American Indians have been holding front-line trenches on the western front, and they would have been there nearly three years ago had not an order of the Canadian military department, for some reason never quite explained, forbidden recruiting among the Indians when the war first commenced. But no sooner had the war clouds broken in Europe in August, 1914, than the Indian troops and all met in their tribal councils, pledged firm allegiance and offered their services to the British Crown, subscribed from their tribal funds money to the Red Cross and to buy machine guns and petitioned to be allowed to go overseas as fighting men.

The Canadian Indian, not being a citizen, knows no politics as yet. He knows nothing of nationalism, neither that of the French-Canadian variety which has something of a racial basis, nor the new nationalism of nationalism of the English-speaking Canadian, which was just budding before the war, and which, as one of its manifestations, opposed strenuously any contribution by Canada to an imperial navy. The Indian is loyal to the Crown; he is a monarchist. Whether his views will as it is expected he will, as a reward chance when he becomes a citizen.

Still one of the most interesting religious temples in North America is the "Long House," near Southwold, Ont., a short distance from the Michigan Central Railway, connecting Buffalo and Detroit, where annually the sacrifice and feast of the "White Dog," a ceremony of purification for the sins of the year past, is held for the Oneida pagans. The plain looking wooden building is also a Mesca and temple of the pagan Oneidas of Western New York State, but the only remnant of the Oneida race found at Green Bay, Wis., does not count among its members any braves who still adhere to the faith of their fathers. After all this pagan faith is largely colored by Christian influences very similar to the Judaism of the Old Testament, and, incorporating the story of the Christ among its legends, might be aptly styled an American Islam.

Among the Chippewas of the Middlesex Indian unit are Moravian-Indian Indians, whose reserve on the River Thames near Chatham, is believed to be the body of Teumihcar, whose name is a romantic and bright one in Canadian history, on account of his brilliant assistance given to the Canadians in repelling the American invasion of 1812. The loyalty of the Indian race in Canada may be illustrated by reference to an Indian mother now living in London, Ont. She has four sons in the war, and her baby son of 14 also attempted to enlist. His brother, one year older, was held in England on account of his age, when it was discovered, and is now an instructor at Whitley Camp. This Indian mother, whose husband is a descendant of Moses Schuyler, who led the Oneidas from New York to Ontario and founded the settlement on the Thames nearly a century ago, said recently: "Yes, I have given four of my boys, and I am sorry that my other children died when they were babies, for I would gladly have given them too, to fight for England."

In every way the Canadian Indians have proved themselves the equals of their white comrades on the battle line.

WOMAN A PHYSICAL WRECK
Tells in Following Letter How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a physical wreck. I had been going to a doctor for several years but he did me no good. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to give it a fair trial, and it gave me relief from bearing down pains which had been so bad that I would have to lie down. I also used the Sarsaparilla Wash and it has done me a great deal of good, and I am not troubled with a weakness any more." — Mrs. P. L. BRILL, 1299 Booth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

The most successful remedy for woman's ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test for forty years, which would be impossible if it did not have genuine merit. SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson V.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 4, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, I Kings xx, 1-21. Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, I Kings xx, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The story of Elijah in the preceding chapters as he stood so nobly and grandly for God is most inspiring, and God's loving care of him at Chith and Zarephath, and when discouraged and weary he lay and slept under the juniper tree and wanted to die, but an angel fed him twice and sent him on his way, is all so comforting, for the same God is our God and Father if we are in Christ, and He is always full of compassion. If we only knew Him as we might, how happy we would be, and how He would glorify Himself in us! We must not see people nor be afraid of them, for the Spirit is saying to us, "Who art thou that thou shouldst be afraid of a man? * * * and forgettest the Lord, thy maker" (Isa. li, 12, 13.)

Our lesson today is the story of thirty-three drunken kings with such an host of soldiers and horses and chariots that they seemed to fill the country, while the children of Israel seemed like two little flocks of kids (verses 1, 12, 15, 27). The king of Syria, with his army, and the king of Moab, with whom the thirty-two kings were associated, sent word to Ahab, king of Israel, that all his wealth and even his wives and children belonged to him, the king of Syria. How suggestive of the devil, who dared to tell the Lord Jesus that all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them belonged to him (Matt. iv, 8, 9; Luke iv, 5, 6). Ahab seemed at first to consent to this (verses 2-4), but when the king of Syria sent again demanding the right to search the houses and help himself to all that he desired then the king of Israel and his elders stood against it (verses 5-9).

How suggestive the unrighteous and cruel demands of the drunken king and his associates are of the way strong drink treats a man who becomes its slave by ruining his home and taking from him his wife and children and all his pleasant things! Now, Ahab was certainly one of the worst of men, as it is written in chapter xxi, 25, "There was none like unto Ahab, who did sell himself to work wickedness in the sight of the Lord, whom Jezabel, his wife, stirred up," but Israel was the Lord's people, though in rebellion against Him, and for the honor of His name He sent a prophet to Ahab, saying, "I will deliver this great multitude into thine hand this day, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord" (verse 13). So the king of Israel and his men slew the Syrians with a great slaughter (verse 21).

Then the Syrians said, "Their gods are the gods of the hills, so we will fight against them in the plain and shall surely conquer them." Therefore a man of God came again to Ahab with this message, "Because the Syrians have said the Lord is God of the hills, but He is not God of the valleys, therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the Lord" (verse 29). Again the little flocks of kids had the victory over the great host of their enemies and slew 100,000 in one day, and a wall fell upon 27,000. It makes us think of the day when more died by the ballstones which the Lord cast down from heaven than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword (Josh. x, 11), and also of the 185,000 whom an angel slew in one night (II Kings xix, 35).

How many ways the Lord has to accomplish His purposes, and at the close of nearly two years of this madness of the nations (June, 1916), we cannot but wonder what would happen if Israel's God should come and cease to keep silence (Ps. i, 3). These two great deliverances were intended to lead Ahab to know the Lord (verses 13, 29), and yet in the end of our lesson chapter we find him making a covenant of peace with this same king of Syria (verse 34), and in the next chapter we see him committing murder for the sake of a little bit of another's property.

The words of sinners and of drunkards may be saved, but have been saved, but there must be an honest turning to the Lord with the whole heart. In chapter xxi, 25-29, we see Ahab humbling himself before the Lord and being spared a little longer, but in chapter xxii, 27, we see him putting a servant of the Lord in prison and feeding him with bread and water because he spoke the truth. Oh, how wonderful is the patience and long suffering of the Lord with all sinners, not willing that any should perish, but how desperately wicked is the heart of sinners without foundation. The records of the Military Hospitals Commission, under whose direction all disabled soldiers come when they return to this country, show that of the 400,000 Canadians sent overseas, only 31 have been blinded to date.

There have been several cases in which the men have become blind after their return to Canada, and provision for their re-education has been made in the School for the Blind at Halifax, under the direction of Sir Frederick Fraser.

Canada's Victory Loan Will Keep the Workers Busy

WHEN the war started many people predicted the ruin of Canada's industries.

But time has shown that the natural resources and basic industries of Canada are of immense importance in helping to keep Great Britain supplied with food, munitions and equipment.

Because of this, there has been a steady cash market for the farmers, as well as plenty of work at good wages for all the workers in other lines of industry.

But now the time has come when Great Britain can purchase her supplies on this side of the Atlantic only on credit. If Canada does not grant this credit, Britain will be obliged to place her orders where credit is available. If Canada does grant this credit our cash markets will be continued and the workers kept busy.

The Only Way to raise the money needed to establish this credit is by borrowing from all the people of Canada through the sale of Victory Bonds.

Every man and woman in Canada, therefore, is vitally interested in the success of Canada's Victory Loan, for upon its complete success depends the continuance of Canada's agricultural and business prosperity.

CANADA HAS ONLY 31 BLIND SOLDIERS

Plans to Publish Daily Newspaper and Monthly Magazine for the Blind

It is interesting to note in the face of general horror of blindness, that the assumption in many quarters that the war will turn back into Canada hundreds of sightless men is without foundation. The records of the Military Hospitals Commission, under whose direction all disabled soldiers come when they return to this country, show that of the 400,000 Canadians sent overseas, only 31 have been blinded to date.

He is planning to include a printing house for the publication of literature in the raised type used by the blind, including a daily newspaper and a monthly magazine. The Braille system of raised dots has restored the world to the blind.

The Braille shorthand is superior to any system heretofore developed for the seeing. It is said, "All sorts of table games are adopted for the blind, and even such active sports as skating, dancing, riding and push ball are engaged in."
