FRANCO-BRITISH CAUGHT ELEMENT HAPPING ON TWO SECTORS

Took Over 1400 Prisoners in Two Separate Attacks

STRENGTHENING OF ALLIED POSITION RESULTS FROM TWO SURPRISE ATTACKS

British Rectified Their Lines East of Hazebrouck, in Flanders While South of Aisne French Drove Enemy Forces Back -- German Salient Toward Nieppe Forest is Completely Wiped Out

By Courier Leased Wire.

Attacking the Germans suddenly on two widely separated sectors, French and British troops have improved their positions greatly and captured 1,400 prisoners.

By their enterprise in taking the initiative unexpectedly, the Allies apparently got the Germans napping, and realized their objectives in a short time. The British rectified their line east of Hazebrouck, in Flanders. South of the Aisne the French drove the enemy back on the important Ambleny, Mont Gobert sector, which bars the open space between the forests of Compeigne and Villers Cottovets. The fighting here continues.

Not only did the Allies straighten out their lines, but they took from the Germans salients which would have suited admirably as "jumping off" points in future operations. Although the British attacked on a front of three and a half miles, and the French on four and one half miles, each effort was intended as a purely local operation to harass the enemy.

In the north the British wiped out the German salient toward the Nieppe Forest, northwest of Merville, and that town now is menaced seriously. Three hamlets were re-taken in an advance of one mile, and the Germans lost 300 prisoners. Australian troops around Merris, north of Merville, made a small gain, and took 43 Germans.

After his check on the Noyon-Montdidier front, the German Crown Prince made a strong attack south of the Aisne for the apparent purpose of getting in behind the Forest of Compeigne. A large part of the gains made then now have been recaptured by the French. Important positions were taken from the Germans, whose lines were penetrated at several points to a depth of more than a mile. The French bag of prisoners totals 1,060.

Berlin reports the German troops as striving to check the Franco-British attacks. Merville is the farthest point west the Germans reached in the Lys battle, and the British success there lessens the peril to Hazebrouck. No less satisfactory from the Allied viewpoint is the successful French thrust south of the Aisne, which also relieved enemy pressure at a more or less vital point.

LIKELY TO RESUME OFFENSIVE

By Courier Leased Wire

The Germans show no intention of resuming the offensive, but it may be that the French and British strokes will spur them to action before the Allies regain other important positions between Ypres and Rheims. Except in Flanders and south of the Aisne, the western battle front has been quiet. Intense aerial activity continues without a let-up. The Germans reported their raid on Paris Friday night for the third time in succession, but only a few bombs were dropped. In fighting in the air, Allied airplanes have accounted for 33 enemy machines, while Berlin reports the shooting down of 25 Allied at planes. French airmen are bombing military targets in Picardy and north of the Marne and British bombers persist in their raids into the region about Metz.

Fighting activity on the Italian front is of minor character. Artillery duels have increased in vigor along the front. Austro-Hungarian trenches on the Asiago plateau have been penetrated by British troops who took prisoners.

BRITISH GAINS

London, June 29.—In their successful attack in Flanders, east of Nieppe wood yesterday, the British took more than 400 prisoners, the war office announced today. Two German field guns, in addition to the machine guns and trench mortars taken, also were captured in this attack.

The text of the statement reads: "The total number of prisoners taken by us in yesterday's operation east of Nieppe Forest, exceeds 400. This figure does not include those taken west of Merris. Two German field guns, in addition to a number of machine guns and trench mortars, also were captured by us. The hostile artillery has been active east of Varre wood, south of the Somme and west of Frouchy (Aisne region)."

RAID HALTED

Paris, June 29.—(Havas Agency)—Paris was unharmed by last night's German air raid. None of the bombs dropped by the several machines which attempted the penetration of the defenses between 11.30 and 12.30 o'clock fell on the city.

DEFENDING CITY

Paris, June 29.—In an effort to organize the defense of Paris against German raiding airplanes, the aviation committee of the Chamber of Deputies will confer with Premier Clemenceau and recommend the pursuit of the Chamber of Deputies which bombard the capital, and the creation of three distinct defense zones. The first of these zones will be exclusively for cannon and airplanes, the next will be defended by small balloons and the third will be brilliantly lighted.

placed in the hands of an independent body.

Paris, June 29.—German attacks on the front southwest of Soissons for the purpose of effecting the French from positions taken by them on Thursday night, were repulsed last night and the French line was held intact, according to the statement of the War Office today.

In an operation northwest of Montdidier, American troops took 40 prisoners.

In addition to their attack on the front in the Soissons area, the Germans sent assault detachments against the lines held intact, according to the report of the War Office today.

The growth of mileage had far outstripped the growth of population. The C.P.R. had 12,900 miles in active operation, the C.N.R. 9,948, the G.T.R. 3,556, and the G.P.T. 1,964. The operating revenue of the C.P.R. in 1916 was $124,654,571, a sum which reflected great credit upon the road.

The total revenue of the six leading railroads was over $235,000,000. The total investment in the same six was $1,918,149,092. In taking over these lines, together with the smaller ones in the Dominion, the Government would thus be entering on an expenditure of $2,000,000,000.

"We know we have made a lot of blunders, and have sunk far more money than we should," admitted Mr. Cocksbutt.

Mr. Cocksbutt believed the purchase of the C.N.R. justified under the circumstances. He praised Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann for their achievements in rail-road building. They would not occupy positions on the reorganized board at their own request, they were not relieved of either responsibilities, but were willing to give their advice when needed.

C.N.R. IS NOW PROPERTY OF GOVERNMENT

Has Been Taken Over Lock, Stock and Barrel, Said W. F. Cocksbutt

SPOKE TO BD. OF TRADE

Government Has Committed Itself to Expenditure of Two Billions

STATISTICS GIVEN

In taking over the railways of the Dominion, the Canadian Government has committed itself to an expenditure of $2,000,000,000, double Canada's entire war expenditure to date.

Canada's freight rates are the cheapest existing in any country in the world, and average three quarters of a cent per ton per mile.

The Canadian National railway was built at a cost of $44,000 per mile, the lowest cost at which any railway in the world was ever constructed.

The C. N. R. is now the property of the people of Canada, lines and rolling stock, stations, terminals and hotels, the government having taken over the railways after payment of $10,000,000 for the stock of the company remaining after deducting the $30,000,000 which the government previously advanced in subsidies.

Such were a few of the facts, instructive, interesting, thought-provoking, enumerated by W. F. Cocksbutt, M. P., in addressing the Board of Trade last night on the subject of the railway situation in Canada.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Cocksbutt outlined his attitude on the Toronto, Niagara and Western Railway Company, a branch of the C. N. R., and now a part of the government railways. If there were any objection to the franchise of the C. N. R. & W. line, it belonged to the people.

The railway had no connection with the Toronto and Niagara Power Company, with which it had been confused locally, resulting in a misunderstanding as to Mr. Cocksbutt's attitude on the former question.

The speaker also explained the attitude of the Commons on the proposed amendments to the Municipal Act, to give municipalities greater control over their streets and the use of them by public utility corporations. The speaker had proposed to mitigate the control to be given municipalities, to which the Commons took objection.

"I am now, as I have always been, in favor of complete control of streets and walks against all telephones, telegraph, railway or other companies," he declared.

The greatest act which the Dominion Government had ever put through since confederation, had escaped the attention of a large portion of the public. In taking over the railroads of Canada, the Government had embarked on a step which would cost more than double Canada's total war expenditure to date. He recalled the appointment of the Drayton-Actworth Commission in 1916, to investigate the railway situation in Canada, in proportion to its population, had by far the greatest railway mileage in the world, and stood fourth in the world in total mileage, estimated in the report of the above commission at 49,584 miles, one mile of railway for every 185 people.

The growth of mileage had far outstripped the growth of population. The C.P.R. had 12,900 miles in active operation, the C.N.R. 9,948, the G.T.R. 3,556, and the G.P.T. 1,964. The operating revenue of the C.P.R. in 1916 was $124,654,571, a sum which reflected great credit upon the road.

Preparatory Measures Are Now Being Taken, London Hears

TROOPS TO BE SENT Will Assist the Maximalist Forces in Restoring Order in Russia

By Courier Leased Wire. London, June 29.—The German government, according to German newspapers, is taking preparatory measures with a view to intervention in Russia, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company today from Zurich. Under this plan, it is stated, troops will be sent to restore order, assisted by Maximalist forces.

Amsterdam, June 29.—Discussing the strained political situation in Germany caused by the recent speech of Dr. von Kuechmann, the foreign secretary, the Frankfurter Zeitung takes up the question of the relation of the political powers of the nations to the military, and remarks that little had developed in such a way during the war as to render the notable phrase of Karl von Clausewitz, that the army should be the instrument of policy no longer valid in its old meaning. The relationship, declares the newspaper, has to-day become such as to perhaps make it impossible to restore the old. It concludes: "If supreme army command determines that the course of its policy is the actual course, it should lie with some one in that quarter openly to assume its direction."

BOARD OF TRADE FAVORED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF WAR CHEST

Would Amalgamate All War Funds And Hold One Joint Campaign Per Year—Revised System For Computing Manufacturers' Profits Requested

The Board of Trade last night went on record as requesting the Dominion Government to effect a more equitable computation of the profits of manufacturers upon which taxation of the latter is based.

Mr. G. S. Matthews introduced a lengthy and comprehensive resolution on this subject, explaining to the board the necessity for a revised system of adjustment, as the method at present in use was unsatisfactory to many.

The proposal of the creation in Brantford of a war chest, into which all funds collected for war purposes would be amalgamated, and for which one joint campaign a year would be held, was favored by a majority of the members present, and a committee was appointed to co-operate with the local branch of the Patriotic Fund.

The following resolution, moved by Geo. S. Matthews and seconded by W. F. Cocksbutt, carried: "That whereas, the Government of Canada have deemed it wise and necessary to tax the profits of manufacturers in Canada, such tax being based on the percentage of profits earned on the amount of capital invested.

And whereas for the purposes of computing said profits and tax, it is required that only such moneys as are actually invested by the shareholders or owners, and such accumulated reserves or undivided profits as are held by the company or corporation, and actually employed as capital for the conduct of its business, shall be included in the amount deemed as capital upon which earnings shall be computed.

And whereas, by such method of computing the earnings of the manufacturers no account is taken of any moneys borrowed from banks, or other persons, nor is the manufacturer permitted under the present method of computing his earnings, to make any profit from the portion of his business, that has been financed by borrowed moneys which have been used in all respects in the same manner as the moneys paid in by the shareholders or partners, and the reserves or undivided profits.

Therefore be it resolved that the Brantford Board of Trade earnestly request that the question of what shall be considered as capital in the computation of profits, be reconsidered by the Government, and such changes as are necessary to be made to the method of computing what shall be deemed as capital in this respect, be necessary and advisable for the following reasons, among others:—First. The present method per-

Russia Under German Hrel.

The Bolsheviks have talked of desperate resistance and have issued proclamations summoning the people to fight and destroy as they retreated. But the people have done neither and instead have formally accepted the terms of peace. Their notions of arms are like those they hold of statecraft. No disarmed proletariat, however intelligent, can arbitrate with German autocracy, and no guerrilla warfare can be maintained against millions of organized and victorious soldiers of the present day. We have seen the Belgians of Belgium and Serbia; a city resists an invasion and is burned; a district shows a tendency to rebel and its able-bodied men are lined up and shot or driven away to work as convicts in army garrisons and factories; the populations of cities are dispersed, their leading men held as hostages, and punitive tributes levied upon them. The Russian people, however, have not accepted the terms of peace. They are not further than the wants of to-day. There will be desperate men, of course; so there were in France in 1917, in Bulgaria before 1918, in Poland and in Alsace-Lorraine. But it will not be necessary for an army of occupation to scatter itself throughout the country, penetrating every district and occupying every town and hamlet, as it has done in France, and Lenin think the Germans will do. In territory which the enemy actually occupies, the railway lines, strategic military points, and the principal cities will be garrisoned, and sufficient mobile forces will accompany them to chase away attacking guerrilla bands and to proceed on visits to friendly cities daily inflicting—Fred Moore, in Asia Magazine.

Republic or Monarchy?

That a stable government will not easily be established in China goes without saying. The political chaos will not end with the ascension of Gen. Chang Hsun's famous attempt to reconstitute the Manchu dynasty and the Alaiso-Lorraine. What will be China's ultimate form of government no one can tell. Such influential men as Tuan Chi-jui, Hsu Shi-chang, and Feng Kuo-chang do not seem to be constitutionally monarchists, but they are not republicans either. They are the best form of government for China, but even they realize that the Manchu dynasty cannot be restored. Where then, shall they look for the imperial thimble? On the other hand, Sun Yat-sen and his southern associates believe in out-and-out republicanism, which will never be accepted by the northern leaders.

To an unbiased observer, it would seem that China's only hope for rehabilitation lay in mutual concessions on the part of the radical south and the conservative north. This finds a common ground upon which to establish a government. — E. K. Kawajani, in Review of Reviews.

Most of these dogs are of a type which are generally considered a nuisance and the owners themselves have almost all expressed their opinion that should the dog tax be raised they would take steps to get rid of their dogs.

THE SITUATION

The renewed German offensive still holds while both the British and the French yesterday scored notable successes. Halg's men made a surprise attack on a front of over three miles, northeast of the Nieppe forest, and gave the enemy troops some severe punishment. The French did even better, launching an assault of four and a half miles in length on the Soissons front and forcing the enemy back at some points to the extent of one and a quarter miles. Both offensives served to demonstrate once again the splendid spirit and initiative of the Allied forces.

The Austrian papers are at last admitting the serious nature of the reverse sustained on the Piave.

News comes of revolts in Hungary and it is asserted that two thousand soldiers have been condemned to death.

It is stated that German losses in the battle of Soissons were no severe that the bodies were wired together and committed to the flames.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

The recent announcement that John D. Rockefeller will this year pay $39,000,000 in taxes to Uncle Sam has served to again bring the wealth of this billionaire into the limelight. His origin was plain enough. He was born in New York County, July 8th, 1839; and his father, William Avery Rockefeller, was a combination of a horse trader and travelling doctor. He disappeared from public view mysteriously many years ago. John D. Rockefeller's mother, Eliza Davidson, was a woman of forceful character and deep religious convictions.

When John D. was ten years old the family moved to the vicinity of Oswego, N.Y., where the boys attended the common schools. The next move was to Cleveland, where the family located when John D. was in his early teens. John D.'s first business venture, buying and selling provisions on commission, was entered into before he was of age. He began his oil refining business in 1860. Two years later he conceived the idea of consolidating the oil interests. In 1870 he formed the Standard Oil Company, in partnership with his brother, Flagler, Andrews and others whose names were later to be enrolled in the list of America's richest men.

In 1875 John D. Rockefeller was in desperate financial straits, owing vastly more than he could pay if forced by his creditors, and he pulled through only because he had extended his lines so far, even then, that to crush him would have caused a general crash. By 1878 he had recovered himself completely, and the Standard Oil Company had "arrived." The Standard Oil Trust was created in 1882.

An illustration of the rapid strides which his fortune took in its increase may be had from a story sent out from New York in 1898 when, one day in February of that year, Standard Oil stock went up to $44 1/2 a share. This was the biggest jump in the history of that stock up to that time and it was estimated to have made Mr. Rockefeller $25,000,000 richer in a single day. At that time his total wealth was estimated at $200,000,000 and it is now much over a billion.

The growth of the Rockefeller interests, the evolution of the Standard Oil Company, its variegated history, the railroad rebates upon which it thrived and waxed fat, the fierce war made upon it by state and national officials, the indictment of its officers in Texas a few years ago, the later movement on the part of the State of Kansas to compete with it, its prosecution by the Federal Government, its extension to every continent and how it has made scores of millionaires—these things have been the subject of more ephemeral and permanent literature, probably than any other business enterprise since the world began.

When 22 years of age he married a poor young girl as far as this world's goods are concerned, Miss Laura Spelman, an old time school mate.

Rockefeller has given away vast sums of money during his life time to various institutions, but his benefactions have not freed him from vicious criticism with regard to the Standard Oil methods of crushing all within its path.

For years, the policy of public ownership had been advocated in many countries, and it was on such a policy that the Dominion Government had now embarked. In the C.N.R. the Government had a fair bargain. Were the road to be built over-to-day, it would cost more than double its actual cost.

The Grand Trunk Pacific had cost over $92,000 per mile, and the Transcontinental $110,000, both more than double the cost of the C.N.R.

Canada's freight rates were the cheapest in the world, averaging three-quarters of a cent per ton per mile, despite the fact that the varying temperature made transportation uncertain. In Australia, State built and operated railways charged 2 cents per ton per mile.

The C.N.R. has been bought by the Government. It has been in the possession of the country, lock, stock and barrel, for over a year, declared Mr. Cookshut. "What we have spent is only a flea bite to what we have ahead of us, but we have not to see this thing through. If it can be done in any country on earth, it can be done in Canada."

"Is it true that the Dominion Government appointed the Drayton-Acworth commission and then did not carry out its recommendations?" demanded Mayor MacBride at the close of Mr. Cookshut's speech.

"The Government is now doing so," replied the latter.

"You say that the Government has taken over the C.N.R.," continued the Mayor. "What changes have been made in the personnel of the board?"

"There have been no changes made as yet," replied Mr. Cookshut. "That is what I was getting at," observed His Worship. "Affairs are still in the hands of the same old gang."

"When the board is reorganized, as it is soon to be, neither MacKenzie nor Mann will be members of it," pointed out Mr. Cookshut. "That I have already pointed out."

"Will public ownership tend to increase freight rates?" inquired C. W. Aird.

"It may be found needful in view of present conditions, to raise the rates," admitted Mr. Cookshut.

Your Problems Solved. Richard—You ask what is the most essential thing in education? Learning to think consecutively, clearly, logically and perseveringly on the problems of life. Many men with college degrees are not thinkers and, while college training has great advantages, if it has not taught concentration of thought and perseverance in effort, it is largely a failure. Thinkers with or without college training are destined to rule the world.

Neighbor—Without hearing the other side of the story, I have concluded from your letter, that you are wrong. The only apparent reason you have for hating your next door neighbor, and for calling her son "a little snip" is because she is a refined woman and minds her own business, and her boy, has beaten your boy in the school examinations. Your letter clearly shows that you are jealous. Jealousy is one of the worst social sins you can be guilty of. It is the seed-thought of murder and frequently results in actual homicide. When traced to its original source, the great European war is simply the result of jealousy. You are in great danger and should at once go to God for forgiveness.

JOSEPH E. ARMSTRONG, Unionist M.P. for East Lambton, who is prominently mentioned in Ottawa as likely to be appointed to the Parliamentary Secretaryship of the Post Office Dept., an office which may have to be vacated if Hon. P. E. Blondin is elevated to the Senate.

REORGANIZE PARIS FIRE DEPARTMENT

Chief, Truck Driver and Ten Men to Comprise the Personnel

OTHER NEWS OF PARIS

(From our own Correspondent) Paris, June 28.—The proposed changes in the fire brigade brought out a special meeting of the council, when the report of the fire committee, that had secured important changes, as will be noted, was adopted. Those present were Mayor Robinson, Deputy Reeve Stewart, Ald. McCammon, Blake, Wooler and Walker.

The report of Chairman Walker, for the fire committee, recommended that the present arrangement existing as to volunteer men for the fire brigade, cease at the end of the month, and the following new arrangements entered into: The brigade to consist of a chief, driver of new automobile fire truck, and 10 men. The chief to receive $400 per annum; the driver of the fire motor truck $300, he to be responsible for all equipment and keep the municipal building clean, this not referring to the electric light department. Further that the driver should sleep in the fire hall, and when not doing so to find a qualified substitute.

The ten men forming the brigade to receive $30 each per annum for attending fires and practices. Three men at least are to sleep in the fire hall, for which an additional remuneration of $50 is paid (except the chief).

Ten pair of rubber boots, firemen's waterproof coats and hats will also be purchased. The report was adopted. Regarding a letter from the General Trusts Co., Toronto, regarding the purchase of the Arlington Park grounds, the clerk was instructed to write the company that the town was not in a position to buy same.

The Canadian Organ, Mfg. Co. wrote asking if there were any suitable buildings in town for a wood working plant. Referred to buildings and grounds committee.

Harry Chew was summoned yesterday morning for breach of the food regulations in that he allowed bacon to be served on a porridge day. Chew was fined $100 and costs. The case is to be appealed. The case is rather a hard one, in view of the fact that Chew had nothing to do with the affair other than allow the cooking of the bacon.

3815 registrations were made in Paris. A number are busy sorting out the cards of those who volunteered for farm work, which will number between 400 and 500.

On Sunday special services will be held in St. James' Church in accordance with the national appeal. Holy Communion as a special intercessory and dedicatory service at the 11 o'clock service. At 7 p.m. a memorial service, when the Mayor and Council, also the G.W.A., will attend. The following have so bravely and unselfishly made the supreme sacrifice and have passed on to the great world beyond: Nursing Sister Dorothy Baldwin, Sergeants George A. Cain and James Shawcross; Ptes. Walter Rowe, Charles Ball, John Groggins, Harold Hartley, Sidney G. Curd, Charles Franks, Ralph Newbrooke, James B. Finley, Edward Hutchins, Yernier O'Neill, Percy O'Neill, Thomas W. Brown and J. Brewin.

On Sunday the Great War Veterans will decorate the graves of departed comrades. They will visit the Paris plains burying ground, R. C. and Paris cemetery.

The engagement is announced of Mayme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Graydon, Toronto, to Sergei George Ronnyek Inkster, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Inkster, Paris. The wedding takes place quietly next week.

The marriage took place in Dalhousie, Ontario, to Sergei George Ronnyek Inkster, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Inkster, Paris. The bride, Mayme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Graydon, Toronto, was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robt. B. Bick, who will spend the weekend in town.

The Misses Olivia Cant and Nellie Cooper of St. Thomas, are the guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. George Bowditch, St. Andrew St. Bowditch, St. Andrew St.

CHAPTER XXIV Elsie's Welcome

Elsie answered the door herself, and after one glance at my face she put her arms around me and kissed me warmly. "Now we won't talk until you are comfortable," she said as she took my over-night bag from me and preceded me to my room. "Have you brought a kimono?" "No, I just threw in a nightdress and toilet articles."

"Well here's one of mine," she took it from the closet, "get undressed and put it on, then we will talk in comfort. I'll be back by the time you are ready."

I did as I was told. To be honest it was a relief to have someone tell me what to do. By the time I had donned Elsie's kimono she was back with a tray. A steaming cup of tea, thin toast and some thin slices of cold chicken.

"You don't have to tell me you have eaten nothing to-day for I know by your looks that you haven't," she said as she set the tray on the table. "Now drink your tea and eat something, then we'll talk."

Again I did as I was told. I was surprised that the tea and toast tasted so good. Elsie fussed about the room doing little things for my comfort, and talking about the children until I had finished. Then she drew up a chair near me and said:

"Now, Margaret, what is it?" "I don't know how to tell you, Elsie, it all sounds so ugly, so dreadful, you may not be able to help me, you may not want to when you know. Perhaps you will think I don't deserve anything different; that I am to blame."

"Try me and see!" "So I commenced. I told her all the miserable story. How Bob had left John Kendall's party to come home and talk to me. I told her all every word as he had said. It was burned on to my memory. There was no danger that I had forgotten a single word or sentence."

"Only once did Elsie interrupt me, when she asked: "Is this the first time Bob has talked like that to you?"

"I replied, "although he has several times said that he had something serious to say to me; and once or twice has started to say something and caught himself."

"Do you think there is anyone else, any other woman?" "Oh, no," I said with conviction. "He let me understand thoroughly that it was nothing like that. It was only that I was a hindrance to his happiness, his intellectual growth, and I thought I was telling the truth. That Bob had meant only that."

"Well you have no reason to give up, Margaret. You say he agreed to let you decide what was best?" "Yes."

"That is one point in my favor—a great one. Bob always does as he agrees; and will I am sure abide by whatever you say."

"But it seems awful that he wants to get away! It is so humiliating," I returned. "I know, but Margaret, isn't it better to bear a little humiliation than to lose him altogether?"

U. S. TROOPS TAUGHT AUTO REPAIRING

Are Given Lessons in Methods of Mending and Adjusting Tires To recruit forces of automobile repair men equal to the demands caused by the ever increasing use of passenger cars, by General Pershing's armies in France, Provost General Crowder has established "hurry-up" classes in Akron through the University of Akron. This is a part of the government's plan to educate 50,000 men for specialized work in American universities, this year.

In one American rubber company's plant a special class room and working benches have been provided for the selects. Daily the men make tours of inspection through the tire making departments; listen to lectures by department heads; repair tires that have been through every part of the government's plan to demount and mount rims quickly; learn what to avoid in adjusting a rim to a wheel, and read manuals and books dwelling on the care and repair of tires.

The soldiers are drilled in quick and effective methods of repairing not only automobile and motorcycle fabric tires, but also cord tires for automobile and airplane use. It is the plan of the government to establish scores of American tire repair stations back of the lines on the Western front, where American ambulances, officer's cars, signal corps cars, dispatch riders' motorcycles and all pneumatic tire vehicles and planes may instantly and efficiently have their "shoes" cared for.

TO PAVE ERIE AVENUE.

The paving of Erie avenue will be proceeded with at once and completed as soon as possible. The Board of Works decided at its meeting last night. The question had been discussed at the last meeting of the City Council, and great stress was laid upon the urgency of the work. Aid. English then gave assurance that the paving would be completed as soon as labor and other conditions permitted. The high cost of both labor and material was admitted at the meeting of the board last night, but it was felt that the work should be delayed no longer, and a start will be made next week, or by a week from Monday, at the latest, so that the complete paving of the street this summer becomes assured.

Address Given To Merchants

System And Efficiency For Business Advocates by W. F. Brennan Last Night

It was an exceedingly interested group of merchants, of small numbers, who listened to W. F. Brennan of the National Cash Register Lecture Bureau in Victoria Hall last night, where he spoke under the auspices of the Merchants' Club upon methods of business, efficiency, illustrating his remarks with slides and motion pictures. Mr. Brennan was introduced to the audience by Bert Inglis, president of the Merchants' club, and spoke along lines of system and efficiency in store book-keeping. His slides were shown illustrating the methods which had resulted in the failure of 777 Canadian business men in the year 1917, and the speaker pointed out the error committed by the average merchant, in guessing, rather than keeping an accurate record, of where and how his business stood from day to day. Mr. Brennan emphasized the benefit to merchants of every class, of judicious advertising. A motion picture, "The Troubles of a Merchant," and showing the manner in which to overcome them, was shown.

What Do You KNOW About the Milk You Are Now Getting?

Just because Milk is the most economical food you can buy today is no reason why you should buy it carelessly.

You cannot afford to buy any Milk unless you are Sure of its purity, safety and quality.

You cannot be sure you are getting these vital things unless you know all about the dairy that supplies you; about its equipment, about its methods and safeguards, about its standards and ideals of service.

In other words—don't choose a dairy by guess-work, but on actual facts.

GET PASTEURIZED MILK

The Hygienic Dairy has come out into the open with the facts of the milk situation in Brantford.

In most big cities all the dairies are governed by social legislation. The Health Department, for example, enforces pasteurization.

Here in Brantford no such laws hold sway. A dairy can please itself whether it pasteurizes Milk or not.

Pasteurizing equipment is costly. The process takes up time each day. But in the Hygienic Dairy we have been pasteurizing Milk for five years.

We believe in pasteurization; we believe it is a necessary safeguard; we believe that our customers should have here in Brantford all the advantages that folks in the big cities have.

So we put time and money into giving this extra safeguard.

OTHER SAFEGUARDS

Milk from The Hygienic Dairy is not only safe, but doubly safe.

It comes to you in a modern sanitary manner, safely sealed in a bottle.

And each bottle is Sterilized before use—We are the only dairy in Brantford taking this precaution to ensure safety and purity.

These are facts—definite facts; they should help convince you that even if you pay a very slightly higher price, it is worthwhile, means greater satisfaction, to be a customer of the Hygienic Dairy.

Behind every bottle delivered to your home stands a modern sanitary, well-equipped Dairy.

It is a dairy which you are welcome to inspect at any time—judge the Hygienic Dairy Milk by the standard of sanitation, cleanliness, precaution and equipment shown in the dairy itself.

TAKE CARE OF TIRES

Proper Attention in Washing and Driving Car Will Save Expense

Here's a suggestion that will save motorists money; when you wash your car with a mixture of kerosene and water, make sure the liquid does not reach the tires. Washing cars and washing tires are two entirely different propositions. A common method when washing a car is to mix kerosene with water. This is advisable when washing the body or wheels, to remove mud and dust from the varnish, but no kerosene should reach the tires because kerosene eats rubber. Water alone is best for washing tires. Soap and water will not injure the tire provided the tire is wiped clean with a sponge dampened with clean water and then dried with a well wrung cloth.

In many sections of the country, the main travelled highways are well oiled. After every run on an oiled road it is imperative that the tires be washed thoroughly to make certain all oil is removed. It is impossible to remove oil and dirt that has become caked on the tire with water alone, water slightly diluted with kerosene or gasoline may be used safely, provided the tire is cleaned and perfectly dried afterwards.

Unusual care should be exercised with tires having been run several thousand miles. In most instances, such tires have many small cuts, and very often have parts of the fabric exposed. Oil of any kind which seeps into these small crevices and reaches the tire fabric tends to separate the fabric and deterioration sets in. Such holes should be, and can readily be, repaired by plugging with rubber cement.

SHOCKING CASE OF DEPRAVITY

Is Disclosed in the Welland Police Court

Welland, June 23.—A shocking condition of immorality in the foreign quarter of Welland was revealed in the Magistrate's Court today. A young man twenty-four years of age, who gave the name of John U. Bianco, and who held a license for a restaurant and boarding house on South Main street, pleaded guilty to employing waitresses who were used for immoral purposes with his customers and boarders. The conviction was obtained through the sworn affidavits of one of the waitresses, who had disputed with Bianco over the earnings of her immorality. Detailed in the affidavit were a shudder-creating confession of the enormous extent of the immorality and the excessive earnings. The man pleaded guilty by the advice of his counsel, H. R. Morwood, and was ordered under first offence penalty to pay $50 and costs.

The woman who revealed the infamy was known under two different names, and it was learned that she was the wife of a soldier who is now at the front in France. She had a comfortable home at Niagara Falls and receives separation pay. As her confession led to the prosecution, sentence was deferred, and she was ordered out of the city. Magistrate Goodwin expressed himself surprised that men like Bianco could obtain licenses from the City Council.

NEW YORK GIRLS NOW SEEN WITH JAPS AS ESCORTS

Smartly-clad young Japanese gentlemen escorting pretty young American girls around the pleasure haunts of New York used to be looked upon with a lifting of the eyebrows—but not any more. In any smart gathering, girls with Japanese companions may be found.

In the select dining rooms, where the lights are low and pink, the mingling of the two races can be seen, as well as in the spaghetti joints where ink flows free and red. There are a few in the homes of wealthy young Japanese in Gotham—bankers, brokers, art dealers and importers. They have become strictly Americanized—patronizing the best tailors and haberdasheries, to say nothing of the barber shops and manicure parlors.

Nearly all of them become expert dancers. In fact, one young Japanese banker is said to be as good as Vernon Castle over was, and has been seen at the most exclusive engagements to do ballroom dancing.

One of the most exclusive Japanese clubs is in Fifth avenue, and around 4 o'clock the finest automobile equipages in New York can be seen out in front. The Japanese club men go in for the 4 o'clock Scotch and soda.

Many doors of the Four Hundred homes are opened to them. The country clubs have many Japanese members, and they are to be seen daily on the golf links.

Quite a stir was created recently in one of the ultra dancing places when the father of a well known young society had appeared and demanded that she immediately leave her dining companion from the far east. The young Japanese seemed to be the coolest member of the agitated group, and insisted that both come home in his tufted limousine—an offer which the father haughtily refused.

It has been remarked that rarely have Japanese girls been seen dining publicly in the metropolis. Another slant on the Japanese comes from the police department, whose records have never carried the arrest of a Japanese for vagrancy. The same applies to the Chinese, with one exception.

TWO CARS.

At the meeting of the City Council Finance Committee last evening, the Street Railway Commission outlined plans for spending $14,000 on two new cars for the Paris City and asked the city for $5,000 towards the same.

A GOOD APPETITE A GREAT BLESSING

The Occasional Use of a Tonic Will Ensure a Good Appetite and Good Health

Loss of appetite during the summer months is a common trouble, and indicates that the digestive system is out of order. Lacking a healthy appetite many people—especially women—go too long without food, or eat sparingly because food seems to distress them, and it is no wonder they complain of being constantly tired and unable to stand the hot weather. All this simply means that the digestive system is not doing its proper work and that the nutriment which should come from the food is not being distributed to the various organs of the body. In other words the blood is growing thin and watery. In such cases what is needed is a summer tonic, and among all medicines there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take a short treatment with these pills and notice how promptly your appetite returns and your power to digest food improves. Your face will shine and you will no longer complain that the hot weather tires you out. Mrs. M. Kelly, Windsor, Ont., says: "I suffered from indigestion for several years, and although I was constantly taking doctor's prescriptions they did not cure me, and the result was that I was greatly run down, and always feeling poorly. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I soon found they were helping me I continued their use until I was fully cured, and am now able to properly digest my food. I take As a tonic and blood purifier I know of no medicine to equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I recommend them to all in need of a medicine."

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you do so the sooner you will regain your old time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WELL PLEASSED

A well attended meeting of the Local Council of Women, comprising the Women's Patriotic League and Canadian Red Cross Society, was held on Friday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A., with Mrs. Livingston in the chair.

After opening the meeting with the usual Red Cross prayer, the president thanked most heartily all who helped to make the recently held conference of the National Council such a success, and told of the letters of appreciation received from Victoria to Halifax. As an officer of the National Council, Mrs. George Watt assured the Brantford branch that at no conference had the delegates ever been more carefully looked after or more enjoyably entertained.

ANNOUNCEMENT
FALL WHEAT SEED
IN VIEW of the partial failure of the Fall Wheat crop in this Province this year, it will be necessary for farmers to make early arrangements for the supply of seed which they will need for Fall Sowing. Under these circumstances farmers who have on hand quantities of wheat suitable for Fall Seeding are urged to conserve them for this purpose. If there is no demand locally, the information should be supplied to this Department, or to the Local Office of this Department in your County, so that every effort may be made to have an equitable and satisfactory distribution. The need for foodstuffs justifies a large acreage of Fall wheat in this Province again this year, and the cooperation of the farmers in the mobilization and distribution of the available seed supplies is invited.

VIENNESE DAINTIES GONE.

Famous Dishes Vanish and Coffee Disappears.
A delayed letter, passed by the Austrian censor and received in Stockholm recently from a Swede living in Vienna, gives some interesting information about conditions there. Once a gourmet's mecca, Vienna has become a city of secrets.

Food has become a rarity. Mutton is scarce and beef is greatly deteriorated in quality. The scarcity of fodder has hit the Austrian cattle breeding industry most severely. The population has to take its chance with meagre rations.

Practically all the famous four dishes of Vienna have vanished and the city's dietary now contains only a small number of dishes, which continually repeat. One will buy Russian cabbage, however, and Scandinavian anchovies.

There is practically no coffee in Austria. The same applies to Sweden. The Swedes drink odd masses of coffee dust, acorns and dandelion roots. But in Sweden one is always given a little jug of milk with it. About Christmas time the Viennese authorities forbade milk being served with coffee substitute, so the hapless Austrian sadly misses his favorite "melangs."

Street lighting has been considerably reduced. For transit citizens have to depend on the electric street cars, for the "stadbahn" is almost exclusively occupied with military and freight transport. There is much grumbling that the city had not built an overhead or tube electric railway before the war. The street cars are grossly overcrowded and automobiles and public vehicles have disappeared from the streets.

Sugar and Consumption.
For many years scientific men all over the world have eagerly sought some cure for consumption, or "tuberculosis," as it is soothingly called by physicians. Sorums of all sorts, as well as medicines, have been tried in vain, but the great white plague has resisted.

At times it has seemed as if a cure had almost been found, or at least something had been discovered to check the ravages of the disease, but nothing definite has resulted. Now hope is again stirred by the cable information that Prof. Monaco, of the biochemical section of the Lincei Academy at Rome, has made the desired discovery. The eminence of the man and the carefulness of the Italian scientific press is almost certain guarantee against any false encouragement.

Prof. Monaco, explaining his discovery, said he had observed that sugar had a remarkable effect on the secretions of the human organisms. After seven years of study of these phenomena he became convinced that the secretions of saliva, bile and the gastric and pancreatic juices were modified profoundly by the introduction of sugar. This gave him the idea of applying this method to the bronchial secretions of consumptives.

The first experiments made by this method on consumptive soldiers from the front gave results far exceeding his expectation, he reports. There was rapid improvement in most cases, and he obtained cures which appeared to be radical.

Prof. Monaco explained that the bronchial secretion is an indispensable medium for the existence of the tubercle bacilli, and that after an injection of saccharose the secretion diminishes and finally disappears, the bacilli disappearing with it.

IN THE WORLD OF LABOR

The platform recommended for the Australian labor party's adoption at the coming convention in Sydney includes proposals for a 40-hour week, Saturday being a universal holiday, an increase of old-age pensions to 35 a week, and nationalization of all mines.

The Fire and Light Department of the Guelph City Council had it impossible to secure acceptable men to fill vacancies on the city fire brigade because of the inadequate rate of wages paid the fire fighters. Many good men have left the employ of the city claiming that they can easily secure better jobs and higher wages elsewhere. Several applicants who were eligible refused to accept positions in the department when informed of the wage schedules in operation. As a result of this situation the Fire and Light Committee have given the matter their earnest consideration and come to the conclusion that in order to keep the brigade up to a proper state of efficiency it would be necessary to provide for higher scales of remuneration. New schedules have therefore been prepared.

A Great Convention
Never before has the growing power and solidarity of the continental labor movement been so completely demonstrated as in this historic convention, and every report submitted tends to show the marvellous growth and advancement of a movement that has grown so powerful that its numbers alone demand respect.

In 1915 the total membership was 1,945,374, in 1916, 2,072,702, in 1917, 2,371,434 and in 1918, 2,726,478, and the increase in 1918 only included seven months, as the annual convention from now on meets in June instead of November of each year. Therefore the enormous increase of 355,044 credited to 1918 only records the growth of the first seven months of the official year which makes the showing all the more remarkable and significant.

The reports submitted show that though wages have advanced and the hours of labor have been reduced and that the unions have everywhere been able to enforce their standards of wages and hours, there have been a far less number of strikes and a relatively less number of hands involved than when the United States entered the war.

It is also significant to note that everywhere as far as the United States is concerned, organized labor is not only recognized but has direct representation and a voice on all the war boards in the republic and the message from President Wilson thanking the convention for the splendid manner in which the American Federation of Labor was backing up the efforts of the nation in its fight for democracy overseas was evidence of the fact that the executive heart of that country fully appreciated the loyalty of labor in the nation's hour of stress.

Another significant fact is that for the first time one of the great railroad brotherhoods has made the first step for a united and undivided labor movement on the American continent.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has decided to join hands and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, and this action will perhaps inside of a year inevitably lead to the affiliation of the other railroad brotherhoods with their additional 450,000 members. Indeed it is almost certain that a year hence the A. F. of L. will embrace a membership in excess of three and a half million if it does not actually surpass that figure.

It should be most encouraging to members of the Canadian international unions to know that the reports submitted to the St. Paul convention show that taking the population of the Dominion into account, the labor organizations in Canada are keeping pace in growth with their sister organizations to the south of the international boundary line, and that upon the conclusion of the war the organized workers of North America will be in a position to make their influence felt in no uncertain manner in the great work of reconstruction that will inevitably follow the cessation of hostilities in Europe.

This represents the first automobile starting and lighting battery in which it has been possible to get all the advantages of the well-known insulating properties of rubber without either decreasing the voltage necessary for cold-weather starting, or increasing the size and weight of the battery beyond ordinary limits.

It means still greater protection against battery troubles, still further assurance of continuous operation, because battery insulation protects the source of life of the whole electrical system.

Two years' successful operation, which still continues, on 35,000 cars, preceded the announcement to the motoring public. The Still Better Willard has proved, and is proving itself even better than we expected, and is now on sale at all Willard Service Stations.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

A Sketch of the Great Catholic Society And Its Work Among Soldiers at Home And Overseas

(By James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus.)

The Knights of Columbus is a fraternal insurance organization, founded in New Haven, Connecticut, in 1882 by a Catholic priest, Michael J. McGivney. Membership is open to Roman Catholics only, and the society was incorporated in the State of Connecticut, March 23, 1882, with the following purposes: To render pecuniary aid to its members and beneficiaries of members; to promote social and intellectual intercourse among members; and to accumulate and maintain a reserve fund to further these ends.

The Knights of Columbus has been privileged in the past two years to perform a patriotic service which points toward a breaking down of the prejudices and misunderstandings that have too often hampered co-operation between men of different religious creeds.

In the critical hour of national danger men of all beliefs have been drawn together in service, and often we have found that the existing differences, magnified by the prejudice, really are very slight after all. In my mail this morning there was a very generous contribution to the Knights of Columbus War Fund from a Presbyterian minister, and this is only one of many every week. With all its sadness and horror, this war has also meant a great stride in a closer understanding and brotherhood among all ranks of our nation.

When our men were sent to the Mexican border in 1916, we soon found that the Catholics were suffering by the lack of religious ministrations. To men of Catholic faith, attendance at worship is not optional; it is obligatory. To miss mass on Sunday is a serious grief to the Catholic. It was necessary in order to keep up the morale and spirit of the thousands of soldiers of our faith, to see that they had access to the religious rites in which they had been reared. We took from our general fund enough money to put up recreation buildings in each of the sixteen encampments along the border, and to send down enough priests to minister to the Catholic soldiers. These buildings were modeled after the splendid "huts" put up by the Y. M. C. A., which had been in Army work before, and we were very glad to take a leaf out of its book. Our work on the border was done by permission of the commanding officers in the various camps. It was in no way official. But when our country entered the war with Germany, the Knights of Columbus saw a way of doing a much greater and broader service. I wrote to President Wilson, telling him of our eagerness to help and pointing out the need that we saw for Catholic assistance. The President and the War Department's Commission on Training Camp Activities welcomed our offer and we were authorized to operate with the Y. M. C. A. Thus the Red Triangle and the Knights of Columbus are the only civilian organizations permitted by Uncle Sam to work inside the military camps.

Before our own buildings were erected mass was celebrated in the Red Triangle buildings, and every priest, courtesy was shown to our people by the Y. M. C. A. buildings as headquarters. In the same way, the Knights of Columbus buildings are open to all. Each one bears the sign "Knights of Columbus—Everybody Welcome". Men of all creeds are invited to our services and it is part of our agreement with the Government that these buildings shall not be used for any secret meetings or for any gathering not open to every man in camp. The buildings are built on the same general plan as the Y. M. C. A. but and provide similar opportunities for wholesome and manly recreations they are of course, also fitted with altar, confessional and quarters for the priest in charge.

When you remember that thirty-five per cent of the men in our Army are Catholic—this is Secretary Newton D. Baker's official estimate—and perhaps fifty per cent of the Navy personnel is Catholic you can see that this task of bringing the consolations of their faith to our men is no small factor in keeping up the morale of the fighting forces. On one of our battalions where the crew numbers 1200 men, 900 are Catholic.

Our feeling is that in these times of crisis no service is too great to be done for the men who are fighting our battle. We have thrown open our buildings in cities adjoining the camps to all men in uniform. The Y. M. C. A., the Young Men's Hebrew Association, and the Knights of Columbus are all working together and, aided by the Y. W. C. A. and the Red Cross and the War Department's Commission on Training Camp Activities, I think it is true that we have been able to accomplish a great work for promoting the welfare and military zeal of our forces.

No one can doubt that this co-operation is going to mean a great deal in the way of religious tolerance, bigotry and fanatical hostility cannot persist in the face of great national crisis. In spite of a good deal of mis-understanding we have always tried to work toward this end. The Knights of Columbus Commission on Prejudice has been at work for 4 years to further sympathy and mutual good will among the different creeds. We have frankly tried to imitate the Y. M. C. A. in its splendid methods of helping the soldiers. We have not resented the enormous scale of their efforts, but our own campaign has not been small. Our first bill for war stationery, for instance, was $150,000 for twenty million sheets of paper and ten million envelopes. At the moment of writing we have erected seventy-nine recreation buildings in the camps in the United States, and we are planning to erect a number in France.

We are sending priests over on every ship to minister to Catholics among our troops in France. This is most urgent because every Catholic needs the sacraments of his faith in moments of peril, when he is wounded or in his last early moments. The need is not only strength to the men "over there" but is an unspeakable consolation to the relatives at home.

There are half a million Catholics soldiers and sailors in the service of Uncle Sam. There are nineteen hundred and thirty Catholic boys at the big draft continent at Aver, Massachusetts alone. At these camps, the Catholic chaplains are celebrating eight or ten masses every Sunday. We have erected three buildings in each of the continents, and one or two in each of the National Guard camps.

There need never be any question of the loyalty of the American Catholics to their country's flag. Within the last day or so I received a contribution of $275 for our War Fund from the congregation of a German Catholic church in Philadelphia, where the parish is almost entirely German in race and all services are conducted in German. The Knights of Columbus has so far raised over $1,500,000 to carry out this work with the Army and Navy; and we have raised our final quota to seven million dollars. As Cardinal Gibbons said recently "to the men at Camp Meade, 'Columbus' is the mother of all of you. When she called there was no race, no creed, no class."

The President Expresses Satisfaction The White House, June 23, October, 1917.

My Dear Mr. Flaherty: Pray pardon my delay in replying to your letter of October tenth. Inasmuch as the campaign for funds for the Knights of Columbus has been brought to a successful conclusion and the work of the organization is now actively in progress in the camps (very much to my satisfaction), it only remains for me to speak of the sincere gratification with which I have learned of the co-operation of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Knights of Columbus and their harmonious and successful work in the training camps.

Cordially and sincerely yours, WOODROW WILSON.

"HOME RUN" BAKER LAST NINE YEARS Smashing Out Homer With Bases Full Gains Him His Title

Home Run Baker, who gained an international reputation because of his prowess with the bat, won his Home Run moniker nine years ago. Baker, whose front name is Frank, joined the Athletics at the beginning of the 1909 season, and his hard, clean hitting and excellent fielding soon made him a favorite with Quaker City fans. It was in April, 1909, that Baker went to bat, when the bases were full, and smashed out a home run, tallying four for the Athletics. Fisher Ardelanes was in the box for the Boston when Baker made that smash. This feat, the only home run with the bases filled during the 1909 season in the American League, was naturally hailed with joy by the Philadelphia bugs, who immediately presented Baker with the Home Run prefix, a name which he lived up to for many years afterwards.

Incidentally it may be remarked that while hits good for a complete circuit of the bases are not infrequently made, home runs with the bases filled are about as scarce in big league circles as hen's teeth. Baker one of the greatest third basemen in the history of the game was born on a farm near Trappe, Md., a little over thirty two years ago. His boyhood was spent on a farm, and during the interval between baseball seasons he went back to farming, recently having settled down on one for good. He began his professional baseball career in the Eastern Shore League, a little Maryland organization. J. Frank made a great reputation, and Jack Dunn of the Baltimore club of the Eastern league offered him a job. He wasn't given an opportunity to display his fine line of goods in an Orioles uniform, but was sent to Reading, of the Tri-State League, which needed a third-sacker. Connie Mack soon got wind of Baker, and after a trial, snapped him up. After that Baker made good with a rush.

RAIN IN WEST. My Courier Leased Wire Winnipeg, June 28.—Rain fell yesterday throughout the three prairie provinces and many districts report it continues to fall to-day. At Kamsack one inch was recorded and Swan River district received one half inch. Estevan is practically the only district urgently in need of rain which reported dry weather. LADY'S ONE PIECE PLAITED SKIRT.

By Anabel Worthington.

This type of skirt is very much in style just now because the straight side plaits give the desirable slim lines. No. 8578 is straight at the lower edge and the skirt is all in one piece. The plaits are spaced, so that there is a panel at the front and an inverted plait at the centre back. The plaits may be stitched down to hip depth or they may be left free. The skirt has a slightly raised waistline, and it is perforated, so that it may be cut off for a tunic if desired.

The lady's one piece plaited skirt pattern, No. 8578, is cut in six sizes, 24 to 34 inches waist measure. Width at lower edge of skirt is 2 1/2 yards. The skirt in 28 inch size requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch or 3 1/2 yards 34 inch material.

"THE VENUS MODEL"

Another link will be added to the chain of affection which binds Mabel Norman to the hearts of the public when the vivacious little Goldwyn star comes to the Brant Theatre in "The Venus Model" Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

There is the simplest of all reasons for this. Mabel Norman surpasses all other favorites as a comedienne of a different sort, and in "The Venus Model" she is given the opportunity to do the very things in which she has no equal.

She is Kitty O'Brien, a humble worker in a bathing suit factory, who designs a fetching swimming costume which revolutionizes the waning business of Braddock and Company and gives her the position of chief designer. It is "The Venus Model." Put with success came troubles. Kitty befriends a little girl whom she protects from her never-do-well father and is forced to pay the man money in order to keep the child. Her employer is away for his health as a result of worry over his pleasure-loving son and Kitty wants to awaken the young man to a sense of his responsibilities. A letter she writes does this.

He comes to the office and is given work by Kitty in ignorance of his identity until she extricates him from a difficulty involving some compromising letters. She makes a business man of him, but refuses to listen when he declares his love. Kitty thinks that she is unworthy. Her realization of the truth comes when Paul attacks the little girl's father when he is hearing the child away. As Paul has wounded Kitty, she knows that she loves beyond all thought of herself.

Braddock, sr., returns and Kitty tells him of the wonderful young man who has helped her at every turn. Sadly the old man says that he wishes his son were such a boy. Whereupon Kitty summons the new worker and Braddock takes his son to his heart. Then Kitty cannot hold out against Braddock's entreaties that she become his daughter.

"PLAYING THE GAME"

Charles Ray will be seen at the Rex the last of next week in "Playing the Game."

The Story.

Wild and disgraced, one of the flashiest lights along the Bronx White Way, Larry Prentiss (Charles Ray) seems to be solely occupied with the task of spending the millions inherited from his father. He becomes a source of great worry to his uncle, Jeremiah Prentiss, who lectures him in vain upon the folly of his course, but finally obtains his consent to go to the Prentiss ranch in Arizona where, in a new environment, the young man's reformation may be accomplished.

Larry goes to a party given by "Babe" Fleur de Lis, to say his farewells, and at a brilliant dinner, he gives "Babe" a diamond ring. "Babe" is the tool of Hickey Trent and he demands that she give him the ring. Larry overhears the argument which ensues and knocks Hickey down. In falling, Hickey's head strikes a pipe and he falls back apparently dead. Larry escapes to his home, informs his uncle that he has killed Hickey and accompanied by his valet, Hodges, leaves for Arizona.

Believing himself to be a murderer, Larry seeks retirement and refuses to disclose his name. He shuns the sheriff and others who seek to make his acquaintance until one day he receives a telegram announcing that Hickey is neither dead nor likely to die. Blinded at his good fortune, Larry prepares to return to New York, but after reflection, resolves to remain in Arizona and start life anew. Foolishly displaying a roll of money before a Mexican one day, he and his valet are held up in the desert, deprived of their valuables and clothing, and left to shift for themselves.

Picked up by a raiding party of cowboys led by Flash Purdy, they are taken before Matt Shannon, manager of Bar X Ranch, which happens to belong to Larry. Their identity unknown to Shannon, Larry and Hodges are ordered to go to work with the outfit or be driven back into the desert. After catching a glimpse of Moya Shannon (Doris Lee), the pretty daughter of the ranch manager, Larry accepts the offer and begins work as a cowboy, while Hodges becomes assistant to the Chinese cook.

Hodges, formerly was a prize fighter and he gives Larry boxing lessons. "Flash" Purdy becomes jealous of Larry and frames up a hold-up which results in a battle in which Shannon is severely wounded. "Flash" charges that the hold-up was the work of Larry, who thereupon thrashes him soundly. Larry's identity as the owner of the ranch is revealed by the sheriff and "Flash" is escorted across the border as an undesirable citizen. Larry becomes a general favorite and he and Moya, whom he loves, make their plans for a happy future.

"PRUNELLA"

It is seldom that one sees an actress on the screen portraying a role in which she has previously achieved success on the stage, yet that is what winsome Marguerite Clark does in "Prunella," the Paramount picture which comes to the screen of the Brant theatre the first of next week. While Miss Clark made her greatest stage hit in this charming story of love in a Dutch garden by Granville Barker and Lawrence Houseman, yet it is the unanimous opinion that in the screen version she excels her previous effort. This is doubtless due in part to the faultless direction of Maurice Tourneur, the celebrated producer of picture plays, who made screen history with "The Blue Bird," "Barbaric Shep," "Rose of the World" and other masterpieces. The screen version has been taken bodily from the play and many features that were impossible of production on the stage, such as the details of the glorious old garden where dwell Prunella and her three aunts, have been incorporated.

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL"

"Thou Shalt Not Steal" is the feature at the Rex the first of next week. Mary Bruce, Virginia Pearson, a girl with fighting blood. She has a mind and will of her own, especially concerning matrimonial matters. Mary loved and is loved by Roger Benton, her father's secretary. She has been wooed for some time, both here and abroad, by Lord Haverford. When his Lordship began his suit for Mary's hand he was far from strong financially. Then he came to the country to press his suit—the time this story opens—he had gained a fortune and vowed to marry and her father that he had come to unite his wealth with their family.

Henry Bruce is more than complimented by the lord's plan. He needs $100,000. Mr. Bruce sees a chance of when his Lordship began his suit for Mary's hand he was far from strong financially. Then he came to the country to press his suit—the time this story opens—he had gained a fortune and vowed to marry and her father that he had come to unite his wealth with their family.

Music in the Home

BRIEF HINTS FOR CHOIR MEMBERS.

Sit erect. Lounging attitude at rehearsals blurs the best results.

The public doesn't care whether the organist memorizes his music or not.

Have a copy of each anthem for each singer. The "sharing custom" is a bad one.

Little choirs should not attempt great anthems. Shouting and screaming in the church service are not the proper thing.

Every argument against "singing" for choirs is over-balanced by two for them, exclusive of the erratic and gorgeous millinery.

Start practices sharp on time. It is not fair to those who come promptly to wait until a quarter past the hour for the stragglers.

The piano is a better instrument for rehearsal than the church organ because of its crisp, clean attack and the facility with which rhythm and accent can be obtained with it.

At the choir practice, do as much of the work unaccompanied as possible. If a choir can sing well without support, their work is finer and firmer when the organ accompaniment is added.

One authority gives it that for every twelve sopranos there should be nine or ten alto, six to eight tenors and eight to ten basses. From a quarter to a third of the bass section should be baritone to give power and brightness to notes of the upper range.

Said a choir leader: "In beginning the study of a new anthem I find it a good plan to go right through the whole piece at the first attempt to get the general outline and the spirit of it. At the first reading I pass by all mistakes, such as false notes, wrong time, improper phrasing, etc. In some works it pays to run through the whole anthem this way two or three times that the piece may be grasped sufficiently to enable the singers to study the details with more intelligent relation to the whole."

MUSIC AND NATURE.

Music should be in the dark, or in the open air, to exercise its full magic.

The spell and talisman of Rossini, the nightingale, is that he sings the eye is off duty, and the sun in the fragrant night hours, when glories and the roses and the nimble rabbits are not there to interrupt. The fragrance of the roses is there. But the olfactory powers do not, most test the ears, rather, the music of

"PRUNELLA," the child heroine, lives with her queer spinster aunts, Prim, Privacy and Prude. A troupe of wagabond players comes to town and Prunella, moved to curiosity, takes just one peep over the garden hedge. A Pierrot, swinging along the road, leaps the hedge to make violent love to the pretty child and she that night comes with a ladder and steals her away while the aunts slumber peacefully on. The scene shifts back to the old garden three years later. There is only one of the old aunts there now and she is waiting to give up the keys to a rich stranger. Her surprise when she discovers it is Pierrot himself, returned saddened and wiser to await Prunella's return to her old home, is as great as that of the audience when Prunella, too, comes back to the old garden and "all's well that ends well."

JAPAN PROMOTING AUTO INDUSTRY

Encourages Purchasers of Cars by Contributing $500.00 Toward Price

Japan has offered every purchaser of an automobile or truck in the empire $500 toward the purchase price and $150 yearly to help pay for the maintenance of the vehicle, in exchange for the privilege of speedily commandeering motors when the occasion demands.

This subsidy is intended by the imperial government not only for the quick requisitioning of cars, but also to promote their use and to eventually encourage their manufacture within the empire. This aggressive action by Japan is still another important function. Horses are scarce in Nippon, and most of the trucking is by men who pull two-wheeled carts—most of the passenger traffic on the streets and highways is by means of rickshaws. Labor is in strong demand, and a more general use of motor vehicles would release thousands of men for work in factories.

Japan's action will add impetus to the export of American made cars and tires. It will be several years before Japan will be able to produce anywhere near her own consumption of motor vehicles and accessories. But three concerns in Japan are now building automobiles. One of these has made about half a dozen cars and another is assembling from parts imported from America. Two large Japanese shipbuilding companies are erecting automobile factories.

Less of Ansett is also less of vitality and tone. To reverse this and the rest, take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion, makes eating a pleasure. It also makes the blood rich and pure, and steadies the nerves.

Picked up by a raiding party of cowboys led by Flash Purdy, they are taken before Matt Shannon, manager of Bar X Ranch, which happens to belong to Larry. Their identity unknown to Shannon, Larry and Hodges are ordered to go to work with the outfit or be driven back into the desert. After catching a glimpse of Moya Shannon (Doris Lee), the pretty daughter of the ranch manager, Larry accepts the offer and begins work as a cowboy, while Hodges becomes assistant to the Chinese cook.

Hodges formerly was a prize fighter and he gives Larry boxing lessons. "Flash" Purdy becomes jealous of Larry and frames up a hold-up which results in a battle in which Shannon is severely wounded. "Flash" charges that the hold-up was the work of Larry, who thereupon thrashes him soundly. Larry's identity as the owner of the ranch is revealed by the sheriff and "Flash" is escorted across the border as an undesirable citizen. Larry becomes a general favorite and he and Moya, whom he loves, make their plans for a happy future.

"PRUNELLA"

It is seldom that one sees an actress on the screen portraying a role in which she has previously achieved success on the stage, yet that is what winsome Marguerite Clark does in "Prunella," the Paramount picture which comes to the screen of the Brant theatre the first of next week. While Miss Clark made her greatest stage hit in this charming story of love in a Dutch garden by Granville Barker and Lawrence Houseman, yet it is the unanimous opinion that in the screen version she excels her previous effort. This is doubtless due in part to the faultless direction of Maurice Tourneur, the celebrated producer of picture plays, who made screen history with "The Blue Bird," "Barbarian Steps," "Rose of the World" and other masterpieces. The screen version has been taken bodily from the play and many features that were impossible of production on the stage, such as the details of the glorious old garden where dwelt Prunella and her three aunts, have been incorporated.

Music in the Home

BRIEF HINTS FOR CHOIR MEMBERS.

Stand erect. Lounging attitude at rehearsals hinders the best results.

The public doesn't care whether the organist memorizes his music or not.

Have a copy of each anthem for each singer. The "sharing custom" is a bad one.

Little choirs should not attempt great anthems. Singing and screaming in the church service are not the proper thing.

Every argument against "soprano" for choirs is over-balanced by two for them, exclusive of the erratic and gorgeous millinery.

Start practice sharp on time. It is not fair to those who come promptly to wait until a quarter past the hour for the stragglers.

The piano is a better instrument for rehearsals than the church organ because of its crisp, clean attack and the facility with which rhythm and accent can be obtained with it.

At the choir practice, do as much of the work unaccompanied as possible. If a choir can sing well without support, their work is finer and firmer when the organ accompaniment is added.

One authority gives it that for every twelve sopranos there should be nine or ten altoes, six to eight tenors and eight to ten basses. From a quartet to a third of the bass section should be baritone, to give power and brightness to notes of the upper range.

Said a choir leader: "In beginning the study of a new anthem I find it a good plan to go right through the whole piece at the first attempt to get the general outline and the spirit of it. At the first reading I pass by all mistakes, such as false notes, wrong time, improper phrasing, etc. It comes works it pays to run through the whole anthem this way two or three times that the piece may be grasped sufficiently to enable the singers to study the details with more intelligent relation to the whole."

MUSIC AND NATURE.

Music should be in the dark or in the open air, to exercise its full

The speed and tallness of Rossini, the nightingale, is that he sings the eyes up of duty, and the sun's in the fragrant night hours, when glories and the roses and the humble rabbits are not doing in interrupt. The fragrance of the roses in their. But the olfactory powers do not molest the ears, rather, the music of troops and nightingales in the dark is assisted by the night odors just as the wind in the rigging of the drumming of who screw or of the twining, on board ship, is wonderfully in tune with the sea, perfume of the sea or the faint clean smell of the sea and cordage and dewy decks.

"On such a night" Lorenzo and Jessica flung into the mighty crucible of Shakespeare's imagination some of the simplest, and most perfect intimations of the power and meaning of music that a mere poet has ever been able to put into language.

Our northern peoples do not often get the combination of open air and night and a first class band. The soul of the Italian or French music more commonly reveals itself, and then most certainly at its best, when the whole population pour out on a summer night into park or square or hotel garden and walk or wait spellbound and critical, ring behind ring, in great, happy concourse around the lighted circle of the municipal or regimental band. "I can remember in Florence," says a writer, "wondering which was the most potent factor in those wonderful evenings of melody, the white gloved officer, who was throwing his whole soul into his conductor's baton, or the happy crowd, every one a connoisseur and a contributor to the wonderful forces of pure music which draw their night after night into the open air."

Benton, her father's secretary. She has been wooed for some time, both here and abroad, by Lord Haverford. When his Lordship began his suit for Mary's hand he was far from strong financially. Then he came to this country to press his suit—the time this story opens he had gained a fortune and vowed to Mary and her father that he had come to unite his wealth with their family.

Henry Bruce is more than compensated by the lord's plan. He needs $100,000. Mr. Bruce sees a chance of getting rich before her father, asking if he intends to make her the price of putting him on his feet, he avoids the issue, because he is jolly his lordship story until he can use the money and repay it.

Sure that Mary will do this Bruce borrows $100,000 from Lord Haverford and puts the money in his safe. To save herself from her father's scheme Mary puts the safe, intending to return the money after the affair blows over. But in making her way from the office through the darkened hallway she encounters a person whom she doesn't recognize in the darkness. They stop her and one of them takes the bundle of money from her. In the tussle Mary bites the wrist of the hand which robbed her.

The next morning the theft is discovered, Lord Haverford accuses in turn Bruce and Benton, suspecting Benton, the latter on the ground that he hoped to improve his chance of winning Mary.

The woman who took the money from the safe she doesn't know who took it from her. She in turn suspects her father, Benton, and even the Lord. In fact she accuses each, for each shows a peculiar desire to help his wife. But one after the other convinces her he is innocent for his wife is unmarked.

Mrs. Mary discovers that Paul Lechmere, her father's alleged arch-enemy, has been rilling the mother's jewel case. She then learns that Lord Haverford has these gems as security for loans made to Paul. Mary compels them to return the jewels.

Then things begin to happen. Dr. Steele, a mysterious detective, who has been working on the robbery path, together all the principals in the case. It turns out that he has been working for some time on a murder committed in Europe. He accuses Lord Haverford of the crime and silence that man's protests by producing the dagger, a duplicate of the first, with which Haverford tried to stab Steele. He reveals Paul as a crook who by discovering an unfortunate romance of Mrs. Bruce's youth, passes himself off as her son who had died.

JAPAN PROMOTING AUTO INDUSTRY

Encourages Purchasers of Cars by Contributing $500.00 Toward Price

Japan has offered every purchaser of an automobile or truck in the empire $500 toward the purchase price and $150 yearly to help pay for the maintenance of the vehicle, in exchange for the privilege of speedily commandeering motors when the occasion demands.

This subsidy is intended by the imperial government not only for the relief requisitioning of cars, but also to promote their use and to eventually encourage their manufacture within the empire. This aggressive action by Japan has still another important function. Horses are scarce in Nippon, and most of the trucking is by men who pull two-wheeled carts—most of the passenger traffic on the streets and highways is by means of rickshaws. Labor is in strong demand, and a more general use of motor vehicles would release thousands of men for work in factories.

Japan's action will add impetus to the export of American made cars and tires. It will be several years before Japan will be able to produce anywhere near her own consumption of motor vehicles and accessories. But three concerns in Japan are now building automobiles. One of these has made about half a dozen cars and another is assembling from parts imported from America. Two large Japanese shipbuilding companies are erecting automobile factories.

Loss of Appetite is also loss of vitality, vigor and tone. To recover appetite, the rest cure, Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfectly digests, makes eating a pleasure. It also makes the blood rich and pure, and steadies the nerves.

See The Great Lakes

Canada's Great Lakes are not, as some geographers and geologists say they are, the oldest lakes in the world. It cannot be denied that Lakes Superior, Huron, Erie and Ontario form the most wonderful chain of inland oceans on the earth, and are the oldest waterway, and for that matter also the oldest highway, in North America. For it was on the waters of these great lakes that the early French explorers and adventurers, such as Nicolet, Marquette, La Salle, Champlain, and others sailed, in the first quarter of the 17th century, in search of the undiscovered Western Sea. Further, taken in conjunction with the St. Lawrence River, river stretches and canals, they form the longest navigable inland waterway in the world, the total distance from Port William and Port Arthur, on Lake Superior, to the Straits of Belle Isle being 2,260 miles. It was of these mighty inland seas in Canada that Joseph Howe once said in a speech at a convention at Detroit: "Yonder lie Canada's great lakes, which can furnish sufficient power to run the industries of the whole world, and within which the British Isles might be dropped and never raise the tide." Romantic enchantment and adventurous history suffuse the waters and shores of Canada's Great Lakes. To realize this one has only to recall that the European pioneers who three hundred years ago first penetrated into the heart of the North American continent did so by their waterway, taking first the St. Lawrence, Ottawa, and Mattawa rivers, then through the Lake Nipissing and French River into Georgian Bay, then through Lake Huron to Lake Michigan, then through the St. Clair or Rapids of St. Mary's River into Lake Superior. On the Great Lakes trip takes in any part of the Canadian Pacific steamships, such as the "Astoria," the "Keweenaw" and the "Manitoba," as painted, large, swift and safe as an ocean liner, a tourist or pleasure seeker can take an inland voyage of a thousand miles, and whether the voyage be from Montreal to Detroit or Chicago, and other American ports or vice versa, the tourist will experience the sense of ocean distance, but with a feeling of security and of calm and quiet, which the turbulent ocean can not give. The tourist may see, for instance, Mackinac Island, the scene of Chief Pontiac's massacre of a British garrison, beautiful islands about which glide white-winged yachts and other small craft, the great head of Thunder Cape, the beautiful St. Mary's River and rapids, the Canadian locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Canadian Pacific sky-scaper elevators at Port McNichol, Georgian Bay, and scores of other scenes of natural beauty and objects of absorbing interest. Truly the Great Lakes have given Canada an enviable name amongst the nations, and the Great Lakes trip once taken, will never fade from memory.

THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT

A letter received by me this week from Harry Vardon states that he and his wife and niece have all fully recovered from the great shock they sustained when Hun bombs brought their house down about their ears some weeks ago. The many times champion says the interesting information that he hopes very shortly to again re-visit Canada and the United States. Previously he had always stated that he would not cross the pond again until after the war, but the golfers of the United States are very anxious for him to take part in their $600,000 patriotic campaign at the links this season, and Vardon is always keen to do his bit for patriotic purposes. It is an secure a suitable "running-mate" he will undoubtedly come over all most right away, but the difficulty is to do this.

It is a great pity that Braid is in such mortal fear of an ocean trip. He would be an ideal partner for Vardon, and the two would be the greatest kind of a drawing card, and would make an ideal match combination. The progress of the game on this continent has been simply marvellous the past decade or so and Vardon will have to be given the best kind of support to hold his own with the experts of the United States. It will be no "primrose path" he will be called upon to tread if he comes over. The United States has golfers to-day, both amateur and professional, who will give the celebrated six times open champion the biggest kind of a run for his money. Vardon is nearing the fifty-year-old mark and has played very little golf so far this season, having been pretty well intransigent as a result of his narrow escape from Hun bombs. He will have to play the game of his career if he should come this season with Mr. "Chick" Evans, Barnes, Hagen, Hutchinson and other crack, all men 20 years or so younger, at the top of their game. In fact, it is a question to-day if he can consistently hold anyone of these top-notchers if they "got going," and they are liable to do that at any or all times.

Vardon, of course, comes under the new English rule of 45 to 50-year-old men liable to be called out. It is generally thought, however, that out of compliment to the United States, the authorities would give him permission to make the trip. If he comes to this side and there is every prospect that he will, a determined effort should be made to get him for a series of Red Cross matches in Canada. The Canadian Seniors' Golf Association will hold its first tournament for patriotic purposes at the Royal Montreal golf course at Dixie probably the middle of September. Vardon is approaching very near to a Senior himself, and here would be one of the best opportunities for him to participate in an exhibition game on this side of the border.

June was off to a splendid start in the patriotic game. As regards the Toronto clubs, the Hunt Club started the "ball rolling" on Saturday, June 8th. Rosedale came along with another most successful day on Saturday, June 15th. Not to be outdone, Scarborough staged a splendid program of attractions on the 22nd and Mississauga rounded out the month with a working fine day on the 29th. Brantford also decided to get in the game on the 22nd, with a most successful exhibition match in which for the first time in the East, four leading amateurs, Messrs. George Lyon and his son, Seymour, Mr. C. P. Keith of Montreal and Mr. Irving S. Robeson of Rochester, N.Y., played for "sweet charity." As a result of these five patriotic days on the Ontario links in June over $7,000 was raised for the Red Cross and kindred societies. And this is only the beginning. Deeds like the snow flies there is not a golf club in Canada large or small, which should not have a competition for patriotic purposes. The object aimed at is $100,000 and there should be no difficulty in accomplishing this. In the States they're trying to make it $1,000,000.

It is stated that the greatest treat Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, has promised himself when the strenuous war days are ended and he can look pleasure in the face again, is to beat his brain by a week of wanton abandonment to the golf on some Scottish upland course, on the braoding shore of the Moray Firth—mayhap at Loissmouth which his predecessor, Mr. Asquith, found so fascinating—or for further choice at breezy North Berwick, where Mr. Balfour could show him round and tell him every kink on the course. In the meantime, he is to be found nearly every Sunday at Watton Heath playing a round or so with "Jimmy" Braid, the well-known pro, who at his golfing Eldon links, it is only by his weekly visit to the links that the Prime Minister can stand the great strain to which he is subjected. President Wilson, on the other hand, is far more prodigal with his time on the links. He makes it a practice every

SPECIALIST SAID HE MUST OPERATE

The Test "FRUIT-A-LIVES" and Is Now in Perfect Health.

MME. F. GAREAU
153 Poplar Ave., Montreal.
"For three years, I suffered great pain in the lower part of my body, with swelling and bloating. I saw a specialist, who carefully examined me and gave me several tonics to take, which did not help me. Then he told me I must undergo an operation. This, I refused to permit."

I heard about "Fruit-a-lives" and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it.

The first box gave great relief; and I continued the treatment, taking six boxes more. Now my health is excellent—I am free of pain and swelling—and I give "Fruit-a-lives" my warmest thanks!

morning, rain or shine, to spend two hours or so with his club. He is usually accompanied by Mrs. Wilson or his physical advisor, Dr. Grayson. The President, like Lloyd George, is quite content to get around in his motor car, although once in a while, much to his delight, he breaks into the charmed circle. At his favorite club in Washington, however, and in compliance with his position, he has a servant. The President, unlike the British Premier, who before the war was a regular entrant in the Parliamentary handicaps, never takes part in a competition. His rating, therefore, is purely complimentary and academic. In Canada, the Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden, is a frequent visitor on the links of the Pecheweig Golf Club, a former Canadian, who is a very enthusiastic devotee of the Royal and Ancient.

"Wart the wily Japanese." He is taking to golf most kindly and the Tokio Golf Club has now several hundred enthusiastic members. The "Jap" is a born amateur and is not a first class professional, training is liable at any time to produce a golf champion the equal of Kuntage in the tennis world. It wouldn't be a very wild prophecy to make that the championship of the world may yet go to a Japanese golfer. He has nerve, endurance and patience plus, and these are the three great attributes for an successful amateur of the game. When the much talked of great Allied golf championship is staged after the war, it is a pretty safe wager that Japan will be the victor, and the Anglo-Saxon golfer may have to look to his laurels. It is quite on the cards that the British amateur championship—the Blue Ribbon of the golfing world—may yet be carried across the Pacific as it was once the Atlantic by Mr. Walter J. Travis, the United States champion, who entered the premier honor in 1904. Mr. Travis, by the way, is an Australian although he perfected his game in the States. (RELEASE SATURDAY, JUNE 29.)

ROTARY CONVENTION.
Kansas City, Mo., June 23.—Election of officers for the coming year was the principal event on the program at today's session of the International Association of Rotary Clubs in convention here. The report of the committee on resolutions also to be made. Among those on the program for addresses to-day was the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, solicitor-general for Canada. His topic was "Canada's contribution to the war."

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Reliable Tonic Medicine, Builds Up.

WATERFORD

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Rev. Mr. Fitch left this week for a month's holidays, which he will spend in the Canadian west. He will preach next Sunday in West Falmouth Church, Chicago, and the following four Sundays at Ellensburg, Calgary. We hope he will return much improved in health. During his absence the pulpit here will be supplied by neighboring clergymen, Mr. Dale of Boston and Mr. Lamb of Villa Nova are expected to preach. It is not known who will supply for the other Sundays.

Rev. LeRoy Leach, an old Waterford boy is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Beamer here, for a few days. He is rector of St. Paul's Church, Buffalo. On Sunday evening he preached in Trinity Church here, and delighted many of his old friends with his message at the gallery. He was one of the first apprentices in the Star Office here.

Messrs. R. D. Gibson, Harry J. Anderson, D. H. W. A. John, and others attended the Masonic church service at Jarvis, on Sunday evening, June 22nd. The preacher was the Most Worshipful, the Grand Master, W. H. Wardrobe, K.C., of Hamilton. About 250 were present.

Rev. P. Anderson was at St. Thomas on Sunday. He spoke on the missionary work for the leprous and was able to speak to about fourteen hundred people. Mrs. G. Ward Butler, of the High School staff, Simcoe, had charge of the services in Trinity Church here, in Mr. Anderson's absence.

Mr. Leo Leitch of this place presented the Central Link Rebel at Lodge at Grand Lodge in Hamilton on June 22nd. He was a delegate from the I.O.O.F. here, and to Hamilton also.

The Entrance examinations were held here last week. Thirty-seven wrote, eight of whom were from the Public School here.

Mr. George Hainsbaugh cut his hand and has been held up with blood poisoning for a few days. It seems as though Waterford, Ont., is not the only place that has a "Star." Mr. Kinsley has received a copy of the "Waterford Star" printed in Waterford, Ireland.

Mrs. Heelop and daughter, Helen, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Force, for a month, have returned to Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Spencer entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Boughner and Mrs. Leonard Spencer of Brantford and Mr. and Mrs. Reeve of Simcoe on Sunday.

Mr. J. D. Duncombe, Miss Helen Duncombe and Mrs. M. E. Kitchen attended the Sunday School convention in Buffalo.

Mr. J. H. McMichael is entertaining Miss Taylor of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Crocker spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Evans.

Miss Begley, Miss K. Dean, Miss M. Watkins and Miss Alma Birdsell motored down to Burlington and spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gerry (Miss Rhoda Dean).

Mrs. Margaret Poulter is visiting her sister, Mrs. Macintosh and other relatives.

Mrs. Charley Robinson of Buffalo is here visiting her brother, Mr. Hershel Glover and Mrs. E. Birdsock for a few days.

Mrs. Whitney who has been away for a few weeks, has returned to her home here.

Miss Watkins returned from Toronto on Wednesday, Mrs. Stewart and her son, Francis, came with her and will spend some time with her mother, Mrs. Watkins.

The farmers in this vicinity have started buying. Word was received here on Sunday that Pts. John Mathews had been wounded.

The Norfolk Women's Institute held their annual convention in the Town Hall here on Wednesday. Mrs. Geo. Smith of Delhi presided. About 75 were present. Mrs. A. H. Duncombe gave the address of welcome which was replied to by Mrs. Alice Wallace of Simcoe. Mrs. T. Mathews of Simcoe gave a report on the Children's Aid work. Mrs. Geo. of St. Thomas spoke very ably of the need for conservation, and the urgency of all work.

The Boston and Waterford women served dinner to the delegates in the lecture room of the Baptist church. Mrs. Frank Sharp, Simcoe, ex-president of the district spoke on "National Service." Mrs. Burns of Oshawa spoke of the need of having women on the school board, and also of the need of wholesome entertainment. She claimed that in this time of trouble and worry, these little things were needed to cheer and encourage. Mrs. Haney sang a solo and Miss Strively of Boston gave a piano selection, both of which were much enjoyed.

The following are the officers elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Geo. Smith, Delhi; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. Frank Sharp, Simcoe; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Frank Cook; Sec.-Treas., Miss Horton, Windham Centre; Convener Children's Aid, Miss Mathews, Simcoe; Medical inspector for schools, Dr. Bessie, Colver, Simcoe.

The writers expressed the opinion that Waterford was a fine village and a good place to call home, and we all agree with them.

VICTORIAN ERA ON TRIAL

The Period as Seen by "The New Statesman."

The world has recently been witness to a new trial of the Victorians—one famous writer attacking, another defending them. "The New Statesman" caught the significance of this drama and submitted these observations: "The Victorians in his 'Short History of England,' has been saying: 'The most important thing that happened in the Victorian time was that nothing happened. The very fact that was made about inner modifications brings into relief the rigidity with which the main lines of social life were left as they were at the French Revolution. We talk of the French Revolution as something that changed the world, but its most important relation to England is that it did not change England.'"

"It was an epoch of hearts uplifted, of minds more alert, of men with sober and manly reason for the common good. New truths were welcomed in free minds, and free minds made brave men. Old prejudices were discarded. Fresh principles were set afoot and supported by the right reasons. The standards of ambition rose higher and purer. Men learned to care more for one another."

Which of these pictures, asks "The New Statesman," is the true one? If Lord Morley is right in saying that in the Victorian era "men learned to care more for one another," Mr. Chesterton can hardly be right in saying that "nothing happened" during this period. And yet, perhaps, the two statements are capable in some measure of being reconciled. The Victorian era, in so far as it is regarded as a first chapter, is a matter for joy among the angels. In so far, however, as it regarded itself as the last perfect chapter in the history of civilization it is (if we may be allowed to mix our metaphors a little) a white sepulchre, on which it is impossible to write an epitaph of praise.

The Victoria era was a great beginning but a bad end. Men may have learned to care more for one another, but they did not learn to say great things to put their care for one another into practice in the national life. They did issue a ukase to persons guilty of extreme cruelty to go and do no further. They did not see that it is not enough not to be actively cruel to a man; one has to go beyond this, and be actively fair and even generous to him.

The Victorian, "The New Statesman" finds, is an object of abhorrence to many people because, while he was always desirous of a maximum of good for himself, he was usually content with a minimum of good for other people. That, perhaps, is only human nature.

A Feline Fisher.
Cats, it is well known, have an absorbing passion for fish of any sort, and will hover about a room platinatively mewing long after the piscine substance has gone and only the smell is left; but it is not equally well known that they are expert anglers. A Hampshire (Eng.) sportsman whose garden borders on a well-stocked stream stated last summer that his cat takes more trout out of it than he does himself. All fish love to bask in the sun, and taking advantage of this on fine summer days, Mr. Tom lies in ambush for hours together, concealed in the reeds, grass, or bushes, and waits patiently shallow. He needs neither rod nor line; unlimited patience is his sole stock-in-trade. Not a move does he make, his quivering tail merely rattling the slender beam as if stirred with the gentlest southern breeze. Presently there is a splash and a flounder, and a fine fat trout, bursting with condition, comes leaping up to the shallow. The fisherman, with a gasp, is on his feet, and all along his laborious track, the fisherman is damp with sweat. The work is hard. I must admit, these burning days of June, and now and then I have a fit, and now and then I swoon. But when this weary way is done, and you size up the gains you did their best to make the Hun look much like 15 cents, a man like me you'll gladly meet at about 11 o'clock. I do agree. I should ten million sheaves of wheat, and then ten millions more. He also serves the work at hand; who, barred from shooting up the foe, goes forth to till the land. I feel I am the one best bet, the guy that's safe and sure; the ground behind him is moist with sweat, as though there'd been a rain.

Green In Hospital.
Green uniforms recently replaced white ones among British hospital surgeons, and British hospitals are also being fitted in green instead of white, because this color is easier on the eyes of patients.

TO FORCE SUFFRAGE VOTE
Washington, June 28.—Equal suffrage supporters in the Senate, although disappointed by the failure to obtain a vote yesterday on the House resolution, proposing submission of the suffrage amendment to the constitution to the states, today began preparation to force a vote on the resolution at an early date next week.

The suffrage resolution, already passed by the House, which was drawn yesterday after three hours of debate to give way to the army appropriation bill, but not until after a heated debate by its supporters and opponents. Yesterday's failure to force a vote was regarded by some members of the senate as indicating the constitution to the states, today began preparation to force a vote on the resolution at an early date next week.

MURDERER TO HANG
By Courier Lensed Wire.
Ottawa, June 28.—Philip Johnston was found guilty of murder in the first degree last evening for the shooting of Constable Bernard V. Sisson on the night of April 5 and was sentenced to hang on the morning of September 27.

The trial of John S. Stokes, alleged to be one of John's accomplices at the time of the murder of Constable Snowden, will start on Tuesday. At the conclusion of Stokes' trial Frank Sullivan, another alleged accomplice, will be tried.

One New Jersey country club has been advised that it will have to do without next winter.
