THE GLADSTONIAN VICTORY IN KENNINGTON.

Lord Randolph Churchill Confesses to Fizzle Politicians and Plain People as Well—Spontaneous Enthusiasm.

LONDON, March 17.—By-elections are supposed to turn on questions of high policy, and they are discussed as if they did. There is immense exultation on one side, and depression on the other. Home Rule stood up or down as respectable gentlemen labelled Liberal or Tory get a few hundred more or less votes in suburban districts. A second like Pigott or a second like Gant Davis may do more for the Liberal cause at a given moment than Mr. Gladstone or Mr. Parnell. Kennington, beyond doubt, will influence general opinion whether it expresses a general opinion or not. To use a phrase current on these occasions, it is a blow to the Government: The Daily News says a "death-blow," but this Government has already received at least a dozen death-blows from that journal, and yet it miraculously and maliciously survives them all, and may even survive this.

Several Tories do not pretend, as the Standard says, to be the cause of this defeat. All the explanation, in the world will not deprive figures of their significance. Such explanations as that and other journals of like faith now give are of the usual kind. The Tories have not lost votes; there has been no changing from side to side; Mr. Balfour's Hope polls more votes than did Gant Davis; Mr. Balfour's increased support came from what is called the reserve vote. Mr. Balfour is a nephew to Lord Salisbury and a cousin to Mr. Balfour. Whether these kinships helped or harmed him seems uncertain. Mr. Balfour is a local man and employs a great number of Kennington workmen; the head of a firm of distillers, yet he had the support of the temperance party. Mr. Gladstone, when he sat for Greenwich, was junior colleague to a gin distiller.

But enough of details. It is sufficient to say that the Gladstonian victory in Kennington is a victory won by a far greater majority than the most sanguine hoped, and will give fresh vigor and volume to the Laboratory for dissolution and fresh stiffness to the Tory resolve not to dissolve.

Ready the Sphinx.

LONDON, March 16.—Lord Randolph Churchill's attitude continues to puzzle politicians, and puzzles plain people still more. His civilities to Mr. Stanhope on the Army questions were not, it appears, meant to go beyond Mr. Stanhope. Towards the Admiralty and especially towards Lord George Hamilton, he is as implacable as ever. His letter to Sir Edward Reed has in it that note of personal as well as political antagonism which Lord Randolph seldom takes the trouble to conceal where it exists. "Such an exposure and confession," writes he, "of utter incompetence would insure prompt dismissal and probably professional ruin if Lord George were a private person." The exposure and confession are, of course, in Lord Randolph's mind, to be found in Lord George's speech on Admiralty affairs.

This morning appears another letter from Lord Randolph, explaining that he is not against all schemes for strengthening the navy, but against all bad schemes. This will not give much comfort to the Government.

8300 Worth of Enthusiasm.

LONDON, March 17.—The Tory papers have got hold of a confidential circular sent out by the organizers of the National Protest against coercion. If you believe them, the spontaneous enthusiasm of Wednesday at St. James' Hall cost $3000. It was purely cheap at the money, but only a quarter of that sum has been collected, and the other three-quarters are urgently wanted. Hence the confidential circular.

The Albert Hall E. Carnival.

LONDON, March 17.—The ice carnival at Albert Hall has the attraction of novelty, and brought together an enormous crowd. It is a big bazaar, and not much else, but a dozen American ladies are helping their English friends in the selling, and people go to stare, as usual, at the English and Americans alike.

Paris Financial News.

PARIS, March 17.—With the exception of the transactions in rentes and foreign securities the Bourse yesterday was dull, being engaged in the settlement. Final transactions were made at 220 francs for Comptoir d'Escompte shares and 80 francs for Societe des Metaux shares. The directors of the principal financial houses of Paris met at the Ministry of Finance Friday night and again last night. It is reported they decided that the Comptoir d'Escompte should be placed in liquidation and reconstructed. It is said that 20,000 shares in the proposed new bank are already subscribed for. The employees of the Comptoir d'Escompte have been invited to withdraw their deposits in that bank, which from motives of delicacy they have hitherto left intact.

NOTES OF THE DEEP.

High Winds on the New Jersey Coast—Many Deaths.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 17.—It has been many years since the tide has been as high here as it was yesterday. The water was away up among the cottages and the meadows were overflooded. The storm which has prevailed on the coast caused the high water and for a few hours Atlantic City was cut off from the world westward off by brook flooding of the railroad tracks which cross the meadows. The trains on the Camden and Atlantic Railroad tried to cross early in the morning but failed. The water was so high that the fire was extinguished, and with what steam they had the trains were compelled to return. Only slight damage has thus far been done in the city. The cellars of a number of cottages and the basements of several large houses were flooded but the foundations remain intact. About noon the floods receded and trains began to run again.

Andy Maloney was arrested to-day on his arrival in town from Hot Springs. He is charged with the larceny of $14,000 worth of jewelry. Bail was refused and the case fixed for Monday afternoon. Pinkerton detectives were engaged on the case, and finally worked on it and were successful Friday morning afternoon. Reinbold, who it is alleged lost the goods in Maloney's gambling house, was a traveler for P. W. Ellis & Co. of Toronto.

The negroes are meeting at the Commercial Hotel in Raleigh, and are organizing a committee to secure organized action toward colonizing all the negroes in the State of Arkansas, where they are offered lands for a trifling sum. The circulars say that the white people don't want them here and they have determined to go. They propose to colonize on the lands in Arkansas and follow agriculture.

The Elusive Tascott.

WINNIPEG, March 17.—There is no doubt that a few days ago Tascott, the murderer of Millionaire Snell of Chicago, was in this vicinity. The report that Tascott was captured at Lake Winnipeg was due to the fact of some strangers being seen there. The best inquiries available indicate that the searchers for Tascott have gone to the Pacific coast.

He Couldn't Eat the Soup.

An elderly gentleman in a restaurant, having been served with a plate of soup he had ordered said to the waiter: "Look here, I can't eat this soup." "All right; I'll get you another plate." On receiving the second plate, the guest once more remarked: "It's no use I can't eat this soup." Then the waiter went to the proprietor and said: "That old gentleman over there is complaining about the soup. He says he can't eat it." "You don't know how to wait on people. I'll attend to him." The proprietor went to the kicking guest and said blandly: "I understand that you say that there is something the matter with the soup?" "I didn't say anything of the kind." "You said you couldn't eat it." "Yes, I said I couldn't eat it." "Will you tell why you can't eat that soup?" "Certainly. I haven't got any spoon."—Texas Siftings.

An Inexpressible Bridgroom.

"Do you take this woman to be your wedded wife?" began a young divine who had been called upon to unite in matrimony a couple from the rural district. "Yas," promptly put in the groom, not waiting for the complete question. "To love—went on the reverend questioner again as soon as he had recovered from the explosive affirmative so unexpectedly given.

"Yas," came again with undiminished vigor from the groom. "And to honor, to—"

A third "Yas" came equally forceful and prompt, to the entire defeat of Mr. Brown's scheme of gliding into the next phrase. "To cherish—"

"Yas," And so on through the entire paragraph. It was quite evident that the young man was willing.

The same gentleman tells a story of a groom who after the ceremony slipped a two-dollar bill into his hand, murmuring, apologetically, "I'll do better next time."

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Food that supply material for growth and repair are called nitrogenous foods. They are also called proteids, from a Greek word meaning "first," because in the living cells...

The carbonaceous foods are fats, including butter, the fat of meat or fish, oils, eggs, and some kinds of cheese. A small amount of fat is necessary in digestion, and indispensable to perfect nutrition.

Thus we see that the solid part of the flesh and blood is largely fibrin and albumen, substances similar to the fibres and juices of meat and fish, and that eggs, milk, peas, beans, and grains also contain fibrin and albumen, and we find nitrogen is the element in all; and it is from these nitrogenous foods that the bodily substance is chiefly built up.

HEALTH NOTICES.

A Batch of Interesting News Notes Prepared for Our Readers. The common practice of raising fainting persons to a sitting or upright position is often sufficient to destroy the spark of life which remains.

Many parents seem to think that something in food is identical with simplicity, and pride themselves on the virtue of a course of action which is nothing less than murderous. Let no one torture himself with the thought that he could have been twice as good a man as he is if he had risen every morning at daylight. The habit would kill half of us in less than five years.

It is generally known in a vague way that old men lose a little in height. Quetlet who studied the matter closely, calculated that the shortening began at fifty, and that if a man lived till he was ninety he would be an inch and a half shorter than he was in his prime.

Long hours of work are often as little to the employer's interest as they are to those employed. No one can do as good work at the end of the day as at the beginning, and the more the working hours are prolonged the greater will be the deterioration of the work, and as the time for recuperation must inevitably be shortened the deterioration will very probably become continuous.

Eating when tired, and engaging in active mental or physical exercise immediately after a hearty meal, are two of the most common sins against dietetic rectitude in our modern civilization. An old medical writer tells that a hundred years ago it was the custom among the merchants of Edinburgh to take two hours' "nooning" for dinner in the middle of the day, during which time the shops were closed, and all business suspended.

Of the human race, according to a high authority, suffer from one or other form of blood taint. Never allow this latent evil to develop into serious disease while the blood can be kept pure and the system clean by proper precautions, such as using Burdock Blood Bitter, whenever any scrofulous symptoms appear. No medicine equals B. B. B. as a blood cleanser. [2]

HOW TO CARVE FOWLS

Common Croup. Is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B Nicholson, 19 Waddlesley Ave., Toronto, says: "As a quick cure, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." It is a pure cure. Directions accompany each bottle.

Seasonable Suggestions Concerning the Disjointing of Chickens, Turkeys, Etc. The season is at hand when amateurs in the matter of disjointing turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens are beginning to wish they knew just how to do it in a satisfactory manner. With a view to assisting the ignorant, here are reproduced some directions given in Poultry Yard recently.

The legs of a banded fowl always befall forward and tucked into the belly, but before it is put upon the table the skewer by which they are secured ought to be removed. The fowl should be laid on the carver's plate, and the joints, as they are cut off, placed on the dish. In taking off the wing the joint only must be divided with the knife, for by lifting up the pinion of the wing with the fork, and drawing toward the leg the muscles will separate in a much better form than you can effect by cutting with a knife. Next place the knife between the leg and body and cut to the bone, turning the leg back with the fork, and the joint will give way. If the fowl is young and well done, the merry thought is taken out when the legs and wings are all removed; the neck bones are taken off by putting in the knife and pressing it under the long, broad part of the boning, then lift the neck bone up and break it off from the part that sticks to the breast. The breast itself has now to be divided from the body by cutting through the tender ribs close to the breast, quite down to the tail; then lay the back upward, put your knife into the bone half way from the neck to the wings, and run the knife down and it will readily separate. The liver and gizzard do not to be done is to turn the rump from you and neatly to take off the sixteens. Each part should be neatly arranged on the platter.

The turkey should not be divided till the breast is disposed of; but if it be thought proper to divide, the same process must be followed as directed in a fowl. The following is the best mode of serving this delicious bird: Begin by cutting close to the breast bone, scooping around so as to leave the mere pinions. Each slice should carry with it a portion of the padding or forcemeat with which the craw is stuffed.

Corn in Tight Crib. Corn stored in the ear, says Prairie Farmer, may not be placed in tight cribs, when it has only received the drying natural to its being on the stalk. It often requires the whole winter to ripen it for shelling and transportation in tight cribs. If the autumn and winter are damp, it will often mold in the center of wide cribs, and often in the average average cone killed, causing a loss in those of alternate freezing and thawing, and this from rupture of the cells of the grain. The same cause also renders the meal from such corn bitter.

It is also well known that corn readily absorbs moisture, and that unless dried properly, it is apt to heat. In the saving of seed corn, therefore, it is especially necessary that the corn be ripened thoroughly before it is frozen, and then kept in a dry place, and preferably one where it will not freeze. So, also, corn intended for grinding into meal for human consumption, should be ripened thoroughly, and kept in a dry place, and then it may dry equally and thoroughly, and also flaring enough so that no rain can drive in to dampen the corn.

Treatment for Roup in Fowls.

The first thing to be done is to separate the sick from the healthy ones, and where it can be done it will aid greatly to put the well ones where they can root temporarily at least in new quarters while the present one is being thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Keep them in out of the wet and give a variety of food. For a few days it will be quite well to feed on well cooked corn, with cayenne pepper and powdered charcoal. Let them run out as much as possible in good weather. For a few days give Douglas mixture every day; after that twice a week give them a dose of a strong laxative, such as a solution of sulphate of copper in a gallon of water, then add half an ounce of oil of vitriol; keep in jugs and put an ounce of the mixture in a gallon of their drinking water. For those not to be given, wash their heads and cleanse the throat and nasal passages with warm water containing a little carbolic acid. Kerosene oil may be used for the same purpose. Fowls in an advanced stage of this disease may about as well be killed. Swelling of the head with fetid discharges from the eyes and nostrils are unerring symptoms of this disease.

Keeping Grapes.

For long keeping select only the tough skinned grapes, Catawba, Ives, Clinton, Rogers No. 2, Norton's Virginia and Cynthiana are good keepers, if gathered in a dry time and properly handled. They should be allowed to lie on shelves or tables in a cool, dry room with a current of air, and well ventilated room for a few days for the stems to dry out, when they may be packed. All imperfect and rotten grapes should be picked off, and bunches where the berries fall off readily should be rejected. Pack carefully in baskets, preserving the bloom on the grapes, and put fine paper between the layers, or pack in oven-dried sawdust when designed wholly for family use. In any case, a cool, dry room with an even temperature and good free ventilation is essential. When in danger of freezing, protect temporarily with some kind of a covering.

Facts Worth Knowing.

A free martin is a cow calf, twin born with a bull calf, and generally proves to be barren. The same designation is given to female foal similarly born, but twin colts are more rare than twin calves.

Official returns make it appear that eight months' exports of cattle, coal, cotton, beef, lard and lumber increased largely in 1888 over 1887, but those of wheat, corn, flour, cotton goods, bacon, oleomargarine and tobacco declined. The shipments of agricultural implements were practically stationary.

HURON SIGNAL, FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1889.

OWNS to pressure on our columns by spring advertising a large quantity of outside correspondence is unavoidably crowded out.

Up to the hour of going to press we have heard no comforting words from the Hamilton Spectator in regard to the great Tory reverse at Kennington.

The great excitement in connection with the Jesuit Bill has not yet extended to that section of the Orange order in and around the Cut Line of Goderich township.

The Toronto dailies all deprecate the acts of several gangs of young ruffians headed by life and drum bands that paraded the streets of Toronto on Monday evening playing Orange airs, and throwing stones at the halls in which the Irish people were joyfully celebrating St. Patrick's anniversary.

The constant opening and closing of the principal door at the main entrance is a source of annoyance which is very apt to distract the attention of the Court, as well as being decidedly injurious to those in attendance by the frequent draughts of cold air pouring in from below.

A Word or Two About New Publications that Have Come to Hand: LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

The numbers of The Living Age for the 9th and 16th of March contain Kratoch, Edinburgh; Hopes and Fears for Diet and American and English Girls; National Lawrence O'Connell; by Mrs. O'Connell; Blackwood; Three Notable Englishwomen; and A Fashionable Author of the Last Century, Temple Bar; Volterra; and The Memoirs of Agrippa d'Aubigne, Macmillan's; Personal Recollections of the Duke of Wellington, and Snakes, Murray's; Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Leisure Hour; Tennyson's Understones, Spectator; Gordon's Last Hour, Chronicle News; with instalments of "A Chronicle of Two Months," "The Owl's Revenge," and poetry.

MANHOOD FRANCHISE.—The assessor is now going his rounds and it is therefore important that the attention of the public be called to the fact that this year every male person of the full age of 21 years, a subject of her majesty by birth or naturalization and not otherwise disqualified, has a right to have his name entered as a person qualified to vote at the next general election for the Legislative Assembly.

Goderich 21st March, 1889. His Lordship replied, endorsing their sentiments in regard to the better keep of unfortunate indigents. He thanked the grand jury for their kind reference to himself.

A lawyer and a parson were talking about which way the wind was. The former said: "We go by the courthouse vane." "Well," said the parson, "in the matter of wind that is the best authority," and the lawyer went to cogitate.

SPRING ASSIZES

The Proceedings of the Court—Presentment of the Grand Jury.

Before Mr Justice Street.

FIRST DAY.

The Huron Spring Assizes opened here on Tuesday morning, Mr Justice Street presiding.

Mr M. C. Cameron, on behalf of the local bar, presented the judge with a congratulatory address upon his first official visit to the county. His lordship made a graceful reply.

There were no prisoners in gaol awaiting trial, and the sheriff presented the judge with the customary white kid gloves.

There are persons out on bail awaiting trial, and the grand jury have found a true bill against John Wilkinson, charged with forgery. Mr Lount, Q.C., conducts the Crown business. There is a heavy civil docket containing, eighteen cases. It contains three cases of malicious prosecution, three of slander, and two seduction suits. In Ryan v. Lunnon, slander, tried, a verdict was given for the plaintiff for $100. Mr Garrow, Q.C., for the plaintiff, Mr Cameron, Q.C., for the defendant.

McDonald v. O'Neil, malicious prosecution, settled out of court.

Eagleson v. McClellan—An action for illegal distress, dismissed by consent without costs.

Danlop v. Rea—Action to recover from an executor, verdict for the plaintiff for $520 and costs. Mr Cameron for the plaintiff. Defendant not represented.

Anderson v. Anderson—An undefended ejectment suit, judgment given for the plaintiff for $1,252 with costs. Mr Cameron for the plaintiff.

SECOND DAY.

Mason v. Johnston—An action to recover damages because of a breach of warranty given upon the sale of a stallion. It resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff for $300. The parties to the suit reside near Wroxeter, and are importers of high-classed horses. Garrow, Q.C., for plaintiff; Wade for defendant.

John Wilkin, a young farmer, formerly a resident near Mitchell, was tried on the charge of forgery and uttering two notes at Smith's banking house, Seaforth, on Dec. 27. The defence set up and proved was an alibi. Some half-a-dozen persons testified that the prisoner was away from Seaforth at the time when Smith said the notes were stolen. The prisoner was acquitted and discharged. Mr Lount, Q.C., for the Crown. Mr Mabes for the prisoner.

J H Lloyd charged with perjury upon an indictment found at the last assizes, was formally acquitted, the Crown offering no evidence.

PRESENTMENT

The Jurors for Our Lady the Queen beg leave to present: With feelings of pride and satisfaction, we draw your Lordship's attention to the very light criminal calendar, which from a population of seventy thousand inhabitants will, we feel certain, compare most favorably with any portion of Her Majesty's Dominions.

Our excellent system of education and consequent spread of intelligence, is no doubt the chief factor in bringing about this gratifying result.

We have visited the goal and have much pleasure in bearing witness to the efficient manner in which the establishment is conducted, its clean and orderly condition, and the balance and enforcement of all sanitary rules, reflecting most favorably on the ability of its keeper.

There are at present ten persons within its walls, on order sentence, who will shortly be removed; three of whom, on account of the balance and diligent people simply committed as vagrants.

This defective system of providing for this unfortunate class, as far as we can learn, the result of mistaken sentiment; we trust a better feeling will ultimately prevail, and that the balance and diligent people simply committed as vagrants.

With an excellent system of electric plant now inside the town limits, there can be no reasonable excuse for the dingy appearance of the court room by night; therefore, we would suggest that time be lost in introducing the benefits of this modern and necessary improvement.

The constant opening and closing of the principal door at the main entrance is a source of annoyance which is very apt to distract the attention of the Court, as well as being decidedly injurious to those in attendance by the frequent draughts of cold air pouring in from below.

This should be remedied by the placing of a large screen immediately before the door-way, which would materially reduce the draught of cold air, as well as being decidedly injurious to those in attendance by the frequent draughts of cold air pouring in from below.

Our Halls of Justice, in point of light, ventilation, warmth and general comfort, should be all that modern science can suggest to make them in every respect, worthy of the important purposes for which they are intended.

Permit us, on this, the first occasion of your judicial visit to our county, to congratulate your lordship on the exalted position you have been called upon to fill, feeling confident that your long and amiable services at the bar, coupled with a blameless private life, will amply qualify you, for those higher and more responsible duties of the Bench.

We desire to express here, our obligations to Wm. Lount, Esq. Crown Counsel, for the courtesy and assistance rendered to us in the discharge of our duties, and also the County Attorney Ira Lewis, Esq., for his assistance.

In conclusion we beg to add our need of praise and thankfulness, that throughout the vast empire of which we form so large a part, we can truly say "we have peace in our day."

All of which is respectfully submitted. Grand Jury Room, J. J. WIGGINS, Foreman.

Though young in years, his sermon showed deep study and a will to make a mark on his hearers, and with the prospect of many long years before him in the work he has chosen, may he gather in many ripe sheaves for his Master's garner. We hope he will again come to Leeburn to preach.

To the Editor of THE SIGNAL. Our town council is about to purchase a pavilion on the Park ground of $300. We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents. Contributors to this department must confine themselves to public questions, and be brief.

To the Editor of THE SIGNAL.

Our town council is about to construct a pavilion on the Park grounds at a cost of $300. Is not this expenditure on a park with the purchasing of trees at the public's expense to be placed along the streets as rubbing posts for cows? As the grounds known as the Park are used as a cow yard, the proposed pavilion no doubt will serve as a cow shed. Would it not be better for the town to expend that $300 in erecting a high board fence on the line between the Park and Doyle properties? In my estimation one acre of decently kept ground is far preferable, when devoted to human beings, exclusively, than two acres which serve the combined use of people's walk and manure repository.

RATEPAYERS.

A young son of Mr James McIntosh, second concession, McKillop, unfortunately while assisting his brother at the straw cutter had his right hand drawn in and before it could be extricated the fingers were badly cut and one of the bones of the hand broken. There is every hope however of the lad doing well and regaining a good use of the injured hand.

For, Rickets, Marasmus, and all Wasting Disorders of children

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh upon it is very wonderful. "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing. In every case the improvement was marked." - J. M. Main, M. D., New York. Sold by all Druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

The editor of the Seneca (Ala.) Sentinel thus asks readers to come forward and pay back subscriptions: "It is a sad duty for us to state to the many readers of this paper that we are actually in need of a suit of clothes. We would like to attend preaching, but remain away because we are ashamed to enter the church with the suit that is worn daily; we go occasionally, but have to slip in quietly and take a back seat. This piece is not written for the purpose of soliciting some kind friend to donate us a suit of clothes, nor some free-hearted merchant to sell us a suit on time; but to arouse the sympathies of those owing us. We have spent the last dollar in our possession to accommodate you; now come to our needy assistance, and receive the blessings that only a poor, oppressed newspaper man can bestow."

It is said that $15,000 was raised at the Steiny Hall meeting in New York Sunday night for the Parrell fund.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

WHAT THE RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS ARE ASKING

One Probable Outcome of Mrs. Bell's Suit Against Sir Chas. Tupper as Commander of the Wm. Llewellyn

OTTAWA, March 17.—Sir Charles Tupper leaves for Montreal this afternoon. He will be in Toronto on April 5 to be examined in connection with the arbitration between the Canadian Pacific and the Government. It is also probable that Sir Charles will visit the Maritime Provinces before returning to England.

Messrs. Edgar and Purton, representing the railway mail clerks of Western Ontario, waited upon the general manager, Hazart, yesterday with a view to securing an improvement in their financial position in the service. They pointed out that their work is more trying and their hours much more irregular than those of clerks in city post offices, and they ask that they be put on an equality with the latter.

Mr. Bell, husband of the woman whose suit against Sir Charles Tupper was on Friday night in session from Judge McShaw, who she had retained here to act as counsel for black and white, and for years been employed as a messenger in the Commons. He was a witness in the case which was included in the Judge's remarks about the pecking. A consequence of his connection with the case is understood to be his services in the Commons will be dispensed with.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

The Association's Views Presented to Members by the Deputation

OTTAWA, March 16.—A deputation from the Canadian Copyright Association, consisting of J. Ross Robertson, Ian A. Hogg and J. A. Taylor, had an interview today with Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mr. Carling. Mr. Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, also being present, concerning the bill now before the House. They submitted to the Government that it was of vital importance that provision should be made in the bill that registration of any work by the author to secure exclusive copyright should be made at Ottawa prior to or simultaneously with the publication of it or work elsewhere.

Incendiary Fires.

WINCHESTER, Va., March 17.—A number of recent attempts of incendiaries culminated early yesterday morning in the destruction by fire of three stables, one dwelling house and two stables. Three separate fires were kindled at different times. An attempt was made to fire the building occupied by the United States Express Company. Much excitement prevails in the community over the action of the fire bugs.

The Latest from Hayti.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The steamer Caroline Miller from Cape Haytien brings news of a decisive victory by Hippolyte over Legitimé forces on March 7. La Coline, Hippolyte was on the field in person.

Grace Darling

One of the most interesting objects in the Lord Mayor's show of 1883 was the little boat in which Grace Darling and her father went out to the wreck of the Forfarshire and rescued the nine survivors. This boat is a stout fishing cobbler of half a dozen oars, and it looks as strong as ever. It was on view all last week at the Fisheries Exhibition at South Kensington, and on November 9, 1836, carried through London streets, on a wheeled truck drawn by a pair of noble cart-horses, and guarded, as was right and proper, by British sailors. Where is the boat now? It is safe and in honor, as such a relic should be. But for its history, it would have been sold, among other old stores, by the Trinity House; and perhaps it was so sold and bought by the private owner. One would like to know this, and still more should I like to know how much of the heroic story of fifty years ago was in the minds of the makers-on. It is only the simple story of an English peasant girl of three-and-a-half years, who had lived for twelve years with her parents on the lonely Longstone Island, and who, after that night of tempest, persuaded her father, a fishhouse man, to row out with her, some five miles of stormy sea, to the dangerous rock on which, through his teething, a few perishing human beings could be seen. She did it, and she brought every one of them safe back to her. That is all, and it is one of the stories that men do not willingly believe.

Grace Darling was born in Scarborough on November 24, 1815, the sixth child of William Darling and Elizabeth Horley, his wife. These were the last of a poor, but genuine, and anonymous memoir of her, published at Warwick-upon-Tweed in 1843, just after her death, which little memoir also says that during those five years of her life, 1838 to 1843, she steadily refused to quit her parents or her island, and went on living there as quietly and simply as before. She was a devoted, courageous girl—calm and sincere and true. She had (says good old William Horley) "the most gentle, quiet, amiable and the sweetest smile that I have seen in a person of her station and appearance. You see she is a thoroughly good creature. When Lloyd's agent came was Sinclair, and he deserves to be remembered for her sake—went out to the Longstone he said to her:—'Well, Grace, we'll surely be able to get you all gone for this,' and she said: 'Do you think so, sir?' with perfect simplicity. Silk gowns came in plenty; silver teapots came, and votes of thanks, and coin to the amount of £700, and visitors from afar—yes, even from St. Petersburg. But as my little pamphlet truly says, 'she never for a moment forgot the modest dignity of childhood which became her sex and station.'

Try to Benefit Others.

"I had a very bad pain in my side, of which the bottle of Haggard's Yellow Oil made a complete cure. I hope that this may be of some benefit to those who read it." A. R. T. Walker, 44½ High St., City. Haggard's Yellow Oil is a specific for all inflammatory pain.

The Chemistry of Food.

The sixteen elements of the body are oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus, sulphur, iron, chlorine, fluorine, silicon, manganese, calcium, potassium, sodium, and copper. Simple elements do not nourish the body, but compounds of these are capable of so doing. The actually nutritive ingredients of food are divided into four classes:—Protein, fat, carbohydrates and mineral matters. Leaving water out of account, lean meat, white of egg, curd of milk and gluten of wheat consist mainly of protein compounds. Butter and lard are mostly fat. Sugar and starch are carbohydrates. The nutrients of animal food consist mainly of protein and fat. Those of the vegetable foods are largely carbohydrates. The fatter kinds of meat and some species of fish, as salmon, shad and mackerel, contain considerable quantities of fat. The kinds of meat, and such fish as beef and mackerel, contain very little fat. Beans, peas, oatmeal and some other vegetable foods contain considerable quantities of protein.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cooking, mental worry, late hours, irregular hours, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics. But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people healthy and happy. Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness at the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents. Sowsly.

Dangerous Counterfeits.

Counterfeits are always dangerous, more so that they always closely imitate the original in appearance and name. The remarkable success achieved by Nasal Balm as a positive cure for Catarrh and Head in Head has attracted unprincipled parties to imitate it. The public are cautioned not to be deceived by nostrums imitating Nasal Balm in name and appearance, bearing such names as Nasal Cream, Nasal Balsam, etc. Ask for Nasal Balm and do not take imitation or cheap imitations upon you. Chronic Coughs and Colds.

And all diseases of the throat and lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, which contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. See what W. S. Muer, M. D., L. R. C. P., etc., Truro, N. S. says: "After three years' experience I consider Scott's Emulsion one of the very best in the market. Very excellent in throat affections." Sold by all druggists, 50c. and $1.00.

Children's Clothing.

As was remarked in a previous article much care should be exercised concerning the foot clothing of the little ones. Children's shoes when purchased, if not already sufficiently loose, should have the buttons set forward until the finger can be easily inserted the entire length between the shoe and stocking. Nature has provided the ankle with sufficient support, in ordinary cases, and a tightly laced or buttoned shoe not only does not aid nature in supporting the ankle, but actually weakens the muscles and impedes the circulation, the same as does a tight ligure around any other portion of the body.

High heels on children's shoes should never be tolerated, and indeed, raised heels of any height are objectionable and wholly avoidable, since shoes with spring heels can be obtained in children's and women's sizes, of nearly all dealers.

Another essential qualification of health-clothing is equable warmth for all portions of the body. Although such has been written on this subject the number of sensible mothers who give this matter attention is far greater than formerly, nevertheless there are still many thousands of little ones who might be saved from early death were they warmly and equably clad.

As has been often said, this material best as a first covering for the body, and some fabrics of the most delicate nature throughout the year, being of lighter or heavier material, in accordance with the degree of external cold.

Many mothers provide their little ones with some form of flannel undergarments, and then consider that these the proper kind of material has been applied, the child is beautifully clothed. The fact that a garment is of flannel, is no proof that it meets the just-quoted requirement of healthful dress. In perhaps the majority of cases, these garments are vest and drawers which overlap each other about the central portion of the body, making a double thickness of covering over that region which least needs it, because it contains the vital organs, and is much less liable to suffer from cold; while the limbs and arms, which need the warmest covering because of its farthest away from the body, are left unprotected, and are thus exposed to the cold. Wicked Men Abroad.

The late Chief Justice Chase once started the writer of this by saying: "The wicked men are not in the penitentiary, they are in the churches. The criminals we convict are not wicked, they are simply weak—weak in character and weak in intellect. The men from whom society suffers are the cold, selfish calculating creatures who not only keep clear of the courts but seek the churches and deceive themselves and hope to deceive the Almighty."

Something for Girls.

Girls, learn to cook, or to superintend a cook, if you expect to be happy. No girl who is quite willing to wait on bread and butter, sponge cake, chocolate cream and candied cherries, with a few pickles thrown in, may seem all nonsense; but, once married, the awful truth will be impressed upon you all too late. To have a kind husband, a cheerful husband, a generous and a successful husband, you must feed him in such a way that he cannot become dyspeptic. And one heavy dumping may make him dyspeptic for life.

Tough steak and undone vegetable puddings, hard as bricks, are the cause of many a man's failure. Cold soup, or meat frizzling in fat, potatoes with hard hearts or water-soaked, have caused divorces ere now. I don't think you ever knew a woman who was sure of her meals, whether she kept a servant or not (and felt sympathy for a hungry man so that he never had to beg for his dinner), who "lived unpleasantly" with her husband. And you never knew a former woman who was helpless, without cook, chambermaid and waitress who had what you might call a happy life.

I am far from believing that the kitchen is woman's sphere. But, except in the case of very wealthy people, must be part of a wife's duty. To see that all goes well there. It ought to be possible in these practical and enlightened days for any girl of education, who is old enough to be married, to cook a meal better than any servant in the long row sitting on the benches of an Intelligence office, and to tell her servants certain things that a woman, who cannot read can only learn by years of experience. To be able to say to a servant, when a sudden fit of temper causes her to threaten to leave: "Very well, the dinner today will be as much the better, for I shall cook it," is the sort of thing that makes a lady mistress in her own house.

In fact, if you want to be healthy, wealthy and wise—if you want to remain pretty and continue to be happy—learn to cook before you marry anybody but a millionaire.

More Trouble May be Expected.

If you do not heed the warnings of nature and at once pay attention to the maintenance of your health. How often does a person put off from day to day the purchase of a medicine which is procured at the outbreak of a disease would have remedied it almost immediately. Now if Johnston's Tonic Liver Pills had been taken when the first uneasiness made its appearance the illness would have been "nipped in the bud." Johnston's Tonic Bitters and Liver Pills are decidedly the best medicine on the market for general tonic and invigorating properties. Pills 25c. per bottle.
