FIGURES DO LIE.
Prices are only Relative

REGAL ENGINES are the highest priced engines, yet they are the cheapest.
They are the highest priced engines because they cost more to build.
They are the cheapest engines, because they will last twice as long as any other engine.
They are also the cheapest engines because they save your time, and
"Time is money."
If you shut your eyes to this real bargain in engines, you will be the sorriest fisherman who ever signed an order.
You will lose more money than you can afford to lose, and your oil bills will be twice as large.
REGAL ENGINES use less oil, have more power, run with less trouble and give more genuine satisfaction than any other engine on the market.
We are, in the near future, going to ask all cash for REGAL ENGINES, so buy one before we make this change, as we intend to make them the "Hall Mark" engines of Newfoundland.
We ship REGAL ENGINES complete with full book of instructions, and when once installed in your boat, any child can run one.
REGAL ENGINES are higher priced than other engines, but are the cheapest in the long run, because they run the longest.

Stella Mordant.

The Cruise of the "Kingfisher."

CHAPTER XLV.
"My dear Rath, if you cannot be quiet, hadn't you better go and play with Boy? Mary and I want to talk seriously."
"Poor Mary!" he commented, with deep sympathy. "Why don't you talk to one of your own size—to me, for instance?"
"Because I'm not fond of wasting my time. If a man has done wrong, punish him; but what wrong has Edward done, excepting in loving you?"
"That's a man's folly, not his crime," commented Rath, suavely.
"It is you who have—have—There, don't cry!"
"I'm not crying!" retorted Mary, indignantly, but with a suspicious quiver in her voice.
"At any rate, you have no cause to complain; you have nothing against him. For two years you have kept him at—ab; have treated him as if he were a—convict, or a criminal not fit to enter your presence."
"No; it is I who am not fit," murmured Mary.
"Perhaps so," assented Lady Raton, severely. "I can't argue that."
"One moment. Permit me to make a mental note that there is one subject upon which you cannot argue," murmured Rath.
"But he doesn't argue with you. He may be right or wrong, but anyway he persists in loving you and wanting you to marry him; and I think the least you can do—whether you love him or not—"
"I say," remonstrated Rath, "Boy may understand, you know, Stella."
"—Is to marry him. I speak to you before Rath, because—"
"You're afraid to speak to her alone."
"—Because there are no secrets between us three, and I know he agrees with me."
"Here, young party, don't give me away; you speak for yourself as you are too well able to do. Mary, get up and thump her; it's the only way."
"Oh, Mary!" continued Stella, with a change in her tone and a sweet tenderness in her eyes. "Do you mean to say that after all this time, after all his patient waiting and longing, that is—if he were to come up the beach at this moment—"
It was strange, but at that moment a boat put off from the yacht and began to row to the shore.
"—You would refuse him? Would send him away with a broken heart, to drag out the rest of his life with that awful misery, that terrible misery—"
"There's a boat coming from that yacht that anchored just now," remarked Rath, rising. "I didn't expect anyone."

"You know what it is for us women; it is worse for the man—"
("Who told you so?" from Rath, but in a low voice, for his eyes were fixed on the boat.)
"—It is death in life; it is a daily, hourly torture; it is—"
Rath laid his hand upon her arm and looked significantly at the approaching boat; and she glanced up at his face, with eyes shining with suppressed excitement, and nodded.
"—Can you send him away to this life of misery, consign the man who loves you to unending unhappiness—"
"Hold on, Stella; she's crying!" whispered Rath.
Stella smiled fiercely, though the tears were in her own eyes.
"—Have pity on him, if you have none on yourself. He knows how you were driven, he has forgiven the past long, long ago. He—Mary, answer me! No, dear, not me; you shall answer him! Look, Mary! Look, dearest! He is coming—he is landing. The boat! See! Ah, Mary, have pity on both of you!"
Her voice was choked by a sob, and Rath, as he drew her inside the house, took hold of her by the arms and made her face him.
"You're a cool hand, I must say. You sent for him?"
"—Yes. It is Edward. And the Ladies have come with him."
"And you think—What do you think the answer will be?—poor dear old chap!" anxiously.
She smiled through her tears, her head on one side, listening to Edward's quick, firm steps as he came up to the quiet figure on the verandah. Stella smiled, and put up her mouth to him for answer.
"As if she could! Rath—you may kiss me, if you like!"
THE END.

THE HEIR OF LANCEWOOD

CHAPTER II.
"Who told you to take down that picture?" she asked, quickly.
"Mr. Dorman, miss," replied one of them, with a half-frightened bow.
"Where is it going?" she asked.
"—Into the boudoir in the western wing," was the reply.
A keen pain seized her. It was evident that, in giving orders for the removal and disposal of the pictures Sir Arthur had forgotten her mother's portrait; otherwise he would never have ordered it to be taken to the room of his new wife.
"—Leave it where it is," she said. "I will speak to Mr. Dorman about it."
Only too glad to obey, the men hastened away; and then the girl's pride gave way—the dark southern eyes filled with tears. She went up to the picture; she looked long and lovingly at the fair, sad, high-bred face; and then her lips quivered, and her tears fell.
"—He has put some one else in your place, mother, darling," she said; "he has forgotten you. Another wife has his heart and his love; another wife will use your rooms, sit in your place and wear your jewels; he will call another wife by the same loving names he gave you; he will kiss her face as he kissed yours. But I will never forget you, my darling, my fair, fond, gentle mother. I will love you the more that he loves you the less; and I will hate with all my heart the insolent girl that has dared to take your place."

She swept, like an avenging queen, into Mr. Dorman's study. She stood with her hand on the open door.
"Mr. Dorman," she said, "will you be pleased to remember one thing? I forbid any one to touch my mother's picture; and, if any one dares to do it, they must take the consequences."
"You shall be obeyed, Miss Neslie," he replied. "I will see that it is not touched."
His submission disarmed her.
"—After all," she thought, "it is not his fault—he is not to blame." So she added gently, "I will explain to Sir Arthur, that I do not wish my mother's portrait to be removed unless it can be taken to my rooms."
"—No one shall touch it, Miss Neslie," he replied.
Vivien went away, and, as he watched her, the young secretary said to himself,
"—It is very hard for her—very hard."
And so indeed it was, harder than even he could guess. She had been, to all intents and purposes, mistress of the Abbey ever since her mother's death, which had happened in her sixth year. They were an ancient family, these Neslies of Lancewood. They had had no title. Time after time honors had been offered them and refused. "We can have no nobler title than Neslie of Lancewood," those scions of a fine old race would say. The estates were strictly entailed until the reign of George IV., when the entail was broken and it became simply a code of the family honor that, when there was a son, that son should succeed, and, when there was a daughter, the daughter should succeed, but even in marrying, should keep her name of Neslie.
The present Sir Arthur was the first baronet, and it was said that he accepted the title because it was less trouble to accept than to decline it. Early in life he married Constance Howard, one of the noblest girls in England. He dearly loved his fair, high-bred wife; and when she died, leaving him with Vivien, he said that nothing should ever induce him to marry again. People believed him. The Neslies were a constant race, faithful and loyal. They believed him, and Vivien was always looked upon as heiress of Lancewood. Sir Arthur brought her up as his heiress—he taught her all that concerned the estate. She knew the history of every wood and plantation, of every farm and homestead, of every house and cottage.
When she grew older and was able to be more of a companion to him, Sir Arthur resolved upon finding a secretary who would relieve him of some of his correspondence. He was long in pleasing himself. At length he met Gerald Dorman, and found in him the son of an old college friend. There were two brothers, Gerald and Thomas. Sir Arthur went up to London to see them. He found Gerald a quick, intelligent, honorable young man—his brother Thomas was a bookworm. He had no thought or care or interest outside his books; they were everything to him—Gerald used to say he would sit reading while the house was burning round him. Sir Arthur engaged Gerald as his secretary and general assistant.
People said at first that it was a risk to bring a handsome, talented young man like Gerald into a house with a beautiful girl like Vivien. Those who talked in that fashion did not know much of Sir Arthur's daughter. He himself never dreamed of risk. He knew Vivien—he knew her pride, her dignity; he never thought of danger.

The only person who ever said a word to him about it was Sir Harry Lane, and old friend and neighbor. Sir Arthur listened patiently, and then he answered—
"—My dear Sir Harry, if my daughter has one quality, one characteristic stronger than another, it is intense pride of race; that alone will keep her from ever doing anything a Neslie should not do. Between ourselves, I wish, she had a little less of it."
"—Well, you please yourself," said Sir Harry, testily; "but I have seen some very proud girls make very strange marriages."
Sir Arthur, however, was right. To Vivien Neslie the young secretary was her father's paid dependent—nothing more or less.
CHAPTER III.
How the preparations for the home-coming of Sir Arthur Neslie and his bride were ever accomplished was a mystery to Mr. Dorman. Miss Neslie spent the greater part of her time in her favorite garden; she talked little to anyone, she gave no orders, she never interfered with any of the arrangements made. Great van-loads of new and beautiful things came from London and Paris—all was activity and disorder at the Abbey; she looked on with supreme indifference, asking no questions, giving no advice.
How she passed those days was known only to herself; whatever she suffered, she made no sign, she never by look or by word betrayed it. She saw the extensive preparations—great arches of evergreens, with the word "Welcome" in crimson roses; she saw banners and flags flying from the trees in the park; she saw the stir amongst the tenantry, the subdued excitement of the household; more than once she heard the servants speak of Lady Neslie's room. But she treated all with supreme indifference.
The young secretary looked at her more than once, with wonder; anything would have been better to him than this silence. If she had complained, reproached her fate, broken out into invectives against Sir Arthur, it would have been better than the unbroken silence she maintained.
On the Tuesday that was to bring the travellers home, he felt no slight degree of agitation himself. What would she be like—this new wife whom Sir Arthur called young and beautiful? What difference would her coming make? He felt that amount of uncertainty always produced by the introduction of a new element into one's life.
What Vivien Neslie had suffered during that interval no one ever knew. No blow so cruel had ever been dreamed of by her—no fate so bitter. She wandered listlessly through the grounds, musing no longer in the sunshine over the great good she was to do; she wandered through the long galleries, the magnificent rooms, never resting, wondering always how matters would end. She felt keenly enough that, let what might happen, she would never again be sole mistress as she had been. It was not possible she should ever again be her father's sole care and his sole love. She would never again be his only source of interest and affection. All the long happy life in which they two had been as one was ended; the loving, happy familiarity would never be again. There would be a stranger present, one whom her father loved and she disliked—a stranger who would always be a barrier between them. Her father would never be to her the father of old; the shadow now lying between them would never grow less.
"—My mother is dead," thought the girl, with a bitter sigh, "and my father will be dead to me."

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

1321—A PRETTY DRESS FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

Girl's Dress with or without Bolero and Collar, and with Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

This style may be developed as a simple comfortable school frock, in gingham, percale, lawn, or poplin, or, for more dressy wear, as a "best dress" in linen, batiste, voile, crepe or silk, with embroidery for the bolero, or in linen, with the free edges finished in embroidered scallops, or with bands of embroidery in the now so popular cross stitch in colors. The sleeve has a straight cuff in the wrist length style, and in short length it is finished with a pretty shaped cuff. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 3 1/2 yds. of 44 inch material for an 8 year size, without bolero it will require 1/2 yard less.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1323-1321—A PLEASING MODEL

For Morning or Afternoon Wear.

Simple, yet very attractive is this combination; it embodies several new style features. The Waist Pattern, 1323, with yoke effect and convertible collar, is new and smart. The Skirt Pattern, 1321, in an eight gore model. Linen in white, or in any of the new shades, with self or contrasting material for trimming, would make, in this style a lovely morning dress, serviceable and practical. Tub silk, taffeta, crepe, cashmere, poplin, faille or serge, gingham, or lawn could be used with equal good effect. The Waist Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Skirt in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a medium size, for the skirt and waist.
This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCES.

The holiday bill at the Nickel Theatre yesterday attracted large audiences. The programme was in keeping with the other grand shows at this Theatre of late. The great attraction was "The Million Dollar Mystery" which everyone is interested in. It is a most attractive story and is becoming more fascinating as time goes on. "The Wives of a Woman" is also an exceptionally good picture. Forbes Law Duguid sang "I Love You" in a perfect manner and made a tremendous hit. The programme will be repeated this evening. To-morrow the "Hazards of Helen" will be continued.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There is a capital programme at the popular little house in the West End. "Billy" is just a stream from start to finish. "Everybody's doing it" will make all laugh. The two little singers will be heard in new songs to-night. There is always a good show to please all patrons at the cosy little house.

AEROPLANE DAY AT THE CRESCENT.

This is Aeroplane Day at the Crescent Picture Palace. One-half of the gross proceeds received to-day at all the shows, afternoon and night, will be given to the aeroplane fund. Patronize the Crescent to-day and beside seeing a good show you are helping to provide aeroplanes in defence of the Empire.

Wedding Bells.

An exceptionally pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon when Maria, only daughter of Mrs. S. Sparkes, Springdale Street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. E. J. Moore, son of Mrs. Moore, Tor Cottage. Precisely at 3 o'clock, to the strain of the bridal chorus, played by Miss E. Butt, the bride leaning on the arm of Dr. H. M. Mosdell, who acted as father-giver, entered the drawing room and was received by the groom when the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. B. Hemmison, B.A., Pastor of Gower St. Church. The bride was handsomely attired in a dress of ivory over white satin, with veil of orange blossoms and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss E. Moore, as bridesmaid, who wore a pretty dress of lace over yellow satin and hat to match, with tulle streamers, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was well looked after by Mr. T. Sparkes, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held when the happy couple received the congratulations of those present, and at 5 o'clock the party drove to Donovan's where the bride and groom entrained for Avondale where the honeymoon will be spent. Return to the city will be made next week and Mr. and Mrs. Moore will take up their residence at Tor Cottage. The numerous and beautiful presents received included cheques from the bride's brother in Mexico, and cheque from the Nitting Mills of which firm the groom is accountant, and these amply testified to the popularity of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Moore's many friends join in wishing them one long and happy future.

 A bottle of Household Ammonia is a handy thing to have in the house, and its uses are almost innumerable. A tablespoonful added to a pail of water is a great help in washing clothes; one or two tablespoonfuls added to the bath will greatly soften the water. It is useful to take out grease spots and stains from clothing, and a little dabbed on insect bites or stings will always relieve the irritation and usually cut short inflammation caused by insect bites. British Naval Expert Says German's Fleet Won't Fight.

The Loss of the Blucher Taught the Kaiser a Lesson.

London, July 10.—What the British Navy has accomplished in the war up to May is set forth in an article in the war number of The United Empire, the journal of the Royal Colonial Institute for this month, written by H. W. Wilson, who is acknowledged to be one of the foremost authorities on naval topics. After reviewing the different naval battles, ending with the North Sea conflict in which the Germans lost the Blucher, he says:

"Since this battle there have been hints from many quarters in Germany that the German people must not expect their fleet to fight the British in a pitched engagement. Admiral von Koster was put up, almost immediately after the loss of the Blucher, to announce that the German fleet would only accept battle if it could do so with every prospect of victory. Such a prospect it can never enjoy in the face of the large numerical preponderance of the British Navy and the superiority of the British gunnery unless, what is altogether improbable, we suppose that the British Admiralty is suddenly visited with sheer dementia."

"One of the chief organs of the armament industry, the Rheinisch-Westfalische Zeitung, has even admitted that without some new weapon or some startling submarine craft, or aircraft—is in the least likely to destroy the ascendancy of the British warships. Indeed, the new weapons have proved on the whole disappointing. All were tested in the battle of the North Sea. Mines were dropped by the escaping German cruisers; submarines hopped up in the path of the British squadron; aircraft appeared to attack them from overhead. All were powerless against well-handled ships, though these various menaces, perhaps, had some effect in leading the battle to be broken off before the German squadron was completely destroyed."

"As for the submarine, it cannot be said to have fulfilled Sir Percy Scott's anticipations before the war, though hereafter, as it is improved and perfected, it will become extremely dangerous, and may compel the British people to abandon their reliance on imported food. It has not yet caused any fundamental change in the conditions of war at sea, but it is undoubtedly true that its development has given the weaker navy a power of causing annoyance and loss to the stronger, that did not exist in the same degree in the past."

"The German submarine crews are improving with practice, and large German boats in considerable numbers are being completed. But against this may be set the introduction of better methods of anti-submarine warfare in the British Navy. A magnificent feat has been accomplished by that navy in preventing a deadly submarine attack upon our transports. What successes the German under-water craft have gained in their 'blockade' have been won for the most part, against merchantmen of small size and low speed in British waters."

"NO INDEED, I'M NOT A BIT STINGY WHEN I TAKE A GIRL OUT TO DINE—I TOOK ONE TO BILMONICO'S LAST NIGHT AND ORDERED A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING!"

BUT THIS IS HOW HE DID IT.

nothing to fear, in the military way, from any craft smaller than herself, after the freship had been discarded. The modern line of battle ship, however, may be sunk by the submarine torpedo, unless an extraordinary degree of vigilance is maintained, and elaborate precautions are taken. It is necessary to always have destroyers at hand in numbers when submarines are about, and in the British Navy the destroyer has tended to become an anti-submarine, perhaps, because the German destroyers have proved so inferior in battle that they dare not come out and face the powerful guns of our boats.

"The German submarine crews are improving with practice, and large German boats in considerable numbers are being completed. But against this may be set the introduction of better methods of anti-submarine warfare in the British Navy. A magnificent feat has been accomplished by that navy in preventing a deadly submarine attack upon our transports. What successes the German under-water craft have gained in their 'blockade' have been won for the most part, against merchantmen of small size and low speed in British waters."

"The best proof of the strength and efficiency of the navy is perhaps to be found in the remarkable control of the sea which it has obtained, and which it exercises in conjunction with the allied fleets. Insurance rates are little above normal, and are lower than at any time in the Napoleonic war. The advance in the cost of food in this country has not been caused by any action of the enemy's fleet or cruisers, but by shortage of crops, by the scarcity of tonnage, owing to the disappearance of the German marine from the sea, and by the employment of one-fifth of the British mercantile marine on naval and transport duties. The navy has carried out this work of moving the overseas forces with faultless organization and brilliant success. There has been nothing like it in any war of the past. To-day there is not one single German commerce destroyer at large."

Evening Telegram 345th Day of the War W. J. HERDER, Proprietor W. F. LLOYD, Editor THURSDAY, July 15, 1915.

War Finance.

The announcement made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer nearly 600 million pounds sterling had been subscribed to the War Loan when the lists were closed on Saturday, and that this sum did not include the small sums received at post offices, is most gratifying. It is gratifying because it comes up fully to the expectations of the Government. The Chancellor explained on June 19th when seeking authority from Parliament to raise a new War Loan, that the Government was spending £3,000,000 a day, while the revenue brings in £732,000; and as the war goes on, he estimated that the daily deficit will be £2,500,000 and that if the war lasts till March next, the deficit will amount to £900,000,000. Authority was given to provide that sum by the new War Loan. The Chancellor stated that the Government would not be disappointed, if they got £600,000,000 of new money. By Saturday last nearly that amount had been subscribed, without counting subscriptions through the Post Offices. These latter subscriptions will be watched with interest. The invitation to small investors to subscribe for such loans is a new departure and the amount realized by the first venture in this direction will be an indication how far it has caught on. The Bank of England is the usual medium of subscriptions, but the minimum subscription of this loan, as in other loans through this medium, is £100. Post offices have been pressed into service for the sale of £5 bonds and £10 bonds. These bear 4 1/2 per cent. interest. Further Post Offices, the offices of trades unions, friendly societies, and factories and workshops have been asked to deal with smaller amounts. These are offering for sale War Loan Vouchers for Five Shillings, or any multiple of five shillings, and the vouchers bear interest at 5 per cent. per annum for every complete calendar month. These vouchers are also redeemable for cash at the P. O. Savings banks, but no interest in that case is payable. Some features of the French financial situation are set forth in the Bulletin of the Alliance Française from a statement made on May 7th by M. Ribot, Minister of Finance. During April National Defence Certificates were sold amounting to $129,000,000 or £25,000,000; big and small savings banks advanced $200,000,000 (£40,000,000); and the Bank of France $380,000,000 (£76,000,000). The Bank of France has agreed to bring up its advances to $1,500,000,000 (£300,000,000) if it is necessary. To the end of April, $1,000,000,000 (£200,000,000) of National Defence certificates had been subscribed. Authority was given to continue the subscription until $1,200,000,000 had been raised by this means. Up to April 30th, $240,000,000 had been raised on National Defence bonds, carrying 5% interest. Under an agreement with the Allies, Great Britain placed $300,000,000 to the credit of the French Government for purchases in Canada, United States and Great Britain mainly to handle the question of the exchange in the United States, where there was little money owing to France. France sent $100,000,000 in gold to England in exchange, and England anxious to pay for her purchases in gold will see that the interests of France in this respect is safeguarded.

10.00 A.M. PREMIER BORDEN ATTENDS CABINET MEETING.

LONDON, To-day. Mr. Borden, Canadian Premier, attended to-day's meeting of the Cabinet. This is the line of policy announced by the British Government, of consulting the Dominion Governments as to the steps being taken to prosecute the war and the promise that the Dominions would be heard in all matters concerning the Empire.

DETAINED WITH NAVAL STORES.

LONDON, To-day. The Norwegian barque Sirius, from Brunswick, Georgia, for Narvik, Norway, with a cargo of rosin and naval stores and consigned to Petrograd, has been detained at Kirkwall, pending inquiry. The Swedish steamer Indiant, with a cargo of lumber has been allowed to proceed after discharging the cargo of lumber which was sent to the Prize Court. The Sirius sailed from Brunswick on June 8, and reported having arrived at Kirkwall on July 9.

SOUTH WALES MINERS GO OUT TO-DAY.

LONDON, To-day. The press of all political opinions seems unanimous in supporting the Government in applying the new Munition Act to the South Wales Mining District. Although the situation is recognized as most serious, the general feeling is the Government must assert its authority at any cost. The Manchester Guardian, radical, reports the situation as a fresh menace, not of social danger inherent to Trades Unionism, but to dangers consequent upon the partial breakdown of the munition supply. The Government must assert its authority at any cost. COMPLAINT OF AMERICAN PACKERS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The American meat packers appealed to the State Department today to demand that Britain stop interfering with their cargoes, consigned to neutral ports, and settle for $14,000,000 worth of their products, now held up in Prize Courts. They charge the British Government with the destruction of commerce in food products between the United States and other neutral nations. After two conferences between the packers and the American Embassy, special counsel for the State Department, the latter will make representations to Britain. It is understood that this will be done immediately and communication sent feeling specifically with the complaint of the packers, and not going into the general subject of interfering with neutral trade under the Order in Council against commerce with Germany, which soon is to be made the subject of another note.

TORONTO, To-day. The latest estimate compiled places the value of war orders in Canada at $394,000,000. Nearly two-thirds of this sum is for shrapnel orders, which have been placed through the Canadian shell committee.

NEGOTIATIONS RESUMED WITH WELSH MINERS.

LONDON, To-day. The latest development seems to indicate a way out of the coal difficulty. A Cardiff despatch says Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, has acceded to the request of the miners' committee to resume negotiations with the miners at the point at which they were broken off, and that thus fortified, the committee will be able to meet the conference to-day with a hope of arriving at a settlement.

TOOK POSITIONS AND PRISONERS.

LONDON, To-day. The Allies, on Monday, made four assaults on Turkish positions in the Gallipoli Peninsula, says a despatch to the Daily Express from Athens. They finally occupied two hills, defending Krithia, and took 4,000 Turkish prisoners.

12.30 P.M. WELSH MINES IDLE.

CARDIFF, To-day. In spite of optimistic proceedings that serious labor difficulties in the coal fields be averted, virtually every mine in Wales was idle this morning, the day fixed for the beginning of the miners' demand for high wages.

2.00 P.M. TURKEY WANTS PEACE.

MILAN, To-day. The Bucharest correspondent Corriere della Sera states that the Turkish Minister of Justice, accompanied by Fofsa Efendi Pasha, passed through Sofia yesterday. They are said to be bound for Switzerland, where they will meet representatives of the Entente Powers to discuss a separate peace for Turkey.

ENGINEER KILLED.

LONDON, To-day. The Norwegian steamer Rym was torpedoed and sunk and the second engineer killed. The rest of the crew landed at Great Yarmouth.

AUSTRO-HUNGARY COOL DEMAND.

LONDON, To-day. According to an Amsterdam despatch, it is stated from Vienna that the Austro-Hungary Minister of Foreign Affairs has sent a note to the American Ambassador at Vienna on June 29 asking that the United States Government prohibit the export of war material. A neutral Government cannot be allowed to trade in contraband unimpeded, if it assumes a form or dimensions whereby the neutrality of the country will be endangered. The export of war material from the United States as is proceeding in the present war is not in consonance with the definition of neutrality. The American Government therefore is undoubtedly entitled to prohibit the export of war material. In conclusion the Austro-Hungarian Government appeals to the United States to take the Note under careful consideration.

ONE THOUSAND MILLIAN A YEAR.

LONDON, To-day. War is costing a thousand millions a year and is bound to be of comparatively short duration, exclaimed Chancellor McKenna in the Commons. If war were to last thirty-six months, it would be impossible rationally to estimate its cost.

RE-BUILDING 'LOUVAIN.

LONDON, To-day. The Morning Post has the following from Copenhagen: Berlin telegram states that Prussian Minister of Interior last week visited Louvain and examined a German architect's scheme for rebuilding Louvain. In an interview the Minister declared that the Government intends spending 30,000,000 marks in reconstructing Louvain as a modern town.

ADDRESS TO HALDANE.

LONDON, To-day. Haldane yesterday was presented with an address signed by over two hundred members of the Commons. The Asst. Postmaster General stated in the House of Commons that deposits lodged in the Post Office Savings Bank from January 1 to May 1 were £5,500,000, an increase of £1,700,000 on last year.

BORN.

On July 13th, at 83 Military Road, the wife of C. J. DuTot, of a son.

DIED.

Yesterday morning, at Bay de Verde, Ellen, the beloved wife of John O'Neil, aged 71 years, leaving a husband, three sons, among which were models of war-celebrities. The King picked up a figure of Admiral Beatty in full war paint, and closely examined it. "These stripes are wrong," he said, pointing out the gold bands on the Admiral's sleeve, and showed exactly how the stripes should be placed. "Fancy him picking a little thing like that," beamed my informant; "shows how interested he was."

Another Arrest.

On Suspicion of Post Office Burglary.
Ever since the burglarizing of the Clarendville Post Office and the mysterious disappearance of about one hundred dollars, our local sleuths have been working overtime in endeavoring to run down the perpetrators. Thus far two arrests have been made. The latest is a nineteen-year-old laborer named Adey, belonging to Clarendville, who was taken into custody last night by "Head" Dawe charged with complicity in the burglary. He is remanded pending inquiry. This same suspect was arrested three months ago and was released.

Banker Arrives Poorly Fished.

The banking schooner Peratus, came to port to-day from the Grand Banks for supplies, having lost an anchor and cable in a recent storm. Peratus is poorly fished and was unsuccessful since her spring trip. She has only a small amount of cod on board now. After getting supplies the banker will go to the Southern Shore for a caplin baiting, and then go back to the Banks to resume operations.

MEIGLE'S REPORT.—The s.s. Meigle, Capt. Goodie, arrived at Humbermouth at 6.10 a.m. to-day after having made all ports of call to Battle Harbor going and returning. Capt. Goodie reports good fishing from Bonne Esperance to Blanc Sablon, but from the latter point east there is not much being done.

CONVICTED OF THEFT.—The notorious "Jobby" Dwyer, who has given the police much trouble of late and who was remanded for eight days, was tried to-day in the Magistrate's Court and convicted of stealing articles from a printing-office and a commission merchant's store. SOUTHERN SHORE FISHERY.—The codfishery on the Southern Shore to date, has been the best within memory of the oldest inhabitant. At Bay Bulls, Ferryland, Witless Bay and all the other settlements, the traps are being filled daily; some securing as high as 150 quintals at one haul. All the fishermen are kept busy but much regret is expressed over the scarcity of salt.

GLENCOE'S PASSENGERS.—The Glencoe arrived at Placentia at 9.30 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in saloons: J. W. Pittman, D. Smith, J. Cheesman, H. J. C. Gover, J. M. Connors, Rev. J. W. Squares.

BRITISH THEATRE.—Most appreciative audiences witnessed the excellent entertainment given at the above house yesterday. The feature was freely commented upon the verdict being that it is one of the best photo-plays to have been seen in St. John's for some considerable time. The balance of the bill is very attractive comprising three other first class subjects, one of which is an extremely funny fable by the king of humorists—George Ade. Arthur Priestman Cameron sang a "peculiar" song and the music and effects were distinctly good.

Painless Financial Dentistry.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

What a costly thing is the average person's unwillingness to give to philanthropy and charity unless he has the money dragged out of him by a cake sale, a bazaar, a pageant or some other similar device of that polite fiction—painless financial dentistry.

A big entertainment was given recently in a neighbouring town for the benefit of two charities.

The money turned over to the charities was $500—two hundred and fifty pieces.

Not bad, you say.

Not at all, unless you consider the rest of the budget. The total proceeds were $1,800, the expenses were $1,300.

That is, if the money which was expended on that entertainment had been given directly to the charities, each charity would have had $900 instead of $250.

The Pleasure of Giving Painlessly.

And yet, of course, that is a purely utilitarian view of the matter. One must remember the other side. The people who went to the entertainment received pleasure for their money and at the same time had the sensation of giving it away, while the people who took part in the entertainment had that even more delightful double-barreled joy—the pleasure of being the cynosure of all eyes and the happiness of doing something for charity without any disagreeable effort of self-sacrifice.

And then, of course, the uses of society are served by such affairs, since they provide opportunities for friendly meetings and chances for social intercourse, and that is part of life, and no small or mean part.

I Like My Charity Straight.

Personally I like to take my charity straight. I like to put aside a certain sum for charity and philanthropy and give it directly to people who need or to further the general cause of social betterment. Then I like to take my entertainment straight, basing my selection solely on what I enjoy the most.

But this is a purely personal point of view and I do not claim it is the only one or the best one. Perhaps the world would be poorer if we all felt that way. Perhaps the sum people will spend for entertainment and charity combined is so much larger than that they would spend for charity straight then the charities would lose by the direct method.

I wonder.

Question.—I came close to a nervous breakdown a year ago. I do not seem myself since. I have fears that are almost obsessions, although I never used to be timid. There are times when trifles excite me all out of proportion. One of my friends suggests mental science. What do you think?

—W. E. G.

Answer.—I believe a great many physicians now recommend such treatment in cases like yours. The only instance that ever came to my personal attention was that of a young man, who had an absolute horror of the water. He tried to combat it and once even ventured out sailing. He became hysterical and begged to be put ashore. He finally went to a mental scientist and a few weeks ago he put himself to the test by REMBRANDT born 1607. One of the greatest of the Dutch school of painters who produced many pictures, all of them distinguished by the mastery of his brush. He was an etcher, also, of high ability.

FRANCO-PRUSSIAN war declared 1870.

NATIONAL INSURANCE instituter 1912. One of the most forward acts introduced by Lloyd George, the man who does things. Whether there be difficulties in its carrying out or not there is no question that etically it is all that is right and just.

Local Fishery Good.

The codfishery on the local grounds this season is very promising. Daily there is an excellent catch of cod and those engaged make good hauls, hooch and liners as well as trap men. At the North Battery some traps have been set out on the rocks and along that section report success. There are few of the medium sized fish going, but plenty very small and very large. Captains were never seen so plentiful for thirty years.

Wanderers Defeat B. I. S.

The crowd of fans who attended yesterday afternoon's baseball match were disappointed over the result, which was Wanderers 21 runs; B. I. S., 15 runs. The rain shower made conditions unpleasant all round and no brilliant work was displayed by any of the stars. Carew did well for his first time as a pitcher and is likely to make his mark. The officials, players and scores were:

Carew	pitcher	Britt	catcher
Ready	1st base	Ford	2nd base
McGrath	3rd base	Hartnett	right field
French	left field	Hocken	3rd base
Barnes	stop	Peters	right field

Over 500 spectators were present. Following is the score by innings: Wanderers 0 4 6 4 6 1—31 B. I. S. 0 5 1 0 0 2—15

FROM THE SAGONA.—The Reid Nfld. Co. received a message from Capt. Parsons, of the Sagona yesterday afternoon, stating that the ship reached Turnavik Monday afternoon, but was detained there by fog. The message also stated that the ice was off the coast but there was no sign of codfish.

Misard's Linctment Cures Diphtheria.

Adventure's Charter.

The work of unloading the coal cargo of the S. S. Adventure is being carried on with despatch and is expected to finish to-morrow morning. The ship will get away from here to-morrow night, resuming her charter with Revillon Freres, for Montreal and will clear from there with supplies for Hudson Bay posts.

New Swimming Pool.

Hundreds of people visited Bowring Park yesterday afternoon and many took advantage of the splendidly located swimming pool. Bathing suits are supplied free and competent persons are in charge to teach the art of swimming. Now that the holiday season is on many children visit the Park daily.

Erik Coming South.

The Reid Nfld. Co. are in receipt of the following message from Capt. Burgess, of the Erik:— "Arrived at Dominio this a.m. (Wednesday), retaining south; called at all ports north to Turnavik; no ice on coast; N. E. gale, delayed by fog."

Wireless From Florizel

A Marconigram was received from Capt. Martin of the S. S. Florizel last evening stating that the ship would probably arrive at three o'clock this afternoon. The Florizel was a few hours late getting away from Halifax owing to the handling of freight; also the ship is filled with passengers this trip.

Personal.

The Rev. C. A. Traps secured a couple of quintals fish each yesterday.

Another of our old and highly respected citizens passed away last night, after a long illness, in the person of Mr. Samuel Lilly (tailor), Harvey Street.

A large number of pleasure seekers availed of the excursion rates today to have a run in the country. We pity the finny tribe and at the same time offer our congratulations to the mosquitoes on their chance to get something sweet, as we saw several sweet young ladies making their way to the 7.50 train this morning.

The town was shocked on Monday evening, when it was learned that one of our citizens, Mr. Archibald Parsons, of Bear's Cove, had been instantly killed. It seems that Mr. Parsons had hired his horse to Mr. Squires for the day, as he is accustomed to do, and about 7 o'clock Frank Fleming, Mr. Squires' farm hand, brought the horse home. Mr. Parsons, who was ready to attend the 12th July meeting in the Orange Hall, met the lad near the house and proceeded to unharness the animal. Before this could be done the horse had become restive and Mr. Parsons was pinned between the cart and the horse with such force that death was instantaneous.

A man named Crosbie, of Bay Roberts, while at work at the residence of Mrs. Butt, Water Street, yesterday, fell off a ladder and dislocated his arm. He suffered much pain, and the doctors had to chloroform the patient to get the bone back in its position.

The funeral of the late Mr. Archibald Parsons took place this afternoon and was attended by members of the Orange Society, of which he was a member.

New Telephone in War.

British Have Taken Delange's Invention for Use on Land and Sea.

The new variety of telephone receiver invented by Pierre Delange, a Dutch engineer now in London, is being tested out by the British Admiralty with a view to installing it on battleships, and is already being used in the field by the British War Office, according to information from London.

Delange's invention is said to do away completely with rattling and buzzing sounds caused by strong vibration in telephone receivers of the type in general use, and the new receiver is so sensitive that it transmits whispers. Due to this latter quality, it is reported, Scotland Yard has decided to adopt the new receiver on a comprehensive scale.

The Delange receiver is minute in comparison with present telephone receivers, and can be readily carried in the pocket, which makes it of exceptional value for field operations. Instead of the diaphragm used in the ordinary receiver, Delange makes use of a thin platinum wire in the air chamber of the instrument. He has named the instrument the "theremophone," and it is expected to bring the telephone into more general use throughout England, where adoption of the instruments now in use has been slower than in America. The instrument is also expected to facilitate reducing wireless telephony to a practicable basis for general use.

Russia's Naval Hero

Married for Love; Fighting for Glory.

Exiled because he insisted on marrying the woman he loved, deprived of military and Imperial honors, while the bulk of his property was confiscated, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the Czar's only brother, came to this country about four years ago, where he lived in quiet retirement with his wife, Countess de Brassow, slowly being forgotten by peasant and aristocrat. To-day the people of the cities and villages of Russia worship him. When war broke out the Grand Duke Michael, forgetting the cruelties of his banishment, returned to Russia and placed his services at the disposal of the Czar.

He was made a general, and has proved himself to be one of the most capable and skilful soldiers Russia ever produced. He has risked his life in nearly every battle that has been fought near and in the Carpathians, and has exposed himself as freely as the most reckless of his men. It was his army which held Lemna in the Carpathians against violent attacks by the Germans and Austro-Hungarians, and brought to a standstill the offensive campaign by the Germanic Allies which had every promise of success. It was his attacks on the passes of the Carpathians which enabled the Russians to take the offensive in the early stages of the war, and he now shares with the Grand Duke Nicholas the honors of the campaign.

Married for Love.

The Grand Duke Michael was only thirty-three when, in 1911, he married Countess Natalie, as his wife then was. A wife had been chosen for him from one of the Royal houses,

War News.

Messages Received Previous to 9 a.m.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, July 14. The Governor, Newfoundland: The French Government report a successful air raid on the German strategic railway in Woevre. In the Argonne the Crown Prince's army attacked with asphyxiating shells, but was defeated by a vigorous counter-attack. A German attack on the trenches captured by the British southwest of Piken, was easily repulsed.

BONAR LAW.
ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.
PARIS, via St. Pierre, July 14. In Belgium, after the reported bombardment of last night's communique, the Germans attacked the trenches taken by the British troops southwest of Piken during the night of the 5th and 6th, on the east bank of the canal. They were easily repulsed. In the region north of Arras there was only a few fights with hand grenades during the night, north of the Castle of Carleu and at the Labyrinth. Arras and Soissons have been bombarded by big calibre shells. In the Somme region at Frise and at Fay, west of Peronne, as well as in Champagne, near Perthes, there has been mine fighting. In the Argonne, the German attacks, which concentrated in the region between Marie Therese and Haute Chevauchee, were completely stopped. Between the Meuse and Moselle in Apremont forest, were gun shooting and cannonade without infantry action. On the remainder of the front, nothing to report.

ACTIVITY ON WEST FRONT.
LONDON, July 14. The battle line in France is flourishing for the moment the only news of pronounced military activity. The German struggle for Verdun is regarded by observers on the side of the Entente Allies as on in earnest, with assaults in both the Argonne and the Woevre.

AUSTRIAN TREACHERY EXPOSED.
ROME, July 14. A semi-official announcement is published in Rome, to the effect that when Italy's entrance into the conflict appeared inevitable, Austria-Hungary first attempted to make a separate peace with Serbia, and then tried to conclude an armistice which would allow her to remove her troops from the Serbian frontier, is causing a deep impression in Italy. Although these negotiations have only leaked out, and at present is a semi-official announcement, considering the caution of the Italian foreign office, it is taken by the Italian press to indicate that the Italian press to indicate that the Italian Government possesses proofs of its assertion.

DOES HONOR TO MARSEILLAISE COMPOSER.
PARIS, July 14. With impressive ceremony the remains of Captain Claude Rouget de Lisle, composer of the Marseillaise, were placed to-day in the Hotel des Invalides. Thousands stood with heads uncovered as the coffin upon a gun-carriage of the Revolutionary period, passed under the Arc de Triomphe, down the Avenue des Champs Elysees, across the Alexander Bridge to the Esplanade.

ITALIAN SUCCESSES.
GENEVA, July 14. Italians captured two miles of Austrian trenches in the Carnic Alps, according to a despatch received to-day by the Tribune from Villach, an Austrian town on the River Drave. Alpine troops, these advices say, dragged their artillery to the heights near Roskof, which is situated at an altitude of 6,600 feet. The Italians are said to have captured two important ports, south of Gorizia.

AUSTRIA'S STATEMENT.
VIENNA, July 14. The general situation in the Russian theatre of war is unchanged. In the Italian theatre of war, with the exception of artillery engagements and skirmishes, there has been no events either on the south or west front.

DUBLIN AND HOME RULE.
DUBLIN, July 14. By a vote of 39 to 22, the City Corporation to-day refused to endorse a resolution demanding that Home Rule shall be put into operation in the whole of Ireland on the 17th September next. By the same majority the Corporation adopted an amendment, expressing confidence in Redmond to select the speediest means and the proper moment to bring the settlement into operation. Though the mover of the original resolution protested, there was nothing inimical to Redmond in it, the majority scented mischief in the suggestion of disassociation in the Nationalist ranks. A disorderly scene followed the announcement of the result of the vote, and the City Councilors had to be forcibly prevented from engaging in fistfights.

GERMAN POSSESSIONS OCCUPIED.
LONDON, July 14. Four hundred and fifty thousand square miles of German colonial possessions have been occupied by the Entente Allies during the war. This official estimate was announced to-day by the British Secretary for the Colonies.

CAPTAIN AND FOUR OF THE CREW KILLED.
LONDON, July 14. The captain and four members of the crew of the Swedish schooner Daisy, were killed when the vessel was sunk by a mine off Eilatjan Lighthouse.

SPIES ARRESTED.
LONDON, July 14. Two alleged spies were arrested to-day, and tried by court-martial, on a charge of attempting to communicate information about the British fleet, according to an announcement to-day by the British Official Press Bureau.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS ON THE RESULT.
LONDON, July 14. The Times, surveying recent press comments, says: The German newspapers display greater confidence and satisfaction than at any time since the outbreak of the war. The military situation on all fronts is represented to be very favorable. The diplomatic situation, as regards especially both the United States and the Balkan countries, is described as hopeful. Above all, the German press maintains that Britain, owing to military disappointments and her lack of preparation, is involved in difficulties for which no remedy can be found, and which practically destroy all hope of victory for the Allied cause.

DISCUSSING THE NOTE.
BERLIN, July 14. Conflicting reports of the reception of Germany's note to the United States Government, concerning Germany's submarine warfare, still keep the majority of the afternoon newspapers from commenting on it.

THAW DECLARED SANE.
NEW YORK, July 14. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, has been declared sane by a jury of the Supreme Court, after an hour's deliberation.

Woman's Hair Reaches to Knees

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of "marvelously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvelous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in colour, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One alleged tonic in my home paper of a staple home prescription to make the hair grow was recommended by a well-known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavone de Composee and mixing with Day Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and I had my druggist mix 2 oz. of the Lavone de Composee with 6 oz. of Day Rum and 1/2 drachm of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My hair quickly grew. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet, and while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it, at least until my hair reaches the floor. I might have stopped had I been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended to several friends, and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it."

Charity Dance.
To wind-up business in connection with their dance held recently in the Prince's Rink in aid of the city poor, the L. S. P. U. Committee met last night. Votes of thanks were passed to G. Summers, the British Society, H. W. LeMessurier, H. Wilson, W. J. Higgins, Inspector General Sullivan, Manager Donnelly of the Prince's Rink and Miss Kavanaugh for helping to make the event the success it was. The committee will meet again next week to consider the holding of another such dance for charity.

Pressure Too Great.
An unsuccessful attempt to refloat the submerged steamer Stella Maris was made yesterday afternoon. The pumps worked satisfactorily, but when the water was pumped off to the ship's decks, it was found that the coffer dam was unable to withstand the heavy pressure. The defects in the coffer dam will be remedied to-day and it is expected that the next attempt at refloating the ship will be successful.

Fabrics From Peru's Tombs.

(The Evening Post, New York.)
The American Museum of Natural History will soon publish a paper, as a number of its Anthropological Series, by M. D. C. Crawford, on prehistoric fabrics.
The Museum's collections from the ancient graves of Peru contain the cotton and wool in all stages, from the raw state to the finished yarns, and contain also looms with cloth in process of manufacture. The fabrics besides being the most beautiful ever woven, have always excited the wonder and admiration of those who know anything about weaving by their technical qualities. It is difficult to understand how a primitive people with the simple tools at their command could have produced a cloth technically better than can be made by the wonderful looms of today. In some of the fabrics the cotton thread has three times as many turns to the inch as the best cotton thread commonly used in our mills, and the twist is remarkable for its evenness. Some have a warp of forty-two fine cotton threads to the inch, crossed by two hundred and eighty-two ply woolen threads to the inch. This web has been beaten so compactly that the instrument used in the mills to count the number of threads to the inch is useless, and the cloth has to be fastened down firmly and the threads drawn out, one at a time, with a hooked needle point, under a magnifying glass, the counting of an inch taking three and a half hours.

Value Becoming Known.

The value to the artist and art student of the Museum's collections of objects from prehistoric and present primitive peoples is rapidly becoming known. There have always been a few teachers who have understood the richness and value of this field, and who have occasionally sent their pupils here to copy primitive designs and color schemes; their number has increased so rapidly that within the last year thousands of students have availed themselves of this special privilege. For the study of conventionalized figures and color schemes to be employed in carpet, rug, and wallpaper manufacturers, or to fill some of the many needs where designers are required, there is certainly no better original field than that presented in the ancient Peruvian textiles and pottery vessels, as well as in numerous objects in the American Indian collections on display in the American Museum.

A cave which was broken into by the Copper Queen Consolidated Mining Company at Bisbee, Ariz., has been attractively reproduced in the department of geology, and has recently been opened to the public. The cave is typical of those formed in the semi-arid regions of Arizona, where the rainfall each year amounts to about ten inches. The cavern was the work of underground water during a period of greater rainfall than at present. The incrustation of the walls occurred later, and is due to lime-bearing water seeping, slowly through the walls of the chamber and there evaporating at a rate favoring the growth of crystals and crystalline globules. Where the supply of water has been greater or has been concentrated along a crevice or an intersection of crevices, stalactites have formed from the ceiling and corresponding stalagmites have grown upward from the floor.

Globes for Blind Pupils.

In connection with its work with the blind, the Museum has prepared twelve globes to be loaned to the public schools in which blind children are taught. These globes were prepared in consultation with the late Gertrude E. Bingham, supervisor of classes for the blind in New York city. They are twenty-six inches in diameter and show the land masses in relief. The teachers report that in many cases the children have obtained, for the first time, a knowledge of the actual shape of the earth. In some of the schools the globes have been found so practical that they have been utilized by the children who see. The expense of the preparation of the globes was met by the Jonathan Thorne Memorial Fund for the Blind.

A group representing a number of deep-sea luminous fishes has just been completed in the Museum and opened to the public. It represents ten species of fishes found in the depths of the sea, half a mile or more from the surface. Some of the fishes are provided with rows of luminous organs or with headlights, while others have a light at the end of a tentacle with which to attract their prey. The group is illumined by electricity in such a way that the fishes may be viewed first as synoptic specimens in a case and secondly as if they were living fishes swimming in the darkness of the deep sea, lighted only by their own luminous or phosphorescent organs.

Lightweight cotton crepe makes excellent rompers for the child's play-time wear.

THE MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY.
(By Harold McGrath.)

Cloth 60c.; if mailed, 2c. more.
At the foundation of the plot of this exciting mystery story, there is a secret organization in Russia. Then are given glimpses of country house society, the modern boarding-school, the fashionable restaurant, the enterprising twentieth century newspaper reporter, the romance and mystery that may be linked together by two halves of a bracelet, the love of a father for his daughter, the devotion of an old family servant, the intrigues of a band of thieves and blackmailers and plenty of the old love that is always new, not to mention the million dollars about which the whole thing revolves and which, in these times, has an especially pleasing ring. All these result in a story that keeps the reader with pulses tingling.
