"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

A QUEEN UNCROWNED

THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER VI.

"She is not crazy," interrupted the harsh, impatient voice of Grizzle; "she is sane as you, and speaks the truth. Peace!" she said, impetuously, as they would have interrupted her. "I will speak to her, and end this scene. Miss Augusta De Vere, listen to me! Ah! I see you are doing it," she said with her customary sneer as she beheld the wild, dark eyes riveted, with a strange, stony glare, to her face. "Your father wants to imprison me on suspicion of robbery and murder, and if he does, you know the alternative! One word from you will affect my release—and I await that word!"

"Papa! papa! let her go! let her go at once! for God's sake! let her go!" she cried, falling from her seat prostrate on the floor at his feet. "Augusta, you do not know what you are saying," said her father, almost sternly, as he raised her up. "This woman is a murderess!"

"And your daughter is worse!" she passionately cried, flinging herself on the sofa, and then starting up again, as if deranged by some inward, gnawing, unutterable pain. "Oh, saints in Heaven! what will become of me? Papa! papa! let her go, if you would not see me dead at your feet!"

"Let her go, for Heaven's sake!" exclaimed Disbrowe, "before you drive your daughter insane. What is her life, or that of a dozen miserable wretches like her compared to that of my cousin?"

Grizzle turned her eyes on him with her sneering smile, and said: "Yes, let me go. I faithfully promise to keep your daughter's secret and never to molest any one again. Refuse me, and it will be at your peril!"

"Go, then," said Mr. De Vere, trembling with rage and anguish; "and may Heaven's worst curses go with you!"

Grizzle smiled slightly and bowed, and met Jacquetta's flashing eye with a look of exultant triumph. Returning it with one of mingled defiance and disgust, the young girl made her stern motion to go, and, unlocking the door, held it open for her to pass.

"You wear your chains so gracefully, my pretty little dear," said Grizzle, as she went out, "that I don't know any one better qualified to teach your sister the virtue of resignation. Whoever would imagine you to be what you are?"

"Begone!" exclaimed Jacquetta, stamping her foot passionately.

With one of her short, scornful laughs, so gallant to listen to, the woman passed out; and Jacquetta, turning suddenly around, met the eyes of Disbrowe fixed full upon her as if in wonder at the last words. To his surprise, her bold, bright glance fell, and her face, a moment and dreamed, undisturbed, of music, and Jacquetta and handsome Spanish boys, and little selfish girls, and old witches twenty feet high, until the first morning sunbeam peeped through the star-curtained oriel window, and fell lovingly and warmly as a mother's kiss on the closed lids of the young Englishman's dark eyes.

CHAPTER VII.

The sun was high in the heavens ere Captain Disbrowe awoke, and, springing up, he leisurely began to dress, ruminating still on the unaccountable incidents of the preceding night. But all his ruminations ended by leaving him more perplexed than ever; and the face on the wall, at which he glanced at intervals, smiled serenely, and suggested nothing to help him out of his difficulty.

Humming the rag end of a tune, he ran downstairs, passed through the hall, and out of the front door which lay open to admit the breezy morning air and bright sunshine.

While the young guardsman stood leaning negligently against the vast stuccoed pillars that supported the massive doorway, he heard a footstep behind him, and the next moment Frank appeared, bright and cheery.

"Hello! Up already?" was his salutation. "Nice morning, ain't it?" Captain Disbrowe glanced at the bright sky and brighter sun, and not being able, consistently with truth, to deny the fact, admitted that it was rather a nice morning.

"Beats your English climate slightly—don't it?" said Frank. "Rain, and drizzle, and mud; and then, mud, and drizzle, and rain, by way of a change. Ugh! I wouldn't be paid to live in such a place at any price!"

"Which is England's loss, if she only knew it," said Disbrowe, lazily; "but we have a glimpse of sunshine there occasionally, my young friend—on the king's birthday, and the festival of St. George and the Dragon, and other national feasts; so it's not altogether so overwhelming—and knock-down a sight to see the sun as you might suppose. Where are the rest? Everything was so still—I thought none of you were up."

"Up!" said Frank, like an echo, "Doesn't Jack always beat the sun, and be up and doing an hour before he has the faintest idea of rousing himself for his day's labor? I guess so! And now she's off over the hills on horseback, and has most likely cleared some dozen miles before this. As for judging by the stillness, this house always goes considerably ahead of the Palace of Silence, or the Dead Sea, or any other mute and solemn old tomb, I flatter myself, in that article."

"Indeed! By the way," said Disbrowe, carelessly, "is all the building inhabited—I mean, do the family occupy the whole of it?"

"Oh, no—not near. That old north wing over there—hasn't been occupied for the last twenty years or more. You see, it was built as near like Fontelle Park as possible, but it wasn't convenient in the old style; and though it suited England well enough, it didn't pay in America. The swallows built their nests in the chimneys, and they smoked like fury, and the roof leaked in wet weather, and the windows were small and dark, and the rooms were large and gloomy, with oak wainscoting; and, altogether, it was a dismal old barn as ever was. So Uncle Bob had the southern wing and that, with the right half of this middle part, is all we occupy."

"Ah!" said Disbrowe, thoughtfully, "and you are quite sure—"

"I'm quite sure that's Jack," cut in Frank, suddenly. "There she goes! Ain't she a tiptop rider? Look at that!—now watch her clear that fence!"

A high fence, with a sharp, spiked top, was right in the way of the rider, as she came sweeping down, mounted on a splendid black Arabian—a fence that would have made even the finished rider, Captain Disbrowe, mounted on his superb Saladin, pause; but it stopped not the course of the spirited little equestrian, who came dashing along. Backing her horse for the leap over it, she dashed in splendid style; and then, relaxing into a trot, she ambled up, and lifting her eyes, saw the two spectators.

Quick Changes Come

When you fight film-on-teeth

Again we urge you to see what benefits come through this new way of teeth cleaning. To men and women whiter teeth, to children new protection. To all a sense of cleanliness they never knew before. Let this free test bring to your home a new dental era.

Film-teeth-remover
This is that vicious coat you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms a sticky coat. That is what makes so many teeth discolored.

Film also holds fast substances which ferment and form acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs spread by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few people who brush teeth in old ways escape those film-coated troubles.

Modern science has discovered

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disinfects the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb which contains harsh grit.

Patent Office

MAY AUCTION MODELS OF OLD INVENTIONS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (A.P.)—What to do with all the old-time models, now in the custody of the Patent Office, is awaiting solution, and efforts will be made at the coming session of Congress to clarify the situation.

The demand for space in the Patent Office ousted the models from their exhibition cases at the end of the last century, but the government has had to continue paying space rental for them. A proposal now being considered is to have a commission appointed to sort out the models that might prove of historic interest, and perhaps sell the others at public auction.

The general requirement of having the inventor submit a model with his patent application was discontinued about 1880. To-day the law directs that the commissioner of patents in his discretion may require a model furnished.

UNHAPPY.
"You have much gold in yellow bars," I said to Croesus O'Connell; "you have your yacht and motor cars, your chief push is the bank; you have your pipe, you have your bowl, you have your feeders three, yet a troubled soul, from sorrow never free." "My life's a frost, it grieves and irks," he said, "I've no delights; I'm always doctoring my works—I cannot sleep o' nights. The minister clock is striking one, it's striking three and four, and I would gladly swap a ton of coin if I could score. I count some seven million sheep, an endless, leaping throng; alas, I cannot get to sleep, the night is ten years long. My chamber, mullioned, arched and groined, can give me no repose; not all the kopecks ever coined can buy an honest dose. Upon my downy couch I lie in darkness stark and dumb, and mark the slow hours dragging by until the day is come. As workmen to their divers tasks go by, I hear them say, 'On beds of ease that old plute basks; he does not toll all day; if we had but a paltry slice of that old duffer's pillow, our lives would always smile.' And yet those workmen go to sleep without the least delay; they do not count ten million sheep from dusk till break of day. They cuddle down and sweetly snore, like children, free from care, while sleeplessly I walk the floor, and moan in my despair."

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Letter From Mrs. Ayars Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

"Spring Valley, Sask.—'I took the Vegetable Compound before my last confinement, when I got to feeling so badly that I could not sleep; my back ached so across my hips, and I could hardly do my work during the day. I never had such an easy confinement and this is my sixth baby. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the 'Farmer's Telegram' and wrote you for one of your books. We have no druggist in our town, but I saw your medicine in T. Eaton's catalogue. I am a farmer's wife, so have all kinds of work to do inside and outside the house. My baby is a nice healthy girl, who weighed nine pounds at birth. I am feeling fine after putting in a large garden since baby came. (She is as good as she can be.) Yours is the best medicine for women, and I have told about it and even written to my friends about it."—Mrs. ANNE E. AYARS, Spring Valley, Sask.

Canada has a swimming prodigy in George Young, a 14-year-old member of the Toronto Swimming Club. He won the 230 yard free-style swimming championship in Montreal, and also won the bridge-to-bridge swim of 1 1/2 miles in 38m. 40s., which is almost a minute faster than the previous record held by such a sterling swimmer as George Vernot. This is the third time swim young Vernot has won in three weeks.

Leeward and Virgin Islands Devastated by Storm

League of Nations Congress in Motion—
Half Million Fire in Vancouver.

DEVASTATION AT LEEWARD ISLANDS.

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Is., Sept. 1. At least eight persons were killed and many injured and numerous houses were destroyed and other material damage done by the hurricane which struck the island in this vicinity on the night of Aug. 28th, and raged the following day, according to reports received here. Reports say that on the island of Montserrat, in the British Leeward group, thirty persons were killed and many injured. Tortola, the largest of the British Virgin Islands, is said to have been devastated. Twenty-eight persons were killed and one hundred houses and most of the houses were destroyed. On the island of Nevis, in the British Leeward Islands, four persons were killed and 300 houses were destroyed. At Jan eight persons met death. Hundreds of persons on various islands are homeless and are being sheltered in churches and police stations. Cotton, hives and other crops are declared to have been destroyed or damaged. The Government here is sending building materials, food, medical supplies and doctors to the stricken islands. Many injured persons have been brought here for treatment.

DAWES PLAN IN OPERATION.

PARIS, Sept. 1. The Reparation Commission to-day officially declared the Dawes plan in operation. The plan became effective at noon. The decision to proclaim the plan in effect was watched by the Commission in plenary session presided over by Louis Barthou, President of the Commission, and attended by James Logan, United States representative with the Commission.

LEAGUE'S FIRST DAYS SESSION.

GENEVA, Sept. 1. The first day's session of the assembly of the League of Nations, which elected Dr. Giuseppe Nitti, of Switzerland, President, and started in motion the machinery of its great congress which is expected to last a month, appeared to convey an impression of élan and determination to reach substantial decisions.

PRINCE CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

SOYSETT, N.Y., Sept. 1. The Prince of Wales went to the races at Belmont Park to-day as an onlooker, but from the time he alighted from his motor car to enter August Belmont's box, until he drove from the gate and his car joined the hundreds of others on the Long Island Road, he was one of the centres of attraction. Nothing better could illustrate the predicament of the Prince who considers himself off duty and on vacation in his private and personal capacity. Officially the heir to the British Throne was not at the races; it was Baron Renfrew, an Englishman, seeking quiet and "unobtrusive" rest, who was there. The crowd at the racing park who ignored that distinction and thronged that embarrassed young man, found pressing around him as formidable as that in a subway in rush hours. When the Prince descended from the grand stand to go to the paddock after the second race, his military aides and the state police had difficulty in making way for him.

TOKIO REMEMBERS.

TOKIO, Sept. 1. Tokio bowed its head to-day in solemn remembrance of the catastrophe which a year ago killed more than one hundred thousand of its citizens and devastated by earthquake and fire 65 per cent. of the area of this city and two million inhabitants. Two minutes before noon all activity ceased. Train cars stopped and factory whistles wailed and bells and gongs in scores of Buddhist temples tolled in memory of the victims of one of the greatest natural disasters ever visited on civilized mankind.

HALF MILLION FIRE.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 1. Loss estimated at $500,000 was caused Saturday night by a fire of uncertain origin which virtually wiped out the huge plant of J. Coughlan and Sons, destroyed three other buildings and the North West Docking Company's vessel Mudlark, and for a time threatened buildings adjacent.

FLIERS HOP OFF TO-DAY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. The army air service was informed to-day that the United States round the world fliers would not leave Indian Harbour, Labrador, before tomorrow. A despatch from the cruiser Milwaukee filed last night but not received here until late to-day said the planes cannot leave Indian Harbour before September second.

IDEAL FLIGHT CONDITIONS.

On board U. S. S. Richmond at Ice Tickle, Labrador, Sept. 1.—The first circumnavigation of the globe by air was virtually completed with the arrival of the Labrador Coast yesterday of the United States army world fliers. Hopping off from Vigvut, Greenland, at 6:23 a.m. eastern standard time, Lieut. Lowell S. Smith and his companions drove their powerful seaplanes over the 572 miles stretch of water without mishap and alighted at Ice Tickle at 1:18 p.m., thus completing the hop in six hours and 49 minutes. The arm of the Atlantic separating Greenland and Labrador is notorious for its ice and fogs, but conditions were almost ideal for the flight.

LIVED ON FLYING FISH.

EASTHAMPTON, N.Y., Sept. 1. Six survivors of the four masted auxiliary schooner Samuel W. Hathaway, who were at sea last Tuesday in the hurricane that swept the Atlantic seaboard, were picked up early to-day by the steamer Southern Cross bound from Buenos Aires to New York. The rescued sailors were found floating at the top of the schooner's skylight, where they had existed for four days, eating such

Good Resolutions

A good resolution, unless it has been made in a spirit of utter frivolity, is a power for good in a man's life. It has a bracing effect upon the will and acts like a moral tonic. It stiffens our moral backbones and is a source of strength.

The man who faces the future without making any resolutions as to the course of action he intends to pursue, acts aimlessly and will infallibly take the wrong direction at the critical moment. He will become a prey of his impulses and the mere sport of external circumstances. A good resolution puts design, order and definite purposes into our conduct and consecrates our life to some noble, worthwhile end. The practice of making good resolutions on the threshold of the new year, therefore, in spite of the many silly jokes in its regard, is very laudable and decidedly conducive to moral improvement.

"Scaramouche"

Exceeds all Expectations

SCREEN'S GREATEST ENTERTAINMENT SEEN AT NICKEL.

The great photoplay Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche" opened at the Nickel last night to tremendous business.

We are still under the spell of the story, splendidly told; of the great structures created as a background for that tale; but over and above all else there is the visualization of the crowding scenes of that marching mob; street wide and street filling; with swinging stride and with a song on the stern lips of every last one.

Rex Ingram has done far more than build a motion picture. He has given us a classic—and by that we mean a subject that will thrill a generation yet unborn.

"Scaramouche" makes two hours seem like one. It is as tight as a drum—there's not an airhole in it.

It is packed solid with meat. Some there may be in countries torn by war and its aftermath who may feel parts of it are raw. But it is healthy diet for any land—happy or otherwise.

The story covers the period of the beginnings of the French Revolution—and where in history is there a time that is greater in its dramatic record of achievement for humanity?

The tale is of the struggle of the people against the aristocrats. That is the big theme, and it is never subordinated.

To be sure, there is a charming love story that comes into the picture as it opens, and it remains there, alternating in sternness and tenderness, until the curtain.

"Scaramouche" is indeed a great picture—great in all departments.

The great Castle of Gavrilac bursts upon us right in the opening. Later on we are a part of the audience of the seventeenth century theatre, massive in conception, in which Moreau plays Scaramouche. Still later, we look upon the National Assembly in session in the great barnlike structure where history is being made.

"Scaramouche" is one of the great stories of the screen—time alone will set its appointed place in the great procession—and conceivably it may contend for popular favor with the greatest of its predecessors. And that in spite of the fact that its locale is of another country and its period another century.

Killed on Roof of Train

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 13.—Riding "blind baggage" to Michigan to visit his mother, Leroy Cox, twenty-five, a sailor discharged from the Brooklyn Naval Hospital, was killed almost instantly when he struck his head against the entrance of a tunnel along the main line tracks of the New York Central Railroad at the east end of Syracuse.

Cox had been riding on the roof of a passenger car. As the train entered the tunnel he failed to lower his head enough and was knocked off into the arms of William Ault, a sailor companion. Clutching the body of his friend, Ault screamed for help as the train made its way through the streets, but not until it pulled into the station were trainmen aware of the tragedy.

When Norway Taxed England

Two interesting archaeological discoveries, says the Christiania correspondent of the London "Times," were made last autumn on the Bukn Islands...

The first discovery was made by two laborers at a place known as Jøsend Farm, in the West Bukn Island. It consists of about 320 coins. Approximately 160 of these are of Anglo-Saxon origin...

One-third of the coins appear to have been minted in London, which was even then the most important trading center in England. Most of the others came from York, Lincoln, and Canterbury...

THE RIVER TRAGEDY "A SERIOUS CRIME"

When Deputy Coroner Prince addressed the jury in connection with the river tragedy that took place here lately, he said 'A serious crime against common sense and against public safety.' He stated in no uncertain terms that public ferrymen must be impressed with the necessity of taking proper precautions to avoid accidents.

LOST HIS LIFE SEARCHING FOR WORK. An engineer, who came to Montreal recently, from Buffalo, while he was running along the waterfront, with the object of boarding a vessel in search of employment, tripped over a rope and plunged head long into the water. His companions threw him a line, but the young man was unable to reach it and disappeared.

SCHOOL CHILDREN MUST BE VACCINATED.

"Children who are not vaccinated will not be admitted to any of the schools when the regular term begins in September." This was the statement made by Dr. S. Boucher, Chairman of the Board of Health. In the years 1922-23 not a single case of smallpox was reported which was a record, and last year, while eight cases came under the notice of the Board of Health, these were all from outside sources.

How to Succeed

Most young men and most older men consider a man successful when he has accumulated considerable wealth. In a measure, the accumulation of wealth does indicate success, but it is a mistake to think that all men who are wealthy are successful and that all men who are poor are unsuccessful.

If all young men would make up their minds to prepare themselves for some job they like and pledge themselves to discharge the duties which fall upon them, faithfully, and to the best of their ability, all would be successful.

A Traffic Census of the Fish

Bird migrations have long been studied by fastening tags to thousands of birds. The same method is now pursued with fish, which are being tagged by tens of thousands to disclose movements and routes that carry them from sea to sea, to find their native breeding-grounds. This sort of census is prompted not alone by scientific curiosity. It is a necessary link in the process of regulating the fisheries so that particular localities shall not become "fished out." Science Service, in a recent "feature" press-bulletin (Washington), tells us that American scientists are now nearing the solution of this most baffling of fish mysteries. They have set themselves to discover by examination of a salmon caught at sea the name of the river in which it was hatched. Clues already have been found by the X-ray and the microscope which make them confident that in a few months or thousands of miles from home mingling with others of the same species from dozens of different streams. We read:

"Where the fish come from, where they will go, their ages, weights, and life habits are being deduced from evidence seemingly more slender than the bit of mud or cigar ashes upon which the fiction sleuth hangs his ratiocinations.

"The homing instinct of salmon is the basis for one of the principal industries of the Pacific coast. In the early spring salmon leave their feeding-grounds in the ocean and swim for the place of their birth. "When he reaches his fresh-water home, Mr. Salmon digs a little hollow in the bed of the stream. Mrs. Salmon lays her eggs in their nest. Then both parents lie before their family has a chance to hatch. It is this migration toward the breeding-ground that forms the 'runs' during which some of the fish are caught for canning. It is necessary for the government fish experts to know the home river of the salmon, so as to prevent overfishing.

"There are five species of Pacific Coast salmon, of which the king salmon brings the highest price. But each river has its own particular race of king salmon. The problem of the experts is to detect the difference.

"E. A. McGregor, investigator for the California Fish and Game Commission, has turned powerful X-rays upon the subject. His radiographs show that king salmon 'run' of the Klamath River race have more vertebrae than those of the same species from Sacramento River. Moreover, the female Sacramento king salmon produce nearly twice as many eggs as the Klamath.

"Other fish investigators are following other clues in their effort to discover the difference between salmon in other rivers. Charles H. Gilbert, professor of zoology at Stanford University has discovered that the scales of a fish show the approximate weight and size at any time during its past growth. Salmon scales show a series of concentric growth-rings that look like tree-rings, although many are added each year.

In summer, when the water is warmer and the food more plentiful, wide rings are added. In winter the rings are narrower and closer; so that the number of the bands from the center gives the approximate age of the salmon. The width of the scale bears a definite relationship to the length of the fish and the distance across any of the series of rings shows the proportionate size at the period of its life which they represent.

There is also a detectable difference between the growth-rings formed while the fish is in fresh water and those made during life in the sea. Less evident differences that distinguish the many races of a single species are now being worked out by Dr. Gilbert. The writer continues:

"Salmon are caught at their feeding-grounds in the sea. A few scales are scraped from the back and stuck in a book opposite a number. A small aluminum tag, bearing this same number is then clamped on the tail of the salmon and it is thrown back again into the water. Under Dr. Gilbert's direction over 10,000 salmon were tagged in this way last year.

"Like police tracing automobiles by their license numbers, Dr. Gilbert and his coworkers follow the movements of the fish. Fishermen are notified to send in the tags found on salmon they catch with a notation telling where

In the kitchen there are many uses for Pearline. No washing powder can take its place. There is only one Pearline and that is what every woman who wishes to save time, labor and expense should use. It does not injure the fabrics or the hands and can be used for cleaning everything. Ask your grocer for Pearline and experience a great relief from labor when washing in this toil saving compound.

Policeman Shoots Himself Twice

KILLING LITTLE DOG THAT BIT FIVE.

Entire Hoboken Police Force on Hunt of Snapping Yellow Cur.

A little yellow dog bit five persons recently in Hoboken and created so much excitement that the city's entire police force was ordered to kill it. Two motorcycle patrolmen cornered the dog and killed it, but not before one of the policemen had been wounded twice by his own bullets.

For two days the Hoboken police have been receiving complaints of a small dog which snapped at passerby. A phone call advised Police Headquarters that Nicholas Grandjulis of No. 60 Third Street had been bitten. A patrolman found the injured man at his home, but the dog had disappeared. Before the policeman got back to Headquarters word had arrived that Joseph Quinlan of No. 688 Breen Line Avenue, had been bitten by a dog which ran away. A few minutes later Louis Walsh of No. 314 Hudson Street jumped into Police Headquarters with his leg bitten and his trousers badly ripped.

Although every available motorcycle man in Hoboken was ordered to hunt the dog, and all reserves were sent out, it was nearly an hour later that Motorcycle Policeman Forsythe found the usually busy point at Washington and Fifth Streets deserted and a yellow dog running toward Hudson Square Park, snapping right and left. Scores of children were playing about as the animal approached. One youngster walked toward it and the dog fastened its teeth in the child's leg. A little further on it encountered two more children and bit one. Then advice add that the dreaded feminine bandit underwent that most fearsome of Chinese death penalties, the ling-che, or in English, the slicing process. Forty-seven years old and an expert horsewoman "Old Mother" Diao led a band of several hundred outlaws who terrorized a broad area. It is related of her that last summer she planned an attack against Ichowfu after calling to her aid two ad-ded groups of bandits. They had assembled at a place near the village of Balhshiang when a home-guard of villagers, known as the "Big Knife Society," apprised of their purpose, attacked them and suffered utter defeat. The villagers were driven back into Balhshiang and the bandits followed them. Then the gates of the village were closed and every man was shot down. Sixty women and children then were lined up, and "Old Mother" Diao was asked what to do with them. Her order to kill them all were carried out with the result that every man, woman and child who was within the walls after the gates had been closed was slain. Even the cattle and dogs of the village suffered the same fate. Ling-che is simply vivisection done by experts in such a manner that the victim survives in a comatose state through hours of a terrible ordeal.

Reparations for Welcome of Naval Visitors

The programme for the reception and entertainment of the officers and men of the Special Service Squadron, approved at a meeting of citizens in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon, will no doubt commend itself to the general public. Modest though they may appear the plans will call for considerable thought in order to properly work out the details. The problem of making the reception worthy of Britain's Old-est Colony bristles with difficulties—time is short and funds must be procured. The latter perhaps is the least difficult part of the undertaking as no doubt when the call is made it will be met with a ready and hearty response. A perusal of the report of the meeting which appears in another column will show that an energetic committee has been appointed and much initial work accomplished. The programme outlined is tentative and may be altered or enlarged to suit circumstances as they arise. By the assistance of the Government the major part of the transportation problem has been solved, but much remains to be done and citizens can by cooperation greatly lighten the labors of the committee.

What Germany Has Paid

As the plans for putting the Dawes plan into operation are now perfected, it is of interest to find some recent official figures showing how much Germany has paid in reparations since the Treaty of Versailles went into effect. According to Edwin L. James, Paris correspondent of the New York Times, who quotes an official statement of the Reparations Commission, Germany has paid in almost five years 5,570,942,000 gold marks. Continues Mr. James:

With the deduction made for the cost of the Army of Occupation and the Spa loan, there remains a balance of 5,540,287,000 marks. Credited to Germany for the value of material seized and turned over is the sum of 2,834,990,000 marks, bringing the total credit of Germany to 8,405,932,000 marks, or $2,101,483,000. Of the 5,500,000,000 paid by Germany 1,000,900,000 represents total cash payments, or considerably less, it is said, than Germany realized from the sale of paper marks in the United States alone.

Of the cash paid England received 641,000,000, France 144,000,000, Belgium 1,084,000,000, the rest being scattered among the other allies. Of 3,200,000,000 in deliveries in kind France received 1,278,000,000. The total amount received by France in cash payments and deliveries in kind stands at 1,754,000,000 gold marks. After deduction of France's part of the Spa loan and the cost of the French Army of Occupation there is left for France for reparations for the first five years of the working of the peace treaty the sum of 101,870,000 gold marks, or the equivalent of $25 billion paper francs, against which France has expended 100,000,000 paper francs.

According to calculations here the total payments to Germany in cash and kind represent a sum no larger than what was supposed to have been realized from the export of paper marks. The total, including property seized from Germany at the end of the war, which embraces 3,000,000,000 marks on account of Poland, represents a sum about equal to what the McKean Experts' Committee estimated to be the value of German wealth held abroad. The Reparations Commission's figures do not include the value of seizures in the Ruhr. This account is kept by the French and Belgians separately because of the English refusal to recognize the Ruhr occupation. It is generally estimated that there has been a profit of 600,000,000 gold marks, which would, therefore, bring the total of German payments up to slightly more than 8,000,000,000 marks. Six billion marks in five years represents 1,200,000,000 marks yearly. It is interesting to compare this figure with the calculation by the Dawes committee that Germany should pay a minimum of 2,800,000,000 francs a year in reparations.

Suggests Joint Church Parade

Provided the Commander-in-Chief should approve of landing church parties, it is suggested that the different church authorities be approached with a view to having one Sunday service in all the churches at the same hour. The hour would of course have to fit in with the landing and transportation requirements, and ten o'clock would appear to be most suitable. This would permit of the men getting back to ship by dinner time. A church parade of the men from the Special Service Squadron would be an imposing sight, and the suggestion is well worthy of the consideration of the Citizens' Committee.

Marshal Foch to Unveil

A cablegram from England to Colonel Nangle, states that Field Marshal Foch will unveil the 51st Divisional Memorial on the 28th September. The 51st Division was composed entirely of Highland Regiments and the monument which is erected to their memory in the Newfoundland Park, at Beaumont Hamel, takes the form of a huge bronze Highlander in his killing ground, looking into a ravine. The base is of Aberdeen Granite. The Cemetery is circular in form, and the soldiers are all buried with their feet to the Cross of Remembrance.

Storm Damages at Corner Brook

Reports received from Corner Brook state that the storm of Wednesday last was severely felt there. The Lunenburg vessel Arminta, which was lying at the pier, was damaged by pounding against the structure. Two motor boats in the harbor were sunk and two others badly damaged, and the big shed, which was being covered with felt, had much of the covering blown off, and so much of it damaged that it is feared that the whole work of felted the building will have to be done over again.

Surveyors at Work

Yesterday the Minister of Public Works, Mr. C. E. Russell, issued instructions for repairs to be made to Topsail Road, and officials went out last evening to make the necessary survey. Arrangements are also being made for the placing of electric lights at the landing place at Topsail so as to eliminate the difficulty and danger of night landing for the men of the special service squadron.

L.S.P.U. Resume Usual Hours

On Saturday night the Logshoremen's Protective Union held a meeting in their rooms, Duckworth Street, when the question of hours again came up for discussion, and it was decided to reverse the decision, with regard to the working hours, which had been reached at a previous meeting. The men, therefore, worked yesterday from 6 to 6 as usual, and not from 7 to 6 as announced last week.

Citizens Committee Appointed

PLANS FOR RECEPTION AND ENTERTAINMENT OF SPECIAL SERVICE SQUADRON OUTLINED.

A tentative programme arranged by the Board of Trade Council for the reception and entertainment of the officers and men of the Special Service Squadron of the Royal Navy was adopted unanimously at a meeting of citizens held in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held in the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon.

At Request of Newfoundland Government and Chamber of Commerce and Municipality of St. John's, a committee of citizens is being formed for the purpose of welcoming our squadron on behalf of the colony.

Following programme is tentatively suggested. For the men, a smoking concert, afternoon sports and Association football match against St. John's team. For the Officers a citizens ball and informal entertainments by various clubs. Does this meet with your approval? Can you indicate the number of officers and men to be provided for and also state suitable for above programme? Would appreciate any suggestions you might care to make.

After reading the above the chairman told of a series of interviews which resulted in a number of gentlemen consenting to act on the Citizens Committee. On motion of the Prime Minister, seconded by Dr. W. Warren the following were approved:—

- Chairman—L. C. Outerbridge. Representative of the Government—Hon. W. J. Higgins. Representative of the City—Hon. Tasker Cook. Representative of the G.W.V.A.—Col. T. Nangle, C.F., Capt. G. J. Whitty, M.C. Representative of the Board of Trade—Mr. T. V. Hartnett. Sports Committee—Hon. W. J. Higgins, Mr. H. C. Hayward. Transportation Committee—Mr. W. A. Reid, Mr. G. C. Harvey, Mr. E. Bowring, Jr., Mr. C. E. Russell. Men's Smoking Concert Committee—Mr. J. A. Mackenzie, Mr. C. Hutton, Mr. G. Christian. Citizens Ball—Mr. T. V. Hartnett, Mr. C. Duley, Mr. J. Paterson. Commissariat—Commander Howley. Football Matches—Col. T. Nangle, C.F., Capt. G. J. Whitty, M.C. Finance Committee—Mr. L. C. Outerbridge, Hon. W. J. Higgins, Hon. T. Cook, Mr. E. A. Bowring, Mr. G. Knowling.

Regarding landing accommodation at Topsail the Prime Minister expressed doubts of its adequacy and accordingly a man had been sent there by the Marine and Fisheries Department to investigate the facilities. He was also instructed to proceed to Kellogg's to examine the landing place there with a view to putting it in order, as it might be a more convenient place than the former. Matters of finance were also discussed, observations thereon were made by Hon. W. J. Higgins. It was suggested that the City Charter did not permit the spending of funds in this direction. Engr. Com. Howley (R.N. retired) suggested that owing to the probability of the men from the Squadron spending the greater part of a day in the city it would be a good idea if arrangements were made with the city restaurant to provide them with a free lunch. The suggestion was generally approved of. Authority was given the Committee to add to their numbers after which the meeting adjourned. A meeting of the different committees was afterwards held and much progress was made.

The following telegram in reply to the message of the Chairman has been received from Vice-Admiral Sir Frederic Lawson Field:—"Your telegram of 29th August, greatly appreciate your kindness but would prefer that no programme of entertainments be arranged until arrival Topsail Bay. Request member of Reception and Entertainment Committee may come on board 'Hood' to discuss arrangements. Owing to vessels lying in open roadstead programme must depend on weather."

YIC ADMIRAL FIELD."

The Committees are going ahead with their programme and will have everything in readiness to be put in effect if it is feasible after interviewing the Admiral.

HOLIDAY TO-MORROW.

To-morrow being a General Holiday, the last for the season, according to the official schedule, the Telegram will not be published. An enjoyable evening is anticipated.

Congratulations to Fliers

A message of greeting and congratulation to the United States around the world fliers was despatched by the Prime Minister yesterday on their arrival at Labrador. The message is as follows:—"1 Sept. 1924.

Popular Excursion to Bay Roberts

The Postal Association Excursion by s.s. Senef to Bay Roberts which takes place to-morrow promises to be a big event. A brass band will accompany the excursion. The sports program arranged has all the popular athletic events, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Mr. C. E. Russell and Hon. W. J. Higgins have given prizes, and Mr. A. McNamara a splendid set of medals. For the football match between the Association and the Bay Roberts team, Mr. A. E. Hickman, has very kindly donated a massive cup, while Mr. H. J. Wyatt is also donating a cup for the most points. At night a big dance with special dance music will be given. Return will be made at 3 a.m. Thursday.

Ore Steamer Damaged in Gale

The S.S. Hangerland, which arrived at the steel piers yesterday morning with a cargo of ore from Wabana was partially damaged by the terrific storm which raged Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Three of the crew were slightly injured by being thrown against the cabins by the huge waves which burst over the ship. The upper bridge shelter house was torn away, the bridge telephone was swept off, part of the main bridge railing was badly smashed and the monstrous waves which were continually breaking over the ship poured through the port holes flooding the saloon cabin.—Sydney Post.

Rod and Gun in Canada

The September issue of Rod and Gun in Canada will appeal to every sportsman. A canoe trip through the Chain Lakes from Dartmouth to Shubenacadie, by R. G. Urquhart describes one of the most alluring trips that can be made anywhere in the Maritimes. The Four of Us, by E. Lonsdale is the story of a perfect two weeks' hunting trip, while Bonnycastle Dale gives an interesting account of how the Slim Wriggling Bell is taken in winter on the Atlantic Coast. Raymond Thompson's story of the frozen north, entitled The Fur Cache, is one with an unusually good plot. Mildred Low introduces the reader to a very interesting group of people. The Guides of Aigonquin, and Martin Hunter narrows in his usual vivid style in Circulating. All the regular departments are up to their usual standard of excellence and aid in providing good, all-round reading in this number of the magazine.

Schooner Lucille B. Creaser Loses Man

VESSEL HAD SAILS CARRIED AWAY IN STORM.

A message has been received by the Deputy Minister of Customs from Mr. J. T. Carew, Cape Broyle, which is as follows:—"Schr. Lucille B. Creaser, Capt. Finader, from Sydney, reports the loss of one man, Thomas George, whilst in the Gulf on August 27th." The Lucille B. Creaser, bound from Sydney to St. John's, coal laden, was picked up by S.S. Arras and towed into Cape Broyle. The Watuka which arrived in port to-day, reports passing the Creaser 6 miles east of Bay Bulls with all her sails gone and in need of assistance. A tug was despatched from this port to the assistance of the vessel, but evidently she was picked up by the Canadian steamer Arras, as a message from the ship, received by the Marine and Fisheries Department, stated she was proceeding to the vessel's assistance and would tow her to Cape Broyle.

HIGHLAND GAMES.

The Big Attraction For To-Morrow. The Highland Games, which were unavoidably postponed last week, take place at St. George's Field to-morrow afternoon commencing at 2.30. An already mentioned programme of events carded is one of unusual attraction, and is bound to please all. The handi-capped races will be a special feature, and in each case close finishes will be provided. A large number of our local athletes will take part in the various events, and in view of their strenuous training for the A.A.A. Sports good results are bound to be obtained. The one item alone which is sure to please all is the "Tug of War" contest between the Truckmen and 'Longshoremen for the two dollar gold pieces. Both crews are confident of victory and determined to pull each other all over the lot. The Mount Cashel and Methodist Guards Bands will be in attendance all the afternoon to render the latest musical airs, and with this double attraction alone the afternoon promises to be a source of real enjoyment. The Committee have finalised all arrangements, and the success of the meet is already assured.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS.

Drawing To A Close.

The tournaments at the Tennis Club, Forest Road, are drawing to a finish, and it is expected that this week will see the final in all events. The men's doubles (handicap) were won by Mr. Harry Carter and Mr. Charlie Bell. In the men's (single) championship, which was played Saturday afternoon, Mr. Eric Jarrett won from Mr. L. C. Outerbridge, last year's champion. The event proved very interesting and was won in the fifth set after a gruelling struggle, lasting three and a half hours, in which seventy games in all were played, the score being 6-2, 10-12, 9-7, 5-7, 8-6. The finalists in the men's single handicap are Mr. V. A. Reid -15 and Mr. E. Jarrett -14.30.

In the ladies' single handicap, Miss M. Hutton, -14.15, plays Miss A. Rennie -15. In the ladies' single championship the winner of the game between Miss Beth Bartlett and Miss A. Rennie, plays Miss Vera Windler, the present champion. In the mixed doubles (handicap), Mr. H. McDonald and Miss E. Cleary, scratch, play Mr. Ron Marth and Miss Beth Bartlett -14.30 in the final. In the ladies' doubles (handicap), Mrs. B. C. Gardiner and Miss Vera Windler -14.30 play Miss E. Howley and Miss Doris Rennie, -14.15.

A tournament between the club and a team from Conception Bay is being arranged for this week. There are many good players in the Bay and some good games can be expected. A club dance will probably be held at the conclusion of the tournament.

The club next year hopes to have some hard courts replace the present grass courts. It will then be possible to have a Newfoundland Championship tournament in which all the clubs, using the same kind of courts, will be represented and to apply to the N.A.A. for official recognition.

ALL FOUR.

In California, O., a resident had a hired man who the last number of Florida, called her Virginia. Now when she goes to an hotel she can register as Virginia, Florida, California, Ohio.

A nursemaid rushed into the presence of her mistress and shrieked: "Oh, my goodness, ma'am, the twins have fallen down the well! What shall I do?"

The mother lit a cigarette and answered calmly: "Go into the library and bring me the last number of 'Modern Motherhood.' There's an article in it on 'How to Bring up Children.'"

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The Star and C.L.B. are the contestants in to-night's Tie-Cup Fixture at St. George's Field. Both teams are placing their strongest line-ups in the field, and a good game is expected to follow.

THE HOLIDAY GAMES.

The Junior League will run off two games of the regular League football fixtures to-morrow. In the morning, commencing at 10.30, Wesley will try conclusions with the Gaelic eleven. A good exhibition is promised, as both teams are pretty evenly matched.

What promises to be the game of the season takes place at 6.45 when the Cadets and B.L.S will face off, the outcome of which will have a big bearing on the championship.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL.

Feildians The Victors.

The Feildians and C.S.I. teams contested for the Tie Cup at St. George's Field last night before a small gathering, and saw the Institute team eliminated from the series by three goals to 1. These teams battled to a draw last week, which necessitated the game being replayed. Due to the late arrival of several of the players the game was late in starting, and only forty minutes of play was witnessed instead of the regular sixty. In the first half honors were about evenly divided, and the only goal scored in this period came just before "london" time when Ewing's net Noseworthy with a ground shot.

Second Half.

Upon changing ends the Feildians took control and confined the leather to the C.E.I. territory, and found Hunt and Company kept busy driving off numerous attacks. After five minutes of play, Ewing, who was playing a good game, beat the Institute goalie for a second time, and this was shortly followed up by Withers who recorded No. 2. The game from then on lagged somewhat, and a poor exhibition was being handed out. The C.E.I. forwards pressed matters just before the close, when Johnson scored their one and only goal. The game ended, Feildians 3 goals; C. E. I. 1.

Mr. T. Delahunty was referee.

INTER-TOWN CRICKET.

Mr. Grace Will Be Scene Of Interesting Cricket Match To-Morrow.

At Shannon Munn Park, Mr. Grace, at 11 o'clock, a cricket match will be staged between teams representing St. John's and Conception Bay. Great interest is being centered in the clash, particularly by our friends from over the Bay, and the final result will be awaited with interest. The cricketers from the city leave here by motor car early to-morrow morning. The personal of the team is as follows:—J. C. Hogg (Capt.), H. C. Hayward, M. G. Winter, Jr., R. Martin, S. Morris, H. Young, H. V. Hutchings, E. Martin, N. P. Hunt, P. Keegan, E. Jarrett. Stumps will be drawn at 7 o'clock.

FURNESS-COWAN.

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place at Hopewell on August the 27th. When Mr. Robert A. Cowan the popular young farmer of Toppail road led to the altar Miss Jessie St. Clair Furness the eldest daughter of the late Thomas Furness and Mrs. E. Chaytor. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. W. Facey, the bride was given away by her uncle Mr. Thos. J. Pope and attended by Mrs. T. J. Pope. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to Seal Cove where a supper was partaken of and the usual toasts honored. They were the re-

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

ON GETTING THE FAMILY TO DINNER

Why is it that so many people are filled with reluctance at the idea of sitting down and eating a good dinner? You don't think they are? Then you have never had one of the commonest human experiences. You have never been a house mother trying to get a disappearing family to the dinner table.

Sunday dinner is served at half past one. One would think that the family, having no care in the matter of the meal except to eat it would all be on hand ready to do that. (It's some years since she said it, alas, but I can still hear echoes of my mother's: "It does seem to me that if all I had to do was eat the dinner I could be ready to do that.") But are they?

Seldom if ever.

"Soup's On The Table."

At half past one Mother comes into the living room with the announcement of "Soup's on the table." She sees only three of the five faces that should be there. Father and Uncle Jim are there and small sister Jane. Big brother is missing and also big sister.

"Where is Junior?"

"He just this minute went up stairs to shave," says father. (He has been sitting there reading the Sunday papers for two hours.)

"And where's Sis?"

"She hasn't come in from Sunday school," explains Jane, "she stopped at Ruth's on the way home."

"Dear, dear," says mother, "everything will be stone cold. Well, you come in, the rest of you, and sit down." And she turns toward the dining room. Followed by the three members who are there? No, only by small sister Jane.

They Have To Wash Up.

Both father and Uncle Jim have gone to wash their hands. A great deaf has been said about the small boy's aversion to washing. He certainly makes it up when he gets to be a man for I never yet knew a man, or knew any woman who ever knew a man who did not have to wash up whenever he was called to a meal. No one of us have ever known a man who washed up before being called to a meal. There seems to be something in the nature of a complex, a thought out, between the call and the wash.

Jane does come to the table and stays there until father and Uncle Jim arrive, then she suddenly wriggles out of her seat to get something she wants to show Uncle Jim. They have been in the living room together ever since Jane got home from Sunday school, but the urge to show him her new bank has not come upon her until now.

Junior comes whistling down the stairs only 15 minutes late and has his soup brought on from the back of the stove where it has been set to keep hot, while the others are starting their roast.

A Barbarous Time.

Sis, however, is 35 minutes late, and when asked why she can't get home to dinner and if Ruth's family had to wait dinner until she left, remarks laughingly that she thinks half past one is a barbarous time to have dinner and that the Beebe's don't have theirs until two o'clock.

When I was very young and very sure that I knew almost every thing I used to say when my mother complained that the food was spoiled if people were late. "Well, why don't you just let it be spoiled then and let it go at that."

Thirty-Fifth Anniversary

OF DESTRUCTION BY FIRE OF ROMAN CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL OF IMMACULATE CONCEPTION, HARBOR GRACE.

To-day is the thirty-fifth anniversary of the destruction by fire of the beautiful monument of ecclesiastical architecture, the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Harbor Grace. The following reference was given in the local press immediately after the never-to-be-forgotten occurrence. It was the pride and glory of all Harbor Gracians, at home and abroad as well as of the people of all classes and creeds in Newfoundland. The instability of all things human must engage the profoundest reflection of mankind. It furnishes a fruitful theme for the observations of the historian, and a text for the most impressive lessons of the preacher. There is no sublimer passage in the writings of our greatest poet than that in which he speaks of—

"The cloud-capped temples, the great globe itself. Yea all which it inherits shall dissolve; And like this insubstantial pageant faded, Leave not a rack behind."

The impassioned appeals of the orator, which welded at will the fierce democracy, the finest creations of the poet, the almost breathing marble of the sculptor, the chef d'oeuvres of the painter, the proud temple of the architect even though they may have survived the ravages of Nature, or have escaped the ravages of passion, may yet by mere accident, perish in one brief hour. The destruction of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Harbor Grace, affords a most striking illustration of this melancholy truth. How well we remember its massive walls, its Corinthian pillars, its seven altars, and its lofty dome, 120 feet to the top of the Cross. The splendor of its dome, modelled after the greatest conception of human genius—St. Peter's in Rome—of its altars of marble and gold, its pillars of polished granite and walls are now but a remembrance to those in midlife.

The grand Cathedral was commenced by Bishop Dalton in 1863, carried on by Bishop Carfaenil, completed by Bishop MacDonald, and destroyed by fire September 2nd, 1898. The fund for its reconstruction met with great success—the late Hon. James Ryan, merchant of Bonaville, brother of Hon. D. A. Ryan, heading the list with the princely donation of $4,000 (four thousand dollars).

The plans and much of the artistic work was performed by Bishop Carfaenil himself, assisted by the great artist Frank McKenzie, who, notwithstanding his Scotch name, was a native of Valencia, in sunny Spain. The woodwork was superintended by that famous citizen, Mr. Richard Ash, and the pillars and all the chief decorative work, on the dome inside and out, was performed by Mr. John Mitchell's firm, of which the late Mr. John I. Callahan, of the firm of Callahan & Glass, was foreman, and was assisted by the late Mr. James J. O'Neill, father-in-law of Superintendent O'Neill of the Constabulary, Thomas Foley, and one or two others. The Conway brothers, Mr. Kennedy, father of Mr. Edward Kennedy (contractor), and others did the plastering, and to-day we cannot call to mind one man who worked on the great ecclesiastical monument, that was reckoned second to none on this side of the Atlantic, for its size, alive to-day. Fortunately our talented artist, the late S. H. Parsons, founder of the present firm of S. H. Parsons & Sons, photographers, procured a beautiful negative of both the inside and outside of the magnificent edifice, which is now in existence.—H.F.S.

Machine Discovers Coal and Oil

Bochum, Aug. 11.—Ability to determine the exact location of coal and oil underground by means of an improved seismograph, registering detonations, is claimed by Dr. Mintrop of this city. According to Dutch newspaper reports the invention was tried out successfully in Holland.

Dr. Mintrop now is traveling in the United States.

The Prestige of the Pound

When will the £ sterling reach its pre-war value in the United States. Banking and exchange authorities are generally loath to make any definite estimates, but the general opinion is not so optimistic as that of Sir Felix Schuster, who has been telling the American Chamber of Commerce in London that there was no reason whatever why the £ sterling should not, before very long, be on a par with the dollar.

"I agree with Sir Felix Schuster that a return of the £ sterling to parity with the dollar—in other words, to gold parity—is eminently desirable," a leading London banking authority with unrivalled knowledge of the foreign exchange market said to a "Daily Mail" representative, "but with the incubus of our debt to the United States I do not agree that this goal can be achieved soon. I think rather that we shall see a gradual rise in the value.

"The present, or any British Government is, I believe, likely to be impressed with the necessity of reducing this incubus as quickly as possible. Far from taking advantage of the American debt settlement clauses that enable it to postpone the scheduled payments of principal and interest, this country will, I believe, exercise its option of making payments of principal in advance of the schedule, to obtain dollars and tends at the time to depress the American value of sterling in the exchange market, but, in the long run, by reducing the great incubus of the American debt and giving proof of our determination to remove it as soon as possible, the policy of accelerated payments will enhance the value of sterling.

"For the exchange value of the £ sterling depends not only on the balance of trade but also on the esteem with which it is held abroad."

Another leading banker considered that "development of Empire and other sources of raw materials for which we are at present dependent on the United States is likely to mitigate the effect on sterling of the onerous American debt terms." He mentioned particularly the increasing production of cotton in the Sudan and in Brazil. Saturday Night.

Circulating American Silver Dollars

The U.S. Treasury has embarked on a campaign to restore the silver dollar—the "cartwheel" which was so widely used 20 years ago to general circulation.

The initial step was taken when one of the coins was placed in the pay envelope of each of 5,000 Treasury employees. Similar action will be suggested to other government bureaux.

During the past 20 years a steady stream of silver dollars has flowed to the treasury as the use of paper money supplanted them on the receding frontiers of trade. The movement was furthered by the government because of the expense and danger of transporting the heavy specie in making necessary settlements between banks. It has been estimated, however, that the upkeep of paper money costs the government around three per cent of its total face value, while maintenance of silver dollars costs practically nothing. Arrangements have been made whereby various reserve banks will bear hitherter the expense of shipment of silver dollars.

There are about $509,000,000 cart-wheels available, of which some $439,000,000 now are required by law to be held in the Treasury against silver certificates and silver treasury notes outstanding. Officials said about $30,000,000 might be considered as available for immediate distribution if the public demand required that amount.

"The First 100,000"

There are upwards of 100,000 people in Canada actively engaged in converting the products of the forest into wealth in some form or other, with the families they represent. It means that more than half a million people in the Dominion are dependent on the forest for their living.

The value of the manufactured lumber and paper products alone is $2,000,000 per year. The pulp and paper companies employ 33,000 men in the mills and pay them each year $10,000,000 in wages. The value of lumber, lath and shingles produced in Canada in one year is $150,000,000. If the question had been put to you: would you have figured much more than a quarter of this? When you reckon that the lumber industry has an invested capital of $200,000,000, employing 55,000 men at paying them $99,000,000 wages, do you have a "foref" business? It reaches the enormous sum of $300,000,000 a year. The security for this annual income neither mines nor wheat fields or fisheries, but the only one of the kind of resources that is inflammable, viz. the forest.

Cement common stock established a record high price and Tuesday improved further to 60 3/4 as compared with this year's low 40 1/2 and last year's bottom price of $1. On its 54 dividend the stock still yields 8 1/2%.

Earning for the first quarter of 1924 after all charges and preferred dividends equaled $1 1/4 per share on the 42,364,167 shares of common, and to $1.73 a share in the second three months. This progressive increase is expected to continue into the third quarter and should result in surplus profits for the nine months' period amounting to around $5 a share for the common. The current quarter's figures will reflect the benefit of more than two months' operation of the new Kansas plant.

It should be no trick at all for International Cement to show $7 a share on the common for the full 1924 year which would compare with $5.28 a share earned in 1923.

MILITARY OPERATIONS IN SHANGHAI.
 SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.
 Forces under General Luyang Shi Sang, Military Governor of Chekiang Province, have cut the Shanghai-Anking railway, 25 miles from this city. Railway communication with Peking therefore is broken. Outposts of troops under General Chi Shihyuan, Military Governor of Kiangsu Province, are pushing near Shanghai, but there has been no fighting as yet.

THE HERO OF THE FLIGHT.

Aboard U.S.S. Richmond, off Ice Tickle, Labrador. The United States fliers are resting after the accomplishment of the first westerly flight around the earth from the West Coast to the East Coast of North America. One last quick decision as to the two surviving planes of the flight arrived from Ivisut, Greenland, on Sunday, and the thing was done. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, whose judgment as flight commander has been such a factor in making possible the success of the aviators, had to make a quick decision as to the landing place as the planes roared into Ice Tickle, Labrador. Noticing that the regular landing place was kicked up under stiff breezes he circled about and successfully tried the other side of the island. The other plane following him ("thank God we are back on North American soil") exclaimed Lieut. Smith as he stepped ashore. He and other aviators were some time in finding their land legs, weakened as they were by fatigue and hunger after their arduous trip. Later the aviators were formally received aboard the Richmond. Lieut. Smith's assistant, Lieut. Arnold was the hero of the flight, a long distance from Labrador Smith's engine sputtered and faltered threatening a forced landing which would put the flag plane out of flight. The principle trouble lay in the failure of the fuel pump to function. Arnold pumped gasoline into engine for four hours at two strokes per minute according to Lieut. Smith. Only Arnold's marvelous stamina in pumping kept the plane going. Arnold told correspondents that the feat was nothing at all. He added that after the first half hour pains in his shoulders and arms disappeared because the members were completely numb and insensible.

Quietness in Raw Material Market

A feature of the wool textile trade of Great Britain during recent weeks has been the general quietness in the raw material market. According to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company through its English Information Service, this followed a continuous advance in medium and low crossbreds during the last six months. The colonial wool-selling season was contracted into a shorter period than usual and, though the total clip was less than in the preceding season, it was marketed with abnormal rapidity and the primary markets are now said to be practically cleared of the season's wool. The effect of this policy has been to put a strong financial plan on wool importers and manufacturers, the principal clips having been lifted at high prices in a short selling period. British trade reports state that the financial difficulties of Germany and more especially the restrictions on the purchase of Sterling are serious interfering with the wool industry generally. The German market is and has been for many years one of the most important outlets for British trade in wool and its products. Last year Germany was Great Britain's best customer for tops, and by far the largest single purchaser of worsted and mohair yarns.

BUTTS O TELEGRAPH POLES.
 Stockholm.—An ingenious method to save telegraph poles from rotting has been successfully tried here. Before being planted, the poles are drilled longitudinally with a small center hole, and then the opening at the bottom is plugged. This hole runs to a point about one foot above ground when the mast has been set up. The hole is plugged, and a small side hole is drilled at an angle one foot above ground to meet the center hole. Creosote oil is poured in the center hole and the outside opening closed. Linsen refill from time to time.

World's Largest Steer

When the Prince of Wales went into camp with the Boy Scouts at Wembley, he acted as a guide to a party of them in inspecting the world's largest steer, weighing a ton and a half, whose quarters are in the exhibition grounds. The steer, which had been entered at forthcoming shows at Birmingham and Smithfield, belongs to Mr. A. G. Tarn, of Wintipeg, and is being exhibited by Mr. A. H. Wordon, who has received numerous offers for the animal. Its weight is approximately 245 stone, compared with the average weight of 111 stone of ordinary cattle. It is 18 hands high and 10 ft. 6 inches in girth.

Fire-Killed Wood for Paper Making

The great devastation caused by forest fires in Canada is well known to every thinking citizen. Hundreds of thousands of square miles have been burned over, destroying mature timber, trees that have not yet reached commercial size, and the young growth. Mile after mile of these partially burned or fire-killed trees, whitening in the weather, greet the traveller through some of our forested provinces, and the wonder has often been expressed as to whether some use could not be made of what appeared to be utter waste.

World's Largest Steer

When the Prince of Wales went into camp with the Boy Scouts at Wembley, he acted as a guide to a party of them in inspecting the world's largest steer, weighing a ton and a half, whose quarters are in the exhibition grounds. The steer, which had been entered at forthcoming shows at Birmingham and Smithfield, belongs to Mr. A. G. Tarn, of Wintipeg, and is being exhibited by Mr. A. H. Wordon, who has received numerous offers for the animal. Its weight is approximately 245 stone, compared with the average weight of 111 stone of ordinary cattle. It is 18 hands high and 10 ft. 6 inches in girth.

Marquis Fined Twenty Pound

Winchester magistrates recently fined the Marquis of Northampton £20 for the reckless driving of a motor car.

Lord St. Audries, of Warwick-square, London, said he was motorist in Stockbridge to Basingstoke, when, on the crest of a hill, he was overtaken by the marquis's motor car, which dashed at a great speed into a flock of sheep, killing 11 and injuring 11. "He must have been going at 40 miles an hour, but I cannot say exactly," said Lord St. Audries.

Supt. Palmer, of the Metropolitan Police, who saw the marquis at Wimpole-street, stated that the marquis said: "I was driving a car on the day in question, and if I am to be proceeded against I shall say nothing."

An Unique Event

What is believed to be a unique record in the matter of birthday celebrations is claimed by the family of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Goodman, of Berkeley, just across the Elizabeth River from Norfolk, Va. A few days ago Irving, aged eight; Pannie, aged six, and Sidney, aged four, held a birthday party. The children were born two years apart, on the same day of the month and practically at the same hour. There are two older children in the family.

The infant mortality rate! What is it? The public does not take much notice of it, and yet to a large extent it indicates the Health of the City they live in.

The Infant Mortality this month should stir every thinking man and woman to action. 41 Babies, under a year old, dead in 31 days.

How appalling in 1924 when it is a known fact, that the larger proportion of these deaths are preventable. If cattle, sheep or pigs, died at this rate in an agricultural country all the farmers would unite to investigate and stop such commercial waste.

Is it not possible to enquire into this raised summer mortality, before next year.

HOME VISITS.

The sickness in town makes a difference to our figures. Special visits in most cases mean nearly an hour in a home, and therefore this cuts down the total of our routine visiting.

It is at a time like this that further emphasis is put on the need of a District Nurse in St. John's.

WELFARE CENTRE.

Our centre figure still keeps up well. We are very fortunate in being able to open a West End Centre, and feel that this will be very successful. We now want one in the East!

DENTAL CLINICS.

Eight new cases at our Dental Clinic bring the numbers in our books to 24. We have had a great deal of encouragement and instruction through the visit of American scientists to St. John's and we are very grateful for all their kind interest.

Cocconut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

Do not use prepared shampoo or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multised cocconut oil shampoo, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multised at the drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multised is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Multised. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

LOVE AND A FRIEND.

"What did you gather of worth and pride?
Said the Angel of the Lord,
"Little by skill," the soul replied
"And nothing by the sword;
I lived the span of my years and died,
And I gave when I could afford."

"You bring me no more than you took away
Said the angel, soft and low,
"Neither fame nor fortune marks your stay
Or toil on the earth below;
And I felt my hand in mine,
I treasured her love as the days went by,
Though I builded no lasting sign;
Of my time on earth, I should say that I had blessings nine times nine.

"And a friend I had who was tried and true
Who shared in my bit of woe;
He wept whenever a grief I knew
And smiled when the hurt would go,
And all that I suffered I'd brave anew
Another such friend to know.

"Oh, it's little I gathered of earthly pride
But to sit again at my own fireside
I'd pass through another birth."
"Love and a friend," the saint replied
"Are the two great joys of earth."

"Dilution can best be minimized by observing some care in driving, particularly at starting. More trouble can be caused by holding out the choke for a few minutes than can be remedied in a long time. In less than a minute half a pint of gasoline can be thrown into the crank-case by this means. Even the best piston rings cannot be expected to stop it all. Liding the engine for long periods will also cause flooding and always a cold engine will be worse than a hot one.

What Gets Into the Motor Oil

Lubricating Oil in a combustion motor is partly oil and partly fuel nowadays, with admixtures of carbon, dust and water, we are told by a writer in The Scientific American. The one really noticeable item of expense attached to the upkeep of a car, he informs us, is that of oil, including both lubricant and fuel. These two together, and their consumption is interdependent more to-day than at any time in the history of an automobile. He discusses the lubricating oil principally, and explains how gasoline has such an effect both on the friction loss in the engine and the money spent on oil to keep it properly lubricated. We read:

"What is known as crank-case dilution is one of the most important factors governing the economical operation of an automobile to-day. When we obtained light gasoline in the early days, there was no such thing though of as dilution of the oil by the fuel. The fuel vaporized readily, and even if some of it did not do so in the carburetor or in the manifold, as soon as it reached the hot cylinder and piston it became gas and mixed with the air. Those times are past forever, because of the growth of the use of the automobile and the need for fuel. The refiner is now put to it to get all the fuel possible for automobile use, from each barrel of crude oil. Much of this lower grade fuel does not vaporize unless it is made very hot of drawn through the manifold at a very great speed. But there are many conditions of working when the engine is cold, as at starting, and when the air and fuel only creep through the manifold, causing the fuel to run down into the oil.

a definite suggestion as to how much fuel can be allowed in oil. It is quite usual to find 25 to 30 per cent. in the winter and 5 to 10 per cent. in the summer. It is the writer's opinion that the nature of the oil has far more to do with the matter than any exact percentage of dilution.

"A badly worn engine relies on the body of the oil to do many things that properly belong to the pistons, cylinders or rings. With a good condition of surfaces it takes only a very little oil to keep down the friction. A condition may arise when there is a good deal of chatter from the working parts. This is caused by irregular contact and surfaces which are not uniformly oiled. There also may be some water in the oil, which has come down from the combustion chamber originally in the form of vapor. If water gets on the surface first, it is very difficult for the oil to get there unless the oil contains matter which enables it emulsify or form a froth."

"The most serious result of water and gasoline getting into the oil is due, we are informed, to the amount of dirt which they carry with them. In addition the deposit of carbon and dirt which is always on the inside of the pistons is loosened and drops into the crank-case. All this acts as a grinding material. If the oil could be kept free from grit, it would last very much longer than at present. No matter how bright or pale the oil is when put into the engine, it soon looks black, due to the very small particles of carbon which collect. This does not do any harm so long as it is not gritty. The writer continues: "No kind of filter used in an automobile will hold up the grit entirely; the best material to use is a woven fabric or cloth. To make a job of cleaning the oil, it should be passed through several thicknesses together;

Animal Remains Indicate Britain Once Was Tropical

England 100,000 years ago was a tropical country in which the inhabitants hunted elephants and other animals of the warmer climates with skillfully made weapons, in the opinion of Major A. G. Wade, the British archaeologist, who has recently made important discoveries in the gravel pits near Farnham Dorsetshire.

Among the relics brought to the surface were the remains of mammoths, an elephant, wholy rhinoceri and beautifully made flint instruments. The finding of the remains of the mammoth and the rhinoceri has no bearing on the climatic theory, according to Major Wade, who said that both had thick coats and could have lived in a cold climate.

"With the elephant," he said, "the case is different. He was not only a warm weather animal, but needed a tropical climate."

The flint instruments consist of great hand axes, oval choppers, discular implements larger than a man's hand which were probably used for skinning and cutting up large animals, and enormous spears of the Paleolithic age. According to Major Wade, persons who used them attained a much higher degree of civilization than those of the Neolithic period who followed them. Major Wade placed the age of his discover'es at 100,000 years, basing estimate on the depth at which they were found under the gravel of the old bed of the Wey River.

Road Making

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I have read with much interest and pleasure a summary in The Evening Telegram of August 29, of a lecture on Road Building by Mr. H. A. Winter. It is pleasing to see after an epoch of indifference to the technicalities of road making a turn to a more intelligent attitude. It is impossible to estimate our losses from such carelessness and it is to be hoped that the pleasant sounds we hear to-day are heralds of a better day about to dawn. We should not, however, fly to the other extreme and begin to construct roads on the new theory merely because the older one has not given entire satisfaction.

Mr. Winter's ideas have a plausible appeal, but as they represent the theories of a man who is not claiming any expert knowledge of the subject there may be flaws in his mechanical design as there are undoubtedly errors in his use of certain technicalities.

However, this does not offer any serious objection to Mr. Winter's first class attempt to solve some of our road building problems for us. I have nothing but praise for the man who tries.

Mr. Winter rightly put first in importance the material from which the road is constructed, but in dealing with this subject he uses technical terms very loosely and in a way rather confusing. Clay and gravel are dealt with by the lecturer in a manner that must be understood only by himself. Clay he speaks of as if it were common garden soil and plentifully disposed about St. John's.

There is no clay about here unless we assume the soil to be of that substance, which would be quite wrong. The gravel he speaks of is a material variously made up of boulders, pebbles and finely pulverized material derived from those same boulders. Technically this stuff is ill and is the result of glacial activity. Following out Mr. Winter's theory it would be impossible to use this material on the surface of our roads unless at great expense.

It would first of all have to be screened to separate the finer from the coarser parts, and as the mesh would admit the desirable size of pebbles it would also pass the pulverized particles. As this pulverized stuff would be objectionable where porosity is desired the gravel should have to be again screened to separate it from the dust.

Mr. Winter objects to the use of what is called a binder, contending that gravel alone is sufficient. If the "gravel" of road makers and not the glacial drift of this country were meant I would possibly agree with Mr. Winter for the angular stuff technically known to the road maker as gravel has the power of binding itself when under pressure. The gravel of our glacial drift if washed clean of its pulverized particles will not bind for the particles are smooth, somewhat rounded and not angular. The fact that our glacial drift makes fairly good road material without any treatment goes to prove how fallacious is Mr. Winter's theory that there is no need of a binder for the binding material goes on with the coarser stuff. The theory that a road must be built of porous material to be dry and durable is poorly established.

refutes completely the idea that a binder is not desirable. Water will not bind incoherent stone or sand, then we know there is clay or silt or some finely commingled material in water-bound macadam. Describing the method he would adopt in road building Mr. Winter ends up by saying "an inch or so of pure fine gravel sifted as fine as possible should form the surface." Now, I am sure Mr. Winter has not given much thought to that expression of a theory so peculiar. In the first place the covering recommended is too thin. Less than six inches for a surface dressing is not good practice. In the second place "fine as possible" Mr. Winter comes very near admitting that the finer the particles the better coherence and smoother the surface.

The belief entertained by Mr. Winter that water will drain through a gravel road leaving none to freeze and expand is quite out of harmony with fact. There must be some of the water retained in the road and there are two well known causes for this, one is the law of capillary attraction, the other is gravitation; if indeed both phenomena are not manifestations of the same law.

There is no natural material one may use in road making that is free from the defect of having and holding water. Below the surface a little way every particle of rock or soil is coated with its film of water and even the supposed solid rock itself holds water within it which is known as interstitial water, and even the close and compact crystal of glassy quartz may have its pretty gem of occluded water in its heart. Mr. Winter's idea that gravel "is capable of resisting great pressure" requires some explanation. All grades are not alike, for their quality of resisting pressure must depend on the quality of the parent rock from which the gravel has been derived.

Rub It In!

For pain, stiffness, or inflammation apply Minard's and rub it in.

The road material found about here being derived mostly from slates and shales, crush easily hence we have such dusty roads. The pneumatic tyre can cause a pulverizing of the particles as readily as the steel tyre of the wagon or box cart.

Of all the discussions there has been on the subject of roads and road making no one has given the question of material a thought until Mr. Winter very thoughtfully refers to it. We ought to be giving this matter very careful enquiry for on the quality of material we use must depend success or failure of our building.

Yours truly,

A Delightful Feature

"The Trail of The Lonesome Pine" Highly Praised by Majestic Patrons.

One of the sweetest romance-stories ever told on the screen is the Paramount picture, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," starring Mary Miles Minter, which opened at the Majestic Theatre with great success last night.

The star, in the role of a comely girl of the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky, is a leading figure of one of the most bloody family feuds ever waged. Antonio Moreno, in the leading man's role of John Hale, is prospecting for coal about the home of Miss Tolliver (Miss Minter). He finds the site promising and takes an option on the property and at the same time on the girl's heart.

Hale, as an officer of the law, arrests a member of June's family for murder and in so doing rekindles the long smoldering feud existing between the Tolliver and Falls families. In the fighting that ensues, Hale is wounded and cared for by June. The girl's love for Hale is the means of reconciling the Falls and the Tollivers, and June and Hale are married.

The work of Miss Minter and Mr. Moreno is most commendable. Tomorrow, a general holiday, this splendid feature will be repeated and every lover of a good screen romance should see it. Note: The admission fee at the Majestic still continues the popular rate twenty cents.

Labradorite

Always we have prided ourselves on the quality of our Labradorite and refused to place on sale stones that did not do credit to the peculiar beauty that is its chief charm. We have now received the first samples of our new stock and they fulfil in every way our ideas of what Labradorite should really be like when made into jewellery.

Specially selected and extra well polished stone made into an assortment of Pendants—Bean, Oval and Square shape are the chief items in our new selection.
