SAN JOSE SCALE INSPECTION IN N. S.

A Second Inspection of the Entire Fruit Belt will be Made During the Coming Season

(By Robert Matheson, Provincial Entomologist.)

During the past year (1912) a fairly careful inspection was made of the 1910, '11 and '12 plantings of fruit trees in the Annapolis Valley for San Jose Scale. This inspection was the result of the discovery of this serious pest early in the season by Mr. G. E. Sanders, Expert, Division of Entomology, Ottawa. Through the kindness of Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion Entomologist, Mr. Sanders took charge of the field work and a very careful inspection was made of the more recent plantings. A summary of the results of this inspection shows that some 150,000 trees were examined and out of this number 723 were destroyed on account of the presence of living San Jose Scale. Though all these trees had been supposedly fumigated with hydrocyanic acid gas, a very poisonous gas, before shipment from the nurseries, yet a comparatively large number bore living scales. On hundreds of the trees the scale was present but on close inspection was found to be dead. The inspectors report that from 25 per cent to 30 per cent of the trees recently imported bore San Jose Scale, either living or dead. On account of this high percentage and of the danger from the presence of this very serious fruit pest it has been decided to make a very thorough second inspection of the entire fruit belt during the coming season (1913). Other portions of the province will also be inspected so far as time permits. Any person who suspects that his orchard is infested with this pest should send portions of the infested branches to the provincial Entomologist, Truro, N. S.

The object of this second inspection is to eradicate this pest if it is at all possible. Stringent measures have been adopted already to prevent the further importation of this pest into the province. If we can locate and destroy all the San Jose Scale infested trees in the province there is no reason why we cannot eliminate this pest for all future time. It is difficult task but is worthy of our best efforts. Of course, in the future constant vigilance will have to be exercised in order that this pest may not again be brought into the province. During the coming summer inspectors will visit all the orchards in the fruit belt so far as possible and may I not ask the hearty co-operation of every fruit grower in this work? The inspectors will be required to secure certain information regarding the origin of the young trees, whether spraying is practiced or not, area of orchard, and a few other points which will be of value in making a general survey of the situation. This data will form the basis of future recommendations in regard to this work and the accuracy, completeness, etc., of this information will depend upon the hearty co-operation of every fruit grower. The fruit growing industry of this province is one of our basic industries and every bit of information gained will undoubtedly prove of value in its future development. It certainly will prove of great value in the study of the problems confronting the provincial entomologist. Your hearty co-operation is earnestly requested and I have no doubt it will be given freely.

Truro, N. S., May 19, 1913.

OCEAN LIMITED HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM LANDSLIDE.

The Ocean Limited had an exceedingly narrow escape from a landslide in the Matapedia Valley last night, says a Levis, Que., despatch of May 31. A heavy special thundered out from Matapedia north at seven o'clock. Just as Ocean Limited, one hour later, was leaving the station a passer-by notified the station master that he had seen the side of Matapedia Mountain cave in about one mile north. The train was immediately stopped and an advance party sent out, and found that a heavy mountain slide had gone right across the track. It required six hours with a large crew of men to clear a passage for the Ocean Limited which will reach Montreal nearly a day late. The pullman cars were all crowded to capacity and the passengers had a narrow escape from what might have been a most serious accident. There were many delegates to the Presbyterian Assembly aboard.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND.

London, May 30.—The Scottish Home Rule Bill passed its second reading in the House of Commons today, and was then referred to the committee. It follows somewhat the lines of the Irish Home Rule Bill, and was introduced by Mr. William Henry Cowen, the member from East Aberdeenshire.

GREAT BRITAIN MAY CHECK EMIGRATION.

London, May 29.—Up to the present Great Britain has been encouraging in every possible way the emigration of its sons to Canada. I understand that a sharp change in policy in this respect is about to be introduced by the Government, and that every possible means will be taken to discourage emigration, especially that class which is most desirable to Canada—the agricultural class.

Of course, Canada is not singled out for discrimination, but Canada will be more affected than other of the Dominion if a marked restriction in emigration from Great Britain takes place. The fact of the matter is that whole districts in our countryside are being depopulated. In many places practically every young man has left, and only old men and women remain. The country has suddenly woken up to the fact that it is losing the cream of its young people, and that every gain to the Colonies is a loss to ourselves.

The Government is now giving its serious attention to this problem, and I understand that Mr. Lloyd-George will make the restriction of emigration one of the planks in his platform, when he introduces the great land reform scheme which he is now preparing.

Peace Treaty Triumph for British Foreign Secretary

Sir Edward Grey Best Man to Fill That Position in a Generation.

London, May 31.—The signing of peace yesterday in the historic picture gallery of St. James' Palace has concentrated attention on the amazing success of Sir Edward Grey's foreign policy. Amid their various temporary discouragements the Liberals have substantial satisfaction in the reflection that they have supplied the best foreign secretary the present generation has known.

Sir Edward Grey has been in power longer than any foreign minister now in office in Europe and has, by sheer ability, achieved a leading position.

Through a period of stress and difficulty he has exalted the honor of the empire, and done more than any living statesman to maintain the world's peace. Since the first mutterings of the Near Eastern storm it has been plain that Sir Edward Grey was dominating international statesmanship, and the crescendo of events, of which the Bagdad agreement with Germany and the treaty of London are the latest examples, has shown the success of his steady, patient efforts toward permanent peace.

FACTORS IN HIS SUCCESS.

Grey's personal qualities have counted for a great deal in these delicate affairs, for only a man whose character stands as high as his could command the general confidence of Europe. But much of his success is also due to the fact that he is known to be a member of a Liberal Ministry upholding the traditional Liberal policy of the Liberals in foreign affairs is a vital and positive policy, capable of achieving the most beneficent result. Not the least remarkable part of his triumph is the changed tone of the watchful and suspicious band of critics on his own side of the house. Those extreme radicals who in past years filled the role of implacably candid friends expressed in Thursday night's debate only praise and unreserved support.

Abroad Grey has taught statesmen and governments to "think European" instead of merely the same balance of armed forces. That lesson will not be lost, and will foster the hope that if the difficulty and delicate questions involved in the remarkable map of Turkey can be solved without bloodshed, so can other things which will arise in the future.

Prohibition Confederation

(Montreal Witness, May 30.)

Mr. Justice Lafontaine and ex-Alderman Carter have been nominated by the Quebec Government as delegates to the International Prohibition Confederation, which takes place in Milan, Italy, from September 22-28. The Italian Government is acting officially in the matter by inviting the Governments of the world to participate in the movement by sending delegates, and as the first named is president of the Anti-Alcoholic League and the latter president of the Dominion Alliance they have been invited to represent the Province of Quebec.

From the accounts of the preparations for the confederation that are reaching Montreal the indications are that both the Catholic Church of Italy and the Government are supporting the movement, as the Archbishop of Milan and the other civil and religious dignitaries of that city have promised their co-operation to make the Congress a success.

MEET IN OLD ROYAL PALACE.

The old Royal residence, "The Villa Reale," will be placed at the disposition of the delegates, who will be gathered together from all over the world. Interviewed today regarding the invitation they had received, Mr. Carter said that while he appreciated the honor he was afraid he would not be able to accept it. Mr. Justice Lafontaine said that although he had been informed that he was selected as one of the delegates he had not yet received the official invitation. He is, however, expecting it any time now, and will accept the honor and go to the confederation.

A $125,000 Gift to Acadia

One of the largest gifts to education made in Eastern Canada was announced last week at the closing exercises in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary of Acadia. President Cutten stated that Senator Nathaniel Curry, of Montreal, had given $125,000 to the college on condition that the friends of Acadia raised a similar amount. This is in addition to the $25,000 Senator Curry gave his alma mater recently and brings his donations to Acadia second only to those of George Munroe to Dalhousie. During the course of his career Mr. Munroe gave $400,000 to that university, but Senator Curry's offer is believed to be the largest individual gift ever made to education in the Maritime Provinces. The largest individual gift in the recent Dalhousie $500,000 campaign was $25,000.

With the donation of Senator Curry Acadia advances a long way towards the goal of an endowment fund of one million dollars which her Senate has long cherished. At present this fund stands at seven hundred thousand dollars. The challenge contained in Senator Curry's offer was taken up at once by the Alumnae of Acadia and Rev. H. H. Saunders, on behalf of the class of 1893, announced the first contribution towards the sum needed. It was $2,000. The friends of Acadia have just completed a three year campaign in which they raised $150,000 in order to secure $50,000 offered by John D. Rockefeller, but are already planning an energetic campaign for the acquisition of this further sum.

Another announcement made by Dr. Cutten was that Dr. Robert Jones, for fifty-three years connected with the faculty, has resigned Professor of Greek.

BOMB BY MAIL KILLS GENERAL.

Chinese Commander Blown to Pieces When he Opened Package.

(Mail and Empire, May 27.)

Shanghai, May 25.—General Hsu Kao-San, generally known throughout the south of China as "Tiger Hsu," who commanded the Yang Chou troops throughout the revolution, was killed today by a bomb sent to him in a package. General Hsu was a noted collector of pottery, and when he received the package this morning he supposed that it contained objects which he ordered recently. As he unfastened the string around the package there was a terrific explosion, and the General and one of his servants were blown to pieces.

General Hsu was a staunch friend of President Yuan Shi Kai, and was cordially hated by the Kuo Ming-Tang, the southern Radical party.

Crop Prospects Promise Well on the Prairies

Winnipeg, May 29.—According to reports from 218 points in the Canadian prairie west, the average height of wheat is from three to four inches, and progress has been fair since the warmer weather came. Seventy-five per cent of the oats and barley are seeded and fifty per cent of these grains up. Not more than 25 per cent of the flax acreage is seeded. Fully 178 points report an abundance of moisture, nearly all having had heavy rains on May 23, 24 and 25.

Thirty points report that rain would be desirable and ten points report "badly needed." The weather is now reported warmer over the entire western wheat belt, and progress since the rain and warmth set in on May 23 has been very marked. Aside from the fact that the crop is undoubtedly backward, conditions at the moment could hardly be more satisfactory. A number of points report growth now so rapid it is almost possible to see it.

For the purpose of comparison a summary of conditions the corresponding date in 1912 is given. At that date 215 points were heard from of which 146 reported conditions excellent, 50 good; only ten actually poor. General conditions were highly satisfactory. Rain was needed at only three points; average height of wheat from four to six inches; 75 per cent of oats sown; 50 per cent, barley and 40 per cent flax. Reports indicated practically all wheat seeding was over by May 20, and that an abundance of rain, following the completion of seeding, had given the grain a good start.

It will be noted from this comparison that last year at the end of May wheat was on an average two inches higher than this year. As has been stated before, while the season is late ideal weather conditions would allow considerable portion of lost ground to be recovered. At the present time conditions are almost ideal, but it must be borne in mind in making any estimates of the out-turn of this crop that the Canadian West has suffered from one of the coldest springs in its history and that this to some extent has affected the crop and will continue to do so.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA

The tide of immigration from the United States into Canada is causing serious discomfort to our southern neighbors. Whittinsville, a prosperous town thirty miles west of Boston, is being rapidly deserted. Last Friday and Saturday three hundred French-Canadian, former residents of the Province of Quebec, left for Edmonton, Alta. Later this summer another contingent will also leave. Many are giving up paying positions in the mills in towns near Whittinsville. Families are being broken up in many cases, and the station presents a sorry sight. The immigration to Canada from this and other New England towns is becoming alarming to local business people, and an effort will be made to induce the French-Canadian residents to stay. The Canadian Government is working actively through agents all over New England to induce the Canadian-born people to return to their native country.—Globe, May 28.

BELGIAN ARMY ENLARGED.

Brussels, May 29.—Parliament passed today the Army Bill raising the peace strength of the army from 40,000 to 55,000 and the war strength from 180,000 to 340,000. Of the latter 180,000 are intended for the field and 160,000 for the defence of Antwerp, Liege and Namur. Every Belgian over nineteen years is liable to be called to arms but many exemptions are provided for. The period of service in time of peace will be fifteen months in the infantry, twenty one months in the siege artillery corps and twenty in the cavalry and field artillery division.

The industrial department of the C. P. R. is arranging an excursion of manufacturers and business men of Ontario and Quebec to tour the Maritime Provinces during the last week of June.

TREATY BETWEEN TURKEY AND ALLIES

Greece Held Out for the Addition of a Protocol Until Last Moment

London, May 30.—The preliminary treaty of peace was signed today by the delegates in London of all the Balkan Allies and of Turkey, at St. James' Palace. Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, presided at the meeting.

THE GRECIAN ATTITUDE.

Greece, it is learned, will persist in her demand for cession to her of such Macedonia territories even if occupied by Bulgarians, as are Greek by nationality and tradition. Greece is prepared to yield on minor points to Bulgaria, but the unalterable basis of her policy will be a demand for all territories, the population of which is actually Hellenic.

The Greeks view with bitter disappointment and resentment the friendship growing up between Bulgaria and Turkey and speak of the Bulgarians as having "turned against their brothers."

The Turco-Bulgarian entente is regarded as nothing but an attempt to isolate and threaten Greece. The Greeks assert that the success of the war was due to their naval operations, and that these alone should gain for them special consideration. Grecian feeling as regards Macedonia and the Aegean Islands is strong and deep seated, and will be a cause for the Greeks to resort to extreme measures.

HELD OUT FOR PROTOCOL.

Greece held out for the addition of a protocol until the last moment, when she was assured by Turkey that all conventions prevailing before the war, should resume their effectiveness until an opportunity was given to discuss the points at issue.

The protocol which Greece wanted appended to the treaty embodied reservations by the Allies on points yet to be discussed with the Powers, such as the financial post bellum settlement, the fate of the Aegean Islands, and the frontiers of Albania. Bulgaria and Turkey refused absolutely to have anything to do with a protocol, the former regarding it as too likely to open up fresh and undesirable discussions, the latter displaying a lack of deference to the Powers.

MAY SIGNALIZE WAR.

While the peace of London may end the war with Turkey, it may be the signal for strife among the Allies. The speech of the Serbian Premier in the Parliament at Belgrade on Wednesday when he explained that Serbia desired a modification of the treaty with Bulgaria regarding the division of territory, instead of allaying irritation, has increased it to such an extent that it is not likely now that his meeting with Premier Guehoff, of Bulgaria, on the frontier will take place. All the efforts of Russia to bring about peace between Bulgaria and Serbia apparently have failed and the worst is feared. Meanwhile the quarrelsome Allies are throwing enormous bodies of troops into Macedonia for the purpose of occupying disputed territory.

The relations between Bulgaria and Greece are still extremely strained. The Bulgarians thus far have refused to create a neutral zone at Salonki where the Greek Premier M. Venizelos is waiting to meet the Bulgarian general Ivanoff. This conference is expected to check the Bulgarians militarily, who apparently are acting in defiance of the home government.

BOY DIES FROM HURT RECEIVED DURING PLAY.

(Morning Chronicle) Little John James Williams, the five-year-old son of John Williams, of No. 29 Spring Garden Road, Halifax, met with a fatal injury while at play near his home Friday afternoon. While playing "leap frog" he fell after a leap and was unable to arise, being in extreme pain. Dr. MacAulay who was near by at the time, picked the little fellow up and had him removed to the hospital for immediate operation. The operation was performed immediately but the boy's injury was beyond human skill and he passed away Saturday morning. It was found that in his fall the liver had broken apart.

COL. ROOSEVELT MAY RETIRE FROM THE OUTLOOK.

New York, May 26.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, contributing editor of the Outlook, may retire from his post at a very early date. It will depend altogether as to what the board of directors do in the matter of his salary. His pay is said to be $50,000 a year.

A SUGGESTION TO AID FISHERMEN.

Boston, May 26.—In an attempt to reduce the high cost of living, Mayor Fitzgerald has a plan to ask all coastwise steamers and United States naval vessels to report by wireless as soon as a school of mackerel is sighted. The mayor believes that sending radio messages giving masters of fishing schooners the exact location of the schools, would greatly aid the fishermen and public. He thinks the system should be adopted not only in New England waters, but along the Atlantic coast.

COMPETING FOR CANADIAN TRAFFIC.

London, May 29.—Entering the competition for Canadian traffic from Liverpool, the Cunard Company have made a new port of call. Yesterday the Franconia left Liverpool for Boston, but she will put in first at Portland, Maine, and there discharge one thousand passengers she has for Canada. The White Star Line recently adopted a similar policy with regard to their Boston service.

KING AND QUEEN RECEIVE AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

London, May 29.—The King and Queen returned to London last night from Berlin and were received with an enthusiastic welcome by large throngs. They were met at Victoria Station by the Duke of Connaught and Prince Arthur of Connaught. Sir Edward Grey also was present.

A picturesque feature of the return was the welcome to their Majesties by a naval waterplane and a biplane which flew from East Church to meet the royal yacht at the Nore, and thereafter at a height of several hundred feet made graceful curves around the vessel.

In the Peace River Country

In a recent address to the members of the Canadian Club at Vancouver, Hon. J. K. Cornwall, M.P.P., gave his hearers what he described as a "business man's geography lesson of this country."

"I have been in the country for seventeen years, and have been over practically the whole of it," he said. "In the Peace River country there are forty-five million acres of arable land. In British Columbia east of the range I want to give you a little geography. In this country (pointing to the map) 75 per cent of it is practically the same kind of country as this country in the stream of the Peace River. This little portion that I am pointing out has 3,500,000 acres of land, which is the piece of land that the Federal Government owned in British Columbia. That was given to the Federal Government by British Columbia to pay off a debt which they owed to the C. P. R. They agreed to give a certain amount of the land just the same as the rest of the Province did. The railway company did not care about this particular kind of land, so the Federal Government lent them land between Medicine Hat and Calgary. They asked British Columbia to pay that off at a time the Federal Government was forcing the C. P. R. to make this. There is in that place 75 per cent of that land that you can put the plow in today without clearing an acre. Forty per cent of the balance of this land is equally good land, in fact, it is a good deal better down to facts, you have in British Columbia, east of the range, inside your Province, at least twelve million acres of arable land, just as good land, in fact, it is a good deal better than any land you ever saw in western Canada.

MILLIONS OF ARABLE ACRES

"There are 45 million acres of land fit for cultivation and 85 per cent of that is ready for the plow in the Peace River Valley. This follows the most northern limit of the arable land that is fit and easy to cultivate. The C. N. R. is going from Edmonton in this direction. So you have between Vancouver and the forty-five millions of land in the Peace River country, and the twelve million acres of arable land, altogether fifty-seven million acres of land that is tributary to Vancouver. It is not only tributary, but it does not make any difference what railroad transportation company has undertaken to build, the product of that country must come into Vancouver.

"There are about five thousand settlers in this country. This year they had a very excellent crop of wheat. They grew No. 1 hard. The greatest area of land that you have in British Columbia that will grow No. 1 hard is up in the Peace River. Instead of importing 50 per cent of what you do, to feed yourselves, you can export if you develop that. The development of Northern British Columbia bears the same relation to that country as the development of the Kootenay did to southern Alberta.

"This country is all going to be developed. Settlers are pouring in there. It is the last of the best free land left to the Anglo-Saxon race in the world. I will tell you something of the climatic conditions. It is the healthiest and finest climate in the West. It is free from the winds of the lower West, it is a Chinook country. As you go north the range becomes lower and the Japanese current comes in here. On the 20th of February I had experience of the Chinook. I have also seen three feet of snow on the 20th of February in another year. It does not follow that it will Chinook every year. In this country dry cows and steers will winter out three years out of five. You have got millions of acres of land within the present boundary of Alberta, not to speak of that part of northern Alberta that you have got millions of acres of land that will raise beef where beef has been raised and wheat grown for twenty-five years.

NAVIGATION ON THE PEACE RIVER.

"Now something of the Peace River. The Peace River is navigable from Hudson Hope to Fort Smith, with the exception of one interruption at Vermilion Shoals. There is a fall of twenty-five feet. It is navigable for steamers, that is, for sternwheel boats. Steamers are plying there today and have been plying for a great many years. From the Mackenzie watershed there are 3,500 miles of navigable waterway on which boats are plying today and have been for twenty years.

"Speaking about waterways I will take a navigator and a boat from Vancouver, drawing seven feet of water, and I will bring it around to the northern boundary of Alberta. That is to say, you can bring a boat from northern Alberta to Vancouver. This is a highly mineralized country. These lakes are teeming with fish of the highest value. Iron is known here. It is quite barren, because trees do not grow. Notwithstanding that fact it nourishes millions of caribou from the north and south. At the 60th parallel is the most northern point where you can grow wheat successfully.

FUTURE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

"You people here have got one of the greatest Provinces in the Dominion. You not only have a great Province, but on account of its geographical position you control the best half of what I consider the greatest agricultural province of the Dominion, the Province of Alberta. Your present policy of building roads is a good one. You are going in the right direction. There are no roads that have been built into here as that road that is being built north-east, because you are tapping a country that will bring business to you. These roads, the C. N. R. and G.T.P. are tapping it, and they are going to pour down into here the products of all this country.

"There is a good deal of speculation whether you are going to get it or whether it is going the other way. By putting in transportation they are going to come here for their stuff. In the winter 'time it is 2,200 miles to Halifax, and 1,700 miles to Vancouver; that is not a winter port. There are three things that are important. There is the Panama Canal; there is the completion of the P.G.E. and the C.N.R. and the G.T.P. These are the two. I do not know but what it probably excels the other one in importance, is the opening of these forty-seven million acres of land to the northeast of here."

PRACTICAL RECORDS

Almost every dairy farmer who commences to weigh and sample his cows' milk individually says at the end of a few months "I find some in my herd were kept at a loss." Some men find only one or two cows, others state that they have found too many in the herd play a losing game.

What does this mean? Just this: that despite all the experience gained from years of practical dairying, the farmer finds that in order to become thoroughly "practical" he must request the aid of dairy records. Neither the cow's appearance, nor the owner's knowledge of some short-period yield of milk (extraordinary as that yield may have been for a day, or one week, or a month) will testify with certainty to each individual cow's ability to pay her way for the whole year. Cow testing provides a simple and eminently practical way of discovering, not only if each cow pays, but which cows pay the most profit on the twelve months' transaction of feed consumed, and milk and fat produced. Those large-profit cows are revealed only by practical cow testing.

Cows are apt to cheat the unsuspecting dairyman unless he keeps tab on the performance of each one; many dairymen have found this out to their utter astonishment and regret. Don't take chances with your herd, be certain that each cow pays; it pays you to find out. Individual cow records help the practical farmer to build up a profitable herd.

Parents and Holidays

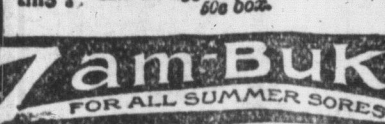

During the last two or three generations a change of some importance has come about in the relations between parents and children of the public school class in this country. A hundred years ago most English boys looked upon their fathers very much as the Children of Israel looked upon Moses. They lived under the law (and the Catechism), and they showed their respect for the law-giver by habitually addressing him as "Sir." The child, when he reached years of discretion, was expected to honor as well as to love and succour his father and mother, to honor and obey and submit himself to the various people by whom he was governed and shepherded, and to order himself lowly and reverently to all his betters. It was an old-fashioned plan, but on the whole it worked fairly well. Today it has to a large extent been superseded by a system under which the child is placed on terms of the most friendly and intimate familiarity with his elders—in many ways and for many reasons a most desirable consummation in itself, but not always productive of the primitive childish virtues of obedience, lowliness, and submission.

The significant change from the patriarchal and formal "Sir" to the familiar and affectionate "dad" of today did not take place all along the line at the same moment. In some cases it began a very long while ago. To Charles Ravenshoe, for instance (who was born, as Henry Kingsley's readers will remember, in 1831), old Squire Denzil was "father" and even "dad." And, on the other hand, though we may hope that the race of Dick Bultitudes is almost extinct, there are still many families of the old style in which the sons feel for their fathers a very wholesome awe, however, much they may love them. But the change, though not yet universal, was making headway all through the Victorian age, and in the last two reigns its momentum has increased with startling rapidity.

In a very large number of cases the modern father is an admirable product of the age. He takes his duties and responsibilities with great seriousness, and cares deeply for the spiritual, moral, and intellectual advancement of his children. He has made himself in a way never seen before in the history of the world, their friend and playmate. He thinks about "the boys" as constantly as their masters, who in term time practically think of nothing else. He honestly wants them to be good at their work as well as in his games, and tells them so. But during the holidays his one object is that they should have a good time, and to that end, aided and abetted by his wife, his servants, and all the other grown-up people in his house, he sets himself to make the holidays as unlike term time as possible. Do they do work at school for five or six hours a day for the good of their minds? Then in the holidays they should do none. Do they take regular exercise and get up and go to bed early for the sake of their bodies? That, again must be altered. Let them eat and drink and generally indulge themselves, for tomorrow they go back to school. That, or something very like it, is how the modern father (and the modern mother) too often maps out his children's holidays, and, woe that end in view, effaces himself and gives up his own pleasures with an unselfishness that in itself is altogether praiseworthy. But the worst of it is that self-sacrifice in the parents does not always tend to produce the same quality in the children. It is possible to be too unselfish and too familiar in our dealings with the young, to treat them too much as playmates and to think too much about their amusements. Long before Mme. Montessori wrote in praise of the "discipline of freedom" it was part of the new plan to try to win the love and confidence of children by avoiding, as far as possible, all direct commands. And the consequence too often is that, when parental authority has to be exercised it is met by argument instead of obedience. That undoubtedly is the modern tendency; and it provokes the question whether we should not do well to go back on our tracks and import into the friendly and familiar atmosphere of the home a little more of the ordered discipline of school life, a little more of the quiet and obedient spirit of the Roman centurion who was set under authority.—London "Times."

NEW YORK MAN DIES IN PARRISBORO.

Parrisboro, May 29.—H. E. Coulton, who has been in those parts for the last three weeks canvassing for Colliers Weekly, was found dead this afternoon in the rear of C. W. Palmer's confectionery store. He was not feeling well this morning and lay down in some straw, and was thought to be all right. The proprietor looked in, however, about three o'clock this afternoon and found he was dead. He was a man of good appearance, and about sixty years of age. The deceased hailed from New York. An inquest will be held tonight.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1913

A young lady, daughter of a member of the New Zealand Parliament, now a student in the Pulitzer School of Journalism, New York, contributes to "The Sun," a very interesting and instructive letter on various phases of life in her native land.

New Zealand is the most southerly inhabited country in the world and is decidedly cold. Antarctic Expeditions generally make one of its ports their last resting place before sailing to the land of ice and snow. Even in the middle of summer a good warm fire is needed all day long.

There is no child labor in any part of the country, as in many places in the United States and also in Canada, of which the papers have recently given sad instances. Girls under 18 years of age and boys under 16 are prohibited by law from being engaged in any form of factory work. After six o'clock, p. m., boys are not even allowed to sell newspapers on the streets, or to do any messenger work. There are no beggars in the country, excepting a few blind men who gain something by playing organs, neither are there any other unemployed persons. Wages are high, even charwomen getting from two to two and a half dollars per day. There is an eight hour day for all laborers, and besides the noon hour, a quarter of an hour is allowed for recreation both in the morning and afternoon. The manufacturers and merchants at first resisted this innovation, but after a time they acknowledged that the general health of their employees was benefited and there was no diminution in the quantity of work accomplished.

Twenty years ago, New Zealand was the most drunken country in the world.
The chief employment in those days was mining, and the miners were hard drinkers. Commercialized immorality in the form of the white slave traffic, or houses of ill-fame, is not to be found, even in the cities. Government inspection provides a good supply of pure milk, one result of which is that infant-mortality is the lowest in the world.

It is claimed that the New Zealand schools are the finest in the world. And the attendance is compulsory. Boys and girls of the Governor-General and of the laborers mingle in the same classes and receive instruction in good citizenship and politics as well as history and other usual branches.

The feeble minded are not confined in asylums, but are placed on State farms, where they work, as they are able, in the open air. Every father who has an illegitimate child is required to provide for its maintenance until it is fourteen years of age, and also to make provision for it in his will.

New Zealand and Australia have a mutual arrangement by which wife-deserters of either country are shipped back to the place they have left, and are obliged to work for two dollars a day, which is paid to their families.

Miss Mander believes that these and other reforms have been hastened, if not solely initiated by woman suffrage. The women spend little time in public speaking, but they read and talk with each other about public affairs and make a quite general use of their privileges at the ballot box, and as usual they form and act upon their own opinions. Miss Mander was accustomed to accompany her father on his canvassing tours, and she says that not infrequently, a man asked for his vote would refuse it, but add, that his wife and daughters were of her father's opinions and would give him their votes. Being asked her views as to the proceedings of the militant suffragists, she replied, that no Englishman ever got a vote without fighting for it. There are, however, different ways of fighting. To fight for reform by argument and agitation and spectacular marches and passive resistance is legal, but to fight by personal violence, by methods which endanger life, by the destruction of the property of law-abiding citizens, in a country where democratic institutions prevail, is anarchy.

That female suffrage is one of the coming reforms is a pretty safe prophecy.
But, it is equally safe to say that those persons who seek the ballot by anarchical methods will be very likely, if they should in this way gain their desire, to use the same anarchical methods to enforce their opinions in other matters coming up for consideration.

The recent decision of the British Government to put an immediate end to the traffic in opium with China has been received with great satisfaction by all those most deeply interested in the moral progress of the Empire.

The treaty between the two countries provided for the sending to China of 26,781 more chests of opium of the value of about fifty millions of dollars, but, Mr. Montague announced in Parliament, that while this money would be lost to the Indian revenue, the Government has determined to meet the wishes of China, by revising the treaty, the only condition being that China should continue steadfast in her policy of prohibiting the use of the drug.

Will it be possible now to stop the importation into China of the deadly cigarette which is being introduced by thousands of American agents?

Travel Notes

Everything looked refreshed by the needed showers on Friday, the 23rd ult., and the prospect from the windows of the car was very pleasant.
Green fields, newly plowed land, and opening blossoms formed a picture which the lover of natural beauty could not fail to appreciate. This as we moved along was followed by the impression of the large acreage of this beautiful Annapolis Valley which as yet, has hardly felt the touch of cultivation, and waits to reward the work of the toiler. It cannot be otherwise than that, in the near future, these neglected fields should be occupied by evidences of a population and fruitfulness as marked as in any part of the Valley. Further on we reach the fertile Cornwallis region and the historic Grand Pre, and arriving in Windsor, we find the Midland train waiting to take us to Truro. This line has been much improved of late. We were surprised to see two large cars, replacing the half-and-half arrangements which were common on this road a short time since, and filled to repletion with an intelligent looking and well dressed company. And what a fine looking country has been opened up by this road! The only undesirable feature is that the lumbermen are denuding the land of its trees, large numbers, not larger than fence poles lying along the streams, awaiting the remorseless saw. In Truro the new station, a large and commodious stone structure, as also the large freight sheds, is approaching completion, and looking at the crowds moving to and fro at the time of the incoming and outgoing trains, one wonders where all the people are going. What a change from the Truro we first knew, when the arrival of the daily coaches, with perhaps eight or ten passengers, was the chief excitement of the sleepy little town.
Now there is a population of about seven thousand, and a large number of factories—hats and caps, shirts, unshrinkable underwear and sweaters,
condensed milk, products of the iron foundry, etc.

One old landmark is wanting. Only a few blackened timbers remain to mark the site of the First Presbyterian Church, where the Rev. Dr. Mc-Culloch for many years preached and exercised a very large influence for good.

The only towns of importance on or near the line of the I. C. R. between Truro and Amherst, are Londonderry and Oxford. But, Amherst is speedily increasing the number of its industries. It is consequently drawing to itself a large population, and will soon become, in reality the third city in Nova Scotia. Passing from Amherst to Sackville we find ourselves on historic ground. Plainly the ruins in the site of the old French fort of Beauséjour, taken by the English and renamed Fort Cumberland. The ruins are on an eminence quite prominent, and only a few miles distant from Fort Lawrence, another stronghold of the early Colonial days.

Parkman in his two volumes, "Montcalm and Wolfe," presents the history of these times in a very graphic manner, and removes from the English to a very large extent the reproach to which they have frequently been unjustly subjected for the expulsion of the Acadians. These volumes may be found in "Everyman's Library." They can be procured for about thirty cents each,
and should be in every school library
in Nova Scotia.

CORRESPONDENCE

Granville, June 2, '13.
Editor of Monitor,

Dear Sir,—Through the columns of your valuable paper I beg to call the attention of the Street Committee of the Incorporation of Bridgetown, to the disgraceful condition which they have allowed. Granville Street west to remain in since the first of March.
We feel that a force of men should be put to work on this street at once, so as to make it passable, as it is in a dangerous condition.

It is now June and those to the west of the Town have been compelled to wallow through mud hub deep and in many cases have had their teams stuck and had to go for help to get them out.

Now, Mr. Editor, since I have been a resident of Granville, I have heard some of your most esteemed citizens on many occasions making unpleasant remarks about our country roads.
To my observation we have had a fairly passable one until we reach the Town limit.

Hoping some action will be taken in the matter, I am,
Yours truly,
GEO. I. SALTER.

Methodist Circuit Notes

The fourth meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the circuit for the church year just closing was held at the parsonage Monday evening. Fourteen members of the Board with other officers of the church were present. At 6.30 the men surrounded the supper table and did justice to the bountiful meal prepared by some of the ladies of the Bridgetown congregation. The regular business of the Board was attended to with serious carefulness and earnest endeavor. Reports from the various departments of circuit work were encouragingly given. A large number of the former officials were re-elected. Stewards for the year as follows:—Dr. M. E. Armstrong, F. E. Bath, John Wilkinson, Herbert W. Bent, Harry G. Parker,
J. Howe Ray, Phillip Inglis, Howard
E. Bent; Recording steward, Dr. Armstrong; Chapel steward for Bridgetown church, Lansdale Piggott, F. E.
Bath was appointed Circuit Financial Steward and H. B. Hicks Circuit Treasurer; Howard E. Bent was elected circuit representative to the Annual District Meeting to be held at Middleton next Wednesday.

The anniversary exercises of the circuit will be held at each appointment the first Sunday in October.
Services next Sunday as follows:—
Bridgetown, morning and evening,
Rev. B. J. Porter; Bentville, morning service, Dr. Jost; Granville, afternoon service, Rev. B. J. Porter.

BRITAIN AND UNITED STATES SIGN NEW TREATY.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Bryan and Sir M. Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, late today signed a renewal for five years of the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which expires by limitation on June 4th.

The treaty provides for the arbitration of The Hague Court of any differences of a legal nature not affecting "the vital interests, the independence, or the honor of the two contracting States," and which do not concern interests of third parties. A form of special agreement, covering the subject to be arbitrated, subject to the Senate's approval, is prescribed. The British treaty is the fourth of the arbitration conventions to be renewed this year, the others
those with France, Italy and Spain.
Diplomats here are awaiting with much interest the expiration of the similar treaties with Japan and Mexico.

The treaty with Japan expires by limitation on August 24. President Wilson has announced his willingness to renew it, but Japan has given no reply in the matter. The treaty with Mexico expires on June 7. Its renewal involves the recognition of the Huerta Government, so that President Wilson has not included it in his list.

Other special treaties, all of which the President has expressed willingness to renew, expire in the following order: Norway, June 24; Sweden, August 18; Portugal, Nov. 14, and Switzerland, Dec. 23.

1,200 EMPLOYEES STRIKE.

Boston, May 29.—Twelve hundred employees of the B. F. Sturtevant Company at Hyde Park struck today.

Both companies are controlled by Governor Eugene Foss. The strike which was voted last night is to enforce a demand for twenty per cent wage increase and improved working conditions.

ALFRED AUSTIN DEAD.

London, June 2.—Alfred Austin,
British Poet-Laureate since 1896, died today at the age of 77. The poet laureate died at his home, Swinford Old Manor Ashford, Kent, where he had been lying ill for some time.

Rev. E. S. Mason of Port Maitland Yarmouth County, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church here on Sunday last. His sermon, both morning and evening, were greatly appreciated by the large congregations present.

Yesterday, the 48th anniversary of the King George, was observed in Bridgetown as a holiday. The factories and all places of business were closed throughout the day. Flags were flying from the school house and from various private residences.

The first degree of Oddfellowship was conferred on a candidate by Crescent Lodge, I. O. O. F., last Thursday evening. The Lodge expects to confer the second degree tomorrow (Thursday) evening. A large attendance of members is expected.

The death of Rev. J. W. Bancroft occurred at Deerfield, Yarmouth County, on May 30th. Mr. Bancroft had been pastor of the Deerfield and Pleasant Valley Baptist churches for three years. He was born in Round Hill and the remains were brought there for burial.

Now that the Educational Institutions of various kinds are pouring out their students for the summer holidays, we desire to call special attention to an article on page three of this issue, from the "London Times," which is applicable to the situation in Nova Scotia as in England.

A Parlor Concert will be held at the residence of Mr. J. W. Peters, Monday evening, June 16, when local talent will be heard in a program of vocal and instrumental music. The Band will probably play from 7.45 to 8.15, in front of the residence. Watch for full particulars in next week's issue.

In the inter-class track meet at Acadia last week, two Bridgetown boys figured prominently in the various contests. Mr. Lawrence Harlow won first prize in the 100, 220 and 440 yards dash and was third man in the total of points won in the whole contest, being only two points behind the first man. Mr. Harlan Phinney won second place in the high and broad jump and in the pole vault.

The four trips a week between Yarmouth and Boston will begin this year with the steamer Prince Arthur leaving Boston on Friday, June 6, alternating with the Boston. The daily trips will begin on Sunday, June 23, when the steamers North Star and Prince Arthur will perform the service. The Boston will lay off for repairs and overhauling and will serve as a spare boat if necessary.

Inglewood school has now quite a large number of appropriate juvenile story books as well as a fair collection of standard works from different authors for the grown ups who have a taste for reading. The children wish to heartily thank Miss Ethel M. Daniels for her generous gift, which they enjoy very much, and to wish her good health and happiness. Also to thank all kind people who have in any way made the library a success.

The season is here when a word of caution might be extended to those who have occasion to light fires in or about forest lands. Fishermen or farmers, who light fires, should be careful to see that the fires are under control while burning, and that they are thoroughly extinguished before being left. The exercise of a little care along this line may save thousands of dollars in property.

The Twenty-first Maritime Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp will be held again this year at Big Cove, Pictou County, from July 2 to 16. This is the oldest camp for boys on the North American Continent, with one exception. The camp will be in charge of E. W. Forbes, of Whitney Pier, C. B., who has had a long experience as a leader among boys.

Fredrika, wife of the late Edmund Stevens, formerly of Lawrencetown, passed away on Sunday last, at her residence, 20 Green street, Halifax, in the 78th year of her age. Mrs. Stevens had been ill for eleven years and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Prince, Lawrencetown, and Mrs. A. A. MacLeod, Calgary, Alberta, and two sons, E. F. and Frank G., of Halifax.

A letter from the pen of Mr. Geo. I. Salter, which appears in this issue, deals with a matter of great importance to this town. While those living in the town have appreciated this spring, the permanent work done on the main thoroughfares, the approaches to the town from all sides (with the exception of South street) have been well nigh impassable at times: This state of affairs has undoubtedly caused a financial loss to the business of the town, and steps should be taken to remedy the evil. We learn the Street Committee of the Town Council are experiencing difficulty in getting stone hauled to the crusher, which has delayed work on the streets to a considerable extent.

THE HOME

GLORY OF MOTHERHOOD.

The demands of modern society have educated many of the young people of the present day, both men and women, to despise children.

Not long ago a reporter interviewed a famous and financially successful opera singer who has devoted her life to her art.

"Yes, that is the way of human beings. She who will not when she may cannot when she will. When I was a girl I was sent to a training school of art, and on every side my natural ability was praised, and I was told that with my naturally strong character I would become a famous and successful actress.

IRONING THE CLOTHES.

Keep the ironing board well padded with outing flannel or any other soft, thick material and have the outside covering of clean white cloth.

The irons should be clean. Rust, starch, and other accumulations hurt the clothes. The irons should be scraped with a sharp knife rubbed in salt, and then rubbed over wax or paraffin to keep them clean and smooth.

A little white soap shaved into boiling starch helps it not to stick. A teaspoon of sugar gives gloss to the starch, and a teaspoonful of salt added to the cooking starch sets delicate colors, and thus keeps them from fading.

The best stiffening for lingerie waists or other thin lawn materials is made by dissolving a tablespoon of granulated gelatine in a cup of cold water, then add one quart of boiling water. This stiffens the materials just about as stiff as a new cloth is.

Sprinkling clothes by a whisk dipped in water or by shaking the water out of a large-sized salt cellar distributes the dampness more evenly. Sleeve boards are easily made and aid in making the gathers of a full sleeve iron more easily.

Remember that too hot an iron will fade delicate fabrics far quicker than wearing in the sun. If flannels are to be ironed they should require a warm, never hot, iron, as woollens scorch quicker than any other material.

A last help is this, don't spend time and strength ironing towels, diapers, woolen and gauze underwear and stockings, as this is unnecessary labor and means strength and time.

GLADSTONE ON BOOKS.

And now I commend you again to your books. Books are delightful society. If you go into a room and find it full of books—even without taking them from their shelves—they seem to speak to you, to bid you welcome. They seem to tell you that they have something inside their covers that will be good for you, and that they are willing and desirous to impart to you. Value them much. Endeavor to turn them to good account, and pray recollect this: that the education of the mind is not merely a storage of goods in the mind.

WHITE FOOTWEAR VERY PRETTY

During the coming summer white footwear is to be more fashionable than ever, and the conventional white shoes for outdoor occasions will be cut buttoned boots of white buckskin, with a moderate Cuban heel and vamp on the new, long line now considered pertinent and distinguished.

New types of piazza footwear are included. There is a colonial pump of white calfskin with a covered heel and an odd trimming of black patent leather laid under a row of perforations.

PUREE OF BAKED BEANS.

Put two cups baked beans into a sautepan, add small piece of pork, if you have it, season with two quarts hot water, season with pepper and salt and add one-half onion. If you do not use the pork add one tablespoon butter. Boil until the beans are very soft, then press through a sieve and serve.

FRUIT TAPIOCA.

Take the syrup from one can of peaches or pineapple and add boiling water to make a pint. Stir in one-quarter teaspoon salt and one-third cup of tapioca. Cook in double boiler until transparent. Butter pudding dish, flavor tapioca with lemon and pour over fruit. Bake twenty minutes and serve with cream and sugar.

STRAWBERRY SALAD.

Take the heart leaves from head lettuce, heap strawberries on each and sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar, then put a teaspoon of mayonnaise on each and serve cut lemons with them.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

THE HUMAN SLAUGHTER-HOUSE

There are a few books which stand out in one's memory for their ruthless, vivid, and nauseating pictures of the horrors of war and its consequences. In my own memory there remain the ineffable pictures, presented in the pages of Robert Buchanan's fine novel, "The Shadow of the Sword," now, alas! neglected; Zola's masterpiece of military history, "Le Débacle" and Paul and Victor Marguerite's "Le Désastre." I might mention several others, but let these suffice.

It was quite natural that the war party in Germany should have seen in Herr Lamszus' stinging and staggering indictment of modern warfare, and the machine-made patriotism, and the terrible and useless wastage of human life and human labor, a dangerous weapon in favor of pacifism.

Then there comes a series of vivid word-pictures which show us what modern warfare really is. We can see all its ferocity, its blindness, its colossal sacrifice of human lives to machines, and the hysteria of the war-inspired press.

There is a sound like the cracking of whips from somewhere or other, falls on his rifle, and lies still and never stirs again. . . shot through the head, clean through the head, that's what the cracking of whips mean.

There is a very terrible picture (space will not permit of my quoting from it) of the increasing carnage. We see the soldiers shot down in battalions, we see them on the march, reforming, plunging into a terror, swallowed up by the mud, going down into the slimy abyss, which was, after all, preferable to being shot and left to die of thirst and gaping wounds in the open under the sky, which seemed to rain bullets, blood and sand.

There is a very terrible picture (space will not permit of my quoting from it) of the increasing carnage. We see the soldiers shot down in battalions, we see them on the march, reforming, plunging into a terror, swallowed up by the mud, going down into the slimy abyss, which was, after all, preferable to being shot and left to die of thirst and gaping wounds in the open under the sky, which seemed to rain bullets, blood and sand.

The last pages are almost too poignant to be read without tears. For the soldiers the earth is, after the horrible carnage and slaughter, dead. The writer himself has been shot down by his own hand in an act he has witnessed. Men have gone mad on every side of him—mad with the lust of battle; mad because of the horror; mad because human brains, flesh, blood, and muscles can no longer stand the strain of fighting against machine guns which "butcher" in a mechanical and heartless way.

There is a picture of the journey towards the front. "We hurry past forests and rivers, past meadows whose extent I cannot see, past hills that rise away into the blue of distance, past an immeasurably rich country that stands golden in its ears of corn. And over it all shines the sun of one's native land. And I would fain spread out my arms. Yes, our native land is fair and great, and worthy that a man should shed his blood for it."

Without a pause we are plunged headlong into the battlefield of yesterday. In the field of stubble which they have to cross the dead are lying thick. "The first dead man we saw struck us dumb. At first we hardly realized what it meant—this lifeless new uniform spread out there—from the way he was lying you could hardly believe that he was

For Loss of Hair

We will pay for what you use if Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not promote the growth of your hair.

In all our experience with hair tonics the one that has done most to gain our confidence is Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. There is a such well-founded faith in it that we want you to try it at our risk. If it does not satisfy you in every particular, we will pay for what you use to the extent of a 30 day treatment.

If Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not remove dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, stop the hair from falling and promote a new growth of hair, come back to us and ask us to return the money you paid for it, and we will promptly hand it back to you. You don't sign anything, promise anything, bring anything back, or in any way obligate yourself. Isn't that fair?

Doesn't it stand to reason that we would not make such a liberal offer if we did not truly believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do all we claim for it—that it will do all and more than any other remedy?

We have everything there is a demand for, and are able to judge the merits of the things we sell. Customers tell us of their success. There are more satisfied users of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic than any similar preparation we sell.

Start a treatment of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic today. If you do, we believe you will thank us for this advice. Two and a half bottles, 50¢ and $1. You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store: ROYAL PHARMACY, Bridgetown, Nova Scotia.

really dead. It gave you a prickly feeling on the tongue. . . So that was death. We knew all about it now. That is what it looks like, and we turned our heads back and shuddered. An icy breath was wafted to us from the dead man, and a chill hand clutched at our terrified hearts.

Then a fleeting though vivid vision of home comes to this soldier, standing amid carnage, of his children, of the people he loved to take down and read when the lights were lit in the evening and his feet were comfortable in slippers. It moves him strangely and he is outside himself until he suddenly feels the rifle in his hand and sees the dead at his feet again. He calls out in his weakened and agonized cry, "My God! how can such things be? How can two worlds be so terribly close to each other?"

Then there comes a picture of a picture of a modern battlefield, untouched for vividness by the woe of any special war correspondent. We see the "long-drawn line of skirmishers" advancing, and hear the rumble and reverberations of the distant cannonade. No one is to be seen where they are firing, or at what, but a sense of oppression seizes upon the hearts, brains, and chests of the men who are still advancing under orders, but as blindly as though their eyes were bound with handkerchiefs. There is no sound of martial music. No sense of exultation. Only the anxious feeling that dulls brain and heart alike, and the gripping sense of unknown terror.

"There is a sound like the cracking of whips from somewhere or other, falls on his rifle, and lies still and never stirs again. . . shot through the head, clean through the head, that's what the cracking of whips mean."

There is a very terrible picture (space will not permit of my quoting from it) of the increasing carnage. We see the soldiers shot down in battalions, we see them on the march, reforming, plunging into a terror, swallowed up by the mud, going down into the slimy abyss, which was, after all, preferable to being shot and left to die of thirst and gaping wounds in the open under the sky, which seemed to rain bullets, blood and sand.

New Tricks by New York Crooks

Many a perfectly innocent man or woman has found himself or herself in serious trouble in New York without a moment's warning. There are new snares and traps baited each day for the unwary, says The York Sun.

One trap which almost caught a man old enough to know better was sprung at a subway station recently. While a crowd was waiting for a train a well-dressed young man stepped up to an elderly man and said quietly:

"I'll trouble you to return that that money you just took out of my pocket."

"What do you mean?" asked the older man in astonishment. "That $52 you robbed me of," said the younger man. "Give it up."

A policeman walked up, and the young man soon explained the trouble. "Do you accuse that man of robbing you?" asked the policeman. "Yes," said the young man. "That man stood near me, and now I remember he jostled me several times. He has my money."

This the other indignantly denied, but he was nevertheless taken to the police station. There the desk sergeant asked how much money the young man had lost.

"Fifty-two dollars," was the reply. The old man was searched, and a roll of bills containing just $52 was discovered. In another pocket he had $3 and some change. In vain he protested that he was a reputable business man and sent a messenger for friends. When things looked mighty black for him he exclaimed:

"Why, I just drew that $52 from the bank," and showed the stub in his check book.

The desk sergeant called a policeman from the rear room. "Collins, do you see anyone here you know?"

"Yes," said Collins, pointing to the young man, "that's Jimmie, the slick pickpocket, just out last month."

The young fellow saw the game was up and confessed. He had seen the old man draw the money from the bank, and thought when he accused him and could be so accurate as to the amount that his victim would give up the money rather than be arrested.

"It was a long shot," said Jimmie, "and I have lost. That's all."

At a widely-known restaurant a young woman and a man sat at one table and at another was a woman alone. Presently the woman went to the ladies' reception room. A few seconds later, the young girl followed her. In a few minutes the woman returned and started to finish her meal. Shortly afterwards the girl reappeared and held a whispered conversation with the man. Then the girl walked over to the woman and asked:

"Did you find my rings?"

"Your rings?" repeated the woman. "Why, no."

The girl explained that when she entered the reception room she had laid her rings on the washstand, that the odor of cigarette smoke had affected her and she had gone out, and that when she returned her rings were gone. She surmised, of course, that the woman had found them. And would she kindly return them and avoid trouble?

The woman protested that she had not seen the rings. The girl insisted that she must have them. The manager was called, search was made in vain, and the girl demanded that the woman be arrested. At last the woman asked:

"How much were your rings worth?"

"Oh, not so much," said the girl, visibly brightening. "They were keepsakes. In all they were worth about $40."

After some thought the woman said, "I haven't seen your rings, but I realize that I am in a most embarrassing position. To avoid further trouble I will give you $20, which I have in my purse, and my gold vanity case, which is worth far more, if that will settle the matter."

The girl accepted the offer. As the woman started to put on her wraps the girl opened the vanity case and dumped out on the floor some gold-tipped cigarettes, thus corroborating one part of her story.

The transaction had seemed very peculiar to one of those who witnessed it, and when the girl and man left he followed them. They walked up Fifty Avenue a few blocks. Then the man thrust his hand into his pocket and handed the girl some things.

LIGHT TO GET HOME.

A solemn hush is broodin' o'er the moor, The stars are stealing through the loor, The light that's left of day is nearly o'er, Ere I am home.

The moor-tracks wind into the pathless night, Till they are lost at last upon the height; But in the west there lingers all the light To see me home.

The love that led me all the golden way, Nor left me when my feet had gone astray, Will hold me still, at dying of the day And bring me home. —Charles Kingsley.

APPEAL COURT AGAINST MILLER

Mr. Justice Hutchinson's judgment in the suit of the Diamond Light and Heating Company against their former president, Mr. R. C. Miller, who is at present a prisoner of parliament, has been upheld on all points by the Court of Appeals. This decision of the highest court in the province was not, however, unanimous, as Mr. Justice Gervais dissented all along the line from the opinion of his colleagues. In a word Mr. Miller has been given the alternative of accounting to the Company for the sum of $41,000, he claims to have spent in securing business, or of returning the money.

Mr. Justice Trenholme in delivering judgment on behalf of the majority of the Court, declared that the term "sundries" was not sufficient accounting for the $41,000, and that the Court could not support Miller in his refusal to give details of the expenditure. His Lordship also upheld the ruling of the lower court calling upon Miller to account for the sum of $1,800 said to have been paid to a Mr. Fraser, who at the time was an official of the Marine Department at Ottawa. Mr. Miller was further condemned to pay the Company $900 for rent of their office which he used for other business in addition to that of the Company. These were the three points on which the Superior Court had ruled in favor of the Company and the present confirmation carries full costs in both courts. There is, however, strong probability of an appeal.

Mr. Justice Gervais in dissenting, held in a case where disbursements were in advancing the interests of a Company, the accounting given by Miller was sufficient. His Lordship considered that if a general statement was not in enough under such circumstances, a director of a company would never be free from the liability of suit being taken against him or his heirs to force a detailed statement for disbursements made in the interests of a company.

Mr. Justice Cross, while agreeing with his colleagues on the other points did not think Miller should be called upon to give an accounting for the $1,800 paid to Fraser.

BEWARE OF STOVE POLISH!

After reading a news item from a United States paper telling of how a woman was badly burned through the explosion of the polish while polishing a hot stove, it seems a good opportunity to warn others to beware of using polish on a stove that is still hot. Most such polishes are partly composed of gasoline, a substance which is highly explosive when brought into contact with heat.

RHEUMATISM KEPT HIM IN BED

Suffered Tortures Until "Fruit-a-lives" Cured Him

McMILLAN'S CORNER, ONT.,
 "Your remedy, 'Fruit-a-lives', is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatica or Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year for days at a time. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything—it would pass away. They gave me mustard plasters and other remedies that did no good. Plasters took no effect on me—except to blister me and make raw spots. I took many advertised remedies without benefit, but fortunately, about two years ago, I got 'Fruit-a-lives' and they cured me.

Since then, I take 'Fruit-a-lives' occasionally and keep free of pain. I am satisfied 'Fruit-a-lives' cured me of Rheumatism and they cure anyone who takes them as directed. If this letter would be of value to you, publish it." JOHN B. McDONALD.

Indeed, this letter is of value to us and to the thousands of sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago and Neuralgia. It points the way to a certain cure. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 retail size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

"THE TROUBLE MAN."

This is the name given in many parts of Canada to those who repair telegraph lines or telephones. Some people take all the advantage of them they can. We were talking with one of these "trouble men" not long ago. He complained very loudly about people giving so much more trouble than they needed to. Sometimes he was called up in a storm or in very cold weather to attend to some trifle that could have been adjusted by the people themselves. So long as they thought someone else would do it they would not try themselves. That was one side. Another complaint was, that people tried to attend to the telephone themselves and made the trouble worse. But the usual difficulty was something very trifling.

The world at large has its troubles. "The trouble man" somehow appeals to us. He sets things right. People do get into trouble, very often their own fault,—maybe not always—in any case it disconnects them with the rest of the world for the time being. How good to be able to go in and adjust things. Sometimes this is as simple as fixing the telegraph or telephone to those who know how. A word of counsel, some brotherly advice, a little parable, a bit of humor, may set things right again. Sometimes strong words of truth have to be spoken. "Trouble men" need to be kind, tactful, ready and sympathetic.

Each age of our lives has its joys. Old people should be happy, and they will be if Chamberlain's Tablets are taken to strengthen the digestion and keep the bowels regular. These tablets are mild and gentle in their action and especially suitable for people of middle age and older. For sale by all dealers.

Orators in Trouble

The first time a man speaks in public he probably suffers more agony in a shorter space of time than at any other part of his career, says The Manchester Weekly Times. A certain young gentleman—it would be unkind to give his name—felt the truth of this very keenly the other day, when he found himself facing an audience of five and independent electors. He had prepared a very fervid oration in support of his father's candidature for the local municipal council, but for the first few moments he could do nothing but gasp. Then, in response to an encouraging cheer, he began to speak.

"Mr.—Mr. Chairman," he stammered, "when I—when I left home this morning only two people on this earth—my father and myself—knew what I was going to say, but now—well, now, only father knows."

To the young orator it may be a source of consolation to know that not one but many of our most eminent speakers have cut most ludicrous figures with their maiden efforts. One of the most notable collapses was that of Lord Guildford, whose debut as a speaker in the House of Commons was such a painful experience that he decided never to repeat it. "I managed to speak two or three sentences," he afterwards confessed, "when a mist began to rise before my eyes. I then lost my recollection, and could see nothing but the speaker's wig, which swelled and swelled and swelled until it covered the whole House. I then sank back on my seat, and never attempted to speak again."

Then, again, it is really remarkable how few public men, and even men accustomed to the platform, are capable of making an extempore speech without "putting their foot in it." Many of these worthy individuals whom we find occupying the chair at public meetings seem to possess the unhappy knack of doing this sort of thing. It was one of this type who was the presiding genius at a poorly-attended meeting when a well-known bishop was the speaker. Wishing to apologize to his lordship for the meagre audience, he said: "A worse speaker would have done, but, though we tried, a worse could not be found."

"The speaker," said another chairman, "is one who is always with us, and we wish that he would come oftener." Another is reported to have said, "All know the lecturer and none doubts his incapacity." A third said, "I need not assure you of the capacity of the speaker to lecture on 'Fools'—you have heard him too often."

A famous missionary from India had the following, left-handed compliment paid him at Dublin not so long ago: "He comes," said the president, "from that land where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile!" It was some time before he could start his address owing to the irrepressible mirth of the audience. At a meeting in London the absence of Lady Henry Somerset through illness was apologized for in the following words: "Dear Lady Henry has been overworked, and we must, of course, be careful not to kill the goose that lays the golden egg." It was a lady speaker who not so long ago gave it as her opinion that alum children were brought into the world with no more knowledge of home comforts than the children of negroes in Africa," while at a gathering in Glasgow, some years ago, a Socialist said there were "hundreds of children about our streets crying out with their feet."

An Edinburgh preacher the other night called for "perfect silence while we sing." Another who is guilty of misplacing his h's prayed that "we might be brought to the halter," and asked for "mercy on the herring." Describing a tour, a lecturer once spoke of a mountain being "too steep for a donkey to climb, therefore I didn't attempt it." Another when giving a lesson on natural history and describing the hippopotamus said: "But you boys there will have no idea what he is like unless you look at me." That was a poser, too, which another speaker put to his audience when he asked, "Suppose a halloo was to land upon an uninhabited island what would the natives say?"

"One drop of this poison placed on the tongue of a cat is sufficient to kill the strongest man," was the startling statement once made by a lecturer also who perpetrated the following at a big meeting: "All along the untrodden paths of the future we can see the hidden footprints of an unseen hand."

"Bulls" on the public platform are common enough, and yet how often they have been the means of introducing a spice of merriment—"innocent merriment," as Mr. Gilbert would have said—into the meeting that would otherwise have been deadly dull. In this respect nobody has contributed more towards the gaiety of nations than our friends of the Emerald Isle.

Thus we are told that it was an Irishman who, when declaring against England's injustice and Ireland's wrongs, gave this remarkable example, "While Ireland remains silent," he passionately exclaimed, "England will be deaf to her heart-rending cries!" It was a genuine Irishman also who said: "The naked sword is drawn for the fight, and gentlemen, never again will the black smoke of Nationalists' tar barrels drift on the Home Rule wind to darken the hearts of Englishmen."

HOW MEANINGS CHANGE.

(From the London Chronicle.)
 In the sixteenth century the word "imp" had a very different meaning from that which it bears now. One sentence of a prayer composed under Henry VIII, for general use in churches ran: "Let us pray for the clement Majesty, and for the prosperous success of his entirely beloved son, Edward our Prince, that most angelic imp." The word "brat" has also changed his meaning. A sixteenth century hymn writer, George Gascoigne, refers to Abraham's brats, that brood of blessed seed.

Causes Much Disease And how to relieve them.

Don't neglect indigestion, for it may lead to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent physician has said that ninety-five per cent of all ills have their origin in a disordered stomach.

Our experience with Resal Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be one of the most dependable remedies known for indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. Rich in Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine, the relief they afford is very prompt. Used persistently and regularly for a short time, they tend to relieve pains caused by stomach disorders.

Resal Dyspepsia Tablets help insure healthy appetite and digestion, and promote nutrition. As evidence of our faith in them, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give entire satisfaction, we will return the money you paid us without question or formality. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. You can buy Resal Dyspepsia Tablets in this community only at our store: ROYAL PHARMACY, Nova Scotia, Bridgetown.

THE COST OF WARSHIPS.
 (London Engineering, March 28.)

The correspondence which has taken place between the First Lord of the Admiralty and the Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada, incidentally indicates the great advance that has taken place within recent years in the cost of ships. The main theme of the letters is concerned primarily with the possibility of building warships in the Dominion, and Mr. Churchill enumerates the very extensive and costly appliances necessary for manufacturing all the elements which go to make up a modern battleship, and arrived at the conclusion that the cost of laying down the plant alone would, at a rough estimate, be approximately £15,000,000, and that four years would be occupied in the process. He indicates that the new shipyard which Sir W. G. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co. have constructed below the swing-bridge on the Tyne, in order to enable them to build ships of greater beam, has cost approximately £750,000, and that two years have been occupied in its preparation. It is further stated that the Japanese have taken twenty years to work up their warship building, and now take over three years to build a battleship; although anxious to build all ships in their own country, they still find it necessary to have some of them built in Great Britain. The figures given by Mr. Churchill show that a battle-cruiser of the Australia type, ordered in Great Britain in 1909-10, would cost, according to the prices then current, £2,293,660, whereas today the price would be £2,652,100. Again, the cost of three "Town" cruisers have gone up from £1,112,310 to £1,234,900; six torpedo-boat destroyers from £667,125 to £843,000; three sub-marines from £274,875 to £365,000; and stores and fuel for these from £59,280 to £64,400 Mr. Churchill takes the view that the facts prove that it is impracticable to proceed with the building of capital ships in Canada at the present time. He does not attempt to give in actual figures the cost now of the ships to form a Canadian fleet unit corresponding to that of Australia, but he adds that the increase in cost for ships built in Canada would equal 25 or 30 per cent over the prices now quoted in Great Britain. The interesting point is that now Canada, for such a fleet unit as Australia has built, would have to pay, even in Britain, £5,159,400, instead of £4,407,151 three years ago, as compared with seven millions for three battleships of the latest type. The First Lord points to the higher cost of maintaining these ships in Canada, owing to the economic conditions prevailing there, and estimates that, at Canadian rates, the cost of maintenance would be £581,250 per annum, against £412,192 under prevailing conditions here. On the whole question of manning, Mr. Churchill points out that our resources are now strained to their utmost limits, more especially as regards lieutenants, specialist officers (gunners, torpedo, and navigation), and the numerous skilled professional ratings which cannot be improved or obtained except by years of careful training. His arguments undoubtedly force one to the conviction that the most practical and economic course for Canada to pursue—at the present time, at all events—is to make a contribution in ships, leaving the manning and other provisions to the Imperial authorities. But, of course, the home country cannot dictate to any of the dominions over the seas the policy they should pursue in this matter.

Joker's Corner

"Mike, I'm going to make you a present of this pig."
 "Ah, sure; an' 'tis just like you, sor!"

The Candidate (passionately)—
 "From the day I was twelve I earned my own living! I owe no man a penny! Gentlemen, I made myself!"
 The Voice—"Well, you made a mistake!"

THOUGHT IT WAS A SHEATH.
 "Wife, where is my new silk umbrella cover?"

"I guess there has been a slight mistake," admitted his wife after a few moments. "I sent it to my dressmaker and told her to let it out to a trifle over the hips."

Bishop Earl put this question rather suddenly to a little boy who stood trembling at the head of his Sunday School class. "Who made the world?" The little fellow with quavering voice replied "I didn't." The bishop, astonished at the answer demanded, "what do you mean?" Still more frightened, the lad replied "If I did I won't do it again."

"Little boy, is that your mamma over there with the beautiful set of furs?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "Well, do you know what poor animal it is that had to suffer in order that your mamma might have the furs with which she adorns herself so proudly?"
 "Yes, sir, my papa."

NOT HIS DENOMINATION.
 "Now, look here, sir," exclaimed the game-keeper imperatively, "didn't you see the notice at the end of the this road, 'Pedestrians not allowed'?"
 "I did observe a notice stating that pedestrians were not allowed here," replied the mild-mannered gentleman, readily, "but, you see, I'm a Congregationalist."
 "Oh, indeed," returned the game-keeper, slightly puzzled, "then I suppose it's all right, sir. You can walk on."

REV JOHN McNEILL'S WIT
 Rev John McNeill, the famous Scotch Presbyterian preacher, who recently took the pastorate of Cooke's Church, Toronto, is the subject of many stories which serve to show his wit and his ready resource in repartee. His friends say that he was never stumped while making a public address, and they tell of an occasion when Mr. McNeill was holding revival services in Cardiff, Wales. A young man, thinking to perplex the preacher, sent a note up to the platform with the request that the following question be publicly answered: "Dear Mr. McNeill, if you are seeking to enlighten young men, kindly tell me who was Cain's wife?"

The great preacher read the note and, while the audience hung breathlessly on his words, answered slowly and emphatically:
 "I love young men inquirers—for truth especially—and should like to give this young man a word of advice. It is this: 'Don't lose your soul's salvation looking after other people's wives.'"

REMORSE AT LAST.
 Years ago Senator John Sharp Williams, while practising law, was appointed executor of the estate of a wealthy client who left as sole heir, a lively son of twenty seven years. Hardly had the funeral baked meats been consumed when the expectant youth, hitherto held in subjection by stern parental rule, came around after a bunch of money for an initial good time.

"You'll have to wait a few days until I qualify as executor," said Mr. Williams. "Come around next week, my boy."
 The youth departed in disappointment, but promptly turned up the following week.
 "Sorry, young man, but I can't pay out anything until the will is probated," said the executor. "Drop around in a few days, won't you. It'll be all right then."
 With deeper disappointment the heir took his departure. A week later he called again at the office.
 "I'm sorry, my boy," explained the executor, "but I really can't pay out any money on this estate until certain claims are adjusted. Come back in a couple of weeks and I can let you have all you want."

The boy turned gloomily to the door. Reaching there, he bent a sorrowful countenance toward the lawyer.
 "Mr. Williams," he said with a sigh "don't you know, sometimes I feel right sorry the old man died!"

Clementsport

Clementsport, May 30.—Capt. Amos Burns, of the Cochran, Burns and Farnsworth Co., Boston, spent a few days recently at his home here.

Mrs. Craig of Middleboro, is the guest of Mrs. H. Potter for a time.

Mr. Joseph Kempton, from Lynn, was in the village one day last week.

Capt. Norman Rawding and wife had a son born unto them recently. —Congratulations.

The schooner Bobs has had some fitting up this trip, which will benefit her materially.

Several commercial men representing different firms, were in the Village last week soliciting orders.

Mrs. S. Potter and Mrs. F. Balcom who spent the winter in Boston, returned to their respective homes here a few days ago.

Rev. J. Lockwood, pastor of the Episcopal church here, is at time of writing, in Halifax attending a meeting of the clergy in that city.

Good progress is being made towards completion of the new steel bridge which spans the beautiful Moose River on which our picturesque village is situated.

Mr. Harry McCormick, brother of one of our popular merchants, M. C. McCormick, accompanied by his wife and daughter of Granville Centre, were the guests of said brother for a short time recently.

Mr. Wambolt and daughter of Halifax, spent a few days in the Village recently visiting Miss Wambolt, teacher of the advanced department of our school, who is also the daughter of Mr. Wambolt.

Sch. Mercedes, Capt. Fred LeCain, is showing a good record so far this season, having made the last two trips to Boston in a little less than a month, and news of her arrival in Boston on her third trip has been received.

The Sch. Emma E. Potter, that is undergoing repairs will, if all goes well, be ready for sea in a short time. She has had a good going over and will, doubtless, be much better for the trade in which she will be engaged.

Mrs. A. D. Roop returned from Boston a few days ago and will take charge of Clementsport's popular summer hotel recently vacated by Mrs. Jean Shaw, now Mrs. Samuel Shaffer of Granville Ferry. We wish Mrs. Roop success, and hope she will have the success of her predecessor.

Bear River

Bear River, June 3.—Mr. Richard Clarke is home from Acadia.

Road work is the order of the day this week.

Mr. Albert Robbins, the old hunter, killed a bear last week.

Mrs. F. A. Chalmers went to St. John on Saturday for a visit.

Miss Alice Rice returned home last week from her visit to Boston.

Mr. George Alexander is the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. I. D. Vroom.

Mr. Gordon Beeler, Lequille, spent the week end with Dr. and Mrs. Archibald.

Signor Stasio and Madame Berini arrived from the United States on Friday for their summer holidays.

Mrs. Flora Purdy, after spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Arthur Archibald in Brocton, Mass., returned home on Saturday.

West Paradise.

West Paradise, June 3rd.—Mrs. Frank Blackadar of Clementsvale, is visiting at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Tripper.

Mrs. George Whitman, who has been visiting her brother, Newman Daniels, has returned to her home in Berwick.

Preaching service will be held in the Hall on Sunday evening, June 8, at 8 o'clock. Social service Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

A "wee sma" stranger arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sabans one day last week, and asked permission to stay a while with them. They have concluded to keep him. —Congratulations.

Mr. Rufus Saunders of Hyde Park, Mass., is visiting his brother, J. W. Saunders, for a few days; also Mr. Abner Saunders, cousin of the above, of Reading, Mass., was here for a few days calling on friends and relatives.

The heavy rains of Thursday and Friday last has retarded the progress of planting for a few days. A few bright, sunny days would be quite a treat to the farmers, especially those who have wet, heavy soil to cultivate.

The second Inter-maritime shoot was shot over the range at this place on Saturday last. There were ten men shooting who made an average per man of 95.1. Staff Sergeant B. W. Saunders topped the list with a score of 99 points out of a possible 105.

Mr. Alonzo Daniels, who recently sold his farm in this place, has purchased a farm at Clementsport. As Mr. Daniels is one of our old land marks, we regret exceedingly his departure from our midst. Both in the Sabbath School and social service his place will be hard to fill, having attended faithfully to both for the last forty years or more.

Nature, at the present time, is clothed in her finest array. No artist on earth can paint anything that would at all compare with the Annapolis Valley at the present time. The mountains on either side clothed with their different shades of green, the Annapolis River flowing peacefully along with green fields and marshes along its banks, and the orchards now in full bloom, which resemble one large bouquet of beautiful colors. This is indeed a sight well worth any one's time to drive through the country and gaze upon.

LOST ENGAGEMENT RING ON LINER.

(Montreal Witness.)
A tearful maiden came down the gangplank of the Allan Liner "Pretorian" when she docked here this morning at 9.30 o'clock after the run from Glasgow. The cause of all the tears of the fair newcomer was suggested by a little announcement that was posted on the bulletin board of the vessel.

"LOST—Gold engagement ring, three diamonds. Initials J. W. to M. W. Liberal reward offered finder."

But it was with an unadorned finger that the heart-sore lady had to leave the ship, for, in spite of the ransacking of the big liner from stem to stern, the engagement ring could not be discovered. Even the offer of a liberal reward to the finder and the knowledge that a sad fate would be made joyous again at the sight of the three-diamond band failed to produce the much-prized treasure.

The ring disappeared while the vessel was in mid-ocean, while the lady was on her way to Canada to make a new home for herself with her "Prince Charming" in the West.

There was tragedy on the ship, too, for a detective of Toronto Detective B. Cronin, returned from Glasgow with a prisoner wanted in the Ontario city. The man was charged with stealing about $2,600 from the Grand Trunk Railway there. After he was wanted by the police he fled to Liverpool, but the arm of law was long, and when he walked down the gangplank there, an officer was waiting for him.

The detective and his prisoner, who were the best of friends apparently on board—so much so that few of the passengers knew their exact relationship to each other—left for Toronto this afternoon.

The "Pretorian" had a cold trip across the Atlantic, and saw two icebergs. She carried 240 second and 550 third-class passengers, of whom 421 were from Glasgow and 336 from Londonderry.

PAULINE JOHNSON FORBADE DISPLAY OF MOURNING.

The will of the late Miss Pauline Johnson, the Indian poetress, so well known in Bridgetown, has been entered for probate at Vancouver, B. C., and reveals an unusual amount of contemplation for the inevitable end of her last illness.

The opening clause of the will which provides for the cremation of her remains and the scattering of the ashes, adds:

"When dead, I desire to be dressed in my grey cloth evening cloak, with my small gold shield shaped locket, containing the photograph of a young boy, fastened around my neck by my small gold chain; also I desire to wear my gold rings of the design of two serpents, and to have my silver ebony crucifix placed in my hand."

The final clause of the will reads as follows: "I particularly desire that black not what is termed 'mourning' for me as I have always disliked such display of personal feeling. I desire that no mourning note paper or stationery be used by them, and that no tombstone or other monument be raised in my memory, as I prefer to be remembered in the hearts of my people and my public."

SAYS DUKE CANNOT SPARE THE TIME.

London, May 29.—A news agency states that the Duke of Connaught will probably return to Canada in July and perhaps accept another twelve months term of office as Governor General. This report, however, is received here with doubt. The Duchess is certainly on the way to recovery but it is extremely doubtful if under any circumstances the Duke could spare another year for Canada.

WANTS NO GIFTS ON HIS JUBILEE.

(Mail and Empire, May 27.)
Berlin, May 25.—With the exodus of the visitors who came here to attend the wedding of the Kaiser's daughter already begun, Berlin is divesting itself of its wedding array only to don new and more elaborate festive attire for the week of celebration from June 8 to June 15 in honor of the 25th anniversary of Emperor William's accession to the throne.

While the decorations of the city for the royal wedding were confined mainly to flags, Berlin will endeavor to outdo itself in gorgeous array for Jubilee week. An elaborate scheme for decorating Unter-den-Linden calls for the expenditure of no less than $100,000. On June 6 the Kaiser and his entire court will be present at the opening and dedication to the Emperor of the Olympic stadium on the edge of Grunewald Forest.

The Kaiser has intimated that he does not desire to receive personal gifts on the occasion of his jubilee. He wishes those who wish to celebrate his reign by gifts to make them to educational, charitable and philanthropic institutions.

NOW ARCHDEACON MARTELL.

At the meeting of the Anglican Synod in Halifax the announcement of the appointment of Rev. Dr. Martell, of Windsor, as Archdeacon of Nova Scotia, in succession of the late Archdeacon Kaulbach, and of Rev. Canon Lloyd as dean in succession to the late Very Reverend Dean Crawford, was received with echoing applause. Men more fitted by gifts of mind and personal sanctity for these responsible offices could not have been found in the diocese.

LADIES MUST HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR TO BE ATTRACTIVE

SALVIA
The Daintily Perfumed Hair Tonic
Creates a Magnificent Head of Fluffy, Luxuriant Hair—Men and Women of Culture use Salvia, the Latest Paris Hair Dressing and Tonic—It will Make Your Hair Grow or Your Money Back.

SALVIA—the Priced of Paris Hair Dressing and Tonic—at once goes to the roots of the Hair and turns harsh characterless hair into beautiful wavy hair, full of character and life—hair that changes the whole appearance.

SALVIA destroys the dandruff and will positively make hair grow. SALVIA is not a sticky sulphur preparation, but a pleasant non-sticky and daintily perfumed Ladies of taste and refinement wouldn't think of using any other. All actresses in every country now use SALVIA continually.

We claim and absolutely guarantee that SALVIA will create new growth of hair. If your hair is getting thin, commence using SALVIA at once. It will soon stop your hair from falling out and make the hair grow.

SALVIA is compounded by expert chemists, who have made the hair and its diseases a life-long study.

If your druggist doesn't happen to have SALVIA in stock, insist on his getting it for you; don't allow him to sell you "something just as good" because there isn't anything "just as good" as SALVIA. All wholesale druggists in Canada sell SALVIA; and your druggist, if he is up to date keeps it. Refuse substitutes.

A large generous bottle sells for 50 cents.

There is no substitute for Royal Baking Powder for making the best cake, biscuit and pastry. Royal is Absolutely Pure and the only baking powder made from Royal grape cream of tartar.
