The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

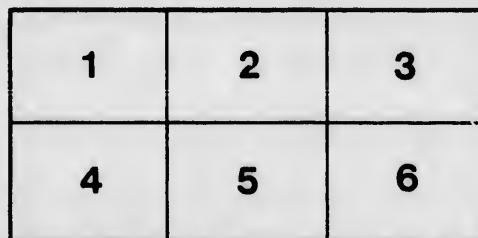

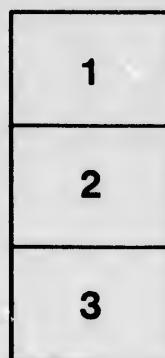

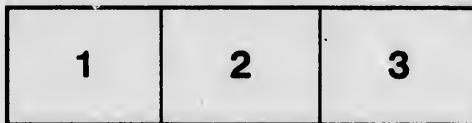

Seminary of Quebec
Library

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche sheet contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▽ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Séminaire de Québec Bibliothèque

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plan et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plan, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▽ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

Les étrangers, qui mettent avant tout leur amour-propre à parler correctement le français, n'osent pas juger nos écrivains autrement que les autorités littéraires ne les jugent, de peur de passer pour ne pas les comprendre.

“ Ils vantent le style plus que les idées, parce que les idées appartiennent à toutes les nations, et que les Français seuls sont juges du style dans leur langue.”

Mme. de Staël.

The French language is rapidly becoming in Toronto, what it is in Europe, the language of select Society ; and the special aim I have already successfully kept in view of extending its use, and rendering its acquisition an easy task, is a sufficient apology for publishing a Second Edition of my work.

During the ten years I have been in Canada, it has been my privilege to be the instructor of many young ladies of the first families both in Toronto and from other parts of the Province.

I have, therefore, been able to ascertain their requirements and the defective system previously pursued ; and under the method adopted by me, the learning and speaking of this specially useful tongue, have been mastered by numerous pupils under my care.

This success has not been limited to private families, but extends to public academies, from which my pupils on proceeding to the University of Toronto, have repeatedly obtained the highest standing in French as well as in German.

I may state that at examinations for entering the British army, several of them passed with great distinction ; and such success I refer to, with the greater confidence, as my pupils have too frequently been limited to such a brief period of study, especially in public seminaries, as to place both them and myself under the greatest disadvantage.

These and other impediments have not been overcome without exertions which for a time seriously impaired my health ; but the highly satisfactory results finally attained, enable me now to look back on my labour, with unalloyed pleasure ; and to appeal with confidence alike to my pupils and their guardians in confirmation of my uniform success, wherever my exertions have been adequately appreciated.

Toronto, April, 1862.

EMILE COULON.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

Le français ayant été parlé plus qu'aucun autre dialecte européen, est à la fois poli pour l'usage et acéré pour le but. Aucune langue n'est plus claire et plus rapide, n'indique plus légèrement et n'explique plus nettement ce qu'on veut dire.

Mme. de Staël.

Although I have explained in the First Edition, the method upon which this work is based, as I have greatly improved and enlarged upon it, a few words of explanation may not be found amiss.

THE FIRST PART.

The first part as revised, contains all that is needed for a thorough and complete beginning.

The exercises are designed to aid in the application of the vocabularies and of a few rules interspersed through it, freed from such intricate idioms that are superfluous to the young student.

The few rules thus introduced would be particularly difficult to remember, as is the case in all Ollendorffian systems, did not the Second Part or Grammar, reproduce them in their proper order, time and place.

In these exercises, I have deviated from the ordinary practice, and have marked only those words which vary in their inflexions in French, and which are invariable in English.

THE SECOND PART.

The second part I have entirely remodelled. It offers complete and comprehensive rules to the Syntax.

And by paying a close attention to the manner in which I have classified the formation of the feminine in adjective, the pronouns and especially in verbs, it will be found more correct as well as more simple than what has hitherto been published on that subject.

The verbs are fully detailed; and in order to facilitate the study of the irregular verbs, I have introduced (page 144,) a rule for the formation of all irregular verbs of the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th conjugations.

Besides this, I have been careful to place the derivative tenses next to those from which they are formed, so as to supersede the arduous and slow manner in which they were learned before, which so greatly impeded the progress of students, and to render it mere child's play. Were this its only feature, it would suffice to confer on this work a value, which others of this kind could vainly claim.

At page 93, I have treated the gender of nouns, and the rule there given, simple as it is, has proved fully adequate to the general want.

The difficulty experienced when writing French composition, with respect of the using of the prepositions either with verbs, nouns or other prepositions, is at once removed by the list and application of them, p. 168. They will prove beneficial alike to the beginner and the advanced student.

THE THIRD PART.

The Third Part is entirely different in its contents from the former edition, in which the subjects were too diversified and too long to retain with advantage.

The method is precisely the same, with this addition, that the verbs, in full, are printed in italics, so as to command the attention of the scholar and enable him to be exercised upon the different parts of the verbs.

The English of the Third Part is selected from good English authors.

I have adapted the translation of each to the other, so as to bring out in a forcible and clear manner, the differences of the two languages, and to give an insight into the construction of them.

With regard to the 1st and 2nd parts, I am indebted to the Rev. Mr. Checkley, the learned Rector of the Model Grammar School, who kindly revised the English of it.

In reproducing this little work, my anxious desire has been to render it worthy of my friends and pupils, and such as shall secure the favour of Canadians in general.

y called i-grec, (Greek i) has the sound of the French i, also of the French ii, when placed after a vowel followed by another vowel or a consonant.

physique; y, there; moyen, means; pays, country; moyenne, average.

IMPORTANT REMARK.—The French vowels unlike the English, never vary in sound, and consequently should never be departed from.

REMARKS UPON THE VOWEL E.

e with the acute accent ('é) sounds like a in fate, as : bonté, kindness; charité, charity; été, summer.

è with grave (‘è) sounds like ay in ray, as mère, mother; père, father.

ë with the circumflex (^ë) sounds something like è but a little longer, as même, same.

e called mute or silent, and without any mark over it, in monosyllables or in words of but one syllable, as : me, te, ce; has the sound of the u in but, nut, as given before; but at the end of a word of more than one syllable, sounds little or not at all, as : Je donne, I give; Je prie, I pray.

IMPORTANT REMARK.—The terminations (e, es, unaccented) at the end of any word, must not be heard, unless it be of one syllable, as : de, des.

Ent, termination of the 3rd plural in verbs, is never heard.

LETTERS.

DEUXIÈME LEÇON.—SECOND LESSON.

DIPHTHONGS AND OTHERS, AND THEIR SOUNDS.

au, eau, sound like oa in boat ; Example : Taureau, bull.

ai, ay, do.

ay in pay : payer, to pay ; paix, peace.

ei, ey, sound something like ai, ay, but not so broad : reine, queen ; dey, dey.

oi, oy, sound like wa in water : roi, King ; royaume, kingdom.

ou sounds like oo in cool : ou, where ; pour, for.

eu, sounds something like u in fur : peur, fear.

œu, do. do i in sir : sœur, sister.

REMARK.—eu, all throughout the verb Avoir ; to have, has the sound of the French u : J'ai eu, I have had ; Nous eûmes, We had.

NASAL VOWELS.

They are :

1.

AN, EN, generally the same.

IN, EIN, AIN AIM ; nearly the same.
fin, end ; frein, check ; pain, bread, loaf ; faim, hunger ;
dessein, design ; dessin, drawing.

3.

ON, the sound of the vowel must be borne in mind.
chacun, each ; un, one, a ; aucun, any, none.

4.

UN, the sound of the vowel must be borne in mind.
don, gift ; garçon, boy ; maison, house ; salon, parlor.

5.

OIN, the sound of the vowel must be borne in mind.
point, net, point ; coin, corner ; soin, care.

REMARK.—en, after i or y sounds generally like in, as chien, dog; payen, pagan.

N. B.—Their sound can only be learned from the Teacher.

OF CONSONANTS AND THEIR NAMES.

There is no W in French. It is used for foreign words, chiefly taken from English or German. We pronounce it like letter v, or give it the value of u.

G and c before a, o, u; sound hard as : go, co, gardien, camarade.

But g followed by e, i, y; is soft; and c with a crooked mark under it, ç, sounds like s as : garçon.

Letters.	Former sound.	New Sounds by which every one of the letters is masculine.
B	bé	be
C	cé	ce
D	dé	de
F	eff	fe
G	gé	ge
H	ash	he
J	ji	je
K	ka	ke
L	ell	le
M	emm	me
N	enn	ne
P	pé	pe
Q	ku	ke
R	err	re
S	ess	se
T	té	te
V	vé	ve
X	iks	kse
Z	zed	ze
W	double ve	double ve

N. B.—Generally speaking, consonants are not heard at the end of French words, unless followed by some vowel, so : part, part ; port, port; t silent; but partie, part ; porte, door; t heard.

As soon as the pupils have acquired a good knowledge of the sound and value of the French vowels, diphthongs and consonants; then let them begin to learn the vocabularies, and read the THIRD PART OR Lecture, TROISIÈME LEÇON.—THIRD LESSON.

ARTICLE.

There is no other way of expressing the article, than that given below :

Masculine singular, before a consonant or h aspirate.	Fem. sing., before a con- sonant or h aspirate.	Masc. or fem., sing. before a vowel or h silent.	Masc. or fem. pl., before a consonant or a vowel an h aspirate or silent.
The le	la	l'	les
Of or from the du	de la	de l'	des
At or to the au	à la	à l'	aux
Some or any du	de la	de l'	des

REM.—de le, à les, à le, de les; can never be used as articles.

DU GENRE ET DU NOMBRE.—OF GENDER AND NUMBER

There are but two genders in French : the masculine and feminine ; there is no neuter gender.

Adjectives and Articles agree in gender and number with the nouns to which they relate.

bon m.	good.	et t' sil. and.
bonne f.	do.	est s' sil. is.
bons. m. pl.	do.	a has, verb.
bonnes f. pl.	do.	à to, prep.

Le bon père,	The good father.
La bonne mère,	The good mother.
Le bon frère,	The good brother.
La bonne sœur,	The good sister.
Les bons pères,	The good fathers.
Les bonnes mères,	The good mothers.

J'ai une bonne mère,	I have a good mother,
Tu as une bonne sœur,	Thou hast a good sister.
Il a un bon enfant,	He has a good child.
On a un ami,	One has a friend.
Nous avons des fils,	We have (some) sons.
Vous avez des filles;	You have (some) daughters.
Ils ont un frère,	They have a brother.

QUATRIÈME LEÇON.—FOURTH LESSON.

ADJECTIFS POSSESSIFS.—POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES.

(See Possessive Adjectives, Part II.)

mon m. s.	ma f. s.	mes m. or f. pl.	my.
ton m. s.	ta f. s.	tes do.
son m. s.	sa f. s.	ses do.

PLURAL.

notre m. or f. singular.	nos m. or f. pl.	our.
votre do.	" vos do.
leur do.	" leurs do.

These possessive adjectives can only precede nouns; they agree with them in gender and number, and must not be confounded with mine, thine, its.

Mon bon père,	My good father.
Ma bonne mère,	My good mother.
Tes bonnes sœurs,	Thy good sisters.
Ses jeunes enfants,	His or her good children.
Ai-je ? Have I ?	il, he or it
as-tu ? hast thou ?	elle, she or it
a-t-il ? has he ?	ils, they m.
a-t-elle ? has she ?	elles, they f.
avez-vous ? have you.	Il, elle, ils, elles; must take the gender and num- ber of the nouns they represent.

Son livre est bon,	His book is good.
Il est petit,	It is small.
Sa plume est bonne,	His pen is good.
Elle est petite,	It is small.
Mes frères ont un grand jardin ; ils ont aussi un petit jardin.	My brothers have a large garden ; they have also a small garden.
J'ai eu de l'or, m.	I have had some gold.
Tu as eu de l'argent, m.	Thou hast had some silver.
Il a eu du fer, m.	He has had some iron.
On a eu du pain, m.	One has had some bread.
Nous avons eu des pommes, f. pl.	We have had some apples.
Vous avez eu un couteau, m. s.	You have had a knife.
Ils ont eu des canifs, m. pl.	The have had some penknives.
Elle a eu des enciers, m. pl.	She has had some inkstands.

Mind the Remark, page 11, for eu.

CINQUIÈME LEÇON—FIFTH LESSON.

ADJECTIFS DEMONSTRATIFS.

- Ce* m. s. this or that, before a consonant or h aspirate.
- Cet* m. s. this or that, before a vowel or h silent.
- Cette* f. s. this or that, before a vowel or a consonant, an h asp. or sil.
- Ces* m. or f. pl. these or those, before any word plural.

In French, the genitive or possessive case is expressed by de, of; placed after the nominative or accusative, whilst in English, the genitive or possessive comes before the nominative or accusative.

Le livre de mon père,

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES.

- Ce cadeau*, this gift.
- Ce hameau*, this hamlet.
- Cet encier*, that inkstand.
- Cet homme*, this man.
- Cette plume*, this pen.
- Cette ardoise*, that slate.
- Ces pommes*, these apples.
- Ces enfants*, those children.

My father's book.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

The dative is expressed by à as :

J'écris à mon père, I write to my father.
J'ai prêté un livre à mon ami, I have lent a book to my friend.

oncle,	uncle.	riche, m. or f. s. rich.
ami, m.	friend.	pauvre, do poor.
arbre, m.	tree.	jeune, do young.
homme, h sil.	man.	malade, do ill, sick.
encore,	yet, still.	jaloux, m. jealous.

Je suis jeune, I am young.
Tu es singulier, Thou art strange.
On est fâché, One is sorry.
Nous sommes tristes, We are sad.
Vous êtes malades, You are ill.
Ils sont riches, They are rich.

Adjectives ending with e mute can be masculine or feminine.
The plural of nouns and adjectives is generally formed by adding s to the singular.

(See Adjectives; and Formation of the Plural in the Adjectives, Part II.)

SIXÈME LEÇON.—SIXTH LESSON.

PRONOMS RELATIFS ET ABSOLUS.—RELATIVE AND ABSOLUTE PRONOUNS.

Qui, who, whom ; relates to persons only,
Que, what ; relates to things only, When they are not preceded by any noun or pronoun.

ABSOLUTE.

Qui est là ? Who is there ?

Qui avez-vous vu ? whom have you seen ?

Qu'avez-vous ? What have you ? What is the matter with you ?

RELATIVE.

(1.) N. B.—Qui, m. or f., s. or pl. nominative of a verb, and preceded by a noun or pronoun, means which, who, that; it relates to persons and things, and may be of either gender and number.

(2.) Que, m. f. s. pl. accusative governed by a verb, and preceded by a noun or pronoun, means which, that, whom; it relates to persons or to things, and may be of either gender and number.

(See Relative Pronouns, Part II.)

L'homme qui a une voiture est riche. The man who has a carriage is rich.

Les prunes qu'on a données à cet enfant sont belles. The plums which one has given to this child are beautiful.

Elle a vu le cheval qui est pour vous. She has seen the horse which is for you.

Nous avons aimé l'enfant qu'on a améné. We have liked the child whom they have brought.

The i of qui is never dropped before a vowel.

The e of que is always dropped before a vowel.

la tante,	aunt.	acheté,	bought.
le chapeau, m.	hat.	perdu,	lost.
la montre, f.	watch.	trouvé,	found.
le canif, m.	pen-knife.	lu,	read.

Ou, or ; où, where ; mais, but ; pour, for ; très, very ; fort, very, much ; dans, in ; sur, upon ; de, of, or from.

le voisin, m.	la voisine, f.	The neighbour. The cousin. The friend. The gardener.
le cousin, m.	la cousine, f.
l'ami, m.	l'amie, f.
le jardinier, m.	la jardinière, f.
la lettre f, the letter f;	la femme, the wife, the woman.

The learning of the verbs, as given in the Seconde Partie, should be begun at once; and Avoir and Etre known, before the Exercises are written.

SEPTIÈME LEÇON.—SEVENTH LESSON.

QUELQUES VOCABULAIRES.—SOME VOCABULARIES.

DES PRONOMS POSSESSIFS AU SINGULIER.—SOME POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS IN THE SINGULAR.

Plus , more.	Moins , less.	Que , than.
agréable , m. or f. s.	agreeable.
utile , do	useful.
joli , m. jolie , f. s.	pretty.
fatigué , m. fatiguée , f. s.	tired.
facile , m. or f. s.	easy.
difficile , do.	difficult.
fidèle do.	faithful.
honnête , do.	honest, polite.
haut , m. haute , f. s.	high.
habile , m. or f. s.	clever.
		Adjectifs.

SUBSTANTIFS.

le chien , m.	the dog.
le chat , m.	the cat.
la campagne , f.	the country.
la ville , f.	the town.
le soleil , m.	the sun.
la lune , f.	the moon.
la tâche , f.	the task.
le thème , m.	the exercise.

PRONOMS POSSESSIFS.

le mien , m.	la mienne , f.	mine.
le tien , m.	la tienne , f.	thine.
le sien , m.	la sienne , f.	his, hers.
le nôtre , m.	la nôtre , f.	ours.
le vôtre , m.	la vôtre , f.	yours.
le leur , m.	la leur , f.	theirs.

(See Possessive Pronouns, Part II.)

REMARK.—Possessive pronouns never precede nouns; they represent them, take the place of them and agree in gender and number with them.

COMPARATIFS.—COMPARATIVES.

The comparative of superiority is formed by placing plus before the adjective, and que after it; that of inferiority by placing moins before, and que after—

Ton livre est plus cher que le mien,
Thy book is dearer than mine.

Cette enfant est moins grande que son frère.

That child is not so tall as—or less—than her brother.

So that the termination er, which in English is added to form the comparative of superiority, is to be represented in French by plus before the adjective in the positive.

(See the formation of Comparatives in Adjectives, Part II.)

HUITIÈME LEÇON.—EIGHTH LESSON.

PRONOMS DÉMONSTRATIFS.

celui, m. s. that or the one.

celle, f. s. do.

ceux, m. pl. these, those the ones.

celles, f. pl. do.

{ cela, m. s. has no pl., that.

{ ceci, do. do. this.

[The word thing is understood.]

(See Demonstrative Pronouns, Part II.)

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

These pronouns must not be confounded with the adjectives of the same name; for pronouns never precede nouns, but simply take the place of the nouns, and also their gender and number.

IMPORTANT REMARK.—The English word that has many meanings, and as it is translated differently in French for each meaning, the following examples will serve for illustration :

That, before a noun relating to it, by ce, cet, cette; adjectives.
That penholder is good, Ce porte-plume est bon.

That, in the place of a noun or before a relative pronoun or followed by a preposition, by ce, celui, celle; pronouns.

That which you say is true, Ce que vous dites est vrai.

That representing a masculine noun understood :

That of your brother is gilt, Celui de votre frère est doré.

That, preceded by a noun or other pronoun, by que, qui, relative pronouns.

The lesson that I have is long, La leçon que j'ai est longue.

The pen that is broken, La plume qui est cassée.

5.

That, meaning that thing, by cela.

That is dirty, Cela est sale.

That, when it cannot be changed into which, this, or whom; that is, when it is a conjunction, connecting verbs or sentences together, must be translated in French by que, the e of which is cut off before a vowel.

I know that you are here, Je sais que vous êtes ici.

You say that he is there. Vous dites qu'il est là.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT REMARK.—As the French have no different words for that and this, and these and those, they make use of the adverbs ci, here, and là, there; when any comparison is made between two nouns preceded by ce, cette, cet or ces; and not determined by any thing that follows, or again after the demonstrative pronouns celui, celle, ceux, celles; for the same reasons.

Ce cahier-ci est plus gros que ce cahier-là. This copy book is larger than that copy book.

Celui-ci est bon, celui-là est mauvais, This one is good, that one is bad.

N. B.—The words ci and là must be preceded by a hyphen (-).

J'ai été enfant , adj.	I have been a child.
Tu as été cruel , adj.	Thou hast been cruel.
Il a été à l'école , subst.	He has been at school.
On a été muet , adj.	One has been dumb.
Nous avons été aveugles adj.	We have been blind.
Vous avez été libre or s. pl. adj.	You have been free.
Ils ont été sauvages , adj.	They have been wild.

REMARKS.—If the pupils are too young, the following exercises should be read from the book, without their writing them at first.

NEUVIÈME LEÇON.—NINTH LESSON.

RECAPITULATION OF THE PRECEDING LESSONS, AND EXERCISE TO WRITE OR TO SAY ON ALL THAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

THÈME.

N. B.—Attention must be paid to the agreement of the adjectives with the nouns in gender and number, as it is the chief difficulty for the ready and correct speaking and writing of the French language.

DOUZIÈME LEÇON.—TWELFTH LESSON.

Du, de ; de la, de l', des ; some or any ; must be expressed before every noun, and never understood as in English.

REM.—(De le, de les, à le, à les,) can never be used in French as articles.

J'étais curieux, m. curieuse, f.	I was inquisitive.
Tu étais savant, m. e f	Thou wast learned.
Il était sage, m. or f.	He was wise, good.
Nous étions puissants, m. pl.	We were powerful.
Vous étiez reçus. do.	You were received.
Ils étaient inquiets. do.	They were uneasy.
J'avais des pains-dé-cacheter,	I had wafers.
Tu avais de la générosité,	Thou hadst generosity.
Il avait de l'intelligence,	He had intellect.
Nous avions des huîtres,	We had oysters.
Vous aviez du courage,	You had courage.
Ils avaient de la politesse,	They had politeness.

For the following, the French use TO HAVE and NOT TO BE with nouns, and not with adjectives as in English.

J'avais froid, m.	I was cold.	(I had cold.)
Tu avais faim, m.	Thou wast hungry.	(Thou hadst hunger.)
Il avait chaud, m.	He was warm.	(He had heat.)
Elle avait soif.	She was thirsty.	(She had thirst.)

Or else an adjective as in English :

Je fus gelé.	I was cold.
Tu fus affamé,	Thou wast hungry,
Il fut échauffé,	He was warm.
Elle fut altéré,	She was thirsty.

ADVERBS OF QUANTITY.

du roi ,	of the king.	la partie , f.	the part.
de la reine ,	of the queen.	la vie , f.	the life.
le peuple , m. s. the people.		les arbres , m.	the trees.
le bonheur , m. the happiness.		aux arbres ,	to the trees.
le malheur , m. the misfortune.		de l'enfant , m.	of the child.
la fenêtre , f. the window,		la rue , f.	the street.
le plafond , m. the ceiling.		la fable , f.	the fable.
le journal , m. the paper.		la voix , f.	the voice.
la cour , f. the yard.

EXERCISE.

The f. voice of the people.—They have had (of) more misfortunes than we ; they have been very unhappy.—This boy has been very good. m. wise.)—This king is very powerful with his pl. soldiers.—The day m. is a f. part of the f. week.—This f. house belongs to thy (uncle's friend.)—God loves all pl. (the) men.—The horse that (acc.) I have bought is very useful.—The f. life of (the) man is short f.—A good m. king loves his m. s. people. s.—The f. fable that (acc.) I have read f. is very amusing f. for the pl. clever pl. girls and the pl. diligent pl. boys.—The pl. ceilings of those pl. houses are higher m. pl. than the trees which nom. are in our yard ; they m. pl. are very low.—This m. paper has been read by him.—This f. street had twenty houses, and each house had fifteen windows ; and the houses had each, pron f. s. a f. large f. yard.

N. B.—The adjectives are fully developed in the Grammar, as well as the verbs.

TREIZIÈME LEÇON.—THIRTEENTH LESSON.

ADVERBES DE QUANTITÉ.—ADVERBS OF QUANTITY.

Peu, few, little.

Moins, less, fewer.

Assez, enough.

Tant, so much, so many.

Plus, more.

Autant, as much, as many.

Beaucoup, much, many, a Combien, how much, how many.
 great deal, a great many. Trop, too much, too many.
Beaucoup de pain, much bread.
Moins de viande, less meat.
Tant de poires, so many pears.
Trop de cerises, too many cherries.

The above adverbs of quantity always require the preposition (de) before the nouns that follow them, without regard of gender and number.

VOCABULAIRE.

le vin , m.	the wine.	le café , m.	the coffee.
la viande , f.	the meat.	le thé , m.	the tea.
la bière , f.	the beer.	le sucre , m.	the sugar.
l'eau , f.	the water.	la soupe , f.	the soup.
le fromage , m.	the cheese.	bu , see boire ,	drunk. p. 136.
le sel , m.	the salt.	moi ,	I, me, to me.

le pauvre ,	the poor man.	les pauvres ,	the poor people.
le riche ,	the rich man.	les riches ,	the rich people.

When adjectives are used like substantives, the English words man or people, must not be expressed in French, the article shows at once that the adjective has become a noun.

EXERCISE.

The salt was upon the table with the pepper, the f. mustard and the f. meat.—He has drunk too much (of) water and too much (of) beer.—Give me some m. cheese and (some) m. wine.—Those sailors have eaten too much (of) salt; they are sick pl.—How many (of) sisters and (of) brothers have you?—Bring me the f. mustard and (the) salt. m.—There is too much (of) sugar in your tea.—There are more (of) poor pl. people in London than in Paris.—There are many (of) rich pl. people in London.—Has he drunk all f. his f. beer?—Give me fewer (of) pens and more (of) books.—You have given too much (of) mustard to my little brother.

QUATORZIÈME LEÇON.—FOURTEENTH LESSON.

COMPARATIFS D'ÉGALITÉ.—COMPARATIVES OF EQUALITY

Aussi, as. Que, as.Autant, as much. }Autant, as many. } que, as.

Aussi and autant go before the adjectives, and que after ; autant de goes before nouns, and que de before the next.

Il est aussi âgé que moi,
He his as old as I.

J'ai autant de poivre que de sel.

I have as much of pepper as of salt.

REM.—Je, I, goes with the verb expressed ; moi, I, goes where the verbe is not expressed.

(See the Pronouns, Part II.)

VOCABULAIRE.

QUINZIÈME LEÇON.—FIFTEENTH LESSON.

DU PLURIEL DANS LES NOMS.—PLURAL IN NOUNS.

(For the Rules, see Formation of the Plural in Nouns, Part II.)

Nouns ending with s, x, z; in the singular, remain the same in the plural.

Those with au, eu, ux for their plural.

Those with al, ail, generally change al ail, into aux.

SINGULAR.

le chapeau,	m.
le château,	m.
le jeu,	m.
le feu,	m.

Il fait beau en automne au Canada.	It is fine in autumn in Canada.
C'est une saison charmante.	It is a delightful season.
Les feuilles de l'érable sont de toute beauté.	The maple leaves are magnificent.

Chez, at the house of,—is always followed by a noun or pronoun of person.

Chez-moi,	at my house.
Chez cet homme,	at that man's.

On, an indefinite pronoun, meaning either one, you, he they, anybody; requires the verb it governs to be in the third singular, without exception. It is often translated by the passive voice in English.—See ON, etc., Part II.

On trouve beaucoup de choses chez ce marchand.—People, or one finds many things at that merchant's; or many things are found or can be found at that merchant's.

Je louais cet homme,	I was praising that man.
Tu louais ces marchands,	Thou wast praising those merchants.
On louait ce cordonnier,	One was praising this shoemaker.
Nous louions ces choses	We were praising those things.
Vous louiez votre libraire,	You were praising your bookseller.

Ces menuisiers louaient These joiners were praising the car-les charpentiers. pinters.

EXERCISE.

The summers of (the) m. Canada are very warm m. pl.—We praise the autumns above all f. pl. the seasons of that m. country.—The maple (tree) is a m. very useful tree—(people) make 3d. s. sugar m. (with it.) en, before the verb.—Who has made that f. good f. soup?—This joiner has made (some pl.) tables and three chairs.—These cups have cost (a great deal of) money.—There are many (of) poor pl. people, who, nom. are very happy.—At that bookseller's, people find 3d. s. (some) ink, (some pl.) pens, and (some) pl. penknives.—Give me, if you please, (some) f. meat and (some) m. bread.

REMARK.—DEMI, half; when before its noun remains invariable; when after, agrees with it in gender only, as : une demi-heure, half an hour; deux heures et demie, half past two.

DIX-SEPTIÈME LEÇON.—SEVENTEENTH LESSON.

TO LIKE, TO BE FOND OF—THERE IS, THERE ARE.

SUPERLATIVE DEGREE IN ADJECTIVES.

VOCABULAIRE.

le fruit,	m. the fruit.	l'Angleterre, f. England.
le lait,	m. the milk.	la France, f. France.
le chocolat,	m. the chocolate.	l'Asie, f. Asia.
le vinaigre,	m. the vinegar.	l'Espagne, f. Spain.
le jambon,	m. the ham.	l'Afrique, f. Africa.
le pouding,	m. the pudding.	l'Italie, f. Italy.
la farine,	f. the flour.	la Chine, f. China.
l'huile,	f. the oil.	l'Europe, f. Europe.
les légumes,	m. the vegetables.	l'Amérique, f. America.
le fer,	m. the iron.	vient comes.
la montagne	f. the mountain.	le plus riche, the richest.

appliquée	m. diligent.	le moins grand , the less tall.
cimable,	m. amiable.	le plus petit , m. the smallest.
		la plus petite , f. the smallest.

Aimer (to be fond of) requires the article le, la, l', les; to be used before nouns.

J'aime le lait, I like the milk.

Il y a, there is, there are; and voici, voild, here is, there is, here are, there are.

Il y a, expresses the state, the existence of things or persons following that verb.

Voici, voild, (prepositions) point out the persons or things placed after those prepositions, and require no verb after.

With voici, voild, you must see the things or persons; with il y a unless it is further explained, as:

Voici du pain, Il y a du pain dans l'armoire.

Here is bread. There is bread in the press.

They may be preceded by the accusative personal pronouns, me, te, le, la, les, nous vous.

me voici, here I am. les voici, here they are. never so with il y a.

The superlative degree, is formed by placing the article le, la, l', les; or any possessive or determinative adjective before moins or plus, which precedes the adjective qualificative.

(For Examples, see Superlatives, Part II.)

EXERCISE.

Tea comes from (the f.) China, and coffee from (the) Africa.—(Here are) your pl. gloves.—People find 3d. s. many (of) good f. pl. things f. at that joiner's.—This man is poor, but that shoemaker is the poorest man (of) in the town.—The m. iron is the most useful of all pl. (the) metals which are in the f. earth.—There are in this f. town many (of) merchants who, nom. are very rich pl.—(The) America is the m. largest m. country (pays) m., in the world (of the m. world).—(The) f. France is larger f. than (the) England.—Here is my m. largest m. boook m.

DIX-HUITIÈME LEÇON.—EIGHTEENTH LESSON.

SUPERLATIFS ET ADJECTIFS IRRÉGULIERS DE COMPARAISON.—SUPERLATIVES AND ADJECTIVES OF IRREGULAR COMPARISON.

PRONOMS DÉMONSTRATIFS AVEC PRONOMS RELATIFS.—DEMONSTRATIVE WITH RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

The superlative requires the preposition de and not in, as in English :

L'homme le plus heureux du monde. The most happy man in the world.

La plus haute montagne de l'Europe. The highest mountain in Europe.

bon , m.	good.	meilleur , m.	better.
mauvais , m.	bad.	pire , m. or f.	worse.
petit , m.	small.	moindre , do.	smaller.
le meilleur , m.	the best.	le pire , m.	the worst.
le moindre , m.	the smallest.

We also say : plus mauvais, worse ; plus petit, smaller.

{ Plus petit, that can be measured.

{ Moindre, that can be appreciated.

{ C'est, it is, this is, he is, she is.

{ Ce sont, it is, they are, these are.

Ce sont, is always followed by a third person plural ; we say : C'est vous, it is you ; but, ce sont eux, it is they.

C'est, followed by an adjective only, relates to things ; followed by a noun or pronoun, relates to persons or things.

C'est bon,	It is good.
C'est mon meilleur ami,	He is my best friend.
Ce sont les meilleurs enfants du monde.	They are the best children in the world.

NOMINATIVE.

He who, the one who or which, Celui qui, m.

She who, the one who or which, Celle qui, f.

Those who, they who, the ones who or which. Ceux qui, m. pl. celles qui, f. pl.

ACCUSATIVE.

Him whom or which, the one which, Celui que, m.

Her whom or which, the one which, Celle que, f.

Them whom or which, the ones which, Ceux que, m. Celles que, f.

The above relate to things or persons.

(See Relative Pronouns. Part II.)

Ce qui, that which or what (Nom.) relate to things only;

Ce que, that which or what (Acc.) they are always masc. sing.

EXERCISE.

All pronouns and adjectives must agree in gender and number with the nouns to which they relate.

That young man is very clever, he is the first.—It is the joiner who has made your pl. chairs and (your) pl. tables.—My pl. boots are larger f. pl. and better f. pl. than his, f. pl.; but yours pl. are the pl. worst f. pl. and the smallest f. pl.—I love those who are honest pl. and diligent pl.—He is called William and she is called Louisa.—He is the poorest man (in the) (of the) whole world.—(She is) It is my f. best f. friend f.—The dog is the most faithful animal.—These exercises are very difficult pl.; those m. pl. that I have are more difficult pl. than those m. pl. which he has.—That knife m. is good m.; mine m. is better; and the one m. which acc. he has is the best. m.—He who (nom.) is here done his m. duty.

j'ai fait une visite.	I have made, (paid) a visit.
il fait beau temps ,	it is fine weather.

Adverbs follow the verb.

Adjectives ending with (e) mute are common to both genders.
Those ending with x, change x into se to form the feminine.

The word fois, where there is a repetition of times must be used, and not temps.

J'ai été le voir trois fois,	I went three times to see him.
Nous avons passé beaucoup de temps à le faire.	We have spent a great while doing it.

EXERCISE.

VINGT-DEUXIEME LEÇON.—TWENTY-SECOND LESSON.

NÉGATIONS ET ADJECTIFS AVEC DES VERBES.—NEGATIVES AND ADJECTIVES WITH VERBS.

vif , m. vive , f.	quick, lively.	ne ,	jamais ,	never.
neuf , m. neuve , f.	new, (not worn.)	ne ,	rien ,	nothing, not any thing.
neuf , nine.	does not change.	ne ,	personne ,	no body, not any one.
beau , m. belle , f.	fine, beautiful.	ne ,	plus ,	no more.
nouveau , m.	nouvelle , f.			new, (not seen before.)
faux ,	fausse ,	f.		false, deceitful.
doux ,	douce ,	f.		sweet, mild.
frais ,	fraîche ,	f.		fresh.
vieux ,	vieille ,	f.		old.
sec ,	sèche ,	f.		dry.
blanc ,	blanche ,	f.		white.
long ,	longue ,	f.		long.
Je n'avais pas ,				I had not.
Tu n'auras jamais .				Thou shalt never have.
Il n'a rien ,				He has nothing.
On n'aime personne ,				One does not like any one.
Nous ne louons jamais ,				We never praise.
Vous ne parlez point ,				You do not speak at all.
Ils ne donnent rien ,				They give nothing.

la brebis , f.	the sheep.	non ,	no.
la chèvre , f.	the goat.	oui ,	yes.
le beurre , m.	the butter.	si ,	yes, of course, if, so.

After Avoir negatively, d' or de, is used, irrespective of gender and number, before the noun in a partitive sense placed after that verb, as :

Je n'ai pas de pain ,	I have not any bread.
Elles n'ont point de mère ,	They have no mother.
Nous n'avons point d'assiettes ,	We have no plates.
But, J'ai du pain , because it is not negative.

Rien, personne, quelque chose m., require de before the adjective.

Il n'a rien de bon, He has nothing good.

Adjectives ending in f change f into ve, for the feminine.

The English negatives not, never, nothing, nobody; must be expressed in French by the particle (ne) placed before the verb, and just after the nominative, and pas, point, jamais, personne, rien; after the verb; and in compound tenses before the past participle.

It must always be borne in mind that a negative verb cannot be without the particle ne.

EXERCISE.

Have you any fresh f. water?—Give me if you please some m. fresh m. butter.—This woman is old f. and that man is old m. also.—These apples are much sweeter f. pl. than pl. those pears.—The m. cat is deceitful, but the f. sheep is mild f.—This f. chair is too low f.—I have never seen the King, and my brother has not yet seen the Queen.—We have paid (made) a f. visit to William; he is very ill.—The f. sheep is not so lively f. as the f. goat.—Many (of) books are not useful pl.—These poor pl. women are blind pl.—The pl. houses in (of) Paris are higher f. pl. than those f. pl. in (of) London.—We have not read your pl.

letters ; they f. pl. are very long f. pl.—You are not unhappy, you have not lost your pl. pa ents.—You m. pl. are not diligent, you have not written any exercises.

VINGT-TROISIEME LEÇON.—TWENTY-THIRD

VOCABULAIRE.

la fourchette , f.	the fork.	copié ,	copied.
la cuillère , f.	the spoon.	dormi ,	slept.
la main , f.	the hand.	commencé ,	begun.
les cheveux , m. pl.	the hair.	cherché ,	looked for.
la barbe , f.	the beard.	longtemps , adv.	a long time.
la poste , f.	the post-office.	peu de temps ,	a short time,
le cahier , m.	the copy-book.	la carte , f.	the map.

REM.—In interrogative sentences, the nominative, if a pronoun, goes after the verb :

Auraient-ils fait cette mauvaise action, s'ils avaient réfléchi à la punition qui suit toujours un crime ?

Would they have performed that bad action, had they thought of the punishment always attending crime.

If negative, the particle (ne) precedes the verb :

Ne vous avais-je pas cherché ? Had I not looked for you ?

If there be a past participle with auxiliary, the second negative goes between the auxiliary and the past participle. The e of ne must be cut off before a vowel :

N'a-t-elle pas bien dormi ? Did she not sleep well ?

2ND. REM.—Most adjectives follow their respective nouns ; but bon, mauvais, petit, grand, beau, long ; go generally before.

EXERCISE.

Here are my pl. children.—Are we not diligent pl. ?—Nobody likes this f. naughty f. girl.—We were not here yesterday ; we have seen nobody.—This poor child has (not) eaten (anything) nothing.—When have they begun their pl. tasks?—We ^{*} have sent the servant to the shoemaker's, because we have not any (of) shoes.—Have you sent the servant to the f. post-office?—I have slept (a long time in the f. class-room.)—Who has slept in my f. room.—Francis has received a m. new penknife and a f. new f. watch.—Henry has given (to) my brother an f. apple which is very sweet f.—The f. beard of this old soldier is very long f.—The m. ham which (acc.) you have received is not fresh, m.; but this f. meat is very fresh f.—That f. young lady has two white pl. cats.—They m. are very dear m. pl.—My f. mother has bought a f. dozen (of) shirts and (of) handkerchiefs.—These girls are not naughty f. pl.; they f. pl. have not taken our pl. pens.—One (On) is not virtuous, when one does not love his pl. parents.

		huit jours , m.	a week, 8 days.

Quelle heure est-il ? What time is it?

Quel, m. quelle, f. quels, m. pl. quelles, f. pl. ; which, what?

Combien, and a noun of time, followed by il y a que, requires a present tense.

Combien de temps y a-t-il que	How much (of) time is there
vous êtes ici.	since you are here ?
	(Eng.) How long have you been here ?

Depuis quand, followed by a verb, requires a present tense.

Depuis quand êtes-vous au	Since when are you in Canada ?
Canada ?	(Eng.) How long have you been in Canada.

Il y a, followed by a noun of time, adverb of time and que, requires a past tense to express the past, and a present tense to express something actually present.

Il y a is also translated by it is, and que by since.

Il y a longtemps que j'y suis.	There is a long time since I am in it.
	(Eng.) I have been a long time in it.

Il y a, followed by a noun of time, means also ago.

Il y a deux ans, Two years ago.

Quel âge avez-vous ? How old are you ?
 Not so good, Quel est votre âge ? What is your age ?
Quel âge ont-ils ? How old are they ?
NOTE Never turn there is, there are, by the verb être as in English—always with avoir and y before.

Il y avait beaucoup de monde,
 There were many people.

There was, there, were, Il y avait.

Was there ? } Y avait-il ? Is there ? }
 Were there ? } Are there ? } Y a-t-il ?

(See y avoir, Part II.)

EXERCISE.

How long have you been in (at) Toronto ?—We went to the shoemaker's ; he has not made my pl. new f. pl. boots.—I have (am) returned very tired.—With whom did you come ?—When have (are) you returned from your journey ?—You came (are come) a little too soon ; the ladies and the gentlemen have (are) not yet arrived m. pl.—My trunks have (are) not arrived m. pl.—Has she not yet written ?—I have sent my m. servant to the f. post-office this m. morning, but he has not received any (of) letters.—There were not any (of) letters.—Was I not formerly the most happy man in (of) the m. World m.—Have they f. not been the pl. first f. pl.?—Here are your pl. sisters ; have they f. not been (a long time) in (at) Paris ?—Have you been at the physician's to day ?

VINGT-CINQUIÈME LEÇON.—TWENTY-FIFTH LESSON.

FUTUR ET CONDITIONNEL.—FUTURE AND CONDITIONAL.

ENDINGS.

FUTURE.		CONDITIONAL.
Sing.	Pl.	Sing.	Pl.
1. rai ,	1. rons ,	1. rais ,	1. rions ,
2. ras ,	2. rez ,	2. rais ,	2. riez ,
3. ra ,	3. ront .	3. rait ,	3. raient .

The terminations of the future and conditional are common to all verbs without any exceptions. They represent the English shall and will, should and could.

1. After (si) if, and the imperfect indicative, we use the present conditional.

Si j'étais malade, je sortirais. If I were ill, I would go out.

2. After si, if ; and the present indicative, we use the future absolute.

Si je puis, je le ferai. If I can, I will do it.

3. After quand, when ; to express something to come, always use the future ; and the present indicative to express a habit.

Je parlerai quand vous aurez fini. I shall speak, when you have done. J'ouvre la bouche quand je parle. I open my mouth when I speak.

See avoir, être, chanter, choisir, etc., Part II.

EXERCISE.

Our father (has) said that we would have another servant soon.—They would not (have) (be) come pl. if they had not received our letter.—If he had found nobody, he would have (be) gone to his friend's house.—If thou hadst more (of) friends thou wouldst be more happy.—We would have (be) gone pl. to our uncle's, if we had received a f. good f. letter.—You shall soon have no more (of) money.—These boys will become (be) idle, pl., when they have (shall have) no more (of) lessons.—At what f. o'clock (hour) will you be at my uncle's.—How old is your cousin?—He (will be) (shall have) ten years old in a few pl. days.—Shall I not have the beautiful penknife m. that (acc.) my father has bought.—My f. sister will be pleased f., when she has (shall have) done her m. exercise.—Tell (to) the servant (that) I will be in my f. room.

N. B.—Mind the agreement of the adjectives with the nouns, in gender and number.

VINGT-SIXIÈME LEÇON.—TWENTY-SIXTH LESSON.

VERBES EMPLOYÉS INTERROGATIVEMENT AVEC DES SUBSTANTIFS.—VERBS USED INTERROGATIVELY WITH NOUNS.

PREMIÈRE CONJUGAISON.—FIRST CONJUGATION

Infinitives of the verbs of the first conjugation ending with er, what precedes er is called the root of the verb.

The root should never change; the ending is to show the number, person, tense or mood.

INFINITIVE PRESENT.	regular endings :	er.
PRESENT PARTICIPLE.		ant.
PAST PARTICIPLE.		é.

parl-er,	to speak.	cherch-er,	to look for.
parl-ant,	speaking.	aim-er,	to like, to love.
parl-é,	spoken.	pens-er, (a)	to think (of)
montr-er,	to show.	port-er,	to carry.
oubli-er,	to forget.	donn-er,	to give.
gât-er,	to spoil.	écout-er,	to listen to.
cess-er,	to cease, to leave off.	Français,	French, or man.
prêt-er,	to lend.	Anglais,	English, or "
apporter,	to bring.	Allemand,	German.

REM.—If you want to make a verb interrogative, with a noun for its nominative, the noun comes first, then the verb, and then the personal pronoun of the same gender and the number as the noun, as :

L'avocat a-t-il parlé? Has the lawyer spoken?
With est-ce que, the order of the words remains.

Est-ce que l'avocat a parlé? Has the lawyer spoken?

The words do, did, will, shall, would, should, might and may; are never translated into French; they answer to the terminations of the different tenses of the French verbs : for, as in English, they mean nothing without the verb, when used as auxiliaries to it. For example :

Did you do that? Avez-vous fait cela?
Would you give it? Le donneriez-vous?

EXERCISE.

Do our p. masters show our pl. (copy books) to our pl. parents.—Does not this merchant sell three dozen of handkerchiefs for one f. pound.—These horses belong to those gentlemen.—We will leave off at one f. o'clock (hour).—We always speak French.—We do not show our money to that bad man.—Why do you not leave off?—Do the generals love their pl. soldiers?—Did I forget this old soldier?—You never speak of your pl. affairs?—Do we love the children of the neighbour who has given (so many) (of) apples to our pl. girls?—They think but little of (to) the pl. tasks that (acc.) they have to do.—Do these mothers always speak of their pl. children pl. with pleasure?—What have you looked (for).—Have they thought (of) (to) my books?—Shall you always be (the) first?—Has your neighbour sold his f. house?—Would not those gentlemen be rich pl. if they had been as active pl. as at present?

DE LA PREMIÈRE CONJUGAISON.—OF THE FIRST CONJUGATION.

	SING.	PLUR.
Terminations of the imperfect are always :	1. ais. 2. ais. 3. ait.	1. ions. 2. iez. 3. aint.

These answer to the English was or were with present participle ; or to did, used to, with the verb ; as Il mangeait bien, dormait de même, et travaillait le moins qu'il pouvait.

He used to or did eat well, slept as well, and used to work as little as he could.

REM.—Verbs ending with cevoir, take a little mark under the (c) before the vowels o, u, to make the c soft.

3RD. conjugation given in the Part II.

The French have another way of making a verb interrogative, it is by placing est-ce que or est-ce qu', before je, tu, il, elle, nous, vous, ils, elles on ; or before any nouns followed by the verb ; and est-ce que will answer to the English do, did, etc., as :

(Est-ce que) nous devons partir ?

(?) we (are to) (set off.)

Are we to set off ?

Est-ce que cet homme juste a fait son possible ?

Did that just man do is best ?

SECOND PART.

GRAMMAR.—GRAMMAIRE.

OF LETTERS.—DES LETTRES.

ALPHABET.

A, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, m, n, o, p, q, r, s, t, u, v, w, x, y, z

a without any accent, is the third person singular of the indicative of Avoir.—Il a, he has.

a with the grave accent, is a preposition meaning to, at.

a in Aout, August, is not to be heard.

B.

b at the end of words, is almost never heard, except in proper names, and in the word rabout, re-fitting; rumb, Rhumb.

C.

c before a, o, u, also before a consonant, sounds like k.

c having a cedilla, thus, (ç) before the vowels a, o, u, takes the sound of s.

d at the end of a word, when the next begins with a vowel, sounds like a t, as grand animal, great animal.

d at the end of a word is silent, except in sud, South ; and also in proper names, David.

e is mute or silent at the end of a word of more than one syllable, and if there be no accent over it, table.

e in words of one syllable, has the obtuse sound of u in cut, but ; as je, me, de, que, etc.

é with an acute accent, like a in date.

è with a grave accent, like ay in ray.

(See page 9, Part I.)

f is generally heard at the end of words, except in the plural nouns, bœufs, oxen ; œufs, eggs ; although heard in bœuf, beef, ox ; œuf, egg ; their singular.

f in neuf, nine ; is silent if followed by a consonant ; and like v when before a vowel, or silent h ; and also in œuf, when œuf is followed by an adjective, forming with it a compound word ; as œuf frais, fresh egg.

f in cerf, stag ; is silent ; but is heard in serf, slave.

G.

g has the sound of s, in pleasure, before e, i, y.

g before a, o, u, is hard, as g in go.

g at the end of a word is silent.

g in vingt, twenty ; doigt, finger ; is silent.

gn partakes of the compound sound of y in yes.

g in gangrène, the first sounds like k.

H.

h in the body of a word is never heard ; it is used after the letters, c, l, p, r, t.

ch before a vowel, sound like sh ; but before a consonant, like k.

ch in words of Greek origin, before a, o, u, will sound like k ; as chaos, chaos.

h when aspirate, requires that no word preceding, should be connected with it ; but if called silent, mute, the foregoing letter or word, is pronounced upon it as if one word. The h aspirated will be seen at the end of First Part, page 73.

L

I, or i having two dots, (î) does not form a diphthong with the other vowels, as naîf, artless ; pronounced like knife.

J.

j has the sound of s in pleasure, before all the vowels.

L.

l as in English.

ll liquid, something like y in you. So also the endings eil, euil, ill, ail, etc.

l is silent in fils, son.

M.

m after a vowel at the end of a word, is silent, except in foreign proper names ; as Jerusalem.

m. before b and p forms with the preceding vowel, a nasal vowel : comparaire, combattre. See page 11, Part I.

N.

n at the end of a word or of one syllable, is generally silent, and forms with the foregoing vowel a nasal sound. Page 11.

O.

o in Laon, a town ; paon, peacock ; faon, fawn ; sœur, sister ; cœur, heart ; is not heard.

P.

p in the body of a word is heard ; but in baptême, baptism ; baptiser, to baptise ; exempti, free ; compte, account ; prompt, quick ; sculpture ; sept, seven ; Baptiste ; dompter, to overcome ; it is silent.

ph is pronounced like f, phare, light-house.

Q.

q in cog, cock ; cinq, five ; sounds like k.

q is silent in Coq-d'Inde, Turkey cock.

R.

r as in English.

r at the end of the verbs of the first conjugation is not heard ; but in the second and third it is always. In words of such endings ier, er, the r is silent.

S.

s as in English ; between two vowels sounds like z.

s at the end of a word is not generally heard, unless the word has but one syllable.

s ending a word, sounds like z on the next word commencing with a vowel or h silent ; mes enfants, my children.

t as in English ; at the end of words it is silent, except in the following words : accessit ; brut ; chut, silence ; correct, correct ; lest, ballast ; est, east ; suspect, suspicious ; subit, sudden.

th, has no other sound than t itself.

ti in words ending with tic, tier, the t is hard ; also in tion, the t being preceded by an s : question ; otherwise like s, patient : Still we say chrétien, christian ; the t hard.

ti in verbs, before ons, ez, should be hard, except in balbutier, to stammer ; initier, to initiate.

U.

V.

v as in English.

W.

w sounds like v; but in Newton, it has the value of u.

x at the end of a word before the next with a vowel, like z: in the middle of a word, like ks; at the beginning, like gz.

x in dix, [ten; six six; when they stand alone, sound like ss.

Y.

y like i or ii.

Z.

z as in English; in the second person plural of verbs it is silent, except if followed by a vowel.

The foregoing remarks should be considered more as a guide, than as a lesson.

ACCENTS AND OTHER SIGNS.

There are three accents in French.

The acute (').

The grave (`).

The circumflex (^).

There is an apostroph ('), taking the place of a letter understood.

Diæresis or tréma (::), or two little dots put over a vowel.

The cedilla or crooked mark, placed under the (ç).

The hyphen thus (-), to connect words.

THEIR USE.

The (') is used only over the letter (e) if heard, and ending the syllable; as été, summer; charmé, delighted; and not followed by a silent syllable, as it would be in père.

The (^) over a, e, u, only ; over à in là, there ; and à, to, at ; on account of la, her, it, the ; and a has.

Over (è) when it precedes a syllable that is mute, as père, father ; mère, mother ; also in accès, fit ; procès, law suit ; succès, success ; dès, from, since ; on account of des, some or any, of the.

Over (û) in où, where ; on account of ou or.

Words ending with ge, take the ', and not the ' , piège, share ; siège, seat.

The (^) over a, e, i, o, u, lengthens their sound, or else shows a distinction between two words spelt alike : jeûne, fast ; jeune young ; tâ, past participle of taire, to be silent ; and tu, thou ; crû, grown ; crû, believed ; dû, owed, from devoir ; du, some, of the ; mûr, ripe ; mur, wall ; sûr, sure, sour ; sur, upon ; and pû, fed ; pu, been able.

APOSTROPHE OR ELISION.

a, e, i, are the only vowels that can be cut off from a word.

No suppression or elision of vowels, takes place before the words : oui, huitième, huitaine, onze, onzième ; le huit du mois, the eight of the month ; le oui et le non, the yes and no. Nor when the preceding monosyllable is not connected with the next by sense, as :

La traduction de (ici) n'est pas difficile,

The translation of (ici) is not difficult. But Je viens d'ici, I come from here.

Neither would there be suppression of (e) in je in this instance :

Où pourrais-je être mieux que dans votre société ?

Where could I be better than in your company ? because it is not connected to être by the sense, as it would be in this case : j'avais, j'étais.

A.

(a), is suppressed only in la, article or pronoun, her, it, the, before a vowel or h silent.

I.

(i), only in si, meaning if, only before il, he, it; ils, they; s'il, if he; s'ils, if they.

E.

(e), is suppressed in the monosyllables : me, de, te, ce, que, le, ne; me, of, thee, this, that, the, it, not : il m'aime, he loves me; qu'est-ce que c'est? what is it?

LORSQUE, PUISQUE, QUOIQUE.

But in lorsque, when; puisque, since, because; quoique, although; the e mute is cut off only before il, elle, on, un, une, ils, elles; lorsqu'il arriva, when he arrived.

ENTRE, PRESQUE.

In entre, between, and presque, almost; when they form with the next word a compound word : s'entr'aider, to help one another; un entr'actes, an interlude; presqu'ile, peninsula.

QUELQUE.

In quelque, some; only before un, autre; one, other; quelqu'un, some one; quelqu'autre, some other.

JUSQUE.

In jusque, until; before ici, here; où, there; à, to, at; au, at the; jusqu'ici, as far as here; jusqu'aujourd'hui, until to day.

For the sake of the euphony or sound, the (e) is suppressed in the following words : grand'mère, grand mother; grand'messe, high mass; grand'chambre, large room; grand'chose, great thing; grand'peur, great fear; if used in the plural the noun alone takes the plural.

OF THE CEDILLA.

The (ç) is put under the c to preserve to it the soft sound of (s) before a, o, u, for we know that c without a cedilla before those vowels has the hard sound of k; façade, facade; leçon, lesson, il perça he pierced.

OF THE DIERESIS OR TRÉMA.

The tréma (..), is placed over e, i, u, only, to avoid their being pronounced in one syllable with the other vowels, as naïf, artless; ciguë, hemlock; contiguë adjoining.

OF THE HYPHEN.

The hyphen or trait-d'union (-), is used to connect compound words, to show their close relation; aide-de-camp, aide-de-camp; chef-d'œuvre, master piece; aime-t-il? does he like? To show that the pronoun (nominative, accusative or dative, going after the verb,) belongs to that verb; as donnez-le-moi, give it to me; to represent the suppression of a word: vingt-huit, twenty and eight; also to show multiplication quatre-vingts, eighty.

What precedes should be consulted carefully, and learned at the same time as the reading, a way which will render the dry study of it less irksome.

PARTS OF SPEECH.

There are ten parts of speech in French:

- | | | | |
|----------------|--|------------------|------------------------|
| 1. NOUN, | These vary in their inflections. | 1. ADVERB, | These never change. |
| 2. ARTICLE, | | 2. PREPOSITION, | |
| 3. ADJECTIVE, | | 3. CONJUNCTION, | |
| 4. PRONOUN, | | 4. INTERJECTION, | |
| 5. VERB, | | | |
| 6. PARTICIPLE, | | | |

ARTICLE.

There is but one article as given with its genders and numbers.

The article is the: LE, m. s., LA, f. s., L', m. or f. s., LES, m. or f. pl.

(See page 15, 1st Part.)

LE, DU, AU.

Le, the ; du, of the, some ; au, to the, at the ; are masculine and singular, and used before masculine nouns beginning with a consonant or h aspirate : au fruit, to the fruit ; le cheval, the horse ; du roi, of the King.

LA, DE LA, A LA.

La, the ; de la, of the, any ; a la, to the ; are feminine and singular and used only before nouns feminine, beginning with a consonant or h aspirate : la reine the Queen ; a la fleur, to the flower ; de la saison, of the season.

L', DE L', A L'.

L', the ; de l', of the, some ; a l', to the ; are masculine or feminine singular, used before a noun beginning with a vowel or h silent : l'homme, the man ; de l'enfant, of the child ; a l'histoire, to the history.

LES, DES, AUX.

Les, the ; des, of the, some ; aux, to the ; are plural, masculine or feminine, and used before a noun beginning either with a vowel or consonant, an h aspirate or silent : les élèves, the pupils ; des prunes, of the plums ; aux hameaux, to the hamlets ; aux hommes, to the men.

De le, a le, a les, de les, can never be used as articles.

SUBSTANTIF OU NOM.—SUBSTANTIVE OR NOUN.

DES GENRES.—OF GENDERS.

There are but two genders in French, the masculine and feminine ; so, inanimate objects must be of either.

A GENERAL RULE.

MASCULINE TERMINATIONS.—a, i, o, u, (e), a consonant:

Lundi,	Monday.	Jeudi,	Thursday.
Mardi,	Tuesday.	Vendredi,	Friday.
Mercredi,	Wednesday.	Samedi,	Saturday.

LES MOIS.—THE MONTHS.

Janvier,	January.	Juillet,	July.
Février,	February.	Août,	August.
Mars,	March.	Septembre,	September.
Avril,	April.	Octobre,	October.
Mai,	May.	Novembre,	November.
Juin,	June.	Décembre,	December.

FEMININE TERMINATIONS.—aie, ie, ue, eue, oie, ée, ié, ion, son, ance, ense, anse, ière, tié; also a double consonant with e mute; nne, lle, sse:

la vérité,	the truth.	la boue,	the mud.
la raison,	the reason.	l'ignorance,	the ignorance.
une trompette,	a trumpet.	la bassesse,	the baseness.
la vie,	the life.	la persienne,	the wind' blind.

REM.—Generally, é accented not immediately preceded by (t), ends masculine nouns; thé, tea; dé, thimble, masculine.

SECOND REM.—Yet, nouns ending with ée, of Greek origin, are often masculine; lycée, lyceum.

There being many exceptions, it would be losing a precious and important time in trying to commit them to memory: it is only when the ear becomes familiar with the words, that one is able to detect the two different genders; however, the above rule will prove of the greatest importance.

DU PLURIEL DANS LES SUBSTANTIFS.

OF THE PLURAL IN NOUNS.

1. Nouns in the singular generally take (s) to form their plural; enfant, child; enfants, children.

S, X, Z. (no change.)

2. Those ending with s, x, z, do not change: un nez, a nose; des nez, some noses; une souris, a mouse; des souris, some mice.

10. REM.—Nouns ending with ant or ent may drop the t in the plural, provided the words have more than one syllable.

ADJECTIFS.—ADJECTIVES.

11. In French, adjectives like the article must agree in gender and in number with the noun to which they relate : un bel enfant, une belle enfant; de grands travaux, de jolies gravures.

DU FÉMININ DANS LES ADJECTIFS. — OF THE FEMININE IN ADJECTIVES.

(1.)

12. Adjectives ending with e mute in the masculine, remain unchanged in the feminine : aimable, m. aimable, f. amiable; honnête, m. honnête, f. honest; except maitre, traître, m. master, traitor ; maitresse, traitresse, f.

(2.)

13. Those ending with a consonant simply add e mute for their feminine : grand, m. grande, f. tall, large ; petit, m. petite, f. small, little.—Except :

		Their fem. is :
absous ,	absolved ,	absoute .
dissous ,	dissolved ,	dissoute .
bénin ,	benevolent ,	bénigne .

frais ,	fresh ,	fraiche .
paysan ,	peasant ,	paysanne .

14. Those ending with a vowel other than (e) mute, take one to form their feminine ; Example : joli, jolie; aimé, aimée; pretty, loved ; except, coi, favori ; silent, favorite ; whose feminine is cuite, favorite.

(4.)

15. Those ending with el, eil, en, on, et, ot, os, as ; form their feminine by doubling the last consonant and taking e mute :

Masq.	Fem.
cruel ,	cruelle ,
pareil ,	pareille ,

Masc.	Fem.
ancien,	ancienne,	old.
bon,	bonne,	good.

Except Franc , open, sincere, franche ; blanc , white, blanche ; sec , dry, sèche .

EUR into EUSE.

(7.)

- 18. Those in eur make euse: danseur, danseuse, dancer; trompeur, trompeuse, deceitful.

TEUR into TRICE.

(8.)

- 19. Those in teur make trice; accusateur, accusatrice, accuser; bienfaiteur, bienfaitrice, benefactor; instituteur, institutrice, school master; except tricoteur, tricoteuse, knitter; flatteur, flatteuse, flatterer; menteur, menteuse, liar.

EUR into ERESSE.

(9.)

- 20. The following in eur make eresse: demandeur, demandeuse, plaintiff; défendeur, défenderesse, defendant; enchanteur, enchanteresse, enchanting; pêcheur, pêcheresse, sinner; vengeur, vengeresse, avenger, avenging.

ERIEUR-E.

(10.)

- 21. Those in erieur, simply take e mute; supérieur-e, inférieur-e; and so do majeur, major; mineur, minor; meilleur, better.

(11.)

The following are very irregular:

- 22. Ambassadeur, ambassador, ambassadrice; empereur, emperor, impératrice; gouverneur, governor, gouvernante; chanteur, singer, chanteuse, and cantatrice; chasseur, hunter, chasseuse and chasseresse; serviteur, servant, servante.

EUR.—(masc. or fem.)

(12.)

- 23. Moreover, those in eur, which express professions generally exercised by men, do not change for the feminine, as they remain masculine; docteur doctor; professeur, professor.

Cette dame est un bon auteur. That lady is a good author.

Témoin, witness ; has no feminine.
châtain, chestnut color. } Are not used with feminine nouns, fat, foppish. } so that they have no feminine dispos, ready. } endings.

EAU, OU.

Those ending with eau, ou, have also a second masculine, el, used when the word begins with a vowel or h silent : un vieil homme; nouvel habit; fol espoir; and vieux which has vieil.

The feminine of such nouns often used as adjectives : duc, maitre, marquis, prince, etc., whose feminine are : duchesse, maitresse, marquise, princesse; duches, mistress, marchioness, princess; must be looked for in a good dictionary.

FORMATION OF THE PLURAL IN ADJECTIVES.

24. Adjectives form their plural exactly like nouns : that is to say, that the masculine adjectives are subjected to the same exceptions as nouns,—but with regard to the feminine adjectives, they invariably take (s).—See Substantive, pages 93 and 94.

AL.

25. Adjectives ending with al, qualifying feminine substantives only as : bénéficial, diagonal, etc., do not have a plural masculine termination.

26. And the following which instead of changing al into aux take s, are :

amical ,	friendly.	glacial ,	frigid.
bancale ,	bandy-legged.	initial ,	initial.
fatal ,	fatal.	labial ,	labial.
frugal ,	frugal, (also) aux.	matinal ,	early.
filial ,	filial.	naval ,	naval.
théâtral .	theatrical.	nasal ,	nasal.

IMPORTANT OBSERVATION.

Although it has been said that adjectives agree in gender and number with the nouns to which they relate :

Demi, half ; agrees with its noun in gender only, and when it follows it :

Une demi-heure. Deux heures et demie.

Nu, naked ; agrees in gender and number, when it follows its noun.

Nu-pieds, Bare foot.

Le nue, Bare headed.

Feu, late ; agrees only when there is no word intervening with .. or its noun :

La feue Reine. The late Queen.

Feu votre mère, Your late mother.

OF COMPARATIVES IN ADJECTIVES.

27. There are three sorts of comparatives :

(1.) Equality. (2.) Superiority, and (3.) Inferiority.

EQUALITY.

28. That of Equality is made by putting aussi, as, and autant as much ; before the adjective in the positive, and que, as ; after the adjective.

EXAMPLE :

Il était aussi studieux que sage,

He was as studious as good.

Cicéron était autant estimé qu' admiré,

Cicero was as much esteemed as admired.

SUPERIORITY.

29. That of Superiority, by placing plus, more ; before the adjective, and que, than ; after the adjective :

L'Angleterre est plus peuplée que le Canada,
England is more populous than Canada.

INFERIORITY.

30. That of Inferiority, by putting moins, less ; before the adjective, and que, than ; after it :

L'Angleterre est moins grande que le Canada,
England is less large than Canada.

or by using the verb negatively, and putting si, so ; before the adjective, and que, as ; after :

L'Angleterre n'est pas si grande que le Canada,
England is not so large as Canada.

REM.—Plus, moins, aussi, autant, and si, must be repeated before every adjective in the comparative ; but que comes alone and last :

Elle est plus jolie, plus modeste et plus sage que sa sœur ;
She is prettier, more modest, and better than her sister.

Unless several nouns or pronouns were brought for comparison, as :

Il est plus intelligent, que lui, qu'elle et qu'eux.

He is more intelligent than he, she, and they.
in which case que must be repeated.

OF SUPERLATIVES.

31. There are two sorts of superlatives :

The Superlative absolute and Superlative relative.

The Superlative absolute expresses the highest or lowest degree without any comparison.

The Superlative relative expresses comparison.

SUPERLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

32. The Superlative absolute, is formed by placing such adverbs as fort, very ; très, very ; extrêmement, extremely ; before the adjective in the positive ; and also the invariable le plus and le moins, as :

Il est fort content de vous voir, He is very much pleased to see you.

Je vous suis extrêmement obligé, I am extremely obliged to you.

Elle court le moins, She runs the least.

SUPERLATIVE RELATIVE.

33. The Superlative relative is formed by placing the article le, la, l', les, or mon, ton, cet, etc., before the comparative of inferiority or of superiority, as :

Le plus savant, The most learned.

Mon plus joli livre, My finest book.

Cet enfant est le moins désagréable de la classe,

This child is the least disagreeable in the class.

IRREGULAR COMPARATIVES.

34. The following adjectives are irregular :

Bon, good ; meilleur, better ; le meilleur, the best.

Mauvais, bad ; pire, worse ; le pire, the worst.

Petit, small ; moindre, less ; le moindre, the least.

ADVERBS.

Bien, well ; mieux, better ; le mieux, the best.

Mal, badly ; pis, worse ; le pis, the worst.

Peu, little ; moins, less ; le moins, the least.

35. Better, meaning more good, is meilleur.

Better, " more well, is mieux.

Worse, " more bad, is pire,

Worse, " more badly, is pis.

Less, " more small, is moindre.

Less, " more little, (quantity), is moins.

However, we can say plus mauvais, plus petit, plus mal ;
but we cannot say : plus bon, nor plus bien, nor plus peu.

NUMERAL ADJECTIVES.

36. There are two sorts of numeral adjectives : the Cardinal and Ordinal.

THE CARDINAL ARE :

[REM.—The numbers should be learned across each line, and not up and down.]

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1. un. | 11. onze. |
| 2. deux, x silent. | 12. douze. |
| 3. trois, s silent. | 13. treize. |
| 4. quatre. | 14. quatorze, u , sil. |
| 5. cinq. | 15. quinze, u sil. |
| 6. six, x like ss . | 16. seize. |
| 7. sept, p silent. | 17. dix-sept, p sil. |
| 8. huit. | 18. dix-huit. |
| 9. neuf. | 19. dix-neuf. |
| 10. dix, x like ss . | 20. vingt, gt sil. |
| 80. quatre-vingts, gta sil. | 90. quatre-vingt-dix. |
| | 100. cent, t sil. |
| | 1,000. mille. |
| | 1,000,000. million |

REM.—The x and the s of the foregoing numbers must be pronounced like (z) on the next vowel or h silent :

Dix hommes. Deux enfants.

When followed by a consonant, the x, s, t, f, g, must be silent : cinq plumes, six garçons.

The f in neuf, takes the sound of v before a vowel or h silent : neuf hommes, neuf enfants.

37. We say :

- | | |
|----------------------------|------------------------|
| 21. vingt et un. | 22. vingt-deux. |
| 31. trente et un. | 33. trente-trois. |
| 41. quarante et un. | 44. quarante-quatre, |
| 51. cinquante et un. | 55. cinquante-cinq. |
| 61. soixante et un. | 66. soixante-six. |
| 81. quatre-vingt-un, but : | 87. quatre-vingt-sept. |

[Without the conjunction -huit.
et, but a hyphen.] -neuf.

38. We say :

- | | | | |
|------------------|------------|------------------------|------------|
| Soixante-dix, | 60 and 10. | Quatre-vingt-quatorze, | 80 and 14. |
| Soixante-onze, | 60 and 11. | Quatre-vingtquinze, | 80 and 15. |
| Soixante-douze, | 60 and 12. | Quatre-vingt-seize, | 80 and 16. |
| Soixante-treize, | 60 and 13. | Quatre-vingt-dix-sept, | 80 and 17. |

VINGT-CENT.

[Cardinal numbers do not change at all in their terminations; we except vingt et cent.]

39. Rem.—Vingt and cent multiplied by a number take a :

Quatre-vingts, 80, or 4...20's ; deux cents, 200, or 2...100's ; but if vingt and cent are followed by another number, they then drop the s : quatre-vingt-dix, 90 ; deux-cent-un, 201.

Vingt and cent used for vingtième and centième, never take the s : Page quatre-vingt, page 80 ; Exercice cinq cent, exercice 500 ; used for : Page quatre-vingtième, Exercice cinq centième.

MILLE.

40. Mille, 1,000, is written mille, mil, mille:

- (1.) Mille, 1,000, without the s, means that number of 10,000;
 - (2.) Mille, (a mile), takes s : deux milles, two miles ;
 - (3.) Mil, 1,000, used for the years of the Christian Era : mil-huit-cent-cinquante-neuf, 1859.

• QUINT (for) CINQ

41. REM.—Instead of cinq, we write quint, fifth; in speaking of Pope, Sixtus the Fifth, and Charles of the Fifth of Spain: Sixte-Quint, Charles-Quint.

ORDINAL NUMBERS.

42. They are formed from the cardinal by adding ième, and dropping the e of some of the cardinal or changing the f into v.

Ordinal adjectives do all agree in gender and in number with the nouns to which they relate : mes deux premières leçons, my two first lessons.

The French use the cardinal numbers, except for the first.

instead of the ordinal for the days of the weeks and titles of sovereigns. Examples:

- | | |
|----------------------------|-------------------------|
| Le premier du mois, | the first of the month. |
| Le deux, | the second. |
| Henri Quatre, | Henry the Fourth. |

	NUMERAL NOUNS.
Une dizaine , half a score.	La moitié , the half.
Une quinzaine , three quarters of a score, a fortnight.	Le quart , the quarter or 4th part.
Une vingtaine , a score.	Le tiers , third part.
Une trentaine , a score and a half.	Le triple , the triple.
Une centaine , five scores.	Un millier , 1,000.
Un million , 1,000,000.

PREMIER, UNIÈME; SECOND, DEUXIÈME

Premier, is used with nouns, as : premier livre ;
Unième, with compounds of ten, as : vingt et unième ;
Second, with nouns only ; Second livre.
Deuxième, with compounds of ten, and also with nouns ;
Vingt-deuxième livre, 22d book ;—les vingt premiers livres, the 21st books ; because premiers, relates to livres only.

With nouns, second when but two ; deuxième, when more than two.

Cet ouvrage a deux tomes ; voici le second.
 “ vingt ” “ le deuxième.”

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES.

45. The demonstrative adjectives are those that precede nouns :

(See page 15.)

They are : ce, this or that, m. s., before a consonant or h aspirate.

Ce garçon, This boy.

cet, this or that, m. s., before a vowel or h silent.

Cet instituteur, This schoolmaster.

Cet homme, This man.

cette, this or that, f. s., before any noun feminine.

Cette pomme, This apple.

Cette ardoise, That slate.

ces, these or those, pl. m. or f., before any plural noun.

Ces élèves, Those pupils.

46. REM.—In order to express this or that, the French, not having two different words, make use of the adverbs ci, here ; là, there ; placed after nouns, preceded by the demonstrative adjective, to represent proximity or distance :

This page is longer than that page.

The e of (ce), the adjective, is never cut off.

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES.

47. The possessive adjectives are those which precede nouns, to show the possession ; they agree in gender and in number with the nouns they precede, and not otherwise ; they can never stand alone. They are :

	Masc. Sing.	Fem. Sing.	Pl. Masc. Sing.
My,	mon,	ma,	mes.
Thy,	ton,	ta,	tes.
Its; his her,	son,	sa,	ses.
Our,	notre,	notre,	nos.
Your,	votre,	votre,	vos.
Their,	leur,	leur,	leurs.

Son père et sa mère sont arrivés,
Her father and mother have arrived.

48. REM.—They must be repeated like the article, before every noun, where they should, and never be understood as in English.

REM.—Mon, ton, son, although masculine, must be used in the place of ma, ta, sa, which are feminine, when the feminine nouns begin with a vowel or h silent, as the vowel a can only be suppressed in one instance : ton âme, f., thy soul ; son humeur, f., his temper ; mon amitié, f., my friendship.—See page 91.

INDEFINITE ADJECTIVES.

49. They are :

Chaque, m. or f. s., each, every ; nul, m. nulle, f., null, none ;
Même, m. or f. same, like ; quelque, m. or f., some few ;
Quel, m., quelle, f., which, what ; tel, m., telle, f., such ;
[un tel, m. such a.
Plusieurs, m. or f. pl., several ; aucun, m. aucune, f., not one,
Quelconque m. or f., whatever, after a noun ; [not any.
Tout, m., toute, f., tous, m. pl., toutes, f. pl., every, all.

50.—REM.—Nul, aucun, require the verb to take the negative particle ne, as they are negative : nul garçon n'est venu, no boy came ; unless they accompany a verb interrogative, as :

Croyez-vous qu'aucun enfant le fasse ?

Do you think any child will do it?

Nul, aucun, plusieurs and tel when not followed by a noun, must be considered as pronouns, chiefly representing persons, unless otherwise expressed.

TOUT, (whole), ALL.

Tout is either, a noun, pronoun, an adjective, or an adverb.

1. A Noun when the article comes before it ; in the plural it preserves its t ; les tous.

2. A Pronoun, absolute, relates to things and is singular ; tout est perdu ; not absolute, relates to persons and things, and agrees :

Vos livres sont tous ici. (Les dames,) Toutes sont venues.

3. An Adjective, may or may not be followed by the article, agrees with its noun :

Tout homme,

Tous les enfants.

4. An Adverb, means quite, altogether : tout prêt, quite ready ; although an adverb, it takes the feminine singular or plural terminations, if the feminine adjective following it, begins with a consonant or h aspirate.

Cette dame est toute surprise.

MEME.

Même, after a verb, or after several nouns, is an adverb and means even, also; after a single noun or pronoun, although it can be turned by even, in English, it is an adjective in French, as :

Ces murs mêmes peuvent avoir des yeux,

These very walls, or Even those walls may have eyes
QUELQUE.

(1.) QUELQUE, followed by a noun or an adjective and its noun, is written in one word and agrees :—

Quelques bons livres, Some or a few good books.

(2.) Quelque, followed by an adjective alone, or an adverb, remains in one word and invariable :—

Quelque bon qu'ils soient, However good they may be;—it then governs the subjunctive mood.

(3.) Quelque, followed by a verb, is written in two words, and quel agrees, but que does not :—

Quelles que soient vos peines, armez-vous de courage.

Whatever your troubles may be, arm yourself with fortitude.

REM.—Quelque is sometimes translated by whatever, however; it is sometimes an adverb or an adjective; written in two words or in one.

FORMATION OF WORDS.

51. English words whose terminations are :

ace,	ico,	face, préface,	justice,
ade,	ude,	façade,	solitude,
ance,	ence,	ignorance	adhérence,
ant,	ent,	élégant,	accident,
ilo,	ulo,	docile,	ridicule,
acte,	al,	obstacle,	animale,
ble,	ge,	fable,	medage,

All these terminations, as machine, Nation, action, nation; are the same in the French, with the exception of some accents which the English do not use.

ALSO :

- 52. Those in ary, make aire, necessary, nécessaire;
 those in ory, make oire, accessory, accessoire;
 those in our, make eur, candour, candeur;
 those in ous, make eux, famous, fameux;
 those in ty, make té, beauty, beauté;
 those in y, make ie, fury, furie.
 But if ity, or with a consonant before, make tie.

Modesty, modestie.OF PRONOUNS.

- 53. There are five sorts of pronouns ; they are :

Pronoms personnels ,	Personal ,	Pronouns.
Pronoms démonstratifs ,	Demonstrative ,
Pronoms possessifs ,	Possessive ,
Pronoms relatifs ,	Relative ,
Pronoms indéfinis ,	Indefinite ,

PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

- 54. They are :

1st persons.

je,me,moi,nous,

3rd persons.

il,elle,lui,ils,elles,eux,y,se,soi,

2nd persons.

tu,te,toi,vous,

3rd persons.

le,la,les,leur,en,or,f.,pl.,m.,or,s.,or,f.,pl.,or,s.,

A VERY IMPORTANT REMARK.

THEIR USE AND PLACE.

(For the order in which they come, see pages 63, 64.)

Personal pronouns used with verbs only : je, me, tu, te, il, se, ils, le, la, les, leur, y, en.

Personal pronouns used with or without verbs : moi, toi, lui, elle, elles, eux, nous, vous.

Personal pronouns used with prepositions : moi, toi, lui, elle, elles, eux, nous, vous, soi, oneself.

55. Personal pronouns used with verbs only, always precede their verbs, whether as nominative, dative or accusatives :

Il te l'a dit, He told it to thee.

except as nominatives, when the verbs are used interrogatively, as :

Avons-nous ri ? Did we laugh ?

Rirons-nous ? Shall we laugh ?

As objects, the verb being in the imperative affirmative, they follow it, as :

Parlez-leur-en, Speak to them about it.

REM.——le, la, l' les, personal pronouns, must not be confounded with le, la, l', articles. The pronouns go with verbs, whilst the articles go with nouns :

Je la vois, nous les aimons. Le Roi, la Reine, les enfants.

I see her, we love them. The King, the Queen, the children.

DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

56. The Demonstrative pronouns are very different from the demonstrative adjectives, because they do not precede nouns but verbs or relative pronouns, and take the gender and number of the nouns they represent.—See p. 19.

They are : ce, m. pl. or s., this, that or it.

celui m. s. that, the one.

celle, f. s., that, the one.

ceux, m. pl. those, the ones.

celles, f. pl., those, the ones.

Ceci, this (thing,) m. s. Cela, that (thing,) m. s.

57. After cet, cette, ceux, celles, we use ci and là to show proximity or distance, they represent things or persons.

Ce, must not be confounded with ce the adjective ; for ce the pronoun, precedes only verbs or relative pronouns, and has no other termination, and the (e) of it can be cut off ; whilst ce, the adjective, goes before nouns only and never changes.

58. Moreover, ce takes the place of il, elle, ils, elles when preceding être, to be ; followed by a noun or pronoun determined.

So we say :

Ce sont des personnes aimables,

They are amiable persons.

Ce que je préfère c'est l'humanité,

That which I like best is humanity.

Ce dont je parle,

That of which I speak.

O'est un malheur,

It is a misfortune.

CELUI, ETC.—CECI.

Celui, celle, ceux, celles may represent persons or things as in English ; they must take the place of a noun expressed before, and determined.

Ceci and cela, represent only things pointed at.

Ceci est bon, cela est mauvais,

This is good, that is bad.

These two cannot be used like the preceding ones.

POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

59. The Possessive pronouns express possession and agree in gender and in number with the nouns for which they stand.

They are :

Masc.	Fem.
-------	------

le mien,	la mienne,
-----------------	-------------------

mine.

le tien,	la tienne,
-----------------	-------------------

thine.

le sien,	la sienne,
-----------------	-------------------

his, hers.

le nôtre,	la nôtre,
------------------	------------------

ours.

le vôtre,	la vôtre,	your.
le leur,	la leur,	theirs.
(See page, 18.)

Masc. pl.	Fem. pl.
les miens,	les miennes,	mine.
les tiens,	les tiennes,	thine.
les siens,	les siennes,	his, hers.
les nôtres,	les nôtres,	ours.
les vôtres;	les vôtres,	yours.
les leurs,	les leurs.	theirs.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

60. The Relative Pronouns are divided into relative and absolute.—See page 16.

The relative are those which have an antecedent expressed; and absolute, those that have none expressed. The pronouns are : Qui, who, which, whom, that ; Lequel, which, who, whom, that. Que, which, whom, what, that ; laquelle, f. s. ; lesquels, m. pl. “ “ “ ; Quoi, which, what ; lesquelles, f. pl., which, who, Où, to which ; [whom that.]

61. Qui with antecedent is a nominative relating to persons or to things, both genders and numbers.

L'enfant qui pleure, The child who cries.

La plume qui est bonne, The pen which is good.

62. Qui interrogative or governed by prepositions relates to persons only :

De qui parlez-vous ? Of whom do you speak ?

QUE.

63. Que is never governed by prepositions.

64. Que with antecedent is an accusative and relates to persons or to things, both genders and numbers :

Les fruits que j'aime, The fruits which I like.

Les dames que je vois, The ladies whom I see.

Que, interrogative, relates to things only :

Que voulez-vous? What do you want?

LEQUEL.

65. Lequel, which ; le, the ; and quel, which ; change : the first like the article, and quel, like an adjective : relates to persons or to things ; is interrogative or is not ; has an antecedent or has not one expressed ; but must always represent something or somebody spoken of before or immediately after :

De ces deux livres, lequel voulez-vous?

Of these two books, which will you have?

De ces trois demoiselles, laquelle préferez-vous?

Of these three young ladies, which do you prefer?

QUOI.

66. Quoi, relates to things only, is both genders and numbers ; is generally preceded by prepositions or sometimes followed by de ;

A quoi pensez-vous? What are you thinking of.

Quoi de plus beau que la nature?

What more beautiful than nature?

DONT.

67. Dont, both genders and numbers, relates to persons or things :

L'homme dont vous parlez, The man of whom you speak.

La chose dont il parle, The thing of which he speaks.

N. B.—Never begin a sentence with dont to ask a question.

OU.

68. Où, to which ; relates to things only :

La ville où (for à laquelle) je vais, The city to which I go.

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

69. They cannot be followed by any noun like the adjectives of the same name. The Indefinite pronouns are :

On, one, anyone, I, thou, she, we, you, they ;

Quiconque, whoever, sing., both genders ;

Quelqu'un, m., somebody, some one ;

Chacun, m., each one, everyone ;

Autrui, m. s., others, other people ;

L'un l'autre, m., each other, one another ;

L'un et l'autre, the one and the other, both ;

Personne, m., no one, nobody.

ON, ETC.

70. REM.—ON governs the verb in the third singular only, and may or may not relate to any person in particular.

On dit qu'il est arrivé, People say that he has arrived.

71. QUICONQUE generally governs two verbs.

Quiconque est né envieux et méchant est naturellement triste.
Whoever is born envious and bad is naturally sad.

72. QUELQU'UN has for feminine quelqu'une; QUELQUES-UNS, m. pl., quelques-unes, pl. f. QUELQU'UN, absolute, relates to persons only; but otherwise relates to both persons and things.

Quelqu'un est venu, Somebody came.

Donnez-moi quelques-unes de ces poires,

Give me some of these pears.

73. CHACUN has for feminine chacune, relates to persons or to things; CHACUN, absolute, to persons only.

Chacun pense à soi, Every one thinks of himself.

74. AUTRUI, to persons only, always masculine singular, generally preceded by prepositions.

Faites à autrui, ce que vous voudriez qu'on vous fit,

Do unto others that which you would wish that they did to you.

L'UN L'AUTRE, generally to persons only; they express reciprocity.

Ils s'aiment l'un l'autre, They love each other.
Its plural is : les uns les autres—more than two.

L'UN ET L'AUTRE, to both persons and things.

L'un et l'autre sont sortis, Both are out.

Les uns et les autres—more than two.

75. PERSONNE, m. s., requires the verb which it governs or by which it is governed to be in the third singular, and accompanied by the negation ne.

Personne n'a raison, Nobody is right.

Je n'ai vu personne, I saw nobody.

VERBES.—VERBS.

76. There are in French four different conjugations known by the ending of the Infinitive. The Infinitive of the 1st, ends with er; of the 2nd, with ir; of the 3rd oir; of the 4th with re.

There are but two auxiliaries in French.

77. AVOIR, to have.

Ayant, having.

eu, had.

ETRE, to be.

Etant, being.

Été, been.

PRESENT INDICATIVES.

(*) The signs shall or will are represented by the terminations of the Future, and have and be by the roots au, es; should or would, by the terminations of Conditional, and have and be by the roots au, se.

IMPERATIVES.

Aie, Have thou.
Qu'il ait, Let him have.
Ayons, Let us have.
Ayez, Let ye have.
Qu'ils aient, Let them have.

Sois, Be thou.
Qu'il soit, Let him be.
Soyons, Let us be.
Soyez, Let ye be.
Qu'ils soient, Let them be.

78. Subjunctive present always governed by a conjunction or by another verb connected with que, a conjunction.

SUBJUNCTIVES PRESENT.

Que j' ai e, That I may have.
Que tu ai es,
Qu'il ai t,
Que nous ay ons,
Que vous ay ez,
Qu'ils ai ent,

Que je soi e, That I may be.
Que tu soi s,
Qu'il soi t,
Que nous soy ons,
Que vous soy ez,
Qu'ils soy ent,

IMPERFECTS OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE.

Que j'	euss e,	That I might have.	Que je — fuisse e,	That I might be.
Que tu	eusses es,		Que tu fuisse es,
Qu'il	eût t,		Qu'il fût t, *
Que nous	eussions ions,		Que nous fussions ions,
Que vous	eussiez iez,		Que vous fussiez iez,
Qu'ils	eussent ent,		Qu'ils fussent ent,

(1, 2.) REMARK.—The 1st and 2nd persons plural of the Preterite Definite have always a circumflex accent over the vowel preceding the m and t; and also, the 3rd person singular of the Imperfect of the Subjunctive. This rule holds good for all verbs without any exception.

REM. The terminations (e, es, ent) must never be heard in any verb; they are called mute syllables.

COMPOUND TENSES.

The compound tenses of Avoir and Etre are formed with the help of all the simple tenses of Avoir to which are added the Past Participles eu, had ; été, been :

79. The CONDITIONAL has two compound tenses :

J' eaurais eu,	I should have had, and
J' eusse eu or été,	I should have had or been.
Tu eusses eu	Thou shouldst have had or been.
Il eût eu	He should have had or been.
Nous eussions eu	We should have had or been.
Vous eussiez eu	You should have had or been.
Ils eussent eu	They should have had or been.

That second Conditional Past is called the also of the Conditional.

REMARK.—Eu may change in its final ending ; but été, never.

80. AVOIR conjugated with two Personal Pronouns, to which the Past Participle of any active verb can be added :

Je le lui ai lu,	read.	I have read it to him.
Tu me l' as lu,		Thou hast read it to me.
Il te l' a lu,		He has read it to thee.
Nous le lui avons lu,		We have read it to him.
Vous les leur avez lus,		You have read them to them.
Ils te les ont lus,		They have read them to thee.

AVOIR, with le, la, les.

Que je l'	aie vu,	seen.	That I may have seen it.
Que tu les	cies vus,		That thou mayest have seen them.
Qu'il les	ait vus,		That he may have seen them.
Que nous l'	ayons vu,		That we may have seen it, him or her.
Que vous les	ayez vus,		That you may have seen them.
Qu'ils les aient	vu,		That they may have seen him, it, her.

IMPERATIVE AFFIRMATIVE.

Dic-le,	See p. 111, No. 55.
Qu'il les ait,
Ayons-le,
Ayez-les,
Qu'ils les aient,

IMPERATIVE NEGATIVE.

Ne l'aie pas,	See p. 111, No. 55.
Qu'il ne les ait pas,
Ne l'ayons pas,
Ne les ayez pas,
Qu'ils ne les aient pas,

81. Verbs AVOIR and ETRE, negative and interrogative:

Ai-je ?	Have I ?	Suis-je,	Am I ?
As-tu ?	Hast thou ?	Es-tu ?	Art thou ?
*A-t-il ?	Has he ?	Est-il ?	Is he ?
Avons-nous ?	Have we ?	Sommes-nous ?	Are we ?
Avez-vous ?	Have you ?	Etes-vous ?	Are you ?
Ont-ils ?	Have they.	Sont-ils ?	Are they ?

Avais-je ?	Had I ?	Etais-je ?	Was I ?
Avais-tu ?	Hadst thou ?	Etais-tu ?	Wast thou ?
Avoit-il ?	Had ?	Etaoit-il ?	Was he ?
Avions-nous ?	Had we ?	Etoions-nous ?	Were we ?
Aviez-vous ?	Had you ?	Etoiez-vous ?	Were you ?
Avaient-ils ?	Had they ?	Etaient-ils ?	Were they ?

Eus-je ?	Had I ?	Fus-je ?	Was I ?
Eus-tu ?	Hadst thou ?	Fus-tu ?	Wast thou ?
Eut-il ?	Had he ?	Fut-il ?	Was he ?
Eumes-nous ?	Had we ?	Fumes-nous ?	Were we ?
Eutes-vous ?	Had you ?	Futes-vous ?	Were you ?
Eurent-ils ?	Had they ?	Furent-ils ?	Were they ?

Aurai-je ?	Shall I have ?	Serai-je ?	Shall I be ?
Aura-tu ?	Shalt thou have ?	Seras-tu ?	Shalt thou be ?
*Aurait-il ?	Shall he have ?	*Sera-t-il ?	Shall he be ?
Aurons-nous ?	Shall we have ?	Serons-nous ?	Shall we be ?
Aurez-vous ?	Shall you have ?	Serez-vous ?	Shall you be ?
Auron-t-ils ?	Shall they have ?	Seront-ils ?	Shall they be ?

Aurai-je	Should I have ?	Serai-je ?	Should I be ?
Aurai-tu ?	Shouldst thou have ?	Seras-tu ?	Shouldst thou be ?
Aurait-il ?	Should he have ?	Sera-t-il ?	Should he be ?
Aurions-nous ?	Should we have ?	Serions-nous ?	Should we be ?
Auriez-vous ?	Should you have ?	Seriez-vous ?	Should you be ?
Auront-ils ?	Should they have ?	Seront-ils ?	Should they be ?

N. B.—Although the (e) of je is heard when standing before a verb, it becomes almost silent when after, to form the interrogation.

(*) REM.—When the verb ends with a vowel in the third person singular and the verb is interrogative, the pronoun il, elle or en coming after, for the sake of euphony, take a (?) between two hyphens, placed between the verb and the pronoun.

82. The NEGATIONS used with verbs are

THEIR PLACE.

83. The verb comes just between ne and the second negation; if the pronoun comes before the verb, the ne goes just after that pronoun; if a verb is in a compound tense, the Past Participle goes after the second negation.

Je n' ai pas,	I have not.
Tu n' as pas,	Thou hast not.
Il n' a rien,	He has nothing.
Nous n' avons jamais,	We have never.
Vous n' avez personne,	You have nobody.
Ils n' ont point,	They have not at all.

Je	ne suis pas,	I am not.
Tu	n' es pas,	Thou art not.
Il	n' est jamais,	He is never.
Nous	ne sommes pas,	We are not.
Vous	n' êtes rien,	You are nothing.
Ils	ne sont rien,	They are nothing.

Ne l' avais-je pas appris?	Had I not learnt it ?
Ne les avais-tu pas ?	Hast thou not learnt them ?
Ne les avait-il pas ?	Had he not learnt them ?
Ne l' avions-nous pas ?	Had we not learnt it ?
Ne l' aviez-vous pas ?	Had you not learnt it ?
Ne les avaient-ils pas ?	Had they not learnt them ?

93.

REMARKS ON THE FIRST PERSON SINGULAR OF VERBS USED INTERROGATIVELY:

1st. Verbs of the first conjugation end with e mute ; but that e mute becomes accented if followed by the nominative of the verb, as : Chanté-je ? Do I sing ?

2nd. For the second, it would be rather hard to say finis-je, choisis-je; so we make use of est-ce que, before the pronoun and verb, and we say, Est-ce que je choisis? Do I choose?

3rd. For the third we also say reçois-je; but : Est-ce que je reçois? Do I receive? is far better.

4th. For the fourth, we cannot say vends-je? there being so many consonants; so we must say : Est-ce que je vends? Do I sell? but we can say reçois-tu? vends-tu? and so on, for all the other persons.

REMARK.—By using EST-CE QUE before any tense, except the Substantive and Imperative, and any person of the four verbs given, you can make them interrogative without dis- placing the pronouns at all.

PASSIVE VERBS.

94. Passive Verbs as in English are conjugated in French with the simple and compound tenses of ETRE, to be; to which is added any Past Participle of an active verb you choose to make passive, as :

Je suis aimé de vous, I am loved by you.

Elles ont été punies, They have been punished.

Moreover, that Past Participle must agree in gender and in number with the nominative of the verb :

Nous avons dormi, We have slept.

Nous sommes arrivés, We have arrived.

NEUTER VERBS.

95. Neuter Verbs in French are chiefly conjugated with Avoir, but often with Etre; if with Avoir, the Past Participle never changes; if with Etre, the Past Participle agrees with the nominative of the verb.

The following are conjugated with Etre in their compound tenses :

aller, to go. allé, gone.

arriver, to arrive. arrivé, arrived.

décéder, to die, to be deceased. décédé, dead.

devenir,	to become.	devenu,	become.
entrer,	to come in.	entré,	come in.
mourir,	to die, to lose life.	mort,	dead.
naitre,	to be born.	né,	been born, born.
partir,	to set off, out.	parti,	set off.
rester,	to remain.	resté,	remained.
venir,	to come.	venu,	come.

REFLECTIVE VERBS.

96. Reflective or Pronominal Verbs are those which are conjugated with two Personal Pronouns, as :

Je me,	I myself.	On se,	One oneself.
Tu te,	Thou thyself.	Nous nous,	We ourselves.
Il se,	He himself.	Vous vous,	You yourself, or selves.
Elle se,	She herself.	Ils se,	They themselves.

97. The peculiarity of these verbs is, that their compound tenses instead of being conjugated with the auxiliary Avoir, are always conjugated with Etre. When verbs are not reflective the myself, &c., is expressed by :

Myself,	Moi-même.	Ourselves,	Nous-mêmes.
Thyself,	Toi-même.	Yourself or selves,	Vous-mêmes.
Himself,	Lui-même.	Themselves,	Eux-mêmes.
Herself,	Elle-même.		{ Elles-mêmes.

Qu'il y eut,	That there might be.

REM.—Unipersonal verbs are conjugated according to the conjugation they belong to, but only in the 3rd singular.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES FOR THE FOUR REGULAR CONJUGATIONS.

(See pages 124-28-30-32.)

105. There are five primitive tenses, or tenses used or said to form the others ; they are :

1. The PRESENT INFINITIVE, forming two tenses.
2. The PRESENT PARTICIPLE, " three "
3. The PAST PARTICIPLE, all the compound tenses.
4. The PRESENT INDICATIVE, forming one tense.
5. The PREFERITE DEFINITE, " one "

106. The INFINITIVE PRESENT forms the Future and Conditional by changing :

	ER,	IR,	EVOIR,	RE,	into :
1st	erai,	irai,	evrai,	rai,	Future.
2nd	erais,	irais,	evrais,	rais,	Conditional.

107. The PRESENT PARTICIPLE forms the three persons plural of the Indicative Present, the Imperfect Indicative and the Present Subjunctive, by changing :

PRESENT INDICATIVE.

	1st conj. ANT,	2nd conj. ISSANT,	3rd conj. EVANT,	4th conj. ANT, into :
1st	ons,	issons,	evons,	ont,
	ez,	issez,	evez,	ez,
	ent,	issent,	oivent,	ent,

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE.

2nd	ais,	issais,	evais,	ais, etc.
-----	-------------	----------------	---------------	------------------

SUBJUNCTIVE PRESENT.

3rd	e,	isse,	oive,	e.
	es,	isses,	oives,	es.
	e,	isse,	oive,	e.
	ions,	issions,	oivions,	ions.

iez, issiez, eviez, iez.
 ent, issent, oivent, ent.

108. The PAST PARTICIPLE forms all compound tenses with the help of Avoir and Etre:

J'ai parlé,	I have spoken.
Je suis écouté,	I am listened to.
Je me suis levé,	I have risen, got up.

109. The PRESENT INDICATIVE, forms the Imperative by suppressing the pronouns of the 2nd person singular, 1st and 2nd person plural, used as nominatives:

1st conj.	2nd conj.	3rd conj.	4th conj.
2nd p. sing. es,	is,	ois,	s,
1st p. pl. ons	issions,	evons,	ons,
2nd p. pl. ez,	issez,	evez,	ez,

INTO :

2nd p. sing. * e,	is,	ois,	s,
1st p. pl. ons	issions,	evons,	ons,
2nd p. pl. ez,	issez,	evez,	ez,

Imperative.

* REM.—Verbs of the first conjugation and others, ending with es in the Present Indicative, 2nd person singular and vas, go ; drop the (s) in the Imperative, except before the words en, y.

110. The PERFECT DEFINITE forms the Imperfect Subjunctive by changing the following of the Preterite :

1st conj.	2nd conj.	3rd conj.	4th conj.
ai,	is,	us,	is, etc., into :
asse,	isse,	usse,	isse,
asses,	isses,	usses,	isses.
ât,	it,	ât,	it.
assions,	issions,	ussions,	issions.
assiez,	issiez,	ussiez,	issiez.
assent,	issent,	ussent,	issent.

By following exactly the rules given No. 104, and others, it will be easy to learn all the regular French verbs.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

We call irregular verbs those that are in their primitive and derivative tenses, not precisely like the four conjugations given as models, pages 124-28-30-32.

THE ALMOST INVARIABLE TERMINATIONS OF THE IRREGULAR VERBS OF 2ND, 3RD AND 4TH CONJUGATIONS.

2. es,	iez,
3. e,	ent.

FOR THE IMPERF. OF THE SUBJ.

Sing.	Pl.
1. sse,	ssions,
2. sses,	ssiez,
3. t,	ssent.

REM.—Whatever may be the root of the tense given, knowing the first singular, you simply add the remainder of the termination to the root.

REM.—For example, take the future j'irai, I shall go; were it regular, it should be ai-irai, according to page 141, No. 106;

but being irregular, the all has been changed into i, and the regular ending eraï into rai; therefore by following the rest of the endings of the future we shall have :

J'	i rai,	Nous i rons,
Tu	i ras,	Vous i rez,
Il	i ra,	Ils i ront.

and this applies to all tenses and verbs.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES OF IRREGULAR VERBS.

As with regular verbs, there are five primitive tenses; see page 141.

1. The PRESENT INFINITIVE forms the Future and Conditional, by changing the final r of the 2nd and 3rd conjugation, and the re of the 4th, into :

Future,	Conditional.
rai,	rais,	rions,
ras,	rais,	riez,
ra,	rail,	raient.

2. The PRESENT PARTICIPLE forms the three persons plural of the Indicative, the Imperfect, of the Indicative and the Present Subjunctive; by changing ant into :

Ind. Present.	Imperf. Ind.	Pres. Subj.
1. ons,	1. ais,	1. e,
2. ez,	2. ais,	2. es,
3. ent.	3. ait,	3. e,

3. The PRESENT INDICATIVE, forms the Imperative by suppressing the pronouns used as nominatives as :

tu	s,	{	{	s.
nous,	ons,			ons.
vous,	ez.			ez.

4. The PRETERITE DEFINITE forms the Imperfect Subjunctive by changing its final s of the 1st singular into :

1. sse, ssions,

2. ses, ssiez,

3. t, ssent,

and always placing a (^) over the vowel preceding the t of the 3rd singular, an if there be none, over the vowel of the root.

5. The PAST PARTICIPLE forms all compound tenses with the aid of Avoir and Etre.—See page 142, No. 108.

REMARKS.—The verbs Avoir and Etre are not comprised in the above rules as they are given in full, and greatly deviate from them.

IMPORTANT OBSERVATIONS.

All through out the irregular verbs, as soon as the word reg. or regular occurs in the Tableau Général, page 146, the pupil must at once refer to the formation of tenses in irregular verbs.

Whenever a tense can not regularly be formed from its primitive, it is given in full for the Present Indicative and Subjunctive, and only the first person singular for the others ; for it shall be easy to the learner knowing the 1st singular to go on with the rest of the terminations which he must have learnt previously, or refer again to his list of irregular terminations.

The Plan hitherto pursued in French Grammars, of giving the irregular verbs at full length, has been in my candid opinion, extremely pernicious to beginners, because they have trusted to their memory without caring whether they understood their verbs or not, and after a day or two have forgotten them. I have witnessed this same defect with advanced pupils.

If I lay a great stress on the irregular verbs, it is because they are most important ; and I may say it is perfectly absurd for teachers to make their pupils translate free French, who have not learned their irregular verbs : therefore, the third part or Reading book will prove of the greatest necessity, till the pupil is sufficiently advanced to undertake the task of finding readily in a good Dictionary, the words he wants.

REMARKS ON THE IRREGULAR VERBS OF THE FIRST CONJUGATION.

1. Aller, is conjugated in its compound tenses with the auxiliary Etre, so that the Past Participle must agree with the nominative of the verb in gender and in number : Elle est allée se promener.—She is gone to take a walk.

J'ai allé, etc., means that I have gone and returned ; but je suis allé, etc., means that I have gone and not returned.

2. S'en aller; is conjugated like aller; and in its simple tenses by placing : je m'en, tu t'en, il s'en, nous nous en, vous vous en, ils s'en, before the simple tense of aller ; and in interrogations, by placing je, tu, il, nous, vous, ils, after the verb. In compound tenses, by placing je m'en, etc., before the simple tenses of Etre followed by allé or allés.

REM.—There are at least 5000 verbs, if not more, which belong to the 1st conj., and which are regularly formed after chanter. Reg. or regular all throughout these irregular verbs, means that those tenses so named are regular, according to the primitive tenses from which they are formed.

The 1st conjugation has but three irregular verbs : aller, which has been given, envoyer, and renvoyer which are conjugated like chanter, P. 124, and are irregular only in the Future and Conditional Pres; J'enverrai, J'envoyais.

REMARKS ON THE IRREGULAR VERBS OF THE SECOND CONJUGATION.

In this way we see that the second conjugation of irregular verbs is divided into twelve principal heads of verbs from which other derivatives are conjugated.

1. ACQUERIR, has conquérir, to conquer; not often used, except in the Future and the compound tenses.
2. REQUERIR, to request; a law expression.
3. S'ENQUERIR, to inquire; often used in the Infinitive and the compound tenses: je me suis enquis.
4. QUERIR, rather old, meaning to fetch; is only used in the Infinitive.
5. CUEILLIR, to gather, has assaillir, to assault; tressaillir, to be startled; accueillir, to welcome; recueillir, to collect; and

9. BOUILLIR, has rebouillir, to boil again. See bouillir.

Ebouillir, to boil away ; used only in the Infinitive Present and Past Participle, ebouilli, &c.

Bouillir, itself is generally used with faire :

Faites bouillir l'eau,

Make the water boil.

10. MENTIR, to lie, has :

endormir, to lull asleep.

partir, to set out.

s'endormir, to fall asleep.

repartir, to set out again.

dormir, to sleep.

sentir, to feel. [to reply.

ressentir, to resent.

démentir, to belie.

sortir, to go out.

présentir, to foresee.

ressortir, to go out again.

se repentir, to repent.

consentir, to consent.

se rendormir, to fall asleep.

deservir, to clear the table, to do an ill office,

[again.]

to act against one.

11. RESSORTIR, to go out again ; is conjugated like mentir.

Ressortir, to be dependant upon, belonging to ; in that sense is like choisir and consequently regular.

12. REPARTIR, to set off, out again ; ist just like partir or mentir ; but répartir, with the (') and meaning to share, to divide, is regular like finir.

13. OFFAIRE, to offer, has :

couvrir, to cover.

souffrir, to suffer.

recouvrir, to cover again.

ouvrir, to open.

découvrir, to discover.

All verbs ending with frir, vrir, are conjugated alike.

14. TENIR, to hold, to keep :

s'abstenir, to abstain oneself from.

entretenir, to keep up, to converse.

appartenir ,	to belong.	devenir ,	to become.
 contenir ,	to contain.	intervenir ,	to intervene.
 maintenir ,	to maintain.	parvenir ,	to succeed.
 obtenir ,	to obtain.	prévenir ,	to anticipate.
 retenir ,	to retain.	revenir ,	to come back.
 soutenir ,	to sustain.	se souvenir ,	to remember.
 venir ,	to come.	se ressouvenir ,	to recollect.
 convenir ,	to agree, to suit.	subvenir ,	to relieve.

REMARQUE.—Venir, devenir, parvenir, are generally conjugated with Etre in their compound tenses.

Convenir, meaning to suit, takes avoir; meaning to agree takes Etre.

REMARQUE.—It must be remarked that verbs in enir double the (n) when followed by e, es, ent, unaccented.

15. Vêtir has se vêtir, to clothe oneself; revêtir, to invest, to put clothes on; se revêtir, to invest oneself; se dévêter, to divest, to take clothes off.

16. Haïr, to hate; is a regular verb; it must be remarked that it takes two dots or diaereses (") over the i in all its conjugation, except on the three persons singular of the Present Indicatif and 2nd singular of the Imperative.

17. Bénir, to bless; is also regular. Its peculiarity is that it has two Past Participles: béni, in its proper sense; bénit with a (t) in its figurative signification:

Figurative. { Du pain bénit De l'eau bénite, { Holy bread. Holy water.

Proper. { Dieu a béni cette famille,
 { God has blessed that family.

18. FLEURIR, to blossom, bloom ; is regular. Its peculiarities are that it changes its root fleur into flor in the Present Participle and Imperfect Indicative only in a figurative sense.

La ville de Toronto florissant en commerce et en sciences.
The City of Toronto flourishing in commerce and sciences.

19. OUIR is used in the Preterite Definite, Future, Conditional Present and Imperfect Subjunctive ; also in its Past Participle, ouï, m. or ouie, f. ; is obsolete in the other tenses or moods : it means to hear by report ; or like entendre, to hear by paying attention to what is said. We say : je l'ai ouï dire, I have heard it said.

Tu ouîras la messe le dimanche, Thou shalt hear mass on Sunday.

20. FERIR, means to strike ; rather obsolete, except in the Infinitive in this phrase :

Nous nous emparâmes de la ville sans coup férir.

We took possession of the town without striking a blow.

Féru, its Past Participle is very seldom used.

21. SAILLIR, to project ; only used in the Infinitive and Present Participle, saillant.

Saillir, meaning to gush out, to spring up ; has its Past Participle sailli, conjugated with Avoir ; its other tenses are obsolete. Still, we say : les eaux saillissent, the waters gush out.

22. GÉSIR, is not used any more in the Infinitive Present, and means to lie down. Still, we say : il git, nous gissons vous gissez, ils gisent, il gitait, gisant, lying down ; ci-git, here lies.

23. SE MOURIR, to be dying, to be on the point of death ; is conjugated only in the Present Indicative and Imperfect Indicative.

PRACTICAL LESSON,

ON THE FORMATION OF THE TENSES.

As each primitive tense is placed close to its derivative tense or tenses, by following the rules and terminations, at page 143 and 144, the difficulties will soon disappear.

Let us take Acquérir.

The Infinitive forms the Future and Conditional ; therefore, it should be, by changing the letter (r) into rai, and the rest according to No. 1, page 144 ; acquérirai : not being so, it is given in the Tabelleau, and acquer becomes the root and rai the termination.

The Present Participle, acquérant, forms the three persons plural of the Present Indicative ; therefore according to No. 2, page 144, we change ant into ons, ez, ent ; then we shall have acquérons, acquérez—regular ; but we have acquièrent for the 3rd person plural, instead of acquèrent ; it must then be irregular in that 3rd pl.

In the same manner, the Subjunctive Present is irregular in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd sing., and 3rd pl. ; and regular in the 1st and 2nd pl. ; because were it regular all through, it would be changing ant, into : e, es, e, ions, iez, ent ; acquér e, es, e, ions, iez, ent ; but it is acquier e, es, e, —ent ; therefore the 1st, 2nd, 3rd sing., and 3rd pl. are irregular, not in the terminations, but in the root.

The Present Indicative forms the Imperative by suppressing its pronouns used as nominatives ; it shall be simple enough to make tu acquiers, nous acquérons, vous acquérez, into : acquiers, acquérons, acquérez.

The 3rd persons sing. and pl. of the Imperative are always the same as the 3rd persons sing. and plural of the Present Subjunctive.

The Preterite forms the Imperfect of the Subjunctive by changing its (s) of the first singular into sse, sses, t, ssions, ssiez, ssent ; having acquis, it must give acquisse, acquisses, acquit, acquisitions, acquissiez, acquissent.

The Past Participle forms all compound tenses by prefixing to it either Avoir or Etre. So, we have, J'ai acquis, etc., je suis aimé.

¶ The Rules are precise, and if followed must work out all the irregular verbs in the same manner ; and their tenses, as I have said it before, that cannot be subjected to the rules, are given in full for the Present Indicative and Subjunctive, and only in the 1st singular for the others, as is the case for acquérir.

REMARKS ON THE IRREGULAR VERBS OF THE THIRD CONJUGATION.

1. ASSEOIR, has s'asseoir, to sit down, lit. to sit oneself.

2. DECHOIR, to fall ; as in this sense :

Il est déchu dans l'estime du public,

He is fallen in the esteem of the public;

it is conjugated with Etre or with Avoir.3. MOUVOIR, to move ; has promouvoir, to promote ; and émouvoir, to move in a moral way.

REMARKS ON THE IRREGULAR VERBS OF THE FOURTH CONJUGATION.

- DISSOUDRE, to dissolve; is like absoudre.
- Instead of attraire which can only be used in the Infinitive, generally we use of attirer, same signification.
- BATTRE has for compound :

abattre ,	to pull down.	rabattre ,	to abate.
combattre ,	to fight.	se débattre ,	to struggle.
débattre ,	to debate.
- EXCLURE, to be excluded; like conclure.
- CONDUIRE has for compound :

construire ,	to construct.	introduire ,	to introduce.
déduire ,	to deduct.	produire ,	to produce. détruire, to destroy. réduire, to reduce.

instruire, to instruct. traduire, to translate.
cuire, to cook ; generally used with faire.

CONNAITRE has paraître, to appear ; reparaître, to re-appear ; disparaître, to disappear ; reconnaitre, to recognise, reconnoître.

REM.—Verbs ending with aire, preserve the (^) over the i, when followed by the letter t.

6. COUDRE has for compound ; recoudre, to sew again ; découdre, to unstitch.

7. CRAINDRE has :

peindre, to paint.	astreindre, to bind, to sub-
éteindre, to put out.	atteindre, to reach. [ject
feindre, to feign.	plaindre, to pity.
contraindre, to constrain.	se plaindre, to complain.

It must be remarked that verbs ending with eindre, aindre, or soudre, take s, s, t in the place of ds, ds, d; in the three persons singular of the Present Indicative.

3. ACCROIRE, used only in the Infinitive, as : FAIRE ACCROIRE to make one believe what is not the case.

9. CROIRE has for compound : décroître, to decrease ; accroître, to increase.

Cru, Past Participle of croître, takes a circumflex accent in the masculine to distinguish it from cru, believed and cru, raw, not cooked. Some tenses and persons of croître and croire, are exactly alike, the (^) alone shows the difference.

10. DIRE, to say, has redire, to say again ; but contredire, to contradict, médire to slander.

interdire to interdict ; are just like dire, except that instead of dites in the second person plural of the Present Indicative and Imperative, they have the regular ending, disez : so we would have : vous contredisez, you contradict, etc, like the Present Participle, contredisant.

11. ÉCRIRE has the following like itself :

circonscrire, to circumscribe. proscrire, to proscribe.

décrire, to describe. rétruire, to write again.

inscrire, to inscribe. souscrire, to subscribe.

12. FAIRE has :

contrefaire, to mimic. satisfaire to satisfy.

défaire to undo. surfaire, to overcharge.

13. LIRE, has élire, to elect ; relire, to read again.

14. METTRE, has for compound :

admettre to admit. permettre, to permit commettre, to commit. promettre, to promise.

compromettre, to compromise. soumettre, to submit.
s'entremettre, to intermeddle. transmettre, to transmit.
omettre, to omit. remettre, to put off, or se démettre, to resign, to put out of joint. [again.]

15. MOUDRE, has for compound :

Remoudre, to grind again, wheat, etc.; émoudre, to grind knives, razors, etc.; rémoudre, to grind again.

16. RENAÎTRE, to revive, to be born again; has no Past Participle and therefore no compound tenses.

Nâître is conjugated with Etre; Ex.: je suis né, I was born.

17. PLAIRE has : déplaire, to displease; taire, to hold silent; se taire, to be silent.

Tû takes a circumflex accent in the masculine singular only, to distinguish it from tu, thou.

18. PRENDRE has :

apprendre, to learn. entreprendre, to undertake.
comprendre, to understand. se méprendre, to mistake.
désapprendre, to unlearn. surprendre, to surprise.
reprendre, to reprove, to take back.

These verbs take (un) when followed by e, cs, ent, unaccented.

19. RESOUDRE has two Past Participles: résolu, résous, m., résoute, f.: résous, signifies dissolved; résolu, resolved.

20. RIRE has sourire, to smile.

21. SUIVRE has poursuivre, to pursue; s'ensuivre, to be the consequence; which is generally used unipersonally.

22. TRAIRE has :

abstraire ,	to abstract.	rentraire ,	to darn.
distraire ,	to distract.	retraire ,	to redeem.
extraire ,	to extract.	soustraire ,	to subtract.

23. VAINCRE, has convaincre, to convince.

24. VIVRE has : revivre, to revive ; survivre, to survive.

REMARK.—Every one of these verbs, if the master thinks proper, should be written in full, so as to make the learner practice the rules for the formation of tenses, and give him an early knowledge of the irregularities of these verbs, which are generally neglected too much, even by those who are considered advanced pupils.

IRREGULAR PLACE OF PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

☞ We know that as a general rule the French require the personal pronouns used as regimens to precede their verbs ;—See page 63-4, 111, the following are an exception to the general rule :

25. Aller, to go ; venir, to come ; courir, accourir, to run to ; penser, songer, to think of ; viser, to aim at ; être, to belong ; and reflective verbs governing the dative and genitive.

EXAMPLES :

Je vais à lui,	I go to him.
Il vient à nous,	He comes to us.
Je vise à elle,	I aim at her.
Je songe à elle,	I think of her.
Ce livre est à nous,	That book is ours.
Je m'adresse à eux,	I apply to them.

Nous accourâmes or courâmes à lui, We ran to him.

PARTICIPLES.

111. 1st. The Present Participle always ends with ant ; it never changes in its termination. Example : P. Pres.

Ces demoiselles charmant tout le monde par leur douceur et leur affabilité.

These young ladies charming every body by their gentleness and affability.

There are some adjectives that end with ant, and called for that reason verbal adjectives ; they may agree in gender and in number with the nouns they qualify.

Verb. adj. Ces demoiselles charmantes et agréables se font aimer de tout le monde.

These charming and amiable young ladies make themselves to be loved by every body.

2nd. Past Participles have different terminations, and agree like Adjectives ; but no Past Participle conjugated with Avoir can in any circumstance whatever agree with the nominative of the verb. Again, if conjugated with Etre it will agree with the nominative of the verb, provided the verb is not a reflective one.

Des enfants gâtés, Spoiled children.

EXAMPLES with Avoir :

J'ai vu cette dame, I have seen that lady.

La dame que j'ai vue, The lady whom I have seen.

ETRE :

Elles sont arrivées, They have come.

REFLECTIVE.

Elles se sont amusées, They have enjoyed.

Ils se sont plu, They have pleased (to) each other.

ADVERBS.

These adverbs should be committed to memory, yet without taxing the young learner too much with them ; for it is more to give him an idea of all those little words which make French reading an insurmountable difficulty to the young student.

Comment,	how.	Pourquoi,	why.
D'où,	from where.	Quand,	when.
Où,	where.

FORMATION OF ADVERBS.

121. When a masculine Adjective ends with a vowel, ment is added to it ; as : aisé, easy, aisément ; poli, polite, poliment ; except impuni, with impunity ; which makes impunément; and beau, fine ; nouveau, new ; mou, soft ; the adverbs of which are formed from the feminine by adding ment to it, as : beau, bellement, finely ; fou, follement, foolishly.

2nd. If the masculine adjective ends with e mute, then ment is simply added to ; as : horrible, horriblement, etc., except :

aveugle,	blind,	aveuglément,
commode,	handy,	commodément,

opiniâtre, obstinate, opiniâtrément, uniforme, uniform, uniformément ; which have the e mute accented.

*Traître, treacherous ; makes *trai*treusement.*

3rd. If the adjective in the masculine ends with a consonant, the adverb must be formed from the feminine by adding ment to it ; bon, bonne, good ; bonnement ; haut, haute, high ; hautement ; except gentil, gentil, which makes gentiment ; and the following :

commun,	common,	communément,
confuse,	confused,	confusément,
précis,	precise,	précisément.
profond,	profound,	profondément,

which change the e mute of the feminine into an (é) accented for the adverb.

4th. Adjectives ending with ant or ent form their adverbs by changing ant or ent into amment, emment, as :

négligent,	negligent,	négligemment,
obligeant,	obliging,	obligeamment,

except : lent, slow ; présent, present ; véhément, vehement ; the adverbs of which are ; lentement, présentement, véhémentement ; and these : nuitamment, by night; notamment, with notice ; sciemment, willingly ; which are formed from adjectives not in use now.

PREPOSITIONS.

122. Prepositions which can only be followed by a substantive, a Pronoun or an Infinitive, are :

à,	to, at.	pour,	for.
de,	of, from.	par,	by.
après,	after.	sans,	without.
entre,	between, among.	voici,	here is, here are.
		sans voir,	without seeing.
		pour moi,	for me.

123. Those that can only be followed by Subst. or Pron. :

avec,	with.	vers	towards (concerning per-
chez,	at the house of.	selon,	according to. [sons.
depuis,	since.	parmi,	among.
vers,	towards, (direction.)	malgré,	in spite of.
sur,	upon.	outre,	besides.
suivant,	according to.	derrière,	behind.
pendant,	during.	hormis,	except.
dès,	since, from.	par delà,	on the other side.
contre,	against.	par dessus,	above.
dans,	in.	par-devant,	in front.
sous,	under.	par derrière,	from behind.
par devers,		before, (at law.)
devers,		near, (in the neighborhood of) ; and
durant,	during.	touchant,	touching.
joignant,	adjoining.	concernant,	concerning.
nonobstant,	notwithstanding.	vu,	as, since, considering.
moyennant,	by means of.	attendu,	Id.

Example : Depuis son retour. Depuis lui jusqu'à eux.
Since his return. From him to them.

124. Prepositions that can be followed by a Substantive, another Preposition with a Substantive or an Infinitive are : près near ; hormis, except ; hors, out of ; excepté, except.

Example : Près Paris, Near Paris.

Près de Paris, Near Paris.

Près de sortir, Near going out.

125. Prepositions that can be followed by a Substantive, another Preposition followed only by an Infinitive : avant, before ; sauf, except. Example : Avant de sortir, before going out.

126. Prepositions or prepositional expressions which always require after them the Preposition (de) and a Substantive ; such as :

auprès ,	near.	au-dehors ,	without.
au-delà ,	on the other side.	au-dedans ,	within.
au-dessous ,	under.	autour ,	around.
au-dessus ,	above.	au-devant ,	before ; and all such expressions composed of the Preposition de and a Substan- tive.

Ils allèrent au-devant du Roi,
They went to meet the King.

127. Prepositional expressions whose Prepositions which accompany them, can be followed by a Substantive or an Infinitive :

loin ,	far	à moins ,	unless.
faute ,	for want.	auprès ,	near.
à force ,	by dint.

Faute de pâturage, For want of pasture.
Faute de le faire, For want of doing it.

IMPORTANT REMARK.—The Prepositions which govern verbs, govern them in the Infinitive ; the only exception is en which requires the Present Participle. a, de, en, are always repeated where they have to be used.

CONJUNCTIONS.

et ,	and.	comme ,	as.
ni ,	neither.	lorsque ,	when, at that time.
ou ,	or.	mais ,	but.
que ,	that, than.	pourquoi ,	why.
si ,	if.	puisque ,	since.
or ,	now.	quand ,	when.
donc ,	then.	quoique ,	although.
car ,	for, because.	parce que ,	because.
toutefois ,	however.

Si, is an adverb, when meaning yes, or so.

The other conjunctions are such as are composed of one or several words followed by the conjunction que.

INTERJECTIONS.

128. The interjections which express admiration, astonishment, are :

ah!	ah!	euh!	lackaday!
ha!	ha!	eh!	ha!
oh!	oh!	hé!	ha!
ho!	ho!	ha, ah!	ah, ah!
ô!	o!	oh!	oh!
heu!	lackaday!	ho!	ho!
tarare! fiddlestick.

129. Those expressing pain, affliction, are :

ah!	ha!	aïe!	oh!
oh!	oh!	ahi!	oh!
eh!	ho!	hélás!	alas!
ouf!	oh!	holà!	stop!

130. Of derision, distrust, irony :

oui-dà!	yes, indeed!	hum!	hum!
ah!	ah!	hom!	hom!
ouais!	bless me!

131. Of aversion, contempt :

fi!	pshaw!	bah!	bah!
fi donc!	for shame!	baste!	nonsense!
pouah!	pshaw!	hou!	hoo!
zest!	fiddlestick!

132. For calling, questioning, sounding :

hé!	eh!	holà!	stop!
hé bien!	well!	oh là!	at there!

- (2.) For the diphthongs au, eau, ai, ei, oi, oy, eu, œu;
- (3.) Generally speaking, consonants at the end of French
- (4.) e, es, (mute) terminations of words, are silent, unless the also silent.

CONTE MORAL, INTITULÉ JEANNOT ET COLIN.

1. Plusieurs personnes dignes de foi ont vu Jeannot et Colin, dans la ville d'Issoire, en Auvergne, ville fameuse dans tout l'univers par son collège et par ses chaudrons.

2. Jeannet était fils d'un marchand de mulets ; Colin devant le jour à un brave laboureur des environs.

3. Jeannot et Colin étaient fort jolis pour des Auvergnats ; ils s'aimaient beaucoup et étaient tous les deux dans la même école.

4. Le temps de leurs études était sur le point de finir, quand un tailleur apporta à Jeannot un habit de velours, avec une veste de Lyon de fort bon goût ; le tout était accompagné d'une lettre de Monsieur de la Jeannotière.

5. Colin admira l'habit et ne fut point jaloux ; mais Jeannot prit un air de supériorité qui affligea Colin.

6. Dès ce moment Jeannot n'étudia plus, se regarda au miroir et méprisa tout le monde.

THIRD PART.

READING.

should always be consulted when reading.

words, should not be pronounced. See page xii.
word has but one syllable, as : de, des ; —ent, 2d pl. in verbs is

STRUCTIF ET AMUSANT.

JEANNOT AND COLIN.

Many persons worthy of belief have seen Jeannot and Colin in the town of Issoire, in Auvergne, a town famous in the whole universe for its college and its cauldrons.

2. Jeannot was the son of a dealer in mules ; Colin owed his life to an honest farmer of the environs.

3. Jeannot and Colin were very pretty for Auvergnais ; they were very fond of each other, and both were at the same school.

4. The time of their studies was on the point of drawing to a close, when a tailor brought to Jeannot a velvet coat, with a very tasteful Lyons vest ; the whole were accompanied by a letter from Monsieur de la Jeannotière.

5. Colin admired the coat and was not at all jealous ; but Jeannot assumed an air of superiority which grieved Colin.

6. From that time Jeannot ceased to study ; he looked at himself in the glass and despised every body.

7. Quelque temps après un valet de chambre arriva en poste et apporta une seconde lettre à Monsieur le marquis de la Jeannotière ; c'était un ordre de Monsieur son père de faire venir Monsieur son fils à Paris.

8. Jeannot monta en chaise en tendant la main à Colin, avec un sourire de protection assez noble.

9. Colin sentit son néant, et pleura. Jeannot partit dans toute la pompe de sa gloire.

10. Colin toujours le même, écrivit une lettre de compliments à son ancien camarade, pour le congratuler. Le petit marquis ne lui fit point de réponse ; Colin en fut malade de douleur.

11. Le père et la mère donnèrent d'abord un gouverneur au jeune marquis ; ce gouverneur qui était un homme du bel air, et qui ne savait rien, ne put rien enseigner à son pupille.

12. Monsieur, voulait que son fils apprit le latin, madame ne le voulait pas. Ils prirent pour arbitre un auteur qui était célèbre par des ouvrages agréables.

13. Il fut prié à dîner. Le maître de la maison commença par lui dire : Monsieur, comme vous savez le latin, et que vous êtes un homme de la cour—

14. Moi, monsieur, du latin ? Je n'en sais pas un mot, répondit le bel-esprit : Il est clair qu'on parle beaucoup mieux sa langue, quand on ne partage pas son application entre elle et les langues étrangères.

15. Voyez toutes nos dames, elles ont l'esprit plus agréable que les hommes ; leurs lettres sont écrites avec cent fois plus de grâce ; elles n'ont de supériorité sur nous que parce qu'elles ne savent pas le latin.

16. Eh bien ! n'avais-je pas raison ? dit madame, je veux que mon fils soit un homme d'esprit, qu'il réussisse dans le monde ; et vous voyez que s'il savait le latin il serait perdu.—Joue-t-on—s'il vous plaît la comédie en latin ? Plaide-t-on en latin quand on a un procès ?

7. Sometime after this, a servant arrived in a post chaise, and brought a second letter to Monsieur the marquis de la Jeannotière ; it was an order from Monsieur, his father, to bring his son to Paris.

8. Jeannot got into the chaise, holding out his hand to Colin with a patronising smile.

9. Colin felt his insignificance, and wept. Jeannot left in all the pomp of his glory.

10. Colin, always the same, wrote a complimentary letter to his former comrade, to congratulate him. The little marquis did not give him an answer ; whereupon Colin became sick with sorrow.

11. The father and mother immediately provided a tutor for the young marquis ; that tutor, who was a fashionable man, and who knew nothing, could not teach anything to his pupil.

12. Monsieur wished that his son should learn Latin ; Madame did not wish it. They took for arbiter, one who was celebrated as the author of some pleasant works.

13. He was invited to dinner. The master of the house began to say to him : Sir, as you know Latin, and as you are a man of the court—

14. I, sir, Latin ? I don't know a word of it, replied the wit. It is evident that one speaks his own language much better, when he does not divide his attention between it and foreign languages.

15. See all our ladies, they possess a more agreeable wit than men ; their letters are written with a hundred times more elegance. They have a superiority over us just because they don't know Latin.

16. Well ! was I not right ? said Madame. I wish my son to be a man of wit,—that he may succeed in the world ; and you see if he knew Latin he would be ruined. Do people, I pray you, play comedy in Latin ? Do they plead in Latin when they have a law suit.

17. Monsieur, ébloui de ces raisons, passa condamnation, et il fut conclu que le jeune marquis ne perdrait pas son temps à connaître les auteurs classiques ou étrangers.

18. Mais qu'apprendra-t-il donc ? car il faut encore qu'il sache quelque chose ; ne pourrait-on pas lui montrer un peu de géographie ? A quoi cela lui servira-t-il ? répondit le gouverneur.

19. Quand Monsieur le marquis ira dans ses terres, les postillons ne sauront-ils pas les chemins ?

20. Vous avez raison, répondit le père ; mais j'ai entendu parler d'une belle science qu'on appelle, je crois, l'astronomie. Quelle pitié ! repartit le gouverneur ; se conduit-on par les astres dans ce monde ?

21. Faudra-t-il que monsieur le marquis se tue à calculer une éclipse, quand il la trouve dans l'almanach, qui lui enseigne l'âge de la lune et celui de toutes les princesses de l'Europe ?

22. Madame fut entièrement de l'avis du gouverneur.—Le petit marquis était au comble de la joie ; le père était très-indécis.

23. Que faudra-t-il donc apprendre à mon fils ? disait-il : à être aimable, répondit l'ami que l'on consultait, et s'il sait les moyens de plaisir, il saura tout ; c'est ce qu'il pourra apprendre sans se donner la moindre peine.

24. On voit bien monsieur que vous êtes l'homme du monde le plus savant, interrompit madame ; mon fils vous devra toute son éducation.

25. Je m'imagine pourtant qu'il ne serait pas mal qu'il sût un peu d'histoire. Hélas, madame, à quoi cela est-il bon ? Qu'importe à monsieur votre fils que Charlemagne ait régné, et que son arrière petit-fils, Louis II ait été bègue.

26. Rien n'est mieux dit ! s'écria le gouverneur : on étouffe l'esprit des enfants sous un amas de connaissances inutiles ; mais de toutes les sciences, la plus absurde c'est la géométrie.

27. Cette science ridicule a pour objet des surfaces, des lignes et de points, qui n'existent pas dans la nature.

17. Monsieur, dazzled by these reasons, gave his decision, and it was agreed that the young marquis should not lose his time in studying classical or foreign authors.

18. But what shall he learn, then? for he must know some thing. Could you not teach him a little Geography? What use will it be to him? retorted the tutor.

19. When Monsieur the marquis visits his estates, will not the postillons know the roads?

20. You are right, replied the father; but I have heard of a beautiful science which people call, I believe, Astronomy. What folly? answered the tutor; do people conduct themselves by the stars in this world?

21. Shall Monsieur the marquis weary himself in calculating an eclipse, when he can find it in the almanack, which teaches him the age of the moon, and that of all the Princesses of Europe.

22. Madame was altogether of the opinion of the tutor. The little marquis was in the highest spirits; the father was very doubtful.

23. What, then, must my son be taught? said he. To be agreeable responded the friend whom they consulted; and if he knows the means of pleasing, he will know every thing; that he can learn without giving himself the least trouble.

24. One sees well, sir, that you are the most learned man, in the world, interrupted the mother, and my son will owe all his education to you.

25. I fancy, however, that it would not be bad if he knew a little History. Alas! Madam, of what use is that? What matters it to your son if Charlemange did reign, or if his great grandson, Louis II., was a stammerer.

26. Nothing is more to the point! exclaimed the tutor; people smother the intellect of children under a heap of useless knowledge; but of all the sciences, the most absurd is Geometry.

27. That ridiculous science has for its object, surfaces, lines and points which do not exist in nature.

28. Monsieur et madame n'entendaient pas trop ce que le gouverneur voulait dire, mais ils furent entièrement de son avis.

29. Enfin, après avoir examiné le fort et le faible des sciences il fut décidé que monsieur le marquis apprendrait à danser.

30. Madame la marquise donna à souper aux beaux esprits de Paris. La tête du jeune homme fut bientôt renversée ; il acquit l'art de parler sans s'entendre, et se perfectionna dans l'art de n'être propre à rien.

31. Quand son père le vit si éloquent, il regretta vivement de ne lui avoir pas fait apprendre le latin, car il lui aurait acheté une charge dans la robe. La mère, qui avait des sentiments plus nobles, se chargea de solliciter un régiment pour son fils.

32. En attendant il dépensa beaucoup pendant que ses parents s'épuisaient davantage à vivre en grands seigneurs.

33. Une jeune veuve de qualité, leur voisine, qui n'avait qu'une fortune médiocre, voulut bien se résoudre à mettre en sûreté les grands biens de monsieur et de madame la Jeannotière en se les appropriant, et en épousant le jeune marquis.

34. Une vieille voisine proposa le mariage ; les parents éblouis de la splendeur de cette alliance, acceptèrent avec joie la proposition. Le jeune homme allait épouser une femme qu'il adorait et dont il était aimé ; les amis de la maison l'en félicitaient ; on allait rédiger les articles.

35. Un matin qu'il était aux pieds de la charmante épouse, arrive tout effaré, un valet de chambre de madame : Voici bien d'autres nouvelles, dit-il ; des huissiers déménagent la maison de monsieur et de madame ; tout est saisi par les créanciers.

36. Voyons un peu, dit le marquis, ce que c'est que ça,—Oui, dit la veuve, allez punir ces coquins-là, allez vite. Il y court, il arrive à la maison ; son père était déjà emprisonné. Sa mère était seule, sans secours, noyée dans les larmes ; il ne lui restait

28. Monsieur and Madame did not entirely comprehend what the tutor meant ; but they were altogether of his opinion.

29. At last, after having examined the arguments for and against the sciences, it was decided that Monsieur the marquis would learn to dance.

30. Madame the marchioness gave suppers to the wits of Paris. The head of the young man was soon turned. He acquired the art of speaking without understanding himself, and perfected himself in the art of being fit for nothing.

31. When his father saw him so eloquent, he regretted much not having made him learn Latin, for he should have purchased for him admission to the Bar. The mother who had grander ideas, undertook to solicit a regiment for her son.

32. In the meantime he spent his money extravagantly, while his parents squandered still more in living like great people.

33. A young widow of rank, their neighbor, who had only a moderate fortune, was willing to condescend to place in safety the great wealth of Monsieur and Madame de la Jeannotière, by appropriating it to herself and marrying the young marquis.

34. An old neighbor proposed the marriage ; the parents dazzled by the splendor of that alliance, accepted the proposition with joy. The young man was going to marry a woman whom he adored and by whom he was loved, the friends of the house congratulated him about it ; they were about to draw up the articles.

35. One morning as he was at the feet of his charming be-throthed a servant of his mother came in all scared : I bring you unexpected news, exclaimed he ; some bailiffs are clearing the house of your father and mother ; every thing has been seized by the creditors.

36. Come let us see, said the marquis, what this is. Yes, said the widow, go and punish the scoundrels, go quick. He ran thither, he arrived at the house ; his father was already in goal. His mother was alone, without help, bathed in tears ; there que le souvenir de sa fortune, de sa beauté, de ses fautes, et de ses folles dépenses.

37. Après que le fils eut longtemps pleuré avec la mère, il lui dit enfin : ne nous désespérons pas ; cette jeune veuve m'aime éperdument ; elle est généreuse plus que riche, je réponds d'elle.

38. Il retourne chez elle : Quoi ! c'est vous monsieur de la Jeanpotière ; que venez-vous faire ici ? abandonne-t-on ainsi sa mère ? allez chez cette pauvre femme, dites-lui que j'ai besoin d'une femme de chambre, et que je lui donnerai la préférence.

39. Le marquis fit près de s'évanouir ; il fut traité à peu près de même par tous ses amis, et apprit mieux à connaître le monde dans une demi-journée que dans tout le reste de sa vie.

40. Comme il était plongé dans la douleur, il vit avancer une chaise roulante, à l'antique, espèce de tombereau couvert, suivi de quatre charrettes énormes, toutes chargées. Il y avait dans la chaise un jeune homme grossièrement vêtu ; sa petite femme brune était cahotée à côté de lui.

41. La voiture n'allait pas comme le char d'un petit maître : le voyageur eut tout le temps de contempler le marquis immobile, abîmé dans sa douleur,—Ah ! mon Dieu, s'écria-t-il, je crois que c'est là Jeannot ; à ce nom le marquis lève les yeux, la voiture s'arrête.

42. Le petit homme ne fait qu'un saut, et court embrasser son ancien camarade : Tu m'as abandonné, dit Colin ; mais tu as beau être grand seigneur, je t'aimerai toujours. Jeannot, confus et attendri, lui conta en sanglotant, une partie de son histoire.

43. Ils ront tous trois à pied, suivis du bagage : Qu'est-ce donc que tout cet attirail, vous appartient-il ?—Oui tout est à moi et à ma femme. Je suis à la tête d'une bonne manufacture de fer étamé et de cuivre.

44. J'ai épousé la fille d'un riche négociant en ustensiles nécessaires aux grands et aux petits ; nous travaillons beaucoup ; remained to her nothing but the remembrance of her fortune, beauty, faults, and foolish extravagance.

37. After the son had wept long enough with his mother, he said to her at last : Let us not despair ; that young widow is passionately fond of me ; she is even more generous than rich, I answer for her.

38. He returned to her house : What ! Is that you Monsieur de la Jeannotière ? what do you come here for ? do you thus abandon your mother ? Go to that poor woman, tell her that I have need of a chamber maid, and that I will give her the preference.

39. The marquis was near fainting. He was treated in much the same way by all his friends, and learned to know better what the world is, in half a day than in all the rest of his life.

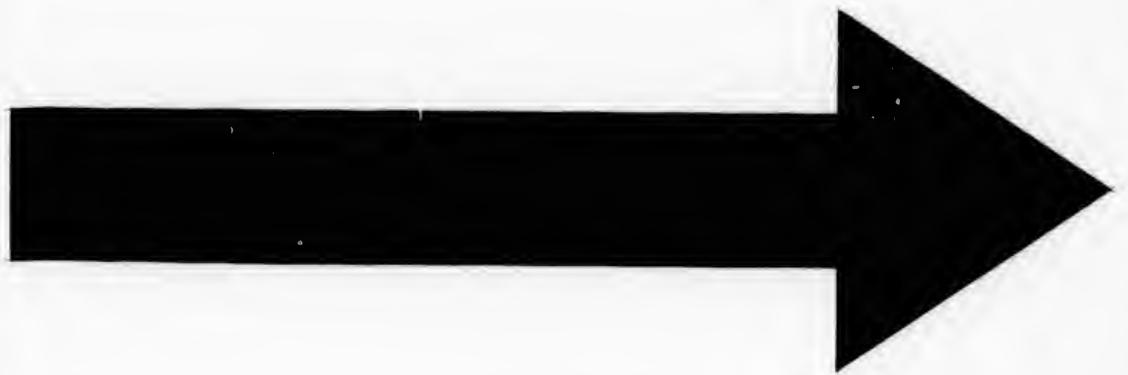

40. As he was plunged in grief, he saw advancing an antique chaise, a species of covered waggon, followed by four stupendous carts all loaded. There was in the chaise a young man coarsely clad ; his little brunette wife was jolted by his side.

41. The carriage did not speed like the chariot of a fop ; the traveller had plenty of time to contemplate the marquis, motionless and sunk in grief. Ah ! good gracious cried he, I think that is Jeannot. At that name the marquis raised his eyes ; the carriage stopped.

42. The little man made but one leap and ran to embrace his former companion : Thou hast abandoned me, said Colin ; but though thou be a great seigneur, I will always love thee. Jean-not confused and moved, related to him, sobbing, a part of his history.

43. They all three went on foot, followed by the luggage. What is all that equipage ? Does it belong to you ? Yes, all is mine and my wife's. I am at the head of a profitable tin and copper manufactory.

44. I have married the daughter of a rich dealer in utensils useful to the great and small ; we work much ; God blesses us ;

Dieu nous bénit ; nous n'avons point changé d'état, nous sommes heureux, nous aiderons notre ami Jeannot.

45. Ne sois plus marquis ; toutes les grandeurs de ce monde ne valent pas un bon ami. Tu reviendras au pays avec moi, je t'apprendrai le métier ; je te mettrai de part, et nous vivrons gairement où nous sommes nés.

46. Jeannot tout confus se sentait partagé entre la douleur et la joie, la tendresse et la honte ; il se disait tout bas : Tous mes amis du bel air m'ont trahi, et Colin que j'ai méprisé vient seul à mon secours.

47. Il sentit qu'il ne pourrait abandonner son père et sa mère, le monde n'avait pas encore étouffé le germe de son bon naturel.

48. Nous aurons soin de ta mère, dit Colin ; et quant à ton père, qui est en prison, j'entends un peu les affaires ; ses créanciers voyant qu'il n'a plus rien, s'accorderont pour peu de chose, — je me charge de tout.

49. Colin fit tant qu'il tira le père de prison. Jeannot retourna dans sa patrie avec ses parents, qui reprirent leur première profession. Il épousa une sœur de Colin. — Et Jeannot le père, Jeannotte la mère, et Jeannot le fils, virent que le bonheur n'est pas dans la vanité.

SOURD COMME UN POT.

50. Vers les cinq heures du soir en hiver, un cavalier s'arrêta à une hôtellerie qui était pleine de voyageurs.

51. Il entra à cheval dans la cour, et appelant l'aubergiste de toutes ses forces : tenez, dit-il, ayez soin de mon cheval et le menez à l'écurie.

52. Nous n'avons pas de place, dit l'aubergiste, l'écurie est pleine. Oui, oui, répliqua le monsieur, faisant semblant de ne pas entendre, je penserai à vous demain. — Mais je vous répète qu'il n'y a pas de place. — Donnez-lui de l'avoine, et autant de foin qu'il en pourra manger, dit le voyageur ; et laissant son cheval, il se dirigea aussitôt vers la maison.

We have not changed our station, we are happy, we will aid our friend Jeannot.

45. Be no longer a marquis, all the pomp of this world is not worth a good friend. You shall return home with me, I will teach you a trade ; I will take you into partnership, and we will live happy where we were born.

46. Jeannot confused, felt divided between sorrow and joy, love and shame. He said to himself : All my fashionable friends have betrayed me, and Colin, whom I have despised, alone comes to my help.

47. He felt he could not forsake his father and mother ; the world had not yet stifled the germ of his better nature.

48. We will take care of your mother, said Colin, and as to your father, who is in prison, I understand business ; his crédiors seeing that he has nothing more, will readily come to terms ; I shall manage it all myself.

49. Colin succeeded so well that he got the father out of prison. Jeannot returned to his birthplace with his parents, who resumed their former condition. He married a sister of Colin ; and Jeannot the father, Jeannote the mother, and Jeannot the son understood at last that happiness does not consist in vanity.

DEAF AS A POST.

50. About five o'clock, one winter's evening, a gentleman on horseback, stopped at an inn which was full of travellers.

51. He rode into the yard, and, calling the ostler very loud, said : there, take care of my horse and put him in the stable.

52. We have no room, said the ostler, the stable is full. Yes, yes, replied the gentleman, seeming not to hear, I will think of you to-morrow morning. But I tell you, there is no room. Ay, ay, give him oats, and as much hay as he will eat, said the traveller ; and leaving his horse, he made his way into the house.

53. Il faut qu'il soit fou dit l'aubergiste. Je crois qu'il est sourd dit le garçon d'écurie ; en tous cas il faut avoir soin de son cheval, nous en serions responsables.

54. Notre voyageur entra donc dans la maison, et la femme de l'aubergiste lui répéta ce que son mari lui avait déjà dit, qu'il était impossible de le loger.

55. Il lui crio à l'éouvrir, pas de compliments, pas de cérémonies, je vous pris, madame, vos logements seront assez bons. Je ne suis pas difficile ; vous n'avez que faire de parler, je suis si sourd que je n'entendrais pas un canon.

56. Alors il prit une chaise et se mit auprès du feu, comme s'il eût été chez lui.

57. Voyant qu'il n'y avait pas moyen de se débarrasser de lui, l'aubergiste et sa femme consentirent enfin à lui laisser passer la nuit sur une chaise, vu que tous les lits étaient occupés.

58. Peu de temps après il passa dans la chambre d'à côté, et voyant le dîner servi, il se mit à table. Un eut beau lui crier dans les oreilles, que c'était un dîner d'amis, et que ces messieurs ne recevaient pas d'étranger : il parut comprendre qu'on voulait le faire placer au haut de la table, et remerciant les convives de leur politesse, répondit qu'il se trouvait très-bien où il était.

59. Comme il n'y avait pas moyen de lui rien faire entendre, on le laissa tranquille. Après avoir fait un excellent dîner, il jeta une pièce de deux francs sur la table pour son repas ; mais la femme de l'aubergiste la repoussa avec dédain, en disant : Quoi ! Est-ce que vous pensez que deux francs vont payer un dîner comme le vôtre.

60. Oh ! je vous demande pardon madame, répliqua-t-il, je veux absolument payer mon dîner ; je remercie ces messieurs de leur politesse, mais je ne souffrirai pas qu'ils paient pour moi.

61. Alors regardant à sa montre, il sortit de la salle, souhaita une bonne nuit à tout le monde, et s'en alla droit à une chambre-à-coucher.

53. He must be a fool, said the ostler. I think he is deaf, replied a stable boy ; but at all events, we must take care of his horse, we shall be responsible for it.

54. Our traveller now entered the house, and the landlady told him as the other had done, that it was impossible to lodge him.

55. He cried loud enough to stun her : No compliments, no ceremony, I beg, Ma'am ; your accommodations will be very good ; I am easily satisfied, and it is quite useless for you to speak, for I am so deaf that I cannot hear a cannon.

56. He then took a chair and seated himself by the fire, as if he had been at home. Finding no means of getting rid of him, the landlord and his wife determined to let him pass the night on the chair, as the beds were all engaged.

57. Shortly after, passing through the next room, he saw the dinner served, and immediately taking a chair, he placed himself at the table ; it was in vain they hawled to him as loud as possible, that it was a private party, and that they would not receive a stranger ; he appeared to think that they wished to give him the top of the table, and thanking them for their politeness he said he was very comfortable where he was seated.

58. Finding they could not make him understand, they let him remain ; and after eating a hearty dinner, he threw a two franc piece on the table to pay for his repast ; but the landlady pushed it away with disdain, saying : what ! do you suppose that two francs will pay for such a dinner as you have eaten.

59. Oh ! I beg your pardon, Ma'am, replied he, I insist on paying for my own dinner ; I thank these gentlemen for their politeness, but I will not suffer them to pay for me.

60. Then looking at his watch, he went out of the room, wishing them all good night, and soon found his way to a bed room.

61. The company after having laughed heartily at his apparent stupidity, sent a servant to see where he was gone.

62. Après s'être bien moqués de sa prétendue stupidité, les voyageurs envoyèrent une domestique pour voir où il était allé.

63. Elle revint bientôt en disant qu'il avait pris possession d'une de leurs chambres. Ils convinrent donc tous, d'aller ensemble l'en faire sortir par force ; mais quand ils furent près de la porte ils l'entendirent se barricader avec les meubles, et dire, se parlant à lui-même :

64. Que je suis malheureux ! n'importe qui pourrait enfoncer ma porte sans que je pusse l'entendre ; ces messieurs sont peut-être honnêtes ou ne le sont pas ; et comme j'ai de l'argent, je ne veux pas courir risque de le perdre.

65. Non, je ne me couchera pas, ni je n'éteindrai ma chandelle ; je veillerai toute la nuit avec mes pistolets armés, et si quelqu'un fait mine d'entrer, je tirerai sur lui.

66. Après avoir entendu cela ils ne pensèrent plus à le déloger ; il se coucha et passa la nuit fort tranquillement, laissant le monsieur, qui avait pris le lit, en chercher un autre ailleurs.

67. Le lendemain matin, il descendit, alla chercher son cheval à l'écurie, et le conduisit à la porte ; les voyageurs s'étaient déjà rassemblés pour se moquer encore de lui.

68. Aussitôt qu'il fut monté à cheval, il jeta au garçon trente sous pour son cheval et sa chambre, et quelques sous à l'aubergiste ; ensuite changeant de ton : Messieurs, dit-il je vous remercie de la politesse que vous m'avez faite ; j'ai à demander pardon à l'un de vous, d'avoir pris sa chambre ; mais comme on a refusé de recevoir un de mes amis, hier au soir, et qu'il a parié vingt louis que je ne pourrais trouver de logement ici ; j'ai fait le sourd ; je vous laisse à penser si j'ai bien rempli mon rôle.

69. Il piqua des deux, et les laissa dans l'étonnement.

62. She soon returned, saying he had taken possession of one of their bedrooms. They then agreed to go, all together, and turn him out by force ; but when they approached the door, they heard him barricading it with furniture, and talking loudly to himself. They listened and heard him say :

63. What a misfortune is mine ; any one might break open my door, and I should not hear it. Those gentlemen may be all honest men, and they may not ; therefore as I have some money, I will not run any risk ; no, I will not go to bed, nor put out the light ; I will sit up all night, with my pistols cocked, and if any one should enter I will shoot him directly.

64. Hearing this they made no attempt to dislodge him ; and he went to bed and passed the night very quietly, leaving the gentleman who had engaged the bed to find a lodging where he could.

65. The next morning, he came down, went to the stable for his horse, led him to the door, by which time the company were assembled to have another laugh at him.

66. As soon as he was mounted, he threw to the servant thirty sous for his horse and his lodging, and also some sous to the ostler ; then, changing his manner, he said : Gentlemen, I thank you for the politeness you have shown me ; I have to beg pardon of one of you for having taken his bed ; but one of my friends was refused a lodging here last night, and he has betted twenty louis that I could not procure one ; I played the deaf man ; so I leave you to judge if I have done it well.

67. He then spurred his horse, and left them in amazement.

LE BARON SUTHERLAND.

68. Lorsque le baron Sutherland était à St. Petersbourg, il possédait un très-joli petit chien, que l'impératrice Catherine admirait beaucoup : c'était la moindre des choses qu'il le lui offrit.

69. Elle remercia affectueusement le baron, accepta le carlin, le nomma Sutherland, et en fit son chien favori.

70. La pauvre petite bête mangea tant de friandises, et prit si peu d'exercice qu'elle en crut bientôt.

71. L'impératrice aimait tellement ce petit animal, qu'elle résolut de le faire empailler, et mettre sous verre.

72. Le lendemain matin donc, elle manda un de ses officiers, et lui dit en français : allez tout de suite chercher Sutherland pour le faire empailler.

73. L'officier crut que l'Impératrice avait dit "empaler ;" et sans penser au chien, il alla tout droit chez le baron, dans la supposition que celui-ci avait commis un crime abominable ; et lui dit : Monsieur, il faut que vous me suiviez à l'instant.

74. Sutherland quelque peu surpris d'un ordre pareil, et surtout de la manière dont il était annoncé, en demanda l'explication. Monsieur, répondit l'officier, il ne m'appartient pas d'approfondir les ordres de Sa Majesté ; je n'ai qu'à les exécuter.

75. Les ordres de Sa Majesté ! s'écria le baron, quels ordres peut-elle avoir donnés à mon égard ? je suis fâché, répondit l'officier, de vous apprendre qu'elle vient à l'instant de me donner l'ordre positif de vous faire empaler ; je n'oserai désobéir.

76. Grand Dieu ! s'écria Sutherland, qu'as-je donc fait pour offenser Sa Majesté ? Cela ne me regarde pas, Monsieur.

77. Au moins, dit Sutherland, avant que je subisse mon supplice, conduisez-moi au palais que j'entende ma condamnation de la bouche de Sa Majesté, et que j'en sache la cause ; car je vous assure, monsieur, sur mon honneur, que je n'ai fait, dit, ni même pensé quoi que ce soit contre l'Impératrice ou toute autre personne. Il doit y avoir quelque méprise.

BARON SUTHERLAND.

68. Baron Sutherland when at St. Petearburg, possessed a very handsome pug dog, which the Empress greatly admired : he could not do less than make her a present of it.

69. She graciously thanked the Baron, accepted the dog, gave him the name of Sutherland, and made him her favourite lap-dog.

70. He was fed with so many luxuries, and took so little exercise, that the poor thing soon died.

71. The Empress was so fond of the little animal, that she determined to have him stuffed and put into a glass case.

72. On the morning after his death, she said in French to one of her officers : Go directly, take Sutherland, and see him stuffed —empailler.

73. The officer thought she said empaler, and not thinking of the dog, he went immediatley to the baron's house, supposing he had committed some heinous crime, and said : Sir, you must follow me immediately.

74. Sutherland not a little surprised at such summons, and particularly at the manner in which it was announced, demanded some explanation ; but the officer replied : Sir, it is not my duty to criticise the orders of Her Majesty ; my duty is to see them executed.

75. The orders of Her Majesty ! exclaimed the Baron ; what orders can she have given with respect to me ? I am sorry, replied the officer, to inform you that she has just given me peremptory orders to see you immediately empaled, and I dare not disobey.

76. Good God ! cried Sutherland, me empaled ! what have I done to offend Her Majesty ? That is not my business, sir.

77. At least, said Sutherland, before my punishment, conduct me to the palace that I may hear my condemnation from her own mouth ; for I assure you, sir, as a man of honour, that I have neither done, said, nor even thought anything against the Empress or any one else ; therefore, be assured there is some mistake.

78. L'officier voyant le baron si convaincu de son innocence, pris sur lui de le conduire au palais.

79. Aussitôt que Sutherland aperçut l'impératrice, il s'écria : Comment ai-je eu le malheur, Madame, de vous offenser, pour m'exposer à un châtiment aussi cruel.

80. Catherine se mit à le regarder, et se tournant vers l'officier : Qu'est-ce que cela veut dire, monsieur, car je vous assure, je n'y comprends rien du tout.

81. Votre Majesté, répondit l'officier, ne m'a-t-elle pas donné l'ordre de faire empaler Sutherland ?

82. Catherine éclata de rire, et aussitôt qu'elle put parler : Monsieur Sutherland, dit-elle, ne vous alarmez pas, vous n'avez rien à craindre.

83. Ensuite, s'adressant à l'officier : Imbécile que vous êtes, c'est le petit carlin Sutherland que je vous avais dit de faire empêcher, et non pas empaler.

84. Le baron est certainement bien un des derniers qui pourrait imaginer quelque chose contre moi.

85. Cependant, dans la discussion entre eux, le baron fut débordé. Cependant, sans se soucier ni pourrir une minute de l'interrogatoire, il fut arrêté et emprisonné dans une prison de la ville de Saint-Pétersbourg.

86. Cependant, lorsque l'empereur fut informé de l'arrestation, il fut très étonné et dévasté.

87. Cependant, lorsque l'empereur fut informé de l'arrestation, il fut très étonné et dévasté.

88. Cependant, lorsque l'empereur fut informé de l'arrestation, il fut très étonné et dévasté.

89. Cependant, lorsque l'empereur fut informé de l'arrestation, il fut très étonné et dévasté.

78. The officer, finding the Baron so confident of his innocence ventured to conduct him to the palace.

79. As soon as he saw the Empress, he exclaimed, How madam, have I been so unfortunate as to offend you, and subject myself to such a cruel order?

80. Catharine, looked at him, and turning to the officer, she said : what is the meaning of this, sir ? for I protest I do not understand one word of it.

81. Did not Your Majesty, replied he, give me orders to go and see Sutherland empaaled ?

82. Catharine immediately burst out laughing, and as soon as she could speak, said : Don't be alarmed baron, you have nothing to fear.

83. Then, speaking to the officer : You stupid man, she said, it was the dead pug Sutherland that I told you to see stuffed and not empaaled.

84. The baron is, I am sure, one of the last men who would imagine anything against me.

THE END.
