MORE PRISONERS SENT TO A LIVING DEATH IN SIBERIAN SALT MINES

One Hundred and Seven from One Town Thursday--Czar Hesitates About Granting Partial Amnesty and Parliament is Furious Over Delay--Officers Openly Advocate Dispersal of Lower House by Force--Gen. Treppoff's Hand Seen in the Present Crisis.

Yekaterinodar, South Russia, May 24--Two batches of political prisoners, numbering 107 in all, started from here for Siberia today. The Ocar Hostages. St. Petersburg, May 24--The government seems to be hesitating about executing the resolution taken a week ago to grant partial amnesty. The official statement issued last night, justifying the government in not granting amnesty, seems to be designed to pave the way for a refusal on the ground that under the present circumstances the release of political prisoners deserving freedom can be left to the local authorities. Nothing could be more irritating to the liberals than for the emperor to delegate the discretion of granting pardon to the very men responsible for the wholesale arrests which occurred during the winter, and such a device is sure to arouse a storm in the lower house and increase the danger of a conflict. The hand of General Treppoff, who engineered the protests of the branches of the League of the Russian people ("black hundred") in the interior, which are cited in the official statement as evidence that the Russian masses are opposed to amnesty, is seen in this new shift in the government's position and again rises the spectre of a counter revolution. At Kiev yesterday the local branches of the League of the Russian People decided to organize for the coming war against parliament and pronounced itself in favor of the creation of a dictatorship to crush the revolution. Officers of the guard regiments in St. Petersburg at a meeting just held openly advocated the dispersal of parliament. Such facts serve to strengthen the campaign which the social democrats and social revolutionists continue to wage against the "illusions" of a parliamentary regime. Premier Gorevynkin will reply tomorrow to the address of the lower house to the throne. The impression is growing that if a peaceful issue is to be possible the Gorevynkin cabinet must give way to another ministry, without previous bureaucratic connections.

TO CROSS THE BALTIC SEA IN A BALLOON

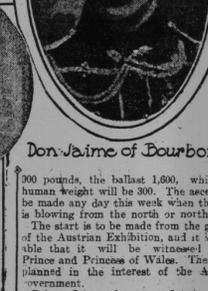

Don Jaime of Bourbon in the basket of his balloon

London, May 24--More remarkable than any feat of aerial navigation on record is the balloon trip to be made from London this week by Prince Jaime of Bourbon. Baron Josef von Korwin, a lieutenant in the Austrian army. It now develops that the intrepid aeronaut will attempt to cross the Baltic Sea to some point in Austria, covering the distance of approximately one thousand miles. The expedition will be without parallel, the nearest approach to it being the voyage made by Comte de La Vaux, from Paris to Kiev, Russia, during the Paris Exposition. The start is to be made tomorrow if the wind is blowing in the right direction. Baron von Korwin explained tonight that the balloon will be inflated with pure hydrogen, because it has double the carrying power of ordinary gas. "We are using hydrogen for the purpose of making greater headway," he said, "in spite of the fact that it is quite dangerous."

300 pounds, the ballast 1,000, while the human weight will be 300. The ascent will be made any day this week when the wind is blowing from the north or northwest. The start is to be made from the grounds of the Austrian Exhibition, and it is probable that it will be witnessed by the Prince and Princess of Wales. The trip is planned in the interest of the Austrian government. Prince Jaime, the son and heir of Don Carlos and the brother of Archduchess Blanche of Austria, during the Russo-Japanese war fought for the Tsar, subsequently being decorated for gallantry. Baron von Korwin has made 1,000 ascents and 130 voyages during the last ten years. He is the head of the balloon department of the Austrian army.

WOMAN SUFFRAGIST, BESIEGED BY BAILIFFS, DENOUNCES MINISTERS

Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith Called an Assassin and His Colleagues Dubbed Little Better--Female Harangued a Big Audience from Window of Her London Residence Declaring She Will Never Pay Her Taxes Till Her Sex is Allowed to Vote.

London, May 24--Mrs. Dora Montefiore, one of the leading women suffragists, under whose lead many women have pledged themselves not to pay their taxes, on the ground that taxation without representation is tyrannical, harangued a great crowd of women suffragists from the second story of her home, near London, this morning. She denounced Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith as an assassin, because he stood in the way of the advance of the woman's movement, and Chief Secretary Ireland Hoyce and Captain John Sinclair, secretary for Scotland, were also roundly abused. Mrs. Montefiore informed her hearers that the women who were refusing to pay taxes were taking this course in order to advance the education of the cabinet ministers, and warned the latter of the determination of those who were conducting the campaign to obtain their indisputable rights. She asserted that the cabinet ministers who opposed the movement were marked men, and suggested that her hearers break the windows of Mr. Asquith's house, adding that she would do so herself were it not for the fact that she was engaged in defending her residence against tax collectors and others. The house of Mrs. Montefiore, which is situated near the Thames, not far from Hammersmith, is besieged and surrounded by tax collectors and bailiffs, who hope to starve her out or effect an entrance. Friends of Mrs. Montefiore are supplying her with food.

ALFONSO'S BRIDE-ELECT DEPARTS FROM LONDON

King Edward and Royal Family See Her Off--King of Spain to Meet Her on the Frontier.

London, May 24--Princess Ena and her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, left London today for Spain, at the frontier of which King Alfonso will await his future bride. The departure of the princess from Victoria Station was the occasion for an enthusiastic demonstration on the part of the Spanish colony here, while the platform was thronged with English friends who gave the future Queen of Spain a hearty send-off. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and other members of the royal family, and the staff of the Spanish embassy were among those present.

LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER REPRIEVE FOR MABEL PAGE'S SLAYER

Boston, May 24--James H. Vahey, senior counsel for Charles L. Tucker, who is under sentence to die during the week of June 10 for the murder of Mabel Page, called upon Governor Guild today and later filed a statement contending that the power of pardon or refusal to pardon was, in his opinion, vested jointly in the governor and his executive council, and that the governor must, as a matter of law, refer all petitions to the council.

The governor has called a special meeting of the council for tomorrow, when he will ask his advisory board for authority to request the supreme court of the Commonwealth for an opinion on the question of law suggested by Mr. Vahey. The governor and Mr. Vahey agreed that, irrespective of the merits of the Tucker case, or of the future action of the governor, it is desirable as a matter of precedent to have the law definitely interpreted. The hearing before one of the justices at the Tucker trial on the new evidence in the case, which was to have been held on Saturday, has therefore been postponed.

ALFONSO WILL MEET HER

Madrid, May 24--King Alfonso accompanied by Premier Moret, the minister of war, and a brilliant suite of officials and court dignitaries left Madrid this afternoon for the frontier where he will meet the future Queen of Spain. The king will reach there an hour later. The station at Irun is elaborately festooned and decorated with Spanish and British flags.

SHERIFF TO SEARCH FOR CREAMER TOTS

Mr. McQueen Will Go Over Ground Today--Persistent Belief That Little Ones Are Alive and Not Far Away--Mrs. Creamer Still Cool and Collected, But Her Husband is More Disturbed.

Cape Tormentine, N. B., May 24--(Special)--Sheriff McQueen arrived from Colchester this afternoon, and tomorrow will leave for Peacock Settlement. He informed the Telegraph reporter that he would approach the problem of the Creamer case unprejudiced. He says that he has no theory, but wishes to personally inspect the scene of the disappearance, and question the Tremblon and Creamer families. There are several points, he says, upon which he is not yet clear and a personal investigation may help to enlighten.

THE KIDNAPPING THEORY

He thought that if there had been kidnapping there must have been some record of the settlement confederate, or at least, with some knowledge of where to look for it. He did not say this wishing to be understood as favoring the kidnapping theory. It is expected that the most of tomorrow will be spent at the settlement for the amount of territory to cover is somewhere about fifteen miles. Magistrate Riley will be one of the party. It will be just two weeks on Sunday since the children vanished and there is no noticeable lessening of the general anxiety and suspense. Creamer's neighbors claim that physically he shows signs of the strain. Certainly he is not assuming the role of the distracted father. His grief seems sincere. Mrs. Creamer is just the same--collected and sad. Meanwhile gossip goes on. The opinion is hazarded tonight that the children are alive and in the neighborhood of Spencer or Peacock Settlement. Tomorrow's enquiry may establish it for a fact. There was a rumor of a strange sailing ship seen off the Cape on or about Sunday before last, but the people here deny it.

SOFT COAL OPERATORS AT THE MERCY OF RAILWAY COMPANY

Witnesses Tell Interstate Commerce Commission of Discrimination by Pennsylvania Road--Futile Efforts to Subpoena Congressman.

Philadelphia, May 24--Additional evidence of discrimination by the Pennsylvania railroad in distribution of cars in the soft coal field was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission today. John Lloyd, a banker and coal operator, of Altoona, who is one of the members of the banking firm of Cassatt & Company, testified that the Columbia Coal Company was forced to sell the Alexandria mine because of the shortage of cars, and George C. Scott, of the Puritan and Crescent Coal Companies, declared that he paid for the use of railroad cars when he failed to secure his allotment, and that during a period of twenty-three days the railroad had furnished him with only one car. He also asserted that Michael Crump, general superintendent of transportation, had told him the company intended to protect the Berwind-White Company at all hazards. During the time that Mr. Lloyd was on the stand, counsel for the commission made persistent efforts to force an admission that he had been associated in a business way with President Cassatt. Mr. Lloyd, however, said that his only relations with Mr. Cassatt were through Cassatt & Company, with whom President Cassatt carried a personal bank account. The commission today received a telegram from a process server who went to Irwin (Pa.), the home of Congressman George F. Huff, who it has been repeatedly testified made gifts of stock in various coal companies to railroad officials. The telegram stated that the officer was unable to serve the subpoena upon Colonel Huff, as the latter had locked himself in his house and evaded the server by occupying by way of the cellar. It was learned later that he had left town.

STANDARD OIL IN MORE TROUBLE

Independent Competitors Declare They Pilfered Their Private Telegrams

Had Copies of Them

Known in Advance How Much Their Daily Output Was--Had Inside Track on All the Political Moves of Their Opponents--Telegraph Employees Bribed to Keep Them Posted.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 24--The Leader today says: "That the Standard Oil Company is furnished with copies of pilfered telegrams sent or received by its competitors is the result of the startling charges lodged during the Interstate Commerce Commission's hearings in this city. "In brief, the charges which the commission is asked to investigate are: The ownership, leasing or contractual right in 100,000 miles of track enables the company's employees to transmit to No. 26 Broadway, the headquarters of the Standard, copies, surreptitiously obtained, of all messages going to or from independent oil men in the territory involved. "That daily reports of the oil run of the independents are sent to No. 26 Broadway in ample time for consideration at the daily meetings of the Standard officials. "That the alleged pilfered telegrams are not only of a business nature, but that, in numerous cases, secret political information of the highest importance has been transmitted to headquarters."

LAVISH PREPARATIONS IN MADRID FOR THE ROYAL WEDDING

Madrid, May 24--This city is fest assuming an aspect of feverish expectancy as the day for the Royal nuptials approaches. King Alfonso's departure for the frontier today to meet his bride was the first event of the elaborate official programme. The kind drove to the railroad station in an open coach seated beside the queen mother, and surrounded by a retinue of court chamberlains. His majesty wore the blue uniform of a field marshal, with a broad, red sash and white military cap, topped with waving plumes. He smiled amiably as he saluted his enthusiastic subjects.

HORSE RACES AND OTHER SPORTS AT MONCTON

Moncton, May 24--(Special)--Beautiful holiday weather enabled the citizens to enjoy the day to their full. There were more than the usual attractions in the sporting line and all branches were well patronized. The horse races on the exhibition speedway were attended by about 500 people. The track was in excellent condition. Only half-mile heats were trotted, and some fast time was made for the opening of the season. Horses owned by C. U. Clement, Quebec, training on the local track, carried off two races, the third going to a local horse. Result of the races: Green Race. Jim R., L. B. Reed 1 1 1 Paréde, W. Wilson 2 2 2 Von Staben, J. The Moncton Effie Association opened the shooting season this morning with a match at the range. The new golf club formally opened their links this morning with a match between local players. An invitation was extended to Humphrey Club to open the links, but that club was unable to comply on account of play on their own links. The new club had a very suspicious opening, some thirty members taking part in the game during the day. The club now has a membership of about forty-five.

The Canadian contingent, which held its banquet at the latter place, counted among its guests Governor Curtis Guild, Governor John McLean, of New Hampshire, and Charles Marcell, of the Canadian house of commons. The British and Scottish societies met at the Somerset. Governor Guild was present there also, and Admiral Coghlan, U. S. N.; Captain Ryan, British naval attaché at Washington, and Captain Penhallow, of the English army, were other guests.

DARTMOUTH SEWERS CUT AND PLUGGED BY PRIVATE CONCERN

Halifax, N. S., May 24--(Special)--The Dartmouth Rolling Mills Company is in a law suit with the town of Dartmouth over the public sewers. On Wednesday night the company cut the public sewers on three of the town streets, and plugged the same, thus causing the sewerage to back over and overflow. As the sewers, after leaving the streets, cross the rolling mill property, the company claims the town had no right there and, as the town would not remove the sewers, the company simply cut the mains and obstructed the flow of sewerage. The town obtained an injunction on Thursday morning, and an order permitting its workmen to repair the damage done. The rolling mills people drove the town workmen away. The sewers remain plugged, and an application will be made today to the supreme court to have the rolling mills proprietors committed for contempt of court.

CANADIAN BRIGADE MADE FINE TURNOUT

Halifax, N. S., May 24--(Special)--For the first time in the history of the dominion a brigade of Canadian troops, embracing the three arms of the service, infantry, artillery and engineers, has been reviewed by a general officer commanding. The review took place today on the Halifax common, as part of the Victoria Day celebration and after it was over General Sir Charles Parsons took occasion to call the field and commanding officers before him, and publicly congratulated them on the fine appearance and efficiency of the troops. The brigade marched past in column, in quarter column by double companies and advanced in line. In all 807 men were reviewed, the other 200 men being retained on duty and including such branches as the army service corps, medical corps, pay department, etc. The infantry is not up to its full establishment but, there are more artillery men here than in the days of the imperial garrison and the Royal Canadian Engineers have their full quota of men. The garrison numbers at present practically 1,000 of all arms.

A somewhat complicated situation exists in relation to the new steamship berth just as a sub-committee is preparing to call for tenders for timber to construct an additional 600-foot wharf. There is a difference of opinion as to whether this 600-foot berth can be prepared in time for next season's business.

Macaulay said the constitution of the United States was "all sail and no anchor." The Transcript thinks that overlooked the leading force of the United States Supreme Court which Justice Harlan has declared will be "the last citadel which could be carried by any assault which sought to overthrow our institutions."

Another the Transcript article gives one the impression that the writer believes his country may have severe trials ahead. The big vessels of the Allan and the C. P. R. are to come here "if the wharf accommodation is satisfactory."

Hon. Mr. Fielding's tenth budget speech is a pleasing chronicle of progress inviting lively discussion. The decision to postpone until the next session the consideration of many elements of interest.

Progress is the keynote of the budget speech; and whatever partisan comment the speech may challenge the striking character of that progress will not be disputed. The question of revenue and of surplus keeping and of tariff rates, but the mighty expansion in the volume of the country's trade speaks for itself and proclaims with no uncertainty the great forward strides of the Dominion.

There was last year, says Mr. Fielding fairly says, some indication of a loosened pace in trade expansion; but the record for the ten months ended with April last tells of renewed activity sufficient to guarantee the fiscal year now drawing to a close a high water mark record.

and to side in a carriage while thousands of honest folk are in want of necessaries. Which of the two candidates is likely to be preferred by a workman who hears his children cry for bread? ... There will, he I fear, spoliation. The spoliation will increase distress. The distress will produce fresh spoliation.

The Transcript admits a present tendency to radicalism, but points out that it does not arise from hard times but arises during a period of plenty. Some say the prosperity is apparent rather than real, and the natural question is, if it is apparent now what will it be when a period of hard times comes? The United States, it is true, no longer has great tracts of cheap lands, but there is no real land hunger as yet, and the great tracts were occupied too recently to bring the country to the condition Macaulay foresaw.

"Throughout Italy, Germany and Austria evidence abounds of a distrust of parliamentary government, and an increase of confidence in a monarchy. Norway recently rejected the republican form of government, to which all Americans hoped she would turn." King Edward and King Victor Emmanuel are adored, and the former is rightly recognized as a very shrewd statesman. The German emperor is strong, while the Austrian is all that holds his empire together.

The Transcript thinks that overlooked the leading force of the United States Supreme Court which Justice Harlan has declared will be "the last citadel which could be carried by any assault which sought to overthrow our institutions."

There will be some opposition to their recommendation. If adopted it will involve a serious change in the present plans, and may involve considerable waste of space which might otherwise be used as was intended for other long berths nearer the harbor line. To what justifies tent these projected berths would be affected by the proposed addition of 150 feet to the Clark berth will no doubt be shown when the Council meets to discuss the sub-committee's report. The aldermen, it would seem, must choose between one plan which will enable the port to handle all of next season's business while perhaps curtailing the space left for a further expansion of facilities which will be needed the year following, and another plan which might work out better some years hence but which might lead to expansion and loss of trade next winter.

The engineers must be heard from concerning the effect of the proposed enlargement of the 450-foot berth. The matter is one necessitating the presentation of definite information by the experts, and demanding careful consideration by the aldermen before they can safely decide. The sub-committee suggests that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, and there is considerable to be said in support of their position.

Exports and Imports. Some rather misleading and biased articles in American newspapers, based upon recently published trade statistics, are the subject of interesting review by the New York Journal of Commerce. A bulletin issued by the United States Bureau of Statistics sets down the latest average monthly exports of the United States at $17,208,978, and its average monthly imports at $19,508,417.

More than 100 political prisoners set out for Siberia from one district of Russia Thursday. Only a few of them, in all probability, were guilty of serious crime. Until this sort of thing ceases there can be no lasting peace in the Czar's dominions. Even the bayonets of the army will not suffice to uphold the throne unless the people make the laws and establish justice.

The British gas companies are not permitted to take a profit of more than ten per cent on the actual capital. In England and Scotland the price of gas varies from fifty to seventy-five cents per 1000 feet. The Montreal Witness, after an examination of the matter, declares confidently that gas can be sold for sixty cents in Montreal, and electric power at 85 per cent horse power.

The newspaper men of San Francisco deserve a chapter to themselves when the history of the catastrophe comes to be set down. The words which they disseminated in getting out their papers during the first few days of the trouble. A contemporary gives a few instances to show how newspaper men seem to feel that they have no time to be panic stricken or distracted so long as there is work to be done. On one paper, says the Winnipeg Telegram, only two men failed to report within a few hours. Later they were found dead in their homes.

On a time many American newspapers were accustomed to demand vengeance and to indulge in much unnecessary and violent language when Canada seized an American fishing smack. Today, however, a change for the better is noticeable. For example, when a Yankee schooner was seized the other day, the Boston Journal said: "Let's indulge in no jingoistic anger at the seizure of the Yankee fishing schooner" by Canada until we get all the facts. If our sailors have violated Dominion law, they must pay the price." The Salem News reprinted the Journal's advice and added this comment: "The virtue of the foregoing remittance becomes the more apparent when account is taken of the manner in which fishing laws have been flouted on the Great Lakes by craft flying the American flag. At one time, the poaching element seemed to entertain the delusion that agreements could be broken, and the Canadian authorities insulted, merely because the trespassers were citizens of the United States. There is too much of a disposition on the part of certain people in this country to attempt to play the role of 'emancipator' in defying treaty rights, and then expect the jingo cry to stand between them and their responsibility to neighbors."

NOTE AND COMMENT. Mr. Hawke of the Montreal Transcript gets a verdict for $80 against ex-Mayor Ryan whom he sued for assault; but sixty is no sort of price for the privilege of ejecting a newspaper man, and likely enough Mr. Hawke has lost a subscriber.

It is suggested that the provincial authorities may direct an investigation of the Cremer mystery by a detective. Public opinion would justify such a course. There is a general feeling that the circumstances demand an unusually persistent examination.

A NEW SOUTHERN ACTRESS IN THE GLANSMAN

New York, May 23.—On the return visit to the Grand Opera House, beginning Monday, The Glansman will rejoice in a real Southern ally. There is a peculiar appropriateness in the choice of Miss Ruth Hart for the role of Nellie Graham, the girlish messenger of the Ku Klux Klan.

In conversation with her, it was learned that on her mother's side she is a member of the South Carolina family pictured in the play as the Graham's. The real name of the "Graham" clan is Macdonald, and they are prominent in Piedmont (S. C.) where the scenes of the play are located.

Miss Ruth Hart

The first Macdonald in South Carolina was a descendant of Flora Macdonald, who nursed the British General Blyden after the Battle of Culloden. The branch that settled in France produced Marshal Macdonald, one of the generals of Napoleon. Everywhere the family have been fighters, and the male members of the Klan Klux in the south after the civil war. One of them swore his young sister into the service of the Klan, and she performed yeoman service for it, thus affording the basis of the incident in the play where Nellie Graham volunteers for the Klan Klux messenger. As the real Nellie Graham, or Nellie Macdonald, rather, was a relative of Miss Hart, she should be inspired to give a realistic interpretation of this Dixie role.

Men's Suits That Wear AND KEEP THEIR APPEARANCE

Style and good appearance is all important in a suit, yet not all to be considered. We have been fortunate in getting the happy combination of good style and appearance in garments that will wear and keep their appearance, and our prices are unquestionably the lowest in the city. Brief Despatches.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 23.—Mrs. E. B. Wilson, wife of a well known farmer, was shot by an unknown man this morning while asleep in her bed. The bullet was fired through the woman's bedroom window. No cause for the crime is known. Two negroes have been arrested on Augustus on suspicion. Considerable excitement prevails.

Two Base Ball Games Played Here

Two base ball games were played here today between the Trojans of Moncton, and the Tartars of this city, and the visitors won both. The score at the morning game was 6 to 5 in their favor, and they won the afternoon game by a score of 11 to 7. Three Fredericton players—George Finnamore, Arthur Finnamore and Ernest Boone—played with the Trojans and were of great service to the visiting team. Dunphy and Malloy, battery for the Tartars; Finnamore, Baiser and Boone for Moncton. It was a very good exhibition of base ball and attracted a good crowd of spectators.

Opposed to Useless Slaughter

A southern jurymen tells of the disqualification of a jurymen who came before him. The case was a capital one, and the jurymen backwoodsman declared determined opposition to capital punishment. Looking at him sternly and in tones somewhat suggestive of wrath, the judge asked the jurymen if he did not think there were conditions so extraordinary as to warrant the hanging of the offender. He said he did not believe anything could make him assent to such a verdict.

For the Johnnies

An eighteen year old girl who made her first graduation, her home girl in one company playing at a local theatre, is the starlight girl here by a hair's breadth. What a shock to the admiring throng, beyond the grandmother received more bouquets and cooing smiles from those boys than did any other member of the chorus.

If this long berth were ready and the depth of water in all of the berths be shown to be satisfactory before the winter business begins, no steamship company would have any excuse for withdrawing wholly from the port or even for sending its longest ships elsewhere. Members of the sub-committee apparently feel that it is hopeless to think of building a new 600-foot berth in addition to the Clark wharf in time to be used next fall, and they are probably right.

The Shocking Practice of the Child Widows of India of Hurling Themselves on the Burning Funeral Pyres of Their Husbands Has Broken Out Again, in Spite of the British Government's Warnings.

IF YOUR HUSBAND DIES - YOU MUST BE BURNED ALIVE

Lucknow, India, April 4. Hindu witnesses of the act, who, while blow solemn tones as the spirit of the widow joined that of her husband. At length the pyre was ready. Bearers brought the body of Chaudhri Missir and laid it thereon, with his feet toward the setting sun, for it was afternoon. Ram Charan, Dwarika and Balkishan Missir, the younger sons, brought the helmet, the sword, spear and modern rifle and the clothing of Chaudhri Missir and laid them beside the corpse on the pyre. The hillside was now alive with thousands of villagers and countrymen. Their bodies swayed to and fro, and low moans came from woman to woman. The men with the drums, the cymbals, gongs and sacred Sanks sat in a row near the pyre. All were waiting for the widow of Chaudhri Missir to appear. They had not long to wait. From her house, bathed and attired in her bridal robes, accompanied by two maids, she came. Her face was radiant. She looked like a young bride. The women on the hillside moaned again, but now there was a more triumphant note in their lamentations. They bowed their heads toward the widow, murmuring: "Sati! A good wife. Blessed is Chaudhri Missir!" Juggernath Missir, a perfectly composed man, gave her his hand and helped her mount the pyre. There she stretched herself out beside her dead husband, her head beneath his shoulder, as became a humble wife. All was now ready. The men with the sacred Sanks blew a long note. The drums, gongs and cymbals gave forth muffled sounds. The women on the hillside waved their bodies, bowing their heads low toward the pyre. Then the voice of the widow was heard softly calling to Juggernath Missir: "My son, since you are here and fear not the law, do your duty as becomes a faithful Hindu." Then Juggernath Missir lighted some wheat stalks, and, having walked three times round the pyre, according to custom, applied the fire to the mouth of the corpse. This falling to ignite the pyre, Juggernath Missir called upon four good Brahmins to assist him in performing the "Humant."

together. Soon they were but ashes mingled with the ashes of the pyre. Now that this second instance of suttee has come to light, when the English officials believed that the widely reported trials and sentences of those implicated in the burning to death of Chaudhri Missir would have the effect of wholly stamping out the practice, it is not likely there will be any mitigation of those punishments. The government has issued orders that isolated Hindu communities are to be closely watched to guard against secret commissions of this demoralizing crime. The most shocking feature of this recrudescence of the ancient rite is that it particularly menaces wives who are hardy more than children—for marriages of Hindu girls at thirteen, twelve, and eleven years of age, are not uncommon. When the husbands of these mere children die, the attitude of friends, relatives and neighbors toward the poor little widows changes immediately. Will they be "Sati"? Will they throw themselves into the flames and thus prove themselves "good women" and "faithful wives," or will they accept the alternative of the lowest form of degradation during all the years to come? The young widow cannot fail to observe the looks of inquiry directed at her, the already growing coldness of even her nearest relatives. First, despair at her vision of the future assails her, then comes mad fanaticism for the old religion, and, unless restrained by those who fear the law of their English masters, she runs wildly to the pyre where her husband's body is being consumed and gives herself to the flames. The British Government, striking at the root of the matter, encourages the missionaries in their efforts to teach these Hindu fanatics that a good wife who becomes a widow through no fault of her own is as worthy of respect as any other woman and has the same right to continue an honored member of society. But these sporadic revivals of the practice of Sutte indicate how difficult is the task.

lifted her arms and turned her face toward the setting sun. Above the din of the drums and cymbals the crowd could be heard shouting from the Hindu ritual: "Sati Ram! Sita Ram! Sati Mai Kai Jai!"

Some Valuable Hints for the Nursery.

WICE cooked meat should never be given to children. Remember the younger the child is when he gets any illness—above all, an infectious illness—the greater the danger. Keep all when the children are playing the pores of the skin are kept too open, and therefore the children out of reach of all infectious diseases as long as you possibly can. When putting baby to bed see that his face is not entirely covered with the bed-clothes, or he will run the chance of being choked. Feather beds are condemned by doctors as unhealthy for children to sleep on. Children should have at least twelve hours' sleep every night, and, in addition to this, small children should have a nap either in the morning or afternoon. This helps a great deal toward keeping them bright and healthy. As an attack of croup is threatened, have perfectly clean, ready plenty of hot water. In case a bath may be required. In this disease delay may mean death. If the nursery is kept too close and hot the children are playing the pores of the skin are kept too open, and therefore the children out of reach of all infectious diseases as long as you possibly can. Little ones are very liable to take cold when going into cold air, or even into a colder room. A few grains of permanganate of potash dissolved in a little water makes a strong disinfectant and deodorizer for the sick-room. It may also be used as a mouth wash and gargle in cases of diphtheria, etc. Always wash baby's mouth and gums every morning with water in which you have put a pinch of borax. It keeps the mouth fresh and sweet and prevents that uncomfortable affliction, a sore mouth, with which so many poor babies are troubled when their mouths are not kept perfectly clean.

PROPOSE TO EXTEND WHARF

City Council Committee Urges Plan for a 600-Foot Berth

WOULD ADD TO ONE CLARK IS BUILDING

Some Opposition to Proposal Likely to Be Found at Board of Works Meeting Tuesday--The Views Expressed--Mr. McNeil of C. P. R.

The sub-committee of the board of works appointed to call for tenders for timber for one new berth on the west side met on Wednesday morning and unanimously decided to recommend that, instead of attempting to construct an additional berth, the wharf now under construction should be lengthened 150 feet to make it available for the larger steamers.

It is understood that the committee, after a full discussion, were of opinion that in view of the present rate of progress with the dredging, the additional wharf would not be completed in time for next season's business.

The decision of the committee will likely lead to a considerable discussion by the board. It is claimed by some members of the council that the change which the committee recommend will result in the loss of the wharf when that part of the wharf is ultimately completed.

The advocates of the extension, however, claim, is not yet fully completed and they take the stand that the steamship companies and the growing trade of the port demand that a new 600 foot berth should be available for next season, and they see no other way of bringing about the desired result.

It was also unanimously agreed that the water supply was not responsible for the outbreak, but that in view of the fact that the same milk dealer had supplied infected houses at opposite ends of the city the disease would probably be traced to milk.
