EFFORTS TO SAVE LIVES. M'FADDEN AND HOTRUM ARE BEING MADE TODAY

Delegates Are Appearing This Afternoon Before Hon. C. J. Doherty—Arguments For London Man Based On Mr. Justice Logie's Statement At Trial and McFadden's Previous Good Record—Decision To Be Announced Early Next Week.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 22.—An attempt to save the lives of William McFadden and Roy Hotrum, sentenced to hang on August 1st, for the shooting of Walter Sabine, druggist, of Toronto, will be made this afternoon when two delegations, one on behalf of McFadden and the other on behalf of Hotrum, will meet Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, and several other members of the cabinet. The delegation which will plead for the life of McFadden consists of Fletcher Kerr, his Toronto counsel, W. E. Turley, of the G. W. V. A., and Charles L. Bray, barrister, of Toronto. W. K. Murphy of Toronto, will plead for Hotrum. There will also be a delegation from Hamilton in which is included Charles Hotrum, an elder brother of the condemned man, and a delegation from London, Ont., consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McFadden.

On several occasions in the past when murder has resulted from robbery two or more of those engaged in the crime have been condemned to die and even hanged, though but one man could have pulled the trigger, such was the case in connection with a murder at St. Sulpice, Que., in recent years. On behalf of McFadden the plea will be made today that Judge Logie himself expressed the opinion that he did not do the actual shooting. It will be further contended that he did not meet Hotrum until shortly before the shooting was planned, that he had been unemployed for a month or so, though himself a good workman, and that he entered upon the robbery without knowledge that murder might come of it. That he had a creditable war record will also be contended. In an attempt to counter the claim of joint inevitable responsibility in such an affair, attention will be called to the fact that two others, accomplices in the crime, one of whom is alleged to have produced the gun, have not been condemned to die.

Hotrum is a young man with a long criminal record, however. Clemency will be requested for him on grounds of youth. He is only 21, and on the further ground of doubt as to who actually fired the shot.

Decision Next Week.

The situation, in so far as the minister of justice is concerned, is considerably complicated by the double confession. The representations of one delegation are almost certain to prejudice the case of the other. The evidence produces no real certainty as to who fired the fatal shot. It would appear plain that at least one man should suffer for the crime, but even that is still for the minister and the governor-in-council to decide. In extension of McFadden's his previously good record and the fact that he only joined the bandits at the last moment, and while unemployed, in extension of Hotrum's his youth, but against him stands a previous prison record, and the fact that he engaged in another robbery after the shooting and before his arrest.

A decision will be reached in the matter early next week.

Proof of Indiscriminate Flooding of Country With Immigrants Is Piling Up

Secretary of Soldiers' Aid Enters Strong Protest As Result of Experience At His Office—Many Men Are Returning To Britain, Thoroughly Disgusted.

Thoroughly aroused to action, Edward H. Lance, secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, protested to John Farrell, of the department of agriculture, on Thursday evening that some definite move must be taken to handle the increased number of overseas unemployed who, he says, appeal to him daily.

"I got in touch with the department of agriculture and immigration last night," advised the secretary of the Soldiers' Aid. "I desired to learn just where that office was, so that I can in the future send all these applicants for work there. The few local conditions in Canada are, or at least have been, grossly misrepresented in England by the immigration agents. One, in particular this week stated that by a locomotive engineer, and told the overseas officials frankly that he positively would not go on a farm. Eventually he claims they waived these exceptions and allowed him to come, and advanced transportation, and £10 in cash for himself and wife. They arrived thus practically destitute in the country."

Another old country man, who visited the secretary this morning placed considerable blame in his particular case with the steamship agent. "I listened to his tale of wonderful prosperity, and consequently threw up a substantial position to come over. I would go back now if I had the passage money," he explained.

Going Back Home.

The Advertiser was informed this morning that a party of experienced tradesmen, mainly machinists, have arranged passage home to Scotland and the north of England, and fear that they are hurrying out of the country while they have the necessary finances to take them home. They were formerly employed on the Clyde they say, but for any state of affairs in Scotland, they say, they are hurrying out of the country while they have the necessary finances to take them home. ## Montreal Citizens Claim Dancers Disturb Sleep

Montreal, July 22.—A bylaw is being submitted to the city council today by the administrative commission for regulating the hours during which the dance halls of this city may remain open. It provides that they must close at 1 a.m. and remain closed until 10 a.m., but for special social events, an extension of hours will be granted upon application in writing to the chief of police.

Numerous complaints have recently been made by citizens living in the vicinity of dance halls that the music and other noises caused by the patrons of these institutions prevent them from sleeping. For this reason the by-law gives the chief of police authority to refuse a permit.

TURKS' RETREAT CUT OFF BY GREEK TROOPS

Turning Movement Is Carried Out Near Eski-Shehr.

CONSTANTINE CHEERED

Crowds Meet Train and Kiss Hands of Ruler.

Smyrna, Asia Minor, July 21.—An important encircling movement by the Greek right wing is reported here to have cut the retreat of the Turkish Nationalists towards Angora from Eski-Shehr, the railway junction point captured by the Greeks in their sweeping offensive Tuesday evening. This turning movement is being carried out to the south and east of Eski-Shehr.

The Eski-Shehr defensive line at Kovalisa and Aughlin, where three months ago the first Greek offensive was checked, is now declared to be completely isolated and the Turks within the area in question are considered to be virtually prisoners. The number of Turkish prisoners actually in Greek hands has reached 20,000. It was stated today.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, is said in Greek quarters to have escaped the encircling movement and fleeing towards Angora. Here in Smyrna the population is celebrating the Greek victory. The Greek warships in the harbor fired a celebratory salvo at mid-day.

King Constantine, who went to the front earlier this week, to join the Greek staff at Ushak is now hurrying on to Katala which was taken by the Greeks in their march on Eski-Shehr. The king is being enthusiastically cheered everywhere on the way, declares the messages announcing the royal progress, immense crowds detaining his train at the stations and kissing his hands.

COMMANDER CAPTURED.

London, July 22.—The Greeks in capturing Eski-Shehr Tuesday evening, captured Kiazim Kara Bekir, the Turk Nationalist commander, in the city, and all his generals and other officers says the Central News Agency correspondent today, quoting dispatches from the fighting front.

The Greek newspapers of all shades of opinion are demanding that the Greeks march on Constantinople, the correspondent asserts.

He asserts he is through with them all.

Condemned Man Fights Guards of the Death Cell

Ossining, N. Y., July 22.—John I. Bulgo, negro, who murdered an aged couple in a Brooklyn apartment on July 4, 1919, was put to death last night in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison.

The condemned man battled fiercely with four guards when he was removed to the new death chamber yesterday. Two guards were bitten before they overpowered him, and a special detail of prison attaches was assigned to watch him throughout the day.

Bulgo, killed Edward Johnson and his wife when they resisted his attempt to rob their apartment.

WERNER HORN IS ORDERED DEPORTED

Will Be Sent Back to Germany.

Ottawa, July 22.—The Government has ordered the release from penitentiary and deportation to Germany of Werner Horn, the dynamite maker, who tried to blow up the international bridge at Dorchester, N. B., during the war, and who, on October 31, 1919, was sentenced to ten years on a charge of endangering life. Horn was arrested in the United States and has spent the last six years in American and Canadian prisons.

Some time ago the penitentiary surgeons certified that the dynamite was insane.

IRISH REPUBLICAN CHIEF STILL CONFIDENT THAT "CAUSE" WILL TRIUMPH

De Valera Leaves for Dublin To Present British Government Proposals To His Supporters—Sympathizers Gather At Depot and Give Sinn Fein Leader a Rousing Send-Off.

Eamonn De Valera arrived at Euston station shortly after 8 o'clock this morning to take the 8.30 train for Dublin. To newspapermen who pressed him for an interview he said: "Although the immediate future is uncertain, we have perfect confidence in the ultimate success of our cause."

A few minutes later he stood up in his carriage to address the large crowd of Irish enthusiasts who swarmed about the station. First in Irish, then in English, he thanked them for coming so early in the morning to bid him good-bye, and said everywhere he went he found the same enthusiasm for the Sinn Fein, which only a just cause could inspire.

"I am perfectly certain our cause will win in the end. I may take some time to accomplish it, but success certainly will come. Of that I am confident," he said.

Cheering and singing, the crowd surrounded the train, and the Irishman made his way to the front and shouted: "God bless you, sir; Ireland needs you."

The Northern Whig says that if Mr. De Valera acknowledged by smiling and waving his hand.

Have you ever tried to figure out just how big or just how small is the town you live in? When your country cousins from Kelly's Sliding, or Aissa Craig, come to town do you drag them around in a flurry of excitement to Port Stanley and Springbank trying to impress upon their supposedly unsophisticated minds the idea that London is a very great city, quite in a class with Philadelphia or New York? Or on the other hand, when your friends from Toronto or Detroit condescend to tie themselves down for a few weeks amid the pastoral scenes of little London, Ont., do you let them have it all their own way while they tell how Palmer Park or High Park is ever so many times larger and more wonderful than Springbank, and how very small and pokey-looking the main buildings in London are in comparison to the skyscrapers of the more metropolitan centres 100 miles east or west?

MELVIN BURGESS ADMITS PASSING OF BOGUS CHECK

Toronto Youth Says Organized Gang At Work.

TORONTO HEADQUARTERS

Will Be Sentenced by St. Thomas Judge Next Week.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, July 22.—Melvin T. Burgess, Toronto, the youth charged with uttering fraudulent checks purporting to be issued by the department of militia and defence, pleaded guilty this morning to passing a sample on a local grocer, but denied having anything to do with about a dozen others which were cashed on Saturday by so many merchants. The remainder were negotiated by his companion Roberts, he said, who has since disappeared. Burgess confessed to being the tool of a gang of forgers that are operating all over the province, their headquarters being in Toronto. One of their leaders named McManus was recently sent down for fifteen months. According to Burgess' admission the subordinates of the organization travel in pairs, making the rounds of important centres, and accounting for their work to the chiefs at Toronto. Burgess mentioned Hamilton as an important lay out for the members, and the district has been fat in material for their activities. Burgess' father, who is a Toronto contractor, has been advised of his son's plight, and is coming to St. Thomas. The accused will be sentenced next week.

PERSECUTION NOT INTENDED BY THE O. M. A.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. P., Will Take Immediate Action in Matter.

As the result of the alleged persecutions of motorists on the county roads in the vicinity of London, Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.P.P., will recommend to Hon. W. E. Rance, attorney-general, that every constable, magistrate, and every county officials who has been making use of technicalities to fine car owners, be immediately dismissed.

Dr. Stevenson today asked Secretary E. Bernard, of the London Motor Club, for a list of all officials involved and for copies of several of the complaints, and on receiving them he will press the matter with the authorities in Toronto.

Persecution Not Intended.

According to the member of London, Ontario motor and vehicle act was never intended as a weapon for persecution, and, therefore, the Government certainly would not allow it to be used for that purpose. The section of the act fixing the speed of motorists at blind corners at 12½ miles an hour was passed to protect pedestrians and not to provide a method whereby constables could fine motorists easily without their purses by fees. He predicted that the act would be amended next session.

Immediate Action.

Dr. Stevenson has previously heard that constables in Middlesex were using the blind corners to trap motorists. A complaint came to him recently from Dorchester that a resident of that district was fined because he crossed a corner at a speed of 20 miles an hour. He was not aware, however, that the practice was common in the vicinity of the city until he was acquainted with the facts by The Advertiser. When approached on the matter by Mr. Bernard, he decided to take immediate action.

Scores of Complaints.

As a result of the scores of complaints received at the offices of the London Motor Club giving full information, Mr. Bernard is already in possession of the names of the different officials who are accused of the persecutions.

A complaint was made today by a prominent London businessman that he had been fined because he had driven through the town of Milton with a stationary spotlight light attached to his car. Although the act clearly states that a car may carry such a light if it is fixed.

FUNERAL OF VICTIM OF MAITLAND RIVER

Wingham, July 22.—The funeral of George Chenleburgh, who was drowned in the Maitland River on Tuesday, took place yesterday, and was largely attended. Rev. Horace Snell of the Anglican Church, conducted the service. The casket was covered with floral tributes from his schoolmates and other friends. Six chunks acted as pallbearers, namely: Harold Toller, Jimmie Angus and Norman Shoppell, who were swimming with him at the time of the fatality, and Dewar Miller, Joe Clark and Harold Mitchell.

RESULT OF BOYS' WILD ESCAPADE IMPRESSES NEED FOR A JUVENILE COURT

Leading Men of All Shades of Opinion Interest Themselves in the Matter—Duty of Court Should Be Redemptive, Not Punitive, Says T. D. McCullough—Veterans Approve the Establishment of Such a Court.

Because the powers of the police magistrate were such that no other alternative was available, six London youngsters must for the next two years take their place in line at one of the provincial industrial schools. Declared guilty of the theft of automobiles, these boys, who were never in trouble of any description before and were in no manner to be described as dangerous to the community, according to W. E. Kelly of the Children's Aid Society, who is naturally well-informed upon the subject, have been sent to an institution provided supposedly to handle only incorrigible cases.

That these boys did not steal the cars in question, or had any intention of doing so, but "borrowed" them for a ride and then abandoned them, cannot enter into the problem. Without a juvenile court in London the case, the magistrate affirms, could not have been disposed of in any other manner. He had no other alternative than to send them for a two-year term "up at the big school." Entering the latter establishment as they do apparently not criminals or malicious evil-doers at heart, just what their attitude toward society in general will be when they return again to freedom is problematical.

Redemptive, Not Punitive.

"The functioning of a juvenile court is redemptive rather than punitive," commented T. D. McCullough, secretary of the Social Service Council, today. "One should not reflect, of course, upon decisions of men wise and trained in law, as they know law better than the layman, but had a juvenile court been established by London it would have, certainly obviated the necessity, if such necessity there be, of sending these boys down for their first offence, to a term of sentence in a distinctly punitive institution of the character of the industrial school."

Veterans Approve.

"The Army and Navy Veterans' Association, as a representative body of returned men, has already endorsed the recommendation to establish a juvenile court in London," said Sergt. J. Glenzie, secretary of that body, discussing the question with The Advertiser today, "and the members are still of the same mind. London, and in fact any community of this size, has need for such an institution, and I feel that the scheme proposed by Aid. Harley is certainly worthy of fulfillment."

"The men recommended for the positions of probation officers, Ed. Lane and W. E. Kelly, are exceptionally well fitted for such duties. Both have continued experience in this endeavor, the former especially, among the families and children of all returned men who come under his notice."

"One pleasing feature to us is incidentally that it is proposed to remove the court, if established, from the region of the police headquarters. That

British Taxpayers Will Be Called Upon To Pay Over $4,500,000,000 This Year

London, July 22.—(Canadian Associated Press).—Supplementary estimates to the amount of £62,000,000 brought down by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, have been granted by the House of Commons. Of this total the chancellor stated that £36,000,000 were required to liquidate the Government's liabilities to the railway companies arising from the agreement under which the state took over the control of the roads during the war. With this payment included, the Government subsidy to the railways for the year will total £75,000,000.

The supplementary estimates also provide for a subsidy of nearly £20,000,000 to the farmers, for though the Government repealed the wartime agricultural act it agreed to pay certain bonuses this year on the basis of the corn production.

Another item provides for £1,500,000 to take care of the increased cost of unemployment insurance arising from the exceptional industrial situation.

Altogether the British taxpayer this year will be required to contribute over £900,000,000 to the national account, as compared with a pre-war contribution of £207,000,000. Of this total £230,000,000 are required to look after the war debt; £120,000,000 for pensions, and £16,000,000 for other obligations to men who fought in the great war.

PROVINCIAL POLICE SENT TO NIAGARA TO RESTORE ORDER

Rumors Current Aid of C.M.P. Has Also Been Asked For.

For the first time since his installation here, Provincial Officer Arthur H. Palmer has been moved from the district on account of urgent duty elsewhere. This week he received orders from headquarters in Toronto to proceed to Niagara, because trouble has been brewing in the vicinity of the Chippewa Canal.

Recently the night shift on the canal was laid off because of the wholesale bootlegging and carousing on the part of employees and outsiders there, and Hon. W. E. Rance, attorney-general, it is reported, decided to stamp out the illicit traffic and bring matters back to a normal state as quickly as possible. He is said to have ordered a number of provincial officers to the scene and to have asked the aid of the Canadian Mounted Police.

Whether it is the liquor traffic or the fear of a strike and the trouble that would ensue that has resulted in the local provincial man being ordered there was not learned.

The structure will be a frame and steel, with a 200-room accommodation and modern in every detail. The flood of inquiries from all parts of Canada and a number from the border, as to the hotel conveniences at the lakeside have moved the promoters to make the venture.

VALEYS BATHING CAMP DELIGHT OF THE KIDDIES

Three Playground Groups Spend Joyous Day By Riverside.

CAMP INSPECTED

Every Bathing Suit Utilized Time and Time Again.

A glimpse of the happy crowd of kiddies, sporting themselves at the north end bathing camp Thursday afternoon, would undoubtedly have convinced the most pessimistic of playground critics in this city. The value of supervised pastime for London's children. More than 200 youngsters, from the districts represented by Queen's Park, Lord Roberts' school and the Bottrill playgrounds, enjoyed a picnic at the "Valley" Thursday, the day being spent in water sports.

The happy throng was transported to the valley shortly before noon in motor trucks furnished by Hunt Bros., Dexters Mill, McClary Manufacturing Company, Gillies, and J. S. Perrin & Co. Each child carried a lunch, and the respective kiddies gathered, were in attendance.

Took to the Water. The youngsters immediately took to the water following arrival at the camp, bathing suits being provided, and a quick change of clothing being made in the new and spacious dressing room at the grounds. An incensed sandpile on the river bank provided diversion for many of the future leaders of the community.

It is interesting to note that every bathing suit was in use at the camp, and that the supervisor in charge was kept busy boiling them, the usual procedure, before a suit is given out to different children. The north end camp has a picturesque approach along the brow of a hill, with the descent over a footbridge crossing the creek, to the camp.

After the footbridge an old-fashioned stile assists one over a barbed wire fence, and on a flat plateau of the riverbank may be seen the dressing shack, with scores of young ones splashing about, their happy laughter evidencing that fun is rampant.

Inspected the Camp. On Friday afternoon General Manager Buchanan, of the public utility commission, under whose direction London's civic recreational work is carried out, and Philip Pocock, chairman of the playgrounds committee, accompanied by reporters, visited the camp.

But for the fact that the camp is a bathing suit had been commandeered by the children Mr. Pocock and Manager Buchanan would have been in for a dip themselves. However, they satisfied themselves with an inspection of the camp, and a chat with a few of the youngsters, asking the conventional, "How do you like the water?" to which one little girl replied, "Cold, but it's good." A visit to the sanitary vault for a drink of ice cold aqua pura, was next in order, and here Mr. Pocock very diplomatically gave a sum of money to a member of the group of kiddies "to buy some candy."

With the result that Manager Buchanan characteristically Scotchly gestured, "Let's go!" and fearful lest the children should be in expectation of Mr. Pocock's example being followed.

The picnic staged Thursday was in charge of the following supervisors: Miss E. Hadden, Ed. Dundas, Miss E. Hadden, Miss J. MacFarlane and Walter Thompson, Bottrill playground; and Miss Edith Anderson and George Wainwright of Lord Roberts' school.

HELD FIRST MCCORMICK PICNIC IN YEAR 1866

Company Will Celebrate Jubilee Year At Port On Saturday.

Believing that the firm has held more consecutive picnics than any other firm in the city, the committee in charge of the plans for the celebration of the "Jubilee" or fiftieth annual picnic of the employees of the McCormick Manufacturing Company, which will be held on Saturday at Port Stanley, are straining every nerve to make the occasion an unrivalled success.

It is anticipated that inclusive of the employees and their families, not less than 1,500 people will participate in the outing.

The sports committee have drawn up a program of 32 events, which in addition to including two baby shows and two ball games, will introduce a number of novelties. There will be a refreshment booth at the top of the hill where the employees, their relatives and friends will be able to dispose of soft drinks, ice cream and other dainties.

A feature of the occasion will be the number of employees of the firm who will after Saturday have attended the whole 50 picnics, some of the men having been in the employ of the company since before 1866, when the first picnic was held.

The happy throng was transported to the valley shortly before noon in motor trucks furnished by Hunt Bros., Dexters Mill, McClary Manufacturing Company, Gillies, and J. S. Perrin & Co. Each child carried a lunch, and the respective kiddies gathered, were in attendance.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLICITY IS MISSED BY LONDON

Only City Represented at the Chicago Convention Without Advertising Material.

MANY NOVELTIES

American States and Cities Use Many Unique Advertising Stunts.

London and the industries within her confines stand in great need of advertising themselves, especially at conventions held in other cities at which this city might be represented, according to T. J. Thompson of London, who was a delegate to the fourteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, held in Chicago recently.

Although delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada loudly proclaimed the advantages of their respective home cities by means of novel advertising stunts supplied by the civic bodies and industrial concerns, London was dumb because the delegates had not even a descriptive card of booklet.

Five thousand people from every state of the Union and from practically every province in Canada were present, and so the opportunity of securing a nation-wide advertising at a low cost was lost. Every city as well as many states in the United States as well as many places in Canada, except London, took full advantage of it.

Fancy Booklets. Fancy booklets, giving colored views of places of interest were used by many cities. Philadelphia especially took advantage of this method and prepared a series of views so artistically that every delegate present took one of them to his respective home. Fort William took advantage of a card system, and while it did not prove so attractive, it served the purpose of letting everyone there know just where the city is located, and made the readers acquainted with the advantages that city has to offer.

Amongst the states, Florida made by far the most pretentious effort at advertising. This state supplied the convention with large luscious oranges, freshly picked and packed in ice. Served in the heat of Chicago, they proved so refreshing that every delegate left with a warm spot in his heart for the Orange State.

Industries in all parts of the Union also used novel methods of bringing notice to themselves. For instance, the Goodrich Rubber Company presented each delegate with a miniature pair of rubber boots.

Had No Material. Although Mr. Thompson claims to have made efforts to secure advertising material from the local Chamber of Commerce and other organizations, he was unable to get even pamphlets describing London, and so this city lost a rare opportunity for publicity.

The importance of the greatest importance to the development of both countries were made the subjects of many speeches and discussions. The convention lasted from July 11 to 15, and the whole time was occupied by business sessions, general meetings, banquets, and a great number of pleasure trips to various points of interest in and around Chicago.

Prominent Speakers. Among the most notable speakers were Frank Branch Riley, Portland, Oregon, one of the outstanding lecturers of the United States; Hon. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce in the United States; Andrew R. McMaster, K. C., Montreal, associate counsel for Canada, who spoke on "North American Cousins," and Wm. M. Calder, New York, chairman of select committee on reconstruction and production.

The housing problems and town planning received a great deal of attention, but the speeches were chiefly relative to the American problems. Farm topics also were discussed as well as many of national economy.

Among the delegates 1,200 women were present from many parts of the United States, and took an active part in the discussions.

Mr. Thompson, who is secretary-treasurer of the real estate board in London, was the official delegate from this city. He had the honor of being selected to act as assistant sergeant-at-arms. Bert Weir, president of the local board, attended a few sessions of the convention, but the time was too short for him to do more than to be present.

It is doubtful whether this can be brought about for some time, as no Canadian city possesses the necessary hotel accommodation for 5,000 people.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 387 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

UNION OBJECTS TO ALDERMEN USING TROWEL

Believe That Work Should Have Been Given To Unemployed.

ST. THOMAS, July 21.—Objection has been taken by some of the members of the Bricklayers' Union to a couple of aldermen using the trowel and mortar in the repairs recently made to the wall of the building in the west end, used as a soft-drink industry. The offending aldermen were charged as exceeding the limit of their responsibilities while representing the city, and might leave themselves open to a charge under a well-known section of the municipal act.

A member of the union so advised them, and insisted that the work done and materials provided to plug the hole in the building should have been turned over to some of the men out of employment in the city. The aldermen excused themselves on the ground that the job was not of much moment and had to be attended to at once, to save the property of the proprietors. The Unionist, however, was not satisfied with the explanation, and may ask the building commission for further information.

BIG BLAZE CHECKED IN THE OIL FIELDS

Thousand Laborers Holding Fire To Four Wells At Amatlan.

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—A well-organized fire-fighting force, composed of a thousand laborers, is holding the fire in the Amatlan oil fields to four wells, which have been ablaze for several days. These wells may continue to burn for two months before they are extinguished, according to reports received here.

The belief prevails that the flames will be restricted to Lot 162, centering about Amatlan, which contains sixteen producing wells.

Secretary of War Estrada is at Amatlan directing the work of the fire-fighters.

PALMERSTON PUPIL TOOK HIGHEST MARKS

Miriam Skelton Headed List At Entrance Exams in Wellington.

HARRISTON, July 21.—Miriam Skelton, daughter of J. B. Skelton, and a pupil of Miss Helen J. Stuart, headed the list of pupils trying their entrance examinations in Wellington County. Her marks totalled 654 out of a possible 750. The highest marks taken by any pupil trying in South Wellington were 651. Thomas Windlaw, a pupil from Clifford, is second in the county, with a total of 640. Miss Skelton's achievement, together with four others in her class, speaks well for Miss Stuart, who had the satisfaction of sending 23 pupils up for examination and all were successful.

The pupils who this year passed their examinations will go into the continuation school, where they will again come under Miss Stuart, who this year is made assistant principal. Inspector Galbraith has forwarded the successful list of candidates, and announces that certificates will be left with the principal, Miss Anglin, for distribution at the reopening of school.

HANNA IS ASKED TO RECALL ORDER

Railway Employees Object To Proposed Reduction in Wages.

WINNIPEG, July 21.—President D. B. Hanna of the Canadian National Railway, has been asked to recall the order effective July 16 last, cutting the wages of workers who are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. This statement was made by Robert Dykes, general chairman of the brotherhood for Canadian National lines, who announced the receipt of a message from A. R. Mosher, grand president of the organization at Ottawa, stating he had asked President Hanna to withhold the order pending further action.

A meeting of general chairmen and secretaries of the organization, Mr. Dykes announced, would be held in Ottawa on Monday to consider the full policy of the organization on wage reductions.

KILLED BABES RATHER THAN GIVE THEM UP

CLEVELAND, O., July 21.—Believed to have been crazed by their love for two babies left with them as boarders, and who were about to be taken from them, police believe two women destroyed themselves and the children on a bed which they set afire in their home here today. The women were Mrs. Eliza Moselman, a widow, 70, and her daughter, Tillie, 37. Mrs. Moselman was wealthy and both were eccentric in their way of living, police say.

The baby victims were Helen Stankovitch, three years old, and her two-year-old brother Felix. Clutching the helpless children in their arms, the two women set the bed afire, police say the evidence shows.

GALT STUDENTS TOOK A HIGH STANDING

U.S. GOLD HOARD BREAKS RECORD

One-Third of World's Pile Is Now Held in This Country.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Never in the history of the world has so much gold been gathered within the confines of a single country as in the United States today. The hoard now amounts to about one-third of the $10,000,000,000 gold coin and bullion in the world and it is still growing.

Pretty much all the world owes us money and whenever the debtors are able to pay something on account our gold pile increases. It will continue to grow so long as we sell more than we buy abroad.

Proves Expensive Luxury. This record smashing in the accumulation of gold is an expensive luxury for us Americans, according to the economists, who tell us the inflow of gold to the United States beginning early in the world war was an important factor in cheapening the dollar and increasing prices.

Whether prices and the purchasing power of the dollar ever will return to the pre-war level is a universal question which economists answer with the assertion that gold coins seem to be diminishing fast.

The stable money league is studying the price movements with a view to recommending legislation to counteract such fluctuations in the purchasing power of the dollar as have upset industries, commerce and household economies in the last few years.

Professor Fisher proposed to stabilize the dollar by increasing its gold content where there is a tendency of gold to depreciate and decreasing its gold content when the tendency of gold is to appreciate.

"We know that such a procedure would actually work on the price levels of Mexico and the United States are inversely proportional to the weights of the gold dollars in the two countries," he contended at the recent meeting of the league here.

Compares Prices to Trust. "When prices tend to rise the Government is in the position of the owner of perishable fruits piling on his hands," retorts Professor Fisher. "The loss of gold is a loss of the value of gold would be nothing new or peculiar to the proposed system. The loss occurs under the present system, but it falls on the individual holder of the gold instead of on the Government treasury, inasmuch as when gold is depreciating it costs the Government something to keep up its reserve it follows that if we should have another world war, the Government might be forced to stop redemption."

"But the impossibility of maintaining redemption could scarcely happen otherwise. There is no other calamity conceivable which would make it impossible for a stable Government to maintain a

BRITAIN AND WAR INDEBTEDNESS.

The official publication of ex-President Wilson's October letter to Mr. Lloyd George merely makes plain what is already known, that the proposed cancellation of war debts originated in the desire of Great Britain to lighten the heavy burden that lay on the shoulders of the peoples of Continental Europe, and not with any motive of seeking favors for herself. The proposal made to the United States by the British Government was, to put it briefly, that Britain was prepared to cancel the indebtedness of the Allied Governments of Europe providing that the United States would do the same for Great Britain.

The British people stood to lose heavily on the deal, owing to the fact that the debt of the Allies to Britain amounted to almost twice as much as that which Britain owed to the United States, but the proposal was summarily rejected by Mr. Wilson, who, in the course of his reply to Mr. Lloyd George, declared that neither Congress nor the public opinion of the country would permit a cancellation of the debt of the British Government to the United States in order to "induce" Great Britain to remit the indebtedness of the European Allies. The use of the word "induce," as the Montreal Star points out, suggests that Great Britain was seeking to be bribed by American generosity in order to prevail upon her to cancel that which was owing to her by the Allies. Commenting on the general impression which has been current concerning this, the Montreal Star says:

There is a common impression that Great Britain stood to gain by this two-sided moratorium. The precise opposite is the case. Great Britain had borrowed from the United States $22,222,000 pounds, or less than four billion dollars. Unpaid interest has now increased this considerably; but the figures are $4,277,000,000. As against this sum, the Allies owed Great Britain $8,335,000,000. So if the deal were confined to American and British debts, Great Britain would lose nearly twice as much as she would gain. If all war debts were cancelled all round, it is calculated that Great Britain would lose $3,714,500,000.

It will thus be seen that, far from trying to enrich itself at the expense of the United States, Britain was prepared to make a big sacrifice on behalf of the stricken peoples of Europe, in which she invited the United States to share the credit. However, Mr. Wilson declined, but it is very questionable whether in doing so he correctly diagnosed the public opinion, which he quotes as a reason for not falling in with the scheme. On the contrary, we feel sure that if the opinion of the American people had been taken on the matter they would have welcomed the opportunity of participating in such an act of mercy and consideration for the pitiful condition of the countries ravaged by the war.

Despite their heavy load of post-war taxation and the distress they themselves have suffered, the British people would doubtless have supported their Government in the matter, and judging from the splendid work of the Americans in relieving distress among the war sufferers and their financial ability to help, they would not have lagged behind. The opportunity still remains, and now that the facts are better understood, may yet devise ways and means to attain the object which Great Britain had originally in view.

A UNIQUE RECORD.

The Hon. George H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia, has reason to be proud of his twenty-five years' record as first minister. Messages of congratulation on his unique record have been received from Lloyd George, the Duke of Connaught and many other prominent men on both sides of the Atlantic. As the Hon. W. S. Fielding, Mr. Murray's predecessor in office, has said, the distinction is one which has no parallel in British history.

Premier Murray was born in Grand Narrows, Nova Scotia, on June 7, 1861. After a distinguished scholastic career he was called to the Nova Scotia bar in 1883. He was created a K. C. in 1895, and practised in North Sydney. He was appointed to the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia in 1889, and two years later he became a member of the Fielding administration, without portfolio. Upon the resignation of the Hon. Mr. Fielding in July, 1896, he formed an administration, taking the portfolio of provincial secretary.

The premier of Nova Scotia, who now celebrates his silver jubilee as the holder of that distinguished office, is a man of strong personality and a power in Liberal politics. Under his guidance the province has prospered, and his level-headedness and steadfastness of purpose, have made themselves felt on many occasions. He presides over the political destinies of a province which contains a strong Scottish element, and which in its pioneer days owed much to the energy and enterprise of the people of that nation.

Members of all political parties and of all creeds unite in their congratulations to the Hon. Mr. Murray, and while all may not be at one in their wishes for his continuance in the distinguished office which he has held for the past quarter of a century, their felicitations on his splendid period of public service are none the less sincere.

Mr. Murray is a man as yet not far beyond the meridian of life, and the place that he now occupies in the minds of the people of the province and of the country generally is not likely to diminish with the advance of years. His 25 years' record is an eloquent testimony to the purity of his politics, the wisdom of his statesmanship, and the integrity of his motives.

WAR MEMORIALS.

It is gratifying to find that the work of the Ontario Advisory Committee on War Memorials is bearing fruit. This is a voluntary organization of artists and architects which was formed at the close of the war for the purpose of extending advice and making suggestions to municipal bodies or individuals who might contemplate the erection of such memorials. The services of the committee have already been sought from various centers, and it may be assumed that they have been instrumental in preventing the perpetration of a number of outrages against the canons of good taste.

Unfortunately the aesthetic instinct is not very pronounced in a country where agriculture and commerce are the dominating factors in directing the activities of the people. There are no budding Ruskins or William Morris or Walter Cranes to guide the public along the intricate pathway of the fine arts. The farmer would see nothing to inspire him in a Turneresque sunset, and the city man would rather have the sporting page of the daily paper than a wagon-load of the "Stones of Venice." This is why, when the good folks of Pumpkinville, or of places much more prominent on the map, are in doubts as to how they will spend the money they have collected to honor the memory of their heroes, the advisory board of men trained in art is ready to lend a helping hand.

There is no getting away from the fact that a memorial in bad taste is worse than no memorial at all, much as we may admire the deeds of the person whom it is desired to honor or the good intentions of those who wish to hold them in remembrance. Simplicity and chastity of design should rule; garish and ornate conceptions ought to be avoided. Faddish and freakish ideas are equally undesirable, and nothing should be chosen that will not stand the test of time either in material or design. Keats says that "a thing of beauty is a joy for ever," and, inversely, an ugly creation is a perpetual horror.

There was a period of morbidity in the seventeenth century, when the designers of monuments revelled in skulls and crossbones, coffins and hour-glasses, cinerary urns and inverted torches. The idea seemed to be to render mortality as repulsive as possible, but with the revival of art which took place in the middle of the eighteenth century, with the formation of the Royal Academy, and in the nineteenth, when such giants as Ruskin flourished those trumpery symbols disappeared from monumental sculpture, let us hope, for ever.

Beauty of line and of proportion is, as the Greeks well know, essential in all real works of art, whether in sculpture, painting or architecture, and the appropriateness of the thing itself to perpetuate a noble deed or a stirring scene should never be forgotten. Without these things the monument is but so much stone or bronze or marble which has gone to waste.

HAUPTMANN, THE PRUSSIAN.

Gerhart Hauptmann, the great German author, quoted as champion of "Upper Silesia for Germany," was born in Prussian Silesia himself 59 years ago. He has written plays, poems and novels that give him, in general estimation, the first place among living German men of letters.

He claims to speak for German retention of Upper Silesia, "not as a German, but as a European," and in accordance with the plebiscite ordained by the Allies. But Hauptmann was one of the violent-voiced German Nationalists at the outset of the Great War. For example, he had the impudence and prejudice to refer to Bergson as "a mere feuilletonist," because the French philosopher seemed to challenge the preserve of Germany as mistress of philosophy.

As for the plebiscite in Upper Silesia, the decision of the people revealed a condition something like that of Ireland. There was a German majority on the whole, like that of Sinn Fein in Ireland, though much less. But mining districts went Polish. It is precisely those districts that Hauptmann and other German spellbinders are howling for, just as Sinn Fein wants Ulster clobbered in its so-called "Irish nation." The Allies promised merely to be guided by the plebiscite in demarcating the Silesian frontier of Germany and Poland. The supreme council will know how to value the "cosmopolitanism" of Prussians like Hauptmann.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Those silver mines in Silesia are liable to provoke a shower of lead.

Judge Ermatinger of St. Thomas "said it with flowers" to that Port Stanley man the other day.

The night shift at Chippewa has been shifted. They were apparently mixing too much hard stuff with the hydro.

Premier Drury has reaffirmed provincial control of water powers. This seems quite appropriate after reaffirming control of fire-water powers.

It is stated that the reason why the mosquitoes are so poisonous these days is that they have acquired "painters' colic" through operating on the complexions of the butterfly blondes and brunettes.

The bank robbers of the Petite Cote are "ower the border and awa." The police have found the green car, but the occupants, including the man with the glass eye, not being of the same color, have made their getaway.

There are a few vacancies in the county jail at St. Thomas. Free board and lodging are offered, with health-giving exercises in the form of mowing lawns and other easy jobs. The trouble is that candidates for admission have to pass a rigid examination—before the magistrate.

CONGREGATIONAL SINGING.

The action of the organist of Westminster Abbey, who is teaching his congregation how to sing hymns, is one that might well be imitated in churches in Canada. Congregational singing suffered from the formation of large choirs, and at times the efforts of the choir suffer from the lack of training on the part of the congregation. The organist in Westminster evidently had reached the limit of endurance on the part of an organist, and that is saying a great deal, for as a people organists are proverbially patient and long-suffering. So Mr. Nicholson, the organist in question, took twenty minutes before the early evening service on a week night and explained what he wanted, and then showed his audience how it could be obtained. The fact that almost universally people in church are slow to begin singing when the organ gives the note, was the reason why the time dragged all through the hymns, therefore he began on the practice of starting notes. Another fault in congregational singing, the lack of a well-cut finish, was also pointed out, and on these two items the organist gave some valuable instruction, taking familiar hymns to illustrate his points. The initial experiment was judged to be sufficiently successful for the continuance of the instruction for a time at least, and if enthusiasm and improvement follow the congregation will in time be invited to take some part in the singing of anthems.

OTHERS' VIEWS.

HISTORICAL ACCURACY.

(Quebec Telegraph.)

The recent celebration in the United States of the Fourth of July with its reading over again of the Declaration of Independence has started a good many people at a study of the history of something like 150 years ago. As a result, the New York Times says that whoever read over the Declaration of Independence again this week must have been struck, either for the first time or more strongly than ever before, by the fact that the grievances of the colonists, as was thoroughly realized by them, were not against England or the English people, but against the one man to whom they referred as "the present King of Great Britain." There is, indeed, in the immortal document one complaint against "our British brethren," as having been "dear to the voice of justice and of consanguinity," but the colonists, or at any rate, their leaders, knew what the British Parliament was in that day and how little it could be influenced by those whom they, with perfect accuracy, called their brothers. Every wrong in the long list presented in the Declaration was charged, exactly as it should have been, against the King. The "British brethren" were not against him, and could have made no difference to him, and more articulate of them did, a list precisely similar in every detail, and the Reform act, passed not many years later, was a revolution that differed in form and method, but not in essentials, from the one carried out with equal success by the Americans under Washington.

TIME-SLAYERS.

(London Daily Telegraph.)

The will to work must be strengthened. Work must be realized as the real basis, not only of physical well-being, but of real happiness. It is the educator of character, and by its character it can only stand or fall. We must banish from every mind the idea that work is an unnecessary hardship. When Charles Lamb retired from the East India office he was overjoyed by the sense of leisure which had come to him; within two years he described himself as "a sanguinary murderer of time." That is the danger in which millions of people stand today. The man who is not himself the eternal truth that work is the basis on which our civilization rests, and that once we become "work-shy" we shall sink back into barbarism.

STRIKES AND DIRECT ACTION.

(London Daily Express.)

When a workman says to his employer: "I sold my labor for half a crown an hour yesterday," he is really saying nothing more than the bootmaker, namely, "Prices have gone up." Direct action can never be justified on these grounds. Its aim being to achieve a political end, it is compared to the tactics of the highwayman, who offers his victim the alternative of handing over his purse or having a bullet through his head. The highwayman is now disowned once and for all by responsible labor. Mr. Henderson has pointed out in no uncertain language that if labor is to direct action it had better give up politics altogether and take to highway robbery.

MEDICINE AND THE WILL.

(The Englishman, Calcutta.)

Medicine in the future will concern itself as much with the will as with the body. Medical men will study the emotions and their consequences as much as they study diseases, and the results, and diagnosis will demand as great a knowledge of psychology as it demands of physiology. Treatment, as is already the case with shell-shock patients, will follow entirely new lines.

CAN LOOK AFTER ITSELF.

(New York Evening Post.)

There is no need of worrying about the League of Nations. There is a something developing out of the proposed conference which shall be so good and strong as to offer formidable competition to the League. Some healthy rivalry we can only welcome. President Harding's call to the nations is a notable step in the direction of world conference and co-operation. Sufficient for the day is the good thereof.

THE HUNS' EYES OPENING.

(New York Tribune.)

Delusion seems at last to be giving way to enlightenment in Berlin. After years of trying to separate America from the Allies, it is slowly beginning to dawn upon some of the German people that this policy has been unsuccessful. Repeated attempts to bully, wheedle or bamboozle America into siding with Germany have failed—none so notable, perhaps, as the recent endeavors to make America a mediator on the reparations question.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE.

(London Daily News.)

"But these are Parisiennes," cried the French archaeologist when he came upon the graven images of the ladies who adorned the Cretan court at least 4,000 years ago. The marvelous tombs just brought to light in France, though half the age, teach the same lesson. "The false play of hair and the many small articles found in the tombs," says the reporter, "prove that women of the first century, even though they were only peasants, were every whit as careful of their personal appearance as those of today." We talk of the advance of woman, and it would be impolite to suggest that Europe's most advanced, but other things advance with her, and Adam and the apple and the serpent will probably still be there at the end of the story as they were at the beginning.

AT THE NEW PEACE CONFERENCE.

(Chicago Tribune.)

We devoutly trust that she shall be represented not by doctrinaires, but by well-informed and acute intelligences, which will respect facts and forces and beware of formulas. Our representatives will test their minds against some of the ablest minds of Europe, in a field in which their adversaries are veterans. We have confidence that if we are rid of a passion to play moral beadie to the nations and rely upon our native powers, our sense of practical affairs and common sense, we shall not suffer seriously and may do a great deal of good not only for America, but for those other peoples with whose real welfare our own is so intimately and so wisely bound up. Peace, and whose entanglements and ambitions are relatively simple, we ought to be able to help effectively to get the demoralized family of nations back to a firmer footing.

WAKE UP, JOHN BULL.

(London Times.)

How much longer are English men here "going to be led by the wild extremists of South Wales." It is a pertinent question, and one that has a wider application than to miners only. The national reputation for common sense does not come from Wales, or Scotland, or Ireland, but from England; and if we are to retain it, England must wake up and make its superior weight felt in these industrial councils on both sides of the table. There may be some chance of the peace of which we stand so sorely in need. But peace itself will not help us unless we use it to work harder and to produce more. If we, as a nation, have done since the war, the coal dispute has robbed us of three of the best months of the year. The summer months are passing, and the "holiday spirit" which some of our holiday-makers must be for individuals, but the nation can no longer afford to make holiday. England must wake up and work for her very life.

DAILY SHORT STORY.

(Copyrighted by Public Ledger Service and The London Advertiser.)

AS IN OLDEN DAYS.

Mother Grey watched the last flash of her daughter's smart little auto as it glided smoothly out of the driveway and down the road, with a feeling almost akin to relief. For the first time since she had journeyed from the old New Hampshire farmhouse a month ago to live in her daughter's luxurious home she was being left alone, and Mother Grey, though she chided herself guiltily for the thought, was undoubtedly happy at the prospect of three long days devoid of calls on and from Marion's aristocratic friends, of being freed from the necessity of making elaborate toilettes, and of doing the hundred other things which her daughter's social position required her to keep her busy, with the well-intentioned purpose of "keeping the dear little mother from dwelling on things."

Mother spent a happy hour in her little sitting-room arranging with loving care the pictures of her old friends and neighbors on the "back home," smiling tenderly at each dear familiar scene. Then she unpacked her books—the Grey Bible, the volume of poetry, her precious albums, and, away down at the very bottom of the trunk, her cook-book she descended to the kitchen. A big pan of freshly-picked blueberries sat on the table.

"I declare," crooned mother delightedly, "if I won't make a berry pie." She was in the midst of rolling out the crust when the front doorbell rang. Mother, freeing her hands somewhat from flour, went to the door, and, blissingly unconscious of the powdery ridge across her nose and cheek, opened the door.

And there on the veranda, daintily poised, gowned and gloved, every curl of hair in place by the hand of her exquisite hair, stood Mrs. J. Augustus Blynn, come to pay a call on the mother of her daughter's most intimate friend.

For one awful moment mother was seized with a wild impulse to slam the door in the aristocratic lady's face, and flee from the house ere she disgraced her daughter still further. Then her natural good sense and kindly hospitality asserted itself.

"Won't you step right into the drawing-room," she invited, "and excuse me a moment, please. I'll have my hair done by the maid, and then I'll come to see you." "I was making a berry pie," she finished bravely. "A sudden gleam of interest flickered into Mrs. J. Augustus Blynn's bored make your mother's Sunshine Cake right now!"

"Oh," breathed her visitor, "if you only would!"
Ten minutes later Mrs. J. Augustus Blynn stripped the rings from her daintily manicured hands and plunged eager fingers into the big brown mixing bowl in her lap and began "creaming" the butter and sugar for the Sunshine Cake.
And in due time the berry pie, all flaky, golden crust, studded here and there with little purple pools to hint at the lusciousness beneath, and the Sunshine Cake, a thing of beauty and fragrance, were placed side by side to cool.

"I haven't been so happy for years," declared mother's visitor, "I've declared mother cordially. Then her bright face clouded. 'I don't know what Marion will say,' she said hesitatingly. 'Maybe I'd better not tell her.'"
"Nonsense," differed Mrs. J. Augustus Blynn, decidedly, "it's high time we began teaching our daughters to cook!"

DOWN AND OUT.

They tell us there's no such thing as "down and out"—that a man may be down, but he's never out.

Well, if that is encouraging to anybody, I'm glad. I only know that lots of men feel at times that they're so far out of the level of life, and so far out of the range of love—human love they've lost or never known, and love divine they don't believe in—that it's no use talking. No word of yours or mine, they think, can reach them. They think that we don't know. They think they are the only ones who have been there, and had the bitter experience of hell on earth.

So I was glad when I got a letter that said: "Dear Sir,—I'm going to cut out that little article you wrote, prop it against the sugar bowl at breakfast, and read it to me over and over. For years I've been plagued with the desire to let myself. I believe it will save me." And a doctor wrote: "Such articles sometimes keep a man from committing suicide."

Heaps of us have been so miserable and forlorn that we could imagine nothing worse, and were ready to give welcome to the thought of death. Many a man, seized of the devil, at the lowest ebb, has thought himself all gone, all in, and said: "This is the end. And then his spirit woke in him, and 'with the lights all out he fought as for a kingdom,' and he won."

I'd hate to have a single reader think that I grind out these editorials for pay alone, without a heart, not caring where my arrows shot in the many fall, to the man who reads my lines says to himself: "I'll try again"—that's what I'm writing for, and it is to him I write.

XXXII—"Be My Friend!"

"Miss Drew, don't turn against me!

Say you'll be my friend!" In this suppliant Eve Mary could scarcely recognize the pert, infuriated damsel of a few moments back. An odd idea came to her that Eve would make a first-class actress. The whole gamut of emotions seemed an open book to her!

"I'm not unfriendly to you—I have never felt that way!"

"But—you're so cold—so calm—"

Eve pouted like a spoiled child. Indeed, there was much of the spoiled child in her composition. She had learned from Vandaveer today of Dick's infatuation.

Vandaveer had painted a vivid picture of Dick's "case" for Mary Drew.

And Eve's smoldering jealousy had burst into a blaze.

In seeing Eve, Vandaveer had his own axe to grind. He wanted Eve to go and visit Mary. He hoped she would find out precisely what Mary thought about the accident of yesterday!

Wasn't it possible that the "loss of memory" was feigned, for some good reason? He didn't like that. He didn't recollected perfectly the circumstances of the blow? Quite feasible that she'd told Calardin and the two of them had agreed to keep the information dark—

so that Vandaveer might, in the future, deeply into some well-laid trap of theirs?

Women were inclined to gossip with each other. If Eve should visit Mary, that cute damsel might possibly discover Mary's mind?

The awkward part was that he dare not venture to confide in Eve! To recite to that highly-nurtured young woman his attempt to stun her lover with a loaded stick—it wasn't a tale to recounting winter session will be numerous enough to fill at least a proportion of these positions.

The great demand for trained women to conduct public health work in the lines of personal hygiene included in prenatal and infant welfare, pre-school and school health, industrial, tuberculosis, general and general infectious diseases.

Graduate nurses are turning their attention to these subjects more and more in preparation for meeting the demands of future years.

INSTITUTE COURSE

ATTRACTING NURSES

Graduates Guaranteed Good

Positions—Supply Unequal

To Demand.

According to Miss Margaret McDermid, supervisor of the public health nurses' course, given at the Institute of Public Health, the recent offer of the Victorian Order to supply scholarships to candidates for the public health nurses' certificate will further stimulate the attendance on the institute course, which already promises to be much larger than last year. Already this year five graduate nurses are registered and others have applied from St.

Thomas, Hamilton, London and Cleveland. Although the course was not announced until the middle of August last year, eight nurses registered for it after that date. The fee was then double the present fee, and no scholarships were available. This year the Victorian

Order is supplying scholarships of $400

each. Nurses accepting these scholarships will be placed on the paid staff of the Victorian Order for one year

if they successfully complete the course at the institute.

The nurses who graduated from this course last spring received their certificates from Western University at invocation in May. Since that time Miss

McDermid has been constantly in receipt of requests for graduates of the course to fill good positions in public health work; but has been quite unable to supply the demand. It is hoped that next spring the graduates from the recurring winter session will be numerous enough to fill at least a proportion of these positions.

The great demand for trained women

lines of personal hygiene included in prenatal and infant welfare, pre-school and

The Scientific Side of Music

(BY EMILE BERLINER.)

The scientific side of music, which you desire me to deal with, is a large enough subject to fill a good-sized book, rather than a single newspaper column. Music is rhythmic sound, air pulses occurring at regular intervals and at a rate of not less than sixteen vibrations per second and not more than about sixteen thousand vibrations per second which, in a fair way, represents the limits within which an average musical ear can differentiate between two tones having different rates of vibrations or different pitch.

When several musical tones of different pitch sound together, their vibrations or waves overlap, and form compound waves, so that at one instant a fraction of one set of waves predominates, in the next instant a fraction of another set. As these different fractions follow one another at a very rapid rate, between sixteen and, say, 16,000 per second, we receive the sensation of a chord, or also of a single mass of sound, either of harmony or disharmony.

This is similar to the manner in which the eye receives a motion picture, by the rapid projection of several progressive photographs of a moving object. Even if we listen to a whole orchestra, with or without the addition of singing, the ear at one instant only takes notice of that fraction of the performance which happens at that moment to predominate.

The Phonograph. To prove that this is the case we can let sound write itself down by means of the phonograph, invented by the Frenchman, Leon Scott, about 1856. One of these instruments is in the United States National Museum. It consists of a large cylinder, covered with paper, the surface of which is covered with a spiral groove. A sound box, having a diaphragm and a recording horn, is provided with a slender stylus, fastened to the centre of the diaphragm, and which is so adjusted that the stylus just touches the surface of the spiral groove. When the cylinder is rotated and passes the stylus in screw fashion the latter traces a spiral line around the cylinder. If now sound is emitted into the horn the spiral line becomes wave and each wave represents a fraction of the sound that caused the diaphragm to vibrate. It will then be found that the higher of perfect harmony, expressed by skillful orchestration. Such is the case for instance in so-called grand opera. Besides, however, we have the works of orchestral music itself, with an infinite variety of leading melodies, as well as the masterpieces of dramatic effects giving the musical background by means of which stage action is illustrated or there are the immortal creations of piano and organ music, instrumental and vocal duets, trios, quartets and sextets, and the superb compositions for the violin and other solo instruments. Songs of all kinds from the simple folk melodies to the great church masses and oratorios form a rich heritage bestowed on us by past centuries, and which are added to without end by living creations of contemporaneous songs and harmonies.

All these treasures of musical science have during the past twenty years been made more accessible to the great public by the talking machines, phonograph, graphophone and gramophone. In these instruments the record is not merely a groove of soundwaves indented, engraved or etched into solid material. The soundwaves are either represented by the varying depths of a straight groove, as in the phonograph and graphophone, or by a groove looking like the old phonographic record, of even depth, and showing the sound waves as an undulating groove writing. The latter system is that of the Gramophone or Victrola and is the more perfect of the two, so that the great singers and performers prefer that their art be recorded by that system.

Sound is reproduced in talking machines because the sound grooves move the stylus connected with the centre of the diaphragm and the latter is vibrated by the sound waves that are embodied in the grooves caused by the original sound waves.

Like engravings for printing, sound records can be duplicated without limit by pressing electrolytically reverse engravings, called matrices, into a proper material under heat and pressure. The material usually employed is a special kind of hard black sealing wax, so that a disc sound record might often be properly called the seal of the human voice.—Reprinted from the Washington Times.

PURITAN SPIRIT ONLY REMEDY FOR PAGANISM

Not a Gospel of Gloom, Says Wesleyan Minister.

London, July 21.—The remedy for the paganism of the times lies in an imposing Puritan spirit, such as that which blossomed in England and that which is blossoming in America, according to Rev.

J. A. Sharp, the new president of the Wesleyan Conference.

"Puritanism was not a gospel of gloom," he said. "It was a gospel of seriousness, and Puritans frequently have been saviors of their country. They are living in tragic times of uncertainty, turbulence and lawlessness. The very earth is being rocked on her foundations, and the only solution is to be found in the august and austere message of Puritanism. That the idea of God is being shouldered out of the life of the present day is proved by the horrible records which the divorce courts are supplying. Men and nations are trying to rebuild life apart from God, and the result is sorrow and bitterness of the heart and disaster for the nations. Night after night things are happening behind the scenes, things of vice, evil and sin which are enough to make the angels weep, and the time has come to recall the old Puritan spirit."

WAGE SCALES OF MECHANICS WERE DOUBLED

Price Inflation Partly Due To Present Costs of Labor.

The movement toward a reduction of the cost factor in industry, largely through a cut in the wage scale, has been stimulated by the steady decline in the cost of living, together with the fact that business has fallen away during the past few months. Business has slumped mainly because goods produced by high-priced labor can only be offered at a price which the public is unwilling to pay. The cost of the raw materials used in their manufacture, in order to provide goods to labor in the form of wages, and at the same time leave a margin of profit for the manufacturer, is a substantial reduction in the wage scale will be possible to produce and offer goods at a price which shall be attractive to the public, and where a basis can be reached upon which business will revive.

Interesting Figures. Basis for an interesting comparison of the growth of wages paid to the various trades during and since the war, rendered necessary by the steadily mounting costs of living, is afforded in the table appended below. In each case the wage scale for 1920 shows a substantial increase over the rate for 1914. In 1914 the scale per hour ranged from 21 cents for printers to a high of 55 for bricklayers. In 1920 the scale for printers ranged up to 75 cents an hour, or $88 for a 44-hour week, while bricklayers received on an average of 102½ cents an hour. Moulders who in 1914 received 29 cents an hour, were in 1920 paid 57 cents. Painters in 1914 received $15.40 a week and last year were paid $35. The scale of wages to carpenters has been practically doubled, advancing from $13.48 to $37.40. The standard wage of machinists in 1914 was $17.50, in 1920 $40.00.

Toronto Trades. The scale of wages to the various branches of Toronto trades mechanics have on an average slightly more than doubled in the past six or seven years. Wages of all trades engaged in building, including carpenters, painters, brickworkers, etc., have been excessively heavy, and this, together with the further fact that all forms of building materials have also advanced in price, accounts for the stagnation that has existed in the building trade in this country for many months.

Important Reductions Effective. The upward swing has, however, been definitely checked, despite the movement in certain trades, notably in the printers, for a heavy advance in the face of conditions which render such an action impossible at this time. In the important reductions have been effected in many lines of trade, and the way is being prepared for the resumption of industrial operations on a normal cost basis. Weekly wage scales for the years of 1914, 1918 and 1920 are as follows:

Average wage paid over year—	1914	1918	1920	Hours
Printers	21	27	50	35
Machinists	17	27	50	40
22 Workers	17	50	22	40
Plumbers	19	30	32	50
Molders	17	25	21	47

BICYCLE AEROPLANE A PERIL TO TRAFFIC

Critics See Need of Protecting Public Against Aerial Dangers.

Paris, July 21.—Gabriel Poulain's bicycle aeroplane, while hailed as a tremendous advance in aerial science, probably will not be as popular as earlier enthusiasts indicated. Already newspapers are calling attention to the impossibility of its ever becoming the "poor man's aeroplane," declaring that the future will show that it is just as the machines crashing down into the streets over Paris as to prohibit aeroplane manoeuvres. The Gaulois pictures the Champs Elysees a century from now with taxicabs, automobile buses and limousines crowding each other as now, while pedalling overhead there will be scores of air cyclists, with no one knowing when a screw will work loose, sending the machines crashing down into the already congested traffic. It adds: "It will be a veritable Damoclean cycle hanging over the skulls of travelers, by their afoot or in cars, and the number of accidents will be increased despite all safety first propagandists.

Temporary preventive laws are to be submitted to the Paris municipal council providing that the police must be notified of experiments and that they must be conducted in open fields far from beaten paths. M. Poulain is confident that he will solve the problem this year, of how to keep the machine lifted instead of merely taking forty-foot leaps at an altitude of only five feet.

In recent trials M. Poulain won the prize offered for the first man-propelled aeroplane that would fly a distance of ten metres at a height of at least three metres. His machine, which he calls an "aviette," is a bicycle provided with side and rear planes.

PARIS MAY ABANDON ALL CLASSICAL OPERAS

State of Finances Forcing Drastic Reductions.

Paris, July 21.—The Paris Opera is in such a bad way financially now that the managers are considering abandoning classical programs and giving only light revues or comic operas except on special occasions and Sundays. The Government is understood to have refused definitely to grant any larger subsidy. The plan suggested last year that the world's greatest academy of music be transformed into a luxurious theatre aroused such a storm from all parts of the capital that it has been abandoned. Authors to whom the problem was referred for solution, in conference with Director Rouche, advised him to follow a popular line of productions, but not to bring the opera to the level of the Folies Bergere by sensational advertising or costumes devised to attract tourists rather than the French public.

PARIS IS PLANNING NEW BUILDING LAWS

Alarming Shortage of Houses Forces Officials to Necessity of Revision.

PARIS, July 21.—The alarming shortage of housing accommodations in Paris, with the undeniable evidence that the city is destined to draw millions more from the country districts and spread to new boundaries which may rival those of London, is again arousing the municipal officials to the necessity of revising the building laws to enable the capital to assume a greater role.

It is realized, however, that no building can be done inside the lines of the old fortifications. The Government will be asked to facilitate all the construction possible for individual homes in the suburban areas, and even to advance money to be repaid at low interest, in twenty years. Several of the most important banks have declared their willingness to engage in such activities with the Government's approval.

This naturally has aroused fear on the part of architects and artists that the city will lose the character which has been its chief attraction—consistent artistic styles of its buildings—and has urged members of their syndicates to let their enthusiasm carry them away to the extent shown by American cities where wooden, brick and stone houses of various incongruous shapes and color huddle against one another.

The solution proposed is a general revision of the building laws, compelling architects to submit their plans for the approval of Government agents before permit to build is granted. The question will be tackled shortly, when new bill is proposed in the Paris Council to prevent any changing of the skyline along the Rue de Rivoli from the Louvre to the Place de la Concorde, by permitting the addition of another two stories to the artistic line of arcades shops whose upper floors house some of the most eminent members of Paris "Four Hundred."

CONSPIRACY WAS HATCHED BY SOX, DECLARES BURNS

Cicotte Sold Idea to Rest of Players, and Then Gamblers Were Approached.

Chicago, July 21.—Chicago White Sox players accused of conspiracy to throw the 1919 world series were not approached on the deal by gamblers, or corrupted by a gambling clique, but formulated the conspiracy themselves, and went to New York and former baseball players for financial backing, Bill Burns, admitted accomplice, states, testified today in the trial of seven of the players and four others who are under indictment in the case.

Eddie Cicotte of Detroit, former White Sox pitcher, once rated as the best in the American League, made the sell-but proposition to Burns and Gamble, and Cicotte then volunteered the information that they could have the series "thrown" for $100,000, Burns testified.

Burns' testimony to this effect was admitted late today after Judge Friend, three times has barred it temporarily while the attorneys could look up supreme court rulings on the question. It was looked upon by the state as among the most important parts of the witness' testimony, and it was designed to do away with the belief that the players were corrupted by millionaire gamblers, and to show that the alleged conspiracy had its inception in New York.

JIM BARNES LEAD FIRST DAY OF THE BIG TOURNEY

Had Score of 144—Murray of Montreal Next.

ABE MITCHELL QUILTS

Highly-Touted Britisher Evidently Couldn't Find His Form.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—James M. Barnes, the sorrel-colored professional from the Pelham (N. Y.) Golf Club, with a score of 144, led the contestants at the end of the first day of the competition in the 25th annual golf tournament.

Barnes' score for the 36 holes today showed an average of one stroke over par for each nine holes, or a total of four over par for the day's play. Next to Barnes came Charles R. Murray of the Royal Golf Club of Montreal, and Fred McLeod, a professional, who tied with a score of 145. Fourth place was held by Robert J. Jones, Jun., of Atlanta, Ga. The youthful southern amateur, with his 147, led four contestants in the 150 class, while the field aligned itself into groups.

Jim Barnes was the class of the field for the day, at least, being good in every department of the day.

Abe Mitchell, a prominent British golfer, picked up his ball at the ninth hole and withdrew from the national open golf tournament.

SECRETARY TO TESTIFY.

Chicago, July 22.—Having used Bill Burns, former White Sox pitcher, who turned state's evidence in the trial here of former White Sox players and alleged gamblers, charged with conspiring to throw the 1919 world series to Cincinnati, to place before the jury its contention that the conspiracy was originated by the players themselves and not planned by a gambling syndicate, the state is expected to ask for a court session Saturday. If its request is granted the prosecution may finish its case Monday or Tuesday.

JIM BARNES LEADING.

Washington, July 22.—With Jim Barnes of Pelham, N. Y., well out in front of a field of 78 competitors in the national open golf championship, play in the first day of the twenty-fifth annual classic opened here today over the course of the Columbia Country Club. Barnes leads Fred McLeod of Washington and Charles R. Murray of Montreal, who are tied for second place, by four shots, and appears to be the choice for the championship.

Just back of Murray and McLeod, is Robert J. Jones, Jun., of Atlanta, Ga., who is five strokes behind the leader, with a total of 149. Four men are tied at 150, including George Duncan of Great Britain.

PETE HERMAN ARRIVES.

New York, July 22.—Pete Herman, former world's bantamweight boxing champion, who will strive to regain that title from Joe Lynch in Brooklyn Monday night, arrived today from England on the Orinda.

The little New Orleans scrapper embarked for home immediately after he knocked out Jim Higgins, the English bantamweight champion, in the eleventh round of a scheduled 20-round bout on July 11.

Friends of the former champion contend that he was beaten when he lost to Higgins, and that since that match he has been trained away from the careful, defensive tactics he adopted during his reign as champion.

BROTHERS AS TRAINERS.

New York, July 22.—Mike and Tom Gibbons, brother boxers of St. Paul, began training each other here today for coming bouts. Mike will fight against Rafter August 1, and Tom will fight Georges Carpentier in October. Each will be in the other's corner.

FIGHT FOR PROPERTY.

Boston, July 22.—On the eve of his departure for New York, Arthur Herbert Irwin, son of the Boston wife of Arthur A. Irwin, the baseball manager, who committed suicide, asserted that he intended to fight for the possession of any money or property that ought to go to his mother. He declared his intention of visiting the "New York Times" and her son. The Boston son was particularly bitter in speaking of the advantages which his father's money is reported to have given the New York son, and which were denied to him.

HIS TWENTIETH WIN

URBAN FABER of the White Sox turned in his 20th win yesterday, one of the best pitching performances of the season. He has had much to do with keeping the patched Sox in the race and making the Chicago fans forget the world series scandals.

5,000 SEE GOOD RACE CARD AT WINGHAM

Harry H Took Feature 2:15 Trot or Pace in Good Time.

WINGHAM, July 21.—One of the best race meets in the town's history was carried through here today and 5,000 people watched the program from start to finish.

Harry H. took the feature event, the 2:15 trot or pace, with May Wright, a Lucknow mare second.

Princess Hal took the named race and Lady May C. a Teeswater mare took the 2:25 trot or pace in straight races.

The program was well arranged and well handled by the officials.

The officers of the Wingham Association, Mr. Van Norman, president; Vice-president Crawford and Treasurer King are to be congratulated on their choice of track officials. Stan Burns and H. H. Robertson, two Palmerston men were judges and Starter Burnside of Kincaid got the fields away with little loss time.

LIQUOR MAY BE BROUGHT IN BY POCKET ROUTE

Personal Search Has Not Been Legalized Up To the Present.

TORONTO, July 21.—It will be welcome news to thirsty ones who face the long drought with dry cellars that they can bring liquor into Ontario in their pockets without being legally liable to search by officers of the law. So far the license department, and the liquor control department, have taken no special steps to prevent the carrying of liquor by individuals across the Quebec line into Ontario.

The time has been long since the question of the powers of the officers to search persons traveling has never been conclusively decided.

Commissioner Dingman said there was no law to authorize a police officer to search the pockets or clothing of any citizen travelling from Quebec to Ontario points. This statement has the backing of a court decision. As regards grips and baggage the law is more definite. Section 70, sub-section 2, of the Ontario Temperance act says that a police officer, where he has a reasonable suspicion of the act being violated, search or seize any receptacle on the public highway or elsewhere.

The commissioners do not seem alarmed at the possibility of more liquor coming in "on the hip," as it would not pay a blind-piggy to travel to Montreal for the odd bottle or two he could carry back in his pocket. The fear of the law, however, has been put to rest by many from carrying bottles in their clothing, because there is nothing to prevent an officer from arresting a suspect without making a search and finding the bottle afterwards.

R. C. R.'S BEAT WASPS IN CITY LEAGUE

The R. C. R.'s beat Grand Trunk in a City Soccer League fixture at the heights last night, 2 to 1. Both the royalists goals were scored on penalties by Broderick.

The game was strenuous all the way through and the referee had his hands full keeping the teams strictly to football.

SUZANNE POSTPONES DEPARTURE.

Paris, July 22.—The departure for the United States of Miss Suzanne Lenglen, holder of the world's tennis championship, for women, has been postponed until July 20, according to the Auto. Miss Lenglen had intended to sail tomorrow. The reason for her delay is not known.

KAZOO MEETING CLOSING TODAY.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 22.—Today's grand circuit program marks the conclusion of one of the most successful harness meetings held here. Michigan shortship horses are to have the track to themselves next week.

The 2:05 trot for the Burdick Hotel purse of $1,200, was the feature event this afternoon. Periscope, Arion McKimney and Baron Cegante were named for the race.

If you want a good attendance at your meeting, let Advertiser readers know when it is going to be. The rate is 2 cents per word, or 15 cents per line.

FRENCH INSIST ON TREATY ENFORCEMENT

Consider British Taking Too Many Chances With the Germans.

Paris, July 22.—The Anglo-French controversy which has arisen over the demand by France that allied reinforcements be sent to Upper Silesia, is still regarded by the French press in the light of a crisis.

While the British reply to Premier Briand's proposal that the supreme council meet July 28 to discuss the matter, has not been received, press dispatches from London to the effect that Mr. Lloyd George refuses to alter his position against sending reinforcements are prominently displayed in the Paris newspapers.

Berlin's reply to the French protest against German activities in the Silesian area is expected in Paris this morning, but the Petit Parisien believes it will have little result on the situation.

This newspaper also expresses surprise that the British Government places an entirely different interpretation upon the communication from the allied high commission at Oppeln, and urges publication of the text as proof that the French reading is correct. This communication, in which the British high commissioner concurs, is reported to contain the following:

"The Petit Parisien says: 'France does not expect a fulfillment of the treaty except by force. France will only be contented when she knows that Germany cannot resist, as she realizes that if Germany can again absorb Poland and other Danube states, the horrors of last centuries will begin again.'"

Fertinax, political writer of the Echo de Paris, asserts that behind the divergent views of London and Paris appear two distinctly different policies regarding Germany. "England," he declares, "is placing faith in the given word of Germany, and in a series of friendly accords, expects only a normal expectation of the Versailles treaty."

WOULD SUBMIT SILESIA ISSUE TO THE CAPITAL

Rome, July 22.—The Tribuna, a fact on Italian radio to Germany regarding the Upper Silesia trouble declares the question should be submitted to the Allied supreme council. The note adds, according to the Tribuna, that concentration of German troops in the Upper Silesian region is considered dangerous.

FORDNEY BILL TO REACH U. S. SENATE SOME TIME TODAY

Washington, July 22.—Passed by the House by a vote of 289 to 127, the Fordney tariff bill was expected to reach the Senate finance committee today where it is expected to be reported to the Senate.

Although Chairman Penrose stated the hearings probably would be brief, many leading Republicans, however, are expected to demand revision legislation, hearing on which will be begun by the ways and means committee Tuesday, would reach the President.

Members of the House voted against the Fordney bill on its adoption by the House yesterday, while the same number of Democrats supported it. Before taking final action on the bill, which is estimated by Chamberlain Fordney to raise approximately a half billion dollars in revenue annually, the House defeated a Democratic motion to recommend the bill's passage.

By a final vote in the House proper on the five contested scheduled bills, oil, oil, cotton and asphalt were taken from the free list against a determined fight to tax them, while the Longworth dye embargo provision was thrown out by a vote of 208 to 193. The bill, which is supported by some of the Democratic minority, aided by Republican dissenters, engineered a victory on each of the items, the ways and means committee held before the House. More than 200 minor committee amendments also were put through, being voted in a block.

ALBERTA FARMERS TO MEET TUESDAY

CALGARY, July 21.—Alberta's political situation which became complicated at the meeting of the Farmers' party delegates last Monday will probably be straightened out next Tuesday when the farmer members will meet in Calgary for the purpose of formulating a plan of action.

The first matter that must be disposed of will be the leadership. It is understood that H. W. Wood, the president of the United Farmers of Alberta, will have the refusal of this position, but he has refused positively to discuss the question before the meeting takes place. In the event that Mr. Wood is not selected, the next in line seems to be Herbert Greenfield of Westlock, who has been prominent in United Farmers of Alberta affairs for years and who is chairman of the Alberta Union of Municipalities.

While this interview is understood to have had for its purpose the reconciliation of the "commons," a statement issued by the deputation later in the day said that Mr. Chamberlain's explanation was "entirely satisfactory" and that the 40 dissenters had met and passed resolutions "expressing grave apprehension over the government's Irish policy."

ALGONQUIN GUESTS EXPERIENCING IDEAL SUMMER TEMPERATURES

[Special to The Advertiser.]—At the golf club a new record was set into effect today as the weather came in new regulations, and in line with the new rule and recommendations of the Canadian Golf Association, which, with general favor of the members, has been a being shown in golf.

Great interest in the senior golfers' meeting to be held here September 9 to 13. The Algonquin is filling up rapidly, and will keep open this year until the end of September.

Today started out as rather dull, but this afternoon was especially fine, with brilliant sunshine.

The temperature was 70 and 62, while in Ottawa it was 75, Quebec, 76, Montreal, 78, London, 80.

The Chamcoo branch of the W. A. held a delightful tea at the home of Mrs. J. D. Gillingham. Numbers of Mrs. J. D. Gillingham to attend, while there were several parties from St. Stephens. In addition to the delicious refreshments, there was the White Sox Athletics battle, giving Urban Faber his twentieth victory of the season.

The St. Louis Browns chalked up their seventh straight victory by a win over Boston.

Long charge of two contests in the National League, and they were postponed. In Brooklyn, Burleigh Grimes, the Superbas pitching ace, returned to form and downed the St. Louis Cardinals in 11 innings. Ring pitched the Phillies to their second consecutive win over Chicago.

Another collegian, Falk of Texas, with the Chicago Americans, put himself on record with a home run in the fourteenth inning of the White Sox Athletics battle, giving Urban Faber his twentieth victory of the season.

33 SWIMMERS TO COMPETE. Philadelphia, July 22.—Thirty-three swimmers, including one Canadian, Sher Mendelson of Toronto, will compete in the national 10-mile championship swim to be held in the Delaware River from Philadelphia to Riverton, N. J., tomorrow.

IRISH REPUBLICANS

De Valera elects to proceed with the struggle the loyalists will be less disappointed.

This newspaper expresses the opinion that if De Valera returns to London to inform Lloyd George that he has brought a basis for negotiations or is anxious to resume the search for one, an anxious time for the northern loyalists will ensue.

TERMS NOT TO BE MADE PUBLIC UNTIL REPLY IS RECEIVED

London, July 22.—The British Government's proposals to Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, for peace terms probably will not be made public until a definite reply to the Government's terms has been received from the Sinn Fein leaders in Dublin, it was stated in official circles this afternoon. It is expected the prime minister will be able to make a comprehensive statement concerning the peace terms in the House of Commons next week, it was added.

ULSTER CABINET CONSIDERS IRISH TERMS OF PEACE

Belfast, July 22.—A copy of the Irish peace terms handed by Premier Lloyd George yesterday to Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, and considered by the Ulster cabinet today. No opinion on the terms was requested by the British premier, it is said, and none has been given.

NEGOTIATIONS TO BE RESUMED, IS JOURNAL'S BELIEF

Dublin, July 22.—Belief that the conversations between Eamon De Valera and Mr. Lloyd George will be resumed after the Ulster cabinet today, is expressed by the Freeman's Journal today. The interview between the two men in London yesterday was evidently not their last, the newspaper says.

"One thing, at any rate, seems certain," it continues. "There can be no return to the monstrous, unholy conditions to which Ireland had been subjected, before the truce, by the British Government."

The Irish Times considers that the public will derive satisfaction from the fact that the proposals submitted emanate from the Ulster cabinet which Mr. De Valera did not feel justified in immediately turning down.

"This indicates," adds the newspaper, "a great advance, which we trust will not be followed by the gathering forces of reaction during these unfortunate, if necessary, periods of delay."

TRUCE TO REMAIN IN EFFECT FOR INDEFINITE TIME

London, July 22.—The centre of interest in Dublin today was transferred to Dublin today with the departure of Eamon De Valera and his cabinet for the seat of their government.

The Irish leader is taking with him a document he received yesterday from Mr. Lloyd George, setting forth definite proposals by the British Government as a settlement of the Irish problem.

His proposals will be submitted to members of the Dail Eireann, as well as other prominent Irish Republicans and Mr. Lloyd George will hear from the Dail Eireann before he returns to London for further conversations. It is expected, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, may re-enter the negotiations at this time.

It is authoritatively stated that the truce in Ireland will continue for an indefinite period, thus convincing the most skeptical that the factions still are far from discouraged.

Take Cheerful View.

London newspapers this morning take an exceedingly cheerful view of the situation, regarding the possibility of a break-anticipation of a settlement of the Irish problem.

Several political correspondents supply reported versions of the prime minister's statement to the southern Irish leader, which they agree is in some points, after sufficiently in detail to show that the terms still remain largely a matter of speculation, and will not be cleared up until the official text of the proposals is made public.

Meanwhile opposition from the extreme Unionists appears to have hardened somewhat as a result of an interview several Ulstermen had with the Irish leader, which was reported by the Government forces, yesterday.

While this interview is understood to have had for its purpose the reconciliation of the "commons," a statement issued by the deputation later in the day said that Mr. Chamberlain's explanation was "entirely satisfactory" and that the 40 dissenters had met and passed resolutions "expressing grave apprehension over the government's Irish policy."

Middlesex Electors Resent Failure of Ministers To Come

Acrimonious Discussion Takes Place At Meeting in Ailsa Craig—U. F. O. Members State Their Position in Regards To Good Roads and Other Matters.

[By Staff Reporter.]

AILSA CRAIG, July 21.—West and North Middlesex electors who filled the town hall at a U. F. O. rally here this afternoon openly expressed their disappointment, and in some instances absolute distrust, when it became definitely assured that the two featured speakers for the occasion would not be present—Hon. F. C. Biggs, provincial minister of public works, and Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer.

Responding to widespread advertising, dozens of yeomen and their wives forsook their tasks in the harvest field at their busiest period and journeyed into town to hear the members of the provincial cabinet answer the many charges of extravagance hurled at the present administration from time to time.

Resent Their Actions.

Naturally when James C. Brown, the U. F. O. member for the north riding of Middlesex, announced that he had received a wire from Toronto intimating that the ministers could not be present, as Premier Drury had suddenly called a special meeting of his cabinet to discuss unemployment, there were many who ventured the outspoken opinion that "when the ministers had made a promise to speak they should have been present."

Lively Discussion.

The afternoon assembly, largely lost, however, to the speakers, was addressed by all three U. F. O. members for Middlesex: Jas. C. Brown of the north riding, John W. Leith-Freeman of the center and John G. Lethbridge of the west. Toward the close of the afternoon the situation was enlivened by the advent into the discussion of Harold Currie, president of the executive of the North Middlesex U. F. O.

Jas. Brown, at whose instigation apparently the gathering was called, had just announced that his colleagues and himself were ready for questions when a series of queries emanated from Donald Currie and a group of supporters.

Interest in the proceedings quickened as the speakers retorted to diverse charges and the applause of first one faction and then another fairly shook the building.

Called the Meeting.

"It was the means of calling this meeting," Drury declared, "that I, the first speaker of the afternoon, in view of the resolution passed at Napperton condemning the Biggs roads policy and coupling my name with each of the speakers, should have Mr. Biggs here. He wrote and said he intended to be present, but it develops that a cabinet meeting has prevented it."

"I want to tell you why I asked him here. I heard a murmur of dissatisfaction among the electors of the riding. I felt that as Mr. Biggs had formulated the policy, he was the one who should be here and explain it to you. None of the members have been consulted about the policy. Of course we had discussed the policy, but he has gone forward himself."

Should Be There.

"We are a democratic body and I feel that I could not have done better than to have brought these ministers here today. Both promised and I think they should have been here. Premier Drury said 'As long as I am premier, we place our cards on the table.' And as long as I am a member for this riding I will do everything in my power for my constituents."

Dr. Biggs is carrying out extensive plans. In the election campaign we criticized the road policy of the former government. We felt it an injustice, that the proposed road from Montreal to Windsor was to be some 400 miles or so in length. Mr. Biggs now has taken over 1,800 miles. His scheme, as he gave it to me in three parts, western, central and eastern. He proposed to equalize the road system; building with the greatest benefit to the most people. His policy covers a greater portion than that of the old government. It is necessary for him to spend a considerable sum. We learn from the Smith budget at the last session that the expenditure was $5,653,000. Most persons jump to the conclusion that this was all spent on provincial highways. By the treasurer's own admission he had not spent on provincial highways quite two million dollars of this sum."

Were Not Consulted.

Reverting again to the general outline of the Biggs policy the speaker reiterated his statement that the members had not been consulted.

"We haven't as members been asked to vote sums for provincial highways," he said. "The whole scheme is in the minister's hands. We know, however, and he knows that there is a murmur of anxiety. When we look at the prices being put on two and we regard the unemployment problem of the province we should be careful. We do not know if we have touched bottom yet. We do know, however, that this fall the farmers will be no asset to the owner. I say again that the ministers should have been here to face with you to talk the matter over."

Does Not Like It.

"With regard to the resolution passed at Napperton, I have no objection to a resolution. You all have that right. But I would like to have them come to me direct with them. I would certainly."

ALLEGED "DIPS" VETERANS MAKE ARE WELL KNOWN STRONG PLEA TO THE POLICE SAVE M'FADDEN

Finger Prints Are Recognized in Many American Cities. Petition For Clemency Is Signed by Ten of the Jurors.

ST. THOMAS, July 21.—The criminal history and jail records of James Conway and George Clark are coming in slowly and tell a wonderful tale as to the doings of these alleged well-known pickpockets. The finger-prints and photos of the pair have been sent to the police department of several cities over the border, and the return replies to Chief Armstrong indicate that both men are dangerous to be at large.

Many Alliances.

The prisoner who gave the name of George Clarke to Chief Hammarley is alleged to have worked under the following names: William Robert Williams, George W. Clark, George W. Williams, William Wood, Edward Wilson, Edward Brown.

The first arrest recorded took place in February, 1920, according to the information received, at Cleveland, Ohio, on a charge of pocket-picking. Arrests followed in Buffalo, Boston and Philadelphia. Legie to McFadden, during the discharge from the pen, the crook alleged to be the prisoner, answered a term in the Ohio penitentiary; Peoria, Ill., where he was given a few hours to leave town; Lansing, Mich., serving a penitentiary term at Marquette, Ohio. In several instances charges of larceny and petit larceny are named.

Flock of Alliances.

The prisoner giving the name of Conway is alleged to have taken the following names during his crime career, dating from 1920, when he is first mentioned as operating in Chicago: William Copeland, John Harvey, William H. Nelson, George Norton, William Reed, William Conway, William Chapman, William Martin, George Willis, W. H. Cooke, "Bud" Copeland, W. H. Conroy.

Following the arrest in 1920 in Chicago on a charge of larceny, the record here runs as follows: Indianapolis, Ind.; Louisville, Ky.; Council Bluffs, Iowa, where a sentence of five years in the Fort Madison penitentiary is reported to have been imposed; St. Paul, Minn., where he is alleged to have operated at the State Fair with John Sweeney and Nat O'Brien; Peoria, Ill., where he was arrested with a mob of pickpockets during a convention; St. Louis, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Kansas City, Philadelphia, Detroit, Jackson, Mich., where a term was served in the Jackson penitentiary; Toledo, Ohio, and Saginaw, Mich.

At present, the Toledo police department wrote, Conway or Copeland is out on bonds from Flint, Mich., on a charge of pocket-picking. The Toledo office is alleged to have taken place last year.

Conway gave his age as 55 years and Clarke claims to be about 40 years old.

No Trace Found of Men Who Robbed Petite Cote Bank.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, July 21.—Although the entire country has been combed thoroughly by half a hundred police officers and many clues have been run down, not the slightest trace has been found of the six men who at noon yesterday held up the Petite Cote branch of the Merchants Bank and robbed it of between $16,000 and $18,000. The exact amount taken was not known today, but was thoroughly checked over, according to L. A. Gignac, the branch manager.

The green automobile, in which the robbers escaped, driving in a southeasterly direction, was found yesterday at a distance of this side of the village of Maidstone this morning by farmers driving into town. It had been run off the road to one side into a clump of trees. The gasoline tank was empty. There was nothing left in the machine that might afford the slightest clue to identify the men.

Used Another Car.

At Maidstone, the Talbot road, the main thoroughfare, which runs from Windsor to London and eastward, is bisected by a side road that leads to Chatham and London. It is believed now that the robbers may have had another auto waiting in the vicinity to carry them east by an entirely different route. This road is in excellent condition and could be covered in a few minutes. After traversing a few miles, it would have been an easy matter for the men to have cut directly northward to the river and then doubled back on their trail, coming into Windsor or Walkerville on foot and crossing by the ferry to Detroit.

Were Close Behind.

Provincial officers working on the case state that but for an accident to their big automobile yesterday they would have overhauled the robbers. At one time they were less than 20 minutes behind, they say.

Eyewitnesses of the robbery today describe the six bandits as young men, one at least appearing to be under 20 years of age.

While five of the men worked inside the bank on what waited inside at the open door to see that no person entered or left the building.

This man, according to witnesses, held an automatic which he kept ready for instant action. Reports that the robbers were nervous about their work are denied by bank employees who say they worked so quickly and quietly that every desk and drawer in the bank was pulled open and searched methodically.

Overlooked $3,000.

In one compartment of currency counted vault was a package of money valued at $3,000. This escaped the eyes of the robbers.

FORDNEY BILL PASSES HOUSE BIG MAJORITY

Expected That New Tariff Will Increase Revenue Half a Billion.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Republican protective tariff bill, estimated by Chairman Fordney to raise around five hundred million dollars in revenue annually, was passed 289 to 127 tonight by the House.

Oils, cottons and asphalt stood up against a determined fight to tax them and remained on the free list. The Longworth dye embargo, first of the five contested schedules to go before the House proper for a separate vote and backed by most of the Republican members of the ways and means committee was thrown out, 231 to 193. There was not much chance of imposing a duty on hides and cotton after the House, a committee of the whole, had debated amendments carrying compensatory rates on the manufactured products.

When the oil amendment was reached there was such a shout of "noes" that a roll-call was not demanded. A moment later Chairman Fordney, trying to make himself heard above the din which prevailed during the three hours of voting, announced that sentiment of the committee of the whole against the tariff was not worth while to go through the form of calling the roll.
