THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE—AND ECONOMY.

From present indications the Local Legislature of New Brunswick is likely to open sometime next month; if not then we can assure our readers it will open at least before next summer. We may rest assured that when the august moment arrives, the Government will be found thoroughly equipped with a budget of measures important to the immediate welfare of this beloved province, and far reaching in consequences. We do not pretend to foretell what the nature and extent of this budget will be; we leave that to those who possibly know less, but who love more to make a noise about such matters. We are strongly of the opinion just now that the people of the entire Dominion, and of New Brunswick among the rest, are in favor of greater economy. It seems to us that the expense attending the maintenance of our public institutions is enormously oppressive. It is more oppressive this year, than it was last year; it was more oppressive last year than it was the year before; so that there is not alone the Atlantic burden of taxes to bear, but there is the horrible belief that the taxes are still increasing. Let us, therefore, if it is not too impertinent, remind the Government that in making up their budget the public expects at least one eye to economy—let the other be given to "measures."

Let us take an example or so to prove our case. We have a thoroughly equipped, and well organized School system; but we are paying tremendous figures for it. We do not say that the system is too good, or that there is any part of the educational programme worthless, but what we do say is, it is a system altogether too far in advance of our means, two or three centuries ahead of our other public institutions; and in the present social and political advancement of our people not of much more benefit than a far more homely and less expensive system would be. But we touch this subject almost with awe. How to curtail the expenses without impairing the system is a question that requires a great deal of careful study. It is a subject that ignorant writers of the press who know nothing at all about it, who view the system through their own hazy glasses, should not meddle with. Such of the press as know nothing about education is doing its duty to the fullest in this matter when it calls attention to the great expense of it, and suggests that the Government and educationalists take measures to remedy what has become an evil. We have heard, for example, the St. John Globe sneering at the school law, while we know that the staff of editors on that paper, outside of Mr. Ellis himself, who is a self-taught scholar, there is not one who knows the difference between a noun and an adjective.

But the government, aided by the best educational advice in the province should take the matter in hand; there should be more frequent meetings of the Board of Education; freer discussion by teachers through the columns of the press. There is no use in the Government closing its eyes to the expense of this system. Those who have favored it, and who thought that at its magic touch their children would be converted into Solomons and Aristotles, now cry out that they have too much of a good thing; that their taxes are more than they are either able or willing to bear. They tell you of old times when their children "got on" well with the "ministers," and that they then paid a dollar for five they pay now; that the "best cow in the yard" has to go for taxes which bring them but little in return. We are quite willing to admit that taxation is always obnoxious, and that there is a large number of people who are dissatisfied with anything they are obliged to pay for; but when intelligent men, friends of the Free Schools, tell you that they would to-morrow go back to the dingy school houses, to the parrot recitations, to the rule and figure marale system, then you really feel that something is wrong; that a remedy is in order.

Can't Dr. Rand suggest some way of putting on brakes without undermining the system which he has so zealously striven to build up; can't he confer with some of the best educational minds and prepare a scheme for the Government? If he does not do this, then others not so well able shall have to take it in hand and make some change.

To this matter we commend the careful attention of the Government and of the press.

THE "NEWS" AND THE NEW DENMARK CROPS.

We have no desire at all to get into discussions, for goodness only knows, we have enough besides to torment us and take up our time. Even though this were not the case, we might well tremble, beardless as we are, before venturing to contradict the venerable editor of such a paper as the St. John News; a paper that is known and feared in the land, that is as firmly rooted as the mountains; that is as true and as straight in its course as the arrow; that has always stood firmly on its principles, prepared to die rather than to live and repudiate what it had before preached. So much for the journal who says we talked "away from the point" in a late article on the crops of New Denmark, Mr. Hans Peter Peterson, and Hon. Michael Adams. The News, among other extraordinary things for a paper such as we have above described, says:

What the critic in the News really wants to know is, why there should be so great a difference in the statement of the yield of potatoes, wheat, etc., in New Denmark, where the soil is known to be superior and where farming is skillfully conducted, and in the Scotch and other settlements, where the soil is admittedly not nearly so good, to the prejudice of the former. Will our friend of the Star enlighten him!

The News can't be enlightened we fear; for there is "none so blind as those who will not see." It will be observed that in addition to the News keeping its eyes shut, it has shifted, and not the Stars—from one leg to the other. It first found fault with the Surveyor General's statement that wheat brought $2.00 in Madawaska and 80 cents in New Denmark. We made the News see how this was possible, by taking smelts sold in New-castle, and also in Fredericton as an example. Now it seems the News is not concerned about the price, but is in great trouble about the yield. It appears the yield in New Denmark is shown in the "pamphlet" to be less per acre than the yield in the Scotch Settlements, and because this is so (and not even Mr. Peterson pretends to contradict it) the News is determined on having revenge. It is evidently out on a kind of scientific search, and not arrayed perhaps either against the harmless pamphlet or the Surveyor General. It does not pretend to say the statements are incorrect, but merely wants to know why the facts stated are so. If it thought of showing that the statements were incorrect, it would have obtained the written statements of the Commissioners to the contrary. But it has done nothing of the kind—it is simply searching after scientific information. We can with safety recommend Gray's book "How Plants Grow" to the News; it is full of interesting information on the structure and manners of plants, grain, etc., and how they develop.

Did it ever occur to the News that one acre of land in New Denmark contains more stumps than an acre in Kincardineshire? Well, if it hasn't, then we beg to enlighten it. Has it ever occurred to the News that "there is all the difference in the world" in the way seeds are planted? It hasn't, probably; but we beg to tell it there is: that the Danes are not nearly so good farmers as the Scotch people; that they cannot get as much of a yield out of an acre as the Scotchman can? It doesn't know this. Well, too much of their acres is taken up with stumps, and where wheat and other cereals can be put, the land is not properly prepared, to receive them, and not cared for when sown.

But perhaps the News knows all this and wants the Surveyor General to go up and help the Danes to cultivate their crops; or it may be that it thinks the Surveyor General is more closely identified with the growing of grains than Providence is.

We are ashamed of the ex-leader of the Opposition, of a veteran journalist of a man of Mr. Willis' standing to waste ten words in trying to sustain the absurd censure of the person whom he is pleased to call a "critic."

THE FIRST STEP TAKEN.

We are glad to notice that the Star's suggestion relative to the City asking the Legislature for a representative for the City of Fredericton has been adopted. On motion of Mr. Alderman Simmonds last evening, as will be seen by our report in another column. It was resolved that the Council make out the necessary document and lay the same before the Legislature asking for this representative. We may say that while this is the proper step so far, much yet remains to be done. When the document is prepared, and has received the Mayor's signature with the corporate seal, and the signatures of each and every alderman, then let it be taken and receive the signature of our citizens in a body. To such a document as this the House cannot turn a deaf ear; of such a document the hirelings of the County will have to be dumb. Outside of Fredericton and unworthy advocates to be gained by one portion of the city over another, by a continuation of our present relations, it is the interest of every citizen of Fredericton that the separation we have favored shall take place, and at an early date be possible. Let the present session be availed of.

THAT APPEAL CASE.

Some of the Reform newspapers have been censuring the Government pretty roundly for retaining Mr. Robinson, Q. C. of Quebec, to conduct the appeal by Barker from the Canada Temperance Act.

They try to show that our New Brunswick lawyers have been ignored in the matter, and that out of favoritism to Quebec Mr. Robinson was selected to conduct the case. There is no element worth speaking of, except misrepresentation and malice in the statement. Mr. Robinson has been retained because he is an "appeal lawyer"—one of the staff who conducts both sides of appeal cases at the Supreme Court. We could well have wished to see Mr. Wetmore, Mr. Rainford, or Mr. Kaye called to conduct the case; but as Mr. Robinson has, up to this time, been retained in such cases, and as it is a matter of economy (without injustice to the cause or reproach to the New Brunswick Bar) there is little for which the Government can be blamed.

Price Withheld.

The following extract is from the Berlin correspondent of the New York World:

A few days ago the young Prince Wilhelm, on graduating from his school, sent to his father, the Crown Prince, asking permission to bring home with him during vacation a classmate with whom he had been intimate throughout the course, and who was very desirous of seeing Berlin. Wilhelm to satisfy himself that the boy was a suitable candidate for a future Emperor of Germany, the Crown Prince sent to the director of the school, and the boys had attended, making inquiries concerning the proposed court fisting. The director replied that the boy was the first in his class, but that he was a Jew, and therefore so prejudiced in circumstances that the prince's own ward made his appearance at court in Berlin out of the question. Permission was given at once to bring his classmate with him. But a difficulty now arose on the other side. The young Jew had promised his mother that he would never parake of food which was prohibited by the Jewish laws, and he feared that if he should accept the invitation he must find it difficult to keep his promise. The royal family, however, did not think it beneath its dignity to respect the scruples of a poor boy who belonged to a race which the laws of the country frowned upon not more than the other side. The satisfactory arrangements were made by which the young visitor could take his meals with people of his own faith. The young Prince came to Berlin with his humble guest; they walked the streets together arm in arm, enjoying a friendship which can exist only between minds of the same order, though society would place the one at the top, the other at the bottom of its scale.

A Romantic Incident of Orchardton Tower.

A book entitled "Rambles in Galway," by Malcolm Harper has lately been published, and contains some delightful reading. In a description of the timeworn Orchardton Round Tower, the ground work of Walter Scott's "Guy Mannering," we find the following romantic piece, which is, however, strictly true:

"Soon after the battle of Culloden a number of prisoners were once brought in by a party of the military before Mr. Goldie, then Commissioner of Dumfries, who had, alas! no alternative but to order military execution, to be done upon them, after it was proved that they had formed part of the rebel army. They had contrived to hide themselves, and get to the Galloway coast, nearest to the Isle of Man, where they were skulking in hopes of some smuggler, or foreign vessel, enabling them to escape. As they were just about to be led out to execution, Mr. Goldie observed a young man of superior and interesting appearance, attempting to destroy a written paper, when he immediately called out to the officer who guarded him: 'Seize that paper,' which was immediately done. Upon reading it, Mr. Goldie said, 'Why, young man, you were attempting to destroy yourself. This paper is your commission from the King of France as an officer in his army; and I now detain you as a prisoner of war instead of sending you off to be shot as a rebel.' The young man was accordingly put in a place of confinement, and not a very severe one considering what prisons then were, as he afterward related that his chief occupation consisted in, counting the large stones, with which his room was flagged, in every possible direction, and thus trying what their number could be raised to. But he did not continue long thus employed. A rumor speedily rose in the town that this was the long-lost heir of the House of Orchardton, an old Ragan Catholic family. An old female domestic, hearing the surmises, made her way to his place of confinement when a little conversation left no doubt that he was indeed the only son of the late Sir Robert Maxwell, who had sent him at an early age to the college of St. Douay, the usual place of education at that time for young men of family or fortune of the Catholic religion. Sir Robert himself being superannuated, his brother, who then took the management of him and his son and his estate, wrote desiring that he should be educated for the priesthood. The young man, not liking his destiny, made his escape from college, and enlisted in the army of Louis XV., and was one of that party of it that was sent to Scotland to assist in the enterprise of Prince Charles Edward.

Young Maxwell had thus actually been taken wandering as an outlaw, and in danger of forfeiting his life, on the confines of his own estate, unconscious of his rights, while his uncle was equally unconscious of the danger to his unjust possession which lurked so near him. The whole of the facts were, however, so recent and could be so easily proved, that Mr. Goldie immediately proceeded to take all necessary steps for the security of the young Sir Robert, and also to put him in possession of his estate, when the death of his uncle removing the formidable obstacle, the usual legal formalities, after proving the identity of the heir, put him in possession of his father's fortune and title. Sir Robert soon married Miss McClulloch, a niece or near relation of Lord Kirkcubright; and took up his residence at Orchardton, where he continued while he lived, the ornament and delight of the country, uniting all the gentlemanly dignity of the old school with the bland and graceful gaiety of foreign manners."

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED
 IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.
 A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrophulous, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of Children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidly with which patients improve on this food medicine diet is truly marvellous.
 —See What Physicians and the People Say About It.—
 Messrs. Scott & Bowne: 66 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York, September 8, 1876.
 GENTS.—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrophulous and consumptive cases, pleurisy and affections of the lungs.
 Yours truly, J. LOCKWOOD, M. D.
 Messrs. Scott & Bowne.—Gentlemen.—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrophulous cases.
 Oct. 19, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SEXTON, M. D., Baltimore.
 Messrs. Scott & Bowne.—Gentlemen.—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice. In affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form.
 December 2nd, 1879. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
 Messrs. Scott & Bowne.—Gentlemen.—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning cough, night sweats and short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered God Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life and was a subject of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I afterwards bought a dozen bottles, with the result that my cough subsided, night sweats stopped, appetite resumed, pain in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 115 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue to use it until perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, "What cured you?" and I answer, "Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." I have a friend who has not spoken about for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dose, and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
 January 2nd, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.
 Messrs. Scott & Bowne.—About the 25th of April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live longer than a few weeks at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the best thing that work'ed on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk, and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other patients to try it, and some 100 on these have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.
 For sale by all Druggists @ 25.00 per bottle. R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.
