For Sale!

The modern built knockabout fishing schooner "ANITA C." 85 tons. This vessel was built at Grand Bruil by the celebrated builder, Thomas Palfrey, of Placentia, from an American model. Launched in December 1913. Her metal fastenings are all copper and galvanized iron, pitch pine plank, white oak rails, Oregon pine spars. Built under the strictest regulations of the Bounty Bonus of the Newfoundland Government. Obtained highest class awarded for that purpose. Has proved herself a phenomenal sailer, and is also a wonderful sea boat. Has been more than successful as a fish killer this season. Is fitted with all necessary appliances for auxiliary power; together with all her fishing gear, comprising 4 dories, 200 fathoms of 6 inch hawser, 2 fishing anchors, trawl kegs, buoy lines, etc., all new this spring. Has only to be seen to be appreciated. Is sold for no fault whatever. Reasons purely personal. All further particulars freely furnished on application to

—BUT—

A Queen Among Women

CHAPTER VII.

"Not much," he retorted, "but I'm quite willing to learn. Perhaps you'd give me a lesson, Lady Mabel?"

"Thanks; I've got something better to do than teach schoolboys," she retorted scornfully.

"Schoolboy! Why, you are only just out of the nursery yourself!" remarked Bertie.

"Here, you two, if you want to quarrel, go down on the walk; I want to smoke a cigarette in peace and quietude," said Dalesford, and, taking Mabel by the shoulders, he pushed her laughingly down the steps, and trundled Bertie after her; and their fresh young voices ascended to him,
as he leaned against the balustrade
and smoked thoughtfully. Suddenly, he straightened himself, and turned.
Diana, who had been playing an accompaniment for the squire's daughter, was moving past the window.

"Won't you come into the fresh air,
Miss Bourne?" he asked her.

Diana glanced round. The ladies were gathered about the rector, discussing a threatened bazaar, and Diana wanted to listen, and join in;
but, after a moment's hesitation she went out.

"Moon's late to-night," he said.
"I'm afraid they're boring you, aren't they?" He jerked his head toward the chattering group.

"Oh, no," she replied. "They are talking about the most interesting things. But," with a smile, "I don't suppose you consider them so."

She glanced up at him, as she spoke, and noticed the hint of world-weariness in his handsome face, that touch of sadness which indicates satiety and the fact that Vanity Fair for all its seeming joyousness, is but a tiresome business, a feast of Dead-Sea fruit.

"I dare say," he assented reflectingly. "I'm afraid I'm rather difficult to interest. Don't think me a sentimental bounder, please. But, you see, a man of my age has run through most of his interests."

"A man of your age," said Diana,
glancing up at him with a quiet smile. "Are you so old? Not much older than I, surely?"

"How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly, Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold
which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes 16 ounces—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes.
Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. It also quickly heals the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs.
Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in gualaol, which is so healing to the membranes.

He laughed down at her rather grimly.

"Old in experience and—" "Sin"
he was going to say; but checked himself. She looked so girlish, so pure, in the starlight that fought with the more garish light streaming through the window, that he shrank from the word, from the vein of thought that it might lead to. For the first time in his life, he wished that—that he had led a different kind of life, that he could meet this virginal purity of hers on equal ground. Bertie's voice, as he squabbled amicably with Mabel, just below them, struck on him accusingly. He was once as free from vice and guile as the boy there!

"What a lovely view!" said Diana,
presently.

He woke, with something like a start, from his reflections. "You can see it better from the end of the terrace," he said. "Shall we go and look at it?"

They walked there, side by side,
and he pointed out the spire of the church, the chimneys of Rivermead.

"This is my father's favorite view,"
he said. "He is coming here next week. I should like you to know him. He is"—he hesitated a moment
—"one of the last of the old brigade."
He would like to know you; and I think you'd get on together; though, Heaven knows, you haven't much in common—what have you dropped?"

He broke off, as Diana bent down, as if searching for something.

"My rose," she said. "Bertie Selby gave it to me—they have beautiful roses at the rectory—and I mustn't lose it."

He paced back on the terrace, and found it.

"Here it is," he said. "Let me try and fasten it more securely."

"Thanks. I can do it," she returned; and she essayed to pin it into the bosom of her dress; but the pin missed it, and the bud fell to the ground.
She tried again, with like ill success.
"Tut! tut!" she clicked, between her teeth. "It will slip!"

Dalesford started, and caught her arm.

"By Heaven!" he exclaimed, between his teeth. "You are the girl—
it has come upon me like a flash!
You are the girl that saved me that night at Wedbury!"

Diana looked up at him, with a smile of amusement, which faded as she saw the sudden palor and earnestness of his face.

"I was waiting to see how long it would be before you knew me, Lord Dalesford," she said.

His hand fell from her arm, but his dark eyes were still fixed on her, with a startled, an intense, gaze, as if he were recalling the past; as if, at that moment, a link were being forged between that past and the present.

"I am—a fool!" he said, at last, and with a strange, deep note in his voice.
"I ought to have remembered you the other night. And I have never forgotten you. No, never! How could I? But—but"—he looked at her with a puzzled frown—"how does it happen that you are here, at Rivermead? You were the schoolmistress at Wed-bury? Yes? What does it mean?"

Diana's heart beat fast. If she obeyed the impulse of the moment,
she would have told him the whole truth. But she shrank from it.

"My—my father died, and left me
some money," she said falteringly.

He drew a long breath, and nodded.
"I see! You are the same girl. I saw you only indistinctly. I was—I had been drinking. I—I beg your pardon. But that explains why I did not recognize you. And I have thought of you so often."

"Yes?" said Diana wonderingly.

"Yes! There is scarcely a day or a night that I haven't thought of you," he said almost grimly. "How brave you were! Fancy a girl, a mere girl, cutting in between two men,
and risking a blow, a deadly blow!
And you saw my wound—I've got the scar still—and—oh, the whole affair is stamped on my memory! I've never forgotten it, thought of it often!
And here you are—an acquaintance,
a friend; may I call you a friend?"

Diana looked up at him with a smile.

Another Woman's Case.
Providence, R. I.—"I cannot speak too highly of your Vegetable Compound
as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had a displacement, bearing down, and backache,
until I could hardly stand and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E.

SON, 126 Lippitt St., Providence, R. I.

Danger Signals to Women
are what one physician called backache,
headache, nervousness, and the blues.
In many cases they are symptoms of some female derangement or an inflammatory, ulcerative condition, which may be overcome by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of American women willingly testify to its virtue.

down at her, with a kind of subdued eagerness, of pleasure, of delighted surprise.

"And we are friends. We can meet,
you and I! Miss Bourne, I've laughed at the long arm of coincidence as a convenient invention of the novelists; but here we are, aren't we? You and I!"

"Yes," said Diana, smiling, though her heart was beating fast, for his tone of delight and satisfaction affected her strangely.

"And we are going to be real friends? I am staying here. Aunt Selina keeps a room for me—bless her! And I shall see you now and again, every day. What? Don't say 'No!'—the girl who rescued me in that plucky way that night! Good Lord, I can scarcely realize it! Let me look at you!—I beg your pardon!
But it seems so unreal, so impossible!"

He asked her, by a gesture, to turn to the light flowing from the window, and smiling—and blushing a little—
she did so.

"Yes! It's the same! I thought I should never see you again. I meant to do so, but"—he paused a moment—
"but you are a schoolmistress no longer. I'm glad you have taken Rivermead, that your father left you some money. I hope he left you a great deal."

"Enough to live upon," said Diana,
with downcast eyes.

"Yes? I'm glad! And to think you are the girl I have dreamed of,
that I have longed to thank as you ought to have been thanked—"

He caught her hand, and raised it toward his lips; but Diana snatched
it back.

"You never discovered who it was that attacked you that night?" she asked, with a novel shyness, for he was regarding her intently, as if he were more engaged with her than her question.

"No," he said, absently. "Some footpad."

Diana shook her head. "Highway robbery is out of date. It belongs to the medieval novel. Is there anyone who would be benefited by your death, Lord Dalesford?"

"No; there's no one—excepting my cousin, Desmond March," he added mechanically.

"Desmond March?" said Diana.
"What kind of man is he?"

Dalesford laughed. "The kind of man of whom you can have no conception, you pure, sweet woman angel—I beg your pardon, Miss Bourne.
He's a—raff of the most pronounced type. Oh, don't misapprehend me! He's the pink of perfection, the glass of fashion, and the mold of form —have I got that right? I'm bad at quotations. Oh, no; my esteemed cousin, Desmond March, is above highway robbery and assassination—
what a noise those young people are making; they will have Aunt Selina upon them presently! And you are the girl who dressed my wound that night! Yes, Aunt Selina, here I am!

Mabel! Oh, she is talking astronomy with young Selby. We must go in,
I suppose," he said, in a low voice to Diana. "You and I have a—shall we call it a secret?—between us."

CHAPTER VIII.

Diana leaned back in the carriage,
as she and Aunt Mary drove home from Shortledge, and looked at the moon dreamily, and with a shadowy smile on her parted lips, for she was feeling strangely happy.

Every one, from Lady Selina downward, had been kind to her, and this,
her first introduction to society, had been an extremely pleasant one. As usual, these people of high birth had proved simple-mannered and kindly natured. But it was not Lady Selina's graciousness, nor Lady Mabel's outspoken admiration and girlish affection which suffused Diana's spirit with the warm glow of happiness.

It was the few minutes on the terrace with Lord Dalesford, his joy at his recognition of her, his delight at their meeting, at the idea of friendship between her and him. Why, she asked herself, should he be so glad to meet her again, to find that she was the girl who had come to his rescue that night, which, in the altered present, seemed so far off, so vague, so unreal?

A vain girl would have found the reason without any difficulty, but Diana was singularly free from vanity,
and she let the question go unanswered, while she asked herself another:
Did she like Lord Dalesford, to be pleased at meeting her again? Did she want the friendship he had almost claimed?

She told herself that she ought to be indifferent to his pleasure, that she ought not to accept, or yield to,
the friendship he offered; and between Lord Dalesford and herself
there was a big social gulf; and that, if there were not, he was not the kind of man whom a young girl should take for a friend. But, though the voice of wisdom and prudence strove to make itself heard, something whispered that, notwithstanding his reputation, and the faults with which rumor liberally endowed him, she could not help feeling pleased with his pleasure, and—yes, gratified by his reminder that there was a secret between them.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty to call to his eternal reward His Grace Most Rev. Michael Francis Howley, D.D., Archbishop of St. John's, Metropolitan of Newfoundland; and Patron of the Catholic Cadet Corps.

AND WHEREAS, the late Archbishop has always been of great assistance to the Catholic Cadet Corps; and especially to the Bell Island (No. 6) Company since its inception.

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Committee of Management of the Bell Island (No. 6) Company, Catholic Cadet Corps place on record their expression of sorrow in the loss of such a devoted Patron, and a distinguished Churchman, and such an able Patriot. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Rt. Rev. Administrator, Mgr. Roche, and that they be recorded in the Minutes of this meeting. Bell Island, Oct. 31st, 1914.

A Wonderful Discovery

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is working up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co. and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Dr. Hjort Lectures.

Dr. Johan Hjort, Chairman of the Norwegian Fisheries Commission, lectured at the Grenfell Hall last night on "Scientific Investigation of the Fisheries of Norway" to a small but appreciative audience.

Mr. A. W. Piccott, Minister of Marine and Fisheries occupied the chair and introduced the lecturer. Among those present were Rt. Hon. the Premier, Hon. John Harvey, W. C. Job and M. G. Winter, Messrs. R. J. Devereaux, M. H. A., W. B. Grievie, G. C. Pearn and other prominent citizens.

The lecturer treated his subject in an interesting manner, and held the closest attention of his audience for upwards of two hours. He referred to the progress in the fisheries, due to scientific investigation, and cited as an example the introduction of small steamers to replace the old time fishing boats. These came after the discovery of fishing banks off the shore. He then dwelt with the work of investigation carried on by the Norwegian Government. Some 15 years ago the S. S. Michael Sars, a ship of 226 tons was commissioned by the government and fitted with "fishing gear" for the purpose of examining the Norwegian sea. Many new banks and fishing ledges were discovered and surveyed, and charts of the same were published. The introduction of motor fishing boats had also done much to improve the fisheries, as since these have been introduced, fishery operations are conducted all the year round.

On the Michael Sars, the work of investigation is practical and thorough. The development of a fish is closely studied, as well as its distribution in different parts of the ocean. In the examination of the spawning grounds of several species much valuable knowledge was gained. The migration of the codfish was learned by the marking of fish, and it has been found that such migrations covered hundreds of miles.

The investigations have been so thorough that now it is possible to tell the age of a fish and the section in which it was caught. Many theories have been advanced as to the fluctuations in the catches of herring and cod from year to year, but the principal one is that the catch is regulated by the abundance or scarcity of the food on which these fishes exist.

The discourse was illustrated with lantern slides, and was very interesting throughout.

At the close a vote of thanks proposed by the Premier, and seconded by Hon. John Harvey was accorded the lecturer.

Stop Coughing.

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since "PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE" is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and they are not able to get rid of it.

Don't let a cough or cold hang on to you day after day and run the chance of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining "Phoratone Cough Mixture" at once.

Sold at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and Stafford's Pharmacy, Duckworth Street. Price 25c; postage, 5 cts extra.

Rev. J. S. Adams B.D.

Official notification of qualifying for the Degree of Bachelor of Divinity by a London University upon the Rev. J. S. Adams, Rector of Spaniard's Bay, has been received by the Colonial Secretary from the authorities of London University. Rev. Mr. Adams is said to be the first clergyman in the Island to receive such a degree from a London University and is therefore, signally successful. Rev. Mr. Adams studied privately. He received his training at Queen's College, which institution should feel justly proud at the honor conferred on its student.

At the Crescent.

"The Wall of Money," the great industrial two-ree feature shown at the Crescent Picture Palace last night, was highly appreciated by the patrons of that popular picture house. The story deals with some of the conditions that workmen in large mills and factories have to face, and how hard it is for them to have their just grievances made right. The anguish of the man whose son is killed and the revenge he attempts to take, is dramatically portrayed in this fine picture.

"The Broken Shell" a crystal society drama, in which the movie favorite Pearl White, plays the leading role, is a very fine picture, and shows the good that is in the worst of us. "The Suffragette and the Bandit" is the fun-maker of the show. How Bill the Bandit is cowed by the Suffragette is really a very funny picture. Mr. Knight plays Robin Hood's son to-night. This song with the above fine picture programme ought to pack the popular Crescent.

Oporto Market Well Supplied.

The Board of Trade have been informed by Messrs. Lind & Couto, of Oporto, as follows:—
"The war has a very disturbing effect upon the market, and neither retailers nor consumers are buying more than their requirements from day to day. Prices are too high, and will have to be reduced to encourage consumption. We estimate the present stocks at about 18,500 cwt. of British and 13,000 cwt. of Norwegian. There are several cargoes on the passage from Newfoundland, and a steamer from Norway due to arrive this week is reported to have about 14,000 cwt. for this market. We are thus faced with a very heavy accumulation of fish and no means of getting it into consumption, except at the rate of perhaps about 3,500 cwt. per week. On top of this we shall now have the Portuguese catch arriving. We have no reports at present as to how the vessels have done. Exchange is quoted at from 38 1/2d. to 40 1/2d. normal, but the supply of bills is very limited and it is very difficult to buy, except in small amounts. The Government has instituted a Junta Reguladora do Cambio, which fixes both the maximum and minimum limits at which exchange may be bought and sold, but as the Junta itself does not deal in exchange the result has been that business is more difficult than ever, a false position having been created which in our opinion cannot be maintained unless the Government supplies the market."

At the City Hall.

A special meeting of the Civic Commission was held last night to receive the report of Mr. F. Longley, consulting engineer who, during the past few weeks, has been enquiring into the water supply and sewerage conditions of the city with a view to the improvement of the same. The report is an exhaustive and intelligent one, and contains many valuable suggestions for the improvement of the present system of water supply. The report will be published in due course.

News Encouraging.

The news from the front continues distinctly encouraging. In the Western theatre of war, the Germans have apparently abandoned their line of attack across the Yser between Nieuport and Dixmude, and do not seem to be in strength between that line and Ostend and Thourout. Last week it was stated that the Kaiser had announced the German forces would withdraw from Poland and take up a position along the Silesian frontier and that he would transfer six more corps from the East to the West and back his way through Ypres direct to Calais, abandoning the route he had tried via Dunkirk. The announcement of this intention savoured somewhat of the bombastic, and had more the appearance of shouting to keep up the courage of the Germans both in the East and West, where they have received decisive setbacks during the past few weeks. The German attack on Warsaw and the attempt to cross the River Vistula has failed and the German armies are being driven back through the length of Poland and are already being pushed towards the German frontier. Indeed, news came last evening that the Germans had already removed their headquarters to Czestochowa, an important railway junction, close to the borders of Silesia. The fact that German recruits from 16 to 19, and older men in the forties have been captured in large numbers on the Iser does not give much color to the threat that there are many first line fighters available for hacking the way through to Calais, and sufficient in numbers to make a serious raid on England, even should they obtain command of the sea, which they have so far shown no disposition to attempt seriously. Further than this, it is not at all likely that the Russians will cease their pressure and they will need strong forces to resist that pressure on the Silesian border. It is not probable that Turkey can force them to lessen this pressure. Satisfactory news also comes from S. Africa. Not only is there no news of the rebellions spreading, but it is announced that these rebellions have been crushed. As to the German Admiral's story of the defeat of Rear-Admiral Craddock, the Times in publishing it, states the story was given to the Chilean Government by the German Admiral. It is hardly conceivable that the Glasgow and Otranto can have been in a Chilean port since Sunday night without a report being set to and received by the British Admiralty. It may be that the ship Good Hope also, as well as the Glasgow and Otranto, kept out to sea, and have since joined a squadron of eight ships reported to be off Easter Island, eight or nine days ago. If the report of a Japanese squadron being in South Pacific waters is true, we may hear good news shortly. The Japanese have two battle cruisers and three large cruisers in their Navy, which are each more than a match for the two big Germans. It is not at all unlikely that Admiral Craddock's squadron was sent to the South Pacific to co-operate with the Japanese in rounding up the German cruisers there. Or the story may be put out by the German Admiral to find out the whereabouts of his enemies.

A Warning.

It has come to my knowledge that within the past few days collections, ostensibly for church purposes are being taken up by unauthorized individuals. I therefore deem it necessary to repeat the warning so often addressed to our Catholic people that no one is authorized to solicit donations for church purposes unless they can show a document, signed by the administrator of the city parishes.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, Nov. 5th, 1914. Cook's Cofectant Fluid in its new form is decidedly the most convenient in use, having a metal measure attached to each tin which makes dilution for the proper strength for general or special use a very easy matter, thus avoiding all waste. It is hardly necessary to insist upon the qualities and value of this remarkable disinfectant which is in general use by Boards of Health here and elsewhere, but its economy in use is perhaps less well known. This economy is due to these circumstances: 1st, its strength as a germ destroyer, it having the highest germicidal power of anything of this kind; 2nd, the ease and certainty with which it can be measured, assuring that there will be no waste. Price 25 cents a tin.

LONDON TIMES PUBLISHES VALPARAISO STORY.—NO NEWS OF GOOD HOPE, GLASGOW OR OTRANTO.

LONDON, To-day. The Times to-day under date of Valparaiso prints the report of Admiral Von Spee, regarding the fight between the British and German cruisers off the Chilean Coast on Sunday night, which report the despatch says was made to the Chilean authorities. No other news of the fight is available up to date. According to the despatch there is no news of the Glasgow, Good Hope or the Otranto. The Times despatch says that it is believed all of the Monmouth's crew were lost and it also relates that the German officers testify to the great gallantry of the crew of the Monmouth which while in a sinking condition attempted to hit the German vessels. Universal opinion in Valparaiso is that the German squadron was always well provided with wireless information while the contrary was the case with the British squadron.

"KOENIGSBERG" PUT OUT OF ACTION.

LONDON, To-day. The Times prints a report that the German cruiser Koeningberg has been put out of action in the Indian Ocean.

BEYERS AND MARITZ CRUSHED.

LONDON, To-day. A Cape Town despatch to Reuters, declares that the rebellion of General Beyers in the Western Transvaal and the mutiny by Lieut.-Col. Maritz in the Northwest, now appears to be completely crushed. It is abundantly clear, the despatch concludes, that the rebels are ill-equipped and have practically no organization.

THE GERMAN RETREAT

LONDON, To-day. A correspondent of the Daily Mail at Rotterdam, says he has received an official communication of the advance of the Allies on all of the West Flanders front, and he adds the German military batteries have been removed in a southerly direction from Ostend showing the intended retreat of the main German force. It has learned from reliable sources that last week's transfer of the Ninth German army corps has been completed from Belgium and France to East Prussia, and that only half of their number has been replaced by volunteers. The Germans are short of big guns, ammunition, in West Flanders and transport is impossible owing to inundations.

THE COSTLY GERMAN FAILURE.

PARIS, To-day. Renewed violent attacks on the part of Germans were expected to-day in the region between Dixmude and the Yser. The recent efforts of the enemy in this section in spite of the fact that they have been reinforced by new contingents of reserves as well as by active troops are everywhere to have been unsuccessful. According to the latest report of situation made in Paris, both Allies and Germans are fighting hard for every inch of this territory. The Germans, for the time being, would appear to have abandoned their advance on Channel ports, this being accepted as correct. The Germans are preparing to try other tactics. French and English commanders, in the opinion of French observers, are satisfied with the result of the efforts they made yesterday as well as with the general situation.

AT WAR WITH TURKEY.

LONDON, To-day. It is officially announced here today that a state of war exists between Britain and Turkey.

St. Pierre Bulletin

Official, Midnight.—No change in the situation. North, slight progress towards Mesinas. On several points of front heavy cannonading without great result. The Cabinet met this morning under the Presidency of Mr. Viviana, the latter advised that yesterday the Anglo-French fleet made a demonstration on the Turkish forts of Dardanelles. The forts answered but their firing not effective. Mr. Delcasse and Mr. Briand, acting War Minister, communicated the latest military and diplomatic news. The German general left Toulon this morning en route Lyon. Russia.—In eastern Prussia the German retreat continues. The Germans were repulsed from Lyck and the Russians took Bakalayevo with a large quantity of war stuff and made numerous prisoners. On the left banks of the Vistula the Austrians were compelled to abandon Kielce leaving six hundred prisoners and several maxims in the hands of Russians after a Russian victory. On the front of Sandomir, Kielce is the first town now occupied by the Russians. During the last eight days in the region of Kielce, the Russians have made two hundred officers and fifteen thousand prisoners and taken a dozen cannons and maxims guns. The Russian army from Caucasus crossed the Turkish frontier, defeated the Turks, and after a battle occupied Zivine, Karakillisa, Passins, Akhty, Boutakh, Koroun, Myssoum and Arzap. The Turkish troops suffered heavy losses and abandoned their dead and wounded. The Turkish fleet in the Black Sea are remaining in their ports and will not face the Russian fleet.

INDIAN TROOPS CONGRATULATED
LONDON, Nov. 4.
To Governor, St. John's:
The following from the Press Bureau—Indian troops are now operating with the British forces. One of the first Indian regiments in action was heavily shelled, while entrenching, and showed great sangfroid, hardly troubling to look round after the first few shells. Later, in storming a certain village of tactical importance, the Indian troops advanced under conditions of greatest novelty and difficulty under heavy rifle and machine gun fire, with a dash and resolution worthy of the highest traditions of the Army. The Commander-in-Chief has sent the following message to the Indian Corps' Commander: "Please congratulate your Indian troops on their gallant conduct, and express my gratitude to them." The Indians operating in a country wholly different from their own, have shown marked adaptability and will doubtless prove themselves admirably trained and fully capable of holding their own.

Letters From Volunteers.

By the Durango's English mail scores of letters and postcards were received from our volunteers. Writing to friends here "Sam" Ebsary and "Billy" Miles, Color-Sergt. and Sergeant respectively of "A" Co. of the Nfld. Regiment, sends reports. They are now at Pond Farm Camp, Salisbury Plain, making preparations for glorious service in the near future. Both officers say they had a good time on the transport Florizel and enjoyed the trip. There was very little seasickness among the boys and practically an entire absence of ordinary illness. Mr. James Moore, an old Cadet boy, writing to his parents, says it was a glorious time on board the Florizel and the sight-seeing was wonderful. He is in the best of health and enjoying himself to the fullest, though now in training for the front.

The Future Eye.

By RUTH CAMERON.

To every one who can appreciate the thing that is there is perhaps one who can appreciate the thing that might be. Some friends of mine who were visiting at a summer resort to which I have been for many years were greatly attracted by a certain house. It is a dear little white cottage with a sloping roof and a big white chimney in the centre, the type known as Cape Cod Colonial. It is freshly painted; dainty muslin curtains flutter at the windows; there is a wonderful, old-fashioned garden gay with Sweet William and larkspur at one side, and a row of hollyhocks in front of the house. My friend never fails to exclaim with admiration when she passes that house and to say that she wishes she might have one like it.

Now one day we passed a shabby red cottage with a dilapidated looking annex of some sort propped up against it in the manner which gave us the word "lean-to." The place was for sale. A native who was with us pointed it out to my enthusiastic friend. "There's a good cottage for you," he said. She thought he was humorously inclined. "Not at all," he protested. "That's just the way the cottage you're so crazy about looked before the folks who have got it now took it. They painted it white, pulled down the lean-to and planted a few flowers, and now everybody stops to admire it."

"We all thought that woman was crazy when she bought it, but I guess she knew what she was about all right. She had an offer of a thousand more than she paid for it the other day."

Of course she knew what she was about. She was the one person in a hundred who could see and appreciate not only the thing that was but the thing that might be. She had the future eye.

Before Fulton's steamboat made its first trip, it was impossible for him

Bavarian Prince in Boasting Mood

London, Oct. 29.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Amsterdam says:

"Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria brother of the Belgian Queen, who is commanding the Sixth German Army Corps, has issued the following army order:

"Soldiers of the Sixth Army Corps, we are fortunate to have opposed to us British troops—the troops of that people whose envy has been at work for years to surround us with enemies in order to strangle us. We owe to them the present bloody war. Therefore, take reprisals for the cunning of the enemy and for all our sacrifices when we now meet them.

"Show them that it is not so easy to wipe out the Germans of history now that we are face to face with an enemy who is the greatest obstacle to peace."

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly,
D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S., Analyst and Assayer.

Determination to Get Calais is Uppermost.

New York, Oct. 29.—The military expert of the New York Times this morning says:

"The energy with which the Germans are pressing their attacks along the Yser River in the westernmost corner of Belgium shows that it is not a demonstration but a determination to obtain some military object.

The accounts of the fighting indicate that the Germans pushed forward their night attacks without delay to gain superiority in artillery fire. The cost in killed and wounded of these assaults against entrenched positions must have been terrible.

This great effort of the Germans to break through the Belgian defensive line seems to have been stopped for the time being, due to the arrival of French reinforcements.

Both sides claim the advantage in the fighting east of Ypres and between Lille and Arras. No definite progress, however, is given in the despatches of either side.

In this fighting the forces of the Allies seem to have become intermingled to a large extent. British and Belgians retreated along the coast. French and Belgians are fighting at Dixmude. French and Hindus are fighting east of Ypres. The British have been mentioned at Armentieres, the French at Lille, the French at Lens, and the British again at Arras.

From this point south to the Aisne the line is held by the French alone. For forty miles, opposite Soissons and Craonne, the first British army holds the line. The original troops have been augmented and to a large extent replaced by the stream of reinforcements that has been forwarded to this part of the line. From Craonne to Switzerland the French again hold back the German armies.

Co-operation Difficulties.

The plea of the British commander in the Belgian field of operations for a supply of interpreters calls attention to the serious difficulty that all allied force must have in co-ordinating its operations. Not only are the languages different, causing misunderstanding among subordinates, but the whole system of control of operations differs among the three nations.

There is every evidence that the fighting will be kept up throughout the winter with unabated fury. The German troops that started for the front in the last week of September were already going out completely equipped with fur gloves and sheepskin coats.

They evidently intend no let up in their campaign and the Allies must needs follow suit."

Divorced Life

by Helen Hazony Fuesler

Journey's End

And so, holding in her hand the letter from Mrs. Challoner to her husband, Marian Winthrop's final objection to marrying this man had been swept aside like a leaf that falls into the path of an autumnal gust.

Things had shaped themselves for hazarding once more the seas of matrimony. She regarded this strange denouement, in a way, as a victory, for the masterful and superior Challoner had stirred the fires of her temperament as no other man had ever been able to do. In him she had found to a very great degree that subtle correspondence to certain conscious and subconscious ideals to which no other man had ever measured up.

And yet, there was an element of defeat in coming thus to the end of one journey and to the beginning of another. She had met defeat in the thing she had set out to perform. She had undertaken to make her way in the world alone, and had failed. She had demonstrated that, for her at least, life must be sustained by someone. She had failed miserably in the task of making a decent living, which she had set out to perform. She had worked like a Trojan, but had been baffled. But she had learned this much: That if she ever had a daughter, she would begin training her early to become an economic factor, capable of self-support without leaning upon a man.

Now that events had shaped themselves thus, Marian accepted them as inevitable. She did not yield to any regrets that Challoner had not crossed her path in the earlier days before she had made a mess of her first marriage. She had lived long enough to have learned the big and important lesson that events cannot come to pass before their time. Deep down in the nature of human development there is a chemistry which works with the nicety of perfect obedience to implacable laws. In this complicated scheme reactions cannot occur before it is time. The wise are familiar with this law. Others rail and fret at the inevitable.

Marian Winthrop knew that ten years earlier she might have brushed past Charles Challoner with never a strange thrill running to her over the threads of affinity. She and he were in correspondence to-day because of the crowded experiences which had crowded in upon them both long before they had found each other. The absence of certain qualities in the woman he had married had given him eyes to see these things in Marian. And Marian's marriage to Frank, disastrous as it had been, had, through its very woes, yielded her the equipment to sense the subtle qualities in Challoner which had drawn them together.

Marriage and divorce had prepared each for this new impending marriage. Gazing at her companion across the softly lighted table, Marian Winthrop knew that by no other way than the hard path of divorced life, sharp and rugged under foot and full of grievous hurts, could she have found, and known when she found, this man whose wife she had made up her mind to become.

And so, reviewing the hurrying events of the recent past in a flash of swift retrospection, she had no regrets for what had befallen her. She was content to forget the past and its weird turmoil, and to turn about and face the morning of a new and brighter day.

A Thought for the Times

A DAY AT ADMIRAL'S COVE.—CHAPTER XXV.
I. C. MORRIS.

To the visitor one of the most interesting objects of research at Admiral's Cove is the bluff headland known as "The Garrison." At such an out-of-the-way place one would not expect to find any indication of war or of military or naval operations; but it is the unexpected that often happens, and so with our visit to Admiral's Cove.

On hearing the Garrison spoken of we at once made enquiry about it, and requested to be shown the place. Our request was readily acceded to, and in a short time our party was upon the spot. The position is a very elevated one, and such as gives a commanding view to the entire surroundings. We did not ascertain the height of the precipice, but we noticed that it was very steep at the water front. The top of this garrison is quite level, and is well cultivated, and would probably contain three acres of meadow land. There are also some wooded spots.

In the early days of colonization this garrison was mounted with guns and fortified by forts. The relics of the forts may still be seen, as some of the masonry is visible; although much of it is over-grown and covered. Of the guns which did service at this spot only two are left. One of these is almost totally under the surface of the ground, but the people keep part of it exposed so, that it will not be entirely lost to view. The other one is on the surface, and is in an excellent state of preservation, considering that it must be in this exposed position for fully two hundred years. We were told that at one time there were a great many guns on this garrison, but they had all gradually disappeared—many of them having been hauled over the edge of the precipice into the sea, beneath. The cannon which lies on the surface is about ten feet long, and is about the same size as that which we saw at the "Downs" near Ferryland light-house last year. Mr. Walshe told us that among the cannon there was formerly several brass guns, all mounted on wheels; but that they had all met the one fate, and had been thrown into the sea. We endeavoured to find out whether those guns were of French or English occupancy, but could not discern any marks to denote either; at the same time, we concluded from all the surroundings and from all the circumstances, and from what we have read of the naval and military exploits of this locality, that the relics before us were those of a British garrison.

As we stood on the elevation for a few minutes we could not but think upon the men, who, in the long ago, and in the dim morning of our country's settlement, kept sentry at such place. The mounds around us were at one time trenches, where, no doubt, the soldiers lay during many a long vigil of the night. Their work may be forgotten to-day amid the great armament of Empire, but its benefits are not lost, nor can they be. These old forts and mounds are to be found in many parts of Newfoundland, and they all tell the same tale—the tale of war and conflict. It would be interesting to know how many places were really fortified in Newfoundland, but there seems not any clue to this discovery. At the same time, there must certainly be plans and documents and diagrams of those forts hidden away in some unknown archive. The Historic Society was instrumental in finding some of those records, "but the half has not yet been told."

When the late Judge Prowse visited London for the purpose of compiling his History of Newfoundland, he had recourse to the records of the Colonial Office, and there in the archives of that great Imperial centre, he discovered data which to the Empire had been long lost. But that was not all; for the historian only reviewed such manuscripts as were necessary to his history. There were volumes and volumes more of the same character; and there does not exist the least doubt that in the pages of those ancient manuscripts there is recorded much of the lost history of Newfoundland, and therefore some of the history of these old forts of which we write, and which we saw at Admiral's Cove, and which is known as the "Garrison."

The view from the Garrison is very fine, and as the wind blew quite heavy at the time of our visit, the scene seaward was magnificent. The towering hills in the distance, and the intervening valleys, with the ocean in its grandeur, presented such a picture as only nature itself, in all its glory and magnitude could produce. From the eminence of our position we seemed but mites of creation. The wind in its blast seemed to defy our strength, and the old war gun in our feet added its requiem to human greatness. We could only make sure of our footing and look about us, and then retrace our steps to safety and to home. The spot has its lessons. The one that appealed to us at the time was that of the world's future peace. The old grim gun which so often belched forth its deadly missiles now lies useless. In peace it rests upon the rich green sward of the Garrison. In the war zone of Europe ten thousands of guns are now pouring out their contents, and the noise of their warfare is almost deafening to the world; but the last shot will one day be fired, and the last boom will one day be sounded, and these same guns which now terrorize the world, will all lie silent, and, like the lone gun at Admiral's Cove, around them will be Peace.

End of the Season.

Once more the baseball season's ended, the fans dispersed—it seems a shame; the magnates sit in grandeur splendid, and wonder what has queered the game. And for their trouble they have reason, the grand old game has seen a slump; it's been a dark and dreary season, with all things headed for the dump. I long have been among the stayers, the fans who never missed a game; but I've grown tired of chesty players who hanker less for honest fame, than for the stipend big and bulky, who haggle for all coin in sight, and failing that, get sour and sulky, and break their contracts left and right. I'm weary of the famous pitcher, who puts a fortune in his jeans, and then to make himself still richer, writes twaddle for the magazines. I'm tired of all the human factors who constitute our baseball teams, and at off-times are tin-horn actors, with monologues which give bad dreams. They all seem crazy for the shilling, the pound, the kroner and the yen, and baseball won't be gay and thrilling till we get back old ways again. I care not for self-advertisers, who sing their glory till it's stale, nor care to see a squad of misers performing for a roll of kale.

Nerviline Ends Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly.

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how your fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline, it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgia headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G. C. Dalglish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along with out Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf, and use it to end chest colds, sore throats, coughs, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

Snipers Pick Out British Officers.

An officer writes to the London Daily News as follows: "In spite of the perfection of their arrangements for ranging and observation, says the eye-witness, there has been much waste of ammunition by the Germans. Within an area of two acres on one side of Alsace there are over one hundred craters made by their heavy high-explosive shells. This shower of projectiles, which must have cost some £1,000 did absolutely no damage, for the locality never happened to be occupied whilst it was being bombarded."

"Cascarets" Relieve Sick, Sour Stomach

More acids, gases and clogged-up waste from Stomach, Liver, Bowels—Cure Indigestion.

Get a 10-cent box now. That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which can not be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any. Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Recruiting Meeting at Placentia.

Special to Evening Telegram. JERSEY SIDE, Placentia, Nov. 4. A public patriotic meeting was held at Placentia Court House last night, presided over by Rt. Rev. Mons. Reardon. Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C., Secretary of the Patriotic Nominating Committee of St. John's, and member of the Recruiting Committee was invited from St. John's to attend. Mr. Morris, in a forceful patriotic speech convincingly outlined the duties of Newfoundland to the Empire in her hour of need. He clearly explained what the taxpayers of the British Isles have done and are doing to protect our home and our lives. He quoted from His Excellency the Governor's lecture on the war and also from Lord Rosebery's speech, in London what defeat would mean to the British Empire. He had no doubt of the response that the young men of the district would make to the call to the Motherland, for it could never be said of a Newfoundland fisherman that he was afraid to go to sea. The Court House was packed with a loyal and enthusiastic audience, and patriotic addresses were made by the following: Alex. Collins, Frank Murphy, T. P. Kemp, J. W. Collins and W. J. Walsh, and the following resolution was proposed and unanimously passed with the greatest enthusiasm:

WHEREAS, when this calamitous war was forced upon our Empire, His Excellency the Governor, on behalf of this country, sent a message to the King that we would raise the number of our Naval Reserve to 1,000 men and His Majesty the King by His Proclamation has set forth that the Lords of the Admiralty are now ready to take over the Newfoundland Naval Reserve;

AND WHEREAS, it is our bounden duty as loyal members of Empire to respond quickly and heartily to this our Mother's call;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That we the citizens of the Ancient Capital of His Majesty's Oldest Colony, in this patriotic public meeting convened, hereby individually and collectively pledge ourselves to aid and encourage our young fishermen from all parts of the district to promptly enlist in the Royal Naval Reserve and rally round the old flag;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be sent to His Excellency the Governor and to the press for publication.

The Court House, Placentia, Nov. 4th, 1914.

"GOD SAVE THE KING."

At the close, Mr. W. J. Walsh proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rt. Rev. Chairman, who in reply said that he was present to-night at great personal inconvenience, owing to a great recent bereavement, but duty called him and here he was. He said he was closely personally concerned in this war, having two cousins fighting the good cause, one a doctor on board a British ship, now in the North Sea, and another a doctor in a regiment with the Allies at the front. He made a personal appeal to all present to interest themselves in sustaining the King's proclamation. All rose to their feet and closed the meeting by singing the National Anthem.

British Steamer

Arrives in Damaged Condition. At ten o'clock last night the British steamer Rosanno, Capt. Roche, crippled into port. The ship was bound from Hull to Montreal to load grain and was nineteen days on the passage. Being in ballast she was badly buffeted and her propeller was continuously racing. Eventually the ship lost two propeller blades, after which Capt. Roche decided not to proceed before acquainting the owners of the mishap. The damage will be remedied here and the delay will not be long. The Rosanno was built for the Furness, Withy Company in 1909 by W. Gray and Co. Ltd., at West Hartpool. She is a steel screw ship of 3,729 tons gross and 2,267 net. Capt. Roche used to be chief officer on the S. S. Dahome which used to run here up to a half dozen years ago.

GERMANS ABANDON COAST MARCH.

HAVRE, To-day. The Belgian Minister of War to-day made public an official report from Furgus on the Belgian coast half way between Dunkirk and Ostend. The text follows: Detachments of the Allied troops which to-day pushed ahead as far as Lombartz Yde on the Yser front below Schoorhakke, failed to discover any of the enemy. Only small detachments of artillery still remain in the direction of Westende, and to the north and east of Schoorhakke, small positions of the enemy's rearwards are still holding several bridges and farm houses. On the left bank of the River Stuyvenkotte an almost unbroken column of the enemy, composed of all arms and extending from Lake to Thourut has marched in an easterly direction. No forces of the enemy of any importance are reported east of the Yser, but several supply trains have proceeded from Thourut in the direction of Roulers and Deynze on Lys.

HANDED PASSPORT.

LONDON, To-day. The Foreign Office yesterday handed his passports to the Turkish Ambassador, Twenik Pasha. The Ambassador will leave London to-day.

WILL ATTACK IN ANOTHER DIRECTION.

LONDON, To-day. A Belgian Socialist Senator who returned to-day from an official visit to King Albert, said the Allies are now within 10 miles of Ostend, but he did not believe the Germans are preparing for a general retreat through Belgium, but rather for a final and supreme assault which would be made at a point southwest of Ypres. The Senator states the Germans have 500,000 men in the vicinity mentioned, but he said it was the general impression of the Allied staff that the German effort would be a failure, because their troops not only were very weary but to a great extent were made up of youthful and aged recruits. When the German marched down the coast he, the Senator declared, scarcely anyone on the ground expected they would be kept out of Calais; now the opinion has changed completely, and it is freely expressed that the Germans will never reach their objective.

GERMAN OFFICIAL REPORT.

BERLIN, To-day.—Official. Our attacks from Ypres to the North of Arras and East of Soissons, are progressing slowly but successfully. South of Verdun and in the Vosges French attacks were repulsed. In the Eastern area of the war there have been no material change.

BOMBARDMENT OF DARDANELLES.

ROME, To-day. A telegram from Saloniki says the bombardment of the Dardanelles by the Anglo-French fleet continues most effectively, while the reply from Turkish forts is causing no damage, the ships being out of range of the land guns. The telegram adds the outcome of the duel has excited feverish anxiety all along the Aegean coast.

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Amsterdam says: According to correspondents of the Telegraph at Sluis, fighting in the Yser is very severe. It is reported the Allies forced the Germans back on the village of Jabbeke between Ostend and passed through Bruges without stopping. The Germans at Bruges are expecting an attack from the Allies. All draw-bridges are raised at nightfall; the sound of cannon has been distinctly heard at Ghent. The Telegraph's Amsterdam correspondent to the Central News, says: There is every indication of the Germans retiring on the whole front from Bruges to Thielt fifteen miles southwest of Bruges.

"SCRAPS OF PAPER"—WILL AMERICA PROTEST?

NEW YORK, To-day. Robert Bacon, a former Secretary of State, issued a statement yesterday before sailing for England, in which he said that by violating the neutrality of Belgium, Germany broke a treaty which she had with the States, when she signed Articles one and two of the Second Hague Conference. "Are we to suffer a nation to break a treaty with us on whatever pretext without entering at least a formal protest?" Will any one contend that our neutrality imposes silence on us under such conditions? Are the Hague conventions become scraps of paper without a single word of protest from the Government? If the treaties which we made at Hague are to be so lightly regarded then why not all our other treaties? As a matter of fact it is our solemn duty to protest against the violation of pledges formerly entered into between this Government. We assume a heavy moral responsibility when we remain silent by the assertion that we are fortunate, being safely removed from this danger that threatens European Powers, and to urge that as a reason for us to sit still with hands folded is as weak as it is unwise.

ADMIRALTY HAS NO CONFIRMATION.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty issued a statement in which it says it has received from German sources details of a naval engagement off the Chilean Coast, in which the British cruiser Monmouth was sunk and the Good Hope severely damaged. The statement says the Admiralty has no confirmation of the report.

BRITISH SUBMARINE LOST.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty announces that one of the British submarines was lost by the sinking of the British submarine D. 5 by a German mine in the North Sea on Tuesday.

NAVAL FIGHT IN NORTH SEA REPORTED.

LONDON, To-day. That four German dreadnoughts and four German cruisers took part in Tuesday's engagement off the East coast of England is confirmed by the crew of the steam drifter Carrigill. According to the skipper of the drifter the German ships appeared through the mist about 16 miles East North-east of Lewisfield at seven o'clock in the morning firing at the British cruiser Halycon, it lasted 15 minutes. The skipper also says that two British submarines, in addition to the D. 5 which was sunk by striking a mine, pursued the Germans.

GERMAN CRUISER LOST.

LONDON, To-day. The German cruiser Yerek struck a mine in Jude Bay and was sunk. The Yerek was an armoured cruiser 403 feet long, with a complement of 557 men, built 1904, displaced 9248 tons. She carries four 8.2 inch guns, and six 5.9 inch. Jude Bay, where the vessel sunk is an inlet of the North Sea on the German Coast West of the Mouth of River Weser.

But rightly it is Kaiser.

Wonderful Barrel Jumping Act

To-night there is a decidedly novel act at Rossley's. The Frog Man will give his wonderful barrel jumping act, the same as given on the Ringling Brothers Circus. Serpentello in other feats of daring. There is a feature film at Rossley's that is one of the best seen at the popular theatre of amusement. A great boxing match and a real fight without gloves. This picture was taken for a special purpose and is the only one ever filmed like it. Besides three others. Last night a Mr. Austin won the purse of silver. He was about three inches shorter than the Frog Man, but he made the best attempt. There is coming Kelly and Mack of Irish fame, known as the "Boys from the Emerald Isle," first class singers, dancers and comedians and musicians.

NEVER AGAIN

WILL WE OFFER, AS WE DO NOW, SUCH BARGAINS IN

DRESS MATERIALS,

(ALL ENTENTE-CORDIALE MAKES).

Being manufactures of England and France, and this is an offer of entente-cordiale. We are reducing stocks in certain departments, hence this offer. We could not put those English and French Wool Fabrics into stock to-day at anything like the figures we quote. If you don't wish a Dress or Costume now, it will pay you to buy and lay aside a length for later. We quote:

COLOURED HABIT CLOTHS, 54 inches wide.
Regular $1.30 to $2.30. Now90c. to $1.50 yd.
CHEVIOT (HEAVY) SERGES, 50 inches wide.
Regular 90c. yard for65c. yd.
LOT DRESS TWEEDS at various prices, which are greatly reduced ones.

ALL WOOL TARTANS, three ends only. Clans:—Gordon, MacKenzie and MacLaren. Regular 90c. yard. Now only 60c. yd.
LOT OF BLACK DRESS MATERIALS, principally Creppilles, Crepe de Chines, Volles, Crepe Cloths, Zibelines and Checked, Striped and Spotted Materials at Cost Price and under.

We may say that it is very difficult to get Black Materials at present in England and on the Continent at any price.

In conjunction with the Clearing Prices we have made on the above-mentioned fabrics we are also making lesser though generous reductions on our staple lines of Cheap Habit Cloths, Serges, Cashmeres, etc., despite the fact that our first costs on these goods are advancing.

ALL DRESS LININGS, TRIMMINGS, BUTTONS and other findings we shall give during this sale at large reductions to all buyers of Dress Materials.
