JUNE'S WELCOME.

Hail, flower-sweet June, our Lord's own month of roses,
Or bright blue sky and small tranquil sea, O'er her fairest buds the loveliest And smiling, leaves her lily wreaths for thee.
This month of months, we offer Thee, dear Master,
Its glowing days Thy chosen feast enshrine So meekly asked. O Love, our hearts beat To see, O Lord, what humble love is Thine, Within the vail, that loving Heart is pleading;
Thou listenest for the children's coming feet, Grave elder ones the prattling babes leading To bring to Thee their offerings fragrant-sweet.
And lo! the old, the sick, the halt, the weary They come to seek Thee at the sunset hour, Care-laden they! 'neath weeping skies, and Their morning gift hath blossomed into flower.
Unto their hearts Thou whisperest Thine own story, Thou tellest how the whitened harvest stands;
Of Thy Heart's pain, Thy Father's waiting arms,
Of Labourers few, of idle folded hands.
Thou pleadest gently for Thy children's labour,
Born for Thy sake, nor toil, nor grief is vain; Rejoice, sad hearts! 'tis ours the wondrous power,
For Him, our Love, the harvest-field to gain.
Then hail blest month! which brings us ever nearer
To that loved Heart, so true, so kindly free, Its interests dear each moment growing dearer,
A thousand welcomes, June, sweet June,

THE VATICAN PALACE

Adjoining St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

Extensive Library—Wonderful Creations of Sculpture and Painting—Raphael's "Transfiguration"—The Apollo Belvidere.

Written for the Nor-Wester.

There is perhaps no edifice in the civilized world to-day, which encloses within its walls so many attractions, ancient and modern, as does the Vatican Palace, adjoining St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.
Here Rome has collected all that is to be admired, from every age and from every clime. Here are statutory paintings and antiquities, which will testify that Rome has been the patroness of art. When the eye has beheld the wonders which are assembled here, it will look on other museums and other art galleries with but little pleasure. Built at different times, the Vatican is a union of palaces.
Apart from its unlimited curios, it possesses still greater interest in the fact that for centuries it has been the headquarters of the Popes of Rome; it has witnessed scenes ever memorable in the world's history; it bears silent testimony to the progress of the fine arts and science; and to-day it is proclaimed to the universe as the prison within which Leo XIII. considers himself a despoiled ruler. Neither the historical happenings, nor the current doings of the Vatican enter into the present narrative, for today the galleries of sculpture and painting, containing the choicest gems of the skill of the artist; the library, with the unbounded richness of its collections and decorations, are before our view, inviting us pressingly to feast our eyes upon the beauties which adorn their interior.

In going to the library one passes through a gallery, on each side of which are inserted in the wall inscriptions taken from the catacombs, and from heathen tombs. How striking the contrast! One seems to have been erected to the manes of the dead; it breathes no hope; the other, marked with the dove and olive branch, is symbolic of hope.

The Vatican library is by far the most gorgeous of the many staircases which adorn the palace. In the ante chamber, where the students follow their different pursuits, may be seen the portraits of the many cardinals who from time to time have been its librarians. From this room you pass into the library proper. Your eyes are lost in bewilderment. The rich frescoes on the walls, the polished marble floor, the collections of gifts made by European monarchs to the popes, recall to your mind some fairy scene of which it may have one time dreamed but never hoped to realize. This room is 216 feet long, 48 feet broad and 28 feet high. The costly presents are simply marvellous and would require a volume in order to be enumerated and described. A pillar of malachite from the emperor of Russia, a large vase of Sèvres porcelain from Louis Philippe, two tables of Egyptian granite, a pillar of oriental alabaster from the Pasha of Egypt—these are some of the gifts. Perhaps the most wonderful of all is a vase of malachite with pedestal, being three feet four inches in diameter and nearly the same in height. The rich greenness of its color, and the high degree of polish of which it is susceptible, impart a beauty to it which charms the eye. No other library comes at all near to the Vatican in the number of its Greek, Latin and Oriental manuscripts. Some of those are beautifully executed, being the choicest productions of mediæval monasteries. In an adjoining chamber may be seen a collection of curios gathered together by Benedict XIV. in 1750. The ceiling is ornate with allegorical frescoes, representing History writing on the back of Time, with Genius on one side and Janus and Fame sounding a trumpet on the other. Sarcophagi, statues, busts, basreliefs of every description and of most beautiful workmanship, are encountered everywhere. The visitor meanders around in a maze of attractions, not knowing whether to proceed, and caring less to extricate himself from the meshes which at every step throw their hallucinations upon his wondering eye.

He now ascends the steps leading from the Museo Pio Clementino, and the first object which greets him is the Torso. To the casual observer there is nothing at all of interest in this truncated specimen of sculpture, yet so perfect is its symmetry that the great Michael Angelo made it his study for years. We are now in the Gallery of Sculpture. We have viewed every known type of the art, but how little do we remember. It is only when years of separation have come between us and this happy hour that we will at all appreciate the won-derous field of study and admiration now thrown open to us. We are standing before the historic group of Lacco-nem; we form a hasty opinion of the workmanship, alas! it is too hasty, for what we now behold is one of the most perfect productions of the sculptor's chisel.
The agony depicted on the face of the aged father, as he vainly efforts to extricate himself from the coils of the serpents, is indescribable, and to be appreciated needs but to be seen. This remarkable piece of sculpture was described by Pliny as a chief d'oeuvre, and is mentioned by him as having been placed in the palace of Titus. Three Rhodians—Agesander, Polydorus, and Athenodorus are credited with being the sculptors. For centuries it was lost to the world, having been buried beneath the debris which gradually immersed old Rome, till the level of the once Imperial City, was raised some twenty feet. Under the reign of Pope Julius II. it was again brought to light, and the enthusiasm of the people on the occasion knew no bounds. The bells rang out in joy; poets saluted it with odes: it was carried in triumph, ornamented with flowers, through the streets of Rome.

A few steps bring us face to face with the "lord of the unerring bow," called the Apollo Belvidere. This celebrated statue has been looked upon as expressive of the perfect ideal of material beauty.

The gallery of paintings possesses even more interest than does that of sculpture; in the latter the glories of antiquity are commemorated and verified, in the former the glories of modern times are set forth. The tapestry room is in itself a wonderful creation. The designs were originated by the immortal Raphael, who at the instigation of Leo X. produced them. When they were presented to the public gaze by the great artist, Pope Leo X. exclaimed in a burst of admiration, "Divino!" In the loggia of Raphael may be seen fifty-two frescoes executed after his designs, representing the principal events of the Old Testament.
Besides these there are many other chefs d'oeuvre: the Burning of the Borgo, the School of Athens, the Parnassus, the St.
Peter in Prison, are representations, whose beauty remains forever in the memory. This portion of the gallery contains but few paintings, but those few stand out in bold relief as masterpieces of creative art. I might speak of a "Madonna di Foligno," by Raphael, a "Coronation," by Julio Romano, a "Communion of St. Jerome," by Raphael, too, nor could I dilate too much on them, for any one of these precious gems would be considered a world's attraction elsewhere.
Their beauty, however, is lost for the nonce, and is eclipsed by a still greater luminary, whose dazzling brilliancy sheds a lustrous halo on the spot. The "Transfiguration," by Raphael, is here seen and what a contemplation it affords!
Never was the divine inspiration of the painter more clearly depicted than in this most noble of the world's pictures.
The history of the "Transfiguration" is the most interesting episode in the life of the great Raphael. Sebastian del Piombo was considered a just rival to Raphael. He went to present to the popes the "Resurrection of Lazarus," of which Michael Angelo made the design.
Both he and Angelo combined to conquer Raphael. This work was the one which they held out in defiance to Leo X.
Raphael accepted the challenge. He shut himself up for a few weeks, and refused to see any of his friends. Soon the day for deciding the victory drew nigh. The Transfiguration was produced.
Rome sent up a cry of admiration and wonder from her seven hills, and all tongues shouted aloud. "It is a beautiful ideal, the paragon of art, the chief d'oeuvre of painting, the most sublime effort of the genius of man." Sebastian del Piombo was conquered, but there was a victory for him in the conquest, for the Transfiguration, "the great and only Transfiguration" was called into existence to subdue him. This great painting was transported to Paris, by order of Napoleon, but after the Congress of Vienna was again restored with many others to the Eternal City. I have sat motionless for hours before it, vainly endeavoring to drink in the sublimity of the inspiration which suggested it. I have gazed on the resplendent radiance of the Saviour's face, till the imaginative almost gave place to the real, so vivid is the omnipotent glory of Jesus Christ depicted on the smiling countenance. Here is portrayed the Deity and Humanity of Christ. His power and glory is shadowed before you, as He is raised on high conversing with Moses and Elias. The apostles hide their faces, for they cannot look upon that which is beyond mortal ken: there too is suffering humanity near the influence of demagogical thraldom. The father's anxiety, the mother's solicitude are faithfully shown, and their parental instincts are immortally vivified.
The figure of the apostle pointing heavenward reminds the awestricken spectator that what he then beholds, he shall one day see face to face in eternal kingdoms, if he but be true to the teachings of the transfigured Christ. No human power has ever achieved anything so marvellous as this creation.
Raphael is the author, but it is Raphael inspired by the great Creator. Day after day, myriads of spectators visit this masterpiece, taking away with them recollections that know no ending. It would require a guide such as he who conducted the immortal Dante, to carry you through the wilderness of painting which adorn the Vatican. Room after room is visited, each one throwing before you wonders which drew your eyes and the brilliancy of their beauty; new and hitherto unexplored worlds of fine art are laid bare to your view, till your mind becomes so fraught with the delicious sweetness of the place that it repeats "Lord is it not good for us to be here?" Only when years have rolled their insurmountable barrier between the present and the past can you begin to realize or appreciate all that was offered you in a visit to the galleries of sculpture and painting of the Vatican. "LEA FAIL."

CORPUS CHRISTI

At St. Joseph's, Balgonie, N.W.T.

Whatever was the case elsewhere, there can be no doubt but that the feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated with due honor at the church of St.
Joseph, Balgonie. The congregation numbering nearly two hundred, are mostly Gorman, and among them this feast is kept with particular devotion.
The eve of the feast saw the arrival of Rev. Father Roy, of Qu'Appelle, and the veteran missionary, Rev. Father St.
Germain, O. M. I., who were welcomed and hospitably entertained by the priest of the mission, Rev. Father Proth.

The evening passed quickly, beguiled by moving stories of adventures, encounters and hardships endured in the old days by the missionaries present, in the furtherance of God's work.

These same stories were emphasized and realistically brought home when at the time of retiring, Father St. Germain pitched his tent on the prairie near the church, and slept as he has often done before during his many years of missionary work in this country.

The morning of the feast was all that could be desired for the occasion, the sky blue, and the heat of the sun tempered by light cooling breezes. At a little distance out on the prairie on the south-west side of the church altars were erected embowered among trees, brought from the bluff, and radiant with young green leaves, Low Mass was celebrated at 5.30 by Father Proth. Between eight and nine o'clock the congregation began to arrive, many coming from a distance of 12 to 13 miles. The first communicants, eleven in number, were among the earliest arrivals, and were engaged in devotions at the priests' boise until the hour of mass. At 10 o'clock the High Mass commenced. The communicants entered the church in procession, and looked very beautiful, the girls being dressed in white, and crowned with chaplets of flowers, while the boys wore modest black. Father Roy was the celebrant assisted by Father Proth, and the impressive periods of the Mass was honored by the discharge of volleys from guns outside the church, an ancient German custom still retained by the settlers here. Immediately after Mass a grand procession was formed, the various altars visited and the Benediction given from each.
The scene was truly impressive, the solemn church music sung with real German tunefulness and vigor by the whole congregation, sounded religiously grand in the open air: the hushed and kneeling multitude bowing to receive the Holy Benediction, and then joyful exulting "Laudate Dominum" with the salute of guns, altogether made up an experience not soon to be forgotten.

cently, John Gillow, of Lylstone Hall Inglestone, Essex, has bequeathed the whole of his personality, amounting to nearly $650,000, for the benefit of the Catholic Church in England and Wales.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13. EDITORIAL NOTES.

The San Francisco Monitor alluding to the fact that on a recent Sunday a number of preachers in its city harangued against the Catholic Church and parochial school, says that Sunday may yet be remembered in San Francisco as "the day of the big wind."

Monsignor Satolli, in an article which he contributes to the International Journal of Ethics, demolishes very effectively the statements derogatory to the Holy See which the writer of a previous paper had advanced in the same magazine.

All the sects are by no means alike in their condemnation of Catholic parochial schools. Here, for instance is the Baptist Western Recorder, which says:

"For our part we honor the Catholics for this action, and we wish every Baptist parent from Maine to Texas would follow their example and send their children to Baptist schools.

Mr. Rider Haggard's reputation as a writer of fiction is now fully established. We quote from the Liverpool Catholic Times:

A PRAISEWORTHY ACTION.

At the last meeting of Branch No. 52, of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association the secretary was instructed to draw an order on the treasurer for the payment of the expenses incurred in furnishing a ward at St. Boniface hospital.

MR. GLADSTONE.

In common with all English-speaking people the world over the readers of the REVIEW have, we are sure, been glad to hear that the operation on Mr. Gladstone's eye has been successful.

HER SACRED MISSION.

A couple of weeks ago we took the liberty of hinting that we are not altogether in sympathy with the movement in favor of women's suffrage.

A BACK NUMBER.

We have been informed that our old friend the Rev. Mr. Roy has come forth from his long retirement, and has published a letter in a certain evening paper criticising a lecture recently delivered before the members of the Catholic Truth Society.

letter and do not wish to see it, for we are no more interested in what this gentleman may say regarding anything Catholic than are the majority of intelligent and large minded people of the city.

Since that time we have not heard much of him, but it may be that he is about to make a fresh start in the hope of cutting out a new career.

As for the women who live in the world, who have taken no vows but those of baptism. How many thousands of homes there are in the land from which the avenging hand of God has been withheld on account of some righteous mother!

LIBERALITY TO THE QUEBEC MINORITY.

It has often been stated in our columns that the French Canadian majority in Quebec treat the Protestant minority in a broad and liberal spirit.

order of your questions I will summarize: (1) At Confederation, ch. 15 of the C. S. L. C. was the only school law in force in this Province, and, properly speaking, gave no privileges either to the religious majority or to the minority, but since 1867 the defined privileges have been conferred upon the minority, as need for them became manifest.

(2) As any person belonging to the religious minority in a municipality has the right to dissent or not, he has also the right to cease to be a dissenter.

(3) All non-resident proprietors in a municipality may divide their taxes between the two School Boards.

(4) The dissentients of one municipality may unite with an adjoining municipality for the purpose of supporting a school jointly when they cannot support one alone.

(5) If there be no dissentient school in a municipality any resident head of a family professing the religious faith of the majority and having children of school age may send his children to a school in a neighboring municipality and pay his taxes thereto, provided that the school is not more than three miles from his residence.

(6) Any alteration in the limits of a municipality or the erection of a new municipality may be made to apply to the Catholics only, or to the Protestants only.

In 1869 a law was passed providing for the appointment of a Council of Public Instruction, to be composed of fourteen Catholic and seven Protestant members.

These members could meet in two sections for the consideration of matters in connection with the conduct of the school of their own faith, but could take formal action only in a meeting of the whole Council.

COMMUNICATION.

Protestant History for Catholic Schools.

To the Editor of the NORTHWEST REVIEW.

Sir,—The Northwest School Ordinance of 1892 provides that the Executive Committee shall prescribe the text books for Catholic as well as Protestant schools.

These Protestant officials have therefore unlimited power to Protestantize our Catholic schools so far as it can be done by text books; and from what they have already done we expect they will make their selections on the principle that what is good for a Protestant school cannot be objectionable to Catholics.

For upwards of three years the Star has been republishing articles from various papers in Canada and the United States recounting miracles in healing, wrought, often in forlorn cases, by the use of the preparation known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

A more or less intimate acquaintance with the publishers of several of the newspapers warranted us in believing that the cases reported by their advertisements, but were published as truthful statements of remarkable cures from humankind worthy of the widest publicity.

For some time past we have heard that other sufferers might be benefited also. For some time past we have heard the name of Mrs. Robert Bissett, of Colborne township, mentioned as one who had experienced much benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after years of painful suffering.

Curious to know the particulars, a representative of The Star called upon her son at his flour and feed store on Hamilton street, and asked how far the story was true.

Without hesitation or reserve Mr. Bissett launched into praise of Pink Pills, which he said had a most wonderful effect in relieving his mother from the suffering of a bedridden invalid, crippled by rheumatism, and restoring her to the enjoyment of a fair degree of health and activity for a period of seventy years of age.

"See her yourself," he said, "I am sure she will freely tell you all about her case and you can judge how much she owes to Pink Pills. I am sure that it is owing to them that she is alive to-day."

Acting on this cordial invitation, the reporter drove out to the well known Bissett homestead. Mrs. Bissett was found enjoying an afternoon's visit at the residence of a neighbor, Mrs. Robertson. She laughingly greeted the reporter with the assurance that she knew what he had come for as her son had told her the day she was in town that was wanted, and although she had no wish to figure in the newspapers she was quite willing to tell the facts in her case.

"It is about nine years," she said, "since I was first taken down with rheumatism and for seven months I lay helpless in bed unable to raise or turn myself. I doctored with local physicians and I suppose the treatment I received must have helped me for quite a long while, until another attack came on, and for two years I was again laid up, never being able to put a foot under me, or being able to get up in any way. I tried everything, bleedings, doctors, baths, liniments and medicines, and of course suffered a great deal, being troubled also with asthma. But although I finally got on my feet again I was not able to do anything, and could not cross the room only with the help of someone and leaning on a chair with they would push before me. By and by I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and though of course I had no faith in anything, I bought some at Wilson's drug store and began their use, and when I had taken two boxes I felt they were helping me. I continued them quite a while, improving gradually until now I am as you see me, although I have not taken them for a couple of months. I can now go around alone, and although I always keep my stick with me to guard against an accident or mis-step, I can safely say I am wonderfully improved from the use of Pink Pills. I am no longer a helpless burden and care on my children that I was, and Pink Pills did it."

Mrs. Bissett has been a woman of great activity and industry, and is possessed of an unusually bright and vivacious mind; she is a great reader and talks with all the charming interest of one of the old time mothers in Israel. In her long residence of 48 years in this county she has seen many changes, and to her patient toil and untiring labors may be attributed much of the prosperity and beauty which is characteristic of the old homestead.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, paralytic paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous prostration and the tried feeling therefrom, the after effects of the grippe, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, an in the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of any nature.

Bear in mind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Ask your dealer for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents, one, or six boxes for $2.50. The price a box, or six boxes for $2.50. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

AN OLD LADY'S STORY OF DEEP INTEREST TO OTHERS.

Mrs. Robert Bissett, who was Crippled with Rheumatism for Nine Years, Despite Advancing Years, has found Relief—She Relates Her Experience that Others May Profit by it.

These are pinching times, said the sniftaker. "Your time has come," grimly remarked the jeweler's errand boy, as he delivered a clock at a customer's residence. He—Was your father angry when you mentioned my name to him? She—In a perfect rage. He—Then I suppose he'll never give his consent? She—Yes, he will; it was because you had not asked sooner.

TAKE the world as it is, not as it ought to be.

THE C. P. R. summer time table comes into effect on Sunday, the 18th inst.

RIGHT REV. BISHOP CLY, O. M. I., is said to be still in delicate health.

THE Catholic Order of Foresters are said to have made great progress in Ottawa during the past year.

FAT men can find light summer wear to fit them at Deegan's Red Store, 547 Main street.

OUR mud-slinging up-town contemporary is back to its old occupation again.

Soon will the seaside and the lakes be in a giddy whirl. "All's fair in love," it even takes the freckles of a girl.

WE have heard it said somewhere in speaking of "sweet girl graduates," that they were "bright-eyed dears with bright ideas."

To those of our subscribers who intend to leave the city for the summer months, will please send in their address to this office.

A PRETTY girl can usually forgive a man for starting at her on the street, but you wouldn't think so to hear her tell the folks about it after she gets home.

THERE are 215 Catholic periodicals published in the United States. Of these 156 are issued weekly, 16 monthly and others bi-weekly, tri-weekly, fortnightly and quarterly.

THE Catholic population at Rat Portage, Ont., is increasing rapidly. The Faithful Companions have a convent there with eight nuns in the community, and a flourishing school.

It is said that Mgr. Satolli the papal delegate, will contribute an article to the July number of the American Catholic Quarterly Review on "The True Solution of the Italian question."

GENERAL BOOTH of the Salvation Army, avoids disputing with "Remanists," as he says. He is like the fox who, after trying in vain to reach the grapes, said he did not want them anyway.

At a meeting of the Patrons of Industry held at Portage la Prairie on Wednesday last, at which over eighty delegates were present, Mr. Charles Braithwaite, grand president of the association was chosen as a candidate for the House of Commons.

JOHN A. CARLING, second son of Hon. John Carling, was married at Montreal on Wednesday last to Miss Blanche Taschereau, daughter of Mr. Justice Taschereau, of Montreal. The ceremony, which was performed by Abbe Deguire at the residence of the bride's father, was private.

THE convention of the Catholic total abstinence union at St. Paul in August promises to be a great success and a tonic of enthusiasm is assured for every delegate that attends. Each society ought to be represented. Now is the time to prepare to elect and defray the expenses of the delegates.

MR. N. J. PENAULT, of St. Cloud, Minn., who when in Rome had an audience with the Pope, reports the Holy Father as saying of Archbishop Ireland: "He is a good man, a great man and a learned man. He has all my esteem. When you meet him tell him you saw the Pope and that the Pope loves and admires him."

HERE is a pen portrait of Mgr. Satolli as seen recently in the Baltimore cathedral by the correspondent of one of our contemporaries: "Archbishop Satolli, as he sat in a temporary alcove, with his mitre on, reminded me of an Italian saint. He closes his eyes contemplatively when no ceremony demands attention actively. In that case his countenance is serious, almost sad. But when summoned to performance the transformation is instant and startling. He is then agile, bright-eyed, dextrous and graceful, intellect and fervor beams in every feature. His voice is a thin, vibrant tenor that penetrates musically the most bowd of a large edifice, when intoning at holy mass."

HERE is a hint for the girls, as the season of roses is approaching. To perfume bureau drawers rose sachets are most desirable. They may be made of cheese cloth or any thin material, in cream or white, tied with narrow bright ribbons, or colors in harmony with the toilet draperies can be chosen. In size the sachets should not exceed six inches in length, and four in width. Fill them with petals freshly gathered, as such a small quantity will not need drying, the air circulating freely through and around them. They may be refilled several times during the season. It is much better to enclose the leaves in this way than to scatter them loosely through the drawers as is frequently done, for when they wither and dry up the result is not pleasing.

Cool blouse suits, just the thing for these warm days at Walsh's.

The Patrons of Industry have chosen Mr. Robert Fisher, of Oak Bank, as their standard bearer for the next Dominion election in the constituency of Lisgar.

Mrs. C. PLAXTON who has been undergoing medical treatment at St. Boniface hospital during the past couple of weeks, is now rapidly recovering.

Two of our esteemed contemporaries in the South, within the past month have succumbed to the hard times and discontinued publication, Facts of Chattanooga, and the Southern Cross of Birmingham.

At the meeting of the Catholic Order of Foresters in St. Paul, Thomas Cannon of Chicago, was elected high chief ranger; T. J. Callen, of Milwaukee, vice high chief ranger; Dr. T. F. O'Malley, medical examiner; Michael Cyr, treasurer; Thos. B. Thiele's secretary. All except Mr. Callen are of Chicago.

CHIEF CLARK returned Monday afternoon from near Morden. A farmer named Ainsley in that district had 37 hogs poisoned last Monday week by some party unknown. The animals showed the symptoms at noon and died in the evening. The chief investigated the case and will report to the department.

OVER 2,000 unemployed people gathered on Champ de Mars, Montreal, Monday afternoon and marched to the city hall where the city council was in session. The object of the gathering was to demand that public improvements should be resumed so that work might be provided. A petition was presented to the council, which promised to give it consideration.

LE MANITOBA, a weekly paper published at St. Boniface, and devoted to the interests of the French-Canadian Catholics, ceased publication last week. Let us hope that the suspension of this paper is only temporarily, and that ere long Le Manitoba will again resume its labors in this western portion of the Dominion with greater vigor than ever in the cause of justice and truth.

MR. A. H. KENNEDY received a telegram from his wife on Thursday last conveying the sad news of the death of Mrs. Kennedy's father, Mr. James Leaney, who died at Pembroke, Ont., Wednesday morning last. Mr. Leaney was sixty years of age at the time of his death, and had carried on business as a merchant in Pembroke for thirty years. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy our profound sympathy in this their sad hour of affliction.

REV. FATHER ACCORSINI who has been residing at the archbishop's palace for some time has left for Deloraine where he will remain for a few weeks to replace the pastor, Rev. Father Turcott, during his absence. We understand that Father Accorsini will give several missions in the towns of Southern Manitoba. Father Accorsini is an eloquent preacher, and during his stay at St. Boniface delighted the congregations of St. Mary's and the Immaculate Conception by his able and learned sermons.

At last we have the new straw hat, And lemon-colored shoe; Now listen for that question, Pat— "Hot enough for you?"

MR. JOS. CLEMENTSON, M. L. A., of Broadview, N. W. T., the newly elected member for Whitewood district, was in the city last week. Mr. Clementson, in an interview with a Free Press reporter regarding the flourishing condition of the Broadview district says, that good crops are expected if rain comes soon. "One peculiar incident says Mr. Clementson, in speaking of the rainfall of last week, that it did not extend as far east as Broadview, but apparently ceased midway between that place and Grenfell, and not beyond the spot where the Italian scissor grinder was murdered last year." Hitherto we had credited the member for Whitewood with more common sense than the entertaining of such superstitious ideas.

The brilliant editor of the L. H. Journal writes: "If some of our American women would trouble themselves less about municipal and suffrage problems, which men will take care of, and devote their much flouted capabilities for municipal executive ability toward the solution of the servant girl problem, which is theirs only, it would be better for our American life. So long as that distinctively woman's problem, and the additional one of the education of children, remain unsolved, our restless women have little need for other worlds to conquer. They have their hands full."

Advice to Young Men.

Some old genius gives the following advice to young men who "depend on father" for their support, and take no interest in business, but are regular drones in the hive, subsisting on that which is earned by others:—"Come, old with your coat, clinch the saw, the plough; handles, the axe, the spade—anything that will enable you to stir your blood. Fly around and tear your jacket rather than be the recipient of the old gentleman's bounty. Sooner than play the dandy at dad's expense, hire yourself out to some potato patch, let yourself out to stop holes, or watch the bars, and when you think yourself entitled to a resting spell, do it on your own hook. Get up in the morning, turn round at least twice before breakfast, help the old gentleman, give him now and then a lift in business, learn how to take the lead, and not depend upon for ever being led, and you have no idea how the discipline will benefit you. Do this, and, our word for it, you will seem to breathe a new atmosphere, possess a new frame, tread a new destiny, and you may begin to aspire to manhood."

An auctioneer at Middletown, Del., talked without rest for eight hours the other day and sold in that time 640 articles. A man of leisure in attendance upon the sale estimates that the auctioneer talked 82,000 words, or enough to make in print the bulk of a fair-sized novel.

HOW IS THIS?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, is the offer of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading. The proposition is to send the magazine one year or one dollar, the regular subscription price, and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the year, one each week. Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get two novels (one each week) for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Gell Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine, and your first number of the fifty two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. Pat and Hans.

Two tramps one from green Erin and the other from the land of sauerkraut and beer, one night excessively hungry, struck a farm house the owner of which would give them a lodging but no food. So they went to bed as usual. About twelve o'clock Hans got up, and went softly down to the pantry. Having eaten a hearty meal, he returned, being compelled to pass the farmer's bedroom. When he got back, Pat questioned him as to how he had passed Cerberus. "An' did ye not wake him up?" he asked. "Ya," answered Hans: "but I yooost stand still und say, 'Misoow, misoow.'" "Bogorra you ought to be an Irishman," said Pat. "I'll do the same meself." And, rising, he went slowly and cautiously down. But he was no more successful than Hans. As he entered the farmer's room, he stumbled over a shoe, kicked a chair, and awoke the farmer, who cried, angrily: "Who's there?" "Oh, lay still," said Pat, "O'im the cat!"

'Twill Pass Away.

The Colorado Catholic is convinced of one thing most firmly, and that is that the present wave of fanaticism and religious bigotry which is now sweeping over the country will not be stayed, however, and eternally crushed we believe equally as firmly. The death of fanaticism will be brought about not by the politician who one and all are ready to patter their souls, but by the fair minded people, who love justice and hate iniquity.
