CHAMBERLAIN

Report of His Great Speech at Birmingham.

Comments of the Press are as a Rule of a Congratulatory Nature.

MONTREAL, May 18.—A special cable to the Star says: The new policy of Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain is the sensation of Europe.

Speaking generally the ministerial journals throughout the country applaud Chamberlain's programme. The Times has another editorial showing the Canadian appreciation of the imperial largeness of Chamberlain's conceptions.

German telegrams indicate that a profound impression has been made. Leading Berlin journals are awaiting official inspiration, but the other journals forecast a political and commercial upheaval, the issue of which is impossible to foresee. They plead that Germany has no desire for a tariff war with Canada.

English liberal journals, with a few imperialist exceptions, attack Mr. Chamberlain and quote against him the British blue book, issued today, showing that Britain imported last year merchandise of the value of $221,000,000, and colonial merchandise of a value of only $106,000,000. They argue that Chamberlain proposes to penalize four-fifths for the benefit of the fifth.

The Westminster Gazette deprecates Chamberlain's attitude as inevitably making colonial questions subject to partisan strife in the motherland. The Chronicle says:—It looks as if Mr. Chamberlain wished to open negotiations with the colonies in view of his elevation to the prime ministership.

The Daily News argues that Mr. Chamberlain is already in open revolt from the government and must resign. Andrew Carnegie, interviewed in the Daily News, took pains to say that he was not in any way connected with the United States. He says scornfully:—"As for Canada, compare her growth in the nineteenth century with that of the United States. Her only chance in the future is to throw in her lot with the Americans."

The Cape Town Times says:—"If the British government adopt Mr. Chamberlain's policy the only plausible South African objection to preferential tariffs disappears."

The St. James' Gazette urges that every unionist association throughout the United Kingdom organize an electorate support of Mr. Chamberlain. No one doubts here but that Mr. Chamberlain is sketching his own electoral programme. The question is whether the ministry will ultimately assent despite Mr. Balfour's present hesitation, or whether Mr. Chamberlain will start the campaign on his own accord.

OTTAWA, May 18.—In the house today, Mr. Sproule interrogated the government as to Chamberlain's speech, in which he referred to the offer of Canada to extend further concessions to Great Britain and the desire of the motherland to protect the colonies from free trade with other nations.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that all information on the former point had been brought down in the budget, and there had been no recent correspondence on Germany's attitude towards Canada. Mr. Charlton asked what course the government would follow in case the threats to dump German criminals in Canada were carried into effect. Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that no official information had been received as to Germany's intentions. If it was sought to send criminals to this country prompt action would be taken to exclude them. Under the present laws the government had power to meet the situation.

THE SPEECH.

LONDON, May 15.—Mr. Chamberlain tonight made his first address to his constituents at Birmingham since his return from South Africa. He launched into a series of attacks on the restoration of cohesion in the Unionist party which the electoral reverses of the past year have shown to be suffering disastrously from indecisive leadership. He declared that the imperial policy of the next few years depended on whether the British should stand together as one free nation against the world, or should fall into separate states, selfishly seeking their own interests and losing the advantage which unity alone could give. If separation began with Irish home rule, the empire would dissolve into its component atoms. He asked the country to think if it meant to England as a power and an influence among the nations and to the trade and commerce of England if, when the population of the colonies equalled or exceeded that of England, they were still united. The fact that if England were in danger, the whole resources in men and money of the colonies would be at the disposal of the Mother Country, was something wonderful to have achieved, and was worth almost any sacrifice. He thought that South Africa should have done more towards bearing the burden of the war, but it was something to get that principle accepted.

Mr. Chamberlain launched into a remarkable suggestion, advocating a departure from the existing interpretation of free trade. He proposed the establishment of preferential tariffs between the colonies and Great Britain, and was cordially endorsed by the audience. His main point was that the present position of affairs in this respect was absolutely new, and that a new situation must be met by a new policy.

POSITION OF CANADA.

He spoke of Canada, which he described as "the greatest and most prosperous of our self-governing colonies at the present time." This colony, he said, was now in the full swing of extraordinary prosperity, which he hoped and believed would result in a great increase in its population, both in strength and importance. He recalled that Canada in 1896 voluntarily offered Great Britain a preference of 15 per cent, which it had since increased to 21-1/2 per cent, and he pointed out how British trade with Canada has since grown. Canada, he added, was now willing to go further, especially regarding goods in which the British competed with foreigners, if Great Britain

A DISPUTED ESTATE.

Some Very Contradictory Evidence in Case Tried Before Judge McLeod.

Before Mr. Justice McLeod in supreme court chambers yesterday, in the case of Benjamin H. Dean, executor of the estate of the late Sarah Howe, v. Elizabeth J. Dean there was hearing of the summons calling on the plaintiff to show cause why judgment should not be set aside on the ground that the same were improperly obtained. The defendant having never been a debtor to the plaintiff. It was asked to have the execution set aside on the ground that ancillary probate of the testatrix's will had not been granted in this province, the testatrix having been a resident of Nova Scotia at the time of her death, and her will having been proved there. The defendant alleged that she had no knowledge of the will of her husband, and was being carried on by her husband, the plaintiff, on her behalf; that she had never authorized him to act for her, and that she had never borrowed any money from her husband. However, she stated that the summons was served on her by a clerk in Mr. Allen's office, and that she did not understand the meaning of the proceedings until told that her property was in danger of being taken away from her. The plaintiff and W. Watson Allen made affidavits, one stating that Mrs. Dean knew of the conduct of the business, and the other that she was unaware of the same. Dean & Howe, who were referred the matter to the full court in term. J. B. M. Baxter and J. King Kelley appeared in support of the summons on behalf of the defendant, and W. Watson Allen contra.

LEAGUE SEASON OPENING

A Great Success—Clippers Defeat Y. M. C. A. Team.

Last night's opening of the St. John Amateur Baseball League was an unqualified success. Taken from every point of view, the promoters and organizers of the league should feel proud that their efforts have borne good fruit. Mayor White walked on the diamond at the invitation of the league, and was received with three lusty cheers. That was nothing to the ovation tendered him when he threw the first ball across the home plate from the pitcher's box. Afterwards the umpire made one of his blag speeches, in which he told the members that it would be a pleasure for him to offer a prize for league competition, the choice to be left to the executives of the league. It was a great crowd, over a thousand being present. The clergyman and the professional man criticized the various plays made; the mechanic and the tinner applauded the agility and alertness of the young men participating in the contest; many ladies, mothers and sisters of some of the players, drank in the sport with all the relish of devotees of the game; the irresponsible small boy and his bigger brother, who know more about the game than the umpire, told of this one's great catch, that one's "cocking hit," etc., etc.

The Y. M. C. A.'s went to the bat first. Fooshy was the first batter. He opened the season by striking out. Frank White walked to the plate and was tendered a hearty reception, to which he responded by driving a long one to left guard. It was nicely taken care of by Fleider Winslow. "Johnnie" Malcolm also got "the glad hand." He walked to first on a base and stole second. Wholly struck out, the side retiring with a blank as their portion.

For the Clippers, Cooper got to first as a gift of the pitcher's; stole a base and advanced by striking out. ALL NEW GOODS!

Shoppers take no interest in a store where goods and methods are out-of-date. The call is for newness—the freshness and sparkle that come from a running stream.

We talk to you of bargains, and of values that are special, but newness marks everything. The goods are not sold at little prices because old or shop-worn, or out-of-fashion.

Fast as these special lots are sold, others will take their place.
