INDIAN OUTBREAK IS THREATENED

Deposed Chief is Again on the War Path

Outlawed for Six Years He Has Returned and is Supported by Tribal

MONTREAL, March 12.—There is trouble again at Oka among the Iroquois Indians, and it is feared that there will be bloodshed before all is settled again. Chief Kenatasse has broken out again and has gathered about him seventy discontented Indians. There are 1,500 whites and 500 Indians on the reservation. Years ago Kenatasse, who was chief after the old custom, was deposed and the chief elected on the government plan. He defied the government and fought the police on until a regular army was sent against him. He outwitted them and escaped. He was declared an outlaw and was absent from the country for six years. He came back a couple of years ago and, as he kept much to the hills, he was allowed to remain unmolested. But he has again proclaimed himself chief and gathered about him the malcontents. He is again a fugitive from justice and an outlaw. Thursday night he attacked his white wife and beat her cruelly, breaking one finger before she wrenched herself free and fled. He followed with his rifle but failed to kill her. The Indian agent and his two police watched the house all night, fearing to attack as his home. In the morning they found that he had slipped away and crossed the shaly ice of the river. The agent is afraid that he will reappear when the ice melts, and with those who follow him make an attack which will lead to much bloodshed. There are three warrants out against him, and those of those in the village go about armed.

DECEASED M. P. HAD UNUSUAL CAREER

James O'Connor Was Rebel, Court-Journalist and Member of British Parliament.

LONDON, March 12.—James O'Connor, a Nationalist member of the House of Commons, who has represented the constituency of Wicklow since 1892, died today. He was born in 1838. James O'Connor was formerly on the staff of the Irish People, a Fenian organ. In 1862, he, with Luby, O'Leary and Charles Kickham, of the Irish People, was convicted of treason felony and was sentenced to seven years penal servitude. He was liberated before his term had expired and was subsequently connected with various journals.

FAKE CORRESPONDENT GETS HIS DESERTS

Six Weeks' Imprisonment for Forgery. Political Dispatch to London Daily Mail.

LONDON, March 12.—In the Old Bailey Court here Frederick Horner was convicted of forgery. He was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment. The dispatch received by the Mail over the name of his Plymouth correspondent against David Lloyd-George. The latter impugned the accuracy of the report and an inquiry showed that it had been sent by Horner, who had forged a name to the report.

A FALSE ALARM.

Considerable excitement was caused about one o'clock this afternoon by the ringing of the alarm bell No. 9 on Calvin Church. The whole department turned out but on their arrival no blaze could be found. A large crowd gathered, and were much disappointed on seeing no fire. The bell was pulled by some unknown person and the unusual occurrence—that was in broad daylight—is being investigated this afternoon.

RUTHERFORD STILL AT THE HELM OF ALBERTA'S SHIP OF STATE; WILL SEEK RECONCILIATION

EDMONTON, Alta., March 12.—The ship of state got off the breakers, temporarily at least, yesterday with Premier Rutherford still at the helm. Attorney General Cross returned to the cabinet and will stand or fall by the decision of the House. Premier Rutherford actually did write his resignation and tendered it to the Lieutenant-Governor, but the latter declined to accept it on the ground that having had a majority of eight in the House at the last division, Rutherford must still be considered to have the confidence

HEROES SAFE AFTER SIX WEEKS OF ALMOST INCREDIBLE HARDSHIPS AND DANGERS

SEWARD, Alaska, March 12.—Worn and exhausted by almost incredible hardships and brain-greivous marches of six weeks on January 7 left the wreck of the Starbuck in Cook Inlet and in a small rowboat undertook the desperate task of rowing to procure relief for their companions, who were brought into Seward last night on the revenue cutter Tahama, which for almost three weeks has been searching for them. The Tahama also brought word that the other two men are alive and safe.

From the men brought to Kodiak a story of hardship and suffering, together with a dogged courage almost beyond belief is gathered. The party of six left the wreck of the Starbuck on the morning of January 7, with a light east wind and a heavy snowstorm they left Uruus Cove, only to have the wind suddenly veer round to the northwest and fast reach the proportions of a gale. At every interval that could be snatched from the toll at the oars the men were compelled to keep balling out the boat. With the heavy sea that was running the little craft was fast becoming a mass of ice and sinking under its weight. All six were drenched with the spray which in turn from until they reached a little shelter of Cape Hougla, but the same time into a heavy pack of ice which soon had the boat in a snaring condition. They managed to reach dry land at Cape Douglas, but not until the boat had sunk under them with nearly all the provisions it carried. The water was shallow, and by wading to their armpits they reached the shore. By this time it had grown dark and a howling gale was blowing. At daylight the party managed to reach the cliff above the beach, and there a makeshift tent was rigged up and a fire kindled. All were terribly frostbitten. The wind again increased to a blizzard and huddled together lying flat on the frozen ground they passed the next thirty-eight hours. When the wind moderated somewhat they set off down the beach and only two miles from where they had spent the night, found the camp of Michael Pabov, a trapper, with a schooner hauled up on the beach. No amount of persuasion would induce Pabov to attempt crossing the straits. Two hundred dollars was offered

$58,000 THE VALUE OF NURSE'S LEGS

Actor Played the Suicide Role in Earnest

Carolina's Last Hanging—Aztec Idol Found in Mexico—Three Injured in Airplane Accident.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The judgment of the lower court giving to Miss Addie N. Hunt, a trained nurse, $58,000 for the loss of her legs in a railway accident at Great Neck, L. I., in 1908, has just been affirmed by the Appellate Division. When her suit against the Long Island Railroad was first tried, she got a verdict for $25,000 which was set aside as insufficient. On the second trial the award was $38,000 and the railroad company appealed.

AGED PRISONER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Dramatic Incident in Moncton Courtroom

Robert Geldart Horribly Crushed Between Cars—Removed to Hospital But Cannot Live.

MONCTON, March 12.—A sensational incident took place in the local police court yesterday when an aged prisoner, Robert Geldart, a retired sea captain, seventy-five years of age, after being convicted of independent assault on a small girl, attempted to commit suicide. The case had been in progress during the afternoon, the evidence of a number of small girls being taken pointing to the aged man's guilt. Just after conviction and sentence had been pronounced by Magistrate Kaye, Geldart reached into his pocket, and unnoticed by the court, drew out a revolver. He quickly placed the weapon to his head when the chief of police, Richard, sitting on the bench, leaped upon him and tore the revolver from his grasp, bearing him to the floor. The weapon was found to be fully loaded, so that the tragedy was narrowly averted. Chief Poirou's hand was quite severely cut in the encounter. The revolver had been fired during the day.

DURANT AND ALDERMEN GET TOGETHER AT LAST

Common Council Meeting This Afternoon to Settle Details of B. & R. Railway Proposition.

The common council met in general committee City Hall at three o'clock this afternoon. The Durant sugar refinery proposition will be considered by the aldermen and it is expected that the final details will be arranged. Durant reached the city on the Maritime express this afternoon. He expects to complete his business with the city at five o'clock and will call on some of the aldermen and will be anxious to learn the definite plans of Mr. Durant's proposition. He will be called on to answer many questions at the meeting.

PROSPERITY CAUSING SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Fire Department Threatens to Resign

Brakeman Confesses to Share in Bold Hold-Up—Hunchback Sentenced for Serious Offense.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 12.—A labor famine is threatened in Hamilton this year as the result of the wave of prosperity sweeping over the country. Manufacturers are contemplating difficulty in getting skilled labor and are already finding it difficult to keep up with orders from the West. WINDSOR, Ont., March 12.—The entire fire department of Sandwich may resign in a body as the result of the appointment of William Montgomery, a negro, as a member of the department. Montgomery was appointed by the Sandwich town council some time ago and the trouble has now reached an acute state. The Underwriters Association of Toronto will be notified that the town will be unprotected unless the council dismisses the negro. FERRIS, C. B., March 12.—Fred Belanger, a brakeman, arrested here yesterday confessed that he and Frank Isabeek, also under arrest, were perpetrators of the Coal Creek hold-up

TOO MUCH FOR PATTEN

LIVERPOOL, March 12.—James A. Patten, the Chicago speculator, who was convicted of the Manchester Exchange yesterday, sailed for New York today on the steamer Mauretania.

AN INTERESTING TRIP

Book Spots and Daily Paper Enlivened the Voyage—Hospital Sails and Man, Shipper Docks.

The Allan line steamship Virginian reached port about 12.30 o'clock today. She docked at Sand Point a short time ago. The Virginian brought about 600 passengers to this port. The Allan line reached Halifax at three o'clock yesterday morning with 1,439 passengers from Liverpool. There were 47 aboard the ship. The steamer established a new record for passenger travel on the Allan line. On the first three days of the trip the Virginian encountered rough weather, but after a few voyages was successful. On Thursday the Virginian travelled 460 miles. Sports were held on the decks and the ship was during the trip. The Allan line "Daily News" was published, keeping the passengers in touch with interesting matters, which reached the steamer by wireless. The Virginian made the trip from Liverpool to Halifax by the southern route. The Manchester Shipper will sail from Halifax for this port. The steamer reached Halifax yesterday. She was nineteen days out from Manchester and reached Halifax with a broken propeller. The Shipper met with terrific weather. Repairs to the propeller will be made at this port.

RAILWAYS REFUSE ALL THE DEMANDS EXCEPT WAGE ARBITRATION

CHICAGO, March 12.—It is unofficially announced that the railroad managers yesterday refused in substance every concession demanded by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers representing 25,000 men on forty-nine western roads, excepting arbitration of the wage question.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Col. Alexander Robert Chisholm, formerly lieutenant colonel of the staff of General Beauregard, of the armies of the confederacy, is dead at his home in this city, after an illness of about a month. Col. Chisholm was born in 1834, at Benart, S. C. He served throughout the entire war, and took part in the Blackhorse Cavalry charge at the battle of Bull Run and in other battles. After the war he returned to New York, founded the brokerage house of A. R. Chisholm and Co., and was one of the organizers of the mining board, now the New York Consolidated Exchange.

NEWS OF SPORT

DRISCOLL IS STRICTLY A SCIENTIFIC BOXER Tommy Murphy His His Hands' Full—Wolgaat Says Nelson is Entitled to First Call.

If Boyo Driscoll could hit with power he would be a formidable pugilist, but like other fighters hailing from Great Britain he is strictly a scientific boxer. Knockout Brown, a tough little customer, who beat him at the Fairmont A. C. Tuesday night, is far more aggressive and a heavier hitter. If Brown had been kept under a pull instead of forcing the issue there would have been very little action in the bout with Driscoll, so that on work alone the little slugger had a clean cut advantage and would probably have received a verdict if one had been rendered. Brown will meet Willie Beecher, also a hard hitter, at the National Sporting Club tomorrow night in a bout that should be a clincher.

Harlem Tommy Murphy, who has returned from Frisco, where he secured a questionable verdict over Owen Moran, has his hands full. Battling Hurley will be his first opponent at a local club on March 23. Jack Goodman, Leach Gross and Abe Astell are also on his trail. Wolgaat has refused to make a match with Murphy on the ground that the latter does not class with him, but the new lightweight champion is ready to meet Nelson again, saying the date is entitled to first call.

MONTREAL PLAYERS REPORT MARCH 25TH

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 11.—The Montreal Royals will commence their spring training in Columbia a trifle later than was at first anticipated. Manager Barrow has ordered most of his players to meet him at the Broadway Central Hotel, New York, on March 24. They will leave March 25 for Columbia, and will commence their work immediately on their arrival. Those players who do not report at the New York hotel will direct to Columbia from their homes. The Montreal men will stop at the Columbia Hotel, and Manager Wheeler is now making preparations to receive them. He is putting the tavern in shape to care for the Royals for the housing of 25 to 30 men for two weeks is not an easy proposition, when the traveling public must be considered at the same time. However, Manager Barrow and his men will find splendid quarters prepared for them when they arrive. The grounds at Elmwood are now ready for the finishing touches, to be applied with the roller, and when the diamond is smoothed, the entire field will be ready for play. The grounds at Elmwood were never better and there will be no kick from the Eastern Leaguers on the field they will use for practice.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA OIL OF WINTERGREEN, THYMOL AND GLYCERINE, COMBINED, USED AS A SIMPLE WASH.

Does it not seem strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema? There is a simple wash that stops the itch instantly and permanently cures. This wash is composed of mild and soothing oil of wintergreen, mixed with thymol and glycerine, and known as E. D. D. Prescription. It has now been used for so many years, and has proved so highly successful, that no sufferer should hesitate a moment before trying it. If you suffer tortures from eczema or any other skin disease write at once to the D. D. Laboratories, Dept. S. E., 23 Jordan St., Toronto, for a free trial bottle. We are confident that D. D. D. will cure you entirely and it will certainly stop that awful itch at once. Chas. R. Wasson (two stores) druggist.

BRITISH WINNING CHESS TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, March 11.—When play was given over for the day this evening prospects were not very rosy for the American team engaged in the twelfth annual cable chess match against Great Britain. While Marshall appeared to have a decided advantage on the first board, three of the American games looked rather favorable for the British antagonists. However, it is too early to predict the outcome with certainty. The contest tomorrow promises to be hard fought, and it is not expected that any of the games will be concluded before late in the afternoon. Time will be called at 6.30 p. m., and should any game be left unfinished and the contestants parties be unable to agree on the result Baron Albert D. Rothschild of Vienna will be asked to pass upon the disputed points as referee.

FUGEL IGNORES REQUEST OF NATIONAL DIRECTORS Declines to Submit His Side of Murray Case—Commission is Acting in Kling Case.

President Fogel of the Philadelphia club has ignored the request of the National League's directors to submit his side of the Murray case. Fogel says the directors have no jurisdiction and that the National Commission has no power to act either. Murray is practically invited to bring a suit in the Pennsylvania courts for his money. Meanwhile the commission is deliberating in the case of Catcher Kling, who refused to play with the Chicago Cubs last year after he had signed a contract. Kling is on the blacklist at present, though his offense is classed by many baseball men with that of the Philadelphia club. Murray's iron-clad contract has been broken by the Quaker magnate, according to eminent attorneys, and organized baseball has received a black eye.

MORE NEW PLAYERS FOR TORONTO TEAM

Manager Kelly Signs Two Stars—Keeler Has Not Decided Where He Will Play.

TORONTO, March 11.—Joe Kelley, the King Pin of the Leafs, is being concentrated on all sides on securing the services of Tonneman, the Nashville catcher, who was the second best batter of the Southern League, which is a Class A organization, and Dudley Thompson, the New York pitcher. Manager Burkhardt, of the Nashville Club, has written a letter to Manager Kelly, saying that Tonneman would be a "find" and that the Boston Club made a mistake when they let him go. Tonneman was a first baseman, and a fair outfielder, as well as being a good one behind the bat. He batted .312 for a club which finished in sixth position.

INDICATION OF ST. JOHN'S GROWTH AS A PORT FOUND IN RAILWAY EXPENDITURES

Intercolonial Railway Has Spent More Than $2,000,000 Here in Ten Years

Nothing could better illustrate the great growth of St. John's shipping business and its growing importance as the commercial metropolis of the Maritime Provinces than the increase in railway facilities for handling the business. Probably few people realize to what extent this improvement has been carried on, but when it is stated that during the last ten years the intercolonial railway has expended more than $2,000,000 to provide additional facilities here, and will during the coming summer further increase its trackage in order to meet the demands of the business it will be readily seen that St. John is forging steadily ahead. In reviewing the operations of the I. C. R. in the last ten years Terminal Agent L. R. Ross shows how the business has grown and how the management of the government railway has done in the way of meeting the greater requirements for carrying on the work. "In the year 1907," he said, "at low water we had 15 steamers with a tonnage of 23,656 tons. In the year ending in February, 1910, at the same wharf we had 124 vessels with a tonnage of 210,439 tons. In 1904 the total quantity of freight moved was 32,825, whereas last year we moved 62,965 tons. The yard at main line running from Mill street to Gilbert's Lane, and the Courtenay wharf, which in 1900 consisted of 100 feet of track, has been extended to 1,000 feet, and in consequence cars had to be held out along the line. During the coming season provisions will be made to further increase our facilities." Mr. Ross added that with the greater business there had necessarily been a proportionate increase in the number of employees. The foregoing statements should plainly be of thought for any who may be pessimistically inclined.

CHASE WILL CAPTAIN HIGHLANDER TEAM First Baseman Will Direct Affairs From the Field of the New York American League Team.

ATHENS, Ga., March 11.—Barely had the announcement been made this morning of the selection of "Hal" Chase as captain of the Highlanders for the coming season than the manager, George Stallings, received a telegram from "Lou" Criger, in which the backstop informed his new manager that he would leave immediately for Hot Springs for a thorough boiling out. He offered no reason for not being there already. Criger will probably spend at least two weeks there, and it may be near the end of the present month before he will join the team. The youngsters to shine were "Kid" Foster at short, "Tom" Madden in the outfield, and Loesch on the port side of the diamond. "Birdie" Cree and Frank Laporte treated the college students to exhibitions of long smashes to the outer garden. Tomorrow the team will be split up, one side with Chase as captain, and the other with Stallings as captain. If possible the team will play a full nine inning game. On Saturday the Highlanders will play their first exhibition game here with the Georgia University team.

ALL ST. JOHN WIN BEST GAME OF THE SEASON

Defeat Halifax Crescents' Here by a Score of 5 to 2—All the Boys Distinguished Themselves.

In an exciting game in which all of the boys distinguished themselves more or less, the All St. John hockey septets defeated the Halifax Crescents last night, winning out in the last few minutes by a score of 5 to 2. The game was by far the best of the season. The Crescents came back strong after their defeat by the Amherst Ramblers on Thursday night, and the result was that the local team were unable to score all in the first half, while the visitors secured two. In the second half the St. John bunch opened up but did not succeed in tying the score until the last five minutes of play. Once the ice was broken, however, they rounded them in at Brown, the Crescents' goal tender, with telling effect and won out in a very exciting finish. The game was witnessed by nearly 600 people. The ice was in first class condition and the game was in every way the best of the season. For St. John all of the boys worked hard, although Crebes is perhaps deserving of the most credit. Some of his stops were hair raising, to say the least. Parker and Patterson, on the wings, came in for a lot of hard knocks, while Philips was also in evidence a good deal. Clawson had two excellent goals to his credit. On the visiting aggregation, Purcell, Brown, and Grant were the stars. Geo. Blizard refereed the game very satisfactorily.

Depositors to Regain Everything. The Latest Statement—John Vassor, One of Bank's Oldest Residents, Dies Suddenly.

Some of those quite closely in touch with the depositors of the Bank of Montreal are saying this afternoon that the bank's affairs are not in as bad condition as is first reported, and that depositors will regain everything placed in the bank and that the shareholders will even be realizing some return on their stock and certainly will not be called upon for any further liabilities.

Some of the St. John papers have been misconstruing a criticism made by Philip Green, one of the recent directors. Mr. Green had urged for an independent audit, but could never get it, and this refusal of the other members of the board he spoke of as an honor but his remarks were not intended to be personal.

Tracts for Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has. In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless. The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Bellefleur, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. Emma Chateau, Valleyfield, Bellefleur, Quebec.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

LABOR MAKES MORE THREATS

To Extend Strike if Deadlock Continues

Governor Petitioned—Erie Day Brings Situation Nearer a Crisis—Comptroller Talks.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—The demands for arbitration of the differences between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company and its 4,000 or more striking employes became insistent from within Philadelphia today and outside of it. Everywhere it was recognized that the failure to arrive at an arbitral agreement was the only thing which stood in the way of a speedy calling off of the sympathetic strike in this city, which has practically paralyzed the city's industrial life and which the labor leaders again threaten will extend if the deadlock continues.

These threats, perhaps, were the very thing which, coming out of a meeting of the strikers, led to the meeting of an amicable adjustment.

At a representative meeting of business men today the way for arbitration was the keynote of a two and a half hour debate, which culminated in a demand upon both local and national influences to set in motion forces to bring the traction dispute before arbitrators. The meeting was held at the National Civic Federation where the federal authorities as well as the salutary influence of the National Civic Federation were appealed to step in and end the difficulty.

Governor Stuart at Harrisburg was petitioned by labor men to take action and the patriotic citizenship of the city and state was invoked in various resolutions, statements and petitions to exert its power to stop conditions which Philadelphia finds growing more intolerable daily.

Each day, however, seemingly brings the situation nearer a crisis. Good order prevailed throughout the city today. Not until late tonight was there any sort of an outbreak in any quarter of the city. A crowd of about 100 persons gathered in front of the Municipal Building at 10th and Locust streets tonight. A crowd display of turbulent spirit and passing trolley cars were stoned. The police by a show of force and the display of revolvers subdued the demonstration before much mischief was done. Nobody was seriously injured and there were no arrests. The meeting itself, thoroughly enthusiastic, was orderly. It was featured by a declaration by G. O. Pratt, leader of the striking car men, that the sympathetic strike would not stop until Pennsylvania if the fight were prolonged.

"We will go through the United States," he declared, "if we are not given cars run uninterruptedly today in greater number than since the strike began. The strikers do not claim many new accessions to their ranks, and such as there were, the employers claimed, were more than offset by defections from the strikers' cause."

Domination, and in many instances, United States and elsewhere, are men who have served in the Queen's Own, and the semi-centennial committee is desirous of getting personally in touch with as many of them as possible. To that end, it will greatly facilitate matters if the ex-members who are known to be in the city will communicate with the permanent secretary, Mr. G. L. Riddell, at King street east, Toronto, and prevail upon all the other ex-members they know to do the same. Mr. Riddell will promptly send them particulars.

WEAK MEN HAVE COURAGE

If you get up in the morning with an ache in your back, a dazed brain, tired nerves, of the toll and hardships of everyday life, these are signals that your vitality is at a low ebb—that some of the organs or functions of your body are in a weakened, morbid condition. If you are a young man, and free rein for evil habits and passions has exhausted your vitality, energy, or if on the shady side of forty you have not the strength and stamina that should be possessed by a man of your years, you can regain your health, strength and energy with Electricity.

"None are so blind as those who will not see," but if you are open to conviction, and want to improve your condition, I can convince you that my Belt does all I claim for it, and even more. You don't need to be taught that restless nights, sleeplessness, despondency, inability to concentrate your thoughts, loss of appetite, weak back, headache, pains here and there in various parts of your body, lack of energy and push, are all signs of nervous breakdown, physical debility, you know that; but what you want is a remedy that will restore the vitality that you have lost.

If you have doctors and druggists and got no benefit, that's no sign you ought to give up. Drugs can't restore your vitality. Electricity is for men like you. It's the greatest nerve builder and body builder in the world today.

To those who are tired of paying without results, and to those who doubt if anything will help them, I make this offer. If you secure me my

PAY WHEN CURED

I will let you have my Belt without paying me one cent in advance. THE WORLD HATES A QUITTER.—If you go into a fight, stay with it, no matter how poor your chances look. The other fellow probably wants to quit, and if you hold your head up he will quit first. The victory to the brave. It takes nerve and energy to win nowadays. You don't want to be a failure. You are made for better things, but you can't win without courage and energy.

Wells P. O. Dear Sir—I have been wearing your Belt for four weeks, and am thankful to tell you that my indigestion is cured.

JOHN V. E. PORTER. Dear Sir—I bought a Belt from you in December, 1905, and I have it yet. I would not return it for twice what it cost me. It cured the pain in my back completely. Your Belt was a blessing to me.

CHAS. JACKMAN. Box No. 25, Kilsyth, Ont.

CHAS. KELLY. Dear Sir—Two years ago I purchased one of your Belts for Sciatica and Rheumatism, and am pleased to say that it cured me completely. I have had no return of the trouble since.

I cannot take up more space with these extracts. But if you will send me your address I will mail you free my beautifully illustrated book, along with testimonials from thousands of grateful people, who have been fully restored to health and strength.

This appliance has cures in almost every town and city in the country and if you will write I will send you testimonials given to me by people that are probably well known to you. My Belt not only cures weakness, but Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Kidney Trouble, Nervousness, Constipation, Indigestion and Stomach Trouble.

Royal Household Flour

The best for Bread and the best for Pastry

"The Little Brother of The Rich"

NOW, this is not a talk about money.

It isn't a contrast between the rich and the poor, for in some things we are all equally rich and there are no poor brothers.

The poorest woman in the land can have just as good bread as the richest. The children who walk can have just as delicious pies and cakes and "goodies" as the children who ride in carriages.

All the money in the world cannot buy better flour than "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD", for there isn't any better.

And the woman who does her own baking can have just as good bread as is served to the Royal Household of England, and that is made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR sent to England from Canada.

And then, a barrel of "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" produces many more loaves than a barrel of ordinary flour. The bread is better—sweeter, nicer to eat—and more wholesome—has more health and strength in it.

Also, it makes more delicious pies, cakes, biscuits and doughnuts. Children, whose mothers use "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" at home, can have just as good baked things as the Princes and Princesses of England.

When it comes to "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" there are no rich or no poor. All can afford to buy the finest flour in the world, OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD".

For though "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" costs more per barrel than ordinary flour it contains so much more nourishment and makes so much more bread of superior quality it is in reality the most economical of all flours.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook"

Comprises 125 pages of splendid Recipes which have been tested and approved. Every woman who is interested in good things to eat should send and get it.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is made in Canada by the largest millers in the British Empire.

ENGINEERS FAVOR THE BUILDING OF STORAGE DAMS ON ST. JOHN RIVER

Interesting Evidence Given Before St. John River Commission at Bangor Yesterday Morning and Afternoon—Mr. Ferguson Advises That Competent Engineers be Engaged to Make Preliminary Report

BANGOR, Me., Mar. 11.—George Fowler, a New York civil and hydraulic engineer, who has made surveys for the Grand Falls Power Co. on the St. John river relative to the storage facilities of the tributaries of the St. John and also prepared the plans for the development of the power plant at Grand Falls, was the first witness called by the River Commission yesterday. He was interrogated by A. J. Gregory, on behalf of the Dominion of Canada. He said he made an examination of the Fish River district tributary to the St. John and also Teniscouata Lake and its surroundings relative to the storage of water. On Eagle Lake, which flows into Fish River, he found the site for a dam at the foot of the lake. Examining the shores of the lake he found that the water could be raised without damage to a height of six feet. Mr. Fowler described other lakes tributary to the St. John, by way of the Fish River and estimated that the water in all the lakes in question might be raised six feet without any great damage. He estimated that the level of Square Lake could be raised seven feet without overflowing more than a third of a square mile. The overflowed land would include the site of Langley's sporting camp, a dam at the foot of Square Lake would also raise Mud and Long Lakes. The area of the chain of lakes flowing into Fish River is estimated to be about 54 square miles by the engineer. In making the estimates of the levels to which the water could be raised in these lakes Mr. Fowler said that he had been most conservative. It was the intention of the engineers if the project was carried out to erect two dams, one at the foot of Square Lake and another between Mud Square Lakes seven feet and the lakes and Goss Lakes, which would raise above six and five feet.

Mr. Fowler was asked whether these lake basins with the increased level of the water would fill more than once in a season and he replied that he did not believe that they could be depended on to fill more than once completely, although he could not state definitely. The basins would fill at least once and partially again in the season. A dam sufficiently to raise water in Square Lake to a level seven feet higher than the present level, would cost comparatively little. A dam to raise Eagle Lake six feet, would not have to be

Fowler, a New York engineer, was the principal witness. He stated that Eagle Lake could be raised six feet by raising the shores, and that after examining Upper Square, Second and Long lakes he was satisfied the water could be stored to advantage without damage. He advocated the building of a dam between Square and Eagle lakes, which would raise the water six to eight feet above.

Mr. Fowler's address advanced a thorough inspection of the St. John river from the Allegheny mouth to the mouth of the Temiscouata river in Maine and the Temiscouata in New Brunswick, and that thereby much of the trouble on the St. John can be avoided, meaning the sorting of logs at Van Buren.

A. J. Gregory of Fredericton, the Canadian counsel, believes that both governments will spend money to improve the river and to create a storage system. He believes that storage reservoirs should be built on the Allegheny, Fish and Aroostook rivers in Maine and on the Temiscouata in New Brunswick, and that thereby much of the trouble on the St. John can be avoided, meaning the sorting of logs at Van Buren.

The International St. John river commission continued its hearing in this city this morning, calling Hardy J. Ferguson of Millinocket, chief hydrographer of the great Northern Paper Company of Millinocket, before the session. Mr. Ferguson's evidence was of considerable value to the commission, as he has in his capacity of hydraulic engineer of one of the largest paper companies in the United States had much experience in creating water storage basins. On the West-Branch system of the Penobscot River, Mr. Ferguson has increased the water storage facilities of the lakes in this section to 22,000,000 cubic feet, doubling it from its former capacity. The conservation was carried out for both manufacturing and log driving purposes. The work was accomplished by means of replacing the existing dams with new higher dams. He said that logs were driven from this to the Bangor boom, which is 75 miles below Millinocket, and in this distance they are sorted several times.

The dams which the Great Northern Paper Company has constructed for storing the water are all built of concrete. Concrete dams properly designed and constructed have an indefinite length of life. Mr. Ferguson's evidence was of considerable value to the commission.

The afternoon session began at 2:30 o'clock, Engineer Ferguson being recalled. Some questions were asked in review of his testimony. He was inclined to think that an addition of 2,000 second feet storage on the St. John river might be gained by storage, but was in doubt, as he was not familiar with the storage capacity available. To determine this, a series of measurements would be necessary and an observation of conditions. He advised that competent engineers be engaged for a preliminary report, the commission to make known the results they wished to reach and the engineers to make a report according.

The session was concluded at 4:30 p. m. The next meeting probably will be held in Bangor.

CIVILIZATION'S VENGEANCE.
A grave indictment of our western civilization is made in the charges brought by a clergyman whose experience entitles him to a hearing. Speaking of the white man in the east the Toronto Star says:

"The same authority is quoted as saying that the Japanese are spreading rice and opium all over Korea and Manchuria. The foreign concessions in the treaty ports of the Far East are hideous and monstrous, worse, I believe, than the Godom and Gomorrah of old, because more intelligently, more deliberately wicked. This, if it be true, is a serious indictment of our Western civilization. Despite the statements made by a McGill professor lecturing in Toronto the other day as to the 'wonderful mental development of the twentieth century,' and his assertion that 'the human mind has progressed considerably,' the depths to which civilized mankind will fall seem as abysmal as ever; nor, while the sum of human knowledge has grown, is there a corresponding increase in the number of great intellects and fine mentalities.

"The white man who thus goes astray is he whose rule of conduct is guided not by a clear view of right and wrong but by the restraints imposed by the law and the opinion of his neighbors. He is the kind of man who desires to be respectable rather than to be right. Such a man is likely to fall when these conventional restraints are removed, and especially when he comes in contact with races whom he has been trained to regard as weaker than or inferior to his own."

SOME OF "THE OTHER HALF."
One of the strongest arguments in favor of the theory that every girl should be taught to earn her living is found in the experience of charitable organizations in Great Britain whose main business is the alleviation of the sufferings of aged and destitute widows.

"I would have all the girls so educated," said Miss Finn, "that they could earn a living if the emergency arose, and I would have them save every penny they can spare. The widows of members of the Civil Service or of officers in the army and navy ought to be granted a pension that would make them independent of charity. And every man who marries ought to insure his life. Until all these things are done there will always be a pressing need for a Rowton House for gentleness. It does one good to feel that there are many good folk to help such work as this along by personal attention, and others who are glad to provide the necessary funds. We have no precisely similar charity in Montreal, but even in this country of few class distinctions most painful cases come to knowledge. These, when generous, naturally appeal to delicate and generous sympathy. The difficulty is that the most insistent appeals come from the fraudulent and undeserving."

SATURDAY SERMONETTE

CHARGE IT.
Sitting in the office of a little country store the other day I finished my letter in time to see a little boy and hear a little voice pipe up the legend at the top of this page, "Charge it!"

"I think there was a half pound of butter, a half pound of soda, a bunch of matches, half a pound of soap of thread, and some other little things he stored in his pockets and he looked like a very small travelling grocery, and I suppose what he had would represent the wages of his father for a day and a half. And then I thought of the many little boys and girls all over the land carrying home the scanty supplies for the home. Some of the little boys and girls had no credit for the father's drink, and the boy or girl who could get things by simply using the magic words, 'charge it,' used such 'magic' that they were the envy of those who could get nothing without using money. I know without knowing the man that he is honest, or has a reputation for honesty, his children could not get the things his home needed by simply saying 'charge it.' I have been thinking since the little boy went out with his 'charged' parcels, what a mistake the whole credit system is. It is generally a loss to the man who charges it for he knows that it is a risk for him. If the man does not get stuck or break a limb and there is not much sickness in the house, he will get his pay. And some of his 'charge' customers will get sick, lose their job, or run away and he must lose some of his goods through the misfortune of some of his customers and dishonesty of others. He often loses the friendship of some of the men who trade with him for he does not realize how much he is getting charged when he sees the amount he thinks the trader has made a mistake or been dishonest and charged him with things he never got. The customer loses by having things charged. He has to pay more for his goods. If he paid for them when he got them, he would have got them cheaper. And then the man who says 'charge it' and the man's wife, often get things they do not want if they could not get them in such an easy way. Paying down for things is a great curb on our desires, and many a man would go ahead who goes behind, if he could not get things without money. But there is always a settling day. Things charged have to be paid for in some way. Sometimes with a mortgage which is another way of saying 'charge it.' Sometimes by going to jail, and sometimes by running away, which are other ways of saying 'charge it.' Since the little boy went out, I have been thinking that a good many of us who think we never say 'charge it,' are having things charged against us. The hard, unkind words we say, the wrong things we do; the drunk we had; the illicit pleasure, are all charged and some time we must all 'pay, pay, pay.'"

The Evening Chit-Chat

How strong and well you look," someone said to me a day or two ago. I had seen a tonic to me ever since. I once heard of a man who was told by so many people that he looked very ill, that he finally was convinced that he must be ill, took to his bed and died. I am not sufficiently a new-thoughtist to entirely credit that, but I do believe in the power of suggestion enough to think that it helps to be told you look well and does harm to be assured that you have the general appearance of having one foot in the grave.

"Well, I shouldn't think the L's could afford a telephone. They live very simply and they dress almost shabbily. I should think Mrs. L. would rather have an occasional new suit than a telephone. I don't mean in substance but in spirit. If you live with, or are an average woman, I'll wager it has. For rare indeed is the woman who doesn't occasionally find it incumbent upon her to criticize the way her neighbor spends her money. And isn't it absurd? If your neighbor provided she pays her debts and does her duty towards her less fortunate fellow beings, chooses to spend her spare money for a yellow carpet bag or two or three tons of pickles, what is that to you? The only extravagance is in not giving as much pleasure or utility out of any sum of money as you could have by spending it at some other place or in some other way. And how on earth are you to judge of what is pleasure or utility to your neighbor? When I visited Vassar college not long ago I was deeply impressed by one thing and that was the custom of having the regular Sunday night Chapel preceded by an hour of twilight music. The girls drift quietly in from time to time. The latter service is compulsory, while this is not yet practically all the girls attend. The music is always of the best, of course—procured by a skillful organist or a beautiful singer—and out of the twilight it comes with a dignified and beautiful silence. I like the silent Church before the service begins better than any preaching. Emerson said once, 'I am sure he would have liked Vassar's Chapel in the music filled twilight even better than the silent Church.' I cannot imagine any more peace-giving service than this twilight music hour. I think it would appeal to many who do not enjoy formal services and I think every Church in the land would do well to adopt it."

Turpentine will remove paint stains from all kinds of woollen cloths. If the stains are old it may be necessary to add a little ammonia to the turpentine.
A soft cloth wrung out in hot water and wrapped around a hot water bag will make the latter much more effective, as the steaming heat is better than the dry.
A pleasing dessert has canned peaches as a basis. Serve half a peach on a plate and top it generously with whipped cream, sprinkled with crumbled macaroons.
The careful cook always breaks each egg separately into a saucer or a cup. Then, if perchance one is bad, it will not spoil the other ingredients in the dish she is making.
To remove grease from men's coat collars, rub with a cloth dampened in ammonia. This will sometimes remove the gloss from rubbed places, such as elbows and seams.
If cans of fruit are wrapped in old newspapers after they have cooled from the canning process and placed in a cool, dry spot, the printer's ink and paper will prevent their molding.
A stain remover that has proved successful with fruit and vegetable discolorations on the hands is made by adding four drops of carbolic acid to half a pint of glycerine and rose-water.
Flannel will not harden or shrink if when new it is put into clean, cold water frequently. Wash well in warm water, using a little soap to remove the oil. Flannel thus washed never hardens.

GET RID OF STOMACH DISTRESS
CHAS. R. WASSON SELLS THE MONEY BACK REMEDY THAT CURED WM. SHAFER
Every person suffering from stomach misery should read this:
"For years I have been a sufferer from acute indigestion, which caused distressing pains in my stomach. I learned of Booth's M-I-O-n-a Tablets and decided to try the remedy. I have used various advertised cures for my trouble, and now after having taken three packages of M-I-O-n-a Tablets can sincerely state that they have done me more good than anything I have ever tried, and am more free from this trouble than I have been in years. I am pleased to endorse and recommend this remedy to all who suffer with stomach trouble." Mr. William Shafer, of 250 Queens St. E., Berlin, Ont.
M-I-O-n-a is a safe and sure remedy. You can take a tablet any time the stomach is distressed and relief will follow in five minutes.

A case of "Looking before you leap"
BEFORE you select any Commercial School you owe it to your future to investigate the equipment of the school not only as regards the instructors but in the matter of office appliances. No matter how efficient the instructors, they lose much of their value if the equipment is not up-to-date and efficient.

This school is proud of its teachers, and it is justly proud too, of its equipment. A special effort has been made to provide the best office appliances possible to obtain. For instance we have installed a Burroughs Adding and Lining Machine, and our pupils are taught to use it. About one school in ten has a Burroughs. Bookkeepers (over 85,000 of them) are coming to realize what a great help the Burroughs is, and it is extremely doubtful if a commercial school graduate could get a position now-days where a knowledge of the Burroughs and its application will not help him to a better salary. We will be glad to talk to you.

CROUP

THERE IS NOTHING that strikes terror to the hearts of parents more than to be awakened in the night by the ringing cough which accompanies an attack of croup. The child may retire with nothing but a slight cold and a few hours later the family be aroused by the ominous symptoms. Every home where there are small children should be prepared for these sudden attacks, as prompt treatment is necessary. Do not experiment with remedies of doubtful value, but get that has been in use for nearly forty years and never known to fail.

Mr. Homer Krohn, of Lisbon, Iowa, in a letter to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, Ontario, says: "Out of the many bottles sold last winter not one was returned. We recommend it especially for children with croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its prompt cures of coughs, colds and croup. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse an attack of croup may be averted. This medicine is entirely free from narcotics or injurious substances of any kind and may be given to the little ones with absolute safety.

"We guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says W. M. Parish, Palmerston, Ontario. "Out of the many bottles sold last winter not one was returned. We recommend it especially for children with croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its prompt cures of coughs, colds and croup. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse an attack of croup may be averted. This medicine is entirely free from narcotics or injurious substances of any kind and may be given to the little ones with absolute safety.

Attacks of croup are most likely to occur during the early winter months, and every family with young children should be prepared for it. Keep a bottle of CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY in your home. It only costs a quarter, large size 50 cents. Your druggist sells it.

For Coughs, Colds, BRONCHITIS, SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, CROUP, ASTHMA, PAIN IN THE CHEST and ALL BRONCHIAL or LUNG TROUBLES there is nothing so equal

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It contains all the virtues of the world famous Norway pine tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mr. John Polch, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with a nasty hacking cough for the past six months and used a lot of different remedies but they did me no good. At last I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and with the first few doses I found great relief and to-day my hacking cough has entirely disappeared and I am never without Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house."

The price of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 25 cents per bottle. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, so be sure and accept none of the many substitutes of the original Norway Pine Syrup. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BOSTON TUNNEL PLAN MAY BE HELD UP

BOSTON, Mass., March 11.—Unless some way can be found to adjust the situation the proposition for the construction of a tunnel between the North and South stations by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad cannot be accepted by the city of Boston, one account of an adverse supreme court decision.

The statement was made today to a legislative committee by City Solicitor Babson, but Attorney Wm. H. Conliffe of the Boston and Maine Railroad jumped into the breach with a statement that before the next hearing there would be a new bill submitted which will meet the difficulty.

The supreme court decided last week that the city could not build a street which was for the partial use of private parties.

PEED—speed—more speed!

This is an express age we are living in. Express trains are straddling the country from coast to coast, contracting distances so marvelously that now a business man may spend alternate days in cities one thousand miles apart; express steamships are tearing over the Atlantic so fast that today one may visit the Old and New Worlds each other week; express subways under rock and river are making a small town out of Greater New York; express elevators take an officeholder to his skyscraper home while he is getting his key from his pocket.

And now we have "express" buildings—structures reared so rapidly that, like the fabled Blarney Castle, they seem to spring up overnight. Such derelicts were on the site of the new Gimbel department store building, in Herald square, a building race—a race against time—is in progress, the magical speed of which is without parallel in the history of construction.

It is literally a Marathon of the skies. October 20 the site was a huge pit quarried out of solid rock to a depth of two and a half stories and covering nearly an entire block in area. By afternoon of that day the bases of concrete and iron grillage were completed and ready for their stupendous burden, and by night of that day the race of iron began.

Big white arc lights and yellow incandescents gleamed all along the four deep walls, and a small army of men slipped down into the pit and made anchorages for the derricks. At midnight the derricks came with a groaning and creaking of enormous trucks and a snapping of whips over the four and six horse teams. Such derricks were never seen before, even in skyscraper New York. They are selected giants of the Oregon pine forests, commandeered by the skilled paramours of speed so perfectly that it seems they might have been turned by some monster lath.

The masts are ninety feet long and weigh more than eight tons each; the booms measure eighty-five feet. Three flat cars, each carrying eight or ten tons, are used to transport the masts and deal of keel and railroading were required to bring them here over their transcontinental journey. They could only be hauled through the streets when traffic was suspended at night.

One by one they were lowered into the pit, and one by one they were poked their slender heights into the murky glare of the electric lights. Hastily the power connections were made, and by daylight at least one of the big fellows was lifting iron out of the streets as though it were paper mache. Now more iron had to arrive. All day long the narrow side streets were filled with an almost continuous succession of four horse trucks, each truck almost as long as the street is wide. The drivers are, in the main, former ironworkers, and know how to grapple a load and where to place it. The heavy rattling work goes on swiftly; each load disappears like magic into the capacious maw of the pit.

The Flag on High.
Now, already, a column stands up and is marked with a flag in tribute to the "pusher" and his gang of seven who got it up first. Fifteen minutes later another pushed up its bracketed head, and now another—and more in swift succession.

They weigh fifteen tons each, these big points, and are bolted fast to the concrete bases—each an entire piece of rolled steel—and so their sturdy heads are half a story above the street level. Headers, beams, girders are added as fast as the derricks can lift and place them. They do delicate work—these monster cranes. As the beams—two men riding them and scrambling back and forth to make connections—rise up and hover over their resting places the final fit is a question of only a fraction of an inch, and these mighty wooden arms move by these fractions.

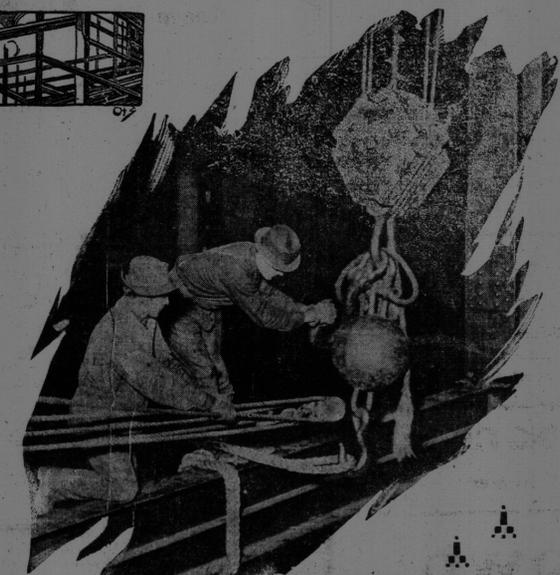

Only the best iron men are employed upon this record breaking race of iron, men who won their spurs on the Manhattan Bridge, the Singer and Metropolitan towers and other big constructions. There are many applicants. They stand waiting on the sunny side of the cross street, their little newspaper bundles—containing their overalls and often their all-sung carelessly over their shoulders. But only the best are chosen—the steady, tactful workers who neither waste energy nor lives.

Still, they work in a little world of ever present peril. One man who had broken his two legs and collarbone in previous jobs laid his hand slipped off at the knuckles thirty minutes after he started work; another had the muscles of his leg stripped off by a falling pile of iron; a third was whirled over the drum of a derrick; they get good pay—often as much as $50 a week when they work overtime. But one would rather be a plumber, it would seem, and draw the same wages.

The hardest struggle of the iron construction takes place in the basement. After the derricks are raised out of the pit, the iron skeleton goes skyward by leaps and bounds, the huge derricks along with it.

"Express" Building.
And now comes the marvel of it all! Within thirty days after the pit was bare and ready—thirty days after the roof of this giant iron structure will be laid. Only thirty days to erect and rivet more than thirty million pounds of iron! Only thirty days to build the twelve stories of framework of a monster building which is to house one of the greatest department stores in the world.

These are the orders—"Thirty days to top the framework."
"Will you do it?" I asked the superintendent.
"We—hope so," was all he said, but his manner said—"We will!"
It is the American way. Just recently the residents of Johannesburg returned after the hot season to find that their city boasted the completed framework of a new skyscraper. They rather doubted their eyes at first. A building much smaller and erected just previously had taken two and a half years for its erection. An American firm built a larger structure in

The "Cowboys of the Sky" Working at Night Under Arc Light.

But six months is too long to-day—in America. Over in the heart of the antique shops of Fourth avenue, at Twenty-eighth street, a million dollar structure is growing solidly toward the sky at the rate of a story a week. October 1 the site was a rock floored excavation covering nearly the area of a block. January 1 a great structure of granite, limestone and brick, a building which twenty years ago would have attracted thousands of sightseers, will have each of its twelve stories steam heated, electric lighted, all ready for occupancy.

It seems unbelievable, but there the big building stands—and grows before your very eyes! It is a structure put up at express speed. From a distance the conglomerate clatter of the various building operations resolves itself into the steady roar of a blast furnace. Near at hand all seems deafening confusion at first. Drays and heavy trucks rumble and crowd in continuous procession all around the base of the structure. As soon as one pulls out another takes its place. They are dumping iron, lumber, cement, pipe, brick, coal, cinders, tackle, derricks, wire reinforcement, terra cotta, masons' tables—what not? In each of the two narrow streets a mounted policeman is galloping ceaselessly back and forth in an effort to get some order out of the seeming chaos.

Derricks are creaking, cables whiplapping; strident yells, and hoarse, insistent orders rise above the deafening "rat-a-tap-tap" of the pneumatic riveting hammers. Overhead white hot rivets are hurling and hissing through the air. Overpowering confusion! So it seems to a layman. In reality the whole operation is a masterpiece of order—order backed by speed! Don't forget the speed.

He's a Young Man.
"Organization does it," said the superintendent. He's a young man, under thirty, and a small man, but he knows building, and his eyes, brain, body are never in repose.

"Now," he went on in his rapid, nervous way, "there are nearly a thousand men on the job this minute. They represent a good many trades—ironworkers, masons, electricians, steamfitters, plumbers, carpenters, plasterers, fireproofers, stone cutters, concrete mixers, general laborers. Each trade has its foreman, each gang its 'pusher,' and men are responsible to the foreman, and the foreman to me. Every problem, and they come up every minute, filters right down to me—quickly, too. Sometimes we use megaphones.

"It's up to me to make these trades dovetail. That's the most difficult problem, hard enough on a slow job, but a good deal worse when the work is geared up so tightly that not a minute can be lost. The moment one trade puts in the last lick your next trade should be standing ready for its work.

"So much for saving time that way. There's another way. Whenever it's possible we start two different operations at once."
He pointed up to where a regiment of masons were making an outside brick wall literally grow as you watched it. "We started those men on the fifth story, building up, while the limestone was being laid on the second story. Two days ago there was open crew work between the two gangs."

"In other words," I began, "while you were waiting for the limestone?"
"No, no!" he interrupted. "Cut out the word waiting. There's no waiting on the job. That's just the point. We don't wait; we double up and dovetail."

Inside the little office a man was scratching his head over a blue print. The superintendent gave a short chuckle. "That's the plasterer foreman," he said. "I just told him that we'd begin plastering tomorrow with a hundred and thirty men. He's a hustler, but he looked flabbergasted."
"You can't blame him. It is only three weeks ago to-day that the last foundation was finished. In three weeks more the roof will be laid. That's the time he has in which to plaster this building."

"What did he say?"
"Oh, he simply said, 'That's going some.' Now he's figuring how he can do it. And he will. Tomorrow he'll be enthusiastic about it."

Men of Iron Nerve.
They are the daredevils of the construction world, these iron men. Before the era of skyscrapers they were bridgemen, building their bridges at dizzy heights over rushing rivers; but in this new field their work has lost nothing of its ever present danger. From the time the iron structure leaves the ground their footboards are narrow iron beams, their elevators the ends of derrick chains, their whole environment a mass of swinging iron and white-hot rivets. A misstep means death—at any time almost, a dull eye means a maimed hand or limb.

"Cowboys of the sky" they are called, and they have many points in common with their dashing, daring brethren of the plains. They love a race and a risk for one thing.
As a big derrick was lowered to the street and lifted upon a four horse truck I saw two men load up the cable hooks with coils of rope and cable and then go riding up with the load—scrambling recklessly for footholds of any kind as they went sailing upward on a flying journey several hundred feet above the streets! Such adventures are strictly against the rules—against the law even; but the foreman wasn't looking, and it takes so long to go up the ladders story by story.

Now the derrick—away up above—was flush with the building, so to keep the load from hanging from the sides on its way up a man must stand below and hold it taut with a stout rope. To accomplish this against the heavy weight and tension he wound his rope twice around the big mast of the derrick and, bracing his feet solidly, let it slowly out. Everything went well till suddenly his feet slipped. Then, as the rope lashed through his hands, the heavy ball and hook with its cargo of men and cables went dangling through the air and snapping into the midst of a gang of outside bricklayers.

None of them was hit, but it seemed inevitable that the two men on the swinging cable would fare less luckily. The cable was twisting and whirling then around and around. If their bodies were caught between the heavy wall and an iron girder of the building—! But they were iron men. Such exigencies are common, and hence trivial.

The taller of the two—"Slim" Bass is his name and he has but one eye—slipped up the wire cable like an animated monkey; and as the ball crashed against the girder he reached out swiftly, caught a column, clutched it and slid safely down to the same dangerous crosspiece. His companion executed a similar maneuver by sliding down and swinging on the hook. In a moment the two were standing safely side by side upon the girder of the building and grinning down at the man who had lost control of the rope. It all happened within a second, and half a minute afterward the two men had disappeared within the iron skeleton overhead and the incident was swallowed up in the rush of the work.

Marble and brick walls and concrete floors are racing in pursuit, but the inside skeleton of iron is away ing on the following morning. And so this mangle work goes on. Before three o'clock each day a whole new story is laid.

The derrick must be raised every two stories, by which time the iron structure has risen so high about the big wooden sticks that they cannot swing freely. Obviously, it is no easy task to raise these nerve-risks, with their awkward lengths and weight of several tons each. Formerly—just even size, in fact—a jib-jack or stilling derrick was rigged up to do this snippled raising power. That took too long—a day almost to a derrick; and the scheme of raising the derrick raise itself was hit upon.

By this plan the boom is hastily detached from the mast and the latter lifts it up to its required place, just as a still-leg derrick would elevate a regular load. Then the boom is stood upright and gaped down; and taking the part of the mast it lies down its "gills" of cable and lifts up the mast.

That method reduced the raising time to about three hours, which was still too much. So when "Jimmy" Savage came on the job he did some figuring with "Jimmy" Ward, superintendent, and between them they hit upon a new scheme. "Why make two operations out of it?" they queried. "Why waste that time? Let's raise the whole derrick at once." And they did. Moreover, what once took a day is done now in forty minutes!

in the lead, towering gaunt and specterlike toward the sky. The top of the skeleton is bristling with a battery of derricks, dipping, swinging, raising ceaselessly in tune of clanging signal bells, picking up the heavy beams and columns as though they were packstraws and placing them with the nice precision of a human hand building a house of cards.

Each heavy piece of iron is marked to be put in a certain place, and its beveled ends are punched and ready for the riveting bolts. The moment the ends meet, a man sitting calmly upon the dizzy world slips a tall wrench through one of the meeting holes and makes a hurried connection. Then he reaches the bolt with a bolt and nut and next the riveters come and seal the ends solid with their white-hot balls.

There, as you watched, the whole career of construction of a new story grew and will endure for ages. Before the close of the short day an entire new story of iron will be added to the building. Think of this speed!

"A story of iron a day—that's my job," said the iron foreman. He is the same "Jimmy" Savage who was foreman on the Brooklyn end of the new Manhattan Bridge and was the first man to cross the structure. He is somewhat lame—that came from a one hundred foot fall off a railroad bridge—and he was one of those who just missed death on the Thames bridge when the "traveller" fell and killed twelve of his fellow workers.

The strain of this iron work makes a man either exceedingly restless or very serene. Savage is of the latter kind. He is only twenty-six years old, but he has all the gravity and steadiness and the heavily lined face of a man twice that age.

"A story a day," he repeated. "That's fast work. A few years ago we took a week. Today the job is over with before you get your second wind. Seems like I came from Philadelphia over here last yesterday and now we're taking the derricks down."

"Every morning the light docks with a load of iron—twelve hundred beams, or one hundred and eighty columns, anyway four hundred and fifty tons of iron in all, by three o'clock in the afternoon the whole load has been trucked here; and by five o'clock the derricks have picked it out of the street and laid it where we want it. Then I start raising the derricks so that we can begin laying iron the first

But how can a derrick, or any dead weight for that matter, shoot up into the air with nothing above to pull it up? The proposition is mystifying to a layman.

The Miracle Part of It.
"Easy enough," said Ward with a quick gesture. "Just fold your derrick up and tie it together. Then detach your main 'fall' or hoisting cable, from the boom and give it a clutch—and your mast about a third of the way from its top. Now start your winding drums in the basement—and what's going to happen? Why, the derrick must go up—that's all. Yes, it seems like raising a thing by pulling down on it, but it does a lot."

As fast as each iron story is added the flooring is laid. This also takes little more than a day. For merely a week at most was thought necessary.

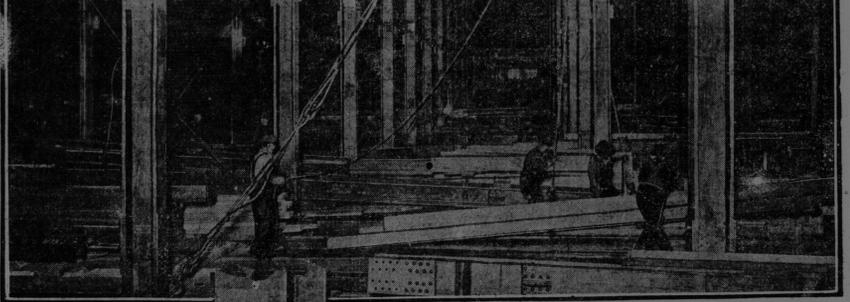

First the iron columns are blanketed with envelops of baked clay; then the flooring follows—at the heels of hollow tile which "montal" surfaces allow for the reception of floors and similar surfaces below for the ceilings.

The finished structure then—the modern skyscraper—is really a great steel cage clothed with stone, cement and brick. Its walls and partitions are very thin as compared with the old-fashioned brick processes which took up room and gave less strength, which were slow and costly, moreover, and sweet.

Speed, strength, economy—these are the cries of the building world to-day, and the progress made time for a decided tribute to American inventiveness and enterprise. The present day "express" building is exclusively an American institution.

And now what of the future?
The skyscraper is very young. Only twenty years ago a nine story building of the new type of iron and concrete was erected in Chicago. Its unusual height created such wondrous and attracted so much attention that pedestrians blocked the sidewalks and had to be dispersed by the police. The structure came to be called the "Rubberneck Building."

That was merely a score of years ago, and to-day we have the "Singer" five times as high, and the Metropolitan tower, of fifty-two stories, and they have already ceased to be marvels! Again, and as the latest note in the construction world, there is the express building, a million dollar structure, erected in less time than a farmer takes to build a barn.

Interior of the New Gimbel Department Store Building, in Herald Square.

Daily the commercial sky line here grows higher and faster. A marvelous building race is on. Just where and when will it end?
I put the question to a leading architect, whose name and works are known from coast to coast, and his answer came promptly.
"I must end now so far as height is concerned," said he. "Greater height is not impracticable. A hundred story building is feasible—even a hundred and fifty. The building regulations allow for a pressure of fifteen tons to the square foot of rock foundation, permit a structure even two thousand feet high. But that is not the question. There are other considerations besides commercial ones. Thus far we have, in numerous instances, 'dogged' our skyscraper privileges. I mean to say that which motives have dominated that our buildings have been rushed skyward without regard to others' interests. What, for instance, of our sky line from an artistic sense? What of our streets, if they are to be turned into gloomy caverns? This from a practical viewpoint.

The skyscraper of the future may attain still greater height, but it will end in a tower which will not be greater in bulk than one-quarter that of the lower building, and come no nearer the foot of the building than the main building comes to the curb of the street. That will give a broken sky line and yield light to the street. The new American metropolis then will be a towered city—in reality a city built upon a city. Perhaps then, in this skyscraper era to be, we shall have light bellies built from tower to another, to obtain quicker passage of access from one tower office to another. Why not?
By speed—yes, more speed is possible. Every one is working to that end now. From the architect to the way to the designer of the rolling process that make the iron. It is a matter of simplifying these processes, and also of perfecting a building system. Your 'express' building, as you call it, is the building of the future."

"ORANGE LILY SAVED MY LIFE"

These words of expressions having the same meaning are contained in hundreds of letters received during the past year. Many were from women who had suffered agonies from falling of womb; others from women who had suffered agonies from surgical operations, as the action of Orange Lily; and others from women who had suffered from suppressed menstruation, leucorrhoea, general debility, etc. For all these and the other troubles known to women, Orange Lily furnishes a complete, general, never-failing cure. It is applied direct to the suffering organs, and its operation is certain and beneficial. As a trial actually proves its merit, I hereby offer to send absolutely free, a box worth five, sufficient for ten days' treatment, to every suffering woman who writes for it. Samaria Made Him Hate Liquor—Costs Nothing to Try.

Wives and mothers, sisters and daughters—don't see your loved ones go down in disgrace to the drunkard's grave. Many men have not the will-power and physical strength to overcome the craving for alcohol. They must have help. "Samaria" Tasteless Prescription is the savior of the drunkard. It destroys the taste for liquor and at the same time builds up and strengthens the system so that the reformed drunkard requires no stimulants. "Samaria" has brought peace and happiness to thousands of wives and mothers. Read what this Montreal lady says.

"I had for years patiently borne the disgrace, suffering, misery and privations due to my husband's drinking habits. Hearing of your marvelous remedy for the cure of drunkenness, which I could give my husband secretly, I decided to try it. I procured a package and mixed it in his food and coffee, and, as the remedy was odorless and tasteless, he did not know what it was that so quickly relieved his craving for liquor. He soon began to pick up his appetite for solid food, returned, he stuck to his work regularly and we now have a happy home. I hereby advise all women afflicted as I was to give your remedy a trial."

TERRIBLE DISASTER IN CARDIFF VILLAGE

Freight Train Wrecked, One Man Missing

Farmans to Engage in Fight Over Patents—Memorial for Webster—841 Park for City Lots.

CARDIFF, March 11.—The bursting of a dam at an old colliery at Blandydych in Rhondda Valley has flooded the village lying below, destroyed many houses and rushed into a school having 800 pupils, who narrowly escaped drowning. The lives were lost in the village, the inhabitants of which fled.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., March 11.—An extra freight, No. 777, on the Boston and Maine Railroad, was wrecked early this morning, midway between Salisbury and the Newburyport bridge. It was reported that several cars were derailed. William Welch, 18 years old, who was riding on the brake beams, was caught in a mass of wreckage and seriously injured. The train, which was bound from Portland to Boston, was hauling potatoes. Of its crew of 18 brakemen and other employees, including men who cared for the cars in the potato cars, one man is missing.

PAIDR, March 11.—Henry and Maurice Farman announce their intention of sending a lawyer to the United States to aid them in contesting the suits for the infringement of patent rights instituted against the aviators by Wilbur and Orville Wright. The Farman has themselves taken out many patents, and are as much interested as the Wrights in securing a clear definition of the respective rights of aeroplane inventors and builders not only in the United States but on this side of the Atlantic.

FRANKLIN, N. H., March 11.—The foreclosure today of a mortgage on the birthplace of Daniel Webster, a farm in the southern part of this town, may lead to the formation of an association to purchase and maintain the place as a memorial to New Hampshire's famous statesman. The property, owned until today for five years by Arthur C. Jackson of Chicago, is now sold by the Franklin Building and Loan Association.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Announcement was made tonight that the American League baseball park at Broadway and 158th street, will be offered at once for private sale. It is intended to cut it up into 150 city lots.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 11.—Edward Payson Weston, pedestrian, ten days absent from home, was seen at two hours today. He is probably in the neighborhood of Deerfield, 35 miles from Syracuse.

BOSTON, Mass., March 11.—James P. Clark, one of the best known military field marks in New England, died of heart failure today at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Mr. Clark was born in London, England, 63 years ago.

ATTRACTION PROGRAM FOR Y. M. C. A. ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment to be given in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be of unusual merit and will undoubtedly attract a very large audience. The programme will commence with a number of musical selections, including a piano duet, quartettes, solos, etc. The young men's classes will then present an exhibition of torch swinging, a sailor's hornpipe and pyramid building. This will be followed by the Indian hunters' drill by a number of young ladies in aboriginal costume. The concluding feature will be a series of about thirty beautiful tableaux illustrating some of the most romantic scenes from Longfellow's poems. Only a few seats remain on sale and the proceeds will be used to pay for new furnishings for the room devoted to the Junior department.

HOPING FOR THE END OF THE BIG STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—With the Federal Government interested in the National Civic Federation appealing for its assistance, and nearly every local trade aroused to action, all Philadelphia hopes that the general movement started yesterday to end the big labor conflict will speedily bring about the desired end. This is the twenty-second day of the street car men's strike and the eighth of the general walk-out in support of the trolley men's cause and neither side to the controversy shows any disposition to yield.

Editor Used a Well Known Tonic and System Builder

The Editor and Manager of the Daily Star, "Arrow," is only human. This being so it is not surprising that he should feel and suffer as other men. Mr. Alex. Fawcett says: "I had a very severe attack of La Grippe which left me very weak, spiritless and run down. I seemed to have lost all ambition. At this point I realized that my condition was likely to become more serious unless I took myself in hand. Day by day in this 'Half dead and alive condition' I was listlessly looking over recent issues of my paper, The Daily Star, of which I am Editor and Manager, when my eyes rested on an advertisement of PSYCHINE. This clearly and explicitly set forth a case so exactly resembling my own that I at once purchased a bottle of the Medical Pills. After taking two or three doses I felt like a new man, and before half the second bottle had been used, every trace of the bad effects of La Grippe had left me. PSYCHINE has a marvelous effect on the system, and I have strongly recommended it to some of my friends similarly afflicted and they have used it with equally beneficial results."

GIN PILLS CURED BOTH.

Think of being stricken down by illness at a lonely moment in the woods! Many times, this has happened to those hardy pioneers who "blazed the trail" to new fields.

Mr. James is one of those brave men who is making a name and a fortune for himself in the far West. Unfortunately, Mr. James overtaxed his strength in a time of trouble, and he would have to give up his claims and his work.

Monro, B. C.

"I have much pleasure in testifying to what Gin Pills have done for me. I divide the year about equally, working on the ranch and on various logging claims, being consequently entirely dependent on bodily fitness for a living. At times, I have suffered like many others in this country from the Consumption and Rheumatism, sometimes to the extent of being laid off for weeks altogether.

Having tried many remedies, I have pleasure in stating that your Gin Pills are the only remedy under which I have received any permanent benefit. I had been using Gin Pills only a short time when the pain in my chest left me and I have not returned since.

I take care to always have Gin Pills on hand, though my present condition does not require medicine. I have recommended Gin Pills to other men with similar troubles."

Was Weak and Nervous.

Mr. Paul Poul, Casacaquia, Que., writes:—"About five years ago I gave up all hope of getting better of heart trouble. I would nearly choke, and then my heart would stop beating. I could not lie on my left side, and became so nervous and weak I could not work. A friend told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before the first box was taken I felt almost well, and the second box completed the cure. I have advised many others to try them, and they have all been cured of the same trouble. I have offered to pay a box for anybody they do not cure."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all diseases of disorder arising from the heart or nerve system. REV. EDWIN T. MILLER, OF JEMSEG, DEAD

One of the Best Known Baptist Clergymen of the Province—A Native of St. John.

Rev. Edwin T. Miller, of Jemseg, a well known Baptist minister, passed away at his home at 8:15 o'clock this morning. The deceased was well and favorably known throughout the province and his many friends will regret to hear of his death.

The late Mr. Miller had been confined to his bed, suffering with anæmia for the past several weeks. The deceased was born in this city in 1849. He was a son of the late Professor Samuel S. Miller, who formerly conducted a large private school here.

The deceased graduated from Dalhousie College. For a time he had pastored in Nova Scotia and later was located at Brton, Conn. At the latter place he was Grand Chaplain of the Oddfellows. Mr. Miller had been pastor of the Jemseg Baptist Church for the past two years. He enjoyed the sincere confidence of his congregation, who will greatly miss a worthy pastor. Besides being prominent in I. O. O. F. circles

HARD TIMES HARD ON THE POOR CONSUMPTIVE

Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives Makes an Urgent Appeal for Money.

$25,000 Required to Cover Bank Overdraft and Provide for Maintenance of Poor Patients.

These head-lines tell the story of our needs. They are heavy and urgent. Many times during the past twelve months the question has pressed itself upon the Trustees, "Can we continue the work further?"

Every month brought its quota of accounts for salaries and wages of staff, bills of butcher, milkman, eggs, groceries, heavy coal bills—a serious item—and other uncontrollable expenses so long as the doors were kept open.

14 DEATHS AND 11 BIRTHS THIS WEEK

Fourteen burial permits were issued at the Board of Health offices during the past week. Causes of death were as follows: Consumption, 2; acute indigestion, 2; cerebral hemorrhage, 2; cancer scutilla, 1; grippe, scarlatina, premature birth, whooping cough, carcinoma of intestine, one each.

The deceased are: George F. Taylor, 236 Rockland Road, aged 18 years; Mary Harrigan, 102 Winter street, aged 50 years; Rachel Jackson, 70 Waterloo street, aged 76 years; Isabella Jane Haslam, General Public Hospital, aged 46 years; Annie A. Greig, 58 Wall street, aged 65 years; Abner W. Forsyth, 8 Hanover street, aged 18 months; Elizabeth Smith, Chesley street, aged 4 months; Mary Jane Baird, 17 Brunswick street, aged 50 years; Charles Osborne, 11 Hospital street, aged 75 years; Rachel A. Whitteart, 5 Marsh street, aged 43 years; Child of James Buckley, 53 George street, aged 2 hours; Anastasia Hamilton, 247 Rodney street, aged 16 years; Registrar Jones reports eleven births during the past week. Seven of the number were males. There were three marriages.

How Women and Girls Earn Money

Thousands Are Deserting the Old Vocations of Dress-making, Stenography and Housework for New Professions

"St. John Star" Free Coupon for Mrs. Knowles' Book "Lessons by Mail—Beauty Culture"

Abby Beatrice Knowles, the woman who has been instrumental in establishing thousands of women and girls in the profession of Beauty Culture throughout the United States, Canada, and Great Britain, has recently arranged for the free distribution of literature, designed especially for women and girls who would take up Beauty Culture as a profession.

Included with the free literature which is now being sent to all applicants is a beautifully illustrated book containing nearly one hundred life-like illustrations and photographic reproductions showing the wonderful opportunities for the Manicurist, the Hair Dresser, and the Masseuse; it describes a wonderfully simple and practical way to learn to become an expert in the various branches of Beauty Culture, and shows how a Beauty Parlor can be started at home at a very little expense, or how a visiting practice (called at the homes of select patrons) can be conducted.

Mrs. Knowles declares that there is not another profession for women that offers the opportunities for travel, seeing the world, for making money, for placing women and girls on an independent basis and in refined and pleasant surroundings, as does the profession of beauty culture.

During a recent tour of the United States and Canada she interviewed many women and clerks who held positions as clerks, stenographers, dressmakers and domestic servants, as well as many unemployed, and the intelligence, ambition, and desire for advancement shown by these women clearly proved their fitness for this new, dignified, and profitable profession.

Arrangements have been made to send the literature and book to all women and girl readers of The Star, and Mrs. Knowles requests that the fathers, mothers, and brothers of young ladies assist in drawing attention to this announcement. Only 50,000 copies of the book have been printed. Those who wish a copy should cut out the coupon below at once and mail it to: Abby Beatrice Knowles, 2238 Eighth Avenue, New York.

FREE COUPON

He will deliver a notable discourse on the "Resurrection" from St. John 5:28, 29. Seats free and there will be no collection. This speaker's graphic treatment of the above subject has won the keen appreciation of earnest Christians and honest skeptics.

There will be a mass meeting for all men in Trinity Church, Sunday, the 13th inst., at 4 p. m. Mr. Allan, secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, and Mr. F. W. Anderson, having the same relation to the Presbyterian Church, will be the speakers. On Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the school room of Centenary Church a conference will be held and these two gentlemen wish to meet with all the local pastors and all laymen interested, particularly the missionary committees of all the churches.

WESTERN WELCOME FOR JAP'S ENGLISH BRIDE

People Who Were Married in St. John Now Happily Settled Down in Moose Jaw.

The pretty English girl who recently met and married in this city a Japanese from Moose Jaw is now happily settled down with her Oriental husband in her western home. The Morning News of recent date tells of the homecoming as follows:

A number of Mr. Nakane's friends met in the C. P. R. restaurant last night to welcome his bride to the city. The tables were decorated with carnations. After the guests had done justice to a splendid dinner Rev. Mr. Chegwinn proposed a toast congratulating the host and welcoming the hostess which was ably seconded by Mr. Sifton. The guests present were Rev. and Mrs. Chegwinn and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Sifton, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, Sifton, and Messrs. Foy, Arnold and Amato.

The same paper of earlier date contained an account of the romantic wedding taken from the St. John Sun, and in her western home. The wedding announcement printed in gold and tied with blue ribbon have been received by Miss Charlotte Pratt, secretary of the King's Daughters' Guild in this city. Miss Pratt has also received a letter from the secretary of the Travelers' Aid Society of London, England, acknowledging the receipt of information regarding the wedding, and thanking her for the care and attention which she gave the lonely English bride on her journey to St. John.

Mr. and Mrs. Nakane had a very pleasant wedding trip across the continent. The bride's letters to friends in this city from Montreal and Winnipeg, where they stopped to see the sights.

VALUABLE SPECIAL PRIZES ARE OFFERED

For Dominion Fair—Time Limit for Readers Extended—Splendid Live Stock Accommodations.

Among the special prizes to be awarded at the coming Dominion Exhibition will be the following: Three silver medals by the Canadian Hackney Society; several medals by the Canadian Bank of Commerce; $200 in cash by the Canadian Clydesdale Society; a gold medal for the best shire horse by the Shire Horse Society, of London, Eng.; and special awards by the Bank of New Brunswick.

The date for the final reception of tenders for privileges and concessions at the big show has been extended to March 24th in order to give several interested parties in outside places an opportunity to inspect the grounds and facilities.

Considerable interest attaches to the erection of new cattle accommodations as breeders in various parts of the Maritime Provinces and Canada generally are anxious to learn just what provision is to be made for their exhibits. It is proposed there will be 12 sheds, varying in length from 100 to 200 feet. The sheds 200 feet long will have twenty-eight 7-foot stalls, each stall accommodating two head of cattle, while the shorter sheds will have accommodation for half that number of animals. The remaining length will be of intermediate length, the length of the building being governed by the shape of the ground. These sheds will be graded, thus facilitating feeding, etc.
