TRAINLOADS OF NEWSPAPERMEN

Will Travel Up the St. John Valley on Saturday—The Imperial Press Conference

On Saturday July 31, the noble St. John Valley will be visited by nearly 150 of the world's most renowned newspapermen, and incidentally by the greatest number of the Empire's nobility that is ever likely to pass this way again, for among the number of visitors are 20 peers and knights. This is the great Imperial Press Conference, representing the most important newspapers of all parts of the Empire. The first similar gathering was in England some years ago and it was intended that there should be such a foregathering at regularly recurring intervals of years, but the Great War intervened and this is the first conference since. The party landed from the S. S. Victorian at Sydney early this week, and will be the guests of Canada on a tour covering 46 days. A committee of the Canadian Press are the immediate hosts and of this committee Lord Atholstan, owner of the Montreal Star, is honorary president, while Charles E. Crandall, managing editor of the Star, is the secretary and has the management of the great excursion from coast to coast. Mr. Crandall is a New Brunswick man and was formerly editor of the St. John Sun. Among the visitors will be Lord Northcliffe, owner of the London Times and a string of other papers, Sir George Newnes, Lord Harnsworth, Sir Gilbert Parker, and a host of other titled gentlemen. Every country which flies the British flag will be represented and the New Zealand delegates have already been traveling six weeks to each Canada's shores. The C.P.R. and C.N.R. have each equipped a train, calculated to be the most luxurious that ever ran on wheels, which will convey the party across the continent and back. Each train consists of ten sleepers, diners and observation cars. Leaving St. John Saturday morning the trains will run to Fredericton where there will be a civic reception. After a stay of three hours they will proceed by the Valley road to Woodstock where a brief stop will be made. Soon after 5 p.m. the trains will start north over the C.P.R. and will run through to Edmundston without official stop, transferring to the C.N.R. at Cyr. The trains may be looked for at Hartland between 6.30 and 8 p.m., running half an hour apart, and the people further up the river may look for them in the course of the evening time. The passing through of this important excursion will be a sight to see and remember and the people of the Valley will not be far away from the railway when the trains are expected.

Publication of "The Open Hand"

The re-print of the quaint old book, "The Open Hand," which The Observer has long promised, has been again delayed. For the production in proper manner of this work the newly installed linotype is necessary, and as there has been weeks of most vexatious delay in getting that machine properly "functioning," as well as delay incident to practically the rebuilding of the office and resetting of many machines, the work of getting out the book has been and is still held up. Not the least of the difficulties in the way is the scarcity of competent help in the mechanical department. What staff we have is highly efficient and willing, but twice the number of hands are needed to take care of the steadily growing volume of business that comes to us.

Those who are anxious to see the new edition of "The Open Hand" are asked to possess their souls in patience. We will have the book—in time. And when it is ready for distribution all may rest assured that the fact will be blazoned forth in these columns in the largest type we have. The demand for the book has been unprecedented, and every mail brings enquiries as to when it will be ready for distribution.

Since the price of $1 was fixed for the book the price of the India ink feather-edge paper it was intended to use in its making has increased 200 per cent. This fact will not affect the price of the book, however.

WOODSTOCK DEANERY MEETS

One of the most profitable and genuinely enjoyable chapters of the Woodstock deanery was held in the church here on Tuesday and Wednesday. Rural Dean J. R. Flaveling of Canterbury presided. There were present: Revs. J. R. Belyea, Andover; W. H. Lance, McAdam; H. F. Rigby, Woodstock; J. Ross Jones, Centreville; L. A. Foyster, Tobique; G. Bennett, Richmond. Rev. G. M. Trueman, rector of Prince William, and Rev. D. H. Loweth, curate of Trinity church, St. John, were present as visitors. At the service on Tuesday evening Rev. W. H. Lance preached to the people. Last evening all the clergy and a number of the congregation went to Glassville where Rev. J. R. Belyea preached.

HOTEL CARLETON

G. Murray McLeod has taken over the former Billing Hotel and has been making many improvements in the house, reuniting papering and installing a modern bath. There will be all new furniture and furnishing, and the new hotel will be well able to take care of the travelling public. The house is better fitted for a hotel than any the town has ever had.

Frank C. Day, who successfully conducted the old Commercial hotel for a year and made a wide and favorable acquaintance among the travellers, will manage the renovated hotel and Hotel Carleton will be the name by which the house will be known.

It is expected that the hotel will open to the public early next week.

TWO BALL GAMES

HERE THIS WEEK

There will be the biggest, most important ball game of the season at sharp six tonight when Houlton's crack team comes over to win or lose.

Last evening Hartland team went to Mars Hill and put it over that team for the third time, winning in a score of 4-2.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 sharp there will be a game at Hartland between Limestone, Me., and Hartland.

Don't miss seeing the games tonight and tomorrow. See the boys in their new suits. Both the opposing teams are strong and likely to give our boys all they can do.

CHAUTAUQUA TO COME TO HARTLAND

Will Be at East Florenceville Next Week; Here in October

East Florenceville's great attraction next week will be the big tent Chautauqua which will begin a six nights' engagement on Aug. 3. The services of The Observer have not been solicited—on a commercial basis or otherwise—to boost the enterprise of our neighboring town, nevertheless for the general benefit of its readers it urges all who can to take advantage of the educational, inspiring and amusing week's program. The people have brought right to their own doors class entertainment and lectures of the highest order, better than which is not often accessible to those living in large cities.

People in Hartland and vicinity should not, in their enthusiasm to patronize the affair at Florenceville, lose sight of the fact that Chautauqua is also coming to Hartland in October, with a program in every respect as high class and interesting. A few residents of the town pledged themselves to bear the expense of the Hartland Chautauqua and as there is absolutely no money reward in it, the people in general should be ready to help to relieve the few of the financial responsibility they have taken upon themselves. The program for Hartland will cover six entertainments in three days, and season tickets will cost $1.50, only 25 cents for each entertainment. To take care of all the expense incident to the enterprise the sale of 300 tickets is necessary, and this should be accomplished without difficulty.

In due course of time much more about Hartland's Chautauqua will be announced through these columns. Mention is made at this time only to point out that the East Florenceville event coming next week does not mean that the Hartland Chautauqua is not coming off. All who appreciate good entertainment and mental stimulus should plan on taking in both events.

John T. G. Carr

Lessons Out of School

By GERALD ST. ETIENNE

(Copyright, 1934, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The stay on the farm movement carried no appeal to John Peters. Not that John disliked farm life, but his soul craved for something bigger and better. Education to him was the most wonderful thing in life. Graduating from the country school with the highest marks in the county had been his first intimation that there were big things in store for him in the educational world and he had gone to high school in the city with big aims stored up in his heart.

It was in the first term he had discovered how different country people were from city people. Gradually it had dawned upon him that there were little colloquialisms in his speech that the city pupils lacked, and straightaway he had set to work correcting himself.

Twenty-one found John back on the farm for the vacation season, but ready to break into university the next year. The two years he had been teaching had only made his longing for more education stronger. Up to this time John had confined his corrections in speech and deportment to himself, but apparently the teaching bug had got into his veins, for he had not been at home many weeks before he was correcting every member of the family.

"See here, John Peters," his father had declared, at last worn out by the everlasting corrections, "if this farm and the manners of us that is on it is too all-firingly small for your high-toned notions, then you know what you can do. All I can see is that education has made a dum fool of you, and the time is come when you will have to make a choice between us and it. If you are willing to settle down here, this big farm that requires 24 hands to work it and nets me an income something over $10,000 a year, is half yours now and all yours when I get too old to take an interest in it. If not, you had better leave now."

John left. It was necessary for him to teach school seven long years more before he had the coveted sum to complete his education, but he stuck to it admirably. At the end of the seventh year he decided that he could manage his way through university. Every vacation since the one that had ended in his leaving home he had worked in the city, but now the longing for the big outdoors came over him. Somehow he found his way up in the lumber camps and his services were engaged as timekeeper.

John had met ignorance in his day, but never such ignorance as he found among those lumberjacks. Why, he was about the only man there that could speak a correct sentence of English. It had not been for Jean his existence would have been unbearable. But in her he found a companion worth having. Seeing that Jean was the daughter of the superintendent of the camp, it is only to be expected that she was different from the others. That is why John took such a liking to her.

"Something should be done to improve the education of the men here," John confided to Jean one night when they were out on the lake in her canoe. "I wonder if they would attend school."

"Why not try them and see?" she suggested. "I was reading a novel to-day about a sky pilot that worked wonders in a lumber camp."

"My dear girl, you don't read novels, do you?" John asked, a mingling of surprise and horror in his tone.

"Why certainly," she answered in wonder. "Don't you?"

"I read nothing but the classics," he told her proudly. "You don't know what you are missing."

"Oh, I don't know," she smiled, "the very name classics worries me out here—they are so heavy, so hard to wade through."

"They are wonderful," he tried to assure her. "Let me go over some of them with you."

"Please don't," she pleaded. "Nevertheless, from that day John started to work out plans to make Jean acquainted with the classics. On canoe trips, indoors on rainy evenings, before the big camp fires when the nights were chill, he managed to make some reference to them or tell her parts of some of his favorite pieces of fine literature. Gradually Jean seemed to fall in line with his plans; she began to soak in what he told her of the master writers. Once or twice she had quoted Shakespeare; more than once or twice she had referred to Bacon. Indeed she was an apt pupil.

As the vacation season neared its end and the changing of the leaves reminded John that university was soon to open, a great longing came over him. It was a different longing than the old one. This time it wasn't learning he longed for, but love. Yes, in spite of the "old masters" Cupid had squeezed in his work.

It was just a week before John was to go back. They were on the lake probably for the last time. The autumn moon was casting glows over the water as the canoe glided to and fro among the shadows. John dropped the oars and, without causing as much as a rock of the canoe, found a place by Jean's side. Just as if it belonged there, his arm slipped about her waist. As if in answer to his touch her head nestled against his shoulder.

"Dear little girl," he began, "I have been wanting to say something tonight, but I haven't had the courage."

She looked up at him and smiled.

"Our doubts are traitors, making us lose what we often might win by fearing to attempt," she quoted.

John looked at her in surprise. "Why, that's Shakespeare—a quotation you never got from me either!" he exclaimed.

Somehow that seemed to have knocked the wind out of his sails, for he did not finish what he had begun. The next day Jean left for the East.

At the station John held her hand until the time for the train to depart arrived. He did not think it his right to inquire where she was going; she had not thought it necessary to tell him. "Goodbye, little girl, and don't forget to study the classics," he told her. As the train shot out of sight John looked after it longingly. He had sacrificed his only chance for happiness at the altar of learning, for he had restrained himself from proposing to Jean because it would have meant the end to his plans for a university course. What a fool he had been! Right there he made a resolve, and a telegram that was waiting him back at the camp decided definitely for him. "Come home, I need you," and it was signed "Father."

For two weeks John stayed at the bedside of his father, without any other thought but the sick man before him. At last the crisis was reached and the danger passed. From then on John devoted himself to the farm—the great big stretch of God's country that called out to him for cultivation and responded so nobly to his efforts. Jean was not forgotten. It was for her he was working. Some day, somehow, he would find her again and bring her to a home of great prosperity, he told himself.

The Christmas holidays brought John's sister Flora home from college with a guest—her teacher of English and literature. John had displayed no interest in the expected arrival, but when Flora brought some one to him and he looked into two big, familiar eyes and saw a familiar smiling, blushing face, he was almost swept off his feet with surprise.

"Jean!" he cried in surprise. "John!" she echoed his tone.

Explanations did not come until after supper when they were alone in the library. She had found John with head in his hands.

"I was a fool," he condemned himself severely. "I might have known that your education was far superior to mine. Why, you were a university graduate, while I was just a common public school teacher; I should never have left the farm."

"If you had not you would never have met me."

"And what good has it done me—just made me miserable. Oh, my lesson has been a severe one; I have learned it well."

"And I have learned a lesson, too—a wonderful lesson, the most wonderful lesson in life."

"There was something in her tone that brought his heart to a quicker beat. He looked up eagerly. "What—what do you mean?" he muttered weekly.

"Oh, John, are you going to make me say it, say what you started to say that night on the lake—that night that Shakespeare had to spoil it?" She was almost in his arms; there was a wonderful expression on his face. He gathered her up in one great hug.

Right there he discovered how useless language is.

SYMBOL OF FRENCH PROWESS

Martial Bird Placed in Prominent Position on Pont de Kehl, Over the River Rhine.

A Gallic cock now adorns the Pont de Kehl on the Rhine at Strasbourg where but only the other day sat erect the griffin of Baden, symbolizing the iron heel upon Alsace. The idea of the setting up of the Gallic cock was that of the French general, Cernisson, the first officer in charge of the engineers in a freed Strasbourg. The scheme was put before General Hirschauer and was immediately adopted. The sculptor chosen to carve the emblematic bird was the Alsatian Schultz. Since the peace treaty gave France possession of the entire length of the Rhine bridges, the Gallic cock in bronze has been placed aloft on the right bank of the Rhine. It has an air, that bird, the air of the king of the barnyard lustily crowing at dawn. It may be hailing peace, but the cock is, naturally a martial bird and this particular one with its eye fixed on Germany certainly commands respect. It had been the intention to use the bronze of a kalser statue in the setting of the Pont de Kehl cock, but the statue of William I before the palace in Strasbourg was found to belie its appearance and to be merely composition.

Little Willie.

Little Willie was entertaining the visitor till his sister was ready. "I say," asked Willie presently, "are you engaged to my sister, or are you not?"

"I am—am not," answered the caller, blushing, "but I would like to be."

"Come out from behind that door, Mary," called Willie. "I know I'd earn that shilling!"

A Post.

"So you enjoyed your vacation?" "I certainly did. In fact, I had the time of my life."

"Good! Here comes a man I don't want you to meet. He would spoil your disposition."

"Why?"

"He has worked for the same firm for twenty-five years and it is his proud boast that he has never missed a day."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Why Canadians Should Insure in a Canadian Company

BECAUSE—Experience covering a period of forty-six years has proven that the death rate of insured lives is about 15 per cent greater in the United States than in Canada.

BECAUSE—A Canadian does not need to assist in paying for this extra heavy death rate in a foreign country.

BECAUSE—A Canadian insuring in a foreign Company is sending his money out of Canada. If retained in Canada he and Canadians generally will benefit by its circulation and investment.

BECAUSE—In The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) he can secure his insurance at lower rates and on easier terms than in any other Company.

BECAUSE—The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) was organized for the express purpose of eliminating all objectionable features in Life Insurance.

BECAUSE—In The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) the Policyholder votes and participates in the management on equal terms with the Stockholders.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation provision is made for the Policyholder voting at his own home if convenient to attend the general meetings.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation the dividend to its Stockholders is limited and all profits above this limited dividend belong to the Policyholder.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation no tontine, so-called "Gold Bond" policies or anything of a like nature can be issued.

BECAUSE—The Policy-Holders participate in the annual distribution of profits after the third of the life of each policy.

BECAUSE—The low rates and annual distribution of profits leave the money in the Policyholder's pockets or return it to him each year instead of its being retained for speculative purposes as has been charged against some Companies.

BECAUSE—Premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually as best suits the convenience of the insured.

BECAUSE—In the Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) he will be insured in a Canadian Company incorporated by special Act, especially safeguarding his interests, thoroughly democratic in its principles and management, with every safe-guard and security to which the strongest Stock Company can lay claim or which government deposit reserve and inspection can secure.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Frezzone costs only a few cents.

With your finger! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin falls away from bottom of foot.
A tiny bottle of "Frezzone" costs little as ten cents; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it starts hurting, then shortly you feel the bottom corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or swelling. Truly! No kidding!

EVEN casual observers have commented this year on the great increase in the number of Gray-Dorts—an increase due solely to the heaping value represented by feature after feature unusual in a light car. The men who have investigated those features are the men who have made Gray-Dorts hard to get this year, in spite of doubled production.

Bulls in Parliament

"Begorra! some of the best Irish bulls are English," said an Irish M.P. not long ago, and he was right, says Tu-Bis. When the Gladstone umbrella was all the rage, an opposition candidate was heard to declare: "We, too, have an umbrella, and its voice will soon be heard; and when it speaks, it will speak with no uncertain sound." Quite as good was the assertion of an M.P. who said: "I see a vision before mine eyes. I see the car of progress rolling along in its majesty, smashing its teeth as it rolls." A better-known M.P. is credited with the statement that "the British lion, whether it is roaming the deserts of India or climbing the forests of Canada, will not draw in its horns nor retire into its shell." It was a politician, too, who some time ago declared that "the Government keep cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden eggs." Another speaker once stated that the union of England and Ireland would turn barren hills into fertile valleys. But one M.P. speaking on total prohibition, rather overstepped the mark when he said: "The glorious work will never be accomplished until the good ship Temperance shall sail from one end of the land to the other, and with a cry of 'Victory' at each step she takes, shall plant her banner in every city, town and village of our country."

A Forward Looker

"Do you believe in the Darwinian theory?" "Haven't been payin' much attention to it lately," confessed Farmer Cornstossel. "The way things have been developin' have got my mind more stirred up about where we're goin' than where we come from."

The Big Audience

"Haven't you time to go home and make a few speeches?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "What I'm in doubt about is whether I'll have time to listen to all the speeches they're getting ready to make to me."

Use B-H Paint— it Pays

B-H Paint will withstand the severe "climate test" of many hard Canadian winters. Speaking more definitely still, there is one paint that carries a 100% guarantee on every can.

B-H "ENGLISH" 70% Pure White Lead 30% Pure White Zinc 100% Pure Paint

Famous for its covering capacity and durability. It has a base 100% pure, to which is added a fine turpentine and an exceptional linseed oil from the B-H mills.

Some dealers can sell you paint which costs less per gallon than B-H, but it will not have the B-H guarantee of quality and permanence—neither will you have the certainty that a gallon will show the greatest covering capacity.

Even at the slightly higher cost of B-H you will find when the job is done that the ultimate cost is lower—very much lower.

Another thing, just look at any house that was painted, maybe years ago, with B-H and see the "finish" that still remains.

TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

The Observer is the first New Brunswick weekly to advance its subscription price to $2 a year, and while the announcement was first made four weeks ago there has been but one subscriber among more than 2000 to raise the voice of complaint. He based his objection on the fact that for three dollars he could get a daily paper and that in comparison a weekly at two dollars was not good value. This man is right if he judges alone by the amount of printed paper he gets for his money. The home weekly is not in any competition whatever with the daily. If the publisher of the weekly makes the slightest attempt to compete with the daily he gives his readers the most flimsy and ridiculous substitute and dives into the abyss of ruin. On the other hand the daily cannot possibly compete with the town weekly. The two branches of journalism are entirely separate and have nothing in common. True, many weeklies publish each week more stale "news" clipped from the dailies than they do of live local news, but these papers are losing money and have not the courage to ask an increase in subscription price. From its very beginning the Observer saw a necessity for a weekly that would devote its space exclusively to the field it might attempt to serve, and thus it serves the people something that they cannot get otherwise. Any issue of the Carleton Observer will contain more news of Carleton-Victoria than any daily will ever publish—and all the worthwhile news of Carleton-Victoria is what the Observer contracts to give for to give for $2.00 a year. We have have nothing at all to give away and only the local news to give for the for the two dollars. And it is cheap at the price.

The Observer has made itself conspicuous in the weekly newspaper field confining its service so absolutely to the direct interest of the people who buy it. "Printer and Publisher" of Toronto says:
"You can start at the top of column one and read through to page 8, of any issue of The Carleton Observer and of general news, or world news, or national news, you will find not a line but if you are a stranger to this section of the country you will probably feel, after going through the suggested performance, that you have become fully and intimately acquainted in the district. If George Burpee closes down his mill, or buys a new Chalmers car (and they buy Chalmers in Carleton) The Observer tells about it. If Winnie Phillips installs an electric light plant in his Bristol store you will read about it in the Observer. If Hebe Hatfield puts over one of his big potato deals, and Supt. Campbell repairs the Florenceville bridge, The Observer will have an account of both events. You will find in The Observer a true and complete record of the county's marriages, births, deaths, roadmaking, bridge construction, crop sowing and progress; building activities, big or little; educational matters; church doings; social gatherings; farmers' meetings, are all dealt with as the occasion demands; and the coming and going of everybody, seemingly, in the district are mentioned each week.
"While Hartland has the place of honor on the Observer's date line, it is by no means the paper's pampered favorite. Centreville, Bristol, Bath, Florenceville, Lakeville, and all contiguous districts, and the whole of the adjoining county of Victoria, are community members of The Observer's household on just the same footing as Hartland. Paraphrasing Lincoln, one might truly say that The Observer is a paper about the people for the people and, one might almost say, by the people. For it is only through a multitude of correspondents, or people who serve as sources of news, that Stevens is able to publish each week everything, seemingly, that occurs in The Observer's field."

Making Money Now.
"Is Scribner still doing literary work?"

"Oh, no. Scribner has given up his dreams of fame and decided to let posterity take care of him while he earns a living for his family."

"Sensible decision. Is he selling automobiles?"

"No. He's writing popular fiction for the magazines."

DRY CLEANED.

"I never see the cat washing her face any more."

"What cat? Is progressive. She struts around in front of the vacuum cleaner whenever I have a run."

The Other Fellow.

I like the other fellow. He's good to have along. For I can always put the blame on him when things go wrong.

Milder Moods.

"There's no doubt about it," mused Senator Sorghum, "we're a great deal more gentle and refined than we used to be."

"There have been some hard-boiled methods."

"Not in statesmanship. There was a time when a political quarrel might lead to a duel. Now the worst you can expect is a libel suit."

A Correction.

The Judge—I understand that you frequently said that robbing a trust fund was the last thing you would do.

The Culpit—Well, what if I did say so?

The Judge—You were wrong. You are now going to do from one to ten years.

The Mean Man.

Everybody knows the story about poor Tom Sharkey, who electrified the loungers in his saloon one day by saying heartily, "Well, boys, what are we going to have?" And then, as the loungers gathered round the bar, he added, "Rain or shine?"

Representative Gordon Lee of Chickamauga told a story of a similar kind about a mean man at Atlantic City. Some friends visited him on a hot evening and after they had scattered a while in the sitting room he said:

"Well, friends, could you stand some refreshments?"

"We certainly could," the visitors replied, and they moistened their dry lips in pleasant anticipation.

"Then," said the mean man, rising, "we'll open this window. There's promise of a breeze."

Healthy Mothers Healthy Babies

Every true mother realizes the fact that her baby's health depends upon her own. That the very vitality of her child is influenced by her own physical condition. How important it is, therefore, to guard against any derangement of the female organs, which induce general weakness, nervousness, constant fatigue and other inability to properly care for her child. Please remember, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and strength to thousands of such mothers.

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to other expectant mothers. Before taking it some days I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could not live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of neuralgia. I had gained in strength and was able to go around and do all my housework. My baby when I brought it weighed 10 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. I never had any medicine do me so much good."—Mrs. FRANK MONTGOMERY, Mitchell, Ind.

Good health during and after maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BE PROGRESSIVE—ADVERTISE!

The sight of a train is like the sight of an enormous fleet in the arteries of the nation. To slow the beat is to slow the life of the country.

THE train in this picture is one of the eleven hundred freight trains in daily service in Canada.

It consists of one heavy-duty freight engine and 45 standard box cars.

It can carry 2,000 tons of wheat.

In 1913 its engine could have been built for $34,700—to-day $81,000; its box cars for $1,138.85 each—to-day $3,797.50.

In other words the rolling stock alone in the movement of 2,000 tons of wheat has increased in cost from $85,948.25 to $251,887.50 or 193.1%!

The labor bill of the railways has risen in the same period from $115,000,000 to $231,000,000—101%!

The cost of rails for a mile of track has gone up from $9,497 to $19,680—107%!

No cost has been unaffected by the general rise.

Operating expenses continue to rise more rapidly than Gross earnings. Net earnings are sinking at an alarming rate.

These are the facts that lie behind the application for increased freight rates for the railways.

This is the kind of a train of advertisements published under the authority of The Railway Association of Canada formerly the CANADIAN RAILWAY WAR BOARD

Explanation of Chart:
Top line shows the rise of Gross Earnings.
Middle line shows the more rapid rise of Operating Expenses.
Bottom line shows the downward plunge of Net Earnings as a result of the rise in the middle line—Operating Expenses.

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

Uncertain.
"Well, Mr. Pedagogue, does my boy show any special aptitude for work?" asked the proud father.
"I think so, Mr. Bronson," answered the schoolmaster. "I am not certain as yet whether John will make a sculptor or a baseball player. He is entering in his aim with paper wads, but the condition of his desk top convinces me that he can carve with considerable facility."

No Facilities.
"Rather a husky looking individual," "Yes. Th's Prof. Sampson Grapleigh. He gives physical culture lessons by mail."
"I see, a correspondence school. But suppose one of his clients applied for instruction in person?"
"The professor would be in a most embarrassing predicament. He might have to hire a gymnasium."

Competent at Last.
"How long has this reporter been on the staff?"
"Oh, long enough to become really useful as a news gatherer."
"What do you mean?"
"He has passed through the period of aspiring to write the 'Great American Novel,' or the 'Great American Play' and is now able to concentrate his mind on a police court item."

Through With Honesty.
"I'm never going to return a lost article to any one again," said a Kansas City man the other day.
"Why?" he was asked.
"Well, this fellow advertised a reward for the return of his dog, and no questions asked. And then when I took the dog and went up and rang the bell his wife answered the door."

How We Need One!
"I've an invention at last that will mean a fortune!"
"What is it this time?"
"Why, it's an extra key for a typewriter. When you don't know how to spell a word, you hit the key and it makes a blur that might be an e, an a, or most anything else."

Not Qualified for Golf.
"Will you come and make a four at bridge, sir?"
"I'm exceedingly sorry, sir, but I don't play bridge."
"You don't play bridge, sir? Then what the devil did you join a golf club for?"—The Tattler.

GIVE IT TIME.
"Bell my egg three minutes."
"Excuse me. Dat egg is jes' out o' cold storage an' three minutes won't sump more dan jes' thaw it."

Friendly Bill.
The man I like is Bill McGuire. He sweeps and helps me change a tire.
One Better.
Manager—This magnet will draw three pounds of iron from a distance of ten feet.
Bube—That's not much. I know something that draws me every Sunday over three miles of plowed fields, and I weigh 125 pounds.

Needless Labor.
"John," said the nervous woman, "I think there is a burglar in the house!"
"Nonsense! Why should a predatory person take the trouble to break into a dwelling when he can walk around a few blocks and gather up gallons of priceless milk?"

Following Instructions.
Father—And when you quarreled with the boy did you follow your Sunday school principle and give him a soft answer?
Bobbie—No, not exactly; I made an old soft tomato do the answering.

Smart, at That.
"I guess my wife thinks I'm a pretty smart man."
"Why?"
"She admits that I am half as smart as she thought I was the day we were married."

Fairly So.
"Did you follow the diet I advised?"
"Yes, doctor."
"Religiously?"
"Why, tolerably so. I said grace about three times out of five, I should guess."

A Painful Matter.
"Pat, it's lookin' seedy ye are. A shave wouldn't hurt you a bit."
"Faith, Mollie, if ye could see me razor gas wouldn't say that."
