Paris, Dec. 30 .- Internationalization of Constantinople and the Straits of Dardanelles has been decided upon along the lines laid down by Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, in a recent speech, according to the Matin. It seems certain, the newspaper says, that the seat of the Turkish Government will be transferred to Asia-Minor, and be located either at Brusa or Konieh. Details of the form of international council which will be established over Constantinople have not as yet became

CITY GETS $38,266 FROM POLICE COURT FOR FINES OF 1919

Record Year For Amount of Money Received.

CASES HAVE INCREASED

But Only Small Part of Rise Is in Serious Charges.

While there have been almost one thousand more cases tried in the city police court during this year than last, the increase in serious offences is only slight. There were 3,004 cases tried during the year. According to John Moule, clerk of the court during the past 20 years, the city has had but few more indictable offences during than during the preceding year. past 20 years, the city has had but few more indictable offences during 1919 than during the preceding year. Most of those to come before Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon during the year were charged with violations of the Ontario temperance act, or with breaches of city bylaws.

Never before in London's history has such a large sum been paid into the court in fines, as was paid during the past twelve months. Mr. Moule has sent $38,266.94 to the city treasurer, this sum being reaped from fines imposed. Mr. Moule states that the increased revenue is due to the heavy fine of not less than $200, imposed for violations of the O. T. A.

Theatre construction added $310,000, while new factories and warehouses brought up the total by $333,500. Additions to factories totalled $227,600. The largest form with $210,000. The largest factory addition was to the plant of C. S. Hyman & Co., It cost $117,500. The largest new plant was the Holeproof Hosiery Company, $193,000. Other factories ranged from $50,000 to $4,000.

The highest-priced dwelling was $17,-000. Another cost $12,000, and a third $10,000. The largest ranged from $50,000 to $4,000.

Juvenile Offenders.

There has been a notable increase in the number of juvenile offenders during the past year. The veteran clerk, however, does not want Londoners to run away with the idea that the youth of the Forest City is getting worse. He claims that while 418 boys and girls came before the magistrate ONCE AGAIN WHOLE and girls came before the magistrate them were up for only minor offences, such as truancy and riding bicycles on According to Mr. Moule there has been an increase in petty thieving dur-ing the year. He believes that this is due only to the increase in population, and is not of the opinion that the inhabitants of this city are "a bunch of nabitants of this city are "a bunch of thisves," Some juveniles have been up for stealing, but they did not take anything valued highly, in most cases, says Mr. Moule, who is a staunch believer that on the whole London boys and girls conduct themselves much better than the young folk of other Desert, But Not Dry. Despite the fact that Ontario has been a desert now for more than three years, there has been no decrease in the number of liquor cases. There were not as many cases of intoxication before the court during 1919 as in 1918 He is certain that there were mo 200 fines imposed than in 1918.

In 1918 slightly over 2.000 cases came before the local court. This makes the increase in cases over last year about 33 per cent. There has been an in-33 per cent. There has been an increase of about 10 per cent in criminal cases, and of about 15 per cent in juvenile cases, Mr. Moule states.

Heads of public utilities departments, the utilities commission and the press were guests of General Manager E. V. Buchanan at a "get-together" banquet in the draughting room of the utilities building last night.

This is the second annual affair of this nature which the general manager has arranged. In addition to its social nature it enables the department heads to present the reports of their own department and furnishes an opportunity for them to become acquainted with the commission.

The reports received were all highly satisfactory. Chairman Philip Pocock said he highly appreciated the services which had been rendered by the staff of the commission. He pointed out that with a few exceptions both the staff and the equipment of the commission was entirely changed from the time when he first became interested in public utilities. He claimed credit for the establishment of the hydro shop, stating that the suggestion to establish it had been made by him alone, the idea having appealed to him as a merchant. The first attempt to display goods for sale in the old city hall had nearly resulted in a riot, he recalled.

"I felt we were not doing any merchant any harm." he declared. "No store in the city was attempting to sell electrical goods at that time."

Staff Worked Excellently.

Mr. Pocock also claimed credit for improvements in the stores department. He considered that all the staff had worked excellently. Mr. R. Swayze in particular he regarded as a most valuable officer. He had been chosen to conduct the oversight of the new medical school, and he was confident that this would result in a great saving. The speaker regretted Mayor Somerville's retirement, but was confident the people would not soon forget him.

Commissioner Jared Vining expressed his approval of the harmony which had prevailed throughout the institution. Every member of the staff had taken as much interest in the work as if it had been his own. "Any public utility controlled by a staff of men who regard their duty in that light cannot help YOUR VOTE

Mr. McGuire outlined the industrial bylaw, and the need London has for greater industries. Representatives of firms come here, he said, looking for a site for a new factory. They say that we have a nice city, good water, but what have we got to offer them? Nothing other than the site. London is not ready to build them a factory, nor have they factories which are unoccupied at the present time. London has lost many of the largest concerns on the American continent from being situated here, for the one reason "That we have nothing to offer."

A. M. Hunt, secretary of the Western Fair Board, gave those present a bigger view of the proposed Western Fair extension bylaw. The Western Fair is the talk of the province at exhibition the street railway can be forced to pave these streets according to their franchise.

"Paved streets are the making of a city, and in the near future all city streets shall be paved. It is not for the city to allow the street railway to hold up their plans."

Ald. Dr. L. S. Holmes, who is running in the public utilities field, spoke on the Springbank reservoir. The need for water can not be got away from. We have not enough water to supply the city in case of an emergency. He also spoke on the need of a second main from Springbank. There is only one main, and if this breaks, where are we? It is a case of depending on the pumps at the hydro station and the risk is far too great.

AT CHARLES STREET.

The meeting held in the Riverview School on Tuesday night was fairly well attended, and several prominent businessmen discussed the important questions to come before the people at the Thursday elections. It was definitely decided to continue the Ward 1 Ratepayers' Association.

At the present time there are not more than about 125 men in Lonnot more than about 125 men in London out of work, and he attributes this to the fact that most of the larger firms are stock-taking. After this work has been completed, it is expected the demand for labor will be greater.

WHY GREY GOES HOME.

Viscount Grey, who three months ago went to Washington as an ambassador extraordinary on special mission, is returning to England without having achieved his purpose. To date he has not even been formally presented to President Wilson. Commenting on the incident, the Detroit Free Press calls it an "international calamity" and blames the president for the "flasco," charging that Mr. Wilson is fraid to cross diplomatic swords with Grev. whole business. Grey was sent to Washington with the object of furthering the good understanding and firm friendship of the two great English speaking governments, not to put something over on the United States as the Free Press suggests. Naturally any concrete arrangement the two governments might reach or propose would be part and parcel of the League of Nations. No other understanding could be possible, and with the American Sente squabbling over the peace treaty and the ague covenant, refusing to accept the pact, It would have been folly for the two governments to have entered into any discussion on, for instance, joint action in world affairs. If. as the Detroit Free Press declares, the departure of Grey is an international calamity, the responsibility rests with the Detroit papers' treaty wrecking friends in the Senate, not with the president.

THE GREAT WHITE SPIRIT. How white the way we used to know! Can it be true that lilacs swayed Where now is only fluttering snow, Black vines in ermine soft arrayed?

Early in the afternoon against a grey sky, the snowflakes, fine and occasional, began to fall. Evening brought larger, lazier flakes, like so many diamonds flung carelessly on invisible, gossamer threads by the wind, against the soft glow of the street lights. Then one wanted to wander about and lift a waiting face to the tiny white visitors or seek a cosy grate fire and chesterfield and read Whittier's "Snowhound." But the following morning was the time to wonder! The early pathmakers had only served to emphasize the abundance of the thick, white carpet, lavishly covering lawns and streets, making the outside world a place of adventure and wonder, and an invitation however, to those who might not see the leveliness of the woods, or have the joy of making zigzag paths in forest ways, the wind had conferred with the snowflakes with the result of vine-clad brick walls being witcheries in ermine etching. The tinest, lace-like, clinging twig was edged with frailest, white down and where the vines were closest woven, lavish little snow puffs clung tenderly, whispering encouraging secrets of spring to the sleeping leaf buds. Spruce trees and pines, and even maples were not forgotten, and garden shrubberies were bent a little closer to the snow-covering about their roots. Kiddles got out joyfully with shovels to widen the paths made by the snowplows, and to seek the joys of their new Christmas sleighs, and grown-ups wanted to linger out-of-doors and catch the Wonder of the Great White Spirit abroad, leaving such tracerles of winter beauty and inspiration to kindlier,

A GREAT DOCTOR PASSES.

Commenting on the death of Sir William Osler who died Monday, Dr. Eccles of this city, who was a close personal friend of the dead physician, says of him that he was a "great man and a great doctor, the greatest physician Canada has produced." This tribute will express the sentiment of the Canadian public generally. The greater part of the seventyone years of his life was crowded with activities, wonderfully beneficial to mankind. Twenty years ago he was recognized as the world's foremost authority on medical science, being especially distinguished in the matter of diagnosis. When Osler was thirty-five years of age he moved from Canada to the United States, practicing and lecturing there until he accepted the Regius Professorship of Medicine at the University of Oxford. He was a profound student and thinker, possessed of a remarkable intellect, but these characteristics of the savant were never permitted to obscure a jovial, gentle and companionable personality. In public and private associations Sir William Osler was a great and lovable man, as well as a great physician.

> HUMAN STOCK AND THE WAR. [New York Sun.]

The question of the deterioration of humon stock in Europe, as a result of the war, is one of sur-passing interest. It is true that the vest slaughter of battle, claiming the best of the manhood of the nations and sparing the worst, has acted to bring about a survival of the unfittest. Will the race of the future be inferior, mentally and physically, to that of the past? Some years ago Professor Jordan of the University of Virginia made a careful study of the effects of the Civil War upon the white stock of the South. From a vast number of letters and other data he arrived at the conclusion that the huge percentage of mortality in the Confederate armies had not appreciably affected the vigor and mentality of the Southern people. A similar investigation of the situation in Europe would probably lead to a like conclusion. Despite the frightful losses, many men, sound in body and untouched by the hand of war, is coming on to take the place of those who were lost, to assume the burden of civilization.

WHAT AN OLD EDITOR THINKS OF THE BIBLE [Hamilton Spectator.]

Charles A. Dana, the veteran editor of the New York Sun, and one of the ablest men in his profession, dropped politics once for an evening lecture on journalism, and told an intellectual audience in New York his opinion of the Bible as a valuable book to study. Here is a paragraph from that lecture that may be an inspiration to the readers of these musings to turn to the Old Book now and then as a safe guide. "There is no book from which more valuable lessons can be learned, I am considering it now not as a religious book, but as a manual of utility. There is perhaps no book whose style is more suggestive and more instructive, from which you learn more directly that sublime simplicity which never exaggerates, which recounts the greatest event with solemnity, of course, but with-out sentimentality or affectation; none which you open with such confidence and lady down with ch reverence; there is no book like the Bible. When you get into a controversy and want exactly the right answer, when you are looking for an expression, what is there that closes a dispute like a verse from the Bible? What is it that sets up the right principle for you, which pleads for a

WHY DO THEY CALL IT PIN MONEY? [From the Book of Wonders.]
This expression originally came from the allowance which a husband gave his wife to purchase pins. At one time pins were dreadfully expensive so that only wealthy people could afford them, and they were saved so carefully that in those days you could not have looked along the pavement and found a pin which you happened to be in need of, as you can and often do today.

By a curious law, the manufacturers of pins were only allowed to sell them on January 1 and 2 each year, and so, when those days came around, the women whose husbands could afford it, secured pin money from them and went out and got their

Industries

London wants more industries. To enable the city to grow, and, with the increased population, to spread the taxes over a greater number of citizens, we need more manufacturing plants. In the London Industrial Association-a body of London's foremost citizens-we have the means to bring industries here. By passing this bylaw, we merely authorize the city to guarantee the bonds of the London Industrial Association to a limited amount. No money is requested or needed. For progress and prosperity, journey to the polls and vote for the Industrial Bylaw.

The city is without proper protection against fire, from the standpoint of water supply. Keservoir Authorities state that the reserve water supply of a city should be from three to ten days' supply. London's reserve is a day's supply only-sometimes not even that. The proposed reservoir would give London something over three days' water supply in reserve -20,000,000 gallons-a valuable asset in case of drought or in the emergency of a big fire, such as other cities have seen. Cast a safe and sane vote tomorrow for the Reservoir Bylaw. Western Fair

All are agreed that the Western Fair must have more room or start going backwards. A new site would be so costly as to be impracticable, but expansion to the east of the present grounds is quite feasible and would cost considerably less. In Toronto and Ottawa enlargement programs are being supported with a will. London must not lag behind, and the Western Fair means too much to this city to let it dwindle to the calibre of a third-rate show. Let there be a decisive majority for the Western Fair Bylaw tomorrow.

The Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting on Wednesday, December 24th, gave it as their individual opinions that the following bylaws were in the interests of the citizens, and as such entitled to general support:

To choose things that harmonize with one another when gathering together a season's supply of clothes. To have a hat that looks well with only one particular coat, or a blouse that agrees in color with only one particular skirt, is on a par with asking somebody to a party who is unfriendly with everybody present. And who feels amiable or serene in a costume that looks like a patchwork quilt? The subconsciousness of being properly dressed is marusly conducive to good temper.

To make more sofa cushions, get an electric reading lamp and subscribe to a couple of magazines. Good light, a comfortable couch and decent reading in a house where these are ready at hand people are seldom fidgety or eager to be somewhere else. To buy a pink azalea or a purple primula or some yellow daffodils now and then. As Henry Ward Beecher said: "Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made and forgot to put a soul into." And who can deny their gentle influence? I simply couldn't be cross if I were looking at a rose. But there go the whistles—the screechy city whistles. And there go the bells—the clanging fire hall bells. The New Year has come! Oh, doesn't it seem big and full of awful mystery? What an adventure for you and me

LITTLE TOUCHES

THAT COUNT. After all, it isn't simply the gown of suit that counts most in an attractive wardrobe. It is all the little acces-sories, which add a touch here or cover up an ugly line there, that are the making of a costume. And they run away with not a little of milady's allowance too.

Girdles of some sort appear on almost every gown just now. There are girdles of beads, girdles of braid and girdles of reads, girdles of braid and girdles of ribbon strands plaited together. Then there are coming into fashion wide suede girdles as well as the narrower patent leather belts, much used with coats and tailored dresses. Flat bead necklaces are also popular, and made in different colors, add a pretty touch to dark dresses. Then there are the vestees of kid and leather in bright colors, which are so smart, not to speak of silk and bead tassels which are often added to a gown with good ribbon strands plaited together

Locals Beat Paris 11-4 in Opener

London Juniors Play Stellar Brand of Hockey Before One Thousand Fans in O. H. O. Preliminary.

The local Juniors opened the O. H. A. season here last night before a thousand fans with a 11-4 victory over the green-shirted youths from Paris, and provided the aforementioned fans with a solid hour of tip-toe hockey. The ocals did not look as good in spots last night as they looked on their first appearance, but their form was good enough for the visitors, over whom they held the big stick throughout the session

The game opened up slowly, and worked up to a whirlwind finish. Neither team showed any team work, but what little was shown was displayed by the locals. The visitors had, according to supporters, only a few nights together and the manner in which they ambled around each other—but usually in the way of the puck—bore out the statement. What they lacked in team work, they made up with a slashing style of stick wielding and a willingness to stick with the puck and mix it. Porter was the most effective man they had on the ice, with Shugrue and Carrouth acting as the bad pair of the drama. McGuire

Pring and Burgess.

Logan as usual played a steady and at times brilliant game for the local youngsters, but the feature of the evening was the improvement in both Burgess' and Pring's game. Burgess especially, made rushes time after time right through the green shirts, and combined when there was a chance. Pring bore in and was in on every play. The defence again did some nice work, but failed to get away with any effectiveness.

In the first period it looked like a one-sided affair with the locals right in on visitors' goal. They bombarded from every angle, but the only close ones went off the posts. Burgess notched the first counter for locals in ten minutes. Porter came back after our minutes with visitors' first, Logan rent down several times, and the whole line went in once on the lone goalle, but Logan missed the shot. He, however, came back with the second in six minutes, and a minute after Arscott from a mix-up beat McGuire for London's third.

STRATFORD JUNIORS PILE UP 13-4 SCORE ON GALT SEXTET

GALT, Dec. 30.—Before the largest crowd that has been in Galt rink since pre-war days, Stratford juniors, who have fond hopes of winning the championship, in which they are somewhat justified by their performance tonight, defeated the local sextette to the tune of 13 to 4 in a fast and hard-fought game. The winners outclassed the locals in team play and speed and also had the advantage in weight. Berger, the former New Hamburg boy, is the fastest junior hockey player ever seen on the local ice, outstanding even his own teammates. He netted several goals on lone rushes. Kettlerborne and Carson, two fast wing men, were next best. The score by periods was 5-2, 9-3, 13-4.

Skelly, the fast defence man of the local sextette and one of the stars of the team, will be out t' the game for some time. In a tumble a Stratford player, in going over him, struck the Gait player with his skate, tearing the limitation of the strategies of the strategi Galt player with his skate, tearing the ligaments and fracturing a rib. He was badly missed. Bell, on the left wing, and Himes in goal starred for the locals, although Gardner put up a good defence game, using his weight effectively. Every man on the local team is a home brew and, while beaten tonight, fans were not disappointed with their showing, since hockey is only being revived here and this is the first time the boys have played together. YALE TEAM LOSES Off the Boards

One thing last night's game showed was that Coach Munro's original pick for the local junior team shot very close to the mark. Arscott and McKay showed up well last night, but the team looks better as it starts away than with any other shake-up.

Biggs was on the job last night, though the ones that did get by him were of the easy warlety. He was well covered by Mays and Quenny, who stick to-gether like two leeches in the defence. They showed a perfect defence several times last even-

The local forward line will The local forward line will stand a little more combination grilling. The slap-bang style of play displayed by the Paris team sort of milled up the locals style, and they didn't display anything like the team work they did against St. Marys.

Last night's game was in-terfered with considerably by the pail of smoke which overhung the ice right from the start of the first period. In the second period, it was difficulty at times to follow the puck, and twords the last of the game, it looked more like a smoke barrage than a hockey game. Both teams expect the fans this year to co-operate for the year to co-operate for the general good of the game and refrain from smoking until at least the first period is finished up.

Whoever handles the game at Paris between the lacals and the green shirts will have to have four pair of eyes. The visitors are a tidy little team, but sev-eral of them lay it on too hard for comfort.

Referee Easson pulled a boner when he put Pring off with Shugrue, after the latter had taken a full-circle swing at the London boy's ankle, and the blow had arrived. He just heard the noise and saw the peace-poster-pose of the two, and waved both to the penalty box.

Eddie Oatman has been elected captain of the Victoria team on the Pacific Coast. He is the only right-handed shooter on the line.

The Northern League this year should provide a great hockey program in all the series, especially in the northern districts where the O.H.A. entries are not duplicated. With practically the same team that had its hands on the O.H.A. intermediate rag for two years and won the Northern honors also during several seasons, Wiarton looks very good again.

Bob Simmle and Gildner are the absentees this year. Both Allan and Dad Ashley are on hand and who ever else plays these two can be depended upon to make any team look good, Listowel, despite the fact that their new rink was partially blown down, is still on the hockey map and will have a real contender this year—in fact, two of them. Cully Rocker still wears skates and is playing his 'steenth year of league hockey. Reports say that he may have slowed up a little, but he has a few more tricks that beat Father Time.

Tillsonburg, by the pace they are traveling thus far, will certainly give the local juniors a battle in their little two-game schedule in the Northern League. St. Thomas and Woodstock teams have already been eaten up by the youthful Pan Drieds.

The great overtime battle staged by the Paris green shirts brings to mind a team that probably owns the long-distance clinging record. For years the same line-up practically has been appearing, giving all comers a great battle. Even in this year's line-up there is only one change, and his name is Gill. As long as there is ice Gills-Paris will be in there.

Granites are strengthening up for the senior race. Their two latest acquisitions are Dutchy Richardson and Jack Spratt, the former St. Michael's midget star.

Dents are not being given the championship on a platter by the appearance of things now. Their superiority over Kit-chener and Granites was not impressive enough to make their season's path look the score of a billiard tournament.

COULDN'T WORK

Spent Four Hundred Dollars Seeking Health-Tanlac Restores Him.

"I consider my first bottle of Tanlac has been worth all of one hundred dollars to me," declared Dan McLean of 335 Esplanade street, Sydney, Nova Scotia, while in Turnbull's drug store for more of the medicine, recently. Mr. McLean has been following the carpenter's trade for the past forty years. He and is well known. "On the 15th of last September," h continued. "I was taken down with the 'flu,' and was never able to get anything to put me on my feet until I found Tanlac. I was left so weak that I could not hit a lick of work for more than eight months, and this meant a loss of from $120 to $180 a month to me, for that is what I was making before getting down. I also paid out $400 for treatment and medicine trying to get my health back, so you can see what that spell of 'flu' cost me. I could not walk from town to my room without stopping several times on the way to rest and after the trip I would puff like a steam engine.

"Seeing by the papers that Tanlac was helping so many others who were in a rundown condition, and thinking it might help me to get on my feet, I bought a bottle. Well, it may sound exaggerated, but it's the truth, after taking my fourth dose of Tanlac I could tell it was what I needed and was going to do the work, and I have been gaining ground ever since. Why, I never ate more than fifty cents' worth of food a week before I got Tanlac, but now I want to eat all the time and no matter what kind of food is set before me, I enjoy it. I have just finished my first bottle of Tanlac and I am feeling well enough already to go back to work. Tanlac beats anything I have ever seen or heard about it; it is no more like other medicines I have used than day is like night. Before taking it my nerves were so shattered that I could never get good night's sleep, but now I sleep like a log. I also had the worst kind of head-aches, but they have been broken up entirely. Tanlac is simply making a new man of me, and I honestly believe it's the best medicine in the world, and anyone who gives it a trial will be con-

The Great Wall of Modern Science -Sickness Prevention

The Great Wall of China is centuries old, but its basic idea is sound-it is better to keep your enemies out than to fight them after they have entered.

The plan of modern medical science is the same. Anti-toxins and serums are even more important in preventing the spread of disease than in curing it; and in its fight for sickness prevention science has now found a treatment for the condition that is the root of evil of over 90% of all disease-constipation.

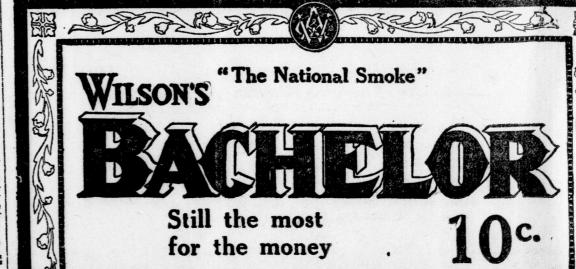

This is the Nujol treatment.

Vote For J. Ashton

For Alderman For Ward 3

Chairman of the Executive Board of London's Street Railway Men's Union.

On the eve of election day the employees of the London Street Railway Company appeal to the citizens of London to stand by them, remembering that a vote in favor of the fares bylaw is a vote in favor of fair wages for us, a vote for better service for the people, a vote for the avoidance of an industrial dispute that would certainly work hardship on the men thrown out of work and upon was slow, and one load of dressed geese the people, who would be left without car service.

During the past couple of weeks we have laid the situation squarely before the people, and particularly before all of the as 38c. organizations representing organized labor. We have pointed out Retailed that we are not fighting any battles for the company. The company in days past gave us little that we should love them for. But now conditions have changed.

We have gone into the whole subject, because to us it is a matter of our living. It has been proven beyond dispute that no company can give good service and pay fair wages on the rates of fares that London is paying. Because we realized that we undertook to state the facts to the people and to appeal for their support.

If the people vote in favor of this small increase in fares it will cost the average car rider perhaps six cents a week, but, as we have said before, it will put $150 a year that is badly needed in the pay envelopes of 258 union employees of the street railway. Last summer we got our wage increase when the city council put through a higher fares bylaw to settle a strike that had left the city without cars. When that bylaw was quashed on a legal technicality we stood to suffer by it. Trouble threatened again, and the company in the crisis agreed to our proposal that no attempt should be made to cut our wages until a vote could be taken to make the higher fares bylaw legal.

We realize how grave the decision is, but we cannot accept a reduction in wages if the people vote against the bylaw. President Currie has frankly told us that the owners of the company will not continue going into their own pockets to keep the cars going, and that the only alternative will be to cut down the cost of operation. If that is done we will be forced to strike. That will

will not continue going into their own pockets to keep the cars going, and that the only alternative will be to cut down the cost of operation. If that is done we will be forced to strike. That will probably mean the calling in of the Ontario Railway Board. We do not doubt that our wages would be allowed by that body, because the engineers of the hydro-electric power commission have already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the present fares, already said that the system cannot be run on the cord down the coordinate strength said that the solution. We appeal to the people as we appealed to the Trades and Labor Council and the local unions; our plea is for ourselves. We don't intend that the company should get any of this extra money. It will be for fair wages, and to improve the service for the people.

That is the situation that has caused the Trades and Labor Council to indorse our cause, and that has brought the members of the local unions to our support to carry the bylaw. They are all fully convinced that the money will go to the men, and not to the company. Here are some of the trades unions that have pledged themselves to support the bylaw: Cigarmakers, Carpenters, City Employees, Candy and Biscuit Makers, Typographical Union, Musicians, Plumbers and Steamfitters, C. P. R. Local 100, G. T. R. Carshops Machinists 383, Stage Employees, Shoe Workers, Electricians, Metal Polishers, Stationary Firemen and Oilers, G. T. R. Firemen, G. T. R. Maintenance of Way Men, Garment Workers, Custom Tailors, Machinists 1277, Bakers' Drivers, Sheet Metal Workers, Painters and Paperhangers, G. T. R. Trainmen, Barbers, and many other smaller locals.

In addition, we have the support of other organizations of citizens, such as the Chamber of Commerce.

We therefore believe that we can rely upon the voters turning out to give us their support at the polls on New Year's Day. We extend our thanks to the electors of London most heartily, and in wishing you a happy new year we wish to express our gratitude to the voters who shall take practical steps to insure a truly happy new year for us all.

TO LONDON TAXPAYERS:

WHEREAS The London and Port Stanley Railway since its reconstruction has consistently provided excellent service for the accommodation of both passenger and freight traffic, not only between London, St. Thomas and Port Stanley, but also through its many direct connections to a rich field across Western Ontario, that is thereby made tributary to London's commercial activities,

AND WHEREAS freight and passenger traffic that yields substantial profits is increasing, as is proven by the following extract from the verified reports of the London Railway Commission:

1916 1917 1918 1919 Passengers carried 548,326 Gross Earnings $281,058 $316,685 $368,914 $499,656

AND WHEREAS further substantial increases in both freight and passenger traffic are now assured, and in the interests of continued maintenance of good service between London and Port Stanley Railway points, and points on important connecting railroads, additional motive power, coaches and other betterments are absolutely necessary,

AND WHEREAS the London and Port Stanley Railway Commission, notwith= standing abnormal war conditions, has met, and is meeting, all capital obligations, namely interest, sinking fund, rental and taxes, as well as operating costs and other responsibilities out of earnings, without cost to the taxpayer, and this proposed debenture issue is to be carried out of the surplus earnings of the railway still without cost to the taxpayer,

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED shippers and other citizens and taxpayers of London, pledge ourselves to support the bylaw and recommend that in the interests of continuance of good service on this valuable railway outlet the ratepayers vote in its favor.

Citizens Now In a Position to Decide By Voting In the Public Interest.

The municipal election campaign closes with striking evidences of the fact that the people of London have, with marked unanimity, concluded that a favorable decision on the bylaw to revise the fares of the street railway company is in the public interest.

The subject has been before the people for two years, at first as contentious matter, but latterly as a problem for which there is only one reasonable solution.

The Street Railway Company's troubles date back to the time of the electrification of the system in 1895. Prior to that time occasional horse cars had ambled about the streets and the people were accustomed think of costs on horse car standards. Electric railway operation then a very new thing and it is probable that both the representa of the company and of the city labored under the distbilities of in perience when they framed their agreements.

Such records as are available show that the committees of the co which had the matter in hand a quarter of a century ago based the which are still in existence today upon costs that appear today another world. Street railway workers, for instance, were then to 15 cents an hour. The prices of cars, steel rails and all suns astoundingly cheap, and the parties to the agreement evider doubt that times would never change.

But times did change in a very radical fashion, even before the The idea of a street railway worker putting in his time for a remun tion of 121/2 cents an hour is today unthinkable; yet the scale of fare those days is the scale paid for rides now by another generation. would doubtless be a most interesting comparison to place in adjoin columns the costs of service of 1895 and 1920. Small wonder that score of railway companies in all parts of Canada and the United States driven into insolvency during the war, or that some three hundred other were forced to raise their tariffs. The spectacle of railway companies abandoning operation under such pressure has been sorrowfully beheld by many communities, and even at London's door the traction company threw up the sponge during the war and sold its rails and cars as scrap.

London has been singularly fortunate to escape more serious troubles for the strangulation of the city's transportation system is certain to react eventually against the growth and prosperity of the whole community.

Last summer the issue came to a head with troublesome consequences struck for higher wages. The company, to use a colloquialism, was between the devil and the deep blue sea." The management frankly admitted that the men could not be expected to live without an increase ir wages to cover the increased cost of living. But the low rates of fares Over McLachlan's drug store, oppo-lad left the owners of the property in difficulties. No dividends had been paid since July, 1917, and a treasury which had never flourished in any marked degree, was pumped bone dry.

The Trades and Labor Council probed the situation and intervened on the men's behalf by sending deputations before the city council to urgo that a bylaw be passed granting higher fares. The councillors agreed with the Labor men that therein was the only solution, and by a majority vote they authorized the company to make a slight advance in rates.

The company forthwith granted to the men the wage increase they In the Surrogate Court of the was restored, and the people, realizing that the change had been for the benefit of the employees, accepted the change uncomplainingly. Indeed, there was little to complain about, for it meant an advance of only a quarter of a cent a ride on the so-called workingmen's tickets and of about a half cent on other tickets. To even the most regular car rider the SON, Late of the Village of trivial advance would entail an expenditure of only four to six cents s Thorndale, in the County of week. And London still basked in the enjoyment of the lowest scale of Middlesex, Spinster, De-street railway fares in effect upon the whole North American continent,

> But the law sometimes dispenses justice by rules of iron without regard to particular circumstances, and the law decreed that a legal technicality stood in the way of making the change in such a manner. The change itself was not inegal; the action rested upon the manner in which it had occurred. London, it seemed, had no lawful right to take such measures as she deemed wise, even to restore her transportation service The old scale of fares of a quarter of a century ago was revived, but the law could not set back the hand of time to days when men worke for 121/2 cents an hour, and it is very improbable that Londoners would welcome such a solution. The company, however, had agreed to pay the higher wages only during the continuance of higher fares, the simple reason being that without the higher fares the earnings would be insufficient to cover the cost. The strike trouble loomed again; a strike that the men, the company and the public equally deplored and dreaded. At the last conference before the impending walk-out a compromise was reached. It was agreed that the owners of the company should pay the increased scale of wages and keep the system going until an appeal could be made to the justice of the people, in an election. Now the day for the popular decision has come. It is a striking faci that no opposition to the fare increase has arisen. Those who on other occasions fought the proposal to the last ditch have evidently been convinced and they are silent, or ranked with supporters of the bylaw. It is conceded that the change cannot longer be evaded, save at the cost of burdening the people with an anaemic, unsatisfactory group of car lines, manned by poorly paid, disgruntled workmen.

Any talk that the increased traffic will take care of increased operating costs has been disproven; refuted by every authority, including Sit Adam Beck and the expert radial engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, who probed the company's book and properties exhaustively. Consider, in this respect, the yearly advance in the company's wage bill only. In 1916 the men were paid $186,098.51. Three years later, in the year now ending, the same service cost the company $302.269.22. The rate of increase in traffic has been distanced by the rate of increase of costs, until a condition has been reached in which every passenger carried is getting more than he pays for, and the more riders the greater the

These are conditions taken into account by the Labor organizations which are unanimously behind the bylaw for the sake of the company's employees, and for the sake of the better service promised by President Charles Currie in his message from Akron, O. The Trades and Labor Council, the parent organization of the organized workers of London, was perhaps the first organization of any kind to champion the cause of higher fares. Since then all of the larger trades unions have individually approved that stand. So, too, has the Chamber of Commerce, and other in-

CANDIDATES ADDRESS MEETING OF VETERANS

Soldiers' Memorial Hall Supported by Ail the Speakers.

After their regular meeting on Tuesday evening the Great War Veterans' Association listened to the various candidates for municipal offices in the Henry B. Ashplant, who was chosen is mayoralty candidate by the soldier-abor convention, explained his platform, and his stand on various municipal matters.

Dr. Cameron Wilson, who is running for alderman in ward 2, declared that for alderman in ward 2, declared that the Memorial Hall bylaw be passed. Better would it be, he thought, if every soldier-labor candidate be defeated, and the bylaw passed than that the men be elected and the bylaw defeated.

for the position he sought, as he had served fourteen years on the council bi an English municipality. One fault he found with the present council was that it refused extension of the soldiers' in-

MARY PICKFORD IN "HEART O' THE HILLS" AT THE GRAND

Today Last Day of Current Vaudeville Bill.

If Steve Honeycutt and Widow Hawn had followed the advice of their children, Mary Pickford wouldn't be able to ofter such a wonderful picture as "Heart O' The Hills," which will be shown at the Grand today and for the remainder of the week.

As Mavis Hawn, Miss Pickford takes the part of a Kentucky mountain girl at war with certain factors which she knows nothing of, and determined at least to put an end for all time to the whippings which her mother has been liberally inflicting.

A love tale is interwoven in the plot about a mountain feud of long standing, and the story affords Miss Pickford ample opportunity to score such triumphs as characterized "Daddy Longlege" and "The Hoodlum," her previous attractions from her own studios.

Mavis and her sweetheart, Jason Honeycutt, oppose the marriage of their parents for the reason that Honeycutt's prime motive is prompted by a desire to secure Widow Hawn's valuable coal lands. The children, when grown, fire a double shot that ends Honeycutt's life, when they find he is responsible for the murder of Mavis's father.

The excellent vaudeville bill to be presented at the Grand for the last time today will be headed by Snapehots of 1919," a Broadway musical revue, with Julian Hall as the star, surrounded by a bevy of beautiful singing and dancing girls, who keep the audience busy noting the wonderful costume changes, smart dances and ensemble singing numbers as they disport themselves throughout the offering. Lucy Gillett, billed as "The Girl from Delft," offers an extraordinary juggling novelty. Knight and Gail, harmony singers, Keno and Wagner in a singing and dancing offering, and Fields and Wells, singing comedians, will conclude the bill.

PREMIER DRURY IS CRITICISED BY G. W. V. A

Members of the local Great War Veterans' Asociation at their regular general meeting last night went or ecord as being strongly opposed to the recent action of the Drury Government in ignoring the veterans and appointing a woman to the position of registrar of East and North Middlesex. It was claimed that there are 50 men here who are capable and willing to fill the office. The Government will be asked to reconsider its action. The resolution was moved and seconded by Comrades B. Devlin and Simes.

Toronto.

Since a year ago the membership of the organization had increased from 1,000 to 2,000. Widows' claims to the amount of $5,000 had been secured. Secretary J. W. Cunliffe wished it known that the association still supports the claims of all widows and orphans of soldiers.

One hundred pairs of socks were donated by the Red Cross for distribution, as New Year's gifts among the veterans. A resolution of sympathy to the sol-diers still in hospital wishing them a better new year was passed.

Dean of the Board of Education

Trustee Rowe's Friends Predict He Will Head the Polls.

Mr. Thomas Rowe, the well-known gents' furnisher, has served the city as school trustee longer than any other member at present on the board of education. Few more useful trustees ever sat on this important board. His friends confidently predict that he will lead the polls on Thursday next. Mr. Rowe has been a most painstaking and conscientious trustee. He has served as chairman of all the important committees and was chairman of the board itself in 1917. Few members are so conversant with the needs of the schools and the procedures of the board as is Trustee Rowe. It was his desire to retire from the board this year, but he consented to serve again only at the persistent solicitation of his fellowmembers of the board and a large number of citizens. The city is fortunate in having such men as Trustee Rowe to serve on a public body, which represents one of the largest civic spending departments.

The Fair Is the Property of All the People.

A Bigger WesternFair Means A Bigger, Better London

Exhibition Expansion Is a Good Sign For London.

To the Women Electors of London:

The approaching municipal elections will place upon you as a woman voter a distinct responsibility for the way you cast your ballot. As a woman voter you are bound to consider the interests of the home, the family, the children. Affect any of these and you affect the whole life of the community.

The contest for the Mayoralty in London this year has come to an issue between two forces. My opponent, an open champion of Socialistic doctrines in the past, is seeking to conceal his leanings in the present elections when he is presenting himself as the candidate of one particular class of the community. Among those associated with him are men of like views having scarcely a stake in the country who are avowedly class representatives and who are aiming to secure control of London's affairs.

I have placed myself before the people of London as a candidate for the Mayoralty, representing not one class, but all classes; not as the candidate of an extremist group, but holding firmly to principles of justice and fair play, equal rights to all and favors to none.

As a woman voter you know which of these two policies will be the best for the home, the family and the children growing up. Are we in London to be divided into classes warring one with another or are we to stand shoulder to shoulder, working with one mind to make London a better and bigger city?

As the candidate of all classes, bound by no ties or pledges, but those I have openly championed as tending to benefit the city as a whole, I appeal to you for your vote in the coming elections.

Yours respectfully,

E. S. Little.
