"LONDON DAY" ATTRACTS THOUSANDS TO FAIR

Anglo-Russian Treaty Branded As Fake By Lloyd George

SUN BRINGS THOUSANDS TO LONDON

Huge Throng Gathers at the Western Fair For London Day.

22,000 AT NOON

Buildings Are Mecca For Groups of Appreciative Visitors.

ATTENDANCE.	1923
Monday	8,000
Tuesday	22,500
Wednesday	17,000
Thursday	43,000

Western Fair attendance this morning advanced with the warm rays of the sun, and it looks as if Thursday is going to be anything but a "Jonah Day" for the directors. So many people had arrived on the grounds by noon that yesterday's figures of 43,000 will be exceeded, in the opinion of the men operating the turnstiles. It was estimated that 22,000 people had invaded Queen's Park by noon, and they kept on coming in droves. Today is looked upon as London's own day at the fair, and the citizens should outnumber their country cousins.

It is the first day of the fair that the weatherman has handed out a warm brand of atmosphere, and the population of Western Ontario has seized on his kindness like a child to candy.

Starting even before 10 o'clock, a continuous stream of humanity flowed in and out the buildings. Once more the exhibits in the Palace, Manufacturers' and Horticultural buildings drew delighted comments. The products of the farm and garden have never been so tastefully arranged as this year, and there is quantity as well as quality.

Director Billy McNeil stated that the grandstand will be packed again this afternoon and evening. Mr. McNeil has gathered some fine vaudeville acts for this year's performance, and he has picked up ten promising offerings beyond any shadow of a doubt.

Catch Up Today.

Today is the day that the directors expect to catch up on attendance figures that have been woefully weak, owing to bad weather. Friday should also be a good day, the directors declare.

Although Monday was scheduled as Children's Day by the fair board and admission was free to the grounds, the youngsters were given a holiday by the board of education until today and tomorrow.

They were on the job bright and early this morning, and it looked as if half the youngsters in Western Ontario were among those present when the morning rolled around. They dashed through the palace and the other buildings, while the cattle and horse sheds were also big attractions. Two little boys spent over half an hour at one hog pen fascinated by the size of two large sows. To them it was the best "exhibit" at the fair.

The directors decided this morning that it would not be advisable to place the admission fee for children tomorrow at 10 cents. It was pointed out that this would be hardly fair to the youngsters who paid 15 cents today. It was not the fault of the directors that the board of education had not seen fit to give the boys and girls a holiday on Monday when all children were admitted to the grounds. JUMPERS ATTRACT AT FAIR.

Above an Advertiser photographer shows Miss Marion Beck (left) up on Pinnacle and Tom Smallman (right) up on Chipmunk, two Londoners who won distinction yesterday at the Western Fair. Miss Beck won first in the open class and second in the pair events. Mr. Smallman was third in the open hunters and first in the pair jumping event.

WARRANT REFUSED FOR LUIS FIRPO

New Jersey Judge Declines To Act on Religious Society's Application.

Associated Press Despatch.
Newark, N. J., Sept. 11.—Federal Judge Runyon today refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Luis Firpo, who is to meet Harry Wills in a 12-round heavyweight fight at Boyle's "Thirty Acres," Jersey City. Application for the warrant was made yesterday by Herbert Clarke Gilson, counsel for a Jersey City religious and civic society, who charged Firpo with violating the Mann act by transporting a woman from Atlantic City to New York city shortly before his championship battle with Jack Dempsey a year ago.

FIGHT TO GO ON.

Associated Press Despatch.
Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 11.—No further attempts will be made to stop the 12-round Wills-Firpo bout in Boyle's Thirty Acres tonight, Herbert Clark Gilson, attorney for a Jersey City religious and civic society, announced today after Federal Judge Runyon at Newark had refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Luis Firpo on charges of violating the Mann act shortly before his championship battle with Dempsey a year ago. The warrant was requested by the society yesterday.

Synthetic Sugar Being Produced

Professor E. C. C. Baly of Liverpool University Perfects Discovery.

Associated Press Despatch.
Ithaca, N.Y., Sept. 11.—Man's first successful competition with nature in the production of one of the great fundamental foodstuffs was heralded today at the 68th convention of the American Chemical Society. The production of synthetic sugar was demonstrated by Professor E. C. C. Baly of the University of Liverpool, England.

The remarkable discovery of the British scientist cannot be utilized commercially at once. That depends on the search for the proper wave-length of ultra-violet light, the limits of which, however, Professor Baly has already outlined. Another interesting discovery announced was that through the motion picture machine the existence of the molecule has been demonstrated.

EMPIRE DEVELOPMENTS BRANCH IS ESTABLISHED

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Sept. 11.—An empire development branch of the Conservative party has been formed at the Conservative headquarters here. The object of the new organization is to further the Conservative policy of strengthening and developing the empire.
Many people with first-hand knowledge of all parts of the empire have promised to help the new branch of the Conservative party by making known the needs of the dominions and colonies and their possibilities in the way of buying British products and providing for British immigrants.

TASMANIA TO RECEIVE AID FROM AUSTRALIA

Associated Press Despatch.
Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 11.—Tasmania is being granted financial assistance by the Australian federal government to the amount of £250,000, the loan to be spread over five years. The house of representatives has just given third reading to a bill providing for the loan.

Telegraphers Strike

Canadian Press Operators Refuse Arbitration—Two London Newspapers Co-operating To Substitute News Service by Long Distance Telephone.

The telegraph operators of The Canadian Press, which is the co-operative news service of the Canadian daily newspapers, went on strike at 1 o'clock today.

The strike has been called as the result of a failure of negotiations for a new scale of wages between the operators and The Canadian Press. The day operators have been receiving $45 a week and the night operators $46. The operators demanded an increase of over 36 per cent, or $60 and $65, respectively. The Canadian Press, in its turn, suggested a scale of $42 for day work and $43 for night work in cities of over 50,000 population, and $38 and $39 in cities of less.

The Canadian Press, in accordance with the existing agreement, asked that a conciliation board be appointed to arbitrate the whole question. This the men have refused unless the proposals for a decrease are withdrawn. As a result, the operators have walked out.

The two London newspapers have co-operated, in so far as is possible, to substitute a mutual service by long distance telephone, so that the strike will mean a minimum of inconvenience to the public.

LYDD GEORGE CONDEMNS ANGLORUSS PACT AS FAKE

Former British Premier Declares Treaty Hastily Patched Up Affair.

DEPLORES OUTLAY

Claims MacDonald Victim of "Socialist Gunmen" of Own Party.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Sept. 11.—Lloyd George made a most important declaration on the Anglo-Russian treaty in a speech at Penmaenow, Wales, last night. The former premier declared that the treaty was a fake and folly, which had been hastily patched up at the end of the recent session of parliament, because Premier MacDonald had been held up by the socialist gunmen of his own party. He declared that it was an act of criminal recklessness at such a time to guarantee huge sums of money to be spent in another country by a government whose principles were predatory.

Lloyd George said he recognized that in voting against the guarantee the Liberals would be challenging the government on a major issue, which was an integral part of the government's program, but if the Liberals shirked that challenge, they would forfeit the nation's confidence and respect.

Lloyd George obviously assumes that the Liberals will join the Conservatives in defeating the government in an election on a major issue, which was an integral part of the government's program, but if the Liberals shirked that challenge, they would forfeit the nation's confidence and respect.

PREDICTS ELECTION.

Quebec, Sept. 11.—That the Russian trade treaty may cause general elections in England as a result of the opinion expressed by Mr. G. G. Dawson, editor of the London Times, in an interview this morning at the Chateau Frontenac.

Mr. Dawson is on a vacation in Canada and may travel to the eastern provinces. There still remained the question as to whether Ramsay MacDonald should see the treaty through, thus bringing about a battle in the House of Commons, which would oblige him to go to the country in a general election, or whether it really was only intended by him as a pacifier to the more extreme laborites.

TWENTY ARE KILLED IN STRIKE RIOTS

Hawaiian Plantations Are the Scene of Fatal Disturbances Late Yesterday.

Associated Press Despatch.
Honolulu, Sept. 11.—Twenty persons dead, unnumbered injured living in hospitals, officers under orders to shoot strikers as they approached distracted widows with children, trucking from jails to hospitals and morgues in search of missing strikers—this was the aftermath today of a clash between cane strikers and workers Tuesday at Hanalei, island of Kauai. The dead included sixteen Filipinos and four natives. The list was increased from nineteen when another Filipino died last night. The situation seemed under control yesterday while the funeral of many of the victims was being held, and today only a few Filipinos could be seen in the vicinity of the outbreak. They were not recognized as strikers, however, as all strikers who were not killed in the fighting Tuesday were in hiding, in hospitals, or in jail.

The outbreak was said to be the most terrific clash in the history of Hawaii. A coroner's jury has been obtained to investigate the cause and fix responsibility for the disturbance, which started when strikers were interrupted by police as the former attempted to kidnap workers at the McBride plantations near Hanalei.

Prince Indulges In Fox Chase

Had Great Time, Although No Game Was Bagged.

Associated Press Despatch.
Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Britain's heir rode in his first Long Island fox hunt this morning. For three and a half hours the earl of Atholl, Prince of Wales rode to hounds, holding a firm seat on a white horse, which carried him over twelve rail fences, took him over a score of ditches, and over many miles of Long Island fields. It was all very jolly—a tremendous success—his highness affirmed at the close, although no game had been brought in.

CURWOOD TOURING QUEBEC.

Special To The Advertiser.
Quebec, Sept. 11.—James Oliver Curwood, the distinguished American author, accompanied by Mrs. Curwood, his small son and his secretary, is now touring rural Quebec along many historical roads in a covered wagon, taking copious notes for his next novel, which will be an historical one and will be set in this province.

Extra Precautions Are Taken To Prevent Youths Escape

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Sept. 11.—Liberty forfeited for the remainder of their lives, Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jun., waited in the Cook County jail today for completion of penitentiary commitment papers. Saved from death on the gallows by only their immature years, the kidnapers-murderers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, will be rushed to the Joliet state prison immediately upon receipt by the sheriff of the documents necessary for their proper delivery at the penal institution.

There, numbers replacing names, and rigid discipline, the youthful intellects will face an eternity of manual labor in expiation of their crimes. Sentenced to life imprisonment on the murder charge and to ninety-nine years each on the kidnapping count by Judge John R. Cavert yesterday, the youthful scions of old Chicago millionaire families still were the center of extraordinary precautions today.

Throughout the night four automobiles carrying rifle squads cruised slowly about the old criminal courts building and adjoining county jail. Stationed at intervals along the four blocks of streets bordering the connected buildings were uniformed policemen and in front of the cell housing Loeb and Leopold, heavily armed guards relieved one another in groups of four all night.

REPEAL OF CROW'S NEST RATE URGED

Committee of Boards of Trade Indorsed Strong Resolution.

MEET IN OTTAWA

Urge Representatives Be Sent to Register Complaints at Conference.

The special committee appointed recently by the Western Ontario United Boards of Trade to prepare a strong resolution of protest against the continuance of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, met yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce board room. The members of the special committee are: F. A. Nancekivell, Brantford; (chairman); L. J. Salter, Stratford; Macleure Sclanders, Windsor; J. J. Foot, London; and Gordon Philip, London (secretary).

Besides the resolution of protest, which is being forwarded to the board of railway commissioners, R. H. W. L. Mackenzie, Kins, prime minister of Canada, and Hon. George P. Graham, federal minister of railways and canals, the committee is writing to the boards of trade in all the cities of Western Ontario adversely affected by the terms of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, urging the desirability of representation at the hearing of complaints arising out of the matter before the board of railway commissioners for Canada in the court room of the Union Station Building, Rideau street, Ottawa, on Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 10 a.m.

Not To Be Represented.

It is not likely that the city of London will be represented at the hearing.

PREMIER OF BRITAIN ATTACKS PROFITEER

Ramsay MacDonald Deplores Present Tendencies of Workers.

London, Sept. 11.—That the present day tendencies among the workers threaten the ideal of genuine socialism is the fear expressed by Premier MacDonald in a preface he has just written for a new addition to his well-known book, "Socialism and Democracy."

"The trade unionist," continues Mr. MacDonald, "has the same limitation imposed upon him in this respect as the capitalist—he cannot advance his interests at the expense of society. It cannot be over-emphasized that the ideal of genuine socialism is not only a moral ideal, but a practical one, and that it is not socialism, but misdirected socialism, which has infected all sections."

"The trade unionist," continues Mr. MacDonald, "has the same limitation imposed upon him in this respect as the capitalist—he cannot advance his interests at the expense of society. It cannot be over-emphasized that the ideal of genuine socialism is not only a moral ideal, but a practical one, and that it is not socialism, but misdirected socialism, which has infected all sections."

"Socialism calls upon men to give unstinted service and return for a reasonable award, measured in terms of life, and nobody should be more impatient than the socialist with the fallacy that a man cannot be expected to give service before he gets the reward. The socialist, therefore, looks with some misgiving upon some of the recent developments of the conflicts between capital and labor. They are contrary to this spirit, he believes. They are immoral, uneconomic, and will lead to disaster."

SIR ADAM BETTER.

Sir Adam Beck, who has been confined to his home for the past week through illness, shows decided improvement in his condition, his physician, Dr. Haje, stated today.

Sir Adam has been suffering from a severe cold.

ALD. JOHN ANDERSON, who has been principally instrumental in securing a permanent home for the South Branch Library, a building has been secured on Wortley road near Bruce street and will house the South London Library in the near future.

LIBRARY BRANCH HOME SECURED

Will Move Into New Quarters on Wortley Road in Few Weeks.

Through the persistent efforts of Alderman Anderson working in conjunction with the public library board arrangements have been finally completed for the housing of the South Branch Library in its permanent home. This was announced by Librarian Richard E. Crouch this morning.

The property has been secured on Wortley road near Bruce street opposite the Knox Presbyterian Church. The South Branch Library will be moved into the new quarters on or about the first of October.

It will be remembered that the members of the city council, including Mayor Wenige, Alderman Douglas and Alderman Anderson waited on the members of the Public Library Board ten days ago to urge the relocation of the library from its present quarters at that time in which Alderman Anderson has given both his time and knowledge of the south section of the city that the present announcement has been made possible, states Mr. Crouch.

The members of the Public Library Board are pleased to be able to open the new branch at such an early date, and they are satisfied that they have secured a most central situation to serve the South Londoners.

All the books are at the main library at present. These will be moved to the new building before the opening day. The files of reference material, particularly for the school children, are being increased and kept up-to-date in accordance with the latest requirements, so that the children will suffer no inconvenience through the time the library has been closed.

Definite announcement of the opening date will be made as soon as possible.

BOUNDARY TROUBLES OF SCHOOL CONTINUE

Sixteen Simcoe Street Parents Want Children Changed to Aberdeen.

Frate parents of Simcoe street, some sixteen in all, have petitioned the board of education asking that their children be permitted to attend Aberdeen school. The petition follows close on the heels of other complaints regarding school boundaries, and according to the secretary of the board, will be brought up at Monday's session of No. 1 committee.

Children of Grey street parents have apparently all been sent to Simcoe street school this term. This school, the petitioners declare, is five blocks from their homes. On the other hand, Aberdeen school is only a block and a half distant. Parents believe that the condition is unfair, and cannot understand why the boundary cannot be changed.

The Grey street parents protest against the board giving power to the inspectors to maintain or change boundaries, as they see fit, "usually only once in every 15 or 20 years."

Another parent, who has been in the school for some time, writes a letter to the board, why the child can't be a pupil at Lord Roberts' school.

Talbot street school is overcrowded, while there are seven vacant seats in one class at Lord Roberts' school. A suggestion is made by him that has already come before the board. It is that pupils now attending certain schools not be changed to other schools until they start collegiate training.

CITY MUST DEVISE OWN WORK PLAN

Murdock States Government Is Unable To Act in Present Situation.

LABOR DISPLEASED

Department of Municipalities Is Urged To Be Formed at Ottawa.

In a letter to the city, Hon. James Murdock, federal minister of labor, outlining the policy of the government on unemployment, states that the cities and provinces will be expected to find a solution of the problems presented by unemployment.

While the mayor and Alderman Frank McKay were appointed a committee by the city council to go to Ottawa to ask for some consideration of the city and for some measure of financial aid in the matter, it is now probable that they will not go. This letter of the minister is written following the late conference on unemployment, and is considered by city officials as representing the final decision in the matter. Frank White, M.P. for London, had nothing to say when told of the communication.

Ex-Alderman John Colbert, president of the London Labor party, views the decision of Ottawa unfavorably. "It is grossly unfair," he told The Advertiser today, "for the federal government to let the whole burden of taking care of the unemployed fall on the shoulders of the municipalities and the provinces."

Pertinent Questions.

"If Hon. James Murdock, the minister of labor, attends the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress here next week, he will have some very pertinent questions to answer in regard to this decision. On the other hand, this is pretty much the treatment the cities have learned to expect, from past experiences with other federal governments, and the municipalities and the provinces will probably have to shoulder the burden as usual."

Mayor Wenige takes the situation a little more philosophically and believes that something may yet be done to change the opinion of Ottawa.

"The solution of the whole thing lies in the individual members representing municipalities in the federal house," he says. "What is a member at Ottawa for if not to deal with cases of this kind, which are obvious injustices done to his city and others. All that is needed to put things right is to exert sufficient pressure behind every municipality at Ottawa who sits for a municipality and the trick is done."

Offers Solution.

A prominent member of the London Labor party suggests that the solution lies in the formation of a department of municipalities at Ottawa. He believes that the cities should be organized to represent the municipalities, and that a department should be provided to take care of the needs of the cities. He recognizes, however, the expense that this would be and agrees with the mayor that real live action on a large scale by the united municipalities is being demanded. The end of thought and allowing its imagination to dwell on the coming winter, and will probably have something to say about the matter next week in the national congress.

DAUGHTER GOOD MOTORIST, BUT COURT FINES FATHER

Because his 15-year-old daughter was found driving an automobile on the downtown streets, a local man was fined $5 and costs in police court this morning.

"She is a capable driver," the man told Magistrate Graydon.

"That has nothing to do with the case whatever," his worship replied. "The girl is even too young to secure a license, and it is against the law. Should she be in an accident, you would be held for negligence."

Oats Break Record

On some farms between Thamesville and Dresden 100 bushels of oats to an acre was produced this year. The story of this extraordinary yield is told in the fifth Advertiser crop survey, which appears today on Page 13. An interesting description of the great corn, bean and beet fields of Kent county is also given.

Street Lighting System Will Not Be Scrapped, Utilities Manager Declares

GRADUAL CHANGE SAID BEST PLAN

Scrapping of Street Lighting System Not Contemplated, P. U. C. Manager Says.

COULD BE IMPROVED

London's street lighting system will not be scrapped tomorrow, nor the day after, nor on the fourth day of Fair Week, 1925. According to the general manager of the general manager of the public utilities commission, the lighting system might be improved, but it is not so far as the physical features of the equipment is concerned.

At the same time as an outstanding advocate in the "Lighting and Heat" movement, Mr. Buchanan interjects the proviso that London's streets might be a whole lot more adequately illuminated. He points out that London's per capita street lighting charge of 53 cents a year is shocking and shameful in comparison with other cities on the hydro system.

"Go Slow" Plan. But the manager of the public utilities commission is not ready to say, "Our street lighting system has become obsolete. Let's chuck out all our old lamps and equipment and get in new ones, so that the streets may be adequately illuminated."

A gradual change may be put in vogue. The greater part of the street lighting equipment will not be worn out for another five years. Its life is estimated at about 20 years in all, and the equipment still has another five winters of its appointed span to carry on.

On King street, in a block where better illumination is required, for a new type of prismatic lamp, placed in the center of the street, has been tried out during the past three weeks. The new type of lamp, already established a good reputation because they cast rays of light where light is most useful. Rays are directed up and down the street, and as they are suspended in the center of the thoroughfare, the illumination is not interfered with by shade trees. In the case of the bracket lamps, rays are sometimes cast in the direction of certain verandas, while other folk have more or less complete refuge from the limelight.

Main Streets All Right. Discussing the question with The Advertiser today, Mr. Buchanan, in the opinion of the street lighting on Dundas and Richmond streets, in the center of the city, was quite sufficient, and should not be tampered with. Again, there were many little side streets and short lanes and blind alleys where one or two bracket lamps were easily sufficient.

However, from time to time a bracket here and there on some of the travelled thoroughfares will become worn out and need another street manager, and in that case brackets could be removed for a block or so and the new prismatic lights installed. There would be no great additional expense in the change. It would only be a matter of an outlay of labor.

Gradual Change. "Old lights could be taken down from the poles on one street. Equipment that is still serviceable could be saved and used on another street where repairs could be made without buying new fixtures. Then, on the street where the old bracket lamps had been removed, the new prismatic lights might be installed."

A system of graduating the lighting system, and using another street light where it is needed, will likely be maintained. But there will be no sudden, overnight change in London's street lighting system.

DOMINION SECRETARY TO VISIT PRESBYTERY

Miss Evelyn Mitchell Will Be Guest in London in October.

Miss Evelyn Mitchell, field secretary for the Dominion board of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, will visit London in October. Besides visiting the city branches of the W. M. S., Miss Mitchell will visit the different branches throughout the London Presbytery.

Plans for her visit will be made at a meeting of the Presbyterian executive this month, when arrangements will also be made for the annual meeting of the London Presbytery in St. Thomas some time in January.

PAIR OF CELEBRANTS PICKED UP AT THE FAIR

Two drunks arrested last night on the Fair grounds, appeared in police court this morning. Each pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined the usual $10 and costs.

"Where did you get the liquor?" Magistrate Graydon asked one man. "On the Fair grounds," he replied. "It was whiskey."

"You men should realize that Fair week is not a time for celebration," Magistrate Graydon told the men. "The Fair is no excuse for you not to conduct yourself in an orderly manner."

VICTORIA LODGE

Victoria Lodge ladies auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is planning a great bazaar to be held in November. Mrs. Lois Russell is the general convener, with Mrs. Higman convener of the tea room; Mrs. D. E. McHarg of the fancy work; Mrs. Fred Boyce of the amusements; Mrs. Foster of the 15-cent stall and Miss Dorothy Russell of the orange tree.

WRIT IS ISSUED

A writ was issued in county court yesterday by Jarvis & Vining, acting on behalf of the London Box Manufacturing Company, Limited, London, against the Green River Bottling Company, Limited, 274, William street, London, for the sum of $695.35 for goods sold and the sum of $30 for costs.

FATALISTIC OUTLOOK AIDS DARING WOMAN HIGH DIVER

THE THRILL GIRL.

Here an Advertiser photographer shows Beatrice Kyle in mid-air making her sensational 90-foot dive into her small tank at the Johnny J. Jones' Midway at the Western Fair.

EMPLOYERS REALIZE PRESENT SITUATION

Announce Willingness To Co-operate With City in Constructive Plan.

Large employers of labor in the city in answer to a request from the city council to do what they could to meet the unemployment conditions say they are doing all they can and that they will be pleased to co-operate with the council in any scheme that will relieve the situation.

They report in some cases that they have been able to re-employ a few men, and in others to prevent the laying off of men who would otherwise be now out of work.

Work has started on the paving of Richmond street north of which nearly two miles is to be paved by the provincial highways department, and when this work gets well under way, it will probably absorb a fairly large number of men.

RALLY SUNDAY FOR CHURCHES

Rally week for the Sunday schools occurs from Sept. 21 to Sept. 28, and will be observed in the London churches as it is observed in the Sunday schools throughout the nation. In the different churches the observance of rally week will be marked in divers ways, but in all instances the object will be the rallying of the boys and girls of the city into the Sunday schools once more.

ABOVE AN ADVERTISER PHOTOGRAPHER SHOWS THE SENSATIONAL 90-FOOT DIVE INTO HER SMALL TANK AT THE JOHNNY J. JONES' MIDWAY AT THE WESTERN FAIR.

Beatrice Kyle Plunges Through 90 Feet of Space Every Day and Enjoys It.

IRON NERVE NEEDED

Johnny J. Jones' "Thrill Girl" Relates Arduous Early Training.

In circus parlance Beatrice Kyle is known as "the thrill girl." She is the little lady who sends creepy sensations down the spines of thousands who watch her sensational diving act with the Johnny J. Jones' Midway. No other woman in the world has ever plunged into a round pool 15 feet in diameter from the spectacular height of 90 feet. Yet Miss Kyle does the trick six times a day and likes it.

Few persons appreciate what a stunt of this hair-raising kind involves. To accomplish it successfully one must be endowed with special qualities. The first of these is iron nerve, the second great natural ability, and the third, a fatalistic attitude toward life.

By "iron nerve" is not meant brazenness. Although possessed of extraordinary courage Miss Kyle is exceptionally modest. Much persuasion was required to elicit from her the story of her achievements—achievements that have earned for the young woman the title of "the greatest female diver on earth."

"I've been diving ever since I was twelve years old," Miss Kyle said. "The first thing I had to overcome was fear. It took me years to summon up sufficient courage to dive a distance of 40 feet. But this is not the only thing I had to fight against. Some girls have the courage, but all the courage in the world will not make a diver if one hasn't natural ability and the will power to develop it."

"Every time I go up to the top of the 90-foot ladder I brush away all feelings of fear by saying to myself, 'That fall will happen if I fall. If I'm injured it was ordained that I should be injured. Nothing I can do will save me if fate decrees otherwise.'"

"When I was seventeen my employer built a 90-foot ladder just above a large pool. In a joking way they asked me to dive from the top of it. When I said I would they laughed. However, I practiced for six years and every week I took a dive from a rung in the ladder. This was one higher than the rung I dived from the preceding week. Then I told them I was ready to jump from the very top."

Since that time a 90-foot dive has become a daily feat with Miss Kyle. She has been injured several times but nothing seems to daunt her. Before she has been in the water, she is of poise and body control she is landed on her stomach and her back. Landing on the back, she explained, is the most painful position. A high diver can have. The sting and pain is intense, and as one hits the water the wind is knocked out of the body. Landing on the stomach, which is also very painful, is not half so dangerous.

In high diving there are many things to be taken into consideration. One of these is wind. If the wind is blowing fairly hard allowance must be made for the sway of the figure as it is hurled through the air. Miss Kyle always "feels" the strength of the wind before she dives and if it is blowing in a certain direction she inclines from one to ten feet against it, depending on the pace with which it is blowing.

At Toronto this famous stunt diver broke her thumb because she did not gauge the wind correctly. While plunging through the air the wind swayed her body slightly to one side and she landed out of position. Her hand, which she always places on her hips, were forced out of place and when she struck the water the impact caused a painful injury to her left thumb. It will be months before the thumb will become normal again, she said.

Other bathing girls, questioned by The Advertiser, said they wouldn't have Miss Kyle's job for anything. The only other girl who can dive from a distance higher than 40 feet is Virginia Lee, a 12-year-old miss, whom Miss Kyle has adopted. When the latter decides to retire from the high diving game Virginia will be ready to take her place.

"Of course I never expect to be as successful as Miss Kyle," Virginia confessed, "but I'm very fond of diving and I hope to be able to do 60 feet before long. I've been diving since I was four years old. I watch the diving girls do their stuff in the bitter cold of these September nights as at a loss to understand how the mermads avoid colds and pneumonia. The explanation is that the water is always kept at an even temperature by a special heating apparatus and the girls themselves are in such splendid physical condition that the bitter cold and low temperatures do not affect them."

MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY AT FAIR.

Above an Advertiser photographer shows the splendid display of flowers at the London Horticultural Society. Asters, dahlias, and gladioli, a mass of bloom attract the eye of all who enter the horticulture building at the Western Fair. It is said to be one of the greatest displays of flowers ever seen at the fair and one of the finest in the province. Members of the society who were in charge of the work have been receiving congratulations from the best of the city. The display is a tribute to the beauty of the fair.

OFFICIAL ACTION RUMORS FALSE

Ottawa Has Not Acted in Port Stanley Immigration Complaint, Officer Says.

SMUGGLING FEARED

Contrary to reports circulated that official news had been received from Ottawa regarding the appointing of an immigration officer to Port Stanley, Mr. Farrell explained that this was absolutely false.

Mr. Farrell admitted that on receiving complaints from different parties that numerous Americans were gaining entrance to Canada through this port without any difficulty whatever, he had communicated with authorities in Ottawa, but as yet had not heard from them.

When asked if the number of aliens from the United States gaining entrance was very great, and if any goods were being smuggled across the border, Mr. Farrell replied that according to what he had heard from the complainants the number could not be estimated, and that smuggling, he presumed, was also being practiced.

"An immigration officer is needed in that locality, owing to its proximity to the border, and in 1925 I will do all I can to see that officers meet all boats," said Mr. Farrell.

During the summer a passenger boat, the Colonial, has been plying between Cleveland and Port Stanley, affording an excellent chance for Americans to evade the immigration officers which they would encounter at any other port or city, and live in Canada, the majority making London and vicinity their abode. Ottawa officials were at once communicated with and arrangements made to have officers meet boats for the remainder of the summer.

In the meantime, the boat services have been discontinued for this year, but with the opening of navigation in 1925 immigration officials will be in a position to act, Mr. Farrell could not say whether he would be one of the officials or not.

NO SMALLPOX CASES SINCE MARCH HERE

Value of Vaccination, Stressed by Medical Officer of Health.

Dr. W. S. Downham, city medical officer of health, says the city is quite clear of smallpox, and that there has been no case since March in London. This is in view of the discovery of five cases in Chatham yesterday, all of which were found in one family.

The medical officer, however, says that with an epidemic beginning at this time of the year there is always more danger of its growth and intensity. In Chatham all means of safety, which are largely a matter of recommending vaccination, are being undertaken, and the success of vaccination in the Detroit and Windsor outbreak a few months ago is ample evidence of the immunity gained by this single means of protection.

OAK PULPIT IS PRESENTED TO BURGESSVILLE CHURCH

Canadian Press Despatch. Burgessville, Sept. 9.—The service of last Sunday morning was one of unusual interest to Burgessville Baptists, the occasion being the presentation to the church of a beautiful new quartered-oak pulpit to match the chairs and communion table purchased within the past year.

The pulpit was the gift of the Kelly brothers, who have an active interest in the work of the church.

In rising to make a vote of thanks, Mrs. Aaron Dennis expressed appreciation of the gift and the interest that it betokened. W. Kneal seconded the motion, when the entire congregation rose and sang heartily in the singing of "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

SALES DOUBLE SINCE BRITISH DIETITIAN URGED EATING OF BROWN BREAD.

RICH IN VITAMINES Fiber Building Qualities Lacking in White Bread. Is Claim.

Two years ago Sir Edward Boscawen, eminent British dietitian, broadcast the opinion that persons who habitually ate whole wheat bread or brown bread, would never get cancer.

Since this statement was published consumption of whole wheat bread in London has more than doubled.

Sir Edward mentioned in his statement that civilized people were making a tremendous mistake in eating white bread, a food which, he claimed, did not possess the fibre building qualities of the whole wheat product.

That this is appreciated by the average London housewife is illustrated by the fact that local bakers' sales of brown bread are 100 per cent in excess of what they were in 1922.

They claim that two years ago white bread was the popular product. As many as 25 loaves of white bread would be sold to one loaf of brown. Now conditions are changed. The brown bread is sold to almost every household in the city. Restaurants use nearly as much of the brown variety as the white, and some people who formerly ate only white bread, now eat nothing but brown.

Although some physicians have been urging the public to use more of the brown bread, it is in every way superior in health-giving properties. Others declare that the two loaves are almost identical in food value. Several local doctors stated today that there is not a great deal of difference between the two varieties of bread, but they admit brown bread contains an extra amount of vitamins and substances which are lacking in the white loaf. They said it was mainly recommended by physicians because of its laxative qualities.

Propaganda in favor of whole wheat bread is being spread at an alarming rate. An especially fine memorial program has been arranged for the night, and the auditorium is expected to be completely filled when the first number is announced.

Western Fair Exhibits Worthy of Attention

Splendid Exhibits Draw Large Crowds at Fair

T. D. AGNEW.
T. D. Agnew, agent for Middlesex county for the Aero Cushion Inner Tire Company, Wingham, has an exhibit of the new Aero Cushion tires on the main floor of the Manufacturers' Building. Mr. Agnew's place of business is situated in the city at 483 Talbot street.
There are being distributed from the exhibit booth booklets explaining the Aero Cushion tire, and letters from a number of local firms who have used the Aero tires on their motor cars. Included in this list are the London Pure Ice Company, Ltd.; Singer Sewing Machine Company; J. Ferguson's Sons, C. J. Leach, N. J. Griffith, Ont's Up-To-Date Market, Harry H. Guest, Anderson's Meat Market and the O-Line Parcel Delivery.
With Aero Cushion inner tires there are no more punctures, blow-outs, loss of time, tube patching, need of air gauge, wearisome pumping, fear of glass or nails or jacking up car for tire repairs. Aero cushion tires are comfortable; you cannot distinguish their easy riding qualities from those of the ordinary pneumatic tire. They are economical, too; you not only save time and trouble, but you save the cost of a fifth tire, while your casings give you double the mileage.

DENNISTEEL EQUIPMENT.

As anticipated, the novelty of the Dennisteel equipment being shown by the Dennis Wire & Iron Works Company, Limited, in its exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building has been attracting considerable attention by Fair visitors.

The house safes, and particularly the smaller one, with inside drawer with key and two shelves, priced at $38, has been commented upon with favor and interest. The safe, which is of fireproof construction, stands about three feet high.

The display counters for accessories, with battleship linoleum top, are finished in polished brass and oxidized or enameled finish.
The company is turning out a special janitors' locker, style D103, for the use of janitors in offices and apartments, to contain cleaning powders, brooms, mops, etc.
The private office wardrobe lockers are finished in imitation oak or in standard olive green finish.

Other Dennisteel equipment on display includes steel garage shelves, steel desks and chairs, garage racks for springs, tires and wheels, and radius rods.

KARDEX OFFICE FILES.

An exhibit of particular interest to businessmen is that of KarDEX office filing equipment in the Manufacturers' Building. The exhibit is in charge of J. A. Sutherland, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian organization and also district manager, Toronto, and M. D. Brown, manager of the local branch, 426 Richmond street.

The Canadian organization has branches at all important points, and is being handled by men especially qualified to discuss intelligently problems of record-keeping in all kinds of businesses. Service of KarDEX men to firms installing the KarDEX system makes possible the introduction of the system with the least possible inconvenience and the greatest possible efficiency to the individual business houses concerned.

KarDEX holds rank with the typewriter and telephone as a necessary business adjunct. KarDEX cards expose facts which stop losses, start sales and stimulate cash profits. The 50 per cent saved in clerical expense becomes incidental. KarDEX provides a range of applications certain to meet the specific requirements of any business or department of a business.

HEINTZMAN & CO.

Never in the history of Western Fair has a piano exhibit received such attention and favorable comment from those visiting the exhibition as has this year's display of Grands, Players and Upright Heintzman & Company pianos and phonographs, located in the northeast corner of the Palace.

Among the instruments upon display is a Heintzman & Co. Grand Piano in Louis XV. design, especially made for one of London's leading businessmen.

A Heintzman & Co. player piano in walnut case, equipped with patent aluminum action, which prevents any leaky valves, has also drawn favorable comment.

The firm are also showing several instruments in the new Russian lacquer, walnut finish, in addition to their regular showing of polished and satin finished mahogany and walnut pianos in regular designs. In all 16 upright pianos, 2 grands and 2 players are in the display, with a large display of McLagan phonographs and Victor victrolas of the latest models.

The Heintzman sales force will be pleased to demonstrate any of the instruments on display to those interested.

GERHARD HEINTZMAN, LIMITED.

Very many of the visitors at the Western Fair have paused to look over the exhibit of Gerhard Heintzman, Limited, in the Crystal Palace and admire the new models, including a Louis in mahogany finish, a Chippendale in art walnut, and two new apartment player pianos in Louis and Colonial styles.

George S. Pequegnat, local manager, is particularly well pleased with the reception accorded the exhibit this year. Mr. Pequegnat told The Advertiser yesterday afternoon that sales thus far this year had shown a marked improvement over last year. In fact, the company had already sold as many pianos in the first three days of the Fair as were sold all during the time of the exhibition last year.

The company is showing some French oboes and clarinets, as well as a number of Coutourier cornets of the new type with conical bore. The latter have been greatly admired by musicians from all over Western Ontario. There are also a few gold-plated Coutourier saxophones ranging in price from $235 to $350.

Among the display of small musical instruments there are also a number of celebrated Besson instruments and a fine line of Vega banjos, one of which is valued at $350.

A clock phonograph is a special feature, too. It is a beautiful piece of hand-carved work, and is finished in the finest mahogany. It combines a grandfather's clock, record cabinet and phonograph, and sells for $900.
Capt. Albert (Peg) Pequegnat of Stratford, well-known basso profundo, will be present with this evening and all day tomorrow. Those who fail to hear him sing will have missed something really worth while. He will be accompanied by one Miss Gladys Udy, this city, who has been delighting visitors to the exhibit all week with her clever and artistic piano playing. Local artists will also contribute to the musical programs during the day.

WYATT FURNITURE CO. AND F. B. SMITH.

The Wyatt Furniture Company and the F. B. Smith firm have combined forces for an exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building of super-heaters and furnaces, the product of the Hamilton Stove & Heater Company, Hamilton.

The Souvenir super-heater, being handled by the Wyatt Company, is a furnace which will burn either hard coal, soft coal or wood, with perfect results. It is scientifically designed on the principles of the pipeless furnace, and if placed in a living-room will heat four to six connecting rooms better than the ordinary stove heats one. The Souvenir super-heater is a most attractive addition to the living-room, being finished in enamel of mahogany color, hard and smooth as glass, that can be rubbed with a cloth. The beautiful finish is practically everlasting. The super-heater is made in one size only—height, 48 inches; size of body, 23 inches square; inside diameter of the firepot, 11½ inches; depth of firepot, 15 inches; size of feed door opening, 6½ inches by 8½ inches.

The New Idea Furnace, sold in London by F. B. Smith, has been manufactured by the Hamilton Stove Company to give satisfaction beyond the expectancy of the buyer; built to give every dollar's worth of service known to modern furnace construction. The firepot of the New Idea Pipeless Furnace is an important feature, being made of heavy flanged cast iron in one piece and guaranteed for five years. It will burn any fuel, consuming the smoke, soot and gases and uses less fuel than any other make of furnace. The radiator of the furnace has triple radiating surfaces, providing a large area of effective heating. The construction is such that the heat makes a complete circuit of both inner and outer radiator before reaching the smoke pipe.

W. H. COOPER & CO.

Radio fans have been drawn in large numbers to the exhibit of W. H. Cooper & Co., Hamilton, or Cooper Battery Service, in the Manufacturers' Building, featuring the famous "Handy Charger," which charges both A and B batteries. The construction of the U. S. L. radio battery is also being explained. In addition to these two lines W. H. Cooper & Company are displaying a complete line of battery service station equipment and a variety of hydrometers. The both constant potential system, the modern method for charging starting and lighting batteries, are also being demonstrated.

Many features are included in the U. S. L. battery which are exclusive. The plates are "machine-pasted" securing, with the use of fused oxides, a high capacity, remarkable uniformity and long life.

MODEL OF MT. ROBSON FEATURED BY C. N. R.

Highest Peak in Canadian Rockies Portrayed by Canadian National Exhibit.

The Canadian National Railways exhibit in the Government Building, in charge of J. F. Gordon and R. A. McVean, travelling passenger agents for the company, is indeed a credit to the Western Fair and the railroad company. The entire background of the exhibit is taken up by a very beautiful painting, electrically lighted, depicting Mount Robson, the highest peak of the Canadian Rockies within sight of which the C. N. R. passes at a distance of twelve miles. The Robson, which is 13,068 feet high, was scaled last summer for the first time by alpine climbers. Mount Robson is situated in Jasper Park, through which the C. N. Railroad passes on its way westward, one branch diverging at Red Pass Junction, going north to Prince Rupert, and the other south to Vancouver. The famous C. N. R. Triangle Tour is completed by the connection of the two terminals by means of a boat line down the coast of British Columbia. There are shown also in the Mount Robson picture figures of an Indian, a voyageur, cowboy, mounted policeman, fur trader and farmer, all of whom are encountered by the traveller in the course of a trip through Western Canada.

A series of transparencies illustrate very finely the C. N. R. broadcasting station at Ottawa, radio equipment on all through trains, Bigwin Inn, Lake of Bays, Nominigan Camp, Smoke Lake, Algonquin Park, Steamer Sagamo, Muskoka Lake scene, fishing in Timigami and threshing and harvesting scenes in the west. All the views are enlarged from actual photographs.

The entire C. N. R. transcontinental system from Halifax to Vancouver is shown by means of a map on which are marked the principal cities of the Dominion, including the city of London.

Comments and information relating to C. N. R. hotels, hunting, dining car accommodation and Jasper Park and Lodge complete the exhibit.

A remark significant of the general policy adopted by the C. N. R. Company is as follows: "Such a little thing, courtesy, but it is an outward sign of the appreciation we have for our patrons and goodwill. We take a downright pride in trying to make your trip one of general satisfaction from beginning to end."

CRUISES TO NEAR EAST DEPICTED IN EXHIBIT

Steamship Trips Are Featured by Canadian Pacific Railway.

The exhibit of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the government building, in charge of J. Yorick, Toronto, travelling passenger agent for the company, is this year entirely a steamship exhibit featuring Round-the-World and Mediterranean cruises. "Have you been around the world?" In the background, beautifully illuminated, are two gorgeous and colorful scenes to be visited in Egypt and India. The Egyptian picture shows the desert, pyramids and Suez Canal, with boats moving along its opal blue, with Egyptians sitting about attired in native garb. In the background of the Indian picture are mosques and temples with turbaned natives squatting in the foreground. There are also ten transparencies of points to be visited on the two cruises tastefully arranged along the front of the exhibit.

Automatic electric signs read: "Round-the-World cruise by Canadian Pacific, the voyage of a lifetime, a 130-day tour on the magnificent steamer, Empress of France, visiting 27 gateway ports, leaving New York January 14, 1925." The second reads: "Next winter, a Canadian Pacific cruise of the Mediterranean, visiting the picturesque and colorful regions of the cradle of our civilization, a 62-day cruise on the Empress of Scotland, leaving New York February 9, 1925."

A separate stall, but part of the C.P.R. exhibit, contains a number of fine pictures illustrating the fishing sport to be had along the French and Nipigon Rivers of North Ontario.

Facts concerning the C. P. R. are ranged on various boards giving the information that the C. P. R. system embraces 20,000 miles of railroad; two fleets of steamers, one on the Pacific and the other on the Atlantic; palatial hotels throughout the Dominion; and last, but not least, a dependable telegraph service.

Pamphlets and books being distributed by those in charge of the exhibit detail the wonders of the system and the multitudinous points of interest to be reached by means of travelling over it.

While only about one-sixth the size of the C.P.R. exhibit shown at the Canadian National Exhibition, the entire exhibit shown at the Western Fair was shipped here direct from Toronto.

SEE THE Aero Cushion Inner Tube IN THE MANUFACTURERS' BUILDING AT THE WESTERN FAIR

Aero-Cushion Inner Tubes are cylindrical in shape. Pure para rubber is used—cured under terrific heat through a chemical process that renders them highly resilient. Besides eliminating the extra jars that result when a highly inflated pneumatic tire comes in contact with a rut or stone, the resilient quality of Aero-Cushion rubber protects the casings from the pressure resistance on the inside of the casings, which, of course, is what does damage to outer tires. Thus Aero-Cushion Inner Tubes are easier on the casings, and quite as easy, if not easier, on the passengers in the car.

MUSIC

Not Alone In Quality and Tone
But Also Beauty In Artistry

WHILE the quality and tone of the Gerhard Heintzman, Canada's Premier Piano, cannot and has not been disputed as being the finest in any piano to day, there is another point also undisputed—that is, the unequalled grace and charm of Canada's Premier Piano, a piano made by Canada's master craftsman.

The New Great Gerhard Heintzman Achievement

Checking or marring the delightful finish of the new Gerhard Heintzman Piano are impossible, for the veneer of this piano is now 1/4 of an inch, where all other pianos being manufactured are but 1-32 of an inch. The process used in the new Achievement will be gladly explained to anyone interested.

Attractively Furnished Homes Create Happiness For Women; Contentment Is In Reach of All

Home Lovers' Club of the Ontario Furniture Makes Happy Homes Possible Regardless of the Condition of the Purse. As Ideal Credit System Opens Way To World of Beautiful Things. Better To Buy Best Quality Now and Pay Later Than Secure Cheap Ones in the Idea of Replacement.

Anyone inspired by ambition to possess things which make his home attractive, not only to his own family, but to the friends who may be invited there from time to time, nowadays generally gets those things within his grasp.

It amounts really to a determination to strike while the iron is hot, for with the cooling of a desire, the ability to possess shrinks. Consider for a moment plans for purchasing household furniture and furnishings. A young couple just starting out naturally are imbued with the idea of having a most homey home. When they invite friends, they want the friends to go away pleased with what they have seen and with the degree of hospitality which has been provided.

Half the joy of a wife in her home rests in the fact that her friends have kind things to say about the surroundings in which she is enveloped. Interior decorations, nice furniture, etc., play a most important part in this scheme of things.

But here are two young people without the capital to pay spot cash for the things they have admired in the store windows. What are they going to do? They may reach a decision to buy something cheaper just now, and later when the pay envelope is thicker, they will replace and improve their selection to make. But it is never carried out—only in very rare cases. The first purchases generally stay in the home until they are either broken or so worn out they can be no longer used. By that time the couple have grown old and are no longer particularly interested in inviting friends in for the evening, or they are interested in what others may have to say about the old chairs in which they try to find comfort.

That's what comes of trying to pay cash and be a "free man." The other alternative, and a logical one, it must be admitted, is to buy the best things in accordance with future prospects and buy on credit. There are many houses that allow this, and the Ontario Furniture Company is one of them.

Under a scheme which has been adopted by this modern furnishing house the Home Lovers' Club makes it possible for every family to enjoy to the fullest extent the fine things they have seen in the Ontario store. The home club is one which any honest person may join and reap the benefits. One statement only as to the advantages to be gained is needed. It is a fact that a member of this home club may be put in possession of articles valued at $50 each for the initial payment of 50 cents and a promise to pay small weekly amounts. This opportunity is one that cannot be overlooked. It is buying on credit, a form of purchasing which is the foundation of modern business.

WOMEN ORGANIZE FOR O. T. A. FIGHT

Mass Meeting Is Called For Tuesday Next in St. Andrew's Hall.

The women of London interested in the defence of the O. T. A. when the provincial government takes a plebiscite on the question on October 23 will rally in St. Andrew's Hall at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon next. The meeting has been called under the auspices of the Ontario Women's Prohibition Committee, of which Mrs. May R. Thornley of this city is a member, and Mrs. R. G. Smyth of Toronto, the president. The gathering, which is for organization purposes, is thrown open to all of the women of London.

The mother committee, organized in Toronto for work throughout the province, has fourteen large women's organizations working in support of it and representing on it. The women's organization follows that of the men early this week and will work in affiliation with the London Temperance Campaign Committee, of which Mrs. Frank White is an honorary president.

PERSONALS

Mrs. E. C. Connolly of Toronto is the guest of her sister, Miss Francis Macbeth, Central avenue.

Mrs. W. R. Hardy, Toronto, is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Warren, Hamilton road.

Mrs. H. A. Winnett has returned home from Toronto, where she attended the National Exhibition.

Miss Helen Begg has as her guest at her Lakeside home the Misses Veryl Nicholson and Olive Vann.

Canon R. J. M. Perkins of Chatham is in town attending a meeting of the executive of the Synod of Huron.

Rev. T. J. Charlton and Mrs. Charlton have returned home after spending a month with their sons at Onondaga.

T. G. Meredith and Mr. Stanley Meredith have returned

wife of Frank White, M.P., who has been appointed an honorary president of the recently organized London Temperance Campaign Committee for defence of the O. T. A.

to town after summering at Proulx Neck, Maine.

In honor of Mrs. W. R. Hardy of Toronto, Mrs. C. A. Wilson, Central avenue, entertained at dinner Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Henry of the King Street Y. W. C. A. has returned to the city after a delightful holiday spent in Barrie and Hamilton.

Mrs. C. A. Whitman, who are in Barcelona, Spain, visiting their son, Major Hyla Betts, who are returning to London in November.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Whitman and their grandsons, Jim and Christopher Scarff, of St. Thomas, have been guests with Mrs. T. J. Baxter.

Mrs. C. H. Ivey and small sons left last night for Montreal to spend a month with Mrs. Ivey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jamieson.

Miss Meta Macbeth of Detroit, who has been holidaying in the White Mountains, will spend the week-end with Mrs. J. S. Niven, Colborne street.

WOMEN CLUB MEMBERS INVITED TO CONCERT

G. W. V. A. President Urges All To Attend Lady Beck Memorial Event.

Invitations have been extended to the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the London Health Association and to the Women's Sanatorium Aid Society to attend the Lady Beck memorial concert to be held at the sanatorium Friday night.

President Harry Wray of the G. W. V. A. urges members of these two organizations to lend their patronage in making the affair a success. It was planned at first to hold the concert on the spacious grounds, but the dampness and chilliness of the evenings have caused the committee to change to the auditorium.

President Wray announces that the G. W. V. A. clubrooms will be closed tomorrow night after 7 o'clock to give all veterans an opportunity of attending.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Nineteen-Year-Old Wife Who Is Locked Up Every Day—Romance or Safety-First, Which Shall She Choose? Young "Sixteen," Who Is in Love With "Miss Twenty."

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young married woman only nineteen, thirteen years younger than my husband. I am very lonesome, as my husband goes to work early every morning and does not get back until 6 or 7 in the evening, and he never lets me leave the house when he is gone. My mother lives about three blocks from us, but if I go to see her my husband stays mad at me for two or three days. I told him that I didn't have to live with him, and that I would leave, for I can't help but cry when he speaks so roughly to me, but he says that if I leave I will never see any peace. My health is not good since I married, and my mother says I am grieving myself to death. Do you think that if I left my husband I would soon forget him?

ANSWER: No, Troubled, I don't think you would forget him. I think you would remember him to the longest day you live as a modern Bluebeard who tried to lock you up in a closet, and that every time you thought of him you'd fall down on your knees and thank God that you had escaped out of his clutches.

A man must be insane who thinks that he can take a nineteen-year-old girl in these days of the emancipation of women, and shut her up in a house as if she were a prisoner. Certainly any girl who submits to such treatment deserves to be incarcerated, for good and all, in a home for the feeble-minded.

No husband who cared a rap for you would treat you that way. He would know that being young you must have pleasure and society and many interests in your life, and he would want you not only to go to see your mother every day, but for you to have plenty of young company and amusement.

No woman should gad around so much that she neglects her housework or fails to provide her husband with good, well-cooked meals, but after she has done that she is all the better for going about. It keeps her healthy, cheerful and up to date, and makes her a more interesting companion with whom to live.

There is no virtue in staying at home unless you are usefully employed in the home. On the contrary, the stay-at-home women invariably get dull and narrow, and whiny, and complaining, because they're nothing to think about but themselves and their own ailments and troubles.

Matrimony is a partnership, and it should be conducted on a fifty-fifty basis. There is no place in it for tyrants and slaves, and every woman should demand fair play for her husband as a condition of her remaining a member of the firm.

Therefore I certainly think you would be wise to present an ultimatum to Boss Husband and tell him that you decline to be locked up in a cell in solitary confinement for the next fifty years of your life. I should think you could bring a lot of resignation to bear on losing a husband like that. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am deeply in love with a gentleman sixteen years my senior. He is affectionate and highly educated, and at present holds a good position, but he has not accomplished anything worth while financially, has poor health and is liable to lose his job at any time.

I have another suitor who is an industrious, robust, young man, who owns his own home, is successful in business and can provide me a comfortable living.

The only objection to him is that he has only a primary education, and is by no means a brilliant conversationalist. Please tell me which of these propositions I had better accept.

I am in love with No. 1, but think I could learn to love No. 2.

ANXIETY.

ANSWER: Well, Anxiety, since you have such a well-disciplined heart that you can make it do your bidding, I should certainly transfer my affections to No. 2. He seems to me to be by long odds the best bet in your matrimonial race.

Any man who has reached middle-age without having definitely settled himself in business is a pretty poor chance for a woman to take as a meal ticket. Furthermore, it takes a great deal of time and energy to make a man out of a boy, and it is an inspiring sentiment in poetry, but in real life we find that it takes a lot of bread, and meat, and potatoes, and clothes, and rent money to get us to the place where we are ready to love. Also, marrying a man who has poor health is about the most foolish thing any woman can do.

It means, unless there is plenty of money, that the wife not only has to nurse an invalid, but she has to go out and make the money to support him, and nothing costs like sickness. Also invalids are, naturally enough, preoccupied with their own misery, so they become selfish and irritable and difficult to get along with. Especially, sick men are like sore-headed bears, so I fear you could not depend upon getting much brilliant conversation from your highly educated lover if he should qualify in the "chronic" class.

With No. 1 you might have a year or so of great happiness, full of thrills and romance. With No. 2 you would seem assured of a long lifetime of peace and plenty. And it is up to you to decide whether "fifty years of Europe are worth a year of Cathay" or not. But if you believe in the safety-first theory, I would put my money on No. 2. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man, still going to school and am in love with a young lady who is four years older than myself. I am only sixteen. Do you think it any harm to keep company with this young lady, who has finished school and is working?

BERTIE.

ANSWER: Certainly not, son. It will do you a lot of good to go with a nice girl who is so much older than you are. It is an education for a lad of your age to fall in love with a girl who is older than he is and who has seen more of the world than he has.

But don't imagine that this case is serious. Bertie, I know it feels like a serious melody now, but that is because it is the first time you have even been affected this way. Later on you will have innumerable other attacks, and you will learn to know that they are not fatal. Love as many pretty girls as you like, but don't think about marrying for ten years yet. Then you will know how to pick out the kind of a wife that you will stay in love with for keeps. DOROTHY DIX.

Are You Superstitious?

In a survey of Harvard University's teaching staff, 73.4 per cent were found to have pet superstitions. They didn't believe in them, of course, but they observed them just the same.

STOMACH TROUBLES
ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probability nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisulphate of Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as Bisulphate of Magnesia, which can be obtained in tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the use of artificial digestives. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisulphate of Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Advt.

MISS KATHLEEN SMITH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Smith, Roseberry Place, St. Thomas, whose marriage on Monday, Sept. 15, to Henry LeRoy Kennedy of Detroit, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy of St. Marys and the late Rev. John Kennedy, will be a smart event of the season.

Bond, Mount Brydges: Mr. and Mrs. John O'Donnell, Miss E. O'Donnell, Mrs. Louis Farrell, Miss Mary and J. L. O'Donnell, Miss Agnes Farrell, Miss Mary Farrell, London: Mrs. H. Scott, Theodora and Jas. O'Donnell, Chatham.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left later for Toronto and other eastern points, and upon their return will be at home to their friends after Oct. 1.

WEDDINGS

FERN—GOUGH.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at Westminster parsonage, Lambeth, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 9, when Miss Irene Myrtle May Gough, daughter of Mr. Ernest Gough of Westminster Township, became the bride of Mr. Oliver M. Ferns, also of that place.

JOHNSON—MORRISON.

A very pretty September wedding took place in Sacred Heart Church, Parkhill, on Wednesday, Sept. 3, when Catherine Josephine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Morrison, became the bride of Mr. John J. Johnson, son of Parkhill.

Nuptial high mass was celebrated at 10:30 o'clock by Rev. A. E. O'Donnell of London, cousin of the groom, assisted by Rev. Father O'Neil, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Rt. Rev. Mgr. McKee and Rev. D. A. McKee of London, were also present at the ceremony.

During the service, and at the signing of the register a number of beautiful solos were sung by Miss Agnes Farrell of London, and Mr. Jos. O'Donnell of Toronto.

The bride, who owing to the illness of her father, was given away by her uncle, Archie Morrison, was attired in a navy blue tulle, with gray hat, and shoes and gloves of gray, and wore a corsage bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Bride and groom, and their attendants, were attended by her sister, Miss Mary T. Morrison, while the groom was supported by his cousin, Jas. P. O'Donnell, of London.

The wedding dinner was served in the prettily decorated dining-room of the Arlington Hotel, where the popular young couple received the many guests, and wished and congratulatory messages from absent friends.

At dinner the bride wore a beaded gown, and her bridesmaid a dainty frock of chiffon tulle.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Rt. Rev. Mgr. McKee, Rev. E. A. O'Donnell, Rev. D. A. McKee, of London; Jas. R. O'Donnell, London; Jos. O'Donnell, Toronto; Mrs. Jas. F. McIntyre, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil, Detroit; Miss K. McIntyre, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Tyte, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. R.

the bride's parents, Mark street. Mr. and Mrs. Gallinger left for a brief honeymoon in Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride wearing a suit of navy tricot. The bride is a graduate of Amasa Wood Hospital, St. Thomas.

STAHLE—BUFFY.

A wedding of the valley, Londoners took place at the home of the bride's mother, Bethune street east, Detroit, on Saturday evening, Sept. 6, at 7 o'clock, when Margaret Buffy, daughter of Mrs. William Galbraith, was married to LeRoy Stahle, son of Mrs. Burke of Detroit.

Mr. LeRoy performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. William Galbraith, wore a gown of puffywillow tulle, trimmed with pearls and lace. She carried roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Fox, was groomed in pastel pink tulle and wore a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Harry Stahle, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a set of pins, and to the groomsmen cuff links. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stahle left on a honeymoon, and upon their return they will reside in Detroit.

Among the guests present were Mrs. William Boyd of London; Mrs. A. Erskine, Toronto; Miss Olga Stone, Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Cronk, Mr. and Mrs. Romick, Mr. and Mrs. Mischler, Mr. Sinker, Mrs. S. Watson and Miss Agnes Schmidt, all of Detroit.

HUGHES—WILSON.

A pretty September wedding, marked by quiet simplicity, took place at 11 o'clock on Thursday morning at the First Presbyterian Church, when Ethel Maude, daughter of Dr. W. J. Wilson, became the bride of Orville Chester Hughes, son of Mr. John A. Hughes of this city.

The bride, who was attended by her father, was given in marriage by her father, and looked very lovely in her graceful gown of tulle, with a wide band of gold and silver, and a shower bouquet of Sun-rose and lilies of the valley completed her costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left at noon on an extended trip through the Canadian West to Vancouver and Portland, Oregon. For travelling the bride wore a handsome wrap of light color, and the groom a suit of gray.

Peter Does Not Understand Everything

Grandfather Frog Tells Him

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

It was a very personal question that Peter Rabbit had asked Grandfather Frog. "That was why Peter had hesitated to ask it," Grandfather Frog had kept swallowing and swallowing, and swallowing as if he were swallowing food, yet Peter hadn't seen him take a word into his mouth, and Grandfather Frog hadn't talked as if he had anything in his mouth.

For a long minute Grandfather Frog stared at Peter Rabbit with a funny, puzzled look in his big, zoggy eyes after Peter asked him if he was still swallowing his breakfast. "Chuzum!" said the old frog at last. "Of course I'm not swallowing my breakfast. I swallowed that long ago, and could eat another right now."

"Then what are you swallowing?" persisted Peter, for Grandfather Frog had swallowed once or twice even while he was speaking.

"Air," replied Grandfather Frog gruffly. "Air!" cried Peter. "Air! What under the sun are you swallowing air for?"

"If I didn't swallow it how do you think I could stay here out of water?" demanded Grandfather Frog. "How long do you think you would live without air?"

"But I don't swallow air!" protested Peter. "I breathe it. I take it in through my nose. I don't swallow it. I never heard of such a thing as swallowing air."

Grandfather Frog looked up at Peter and swallowed. He swallowed again before he opened his big mouth and spoke. "You've known me a long time, haven't you, Peter?" said he.

Peter nodded. "Almost as long as I can remember," he replied. "Yet this is the first time you have noticed me swallowing air. My, my, my, how little some people see!" said Grandfather Frog.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

CHAPTER VIII (Continued.)

Close hauled as was the Swallow and with her topsails and mizzen reefed she was not making more than one knot to the Spaniard's five—for that she was a Spaniard was beyond all doubt, judging by the haven whence she issued.

"Luff! luff!" bawled the skipper, and he sprang to the wheel, thrusting the mate aside with a blow of his elbow that almost sent him sprawling.

"Twas yourself set the course," the fellow protested.

"Thou lubberly fool!" roared the skipper. "I had thee keep the same distance from shore. If the land comes jutting out to meet us we are to keep straight on until we hit her up!"

He spun the wheel round in his hands and turned her down the wind. Then he relinquished the helm to the mate again.

"Hold her!" he commanded, and bellowing orders as he went, he heaved himself down the companion to see them executed.

Men sprang to the railines to obey him, and went swarming aloft to let out the reefs of the topsails; others ran astern to do the like, the mizzen and soon they had her leaping and plunging through the green water with every sheet unfurled, racing straight out to sea.

From the poop Sir Oliver watched the Spaniard. He saw her veer a point or so to starboard, heading straight to intercept them, and he observed that although this maneuver brought her fully a point nearer to the wind than the Swallow, yet, equipped as she was with half a dozen muzzles, she was a match for the Swallow.

Leigh's piratical craft, she was gaining steadily upon them none the less.

The skipper came back to the poop and stood there moodily watching that other ship's approach, cursing himself for having sailed into such a trap and cursing the fate of his crew.

Sir Oliver meanwhile took stock of so much of the Swallow's armament as was visible and wondered what like were those on a level with the mainmast.

He dropped a question on that score to the captain, dispassionately, as though he were no more than an indifferently interested spectator, and with never a thought to his position aboard.

"Should I be racing her afore the wind if I was properly equipped?" growled Leigh. "Am I the man to run before a Spaniard? As it is, I do no more than lure her well away from land."

Sir Oliver understood and was silent thereafter. He observed a bo'sun and his mates staggering in the waist under loads of cutlasses and small arms, while they stacked in the rack about the mainmast. Then the gunner, a swarthy, massive fellow, stark to the waist, with a faded scarf turban-wise about his head, leaped up the companion to the brass cannonade on the larboard quarter, followed by a couple of his men.

Master Leigh called up the bo'sun, bade him take the wheel, and despatched the mate forward to the forecastle, where another gun was being prepared for action.

Thereafter followed a spell of racing, the Spaniard ever lessening the distance between them and the land dropping astern until it was no more than a hazy line above the shimmering sea. Suddenly from the Spaniard appeared a little cloud of white smoke, and the boom of a gun followed, and after it came a splash a cub's length ahead of the Swallow's bows.

Linstock in hand, the brawny gunner on the poop stood ready to answer them when the word should be given. From below came the gunner's mate to report himself ready for action on the main deck and to receive his orders.

"Tis a clear invitation to heaven," said Sir Oliver.

The skipper snarled in his fiery beard.

"She has no longer range than most Spaniards," said he. "But I'll not waste powder yet for all that. We've none to spare."

"Scarcely had he spoken when a third shot boomed. There was a splintering crash overhead followed by a sough and a thud as the main-topmast came hurtling to the deck and in its fall stretched a couple of men in death. Battle was joined, it seemed. Yet Captain Leigh did nothing in a hurry.

"Hold there!" he roared to the gunner, who swung his linstock at that moment in preparation.

She was losing way as a result of that curtailment of her mainmast, and the Spaniard came on swiftly now. At last the skipper accounted her near enough and gave the word with an oath. The Swallow fired her first and last shot in that encounter. After the deafening thunder of it and through the cloud of suffocating smoke Sir Oliver saw the high forecastle of the Spaniard rent open.

Master Leigh was cursing his gunner for having aimed too high. Then he signaled to the mate to fire the culverin of which he had charge. That second shot was to be the signal for the whole broadside from the main deck below. But the Spaniard anticipated them. Even as the skipper of the Swallow signaled the whole side of the Spaniard burst into flame and smoke.

The Swallow staggered under the blow, recovered an instant, then listed ominously to larboard.

"She's bilging!" roared Leigh. "She's bilging!" And Sir Oliver saw the Spaniard standing off again, as if satisfied with what she had done.

The mate's gun was never fired, nor was the broadside from below. Indeed, that sudden list had set the muzzles pointing to sea; within three minutes of it they were on a level with the water. The Swallow had received her death blow and was settling down.

Satisfied that she could do no further harm, the Spaniard luffed and hove to, awaiting the obvious result and intent upon picking up what slaves she could to man the galleys of his Catholic Majesty on the Mediterranean.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1924.

The Defence Won the Chicago Trial.

The trial over which Judge Caverly presided at Chicago was a several-sided affair in every sense of the word. Loeb and Leopold were on trial for the murder of the Franks boy; Chicago's record of a murder a day and only one execution to stay the current of crime in 1923 was on trial; the system of godless education that turns out moral imbeciles was on trial, and the judicial system of United States was on trial.

The decision of Judge Caverly to send Loeb and Leopold to prison for life was arrived at on account of the comparative youth of the criminals. In giving that decision he may or may not have been influenced by the flood of testimony from alienists. He apparently did consider them abnormal, and must have taken into consideration many of the stories told of the tendencies toward cruelty which developed in early years.

Allowing for all these things, it is a patent fact that the decision given by Judge Caverly was exactly the decision wished for and worked for by the defence. The defence knew that a heinous crime had been done; it made no effort whatever to deny that Loeb and Leopold were guilty; it admitted right at the start that the blood of Robert Franks was on their hands. The defence knew that such a crime and such an admission in the course of uninterrupted justice meant only one thing—the gallows. Knowing this, it turned its energies in one direction only; it never got off on a tangent, but set to work to bring in reasons, causes and excuses as to why the course of plain justice should not be followed, and the defence won the murder trial.

It can be conceded that a verdict calling for the death sentence on young men of 18 and 19 would seem a stern, unrelenting type of justice, yet that is the very thing that the criminal record of Chicago needs most today. A life sentence in United States is not a deterrent to crime—it is a compromise with a situation where compromise is impossible to the point of being dangerous. It is the reflection of a sentiment that has made human life a cheap thing, so cheap that the best jurists in United States say frankly that not in any civilized country in the world is life in such constant jeopardy as right in the republic.

The world has watched that Chicago courtroom. It has been no mere local murder case. Beyond and above the fate of the two murderers was the fate of American justice. Of late it has been an ineffective machine; it has not worked with that unerring certainty of the courts of Britain; on many occasions it has bent before the tonnage of wealth. When the crime of Loeb and Leopold was unearthed, cold-blooded, crafty, heartless crime that did to death a boy of 14 and mutilated his features with acid to prevent detection, the world looked to American justice to rise in its strength and demonstrate its vigor and its righteous espousal of the sanctity of human life.

It was a test case for United States justice. No verdict that reads letter for letter and clause for clause in agreement with the pleadings of the defence for mercy to those who showed no mercy is strong enough to restore a shattered confidence in the power and strength of American justice.

Government Control vs. the O. T. A.

Rev. J. S. Henderson of Vancouver told an audience of Presbyterian ministers in Toronto that government control of liquor in British Columbia did not curtail the work of the bootlegger, and that there was more of this business carried on than when there was prohibition in the coast province.

The statement is often made that the way for Ontario to deal with the bootlegger is to have some such system as government control, whereby people could secure a reasonable amount of liquor at a fair price. The claim is that under such a plan the bootlegger would have to pull up stakes and depart because there would be no one with whom he could do business.

That is a very plausible and an equally dangerous theory. Under government control the bootlegger still does business, and government control does not drive him out.

It is a fact that nearly all the publicity given to liquor cases is on the side of those who are breaking the law. There is little or nothing heard of the great majority of people who are observing the O. T. A. Yet it is an easy thing to understand. When an officer of the law comes upon a man who is not complying with the regulations he pays attention to him; it is his business to do so. If he can secure proof he goes farther and causes an arrest to be made. That arrest leads to a case in court, and the case in court leads to publicity, when all the evidence is reviewed. It is affairs of this sort that get into print, and as nearly every community has some of them, in the aggregate they create the impression that law-breaking because of the O. T. A. is going on at an alarming pace.

Where one man is breaking the law, hundreds are observing it, and of this great majority we hear nothing, and the reason for it is equally easy to understand. A law-abiding citizen does not attract the attention of the officers appointed to enforce the O. T. A. They do not follow him around, or seek to secure evidence against him, because they are not appointed for any such purpose. They do not issue writs or take him to court; he does not appear before the magistrate. Hence there is no publicity about all these people who are observing the spirit and the letter of the O. T. A.

The result is that it is the unfavorable evidence that is constantly brought to the attention of the public. In such an atmosphere it is not hard for the rumor to go around that we need to try another system—that government control is just the thing—that it will allow those who want liquor to get just enough and not too much, and at the same time keep out the open bar.

Ontario has taken up an advanced position in the matter of temperance legislation, and Ontario tried a great many varieties of control and partial control before it adopted the O. T. A. The province knew by wartime experiment exactly what it was doing when it voted by a very generous majority to write the O. T. A. on its statute books as the law of the province. That law is being observed by the great majority of the people. The bootleggers and their customers represent only a very small percentage of the community. The O. T. A. has made it possible for children to grow from their teens to manhood and womanhood without knowing what it is to see a drunken man on the streets. It has made it possible for men to walk the streets without being attracted to a bar-room. It has made it possible for the thousands of cars on our roads to be driven safely by sober drivers, and one hesitates to think of this great volume of traffic under conditions where it would be easy to obtain intoxicating liquor.

Despite all the evidence in the way of court cases where the O. T. A. has been broken, Ontario has a piece of effective legislation in that enactment, and it is being observed by the great majority of the people in this province.

Looks Like Civil War in Politics.

The political distress signal sent up by the Montreal Gazette has not died down, neither has it brought assistance. If the Gazette hoped to see expeditions start out armed with material for the capture and execution of Hon. Arthur Meighen, it will sweep the Ontario horizon in vain.

The response has been quite in the opposite direction. It has caused the London Free Press to announce that the Conservative party is not going to be dictated to by a group in Montreal who hate public ownership and who represent only themselves. The Free Press goes so far as to state that the Conservatives, under the leadership of Mr. Meighen, are gaining strength in Quebec.

That's just the point. It was very fine for the Free Press from its corner in Ontario to tell Quebec Conservatives that all is well, but Quebec Tories have had a fight right in their own back yard, and they think they know somewhat of the case. If they are gaining strength in Quebec there should be some evidences of it. They are in the position of Barney Google with his horse Spark Plug—the only way to tell whether Barney has a good horse is for Spark Plug to win the races in which he enters. At least that's the way the Montreal Gazette has it figured out, and since the blue horse failed in St. Antoine the Gazette calls for a new jockey and a change of diet for the horse. When those Montreal people read the London paper saying that the jockey's all right and the horse free of spavins, but the trouble is with the stable boys and the trainers in Quebec, there's sure to be more trouble. Those Quebec papers are certain to tell the London paper that it was looking through a knothole and that it was too far away from the track to hear how heavy the horse breathed and see how slow it was on its feet.

This flare-up between the Conservatives of Quebec and Ontario is not good for federal politics. It has been the aim of Mr. Meighen to make Ontario and Quebec ride in a twin cart; he has repeatedly told the people of Quebec that he has nothing against them. But he can't make his Ontario and Quebec children sit still in his political perambulator. As he shoves them down the main street of Toryville they scratch at each other; when the Quebec youngster gets a St. Antoine black eye the Ontario youngster says it's his own fault. The result is that the twin cart has to be put away—the Free Press, for instance, and the Montreal Gazette refuse to ride in it, and Mr. Meighen has to take his family out for an airing separately.

If Mr. Meighen were inclined to be doleful before, he is not finding much in the present squabble to cause him to mend his ways. Right in Montreal, where he had counted on notching up a win, he looks in vain for the first pussy-willow of spring. The Gazette and the Star of Montreal have taken in the old door mat that had the word "Welcome" worked in its texture. In its place is the abrupt card, "This Is Our Busy Day." Winter is settling down early on the Conservative camp.

Two Much Advice

The day's news says the schools is wrong, too many teachers on the job, and not enough of folks to go and place their hoofs upon the sod. Too many doctors, lawyers, too, too many in this thing and that, it's harder now than ten years back to pick a job with pay streak fat.

So men are sittin' up at nights and makin' wrinkles in their brow, a-plannin' how to make the youth enamored of the old horse plow.

It seems to me they're fussin' much and makin' motions long and wild, a-tryin' to give ten feet of talk to warn each comin', anxious child. They're stickin' signboards on the road to keep from teachin', keep from law, and keep from takin' on the job of heavin' teeth from out the jaw. And keep from workin' in a store, and keep from stickin' at a trade, and keep from goug'in' in the soil and blisterin' fingers on a spade.

It's only late we've had such fuss about the things the kids should do, there never was a rumple made about the drift of me and you.

When we was young boys used to go and get a job just where they could, and some was cartin' parcels off, while other heavin' cords of wood. Another chap he went to work beside the smithy in the spring, he pared the toenails from a horse and made the village anvil ring.

But land there was no fuss at all about the things these boys should do, no experts scratchin' at their heads and printin' signs in red and blue, and stickin' them along the road to warn 'em as they went before, that if they worked at this or that they'd land upon the poorhouse door.

Yet with no warnin' signs around the boys they seemed to make their way, and carried home each week or so the wherewith for the oats and hay.

Go easy on this warning stuff, that this is this and such is such, it seems to me that now-adays we're fussin' 'bout it far too much.—ARK.

Idea Without Reason

(From the Hamilton Herald.)

"It is conceivable," said Rev. Dr. C. A. Stewart of Buffalo in a sermon here, "that the human race will ultimately be wiped out of existence." And thereby Dr. Stewart enunciates one of the oldest best born prophecies in the world.

From time immemorial this cataclysm has been pictured in some shape or other. There is a fascination in the idea of a fell swoop which leaves nothing. It is the grandiose dream of the scoffer who, being unable to conceive a solution of the world's problems, reduces the whole business to nebula. Only the scoffer remains, to survey the disintegration he has predicted.

Then, since there is nothing whereat to scoff, one's heart bleeds for the scoffer, who will become rapidly and undisputably bored.

NATURE

When we speak of Nature we do not speak of what we can see, but of something behind that which we see.

Nature is in no hurry. It is only mankind that hurries.

There are many things very beautiful in Nature, but many things grotesque, such as the monsters of the sea.

When painters reproduce a little bit of Nature they are highly gratified, yet Nature paints the most superb pictures constantly, whether there are those to see them or not.

All that lives comes from Nature. She seems to be rhythmic as to her lives. She produces plants in their season, and men in their generations, but the race continues.

Very little first-class literature has been written under the direct inspiration of Nature. Nature is usually too strong for the writers.

It is characteristic of Nature that it goes on while life stops. Nature has her ebb and flow, but it is eternal. It was here before we arrived; it will be here when we have gone.

There is nothing moral nor immoral in Nature. She has her own morality.

There is infinite variety in Nature, and yet the strictest adherence to law.

There is abundance, generosity and waste in Nature, yet there is no waste. The leaves of the tree return to soil from which they came. Whatever Nature produces may fall in its object, but it succeeds in some other object.

Nature produces nothing that is alive and also straight. Her sign manual is the curved line for living things. Among dead things I do not know of anything straight which Nature produces except quartz.

Nature is discordant and minor, and yet those who are accustomed to listen to her know that she is deeply musical.

The most beautiful objects of Nature depend upon water, for it is water that makes the clouds, the colors of the sunset and of the sea.

All obey Nature, yet is she not masterful or petulant.

Two of the greatest men who ever lived have had for their motto "Return to Nature." One was the Frenchman, Rousseau, and the other was the Chinaman, Lao Tzu.

Lao Tzu said:

"The highest goodness is like water, for water is excellent and benefiting all things, yet it does not strive. It occupies the lowest place which men abhor."

We do not understand Nature because we do not understand water.

Lao Tzu says again:

"There is something chaotic, yet complete, which existed before heaven and earth. It stands alone without change, reaching everywhere without suffering harm. It must be regarded as the mother of the universe. Its name I do not know. Endeavoring to describe it, I call it Great."

CHARITIES BENEFIT IN WILL OF BISHOP

Estate of the Late Bishop Dowling Is Valued at $20,500.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, Sept. 10. — The will of Bishop Dowling, head of the Roman Catholic diocese of Hamilton, was filed for probate today and disclosed that the late prelate practiced the charity he preached. The estate is valued at $20,500, almost half of which is left to the Sisters of St. Joseph for the orphanage here.

A fund of $5,500 is to be created for the benefit of his sister and her daughter and the remainder is disposed of in bequests to a number of Catholic organizations. On the death of his sister the fund for her benefit will also go to church enterprises.

TRACTOR AND CAR BURN.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 10.—Fire took place this evening at the farm of Clifford Cooper lot 3, concession 14, Chatham township, when a lamp exploded in the driveway, which was totally destroyed, together with a tractor and a car. In extinguishing the flames Mr. Cooper was badly burned on the hands. The damage is covered by insurance.

Life is Real

No thoughtful man can close his eyes to the realities of life.

It is true that life insurance has to do with life. Life insurance sets the mind at rest,—it saves money for old age comforts,—it enters into many a business deal; in fact, it touches all phases of life.

But, it is equally true that life insurance stands between many a bereaved family and the hard realities of living. The loss of the breadwinner often places burdens upon shoulders too weak to carry them. Then Life Insurance can and will assume the load.

Good citizens of Canada are insuring their lives now at the rate of over a Million Dollars a day. Why not consult your nearest life insurance man and find out all that Life Insurance can do for you?

The Love that never Dies

LONDONERS VISIT RANCH OF PRINCE

County Clerk John Stuart and Mrs. Stuart Return From the West.

ENJOY TRAIN RADIO

County Clerk John Stuart was in his office this morning looking remarkably fit after his five weeks' trip to Western Canada. Mr. Stuart arrived in the city at 1:30, accompanied by Mrs. Stuart, yet he was down to his office in the county buildings, anxious, it would seem, to get back into his home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart paid brief visits to friends and relatives at Winnipeg, Portage la Prairie, Calgary, Edmonton and Lake Louise, before returning to the city.

While in Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart were the guests of relatives. Major Duncanson, C. A. Stuart, justice of the supreme court of Alberta, Mrs. Ewing, and Mrs. Frank Moorehouse.

Visit to Wales. Mr. Stuart told The Advertiser that he and Mrs. Stuart had spent a very interesting and pleasant half day visiting the Prince of Wales ranch, just near the River, about 80 miles from Calgary. Mr. Stuart said that they were busy engaged at the ranch preparing for the arrival of the prince. Though the best of the five stock was out on the coast on exhibition at fairs, Mr. Stuart commented upon the fine stock owned by the prince, embracing thoroughbred, saddle horses, Shorthorn cattle, and Shropshire sheep, all pure bred stock.

Asked as to his opinion of the wheat crop in the west this year, Mr. Stuart replied that there were districts in which the crop was a complete failure while there were others in which it was fairly good. Such conditions held true for all three of the prairie provinces, indicated Mr. Stuart, who said that there were miles and miles of grain that would never be cut because it was too short. In some other places farmers were cutting the grain with hoes, and raising it instead of using the binder. In many other districts, however, said Mr. Stuart, the crops are good.

C. N. Service Lauded.

Mr. Stuart was warm in his praise of parlor-car service rendered by the Canadian National Railway on the portion of the trip from Cochrane to Winnipeg, featuring as it did rapid transit to each and every station, the typewritten bulletins of news picked up by radio at different stations along the route, together with the papers from all the important points at which a stop was made. The system was in vogue to keep the passengers in close touch with all that was going on in the "outside" world, was commented upon by Mr. Stuart to be little short of remarkable.

The trip was in every way a most enjoyable one for both Mr. and Mrs. Stuart, the visit to Calgary being particularly pleasant for Mr. Stuart, who some 25 years ago lived in the western city for about seven years.

MANY QUESTIONS FACE WOULD-BE IMMIGRANTS

"Do You Favor Responsible Government?" Sometimes Tricks the Unwary.

"Are you in favor of responsible government?" This is a question asked by the United States consular service of all intending immigrants who think of entering the United States. The applicants for admission are asked to fill in a long list of answers to all sort of questions, and this is one of the last, though presumably not the least, on the list.

The reason of this pertinent question is not given, but it is suggested that it is to try and catch all the naughty Bolsheviks and Reds who would try to hoodwink the eagle's eye and get into the haven of the blessed. In view of the fact that the government of the United States has never officially recognized the government of Russia though it has been in power for five years, is perhaps part of the reason. Another interesting point is whether any one really opposed to responsible government would answer this question in the affirmative. To say yes would mean that the immigrant would support the government of the United States and what immigrant would say yes?

In any case the full quota for all British-born is filled up for this year and right along to July 30, 1925. The quota figures for 1924 were 34,000 for Great Britain, and this number was absorbed long ago. The government person wishing to cross the line should register his name with his responsible consular officer as soon as possible.

School Notes

ROOM EQUIPPED.

The room at Chesley avenue public school has been equipped with 12 tables and 48 seats. These were made by S. R. White of the technical school staff. The teachers' room has been decorated in the whole school, which now has more pupils than any other of the public schools is looking fine.

RUSHING WORK.

With children away from school for the remainder of this week, work of constructing the principal's office and other interior changes at St. George's school will likely be completed, according to works superintendent, W. H. Robinson. The addition to the office is expected to provide a useful improvement to the school.

HOLIDAY TODAY.

Over 12,000 school children in London are on holiday today in order that those who wish to attend the fair may have the opportunity. There was a big rush of youngsters to the Queen's Park this afternoon. The closing of schools today and tomorrow is giving inspectors and principals an opportunity to check up on the registration and attendance to date.

free. Director Silgwood moved that some sort of an understanding should be arrived at with the school board regarding children's day before next year so that no misunderstanding would exist.

Members of the Rotary Club will meet the fair tomorrow to discuss the advisability of making the Hobby Fair a feature of the exhibition. It is felt that the fair has grown to such an extent that the armories are too small to take care of it.

Brief Address.

W. E. Roadhouse, deputy minister of agriculture visited the fair this morning and made a brief address to the directors. Mr. Roadhouse said that the fair was more than pleased with the entire show, stating it was easily the best he has ever seen in this city.

The Dairy Building has been the mecca of farmers and their wives during the entire week. Not only have they seen pure butter, cheese and eggs but they have had an opportunity to witness the various butter competitions under the direction of D. McMillan, dairy expert, from the C. P. E. Toth, bling morning and made a brief address to the directors. Mr. Roadhouse said that the fair was more than pleased with the entire show, stating it was easily the best he has ever seen in this city.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has an exhibit in the Manufacturers' Building that has attracted much attention. The booth is in charge of C. E. Toth, bling morning and made a brief address to the directors. Mr. Roadhouse said that the fair was more than pleased with the entire show, stating it was easily the best he has ever seen in this city.

Mr. Stuart allowed himself to be chased off the Western Fair grounds late yesterday afternoon by Mr. Showers just long enough to put a 7,000 crimp in the hoped-for attendance figures. As it was, 43,000 people jammed their way into grounds, buildings, midway and grandstand performances, and although no attendance figures were reported, the directors were more than satisfied with the day from start to finish, considering the chilly atmosphere.

If the same number of visitors pass the turnstiles today and a fair share turn out on Friday, the fair will still be a success from the viewpoint of attendance and finance, Director E. S. Little stated.

Everyone was happy. The visitors found the best collection of exhibits they had ever seen at Western, while booth and concession men reported the end of a perfect day when 11 p.m. rolled round.

Crowd Grandstand.

Attendance at the grandstand performances both afternoon and evening was most gratifying. Those who had seen the vaudeville acts had apparently told their friends just how good they were, which meant that the grandstand vied with the midway as a medium for pleasure.

The midway was jammed from 10 o'clock in the morning until the closing hour, and business was good with a capital "G."

The only serious accident of the day occurred during the afternoon grandstand performance, when a colored attendant was kicked in the side by a male. One rib was broken and the man, who was taken to the St. John Ambulance tent for first aid, was attended by a doctor. Some 25 people were treated by the nurses during the day for cuts and bruises. This is a remarkable record, considering the large attendance and the consequent crowding and jostling. A number of small boys who had misjudged their capacity for hot-dogs were listed among the patients, the nurses stated.

Welfare Tent Busy.

The Child Welfare tent also had a busy day. Numerous mothers with their children sought the tent for a quiet rest, far from the hustling crowds, and they were given every attention by the ladies in charge.

The First Hussars Band provided two fine band concerts during the afternoon and evening, and the visitors appreciated their efforts, judging by the applause.

As only Tuesday, the jumping events north of the stage drew much favorable comment. Twenty-one horses competed in the open hunting class, yet officially recognized the government of Russia though it has been in power for five years, is perhaps part of the reason. Another interesting point is whether any one really opposed to responsible government would answer this question in the affirmative. To say yes would mean that the immigrant would support the government of the United States and what immigrant would say yes?

In any case the full quota for all British-born is filled up for this year and right along to July 30, 1925. The quota figures for 1924 were 34,000 for Great Britain, and this number was absorbed long ago. The government person wishing to cross the line should register his name with his responsible consular officer as soon as possible.

H. C. Groat, general superintendent of the C. P. E. Ontario Division, and other prominent members of the Canadian Pacific staff were among the interested visitors at the fair and were the guests of the directors. Great changes the directors briefly at the noon luncheon. He stated that there was a noticeable improvement in business, and that in-dication being that it would be even better this fall. William Fulton, formerly of London, and district passenger agent with headquarters at Toronto; Mr. Parker, general passenger agent of steamship lines, and F. M. Rutter, divisional superintendent, were more than pleased with the fair, and told the directors they had the best show ever seen in London.

George H. O'Neill and R. W. E. Burnaby, president of the U. F. O. Co-operative interests, also spoke at the luncheon and congratulated the directors on the success of the show.

The livestock judging competition for junior farmers, held yesterday morning and afternoon, was a huge success. There were 138 entries in the various classes, and competition was so keen that but one point was scored in the first and second winners in several classes.

Following are the winners:

1. Oscar E. Lerch, Preston, Waterloo county, 133 points; 2. Robert Calder, Thamesford, R. R. 2, Oxford county, 125 points; 3. C. W. Passmore, Morphet, Kent county, 184 points; 4. J. D. McCallum, Mount Brydges, Middlesex county, 159 points; 5. Dodge, Wainstead, R. R. 1, Lambton county, 151 points; 6. Ted Fuller, Stratford, Perth county, 150 points.

Heavy Horses.

1. Robert Calder, 173 points; 2. Roy Holtz, Ayr, Waterloo county, 177 points; 3. Alex Edwards, Watford, Lambton county, 176 points; 4. Edgar Schaefer, Embro, R. R. 1, Oxford county, 174 points; 5. Wilfred Snyder, Breslau, R. R. 1, Waterloo county, 173 points; 6. A. G. McInnis, Dutton, Elgin county, 171 points.

Sheep.

1. Grant Prouse, Mount Elgin, Oxford county, 520 points; 2. Albert Wellwood, Merlin, Kent county, 153 points; 3. D. J. McTaggart, Appin, Middlesex county, 144 points; 4. Elmer Stoltz, Auburn, Huron county, 140 points; 6. Hugh Carroll, Iona Station, Elgin county, 134 points.

Elmer Stoltz, Waterloo county, 182 points; Elden Stoltz, Huron, 177 points; D. C. Turner, Sheddin, Elgin county, 173 points; Fred Snyder, Waterloo county, 171 points; Oscar Lerch, Preston, 170 points; J. D. McCallum, Mount Brydges, 168 points.

Dairy Cattle.

1. Stewart McDonald, Middlesex county, 156 points; 2. Millson, Wilton Grove, Middlesex county, 185 points; Lloyd Comfort, Sheddin, Elgin county, 184 points; Percy Bell, St. Pauls, Perth, 182 points; Grand Prouse, Mount Elgin, 177 points; Ronald Macfie, Appin, Middlesex county, 172 points.

The Judges.

The judges were: Heavy horses, John Gardhouse, Weston, and G. E. Rathby, O. A. C.; English beef cattle, R. G. Knox and G. E. Rathby, O. A. C.; dairy cattle, F. H. Silcox, Iona Station, J. B. Martin, Toronto; sheep, E. McEwen, Byron, and R. G. Knox; swine, A. E. McDonald, Toronto, and J. B. Martin.

There were 22 entries for horses, 42 beef cattle, 33 dairy cattle, 18 sheep and 21 for swine.

R. S. Duncan, director of agricultural representatives, was in charge of the competition.

SOCIAL SERVICE BRANCH MAKING PREPARATIONS

The Men's Social Service department of the Salvation Army is preparing the old Traction building on Horton street to take care of their unemployed and police court cases. Several carpenters and electricians are making alterations.

The main floor is being changed. The front part is being divided into two rooms; a rest room for the men and a store where general merchandise will be sold. The rear part is being made over for dormitories. About 2 men will be accommodated. Upstairs bedrooms are being fitted up for transients who are out of work.

The building will be opened in about three weeks time. Colonel Outway, men's social secretary of Toronto, will be present at the opening. Adjutant Lewis of the London branch of the social department, today.

Here is the splendid herd of nine Jersey cattle which has been exhibited at the Western Fair by the authorities at the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium. CATTLE FROM SANATORIUM ESTABLISH FINE RECORD

Nine Jerseys From Queen Alexandra Get Nine Prizes, Two Ribbons.

STARTED IN YEAR

Purchased by Sir Adam Beck and W. J. Dunn to Improve Milk.

One year ago the heads of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium started a herd of Jersey cattle.

Today nine of them are at the Western Fair, each a prize winner. They won two firsts, four seconds, two thirds, one fourth, and added to that are two of the coveted ribbons.

One year ago Dr. S. H. Pratten, medical superintendent at the sanatorium, pointed out that a higher percentage of butter fat would improve the milk for the tubercular patients. The question was taken up with Sir Adam Beck and W. J. Dunn, head farmer, and it was decided to secure a herd of Jerseys.

Sir Adam and Mr. Dunn made a tour of the province, and a number of animals were purchased.

The expert opinion of Sir Adam as a buyer of live stock comes to the fore. One year after they were secured eleven prizes are carried off at the Western Fair with only nine animals entered. And they were entered against leading live stock men of the province, men who have been developing a herd for years.

Altogether they have seventy-four head of cattle at the sanatorium, Holsteins and Jerseys. This herd provides the total supply of milk for the suffering veterans, and good milk is their main food.

The great lesson where the animals are kept is a model of cleanliness, and everything is done to assure the best milk for the patients.

A tuberculin test is made weekly to assure the authorities that all the animals are healthy. Then great care is taken after the day's milking is done. The milk goes through a cooling machine to protect the men against bacteria, and the most modern machinery for its care is brought into use.

This is one of the contributing factors to the great name that the sanatorium holds—the greatest messenger of health to those suffering from a dread disease known in the Dominion.

ASSESSMENT INCREASE CLAIMED AS GOOD SIGN

Assessment Commissioner Harry Bennett regards the increase in assessment of the city in 1923 of $2,067,000 which is about the average annual increase of property of a very healthy sign, and as showing the steadiness of this old city by the Thames.

He states that the city has never suffered from what is known as hoisting, and that this regular year by year increase in assessment is the very best sign of the inherent stability of a city that could be wished.

In the same way the population increase of 1,470 shows the same characteristic of a sound and well managed city, which has a reputation as a comfortable city in which to live.

Transfers in the city last year of 1,836 pieces of property at a valuation of $1,959,431 supports the assessment commissioner's statement and goes to add to the valuable and enjoyable qualities of this Forest City.

Murder Verdict Is Returned

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 11.—Janet Smith, found shot to death in the Shaughnessy Heights home of her employer, F. H. Baker, on July 26 last, was murdered according to the verdict of a coroner's jury at the second inquest yesterday.

The jury, which was composed of 12 men, returned a verdict of accidental death. The jury today, however, was unable to say who fired the fatal shot, the verdict merely saying "by being shot through the head by a revolver, by whom fired we have no evidence to show."

hearing, since this city is one of the few to benefit by the agreement, to the extent, least, that there is any benefit attached to the terms of the agreement. The London Chamber of Commerce has vision enough, however, to see that it would be better to have the agreement repealed, and hence is lending its strongest support to the movement looking to that end.

The full text of the resolution prepared by the committee urging the repeal of the agreement, is as follows:

"Whereas, a special general meeting of the Western Ontario United Boards of Trade held at London on Aug. 8, 1924, unanimously decided to oppose discrimination against certain Western Ontario cities and towns in the matter of freight rates on certain commodities to Western Canada, caused by the resumption of the operation of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, and instructed a special committee to lodge vigorous protest against such discrimination through a United Ontario Board of Trade."

"And, whereas, after careful consideration of the facts, the committee is of the opinion that unjust and prejudicial discrimination between localities must be removed, and that whatever general rate basis is necessary in the opinion of the board of railway commissioners to enable the railways to operate and provide the necessary service should be applied impartially as to localities and commodities."

"The committee, therefore, on behalf of the Western Ontario United Boards of Trade respectfully submits to the board of railway commissioners, the fact of the resumption of the operation of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, and the fact that the only practical method of eliminating the existing discrimination is the repeal of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement in so far as the westbound commodity rates are concerned."

TUESDAY JUMPED HYDRO PEAK LOAD

Excessive Demand For Power Not Anticipated During This Month.

PRECAUTIONS USED

London must pay for its Hydro power on a peak load basis and as a result the jump which power consumption took on Tuesday of this week, proved unwelcome. Tuesday was possibly the coldest and dampest day of the first 11 days of September, and heaters and ranges were used far more usually, the peak load going up about 20 per cent more than normal.

When the demand on hydro power is at its height, economy is practiced in other departments of the public utilities commission. The waterworks department cuts off hydro power and no pumping is done at the Springbank station, the reservoir there being sufficient to supply the wants of the city for a time. In this way every effort is made to spread the use of power over as great a length of time as possible.

Should September develop into a month of cool weather, users will probably bring the consumption up to somewhere near Tuesday's mark and the rate will therefore not be an excessive one. An outstanding peak load is not feared to hit the city in the spring. In the winter, days of winter, if the peak load goes up high early in the month, there is some hope of great and equitable consumption for the rest of the month. In the autumn the condition is just switched.

CAMERON APPOINTMENT HAS BEEN CONFIRMED

St. Thomas, Sept. 11.—Word was received in the city today from the attorney-general's department confirming the appointment of Ian Cameron, son of W. K. Cameron, St. George street, to the position of county clerk of Elgin County.

David McClaugh, who has held the position for nearly 40 years, has been forced to retire owing to ill-health. It is quite likely that his daughter, who has been deputy clerk for a number of years past, will be retained in that capacity.

Hamilton Seniors Eliminated By Losing Second Straight Game To Galt 9-2

Lead Gained In First Frame Gives Terrier Pack Victory

Galt Holds Hamilton Beavers Runless Until Sixth Inning.

FIVE ERRORS HELP

Special to The Advertiser.
Hamilton, Sept. 10.—The Galt Terriers, twice amateur champions of Ontario, stepped up another rung in the 1924 championship ladder here this afternoon, when they defeated the Beavers, Hamilton city champions 9-2, in the second game of the second round play-offs. As a result, the Terriers met St. Thomas in the semi-final round.

The Terriers ran true to form today and left no doubt as to which was the better team. They hit the Beaver star hurler, Coster, almost at will, securing 14 safe singles to mix with several bases on balls and five errors for their total. The Beavers were unable to do anything with the superior hurling of Coster, and were lucky to escape a shut-out. Graham certainly deserved one, and but for poor support at two stages, it would have come to him.

Beavers could not stand the racket with the McWhorter clan, taking advantage of every break, as only a team well drilled in inside baseball can do. Terriers made their breaks and even with a big lead, they played smart baseball, always working for an extra run instead of hitting away nonchalantly. They were better in every department.

Two Runs Useless.
Beavers were unable to rally until the late innings. Up to the fifth, they had secured only one hit, a single in the second by Timmy Langway. They got two on in the sixth and two on in the seventh, turning a run out in each frame, but these were useless, as the Terriers had won the game in the opening frame. Two men were down in the initial stanza when Galbraith, Beavers' first sacker, dropped a perfect peg to hit Himes. Coster Hoffman then walked and Groves filled the sacks with an infield hit. Watts scored with a single into right, and Groves counted when Coster heaved to center. Hoffman attempted to catch Watts stealing second. Singles by Groves and Dodo Hoffman in the third, scored another for the Terriers.

Three in Fifth.
Coster Hoffman doubled to start the fifth, and after Groves had filed out, Watts scratched an infield bingle, and Oliver walked to fill the sacks. C. Hoffman was forced in when his brother Walton and Watts scored as D. Hoffman was being forced at second on Graham's roller. Langway's wide throw to first on an attempted double play allowed Oliver to chalk up.

Himes' single, Coster Hoffman's sacrifice, Groves' error, and a walk, a ball, and D. Hoffman's infield hit all used to manufacture the eighth run in the sixth, while Watts' double and W. Morrison's error on Oliver's ground ball, gave the visitors their last in the eighth.

Archie Hill, Capac farmer boy, who has been playing third base for the Grand Rapids Grays, is attracting much attention of major league scouts. Hill is a good fielder and has been hitting well. Several scouts have looked Hill over within the last two weeks, and one offer has been received for him. Hill played with Port Huron when it was in the Michigan League, and then moved to devote his time to independent ball. When Halligan needed players for the Grand Rapids club he brought Hill over from Capac.

The man who introduced the padded mitt is still active in professional baseball. John J. McClosky, now owner and manager of the Newton (Kan.) club of the Southwestern League, the "grand old man of the minor," has been in the game since 1887, though he's past 65.

He was born in Louisville in 1863, and won prominence as the "father of the Texas League," which he organized in 1888.

The year before he was catcher on the Houston Independents, and it was during that time he introduced the catcher's mitt, which at the time brought down the ridicule of the country. But in due time the padded mitt was generally adopted and eventually did much to speed up the game.

McClosky organized the Union Association, and owned and managed the Butte, Mont., team of that circuit. He has been connected at various times as player or manager, with St. Joseph, Austin, Sacramento, Houston, Montgomery, Savannah, Louisville, Dallas, Great Falls, Tacoma, San Francisco, Vancouver, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

MAPLE LEAF BEATEN 6-2 BY WATERLOO LUTHERANS

Special to The Advertiser.
Kitchener, Sept. 10.—The Waterloo Lutherans defeated Maple Leafs of Kitchener in the first play-off game for the senior softball championship of the Twin City. Lachman pitched sterling for the Lutherans, allowing only four hits, and his superior brou was also much better than that accorded Henges and Moss; Lachman and Miller.

He said good-bye to Sir Esme and Lady Howard, who will depart tomorrow for the British summer emigration in Glen Cove, Mass. His right eye, injured by a cloud of earth kicked up by a polo pony on Monday, appeared normal.

He played polo again today at the J. S. Phipps' field, leaving at the end of the seventh chucker to go to a luncheon at the home of Harrison Williams in Glen Cove, Mass. His wife, Vanderbilt, II, was one of the few who sat in a chilly wind to watch the game. Each side scored five goals.

Mooring to the estate of J. P. Morgan this afternoon the prince looked at the herd of Guernsey cattle, which he had seen in live stock in cattle breeding. He has drawn from the fine sires of that region some of the best of his ranch in Alberta.

The Wales party tonight attended a dinner and dance at Mrs. Vanderbilt's home in Jericho. There were about 300 guests. The polo teams were the guests of honor.

Reports that the prince would eliminate his Canadian trip were designated by Captain Lascelles, his secretary, today as "poppycock."

The royal visitor will board a train at New London, Conn., soon after the deciding polo game, and will go straight to Eastern Canada in the middle of October.

If the Americans win the first two polo games, the prince probably will not remain for the third.

His aides spend a good deal of time in sending back gifts of many kinds shipped to the prince by commercial firms and individuals. He has a rule against receiving presents from persons he does not know. He rejects also all requests for photographs or autographs, many of which are received from young women.

ST. LEGER STAKES WON BY COLT SALMON TROUT

H. H. Aga Khan's Three-Year-Old Takes English Classic.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Sept. 10.—H. H. Aga Khan this afternoon scored his second victory in the classic for three-year-olds, when his bay colt, Salmon Trout, trained by E. Dawson, Wheatcroft, Birkshire, won the St. Leger, six furlongs, over the course of the Doncaster. Santoro, a brown colt, by Santolo, out of Countess Torby, owned by A. Barkley Walter, finished second, with the favorite, Sol Jo's Pilsener, third. Seven ran. Salmon Trout went to the post at odds of 6 to 1 against Santoro 40 to 1, against Ruel, and, favorites, the favorite, at 100 to 20 against.

A quarter of a mile from home Santoro closed with Polyphons, and took promptly at the distance post, but was overtaken by the Aga Khan colt, who came on with "wet sails," and half a length separating Santoro and Polyphons for second and third place.

Leger stakes finished with Santoro finished eighth, while Santoro brought up in the rear. The time for the race was 3 minutes, 12.1-5 seconds.

ew who sat in a chilly wind to watch the game. Each side scored five Moloring to the estate of J. P. Morgan this afternoon the prince looked at herd of Guernsey cattle and has much interested in live stock and has had considerable experience in cattle breeding. He has drawn from the fine sires of that region some of the best stock for his ranch in Alberta. The prince is enough of a sportsman to dinner and dance at Mrs. Vanderbilt's home in Jericho. There were 4000 guests. The polo teams were the guests of honor.

Reports that the prince would eliminate his Canadian trip were demolished.

THE ADVERTISER'S CROP SURVEY—DISTRICT FIVE.

SINGLE ACRE PRODUCES
HUNDRED BUSHELS OATS

Some Farms Between Thamesville and Dresden Produce Extraordinary Crops of Grain—Acreage of Oats Is Large Throughout Whole District Five—Sugar Beets An Important Crop.

HUGE FIELDS OF CORN RULE IN KENT

This is the fifth of ten daily articles surveying farming methods and crop conditions in southwestern Ontario. The survey is made for The Advertiser by C. G. Hyman, who has had O. A. C. training as well as thorough practical experience.

District five takes in the Wardsville-Dresden area, where oats, beans, corn and sugar beets have returned remarkable crops.

In touring the fifth district of The Advertiser's crop survey, the district was entered at Wardsville on the Windsor highway and continued through the Bothwell, Thamesville, Dresden, Wallaceburg and Chatham districts, and the return trip to London included the important centers of Blenheim, Ridgeway and Highgate on the lower branch of the highway running from St. Thomas to Leamington.

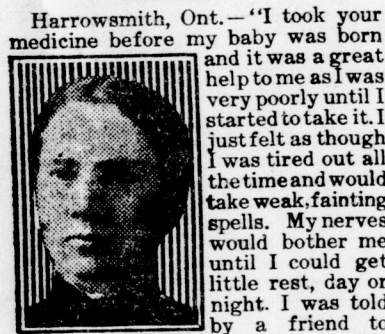

In the country surrounding Wardsville the crops are excellent, and the harvest is well advanced. The district is a mixed farming section in which there is little attempt at growing specialized crops, dairying being the predominating feature. The farmers in this district favor the dual purpose cattle, turning off their surplus stock as beef cattle.

Oats in this section are a fairly large acreage with the yield running in the neighborhood of 35 bushels for the whole section, although many of the crops will show a marked variation from this average.

As one leaves Wardsville and heads in the direction of Bothwell the farming changes and the proportion of special cash crops, such as sugar beets and some tobacco, are seen. The grain crops in this district have been particularly heavy, and as Thamesville is approached, the farmers speak of oat crops which have turned out as high as 60 bushels to the acre. In crossing the railway at Bothwell an interesting sight was noticed in a freight train that was passing through. In four large specially-constructed cars hundreds of live

Nerves Gave Little Rest

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Harrowersmith, Ont.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I started taking it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would take weak-fainting spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, day or night. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to publish this good medicine. I lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will serve to help others."—MRS. HARVEY MILLIGAN, R. R. No. 2, Harrowersmith, Ontario.

In a recent canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use. This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

nothing like as large as that in Kent County.

Excellent Crop.

The fields of tobacco here are showing an excellent crop, but from Ridgeway to Rodney this crop gives place to beans as the major cash crop. The country from Blenheim to Highgate is a rolling, well-drained nature of the sugar beet districts of Kent one is transported to a country in which different types of soil and a bigger choice of crops lends more variety to the appearance of the countryside.

Orchards are plentiful along this portion of the route, but unfortunately apples are scarce, the winter varieties being a particularly short crop.

Although there are several fine herds of dairy cattle in this section, the beef type predominates, probably on account of the fact that the growing of so much specialized produce, such as beans and tobacco, leaves little time for the care of a milking herd.

Hogs are not so plentiful as in the Chatham district, although the number is still quite numerous there in the district surrounding London. Clover is one of the outstanding crops this year, although in Kent County it is not so common as in one's whole attention is drawn to the marvelous crops of corn and sugar beets. Along the whole of the route followed in traversing section 5 in this survey clover is uniformly good and the bloom is very heavy. In the Blenheim district the crop of clover is particularly fine, and on the farms of James Millar, J. Barrett and W. W. Scott the clover fields are a mass of bloom.

From Highgate east to Rodney one finds tobacco still an important crop, although beans cover a much larger area in this section there is more rough land, and in places along the route some exceptions to the grain and clover filled appearance of the countryside were noticed. These exceptions in the general tally of plenty are purely local and amount to a few fields of corn and beans. It has been found best to abandon intensive farming and turn the land over to sheep grazing.

Not concluding the trip at Rodney, The Advertiser representative turned towards London with a distinct feeling that the most unusual and productive part of Western Ontario, but a harvest which, barring accidents, should bring better things for the future and a real prosperity, which has not been apparent since the days when deflation commenced.

LESSONS IN FASHIONS ARE FEATURE AT FAIR

Smallman & Ingram Have Striking Exhibit of Furniture and Dress.

Fair Ground exhibits from the firm of Smallman & Ingram this year are object-lessons in new fashions of furniture and dress.

New gowns shown to interest feminine visitors suggest, in a very definite manner, the style centers of New York and Paris. Coats and suits and hats shown for men's wear have about them a smartness and well-fitting appearance which at once gives them as new and authentic styles.

Exhibits from this firm are in their customary positions—feminine apparel and accessories on the south side of Crystal Palace, main floor; the furniture and men's shop exhibits on the north side of the balcony. There is an additional exhibit this year, in the Manufacturers' Building—a demonstration and sale of Wear-Ever aluminum.

Feminine interest, turning naturally toward matters of dress, is at once drawn by the display of smart gowns and furs on the main floor. Attention gravitates as readily toward these new models in gowns as masculine attention in other buildings gravitates toward the new models of cars.

And the latest speedster—viewing almost with the morning paper in its "newness," finds a rivaling interest in one or two of the more recent gown models shown.

One gown was particularly striking, an English imported dress of rich black satin, with a severe, straight, falling well below the knees, where it was abruptly met with a flaring frill of Persian printed silk. The only other touches of name on this most unusual gown were the slight tucking effects on the tunic and a scarf of the printed silk to be thrown about the shoulders.

Featuring these gowns and blouses are given a prominent post at the front of the exhibition case, and all the smart accessories of millinery, lace, scarfs, gloves and hose create an interest in the entire exhibit.

Furniture from this department store, shown on the balcony, forms one of the most skillfully-arranged exhibits in the Fair. Commencing with the kitchen, one views an entire series of rooms. And one of the most attractive qualities in connection with this exhibit is the fact that each room makes an "ideal home" arrangement well within the scope of the ambitious and energetic home-maker.

The purple and gold of coverlens in the bedroom does suggest that it might fittingly have pilloved a queen's head in one of the old French palaces, but a search for information with regard to price-tickets reveals a careful selection of merchandise to suit the average man.

And this prevails through each room. A dining-room of blue and gold, with willow-pattern china waiting in its cupboard; a living-room in blue and rose and gold; and a nursery in the blue and white and rose that, with Mother Goose Rhymes, forms the rightful heritage of all nurseries and the kitchen, with its model refrigerator, pantry, table and electric stove—all these bring to mind that ideal home suggested in Legat's in London's famous slogan, that "eighty per cent of the citizens own their own homes."

SPECIAL COURSES ADDED TO WALLACEBURG SCHOOL

Special to The Advertiser. Wallaceburg, Sept. 10.—Having been useful in engaging Miss Bertha Rodgers of Barrie, Ont., as commercial teacher, the school board anticipates opening the continuation classes on or about October 5 at the Wallaceburg School. In addition to the subjects which were taught last term, it is expected that home nursing and millinery courses will be added.

TOURISTS PARTAKE OF CHEERY MEAL

Stop Within Stone's Throw of Many Restaurants and Eat Meal.

HOT TEA, TOO

With London's population swelled daily by the influx of visitors to Western Fair, the problem of feeding the mobs is a big one. With the necessity of 1,133 extra loaves of bread a day, a couple of tons of tea and more than a few juicy beefsteaks, the restaurant men have their hands full this week.

Electric signs, canvas banners and re-vamped price lists of restaurants and one-arm lunch counters beckoned in vain last evening to one party of visitors. With cafes crowded to the doors and the busy supper hour at its height, these folk were not caught flat-footed when the dinner gong sounded.

Not trusting themselves on the doorstep of one of Richmond street's leading firms, and within a stone's throw of a half-dozen eating houses, they proceeded to haul out the family hamper and appease their appetites. From goodness knows where, the provided hot water and hot liquid was consumed, cup after cup, with mother's best china providing containers for the process.

The party went through a full course lunch, as scores of street car patrons crowded them at the corner, taking time and pleasure out of their sandwiches and cherry pie and apple sauce.

Across the street, hundreds of folk were taking time and pleasure out of their meals. Fair Week prices and probably didn't have one whit more satisfaction out of their meals.

WETS AND DRY
TO MEET CABINET

Questions in Coming Plebiscite To Be Determined at Conference.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Sept. 10.—The Ontario government has called into conference the prohibition and Moderation League forces on the question of the form of ballot for the temperance act plebiscite, to be held next month.

In response to an invitation from the government, representatives of both those who favor the retention of the act, and those who have been working for its repeal, will meet with cabinet officials in an effort to select questions, which if submitted to the people of the province, will satisfactorily determine the issue as to whether or not the O. T. A. should remain on the Ontario statute books.

The conference will be held at 10:30 o'clock on Friday morning, September 12, at the premier's office. For the prohibition forces, Rev. T. Albert Moore and Rev. Ben Spence will attend, and the Moderation League will be represented by F. H. Helmuth, K.C., F. G. Osier and Cyril D. Boyce.

Hot Hair Tonic
Brings $613 Suit

Toronto Woman Claims Preparation Caused Illness.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Blanche Friend of Toronto, is suing a local drug firm for $613 damages for illness alleged to have been caused by her as a result of using hair tonic purchased from that firm. The case came on for trial in county court today, Judge D. O'Connell presiding.

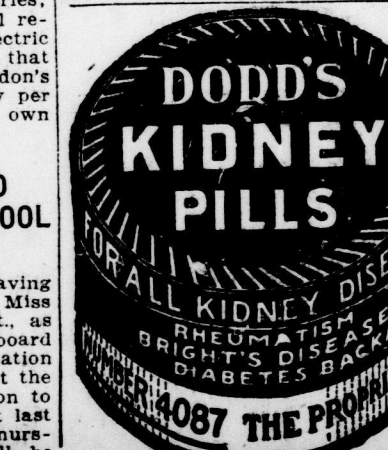

In the witness box in court today Mrs. Friend testified that in October last she bought a hair tonic from the defendant and used it for a week. Her face eyes and hands swelled wherever the tonic touched them. She was ill in bed two weeks as a result she said, and paid a doctor bill of $45 and a nurse $65. She says that when she purchased the hair tonic she asked the clerk if there was any bi-chloride of mercury in it, and the clerk assured her that there was not.

C. N. R. GROSS EARNINGS
DROP 6 MILLION IN 1924

Canadian Press Despatch. Montreal, Sept. 10.—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending September 7, 1924, were $4,072,709, being a decrease of $699,404.55 over the corresponding week of 1923.

The gross earnings of the C. N. R. from January 1 to September 7, 1924, have been $187,215,975, being a decrease of $6,010,092.43, as compared with the corresponding period of 1923.

HARVEST HOME SERVICES. Port Lambton, Sept. 9.—The Methodist harvest home services held at Whitehead on Sunday were largely attended and well conducted by Rev. Duncan Guest of Oldfield. Special selections were rendered by the choir.

Virginia—"No; he works at it."

Papa 'Pank!
I love you darling Flossie.
You're the apple of my eye.
Now don't you get too saucy!
But be as good as pie.

Traprock's Hot Weather Experience.

"The hot weather during the recent August weeks reminds me of an interesting battle I had with the thermometer way back in '88," said the tanned old explorer.

"I was in Rangoon, India, in the service of the British government. With a detail of one hundred men I was in command of the government buildings. All the other officials with their families had gone up to the mountains. A hot wave struck us that was like the blast from a furnace.

"The water in the port steamed and some of the low hills about us shrank visibly under the terrific rays. Every manjack of my command deserted but one, Mahalabad, my faithful Indian servant. At the end of ten days we were both almost dead, but I refused to desert my post.

"I had a large collection of turbans, official and otherwise. The faithful chap brought them all out, wet them in our scanty water supply, swung them in the air to cool them, and proceeded to wrap me from head to foot in what was nothing but a large turban. He wrapped in with me several boxes of bread and a quantity of dried figs. Then he hung me up in the coolest corner of the house like a gigantic cocoon. I hung there exactly two weeks, feeling, curiously, scarcely any desire to eat. I must have slept most of the time, and my experience convinces me that man, if he desired, could easily learn to hibernate in this way, as does the bear.

"When the weather finally broke and some of my men ventured back and cut me down, I was touched to find that the turban Mahalabad had wrapped about me had been his own. A note explained that he had taken refuge in our camp, but the water in this had evaporated and my poor friend along with it.

"At the Durbar the following year King Edward personally handed me the Order of the Pink Parasol, an honor usually reserved for native princes and Nabobs of the blood royal."

Successful.

She—"I only married you out of sympathy."

He—"Well, I get plenty of it."

Tell-Tale Marks.

Crawford—"Are you ahead on the poker games you held in the house while your wife was away in the country?"

Crabshaw—"Yes, but not enough to pay for having the Oriental rug repaired and a new finish put on the library table."

No wonder we call life a "gamble."

The "chances" they missed of getting married.

These Women!

Mrs. Gayboy—"Do you like animal stories?"

Mrs. Frolic—"I certainly do!"

Mrs. Gayboy—"Then listen, and I'll tell you a funny one about my husband."

Let Us Have Faith—

Little Mae came home from school one day crying as if her heart were breaking.

"What's the trouble, dear?" asked her mother.

"For our language lesson tomorrow teacher told us to write the Christian names of our father and mother, and what am I to do? I'm ashamed to tell in class you and daddy don't belong to a church."

Same Shade.

Hanna (suspiciously)—"Ah, I see you know that you've been a-triflin' wild over agin'! How come this year powder on yo' coat?"

Sambo—"Shucks, honey, dat ain't no face powder. 'Taint nothin' but coal dust."
