

THE HERALD

WEDNESDAY, 20th SEPT., 1905. SUBSCRIPTION—$1.00 A YEAR, PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY JAMES MCISAAC, Editor & Proprietor.

A Word to Our Subscribers.

While extremely thankful to those of our friends who have remembered us in a substantial manner within the past couple of weeks by remitting their subscriptions, we must confess our disappointment that the number who responded to our call was not larger. We really want the money and we assure our friends that it affords us no pleasure to be obliged to ask for it.

His Majesty's Ship Drake.

The flag-ship Drake, of the second cruiser squadron, with the Admiral, his Serene Highness Prince Louis Alexander of Battenberg on board, and accompanied by her consort cruisers Bedford, Essex and Cumberland, came into Charlottetown Sunday afternoon and left again at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon.

THE PRINCE

His Serene Highness, Prince Louis Alexander of Battenberg, G. C. B., G. C. V. O., personal A. D. C. to the King; Rear Admiral, Director of the Naval Intelligence since 1902, was born at Grotz, Austria, on May 24, 1854, and is the eldest son of Prince Alexander of Hesse, and grand son of Louis II, Grand Duke of Hesse.

Navy as naval cadet in 1868, when between 13 and 14 years of age, his brother joining the army. From the first Prince Louis showed his great capacity and real enthusiasm for his profession.

He became sub-lieut. in 1874; Lieut. in 1876; Commander in 1885; Captain in 1891. Then came the news of his appointment to the important and responsible post of a director of naval intelligence at the Admiralty.

In November, 1902, he took over his new duties at the Admiralty and was still filling his appointment when the war in the Far East and the Dogger Bank incident occurred. The Prince at the critical time amply justified the trust reposed in him, and won golden opinions on all hands, not least among his admirers being Mr. Balfour himself.

THE SHIPS.

The Second Cruiser Squadron consisting of four ships now in port and the two which have just left us is the swiftest fleet in the world. Before coming to Canada in the Mediterranean the flagship Drake, with full stores, and coal and crew on board, maintained a speed exceeding twenty-four knots an hour, the highest rate of speed under ordinary service conditions ever secured.

All of the ships have two submerged tubes for the discharge of torpedoes. From here the ships went to Halifax, where the Berwick and Cornwall awaited them. They all remain there for about six weeks.

France and Germany.

Paris advices say the Franco-German negotiations relative to the Moroccan conference have again taken an unfavorable turn, causing anxiety in official and diplomatic circles, and renewing the depression of the Bourse. This is due to the insistence by both sides on points which were considered to be susceptible of compromise.

Wonderful If True.

A New York despatch reports: When Mary Gaffney, twelve years old, flaxen haired and blue eyed, was discharged from Flower Hospital, neither she nor her parents knew that she was minus more than an ounce of brain tissue, lost during an operation performed by the skilled surgeons of that institution.

When taken to the hospital on August 20, Mary was believed to be beyond the aid of surgery. Her injury was diagnosed as compound fracture of the skull. Dr. Dominic, the house surgeon, and Dr. Genier, trepanned the skull. Some of the brain tissues had escaped through the wound, and a portion weighing nearly two ounces was so mutilated that it was severed by the surgeon and the wound closed.

For many days the surgeons watched the progress of the child's case to see whether any of Mary's faculties would leave her on account of the loss of a part of her brain. The child's recovery was notable for its rapidity. Mary appeared to be none the worse for her terrible experience and last Thursday Superintendent Honby notified her family that she should be taken to the country, where she would doubtless regain her usual health in a few weeks.

Aeronaut Falls Two Thousand Feet.

Thousands of people in all parts of Baltimore besides the crowds at the carnival of the Trades Alliance at Highlandtown saw John August, the aeronaut and gymnast, who had been making parachute drops daily from a big balloon, fall from his trapeze bar on Thursday last at a height of nearly two thousand feet. He fell in a yard a mile away from the point of ascension. From the carnival grounds, the show managers and others saw that the gymnast, who in the ascent hung feet downward from the bar, was weakening as the balloon shot upward. They saw him try to double and draw himself up on the bar, but he could only catch it by one hand. Finally, after frantic clutches at the air with one hand, he raised himself, got both hands around the bar, tried once more to get over it, raised the body till the waist line touched the bar, and then let go. August's home was in Lancaster, Penn. He was twenty-five years of age.

Trotting at Halifax.

Two thousand people on Thursday afternoon saw guilty and Bennet W. take two races on the first regular programme of the Exhibition. The mixed 2.15 class, the fastest class on the Provincial tracks outside the free-for-all, was a drawing card and although ten entries dwindled down to five starters, each of the three heats was a horse race, from wire to wire. Gilly's victory in three straight heats, defeating the American gelding 'General Fiske that won the same class at Springhill and Moncton, was a big surprise to the knowing ones. Guilty was brought to Nova Scotia from Illinois last summer by E. Leroy Willis, of Sidney and soon after his arrival took the free-for-all at Springhill, pacing the winning heat in 2.15 flat. Since then however, he has got but a small end of the prizes and lately passed over to a stable at Newton, Mass. Ada Mac was fourth in the 2.15 class.

Unconscious Two Months.

Miss Ethel B. Cram, daughter of the late Henry B. Cram, a prominent New York lawyer, died just before midnight last Wednesday night at her mother's summer home, at Lenox after lying for two months in an unconscious condition with a fractured skull received on July 13th, last from a kick by a pony. The skull was crushed over the left ear, and although some of the most eminent physicians in the country attempted to relieve her, she never spoke after receiving the blow. Within the past few days cerebral spinal meningitis set in, and death was expected at any time.

American Vessel Seized.

The American fishing schooner Glendale of Eastport, Me., was seized Monday at Campobello by collector Clark for violation of the customs regulations in failing to clear when sailing from Campobello last summer. General orders to seize the Glendale were issued about two weeks ago to all customs offices. As Collector Clarke said he feared an attempt might be made from Eastport to cut the schooner out instructions were telegraphed him by Inspector Jones to strip and tow her to St. Andrew's if necessary. Captain Pratt of the cruiser Curlew, now at Campobello, had been asked to render assistance in the case an attempt to retake the Glendale is made.

Minard's Liniment cures Colds etc.

Injury to Canadian Trade.

The officials of the department of trade and commerce, Ottawa, received somewhat of a rude jar Monday, when they read the latest report of Edgar Tripp, Canadian agent in Trinidad. For years past, as is well known, the Canadian government has been subsidizing a direct line of steamships to the West Indies with a view to developing trade. Tripp reports that the chamber of commerce of the Port of Spain is urging the Trinidad government to grant a subsidy of $75,000 per annum to a royal mail steam packet company for a steamship line between Trinidad and New York. For fifty or sixty years past the British government subsidized this particular company for a service between Southampton, England, and the British West Indies, but the grant was withdrawn last June. The company is therefore looking around for compensating advantages, and has transferred its headquarters from Barbadoes to Trinidad and expects to secure this subsidy of $15,000 per annum for the Trinidad New York service, calling at Colon, Jamaica, each way. In connection with the Canadian West Indian service, the only island which has assisted Canada is Bermuda, which gives $6,000 per annum. Neither Trinidad, Barbadoes, nor any other island in the West Indian group has given a cent for the direct service from the Dominion. In official circles it is regarded as the somewhat strange proposal upon Canada that Trinidad should now propose to subsidize a line which would compete seriously with the existing Canadian service.

Suspected Murder.

A reward of $1,000 was offered on Monday by the New York Times for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers of Jacob H. Thompson, the exchange editor of that paper, who was fatally assaulted on the evening of Sept. 7, in his room at the Hotel St. James. The police are now convinced that the motive of the crime was robbery. An examination of the box in which Mr. Thompson kept his valuables in a safe deposit vault showed that his watch and about $700 in cash he was known to have in his possession, and which it was thought he might have placed in the box, are missing.

Liberal M. P.'s Denounced Laurier Government.

Intelligence of the 19th from Montmagny, Quebec records the following: Before over two thousand people congregated here yesterday from Quebec and neighboring parishes, as well as this town, Messrs. Bonrassa and Lavergne, Liberal M. P.'s, denounced the French Liberal ministers and members for what they called their cowardice and treachery to the sacred interest of their race and religion in the matter of the Northwest schools. Lavergne declared that Laurier adhered to the original clause sixteen it would have passed the house. The English members of parliament were not to blame for the change, he said, although it had been dictated by Sifton. Sifton, however, was a disgraced man at that time and his removal from the Government was necessary. Laurier had depended on the advice given him by his French colleagues and supporters, who, for fear of losing some patronage, had abandoned the poor French settlers of the Northwest. Bonrassa was even more severe and declared that the Hindoos in India and the Boers after their capitulation to the British, had been granted better terms than were the descendants of the pioneers of Canada in a country where both races and creeds were supposed to be on an equal footing. He continued the agitation in order that the people might awake to the treachery of their representatives and send to parliament men who would lay aside questions of patronage and private gain to serve the interests of their country and of their race. Men even the greatest, will pass away, he declared, but principles must remain and if they wished to be respected by others must respect themselves. The English people were broad minded but they could not be expected to do more than people of flesh and blood of the French Catholics, and Orangemen and French Catholics had joined hands to present the minority in the Northwest. It remained for French Catholics to show that they condoned such methods if they wished the repeal of the new provisions to administer the school law with any degree of favor to the minority. Dr. Emile Paquet, conservative M. P. for L'Islet spoke a few words endorsing the stand taken by the other two. Rain fell during the meeting, but the people stayed and listened in the open air and hoofs of teams accompanied the denunciation of the French Liberals. Among those who attended the meeting were Senator Landry and J. E. Bejard, K. C. while Senator Choquette, though his home is Montmagny, was conspicuous by his absence.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

The warship Cumberland did not get away with the Drake, Bedford and Essex Tuesday forenoon. One of her anchors became disconnected and remained at the bottom. A diver had to be sent down to recover it. In consequence of this little mishap it was nearly five o'clock when she got away.

The Allan line turbine steamer Victorian is more seriously injured than was anticipated. Divers report that the third row of strengthening plates are nearly all displaced and broken, and there is a hole in the ship's bottom, 30 inches in circumference. The damage is confined to the bottom under No. 2 compartment.

William F. T. Harrison, collector of inland revenue at St. John, N. B., was killed on Tuesday by the discharge of a rifle which he was cleaning, preparatory to taking part in the shooting competition. The deceased was thirty-two years old. His brother died while serving with the Mounted Rifles in South Africa.

Monday afternoon was a public half holiday, and business was generally suspended. The games at the athletic grounds were participated by teams from each of the warships in port in competition with local teams. Bands from the ships were in attendance and discoursed excellent music. The games were largely attended.

The King reviewed forty thousand Scottish volunteers in King's park, Edinburgh, on Tuesday. Sir Thomas Lipton during the march past was thrown from his horse, and the horse tramped on his face, but his injuries are not serious. The review was the greatest muster since Colonel Gordon's Great crowds were assembled from all parts of Scotland and England.

The State Department, Washington, has been informed that Prince Louis of Battenberg will be in Washington November 2nd. The British Atlantic Squadron under his command will be in the road off Annapolis, while the Commander in Chief and his staff of officers make their visit to this city. They will be received by the President at the White House with proper ceremonies, but details of the reception have not yet been arranged.

The correspondent of the London Daily Mail at Baku, under date of Sept. 14th says that within the short space of two hours this morning five assassinations were committed in broad daylight in the busiest thoroughfares. The murderers escaped owing to the indifference of the police, who are mostly Tartars. Similar rumors of another attack on the Armenians being contemplated have caused a panic among the inhabitants.

A Panama despatch of the 19th says: Reports were received here today to the effect that General Rafael Reyes, President of Colombia, had been assassinated on Sept. 18th and imprisoned the members of the Supreme Court at Bogota. Mobs enraged by this action attacked the presidential palace and were fired upon by the troops, who killed and wounded many raiders. Revolutions have been started in many other sections.

Advices of the 19th from Christiania say: Peace between Sweden and Norway being assured a quieter feeling prevails here. News from Karibid however is awaited with the keenest interest, and there is anxiety to learn the details of the compromise. The press is unanimous in hoping for a speedy settlement of the question. There are some misgivings entertained that it might be bought too dearly.

The Dominion government cruiser Vigilant arrived at Port Dover, Ont., on the 18th, with the American fishing tug E. Cogoglio, of Erie, Pa., together with a large quantity of fish and nets seized while the crew were fishing in Canadian waters, five and a half miles to the west end of Long Point. The tug is the property of the Keystone Fish Co., Erie, Pa. This seizure is the second. There was one of a tug with fishing nets previously.

Sixty buildings were destroyed by fire at Nome, Alaska, on the night of Sept. 12, causing a loss of $200,000, according to advices received. The city hall was destroyed, but the records were saved. It is reported that the stores of M. E. Atkinson and J. P. Parker were destroyed. It was at first reported that the fire destroyed the large wholesale and retail stores, but this proved incorrect. No loss of life is reported.

Hon. Patrick A. Collins, Mayor of Boston, died suddenly at Hot Springs, Virginia, on Thursday last. His remains were brought home, and the funeral took place on Monday. The Requiem Mass and funeral obsequies took place at Holy Cross Cathedral. The whole city was in mourning. He was an eminent man; had been Congressman for several terms, and was American Consul General at London during President Cleveland's first administration. He had almost completed his second term in the mayoralty of Boston. He was a leader of the Democratic party, was very popular and much esteemed by the community generally.

Sydney C. Hynes, who claimed Halifax as his home, was brutally murdered at Oakland, California, on Saturday, by an old Ute Indian from the Reservation, while in a drunken fight at Acoma Nera. A special from there says: Hynes, who recently came out West prospecting for gold, had been in a playful mood all day, and went to amuse the Indian, but the latter did not take it in the right way. Instead he raised his rifle, and while the white man's back was turned he shot him unawares through the skull. Hynes claimed he had no living relatives. An angry mob made a rush for the Indian, but the Sheriff interfered. The Indian will be tried for murder.

Halifax advices of the 18th say: The Royal Garrison Regiment at Halifax will be disbanded on October 1st. Those who desire to remain in the garrison under the Canadian Government can do so, and those who do not will be returned to England. The Royal Engineers will remain another year, finishing some work they have in hand. The Canadian Government expect to be in full control by Oct. 10th. In this connection, a Quebec despatch of the 18th says: Two officers and thirty non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Canadian Engineers, which corps has been in camp at Levis for several weeks past, have received orders from militia headquarters to proceed to Halifax next Thursday. This is another move in the replacing of the Imperial troops by Canadians at Halifax garrison. The detachment will form the nucleus of the engineer corps there.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

Exhibition interest and enthusiasm are the order of the day. Fine weather is what is now wanted to ensure unprecedented success.

Rev. F. C. Kelly, of Lapers, Michigan, here on a visit to his friends, preached an eloquent sermon at the High Mass in St. Dunstan's Cathedral on Sunday last.

The trial of the election petition against J. J. Hughes, M. P., was called at Georgetown yesterday before Judges Hodgson and Fitzgerald. On the application of Mr. Gaudet, counsel for Mr. Hughes, the hearing was postponed to November 14th.

It is reported from Ottawa that Judge Neelish, of the Supreme Court, intends resigning to go back to the practice of his profession which will be very much more lucrative to him than a Judgeship, notwithstanding the recent increase of salaries.

In the course of his reply to the civic address Prince Louis said that, when a midshipman on board the flagship Royal Alfred, then on this station, he had frequently visited Charlottetown harbor, and had retained the most pleasant memories of this place.

William F. T. Harrison, collector of inland revenue at St. John, N. B., was killed on Tuesday by the discharge of a rifle which he was cleaning, preparatory to taking part in the shooting competition. The deceased was thirty-two years old. His brother died while serving with the Mounted Rifles in South Africa.

A section of the steel structure on the new St. Catharines Church, Montreal, collapsed yesterday afternoon carrying with it in its fall of one hundred feet seven employees of the Dominion Bridge Company who were working on it. Charles Otis was instantly killed, Ulric Brett died in the ambulance on his way to the hospital, and Volier Fournier died in the hospital last night. George Jago, foreman, managed to save himself by hanging on to a beam. The others escaped uninjured.

Captain Thomas Worrall, foreman of Berkeley Street fire hall was killed, and Captain Sargent of Wilton Avenue fire hall was injured and property valued at $100,000 totally destroyed by a fire that broke out in Toronto Tuesday morning in the mill and elevator of the Alexander Brown Milling Co., on the Esplanade at the foot of Princess St. The fire started in the lower part of the elevator, and at 1.45 the elevator wall fell in. Captain Worrall and Captain Sargent and firemen Torrey, Peterson and Fox, were in the elevator when the crash came. The three last named escaped unhurt, but Sargent was injured by the falling brick while Captain Worrall, it is believed, was buried in the ruins.

The Gloucester fishing schooner Puritan was wrecked on Monday on Shaag Rock Ledges, near the entrance to Canoe. Capt. Harding arrived on Friday from the banks with a small fare of fish, and after making repairs cleared Monday for home. After the Puritan was under way thick fog shut down and the wind dropped to a flat calm. In working off the coast the vessel mistimed and struck on Shaag Rock Ledges. Almost immediately she listed and began to sink. The crew took to their boats, and not a moment too soon, for she went down to the mastsheads, the crew escaping only with the clothing they stood in. The shipwrecked men rowed into Canoe. The Puritan was owned by Cunningham and Thomson of Gloucester, Mass., and was insured for $4,900.

Young Mr. Bretherton.

BY ANNA T. SADLER.

(From the Ave Maria.)

V.—A DOUBLE SURPRISE.

Planting an eyelash securely in his eye, he gazed at the other with cheerful good humor; while Jim Bretherton made haste to explain that he would have been at the station with the trap to meet the train, if he had only received a wire.

Itching Skin

Disease by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

rids the blood of all impurities and cures all eruptions.

good enough to let me look after her luggage." "And you have been good enough to do it beautifully," Miss Chandler observed.

"Oh, no, really I didn't do anything!" Lord Aylward put in, beaming delightedly upon the girl, who turned at that moment to Mr. Bretherton, standing uncomfortably apart from the group.

"I can guess you are," she said, frankly. "No other I am sure than young Mr. Bretherton."

"I shall not have to hazard any conjectures," the young man answered, "since I have heard you claim relationship to Miss Tabitha. You must of necessity be the little girl for whom I have been so often inquiring."

"They both laughed, and the young man went on: "It is a day of surprises. I have been confidently expecting telegraphic messages from Bob Aylward here, who has been promising me a visit, and he suddenly appears at the gate of Miss Tabitha's cottage."

"I guess I must be movin', gents," called out Joe Henderson from his seat upon the bus. "If you're comin' my way, I'll ask you to get in. The horses has to be fed, and I'm just about famished myself."

"All right, Joe!" cried young Mr. Bretherton. "This gentleman and I will drive up with you in an instant. Good bye, Miss Tabitha! I shall be here very soon again."

"A Bretherton is always welcome at Rose Cottage," responded Miss Tabitha, majestically.

Jim Bretherton thanked her; and then he said, somewhat irreverently, to Miss Chandler: "I can not help wondering how you knew who I was."

"Oh, from my aunt's tone and the general probabilities," the young girl replied, lightly.

"What are the probabilities?" he inquired.

"It is far better to leave them, general," said Leonora; "especially as Joe Henderson is waiting, and in his present state he might be dangerous. Besides, there is Lord Aylward back chocked with dust."

"Oh, I am all right!" cried Lord Aylward, as he followed his friend out to the bus.

Bretherton declared that he would hasten to take Miss Chandler's advice, and avoid any chance of unpleasantness on the part of the hungry Joe. He was conscious of a slight feeling of resentment at being thus unceremoniously dismissed.

Miss Tabitha's niece had certainly a very imperious way with her, though she was indeed lovely. There was no disputing the latter fact, especially as he looked back from the seat of the departing bus, and perceived the girl standing beside her aunt, with the light of the setting sun falling about her. There was something fine and almost noble in her pose and in the expression of her face.

It was highly characteristic of Lord Aylward's English habit of reticence—which young Mr. Bretherton, to some extent, had also acquired during his college days—that during the homeward drive he never once referred to his late travelling companion. Miss Chandler's name was never so much as mentioned, although the two men talked cordially until the bus drove in at the iron gates, and deposited the son and heir and his whitish college chum at the door of Bretherton Manor.

As they entered the spacious hall there was a faint, far-away and barely suggestive odor from the kitchen, which bespoke something savory in process of preparation.

The Governor came genially forward to meet his young kinsman and introduce him to his wife, who appeared, a stately figure, at the drawing-room door. The welcome was thoroughly cordial and genuine, making the traveller feel that he was entirely at home.

"Bless my soul!" cried the Governor, "is this Bobbie Aylward—little Bobbie whom the other day I carried upon my shoulder?"

"It is certainly not little Bobbie now, my dear," observed his wife, taking the young guest's hands into her own cool, slim ones and holding them there an instant, as she bade him welcome to America and to Bretherton Manor.

After that Jim—or Jimmy, as he had been indifferently known at college—carried his friend off to the "blue room," which was one of the apartments reserved for strangers. It had a history, as Mrs. Oliver, the housekeeper, could have told; and more than one Revolutionary celebrity had slept there. The shades of Joseph Warren and of Washington himself hovered around the chamber, where, according to tradition, both had spent an occasional night.

"If you care about dressing for dinner, Bob, you have just half an hour, declared Jim; "but if you feel disinclined for the exertion, I am sure my mother will excuse you."

"I am very fond of the old place," he observed, "and very proud of it; though, of course, Millbrook is small and necessarily dull."

"Not in the least dull!" cried Lord Aylward, with an animation which led his friend to conjecture, rightly enough, that Rose Cottage was uppermost in the speaker's thoughts.

"Excitements may crop up anywhere, of course," returned Jim, suppressing a smile.

"Yes, by Jove!" said the Englishman, with an energy which still further amused his friend.

But neither made any comment. They stood there side by side, all unconscious how the threads of their lives were interwoven.

Professor Richards of Yale enjoys a joke, and his pupils often come to him when they have heard a new one. Such was the case when one of the students said to him, "Professor, wouldn't you like a good recipe for catching rabbits?"

"What is it?" "Well, you crouch down behind a thick stone wall, and make a noise like a trumpet."

Quick as a flash came the reply: "Oh, a better way than that would be for you to go and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage heads and look natural."

Can Eat Anything Now. How many Dyspeptics can say that? Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms? Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and souring of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet; avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Nature's specific for Dyspepsia. Miss Laura Chloine, Belle Ane, Que., says of its wonderful curative power:—"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine, and am now feeling strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

not look up or make any remark whatever. At dessert the Governor, who was old-fashioned, proposed some toasts, though in a deprecatory, half-jesting way. The first was to his wife, the second to his guest, and the third to "all fair women who are good, and to all good women whether they be fair or no."

This was a favorite sentiment of Jim Bretherton's father, and represented his usual attitude toward the sex. The young man responded to the toast—Lord Aylward, in particular, with great heartiness—and sipped the claret from their glasses.

"I suppose each one of you boys has some particular fair one in mind?" cried the Governor, genially. "I know it must be the case with Jim, if heredity counts for anything."

"Why, father," expostulated Jim, "I always heard that the Brethertons were an unimpressible lot!"

"Then let me tell you, my lad," said the Governor, laughingly, "that the Brethertons, in that case, were grossly libelled."

Mrs. Bretherton laughed, too, as she gave the signal for leaving the table. The little party adjourned to the veranda, where in the soft dusk of the summer evening, lighted by myriads of stars, they sat and talked, until presently the Governor dozed, and the two young men went for a stroll about the premises. There was much to see, as the Governor prided himself upon the perfection with which his grounds were kept.

"Tomorrow you will have a better idea of what the old place is like," Jim Bretherton said. "It is old for America: the house was built in colonial days, though additions have been made since. The garden was laid out chiefly in my father's time, and he has made a heap of improvements."

Lord Aylward was immensely interested. He had a fresh, almost boyish power of enjoyment; and he was prepared to be pleased with everything on his first visit to this half-fabulous land of America.

Young Mr. Bretherton, on his part, felt a certain natural complacency in displaying to his kinsman and college chum these ancestral acres, upon which men of his name had so long resided.

"I am very fond of the old place," he observed, "and very proud of it; though, of course, Millbrook is small and necessarily dull."

"Not in the least dull!" cried Lord Aylward, with an animation which led his friend to conjecture, rightly enough, that Rose Cottage was uppermost in the speaker's thoughts.
