CHAPTER XXXVII.
LESLEY'S SECRET.

"Half an hour later he opened his eyes and asked, 'Has Lesley Come?' On receiving a reply in the negative, he closed them again with one long, deep sigh, a gentle murmur of your name, and was gone."

That was all I ever heard of Robert Fuller's last moments; but it was enough.

The knowledge that he thought of me—that mine was the last name on his lips—will comfort me to the end of my life. The ring he wished me to have is still among my most cherished possessions; and not even my husband is jealous of my regard for it.

I took it from the poor dead hand myself, when a few hours later I crept into the darkened room, to look for the last time on the dear face that lay there so white and calm in its awful peace!

My eyes were hot and tearful; my aching heart seemed stilled in the solemn hush that lay on the whole house; and yet, as I closed the door behind me, and stood there in the silent room, looking down on the peaceful, smiling face, it seemed so hard to realize that he was dead—that he had crossed the dark river—and would never move nor speak again.

The touch of that cold hand, however, as I took it in my own, brought home the bitter truth to my soul; and with an awful sense of desolation, I sank on my knees by the side of the coffin; and then, unseen by mortal eye, pressed my own to those dear lips which in life I had never touched!

"Oh, my darling—my darling!" I cried, to the deaf ears of the dead, the bitter truth wrung from my lips by sheer anguish of soul; "I love you—I loved you as a woman only loves when she loves in vain!"

How long I knelt there in that silent presence, I never knew; nor was I aware that the door had opened and that a tall figure was standing beside me, until a strong arm was about my waist, and I found myself drawn up to the level of the heart that had so long been all my own, and that has borne with me so patiently and so well!

"My poor little love!" he whispered. "Oh, Lesley, is this your secret? Is there nothing I can do to comfort you!"

"Charley," I replied, "forgive me! I did not mean to deceive you—I did not know—"

"I am sure of that, dear. You did not understand your own heart. But I suspected it all along. I had always a suspicion that Robert Fuller was my rival."

"One of whom you surely need not be jealous," I returned, with a burst of tears, the first that had come to relieve my bursting heart since the dreadful tidings reached me. "Oh, Charley!" I added, when I had wept until I could weep no more, "think of all he has suffered—of his noble life—of his wasted talents and affections—and surely you need not envy him that has one true friend to weep his loss."

"Though that friend is my promised wife," he replies, with a look of suffering that goes to my heart. "Well, Lesley, he is dead; had he lived, I might have found it less easy to forgive him. You do not blame. We cannot control the impulses of the heart. But one word, dear—did he ever tell you that he loved you?"

"Never! On the contrary, I almost thought he disliked me."

"That is enough. You did not willfully deceive me, and I am satisfied. I shall never refer to the subject again, Lesley; and, if your feelings for Robert Fuller have ever aroused a jealous pang in my heart, it is past. Here in this solemn presence I promise to forget it—to bury its memory forever! And when one requiescat is pronounced over such a sorrow as this, it must have no resurrection."

The Lost Will; LOVE TRIUMPHS AT LAST!

CHAPTER I.

JACK CHALFONTE came out of his bedroom glowing, bright-eyed, hungry. The sun was shining full into the sitting-room, which overlooked Pump Court. Its warm rays—what is the matter with the London sun, which people are always deriding?—made Jim, the fox-terrier, who had slept at the end of his master's bed and watched, with a familiar but shuddering horror, the process of the cold bath, blink, stretch himself, and sneeze. But Jack Chalfonte faced the fulgence unblinkingly with the clear eyes of youth and clean living, and he whistled cheerfully, though it must be admitted with little cause for his light-heartedness; for he had emptied his pockets before going to bed on the preceding night, and the extent of his worldly wealth, exactly one pound sixteen and ninepence, stood on the mantelshelf.

Beside the little pile of money were the few letters which the charwoman had placed there when she laid his breakfast. Jack glanced at them as they stood upright, but showed no great desire to make their acquaintance, for Jack's correspondents were most of them tradesmen, reminding him of their little accounts or recommending their various wares, or strange irony, moneylenders, begging him by circular to accept loans of from £20 to £20,000, without any security. So he left the letters until he had eaten an honest breakfast of eggs and bacon and what Mrs. Wadden, the charwoman, called "coffee," and he glanced through the amazing ha'penny Daily Wire, to the sporting columns of which he turned first, as naturally as Jim would have turned to a juicy bone in preference to dry bread.

It was not until he went to the mantelshelf for his beloved pipe that he took up the letters, and opened them. Most of them were, as he had suspected, circulars and duns, but one of them astonished and puzzled him considerably. It was written on the thick, costly blue paper which old-fashioned solicitors and business men of high repute used to favour before the days of the typewriter. It was written by hand, and read "209, Cophthall Buildings," and Jack knit his brows perplexedly as he read: "Dear Sir,—I am instructed by Mr. Chalfont to ask you if you will be kind enough to call on him at this office at your earliest convenience, between eleven and one."

"I am, yours faithfully,
"JONATHAN BROWN,
"Private Secretary."

At first Jack thought it was a new trick of some ingenious moneylender, or that it was a trap of one of the tradesmen for the convenient service of a writ; but there was something about the quality of the paper, the address, which Jack knew was eminently respectable, that made his suspicions untenable. He referred the matter to Jim, but Jim, after sniffing at the letter, said plainly enough that he could make nothing of it, and went back with marked indifference to his patch of sunshine on the warm carpet.

"Bit of a puzzler, isn't it, Jim, old man?" said Jack. "Suppose we get up old Jiggles?"

He stamped twice on the floor, and presently a shambling step was heard on the stairs, and in response to Jack's cheery "Come in!" a tall, thin, angular young man, with straight hair, and weak eyes hid behind huge spectacles, came in and stood regarding the erect, well-knit figure with a touch of impatience and envy. He blinked in the sunlight, and shrugged his shoulders as he remarked, with a kind of fretful and unwilling admiration:

"Oh, you're up, are you? Thought by the time you came in last night—or rather this morning—that you wouldn't disturb me until twelve, at any rate. I declare, when you walk across the floor, you make my room shake; and that howling of yours—I suppose you call it singing—comes down into my room like a—like a—I don't know what. And I imagine you have eaten a disgustingly heavy meal—the pisces roasts of eggs and bacon—and are quite fresh for any devilry that may offer itself this morning."

"Fresh as paint, thank goodness, Jiggles," responded Jack, with the buoyant cheerfulness which always irritated, and yet, somehow or other, encouraged the hardworking barrister, Mr. Francis Tradgate. "Yes, I was pretty late last night. We had quite a beamo at the Sports Club, and I had a turn or two with the gloves. Fity you don't join us, old man, and pull yourself into something like form, instead of mugging away at your blessed capes. Oh, I know that you can't help it, that you're going to be, that you're already, that phenomenon, a rising young barrister, and that presently you'll be swaggering as leader in the court, and eventually find yourself on the bench or the Woolsack."

"You knocked, didn't you?" interrupted Jiggles, with a grunt. "What do you want? If it's a loan—"

"No, I don't want to touch you for money this morning, old chap; I've got an enormous amount of oof on the mantelshelf here. I want advice—"

"You've had it already by the yard," said Jiggles, "and the only advice I can give you is to cut your clubs and your music-halls, and your foolish athletics, and the rest of it, and set to work. You're supposed to be trying for a practice at the Bar, instead of which—"

"Oh, shut up, you old croaker!" said Jack, with a laugh. "Look here, Jiggles, cast your goggles on this blessed epistle which has just turned up, and tell me whether you can make anything of it, for I can't, nor can Jim here."

Jim wagged his tail slightly by way of acknowledging the reference to himself, and Jiggles, having read the short and formal letter, dropped it on the table and shrugged his shoulders. "No, I don't know what it means," he said. "Of course, I know the man."

"Oh, you do, do you? That's something, anyhow. Who is he and what is he? Funnily enough, his name's like mine, barring the 'e.' Wonder if he's any relation? Not very likely, because there's precious few of us—don't say 'Thank goodness,' Jiggles; that isn't polite—and I think I know them all."

"Not, it's not very likely," Jiggles agreed. "I should have thought," complainingly, "that everybody knew this Chalfont. But, of course, you wouldn't. You know nothing except the latest racing odds and the favourite for the next prize fight."

"Don't be abusive, Jiggles, but un-cork your phial of information and pour it out."

"Well, this Chalfont is one of the best-known men in the City, in London," said Jiggles, going to the window, and peering out unseeingly. "He is a director of ever so many companies, mostly mining, holds all sorts of foreign concessions, and is supposed to be a millionaire twice over. He came to England from one of the Colonies, I believe, some years ago, and he's said to have got the City at his feet. He's making his way everywhere. I suppose you didn't read the account of the big banquet they gave him one day last week? No, of course you didn't; it wasn't in the sporting papers."

"What did they give him a banquet for?" inquired Jack, ignoring the sarcasm.

"Over some kind of a big job he'd pulled off somewhere or other; South American Republic, Sandwich Islands—I forget. He's a fine speaker—I heard him once—in a rough and ready way that catches on with people who are tired to death of the usual cut and dried conventional speech. Yes, he's a very big man, and I'm hoping to goodness I'll have the luck to get a case connected with one of his companies."

"This touching, and romantic story is very interesting, and moves me to tears, Jiggles; but what I want to know, and what you haven't told me yet, is, why on earth this terrific personage should want to see the humble nonentity who stands before you. Tell us, O sagacious Jiggles, and relieve what Jim and I call our minds."

LONDON, Sept. 10.
Field Marshal Haig's historic order, issued to-day, set beside his famous "back to the wall" order of six months ago, pointedly marks the end of one of the most critical periods in British history. That the country has triumphantly issued from that dark period is ungrudgingly and gratefully attributed to the timely assistance given by the American nation, not only in the field of arms, but also in the economic field. It is universally felt that Field Marshal Haig's order marks the beginning of a new period in the world struggle to which the nation is able to look forward with hope and confidence. There is growing evidence that the enemy will withdraw to the Hindenburg line and try to make his stand there and begin a new phase of its defensive warfare.

AIR WORK.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 10. (By the A.P.)—Amazing feats by British airmen during the recent fighting may now be mentioned. After driving down in flames one of two enemy two-seaters, a British scout had engine failure which compelled him to spin down. As the machine touched the ground, a German fired his pistol at the pilot from fifteen yards, puncturing the gas tank. At that moment the engine picked up sufficiently to carry the pilot to the rear of the British lines where he was forced to come down again. Being under heavy fire he removed the gunlocks and sights and all his instruments before abandoning his machine which could not be saved. A pilot and observer returning their machine from a bombing raid, fell behind their formation because of engine trouble and were attacked by fockers. The elevator controls were immediately shot away and the observer was badly wounded, but he continued to fight and shot down one focker in flames and sent another crashing out of control. By this time all the gasoline tanks had been shot through and the engine hit in several places. All the instruments on the dashboard were smashed by enemy bullets. Both rear guns were jammed and the observer was bleeding badly. The pilot succeeded in getting his machine into a dive and went on through the aircloud and reached the British lines. The gallant observer was found to have been wounded ten times during the fight. Attacked by a squadron of enemy airplanes a lone British scout spun downward, but on the way saw that only one of the enemy was following him, so he came suddenly out of the spin just above a grove of trees and caught the enemy machine crossing in front of him and shot it to the earth where it burst in flames. There were many stories of British airmen swooping back and forth over the German batteries, playing their guns on the enemy until these guns were completely silenced. One report winds up by saying that a scout machine crossed a battery position several times later but was not fired upon, all the gunners apparently having been killed. Such tactics as these aided materially in making the recent British victory possible. One British scout sailed over an enemy sausage, made a dive and finished off two sentry planes, then fired on the sausage which was being hauled down and finally wound up the performance by dropping two bombs squarely on the winch used in raising and lowering the balloon.

TURKS MURDER CHRISTIANS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.
According to an official despatch from France news has been received in Paris from Teheran, Persia, confirming reports of the murder of Christians by the Turks.

GERMAN SOLDIERS MUTINY.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 11.
A German regiment, the 25th, mutinied at Cologne on August 31st, according to the "Telegraph". An eyewitness of the incident says that the soldiers, on being ordered to leave Cologne for the Western front, refused to board a train. Another regiment was then ordered to force the refractory troops to enter the car, but they refused to fire on their comrades. A detachment of the Home Defence Guard composed of youth, was then ordered to undertake the task, and a fight followed, in which 11 boys of the Defence Guard were killed and many others were wounded.

RAILWAY HORROR.

ALLIANCE, Nebraska, Sept. 11.
Twelve people were killed and eighteen injured when a Burlington train, number 45, west bound, was wrecked seven miles west of here yesterday. The passenger train ran head on into a work train, telescoping the first two cars of the passenger train.

FROST DAMAGES CROPS.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 11.
Crops in various sections of New England suffered damage from frost last night and early today. The weather bureau reports showed par-

SLAUGHTER IN PETROGRAD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.
Word reached here to-day from an European source that reports there said Petrograd was in flames in many places, and that indiscriminate slaughter of citizens, pillaging and riots were taking place in all parts of the city. According to these reports, there is no semblance of law, or police or military regulations.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11.
The German socialist party and trade unions sent a communication to Chancellor Von Hertling recently, pointing out the growing dissatisfaction among the people because of insufficient food. In the communication, which was published in the socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, on Monday, the conditions are characterized as critical.

MORE ALLIED TROOPS NEEDED.

ARCHANGEL, Sept. 11.
(By the A.P.)—More allied troops are urgently needed in Russia if the Allied campaign in Northern Russia is to be carried to a success. Is the opinion of virtually every officer and civilian observer here.

BIG LINER TORPEDOED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.
The New York Times this morning says it was reported in marine circles yesterday that the Canadian Pacific passenger steamer, the Missanable, had been torpedoed on Monday, while bound west from an English port with passengers and mails on board for the United States.

BRITISH SUCCESS IN ITALY.

ROME, Sept. 11.
British troops yesterday raided the Austro-Hungarian positions on the Asiago plateau on the mountain front, and inflicted considerable loss to the enemy, according to the official statement issued to-day by the Italian war office. The British took 77 prisoners and captured abundant war material. In the Monasolone region the Italian forces captured enemy positions.

FRENCH CAPTURE TRAVREY.

PARIS, Sept. 11.
The village of Travrey near the southern end of the main Hindenburg line, has been captured by the French, according to reports received here. If the French can hold this town, the important enemy positions at La Fere, a northern defence of the St. Gobain Massif, two miles south of Travrey, will be virtually outflanked.

MASSACRE AND FLAMES IN PETROGRAD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.
A despatch from the American Legation at Christiania to-day, said reliable information had reached there that Petrograd was burning in twelve different places, and that there was indescribable massacre of people in the streets.

TROOPSHIP TORPEDOED: NO CASUALTIES.

LONDON, Sept. 11.
A troopship with 2,800 American soldiers on board, has been torpedoed. All hands were saved. The troopship was beset. To save time, instead of launching the boats, they clambered down ropes to destroyers which swarmed around the stricken vessel and came close alongside.

MEAT GOES UP.

LONDON, Sept. 11.
The Food Controller has announced that the retail price of meat will be increased two pence a pound after Sept. 22nd. The announcement explains that the increase is necessary chiefly because of the heavier cost of imported meats from the States and the rise of freight rates.

and held them despite violent counter-attacks. The Italians took prisoners in the Leon valley and Ornic valleys, and occupied the Island south of Ponte Piave, annihilating the garrison.

NO PASSENGERS LOST.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.
The following is from New York: The news of the loss of the Missanable was confirmed this afternoon by the Canadian Pacific Ocean Steamship Company. The steamer sailed from a British port on Sept. 8th with 19 soldiers and a number of passengers. She was torpedoed on Sept. 9th. It is believed by the Company none of the passengers were lost.

ANGLICAN SYNOD OPENS TO-DAY IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.
Anglicans are by no means agreed on the question of the revised Book of Common Prayer, which is the most important matter that will come up for consideration at the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, which opens its triennial session here to-morrow. Three years ago the Revised Book was tentatively accepted and submitted to the Diocese for consideration. Three years' probation has brought it into popular approval. There are those who would postpone its approval further, and there are others who would hold it over until after the war. A resolution from the Diocese of Montreal on the "indissolubility of marriage," which is to come up, is as follows: "That in view of the grave dangers which will inevitably result should the proposed alterations in the English marriage law at present standing in the name of Sir A. Gordon Doyle be put into effect, the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada be respectfully petitioned to reaffirm the Church's belief in the indissolubility of Holy Marriage and her determination to resist any attempt to facilitate divorce and remarriage, and that a copy of such re-affirmation be forwarded to the Mother Church of England."

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS ESTABLISHED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.
Contact has been established by the Russian Embassy here with the newly organized Independent Governments in Northern Russia and Siberia. Ambassador Bakhmeteff, who long ago repudiated the Bolshevik regime, is recognized by the official representative of the Russian people in the United States, and the new governments which are co-operating with American and Allied forces therefore have a spokesman in Washington. From the Government of the north at Archangel the embassy to-day received an encouraging despatch telling of activities there in co-operation with the Allies and of the purpose of the new Government to set up again a great and undivisible Russia.

AMERICAN TROOPS LAND AT ARCHANGEL.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.
American troops have landed at Archangel to assist the other Allied forces there in their campaign for the re-establishment of order in Northern Russia. This announcement was authorized by General March, Chief of Staff to-night. For military reasons the number of soldiers landing was not revealed, nor was it made clear from whence they had embarked. It was assumed, however, that the soldiers had been sent from English camps, where Americans are training.

A New Peace Move.

Germany is about to make another bid for peace, and the latest shot from the Teutonic peace gun has been fired by Count Czernin, former Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Count writes to the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna in favor of a League of Nations, and declares that in Germany an overwhelming majority of the people, with the Emperor at their head, really and honestly desire a lasting peace. Whatever may be the purport of this astonishing statement, or whatever is behind it, we can believe at least that while Austria may be in favor of an honest peace, it is the rankest hypocrisy to posture the German Emperor or the German people as lovers of peace, unless it is of a quality which they themselves shall dictate. Count Czernin may be honest in his declarations, but we cannot candidly believe that he is the exponent of Germany's opinion. "Germany's peace terms must be of her own making" has been shouted by Junkerdom ever since it was seen that a win was impossible for the Central Powers, and consonant with that declaration many peace overtures have been made, only to be rejected by the Allies. The present inspired statement comes doubtless from Berlin and is made with the motive of hoodwinking the Entente Governments, or of bluffing them into a belief that Germany is sincere in the desire to open negotiations with a view to paying the way for peace.

The continued advance of the Allies and the consequent forced retreat of the armies of Germany which has been going on for the past six weeks, may also be an index of the German move. Whenever the enemy has suffered defeats, tentative peace feelers have been thrown out, and without doubt the declaration of the ex-Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs "that there is nothing to prevent the Central Powers working out the fundamental principles of this new world order and in bringing them before the world," is another part of the made in Germany scheme to enlist the sympathy and possible co-operation of the neutral nations. But this new peace plot must be frustrated. The pacifists in the Allied countries, and they unfortunately are numerous, will, once the terms are promulgated, join in carrying them on. As Senator Sherman of Illinois puts it: "The long line of wounded and maimed will be suggestively advanced to urge us to be liberal in peace terms. Germany's exhausted condition will be presented. Its government will be exhibited with a change of heart. The Kaiser and his practical crew will be described as surrounded by jealous nations who drove him to war in 1914. Every vast international tie known to the diplomacy of the old school will be utilized. The curtain will be drawn aside so we can see a new Germany with a peace dove resting serenely on the Prussian helmet. We will be told in gentle tones of our sovereign duty to be tolerant. After this skilful preparation by an appeal to our sentiment, our pride, our sorrow for our dead, our prudence in public expenditure, our humane impulses to avoid further levies of our men and of taxes, Germany's peace made at Potsdam will gradually dawn, emanating from the minds of the proponents of the Kaiser's peace drive in America. It must be met as relentlessly as we make war." There can be no peace with Germany other than upon the terms already propounded by various Allied statesmen. In other words, there can be no peace with Germany until and only when the war is carried into German territory and victory full and complete crowns the Allied arms. Even the Women's Party of Britain has declared that it must be won (on Germany) till victory, followed by a peace imposed upon the Germans and their Allies. . . . will make it impossible for the Germans to wage another war." That is the kind of peace for which civilization has taken up arms. To depart from the course laid down would be a submissive surrender to Germany and all the blood spilt in defence of the principles of Liberty and Justice would be in vain. Victory is too nearly in sight now for any acceptance of German sentiment. Her offers are deceptive and in making them her intent only is to deceive. No League of Nations can take Germany into its formation or councils. Germany's numerous crimes forbid it, and it will be many years ere the fires of purification, through which she must pass, will render her sufficiently clean to be recognized by respectable peoples. Pacifists and others must be made to recognize that until victory crowns our arms there will be no talk of peace with Germany, and that when the day dawns the terms will be dictated, not accepted, by the Allied Powers.

Public Meeting

OF HARBOR GRACE CITIZENS HELD IN TOWN HALL.
HARBOR GRACE, To-day. A public meeting of citizens was held in the Town Hall last night, to express deep resentment and condemnation of the baseless rumours circulated by unscrupulous and determined of the Nfld. Shipbuilding Co., operating in H. Grace. A very large and representative gathering was present and the different speakers strongly denounced the circulation of unfounded, pernicious, rumours and declared that H. Gracians, would not stand for outside agencies, or anyone attempting to handicap or destroy their principal industry. A resolution requesting the Governor to investigate these unfounded rumours was unanimously carried. H. H. Archibald was elected Chairman and W. Madigan, Secretary of meeting. The singing of the National Anthem brought meeting to a close.

MISS ROGERS SUBMITS REPORT.
Last Tuesday evening's meeting in the Community House, Miss Rogers, was well attended, proving the interest that is being taken in this important subject. His Worship, Mayor Gosling, presided, and on the platform with him, besides Miss Rogers, and her assistant, Miss Kendall, were Hon. W. W. Halliwell, Revs. Dr. Jones, Dr. Greene, Canon Field, H. T. Renouf, D. B. Hemmon, M.A., and T. B. Darby, Councillors Morris, Lyre, Mulrington, and Dr. Fraser, acting Medical Health Officer. After Mayor Gosling had introduced her, Miss Rogers, in a very interesting manner, presented her report and quoted many facts and figures. Three or four nurses are needed, and the cost would be about $3,000 a year. It is probable that an appeal will be made to the citizens to raise this amount. Miss Rogers leaves on Saturday to take a more responsible and remunerative position abroad, and the chairman felt that all would wish her much success. Miss Kendall, who has been assisting Miss Rogers, will carry on the work for which she is well fitted by training in New York. The death rate, said Mayor Gosling, had been reduced by 12 per cent, which was no doubt due in a measure to the agitation by press and pulpit and the efforts of the nurse. In August, 1917, the death rate for infants was 17 and in the same month this year 6. Dr. Fraser, in a brief address, spoke in glowing terms of Miss Rogers' work. Prevention is better than cure, and healthy children will mean a healthy people. We want more nurses so that mothers and children can benefit by their experience. Our duty is to make the work of saving the children the biggest ever tackled here, and the most important in the world. During her stay here, Miss Rogers with Miss Kendall, had visited 649 newly born children and paid hundreds of other visits besides great numbers of interviews to those seeking advice. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Miss Rogers.

City Weigher.

We are pleased to notice in a recent issue of the Halifax papers, "Evening Mail," "Daily Echo," "Morning Chronicle" and "Acadian Recorder," the official announcement of the appointment of our old friend and fellow-townsmen, H. C. Morris, to the important position of permanent City Weigher. This appointment is made by the Board of Control and approved by the City Council. For more than three years Mr. Morris operated in a similar capacity on the staff of superannuated weighers, where, no doubt, his business ability and other essential qualifications, has given evidence for the promotion which has recently been awarded to him. With those of his many numerous interviews to those seeking advice. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Miss Rogers.

Young Woman Seriously Injured

As a result of skylarking Mary Brennan, aged 21 years, of the Goulds Road, lies unconscious at the General Hospital. Miss Brennan was visiting store Petty Harbour, where she met a young man named Chafe. After some joking, the young woman left the store and as she went through the door the young man Chafe accidentally pushed her over the steps. Miss Brennan fell heavily to the ground, and striking her forehead, was instantly rendered unconscious. In response to a phone message, Dr. Macpherson was quickly on the scene, and after an examination ordered the girl to hospital, where she was taken, where it was found that her skull had been fractured, and fearing the man Chafe was arrested yesterday, and is now at the police station.

WAR REVIEW.

Eight weeks to the day for the first time since the great Allied offensive of Marshal Foch began, it is a virtual pause. True, both the British and French on isolated sectors of the front extending from Flanders to the east of Soissons, again have recorded advances, but Wednesday witnessed no such progress of the Allies toward strategic objectives as past days had brought them before the torrential rains had turned the lowlands into an impassable mass and the badly worried enemy rushed large reinforcements forward to stop the gaps through which the British, French and American armies were threatening to filter and wreck his entire military situation. During the eight weeks that have passed the Allied troops have cleared almost entirely all the enemy held territory from the Marne to the Aisne in the apex and Soissons and Rheims, respectively, its western and eastern anchor points. From Soissons to Arras the old bulge westward to Montdidier towards the door step of Amiens, has all but been obliterated, and the Allies now are standing across a large portion of the old Hindenburg defense line and virtually are upon the remainder of it, while to the north of it in Flanders the deep salients which threatened the English Channel ports have been bent eastward and the enemy is expelled from the vantage points from which he had expected ultimately to make an endeavor to gain the seaboard and thus cause a diversion of the transport service from England to Southern France. Until the rains began falling, there had been no let up in the Allied offensive, notwithstanding the fact that the German high command had stiffened its resistance, everywhere discarding infantry units as such as turning them into machine gun companies and bringing up large numbers of guns of all calibres to hold the aggressors back. Wherefore it is not improbable that Foch, when the skies have cleared and the marshes disappeared, again will take up with full impetus his tactics of putting the enemy on his mettle and continue for the two months of good fighting weather remaining, if not beyond that period, his efforts with his own now great forces to drive the Germans farther back toward the Rhine. The British and French troops apparently are in a hard race for the prize of St. Quentin, forces of both armies now being at equal distance west of the city, the British in the vicinity of Vermande, and the French at Eterilliers and Coucy to the north. The British in local operations have made further progress north of Epehy, in the operation which has for its purpose the driving of a wedge midway between Cambrai and St. Quentin, and also have successfully sustained heavy counter attacks by the Germans near Goussancourt, where the Germans are trying hard to hold back the British push towards Cambrai. North of the St. Gobain Massif the French have made additional slight advances, notwithstanding the bad condition of the terrain and the strong forces of the enemy aligned against them in an effort to prevent the turning of this important position from the west. Heavy artillery activity is in progress all along the front and likewise on the northeast of Soissons and between the Aisne and Vesle Rivers the operation on which have a direct bearing on these north of the St. Gobain Forest. The British have been successful in local encounters near Armentieres and in the region of La-Bassee Canal. Additional American troops have landed at Archangel, Northern Russia, to aid the other Allied troops in the putting down of the disturbances in that region. A troopship carrying American soldiers to the front has been torpedoed off the coast of England. All the troops reached land safely and the vessel was beached.

GETTING OUT OF DOUAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.

Systematic evacuation of the town of Douai, one of the important forward bases of the present German line in France, is described in official advices received at Washington today. A vast amount of war material is being taken out of the town the report says, including the equipment of the arsenal there which was the largest establishment of the kind maintained by the enemy in the northern region of his advanced lines. The advices state that the removal of this equipment at the Brayelle airdrome near Douai also was being taken further to the rear. The same precautions have been taken with equipment at an enemy aviation field at Le-colles near St. Amant. The field there, the report says, was specially established in connection with the raids by German aircraft along the English Channel coast. It is between Douai and Cambrai that the British have broken through the first defence of the Hindenburg line, and this detailed statement of the German withdrawal of material from Douai appears to bear out previous reports that the enemy was preparing for the abandonment of this section of his great fortified line which has been imperilled by the British advances.

THEY POSITIONED AND GUN REPLACEMENTS DESTROYED.
BRITISH ARMY HEADQUARTERS (Canadian Press Despatch from Reuter's, Ltd.)—In the region of the Ephy Wood our advanced guards attacked enemy outposts this morning forcing the enemy into rearguard positions and machine gun emplacements and destroyed two balloons and crashed or drove six aeroplanes.

REMAINS GLAD TO SURRENDER.
AT BRITISH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 11 (Canadian Press Despatch from Reuter's, Ltd.)—Reuter's correspondent cables: The state of morale of the German army is indicated by the demeanor of the prisoners of the Second German Division in the Blite which was withdrawn from fighting less than a week ago. Prisoners are abundant in strength. Prisoners are glad they surrendered and are willing to continue the attack. Letters that there were swarms of prisoners only too anxious to surrender. Letters found on prisoners nearly all couched in terms of bitterness and of resentment. Rain-forest continues to swell the streams and foundations, caused by damage they have spread until the country now under water extends from the Marquon and Les Can-INDICEMENT OF GERMAN METHODS.

LONDON, Sept. 11 (Canadian Press Despatch from Reuter's, Ltd.)—E. N. L. Gorges, Administrator of Southwest Africa, has received the most serious reports ever issued in connection with German colonial methods. It includes a most damning indictment of German misrule in Black Africa, and is brimful of well-documented instances of rapine, murder, kidnapping and of despoilment of single, harmless natives of Southwest Africa. The evidence upon which the report is based, is drawn from official German documents at Windhoek, from sworn statements by German chiefs, and from the writings of Governor Louw, whose office embraced the years 1894 to 1905, also Mr. Paul Rohrbach, Professor Karl Dove and other distinguished German sources. Whether the reports constitute a revelation of Dr. Solt's recent claim that Germany's humane treatment of the natives was for her the greatest contribution to a great Colonial power. View of this claim the following statement by Mr. Gorges is interesting. Native opinion here unanimous against any idea of their ever being added back to the tender mercies of any suggestion of an act of kindness on the part of Great Britain produces the utmost consternation. The report shows that the first half-century of German rule in Southwest Africa, is an unbroken record of official bad faith, oppression, robberies, and robberies culminating in the Herero and Hottentot rebellions. There have been seven years of no law for the natives, and protection as the law eventually would not be dictated by considerations of humanity but in order to rob the natives as laborers. When Germans first arrived, says Gorges, they entered into an agreement with the native chiefs that those who became scrabs of paper, and natives were fraudulently deceived of the best land, traders and robbers of them of their cattle, and which was their only wealth, and which the natives subsequently sold to the natives from possessing stocks. The natives thus driven to work for ridiculously inadequate wages were often never paid and treated like slaves and their lives were habitually maltreated by the Germans who took them in increased concubinage. These were all the things which goaded the natives in rebellions which were suppressed with ruthless cruelty and resulted in the practical extermination of three tribes involved. The Hereros were reduced from 80,000 to 12,000, the Hottentots from 20,000 to 12,000, and the Bergdamaars from 30,000 to 12,000. These eighty per cent of the Herero people disappeared, and half of the Hottentots, and Bergdamaars shared the same fate.

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE RECEIVES DEPUTATIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 11 (Canadian Press despatches from Reuter's, Ltd.)—At Manchester today Premier Lloyd George received addresses from three deputations representing the Armenian Committee of Manchester, the Syrian Association of Manchester, and the Zionist Committee of Manchester who were introduced by the noted orientalist Sir Mark Sykes. The Armenian address greeted Lloyd George as a great statesman whose genuine judgment, decision and nobility of heart compelled all freedom-loving people to regard him as their own chosen leader. The Syrians presented an address on behalf of the Arabic speaking people residing in Great Britain; they thanked Lloyd George for his personal interest in the future of their fellow countrymen and congratulated him on the feats of the troops of the British Empire who delivered Mesopotamia and Palestine from the blasphemous rule of his oppressor. Premier Lloyd George replied as follows: "The spirit and confidence which breathes through your words is a striking demonstration of the unconquerable resolve of your stricken land; Armenia is both pitiable and compelling, but that which gives her her greatest claim to the unequalled support of those who are fighting for the liberties of mankind, is the fact that her sons never falter in the determination to achieve their purpose."

The Florence S. is 151 tons gross; 151 net; 114 ft. long, 37 wide, 11 feet deep, three masts. She will be ready for sea in a week. The Alice C., from Heart's Delight, T. B. Newton Reid, master, got in Tuesday night with a load of salt fish for Hickman and Co., which she is now discharging. The Columbia from Smith's Sound, T. B. William Reid, master, got in Tuesday with a load of coarpage material which she is now discharging at Barr's wharf. The schooner "Our Lady" from Trinity, T. B. John Duffett, master, arrived here Tuesday at noon, with a cargo of cash fish which she will offer for sale. She lies at Murray's wharf. The S. S. Fortia passed Cape Race at 5.30 this morning, and is due at 6 o'clock to-day. The S. S. Mary is now at Neale's wharf, and will be ready to start next week to bring up men, etc.

Accident in Narrows.

TWO MOTOR BOATS COLLIDE.

Last evening an accident in the Narrows occurred that very nearly ended fatally for two men, who in motor boats, going in opposite directions, crashed into each other. One of the boats was badly rammed and things in general looked bad for the two occupants, both of whom could not swim, and but that the men in the other threw them a line they surely would have drowned. The line was made fast and one of the men got into the towing boat while the other held on to ball out the water, which was rapidly pouring in. However they survived at a nearby outwash stage head in time when the sinking boat was made fast.

You Feel Fine

Fatigue is the result of poisons in the system, the waste matter resulting from the activities of life. The kidneys have failed to filter these poisons from the blood and you are tired. But awaken the kidneys and liver by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you soon feel fine. The poisons are swept from the system, the pains and aches are gone and you are ready for work and for play.

Fogota's Passengers.

Bell of Burgeo Lost With all on Board.

SCH. ON THE ROCKS AT SAMBRO AND HER CREW OF FIVE MEN PERISH.

Hallifax, Sept. 8.—Sambro ledges has claimed another victim. This time it is the schooner Bell of Burgeo, which sailed from Halifax on Friday afternoon, bound for Newfoundland with a cargo of oil and gasoline. The Bell of Burgeo was evidently in the big tropical storm which swept the coast on Friday night.

The Mail on Saturday reported that an unknown vessel was ashore at Inner Sambro, that there was no sign of life, and that it was likely the whole crew had perished. And all this turns out to be true. The Bell carried a crew of about five men and practically none of them have survived to tell the tale.

Searchers yesterday found parts of the vessel, enough to identify her but that was all.

The Bell of Burgeo was owned by James Dunne, of North Sydney. She was about 70 tons burden. After discharging her cargo at St. John's, Nfld., she was to have loaded fish for a European port. She was in charge of Capt. John Haldone, who resides in the south end of this city, but who is a native of Liverpool. Another Halifax man was a member of her crew, George Martin, and she had shipped a cook here, a man by the name of Peter Bennett. Two of her crew were Scandinavians. Her cargo consisted of 350 barrels, shipped by the Imperial Oil Co. to their branch at St. John's. Both cargo and vessel were insured. The Bell had been ready to sail for over a week, having been lying in the stream for several days.

Capt. Haldone leaves a wife and family. He was about 65 years old, and resided at 119 Allen Street.

Paul Valentine, an American, shipped on the schooner but did not sail on her. She was therefore one man short in her crew, which was made up as follows:

- John Haldone, Halifax, aged 65, master.
- George Martin, aged 32, a native of Nfld., who resided at 208 Lower Water Street, mate.
- Peter Bennett, aged 37, of Port au Port, Nfld.
- G. M. Johansen, aged 23, of Lyatic, Sweden, seaman.
- Paul Manges, aged 33, Finland, seaman.
- Johansen, Martin and Valentine came to Halifax from Sable Island, having been members of the crew of the four-masted schooner, M. C. Connolly, stranded there. Valentine got $35 advance, but failed to sail on the vessel.

AWARDED $1,000 FELLOWSHIP. Word has been received that Alexander Lacey, B.A., an honor graduate in modern languages at the University of Toronto, has been awarded a $1,000 Fellowship to enable him to carry on more advanced work. Mr. Lacey was a Methodist College pupil in 1907-1908 where in his first year he won a scholarship and several special prizes in the work of the Associate Grade. After a first class honor course at Toronto, he entered for military work but was registered in Class D. Owing to special ability for languages he was given a position as lecturer in French on the Victoria College staff, where he has been doing creditable work. He now has the privilege of electing a course at one of the large universities in the United States. We hope that while attending Harvard or Columbia University, New York, he will have continued success and still do honor to his Alma Mater and his native land.

Just Folks

FOR THE CHILDREN OF THE FUTURE.

Somebody's children are going to laugh, though mine to-day are sad; The world's small ring with their shouts of glee and dance to their music glad; The twilight hours of the years to be, when the stars begin to shine, Shall hear the old-time lullabies now lost to the babe of mine.

Green grass shall grow for the children's feet where the first of war have sped; And smiling mothers shall croon at night by the side of a trundle bed; Though my babes came to a troubled world where lust and greed were strong; The little ones in the years to be shall come to a land of song.

And so I stand to my post by day as a pledge to the babes unborn That they shall come to a childhood fair and not to a world forlorn; They shall know laughter and dance and song; by love shall their lips be kissed; And they shall claim, in the years to be, the joys that my own have missed.

Wedding Bells.

BUTLER-NURSE.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized in Gower St. Methodist Church on Tuesday, Sept. 10th, when Mr. Allan O. Nurse was united in holy matrimony to Miss Emmie, third daughter of John Jennings Butler, Esq., of Topsail. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, Rev. James Nurse, assisted by Revs. Dr. Fenwick and Mr. Forbes, Pastor of Gower Street Church, and was attended by the groom's family and of both families, who motored into town for the occasion. The bride, who was given away by her father, was unattended and looked very attractive in a tailored costume of navy serge relieved with cream cloth, and wore a large picture hat of black velvet. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and asparagus fern. Immediately after the ceremony the party motored back to Topsail, where the family connections and a few other friends were entertained at the home of the bride's parents. A very dainty supper was served, and the usual toasts given, after which music and games were indulged in until a late hour. The bride who is much beloved in her native town, was very popular in church circles, having been organist of Topsail Methodist Church for the last ten years, and Supt. of the Sunday School for the past year. On the eve of her wedding a pleasing little incident occurred when representatives from the Topsail congregation waited upon her, and presented her with an address, and a lady's secretary of solid oak, as a slight token of their appreciation of her many years of untiring service. A week previous to this party was given in her honor at the home of Mrs. Joseph Miller, when her young lady friends surprised her with a shower of kitchenware, around which many jolly memories are destined to cling. The groom, who is also widely and popularly known, has been associated with the Sun Life of Canada for some years. The gifts, some of which were very beautiful, were many and valuable, and bore sufficient testimony to the popularity of both. The honeymoon is being spent at Holyrood, where the happy couple motored the following day. Afterwards they will make their home for the present in the Parsonage at Topsail. We wish them many years of happy wedded life.

MOLLOY-DELANEY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the R. C. Cathedral on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Josephine Delaney of this city, and Mr. John Molloy, of Peter's River, St. Mary's Bay, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rt. Rev. Mons. McDermott, V.G. The bride who was prettily attired in white net over pink silk, with lighthouse hat, carried a bouquet of carnations and maidenhair fern, was attended by Miss Madeline Clancey, who wore cream silk with picture hat. The groom was supported by Mr. Augustus Delaney, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's mother, 24 Prospect Street, where a reception was held and the health of the bride and groom duly honored, many friends being present. A large collection of pretty and useful presents testified to the popularity of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Molloy left yesterday's express for Holyrood and will visit several other points before taking up residence at Peter's River. The Telegram joins with the many friends of the happy couple in extending felicitations.

ROWE-SMALLWOOD.

Tuesday evening, at eight o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rowe, a quiet marriage was solemnized, when Miss Mabel Rowe was united in matrimony with Sergt. Frederick Wm. Smallwood—of the Royal Nfld. Regiment, son of the late Frederick Smallwood, and brother of Mr. Walter R. Smallwood, Rev. D. Hemmison, B.A., officiating. Sergt. F. Smallwood has been four years with the Regiment, is an old Methodist College boy, and will be remembered as an old footballer. He expects to leave again for active service soon. The Telegram wishes Sergt. and Mrs. Smallwood many years of matrimonial joy.

The Beginning of the Ehd.

(Toronto Globe.)

There is no longer any doubt as to the significance of the German collapse. What we see is the beginning of the end. It may be a year or more before the Allied armies can pass the Rhine and dictate peace on German soil, but a decisive victory for democracy against militarism and the divine right of Kings is assured.
There will be much hard fighting, and temporary reverses may be experienced, but from this time forward the general trend of the war will be toward the German frontier. The enemy morale will decline as his fighting strength diminishes. Many thousands of Germans who have fought stoutly through four years of war, and whose courage in battle is not to be doubted, have surrendered during the past month. Their example will become contagious, and as the fear of their officers dies out and discipline weakens, disintegration will increase and the wastage from surrender will become fatally large. In fifty days the Allies have captured over a hundred and forty thousand Germans, and the disposition of the enemy to surrender when cornered, rather than fight it out, becomes more marked as the campaigning season advances.

This lowering of the German morale is certain to affect materially the decisions of the enemy's leaders regarding the holding or evacuation of territory all along the battle line. It will not be possible to retain salients until they become pockets if the men holding them are found to be infected with the idea that the easy way out is to surrender. The situation at Lens is an illustration of the effect the "Kamerad" peril is likely to have upon the enemy strategy. To capture Lens by an advance from house to house and cellar to cellar through the tremendous maze of ruins in the city and its suburbs would mean a huge casualty list. In the partial penetration made last summer thousands of lives of Canadians and British soldiers were exacted by the hard-fighting garrison as the price of progress.
But Lens defended by men who were fighting for a German peace, and Lens held by thousands of dispirited troops eager to surrender because a German peace is no longer a possibility, are very different propositions. The evacuation of the city is entirely probable because the isolation of small groups of men in houses and cellars, and the shell craters that cover all the open ground about Lens, would enable the bulk of the garrison to cry "Kamerad" without fear of being shot by their officers or destroyed by their own machine gun companies.

What is happening at Lens will occur over and over again from this time forward. The pocketed positions will be given up before they provide opportunity for wholesale surrenders, and the German army will retire toward the Meuse and the Rhine without leaving so many salients inviting attack as they have left during the retreat of the past month. The first to go will be the bulge north of Noyon, where at Quiscard and Ham
there was, until yesterday, a disposition to hold strong natural positions along the Canal du Nord far to the west of the general battle line. We may reasonably anticipate a hurried withdrawal here as the result of the serious defeat suffered by the enemy in the breaching of the Droocourt-Queant line and the rapid advance of the Canadian and English troops toward Cambrai.

The enemy's line is crumbling also in the Valley of the Aisne, where a retreat not only from the Vesle but from the heights of the Aisne back to the north of the Allette seems inevitable. Poch will assuredly do everything that the forces at his command permit to hasten that movement. If the Germans can be forced to relinquish the La Fere-Laon plateau this month their further stay on French soil will be short and perilous.

Crocodile
Drops on Top.

Before the United States entered the war, a fearful campaign was conducted in the country in the interests of German babies. Prominent German representatives, with solemn faces and plaintive appeals, invoked the warm hearts of American audiences to save the infants of the Fatherland from starvation.

Subsequently, federal officers at Washington exposed this campaign as a studied attempt to secure milk products for making high explosives.
The German babies never had been in need of the milk.

The Allies are well served by this exposure of Hun methods. It gives a valuable key to the nature of German peace offensives. The Huns are skilled in fearful campaigns designed to influence amiable people. Even German babies are fitted so as to squeak when they are pressed, as part of the game.

Possibly, the next peace offensive will be opened by distribution of press pictures showing Hindenburg reading "Bedtime Stories."—Montreal Daily Star.
