CHAPTER LVII.
"THE TIME HAS COME!"

"No, he would be the last to write for fear of its being traced to him. Besides, he feels himself secure, depend upon it."

Sir Charles shook his head.

"If you can't find it out, Rebecca, how do you expect me, who am not half so clever?"

Then Rebecca placed the second note before him.

Sir Charles read it and, much to her astonishment, sprang to his feet with a flush of delight.

"What?" asked Rebecca.

"By Jove, this fellow's a brick who ever he is! He's got it! He's set me something to do. You can't think, Rebecca," he said, dropping into the seat again, "what a worry it has been to me to sit with my hands before me doing nothing—I should like to have gone in for Dartmouth and wrung it out of him. But you said that was quite out of the question. Now there's some work for me. Give me a spade and a pickaxe, and I'll have that well out in half a dozen hours. Bravo! the fellow's hit it, whoever he is!"

Rebecca colored with pleasure, then laid her hand upon his arm timidly and turned pale.

"You are a good fellow, Charlie," she said, "and I am grateful. But we must go to work cautiously still. You think this anonymous adviser is a friend, and so do I. You think, too, that he is giving us good advice, and so, too, do I. But we must be very cautious, remembering with whom we have to deal. Charlie, if you want down this minute with spade and pickaxe and discovered what there may be discovered in that well, went down alone and without witnesses, we should—or, rather, poor Hugh or Grace would—benefit nothing."

"Why not?" asked Sir Charles, rather afraid of this chance of his being balked.

Rebecca smiled sadly.

"Do you not guess what Reginald Dartmouth would say if we found what we expect—Sir Harry Darrell's genuine will? He would turn around and say that we had manufactured the will and put it there ourselves."

"By Jove!" breathed Sir Charles. "You are right, Rebecca! But what a clever girl you are! Of course he would. But surely you don't mean to let the chance slip? You'll let me clear the well out somehow or other?"

"Yes," said Rebecca, "and soon. What we must do is to consult Mr. Reeves, the old lawyer, and get him to stand by with the doctor, or any other influential person, while the well is cleared, and then what we find can be attested as genuine and without suspicion."

"That's it!" said Sir Charles, springing up and pacing to and fro in the little arbor, with his eyes flashing eagerly—"that's it, Rebecca; and for Heaven's sake don't let us delay!"

Rebecca held up her face—very pale, but very firm it was.

"We will not," she said. "The time has come!"

CHAPTER LVIII.
THE INVALID.

I have scanted all wherein I should your great deserts repay.—SHAKESPEARE.

The task Mr. Tovey and his partner had undertaken was not a very light one. It had its responsibilities, and Joe Wiley was fully sensible of them. It is not every wind that brings young gentlemen willing to pay liberally in good Bank of England notes for the safe-keeping of their brothers, and the dockman was determined to keep a very careful lookout that his valuable lodger did not elude his grasp. Consequently whenever he had a spare moment—and he managed to snatch several from his day's work—he trod up the stairs very carefully and quietly, and on tiptoe stole a glance at the comfortable bed upon which Hugh Darrell—for we may as well give him his right name now—was lying.

The old lady, not forgetful of her promise to the liberal, kind-spoken young gentleman, really spent most of her time and devoted her principal energies to the nursing of the invalid, so that, taking into consideration the extraordinary attention on the part of the doctor—extracted by a double fee—the daily supply of jellies, grapes, and like luxuries, delivered punctually at ten o'clock, it was not marvelous that the strong, huge-limbed Hugh gained strength sufficiently to enable him to go through the usual convalescent performance—ask questions.

First he raised himself on one elbow, next looked round the room with that slow, half-dreamy look one wears at such a moment of reawakening, and then fixing his deep, brown eyes upon the lady, said, with an evident effort at recalling late events:

"How long have I been lying here?"

"Oh, not very long, sir," replied the lady, with a slight courtesy, thinking it best, as her kind generally do, to answer an invalid's question with an evasion.

"Not very long?" he repeated, sinking back. "It seems ages."

"Do it, sir, now? Well, I dare say it do seem long to be lying quiet and still-like. Can I get you anything, sir?"

"No," he said, in that grave, purged voice that had gone far to corroborate his "brother's" story in the old lady's opinion. "No, I thank you, excepting it be a little water."

"I mustn't give you that; the doctor's forbid it; but here are some grapes that will quench your thirst quite as well, sir," and she held him a few grapes upon a plate.

He raised his eyes and looked at them rather inquiringly.

"Grapes?" he said. "Grapes must be half a crown a pound. I am afraid you have been hastening my recovery at some expense," and his handsome face overshadowed.

"No—that is—I mean—" stammered the old lady, who had been severely instructed to hold her tongue and answer no questions. "I mean that Joe and Tovey will see to all that."

"Joe and Tovey?" repeated Hugh, looking puzzled. "May I ask where I am? Wherever I am, I am in kind, Christian hands, I know, for which I am grateful; ay, and have been even while I have been unable to say so."

There was a touching dignity with which he laid his hand, lithe and strong still, but rather white and thin, upon the old lady's wrinkled one.

"Don't you go to speak of it, sir; don't, if you please," she replied, laconically. "We've done no more than we should—leastways, more than we were told."

"Told?" he repeated, looking puzzled again. "Who told you?"

What muddle the old lady would have become involved in is not to be known, for at that moment Joe Wiley looked in during one of his spare moments and hearing the invalid's voice stepped into the room and took of his cap.

"Good-morning, sir. I hope I see you better."

"I am much better," said Hugh; "thanks to the careful nursing I have received from this good soul, and, maybe, others. I was just asking her where I was, and to whom I am indebted for all this; and, with a look of gratitude and grave bewilderment, he glanced at the bottles of wine, plates of cake, jellies, fruit, etc."

"This is the docks, sir," replied Mr. Wiley, glibly, for he had been preparing for the scene and had got his part well out and dried: "the docks, sir, where the 'Scalvonia' came in."

"Ay, I remember," said Hugh, sadly. "There were no lives lost, some one told me."

"No, sir, not a single one, thanks to you and a few other brave men. All hands saved—men, women, and children."

"Thank Heaven!" murmured Hugh, quietly.

"Amen," responded Mr. Wiley, devoutly.

"And this is the docks?" said Hugh, looking round curiously. "Please tell me, if you will; I am rather weak still, I find, and—"

"Talking come difficult. Just so!" put in Mr. Wiley. "Yes, sir, this is the docks. This is my mate, Tovey's cottage, inside the gates. This is Mrs.

Rebecca, and this is the 'Scalvonia' as had starved himself for the sake of the women and children, me and Tovey looked innocent and said that you'd gone away—drawed your money and left the docks."

"Thanks," murmured Hugh, fervently, with a sigh of relief.

He would rather have starved outright than be fussed over and paraded in the daily paper, ticketed for life as the "hero of the 'Scalvonia.'"

"Don't mention it, sir, don't mention it," resumed Mr. Wiley, with praiseworthy benevolence. "As I was a-sayin', we brought you up here and sent for a doctor. He said as you were suffering from an attack of—of—Do you happen to remember, Mrs. Tovey; what did he say it was the gentleman had?"

Mrs. Tovey shook her head regretfully, but decisively.

"Well, it was a word with five or six syllables and ended with -s, I know, brought on, he said, by the privation and all that. You was to be kept very quiet, and not allowed to get up—even when you wanted to—not until you were quite strong. That's right, ain't it, Mrs. Tovey?"

"Yes, he did, sir; he did, indeed," assented the old lady.

"And," continued Mr. Wiley, "you was to have everything as was very nourishin' and strengthenin', such as—cassia, his eyes round the various delicacies upon the table and scanning them with slow unctuousness—such as sherry wine with water, grapes, rice-cake, chicken and ham, beef-tea, jellies, and broth."

Hugh, with a trouble look, stopped him.

Tovey. I'm Joe Wiley, checking clerk."

Hugh nodded with grave impatience.

"We found you quite knocked out aboard the 'Scalvonia.' There was a good deal of fuss going on, and seemin' as you were what might be termed eyes-on-like, my mate, Tovey, and me just brought you in here to rest and get round a bit. And you did; only for a bit, though. You'd been playin' the brick sir, if I may make so bold as to say so, for rather a longish spell, and half-short rations for a fortnight is calculated to take the backbone out of a man. You was completely knocked out."

Mr. Wiley, partly to gain time, partly to give full force to his description, divided and emphasized the words and shook his head.

"You just come to enough to ask me to keep the news paper men away from you, and then gave in. We did as we should like to be done by—we brought you up here, and when the newspaper came round, sayin' as they wanted the hero o' the 'Scalvonia' as had starved himself for the sake of the women and children, me and Tovey looked innocent and said that you'd gone away—drawed your money and left the docks."

"Thanks," murmured Hugh, fervently, with a sigh of relief.

He would rather have starved outright than be fussed over and paraded in the daily paper, ticketed for life as the "hero of the 'Scalvonia.'"

Hugh, with a trouble look, stopped him.

"My good fellow, I am very grateful, more grateful than I can possibly tell you; but all these cost money. You must not think that I am a rich man. I am only a plain sailor, and quite unable to pay for all these luxuries," and he raised himself upon his elbow with a groan of vexation.

Soviet Demands on Poland Not Permitted---Predicted Decline in Wheat Prices---League of Nations Council at San Sebastian--French Deputies Support Millerand--Manchester People Take Forcible Possession of Vacant Houses.

LIMITING RUSSIA.

PARIS, July 30. The limitations which Great Britain and France would put upon the Soviet demands of Poland in the arranging of an armistice are set forth in a notification which has been dispatched to the Warsaw Government by the British and French Governments. It was learned here to-day, Poland requested the views of Great Britain and France on the armistice terms and the Governments at London and Paris have notified the Polish Government that they will not permit Poland to accept possible Soviet armistice demands involving, one, the whole or partial disarmament of Poland; two, a change in the Polish system of Government dictated or brought about by the Soviets; three, acceptance by Poland of a boundary less favourable than that provisionally drawn by Premier Lloyd George; four, the use of Poland as a bridgehead in any sense between Germany and Russia. Information which has reached the French Government, said to-day to reveal that Latvia, Finland, Roumania and Hungary were all anxious to make common cause against the Bolsheviks now rather than be compelled, later to defend themselves individually. To this end, it is declared, the four countries named are making overtures to France and Great Britain for support moral and otherwise. This situation, it is stated on high French authority, is the final card France and Great Britain will have in hand to play is necessary in order to save Poland.

LOWER WHEAT PRICES PROMISED.

TORONTO, July 30. Canadian Wheat Board officials are authority for the statement that indications are that the fall in wheat prices in a few months will warrant a reduction of two cents in the cost of ten cent loaves.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS.

SAN SEBASTIAN, July 30. The opening session of the Council of the League of Nations began at four o'clock this afternoon. The Council probably will empower the International Transit Commission in Paris to settle directly and promptly the difficulties arising from new passport and customs regulations, which now delay international trains at all frontiers causing annoyance to passengers. The Council also will consider whether, in view of the heavy expense and slow work of the Sarre Commission, the total cost should be borne by the Sarre population as heretofore. A feeling has been evidenced that France and Germany are most directly interested in this work and should share the expense between them. The remainder of the session, which will be private, probably will be devoted to questions referred to the League by the Red Cross. The first public sessions of the Council will be held on Tuesday.

(San Sebastian is a Spanish seaport town on the Bay of Biscay, 11 miles from the French frontier. It was taken by the French in 1919, and stormed by Wellington's soldiers during the Peninsular War, 1812. Since then the town has been built on a regular plan. On the West there is a magnificent bay, but difficult of access, most of the loading and discharging of shipping being done at Passages, a harbor 2 1/2 miles to the Eastward. In the Carlist Rising (1836) San Sebastian held a prominent position.)

MILLERAND SUSTAINED.

PARIS, July 30. Premier Millerand again won the support of the Chamber of Deputies for his Government to-day in his special arrangements. In face of an adverse report by the Commission on Finance, he obtained a favorable vote for the adoption of two hundred million francs monthly advances to Germany.

A NEW MEASURE.

LONDON, July 30. Dr. Addison, Minister of Health in the British Cabinet, announces that a measure will be introduced shortly enabling local authorities to acquire untenanted houses which landlords are unreasonably withholding without occupation. This announcement was made to a deputation from Manchester, where a certain portion of the population recently becoming exasperated at observing houses standing empty because their owners desired to sell them at an exorbitant price, forcibly took possession and installed returned soldiers and their families in them.

NAVAL COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF DIES AT BERMUDA.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, July 30. Vice-Admiral Sir Trevilian D. V. Napier, aged fifty-three, commander-in-chief of the British North American and West Indies Naval Station, died this morning at the Admiralty house here. Death was due to enteric fever. The funeral takes place at five o'clock this afternoon. Vice-Admiral Napier was appointed to the command of the North American and West Indies station in November of last year. He was in command of a light cruiser squadron early in the war and was Vice-Admiral with the light cruiser force from 1917 to 1919. He was mentioned in dispatches for his part in the Battle of Jutland.

WIFE SLAYER MAY BE IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 30. Eugene Leroy, of Detroit, now being sought in Mexico in connection with the murder of his wife, whose body was found jammed in a trunk shipped here from Michigan, may now be in this city, according to clues picked up to-day by the police.

MONTREAL'S LIQUOR BUSINESS.

MONTREAL, July 30. Orders for liquor from other provinces are pouring into this city. It is estimated that the amount of money which comes into Montreal for liquor is somewhere around ten millions per month.

New Orchestra for St. John's.

At a dance given by Mrs. S. K. Bell, at Smithville, last night, the great feature was the music of the new Jazsola Orchestra which was received with great enthusiasm by all present. The Jazsola Orchestra discourses a form of music new to St. John's and combines the most modern methods with the best technique. It includes a piano, violin, saxophone, cornet, trombone and the ever-fingery drums and traps. St. John's will doubtless hear more of this Orchestra, which played together for the first time last night, and which, literally, "raised the roof."

Child Internally Hurt.

Keep the Lake Clear.

Dear Sir--Will the gentlemen of the Regatta Committee be good enough to strictly enforce the regulations regarding the plying of boats, other than the racers, on the Pond next Wednesday? There's nothing more annoying to observers on the bank than to see a number of these boats crossing back and forth and up and down while the races are on, and if those who use them are not prevented absolutely from appearing on the Lake, from the start to the finish of the races, then at any moment a good contest may be spoiled and perhaps a serious accident will occur by collision that will cause the loss of the lives of those in the racing gigs. When the young men who comprise the crews in each contest are so willing to enter the frail racers in order to afford enjoyment to the public, the least the Committee might do is to stringently enforce every regulation for their protection. The menace of the small pleasure boat rowed around by irresponsible youths and even more elderly persons, is one that can be offset if the pond committee do their duty properly, and to do it properly and effectively some more drastic steps should be taken than a mere publication of a rule. Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

HOW WE END OUR LETTERS.

How do you close your letters?
We fell to talking about letter ending the other day, and a letter signed "As ever."
"That," said the woman who received it, "is the most useful ending I know."
When I stopped to think, I agreed with her. Don't

It is so beautifully non-committal, covers so much. It does not either assert affection or deny it. If you do not quite want to use the formal types of closing, nor yet quite want to go into the "with love" class, you can always say "As ever."

Whaphazard Signing "With Love" Like Casual Kissing.

It is surprising to me how many people do sign their letters "with love." I have the same feeling about writing "with love" casually that I have about calling people by their first names on short acquaintances or kissing casual acquaintances. Perhaps it is my New England blood, but I seldom sign a letter "with love" unless I mean with love. Once in a time I could have said "never" instead of "seldom," but as I grow older I have come to see that that may be priggish if to leave the "with love" out would really hurt some one's feelings.

What is Indecent About Hastet?

"In haste" is an ending frowned upon by the polite letter writer, but never could see anything wrong about it myself. There are times when one does write in great haste, and I do not see why one should not refer to that fact. Surely there is nothing indecent about haste. If there is, few of us are decent for long.

A London Riot Seven Centuries Ago.

In 1223 there were riots in London which showed the turbulence of the times, and the unsettled state of popular feeling. These disturbances grew out of wrestling matches between the Londoners and the men of Westminster, the tenants of the Abbot. The City men, having had the best of it, the Abbot's steward challenged them to a return match, and offered a ram as a prize. The day—August 1—ended in a sanguinary fight, the Abbot's men attacking the others with weapons of war and driving them helter-skelter to their walls. Such an outrage could not be allowed to end there, so the bell was tolled, and a public meeting held, when Serle Cotteras—the mayor—urged a pacific deputation to the Abbot, to demand satisfaction. But Constantine Fitz-Atherly—a rich man and a popular leader—called for an immediate attack on the premises of the Abbot and his steward, and forthwith led the people to the assault on August 2. But he gave a political character to the proceedings by sounding the French war cry—"Montjoie! Desale! Louis!" The steward's house was wrecked, and the Abbot driven to escape by water. De Burgh, on hearing of the disturbance, hastened to the Tower, and summoned the chief citizens to give an account of the uproar. Constantine was bold enough not only to confess, but to justify the proceedings, whereupon the Justiciar, without more ado, gave him in charge of Fawkes; and next morning had him sent, with a nephew, and the cleric who had sounded the treasonable war cry, quietly by water to be hung without trial at "the Elms."—doubtless, the historic elms at Tyburn. Judicial measures against the minor offenders followed; Serle being dismissed from his mayoralty, which he had held for five years—he had also been Mayor in 1215.

IN THE TASK.

There's more in a task than the money it brings. Each duty comes laden with numerous things. There's a chance to be proud and a chance to exult. And the world may be helped by the final result; Though grim it may seem, if you'll open your eyes, You may see that behind it your character lies.

There's more in a task than its silver and gold. The joy of your children it's fashioned to hold. The dreams which you treasure for all of your years Are held in the duty which sordid appears; There's no road to glory save this one for you. For all men are known by the work that they do.

There is this in a task more than gold at the end— The respect of mankind and the love of a friend, For the thing that you fashion shall make you or mar; By your deeds the world visions depend on the way You shall finish the work that is given you to-day.

Do it well! Do it well! Let your task have your best. For all you hold dear you are facing the test; The praise of your neighbors, your own self-respect, And the right to meet all men face front and erect. The peace of the future, your fortune and fame Are all in the task that must carry your name.

Suits of plain color, but of two-tone effect, will be popular.

Bernhardi Again.

General Von Bernhardi, who was and is regarded as the archetype of German militarists has written another book. It will be remembered that his last one "Germany and the Next War," was regarded by the Hun authorities as a text-book on military operations to be directed against Britain, and much was made of it by German press and public. It was a complete exposition of how to wage war according to the German ideal, and its instructions were carried out, with what result both the world and Germany know. But Bernhardi is not despondent, nor even cast down by the failure of his countrymen to impose their form of kultur on the peoples of the globe. Nor is the chief apostle of war and how it should be waged, in any penitential mood. He is as aggressive and as arrogant as ever, and the most recent child of his brain is conceived in a spirit of whispering protest. Left by the Peace Conference with means enough upon which to live, Bernhardi pursues a life which is practically the only one he knows how to live, and the aim of which is to teach Germany how to conduct the next war. The dragon of Hunnism has not been killed; it has but been severely wounded, and once it recovers from the injuries inflicted will be as savage and unbearing as ever. More so, maybe, for it is rankling under the degradation of defeat and abject submission. The other book of this German fire-eater was the immediate prelude to the late war, when the German army was equipped down to the last gaiter button. The book, now on sale is entitled "The War of the Future," and must be regarded as important, revealing as it does the feeling existing in German military circles.

A summary of this latest piece of military literature, may be briefly given, and the sentiments expressed should not fail to be regarded as those imbuing Germany at the moment. Bernhardi is of opinion that with submarines (Von Tirpitz thought similarly) Germany will be able to reduce England, France and Italy. Time will give her the means for doing this. "Notwithstanding the peace conditions, the U-boat arm must be developed as opportunity offers. That this and the expansion of the army are possible can be seen from what happened after 1806, when, under the very eyes of the French garrisons, we (Germany) trained 200,000 men instead of the 42,000 we were allowed." The whole German nation is to be organized for war on the most stupendous scale. Bernhardi thinks that tanks are a formidable weapon yet professes that the German measures against them were effective, "but," says the review from which we quote, "his ideas regarding them are those of the bow and arrow school: he does not appear to realise that war on land has changed radically with tanks that can move thirty miles on hour over country; and he also makes it quite clear that the German commercial air craft will be military air craft in disguise." Bernhardi does not learn anything from the war. He advocates duplicity and insincerity in carrying out the peace pact and regards the Treaty of Versailles as only another "scrap of paper" to be flung aside and repudiated when the hour again strikes for Germany. The cold, calculating spirit of the Hun permeates every sentence and page of his book. The peace treaty is but a means to an end.

The London Daily Mail, in caustic editorial comment, observes that "the Germans, like the Bourbons of old, have learned nothing and forgotten nothing." Loquacious politicians are recommended to note some of the book's "impudent declarations," particularly that in which Bernhardi says that after her defeat by Napoleon at Jena, in 1806, and under the noses of the French army of occupation, "Germany trained two hundred thousand men instead of the 42,000 she was permitted to maintain." Concluding its article the Daily Mail issues a warning and a caution at the same time: "Bernhardi thirsts for preparations on the most gigantic scale with a view to future war. Germany must have tanks, air craft and all the weapons which are strictly forbidden by the Treaty. Her statesmen must think of nothing but war and must always take the advice of the German staff. He forgets that they took that staff's advice at every point in the late war—in the wicked invasion of Belgium, the savage cruelties to the Belgians, the atrocious 'ruthless submarine campaign'—and that the result was the greatest catastrophe which has ever befallen any people in history. It was not the revolution that brought the German defeat (as he says), but the German defeat that brought about the revolution.

"It is grim fact that Bernhardi does not stand alone in these opinions. The German printing presses are busy night and day with the publication of military works, large and small, all of which breathe the same spirit, all of which repeat the old hate, all of which call for vengeance. The Devil is unchanged. Defeat has not taught him any lesson. It is important for our security that we should grasp this fact."

Puss Too Slow.

Yesterday afternoon a motor car going at a lively clip up Water Street ran over a large cat, opposite Baine Johnson's premises. Puss was crossing the street and in trying to dodge a street car was hit by the motor. She was not killed outright, and a good samaritan from a nearby store put the fell'ow out of misery with a tap of a hammer.

Manuels Garden Party.

The annual Garden Party at Manuels, will be held to-morrow and promises to be the most enjoyable in many years, as Rev. Fr. Kelly and his energetic committee have been working hard for some time to achieve a record success. At 1 and 2 p.m. trains will leave for there.

Outings for Children.

At a meeting of the Tasker Educational Committee held last night, it was decided to give the children who come under their care, an outing in the very near future. It will probably be held at Smithville, and an active committee have the affair in hand.

Hay Crop Light.

Harvesting of the hay crop in the suburbs has now become general. Owing to the exceedingly dry weather in the early part of the season the cut this year is very light and on high land the grass is thin, being not one third of an average cut.

Open Air Concerts.

The concert given in Bannerman Park last evening, by the C.L.B. Band was thoroughly enjoyed by a large gathering. At the Lakeside the concert given by the C.C.C. Band proved a hit, more people being there than attended the races last year.

Regatta Jingles.

There was "moonshine" on the Lake last night, and it may be visible also next Wednesday to those who have eyes to see and mouths to taste.

There will be a motor boat and a dory on the Lake Regatta Day for cases of emergency.

The "Telegram Press crew," in the "Guard," is a promising crew-combination. The fact that they are not "boosting" at all looks to me very suspicious.

The crowd at the Lakeside last night was large enough for a respectable Regatta.

The C.C.C. Band Concert was grand and reflects credit on the bandmen.

The crowd, the moonshine and the Lake and the sweet strains of "Kathleen Mavourneen" made a scene worthy of Venice as the boats glided swiftly over the placid surface.

A portion of the rail near the old Academia boat club house will be removed to allow free passage around the head of the Lake.

A few barrels of oil sprinkled on the old Kent Road from Kinsella's to the Penitentiary would make it nice and lay the dust. We believe that the Imperial Oil Company needs only to be given a hint to have this done, free, on the eve before the Races.

The most enthusiastic meeting ever was held last night by the Committee. All the entries except the Fishermen's were made. They will enter either on Monday night or at the Race course Wednesday, early.

The official stakes and buoys will be placed in position on Tuesday.

President Hiscock is jubilant over the enthusiasm that he sees on all sides and expresses the opinion that the 1920 Regatta will eclipse all former years.

The good ladies of the K. of C. are making elaborate preparations for the Committee luncheon and they will have such arrangements as will leave nothing to be desired.

The collection taken up by Mr. Bob Simms of Bowring Bros., Ltd., amongst the employees of the firm amounted to over $200. This shows what individual enthusiasm will do.

We are asked to reiterate that certain individuals need expect no refreshments of any kind to be served at the Committee tent, except the music of the Presidents sweet voice when he announces "The Coxswain of the 'Nelle R.' together with the crew will please come forward."

Some of the first tents are now being erected along the Lakeside. The Committee tent is framed up and is ready to be covered.

There are some boulders in the field near Walsh's house, the remains of an old wall. They should be removed. The immense concourse last night at the Lakeside was in the nature of a dress rehearsal for the coming Regatta. They were of all ages from the tottering grandsire to the boy of the nursery.

Good News From the Coal Fields.

Canadian Engineer Makes Favorable Report.

The news from the West Coast coal seams this week where developments are now going on, shows conclusively that there is abundance of coal there. The principal seams are a considerable distance from one another, and borings will be carried on now to find out the spot where these may converge into one body and then if found the work will be carried on. It is understood that Mr. Dowling the Engineer from Canada who has spent two weeks on the ground making a thorough examination, has made his report to the Government and that it is as favorable as the owners of the property could desire. It is rumored that the Government has given an option to the Government to buy out at $200,000 and a royalty of 15 cents per ton for the first 100,000 tons and 10 cents for subsequent output. The shareholders in the claims are delighted with the prospect and shares are at premium. The discovery of this coal if it turns out as expected will revolutionize the trade and industry of Newfoundland.

We have the iron at Bell Island and also on the West Coast in abundance, and there is no reason now why a big smelting plant should not be started in our own country. The domestic supply for the household use of coal is not the least satisfactory feature of the discovery. It comes at an opportune time when even at $18.50 to $19.00 a ton it is not possible for our ships to get coal in North Sydney without long delays. This prospect of getting coal at reasonable prices by our people is what makes the news pleasing to everybody. Whether the Government after purchasing, works the coal themselves or sells out to a Company or to the British Admiralty there is certain to be a branch railway to L'Anse-au-Loup and a coaling station there which will soon become world-famed if the supply now expected is really forth-coming.

Not Allowed to Import.

Outport Dealers Must Buy Sugar in St. John's.

The price of Sugar was advanced this week. The wholesale price was 28½ cents all the summer, and henceforth, by regulation of the Food Control Board it will be 30 cents wholesale and 34 to 35 retail. West Coast people who deal with Halifax, say that they can buy sugar in Canada for 24 cents, which they would be able to sell here at 28 cents, but they are not allowed to import. This is certainly interference with trade is not always to the advantage of the people. In the outports sugar will now be nearly 40 cents per pound, and has become almost prohibitive to the ordinary housekeeper. Molasses too is beyond their purchasing power.—Trade Review.

Father Ashley's Appeal.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—Through the columns of your paper allow me to ask all my friends and other charitably disposed Christian people to help towards the Torbay Garden Party, which is being held August 11th to secure necessary funds to erect the new church and presbytery.

This new church is an absolute necessity, it is not being built for style and fashion.

Many may think that the renovation of the old church would be less expensive and may look upon the erection of a new church as an extravagance.
For the benefit of such thinkers
I will say, that in the opinion of two architects from St. John's, the cost of renovating the old church would be $20,000.00 (twenty thousand dollars) and after that amount would be expended Torbay would still have only an old, unsightly building to show for a large expenditure.

As for the Presbytery,—the present one is almost uninhabitable in winter time. No person could live another winter in it without contracting heavy colds. The present presbytery dates back beyond the memory of any living person.

It was formerly the home of the late Father Troy, who died 1872.

Practically no repairs have been made on these two buildings for many, many years, consequently the presbytery is entirely beyond repair and the church financially beyond it.

I again ask my friends and other friends of Torbay to help along the good work which is so essential to our welfare.

FATHER ASHLEY.

League Football.

In the League football match last evening between the Cadets and B.I.S.
the former won by a score of 2 goals to 1. The B.I.S. in the first half scoring from a penalty kick. The Cadets scored their 2 goals in the second half. Both teams put up a good exhibition. Mr. W. J. Higgins was referee. During next week there will be 2 games on Monday night when the Saints and Britons will be the contestants and on Friday when the C.E.

Improving the Bill.

The City Council's men are now making improvements to Irwins Hill.
This place is one of the hardest in the city to keep in repair as after every heavy rain, the water from Monkstown floods over it cutting channels from one to two feet deep.
The drains on either side are now being deepened some 10 or 12 inches, and the roadbed graded so that the surplus water will run to the sides.

CHALMERS MOTOR CARS

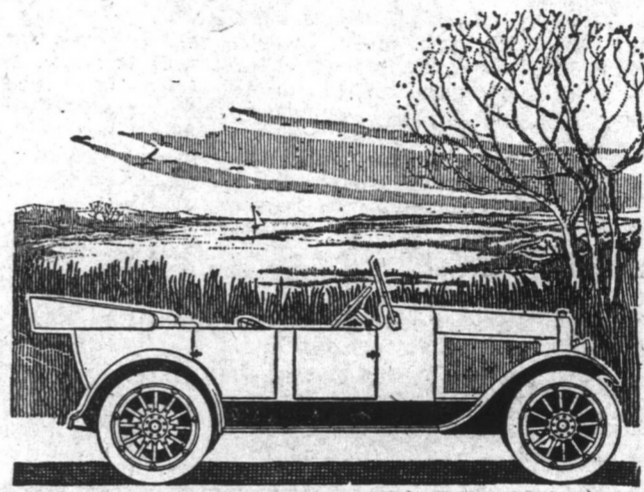

The Chalmers “Six” has always been known as an unusual car. Even at the birth of motor cars it was considered a product of the master builder.

Time has but raised it in the estimation of the world. And to-day the new model represents the evolution of progress in motor car building.
The feature of its construction is the famous “Hot Spot and Ram's Horn” engine. The hot gases of the exhaust play upon the “Hot Spot” and heat the fuel on its way to the cylinders, rendering it easily combustible.

Commencing to-night and for three days only we shall make a reduction of $1.00 (one dollar) per pair on all Ladies' and Gentlemen's Fine Boots and Shoes purchased at our Stores, excepting White Canvas Footwear.

All prices on Boots and Shoes are marked in plain figures. An honest effort to beat the high cost of footwear.

If a Shoe is marked $9.00, why the price to-night is only $8.00.

Remember!

The Shoes we offer at this reduction consists of the highest grade of footwear manufactured in the world.

The reason for this Sale is because of being overstocked with Merchandise; we must unload, and remembering that more Boots and Shoes are purchased between now and Regatta Day than any other corresponding period during the year, we offer our Lady and Gentlemen customers for

1920 Regatta

$1.00 (one dollar) per pair off all Ladies' and Gentlemen's Fine Boots & Shoes

Do You Freckle?

During the summer months, and especially while on holidays, we shall probably find that freckles will appear on the face and neck.

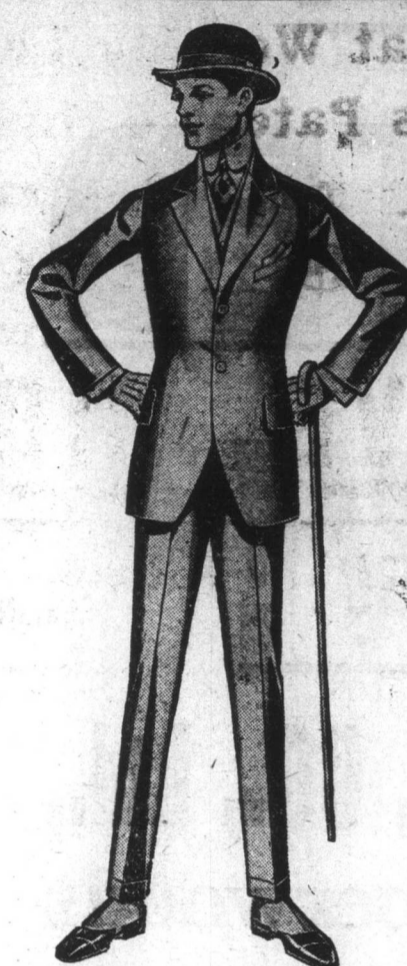

Persons of a fine complexion, and those whose hair is red, are the most subject to freckles. Sometimes freckles are the aftermath of jaundice, but in the sunny weather almost every body is affected by the action of the sun, and it is interesting to trace the origin of freckles.

One authority says that the skin, during the winter and spring, has become strangely sensitive, and the heat of the sunbeams draws out drops of moisture which operate like a convex glass, thus concentrating the rays, which are made to act powerfully on the skin. The heat of the sun, thus operating on the drops of moisture, causes the skin to become darker in "spots," which we call freckles.

NOTES OF TRAVEL: The Democratic Candidate.

And Reminiscences of a Pleasant Tour.

I. C. MORRIS.
CHAPTER XXXVI.
LUGGAGE AND FINANCE.

Travellers and tourists like all other classes of people, fall into mistakes, and cause themselves a lot of unnecessary expense. Perhaps in no other phase is this so noticeable as in the matter of luggage. The novice going abroad is not aware of all the shifting and checking which are attached to luggage; not of the inconvenience which an extra parcel or an extra parcel sometimes entails. Because of this not a few handicap themselves, by bringing with them many articles of wearing apparel which are never used, and which from first to last are only in one's way. But unfortunately this is not known until too late, and it gradually dawns upon the novice that much of the contents of his trunk is nothing more than useless dead-weight; and when the situation is further considered it is discovered that even the trunk itself is hardly necessary, and that beyond a spare suit, and an overcoat or rain coat, very little else is required.

Our tour lasted six months, and in numbers our party varied from four to six persons; and from the experience of the lot we learned how to make a holiday, and what to do, and what not to do, and what to expect, and what not to expect. This was all worth learning, and we write this for the benefit of those, who like ourselves, have not had much experience in travelling in strange lands. Of course in starting on such a tour, one naturally thinks of a lot of items that may be necessary, and therefore packs these little commodities in his trunk or places in the baggage. This reminds me of a medium sized valise, with a fair sized satchel, and bag, are quite large enough for the use and comfort, and for the necessities of a holiday tour. At every turn the traveller can purchase whatever is required; so that the finance is the essential factor, and not the packages of luggage. Ten thousand shops exhibit ten thousand articles of clothing, and as most of the travelling is done under cover, the necessity of storm proof apparel is not very great, and then the weather is so fine that only for winter season should pleasure seekers encumber themselves with heavy luggage. This is how we found it, and having begun in August, and travelled until March we had ample opportunity to study the situation.

In the matter of finance there is much to be learned in travelling; and there are different mediums of exchange, and one requires to look ahead when exchange is high—as at present. For our part, we procured a letter of credit here at home from the bank of Nova Scotia, and we found it entirely safe, and satisfactory; and whatever city we presented our letter, it was readily honoured, and the courtesy of the staff was of itself pleasure, and uplift. At one large American city we asked the banker for exchange was so high, and why Canadian paper was at such a discount. His reply was, to us at least a strange one, but he evidently meant what he said. He replied as follows: "Canada's debt to the U.S.A. is growing so large that we are getting afraid she will never be able to pay us." This was new to us; but as we continued our tour and noted the fluctuation of our English currency, and now notice that American exchange is still high, we are beginning to think that there was "more truth than poetry" in the banker's statement.

At Boston our letter of credit expired. We therefore asked the manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia of that city if he could advance us some money on our own word, or without wiring home. We were entire strangers to him, not having even seen him before. He was very business like, and asked us if he could ring up any firm in Boston who knew us, and he suggested the Robinson Export Company. We agreed that he make any enquiry he wished about our financial standing. He then went to the phone and rang up the firm, and whatever reply they gave the manager, he turned around with beaming face, and it seemed that we could have had Bank and all if we wished. We take this opportunity of thanking the Robinson Export Company for their good word in our favour.

Mobbed U. S. Consulate.

Dublin, July 21.—(United News).—Laborites backed up a demand for the release of James Larkin, imprisoned in the state of New York under the criminal anarchy law, by a noisy demonstration to-day at the American consulate. The consulate is now under heavy guard.

While the demonstration did not approach violence, for a time an ugly situation threatened to develop. The men were armed with revolvers and in a determined mood. There were thousands in the mob.

The demonstration started at the markets, where workmen with revolvers in their hands persuaded hundreds of men to drop their work and form a procession. From this place they proceeded to the docks, where hundreds more willingly forgot their work and joined the demonstrators.

Thence they marched to the consulate where they boomed and hissed to no effect, for some time.

The authorities at once took steps to guard the building from violence.

Just arrived for Stafford's, two thousand bottles of Brick's Tasteless Cod Liver Oil. Price $1.20 bottle. Postage 20c. extra July 19, 1920.

The pending presidential election in the United States might be called the Ohio campaign, because the candidates of the two great parties are natives of that State; they reside there and both carry on the business of publishing Ohio newspapers. Both also have long been prominent in the public life of the State. Mr. Harding, the Republican candidate, represents Ohio in the Federal Senate, and the Democratic candidate, the Hon. James M. Cox, is Governor of the State.

Governor Cox was born at Jacksonburg, Ohio, on March 31, 1870, the son of a farmer of moderate means. He grew up as do most boys in farm homes, attending the public school and helping with the farm work. From the public school he passed to the high school, where his academic training seems to have been completed. He learned the printing trade, taught school for a time, and then worked on the local staff of a newspaper in Cincinnati.

Fortune evidently favored him, for at the age of twenty-eight he was able to purchase a daily newspaper in Dayton, Ohio, and five years later to purchase another in an adjacent county. Out of these grew what is known as the News League of Ohio. His publications have been successful, not only in a financial sense, but as influential exponents of public opinion, always, of course, on the side of the Democratic party.

The publisher became a leader in State politics and in 1909 and again in 1913, the Democrats elected him to Congress. Two terms gave him a wide experience in the federal field which will be exceedingly useful now, when he has to appeal to the whole country as a candidate for the presidency. Then came the governorship of Ohio, to which he was elected by large majorities. Governor Cox's present term will expire in January next.

Ohio has twenty-four votes in the Electoral College that elects the President. Mr. Wilson received them in the last election, and with Governor Cox as their candidate, the Democrats expect once more to carry the State.

Wise Men Say—

That if you would earn more you must learn more.

That to go far, it will help to start early each morning.

That some men never recognize an opportunity unless it is labelled.

That wise men are usually like sponges: they seek to absorb all they can.

That poverty is no disgrace, but there is precious little else that can be said for it.

That the man who quarrels with his bread and butter is likely to dine on scraps.

That trying to do business without advertising is like a man winking at a girl in the dark.

That yesterday is dead—forget it; to-morrow does not exist—don't worry; to-day is here—use it!

That in the assurance of strength there is strength, and they are the weakest, however strong, who have no faith in themselves or their powers.

That not one really great man has achieved greatness except by coming over the path of thorns, hardships, disappointments, and heartaches.

That most of our failures are due to neglect of simple principles. We persist in the desire to get something for nothing, to make progress without paying in effort.

be far short, though may be we bet on the wrong horse. All sorts of threatened "coups" are spoken of, and almost any sort of an eventuality may be looked for; some folks even going so far as to say that the Governor has purposely got out of the way to allow the warring factions to fight out their little intrigues.

No political development would surprise us at present, and almost anything may happen.

A NUISANCE.
Never—and that is saying a good deal—was the telegraph service as bad as it has been lately.

Three days to get a message from St. Anthony; two from Lewisporte, and as many from Exploits seem to be quite unusual, while in one case a message sent from Lewisporte has not arrived here yet—though that was a month ago.

If the Government of Newfoundland proposes to accept payment for telegrams, it should transmit them with at least a reasonable amount of speed, or else get out of business and pay some one else to handle the service.

The Conception Bay towns get an excellent and speedy service from the Anglo-American people; so good that the Government gets precious little of the business between Anglo Stations. If therefore a private company can give a good service, why not the Government? As matters stand at present the telegraph service is a blankly blank nuisance, and a sinking fund for a Colony's finances.

ROTTEN BAY SERVICE.
Just as we expected it seems that we have to go back to the one trip a week of the Bay Boats between Lewisporte and Port Union.

The Carmen, a steam yacht, which was hired by the Government from a New York concern at $60 a day, has proved entirely unsatisfactory on Bonavista Bay, and the last year's route will be resumed "temporarily," so a correspondent states, with Clyde and Watchful.

Whether it will be temporary or for the balance of the season we must wait to discover—we rather suspect the latter.

C. L. B. Cadets.

The Annual C.L.B. Camp at Topsall started on July 28th, when Lieut. Col. R. F. Goodridge and Lieut. R. G. Ash marched over the road with 70 lads. The marching time was well under four hours and the weather though warm was ideal as there was very little dust.

The Mesdames Davey at "Corona" assisted by several ladies, gave the lads the usual splendid meal which was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by all.

On arrival at Camp the parade was received by Major A. Raley, M.C., Camp Commandant, who with the pioneers and cooks who had been in two days, under Lieutenants F. Reid and W. R. Mottly and some lads who had arrived by rail and car and a squad from Wabana gave all a hearty welcome.

The following appointments were made:—Rev. A. Pitman, Camp Chaplain; Lieut. R. G. Ash, President Mess Committee and Acting Adjutant; Lieut. N. Henry, O.C. A. Co.; Lieut. F. Reid, O.C. B. Co.; Lieut. W. Reeves, Medical Officer; and last but not least Lieut. W. R. Mottly, quartermaster, who with Cook Sergeant F. Roberts and Cook Corporal H. Butler have done yeoman service and seen that all get good meals. Thursday, July 29th, was devoted to cleaning and generally putting everything in order and at the close of the day the Camp was much commented on and looked as if it had been occupied for a considerable time instead for one day.

The weather has been ideal and the bathing parade at noon each day is taken advantage of by large numbers, the beach and the beautiful waters of Conception Bay looking at their best. The strength is now over 100 and squads from St. John's, Bay Roberts and Heart's Content will join on Saturday. Sunday will be a big day. There will be a parade at 8 a.m., for Holy Communion at the Village Church, the Band will arrive early and a battalion parade to Divine Service will take place at 11 a.m. At 3 p.m. a Drum Head Service will be held in Camp at which the address will be given by Rev. Canon L. L. Jeeves of the Cathedral. The officers and lads are looking and feeling fit already and are hoping for a continuance of this glorious weather. A large number of friends and supporters are expected to visit the Camp on Sunday. No invitations will be issued but all will be welcomed.—R. DON.

As the North Sees It.

(Twillingate Sun.)

THE WOODFORD ENQUIRY.

It looks very much as if the "Woodford Affidavit" enquiry is going to develop into a mere farce. Even with every desire to be fair and to give Messrs. Gibbs and Squires the benefit of allowing them innocent until proved guilty, certain facts intrude that somehow affect the opinion of the man who watches.

1st. The Commission was appointed only after considerable pressure.

2nd. One of the Commissioners is absent during the hearing of the case.

3rd. Messrs. Squires and Gibbs, although notified to attend, took no notice of the Commission's sittings until the third session, when they were formally summoned, and even then did not appear, but sent letters of "explanation" for their absence, which the Commission accepted.

4th. Although it was first understood that lawyers were to be present and Mr. Woodford was invited to be represented by counsel, the Commission now notifies that no cross questioning will be permitted by lawyers for either side.

As Messrs Gibbs and Squires are both foremost lawyers, and Mr. Woodford unversed in the law, this seems not quite even.

Lately, Mr. Woodford has already made a statement that is quite frank at any rate, and is rather an eye opener to the great public as to the little tricks which politicians play behind the public's back.

It bears out exactly what this paper claimed some time ago, namely that in looking for Mr. Woodford's resignation Mr. Squires was trying to find a Roman Catholic constituency in which to run a bye-election for Dr. Campbell, who was defeated in the West End.

Perhaps the stories of Messrs. Gibbs and Squires may throw a different light on the matter, but the ordinary man cannot help wondering why they have to be coaxed so to tell their story, unless it be that they have nothing to deny.

Surely if the whole matter were a mere "yarn" both of them would have quickly produced their denial.

They owed that much to their professional reputation if to nothing else.

POLITICAL RUMOURS.

Rumors political are current, without number, but ever since the general election last fall there have been so many stories of flutters in the Squires devotee that one is tempted to accept these recurring rumors cum grano salis—which being interpreted means "with a hogshead of Liverpool salt."

However, one thing seems reasonably certain that Premier Squires is losing considerable ground, and our prediction of last week will probably not

Opening of the Present London Bridge.

opening of the present London bridge
On August 1, 1881, the anniversary of the House of Hanover, King William IV. and Queen Adelaide went by water from Somerset House, with their retinues, in their State barges, to witness the opening of the new London Bridge. The Lord Mayor and Corporation made extraordinary efforts for their entertainment, among which was the ascent in his balloon by the “intrepid aeronaut,” Mr. Green. The king ascended the long flight of steps from the water without any appearance of fatigue, and received an enthusiastic meeting from the countless multitude that witnessed the scene. The keys of the City having been presented by the Lord Mayor, and graciously returned, the Royal party proceeded to a pavilion that had been erected for their accommodation, where, after having inspected the bridge, they returned and partook of a splendid banquet provided by the Corporation. Many members of the Royal family were present, including the Duchesses of Gloucester, Cambridge, and Cumberland, the Duke of Sussex, Prince George of Cumberland, and Prince George of Cambridge. The Lord Mayor was permitted to propose the King's health, and Sir Clandius Hunter that of the Queen, His Majesty then, out of a gold cup, drank to the trade and commerce of the City of London, after which the loving cup went round among the members of the Royal family. Finally, the King proposed the health of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, after which the Royal party returned to their barges to Somerset House, followed by the State barges of the Lord Mayor and the City Companies, gorgeously decorated, while the multitudes along the banks hailed the spectacle with acclamation. The King enjoyed the demonstrations exceedingly, and as a proof of his satisfaction the Lord Mayor—Key—was the next day created a baronet.

Unsolved Mystery.

Body of Woman Found in Trunk.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The mystery surrounding the death of the unidentified young woman whose mutilated body was found recently in a trunk at the American Railway Express Company warehouse here, has been shifted to Detroit authorities for solution. Captain Arthur Carey, head of the New York Homicide Bureau, announced to-day:

Removal of every vital organ save the brain from the body makes it virtually impossible to determine the cause of death. Medical Examiner Schwartz announced:

“The cutting was perhaps the work of a butcher,” he said, “or some one slightly acquainted with surgery.”

“A large bladed knife similar to the type used by physicians in performing an autopsy and a saw were used. The cutting was done by a pathological student.”

Dr. Schwartz expressed the opinion that the solution of the mystery must come from Detroit.

The police theory is that the mutilation was the work of a maniac possessing a crude knowledge of medicine, but none of surgery.

“Whoever did the job,” said Chief Medical Examiner Norris, “knew enough to remove all organs which would give evidence of a crime or method of death.”

“I am almost certain that a criminal operation was performed,” he added: “that can be determined by finding traces of chloroform in the brain.”

Why He Was Cross.

“Twas in Glasgow that a woman was travelling in a tramcar with a baby who would persist in crying as though his little heart would break.

“Hush, liddle!” the mother would keep on murmuring gently, only with difficulty restraining her irritation at the audible and unflattering comments of the other passengers anent her offspring.

Soon the car reached George's Cross, and the conductor called out loudly the name of the place: “George's Cross! George's Cross!”

Then the mother's anger bubbled over, and she sprang up excitedly.

“Of course, George's Cross!” she cried, with flashing eyes. “And so would you be if you were cutting your back teeth!”

Tried to Smuggle Gems.

Sailor Had $50,000 Worth When Captured.

New York, July 24.—Unset diamonds said to be worth $50,000 were seized by Custom Officers here yesterday when a sailor of the steamship Stockholm attempted to smuggle them ashore. He had secreted the jewels in his clothing.

The sailor said that he did not know personally who had given him the diamonds. They had been delivered to him before sailing for the United States, he asserted, by unidentified persons and he did not know to whom they were to be delivered. Because of his unsatisfactory explanation, he was taken into custody by the Custom Officers.

Britain Refuses Money Grants.

London, July 22.—(By Percy Sarril Press.)—The British government to-day fired the first shot in the battle between itself and those rebel county councils of Ireland, which, backed by a tremendous majority, refused to deal with the British authorities to which they are subordinate.

The situation which has arisen was forecast by the United Press more than a month ago. Sinn Fein had not attempted to conceal its purpose in backing the election of its own men to the county councils. Once in these local legislative bodies, what could be simpler than to refuse to levy the usual taxes, refuse to make assessments, hold up all financial bills, and otherwise wreck the entire fiscal system of the counties controlled by the rebels? That is what has happened.

The British government on the other hand, has one weapon at its command. It can refuse to make money grants to any county in which Sinn Fein controls the government. And the announcement that this is just what the Britishers propose to do was made in definite form for the first time to-day.

“Those county councils,” is what Sinn Fein in the House of Commons, “which continue to defy or ignore the British Government, will be refused any money grants whatsoever.”

In making this announcement, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Secretary for Ireland, revealed the fact that Great Britain had decided to sever financial relations with nearly three-fourths of Ireland, unless a change of attitude is an once apparent in the recalcitrant councils.

Dublin was practically isolated as far as railway traffic was concerned to-day, through the action of the military authorities, who placed several soldiers on every train scheduled to leave the Kingsbridge terminus.

According to their custom, the railwaymen promptly refused to move the trains, while the military were aboard, whereupon the progress of the coaches was halted.

B-H PAINT

This really superior paint gives a brilliant finish that will not fade for a long time to come. Whether in white, or in colors, it will give protection, and will continue to look “fresh” for a long period. This result is obtained by the use of finest ingredients in just-right proportions. The white base for it is that superb pigment known for two centuries as Brandram's Gemine E.B. White Lead. By using this, and other ingredients of similar high quality, there is maintained in B-H “English” Paint a standard of paint quality that other brands have to envy. First Imperial Press Conference.

(By Sir Harry Brittain, K.B.E., M.P., in Mayfair.)

"It is doubtful whether any gathering within the Empire, official or unofficial, has ever been more conducive to good understanding and to sound, practical results." This was the verdict of a Government Blue Book (an austere organ which seldom enthuses upon unofficial events), after the completion of the First Imperial Press Conference in 1909.

The idea of convening a congress of the editors in chief of the great newspapers of the Empire occurred to me during a visit to Canada in the year 1907, at the back of my mind being the conviction that such a gathering would be the means of dispelling many a misunderstanding between our scattered nations, and be the most effective method to bring home to millions of scattered Britshers what were the Empire's potentialities, needs and dangers. I confided my scheme to my old friend Earl Grey (then Governor General), who proved to be an enthusiastic supporter. Immediately upon my return to London, I discussed the idea with the leaders of the British Press, and it was decided to go ahead.

A Labor of Love.

But the idea was a new one; unexpected difficulties cropped up and two years hard labor was before me. The task, however, was an invigorating one and entirely a labor of love, and I shall never forget the kindness and ever ready help of my good friends of the British Press and particularly of those who throughout the months of preparation spared neither time nor effort in ensuring success; the powerful aid of such men as Lord Burnham, Lorth Northcliffe, Sir Arthur Pearson, Robert Donald, Kennedy Jones and H. A. Gwynne (to mention but a few), was a full insurance that our objects would be achieved. The invitations were in due course despatched, the editors from the Dominion, Crown Colonies and India being bidden as our guests from the time they left their homes until the date of their return.

In this short article it is impossible to deal even in outline with all the events crowded into those eight memorable weeks. The first welcome afforded our guests was at the hands of 700 journalists of the old land, at which Lord Rosebery made what was perhaps the most remarkable of all his splendid efforts of oratory. In the great room of the Foreign Office our visitors were enabled to meet practically every leading British statesman for the purpose of discussing one momentous topic after another.

Received by Royalty.

Their Majesties the King and Queen (then Prince and Princess of Wales), invited the delegates to a garden party at Marlborough House, where each member learnt at first hand how intimate was the knowledge of the Empire possessed by his Royal host. One little incident at that delightful gathering I shall not forget. After the presentation the delegates and their wives—to the number of about 100—naturally merged into the general gathering. A few minutes later I was sent for by His Royal Highness, who informed me that a message had just arrived from Buckingham Palace to say that King Edward, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, was on his way to Marlborough House and had graciously expressed a wish to have the delegates presented to him individually! As there were at least 500 people present, the garden large, the tents numerous and the ozone, which instantly reaches the weather warm, my task was not an easy one, particularly as I had only seen the majority of our visitors for the first time on the previous day. But the command was fulfilled, and the visitors duly marshalled with about fifteen seconds to spare, and I need not emphasize the pleasure which this unexpected audience gave our guests; likewise shall I always treasure a very kindly message which I received afterwards from King George upon the successful results of my short but strenuous search.

Reviewed by Civilians.

Outstanding features of the visit were the review of the Fleet at Spithead and of the Army—that wonderful "contemptible Little Army"—at Aldershot. It was, I believe, the first time in history upon which the sea and land forces of any great Power has ever been reviewed by civilians—but how fruitful in results was the effect of those reviews following the Conferences upon Imperial Defence.

Much happened in the fatal years between 1909 and 1914, and many a letter received from the Dominions after the outbreak of war has been to me an ample recompense for the two years devoted to the organization of the first gathering of these missionaries of Empire.

Some Results.

The results of the first Imperial Press Conference were twofold—direct and indirect. Of the former one immediate result was the reduction of Press cable rates to practically every part of the Empire; what this has meant from the point of view of a clearer understanding and a closer co-operation within the Empire it is unnecessary to emphasize. Another direct result was the formation of a permanent body to carry on the work begun at the Conference. This body is the Empire Press Union; under the Presidency of one of the most able, experienced and popular newspaper men of our day, Lord Burnham, the activities of the Union have proved of the greatest benefit to the Empire's Press.

Perhaps the indirect results of the Conference, though harder to tabulate, were by far the most important. We brought to the Homeland men whose life's work was to mould public opinion in every section of the Empire. We did our best to show these men something of Great Britain as she really is, from the inside. They reviewed her power and might, they saw her peaceful countryside, and we did not hide from them the poverty and squalor to be found in her great cities. They met our leading statesmen from whom they learnt of the difficulties we have to contend against as the pivot of the Empire. Their meetings with our leading newspapermen were of enormous benefit to both, and led to innumerable and lasting friendships which have done much to bind together the Empire's Press. They voiced the sentiments of empire unity and equality as speaking for the great mass of the people in a manner in which they had never been voiced before, and lastly, on their return to their distant homes they carried back this first-hand knowledge and wider understanding which they have been able to set forth for the benefit of their millions of readers in many tongues throughout the Seven Seas.

Landmarks in History.

As Lord Milner, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, remarked only a few days ago, these conferences are likely to be landmarks in history; at this first gathering "great Imperial questions were thoroughly discussed, and a community of ideas established, to which he attributed in a great degree the marvellous way in which the Empire pulled together when the hour of trial came." And now we look forward to the Second Press Conference, which is to be held in Canada during the present year. Canada, the land of hospitality, a land where the art of organization has been perfected, in preparing a magnificent welcome for a veritable Parliament of the Press. My colleagues upon the Empire Press Union, of which I sincerely appreciate the privilege of being an Honorary Member—did me the honor of asking me to act as Chairman of the Imperial Press Conference Sub-committee, for at the wish of our hosts the Central Branch of the Empire Press Union is dealing with invitations and general arrangements for the Homeland and the rest of the Empire.

Civic Commission.

The Weekly meeting of the Municipal Commission was held on Thursday, July 29th. The Chairman and all the Commissioners were present.

A letter was read from the Colonial Secretary intimating that the Executive Government would take up the question of free entry for all the materials for house-building.

In connection with the housing scheme, the Commission will meet Saturday to decide whether they shall continue building or not.

A letter was read from the president of the Gas Company, with a statement of the Company's affairs which was being presented to the Government by the Company. They asked the Commission's co-operation and relief. The Commission's last decision on the matter of assisting the Company in halving the Coal Duties will be sent to the Government, the payment then to take the form of a payment for the franchise.

The Motor Association, through their Secretary, Mr. Outerbridge, drew attention to the condition of the railroad track on the Road leading from Water Street to the South Side, and Street railway tracks leading from Water Street to the car barns. Ordered he be informed, the Board has been continually bringing this matter to the notice of the Reid Co. The Company are called upon to keep the tracks level with the road and in spite of the Commission's representations nothing has been done.

W. A. McKay wrote on behalf of the merchants of Water St. who contributed to a fund for the operation of the electric street sprinkler. He asked permission to obtain sufficient water for this purpose for the season only. Ordered Mr. McKay be informed there is no necessity for this action at present. The city will have a new sprinkler in a few days.

Jas. Murdoch on behalf of W. E. Murdoch, submitted a plan of bungalow for approval, to be erected on Sudbury Street. Provided he pays for pipe extension the plan will be passed.

Decided to instruct the City Engineer to have the proposed street, west of Leslie, developed.

The following plans of houses were approved: Chas. Hammond, Quidi Vidi Road, outhouse; J. Coish, LeMarchant Road, dwelling; Mr. Woodland, Franklin Avenue, grocery store; Robert Avery, Franklin Avenue, dwelling; Jas. Glynn, Franklin Avenue, dwelling, provided water and sewerage be removed; S. K. Bell, garage, Victoria Street. In the case of Mrs. A. Mercer's application she cannot build. Meantime, an estimate of the cost of laying pipes in McKay Street will be secured. Frederick Crocker cannot be permitted to build as requested on South Side. H. S. Ford asked for information as to water and sewerage, Freshwater Road. The Commission cannot do any extension for this locality for the present.

Wm. James applied for water and sewerage under the Small Homes' Act. Referred to the Secretary for enquiry. Same order was made respecting the application of John McLeod.

Geo. Knowling can place a temporary covering over a shed for coal, with the understanding he is to have same removed by June 1st next.

Private J. Ludlow applied for the position as driver on the new motor sprinkler. Ordered he be informed the position is filled.

W. Williams requested permission to install a 1-4 h.p. motor in his shop, 41 Young Street. Referred to the City Engineer. The same order was made respecting the application of Mr. Chambers for a crossing of drains, Leslie Street.

Ordered the offer of John Angel, as read by the City Engineer, to repair steam roller be accepted.

A number of tenders were received for coal for city purposes. As three of the tenders were equal in amount, the quantity will be divided amongst them.

The weekly report of the City Engineer, which embraced repairs Renzie's Bridge, grading several streets, repairs to old "10" main, New Gover Street, and work generally in water and sewer departments, was read.

Weekly reports of the Plumbing Inspector and Health Officer were read. The meeting then adjourned.

Canada's New Premier.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

The man whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier described seven years ago as the "brightest mind in the Conservative Party" is now Canada's Prime Minister.

The Hon. Arthur Meighen is the first Westerner and the youngest Premier Canada has had. He is described as a Westerner, for, although he was born in Ontario he went west at an early age, and it is in Manitoba that he built up his career.

The new Premier is only forty-four years of age. Sir John Thompson was forty-eight when he succeeded Sir John Abbott. Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was fifty-one when he became Prime Minister; Sir John Macdonald, fifty-two; Sir Wilfrid Laurier, fifty-five; Sir Robert Borden, seventy; Sir Mackenzie Bowell, seventy; Sir John Abbott, seventy-one and Sir Charles Tupper, seventy-five.

Born on 16th June, at Anderson, Blanshard Township, Perth County, Ont., Arthur Meighen was educated at St. Mary's Collegiate Institute and at Toronto University. He graduated in 1896 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts winning honors in mathematics. For two years he taught school at Caledonia, Ont., and then went to Winnipeg where he used the teaching profession as a stepping stone to law.

In 1903 he was called to the Manitoba Bar and began the practice of his profession in Portage la Prairie. He soon won success as a criminal lawyer, showing evidences of possessing a remarkable clearness of mind, and was created a Bencher of the Manitoba Law Society in 1908, becoming a member of the Upper Canada Law Society in 1914.

Returned as a Conservative for Portage la Prairie in 1908 Arthur Meighen's rise in Parliament was very rapid. It is said that after hearing the new member's first speech Sir Wilfrid Laurier remarked, "Borden has found a man."

Nine years after he had been first elected to Parliament Arthur Meighen had held five important offices. He was appointed Solicitor-General of Canada on June 26, 1913. He was sworn as a member of the King's Privy Council for Canada on September 30, 1915. He became Secretary of State for Canada and Minister of Mines on August 23, 1917, and was sworn in as Minister of the Interior and Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs on October 2, 1917, on the formation of the Union Government. He was again elected for Portage la Prairie at the general election of December 17, 1917.

Mr. Meighen was one of the Cabinet Ministers who accompanied the Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden to England to attend the last Imperial Conference.

In debate the new Premier proved himself particularly strong in attack, with a biting sarcasm. His mental processes appear to be extremely rapid but very logical, which is only natural when it is borne in mind that he was particularly brilliant at mathematics when at College.

Fifteen years ago Arthur Meighen married Miss Jessie Isabel Cox of Birtle, Man., daughter of the late Charles Cox of Granby, Quebec. Miss Cox was a teacher in the public school at Portage la Prairie when she met the Premier who was a Collegiate teacher.

Their eldest boy is farming in Manitoba, while the other boy and girl are attending school in Ottawa. Mrs. Meighen has been described as being devoted to her husband, her home and her children, and as little caring for those semi-public activities in which wives of public men indulge in Ottawa.

Quebec's New Premier.

The Hon. Louis Alexander Taschereau, the new Premier of Quebec, and the Dominion of Canada, are of like age, for both began life in 1867—fifty-three years ago.

Both on the paternal and the maternal side Mr. Taschereau belongs to distinguished lines. To the bar and the bench, to the church and to public life the Taschereau family has given several eminent men. The new Premier's father was the Hon. Mr. Justice Taschereau, and his mother was Josephine Caron, daughter of the late Hon. R. E. Caron, for a number of years a Justice of the Superior Court of Quebec, and later Lieutenant-Governor of the Province.

Laval University is Mr. Taschereau's alma mater, and law is his profession. He began practice as a junior in the firm headed by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, the present Lieutenant-Governor. The former junior partner is now his former leader's chief constitutional adviser.

Mr. Taschereau entered public life in 1900, when he was elected to the Assembly where his ability and gift of speech soon brought him to the front. Seven years after entering the House he was invited by Sir Lomar Gault to join the ministry and so he became Minister of Public Works and Labor, retaining the portfolio until a short time ago when he relieved the Premier of the portfolio of Attorney-General. He also served the city of Quebec as alderman, and was also Batonnier of the Bar of the District of Quebec. In 1901 Mr. Taschereau married a daughter of the Hon. Elisee Dionne, member of the Legislative Council. Their family consists of three sons and two daughters.

Mr. Taschereau has entered upon the Premiership under most favorable conditions. In both branches of the Legislature his government has the support of the majority of the members; the finances of the Province are in a sound condition, and prosperity prevails in every walk of life.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARBET IN COWS.

To-day's Messages.

LABOR'S ASSURANCE.
ST. JOHN, N.B., July 30. The status of Overseas Dominions and Great Britain will suffer no change with the increasing power of labor party in England, S. T. E. Naylor informed the Imperial Press Conference delegates and their hosts at a civic luncheon in St. John to-day. Naylor is the representative in the conference of the printing trades of Great Britain, and is chairman of the London Labor Party.

WILSON AND THE MINERS.
WASHINGTON, July 30. President Wilson, through the United Mine Workers of America, tonight appealed to striking mine laborers in Illinois and Indiana to return to work. Inequalities in the existing wage scale, held by strike leaders to be the cause of the walk out, which has closed most of the bituminous mines in two States, may exist, Wilson said. He added that he would not recommend the correction of any inequalities until strikers returned to their jobs, but that when they did so he would invite a joint scale committee of operators and miners to meet for the purpose of adjusting any such inequalities.

CLERICAL ERROR ONLY.
HALIFAX, July 30. Dr. Macaulay, Chairman of the Health Board, to-day characterized as "a most unfortunate occurrence, due to a clerical error," the insertion of an advertisement in the public press containing a statement that mild cases of cholera had developed in this city. He said that in an advertisement appearing to-night, the word diarrhoea would be substituted for the word cholera.

COUNTY OFFICIAL MURDERED.
DUBLIN, July 30. Frank Brooke, Deputy Lieutenant for County Wicklow, Leinster, was shot dead at West Landrow Station in Dublin this morning, just after alighting from a train. His assailant escaped.

ORANGE HALL ATTACKED.
BELFAST, July 31. Sinn Feiners stormed the Lyculter Orange Hall near Strangford, County Down, yesterday, smashing windows and doors and damaging property inside.

VICE-ROYALTY AT SYDNEY.
SYDNEY, July 31. The Duke of Devonshire and other members of the Vice-Regal party arrived here late last night. An informal reception will be held in Wentworth Park to-day.

DECLINE IN GRAIN PRICES.
CHICAGO, July 31. For first time since the ending of Federal government control of the wheat market, wheat has been sold in Chicago at less than $2.23 per bushel, a price which last year was guaranteed by Congress. Corn, oats and provisions declined in sympathy with wheat but kept within normal limits.

CANADIAN CHALLENGE MOOTED.
SYDNEY, N.S., July 31. The Yacht Clubs of Nova Scotia will challenge the defender of America's Cup, if the suggestion as laid down by A. C. Ross, former M.P. of Victoria and North Cape Breton, but now of Montreal, is followed out. Mr. Ross would like to see yacht clubs of this province combine and secure a challenger and place their defiance in the hands of the New York Yacht Club.

HISTORIC FORT BURNED.
BELFAST, July 31. Charlemont Fort, erected in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, on the first entry of English soldiers into Tyrone, was burned by armed raiders early this morning. The building, which overlooked the River Blackwater, was long occupied by the Charlemont family, members of which founded the Irish Volunteers at the time of the American War of Independence. It was used latterly by the Government as a military stronghold.

DISARMED MILITARY PICKET.
DUBLIN, July 31. Three soldiers and three Sinn Feiners were wounded Thursday night, when a body of the latter disarmed a detail of military police in the heart of Dublin. The coup was said to have been the most audacious an aspect of the matter of disarming military. Military police are posted at Trinity College and at the Bank of Ireland, opposite the center of Dublin traffic, and within view of the principal Dublin Police Station. In the disorder last night, about ten Sinn Feiners held up a picket at the Bank and completely disarmed them, took away their revolvers, and then mingled unconcernedly in the crowds emerging from the Theatre Royal. During the scuffle three soldiers were wounded by discharged from their comrades rifles, and three of their assailants were slightly wounded.

Profit in Decision!

Successful business executives receive substantial salaries, not for the actual work they do, but because they think and decide quickly, yet accurately, on the problems confronting them. YOUR success to-morrow may result from to-day's decision. Let us suggest the purchase of high-grade securities at present low prices and high yields. A list of sound dividend-paying securities yielding from 7 to 10 per cent. will be gladly furnished upon request.

BOWLING CUP FINALS.

The finals for the Sir Edgar Bowring Cup, presented for annual competition at the Church of England Openings Garden Party, have been drawn, with the result that the Cubs and Red Lions will go over the top on Tuesday night.

The Rev. E. Fletcher, who has charge of the Sports Programme for the occasion, has arranged for the football sides to be played on the same evening, so an exciting evening for all the fans is promised.

Harvey Thomas wouldn't be happier if he won the Cadet Derby, for he has drawn the bye again—which means that he will blossom forth resplendent at the Garden Party to try conclusions with the winners of the Cubs-Lion game.

I'm fond of La Bohème and Rigoletto, And always take Fred Cheesman's advice, When he says "Come hear Caruso in 'Aida' why I do so And I think his Edison machines real nice, I enjoy the art of Destinn and Amato; But, to me, the sweetest music of them all Is the music of the batter as he stands athwart the platter When he cracks a screaming triple off Claude Hall.

As an example of what interest the juniors are taking in the game, the following incident will illustrate. It appears that in the Mount Cashel preliminaries last week the umpire called the 5th inning exhibition game in the fourth owing to darkness, leaving victory rest on the shoulders of the St. Pat's. Loud in their protests were the St. Bon's, who claimed that anything under five innings did not constitute a played game in baseball under Rule 27. As opinions of local experts were conflicting and without any degree of certainty, Rev. Bro. O'Haire—the coach—in order to have a positive ruling on the matter, got in touch by wire with President John B. Heydler of the National League, who replied that Rule 27 did not apply to set 5 inning games. The game therefore stands in the records as played. As a matter of information this ruling is most interesting.

The film is quicker than the eye. It takes a picture on the fly. And so, no matter how you try, You cannot prove an alibi.

The Babe Ruth of the League—Daniel F. Kiely—resenting the treatment which he claims was accorded him by Hillz, has handed in his uniform and refuses to assist the Lions further in their pennant winning stride. We do not know what the inside dope on the fuss is, but it means that Kiely will be out of the game for this season at least as under the rules, having played one game with a club, he cannot go to any other.

While on this subject, the hardest case of any player is that of Dusty Sinnott, who had the honour of playing just two innings for the Wanderers in their first game. Since then, they have given him the go-by and refuse to play him. His position is (so he tells us), that a couple of the other teams are most anxious to acquire his services as slab artist, but he is unable to sign up even if released by Manager Smith, owing to the League rule described above.

There is nothing that can be done in the case. Even. You took the big chance with foxy Grandpa, and doubtless you are familiar with the poker rule that no one can pull anything out of the discards.

THE B.L.S. BOLD.

When McGrath led them to the fight In those brave days of old; The Irish were a fearsome crew, Ferocious, stern, and bold.

But since he's quit the Corsair life And laid his war-club by; Their rivals shorten up their name And call the Irish "pie."

"A Fan" asks us to settle a bet on the following play:—A is on third base. There are three balls on the batsman. A starts for home as the pitcher winds up. The catcher, expecting A coming home, steps in front of the batter, receives the ball, and tags A. The ball was thrown wide of the plate and, but for the action of the catcher would have been the fourth ball. Is A out, and should the batter be awarded first base because of four balls? (We haven't time to dope it out this morning, but will get Harry's Coco-Cola League working on it tonight and will endeavour to give the solution on Monday. Ed. D.D.)

A fair fanette sat On a ballplayer's knees, He had made a nice hit And was working the squeeze. He was on to her curves And was winning the dame When old Umpire Dad Threw him out of the game.

It sweetens your mouth because it destroys all mouth acids. Pebezo Tooth Paste at all Druggists.—Jas. Sed. 11
