

THE Phantom Lover.

(By the Author of "A Bachelor Husband.")

CHAPTER XXI.

June threw her cigarette into the fire. "I did. I'll be honest—I did guess," she broke off. "Here's Esther," she added. She got up and opened the door. "The lady with the fur coat," she announced drily. "Pray come in, madame!" "June, said Esther protestingly. She seemed to guess who was there. She looked past her friend at once to Micky. She coloured faintly as he rose to greet her. He had not seen her in the fur coat before. The dark fur suited her, fairness admirably; the heavy folds hung gracefully about her slim figure; her face rose like a flower from the big, upstanding collar. "And where have you been all the afternoon?" June demanded. "We waited tea for you till nearly five." Esther made a little grimace. "I've had my tea out—with Mr. Harley." "Harley?" said Micky sharply. June laughed. "He's one of the tribe who live here," she explained. "He's a great admirer of Esther's. And he's quite a nice boy too, isn't he?" she appealed to her friend. "Very nice," Esther agreed. "I met him quite by chance, and so we went and had some tea." Micky was frowning; it was odd that he felt more jealous of this man whom he had never seen than he had ever done of Ashton. He hated to feel that Esther had gone out with him wearing her new coat. He stood by silently while the two girls chattered together; he felt very much out of it and unwanted. "I'm glad everybody likes my coat," Esther said. She had taken it off and was holding it at arm's length, admiring its beauty. "It was a lovely present, wasn't it?" she appealed to Micky. "Yes," he said. "She laid her cheek to the big, soft collar. "It's something I have wanted all my life," she told him. "Micky put out his hand and took it from her. He hated to see her standing there looking so happy, because she believed it had come from Ashton; he threw it down on the couch.

"I shall have to be going," he said abruptly. He shook hands with June, but he walked out of the room without speaking to Esther. "I don't want any dinner," he told Driver when he got in. "I'm going to bed." Driver opened his mouth to say something and closed it again; he brought the evening papers and his master's slippers and turned to leave the room. At the door he stopped and looked back. "Have you seen the evening paper, sir?" he asked deprecatingly. "No," said Micky. Something in the man's voice arrested his attention; he turned in his chair. "Why?" he asked curiously. Driver came back a step. "There's a notice of Mr. Ashton's marriage in it, that's all, sir," he said woodenly. "I thought that you'd be interested."

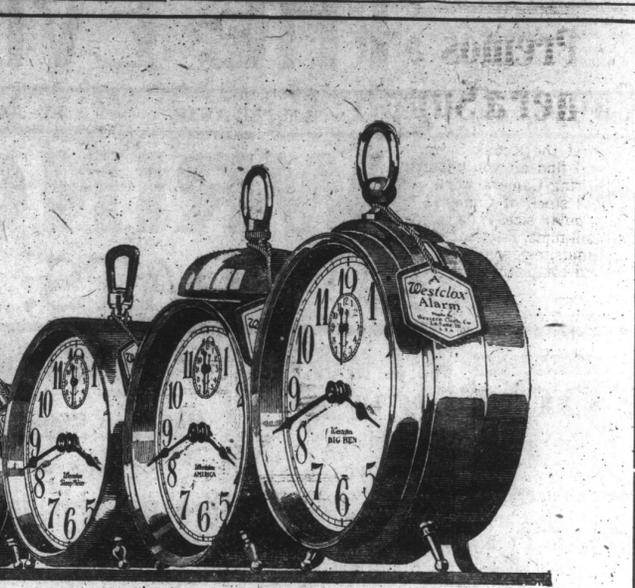

CHAPTER XXII.

So it had come at last. Micky sat staring down at the small paragraph which briefly announced the marriage of Tubby Clare's wealthy widow to Mr. Raymond Ashton. The ceremony, so the paper declared, which had taken place quietly in Paris, would be a complete surprise to everybody. Mrs. Clare, as all the world knew, inherited something like £30,000 under the will of her late husband. Micky whistled softly. Raymond had done well for himself. He would be able to live in luxury for the rest of his life; to discharge all his debts; if his wife chose to allow him to do so; all but one debt—the greatest of them all, and one which he could never hope to liquidate—a woman's broken heart. Esther—what would she say if she knew? And supposing she knew now? It was quite likely that a copy of this same paper had fallen into her hands. The thought turned Micky cold; he looked up hurriedly at the clock—not yet eight! On what pretext could he go back to Elphinstone Road? He threw the paper down and rose to his feet. His gloves! He would make them the excuse—he could go back for his gloves. He taxied down the whole way; he sent his name up to June and waited in the hall. After a moment she came flying down the stairs. "Micky! Is anything the matter? What in the world?" He explained in stammering haste. "Have you seen the evening paper?" No, well, take care not to let Miss Shepstone see it. I had to come back and tell you, Ashton—the damned outsider. "He ground his teeth. "Not dead!" said June with a gasp.

"No—he was married yesterday in Paris." June sat down on the bottom stair; she felt as if all the strength had gone out of her. "It can't be true," she said at last. "Why, she had a letter from him only yesterday. Are you sure? It must be another Ashton." "It isn't—I knew it was coming. He's married Tubby Clare's widow—for her money, of course. If Esther knows..." "It will break her heart," said June. There were footsteps on the landing above. Micky glanced up hurriedly. "Can't we go somewhere and talk? Everybody will hear if we stay here. Where is Miss Shepstone?" "She's in my room; she's writing to him at this minute." She broke off, drawing in her breath hard. "Oh, Micky, are you quite, quite sure? I don't believe it." She started at him for a moment, then she laughed incredulously. "Why, it's only three days ago he sent her that fur coat—and the collar for Charlie. Oh, I'm sure it's a mistake!" "It's not a mistake," said Micky fiercely; he looked away from her. "Confound it, isn't there a room where we can go and talk?" he broke out again. "She got up from the stairs and led the way across the hall. "There's the drawing-room. Nobody uses it now because it's so cold." She opened the door and peeped in. "There's nobody there." Micky followed her, shutting the door behind him. The room was chilly and uninviting, with a lofty ceiling and a hideous wallpaper. There was a gas stove at the far end of the room, turned very low, and hissing softly as if in protest. June knelt down and turned the tap on its fullest extent. "The thing is," Micky said hurriedly, "what are we going to do? If she stays in London, she's bound to hear about it. All the papers will be full of it to-morrow. They'll probably publish his confounded portrait. Can't you get her out of London? We've got to do something."

June did not look at him. The odd little twings of jealousy tore her heart again. Even though she did not love Micky, she quite realized what she was losing. After all it must be a very beautiful thing to be cared for as Micky cared for Esther. "She raised her eyes with a little ghost of a smile. "I'll do anything I can, Micky. If you've got anything to suggest—" "I thought out crowds of plans coming along in the cab, but they're all rotten," Micky admitted dejectedly. "I thought you'd be able to help me. Can't you be called on to a relative in the country or something, and ask Miss Shepstone to go with you?" June started up. "Of course I can. I've got an aunt down at Enmore. She's always asking me to go and see her. I'll send her a wire. It's too late to-night, but in the morning..." Micky felt in his pocket for a pencil. "Give me the address and I'll send it first thing." He paused. "Supposing Miss Shepstone won't go, though?" "Oh, she'll go," said June quickly. "I'll tell her it means business for me. I'll do the pathetic. I wonder what time there's a train." "I'll look up all the trains, and arrange everything. Does Miss Shepstone know I'm here now?" "No." "Very well, tell her one of your business agents called, and that you've got to go off early to-morrow. You can write her a note and post it to-night, asking me to see you off. It's quite a usual thing for you to do, you know." June smiled rather sadly. "Poor old Micky!" she said. Micky frowned. "Don't talk rubbish," he said rather shortly. "I'd do the same for any one." June knew it would be useless to contradict. "If you can keep her out of town for a week, I may all have blown over," he went on. "I'll run down and see you if I may—" "You know you may; but, Micky—don't you think all this is rather mistaken kindness? She'll have to know sooner or later; why not tell her at once? When the letter's stop coming she'll begin to worry, and then—" "Micky shook his head obstinately. "It's my own reasons; be a pal and help me, June." "Very well, old boy." "I think you're making a mistake, but I suppose you know your own business best. At any rate, I've warned you." "You're a dear," said Micky gratefully. June went to the front door with him; in spite of her promise she was not feeling happy. Esther would have to know. She went slowly back up the stairs. "It's a mistake," she told herself again, with a sense of foreboding. "Micky's making a mistake." But she determined to act up to her part. She ran up the last flight of stairs with a great noise and show of excitement. She burst into their sitting-room breathless. "Such news! Esther, are you game for a dash down into the wilds of nowhere? I've got to go off on business. One of my agents has just been. He's made a mess of things, as usual, and I've got to go down and put things right. Oh, it's quite country! I don't know if you like the country. I adore it myself. A place called Enmore. I've got an amiable aunt who lives there, and we'll go and visit ourselves on her. She's always asking me to go and see her, so she'll be delighted. Well, what do you say?" "You haven't given me a chance to say anything," Esther protested laughing. "You're like a whirlwind, sweeping every one off their feet. Where is Enmore to start with? And how can I go?" "Your aunt doesn't know me." "She'll love you because I do," said June promptly. "Now don't spoil everything. The greatest fun of it all is rushing off at a moment's notice. I shall send Micky a note to-night and tell him to look up trains for us and come and see us. Micky's always to be relied on. If I look trains up myself I always go by the wrong ones and never get there." She was sitting down to her desk as she spoke; she looked across at Esther, pen in hand. "Well?" she queried. Esther looked down at Charlie sprawling in the freight. "What's going to become of Charlie?" she asked. "Lydia will look after him," June said promptly. "She adores cats; that's one excuse surmounted. Any more?" Esther laughed. "I should like to come, but—" "Then that's settled. We'll stay a week if we're not bored to death. It's a desolate spot—just a handful of houses and a haystack and a few things like that, but if you like the country we ought to have a good time. I wish I'd got a car—" "Isn't it rather a funny place to go to for business?" Esther asked innocently. "Not in the least," June declared. "All the ingredients for my skin food come from the country—herbs and all that sort of thing. Besides, she swallowed hard before uttering the biggest fib of all—"my agent lives down there, you see." "Oh!" said Esther. She was rather pleased at the idea of a change. "I suppose we can have letters sent on?" she asked after a moment. June's scratching pen stopped for a moment; then flew on again faster than before. "Oh, of course!" she said airily. Her kind heart gave a little throb of pity as she realized that there would never be any letters to send on—not any, at least, of which Esther was thinking. The phantom lover had gone for ever. She looked round at the girl pityingly. She looked so happy and unconsciously sitting there in the freight, and all the time if she knew what had just happened over in Paris her heart would surely break. "Best!" said June under her breath. Esther turned. "What did you say?" she asked. "I was only talking to the pen," June answered irascibly. (To be continued.)

Westclox

YOU like an honest clock for the same reason you like an honest man. You can depend on what it says.

Westclox alarms make and hold so many friends because they run and ring on time.

The secret of their dependability is inside the case—Westclox construction.

The wheels turn on needle-fine pivots of polished steel. Friction is greatly reduced; the clock runs more smoothly and gives you longer service.

Big Ben, America, Sleep-Meter and Baby Ben are the four top-notchers of the Westclox line. But all Westclox alarms have this same construction. The men who make Big Ben take pride in making every Westclox right.

It will pay you to look for the Westclox mark of good time-keeping on the dial and tag of the clock you buy. Then you will have a timekeeper that you can depend on for honest, faithful service.

Yes, that house has been in the family for 50 years.

HOW many men have repudiated, purely from sentimental motives, tempting offers for their family homes. The old house that is well-preserved is always a delight, because each year seems to add to its treasured associations, as well as to its natural value. In the Cradle of the Deep

(From the Boston Herald.)

The poet was not thinking of babies when he wrote the song, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," yet it is literally true that a good many children are cradled and rocked for the first time at sea. And in these days of spacious steamships and numerous passengers, very fortunate are the little ones that are born far from the land. A birth at sea is an event that interests all on board the ship, and the passengers vie with one another to celebrate the arrival of the new passenger by making a monetary presentation that shall express their good wishes.

This being known, does any one plan the birth of a child on board a vessel at sea? This question is answered by a correspondent of the London Daily Mail, who has recently crossed the Atlantic twice and been asked each time to contribute to a fund for a baby born on board. He inquired of the ship's doctor, who told him that sea voyages are "very popular with expectant mothers," especially emigrants from the European continent, many of whom realize that they can avoid an expensive time and get money enough to give baby born at sea a good start in life. A Cunard line official is reported as saying that collections on board for "the baby" have been very successful of late—as, for instance, the collection of £450 for one infant and the gift of a motor car in addition to money for another.

RED NOSES.

John Barleycorn is planted, the law has put him out; no tangle-foot is granted to any thirsty scout; no bar-keep hands the bittern, the bourbon or the eye, to any human critter, as drowsy months go by. But oh, the crimson noses I see upon the street —as red as any noses that make the summer sweet! Where do they get their tinting, their bright autumnal hue, since vintets are not vinting, and brewers do not brew. The bar-keepers are now flinging the glasses as of yore; the doors that once were swinging swing inward now no more; John Barleycorn is busted, his graft is past and gone, the old brass rail is rusted, there is no quidjohn. But oh, the crimson noses that, through the ether plow! The looker-on supposes they should be bleached by now. They should be fair and whiter than is the driven snow, since Barleycorn, the blighter, was slain long months ago. There should be no such noses, since Barleycorn is dead, but every hour discloses new shades of blooming red. Oh, can it be that water will tint the human cheek, as well as stuff that's hotter—the booze men used to seek. And can it be that drinking down where the stream-let flows will paint a fellow's blinking and blooming, blistered nose.

Great Achievement.

(From the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.)

A traveller saw an Irishman on the river bank and watched him hauling up water. "How long have you been doing this?" he asked. "Tin years, sorr," "And how many bucketfuls do you carry off in an hour?" continued the traveller. "Tin to fifteen, sorr," replied the Irishman. "And how much water would you say you had carried since you started?" pursued the inquisitive gentleman. "All the water you don't see there now, sorr."

Miners Have to Stand Alone.

Triple Alliance Refuse Unqualified Support -- Other Unions Refuse Participation -- Parliament Witnesses Dramatic Fluctuations -- Police Murders in Ireland Decreasing.

LOSE SUPPORT OF RAILMEN AND TRANSPORT WORKERS.

LONDON, April 15.—The Triple Alliance resumed today its struggle against the offer of Frank Hodges, miners' secretary, last night, of concessions for re-opening of negotiations between the miners and the railwaymen and transport workers. The Triple Alliance had not the solid support of the miners' executive body. At the same time the invitation of the Minister, Lloyd George, to the Triple Alliance to meet the owners of the mines, which was hoped to be a peace-making move, was being pressed for a reply. J. H. Thomas, general secretary of the Triple Alliance, and other moderate members, pressed the miners to accept Mr. George's offer. The argument was until well after 11 o'clock, when the Prime Minister himself came to meet the owners of the mines. Mr. George's offer was not accepted. The Triple Alliance members who had gathered to the miners, departed of the appearing and dispersed. Meanwhile conflicting judgment of the officials of miners and of their partners in the Triple Alliance, the miners withdrew and to their headquarters to take counsel. They had not been in conference more than half an hour when a deputation from the railwaymen and transport workers' executive bodies arrived. Then an appeal was made by Thomas, who considered that the offer to the Commons ought to be based on the basis of new terms. Mr. George's invitation should be accepted. This last reply, however, was not in fact a majority of the executive officials, who are in their stand for pooling and a wage concession. The executive officials of the railwaymen and transport workers returned to headquarters of the National Association of Railwaymen and awaited the Minister's announcement of the result of the miners' negative reply announcing their decision regarding the official sympathetic strike. This decision was reached only after a debate which developed into an acrimonious wrangle, the high words of which could be heard by newspaper correspondents out in the hall.

RAILWAY AND TRANSPORT STRIKE

LONDON, April 15.—The announcement that the railwaymen's strike, set for ten o'clock, had been cancelled, was made shortly after four o'clock this afternoon by J. H. Thomas, Secretary of the Railwaymen's Union. No explanation was immediately available of the Railwaymen's action, but it was thought, in some quarters, that it might indicate a split in the Triple Alliance. The Transport Workers' strike also has been called off, Thomas announced, and "as far as Railwaymen and Transport workers are concerned the strike is cancelled," he said.

HOPES AND FEARS OF THE COMMONS.

LONDON, April 15.—Not since the days preceding the declaration of war has the House of Commons witnessed more dramatic fluctuations of hope and fear than were experienced to-day in connection with the threatened industrial crisis. Last evening everything looked black, but after it became apparent that the mine owners were prepared to consider a revision of their original position, and after the striking statement of Frank Hodges, the miners' secretary, that he was prepared to discuss the question of national pooling for future settlement, hopes rose and they still were high when the Commons met at noon today. On assembly of the House rumors were current that Hodges had been thrown over by the miners' executive and also that he had resigned.

AN OMINOUS ANNOUNCEMENT.

LONDON, April 15.—Lloyd George announced in the House that the miners had refused to re-open negotiation for settlement of their strike on the basis suggested. The Prime Minister read a letter from the Miners' Federation, stating that the only condition on which a temporary settlement could be reached was one which must follow concession of the two principles of a national wages board and a national pool.

OTHER UNIONS CALL OFF STRIKE.

LONDON, April 15.—The executive body of the Electrical Trades Union and the Secretary of the Railway Clerks' Association called off the strikes of their organization upon the announcement of the decision of the railwaymen and transport workers not to strike.

WEEK'S CASUALTIES AMONG CROWN FORCES.

DUBLIN, April 15.—No change in the general situation in Ireland has been revealed during the past week, says the official weekly review issued to-day. Murders of policemen decreased to four last week as compared with eight the previous week, but the military casualties increased from four to six. The total casualties to the Crown forces numbered twenty-six. During the week there were twenty-five ambulance cases, six attacks on police barracks, three

"Goodbye Winter! Goodbye Winter!
Goodbye Winter, welcome Spring!"

With a lavish apron gay,
Deck the Earth with happy flowers
Where the little children play.
Hark! the branches of the trees
Make sweet music with the breeze
In thy green-fresh, leafy bowers
As they swing—
"Goodbye Winter! Goodbye Winter!
Goodbye Winter, welcome Spring!"

April, Maid of promises,
Love the wonder-child, redeem
With the subtle mysteries
Of thy woods and hills and streams.
Thankful we that other lands
Share the gifts thy dainty hands

Italy's Giant Airship.

Italy's giant airship, "The Roma," has been sold to the United States Government, for 4,000,000 lire, and will leave her hanger at Ciampino, that once deserted spot of the Roman Campagna that has now become one of the world's biggest aerodromes, soar into the air and takes her flight across the ocean to New York.

The Roma is Italian all through. She is so beloved by the airmen who have charge of her that loud murmurs rose up from Ciampino Aerodrome when it became known that the most marvellous airship that ever left its hangers was to be sold to a foreign power. But now the airmen are reconciled; they realize that it is good propaganda for their native aircraft industry to have this giant of the air sail across the seas.

The Roma, which takes trips in Rome's limpid air from time to time, has many interesting points. Though built on the broad lines of the typical Italian airship, being semi-rigid, she carries something new. Her cabin for sixty passengers is not fixed to the envelope by cords and cables, but is part and parcel of the airship itself, built right into her keel. Her makers say this makes for greater safety and is more comfortable for passengers prone to seasickness.

The Roma is 125 yards long and carries 34,000 cubic yards of gas. The motors are fixed sideways, like the fins of a fish; she has six groups of propellers, three at each side, and 2500 horse-power. She navigates at the rate of fifty to sixty miles an hour, with an autonomy of flying power without stopping of 3,125 miles, and can transport 100 passengers very comfortably.

By means of a bridge and some steps it is easy to pass from stem to prow and for the pilots to reach any part of the giant while she is in full flight and do any repairs that may be necessary.

She is commanded by Major Biffi, who said: "I mean to take her straight from Ciampino to New York in one journey. No stoppage. I hope."

NOTICE OF QUESTION.

Sir Michael Cashin—I give notice that I will on to-morrow ask the Honourable the Prime Minister if his attention has been called to a statement in the Evening Advocate of Wednesday last, April 13th, contained in a contribution by Honourable W. F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, entitled, "Notes of a Trip to Europe," in which Mr. Coaker reveals the fact that Mr. George Hawes is planning to establish a cold storage warehouse and proposing to introduce into Greece the same system of consignment which prevails in Spain and which has turned out such a curse for Newfoundland shippers; if this is the same Mr. Hawes on whose advice largely the Government adopted the policy of regulations after taking office in November, 1919; if this is the same Mr. Hawes who visited Port Union at that time in connection with Messrs. Job and being enticed by certain schemes for dealing with our codfish exports; if this is the same Mr. Hawes with whom our codfish exporters were required to deal entirely to the exclusion of the other mercantile firms in various European countries with whom these exporters had been doing business for years previously; if this is the same Mr. Hawes who has acted more or less as a Government representative, in regard to transactions in our codfish in southern Europe for the past eighteen months, and if so, how does it happen that the Government trusted the working of this new fishery policy and the fortunes of the people of this country to a man who is now described by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as being practically a menace to the future fish trade of Newfoundland?

That I will ask the Honourable Minister of Education if his absence from the Colony for a period since the last session of the Legislature was on private or public business, and in the latter case what was the nature of the said business and what amount, if any, did he receive for the performance of the same; and to lay on the table of the House a copy of any report made by him in relation to such business and if no report has been made, is it his intention to make one, and if not why not?

That I will ask the Honourable the Prime Minister (a) if it is intended to recognize the Public Health Department and to appoint the present Public Health Officer, Dr. R. A. Brien, to another position, and if so what is the nature of the proposed appointment; what will be the duties in connection thereof, and what will be the salary attached to it; (b) if it is intended to appoint Dr. H. M. Modest as Public Health Officer or to some other position in connection with the Public Health Department, if so what duties are to be assigned to him, and what salary is he to receive?

That I will ask the Minister of Shipping if any agreement has been made with parties within or without the Colony for the operation of a special steam service along the South Coast and plying specially between points on the Burin Peninsula, and if so, to lay on the table of the House a copy of the said agreement or a statement giving its essential particulars and if no such arrangement has been made, if any such is under negotiation or in contemplation?

That I will ask the Honourable the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if the following statement contained in the Evening Advocate of Tuesday, October 5th, 1920, is correct, namely, "every cargo of fish en route to Portugal has been disposed of outright at regulation prices, and some cargoes for Portugal loading but not yet completed have also been sold ahead"; and if it is correct, to lay on the table of the House a statement showing the vessels containing the cargoes in question, the parties by whom the fish was shipped, the regulation prices at that date, and documentary evidence to prove that the regulation prices were actually received; and if the statement is not correct, what is the justification for his organ deceiving the people of the country by publishing false information of this kind?

That I will ask the Honourable the Minister of Marine and Fisheries if the following statement in the Evening Advocate of October 5th, 1920, is correct, namely, "Brazil is buying

House of Assembly.

Sir Michael Cashin—I give notice that I will on to-morrow ask the Honourable the Prime Minister if his attention has been called to a statement in the Evening Advocate of Wednesday last, April 13th, contained in a contribution by Honourable W. F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, entitled, "Notes of a Trip to Europe," in which Mr. Coaker reveals the fact that Mr. George Hawes is planning to establish a cold storage warehouse and proposing to introduce into Greece the same system of consignment which prevails in Spain and which has turned out such a curse for Newfoundland shippers; if this is the same Mr. Hawes on whose advice largely the Government adopted the policy of regulations after taking office in November, 1919; if this is the same Mr. Hawes who visited Port Union at that time in connection with Messrs. Job and being enticed by certain schemes for dealing with our codfish exports; if this is the same Mr. Hawes with whom our codfish exporters were required to deal entirely to the exclusion of the other mercantile firms in various European countries with whom these exporters had been doing business for years previously; if this is the same Mr. Hawes who has acted more or less as a Government representative, in regard to transactions in our codfish in southern Europe for the past eighteen months, and if so, how does it happen that the Government trusted the working of this new fishery policy and the fortunes of the people of this country to a man who is now described by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as being practically a menace to the future fish trade of Newfoundland?

Coaker Says: "Only Storing Salt." In the course of his speech in the House of Assembly Sir John Crosbie asked the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Mr. Coaker, who owned the salt stored at Port Union, and received from that gentleman the astonishing reply: "I have it stored there for the Government." We say astonishing because the Auditor General in his report on expenditures under Section 33 (b) of the Audit Act, declares that the salt—landed by the S.S. Tuckahoe at Port Union, and which was paid for out of the Surplus Trust—was sold to some firm (evidently one of the Port Union companies) which, he understood, would repay the amount to the Government. Mr. Coaker says he is merely storing the salt for the Government. The Auditor General declares it was sold. Which is correct? The matter is of public importance and the House of Assembly should request the Auditor General to furnish immediately the authority on which he bases his comments. There must be Minutes of Council and correspondence dealing with the question. In view of Mr. Coaker's statement of yesterday they should be tabled immediately, so that the question of the ownership of this salt should be immediately cleared up.

That Fish Offer of Mr. Hue's. In reply to a question asked a few days ago regarding Mr. F. Hue's trip to Montreal, and an offer he is said to have received for a large quantity of fish, the Minister of Marine and Fisheries tabled a reply yesterday which gave only a part of the information asked for, including copies of messages that passed between the Minister and Mr. Hue. The latter alleged he received a firm offer for 10,000 cases choice Labrador at $55 c.l.f. New York, to which there is a reply stating that the Board was not inclined to make an offer for the fish at that price. When handed the reply yesterday, Sir Michael asked the Minister why he refused the offer, receiving an answer to the effect that the price was not in accordance with the law, which drew from Sir Michael a strong expression condemning the regulations, which was the law referred to. Questions about further correspondence were asked by Sir Michael, but these drew no reply from the Minister.

Business
Inconsistency.

On Thursday afternoon, in the House of Assembly, when moving the adoption of the amendment to the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne, delivered at the opening of the local Parliament, little more than two weeks ago, Sir Michael Cashin, Leader of the Opposition, in dealing with the power the Fishery Regulations placed in the hands of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is reported, according to the official debates to have said, "that he could have sold a cargo of fish in Montreal last spring, but he declined to tell the Minister of Marine and Fisheries all the details of his business. Mr. F. H. Hue was sent to Canada as a Trade Commissioner at the expense of the Colony. He had wired from Montreal that he could sell ten thousand quintals of Labrador fish there at eight cents per pound—practically nine dollars per quintal. He was instructed by wire as follows: "Try for nine cents"—practically ten dollars per quintal—"if you can get nine cents the F.P.U. will fill the order." This price could not be obtained, and consequently the sale of ten thousand quintals of fish at nine dollars per quintal, amounting to the handsome sum of Ninety Thousand Dollars, was lost. The point Sir Michael made was that in effect the Department of Marine and Fisheries had been advised that a quantity of fish could be disposed of to Canadian buyers, but that the information thus received had been held back from the trade by some responsible person, and an alternative bid made on behalf of the Fishermen's Protective Union for one dollar per quintal more than Montreal buyers were offering, with the object of turning into the trade channels of that organization the full sum of this transaction, without any other interested party being made any the wiser. Sir Michael told this story without reserve or hesitation, and the facts as related by him gave incontrovertible proof of the greatest measure of business inconsistency on the part of some one to whom information had come through official channels, and who deliberately withheld from other firms in the fish business the knowledge that such a sale could be consummated. As clear a case of double crossing as could be recorded.

No wonder that amazement was expressed by all auditors when this magnified duplicity was exposed by Sir Michael, and no wonder that the audience applauded and cheered vociferously as the statement was repeated, and the action vigorously and soundly condemned by the Leader of the Opposition. The half, obviously, in connection with the Fish Regulations and the domination of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has not yet been told, but the complete tale has been promised. Just another example of inconsistency out of the hundreds which may be laid at the threshold of the President of the F.P.U. He has, since his return from Europe, been filling the columns of the Advocate with a diary of notes on his trip. (As a diarist the Wordy President has Pepps on toast). In his voluminous comments he refers to "dry goods men, lawyers and politicians, who are trying to teach practical men their business." Quite so. We agree with Mr. Coaker, and therefore ask him why he appointed Trade Commissioners of "dry goods men," politicians and others to go to Europe and America "trying to teach practical men their business." Mr. Coaker's very own expression. It is highly offensive of Mr. Coaker to be insulting his own appointees in this way. He is responsible for the absurd and ridiculous appointments of "dry goods men, lawyers, politicians, et al" who are costing this Colony hundreds of thousands of dollars per year as imaginary—in reality—Trade Commissioners to sell Newfoundland fish in Europe and the Americas. Men who are not earning a tithe of the money being paid them as salaries; men who are as ignorant of fish sales as a crowd of Fiji Islanders, who at least know enough to catch it, but whether Mr. Coaker's Trade Commissioners know enough to bait a hook is questionable. They sure are qualified to judge of cure and requirements, having each and all of them a thorough grounding in all the elements of the profession or calling of which they now claim to be such cultured exponents. Mr. Coaker argues that five years' experience is sufficient to qualify him to learn and know all there is to be known about fish from the water to the market. That may be. According to his own statement he is a superman, but apart from his profound knowledge and wisdom, it will take a longer period than he names ere his "dry goods men, lawyers, politicians and school-masters" become so expert in the lore of fish buying and selling, as is their chief, and right well the country knows and regrets it.

And discuss conditions. A number of workmen held a preliminary meeting in the L.S.P.U. Hall last night for the purpose of organizing a public meeting to be held at 8 o'clock to-night. The object of calling this public meeting is to consider what steps should be taken after a condition of affairs which is becoming unbearable to a great number of work-people. As one of the speakers expressed it we have been long singing "There is a Silver Lining through the Dark Clouds," but no man to-day can see that bright spot in the clouds. Hundreds of people were idle in the city with no prospects of work, and what is more unfortunate, the number was increasing as the days go by. The time for considering what steps to take to alleviate want and hunger was not when the last crust was eaten, but while vitality remained. The speakers received much applause and while on certain points different views were held, all agreed that the time for action had arrived, but that there was to be no lawlessness countenanced. A Chairman and a Committee of three were appointed to arrange for to-morrow's meeting after which adjournment was taken.

Brotherhood Movement. By reference to an advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the Rev. I. W. Williamson will address a mass meeting of men in the auditorium of Gower St. Church to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon in the interest of the Brotherhood movement. This meeting has been looked forward to with a great deal of interest, and no doubt a large number of men will be present to hear the rev. gentleman's address.

Viking Has 18,000. A message was received by Messrs. Bowring Bros., yesterday afternoon, informing them of the arrival of the s.s. Viking at Channel, all well. A private message from Capt. Bartlett stated that the Viking had 18,000 prime young harps.

Seen From the Gallery.

The Gallery for the past couple of days—since Wednesday anyway—has not been desirous of commenting upon the proceedings of the House of Assembly.

The fear that the Speaker would put his threat into execution and "Clear the House," somewhat deterred us from attempting to ascend the steps which lead to avenue, following Wednesday's spectacular display.

But it was noted, with the springing of eternal hope, yesterday, that the member for Carbonar who adorns—but does not honor—the chair of the first commoner, had received instructions not to interfere with the applause of the Gallery, on which he frowned during the demonstrations of the audience, while Sir John Crosbie was speaking, did not attempt to check the expression.

The members representing Western Districts on the Government side, looked miserable when Sir John Crosbie had not interfered with the prosperity of the sections of the Colony which had elected them, and neither Messrs. Foote, Cheseman, Warren or Small had any answer. They looked, when they were, the gasps of Mr. Coaker.

The Gallery could not but admire the Spartan-like fortitude with which the Minister of Education—the Hon. Arthur Barnes—took the nauseous medicine administered to him by the member for Port de Grave, but then the Gallery knows that Arthur is our one and only.

St. John's Octette.

The programme for the concert at the College Hall on St. George's Night has now been completed and will appear in the papers on Monday. Very good taste has been observed in the arranging of the different items. The selections range from Classical pieces down to Plantation. Lullabies. The whole ensemble having the elements of a compact music drama. Some that are tragic, some tender, some pathetic and some humorous. Great pains have been taken in practices to obtain proper balance, harmony and expression so as to convey just the shade of meaning required. In these days too many singers and choirs make a practice of singing double forte until all hopes of a soft passage disappears. Outside of the excellent effect of an occasional change from a strong lusty swagman will be on sale, containing all the words of the different songs and choruses. They are nicely printed and will prove very useful souvenirs. The concert is held under the auspices of the Llewellyn Club and the proceeds will be devoted to City Charities. Lose no time in securing seats as they are going quickly. Plan of Hall can be seen, and tickets are on sale at Mr. F. V. Chesman's, Water Street.

Postponement of Service

The unexpected absence of one of the principal speakers, has compelled the Missionary Committee of George St. Church to postpone the Missionary Anniversary at that Church until Sunday next, the 24th inst.

It was announced last week that this Missionary Anniversary would be held to-morrow, and the Committee regret the unavoidable circumstance that prevents placing the programme to-morrow as announced.

The Committee is anxious that the congregation and their friends all over the city should be aware of this change, and the order of service published elsewhere will show the substitution arranged.

It is expected that next Sunday, the 24th inst., the Missionary Anniversary will take place, and the arrangements are in every respect so promising that it was deemed highly advisable to adhere to the programme arranged, even to the extent of postponement.

Police Court.

A Taste For Music.—A boy of 12, previously remanded on a charge of entering two stores on New Gower Street, appeared before Judge Morris this morning and was further charged with the larceny of several articles from various stores, most of which articles were exhibited in Court and gave it the appearance of a country store. Amongst other things this youthful Raffles had taken a gramophone from Messrs. Ayre and Sons and he had also "lifted" 88 records. Moreover, he entered the office of a Mr. Kelly and walked off with a typewriter, received a magic lantern from a delivery cart, stole another from the shop of N. W. Clowen and took numerous other goods from various places. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., asked for leniency on account of the boy's tender years but His Honour could not impose a fine of less than $50 or, in default, three months imprisonment. Mr. Higgins offered to be responsible for the payment of the fine and was loudly cheered by the audience for his kindly act.

Accused Remanded.—A man arrested in connection with the larceny of cloth to the value of $2,500 from the Furness Witty Company's premises was remanded for eight days. Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., in the meantime, asked that bail be allowed. The Judge fixed bail on the man's own recognisances of $500 and two bondsmen for $250 each.

Driving on Side Walk.—Two truckmen were charged with driving on the side walk. They were each fined $1 and costs.

N. C. O.'s "At Home."

The N.C.O.'s of the C.L.B. Cadets intend holding an "At Home" in the C.C. Hall on April 22nd, the day before the whole holiday. No efforts are being spared to make the affair a success and the fact that the newly formed Ladies' Auxiliary is assisting should be sufficient guarantee of its being so. The music will be provided by the full Battalion Band under Capt. A. Morris, and all the latest dance music will be played. Ice cream and other refreshments will be on sale during the evening and the splendid supper will be provided. In this last direction the Ladies' Auxiliary are rapidly making a name for themselves. It is expected that the "At Home" will be very largely attended, particularly as the next day will be one on which everybody can take a rest.

G. KNOWLING, Limited. Workmen Call Public Meeting. Popular Indignation at Length Expresses Itself. PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT IN L.S.P.U. HALL—PROMOTERS HAVE ASKED ALL NEWSPAPER REPRESENTATIVES TO ATTEND. Conditions in this city to-day and in fact all over the Island, are anything but bright and along Water Street where some hundreds of men are idle, the sole topic of conversation is the lack of employment. Feeling is intense and the men realize that they are up against hard times. Last night's preliminary meeting was aroused hope that something would be done to bring to the notice of the authorities the deplorable conditions existing. The men are not asking for charity, though some of them badly need it. From one to the other the word is being passed around to attend the public meeting being held to-night in the L.S.P.U. Hall, for the purpose of deciding on a line of action. A message has been received in the city from Twillingate, stating that the fishermen there are holding a public meeting on Monday night to consider where the outlay for the codfishery is coming from. Merchants are refusing to issue any supplies while the Fishery Regulations are on the Statute Book, and it is the intention of the meeting to demand that they be removed. The most casual observer must see that discontent is manifesting itself all over the country, and unless something is done promptly, those in authority will bring maelstrom about their heads that may end in serious consequences.

A Tribute to Right Hon. Sir R. Bond, P.C. (By A. A. PARSONS in the Newfoundland Quarterly.) "Perhaps the finest and most conspicuous figure in political life," was the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Bond, in his public capacity he was the soul of the public pedestal. Indeed, few politicians anywhere can boast of so complete an immunity from any form of duplicity or untruth. There were times when it seemed impossible to believe that Sir Robert was stating the facts; yet circumstances have always established his absolute veracity in spirit and in letter. During his long and strenuous political career, it is little short of marvellous that he was seldom, if ever, betrayed into unconscious inaccuracies. But his principles were then and are still, fixed, if he shows some squeezability in detail; he has really what is rare enough to-day, a political philosophy. Few men more consistently refer to first principles in dealing with problems of the moment; and knowing himself how to reason, it is easy to understand that he has some contempt for those who know only how to denigrate the great, but its foundations are as adamant. The victim of much small political meanness during the last few years of his public life, he is himself incapable of anything small or mean. Opinions may vary widely as to Sir Robert's political game. But the candid observer must admit that he has always played it like a gentleman. While in the Legislature, whether as Speaker, Colonial Secretary or Prime Minister, he would go to immense pains to defend a colleague when the colleague was in the right, but, when he himself was concerned, slander went un-answered. When Senator Harding was asked how he felt when the announcement of his nomination was made, he said: "I feel as though I had gone in with a pair of slights and come out with a full house." His wife, who is known as the "Duchess," didn't like his poker comparison and told him so.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The success of the Societies' Parade on St. George's Day is now assured. It takes place in the morning. The afternoon is still unappropriated. What better would the citizens like to see than a parade of these heroes who placed their lives and services at the disposal of the Empire of which St. George is the emblematic personality. We have in the past seen with pride, but mingled with sorrow, those gallant lads parade through our streets, but then there was always the feeling that many whom we saw we should see no more. To-day they have returned with victory perched on their banner and if before we saw them with pride, how much more proud are we to-day when we know that we have them with us for the rest of their lives. The heaven that will leave the life of the island and be an inspiration to ages to come. A joint parade in the afternoon of the soldiers and sailors who fought on land and sea, of the soldiers of whom it was said that they were better than the best, and of the sailors who, as Captain McDermott, at Sir Michael Cashin's dinner told us, were acclaimed as the best seamen in the British Navy. We shall be proud to do them honor. Let us see them march each year on this day when no note of sadness can soften the pride we rightly feel in their glorious deeds.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. W. B. ABBE.

Naval Prize Money.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—In reference to a letter which appeared in your issue of the 15th inst., signed "One Returned," in which he claims that the Paymaster Commander of H.M.S. Briton told him that the prize money had been paid over to the Nfld. Government, I, being one of the committee appointed by the R.N.R.'s to look into the matter of prize money, therefore made it my business to see the Paymaster Commander of H.M.S. Briton on behalf of the R.N.R.'s for full particulars re same.
The Paymaster's reply was as follows: "No prize money has yet been handed over to the Nfld. Government through this department." From there I went to the department of Militia and consulted Col. Rendell on the matter, and his answer was a quotation of the above. Now if the Paymaster Commander of H.M.S. Briton told the writer of that letter that the prize money was handed over to the Nfld. Government, and told me in the presence of another of the committee that it was not handed over, then he spoke falsely to one of us; therefore I respectfully request that the Paymaster Commander of H.M.S. Briton inform us through the columns of the press whether the prize money has or has not been handed over to the Nfld. Government through his department.
Thanking you for space,
I am, Sir, yours truly,
JOHN RODGERS,
ex-Skipper R.N.R.

Tricked the Shopkeeper.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock Wednesday night a woman entered a store on Alexander Street and made several purchases, including cheese, ham and sugar, of which 5 lbs. was ordered. While the shopkeeper, an elderly woman, was putting up the sugar, the customer took the parcels made up and disappeared. The trick was a hard one to play on the shopkeeper.

Pipe Corroded.

As a result of the talk in connection with the shortage of water at the Star Hall fire which occurred some months ago, the Council was asked to dig up the 4 inch main on Dick's Square and connect the hydrant with the 10 inch main on Theatre Hill. Yesterday the Council took up part of the 4 inch pipe leading to the hydrant to put down a 6 inch one and when the 4 inch pipe was uncovered it was found to be so corroded that the space for the water to run through was only three quarters of an inch. It is of course plainly evident that this had a great deal to do with the water shortage.

Biggest Fossil in the World.

A trachelosaurus, believed to be the largest land creature that ever existed on the earth, is to be seen at the Berlin Museum, according to Dr. W. D. Matthew, a scientist, who has just returned from a trip of four months in Europe.
The remains of the trachelosaurus have, however, not yet been mounted. The skeleton was practically intact except for the tail. The huge reptile probably was several sizes larger than the brontosaurus which is to be seen in the Museum in New York. It may have been 100 feet in length and possibly fifteen to twenty feet high.

This treasure and several dinosaurs were obtained by the Berlin Museum's field expedition in East Africa before its activities were checked by the outbreak of the war. Owing to the lack of funds since the armistice, the specimens have been kept unmounted, and nobody who has known about them had seemed to find time to write their story. Dr. Matthew made arrangements for an early exchange of publications with the curators and scientists of the countries he visited.

A number of other specimens awaiting shipment from East Africa to Berlin in 1914 were seized and destroyed by either British or Belgian troops, along with other Teuton property. The German professors, according to Dr. Matthew, had expected that because of their scientific value the fossils would be spared. No other class of Europeans, Dr. Matthew remarked, had felt the war more cruelly than the scientists in charge of the museums. In nearly all cases their stipends were wiped out, and they were forced to eke out a bare existence as best they could. Many of the former attendants at various museums had been killed in the war or diverted to other pursuits, and the crime spirit was so pronounced that trust could not be placed in new employees. On this account rare specimens had been piled in storage and only their replicas allowed to remain on exhibition.

In the Paris Museum Dr. Matthew examined a comparatively recent find—the almost complete hair and hide of a mammoth, discovered in the frozen tundra of one of the Lalkhol Islands, north of Siberia. The hair of a Siberian mammoth found many years ago is almost jet black. That of the island mammoth is of a light brown color, probably denoting a different species.

Make your skin "A skin you love to touch"

A BEAUTIFUL skin, soft, smooth, faultlessly clear—any girl can have this charm.

For your skin is constantly changing—each day old skin dies and new takes its place. Give this new skin the right treatment, and see how soft and lovely you can keep it.

If your skin is very sensitive and easily irritated, use each night this special treatment:

DIP a soft washcloth in warm water and hold it to your face.

Now make a warm water lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and dip your cloth up and down until the cloth is "fluffy" with the soft, white lather.

Rub this lathered cloth gently over your skin until the pores are thoroughly cleansed.

Rinse first with warm, then with clear, cool water and dry carefully.

THE very first time you use this treatment it will leave your skin with a slightly drawn, tight feeling. Do not regard this as a disadvantage—it is an indication that the treatment is doing you good, for it means that your skin is responding in the right way to this method of cleansing. After a few treatments the drawn feeling will disappear and your skin will gain a new, healthful sense of softness and smoothness.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter, and begin this treatment tonight. A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's will last for a month or six weeks. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario.

House of Assembly.

April 15.

The House met at 3 p.m. Notices of Question were given by Mr. Macdonnell and Sir M. P. Cashin.

Mr. Higgins presented a petition from residents of the Portugal Cove Road, in connection with the proposed Smallpox Hospital at Escason. There were over 200 signatures to the petition, all of which were directly connected with the matter. In the light of the facts which he had stated, Mr. Higgins asked the Government not to proceed with the institution of the Hospital at Escason.

Mr. Fox supported the petition. He suggested that the Smallpox Hospital be erected on the Southside. It was not going to be erected in St. John's East if he could help it.

Mr. Vinicombe also supported the petition.

The Premier said he would take the matter up with the Public Health Department.

Mr. Moore also supported the petition.

The questions on the Order Paper were then dealt with. Several were in course of preparation and the answers to some were tabled by the various departmental heads.

Sir John Crosbie then continued his speech on the Address in Reply. As he rose, he received a great ovation from the spectators. He went on to deal with the effect of the Fish Regulations on the West Coast. The House of Harris & Co. at Grand Bank was unable to meet its liabilities owing to the actions of the Advisory Board. Two of Harris's vessels sailed from Change Islands for Oporto. The regulation price was then 81 shillings but seventy-one shillings and sixpence was offered, cash against documents, but the Advisory Board forbade these cargoes being sold at less than the fixed price. As a result these cargoes were left to be sold later at 25 shillings per quintal. That meant a drop of over $70,000 on these cargoes. If he were George Harris somebody would have answered to him for it. He was surprised at the Hon. Mr. Foot allowing this to be done. He would prove during the afternoon that the Regulations had made the Colony insolvent. The whole West Coast had been practically ruined by them. If the West Coast merchants had not been hampered they would owe no money now. As a result of present conditions not only the West Coast but the whole of Water Street suffers also. Now, men who never begged before have to go down on their hands and knees to ask that a little of their fish be taken. What a nice Reform Government there was on the other side! The Premier had now made life, that was a pleasure, a burden to live. Did the Premier care about his people when he was in London enjoying himself and having to pick up the threads when he came back. He appealed to Mr. Cheeseman to cross the floor of the House. He expected nothing from Hon. Mr. Foot, because he never had any grit. He was a one-trick man and a short turn at that. Sir John returned to the Regulations. He had always been strongly opposed to the Regulations and he was even more so now since he saw the disaster they had wrought. The people had no idea of what they had to face during the next twelve months. Before six months the business men of this country will nearly all be insolvent. The business of every patriot to-day was to save the country from herself. The Government was actually building a wig on the G.P.O. at a cost of $115,000 when trade was one-third of what it used to be. He spoke of the Premier's work in Italy and said his tricks could be seen as well abroad as at home. How long was this going to last? If he thought his 14-year-old boy could make such a bungle as the Food Control Board, he'd disown him. A merchant in this Colony had made $200,000 out of sugar. Sir John then went on to speak to the Auditors brought down to put the members of the late Executive in jail. He had heard so much about jail that he knew as well could hold him. He warned the Premier that many a man had dug a hole for another and fell into it himself. He then referred to the Poor Relief being doled out in Bay de Verde. He also asked Mr. Coaker if one James McGrath is still on the pay roll of his department. (Mr. Coaker said he didn't know.) Well, said Sir John, I know, and I am going to inform you that he is on your pay roll at the salary of $42.50 per week, and has been there since the West End bye-election. (Mr. Coaker promised to have him dismissed to-day.) Yet the Government had no hesitation in drawing extra salaries. He sent his own resignation pay to the widows and orphans of Port de Grave. None of the fish inspectors were qualified either if the people of Newfoundland had been allowed to ship their fish as they pleased; all markets would have been all right. Mr. Coaker was responsible. Last year the Halifaxians deliberately took our Brazilian market from us. The loss of our West Coast was being bought by Nova Scotians and shipped from Halifax, meant a huge loss to us.

Next Sir John referred to the $500,000 allocation. He had 500 qtls. of fish belonging to one of Mr. Targett's constituents now in his store. From Port de Grave to Carbonate to-day there were 12,000 qtls. of fish unsold. He appealed to Hon. Mr. Barnes to do something in the matter. If that fish were brought from Northern districts they would not be bought from Conception Bay. The kind of reform the present Government was handing out was unlike any he had known for 20 years. Sir John then referred to the salt question and asked Hon. Mr. Coaker what was being done with that $61,000 worth of salt. (The Minister of Marine and Fisheries informed Sir John that it was being stored for the Government.) Sir John queried if the public chest had any loss on this salt. The public chest had never been constituted as this one had been. He desired any man to tell what was going to happen to Newfoundland in 1921 for the colony was hopelessly bankrupt. What could be expected of a Government who did not even know what they were squandering. Dr. Campbell spent $54,000 over the regular grant, on fires last year. He was going to ask for a detailed list of this expenditure. He did not believe a member of the Executive knew whether the Doctor spent it or kept it. The next matter to be dealt with by Sir John was the Government steamers. No one realized what these steamers had cost. The Government had been forced to buy them, but when he left the Shipping Dept. the Coastal Service was $30,000 in credit. Now the boats are dead weight on the Coast. The repairs on the Daisy and Senef was more than the original cost of the ships. Over $258,000, according to the Auditor General's Report, were spent on fitting up steamers. These ships cost $55,000 each. Some of these boats cost about $40,000 and an extra cost of $50,000 to repair. None of these boats ever earned a dollar for the colony. If these ships were to save money they should be taken out and anchored alongside the Lobelia. The Lobelia should be used as a Small Pox Hospital because she was no use for anything else. This country, by the purchase of useless steamers, had saddled itself with truck it would never be able to get rid of. Sir John then referred to the railroad. The Minister of Marine had told him that the loss on the railway was $200,000, but he had since heard it was $2,500,000. The Reid Company should not have been allowed to get away with the only assets they possessed. He didn't blame the Reids but the crowd they fooled. He thought the Minister of Public Works was a backslider for allowing the snow shovelling allocation to be made for Harbor Main. Returning to the Reids, he said they had got the easiest crowd to pluck that ever sat in a Newfoundland Government. The Premier had to accede to the dictates of Hon. Mr. Coaker. In spite of what he (the Premier) had said in his manifesto, he had done exactly as Reids wanted him to. He had allowed his country to be bled until no one knew what would happen to it. The railroad will, in the future, have to be operated by the Government. $140,000 had been paid for Hafford, Sask. April 15.—(Special.)—Dodd's Kidney Pills have few more faithful friends in any part of Canada than C. H. Pobran, well known and highly respected here. He gives the reason in a few words that go right to the point.

"I was sick in bed for a long time before I used Dodd's Kidney Pills," he says, "and I am healthy now. I am very thankful I used Dodd's Kidney Pills."

It is friends like Mr. Pobran who have given Dodd's Kidney Pills the reputation which for twenty years has stamped them as Canada's standard kidney remedy. They have been used as backache, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes, rheumatism and heart disease. They have given satisfaction. Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I read an article on Women's Suffrage in last night's Telegram signed by "Suffrage." I think "Suffrage" is unduly anxious. I was present at the House last spring when the Women's Franchise Bill was discussed and I must say that my opinion is that the Government is just as much in favour of giving their country-women's demands and giving them the vote as the Opposition. Their only reason for not passing it then, was that the whole question had been sprung on them at the end of a busy session, but they said that if the women still wanted the franchise in six months' time they would, one and all support it. Then the popular member for Fortuna Bay—the Hon. Mr. Warren, rose and said that he had promised the women that if the Government were not antagonized, he himself had given his word to introduce the Woman's Bill. I cannot believe that our Minister of Justice will break his word.

The Women's Suffrage League (of which I am proud to be a member) has done nothing to antagonize the Government, and for that matter done nothing to antagonize any man, woman or child. The whole campaign has been conducted in an earnest, quiet and orderly manner which shows great credit to the determined leaders. The annexed clipping from "Current History" may interest your readers. I remain with thanks,

Yours truly,
WEST ENDER.

PROTESTS AGAINST REGULATIONS.

From advices recently received from the District of Bay de Verde, there is a very strong opposition there to the Fish Regulations and the people of the district are demanding the instant repeal of these infamous restrictions. Since the opening of the House the people in the Outports have been able to find out how ruinous the Regulations really were, and not only that, but the underhand methods used in their enforcement. The revelations of Sir M. P. Cashin, Sir J. C. Crosbie, Capt. Lewis and other members of the House have opened the people's eyes to the true state of affairs and they now realize how iniquitous the Regulations were. The people of Bay de Verde will doubtless be backed up by the rest of the island in their demand for the immediate repeal of the Fish Regulations, and Messrs. Cave and LeGros are hereby requested to take notice, and vote for the abrogation of the Codfish Exportation Act.

Anglo-American Telegraph Company.

Effective commencing April 9, deferred Cable Service is reinstated to Great Britain and Ireland, and the principal countries in Europe, Africa, Asia, Dutch East Indies, Australasia (rate for Australasia is that via Eastern and Indo only), Argentine, Bolivia, Chile, Paraguay, Peru (except Wireless Stations), Uruguay and Brazil (except Acre District and Amazon River stations). The deferred service will be, on the usual basis of plain language and deferment in favor of full rate messages and the carrying of a prefix LCO, LCD or LCF as the case may be, in all cases including that of Great Britain and Ireland exactly one half the regular or full rate to country of destination.

This valuable service at one half normal rates has not been available since September 1918, when it was necessarily suspended because of the congested condition of the cable system throughout the world. The Anglo-American Telegraph Company and the Western Union have taken advantage of the first opportunity since the war to reinstate this service.

Mother's been a good pal
She sat up nights with us
When we were sick
She kissed our
Bumps and bruises well.

She washed and ironed
And cooked and scrubbed
She helped us all
With our lessons
And taught us manners
And truth
And courage
And honesty
And faith.

Mother likes music
But she has been
So busy taking

MY COLUMN

(By the CUB-EDITOR)
JEM GUMCHEW, 20H.
Our Great New Serial of the Wild and Woolly West.

Synopsis of First Installment—Jem Gumchew an heroic cowpuncher of Deadshot Gulch is suddenly attacked from behind by a "breed" in the town's saloon.

But Jem had not lived in the backwoods all his life for nothing. His ears, being of sensitive proportions were keener than those of a fox. Just as the gambler jumped, Jem ducked and the would-be assassin shot over his head into a barrel of hot Tom, and his knife clattered on the floor at our hero's feet. Picking it up Jem began to pare his finger nails with it. The crowd in the meanwhile, was in a frenzy of rage over this base attempt on the life of their hero (not ours this time, you note) and dragged the unfortunate "breed" out of the bar with loud cries of "lynch him, lynch him!"

But Jem—soft-hearted as he was hard-hearted—intervened. "Lave he eyes," he cried. "He have suffered enough."

CHAPTER II. THE MYSTERY OF THE MAN IN THE FORD.

Whilst the admirers of our generous and valiant hero (ours again, you see), were still cheering him and drinking his health in good Deadshot Gulch moonshine—they had no need for boot polish then—the rattle of a Ford was heard outside—followed by a series of deafening explosions. Suddenly amidst a burst of gas smoke and following an explosion louder than any of its predecessors, through the window, head first, shot a man with despair, rage and agonising fear written on those parts of his face which were not hidden by whiskers and heavy transmission grease. "Jem Gumchew," he cried. "Be he hurt?" "Hyur I be," replied our hero—"My d-d-darter," croaked the apparition. Jem bent down and applied his car to the man's whiskers. "Don't tell me 'thar be anything wrong with Satyr," he said in broken accents. "The man took my Bad Bill blood and his 'bund this morning," replied the unhappy father. "And I just barely got away in me steremobil and I seed Bad Bill riding with Satyr afore him." Jem waited to hear no more, but jumping to his feet he plunged through the window. (To be continued.)

RIMES OF THE TIMES.

ANCHORED.
A very funny thing occurred
At a dance not long ago.
Although it may seem too absurd,
It's really true y' know.

Whilst a certain chap was dancing
He came to a sudden stop
On one foot he started reeling
With a funny sort of hop.
For five minutes he did stick there
Just as if he couldn't stir.

Annual Meeting St. Thomas's Parish.

The annual meeting of the parishioners of St. Thomas's Church, was held last evening in Canon Wood Hall, and was largely attended. The Rector, Rev. Edgar Jonts, Ph.D., presided, and there were also present Revs. A. Clayton and C. A. Moulton (Curates), the Church Wardens and members of the Select Vestry. Following the opening exercises, and the confirmation of minutes of the previous meeting, the Rector presented his report upon the spiritual work of the parish during the past year. The statistics quoted were a revelation of the steady progress made by the many parish organizations during the period under review, and indicated that a year of unprecedented blessings had been experienced.

The report of Hon. R. Watson, Financial Warden, showed that the finances of the parish were in a most flourishing condition, and that the receipts from all sources reached the handsome total of $34,000. It was pointed out that this satisfactory result was due largely to the Budget System which had just completed its first year's trial.

The following reports were presented, viz., C. E. Cemetery Committee, General Protestant Industrial Society, Sunday Schools, St. Margaret's Guild, Women's Home Missionary Society, Cartwright Mission Circle, St. Andrew's Brotherhood, War Memorial Committee, Dunfield Boys' Club and Llewellyn Club.

Appointments for the ensuing year were made as follows:

Rector's Warden—Mr. W. S. Monroe.
People's Warden—Hon. R. Watson.
Select Vestry—The Rector and Church Wardens (ex-officio), Hon. M. G. Winter, Thos. Winter, R. G. MacDonald, R. Dowden, Hon. Tasker Cook, F. M. Stirling, R. E. Wood, C. E. Hunt, G. R. Cook, Jas. Billard, W. Churchill, A. Findlater.

Auditors—F. C. Berteau, I.S.O., A. Findlater.
Synod Lay Delegates—Hon. M. G. Winter, Jas. H. Monroe.

Cemetery Committee—J. C. Oke, A. G. Carnell, F. Bursell, E. S. Pinnett, R. Dowden.

Protestant Industrial Society—Rev. E. Jones, F. Bursell, Geo. H. Cook.
The resignation by Dr. Jones of his Rectorship, which had previously been announced to the congregation, was referred to by Mr. W. S. Monroe, who expressed the deep sense of regret experienced by all the parishioners at the irreparable loss which the Church and Diocese were about to sustain through the departure of so able a Rector and leader as Dr. Jones, and proposed a resolution expressive of the feelings of the congregation with respect thereto. Speeches voicing deep regret at his departure and appreciation of the outstanding work and ability of Dr. Jones, were made by many of those present and the resolution was carried by acclamation. It was decided to leave to the Select Vestry the choice of a successor to the retiring Rector.

Votes of thanks were then passed to the various parish organizations, after which the Doxology was sung and the meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock.

Limolou Man Declares He's Like Brand New Person Since Taking Tanlac.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Tanlac, for it has built me up to where I feel just like a brand new man," said Louis Chabot, 311 2nd Ave., Limolou, P.Q., recently.

"For a long time my stomach was so disordered I could hardly eat anything. The least bit of food would cause terrible pains in the pit of my stomach, sourness, and hours of misery and distress. Often for days at a time I scarcely ate a bite of food, and many times while at my work I could hardly hold out until the day was over. My back was in an awful condition, and hurt so bad at times I would almost yell out in agony. If I stooped over to pick up something it just seemed like my back would break in two, and I was often so dizzy I could hardly stand up."

"Well, until I got Tanlac I always felt so tired and worn out I could hardly get through with my work, but now I can put in a real man's day's work without a bit of trouble. I have a big appetite, eat anything I want without suffering afterward, and never have a weak or dizzy spell any more. My old time strength and energy has come back to me, and I always feel good. I think Tanlac is the best medicine in the world, for it certainly proved to be the right thing for my case."
