BUICK STANDS HARD SERVICE.
"My fourth Buick is undoubtedly the best car I have ever driven," writes Mr. Theodore Cartel, sole distributor of Blue Bonnet Brand Vegetables, grown in the Magic Valley, San Benito, Texas. "It is fast, has a quick get-away, no vibration; I would not drive a car without four-wheel brakes."

"I drove my 1923 Buick 24,000 miles in ten months and I am still using it in my business. I make a trans-continental trip each year, which takes me to Boston, then across to Portland, Oregon, and down through California, then on back to the Lower Rio Grande Valley. I do not believe that there is any car that will stand the hard, fast, continuous driving that a Buick will."

Each club has two games to play to complete the series. The Hamilton Tigers have held top position of the National Hockey League throughout the season, and it is very likely that they will be Stanley Cup winners for 1925. St. Patrick's of Toronto suffered their first defeat in weeks at the hands of the Hamilton team last night. This game had a bearing on the championship, because the green shirts are running a close second. The Canadiens of Montreal world's champions last year are making a tidy race for third place with the Ottawa Senators.

they plan to do is not known, but the idea, according to one who professes to know, is to move the present Soo team to Detroit and have them form the nucleus of the Detroit pro team in the N.H.L. There is no question but that Detroit would be a money making proposition as far as hockey goes. There are many thousands of Canadians living in Detroit and the district surrounding the city, while many Canadians would undoubtedly go across the river for the games.

SARAZEN IN SHAPE FOR COMING RACES.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Since the announcement of the weights for the Dixie and Metropolitan Handicaps, turf circles have buzzed with argument and discussion as to the prospects of the leading candidates for these and other early classics in the East. Few will question the judgment that gave Sarazen pride of place. Some maintain that Ladkin would have taken the measure of Mrs. Vanderbilt's great gelding at Latonia had the former been able to go to the post. But many good judges who saw that race will dispute that view, for Sarazen unquestionably was a mighty good horse that day.

All through a campaign that was a severe tax upon his powers Sarazen gave evidence of the highest class. Should he and Ladkin come to the post in the Metropolitan in their respective Specials, those in attendance at Belmont Park should witness a great race. It is probable that the Metropolitan will be run during the third week in May.

TO-NIGHT'S BOWLING.
 The Inter-Club Bowling fixtures will be continued to-night with two games as follows:—
 7.30—T. A. vs. Guards.
 9.00—B. L. S. vs. K. of C.

DETROIT MAY PLAY IN N. H. LEAGUE.
 TORONTO, Feb. 25—The Toronto Telegram to-day publishes the following in its sporting columns:—
 "Will Detroit be included in the National Hockey League circuit next winter? That question cannot be answered right now, but it can be said certain promoters interested in the possibilities of professional hockey in the border city have talked with President Calder, of the National Hockey League, on the matter. Mr. Calder admits that during his stay in Toronto last week financiers from the Detroit end approached him about getting a franchise in the league. Further than that, Mr. Calder gives no information."

"From what can be learned, and what has been heard around in hockey circles this winter, the story says that George McNamara, of Sault Ste Marie, Ont., is much interested, along with others, in the Detroit project. What they have done or what the Dominion of Canada, to-day waited on the Dominion Government present two requests, a new schedule of wages for light keepers and assistants, and that keepers of lightships be furnished with motor launches.

YALE WON HOCKEY TITLE.
 BOSTON, Feb. 25—Yale's hockey team defeated Harvard 1-0 here last night in an overtime game which carried the two teams through three extra periods and a total of ninety minutes of play.
 The victory gives Yale the big three hockey championship for the second successive year.

RITOLA SUSPENDED.
 CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 25—Wille Ritola, Finnish distance runner was suspended by the registration committee of the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, at a meeting here to-night, for his failure to appear for competition in the Legion mile, feature event of the American Legion track games in Boston, February 23.

HAS DEMPSEY MET THE MEN HIS PREDECESSORS DID!

(By NORMAN BROWN.)
 Until Jack Dempsey really signs for another battle we may consider him retired. At least he can't be expected to mix his honeymoon with a championship battle.
 Considering Dempsey's ring career temporarily ended the question arises, "What did he do as champ?"
 The consensus of opinion is that he did not meet, asking of his division, men of the caliber that the old timers tackled while defending his title.
 Dempsey has defended his title against Billy Miske, Tommy Gibbons, Georges Carpentier, Bill Brennan and Luis Firpo.
 Brennan, albeit a likeable fighter, was a big husky chap, fast and fairly clever. But that let him out. He did not carry a mule kick.
 Miske was a second rater.
 Luis Firpo was a wild man, not a fighter. He has proved a bust in the ring.
 Carpentier, the most formidable opponent Dempsey has met, as fighters and not wild men are estimated, was on the road when they met. He lacked the stamina of old.

cleverest heavies and fought Tom Sharkey toe to toe for four rounds. It was meant to be an exhibition but Sharkey was intent on knocking out the clever Corbett.

Bob Fitzsimmons had knocked out the popular Peter Maher in a round and met him a second time before winning the title from Corbett. He had fought an eight-round battle with Tom Sharkey, too, losing that battle on a foul to the battling sailor.

Jeffries had knocked out the great Peter Jackson in three rounds while fighting his way to the title. It must be said, however, that Jackson had slipped. However, Jeffries also had kicked Sharkey in 20 rounds and fought 20-round draws with Gus Ruhlin and Joe Choynski before grabbing the crown. During his reign the big brawler gave Sharkey, Corbett, Ruhlin, Fitzsimmons and Jack Munroe a chance at his title.

Dempsey Outclasses His Field.
 Surely Dempsey can produce no record like this last one. And it would be stretching a point to compare his record with that of any of the others.

Only the fact that Dempsey has outclassed every challenger he has met permits consideration of his name as one of the greats of heavy-weight history. By comparison with the crop with which he was raised Dempsey stands out as a wonderful fighter.

What About Gibbons?
 Gibbons, the only man who has stayed the limit with the champion, is in an odd position. If Dempsey was at his best and trying his best in that Shelby fight one of two facts must be accepted. Either Dempsey is just an ordinary fighter and lucky to hold the title or Gibbons is a great fighter and entitled to rank with the leading heavies of the game for all time. It is hard to figure Gibbons on a par with Dempsey. It is hard to figure him even on a par with kid McCoy, Choynski or any of the old fighters who tried in vain to dethrone the old champs.

from his pocket, which was the very thing the police were hoping to find in their possession. This key was taken possession by the police, and later tried in Horwood's door, which it unlocked without any trouble. Rumsey in his statement claimed he had picked up the key. In court this morning the evidence of Mr. Horwood and that of Head Constable Byrne, in connection with the producing of his own identification marks on the $20.00 note, was not sufficient proof that the police had completed this case. Rumsey, the ring leader, who confessed his guilt, was given twelve months, while Murray and March, who were sent by Rumsey to cash the note, also pleaded guilty and were each sentenced to three months imprisonment. The fourth of the gang named Price had his trial postponed until tomorrow. Head Constable Byrne and the detective staff are to be complimented on the manner in which they rounded up the thieves in this case.

of common, was about as expected. This compares with $7,003,665, or $20.71 a share, in 1923. The significant feature is the sharp pick-up in earnings the final quarter, making it the best of any similar period in the company's history and comparable from earnings standpoint with the most active seasons of the year, normally the second and third quarters, when highest earnings are shown.

For nine months of 1924 net was running behind preceding year, with a balance at end of September equal to only $13.93 a share, against $17.72 in preceding year. In final quarter the company earned $1,404,000, or 4.97 a share on the common, against $1,153,000, or $2.89 a share in corresponding quarter of 1923, thus closing up the gap in earnings between the two years.

Business gained sharply following election, making December and January results the largest for this time of year in history. Shipments in January this year were around 800 vehicles, against 400 in January of 1924, a 100 per cent. gain. As orders are coming in faster than shipments are made, there is every indication that the company in the first quarter will establish a record, with earnings in excess of the full year of $6 dividend, or at annual rate of $25 to $30 a share on present outstanding common, against net for first quarter of 1924 of $4.04 a share, which was at a $16 annual rate.

It is impossible at this time, accurately to forecast earnings for 1925. With final payment due in March on 56,622 shares offered in September at $30 a share, outstanding capital will be increased to 339,731 shares. The financing provided additional working capital to take care of new business the company is developing in motor buses and rail cars. Earnings from these sources will be noticeable this year for the first time. It is estimated Mack's business, which had been only a small item in the past compared with commercial truck lines, will in 1925 make up 25 per cent. of gross and eventually may be on a 50-50 basis with commercial truck lines.

In 1923 gross sales were $43,887,000, with net $7,003,665. The small decline in profits in 1924 indicates gross past year was above $45,000,000, as profit margins were somewhat lower. With facilities capable of meeting bus requirements and a steady demand for commercial trucks, it would not be surprising if gross in 1925 were between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000.

While this estimate may seem optimistic, it explains to some extent the management's unwillingness to increase dividends on the common in view of the large earnings and exceptionally liquid position. The $28,000,000 working capital has been husbanded to provide for a substantial expansion in business.

British Empire Exhibition

The Army.

The Services—the Navy, Army and Air Force, will again play a big part in the Government Pavilion. The Army display is this year being transferred from the ground floor to the main entrance floor, and model ships have already been made for a picturesque exhibit in which the history of the Navy will be traced from the early Viking days of sails and oar up to the last word in modern capital ships. All these ships, which are historically accurate down to the latest detail, have been made by experts. Actual relics, so far as it is possible to obtain them, will also be shown side by side with the models.

The same principle will be followed in the aircraft display, which, by means of ingenious models, will trace the history of British aviation back to its earliest days. Special prominence will be given to civil aviation in view of its growing importance as a means of communication and transport.

The Army Gallery will again be devoted to a historical exhibit, showing the various stages in the development of the British Army from the early Anglo-Saxon days up to the present time.

The Post Office exhibit, which last year was instrumental in explaining the workings of our postal service to thousands of visitors, will have increased space this year. Agriculture will be represented on similar lines to the display last year.

Two galleries are being devoted to a great scientific exhibit illustrating the relationship between science and the things of everyday life. In these galleries popular demonstrations will be given throughout the course of the exhibition, showing how much, although he may not realize it, the man in the street is dependent on the aid of the scientist in the things he uses in his daily life.

Home Industries.

The industrial exhibits of home industries will lack nothing by comparison with the displays put up by the Dominions and Colonies. They will be housed in the Palace of Industry and Palace of Engineering, which between them cover 25 acres of ground. With few exceptions, practically every branch of British industry is exhibiting, but the display will in many ways differ entirely from that of last year. While many firms have decided to take much larger exhibiting space in which to show their wares, some industries have felt that they could not again exhibit on such a wide scale. The difference, however, is one of emphasis more than anything else, and this section of the Exhibition will be worthy of the Home Country's place among the commercial and industrial nations of the world.

Palace of Engineering
Price of place in the Palace of Engineering will be given this year to a great display of housing, which is being organized by a Committee, of which the Minister of Health, the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, M.P., is President. Its purpose is to show the practical uses to which the various new methods and materials now recommended for the building of houses can be put, and visitors will be able to judge whether these modern devices will or will not add to the beauty of the countryside. By intelligent inspection, they will be able to compare the relative merits of the many new types of houses which are being proposed for erection by private enterprise and under municipal auspices.

Side by side with the display of houses will be exhibits devoted to such important details as heating, which was last year housed in the Palace of Industry. The characteristic British industry of safes and strong room building will continue to be represented in the Palace of Industry by the world-famous name of Chubb.

The year 1925 marks the hundredth anniversary of the first steam train, or rather "truck," for it was nothing more, to be used for the transport of passengers in this country. To mark the importance of the occasion it is hoped that the Railway Commission will put up large transport exhibits in which will be shown the result of 100 years' progress.

How the steam train is withstanding the attacks of electricity on the one side and motor traction on the other side is one of the many aspects of the question which may be illustrated.

The Army.
For the rest the Palace of Engineering will again contain representative exhibits of many branches of engineering for which Great Britain is famous.

Palace Of Industry.
In the Palace of Industry the system of composite exhibits, which was so popular last year, will be carried a stage further. Some groups of exhibitors, who, in 1924, were not altogether convinced of the wisdom of the proposals put before them for exhibiting by industries rather than by mere collections of individual firms, have this year, as a result of last year's experience, been converted, and have decided to scrap their existing stands and to go in for uniform schemes both of design and decoration.

Last year the planning and designing of the Palace of Industry was, in effect, a compromise between the extreme formalism of certain continental exhibitors and the unrestrained individuality which has marked most former British exhibitions. The compromise proved satisfactory, and this year practically every industry represented in the Palace of Industry will present to the visitor a picture of its achievement which, by the aid of the architect, has an appropriate setting for the display of its wares.

Another improvement in the Palace of Industry, which again is the result of the experience gained last year, is the increased importance given to working exhibits. Working plants and models, of which there were many in the Palace of Industry in 1924, attracted far greater attention than did the collections of show cases and the like which certain industries exposed to view. That lesson, too, has been learned, and this year there will be few industries which do not in one way or another make use of movement.

While it is impossible at this time to go into details about the contents of the Palace of Industry, the following notes give some indication of the probable size and scope of some of its chief sections:—

1. Chemicals.—British chemicals and their allied industries will again occupy a prominent position. The display, as last year, is being organized by the Association of British Chemical Manufacturers. It will again give the public an opportunity of seeing the high state of efficiency of the chemical industry to-day. Special prominence will this year be given to dyeing, a branch of the industry which has made great strides in this country since the end of the war. The Chemical Section will again be contained in a specially decorated chemical hall, the painted frieze of which illustrates the development of the chemical industry from the earliest days.

2. Ulster.—Ulster has decided to double the space she occupied last year. As in the case of the Exhibition of 1924, the peculiar status of the Government of Northern Ireland within the Empire is emphasized by her decision to remain within the Palace of Industry rather than to occupy a Pavilion of her own in the grounds. Her Pavilion will contain a show of the principal industries of Ulster, including shipbuilding, flax, linen and beverages, as well as a working model of Belfast Harbour, which last year was one of the great attractions of its display.

3. Wool.—Wool Textiles, as a result of their experience last year, hope to go in for a still bigger and more comprehensive display this year. The Bradford Chamber of Commerce is interested in organizing a composite exhibit of the various branches of the wool industry, and many individual firms which were represented at Wembley last year are themselves taking bigger exhibiting space. If present plans mature the Mannequin Pavilion, which last year did so much to popularize Bradford goods among visitors to the Exhibition, and in which Bradford spent over £24,000, will be very greatly increased in size.

4. Jewellery.—The section devoted to clocks, watches and jewellery, though a little smaller in extent than that devoted to the similar section last year, will have at least as much interest for visitors. A new position has been found for the section which will

Police Trap Baited

CATCHES CULPRIT.
Some time ago a report was made to the police by Mr. E. J. Horwood that his office on Water Street had been entered on the night of Tuesday, January 20th, and cash and notes amounting to $88.00 had been stolen. The matter was placed in the hands of Head Constable Byrne, and with no clue to work on a close watch was kept on the premises for several days and nights but saw no sign of the would be thieves. The police knowing that the premises had been entered by some person or persons in possession of a skeleton key, realized that a second entrance would be attempted sometime sooner or later, and before much time had been lost a very good scheme had been thought out by Head Constable Byrne with Mr. Horwood to place a valueless $20.00 Commercial note, with some other loose change in a drawer in the desk, with the hope that the thieves might return and later attempt to cash the notes. The loose change with the valueless bank note was placed in the unlocked drawer in the office on the 28th February and when Mr. Horwood returned the next day he found that it had disappeared. A few hours after Mr. Horwood had laid a second report with the police, the Proprietor of the Dominion Stores visited Head Constable Byrne's office and presented him with the $20.00 note, stating that it was worthless, and had been exchanged by the thief in the store on the previous evening. The detective recognized the note by his own identification marks and explained for what purpose it had been used. Head Constable Byrne, with others of the detective staff, then visited the store in question and received a description of the man who had presented the note. The police were not engaged very long on the case when they rounded up four old offenders named Murray, Price, Rumsey and March and placed them under lock and key. Before being searched at the lockup, Rumsey dropped a key

The Best Advertising Medium in Newfoundland

Mr. Wm. Wrigley, Jr., the chewing gum king, of Chicago, in explaining the rapid growth of his company, said it was all due to advertising. "But," interrupted one of his friends, travelling with him to the Pacific Coast, "you have already built up a remarkable business. Why not save some of this advertising money and run along on momentum for a while?" "Well," Mr. Wrigley said, "we have had a fine, fast trip West from Chicago so far. How much progress do you think we would make if they took off the engine?"

Complete Enfranchisement in Sight

In those districts in which the hardship of under-representation has been tolerated for so long, the progress of the Re-distribution Bill through the House will be keenly watched.

So admirably suited to our requirements appear to be the terms of the Bill, and so great is the need for such a reform, that we feel convinced little opposition will be raised against it.

Among the many admirable features of the bill is the provision to make the districts correspond as far as possible to the particular industries of the country.

To those who have laboured in drafting the Bill a great deal of credit is due. The work involved has been tremendous, but they have the gratification of submitting to the House a practical measure of reform long overdue.

Today, it is understood, the Prime Minister will introduce the Women's Franchise Bill. Of the details we are unable to speak at present.

Stimulating Interest in the Board of Trade

It is the intention of the Council of the Board to arrange for a series of meetings during the year, and wherever possible to have an address given on a subject which concerns the trade and industry of the country.

the evils complained of may be removed.

This movement on the part of the Council to stimulate interest in the work of the Board of Trade is deserving of strong support. One of the objects of the Chamber is "to secure to its members the benefits of co-operation in the furtherance of their legitimate pursuits."

To-Morrow's Meeting of Board of Trade

A general meeting of the Board of Trade will take place on Friday, March 6th, at 12 noon.

This is the first of a series of meetings to be held during the year, through which it is hoped to create and maintain an active interest in the work and problems of the Board.

At each meeting a report will be submitted by the Council; the matters referred to therein will be open for discussion, and whenever possible an address will be given on some topic of general interest.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

March 4th.—This morning up and to my barber's to have myself trimmed. Much business all the morning, being a half day, and nowhere is there any gossip to be heard.

Coming home, my wife discourses of Briggs, his new motor coach, and thinks it is high time I did myself buy a new one, since she is put to shame to drive about in our old coach, being full of rattles and squeaks.

Non-comes Povey, and took me to his home to hear his daughter play the piano, being immoderately proud of her; but Lord, it was enough to make any man sick to hear her: yet was I forced to commend her highly.

So to the House, being come at question time, and do hear the Prime Minister tell how the Government will investigate the relations between Besco and the workers on Bell Island.

Mr. Bennett discourses at length on the Highway Bill in second reading, and do explain the working of the proposed Commission.

But Lord, what do cause the greatest interest is Mr. Monroe, being that he gives notice of a Bill to Enfranchise the Women, and he thinks that even for the first Reading, 'twill be nigh impossible to get into the House since 't will be like to be filled with women, albeit I trust, not with their knitting as they did attend the Walker enquiry.

THORBURN—MACKLIN.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized in the Presbyterian Church at 7.30 last night, when Mr. Rupert MacKlin, of Portmouth, Eng., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Jean Thorburn, Hamilton Avenue, St. John's.

The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives and friends of the contracting parties, and Rev. R. J. Power, Presbyterian Church, officiated.

Following the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a reception was held, and the toasts of the contracting parties duly honored.

The wedding presents received were numerous and costly, which testified to the esteem in which the young couple are held.

Mr. MacKlin is a machinist, employed at the Government Marine Shops. In athletic circles he is well known as a footballer, having played last season with the Guards championship team.

The Telegram joins with their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. MacKlin, many happy years of wedded bliss.

Notes for Women

The women have spoken, they won't be put down. The spell has been broken, no matter how broken.

No longer we slumber, the battle is on. Large is our number, and still growing stronger. The fight we will win it, as everyone knows.

There's Higgins and Hickman, we say it with pride. Our foes will look sick men, with those on our side.

There's another, the weak, when the battle is on. Who for us will speak, 'tis the sturdy Sir John.

Our foes they may grin, but their "cake will be dough" For we surely shall win, when we're "backed by Monroe."

The women are clever, there's none to gainsay, From slavery they'll sever, they'll soon have their day.

When a vote they'll be getting, the rich and the poor, Men won't be regretting, this gift I am sure.

Some try to offset it, "to pot they may go." There's no doubt we'll get it, when "backed by Monroe."

For it they've been praying for many a year, There's no more delaying, in danger they fear.

For then right is admitted, then worth gets applause, That women are "fitted" for making our laws.

No right minded fellow, to this will say no. We're all feeling mellow, we're "backed by Monroe."

Mr. Fred Lukins, who has been confined to his home with a bad attack of Pleuro-pneumonia, is somewhat improved and hopes to be about again in a few days.

Enjoyable Banquet

COCHRANE STREET Y.M.C.C.

A novelty in banquets so far as St. John's is concerned, was given by the Cochrane St. Young Men's Bible Class last night, when the members entertained their fathers and a few other guests. The tables were laid out in the splendid school hall, and the catering and attendance was undertaken by a committee of ladies whose service was most excellent in every particular. The hall was prettily decorated, the tables most attractively spread, while there was a plentiful supply of good things. The affair was taken by Mr. George Cooper, the Class Leader, who made everyone feel at home by his well-chosen words of welcome. The toast given was somewhat lengthy, but the speaking was so generally excellent that it was not in the least tiresome. An unique feature was that each toast was proposed by a member of the class, and the young men acquitted themselves splendidly. During the evening solos were rendered by Messrs. Harry Courtney and Fred Wylie. The Cochrane Street A.B.C. has been only recently reorganized, and the President of the Class, Mr. Thomas Davis, was able last night to report good progress. The toast given was as follows:

- THE KING—Prop. The Chairman; Resp. National Anthem.
- THE CHURCH—Prop. Chas. Bages; Resp. Rev. C. H. Johnson.
- THE EMPIRE—Prop. Kelvin Marshall; Resp. A. Mews, C.M.G.
- THE SCHOOL—Prop. Harold Wylie; Resp. A. C. Peters.
- NEWFOUNDLAND—Prop. Ross Young; Resp. Capt. Geo. Whiteley.
- THE CLASS—Prop. R. H. Palmer; Resp. Thos. Davis, Pres.
- THE YOUNG LADIES' BIBLE CLASS—Prop. John Noseworthy; Resp. Miss Bradbury.
- SISTER CLASSES—Prop. James Pines; Resp. J. S. Currie, for Governor; J. M. Barbour, for George Street; E. Bursley, for Wesley.
- OUR CITY—Prop. G. Butt; Resp. J. Morris.
- TRADE AND COMMERCE—Prop. Geo. Whiteley, Jr.; Resp. Wm. Drover.
- OUR GUESTS—Prop. Wm. Joyce; Resp. E. P. James.
- THE LADIES—Prop. Geo. Hynes; Resp. A. E. Parkins.

Savannah Sailing Delayed

The Savannah, which sailed at 8 o'clock last night for Boston and Philadelphia, was delayed several hours through the actions of some fishermen and fishermen who, as the ship was hauling off from the Furness Pier, deserted the ship. Sergeant Peet and a couple of Constables surrounded the men and had them landed on board ship. The men claimed the ship had a trying experience coming out from the Old Country and that the Captain could have handled her better.

Great Racing Film at the Nickel Theatre

The Nickel Theatre offers for the first half of this week the great racing story entitled "Come On Loving Cup." A woman in the saddle! Her wonderful ride and hard-fought victory! This is only one of the big scenes in this realistic racing drama—by the author as "Kissing Cup's Race." The picture is a masterpiece, Violet Hopson and James Lindsay play important parts. The big race will hold you spellbound—the winning jockey—a woman—this thrilling climax to a thrilling story. From the bell to the post you experience more thrills in this picture than you would in fifty race meetings. Comfort you follow the race, and cheer with bated breath the progress of the leading horses, and the smashing victory of the favorite—ridden by a woman! The wonderful "close-ups" are a tremendous tribute to the camera. The scenes showing the leading horses starting at the least—the heroic career of their riders to forge ahead, which makes a mighty thrilling spectacle. Don't miss "Come On Loving Cup," or you'll miss the thrill of a

Runaway Accident

HEAD BYRNE INJURED IN ATTEMPT TO STOP RUNAWAY HORSE

Yesterday afternoon while Head Constable Byrne and Detective Lee were crossing Gover Street on their way to the Court House, they saw a horse with an express wagon attached, moving at a rapid rate along that thoroughfare, apparently beyond control of the driver. When the vehicle had approached a little closer it proved to be that of J. J. Quigley, Grocer, and driven by a lad named Connolly, with whom two children were seated in the express. Head Byrne noticed the shafts swinging from side to side and, fearing danger to its occupants, promptly stepped out to stop the animal by making a grab for the reins. He missed and, in doing so, was hit by the hub of the wheel and thrown to the ground. Detective Lee, upon going to Head Byrne's aid, found that he had been knocked unconscious and it was quite apparent that he had met with severe injuries. He was then assisted to the police station where first aid was rendered, and it was found that there had been large cuts inflicted in the legs and head, and some injury to his arm. As a result of the accident Mr. Byrne will be confined to his home for several days. The runaway was brought to a standstill further up the street. The occupants escaped unhurt.

New Artistes With Arlie Marks Players

Will Appear To-night in Novelty Vaudeville.

To-night patrons of the Casino will see a play with a novel twist; a production that is strikingly realistic and as enacted by Miss Arlie Marks and her players will be the hall-mark of excellence. The bill is entitled "The Sidewalks of New York" and in which will appear twenty local boys and girls.
The new artistes, DeLans and Addele, who arrived by the Rosinall on Monday night will be seen in their side-splitting novelty act. These people have made an enviable name for themselves on the Continent, and it goes without a doubt they will become fast favorites with local theatre-goers. Apart from this act there will be the usual five big vaudeville turns which are a household word in St. John's.
On Saturday afternoon there will be a special matinee for the children at which there will be something of particular interest. The bill for Monday next is the popular comedy-drama which had such a tremendous run in New York, entitled "The Flapper". Book reservations early as there is sure to be a big demand for seats for this play.

PURSE VERSUS SPIRIT GENEROSITY.

There is a generosity of the purse and there is a generosity of the spirit. Some people exercise one and some the other and some blessed souls are capable of both. I think people expect more gratitude for generosity of the purse but I suspect that so far as genuine spontaneous cordial gratitude is concerned, the generosity of the spirit really rouses more than the generosity of the purse.

As Richard Would Wish I have a friend who has been exceedingly kind to her mother-in-law. She is a widow and without being obliged to do so she has continued the financial help that her husband gave to his mother in his lifetime. Also she has been punctilious about sending her nice gifts for Christmas and on her birthdays, just as her son used to do. "I know it's what Richard would want me to do," she says.

Her friends tell her there aren't many women who would do as much and she says, "Well, I don't know, I try to do what I ought to do, but you know one thing that makes it hard is that I don't feel as if mother L. really cared for me in spite of all I've done (another son's wife) in spite of the fact that they don't do half as much for her as I do. She just thinks everything Lucy does is perfect. I know she'd much rather have Lucy come to see her than me."

But Only From The Purse But the point is that it is wholly generosity of the purse. My friend is one of those people who do what they think is right but who do it coldly without any warmth of friendliness or liking behind it. My friend does not like her mother-in-law, she never has. She has no interest in the things that interest her; she thinks her ignorant and narrow minded, and while she is always courteous to her in an impersonal way it is impossible that the other woman should not feel the sense of superiority and the lack of friendliness, and respond with the same absence of kindly feeling.

What Lucy Gives Lucy, on the other hand, is one of those kindly, friendly people who have to perfection the generosity of the spirit. She is always interested in her mother-in-law's interests, ready to listen to all her small gossip of the neighbourhood, quick to sympathize with her feud with the woman next door, quick to notice any new garment her mother-in-law has bought and to admire it, and her appearance in it, tactful in her gratitude for the cookies her mother sent the children, tender in her manner toward her.

Is it strange that Mrs. L. looks forward to Lucy's calls more than to those of her other daughter-in-law, in spite of the fact that she owes more in the material way to the latter. Says Hazlitt: "We are thankful for goodwill rather than for service, for the motive rather than for the quantum of favor received, a kind word is never forgotten, while we cancel prouder and weightier obligations, and those who esteem us or who evidence partiality for us are those whom we still consider our best friends."

Lord Halsbury—Inventor

It is not generally known that Lord Halsbury, K.C., is an inventor of distinction as well as a great legal leader. He was, it may be recalled, leading counsel for Mr. Robinson in the recent Bank case. He has patented what is stated by experts to be a perfect anti-dazzle motor-car headlight. A test of the invention was made recently under the observation of the director of a British firm of lamp makers and the representative of a French motor-car factory. The headlights, which were on Lord Halsbury's car, were tried all ways, and proved to be entirely satisfactory.

Jumping Over Trees

Would you like to be able to jump over a house if you would, you should go in for the newest sport, - balloon-jumping.

A small balloon, about the size of a haystack, is attached to your little exertion will send you many feet into the air, over houses and trees or any other obstacle. You must be careful, however, for the merest touch of your foot sends you up twice your own height. The height to which you may jump depends entirely on your strength.

The balloons used in this novel sport will fold up into a pack on your back. It is a fairly expensive hobby, of course, but helium, with which the balloons are filled, has become very much cheaper since the war and now costs threepence a cubic foot.

The balloons are adjusted to the weight of the wearer and are attached by straps round the chest. It is at all windy, lead weights are carried so that you shall not jump too far.

LOST FRIENDSHIP.

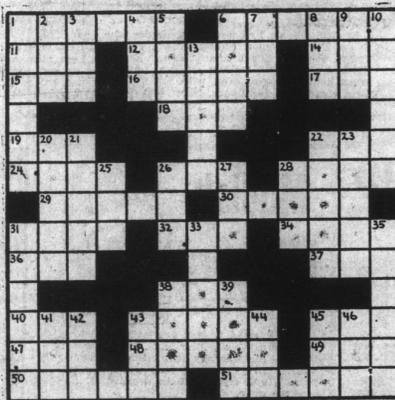

James Jack-smith lives across the road behind your greenwood trees; he used to come to my abode and spend long hours with me, and we would talk of song and ode and of the rule of three. What time the evening shadows fell I always looked for James, and we would argue, long and well, the poets and their games, and tales of legends we would tell, of famous men and dames. But now, alas, he comes no more, when garish day withdraws, I see him pass my cor-rage door, but never does he pause; this evening, feeling sad and sore, I asked him for the cause. "Long since," he muttered, "we'd devote the gloaming hours to chat, discuss the minstrel's ringing note, the singer's laureled hat; but since you bought yourself a book, you talk of naught, but that. We used to read the works of Blake, that strange, elusive gent, and struggle, till our heads would ache, to find out what he meant; an hour with Browning we would take, on useful learning bent. It was a comfort then to rest beneath your tree and vine, and talk of authors great and blest, and read them line by line; I always seemed a welcome guest, and you seemed high and fine. Those golden hours are gone, alas, with all their chaste desires; on fadden feet the evenings pass, quench-ed are the sacred fires; you'll only talk of oil and gas and non-skid rubber tires."

When Cathedrals Crash

NURSING OUR SICK CHURCHES.

The condition of some of our cathedrals has been the subject of much talk lately, and the grouting machine and death-watch beetle are rapidly becoming as famous as appendicitis. Crumbling walls and worm-eaten timbers are, however, by no means novel phenomena, though they should certainly not be neglected on that account. Such records as we have of our cathedral fabrics indicate an almost continuous process of repair and rebuilding from the eleventh to the sixteenth centuries.

In the seventeenth century the damage done to cathedrals and other churches throughout England during the Civil War necessitated a great deal of important restoration work - at Lichfield, for instance, where the steeple had been battered down and the church was in ruins. The eighteenth century divines were not good tenants of the fabrics which were under their care, and through the whole of the nineteenth century another great restoration movement was in progress.

Although we may deplore some of the results of this, we cannot deny that the work was generally urgent, and that, on the whole, it was honestly done. Architects can only learn by experience (writes Sir Charles Nicholson in The Daily Express), and the tradition of church building had almost died out during the slothful eighteenth century. The marvel is not that the nineteenth-century men made blunders, but that they did not make more.

It is true that the spire of Chichester and the west towers of Hereford and St. John's, Chester, fell during the nineteenth century, but these disasters were not the fault of nineteenth-century architects, and on the other side of the scale we have an excellent record of dangerous structures successfully preserved, as, for instance, the central towers of Hereford, St. Alban, and St. David's, the west front of Peterborough, the Lady Chapel of Winchester, and literally hundreds of medieval buildings all over Great Britain.

The same thing has been done on the Continent, but there, as a rule, by State aid and by official architects. They have had their troubles in France, too. A few years ago the vaulting of Orleans Cathedral collapsed, and the drastic character of some of the restoration work we see on the Continent makes us inclined to be thankful that in this country the care of our old churches has hitherto been left to those who use and love them.

Probably nowhere are the cathedrals and parish churches more better cared for than in England; this has been accomplished without any State aid or official interference. Our Cathedral bodies usually retain a consulting architect, called sometimes the "surveyor to the fabric," whose duty is to examine the building at stated intervals and to direct the necessary repairs, which are carried out either by a staff of workmen under a resident clerk of works, or by a local builder. Repairs must be almost instant-decayed stones must be replaced, defective leadwork or rotten timber renewed, broken windows mended, and so forth.

The Test of Time. From time to time, however, extraordinary repairs become necessary, as happened in the thirteenth and fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. A tower or a pillar or a roof may become worn out during several centuries of hard service. This is the case to-day with the towers of Lincoln and the roof of Wakefield. It may be long before the case with certain of the pillars at Wells. The same thing occurred a few years ago at Peterborough and Winchester, and it is now happening at St. Paul's.

Those who are privileged to deal with these ancient fabrics can never cease to wonder at the skill of the builders who accomplished such great achievements with indifferent materials, who took risks such as no modern builder would dare to take, and whose work nevertheless stood the test of centuries of storm, neglect, and sometimes violence.

Who Invented the Calendar?

The earliest known time measurements were made by the Egyptians. The Babylonians had previously referred to a year as the year of a special event.

In the forty-second century B.C. the Egyptians divided the year into twelve equal months of thirty days each. Five feast days were kept at the end of the year to bring the total length of the year to 365 days.

Julius Caesar fixed the mean length of the year at 365 1/4 days. He decreed that every fourth year should have 366 days, the others having 365. The first Julian year began on January 1st of the forty-sixth year before the birth of Christ. In the distribution of the days he adopted more simple plan than the calendar system which preceded the Julian Calendar. He ordered that January, March, May, July, September, November should have thirty days, and the others thirty, or February, which should usually be twenty-nine, but thirty in a fourth year. This order was changed later by Augustus, so that the month of August should have as many days as July, which was named after Julius Caesar. February thus had twenty-nine days, and November each lost a day, which were added to October and December respectively.

St. John's, Feb. 26.—An accident is believed here to be the cause of the head-on collision this afternoon between the C. P. R. Chicago express and a standing freight car at Glen Tay station, near St. John's.

The freight car next to the freight engine was completely demolished. Two passengers, Albert Labelle, a passenger from Montreal, and Walter Norris, an engineer, were seriously injured and were removed to Perth Amherst. Obituary

MISS PEARL JAMES.

The passing of Miss Charles Dorothea Pearl James, which occurred last night at the home of her parents, Bonaventure Avenue, will be mourned with regret by a large circle of friends. Stricken down at the early age of 22 years, her death comes as a severe blow to the parents who idolized her—she being their only child. In October last the development of Tuberculosis confined Miss James to her home. The best medical attention and all the care of loving parents proved of no avail and at 8:45 last night she passed beyond the veil. The funeral takes place at 3 p.m. to-morrow from her late residence, Bonaventure Avenue.

Father of Medicine

The foundations of medical science were laid in the early part of the first century, by Claudius Galen. Galen was born at Pergamum, in Asia Minor. He spent some years at Alexandria and later went to Rome, where he wrote a work on anatomy and even performed dissections upon animals.

He considered that disease was largely based upon the four humors of man—bile, blood, phlegm, and black bile—which were regarded as related to (but not identical with)—the four elements, fire, air, earth and water—being supposed to have characters similar to these.

Thus, to bile, as to fire, were attributed the properties of heat, and dryness; to blood and air those of heat and moistness; and finally black bile, like earth, was said to be cold and dry.

Galen supposed that an alteration in the due proportion of these humours gave rise to disease, though he did not consider this to be its only cause. Thus cancer, it was thought, might result from an excess of black bile, and rheumatism from an excess of phlegm.

He regards old age as resulting from a diminution of the fiery and aqueous elements. Hence the necessity of keeping old people warm and giving them hot liquids to consume.

Dramatic Thrills in "The Avalanche"

DYNAMIC CHARLES JONES STARS IN STORY OF WESTERN ACTION AND LOVE.

The announcement from the Majestic Theatre that the special William Fox offering, "The Avalanche" starring Charles Jones, will be played beginning to-night is of unusual interest.

"The Avalanche" takes its name from the dynamic climax to which the story speeds, with Jones "stopping on the action" with characteristic daring and abandon. The big highlight preceding the climax is the onslaught of an avalanche, especially staged for this picture in the California hills. This avalanche, vigorous in its conception and thrilling in its execution, buries the cabin in which Charles Jones, as Tod Musgrave, holds his treacherous friend and the girl he loves captive.

The picture commences with one of those characteristic Jones exhibitions—a free-for-all fight, feverish, primitive.

Playing the feminine lead is Ruth Clifford. Maurice B. Flynn is a convincing heavy. Others in the cast include Kathleen Kcy, Hardy Kirklund, and Eugene Pallette, who plays a Mexican pseudo-heavy to the real villain of Flynn.

Director Emmett J. Flynn has handled the details of the story effectively. The story is an original from George Scarborough's pen, adapted by Bernard McConville.

The musical program of Jacobson and Evans is something worth while. A Fox News Reel and Comedy will complete a fine bill. The greatest of them all "The Birth of a Nation" will be shown next week at popular prices the first theatre to exhibit it at thirty cents admission. It is now running in New York Chicago, Montreal at top notch prices. See later announcements.

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

I hope the little rabbit's paw Won't break beneath the old wolf's paw. For goodness me! His heavy knocks Would almost splinter granite rocks!

Isn't it dreadful to think that the two little rabbits should be frightened so often by such disagreeable people as Mr. Wicked Wolf, Old Man Weasel and Danny Fox. Every day our little bunnies must be on the lookout to escape from them, but it is too bad and three worse to have one of them knocking on the kitchen door.

Just then scounded the jingle, jingle of sleigh bells. Peeking out through the window curtains Lady Love, the little rabbit's pretty bunny mother, saw Mr. Wicked Wolf running swiftly away and, to her delight, the Billy Goat Stagecoach coming down the road, with the good Old Dog Driver on the front seat.

Jingle, jingle! went the bells on the dancing billy-goats. Snap, snap! went the old dog's whip as he looked after the fast disappearing old wolf, and the next minute the little rabbits heard the old dog call:

'I'm hear with the stagecoach. Newly painted bright red. In the place of each wheel Is a steel runner sled.

My Billy Goat Team Is prancing with fun Impatient to set Off again on a run. Please don't keep me waiting, We will go for a ride, The stagecoach is warm And comfy inside."

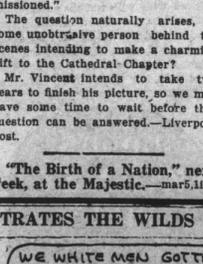

very long sweet Lady Love was dressed in her warm fur coat, and the bunny boy in his, and together they hopped down the winding path through the bushes.

"Hop right in," shouted the Old Dog Driver, "we will stop at the Farmyard for the Feathered Folk and then call for dear Uncle Lucky. It's a glorious night for a sleigh ride," and clicking his tongue against his teeth he snapped his whip and away went the Billy Goat Team as fast as four comets. Pretty fast, I'll tell the Rabbit World, yes siree-buns.

Up the Old Cow Path through the meadow dashed the billy goats, shaking their horns to make the sleigh bells tinkle, and pretty soon, not so very long, they stopped right at the big gate of the Farmyard.

"Bow wow," barked Old Slem, peering out of his Kennel House. "What's the matter?"

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

MR. C. LAKE presented a petition on the subject of harbor facilities at the town of Burin. Mr. Lake and Hon. J. J. Long urged the need of improvements, and pointed out that out of the port there were 38 vessels totalling 1754 tons engaged in the bank fishery and foreign trade, and unless they were provided with the needed improvements they would have to abandon the place.

MR. C. J. CAHILL presented a petition from the residents of St. Thomas on the subject of fishery regulations. The petition was supported by Hon. Woodford.

NOTICE OF QUESTION.
Notice of question was given by several members of the Opposition. THE MINISTER OF FINANCE introduced a bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Income Tax Act, 1922."

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.
THE PRIME MINISTER told Mr. Warren it is the intention of the Government to hold an enquiry or investigation into the relations between the British Empire Steel Corporation, Ltd., and the Government, and into the operation of the iron mines at Wabana with a view to an amendment of the present contract, if necessary, and the improvement of the relations between that Company and the miners.

In reply to Mr. Hickman's question if the report was true that Mr. Parsons is to be pensioned and Mr. Young appointed in his place, the MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS said the matter was being considered by his department.

In reply to Mr. BROWN the MINISTER OF POSTS said the mail courier between Lewisporte and Boyd's Cove was doing the work at $10 per trip less than the previous courier.

Regarding the establishment of a Junior College the PRIME MINISTER said that no decision had been arrived at.

The MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS stated that by his department $1,861,200.00 fire insurance was carried on Public Buildings. The 1923-24 policies had been cancelled and new ones issued.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.
The Bill entitled "An Act to Amend 11 Geo. V. Cap. 45, entitled 'An Act to Incorporate the Women's Patriotic Trust Fund and for other purposes,'" was given third reading.

The Bill entitled "An Act Further to Amend the Act 61 Victoria Cap. 47," entitled "An Act relating to the Constitution of the Supreme Court, and the Acts in Amendment thereof," was given third reading.

The Bills relating to Lobsters and Firearms were deferred.

The Bill relating to Light Dues passed Committee stage. By this Bill the taxes on local vessels are removed.

The Bill entitled "An Act to Amend Cap. 24 of the Consolidated Statutes (3rd Series) entitled 'Of Payment of Certain Fees and Charges by Stampers'" passed Committee stage.

When the Bill to Amend Cap. 134 of the Consolidated Statutes entitled "Of the Operation of Saw Mills" was referred to Committee of the Whole the MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE pointed out that the amendment like that in the previous Bill was for the purpose of facilitating the auditing in his Department.

MR. HALFYARD pointed out that thousands of dollars are owing to the Government on account of the Royalty charge of $1.00 per m. not being collected.

The Minister said he had very little hope of collecting the Royalty owing to the poor circumstances of those operating the mills. He thought that the Saw Mills Act might be amended so as to eliminate the Royalty tax.

MR. R. HIBBS also spoke on the matter and referred to some length to the waste prevailing in the lumbering industry, particularly by not cutting close to the stump.

MR. WARREN also spoke along the same lines. The Bill passed Committee stage. The Bill to further amend Cap. 129 of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Of Crown Lands, Timber Mines and Minerals" passed Committee stage.

MR. HICKMAN suggested that the Crown Lands Act should be amended so that timber limits may be sold by public auction.

THE MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE & MINES thought it was a pity that some action along these lines was not taken years ago. The position now was that there was not enough timber limits held by the Crown to worry about. He referred to the grant made to Reid a short while ago for which $45,000 was obtained.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE pointed out that the Act, carried out, would bring results. The past practice was, accepting the minimum amount for any area applied for. The only transfer of timber which the present Government made netted $45,800, whereas under previous practices possibly not more than $800 would have been obtained. Of the Crown limits in Nfld., the speaker said, there was not enough left to make a decent size raft.

In moving second reading of the Highroads Bill, The Colonial Secretary, Hon. J. R. Bennett, said in part: "Mr. Speaker, in rising to propose the second reading of this Bill, I would crave the indulgence of the House for a short time to consider some of its features."

It might be claimed that the Bill is somewhat revolutionary in character, because it is the first time, I think, in the history of Newfoundland that an attempt has been made to go outside of the beaten track in the way of looking after our highways, except the excellent work which has been done by the Road Commission.

The Bill that is before us to-day is one that has for its object a very long step in the way of improvement of the roads and highways in this country, and it is part of a programme that has been adopted by the present administration; a programme that is comprehensive in character; a programme that, if worked out, will, I believe, have far reaching results for good.

This might be claimed to be the first step in the inauguration of the tourist policy of the present administration. Heretofore we have not made any effort, we have not endeavored to attract the large number of people that come around yearly looking for some place of recreation, some places as health resorts, some places that have attractions that many people cannot find in their own environment.

This country with a wonderful reputation as one abounding in natural resources and with scenery second to none, has late outside the track of the tourist invasion which many other countries are experiencing at the present time. We have heard and read a lot about the tourist policy of other places and can easily appreciate the efforts they are making to attract the large numbers of the leisured classes who have plenty of money and are ready to spend it on their amusements and comforts. The Atlantic to-day is the highway of a fleet of large and magnificently equipped steamers plying from America to Europe with huge numbers of tourists, and the countries of the Old World are receiving the flow of gold which these people bring with them. We are right in the track of this traffic, and we have unsurpassed possibilities in the way of attractions, but they have never been utilized to the advantage of our people.

The tourist industry, if it may so term it, is a source of revenue to the United States, and it has extended to Canada, because though formerly the motor car was a luxury, it is now a necessity and the millions who own them in America cross over the border to enjoy the advantages of the neighbouring country.

And this has become so general at the present time that the man who a few years ago made the trip because he had a limousine, has now been forced to go further afield for his enjoyment, and the smaller man with the fiver is taking his place. These people are now coming down in their hundreds to Nova Scotia and the Eastern Provinces and their gold is keeping up the people of the communities which they visit. But there is no part of Nova Scotia or America that has the attractions which Newfoundland and possess. And what have we been doing. Shutting our eyes and leaving the people of other countries to do everything they can to develop their resources while we do nothing towards obtaining the revenue which we should derive from our God-sent advantages. It is true that we cannot expect tourists to come here unless we are prepared to properly house them. The average tourist, and I have no intention of disparaging those who have come here from time to time on the Red Cross and other boats—is not of the moneyed class, but generally from the ranks of the working people and comes here for a short holiday, taking advantage of the cheap trip. But the tourist we want is the one with unlimited means and who is prepared to spend his money and not go away after a day or two, but stay here for the whole summer, and by his spending help the people—or, to turn into revenue the attractions with which our country has been so abundantly blessed. Now it has been said that the first step necessary for the attraction of tourists is the building of a hotel or series of hotels, but while I agree with the contention that hotels are needed, they are not the first thing. It is no use to have a hotel or in which they may sit in comfort and get the benefit of the air and see the attractions we offer. And I say the good foundation of the enterprise is good roads, properly constructed, and of such a character as to suit those who, perhaps, are more particular than ourselves in this respect.

Of course some will say in this connection that the Monroe Government is spending money for the benefit of only the Americans and the wealthy classes, so that these may travel in comfort, but I may state that we have another object in view in this matter, and that is to get the gold which the tourists will spend from the day of their arrival till the day of their departure and thus prove to be revenue producers. It is true we may not have a tourist traffic next year that will be very appreciable, but I am convinced that in four or five years we can build up one that will astound every member who is in this House this evening. We already have the attractions and we want only a few essentials to minister to these people who desire comforts. They will not travel in cattle boats as they have the money to journey in luxury and other countries are putting the best steamers available at their disposal. The Government in building the new boat to ply between Port au Basques and North Sydney is taking an initial step that will prove of great value. She is to be called the Caribou, a significant name, as she will be the forerunner of others, just as the Regiment which bore that name was the forerunner of others in gaining prestige in the war. On the West Coast we have unsurpassed natural attractions—salmon and trout streams without number, lakes and streams and a most beautiful coastline. The vicinity of the Humber and Bonne Bay is not surpassed in scenic beauty by any part of the old world or new. Are all these natural assets to remain unproductive. No—we are in the tourist business and have every confidence that every dollar we spend in fostering it will be returned to us tenfold, and that people who now may think we are merely spenders will in future years look upon us as the saviors of the country financially. How could we get along to-day if we had to depend solely on the fish which we get from the sea? Half of our people would not be able to live at all, but for the mines and other resources which have been developed. We have even now come to the point where with all our other revenue producing enterprises we are up against it still, and I feel sure that when the accounts of the country are produced in this House by the Hon. the Minister of Finance they will show that we have got to have other sources of revenue to help us out in the present and future. I crave the indulgence of the House in referring at length to this Bill and hope that it will receive the fair consideration of the members on both sides. This is a somewhat revolutionary as it means the replacing of a body of men that I have the highest admiration for. I refer to the Road Commission who have done great work with the facilities at their disposal, especially in connection with the improvement of the roads around Conception Bay and the Southern Shore. I can look back to the time when the roads in these sections were in a very bad condition but to-day they are practically boulevards. The work was done by those men, who volunteered to do it, and they did it well. They are worthy of every commendation. While I regret the passing of the Commission, it cannot be expected that these gentlemen can devote their time to such a far-reaching project as we have in view at the present time. Not alone in Conception Bay, Placentia Bay, and along the Southern Shore have the roads to be improved, but we have to develop the West Coast also. The highways about Conception Bay will of course be given consideration first as St. John's will be the centre at which we will attempt to provide accommodation in the beginning.

Well let us try the roads. I might say, though, that these roads are not all going to be built this year, or next year, or the year after. This policy will have to go down through a series of years and the work will be in charge of the Government Engineer, a man who we are all glad to know is available to undertake this very important work. Everybody knows of Mr. Hall's ability as an Engineer and it is fortunate for us that his services are now available because of the change of ownership of the railway. The railway is now a public institution and does not require the services of a Government Engineer. When the railway was under the management of the Reid Newfoundland Company Mr. Hall's duties were confined to inspecting the building of bridges, culverts, tracks, and everything appertaining to the railroad was done under Mr. Hall's direct supervision, and he was responsible to the Government and had to see that the Reid Newfoundland Company kept up to their contract. Under present conditions, Mr. Joyce is the Government Engineer as far as the railroad is concerned. So I say it is fortunate to have the services of Mr. Hall, who will be in charge of this highway project, and under his personal direction the whole thing will be carried on. We have ample evidence of Mr. Hall's ability with regard to the building of bridges all over the country. If one wishes to call at my office or the office of the Prime Minister to-morrow morning, he will see for himself pictures of some fifteen or twenty bridges that were constructed by Mr. Hall within the past few years—a credit to the country, a credit to himself and an ornament to the roads with which they are connected.

This afternoon the honourable member for Trinity, Mr. Halfyard, presented a petition from Rev. Canon Smart and others of Heart's Content, and he alluded very graphically to the possibilities and attractions of that particular part of the country. The barrens in that particular place do not contain much scenery it is true, but, as stated by Rev. Canon Smart, it has its other attractions, such as game and fish, etc. What is true of that part of the country is true of almost every yard from here to Port au Basques.

Those who will compose the Commission, he referred to will, I feel sure, be qualified to act on that Commission. Nobody will be put on the commission for the sake of political expediency. Mr. Hall will be the Chief Commissioner and three other Commissioners will be appointed to act under him. The powers of the Commission are far-reaching. They will have the right to go on with any highway that they may so designate after the Governor-in-Council has approved of it. They will have the right to take charge of that highway and build it according to the plans they have laid down. They will have the right to stop traffic on that highway, and they will have the right to acquire property and plant trees and divert streams and go through private property, and have Municipal Government, acquire towns, and build highway and in cooperation with the Municipality, develop the roads as they go through in conformity with Municipal Regulations, providing they do not clash with the Regulations of the Commission.

The appointments under this Commission will be for two years. All appointments will lapse after two years, but any member or members of the Commission can be re-appointed. I think this is a very wise precaution, because a man may be appointed to-morrow and in a year's time he may show his unfitness. Well, the Governor-in-Council has the right to remove him, and put some other man in his place or have the right to re-appoint him. Hence I say it is not alone a very wise precaution, but it is a very essential one for the proper carrying out of the work. Also this Commission will not be an unpaid Commission. It is not anticipated that work of this kind, which will require a great deal of care, time and attention, should be undertaken by those who will serve on this Commission without some remuneration for their services. I am glad to see this provision in this Bill. Whilst we have had many instances of the self-sacrifice of private citizens, and whilst in those particular cases that I have referred to the Road Commission gave their services gratuitously, yet at the same time we cannot expect citizens to engage in work of such an important character as that which we have in view, without being paid for it. You may get a man to act on that Commission who may be the most efficient man possible, but who is deterred because he cannot afford to give his time gratuitously. Therefore, I say it is right and proper for the men serving on a Commission of this kind to be remunerated for their services.

I think the general principle of the Bill will be accepted by all sides of the House. I do not say it is a perfect Bill. I dare say that it may need additions and alterations, but I commend it to the House because of the spirit in which the Government have taken up this matter.

I, therefore, move the second reading of the Bill.

Commissioner and three other Commissioners will be appointed to act under him. The powers of the Commission are far-reaching. They will have the right to go on with any highway that they may so designate after the Governor-in-Council has approved of it. They will have the right to take charge of that highway and build it according to the plans they have laid down. They will have the right to stop traffic on that highway, and they will have the right to acquire property and plant trees and divert streams and go through private property, and have Municipal Government, acquire towns, and build highway and in cooperation with the Municipality, develop the roads as they go through in conformity with Municipal Regulations, providing they do not clash with the Regulations of the Commission.

The appointments under this Commission will be for two years. All appointments will lapse after two years, but any member or members of the Commission can be re-appointed. I think this is a very wise precaution, because a man may be appointed to-morrow and in a year's time he may show his unfitness. Well, the Governor-in-Council has the right to remove him, and put some other man in his place or have the right to re-appoint him. Hence I say it is not alone a very wise precaution, but it is a very essential one for the proper carrying out of the work. Also this Commission will not be an unpaid Commission. left forty-six of them with him. He has no mean rival in the world. A Canadian, with his children.
his wife was responsible for them; his second added two more; and his third completed with a contribution of twenty-the Mr. Braithers married; and descendants number living two hundred.
years, too, we have heard of Clark, a book-cannasser, engaged in the Clerkwell Court the paternity of thirty-three; of Mrs. Mary Jones, of who increased the population by thirty-three; and of a Hare, who confided to a that she had nursed twenty-children.
Two Sets of Triplets. day, not long ago, three parted upon the registrar for Isle of Ely, to register the birth of his twenty-first child; of his nineteenth, and the
of number seventeen—the three of number seventy-seven.
this extraordinary is the rapidness which some nurseries have exhibited. From Antwerp, for the came the story, a year or of a Madame Carlier, who had given birth to six sons in one of the first set of triplets in Januof the second in the following year.
In a divorce case in Chicago,
it came out in evidence that Mrs. Josephine Ormsby, who had been married only seven, had in that time been the of one set of triplets, two twins, three single children, and a set of quadruplets—an average of two children a year.
Mrs. Ursula Loythoot, of Ayrshire, died in her ninety-year, she left nine children, eight grand-children, and seven great-grandchildren. In Georgia a Mrs. Shiver spent years in visiting, one after the homes of her descendants numbered 310 in four generations, and Mrs. Sarah Ann Woolf, when she died at the age of seventy, she left 303 living descendants, including 189 great-grandchildren, 32 great-grand-children, and all these records have been broken to be made by six brothers and sisters, children of a settler nautically in the Cumberland district of Kentucky, who, among them, have to see 1,651 of their progeny.
When goes to the elder brother, who takes second place, with him follow three sisters, with children of 230, 208 and 201, respectively, and the roll ends with the of the mother, whose total is a 1,651.
The most astonishing of family trees is that of M. Gourdon, who died August, in Paris, as the age of 100. Gourdon's father was born in 1752; and in 1753

Popularizing Hansards Hansard, Ont. Feb. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Some interest has been shown here at the efforts of the debate committee of the Ottawa House of Commons to popularize "Hansard" among the electors at large.
The revelation that a seasonal subscription to the Canadian "Hansard" costs only three dollars, provokes a great deal of interest. The price charged for the equivalent. The official Reporter of the Debates in the House of Commons at Westminster are supplied for £2 16s yearly. If the Debates of Hansard are also desired the subscription pays an extra £2; for the Debates by themselves £2 15s yearly.
Members of the British House of Commons are supplied with only one copy of each issue of Hansard.
The delivery of this at the London residence of every Member of Parliament is arranged by the Post Office. No figures are available concerning the net paid subscriptions to the Hansard.
