

British Submersible With 68 Souls Lost in the Channel

9 Killed and 31 Injured on Pennsylvania Railroad--3 Lives Lost in a Collision in the Thames--Witnesses Before N.S. Coal Commission Describe Living Conditions.

BRITISH SUBMARINE MONITOR DISAPPEARS.

LONDON, Nov. 12. The Admiralty announced this evening that the submarine monitor M-1 had not been seen since diving fifteen miles off land, early this morning. Every effort is being made to locate it.

68 DROWNED IN BRITISH SUBMARINE.

DEVONPORT, Eng., Nov. 12. Sixty-eight officers and men have been lost by disaster to submarine M-1 which dived in the waters of the English Channel off Star Point early this morning, and has not been seen since. An all day long search proved unsuccessful, and to-night Admiral Sir Henry Francis Oliver, Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, signalled the following message to the Commander-in-Chief: "Very much regret commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet that to-night submarine M-1 has been lost with all hands during the exercises in the Channel to-day." A court of enquiry will be held to-morrow.

OFFICIAL LIST OF M-1'S CREW IS 68.

LONDON, Nov. 12. The Admiralty has issued a list of four officers and "sixty-four" others aboard submarine M-1, sunk in English Channel.

N. S. MINERS TESTIFY TO UNSATISFACTORY CONDITIONS.

SYDNEY, Nov. 12. The Commission investigating the coal industry of Nova Scotia, under the chairmanship of Sir Andrew Durnan, continued its session here to-day, who also witnesses were examined on behalf of the miners. One miner, who stated that he had previously been able to meet his bills, described the present condition as intolerable. Another stated he was up against a stone wall on account of the dull times, and expressed the opinion that there were too many miner officials. His family, and many others, he added, were dependent upon the relief committee. The cause of the strike was because the Company always wanted a cut in wages. According to the testimony of Harry Campbell, of Caledonia, causes were the unusual hours of labor, bad boxes in mines, lack of shiftmen, method of transportation of tools, bad housing conditions, system of carting water to houses and bad sanitary conditions. The final witness of the day said the cause of friction was that the Company wanted to press the miner below what he is able to live on. The Commission resumes sessions to-morrow morning.

IS REPORTED KILLED IN RAILWAY COLLISION.

PLAINSBORO, N.J., Nov. 12. Thirteen were killed and many injured when a rear-end collision between two trains on the Pennsylvania railroad near here. The St. Louis express rammied the rear end of an express from Washington in a dense fog.

CASUALTIES IN TRAIN WRECK NUMBER 40.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company to-night issued an official statement placing the known dead at 9 and injured 31, as a result of a rear end collision between two company trains, near Plainsboro, New Jersey, this morning.

STEAMERS COLLIDE IN THAMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12. The steamer Canadian Balder, Montreal to Antwerp, collided with an unknown steamer in the Thames near Erith this morning, and in the confusion the London steamer Reno was caught between the colliding vessels and sank with the loss of three lives.

CANADA NOT RATIFYING LEAGUE CONVENTION.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12. The Canadian Government is not ratifying the internal convention in regard to the customs formalities drawn up at the conference held under the auspices of the League of Nations.

PLANNED ARMED REVOLUTION.

ROME, Nov. 12. The men arrested for plotting to assassinate Premier Mussolini, had planned launching an armed revolution, if successful in removing the fascist head, it has been declared by the investigators.

PAPER MAKING COMPANIES' MERGER COMPLETED.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12. The Gazette on its financial page to-day says, "While an official announcement was not forthcoming yesterday, it is understood from sources in close touch with the situation that the much talked of merger between the Belgo-Canadian Paper Co. and the St. Maurice Paper Company is virtually completed."

U.S.-ITALIAN DEBT AGREEMENT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. The Italian and American Debt Commission to-day came to an agreement for funding Italy's debt to the United States on a basis of $1,648,000 plus accrued interest to date.

POLITICAL LEADERS RESTING.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12. Both Premier King and the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, are planning a brief rest before the strenuous work of the coming session begins.

PROSPECTS IN CANADA FAVORABLE.

TORONTO, Nov. 12. Present prospects in Canada were much more favourable than at any previous time during the past two years, Sir John Alder, retiring President of the Canadian Bankers' Association, declared at the Association meeting here to-day.

BLAMES U.S. FOR EUROPE'S TROUBLES.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12. Responsibility for all European troubles for the past seven years lies at the door of the United States because she refused to honor the signature of her delegation to the Treaty of Versailles, said Sir John Power, member of British House of Commons.

A child's job is to grow up!

Let Stanfield's help with their patent Adjustable Combinations and Sleepers for growing children.

CHILDREN don't readily outgrow Stanfield's Adjustable Sleepers and Combinations because an outfit bought for a child of two, three or four years can be easily adjusted to fit him as he grows older. The adjustable feature makes these garments a real economy.

Combinations and Sleepers are made in all sizes from 2 to 8 years, adjustable to fit for two or three more years as required. Perfect-fitting and comfortable—do not gape at the back or sides. Double weight over the abdomen and back gives extra warmth and protection to the stomach and kidneys—provides a health insurance. Stanfield's Underwear is so soft it will not irritate the tenderest skin. There is no better fabric for dainty baby wear. You can just feel the luxurious, downy softness of Stanfield's. Happy, healthy children will enjoy wearing it and you, yourself, will be delighted with the comfort and health-protection it affords them. Ask your dealer to show you Stanfield's Underwear for Infants and Growing Children. Made by the makers of Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear for all the family.

At closing time yesterday, Mrs. M. V. Kinella again increased her lead over Miss Stella Crane and remains at the head of the list. Miss Marion Moore polled 1,150 votes yesterday and moved into third place. Another case of activity and great strength was shown by Miss Belle Dunn, the fifth lady on the popularity list and from now on she will be closely watched by the leaders. Miss Sophie Coultas gathered 975 votes in an hours canvass and the high record of the fifth day's voting was credited to Miss Fannie Coady, who received 2,200 votes from noon to closing time. Three contestants, Miss Gladys Q. Smith, Miss Olive Turner and Miss Dorothy Ebsary each are tied, all having 3,025 to their credit. There are now seventy names entered in this contest and many of the tall enders are real popular, they are by no means out of the contest. Another complete list will be published in this paper to-morrow.

WHEN YOU ATTEND AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE ASK AT THE WICKET FOR A

SWAN SOAP

TICKET OR COUPON.

It will enable you to get 1000 Extra Votes in the Majestic Theatre Pony Contest.

- You know that every Swan Toilet Soap Wrapper is worth 100 Votes
- The front side of a Hudson's Super-Soap Package is worth 100 Votes
- The back and front of a Lux Package are each worth 50 votes
- So one Lux Package will give you 100 Votes
- The large Lantic Red Balls which you cut off a Lantic Sugar Package are worth 50 votes each, and as there are 2 on a package the package will give you 100 Votes
- Every Sunlight Soap Wrapper is worth 100 Votes

All other Soap Wrappers & Sugar Containers are Worth Nothing in the Pony Contest

Take care not to lose your votes through buying the wrong kind of Soap or Sugar. Lantic Sugar is the only sugar which will give you container votes. The 2 large Red Balls which you can cut off, will give you 50 votes each, or 100 votes for the two.

The only Soap Wrappers on which you can get votes are Swan Toilet Soap Wrappers and Sunlight Soap Wrappers. Lux is the only flaked soap which will give you votes. A Lux Package will give you 100 votes, 50 votes for the front and 50 for the back.

Hudson's Super-Soap Powder Costs Only Three Cents a Package

The Front of a Hudson's Super-Soap Package is Worth 100 Votes

If you buy 40 packages of Hudson's Soap Powder for one dollar, you can get 5,000 votes. Ask your grocer.

Hudson's Super-Soap Powder is best quality English Soap Powder; it contains no sand or lime. It's cheaper than soap for scrubbing floors, washing greasy dishes and dish cloths, windows, etc.

Each week while the Pony Contest is on, count your Sunlight and Swan Soap Wrappers, your Lux package fronts and backs, your Lantic Red Balls and your Hudson's Soap Powder package fronts. Put them in an envelope, mark on the envelope the number of votes it contains, write your name and address on the envelope and bring it to the Majestic Theatre. Then get busy collecting another lot of votes.

NOW LET US TELL YOU ABOUT THE THOUSAND EXTRA VOTES THAT YOU CAN GET WITH THE SWAN SOAP TICKET OR COUPON.

You will get a ticket or coupon each time you attend the Majestic Theatre, it may be a Swan ticket or some other one, but if you prefer to get a Swan Ticket take care to ask for it. Say "I want a Swan ticket, please!"

WHEN YOU GET THE SWAN SOAP TICKET, bring it with you to the shop where you buy Soap and Sugar. Buy a dollar's worth of Sunlight Soap, Swan Toilet Soap, Lux, Hudson's Soap Powder or Lantic Sugar, and your shopkeeper will fill in and sign the Swan Soap Ticket, giving you a thousand votes, which will be in addition to the votes you get on the wrappers. If you don't buy the dollar's worth of goods you won't get the extra thousand votes, but your wrappers and container votes will still count.

You won't have any trouble making up a dollar's worth of these goods. You can buy 1 cake of Swan Soap, it costs only 10 cents; it's a white floating toilet soap made by Lever Brothers, who are soap makers to His Majesty King George, so you see it must be a first class soap. Then a package of Lux costs only 10 cents; your mother knows how good Lux is. You will want Sunlight Soap as long as you live, so you can buy 3 cakes of Sunlight, it won't be wasted. You certainly will want a package of Hudson's Super-Soap Powder, it costs only 3 cents, and the empty package is worth 100 votes. Now you always want Sugar in your home, and 3 packages (2-lb. each) of Lantic Granulated will just make up your dollar, or 2 packages of Lantic Granulated and 1 pound package of Lantic Icing will square off the dollar.

If you wish you can buy a dollar's worth of Sunlight Soap alone, or of Lantic Sugar, or you may buy any assortment you like, and you may give your grocer the ticket and buy 50 cents worth one week and 50 cents worth the following week, but your ticket is not worth 1000 votes until you buy the dollar's worth.

REMEMBER! When you buy any of the above articles a cake of Sunlight Soap or a 3 cent package of Hudson's Soap Powder, etc., you get the 100 votes for the wrapper, etc., and when you buy a dollar's worth of any assortment of the articles referred to in this advt., you get one thousand votes in addition to the wrapper and container votes.

Survives Bullet in Heart

EXTRACTED AFTER TEN YEARS IN VITAL ORGAN.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Michael Reilly, last of the Connaught Rangers, who bore a German bullet in his heart for ten years, will leave Queen Mary's Hospital at Roehampton in a few days, completely recovered.

The history of "Paddy" Reilly, as he is known at Roehampton, is an extraordinary one. He was shot at Neuve Chapelle in the spring of 1915, the bullet piercing both lungs and lodging in the heart. He lay unconscious for a week, but the bullet could not be located, and he was eventually sent back to the firing-line. He was in the battle of the Somme in 1916, and was buried in a shell-hole, and afterwards seriously wounded by shrapnel in the thigh.

His wounds necessitated two operations and he was X-rayed, but still no one discovered that there was a bullet in the muscle of the heart.

Located.

"Paddy" was transferred to the Labor Corps, and soon after the armistice was sent to his home in Longford, Ireland, on a small pension. Dr. Mary J. Ferrell, of Longford, sent him to Richmond Hospital, Dublin, where he was again X-rayed, and eventually, six years after he had been shot, the bullet was located.

Later on he was transferred to Roehampton, where Major J. E. H. Roberts, a Harley-street surgeon, performed one of the most remarkable operations in the history of surgery by a successfully removing from the pericardium the bullet which had lain there for ten years.

That was in June last, and by the following month Reilly was sufficiently recovered to be able to attend a garden party at Buckingham Palace, where the Duke of Connaught congratulated him on his series of extraordinary escapes from death, and paid a tribute to the great skill of Major Roberts.

Reilly, who is declared to be the merriest patient in Queen Mary's Hospital, is now able to play football, and has been pronounced fit to return home.

S.S. Berengaria

TROWN ON HER BEAM ENDS BY A HUGE WAVE.

CHERBOURG, Nov. 4.—Thrown to the deck by the plunge of the steamer Berengaria into a gigantic wave last Saturday, a large number of passengers and members of the crew of the liner were injured.

The Berengaria, which left New York Oct. 28 for Cherbourg and Southampton, met a succession of storms throughout the voyage, culminating on Saturday in a tempest, which the commander declared was the worst he ever had encountered during his 32 years of seafaring.

When the Berengaria came into port last night to discharge her Cherbourg passengers some 50 of them had arms in splints and heads bandaged and were suffering from sprained legs.

The steamer was a half day late in making the roadstead here in the stormy passage. On Saturday when the vessel ran into the tempest, one big wave lifted her on her beam's end and the passengers and members of the crew who were on deck were whipped off their feet and thrown violently to the floor. It was this wave that was responsible for many of the casualties. The steamer was in the midst of the storm for twenty-four hours.

After debarking her passengers here the Berengaria proceeded for Southampton.

THREE RIVERS LAD IS BURNED TO DEATH AT TOP OF TELEPHONE POLE.

Three Rivers, Que., Nov. 2.—(Canadian Press)—While trying to tie a dummy on a wire at the top of a telephonic pole to celebrate his candidate's victory, young Charles Omer Dauphinais, 16 years old, son of D. Dauphinais, of St. Julien, County of Maskinonge, was hit by a high voltage current that set the dummy and young Dauphinais ablaze. Dauphinais, a living torch, was burned to death at the top of the pole.

Police Fail to Solve Mystery

OF ROUGEMONT MURDERS.

Provincial police have made no headway in their efforts to solve the Rougemont murder mystery, where Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernard were brutally slain last week.

Rumors of two arrests which were current over the week-end to-day proved to be without foundation. Chief D. D. Lorrain's information was the advice that his men were still at work.

At Rougemont, Mayor Gingras, who was among those who discovered the mutilated bodies of the branch bank manager and his wife, said there were no new developments. The little home was still under the seal placed upon it by the authorities after the inquest. Detectives were working in and around the village in the hope of stumbling upon something that might lead to a solution, but thus far the double slaying in the quiet little village continues as distant as when the bodies were found last Monday.

The reward of $1,000 offered by the Provincial Government for the apprehension of the murderers has proved a magnet to innumerable amateur sleuths. Notice of it has been published in Rougemont and has added to the instinctive desire of residents to ferret out the murderer or murderers. As the case develops the opinion grows that only one criminal was directly mixed up in the case. The manner in which the bodies were found and the hasty exit after the commission of the crime have been carefully examined by experts, including Dr. Derome, but investigation has been hampered by the failure of the police to keep out the curious.

Talk of using police dogs in the search is scoffed at as the trail was allowed grow cold for nearly a week before the dogs were even suggested.

New Zealanders Exhibit Tendency

TO REMAIN WET—LARGE MAJORITY ASSURED.

Count of Votes in Referendum, Though Incomplete, Indicates Defeat of Dry Forces—Premier Coates Obtained a Good Majority in the Next Parliament—Woman Candidate Loses Out to Laborite in Re-count—Sweeping Victory of Coates' Government Likely to Have Rebound Effect in Australian Contest—Premier Bruce Well Pleased With Result.

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 5.—The prohibitionists have not yet succeeded in their efforts to make New Zealand dry. The question whether New Zealand should continue its present liquor license system, adopt "State purchase" or government control of liquor, or swing to prohibition, was voted on in a referendum during yesterday's general elections.

The counting of the vote is as yet incomplete, but the results thus far ascertained show approximately that the prohibitionists cast 277,981 votes as against 310,596 by their opponents.

A SWEEPING VICTORY.

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 5.—(Canadian Press via Reuters).—The sweeping victory of the Coates government in the New Zealand election yesterday is regarded as likely to have a rebound effect on the Australian election on November 14.

Premier Bruce, of Australia, is reported to have expressed gratification at the result of the vote in New Zealand, which gives the administration of Hon. J. C. Coates a clear majority of twenty-five over all other parties in the house of representatives.

All of the six candidates of the country party in New Zealand met defeat yesterday.

Compared with the result of the 1922 election the reform (government) party has a net gain of 17 seats as the result of yesterday's vote, while the Nationalist Party, composed of former Liberals and Nationalists, have only 12 seats. In the last parliament they had a total of 25 seats. Sir Joseph Ward, who was Premier of New Zealand from 1906 to 1912 and was succeeded in the premiership by the late W. F. Massey after having been out of the New Zealand parliament for some years, ran yesterday as an independent and was elected.

LABOR LOST.

WALT MASON

A robber met me in the glen, and shot me through the hat; and then he stole my dollar watch and kepecks ten, and slugged me with his gat. "I've trilled you over heath and sod," he said, in bitter tones: "I thought you'd have a decent wad, but you're another glaring fraud, a fake, so help me Jones. You doll yourself like banker guys, regardless of the cost; but when an honest robber tries to touch you for the price of pies, your assets are a frost. A man with such a gorgeous front should have a bulging roll; but when a robber pulls his stunt he finds you a financial runt, and he collects no toll. That is the trouble with his sphere," the weary burglar sighed; "there's no one honest and sincere; you like a plutocrat appear, and yet you are a snide. I've held up other pompous gentles like these, I must admit; I thought to gain by such events, but all I got was fifty cents, and that was counterfeit. The more I rob the more I feel that all is cheap pretense; man looks as though he might conceal about his person plunk and wheel, and all he has is pence. I see him in his limousine, and when I bid him stand, instead of handing out long green he says the dealer has a lien upon his wagon grand. I see him in his stately hall, as insolent as brass, and when at night I make a call I find his gems and doodads all are made of phony glass." I clambered sadly to my feet and rubbed the place he struck, and said, "You've slugged me and repeat! I promise you when next we meet, you'll play in better luck."

Important Finds Made in Research

McGILL SCIENTISTS ABLE TO ECONOMIZE IN STEEL AND CONCRETE WORK.

Researches at McGill University in the Faculty of Applied Science, which have revealed certain hitherto un-realized opportunities in certain types of steel and concrete construction, and which promises considerable economies in building work, will be dealt with by Dr. H. M. Mackay, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science at McGill, in an address before the American Institute of Steel Construction next week in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. Dean Mackay has already left Montreal on the invitation of the directors of the Institute to address the meeting.

The subject of the address is "Recent Research Work in the Civil Engineering Department of McGill University."

Commenting on the results of the investigations in question, Dean Mackay said recently: "The work has shown unexpected strength in steel beams encased in concrete and supporting concrete floor slabs. The findings are likely to be of great interest in the construction of steel frame buildings."

THE NATION'S LAXATIVE

Western Whisperings

By HESPERIAN. Of all the strange and wonderful, interesting and peculiar things that have met in reading that most informing journal, the Evening Telegram, perhaps the most delicious of all, as exemplifying the St. John's sense of the city's importance, and his blissful unconsciousness that Newfoundland, outside the city, may be able to think, is an idea advanced by one of our correspondents that St. John's does not get its full share of the public revenue. Ye Gods and little flat fish!

I often imagine a cartoon of Newfoundland as a small dog with an immense tail—the tail representing St. John's. Underneath the caption: "The tail that wags the dog!"

Output folk—Baymen, as we call them, have always admired the sweet self-complacency of the city man. He has the parliament buildings, the public departmental buildings, the asylums, the hospitals, the police houses, the penitentiary—and all these supported out of the public revenue. He has the police force, its equipment and establishment, all paid for out of the public revenues. He has the Museum, the institutes, the colleges, all paid for or partly paid for out of the public revenues. He has the city dock, sometimes called the Nfld. dock, really the St. John's dock, costing one and three-quarter million dollars, every cent of it paid, to be paid out of the public revenue. He has—don't be startled at my finding it out—the High Road—this or to lead to the St. John's hotel. There is its name for you! Any other would be sacrilege. Yes, St. John's has got the High Way also! A man is ill in an outpost he must be sent to St. John's. If a man is bad in an outpost he must be sent to St. John's. If a man is mad in an outpost he must be sent to St. John's. And if an outpost man must be hanged, why, place him at St. John's!

I often wonder how the St. John's man can placidly sleep without imagining in his dreams the tramp of countless feet—the feet of the baymen who are coming in to settle up accounts!

Re that theft of our High Road there is a rhyme being bruited about in the Western Districts. It goes something like this:

(From Halifax Chronicle, Nov. 10.)
STUDEBAKER CORPORATION.
BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Increase in the regular dividend rate on Studebaker common from $4 to $5 basis is the strongest gesture of confidence in continued prosperity and in the future of the industry, for the Studebaker management would never have O.K.'d a change in the regular rate had it not great faith in the outlook for the balance of the year. "Despite sustained earning power there has been no change in the dividend policy of Studebaker since 1923 when following the 25 per cent. stock dividend of 1922, the then capitalization of 750,000 shares was placed on a $10 basis, same rate of disbursement prevailing after stock was split up 2 for 1 in 1924.

The combination of an increased regular rate and an extra disbursement may be interpreted not only as evidence of sound prosperity but of the likelihood that Studebaker has completed its expansion programme. Hoarding of cash resources for past two years has been for purpose of investing surplus funds in the rounding out of its South Bend manufacturing unit. Studebaker has resources of over $100,000,000 now and is presumably content with the size of its investment in the business.

Earnings for the third quarter of the year established a new high record for the period. Net profits of $5,035,177 after taxes were equal after preferred dividends to $2.51 a share on the 1,875,000 shares of common and compared with the previous third quarter record in 1923 when net was $4,855,080. Dollar sales in the third quarter of the present year were also slightly better than in 1923, totalling $46,430,492 against $46,372,646 in the earlier period. Number of cars sold was slightly below the 1923 record with total of 35,574 against 40,885. That earnings and sales were new records on the smaller number of cars sold, reflects the shift from open to closed models in the past two years.

For the first nine months of 1925 the corporation's earnings were $15,157,236, equal to $7.85 a share on the 1,930,000 shares of common, when the corporation earned $15,226,254, and in 1922, when earnings were $15,640,374.

With some increase in business during October compared with September, all indications are that the fourth quarter this year will exceed the corresponding quarters of these years and establish 1925 total earnings at a new high record. Indications are that Studebaker will earn upward of $19,000,000 for the year, leaving a balance approaching $10 a share for the common.

Improvement in the balance sheet this year has been impressive. Cash of $19,388,325 compares with $5,813,717 in 1924 when corporation was borrowing $5,000,000 from banks. At present there are no bank loans outstanding. At the same time inventories have been reduced from $28,522,399, to $21,562,595.

and in such capable hands of members representing the Associations foremost in athletics, we know from past experience that it will be marked with despatch and thoroughness. In the various events many athletes are undergoing hard training at the Rink, therefore an interesting series of races can be assured. A special committee, consisting of Messrs. S. S. Chilton, Bert Hayward, R. H. Simms, F. Marshall, J. Campbell, F. Jones, S. R. Steele, J. W. Morris and J. M. Tobin, have been appointed to conduct the events.

The programme of events is as follows:—
Open Events—50 yards dash, 100 yards, 200 yards, 440 yards, Half Mile, 1 Mile Race, 1 Mile Walk, High Jump, Shot Put, Standing Jump, Boot and Barrel Race, Three-Legged Mile, 50 Yards, 100 Yards, Relay Race (Girl Guides).

Relay Races (Inter Club) 3 men, 2 men each; Junior Football Relay, Football War, Quarter Mile (Jr.) under 16 years; Half Mile (Inter Collegiate); Relay Race (Inter Collegiate); Field Regatta (Mercantile), Football Race.

Owing to the illness of T. Piercey (the indoor champion walker), Grant Burnell has decided to withdraw from the race for the purpose of giving the other competitors a chance.

His Excellency the Governor, the Prime Minister, Hon. W. S. Monroe, and His Worship Hon. Tasked Cook, have kindly signified their intention of being present. Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at Butler Bros.

INTER CLUB BILLIARDS.
Masonic Lead Reduced To 44 Points.
The Inter Club Billiard Tournament, between the Masonic and B.I.S., was continued last night, when each Club annexed a win in the two games played. From a scoring standpoint honours went to the B.I.S., and as a result the lead held by the Masons was greatly reduced.

The first game between J. Worsell (Masonic), and A. O'Brien (B.I.S.), terminated in a win for the former by 35 points. Although the exhibition on the whole was not as good as might be expected, nevertheless the large gathering of spectators were kept interested on account of the closeness of the play. The breaks were:—
J. Worsell (Masonic)—400—11, 10, 21, 11, 12, 13, 17, 13, 18, 12, 14, 10, 14, 15, 17, 12—206.
A. O'Brien (B.I.S.)—365—16, 18, 12, 10, 21, 10, 10, 22, 22, 133.

The second game between W. J. Martin (Masonic) and J. Hickey (B.I.S.) was followed with interest all the way through and had Mr. Martin a fair share of his opponent's luck, the result would undoubtedly have been different. Hickey, who lead throughout, always seemed to have the advantage to score, and as a result he piled up many breaks. His break of 41 was well played and helped largely in giving him the game by a wide margin. The breaks were:—
J. Hickey (B.I.S.)—299—11, 14, 12, 13, 15, 10, 41, 35, 11, 13, 11, 22, 15, 20, 19—277.
W. J. Martin (Masonic)—299—13, 14, 15, 22, 14, 10, 14, 11, 22—189.

It has been discovered that a mistake occurred in scoring the game played between W. J. O'Neill (B.I.S.), and P. Rabbits (Masonic), and instead of the latter winning by one point, victory went to the former by nine. Near the end of the game the umpire failed to call a score of seven made by O'Neill and this made a difference at the end of the game. The Masons are leading by 44 points.

SIX COMPETITORS FOR 5-MILE RACE.
Last night Jimmy Hawboldt, the Canadian runner, made his first appearance at the Prince's Rink, when he donned his uniform and had a trial spin over the track. Hawboldt's running gait is pretty to watch, and the free and easy manner in which he circled the course was favourably commented on by a number of eye-witnesses who were fortunate enough to be present. The 5-mile race, on Monday night, between Hawboldt and our local runners, viz., Donald O'Toole, John Bell, Gower Stone, Jake Ralph and Clifford Stone, is attracting great interest, and it will be the first time that the locals will be pitted against the Canadian contender in a race at this distance. Each has his host of supporters who will doubtless turn out in large numbers to cheer their favourite to victory. The indoor record for five miles in the Prince's Rink is held by Ron O'Toole, his time being 22 minutes 23 seconds, on Dec. 7th, 1922. John Bell and Gower Stone are showing up wonderfully well in practice, and are considered strong contenders for the race on Monday night.

GUARDS-BOYS COMBINED IN DOG SPORTS MEET.
All arrangements are practically finalized for the dog sports meet which is scheduled to take place in the Prince of Wales' Rink, on Wednesday night next, under the auspices of the Guards and St. Bon's Clubs. Racing on a board track has always held an unique place in local athletic circles and has been rightly regarded as one of the most interesting functions of the year. With the programme of events numbering twenty-five,

3rd TIME.
THIS IS MY THIRD TIME OF ASKING.
That my actions at the Council Board the first time, were appreciated, over eleven hundred people testified at the last election, and now at the request of a majority of those electors, I have again decided to comply with their request, and to ask you Ladies and Gentlemen voters, for a continuation of that confidence at the coming election. Should I again be elected, I will pledge myself to help carry out to the best of my ability, any sane scheme that will tend to the making this my native town a brighter, better and cleaner city, having due regard to the cost to those who will have to pay for it.

A word in season, however. Should those contemplated improvements be carried out, I am convinced that extra taxation will have to be put on an already overtaxed people, for I am one with Mayor Cook who a short time ago told the people that they cannot make brick without straw.

Thanking you in anticipation, yours truly,
S. G. COLLIER.

French President's Orders

SWIFT STEPS TO DEAL WITH SYRIA PERIL.
Paris, Oct. 29.—In the Echo de Paris to-day M. de Kerillis, the special correspondent of that paper, who was recently in Syria, declares that General Sarrail was the cause of the massacre of his own soldiers and the almost irreparable misfortunes which have overtaken Syria.

On one occasion, he says, General Sarrail laid an ambush for the Druse tribesmen, when he imprisoned their emissaries, whom he had already insulted and deceived. He had sent for the tribesmen, whom he asked to outline their claims to him.

The result was that the Druses took their revenge by exterminating Captain Normandy's column, and the French were driven from the Druse territory.

ARAB VILLAGES BURNED.
On another occasion General Sarrail burned down villages in the suburbs of Damascus, and the Arab population, revengeful itself on the French soldiers and upon the masses.

The Maritz this morning says: While the League of Nations in Paris is putting a stop to war, General Sarrail, charged by France to administer Syria under a mandate of the League, is provoking by his conduct hostile comments throughout the world.

General Sarrail in his messages discusses the weather and the high cost of living.

Should a mandatory of the League of Nations have shelled entire districts of the city without giving warning, districts where Europeans lived, and thus exposed France to the humiliation of protest from the Consular body presided by its doyen, the German Consul?

All the eye-witnesses who have returned from Syria are unanimous in forecasting such movements as he is preventing their repetition.

DANGEROUS SITUATION.
Wednesday.—I understand M. Doumergue, the President, to-day told M. Painleve, the retiring Premier and War Minister, that instant steps must be taken to deal with the Syrian situation, which is fraught with the utmost peril not only for French prestige in the Near East, but also for French lives and property.

ant, one of the old type ships with yards and commanded by Captain, since Admiral Bruce. After the usual manner of captains he no sooner arrived at a port than he wanted to be away again. On arrival at our destination I hustled into a boat and ashore to meet Gordon who was in charge of the Island. After talking with him for some time I suddenly remembered the despatches relating to the annexation of the place which I had been given for him and realized that I had left them in my sun hat on board the ship. In my haste to get ashore, I had demned a panama instead, and there was the ship disappearing on the horizon. This was a poor start alright but I consoled myself with the thought that the Governor would be down in a fortnight. The two weeks passed into a month and nothing was heard from the Governor till the arrival of a schooner with the news that he had been translated to New Zealand and his successor would be along soon. I had come prepared for a fortnight's stay but had to remain ten months so that I ran short of clothes and was in anything but a pleasant position. In the meantime, however, I prepared the island for being painted pink and finally the new Governor arrived in the Miranda and the flag was hoisted. At the ceremony the natives sang "The flag was hoisted in the month of May and Natama handed over to Her Majesty."

His Excellency the Governor

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

DESCRIBES THE PROCESS OF PAINTING THE MAP PINK.

At yesterday's meeting of the Rotary Club the following guests were introduced by Reftan B. C. Gardner: B. Campbell, Halifax; J. A. Young, Bank of Nova Scotia; F. A. Lane, Halifax; W. S. Hogg, Ottawa; E. T. De Beauregard, French Consul; Dr. Reay, Hon. R. Watson, S. J. Tucker, Col. R. G. Rendell, Eng. Comdr. R. Howley, R.N., and A. B. Berlin. Rotarian Dr. Tim Mitchell reported that the two boys under the care of Dr. Aker were improving splendidly, one being sent home to-day while the other who had a more severe operation, was doing nicely. These lads are from Mount Cahel Schools and Rev. Bro. Ennis is deeply grateful to the Rotarians for the treatment accorded them. After an excellent report, His Excellency the Governor, the speaker of the day, was introduced by Rotarian John Bennett who felt the Rotarians were signally honored to have His Excellency come and address them. Being so near Remembrance Day which had been fittingly commemorated on Wednesday, the November Committee had thought it a suitable time to ask the representative of His Majesty the King to address the club. His Excellency had always supported every movement for good and Mr. Bennett was pleased to think he had considered Rotary worthy of his presence and assistance.

His Excellency, in opening, said when he was informed that Colonial Secretary Bennett was coming to see him, he was greatly perturbed and wondered if the republic to the south of us was wiping out all our debts at once or if the Lady of the Snows had withdrawn her case respecting the Labrador and was giving us all the hinterland we wanted. His anxiety was finally relieved by the arrival of Mr. Bennett, who asked him to come to lunch with the Rotarians and address them to which he sincerely answered he would be delighted. Chairman Bennett had referred to Poppy and Armistice Days and in glancing at a map a few days ago he had been struck by the quantity of pink on it which suggested to him the idea of speaking of those who had painted it that colour. Over 400 years ago that painting began as we well know, because Newfoundland was the first land to receive the application of the brush. Since then there have been thousands of painters and their auxiliaries, many of whom have been forgotten but the work of coloring the map is still going on. When I went to the Flag Islands in 1879 I thought I would do a little painting and I think to-day I will give you some idea of how the painting proceeded. One day the Governor asked me if I was willing to go to Ratuma to which I eagerly answered yes. He said alright, the man of war is ready and I am coming down in a fortnight to annex the place. Delighted with myself I packed quickly and embarked. The man of war was the Cormor-

As the Home Government began to talk I then went to the South Orkneys, South Shetlands and Graham's Land and there made the greatest whaling industry in the world. Whales were numerous everywhere in these waters, the catch running as high as 6,000 a year. I could not persuade my Dundee friends to prosecute the industry there, but the Norwegians did and made enormous fortunes, so much so that during those years there was more money in circulation in Norway than ever before. The factories in operation in the Islands mentioned were restricted in number and also in their catches, and the result is that to-day the fishery is as good and profitable as in 1905. The products in the Falklands are worth over $1,500,000 a year. We controlled everything and when the war came we had virtually all the whale oil, which is necessary to the production of nitro-glycerine, to the disinfectant of the enemy. All this shows that if you are obstinate enough you will succeed in doing something, and I hope that spirit will be displayed by the Rotarians in their efforts here.

A vote of thanks proposed by Rotarian Bennett was heartily accorded His Excellency for his entertaining address.

Wonderful Film Now at the Nickel

"Welcome Stranger" Is A Knockout On The Screen.

What is known in the vocabulary of the show business as a "knockout" took place at the Nickel Theatre last night when "Welcome Stranger" was given its initial presentation to local audiences.

With as fine a cast as we have seen in a picture in a blue moon, a story that entertains with clean-cut comedy, real honest-to-goodness characters that you meet in every-day life, and a plot that sustains interest throughout, "Welcome Stranger" is just what the title implies. It's certainly welcome in these days of drab sexy plays and forced humor. It's entertainment plus and leaves a good taste in the show palate after the final fadeout.

The chief character in "Welcome Stranger" is a witty and philanthropic Jew who, in attempting to "break in" to the business life of a narrow-minded New England town, encounters the "old shrew" and a select bunch of "rascals" for his pains.

Through the good offices of a "real fellow" in the town, and the real fellow's girl, Isadore Solomon promotes the ideas of an unappreciated inventor-geni, corrals the water-power of a falls and lights up the town with a modern electric light plant, and generally booms the prosperity in the community.

If there is a finer piece of character portrayal than that of "Isadore Solomon," by Dore Davidson, we have not seen it on the screen since "Polash and Peimuttler." Wherever Solomon is, there is genuine "human" interest.

Florence Vidor is charming as Mary Clark, the girl who colleagues with him in his projects. In fact, the whole cast is excellent.

Brick's Tasteless is a wonderful blood builder.—Oct 30, 11

Damascus and Its People

By DAVID NEVILLE.

Damascus, where the French and the Druses are now in conflict, is known to the Arabs as Ash-Shams, the City of the West, for long before Rome was born it was a mighty capital and a melting-pot of trade at the farthest extremity of the then known world. Trade routes do not change, and to-day in its bazaars and streets you may see, haggling and bartering wares of Central Asia and the Farthest East, the very types that thronged it in times past.

Cutting right through the city is the "Street Called Straight," where St. Paul was healed of his blindness. The corrugated iron roofs are new, but the white, almost windowless walls are as they were in his day. And everywhere is running water. The River Barada, tumbling down through the steep ravines and gorges of the Lebanon, the home of the Druses, that overhangs the city, is split artificially into five channels so age-old that it is only by an effort that one realises that they are canals and not natural rivers. And through the heart of the city there flows to-day "Abana, river of Damascus," which Naaman the Syrian praised.

The silk looms that gave damask its name are whirling still, but the arm-ourers who forged the famed Damascus blades are no more. When Tamerlane and his Tartar hordes overwhelmed the city he carried off to his own capital at Samarkand every swordsmith.

In Damascus Moslem and Jew, Greek and Maronite, Frank and Turk, jostle one another in narrow alleys, where black walls guard from prying eyes palaces of Arabian Nights splendour. Here and there you may see a Druse, aloof and tolerant, for the rigid secrecy of his own strange faith permits of an easy acceptance of the outward observance of others. But he is a sojourner only. His place is in the mountain fastnesses, where the white-turbaned "Akhal" or initiates conduct the mysterious rites of his faith.

Everywhere about the city lines the "Garden of God," an oasis of incredible fertility where apricots and mulberries, grapes and pomegranates, weigh down the trees.

It is no trifling prize, this city of a quarter of a million inhabitants. David, Alexander, Saladin, and Napoleon III, have all held it, and to-day, though electric tramway-cars clang through its streets and telephone wires stretch overhead, it is still the city that saw the Saracen walls built on Roman foundations or the Omni-wad mosque reared on the ruins of the Church of St. John and the buried fragments of the Temple of the Sun.

Locarno Pact

GERMAIN FRAISE.

For the first time since the war the German language was heard in the council of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris when Franz von Mendelssohn hailed the Locarno Security Pact as a good omen for future peace.

In a warm welcome to the German, Walter Leaf, of England, president of the organization, said:

"The presence of Mr. von Mendelssohn and his colleagues is an eloquent symbol of the reality that will to peace which we all recognize as the sole stable foundation for the renaissance of Europe."

The German spokesman replied that he and his fellow delegates, "as representatives of German industry, wish to witness by our presence here that we are willing to close the page in the book of war and help to write a new chapter of co-operation."

GERMAN STUBBORNNESS.

Berlin Krenzzeitung: We have every reason to regard with scepticism and suspicion the Treaty of Locarno. We see the very greatest objections to what has been decided. But the last word has not yet been said. A treaty which would not grant to Germany an equivalent for the heavy sacrifices made by her in a western pact will never be approved by the Nationalist Party.

THE NEW ERA IN EUROPE.

Berlin Vossische Zeitung: The spirit which presided over the elaboration of the Locarno Treaty will be still more important than its text. With the Treaty of Locarno comes the end of the era of politics which sought for security by means of guarantees and territorial occupation.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PACT.

Rome Mondo: Despite many difficulties and intrigues, the delegates have succeeded in concluding one of the most important agreements since the Treaty of Versailles. Germany understands that it is only by adhering to the League of Nations she will be able to enter once again on the basis of equality into the concert of Europe and recover her prestige lost at Versailles.

THE EVACUATION OF RHINELAND.

Berlin Vorwaerts: It is possible that the evacuation of Cologne may take place at the moment when the Reichstag is on the point of discussing the Locarno results. As far as the delay in the evacuation of the Mayence and Coblenz zones are concerned, the refusal of the Entente to make any promise on this matter does not exclude the possibility of concessions at some date not too far distant.

THE BREATH OF PEACE.

Rome Osservatore Romano (the Organ of the Holy See): More than all the conclusions of the Pact of Guarantee and the particular conventions of the Treaty, it is necessary to praise the spirit, the intentions and the new language which were manifest at Locarno and to hope that this breath of peace will continue and will blow clear the European horizon of the last clouds which overshadow the Oriental sky.

A SCRAP OF PAPER

Moscow Pravda: The Treaty of Locarno would amount to no more than a scrap of paper, if German policy were oriented towards the west.

SOVIET SUSPICIONS

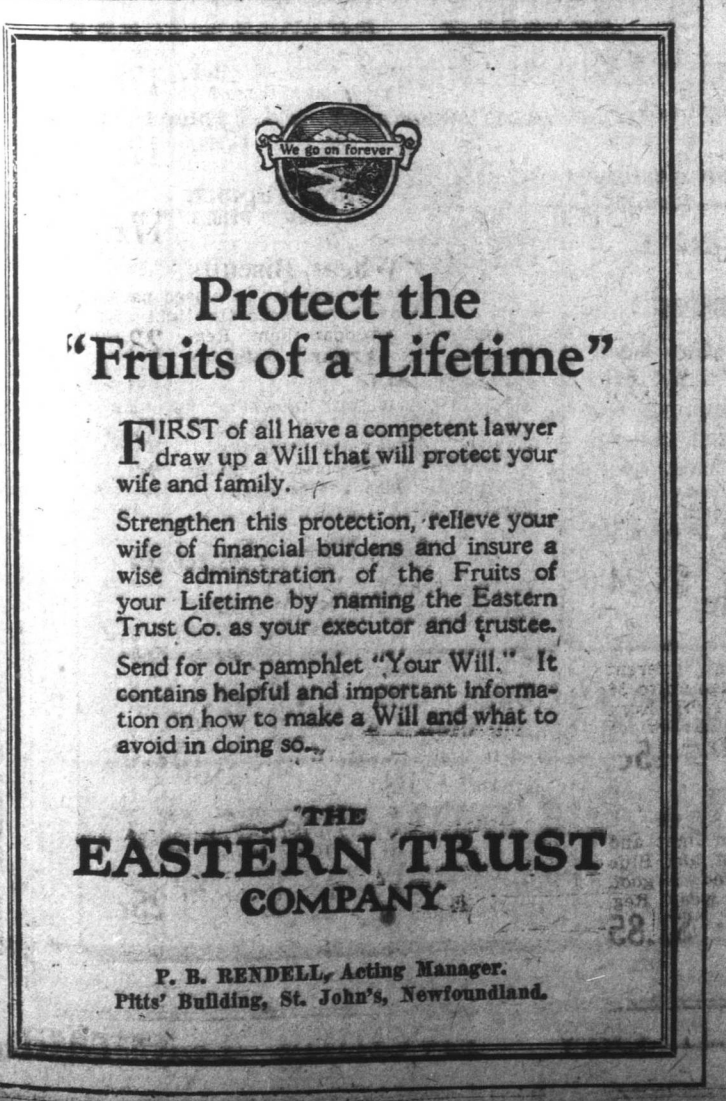

Moscow Rabochaya Gazette: We cannot overlook that German diplomacy will find it very hard to reconcile her friendly attitude towards ourselves with the fact that, henceforward, her exterior policy will, to a very large extent, be directed by British diplomats and politicians.

Jockey on Wrong Horse

TOSSED ON TO IT IN A SPILL.

During a steeplechase at Enghien, near Paris, in jumping a brook in front of the stand two horses—Se Souvenir and Meissonier—came to grief, one immediately after the other. Meissonier's jockey, F. Herve, was thrown out of his saddle and fell on to the back of Se Souvenir, just as that horse was scrambling to his feet. Herve quickly recovered his balance, got his feet into the stirrups, and jumped the next fence in hot pursuit of the rest of the field before he noticed he was riding the wrong horse.

The jockey then pulled up and brought the other man's mount back to the paddock.

Life Among the Arabs

THEIR STRANGE CUSTOMS AND CEREMONIES.

When a daughter is born in the tents of the Arabs of the Sahara, there is no feasting or rejoicing. The father refuses to look at the child, and sometimes repudiates his wife for "giving him no children." For a girl is not looked upon as a child. She is just a girl, and if she had been born at the time that Mohammed was living her father would have thought no more of burying her alive than we would of drowning kittens. Mohammed himself says, for his words were inspired by Allah: "Will you attribute to God as a child with a soul the being which grows up decked in ornaments and fiery and always insists upon dressing without reason?"

But the birth of a real child, a son, is celebrated with great joy. However, after the first bitterness of disappointment is over, little girls and little boys are brought up in the same manner, equally petted and spoiled by their mothers. They play with the goats and the chickens in the warm, soft sand, dirty, but supremely happy.

They are kindly treated by their mothers and grandmothers, and still more loved by their fathers, and the father of the girl whose birth he so bitterly deplored insists on her having when she is six months old, plenty of bracelets and earrings. Even, if he must sell an extra sheep, his little Misanda must be properly decked out. Never is an Arab child ill-treated. Of no country of Europe, not even of England, could such an assertion be made. So they roll about in the sand, these little men and women, the girls arranging their fiery, the boys galloping about on little donkeys, wearing long, flowing, many-colored garments. These youngsters enjoy life on scanty diet, chiefly milk and dates.

At about ten or eleven the little Arab girl begins to assume the important airs and graces of a woman. She is not yet fully developed, and not very intelligent, but she knows that the old women have to do all the hard work of the household, while the younger women have a comparatively easy life.

She knows full well she will have a husband, and a dowry will be given her. She will receive the most beautiful jewels and a veil spangled with gold. She will be mistress of the tent during her husband's absence.

She knows that Arab husbands very seldom strike their wives hard enough to hurt them. Her beauty and her tact, she feels certain, will make her husband love her and make her happy. She has already noted the effect of her beautiful dark eyes and graceful movements on the men, for women of the massed tribes are allowed to go about without veils. Celibacy is quite unknown among the Arab women, and every girl of sixteen or eighteen is married.

The first faint rays of dawn have just begun to appear in the East, the men have all come out of their tents to make their morning prayer to the Dawn. They cry aloud: "In the name of the All-Merciful and Pitiful, I seek a refuge with the Lord of the Dawn, against the wickedness of the beings created by Him, against evil and night, when they overtake us suddenly."

The voices rise as if the petitioners were in despair, then they gradually drop and the words come slowly, softly, persuasively, breaking at last into sudden sobs. The race that uses a prayer such as this may be degraded, degenerate, what you will, but for all that it must retain some noble souls imbued with profound faith in God, profound pity for their fellow-creatures.

Now the children and the women step out from the tents into the open air, the women busy with their domestic affairs. Husbands and brothers go off to all the water skins, to collect brushwood, or to seek pasture for a fresh spot containing water. Some have to look after sheep, goats, or camels, and others are sent out to kill snakes.

The afternoon does not pass without events. Now and then a caravan passes. The birth of a camel is almost important as the arrival of a baby. Perhaps a wandering minstrel arrives to play the tambourine, which is an excuse for dancing, full of passionate gesture.

Nothing upsets the repose of the nomad Arabs so much as the death of one of their members. Men come to carry the body, for the Prophet has declared: "Every step you take in carrying a dead body will be worth to you the remission of ten sins, and the substitution of ten good actions for each of these ten sins." The women weep and beat themselves, crying: "My father, my father, my father, oh, my mother, oh, my sister, oh, my husband!"

Each mourner addresses his various lamentations to his own dead, whether the loss has been recent or was sustained long ago. The body of the dead lies on the ground, wrapped in seven shrouds. The women claw at their own faces and they rend their garments.

Indigestion

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fall in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realising that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments. What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it so easy using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

When the evening comes, writes H. E. Wilson in the Newcastle Weekly Chronicle, a meal must be prepared again if the little ones and the men are to have any supper. At night all are sleeping beneath the tents, under the brilliant stars. Only the guardians of the fire still watch, and repeat the prayer of "Asha": "There is no God but Allah, and Mohammed is the Prophet of Allah."

The Ideal Woman

Strong, healthy and beautiful in form and feature, with a happy disposition. Upon her condition depends the physical well-being of her children and the happiness of those about her. It is only by making the best of herself that a woman can give her best to the world. When weak and ailing there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for fifty years has been restoring the women of the Dominion of Canada to health and happiness.

Painleve Cabinet Stands or Falls on Money Issue

PROPOSALS MUST MEET CAILLAUX IN UPPER CHAMBER.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Premier Painleve's new Cabinet will test on the tight rope of finance Saturday when the Government's financial programme will be presented to the Chamber of Deputies. Soon afterward will follow the first serious test of the Cabinet's ability to withstand the political storm which is rising about it.

The Cabinet's fate will depend on the attitude of the Socialists who want a capital levy in principle if it cannot be had in name. If the programme survives the storm in the Chamber there still will remain the Senate to be convinced and in the Upper Chamber her ally Joseph Caillaux, just deposed from the Ministry of Finance and reportedly with his pockets stuffed with damaging ammunition which he obtained before relinquishing his former post.

Weakness of the franc, which opened at 22 to the $1 Thursday, is largely attributed to the precarious position of the French Cabinet. The financiers appear to expect the Cabinet to fall or to gain such narrow majorities as to make its position virtually impossible. Subsequently the franc gained slightly, but its immediate fluctuations are dependent upon the nature of Painleve's financial plans.

The Premier defended the Government's Syrian policy before the Chamber Thursday and the deputies assented, by a vote of 400 to 50, to delay further discussion of Syria until General Sarrail arrives from Damascus. Painleve then announced the importance of the presentation of his financial programme.

French losses through sickness and fighting since France assumed the Syrian protectorate in 1920 amount to $,622, Painleve announced. That figure includes native troops in French service.

Between July 15 and August 15, Painleve said 585 French soldiers had been killed.

Cries of "false figures" arose throughout the Chamber, Painleve hotly protested that the Government never hid the truth and then requested that further debate be postponed.

Two Mighty Stars

THE HEAVIEST SUBSTANCE.

A scientific discovery which, in its significance, is considered to be as important as Einstein's famous Theory of Relativity—which it supports—has been made as a result of special examination of one of the stars called "white dwarfs."

These particular stars, of which only two are known to astronomers, are very small in comparison with most of the known heavenly bodies, and they shine very faintly.

That which has been the subject of special investigation is a companion of Sirius, the brightest star in the sky.

Following some astonishing accurate theoretical predictions by Prof. A. S. Eddington, of Cambridge, Dr. W. S. Adams, of Mount Wilson Observatory, United States, has proved—with the aid of a 100-inch telescope, the best in the world—that matter under stellar conditions can and actually does attain a density many thousands of times greater than that of any form of matter found in the world.

It has been computed, for instance, that the substance of the "tested" star is 55,000 times heavier than water and 10,000 times heavier than iron.

The Oldest Stars
It is believed that this extraordinary quality of the star indicates that the "white dwarfs" are the oldest stars in the universe.

Explaining the nature of the discovery Prof. Herbert Dingle, department of astronomical physics, Imperial College of Science and Technology, South Kensington, S.W., said that previously no one had any idea that there were any stars of such an amazing character, though it was thought that certain stars had a greater density than others. He said:

"It is all a mystery. It is more than probable that the reason for the great weight of the matter of which the "white dwarfs" are composed is to be found in the theory that as stars grow old they contract.

Prof. Dingle pointed out that the substance of the "white dwarfs" that a child would not be able to lift a piece of it of the size of a penny. A lump of it sufficiently small to fill a pint jug would weigh considerably over 22 tons.

Mothers-in-Law

Not Real Bad

MR. JUSTICE AVORY'S JUDGMENT.

In the King's Bench Division before Mr. Justice Avory, and a special jury, judgment was entered for Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Timms, of The Drive, Northampton, in the action brought by their son-in-law, Mr. Arthur Stanley Ainsley, of Harrow Weald, Middlesex, for a declaration that they had wrongfully enticed away and harboured his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Ainsley Ainsley.

Summing up, Mr. Justice Avory said: "It is quite true that mothers-in-law have been the subject of derision, particularly in music-halls and in the theatre. But there are mothers-in-law and mothers-in-law. They are not all bad and are not to be abused as a class. After all you must remember that a mother-in-law is, in the first place, a mother, and only secondly a mother-in-law.

"It is as well to bear in mind the feelings of a mother towards her daughter when she is being abused because she is a mother-in-law."

Mr. Justice Avory referred to Mr. Ainsley as a man who apparently had an exaggerated idea of his own importance and of his own attractiveness. Mr. Ainsley apparently thought that it was his wife's duty to gaze fondly upon him all day long, like a faithful hound, waiting for some small recognition from her lord and master. The jury returned a verdict for Mr. and Mrs. Timms.

London's New Tunnell

PROGRESS ON AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE PLANS.

To cope with the rapid growth of the London telephone service, Post Office engineers are constructing a huge tunnel in the heart of the City. It is to carry the lines and cables for a giant "telephone house" to be erected in Wood-street, E.C., and as this building is to contain three exchanges—two of them will be known as "Metropolitan" and National.

at least 30,000 pairs of lines have to be provided for.

The Site is that which the Germans helped to clear during the war when a Zeppelin bomb destroyed the premises of Messrs. Ward, Sturt, and Sharp, and it is from here that the great tunnel now being constructed starts.

The three exchanges at Wood-street will be automatic, and in order that there shall be no difficulty in connecting subscribers in the future the Post Office is now making arrangements for every new building erected in the City to be wired for telephones on every floor and in every room so that a would-be subscriber can be connected up with the appropriate exchange within a few hours of a request for service being received.

To-day there are 268,000 exchange lines in the London area, and this number, it is expected, will be greatly increased when the automatic exchanges come into operation. Altogether there are to be 336 in London, and of these the first to be working will be the new Holborn, erected on the site of the Inns of Court Hotel, High Holborn. It will be the end of next year before it will be in working order.

Magic Aids to Beauty

So long as soft cheeks beguile, and pretty lips, mysterious fragrances and dancing eyes bewilder—just so long will women gaily accept the magic aids to beauty discovered by those who love to explore for them. Richard Hudnut's passion for the witchery of perfumes presented to the world the captivating Three Flowers odor: Delicate—subtle—spicy with the breath of Oriental vapors—this dainty perfume charms the fastidious ladies of all lands. You may now obtain this fragrant scent in talcum, face powder or vanishing cream. Every toilet requisite bearing the Three Flowers name contains this beautiful scent. On board were 300 quintals of codfish and a quantity of codoil. The crew rowed to Catalina. The matter was reported in the following message received yesterday from Mr. P. Coleridge: "Schr. Bake sliced sweet potatoes and sliced bananas, on casserole with brown sugar.

One morning as Little Jack Rabbit hopped up the Old Cow Path, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw all of a sudden Professor Jim Crow cawed from a nearby tree:

"The hoar frost glitters on each leaf. Bright diamonds shine from stem and shoot. 'Tis fallen dew in summer time. But now a frozen crusty rime."

"You're a curious little rabbit," exclaimed the bunny boy, looking up into the tree in which sat the wise old crow.

"I'll explain more," he answered, placing his spectacles on his beak and opening his Wisdom Book, that wonderful volume in which he had written all he knew and much more than many people will ever learn though they lived to be as old as Methusala.

"Turning to page 23, Professor Jim Crow commenced: "When the temperature of the air falls below the dew point, or 32 degrees, the moisture in the air changes into frost. Frost is frozen dew that during the spring and summer falls during the setting of the sun and continues all through the stilly night. Every leaf and blade of grass in the early morning twinkles in the sunshine. It seems as if loving Mother Nature had hung diamonds on all the leaves and grass blades."
"Goodness me!" exclaimed the little rabbit.

"Tell me more. Tell me more. I would all the knowledge store in my little head away."

I can learn each happy day."

"You're a curious little rabbit," exclaimed Professor Jim Crow, looking down over his spectacles. "Some day you'll be a learned rabbit man if you remember all I tell you. Then, clearing his throat, the wise old professor bird began again:

"Dew is the vapor of the air. It is the mist that is held in the air. But when the sun goes down behind the hills, and the temperature falls below the dew point, the air no longer can hold it, and it falls to the earth. It falls from a clear, cloudless sky in a still night, covering every blade of grass. It would seem almost as if it had rained during the night. Mother Nature has wisely seen to it that the dew falls on vegetation and not on rocks and barren places where it would be of little or no use.

"Cheer up, little rabbit," answered the wise old blackbird.

"Dear, oh dear," sighed the bunny boy. "My little head is all a muddle. I wish I could remember all you've read. Mother loves to hear me tell her at bedtime what I've learned during the day."

"Cheer up, little rabbit," answered the wise old blackbird with a twinkling of his left eye. "Just remember three things for a starter: "In order that the dew may fall the air must be moist, the place upon which it falls must be cool, and last, the sky be clear."
Then away flew the old professor bird with his Wisdom Book, and away hopped the little rabbit into the next story. And while your Uncle Dave is writing what happens after this please remember, if you can, my Little Readers, what Professor Jim Crow has told the bunny boy.

Relentless Economy

SIR J. FERGUSON ON WAY TO BELIEVE TAXATION.

The subject of the return to the gold standard was included by Sir John Ferguson, joint general manager of Lloyds Bank, in his presidential address to the Institute of Bankers at Skinner's Hall, E.C., recently. Sir John said:

"If we succeed in firmly establishing the gold standard in this country, we should be able to look forward to the future with confidence, since the fixing of sterling exchange will remove one of the factors that have played ducks and drakes with our trade in the past few years.

We, as bankers, must think of the next Budget, and there can be no doubt that our great undertakings at home or abroad must be relieved, even if only gradually, from the present terrible incubus of taxation, which is a stranglehold on all energy and initiative.

To enable this to be accomplished, we must have relentless and remorseless economy.

I hope there is no intimation of retaining the embargo on foreign and Colonial loans very much longer. A gold standard that is protected by a wall of restrictions and prohibitions is a sheltered gold standard. That sort of standard is of no use to us or to anyone else.

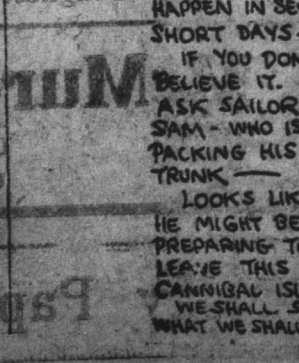

A return to a free gold market, without restrictions of any kind, will bring great benefits to this country in the long run.

VISITING VERSUS BEING ENTERTAINED.

A friend of mine came home from a visit recently somewhat fagged and dispirited. Her hostess was an old college friend whom she had not seen since a college days and she had looked forward to the visit very much.

Wondered if she had found Lucille so changed that she was no longer congenial. That does sometimes happen you know when two people have been separated for a good many years. But that wasn't it.

They Did Things Every Minute. "Lucille is just as nice as ever," she declared, "and the very nicest time I had was the last evening I was there when we were alone and got to talking things over the way we used to in college. We sat up until two o'clock. But that was almost the only time we really had a good talk. You see Lucille seemed to think I wanted to be entertained every minute and she just did things for me all the time I was there."

"We saw all the sights and I can't tell you how many people I met. They were awfully nice, most of them, but I only met them once and I shall probably never see them again and, really, don't you think it's rather a bore meeting people that way? You have nothing in common and you have to talk on the surface. Maybe there are people among them you'd simply love if you could know them but you never will know them so what's the use?" I saw a gleam in her eye as she spoke, and she had a few things and perhaps meet a few people intimately enough to feel as if you knew them, independent of the fact of the time really "visiting" with the person you went to see.

I wonder how many people there are who feel that way. A great many, I suspect. And I wonder how many there are who treat their guests that way.

Nowhere near so many, I suspect. Entertaining Is The Thing. Why? For two reasons. First, because "entertaining" has so largely taken the place of "visiting" as the proper thing, that it never occurs to many of us that we could do anything else. We used to "visit" or "have company"; now we "entertain a guest" or are "entertained."

Secondly, because even if we wanted to, we might fear that would not please our guest, and if she has already "entertained" us that way we may feel that we must pay her up the same coin.

I am not perfectly sure that my friend will not feel obliged to offer Lucille the same kind of entertainment she received in order to make things square. She might not think so now, but wait a few years until Lucille repays the visit.

"Even As You And I"

The other day I had a letter from a friend written after an exceedingly strenuous week. "My visiting room mate has been visiting me," she writes. "When I was out there she entertained me every minute so of course I wanted to do the same. My dear, I am absolutely done up."

Very probably the room mate is, too. Very possibly she, too, only offered that kind of entertainment because it was the thing? Who knows?

Of course very young people like to meet as many people as possible. To them it is allied to the great business of living—that of finding a mate. But if the truth were known, I feel very sure that it would be only a very small proportion of his older friends who when we go to see our friends, are really eager for a round of activity.

U.S. War Debt

A MIDDLE WEST PLEA FOR A BUSINESS DEAL.

New York—Insisting that both business expediency and fairness require leniency towards European debtors, the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, representing large business interests in the Middle West, has written to Senator Borah criticizing the rejection of the recent French debt offer.

The association contends that while the debts should not be cancelled, the principle of demanding such interest and payments that 60 years will be needed to amortise the debts means that "probably few men who fought in the war will live to see the end of the payments."

Apart from the question of fairness, the association argues that the United States is not using "ordinary business sense" in further postponing settlements. The letter argues that "at a creditor's meeting, the man who holds out for a full settlement regardless of the debtor's ability to pay is held to be a menace," and asks, "Are we as a nation unwilling to give the same fair consideration to our debtors as we as individuals grant to debtors in the conduct of our business?"

Will Honeymoons Go Out of Fashion

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Honeymoons are going out of fashion in these unromantic days of business women and men who are "wedded to their work."

Mme. Lydia Lopokova, the dancer, who was married recently to J. M. Keynes, the economist, goes so far as to say that she does not believe in honeymoons, and admits that she refused to follow the tradition.

Another recent case in point is that of a daughter of a countess who married a theatrical producer. Immediately after the wedding they went to the theatre and attended the rehearsal of the bridegroom's latest play.

A few years ago a honeymoon was as essential to complete a marriage as the ring or orange blossom. The high pressure of modern life and the advent of women into business and the professions have resulted in many of the time-honoured marriage customs being put on the shelf.

At least twice as many couples are being married at the registrar's office as there were twenty-five years ago. Tailored suits and hats are becoming the custom most seen on modern brides. The word "obey" may be left out of the marriage oath. Fragile lace preserved from great-grandmother's wedding veil now lies in peace between its wrappings of blue paper, while the bride sweeps into the "marriage factory" in a chic hat.

Now honeymoons seem to be going down the path of oblivion. Marriages between busy work-a-day people are performed over the week-end, in order that the newly-weds may go back to the office on Monday morning. Increased cost of living, no doubt, has a hand in the disappearance of the honeymoon. Young people contemplating marriage have not the money to spend on extended trips even if they have the time.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent)

JUDGE SPEAKS ON JUVENILE DELINQUENCY.

Judge Quinton Warner, of the Juvenile Court of London and Middlesex, addressed the Montreal Women's Club in the ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel. His subject was "The Romance of Prevention."

In regard to crime, people were trying to get at the cause, and prevent the development, not waiting until the hardened criminal was produced. The backbone of prevention in the Juvenile Court was the probation system, on the principle that the influence of the right kind of personality was the best thing for the child. The Juvenile Court worked on the basis that given a child in the formative years of life, the child's development would yield to the forces of good, because somewhere in the child was a fundamental instinct for right.

"I could not work in the Juvenile Court," the Judge declared, "if I were not convinced that the child is capable of being guided, directed, moulded in the direction of good, notwithstanding the forces of heredity."

Home, religious influence, school and general conditions were four major elements in the environment of the child. The need for beginning early was emphasized. It was easy to reach a child at the age of seven, eight, or nine, but became more difficult later on. The speaker cited some instances in his experience showing the ready response of the child who was just entering on the wrong path when brought under the influence of wise direction. It was marvellous to see the unfolding of character.

Wrong home conditions were blamed for a large part of juvenile delinquency, as many as seventy-five per cent. of the cases in the Juvenile court. If home conditions could be made right, there would be little juvenile delinquency.

Domestic relations, dissensions between husband and wife, were bad in their influence on the children, and sometimes found their way into the Juvenile Court, there being no Domestic Relations Court. Family and neighborhood quarrels over children, both blaming the children of the other who called for readjustment.

After twelve years of Juvenile Court work, trying to stimulate the best in people, Judge Warner said, he held it as fundamental that people respond in the long run to the estimate we hold of them. If we call children "bad," we must not be surprised if they fulfil our expectations. If we held up the possibility that a child can be good, and keep that ideal in mind, as something to be worked out for the child, we may look for a corresponding development. This was at the basis of Juvenile Court work.

ST. PATRICK'S ORPHANAGE HAS A DEFICIT.

St. Patrick's Orphanage, Orphanment, shows a deficit of $8,062. The income was $54,157.38 and the expenditure $62,219.44. Even the big Tag Day amount of $12,807.10 did not seem sufficient to pull them over. A variety list of reforms in the institution was discussed, as several members of the Board of Governors visited Toledo, Ohio, and saw the workings of a similar institution.

MAY MEETS INSTANT DEATH.

A man testing a motor cycle at Huntington, Quebec, met instant death, when his machine, going at 80 miles an hour, swerved and struck a tree, with the result that he was hurled 75 feet through the air, and when assistance reached him, his lifeless body was found in a nearby ditch. His head struck a tree with such force as to tell it.

NO COAL COMING FROM PENNSYLVANIA.

Owing to the coal strike in the United States, Montreal is getting no hard coal from the Pennsylvania coalfields. Dealers here are concentrating their efforts on the sale of Scotch and Welsh coals. There is, however, a glimmer of hope that the strike may be settled before the end of 1925.

TWO LARGE BUILDINGS NEARING COMPLETION.

Two large buildings, "The Chateau," the twelve storey apartment house, situated at the corner of Sherbrooke and Mountain Streets, and the new Maternity Hospital, in connection with the Royal Victoria Hospital, are nearing completion. Both buildings are models of architectural design and beauty, and are the last word in modern and up-to-date methods. In the "Chateau" the rents run from $160 to $228 a month. The Maternity Hospital will contain over 200 private rooms.

THE FIRST VICTIMS OF ICE DROWNING.

Two youths, aged 12 and 13 years, were the first victims of ice drowning when they were skating on thin ice on a river at St. Stanislas, near Three Rivers. Both boys had put a danger mark where the ice was unsafe. The older boy went past the mark and the younger one lost his life in an attempt to save his companion.

A BOY HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

A young man of 20 years of age, while erecting a fire escape on a large building, lost his balance and fell from the sixth storey to the sidewalk. When nearing the ground, a boy who was passing along got knocked down by the unfortunate man, and many thought the lad was killed as well as the iron worker. But the younger boy jumped up and brushed himself, running away feeling none the worse for his experience. It is supposed that the victim, who had placed iron brackets in the wall earlier in the day as a support, that one of them gave way and precipitated him into the street. The coroner pronounced the case as one of "accidental death."

A GRAVE CRISIS FOR THE DOMINION.

The atmosphere is still seething with the results of the late Federal elections. Never in the history of Confederation has the country been faced with graver problems than it has at the present time. Several of the Province are torn with dissensions and strife. Want of national unity, progress and development seem to be the crying sins. The wheels of progress are completely out of gear, and to make matters worse, two of the weakest leaders ever seen in Parliament stand at the head of affairs to guide "The Ship of State." Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King has no seat in Parliament, while Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen won his seat in Fortage in Prairie in the West. Notwithstanding the weakness of Premier King, the Liberals still cling to him, while it is rumored that Arthur Meighen will be deposed to give way to a stronger and abler leader. Only a man of Laurier's type or McDonald's shrewdness and keen insight could grapple with the grave situation that confronts the Dominion at present.

IMPORTANT LECTURE ON EDUCATION.

Rev. Fr. Gasson, S.J., Prefect of Discipline at Loyola College, addressed the English-speaking Catholic Teachers here lately. His subject was "Some of the Dangers Affecting the Youth of To-day." He classified them under five headings: Bad Literature, Lies, Theft, Inaccuracy in their work, and Idleness. Bad Literature was the most pernicious evil of the day. It was next to impossible to get any good of a pupil, so far as study was concerned, when his mind had been deformed from the evil effects of bad books. Recently a book was brought to him from a departmental store in the city and for moral fibre and degradation he had never met its equal. Yet, the book was sold at a very cheap price, and had a very large sale, even among the poorer element. Father Gasson thought that various measures should be taken to try and stamp out the publication and sale of bad books and magazines in which obscene pictures are shown. They were simply poisoning the minds and morals of the young. In case of lying scholars he thought the only way to cure them was to appeal to their sense of honor. Theft among the young was ably dealt with by the lecturer. The thief is invariably a liar which makes it doubly hard for those trying to reform the culprit. Bad compassions often lead others astray. Too kind and indulgent parents had to share also for their children's downfall. Father Gasson cited a case where a young boy was led astray and was caught at thievery. The mother went to see the priest and told him that her son had been a model boy up to the time that he was caught at his first bad act, saying that she was sure that her darling would make a good ecclesiastic. She begged of Father Gasson to intercede with the Attorney General before the trial came off and being his first offence it would not happen again. Father Gasson, thinking that the mother's story was genuine went to the Attorney General and pleaded for the boy. "Father," said the lawyer, "if you say that you'll look after him, I'll see that he'll get off on suspended sentence, but you are not aware that there are 45 other counts against him." Father Gasson was badly fooled by the mother and let the law take its course against the lad. Inaccuracy in their work and idleness in school matters which a good teacher and disciplinarian could remedy in pupils. Father Gasson deplored the fact that the teaching profession that shaped and moulded the characters of the coming generations, the greatest of professions should receive such small salaries for their labors, in fact the poorest paid in any profession.

THE VALUE OF A KINDLY DISPOSITION.

Dear Readers.—A kindly and happy disposition brings more peace, happiness and rest than all the money one can possess. There are many people in the world that no matter whatever happens they are always cheerful. When things go wrong they never grow gloomy, sad or down-hearted. They seem to throw care, worry and trouble over their shoulders just as easy as brushing the dust from their clothes. In this way, they are happy themselves and they make others happy. They are doing more good than any millionaire can do with all his money. They are treasuring their chances of success and popularity, for everyone loves and admires the kindly, cheerful, sunny soul. They are "sunshines" of which the poet says:

"A little smiling through the tears—
That's sunshine.
A little faith behind the fears—
That's sunshine.
A little folding of the hand,
A little yielding of demand,
A little glance to understand—
That's sunshine."

They use the capabilities with which nature and grace have endowed them to scatter the seeds of kindness, brightness and good fellowship among their fellowmen, and the possibilities for such work are indeed very great.

"No stars shine brighter than the kindly man.
Who nobly earns whatever crown he wears,
Who grandly conquers or as grandly dies,
And the white banner of his manhood bears,
Through all the years uplifted to the skies."
R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

Playground Ass'n Executive Report

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE PLAYGROUND AND RECREATION ASSOCIATION OF ST. JOHN'S.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

At a public meeting called by the St. John's Rotary Club on the evening of Tuesday, August 26th, in the George V Institute, the Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's was formed. Mr. Reuben Forwood, Chairman of the Boys' Fork Committee of the Rotary Club, was Chairman of the meeting and the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

"WHEREAS it seems right and fair that children, young people and adults should have an opportunity to take the best possible use of their leisure time, and

"WHEREAS we know that it is a free city that provided places in which our future citizens may play throughout the year under intelligent and sympathetic leadership, therefore,

"RESOLVED that we hereby join ourselves together in an association to be known as The Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's with articles and by-laws to be prepared.

At this meeting the principal speakers were: Dr. J. A. Robinson, the Prime Minister, Hon. W. S. Monroe, Rev. Father Pippy, the Hon. W. J. Higgins, Minister of Justice, and Rev. J. Power.

A Provisional Committee was formed to draw up a Constitution. The committee consisted of: Messrs. Vincent Burke, C. J. Cahill, C. C. Duley, C. C. Outerbridge, P. E. Outerbridge, Joseph Peters, G. R. Williams, Hon.

W. J. Ellis, Hon. S. Milley, and Dr. William Roberts. They were empowered to draft Constitution and By-Laws, nominate an Executive, and submit same to another public meeting to be convened at as early a date as possible.

A meeting of this Provisional Committee was held in the Council Chamber of the Board of Trade on August 29th, a Constitution was drafted and fifteen names were suggested for the first year's Executive.

Another public meeting was then called and was held in the Chambers of the Board of Trade on September 5th. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardyce, His Worship Mayor Cook and a fairly large number of citizens were present. His Excellency congratulated the Rotarians upon having started the movement for a Playground and Recreation Association, and stated that it had the approval not only of himself and Lady Allardyce, but of every right thinking citizen in St. John's.

The Constitution and By-laws of the Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's, herewith attached, were then adopted and the following Executive were elected for the coming year, viz:—

Ronald Ayre, Edgar R. Bowring (Jr.), Vincent Burke, Cyril J. Cahill, C. C. Duley, Dr. John Grieve, T. V. Hartnett, Reuben F. Horwood, Chas. E. Hunt, J. F. Meehan, P. E. Outerbridge, John O'Toole (T. A. Club), George Peters, Dr. Wm. Roberts, Harold Mitchell.

The first meeting of the Executive was held in the Council Chamber of the Board of Trade on October 6th, at which the nomination and election of officers took place and resulted as follows:—

President—Vincent Burke.
1st Vice-President—George Peters.

2nd Vice-President—Cyril J. Cahill.
Secretary—Treasurer—P. Edmund Outerbridge.

WINTER ACTIVITIES.

The next meeting was held on December 10th and a lengthy discussion took place on the matter of providing recreation for the children during the winter months. A Committee was appointed consisting of the President, Mr. Ayre and Mr. Bowring to interview the City Council with regard to the possibility of providing rink and sliding places in Bannerman and Victoria Parks. This Committee met the City Council in session, were most courteously received and the Mayor and Council not only gave permission to the Playground and Recreation Association to provide sliding places in the Parks; but also most generously placed the services of the City Engineer at the disposal of the Association for this purpose, and eventually stood all the expenses in connection with the sliding places. The Mayor, the City Council as a whole, the Councilors in charge of the Parks and the Council's officials have been in all cases most courteous and helpful to the Playground Association, for which we desire to express our sincere thanks.

It was not found feasible to provide open air skating rinks, but the Directors of the Prince of Wales Rink very kindly came to the rescue, and placed the rink at the disposal of the Association for children of the city, two afternoons a week, free of cost; some citizens also made contributions of skates and many children were thus placed within the reach of healthy amusement and made happier.

The Rev. Bro. Ennis, Principal of Mount Cashel, and Mr. T. J. Bennett very kindly and thoughtfully gave their hands free of cost to the children during the free skating sessions at the rink, and to them the rink directors and other kind supporters we desire to express our grateful appreciation.

The cost of equipment during the year including the splendid new apparatus installed in Victoria Park, was Three hundred and fifty-three dollars and fifty-three cents, ($353.53). In this matter of equipment we got the very best that could be obtained, and it is as strong and durable as is manufactured. It was the unanimous decision of the Executive members that as far as they were concerned no accident would occur through faulty equipment and the best obtainable was secured, even though the cost was probably slightly greater.

The Executive has had under consideration also the providing of a swimming pool and extra playgrounds, somewhere in the centre of the city, as well as the possibility of obtaining from the proper authorities that parcel of land which adjoins Victoria Park, which in reality belongs to it; but which at present is surrounded by a fence belonging to another institution. This piece of land should be secured. There is a pretty little brook running through it, now filled with tins cans and other rubbish which could be removed, the brook made pleasant to the eye and the park enlarged to the benefit not only of the children but of citizens generally.

THE PUBLIC.

We would like to place on record our appreciation of the great interest manifested by the general public, Rotary Club, in the important matter of providing healthy recreation for the city's future citizens and for the financial help given, without which this work could not be carried on. The play needs of little and big children are very great and it is of the utmost importance to the welfare of the children that these needs be met. We have in this Playground and Recreation Association, with the sympathetic and financial support of the public, the instrument by which these needs may be met and the play hunger of the children satisfied in some of our pitiful little homes and our overcrowded school rooms. Through the means of play the heart of the little child may be reached and moulded, so that it may never, never take the shape of the criminal's heart.

In conclusion, we would like to place on record our appreciation of the splendid services rendered by our Playground Director, Mr. Barton, whose report will be submitted for your consideration at this meeting and our appreciation as well of the zeal, devotion and efficiency of the playground instructors, whose names rectors and other kind supporters we desire to express our grateful appreciation.

The Inspector General of Police was approached with a view to setting a few streets set apart under the guardianship of the police for sliding; but he regretted he was unable to do so at the time as he was sending a couple of men for this duty would leave him short of men for the general city work. It is hoped, however, that the coming winter provision may be made for sliding. We feel there is something very wrong in a city where children are unable to engage in the healthy recreation of sliding, and that they should have to be arrested and brought before a court for doing that which all healthy children long to do and which every right thinking citizen wishes to see them do, is to be deplored. This problem must be satisfactorily solved in the near future.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES.

When making arrangements for the summer programme, it was unanimously decided that Mr. Barton be communicated with to see if he would accept the position of Playground Director during the summer. He accepted and seven other teachers, five ladies and two gentlemen, namely, Misses S. Smith and E. Smith, E. Snellgrove, E. Warren and M. Tulk, Mr. A. Butt and Capt. O'Grady were employed during the whole or part of the season.

On the occasion of the unveiling of "Peter Pan" in Bowring Park, your Executive sent a cablegram of appreciation to the generous donor—Sir Edgar Bowring. This beautiful and valuable work of art will be not only a delight to the city children as long as the city stands, but it is also an ornament to Bowring Park and a possession of which the city may be justly proud.

FINANCIAL.

In order to meet the necessary expenses for the carrying out of the summer's programme, arrangements were made whereby a Circus Fair operated under the patronage of the Association in consideration of which the Association received the sum of Eighteen hundred and nine dollars and forty cents ($1809.40) and on account of it, the Association to-day is in a healthy financial condition.

We would strongly recommend that the money necessary for the carrying on of the Playground work be raised by annual subscriptions directly from the public. The work concerns the public and if the public wishes it to continue a much larger number of supporters will have to be found during the coming year. It would be a calamity if the work were to cease for lack of means and we appeal to the public, in the interests of the children, for the continuance of its sympathetic interest and for increased financial support.

EQUIPMENT.

The cost of equipment during the year including the splendid new apparatus installed in Victoria Park, was Three hundred and fifty-three dollars and fifty-three cents, ($353.53). In this matter of equipment we got the very best that could be obtained, and it is as strong and durable as is manufactured. "HABIT, kept me from a Real Shave."

THAT'S what many men confess, once they've learned the advantages of the stropping feature of the Valet AutoStrop Razor.

"I formerly used an ordinary safety razor," many say "but only the first few shaves with a new blade were good. After that it was a choice between a poor shave or a new blade.

Now I give my Valet AutoStrop Razor blade a few strokes on the strop without removing it from the holder, and thus enjoy many perfect shaves from the same blade."

Changing Habits

If you're in a habit rut, why not break loose and find out how superior shaving is so easily attainable? If you'll just switch to a Valet AutoStrop Razor you will never return to old ways, for it is the only razor that automatically sharpens its own blades without removing them.

Park Apparatus a Gift

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—On behalf of this Association, I beg to tender you sincere thanks and appreciation for the considerable space devoted to the activities of the Association in last night's issue.

An error, however, (probably due to a typographical error) crept into the article wherein it is stated that the new playground apparatus purchased by the Association during the season just closed was supplied to Bowring Park. This new apparatus was supplied to Victoria Park. All the very considerable playground apparatus in Bowring Park was the personal gift of Sir Edgar Bowring to the children of the city.

Yours very truly,
PLAYGROUND RECREATION ASSOCIATION OF ST. JOHN'S,

GRANTED HIS LAST REQUEST—A CHICKEN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(A.P.)—Campbell McCarthy, negro, who was to have been hanged this morning was not entirely filled with happiness yesterday when he received word of an eleventh hour stay of execution until next month, while his case is taken to the Supreme Court.

"That's mighty fine," he smiled when the news reached him. Then, his face sobering, he added: "But, captain, I've got just one favor to ask. I want to stay here in the death cell until I get the chicken dinner they bring to all condemned men."

His plea was granted and in the death cell of the Cook County jail, McCarthy last night ate what was to have been his last meal—chicken with all the trimmings.

"Printing Isn't Expensive If You Pay Enough For It"

The task which business stationery has to perform is to convey a message. That is its primary purpose. But it has another. It should convey an atmosphere—a personality—which identifies the business it represents, and it should convey that atmosphere or personality so convincingly, so pleasingly, so substantially, that it makes the same kind of favourable impression that a good salesman or a fine office does.

Business stationery which falls in this particular is too expensive to use, because it is not doing the whole job. That's why printing isn't expensive if you pay enough for it.

We have lately installed an embossing machine which produces beautiful glossy or dull relief work on plain type printing that defies actual die or plate embossing in appearance.

A trial order will convince you of its excellence.

Abd-el-Krim is Sultan Mohammed, if You Please

"This Sultan was no Barbarian and no fool," exclaims an adventurous correspondent who managed to penetrate the fastness of the embattled Rifians and obtain an audience with their ruler, the troublesome person known to Christians as Abd-el-Krim. This name, it seems, is properly that of his father. It belongs to the son by tribal custom, but only when preceded by his own baptismal name, Mohammed, signifying the bearer's sonship. Whence we gather that it is perfectly proper to speak of this belligerent gentleman as Mohammed ben Abd-el-Krim, but that it is a breach of Rifian manners to designate him by the paternal name alone, as the Western world is doing. Writers who baptize it to "Krim" should steer clear of his realm or they may find themselves bound in Morocco. The Sultan, as he calls himself, was found by Winston Sheehan, the correspondent above quoted, at Alt Kamarah—the largest collection of houses and people I had seen since leaving French Morocco." He mentions that the village housed between twelve and thirteen hundred Spanish prisoners then and has acquired from six to eight hundred since. Also that there was a garrison of four hundred Rifian guardsmen "of the oldest and best-trained troops, fanatically devoted to the Sultan."

Mr. Sheehan had been guided to the place, through difficult and dangerous country, by the warlike ruler's brother-in-law, Sidi Mohammed, who arranged for the interview and presented his royal kinsman in advance with a list of questions prepared by the correspondent. He tells us that the Sultan's house was "a structure of mud like all the rest," and the following is his account, in Asia, of his arrival at the royal residence:

Sidi Mohammed and I dismounted at the outer gate, and four Rifian guards saluted. He spoke to them, and we were led through a courtyard similar to that in the Sultan's house at Adfir. Beyond this was another courtyard, and at the end of that a room before which another guard stood. This room we entered without removing our sandals. It was a square room, with a table and three chairs, the first I had seen in the Rif. The table was covered with papers, and behind it was Mohammed ben Abd-el-Krim.

He looked at us with a slow, appraising gaze, brown eyes set penetratingly at last upon the Christian visitor. He was a short, dark Rifian of perhaps what would pass for medium height elsewhere. He was inclined to stoutness and dressed with the greatest simplicity in brown homespun djellabas and spotless white linen. He extended his hand; I touched it with mine and raised my fingers to my lips, Rifian fashion.

"The Sultan prefers to conduct the conversation in our own language, and I shall translate into French," Sidi Mohammed said. Mohammed ben Abd-el-Krim examined the paper before him. It was a sheet of foolscap, on which my six questions had been written; the margins were covered with notations in Arabic script. Sidi Mohammed had told me that these questions had been examined by the diwan the day before and that the Sultan's answers could be taken as definitive. The first question had been a request for a statement on the relations of the Rif with the Pan-Islamic movement.

"The Pan-Islamic movement does not exist." Definitive, to be sure, and categorical. This: Abd-el-Krim spoke levelly, in a low, firm voice, using the Shillal tongue. "The Pan-Islamic movement does not exist. All the talk about Pan-Islamism has as its sole object to frighten the French and the English into an attitude of opposition to the Rif Government in its struggle with Spain. We have no relations whatever with any movement in French Morocco, Algeria, Tunis or Egypt, and we do not intend to attempt establishing such relations. Our struggle is exclusively national, and our real enemy is Spain."

"As for peace, it can come whenever Spain is willing," he went on, referring to my second question. "But we have certain irredragible demands. First and foremost, every Spanish soldier in Morocco, from the Atlantic to the eastern frontier, must be withdrawn to the two presidios of Ceuta and Melilla or to Spain. The Spanish protectorate protects nothing, not even the Spanish soldier. If Spain will surrender her claim to this spurious protectorate, we are willing to go into peace negotiations on the following terms:

"First, the independence and national sovereignty of the Rif must be clearly recognized.
"Second, all territory from the Melilla zone to the zone of Ceuta and Tander must be attributed to the Rif.
"Third, we are bound by sacred promises to the tortured populations of the Azores—opposite Gibraltar—and Spanish countries to liberate them from Spanish rule, and we shall do so, no matter how long it takes. But once Spain has surrendered her so-called protectorate, we are willing to consent to any arrangement within reason—any compromise, that is—for the government of the coast zone from Tangier to the French frontier: Spain is entitled to the presidios of Ceuta and Melilla, which are practically Spanish now after all these centuries, but to nothing else. The rest of Morocco must be governed by our own maghzen which can evolve to a compromise settlement."

Mr. Sheehan remarks that the Rifian ruler made these statements slowly, carefully and with great deliberation, stopping after each sentence or long clause while Sidi Mohammed translated. "It was a long process, particularly as I made notes of practically every word." And he continued:

"I had plenty of time to study that remarkable face as he spoke. Shrewdness I saw, great shrewdness and biting intelligence, allied to a certain healthy cautiousness, which made Mohammed resemble, faintly, Sidi Mohammed. He was, not the same like and prophet-like creature one might have expected."

"We purpose to continue our present form of government, when peace is finally instituted," he said, attacking the third question. "I suppose you call this system an absolute monarchy. We shall continue to rule by absolute monarchy; it has been demonstrated to be the best for our people. Eventually, in time, we intend to transform the government into a constitutional monarchy; we hope to establish a representative legislature like the Grand National Assembly at Angora. But not yet; not for at least a generation."

"The name 'Rif Republic' is a sad case of bad naming," he explained. "It was given us first by the English newspapers and by some of our well-meaning English agents. We never had a republic in the western sense and never contemplated one. In fact, the Spanish word republica has been adopted into our language to designate small local groups, even smaller than tribes—like the Spanish officers' juntas. We have several 'republics' in every company of Rifian infantry, for instance."
"As for the authority of the Sultan of Morocco, so-called, we do not recognize the sovereignty of Mulay Yusuf, and we do not intend ever to recognize that sovereignty. Mulay Yusuf's dominion over Morocco is a fable which all the Powers have agreed to believe out of deference to France."
"Even if we were prepared to admit the authority of a Moroccan Arab Sultan who is under the thumb of Marshal Lyautey, you must remember that Mulay Yusuf has no title whatever to the throne. Both of his elder brothers, lawful rulers, were removed from power; his brother, Mulay Hafid, now in Spain, was forcibly deposed by the French because he was not sufficiently docile. You may think we, an independent and proud people, conscious of our great past, will ever bow to the authority of a puppet like Yusuf? If any Sultan of Fes had the right to command in the Rif, it would not be Yusuf; it would be his brother Hafid. But we do not admit the basic principle of their sovereignty: the Rif is independent by nature."

He approached next the question that was, perhaps, the most difficult of all—a definition of the attitude of the Rif toward the French. If I had known what I know now, that the Rif was even then being pushed by its Arab border allies into the war with France, this statement would have taken on extra significance.

"We have no intention of attacking French Morocco," he declared. "To me, war with France is inadvisable—unless we are attacked. If we are attacked, we shall defend ourselves. But such an eventuality is too remote to be contemplated. It is certainly not in the interest of France to attack us. We extend a friendly hand to France, and we sincerely hope our friendship will be accepted. Certain requirements must be met, however, before such a friendship can be practical."

"Frontier difficulties, such as those in the Beni Zeroul country, can never be avoided under present conditions. But I affirm that we have never yet attacked a French corps or friendly tribes and that not one Rif regular soldier has ever crossed the actual French frontier as established by the French advance posts."

"Frontier skirmishes can be avoided by only one means—that is, by regular delimitation of the frontiers. This, we suggest, should be made one of the conditions of peace when the inevitable conference comes. A front-line commission should be established to draw practical boundary lines between our country and French Morocco. The present frontier was drawn in 1904 by the negotiators of the Franco-Spanish Treaty. We do not recognize that treaty and can not recognize that boundary, which passes through the middle of tribes and sometimes in the middle of villages. I can guarantee that, if a practical and natural frontier regulated by rivers and mountains were established, we should never again have any trouble with France."

"We are reminded here that the Sultan's statement was made by a man 'constantly under pressure from both sides,' and the writer adds that it needed no great penetration to see the two parties at the court of Abd-el-Krim: "the one, represented by Hamid Boudra and Lialid bel Hadj, was warlike and wished no peace with either Spain or France; the other, represented by Sidi Mohammed, wished peace at almost any price that would conserve the national integrity of the Rif itself." Further, we read: Sidi Mohammed's party never cared particularly for the conquest of the Djebala and was always the strongest influence in maintaining peace on the French frontier. Abd-el-Krim himself was taking middle ground."

"If Spain wishes peace," said the Sultan, having ended the formal part of the interview, "she can ask for an armistice and call a conference to establish the terms of peace. If Spain wishes war, we are ready for war for an indefinite term of years. We have enough arms and ammunition to last us for the next two years, and the supply will never cease so long as Spanish soldiers have anything to lose. Besides, we are confident that six months' time will be sufficient to give us the rest of northern Morocco. We do not wish war, but we shall fight until peace can come on terms acceptable to a free and independent nation."

"The Spanish retreat just completed has given us the allegiance of the whole of the Djebala—not to speak of our two thousand Spanish prisoners and our many thousands of newly captured rifles and machine-guns as well as our great gains in material treasure. We are at the very least three times as strong as we were last August. Every tribe in western Morocco has joined us, save only one—Rabatull's tribe, the Beni Arous, which we are now preparing to conquer by force."

This mention of the conquest of Rabatull was a stirring aside. The Sultan refused to discuss it; he went on to talk of the organization of the Rif Government, confining many of the statements made to me by his viziers and "German officers' myths. He talked of the mineral wealth of the Rif country and expressed the devout hope that American capital would see the ad-

Why Bring "Kitchen News" to the Front Door?

Why advertise to the neighbours what's going on in your kitchen? Why disturb the atmosphere of your home with the suffocating smoke and unpleasant odor of cheap fats, when you can fry with CRISCO, without smoke or smell.

Many Thoughtful Women Have Learned This Secret and their homes are always free from odour and smoke, even in the midst of deep frying.

CRISCO IS PURE.

It is a pure and wholesome Vegetable fat, far superior to animal fats and cooking butter. In the best hotels and restaurants, chefs would not dream of using cheap shortening. Crisco is used in all the best places. It only costs a few cents more than cheap fats, and once you use it you will cheerfully pay the difference, for CRISCO is a most delightful product and will charm you with its results in frying, shortening and cake making.

Your Grocer Will Recommend CRISCO.

More than likely he uses it in his own home. For perfect results in cooking use CRISCO. Crisco makes delicious doughnuts.

The Most Tragic
Trek in History

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—(By Canadian Press)—"Giving one's general impression first, I can simply say that the trek has not been told of this colossal tragedy,—and the other half cannot be told," says Frank Yeigh, Canadian representative of the British Save the Children Fund, after a visit of inspection to the Greek Refugee Camps in the Near East. These camps were organized for the shelter and feeding of part of the 4,000,000 people forced out of Asia Minor by Turkey during the last three years under what Mr. Yeigh describes as "the harsh and cruel conditions of the Turkey of Lusanne." Mr. Yeigh says that the Canadian donors through the Save the Children Fund be assured that the aid they have thus far given has not only met the direst of human needs, but has been the means of saving thousands of child lives; that a residue of 300,000 still call for help, for another season at least, and that the Fund is administering its gifts most conscientiously and economically, in fact, "in the British way," as an on-looker put it.

Mr. Yeigh continues: "It is only fair to state that the refugee adults are gradually being helped to self-support, through the $50,000,000 loan arranged by the League of Nations, but not a cent of this has been, or can be used for food or clothing,—only for land, housing, implements, livestock and seed grain. This leaves the multitude of helpless women and children at the mercy of the world philanthropy; which, however, is only partially being met. This same world so generous in its philanthropic impulse, so soon grows tired of helping, forgetting that hunger returns to children and grown-ups too, every day.

AWAITING DOLES OF FOOD.
"Canada has never seen long queues of hungry, ragged and practically homeless people shivering and patiently waiting for the life-giving and life-sustaining dole, and he who could look into the seared and scared faces of these innocent victims of a post-war condition without being deeply stirred, would be unresponsive to any human need. And then to watch the changed countenances as the squares of bread and the tins and bowls of soup were carried away, to be speedily eaten in barrack or tent or mud hut, was to get a satisfactory answer to the cynical question one sometimes hears: 'Is it worth while?'"

"It will not attempt to describe in detail each camp in Salonica, though each has its own character and situation. I was specially interested in the old Canadian Hospital Barracks, spreading their homely roofs over the hot sloping hillside. They are still crowded with hundreds of needy creatures, living—in that word can be used—unbearable conditions. When one counted over twenty families in one barrack, and saw the partitions of old blankets and rugs and even tin wash basins enclosing squares of only a few feet, as the 'home' of a family, and multiplied these by all the other tumble-down structures, something of the sum total of human misery in this one camp, may be estimated. No wonder one saw two men carrying a pallet out of the camp—merely two more dead on the same mattress being hurried to the little cemetery across the road from the military city of the dead, only two more refugees, who will need no more food, or rags to clothe them."

"Rags! rags and tatters! Here one discovered their clothing value, not only in coats of many faded colors, but ill-fitting garments of variegated patches. It was one thing to see the refugees under a hot summer sun, but what of the penetrating fall and winter winds that are already sweeping down the valley of the Vardeer, chilling the floor-sleepers to the bone, and, no doubt, in many cases, to the death. 'None knows how they live through it,' was the comment of an observer. An old Greek in one of the camps, when he saw the Union Jack flying over the kitchen, exclaimed, 'I thank God every time I see it'; and another one said, 'God must have sent you to help us.'"

WORSE THAN ANIMAL CONDITIONS.
"The Lembeh camp looked the essence of unattractiveness on this hot and dusty day; the mud, houses received a fresh sun-bake, and the tents suggested the sweating topees of the Canadian Indians. And yet hundreds of these Asia Minor refugees have lived for months, and even years, under these distressful conditions—worse than any animal on a Canadian farm experiences. Three children were found cuddling close to a pig for sleeping warmth. That could never happen in Canada."

"One was shown some of the new villas built by the aid of the League of Nations Refugee Settlement Commission, and comfortable little homes they are, palace compared to the hovels first used, and in proportion as the refugees are removed to them, will their housing needs be met. But great numbers still await this improvement; the process is necessarily slow in the face of the overwhelming mass suddenly precipitated into Greece, herself a relatively poor and small country."

"I next went to the mountain region of Macedonia. The news of a food distribution at Sorovitch had spread over night with mysterious speed through the refugee settlement, and by daylight the first streams appeared—mostly on foot; fewer on donkeys (three children on the back of one), and fewer still piled in carts drawn by diminutive ponies, in striking contrast to the camel caravan that had just arrived, one of the means of transportation used by The Save the Children Fund in distributing its dry rations over a wide stretch of hill country to a hundred villages.

"The little town was crowded as on a market day, and one had an opportunity of seeing refugees in the mass, for hundreds more came than could be given tickets for the cloth distribution. Once more, it was a ragged army, even worse, if that were possible than Salonica, and the pleas for help further emphasized the desolate and heavy dry bread, with perhaps a bit of fruit, their hunger need was equally obvious. I shall not soon forget their homeward trek later in the day—'Homeward' to what? The story of Salonica is repeated in Sorovitch, with even greater emphasis, for these refugees, scattered among the bleak and bare looking hills of Macedonia, dwell in even more wretched hovels and are more apt to be forgotten than the dwellers in or near a city."

AROUND THE GREEK CAPITAL.
"Next on to Athens. Although the Fund has recently been compelled to close its kitchen work here, the need, though diminished, would seek to still exist. The Argemion village, within the city limits, presented in some respects the most dreadful housing and living conditions of any, especially as to the crowded huts, hovels and tents on earthen walls. Swarms of dark-eyed children thronged the narrow lane of a street, with open sewer ditches that made the motor car ride a disturbing adventure. Wee little shops abounded, but who buys? One wonders. Everyone appeared to be busy, weaving and embroidery by the women, and various handicrafts by the men."

"I was also conducted to the two camps at Piraeus. The one occupying an old factory presented the usual sordid scenes, and old women followed us, asking for food. The dust and debris of the courtyard was bad enough, but what it must be under mud conditions after a rain had better be left undescribed. Finally, the climax of distressing sights was that

LONG TROUSERS.
I want long trousers like the kids are wearing.
And dad just laughs and says to wait awhile.
But mother shakes her head and sits there staring,
she says she doesn't fancy such a style.

Mother is queer! Sometimes I think she's crying.
Although I can't discover any tears; she acts to me as though she's really sighing.
And asks me just to wait a few more years.

Mother is funny. Last night I overheard her saying to dad she couldn't bear the thought of me in such a style.
Dad replied: "I guess it's no absurdity than women folk who want their dresses short."

Well, well," said he, "I know just what you're thinking.
It's much too soon to change him to a man.
You're right about it, mother. Stop your blithering.
We'll keep him still a youngster while we can."

Christmas of British Goods

MINISTERS' CALL TO MAYORS.

ALL CAN HELP EMPIRE TRADE.

In a circular to Lord Mayors, mayors, and chairmen of urban and rural district councils in England and Wales, urging the buying of British goods for Christmas and the organization of British Shopping Weeks before Christmas, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, President of the Board of Trade, and Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, writes:

All in the country are anxious to do what lies within their power to improve British trade and to help employment.

It will be generally agreed that there is an obvious way in which the men and women of this country can help individually. By buying British goods they will stimulate production, give employment; and, by enlarging the output of our factories, enable them to produce more cheaply and compete more effectively.

Reduce Foreign Imports
By increasing their purchases of British goods in the home market they will reduce the volume of foreign imports and improve the trade balance, thereby enabling this country to invest more in the development of new markets. By increasing the purchases of Empire goods in the home market they will enable the countries of the British Empire to buy from the Mother country.

Every man and woman in Britain can help in these ways. Every purchase helps; and if all join in a common effort the stimulus to British trade Home and Imperial will be great and immediate. In many quarters people have already shown that they appreciate the need and the possibilities. But there can be no doubt that a national movement to help British trade by buying British goods will be greatly quickened if a suitable occasion is taken which will focus attention at once upon the need and the opportunity for meeting it.

Christmas Opportunity

Such an occasion offers itself as the Christmas season approaches. We therefore venture to ask you to consider whether it will be possible to organize in your City a British Shopping Week, devoted particularly to a display of British Home and Empire products, could be held in the cities and towns of this country it would afford to their inhabitants an opportunity of helping the trade and employment of this country which would appeal to the British people, and of which we believe they would be eager to take advantage.

Should you desire to give favourable consideration to our proposal we would venture further to suggest that you should communicate with your local Chamber of Commerce, or any similar bodies which may exist in your locality and obtain their cooperation.—Yours faithfully,

Mr. E. Collishaw Purchases Property

Mr. E. Collishaw has purchased a property on the south side of Coburg road, just below Oxford Street, and all, it is said, expend a substantial sum in improvements which will make one of the most beautiful residential properties in the west end. Especially will be devoted attention to the grounds. We cannot have too many very gardens—every one of them is a community asset, and the evolution of this particular garden, situated as it is, will be of great interest.
