The Transportation Problem.

The transportation question in Nova Scotia appeals more strongly to fruit growers than to any other class. The perishable nature of the goods they produce makes it imperative that they should be placed on the markets of the world with as little delay as possible. Up to the present time the market afforded by the cities of Great Britain seem to hold out the greatest advantages and inducements to the fruit trade, and the chief problem confronting our fruit growers is how to get their fruit transported across the Atlantic in a condition that will do justice to its naturally superior qualities. To effect this, modern methods are essential, speed and proper storage in the vessels by which they are carried. During the past two years many meetings of fruit growers and farmer's associations have been held with a view to improving these matters. Of late, however, the service has been retrograding rather than improving. Unhappily the trade has not yet reached a volume that would warrant a line of steamers being put on for the sole purpose of carrying this fruit, and if otherwise unsupported, must finish up their cargoes with other classes of merchandise, thus causing delay both in the sailing of the ships as well as the delivery of the goods on arrival on the other side.

To obviate this and to enable the steamer to run on the required time, the Dominion government grants a subsidy to supply any deficiency caused by sailing without full cargo. The Furze Witby S. S. Co. have had a monopoly of this subsidy and the patronage it takes with it, but have never worked up to the required provisions nor given the service demanded. In fact, in the last two years there has been a falling off in this service due to the sale of the Scotia and the best ships of this line previously devoted to the apple trade. The delivery of their fruit in an unsatisfactory condition has entailed not only immediate pecuniary loss on Nova Scotia farmers, but also carries with it the risk of destroying the market by giving the fruit a bad reputation in England.

Notwithstanding the inability or lack of effort of the Furze Witby people to give the service their contract demands and the trade requires, they nevertheless desire to continue to pursue the 'dog in the manger' policy of standing in the way of other companies while failing to perform the service themselves. In this position they are opposed without exception by the intelligent fruit growers of the province, but have induced a number of shipowners or middlemen to support them and to represent to the government that the service they give is all right. These men have no particular gain or loss in view from the quality of the transportation service given, as they receive their commissions and fees regardless of the condition in which the fruit is landed. The loss of thousands of dollars yearly and the fact that if any improvement is to be effected it must come through their efforts, has thoroughly aroused the farmers of Nova Scotia, and they have been endeavoring during the past few months to induce the C. I. R. to have their boats call at Halifax to carry their fruit, and also to get the Dominion government to withhold the subsidy from the Furze Witby Co. for the ensuing year, notwithstanding their assurances of better service and faster boats.

From past experience the fruit growers feel that such promises and assurances can not be relied upon. The growth and exportation of fruit has come to be recognized as one of the most important of our industries and one that should no longer be handicapped by a transportation service that delivers the fruit in such a condition that the laborers of the farmers for the whole year are practically lost. The fight is now on between the C. I. R. and the shipowners mentioned above on the one hand, and entrepreting farmers of the Annapolis Valley through the medium of their representative associations on the other. Needless to say, the latter will have the sympathy of the people in the contest.

Methodist Camp-meeting in Session at Berwick.

The camp meeting grounds at Berwick is this week the Mecca of Methodist in Western Nova Scotia. The scene presented by the encampment is beautiful and picturesque enough to repay any one who has not been imbued with the deep religious spirit that inspires the majority of those who make up the gathering. A block of sixteen acres still clothed in primeval forest, has been enclosed and laid out in beautiful walks, along which rustic cottages have been built and tents erected, many of which are decorated with wreaths and bunting, and all rendered gay and attractive by their furnishings in the form of hammocks and garden chairs, rugs and cushions. These temporary residences are the property of the Methodist denomination throughout the country, and each has the name of the particular city, town or hamlet from which its tenants come, lettered in silk, emerald or carmine, above its portals. In the centre of the encampment two spacious auditoriums have been erected. One of these is roofed in as a protection in rainy weather, the blue sky and the interlacing boughs of the giant hemlocks in an all-sufficient roof for the other. From beside the preacher's desk, at each of these, a sweet-toned organ sends peals of accented music floating through the grove and lends volume to the voices raised in songs of praise and thanksgiving. The most eloquent and impressive sermons of the denomination in the province take turns in conducting what is practically a continuous service from the early morning till well after dark. In the evening a new interest is added to the scene by the many lamps that are hung on the trees and brims the tents and cottages. The present is the thirty-second year which the meetings have been held in this grove, and the number attended on the grounds is larger than ever before, and the number passing through the gates also increased. A new interest to the general proceedings has this year been added by the introduction of the Epworth League Summer School. Among the leading speakers are Evangelist Wm. McKie of Glace Bay, C. E. Ford, W. W. Andrews, of Mt. Allison College, Rev. A. C. Borden of Tokio, Japan, and many others. One thing is particularly noticeable above all else and reflects great credit on those on whom the general management devolves. Notwithstanding the freedom that the spacious grounds afford, everything has the solemn and sanctified appearance of a great church, and the air of the place seems to be in keeping with the place and circumstances. Berwick is taxed to accommodate the crowd who are attending the meetings but not living on the camp grounds. The meetings will close on Friday next, and the present outlook is that it will be the most successful camp-meeting ever held at Berwick.

Fortunately a number of men were on and around the vessel and were able to put out the fire before it had gained much headway.

—The members of the British press party, who are at Calgary to-day, will visit the maritime provinces on their return east. They will go to St. John by the short line, and by the Dominion Atlantic through the Land of Evangeline to Halifax, returning by the west coast and write English and will study, can not without leaving home or present occupation fit herself for any of the above professions.—Adv.

—The nineteenth century has witnessed the evolution of the business woman. At the dawn of the twentieth century we find women managing mercantile establishments, practicing law, attending to the requirements of scientific, technical and medicine, and occupying prominent positions in the fields of chemistry, geology, and industrial art. Several of the courses of the International Correspondence Schools are well adapted to the requirements of ambitious women, and new courses are rapidly appearing. The bookkeeping, stenography and letter writing courses will prepare them for positions as secretaries, stenographers and private secretaries. The courses in architecture open the door to a profession in which women are achieving marked success. They can become analytical chemists through the chemistry course; acquire a thorough knowledge of approved methods of teaching in the school of pedagogy; or qualify, through the courses in ornamental design and lettering, for lucrative positions in the broad fields of industrial art. None are barred, any young woman who can read and write English and will study, can not without leaving home or present occupation fit herself for any of the above professions.—Adv.

Practical Talks and Plain Precepts for Farmers

Edited for the Farmer readers of the MONITOR by an Annapolis Valley Agriculturist

I invite contributions, criticism and questions bearing on agriculture or horticulture and will undertake to answer the latter or will undertake to have them answered by experts.

Hustle in Haytime.

When the time arrives for harvesting the hay crop, I find it better to make it along as though business were driving. Those who are always looking for rain are also always looking for a good crop.

AFTERNOON MOWING.

When mowing was all done with scythes it was necessary to cut the grass early in the day when the dew was on it, because it cut so much easier.

Now with the modern machine for handling grass and hay it is often made as well in one day as formerly in two days.

USE THE TEDDER. I do not think the tedder is appreciated as it should be by many farmers. I would about as soon think of dispensing with the mower and horse rake as with the tedder in grass that is heavy enough to need tending.

A THREE HORSE OUTFIT. With a large amount of hay to be done I like to have three horses to do it, a pair for the mowing machine and hay cart and a single horse for the tedder and rake.

THROUGH CLEAN WORK. Some farmers never mind the scattering, but I think that hay that is worth raising and cutting ought to be worth saving. A mowing field ought to be mowed as neat after the crop is removed as a village lawn.

Do you see now that you have two species of insects to combat, both the ants and the lice?

FOR THE LICE—The Lime Sulphur Soap compound will kill the lice, but there is only one man in Nova Scotia that uses that kind of lime.

USEFUL HINTS. My own having season began when the winter was just heating out.

A Long Story in Brief. The Wichita Beacon, Kansas, puts much in little.

A Well-known Albany Man. About eighteen months ago Mr. W. S. Manning, of Albany, N. Y., writes known in trade circles as the "retrograde" of the Albany Cattle Co.

A. G. Ruggles of the State Experimental Station, University of Minnesota, writes on the life and destruction of Aphids.

A citizen of Bear River, finding his trees being injured by numbers of small insects, had a number of them sent Mr. A. G. Ruggles, teacher at the State Experimental Station.

THE AUTHORITY OF KING EDWARD is quoted, in opposition to the cropping of grass in the winter.

To Cure a Cold in One Day. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.

W. A. CHESLEY. Granville St. Bridgetown. To Cure a Cold in One Day. Cures Croup in Two Days.

The Household. WHEN A MAN GETS HOME. "It is his duty," I supposed, "that a man's conduct during the day depends on whether or not he enjoys his breakfast."

Jokers' Corner. THE POOR WHITE. When Hooker T. Washington was asked by a Southerner recently to prove to a Northern audience that that section was really responsible for the introduction of slavery into the American colonies.

HER PROPOSAL REJECTED. (Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.) There is a small town on the States that boasts a female preacher.

A TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM. Henry Guy Clifton, whose stutting was noted in the columns of the Atlantic.

KILLED THE KID. The Sunday School lesson for the day was "Joseph and his Brethren."

THE HOME DOCTOR. To strengthen a weak throat gargle daily with salt and water, for several weeks.

CANDY. A little pure candy after lunch or dinner is not only unobjectionable, but it aids digestion.

TEACHING YOUNG CHILDREN. It is a positive fact that one hour a day, even less in the very beginning, devoted to teaching a young child at home will enable him at the end of a year to outstep his little playmate who has been forced to spend five hours confined in a classroom crowded to its fullest with children kept at an unvarying dead level.

To Cure a Cold in One Day. Cures Croup in Two Days. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets.
