Investigate the Enormous Possibilities for Profitable Investment in the Fastest Growing City in the World

THE TORONTO WORLD

SASKATOON is the logical centre of Canada's heritage. The undisputed distributing area of Saskatoon is enormous---practically the whole of Central Saskatchewan, a veritable inland Empire. This immense territory tributary to Saskatoon comprises some of the most fertile lands on earth, and is being rapidly filled up by a hardy, thrifty class of people, making it each year more and more productive. Saskatoon's future is assured---yesterterday NOTHING, to-day 16,000, to-morrow---who will be bold enough to hazard a guess? SASKATOON City Property combines a safe, sane, and sure investment with the large returns that are generally obtainable only from more or less hazardous and risky speculations.

Recital of Sacred Music.

Deuce Society Dance. The Deuce Society, of the Toronto Tennis Club, gave one of the nicest at St. Matthew's Church, First-ave.,

Fat Women, This Month Shonid Interest You on Wednesday evening, the choir gave a recital of sacred music, assisted by an orchestra. The principal soprano parts were taken by Miss Clara C. Stiles, soloist of Parkdale Methodist Church, who sang the obligatos to Ros-sini's "Inflammatus," and "Jerusalem, O Turn Thee," from Gounod's "Gallia." Miss Stiles has a clear soprano vedee O Turn Thee," from Gounod's "Gallia." Miss Stiles' has a clear soprano voice of high range and power, which was heard to great advantage in both se-lections, which she sang magnificently. The remainder of the program con-sisted of vocal and instrumental num-bers which were well rendered.

along to look after the young pitchers at Baltimore. McIntyre, the Mitchell, Ont., boy, has been fortunate enough to secure a position on the Haverhill Club of the New England League. This is a fortunate opportunity for this young player, and he has the good wishes of the Toronto players:

Manager Kelley expects during the course of a week to place all his young players, who, in the meantime, will be sent to Baltimore, where they will do light work. In next Sunday's issue will be written a full description of pening game of the season on the Baltimore grounds, and by that time everything will be known as to who will compose the team for the season.

Rainy Weather Has Put the Leafs Back a Bit-W. J. Slee Gives an Honest Opinion of All the Players-Season Opens Thursday Next BY W. J. SLEE.

LYNCHBURG, April 13.—(Staff Correspondence.)—The persistent rainy weather thruout the State of Virginia during the month of April has been a considerable detriment to baseball clubs who season after season visit this state for practice games before playing league matches. This rainy spell has had its bad effects with the Toronto Club as well as others. The Leafs made great strides toward getting into condition during the two weeks' stay in Macon, Ga., but a lot of that good work has been offset by the weather since encountered.

With the combining of forces of the two teams at Richmond last Monday was the first real opportunity available to see just what had been accomplished by the players towards fitting since the practice games in Macon, and their efforts must have convinced Manager Kelley that they are fit and ready for the season's championship battle. The latter, during the four innings he pitched, held Richmond without a hit or run, and if a couple of errors had not been made behind him, only twelve batters would have faced him in the four innings. He is also a player with lots of life, and works all the time. Toronto looks to have got the better of the trade when they secured this player for Carroll.

McGinley is in good shape, and tho touched up pretty freely in one innings last Tuesday, he has every indication of having a good season.

shape, Lush being bothered with a very sore arm, so Manager Kelley has decided to send him on to Baltimore, where he can have light workouts every day until the Toronto team arrives

Ted Cathers, the young pitcher the Leafs drafted from Lan-caster, is going fine, and he has everything that goes toward making a successful slabsman, and pitches with a world of confidence.

Lester Backman, whom Toronto purchased from St. Louis, has come around slowly, but appears in shape just now. He has pitched very carefully all the time, but in one game with Atlanta he showed he had considerable speed. He is of a quiet retiring nature, but very conscientious about his work

This completes the seven pitchers Manager Joe has decided to carry for the first month at least, and it is a very formidable staff, much stronger than last year's. The catching end of the team is still working well, and in this department the Toronto fans will immediately see considerable improvement. Eddie Phelps is certainly a classy receiver, doing his work in a sure and easy manner. He never hurries his pitcher, and is great on foul flies. Bradley Kocher, who will be the second catcher, is a young player with a great future, barring accidents. He has size and a great arm. While rather green as yet, he is a pretty fair catcher right now, but one that will improve as the season advances. He showed to advantage against Richmond. The infield is working well, the Bradley's arm is not in as good shape as he would like. O'Hara is the only one of the outfielders not in condition. The rainy weather has stiffened him up, and his arm has bothered him a lot. President McCaffery got busy Monday night, and the play-ers who had any little differences with the club the genial president soon got to the root of the matter and settled the question. He was naturally clated when Keeler signed his contract, as this player greatly impressed the club's presiding officer. Kelley later announced that Keeler would be played in right field during the season. Wee Willie gave himself a most thoro preparation, and is convinced he is in shape to play, as was announced one day last week by your correspondent. With Keeler in right, Shaw goes to centre, the latter's correct position, and one in which he is capable of successfully looking after. The battle will be between Delahanty and O'Hara for left field. At the present writing, Delahanty is in better condi-tion of the two, and naturally gets the call, but whether he can. hold the position from O'Hara remains to be seen. Both are good batters, but lack spirit in their fielding. O'Hara shows great bursts of speed at times, and with his speed should be well up in the stolen-base column. While in Norfolk, the players met a former Toronto outfielder, Bill Hargrove, and, naturally, old-time talks resulted, Hargrove was with the team that won the pennant under Ed. Barrow. Bill was that year one of the best centre-fielders in the league. He recalled with pleasure some of the last games of the

Again, a few men still believe in the "imported" Cigar, although every DAVIS' "NOBLEMEN" proves the alleged superiority to be a fallacy-an exploded theory.

The "NOBLEMEN" Cigar is equal to highgrade "imported" brands, because it is made from the choicest Havana leaf, by skilled Cuban workmen.

For obvious reasons, a fresh egg would taste the same in Cuba as in Canada. For equally powerful reasons the DAVIS' "NOBLE-MEN" Cigars and the high-grade "imported" smoke, taste, and are the same, yet the "NOBLEMEN" costs half the price, or two for 25c.

Figuring from a paper point of view, Toronto looks to have the team of the league this season, but, of course, paper teams are hard to bank on, but anyway the team that beats the Leafs will be hard to keep from the pennant? For enclass hose

The joy of having the winning mount in the great steeplechase at Liverpool I have experienced, but to explain in any set terms that joy I scarcely know how. The idea of doing so has not occurred to me, and if I were to attempt it I should come near setting up a paradox, for the winning 'jockey of the National may be, and I am sure he is, a wholly imaginative person without the least imagination; a dreamer in an ordinary way who a dreamer in an ordinary way who in 1909, but that is by the way-the once in the race has forgotten, as he experience of winning was tremendous; is bound to forget, how to dream. "There are some people who would say that it is so much nonsense that a horse is sufficiently endowed with in-telligence to know what it has to do. telligence to know what it has to do. But the average National horse has instincts of an uncommon kind. It knows that at Liverpool it has to jump, and jump well; there is no rush-ing the fences at Liverpool, every obstacle must be taken cleanly. And so the horse, like the jockey, is all preparedness. There are more serious accidents to man and beast over little hurdles than in the Grand National:

It would be a very dry and ordinary function for the public if the show was confined to breeding types and bereft of perfor-mances, which constitute its main at-traction for the man and woman who are not sufficiently posted on confor-mation and pedigrees to appreciate absolute quality and possibilities in the breed.

absolute quality and possibilities in the breed. It may be deplored that the horse, as August Belmont said, by means of these shows is degenerating into the same class as the dog shows. At the same time, if the horse is to re-tain its standing and increase in popularity, it can only be by means of these shows. Racing encourages the breed of thorobreds as a type, and it still remains, in spite of the opponents of the sport, that the thorobred has its particular and peculiar function to fulfil—a function which no other type of horse is capable of filling from the fact that none other is so pure in type and is possessed of the dash and courage that are begotten from the thorobred which gains and maintains its particular and useful quarties from competition in deeds. The Horse' Show creates and en-courages the driving and saddle horse. One of the greatest pleasures in life to a full blooded and healthy man must be riding or driving. He feels almost that he has something human to control and command and there must and always should be a greater sense of satisfaction in the apprecia-tion of the power of machinery. At the coming Horse show there will be much to please the senses as well as to satisfy the judgment. All the humting, carriage and saddle classes will exhibit the horse in its highest state for the useful purposes gentle-men at leisure and lovers of venture and command. There is not a class that is not well filted and well worth the seeing. That and command. There is not a class that is not well filled and well worth the seeing. That the attendance will be of the usual high social character is proven by the demand that there has been for the boxes. In short the prospects favor an undoubtedly better display of horses and attendance of men and women than has ever been seen in the Armories since the initiation of the function sixteen or seventeen years ago. the

Under Nourishment Under nourishment is just another term to describe not setting enough to eat. In the City of New York there are said to be tens of thousands of work-ing families where this very condition subsists. The father works. The mother toils. Each child brings in his pittance. There is no drunkenness, but the sickening fact remains that thousands are literally starving to death. Is it possible that such a con-dition is commencing to obtam in To-ronto? It need not. If the families in such a miserable plight would only (2.) What immediately preceding events had led up to the boy Joash (Jehoash) being crowned King of Judah?

(3.) Verse 1---Who was Jehu?
(4.) Zibiah was the mother of the boy King Joash, but who was his father?
(5.) Verses 2-3--Is the statement here made that "Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the Lord all his days," literally, or historically correct? (See 2 Chron. xxiv:17-22.
(6.) Take two men, both previously good, in responsible positions of great temptiation, both having been religiously trained, one having a vile and the other a good ancestry; one of them late in life becomes a bad man-on the faw of averages which is it, and why?
(7.) Verses 4-5---What method or rule should we adopt in giving money to the church?

(7.) Verses 4-0----what method of full blocks and the block of the church?
(8.) What is the relative obligation upon a man for keeping up his own house and the house of God?
(9.) Verses 6-8----What were the priests bidden by the king to do with the money which the people brought in, and how did they carry out their orders?
(10.) Why is it either wise or unwise for a pastor to be the treasurer of his thurch?

church? (11.) What is your opinion as to what these priests did with the money? (12.) Which is the right, or better place to collect money for God's cause, and why, at the homes of the people or in the church? (13.) Verse 9—If Jehoinda had gotten up a series of concerts, or lectures, or bazaars, or tea meetings, or had set the women to making quilts and selling them, instead of asking the people to give their money direct, would it or not have been more in keeping with God's plans for financing His church, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.) (14.) What modern plan for paying money to the church, most nearly answers to putting it into a chest at the church door, and what is the advantage of the plan?

(15.) How many instances can you recall of dishonesty in handling church funds, and how do they compare with the number you can recall of dishonesty in banking and other business institutions?
(16.) Verses 11-12—Ought a church to gladly pay the regular market value, or should it expect to get work and material for less?

about the non-essentials that come in as mere incidents in the day's work. Minor annoyances are sure to come. Each one may learn to accept these as straws upon the tide of life. Each one may consume his own smoke. Querulousness and whimpering are grossly and vulgarly out of place in a world that needs workers and that requires good cheer and per-formance rather than dolefulness and murmuring. What You Can Do. Every morning one must ask what new advantage has been · discovered for Canadian life. As Thomas Carlyle said: "The race has become exceeding swift, woe to him who stops to tie his shoe strings." The demand is everywhere becoming more urgent for men and women who can make good. Law cannot hide itself behind its majesty, but make itself behind its majesty, but make itself more and more applicable to the tangled web of business and social life. Politics is no longer the domain of a privileged class but has become the imperative duty of every citizen. The same is true of religion. It cannot rest behind its sanctity. It is not a thing of the cloister and the altar. It is not to be confined to temples, no matter how fine or dim their religious light. More than ever is there a call for a religion that answers the needs of the whole man. Unless religion grips and quickens a man twenty-four hours in the day for seven days in the week it is but a superstition that must pass into the limbo of the ghosts and fairies of the older days. Business alone does not man. Society and politics and sports cannot answer one's juil needs.

can one be religious apart from that. The religion needed is the kind that makes itself known and felt in every human activity. The Bible deals with the whole man. The religion it inoulcates includes every human interest. The Bible reminds one of all his possibilities of achievement and downfall. Whatever one does he is urged to do heartily as unto the Lord. One is ao nearthy as unto the Lord. One is not allowed to be an eye servant or a man pleaser. Religion begins with the whole man and it demands the whole man. What each one can do is to put into his task all that he has energy and conscience, and by so doing he will effectually aid the cause of humanity and of religion.

Morality and Our Schools. A good deal has been said and writ-ten lately regarding the moral training of children in our schools. Now it must not be forgotten that the school is but a handmaid to the home and not its substitute. The teacher is a parent's helper and cannot discharge the parent's duty. During school hours the pupil is under the teacher's care. On way to and from the school the ent does well to know with whom his children keep company. Loitering along the road and escapades on the journey to the school or from school to the home have much to do with moral deterioration on the part of school children. As regards teaching morality in the public school it is difficult to time to the tune of human progress. The tall chimney is not a thing of beauty, but it is a joy forever to the workman and the statesman. Even the smoke nuisance can well be tolerat-ied when the benefits derived from the factory are considered. It were better, however, if every tall chimney burned its own smoke. With men it may be so. There is no good reason for any person's mak-the file miserable for right thinking people. They need not make the and trusty need hope

The Trouble Is Liquor

Drive the Accumulated Poison Out of Your System By the Gatlin Treatment and You Eliminate Hard Luck From Your Business.

YOU can't do business and drink liquor-that is, you can't do successful business. A clear brain, quick and accurate judgment are absolutely necessary, and liquor robs a man of ing its attention in the direction of these the very first thing. You may get along in business after a fashion and continue to drink liquor, but your busi- from among its gigantic member ness will have a downward instead of an upward tendency. Sooner or later it will play out ; your strictly sober competitor is out after business all the time, and he is getting it-he is getting yours. Come to the Gatlin Institute for THREE DAYS-the period of time required to effect a cure in any case. In THREE DAYS the poison deposit of years of drinking will be driven from your system ; with it will go all craving, desire and nerve-necessity for liquor -these are but the EFFECTS of drunkenness-the symptoms of a poisoned system. The CAUSE is that poison deposit.

After THREE DAYS of the Gatlin treatment, you can return to your business and do your own thinking-whiskey will have ceased to "think" for you. Then, it is up to you to make the kind of SUCCESS that Nature fitted you to make-the present handicap mark. On the contrary, it must enand hard-luck feature of your business will be past.

YOU, your employee or your friend will be accepted for treat ment at the Gatlin Institute under a plain contract that a CURE entirely satisfactory to yourself and to your family shall be effected in THREE DAYS or the fee paid shall be refunded at the end of the third day, and treatment shall cost NOTHING. The highest financial references as to the value of this contract.

If you cannot come to the Institute for three days, send for the Gatlin Home Treatment. It is just as effective as Institute treatment if plain, simple instructions and directions are observed.

For one think the water works muddle is a disgrace to everybody. For another, it is barbarous that the burnt-over district in the once business section of the city should remain uncleared and as the fire left it year after year. It is a monument to slothfulness and is so regarded by every traveler who comes hither. A live executive would set about to see how these things could be remedied. At present it is potter, potter, potter, talk, talk, talk, until the very frock coats and plug hats worn at the laying of corner stones and other stately functions are becoming worn and frayed from perpetual use.

The board of trade cannot effect civic government, by choosing active live men to run for public offices ship, it can accomplish a great deal and make its influence for good directly felt. In short, with its power well wielded its possibilities are wellnight unlimited. That it has the confidence of the people has been made manifest. Men have askedwhat benefit will joining be to me?--but still they have given in their adhesion in a hopeful spirit. It is, now up to the board's executive to prove the warrantability of that hopefulness-to prove that confidence has not been displaced. All the same, as has been previously said, the board must not run away with the idea that it is all-in-all, courage and try to develop other bodies the mission of which lies somewhat in the same direction as its own.

Apropos of the latter fact, it eems to us that it would be well if the board could take to itself its own underlying idea of a Dominion square for government buildings, and erect a structure wherein all the bodies having civic and central trade objects in view could find suitable accommodation.

Constant compact of the compon ent parts of the board would make it a true citizens' parliament.

In the meantime the question as to whether a complete revolution in civic methods is not advisable might

We have felt for some time that the supreme court decisions in the trust cases might be delayed until just before the long summer recess-that is, until May 29-and this was one reason why we have advised sales of stocks, and not making repurchase except on breaks. Many are now coming around to this same view. It has caused gen-eral hesitation in business and apathy towards stocks. Hence the smallest record of sales of the year. We cannot see any reason at the moment for changing this view. Some are looking for a moderate stock market move-ment after the Easter holidays, based on abundance of funds. Anything in this line would probably be made up largely of specialties. The production of gold in Australia in 1910 showed a considerable falling off as compared with the previous year, and the New Zealand production also declined slightly. The provisional figures (subject to a slight revision, but substantially correct) and those for the previous years are as follows.

bank notes were at forced currency and soon depreciated. The forced circulation was discontinued in 1883. By 1893 conditions had become very unsatisfactory. The building specula-tion in Rome, which rested entirely on and the bad schere its limit the Rome tion in Rome, which rested entirely on credit, had reacher its limit, the Bank of Rome was on a verge of collapse, the condition of the other banks was unfavorable, exchange on Italy was at 15.95 per cent discount, and Italian rentes had fallen to 78.05, the lowest in thirteen years. All the banks had in thirteen years. All the canss had embarrassed themselves by dealing in marigages and making extensive advances on property not readily salable. Competition had led to an excessive issue of paper currency. "The Italian system of banks," says Fer-raris, "was a curious mixture of monopoly and plurality, which had all the disadvantages and none of the advantages of these systems." Canovai is of the same opinion. He says, "The plurality of banks had excited rivalry between the institutions, and in the midst of the struggle they had lost the sense of prudence and measure: instead of being the supreme regula-tors of the circulation and credit, they had become facile distributors of bank notes, encouraging all sorts of ir-regular and immoderate undertakings."

Remedial Legislation. Parliament was forced to pass the radical banking reform act of August 10, 1893. The affairs of the Bank of Rome were to be wound up; the Tus-can National Bank and the Tuscan Credit Bank were consolidated with the National Bank; and the three banks of issue thus remaining were directed to liquidate the assets of their mortgage departments within ten years. The banks of Italy, Naples, and Sicily were given a monopoly of consisting of:

CAPITAL STOCK $1,000,000 TOTAL BOND ISSUE $200,000 These bonds are secured by first mortgage on the company's properties

A Talc property of 400 acres, with fully equipped plant, valued conserva-tively at $800,000. The present capacity of the mill is 20 tons per day; the profit on this output is $7.00 per ton.

Also, a feldspar quarry of 120 acres, valued at $400,000, is being acquired. On this property is a mill in full operation, the capacity of which is 100 tons per day, which yields a minimum profit of $2.00 per ton, or $60,000 per annum.

The object of this bond issue is to complete the payments for the feldspar property, and to double its capacity, and also to equip the talc mill with machinery sufficient to increase the output to 100 tons per day.

The existing market for talc and feldspar fully warrants the above exten-sions, as the demand for either product is far in excess of the supply.

LOCATION

The properties are about 100 miles south of Montreal, in Northern Vermont, of easy access to the natural market for both products.

OPINIONS OF EXPERTS

Mr. Barlow of Montreal and James E. McEvoy of Toronto, two of the most competent mineralogists in America, have personally examined these properties. * Both reports are very favorable and exhaustive, treating not only as to the quality and quantity of raw material, but also as to cost of production, the uses of the finished product, and present market conditions. Copies of these reports may be seen at our office.

It is worth while to consider some more of Dr. Wilberforce's objections. He makes four in particular./He says, 'I consider the doctrine of Karma to be based on a total misapprehension of the origin, place and purpose of what we call evil." The total misapprehen-sion here, I take it, is of the doctrine of Karma on the part of the archdeacon. Karma simply means action and the results of action. Order Countermanded grievances against the courts he will no doubt conclude that it would have been better had he taken the shoot that Representative Brown, of Harvey County, once did. Brown was practising law at Newton. He fell out with the district judge over some trivial matter. One day the court wanted him as a witness in a case, and sent the sheriff after him.

"Just tell the judge to go to h----," said Brown, when the sheriff told him "All right," said the sheriff.

The latter wheeled around and start-ed toward the courthouse. Brown turned and looked at him. The longer he looked the more convinced was he that he had made a mistake. So he started after the sheriff. But the sheriff was too fast for him and reached the courtroom unmolested. "May it please the court" said the sheriff, "Mr. Brown told me to tell the court to go to h----." Just then Brown rushed through the door to the courtroom and before any-thing could be said or done by the judge, Brown remarked: "May it please your honor, I have changed my mind. You needn't go. I'll testify."

It may be remembered that George Bernard Shaw not long ago wrote a letter to The Car, a British publica-tion, in which he said that a man who while driving a machine runs over a dog ought not to stop. If he has a woman in the car it would distress her to see the agony of the dog. If the man is alone or with a chauffeur there is no more reason to stop, said Mr. Shaw, because he or they would al-most inevitably find that attempts at sympathy or consolation naturally would meet with an uncordial recep-tion. The cast, principals and chorus, wera more than usually able, the chorus well balanced and spirited, and the dresses and scenery a delight to the eye. I do not know the nationality of Oscar Straus, the composer, but his Oscar Straus, the composer, but his music seemed to me to lean toward the Slavonic, especially in the chorus work. There are quite a number of cord now and then would have been an appetizer for more sweets, but it never came. If the train of treacly melody had only once or twice run off the rails and smashed on the discord of cymbals, we might perhaps have been strengthened against the continued flow of melodic molasses. There was just a little too much Chocolate and just a little too little Soldier. That is Just a little too little Soldier. That is all I have to say on the musical side. The smartness of the chorus, the vivacity of the principals, the beauty— real beauty—of the mounting and the marked efficiency of the orchestra are all on the credit side and would cover very much more weakness than the

It was just the di-viding line between day and night life. The night prowlers were be-ginning to come out from their day haunts adjoining Yonge; the vial of lips, and hats carefully angled on their eleven. The first menu to be scanned ginning to come out from their day haunts adjoining Yonge; the vial of excitement was emptying itself into their fibres; they needs must hasten from the quiet room out to the pulsat-ing vitality of the streets. The hoarse screamer, standing beneath the waving auction flag felt it, as he should, nay, exhorted, the lingering indolents to come in and buy; the auctioneer him-self felt it stealing thru him, as he stood, a figure of stolid insolence, casting forth his cheap bits of pervert-ed Webstor, and waving aloft the sale-able treasure. The saunterers too quickened their steps, and laughed coarsely at the jokes, merely from a sense of abandon and hilarity, which came with the swooping night. There is a tinge of dare deviltry about the creeping hours of sombre-ness, which makes the fresh young thing stand on corners and ogle at every cirl who happens to pass, and sends a vagrant smile over the face of exhorted, the lingering indolents to come in and buy; the auctioneer himcame sounds of jollity such as no mere next. The cyni-cal observer, pausing an instant in a sequestered doorway, puffs big rings up toward the clouds, and smiles. "The world is full of fools," he quotes, "and night surely is cheir paradise." Down in the theatre district, life was effervescing. The door man hobbied out to meet each carriage, each limou-sine, and assist the rotund dowagers to the curb. He too smiled, as he sends a vagrant smile over the face of sounds of another dance, and shouts were heard to whisper, out to meet each carriage, each lined-sine, and assist the rotund dowagers to the curb. Like the Early Victorian Pantalettes-Upper and Lower Parts of the Costume Shriek at Each Other. By Lady Duff-Gordon ("Lucile.")

ADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London. and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, illustrating it with sketches and photographs of her own original models.

Again, proclaim their Oriental inspiration and yet have the square-cut neck, the bell-shaped elbow sleeves and is a girdle, whose silken strands are interwoven with oxidized silver or dull gold; this, after loosely encircling the figure just beneath the bust, being knotted at the left side, a fringe of little silk grelots in all the colors of the embroidery, being added to each end. A length of the same cord is attached to an aumoniere bag of the same embroidered crepon, which is made and sold with each blouse-tunic, and which is destined to be slung over the left shoulder in the plquant fashion which is now being generally adopted.
To you can, if you so wish—and if you are prompt for take advantage of this first private "tip" about a forthcoming novelty—have a bag made entirely of the ribbon, which also adorns a scarf and muff of nihon or chiffon, these sets being one of the newest and very smartest additions to Spring tollettes. indeed, quite a rage for ribbons, and certainly they have never been seen to better advantage than when used in this particular and pretty way—a long and wide scarf of black ninon, for example, being broadly, bordered with royal blue satin ribbon, while the other and narrower ribbons form a series of points at either side of a central and wide band. Then at the ends, the side of a central and wide band. HERE is nothing that will make a fashion go out ness proclaime their dedication of existence sooner than to ridicule it. In this to the sportswolatest outrageous fad for the harem skirt we man. Nowadays. have a fashion which needs only to be shown in its however, we have changed reality to be made ridiculous. One does not have to exaggerate, and here I show all that, and the you two of the very newest phases of this horrible garment. If you think I am dwelling too much upon severest single note that this latest, newest, craziest idea of woman's dress, I will answer that it is because I think the whole art of woman's dress is affected, rendered ridiculous, by ever ensured comfort and such things.

I confidently predict that this craze will be short-lived. I do not think that any woman who claims re-finement or gentility, or a true idea of what the art of dress really consists of, will wear this ridiculous garment for a minute. Because of its cheapening, coarsening influence upon the whole fabric of the art it the update of the public static as seen as should be swept out of the public sight as soon as po'ssible. Look at this picture of the woman in the latest harem skirt entering a cab. Where is the old grace of movement of the skirt? Where is the old beauty of line that we associate with woman? Here is nothing more than a pair of legs with an ugly bunch of cloth gathered dowdily about the knees. There is nothing harmonious between the lower portion of the costume and its upper portion. One shrieks against the other. And in this other photograph, which reminds me of the pantelleted days of the early Victorian era, one finds the same fault. It is not immoral because it is trousers—it is immoral because it is dowdy and ugly. One of our greatest philosophers has said that woman's morality is all a matter of fastidiousness. If that is so what, in heaven's name, will these women who wear the harem skirt stop at?

But now I will turn from this idiotic fashion and tell you something about the latest Spring modes.

First, there is a new development of the blouse, which has its distinct advantages, and which is called a "Blouse-Tunic," though there is very little, if anything, to distinguish it from the actual tunic, whose adapta-bility it is now trying to rival, except perhaps, that its career is continued right up to the neck; though, so also, are many of the tunics themselves, while some of these new dually-named and useful garments are themselves cut in quite a deep round, or square, in order to get the decollette effect, which is a feature of so many day-time dresses this season.

Any way, and by any name, this "Blouse-Tunic" is assured of admiration and wear, when made, for ex-ample, in white crepon with embroideries, which, once freedom of movement for the ardent devotee of golf, for example, can be, and generally is, exceedingly smart. But, for all this. fancy that this latest and longest coat will be more En frequently, and, indeed, suitably used for motor-ing and travelling purposes, for, you must know, it is made in the most closely clinging shape. The curves of both coat and figure are ac. centuated, too, by the working of the stripes which form a pattern. It fastens far over at the NCIENT Babylon was far-famed for her A riches and extravagance, New York, claims her share of spendriches and extravagance, Broadway, thrifts-pleasure-seekers, gamblers and rich men who come from all parts of the world to win their spurs on the Great White Way; but Wall Street holds the palm for big spending, gambling and pleasure-seeking over any district of any city in the world. London with all her immensity has nothing like this wealth show; Paris with the everlasting whirl of pleasure, where it is esti-mated that Americans alone spend $25,000,000 annually, cannot display the luxuriousness of the Wall Street men, and the stakes at Monte Carlo resemble white chips to the golden chances taken in the narrow street with its edifice of worship at one end and the great river at the other.

Bob-Sledding Down the Mount of Olives

Jerusalem, April 10. ERUSALEM, and the whole of Palestine for that matter, has been visited by severe snowstorms—the worst recorded in the Holy City for a period of fifty years. True, snow does fall occasionally here, but it is very seldom that it remains upon the ground more than an hour or two. Often five or six Winters will go by without snow failing at all, except in the higher elevations of the constant the country. Unfortunately, the snowstorms have been accompanied by high winds and much damage has been done, both to life and property. For the past two days the streets have been almost impassable, there be-ing ten to fourteen inches of snow with drifts here and there two to four feet deep. Quite a number of American and Canadian tourists have been liter-ally snowbound and have had to postpone their trips to nearby places of interest. But they have surprised and astonished the na-tives by induiging in all kinds of Northern Winter sports, not only in Jerusalem itself, but upon the Mount of Olives so strength Jerusalem itself, but upon the Mount of Olives, so strangely cov-ered by a mantie of white. Here have been seen the strange spec-tacles for this country of ski-ing and bob-sleighing races as well as skating. Snowballing, making igloos and snowmen has been the pastime and any sement of foreign-pastime and snowmen has been the pastime and amusement of foreign-ers for the last few days. The storms, which have accom-panied the falling snow, have been general over the greater part of the country, but no place has suffered like Jaffa. Here for three days not a ship dared approach the nort for a ship dared approach the port for the foaming sea, except one or two fishing smacks which were driven ashore.

Asnore. The Brook, which is properly translated the "Winter Torrent" of the Kedron, near Jerusalem, is now flowing with the melting snow.

towards their own ruination Many women in our midst have evo!ved a social conscience and these are from which they became discouraged ever on the alert to discover ways and means of helping others

For many, many years Mrs. Georgina Broughall had a Bible-class of a couple Armed with this knowledge, Mrs. Broughall dreamed a dream. The dream was of homes-not institutions to meet the demand. It means that dream was of homes-not institutions -where from fifty to one hundred girls might be accommodated, each with a separate room to sleep in, with well cooked, wholesome meals, served in a cheery, bright dining-room, with an ettractive drawing-room with music converted to meet the demand. It means that young women can have for three-fifty well-furnished room, good meals well-served, that she can have friends-men or women, boys or girls, in either or a public attractive drawing-room with music a private sitting-room or a public and pictures and a library with good drawing-room and that if a dozen and pictures and a library with good books. Big people built castles in the air by laying a foundation of stone on the earth, so Mrs. Broughal's dream or castle in the air, very soon took tangible shape and now it is some is an our and that if a dozen young men call on a dozen young women that they can roll up the rugs and trip the light fantastic to their hearts content; that joyousness in music, singing, dancing, games, etc., is ancouraged.

All sects can here live happily to-gether with one of the most charming and humane women-Miss Cholmonidly --as overseer and friend. One room is fixed up a trifle more luxurious than the others and this thru the kindness of Miss Grand is a restcoom for convalescents who are unable to pay their way while they are recovering from an illness.

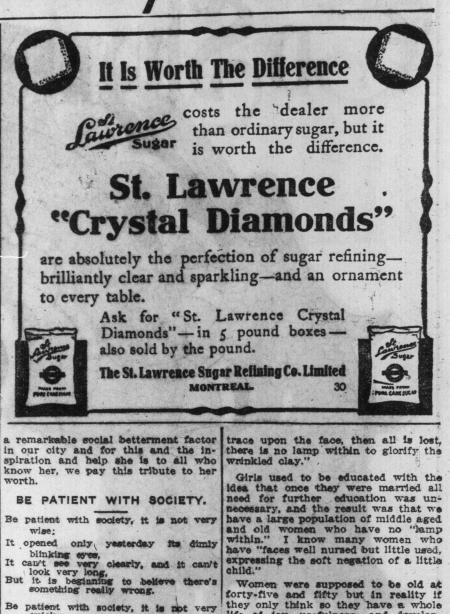

And then there is a room made into a tiny church, with a small altar and pews, Mrs. Broughall understanding horoly the psychological laws of suggestion, wisely thought that this reminder-this room, resembling a church, would often bring peace and quietness and blessing.

There is no coercion-no rules, but the whole atmosphere of the place is one of joyous refinement with this added touch of plety that is a comfort to so many and can do no harm to those who are unsympathetic.

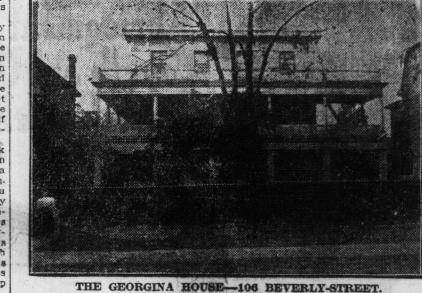

We believe that we grow thru the exercise of our faculties and that we should continue to grow as long as we live and pursuing this line our mentality should be the last to give But it is beginning

CASUAL COMMENT

I wonder is the evasive reply a gift or is it the outcome of much study and practice? Twice I got it, to speak in the vernacular, "in the neck," this week. First Act was in a florist's shop on Yonge. I want you, please, to noon Yonge. I want you, please, to no-tice how nicely I am "coming on." Not long since I would have been be-nighted enough to say "in Yonge Street." That's all past. So, in this shop "on Yonge," after buying a quarter's worth of carnations, I no-ticed some pots of pinky blossoms in the window, and, being a little short-sighted. I enquired of the "Flora" of the shop, "Are those, please"—I fancy, somehow, that the unaccustomed "please" probably unhinged, for the moment, her reasoning powers—"Are those, please, rhododendrons or aza-yeas?" "Flora" replied, with sime di-rectness, "They are one dollar fifty." rectness, "They are one dollar fifty." I just caught the tardy tram.

The next case was, I honestly be-The next case was, I honestly be-lleve, due more to absent-mindedness than to any real desire to evade the question. I asked The Fool—"Can you roller-skate, and, with a far-away look in his stag-like eyes, he replied—"I hardly think so"—then, more brightly —"but I can roll a cigarette rather neatly." I passed my "makings."

And then, when I had left him, I met a plump little "Hello-Girl." She said, one must suppose from pure force of habit. "Hello"-questioningly. "I repeated the call, with a downward in-flection, and added "How are you?" After she had satisfied my rabid cur-iosity on this point, I asked her to go with me to a Show somewhere that I had the office tuckets for ("for the on had the office tickets for ("for the on pleasure he was bent he had a frugal mind"-what?) and this quite unac-countable girl said "Oh! if HE were only here!" You see-evastve, wasn't she? However I took it to mean that she wished I were not "here." Wouldn't you? So in revenge, I wrote, and later showed her the lines that

If he were only here—Dear mei The time I'd have—the dances And the good day—clear From early morn, till dewy eve Bade him, reluctant, take his leave— If HE were only here!

If he could only hear My plaint that he is far away— My boy so dear— He'd race to me-ward as a gale— If I know onything of the male— If HE could only hear!

It is not, I believe, unlikely that the poor girl may recover.

THE WINNERS. Mr. William Forbes, 240 Waves ley-street, Ottawa, Ont. George & Wakefield, 46 Mc-2. Mr. Kenzie Crescent, Toronto. . Mr. Maurice Levy, 194 Simcostreet, Toronto.

Last week the answers were, on the whole, considerably better than those in the last Competition, but there are still a large number of Competitors who don't get the idea that the missing line must rhyme with the first two. Try on however-it is true you cannot all win, but you all, at least have a chance, only cleverness tells, guessing is no good.

The four lines last week were: It is said that quite near Olivet Dwells the strangest man ever you met His Christian name's "Sid" And the last thing he did-

The winning lines are: 1. "Is the first thing he's sure to forget. 2. "Took gold fever, for PORK HE PINES yet. 3. "Was to lose Olivet (all of it) in

Some one ought to tell it so.

It is hardly ever safe to assume when The Globe, by chance, has a so-called opinion, and goes to the extreme wholesale condemnation of Balzac's called opinion, and goes to the extreme length—not to speak of the risk of venturing for print it, that, therefore, said opinion may, need, or should be reasonably taken as having any sort of an excuse for itself, except, perhaps, such as is given by the "hedging" with which it is commonly surrounded. Dr. Torrington Makes Interesting Arrangements for Presentation of Great Work.

The solo work in Gounod's "Redemp-The solo work in Gounod's "Redemp-tion" requires to be given with ex-treme delicacy and great expression, and to ensure perfect and impressive rendering Dr. F. H. Torrington has engaged an excellent quartet of solo-ists for the performance to be given under his direction at Massey Hall on Tuesday, April 25. The soprano, Miss Grace Kerns of New York, is highly spoken of by New York critics for her beautiful voice and artistic work Miss Beddoe has a sympathetic contralto voice, which will be heard to advantage. Mr. Edward Strong of New York, who sang in the "Messiah" last December, will be the tenor, and the baritone will be the peer of his class, Mr. Charles Clark of Paris, France, who is making a tour of America during April and May. Mr. Clark is one of the greatest in his art to-day, and his power of interpretation is beyond de-scription. It is extremely fortunate that so fine an artist was available for this work. There is no doubt there perhaps one of the reasons for the will be a large audience to hear this performance by the Toronto Festival Chorus. Plan opens April 21.

Pupil Recital

An interesting recital took place on April 8 in the Conservatory Music Hall, by pupils of the pianoforte, vocal and violin departments, intermediate grade, when the program was as fol-lows: Stojowski, prelude, Op. 1, No. 2, Miss Elia Brown; Greig (a) The Solitary Wanderer, Op. 43 (b) Butterflies, Op. 43, Miss Gladys Shepherd; Denza, Sing On, Mrs. D. O. L. C. Appointment

Yesterday afternoon the faculty com mittee of the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, met in the city for the purpose of engaging teachers for the coming year. Very few changes have taken place. This is present great success of the college as continuity of teaching and administration under the same official heads means conservation of energy and working power. The most important change that came before the committee was the appointment of a new musical director. Mr. J. W. F. Harrison, well known for his musical ability, has been musical director for over twenty years and has earned the respect and good-will of all connected with the college He sent in his resignation, and asked that it should take effect at the end of the present year in June. resignation was accepted, and Mr. G. D. Atkinson, the talented organist and choir master of St. Paul's Methodist Church, was appointed musical director in his stead.

Mr. Atkinson is regarded by pro-fessional men as the most promising of the younger musicians. It will be remembered that his choir won last spring the Earl Grey musical trophy He expects to leave shortly for Europe where he will give special attention to modern improved methods of teaching piano and organ.

New Herbert Opera "Mile. Rosita," Victor Herbert's

latest comic opera with Fritzi Scheff in the title role, was presented for the first time in Boston last week at the Shubert Theatre. The book and lyrics of the piece are by Joseph Herbert and to these has been set some of the best music that Victor Herbert has written in years. The audience was large, the curtain calls were many and idging by the opening performances the opera will become a great success. Unfortunately, however, Miss Scheff fell ill immediately after the first performance and has not been presented since. She is said to be suffering from a severe attack of laryngitis and the date of her return to the stage is uncertain.

Graft is King. Truly this is a grafting age. First it's a school trustee charged with using his influence to get those sub-ject more or less to his domination to subscribe capital for a venture he is interested in. Then there is a yell about the manipulation of coal con-tracts, and now it is the steam pipes that are short in colls but long in charges. Presently there will be room for doubt if there is an honest man in existence. If Judge Winchester is kept on the quest there is a good chance of a memorial slab being erect-ed over his remains before he finds one just and upright man in this city of churches, this city of high morality, this city where then hurn Palence on the share the membership campaign has had an excellent prackept on the quest there is a good chance of a memorial slab being crect-ed over his remains before he finds one just and upright man in this city of churches, this eity of high morality, this city where they burn Balzac and excoriate Victor Hugo. We seem to be very pious about what we read but devilish unconcerned about what we do-until we're found out. And then it should be the prison-but it won't. King Graft will continue his merry way, accepting bribes behind and ex-torting tolls before. Apropos of this latter the man on the street is telling a story about a shrewd novelist of renown who made $6000 by merely tak-ing a man across the road. It was this way: the novelist was introduced to a certain individual who had a mine to way: the novelist was introduced to a public corporation. From first to last way: the noveast was introduced to a certain individual who had a mine to sell. Next, in the most casual kind of a way, he ran across a man who was here a investment. The seller was taken to the subsequent purchaser "across the road." In a few minutes the deal was on; in an hour it was completed; sixty thousand dollars ex-changed hands; ten per cent went changed hands; ten per cent went into the literary man's treasury for introducing one to t'other, and $500 of the six thousand was subsequently claimed by the introducer of the novelist to the purchaser. You Know What You Think Of A Monkey But DoYou Know What A Monkey Thinks Of You?

A Man Is Really Measured, Not by What He Thinks of Himself, but by What Others Think of Him. He Cannot Afford to Ignore the Opinions of Others!

E know very definitely what we think about monkeys. Scientists have studied them, circus and amusement men have captured and exhibited them, faunal naturalists have shot them

-despite the fact that shooting a monkey seems brutally akin to shooting a child.

We have classified monkeys into many families, separated from the rest the apes from which it is believed the human species descended, and done our best to reduce to some form or system the incoherent, meaningless chatter with which they cry to one another as they swing from the tree tops.

As a result, we believe we know that monkeys will be monkeys always; that, while some few members of some few of the higher species can be taught marvelous tricks, the ordinary monkey brain will never develop beyond its present state; in other words, that monkeys will always be foolish, half idiotic creatures, doing with the utmost seeming gravity the most absurd things, and, no matter how carefully trained, just stopping short of that impassable barrier between instinct and reason.

It would be interesting to know what the monkey, peering down on a party of sailors from the top of a coccoanut tree, or lowering gloomily at an audience from behind the bars of a circus cage, thinks of human beings.

It may be that he regards them servilely, as does a dog, who is always eager to acknowledge man as his master. It may be that he regards them with the haughty contempt so evident in all the feline tribes, from the lion down to the ordinary house cat. Monkeys are sometimes affectionate, but their affection seems always to be tempered with a prankish waywardness very like that of a half-witted child.

In any event, it is not likely that any of the funny, furry, long-tailed apes that look on man from the jungle have half as high an opinion of him as he has of himself. It would be reasonable to suppose that they look on him as a sort of walking joke; one that must not be approached too closely; a feeble creature, ridiculous because he lacks a tail, not to be suffered too much familiarity because he carries death in his hands, yet withal much less dangerous than a lion or a tiger.

In the curious half solemn, half ridiculous procession from birth to death that we call life are many sets and tribes and races of men, many cliques and companies, each bound together by some slender tie of blood or education or association, each looking on the members of other cliques or companies as strangers and of a strange race—as alien as the monkeys of the jungle.

Every man knows what he thinks of himself; he fancies that he knows what others think of him. But never, by a merciful provision, is he permitted really to KNOW what others think of him.

And each company of men, set apart from the others by reason of some bond of calling, is regarded by those of other occupations as of a peculiar nature, not to be regarded as men, but as plumbers, or doctors, or hotel clerks, or actors—all supposed to be of one kind of nature, and entirely different from the rest of the world.

You will hear a man account for some peculiarity in a fellow man by saying: "Oh, he is an actor. That is the reason he is improvident or temperamental." Yet among actors are those who are so little improvident that they retain as a keepsake the first dollar they ever earned, and others who are so little temperamental that they can look unmoved on scenes that would upset the equilibrium of an undertaker.

It may be that all men are not brothers, but assuredly all classes of men are human. You will find the same types in a meeting of wholesale grocers as you will in a society for ethical culture. It is only the inability of one collection to understand another collection or to see in them the characteristics that are prominent in their own kind that makes life seem like such a complicated affair, and the solution of its simplest problems seem so difficult.# There are men in this country who, because they have succeeded in piling up more dollars than other men, calmly assume that they are of a superior sort, and undertake to settle for their brothers all the difficulties that have arisen to confound them.

One man decides that the need of his brothers is books; and he gives them books books that will lie for generations corded high on dusty, shelves, while the crowd rushes past outside the door and never looks between two covers.

He knows what he thinks of the other men in the world; but he has not the slightest idea what they think of him. Thus far he has never been disturbed by a frank expression of opinion, and he will probably pass along on his way into another existence sublimely confident that he of all men has understood his fellows, and given them what was good for them.

Yet there are multitudes of people who would rather have one kind word of encouragement or advice from a truly successful man than whole libraries of books from the richest man who ever gave them out as souvenirs of his own good fortune, and who have more esteem for the man who has taught them how to help themselves than for all the self-constituted philanthropists in the world.

For philanthropy is not a question of money; it is a matter of understanding one's fellow men, and few there be who are born with this rarest of talents.

Another man conceives it to be his duty to equip missionary establishments in foreign lands, forgetting that there is more real need of missionary work in every great city than there is in all the islands of the South Seas or all the barbaric countries of the Old World. His opinion of his fellow men—of those whom he sees, with whom he deals, and whom he employs—is fixed; he would not and could not change it. Their opinion of him is something of which he knows and cares nothing. Perhaps he would do more with the incredible fortune he has accumulated if he tried to get a little more knowledge of the men about him. But he has never considered that worth his while.

Perhaps you have seen a man talking loudly and importantly to a company of other men—dwelling on his own performances and accomplishments, impatient of interruption, insistent on monopolizing the whole conversation. It would be a rude shock to his vanity if he knew that the men around him were either amused or bored by his egotism, and that the impression he is creating is exactly the reverse of what he intends.

You see every day women decked out in useless and unnecessary finery, in a wealth of decoration that none save the Queen of a cannibal island ought really to envy, and fancying that, because she has loaded down her natural attractions with a vulgar display, she has enhanced them. She makes a pathetic spectacle, and the most pathetic thing about it is her belief that the pitying glances that are bestowed on her are glances of admiration.

If you could know the sacrifices and the struggles that girls who barely earn enough to keep alive must make in order to buy shoes that pinch their feet, corsets that distort their waists, and great unhealthful hanks of Chinese hair, you might better understand what a price must be paid because people cannot see themselves as others see them. The young women who invest what little they can spare in these atrocities of dress do so in the pathetic belief that they are making themselves beautiful. They cannot see with the eyes of others, so they can never know that they are only making themselves hideous, even in the sight of the men whose opinions they most value.

Many men fancy that they are so important, so sufficient unto themselves that they can safely ignore the opinion of the whole world. But no talent, no genius, no inherited or acquired power justifies a man in following the dictates of his own sweet will.

Among the millions and millions of people in the world a man is little more than an atom. He is fortunate if he can make an impression on the world, if by doing something that is of service to his fellows he can be remembered a little while. But Fame it. self is only the world's estimate of a man, only the place he has made in the opinions of others.

It is easy for one to say that he would prefer to be right though the whole world was against him; but remember that when the whole world is against a man he is never right.

The weight of public opinion is always for good in the long run, as Lincoln so well knew and so well phrased in his proverb about fooling the people.

Let a man be guided by the opinions of the majority of his fellows; let him try to see himself as others see him, and appear in their eyes as he would have them appear in his, and he cannot go far wrong.

For the general public mind, happily prefers integrity to sham, loves courage and self reliance, and disapproves of everything that is dishonest, or scoundrelly, or purely selfish.
