FORWARD MOVEMENTS

It is profitable sometimes to review the situation and take note of forward movements in the community. The city of St. John has made very substantial progress in a material sense in recent years, despite the drain upon the population caused by the westward movement.

When we turn to matters relating to social betterment there are abundant evidences of a new and better spirit. Many citizens can remember when the late Dr. Bayard lamented the utter indifference of the people to the ravages of tuberculosis, and the failure of the Medical Society to arouse popular interest.

In matters of public health generally there has been a great change in public sentiment. We have a public health officer, whose vigorous efforts have practically banished the unsanitary slaughter houses, and set the city fathers upon the road that leads to the establishment of a modern abattoir.

Another change in sentiment is that in relation to the treatment of jail prisoners. While the only outward sign is the provision of a conveyance to take the chain gang to and from their work, instead of marching them handcuffed through the streets, there is a movement afoot which will undoubtedly end in the establishment of a prison farm, where the "gospel of the second chance" may be preached far more effectively than in a common jail.

Lastly there is the definite plan to provide playgrounds for the children, which is certain to be carried to a successful issue. In all these matters the point of view of the people has changed for the better in the last few years.

After fifteen years in power the Liberal government of Canada resigned yesterday and the Conservatives will take up the burden of office.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues could not have chosen a better cause than that for which they fought with proved to be a losing battle. Had the policy they advocated won the victory, Canada's progress would have increased by leaps and bounds.

The record of the Liberal government is a proud one. The country has seen greatly prospered and great national works have been carried out, while the relations with the mother country have become steadily more close.

Recently when the wealthy Mlle. de R. was to be married, one of our good duchesses had to make her a present, just before the wedding.

"The impertinent fellow," said the duchess, "wants me to understand that I have been neglected."

"What a wonderful present you have given these children, Miss de Duchesse," he said. "For forty years we have been seeking this very cameo. It is of the era of Trajan and this trinket is valued at 200,000 francs."

"Ah, the poor duchess.—From La Crie de Paris. (A LEGAL JOKE. (Washington Herald). "The duke," said that nobleman's solicitor, "expresses his love, and suggests that the lady arrange for a settlement of a million dollars on his lordship."

"Expresses his love O. U. D., eh?" interposed the attorney for the heiress.

THE CALL

(Katharine Tynan). The forgotten voices call at twilight In the gray dawnings, in the quiet hours; Voices of mountains and of water falling, Voices of wood-doves in the tender valleys, Voices of flowery meadows, golden corn-fields. Yes, all the lonely boglands have their voices.

Voices of church-bells over the green country, Memories of home, of youth, of unforgotten When at the world's asleep the voices call me, Come home, awhile, home! Why did you leave us? The little voices hurt my heart to weeping; There are small fingers plucking at my heart-strings.

Let me alone, he still, I will not hear you! Why would I come to find the old places lonely? They are all gone, the loving, the true-hearted; Beautiful country of the dead, I come not. Why would I meet the cold eyes of the stranger? All the nests of my heart are cold and empty.

I will not come for all your soft compelling, Little fingers plucking me by the heart-strings, In the gray dawnings, in the quiet night hours, Because the dead, the darling dead, return not, And all the nests of my heart are cold and lonely, They will not give me peace at dawn and twilight.

IN LIGHTER VEN When Turkey gets her second wind there may be serious trouble over this affair of Tripoli.

Civic investigations in St. John do not produce results, but if the aldermen enjoy them the citizens do not object.

The Standard's Ottawa correspondent says that Mr. Hazen will be the New Brunswick member of the cabinet.

The discouraging news comes from London via Montreal, that the steamship companies may curtail the winter service between British and Canadian ports.

The Ottawa Free Press says: "La Patrie continues to warn Mr. Borden that he must treat the province of Quebec with justice, asserting that if that province is given fewer than five ministers it will be grievously disappointed. But the Ottawa Citizen and certain other Conservative papers are asserting at the same time that Ontario must be given more portfolios than in the Laurier cabinet and that Quebec has no claim upon the Conservative party."

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught are on shipboard, bound for Canada. The new Governor-General has clearly indicated that though of royal blood he is of democratic tendencies, and that exclusiveness will not be a feature of life at Rideau Hall.

NOT THE GIFT SHE INTENDED Recently when the wealthy Mlle. de R. was to be married, one of our good duchesses had to make her a present, just before the wedding.

"The impertinent fellow," said the duchess, "wants me to understand that I have been neglected."

"What a wonderful present you have given these children, Miss de Duchesse," he said. "For forty years we have been seeking this very cameo. It is of the era of Trajan and this trinket is valued at 200,000 francs."

MISS SHERRAN AND LORD CAMOYS TO WED

One More International Marriage This Year

CARNEGIE WILL PROVIDE

To Care for Children of Widowed Niece—Boy Will Soop Own Ansonia Hotel—Hindoo Cult Devotees in New York Number Many (Times Special Correspondence.) New York, Oct. 6.—The far expressed here in the spring and summer, that New York would have no international wedding of importance to look forward to this season, seems to have been premature. Mr. and Mrs. William Watts Sherman, heading the impromptu of their daughter, Mildred, have consented to her marriage on December 6 to Lord Camoys, who is busy completing arrangements for the ceremony. From all indications, the wedding will be quite as brilliant an affair as was that of the bridegroom's chum, Lord Decies and Vivian Gould, last season. What is acting as the best man of Lord Decies, Camoys met and fell in love with Miss Sherman, who was one of the bridesmaids of the Miss Gould. Whatever opposition there was on the part of William Watts Sherman to an early marriage has been swept away and he is said to be now prepared to do whatever his wife and daughter desire to make the ceremonial the one big feature of the early winter season for society. Lady Camoys, the mother of the peer, is expected to come over for the marriage, and it is said will bring with her handsome presents for the bride. Additional interest will be lent to the nuptials by the presence of a distinguished company from Britain, friends of the bridegroom. The question of whether it will be a church or a house wedding has not yet been decided but this is a detail which in all likelihood will be settled before the end of the week. The bride to be and Lord Camoys will remain at the summer home of the Sherman's at Newport until the end of the month, completing their plans, which they will announce on their arrival here the first week in November. Society continues to discuss the probability of still another engagement evolving before long from the De Witt family—that of the Hon. "Bobby" Beresford, younger brother of Decies. He was very popular when he was over here, and his interest was not altogether unreciprocated. Before the winter frosts come along, society is inclined to suspect that some announcement on this score will be in order.

Carnegie Will Provide
Andrew Carnegie will provide for the future of his two grand-nieces, the children of James Hever, the groom of his brother, Thomas M. Carnegie, and the latter's daughter, Nancy Hever's death from the effects of injuries sustained several years ago, by a fall from a horse, leaves the widow, who was the steel master's favorite niece, with her two children to bring up. The Laird of Skibo, who has been their manly since his niece shocked society by eloping with Hever, the handsome family coachman, is very fond of the children, and will see that they never want for anything. Whenever he has been in town, the children and their mother have been always welcome guests at his mansion. To emphasize his approval of the wedding, which society has never ceased to declaim, the uncle gave Hever a valuable estate of eighty acres on the outskirts of the city, where the former coachman raised thoroughbred horses.

Boy Will Own Big Hotel
Widespread interest is being felt in fifteen-year-old W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., who within the next week will become the owner of the Ansonia, the largest hotel in the United States. Ever since the hotel (Continued on page 9, fourth column.)

Armchair Reflections

BY H. L. SPENCER

While Little Utta and I were walking in the Old Burying Ground a few weeks since, a friend presented her with a magnificent bouquet of late blooming flowers. She thanked him profusely and looked at them admiringly. Then she turned to me and said, "When you go away I will put such a bouquet on your grave." After a pause she added, "But I may go away first." She did not say this as if she dreaded such a contingency, for the beyond, it seems to Little Utta, is but a step away from her—that really sometimes she is bathed in its sunshine. I think it is Wordsworth who says that Heaven is all about us in our infancy. Alas! that it should recede and disappear from the vision of so many of us as we grow old! She has no fear of the blind archer whose arrows are flying in every direction, for what is it to "go away" but to join the little companions who have disappeared from her sight, soon to be joined by those who may survive her; to walk by still rivers, on whose banks the flowers never fade, and in whose groves the birds of wonderful plumage are always singing their sweetest songs. There is the wisdom of Solomon, of Plato and Seneca and Marcus Aurelius and Shakespeare in the practice of children like Little Utta, for it is the expression of thoughts born of the soul and uncorrupted by the world. Much as I delight in the company of my little friends I grow sorrowful in their presence, for I cannot help thinking of the possibilities of their future should they survive the years. The victims of malice and deceit, of falsehood and treachery, how those little hearts may writhe and break—how the heaven by which they are now surrounded may fade away and leave nothing but a desolate void.

POLICE, PAST AND PRESENT

Seated one night
On a bench in the square,
Viewing the people
And taking the air,
A policeman passed by
Looking natty and neat
Gracefully stroiling
His orderly beat.
A contrast, I thought,
To the old time police
And the methods they used
In preserving the peace.
The years have gone by
And they've all passed away,
Here's how they looked up
Before me today.
The coat of the sergeant
Was faded and old,
The sleeve showed the mark
Where the stripes lost their hold.
A half dozen buttons
Made fast with a nail,
Four on the breast row,
And two on the tail.
If passing a bar
In the dead of the night,
They saw thro' the shutters
A glimmer of light.
Strange as it seems,
When the baton would knock,
Instead of the front door
The back would unlock.
Then a couple of fingers
For dear Auld Lang Syne
In regard to a fine.
If the sergeant got drunk
And the case was made known,
The chief held inquiry
In ways of his own.
If the person accused
Was an intimate friend,
The charges were groundless,
And there was the end.
RUBBID TIPPLING.

FABLES IN SLANG

Series of 1911 --- BY GEORGE ADE.

THE 1911 FABLE OF THE FLAT-DWELLER AND LIFE IN THE OPEN

(Copyright 1911, by George Ade.)
One Day a regularly appointed Bank Inspector went into a Stronghold of Finance situated in a One-Night Stand and found the President of the Institution crying all over the Blotter.
"Why these tears?" asked the Official.
"Are the Farmers paying off their mortgages?"
"Worse than that," replied the Elderly Man, whose Side Whiskers were a Tower of Strength in the Community. "We are entering upon an Era of Extravagance. The Tillers of the Soil, are no longer Hewing Wood and Drawing Water. They are now heaving Holes in the Atmosphere and drawing Gasoline. Not many years ago the Simple Agriculturist drove into Town in a South Bend Wagon with Red Roses at the Bank long enough to tie a Chattel Mortgage on his Cow, with interest at 2 per cent a Month, payable in Advance. Nowadays he comes zipping up in This Year's Model of the Kokomobile with Torpedos Body, Fore-Doors and Red Cushions and draws out his Balance so that he can get extra tires and a Speedometer. Every Hired Hand has become a Chauffeur and the Jay that used to wear Gosh-dingits and drive a Roadster with four lumps hanging out in front of it."
"Why are you annoyed by these Evils?" asked the Official.
"I am annoyed because I have been told in the Sunday Paper all that Bunk about the Down-and-Outs of the City living back to the Soil and making $8,000 a year raising Radishes."
He saw the Pictures of the Waving Trees and the Growing Crops and the elegant Natives and he yearned to get out where he wouldn't hear the Trolleys in the Morning and the Kids could get Milk that came from a Cow.

THE 1911 FABLE OF THE LOCAL PIERPONT WHO WAS TROUBLED IN SPIRIT AND NOT WITHOUT CAUSE

(Copyright, 1911, by George Ade.)
Once there was a tired Denizen of the Big Town whose home was at the end of an alleyway in a Rabbit Warren known as the Minnehaha.
It was not a tenement because he had to pay $30 a Month for a compressed Suite overlooking 640 acres of Gravel Roof.
Sitting back in his Morris Chair with his Feet on the tiny Radiator he would read in the Sunday Paper all that Bunk about the Down-and-Outs of the City living back to the Soil and making $8,000 a year raising Radishes.
He saw the Pictures of the Waving Trees and the Growing Crops and the elegant Natives and he yearned to get out where he wouldn't hear the Trolleys in the Morning and the Kids could get Milk that came from a Cow.

LORD STRATHCONA AND MR. BORDEN

This picture is interesting because it is the first of Mr. Borden taken since his triumphant day, and it is the only picture taken of Canada's High Commissioner during his flying visit to Canada. It shows Mr. Borden and His Lordship together when the latter stopped off the train at Ottawa. He was in Ottawa about three hours, all told, about half of that time with Sir Wilfrid and the other half with Mr. Borden. His rush trip may be taken as a wonderful thing for he is ninety-one years old.

THE ROYAL SUITE ON THE IRELAND

Interesting Facts Concerning Women
Duke of Connaught's Voyage To Canada
AM "AMATEUR POLITICIAN"

The Kansas State Federation of Labor, at its recent annual meeting in Atchison, passed resolutions in favor of woman suffrage. Similar resolutions have been adopted by the State Federation of Labor in California, Connecticut, Colorado, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Texas, Washington, Virginia and West Virginia, and by the American Federation of Labor.
BURDETTE ASKS
Senator Lee C. Gates is speaking almost daily in Southern California for the suffrage amendment. His presentation of the subject is forcible and his audience invariably give him a rousing reception. In addition to senators and assemblymen who are talking for the amendment is Dr. Robert Burdette. His wit and logic, focused upon the political emancipation of women, make his addresses one of the strongest features of the campaign. In a speech before hundreds of people at the Temple Baptist church recently, Dr. Burdette said:
"Now, what is the matter with mother? What is wrong with extending the privileges of the franchise to the woman? Isn't she good enough? A lot of fellows think she is too good for them. That's why they are going to vote against woman suffrage. Every man who is afraid of the entrance into our political life of a patient influence for civic righteousness will vote against the suffrage amendment, even though he has to take a man into the booth with him to mark his ballot."
"This is a good republic—it is not a democracy, and cannot be made one until the reins of government are in the hands of all the people."
WINNING WITH LAUGHTER.
College girls in California are carrying the war into the rural districts with singing and dancing. A merry crowd of attractive young women, each one with a talent of some sort in the entertaining line, are flying about in a gaily-decorated motor car with streaming banners, giving programs made up chiefly of songs and dances, but ending always with a spirited suffrage speech. At the conclusion of each entertainment, they proceed to organize the young people present into a permanent Suffrage Club, and to set it to work to give suffrage picnics, dances and socials. In each town they visit, writes Miss Louise Herrick Wall, who is in charge of the campaign, they persuade some attractive young school mistress, or other leader of the young people, to get up a "tacking committee," composed of boys and girls, to go out and put up "argument posters" on all the barns and fences for miles around. "This almost childlike device," writes Miss Wall, "has been just the thing to take the fancy of the young people, and has worked well. It does, and costs it nothing except that devotee taking of sides that makes real workers of them for the future."
The party also get concessions from the moving picture places to present slides showing the progress of woman throughout the ages, accompanied, of course, with suffrage speeches. The College Equal Suffrage League is training a large number of its enthusiastic young members for this work, with great success.

Speaking at a Unionist demonstration of more than 4,000 people from his Ashton-under-Lyme constituency held in the Bellevue Gardens, Manchester, Sir Max Aiken, M. P., said:
"It is just a year since I entered England, and in Ashton I have spent some of the happiest days of my life. Many times have been told to desert you, however. It has been reported that I had cornered cotton, and that by doing so I had interfered with the livelihood of the cotton-workers in Lancashire. That falsehood has already been snuffed on the head."
"Now another lie has been circulated. It has been stated that I bought shares in the Canadian Cement Company for $17,000,000 and sold them at a profit of $14,000,000. The statements are false, and I believe they are malicious."
"There must be a change, improved conditions, and a job for every man—not two men for every job. Before this can be done there will have to be tariff reform and imperial preference. I believe that the growing markets of the world are in North and South America and that the problem of unemployment in Great Britain will be solved there."
At the close of his speech Sir Max said he would not touch a penny of the money under his salary by the government. He would still be an amateur politician.

An "Amateur Politician"
The love of horses, so pronounced a characteristic of the late King Edward, is fully shared by the duke and an favorite charge and other horses will be shipped from Bristol.

Speaking at a Unionist demonstration of more than 4,000 people from his Ashton-under-Lyme constituency held in the Bellevue Gardens, Manchester, Sir Max Aiken, M. P., said:
"It is just a year since I entered England, and in Ashton I have spent some of the happiest days of my life. Many times have been told to desert you, however. It has been reported that I had cornered cotton, and that by doing so I had interfered with the livelihood of the cotton-workers in Lancashire. That falsehood has already been snuffed on the head."
"Now another lie has been circulated. It has been stated that I bought shares in the Canadian Cement Company for $17,000,000 and sold them at a profit of $14,000,000. The statements are false, and I believe they are malicious."
"There must be a change, improved conditions, and a job for every man—not two men for every job. Before this can be done there will have to be tariff reform and imperial preference. I believe that the growing markets of the world are in North and South America and that the problem of unemployment in Great Britain will be solved there."
At the close of his speech Sir Max said he would not touch a penny of the money under his salary by the government. He would still be an amateur politician.

Election Comments in England
The Canadian elections have turned out to be the most wonderful of all the wonderful adventures Canada has had in the old country this coronation year. No doubt the sensational result has had something to do with the immense amount of interest taken and the voluminous comments in all sorts of papers and magazines.
The central fact, however, from a non-partisan point of view is the publicity given to the affairs of the dominion, which has surprised Canadians living here and which has undoubtedly caused the resources of and great future for Canada as a nation, to be driven home in quarters where the facts have been ignored and in some cases denied.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Restored Me
Sydney Mines, N.S., Jan. 24th, 1910
For many years, I suffered tortures from indigestion and dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. I also suffered with constipation. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

"I read in the 'Evening Times' about 'Fruit-a-tives' and bought some. After taking three bottles, I felt a great change for the better and now I can say 'Fruit-a-tives' has entirely cured me. Every other treatment failed and I never really say 'Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'."

After 7 Years Suffering I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Wauvika, Okla.—I have small troubles for seven years, was all run down and nervous and could not do anything. The doctors tried all things but did me no good. I could not sleep day or night. While in England I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

Another Grateful Woman
London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they have been in praying it.—MRS. W. A. BURY, 319 DUNE ST., ST. JOHN, N. E.

POLICE, PAST AND PRESENT

Seated one night On a bench in the square, Viewing the people And taking the air.

A policeman passed by Looking natty and neat Greenfully strolling His orderly beat.

A contrast, I thought To the old time police And the methods they used In preserving the peace.

The years have gone by And they've all passed away, Here's how they looked up Before me today.

The coat of the sergeant Was faded and old, The sleeve showed the mark Where the stripes lost their hold.

A half dozen buttons Made fast with a nail, Four on the breast row, And two on the tail.

If passing a bar, In the dead of the night, They saw thro' the shutters A glimmer of light.

Strange as it seems, When the baton would knock, Instead of the front door, The back would unlock.

Then a couple of fingers For dear Auld Lang Syne And that closed the case In regard to a fine.

If the sergeant got drunk And the case was made known, The chief held inquiry In ways of his own.

If the person accused Was an intimate friend, The charges were groundless, And there was the end.

Development of the new western Canada and its settlement have made mighty progress. This was largely the result of the Dominion's adoption of a policy of agricultural development, the result of which was the development of the Dominion's agricultural wealth.

REPORT BY VICE-CONSUL ATTRACTS

New York Man Writes of Taking up Suggestion for Building Apartment Houses Here Such as Are in New York

The following report by Clarence Carrigan, American vice-consul here, appeared in the consular trade reports of September 29 and has already borne fruit. Mr. Carrigan wrote as follows:

APARTMENT HOUSES NEEDED IN CANADA.

"Report was made from this office in 1909 of the necessity for more hotels and apartment houses in St. John. This need has steadily increased, and seems to open up a good field for investment. There is not an up-to-date apartment house in St. John; the nearest approach to it is a hotel building which has lately been remodelled into an apartment house, and I am told that the apartments are renting readily, although the improvements are not yet completed.

"An apartment house built on modern lines should prove a paying proposition here, as apartments of ordinary size attractively furnished should easily bring $35 to $50 a month. The early completion of the G. and T. Terminal in St. John, and other improvements which this harbor will see a very short time, will greatly increase the need of house accommodation here, and this should be a field worthy of investigation."

He received yesterday a letter from R. L. Somers, 17 State street, New York, referring to the suggestion in Mr. Carrigan's report and adding:—"If I could get in touch with interested parties in the city of St. John, I might be willing to undertake the proposition you have suggested, namely the erection of modern apartment houses of the type generally used in New York City."

POLITICAL SHUFFLE THAT IS TALKED OF

Possibilities Following on Mr. Hazen Moving From Provincial Into Federal Politics

With the likely translation of Premier Hazen to the federal cabinet, there has been much quiet discussion in Conservative circles as to what will be the outcome of the provincial shuffle that is bound to follow. It has been said here that with Mr. Crockett appointed to the railway commission, a safe seat would be found for Hon. Mr. Hazen. Then it is figured that should Senator Joseph Wood be given the lieutenant governorship, a place would be found for Dr. Daniel in the senate, opening the city and county seat.

Recorder Baxter is being urged for the legislature to assume the attorney generalship. It has been said that this proposition was discussed at a recent convocation of local Conservatives, but the opinion was for the judges, Charles and Fred Cole of Coles Island.

Then W. Frank Hatheway is said to have ambitions also, either for a seat in the federal house or a place in the reconstructed provincial cabinet. Miles E. Agre is another Conservative who, it is understood, now desires recognition at the hands of his party. He, so report says, has been offered a chance for the candidacy in the county at the next general provincial elections. Should Hon. Mr. Hazen go to York, in the event of Mr. Crockett getting a place on the railway commission, Mr. Hatheway is said to be anxious to take a shy at Dr. Daniel's seat, if the latter goes to the senate.

COAL GOES UP IN MAINE; NO CHANGE IN ST. JOHN PRICES

Although advices received from across the border are to the effect that coal was advanced 50 cents a ton in Maine on October 1, the indications in St. John at the present time are reported to be that the prices will remain the same as now. The supply in New Brunswick is very good and is expected to be all through the winter.

A NEW KIND OF REPORT

Citizen Carrying Lighted Cigar on Sand Point Wharf and Refusing to Extinguish It

John McKevely has been reported by Sergt. Finlay for violating rules 10 and 12 of the law relating to public wharves and warehouses of the city and harbor of St. John by carrying a lighted cigar on No. 6 wharf in the west side yesterday afternoon, and refusing to extinguish it when requested.

PATROL WAGON AND AMBULANCE NOW IN NEW QUARTERS

The patrol wagon and the ambulance are now comfortably stored in the Victoria stables in Coburg street, near the corner of Union. The patrol was given its first run last night when policeman Lucas was called upon to arrest a man on Drunkenness charge, in Erin street. He has the distinction of being the first prisoner to enjoy a ride in the new wagon.

When the patrol is needed, it is necessary for the policeman to go to a nearby telephone and call up Main 813. With the police alarm system this would be done away with as there would be an alarm at various street corners. However, there is a driver always on hand for both the patrol and the ambulance so it does not take long to have the wagon ready to answer the call. Two fire horses have been secured for the work and will be available at all times.
