Decrease of the Chinese Element

The last steamer from China brought only 69 Chinese. For some time past the depart ure of these people from this port have beer more than the arrivals. The number residen in this city is estimated to be less by 2,000 than it was a year sgo, and the number in the whele State is probably not over 37,000 where as a year or two ago, it was from 40,000 t 50,000. There has been an excess of arrival over departures for 1870, thus far, of about 7,000; but this excess has not been concentra ted in San Francisco, while death and immi gration to other States and Territories have reduced the total number in California con siderable. It is probable that there will be no material increase in our Chinese population hereafter. The grand straction of the surface hereafter. The grand attraction of the series mines is almost completely gone, the digging remaining which Chinese can work being few The completion of the Pacific Bail and poor. The completion of the Pacific Rail road returned about 5,000 to a depressed labor market, and caused many to return to China of emigrate to other portions of this coast. A considerable reduction of wages led to the employment of whites in many instances where Chinese had been employed before. Womer and children found situations in u any factories to the exclusion of Chinese. In addition to all these causes, the growing antipathy to the race, and the hard treatment to which it has often been subjected, tended to discurage their coming, and caused the Chinese companies to i-sue an address advising their countrymen at home to stay there-[San Francisco Bulletin.
