SAD DEATH OF HAROLD FREDERIC

A Verdict of Manslaughter Against Christian Scientists.

Very Severe Language Used by the Coroner.

His Abhorrence of the Treatment-Valuable Life Thrown Away.

New York, Nov. 8 .- Mr. Henry Norman cabled last night to the Times as follows: As foreshadowed in your Sunday cable, the verdict of the coroner's jury on the death of Harold Frederic is one of great, indeed, of sensational, severity. After some unimportant evidence and a brief adjournment, the coroner delivered an exhaustive summing up. He said there could be no doubt that the cause of death was failure of the heart's action due to heart disease and rheumatic fever.

The evidence of all the medical men was to the effect that the death was undoubtedly accelerated by the want of medical treatment, and that if Mr. Frederic had continued under the care of doctors he would in all human prob ability have got over his illness As to his mental condition, all the evidence seemed to point to the fact that the deceased was a strong-minded, obstinate, self-opinionated man. As to his physical condition, his right side was paralyzed. He suffered from great bodily weakness, and was, therefore, entitled, in the eye of the law, to the same protection and care from those who had charge of him as a child would be. The evidence showed that, not withstanding medical instructions to the contrary, Mr. Frederic was allowed to drink what he liked, to smoke, to lie all day in the garden, and to take longer drives than he ought to have taken There was no direct evidence to show that Mr. Frederic was a believer in Christian Science, although he had on several occasions spoken in its favor. Mrs. Mills was not much in the actual presence of the deceased, yet, according to the tenets of Christian Science, her treatment was supposed to be as successful in her absence as in her pre-

The jury could consider whether th evidence was sufficient to justify them in charging Mrs. Mills with manslaughter on the ground that she ne-glected the duty of a guardian in refraining from calling in medical aid. Whatever might be said for or against Christian Science, Mid the coroner, no words of his would adequately convey to Mrs. Mills his utter abhorrence of her so-called treatmentin these enlightened days of the mineteenth century that sensible and intelsuch an absurd course of procedure. But the fact remained that a valuable merely for the want of proper medical care. He had no doubt that both Miss Lyon and Mrs. Mills acted in what they believed to be the best interest of the deceased; but they could not excuse themselves on that ground.

The jury, after a brief consultation in private, returned a verdict of manslaughter against Mrs. Athalie Mills and Miss Kate Lyon. The following are the questions put by the coroner, with the answers of the jury:

"What was the cause of death?" "Failure of the heart's action." "Was death accelerated by the abence of medical treatment?

"Yes. "What was the state of the deceased" mind, sane or otherwise?" "Insane at times."

"What was his physical condition?" "Physically incapable." "Was he incapable of taking care of himself?"

"No." "Was any person or persons criminally responsible for his death?" "Yes."
"Miss Lyon and Mrs. Mills."

The coroner, having read the ques-tions and answers, said: "Then your verdict is one of manslaughter against Miss Lyon and Mrs. Mills?" The foreman answered: "Yes." The counsel offered bail. The cor-oner said the accused would be committed for trial. His inquisition would admit of bail with two sureties of £50 for each. Frank Harris, the editor of Saturday Review, and J. Scott Stokes, Mr. Frederic's literary assistant, be-came sureties for Miss Lyon, and Hon. W. Rowley, brother of Lord Langford, and Mr. Cunliffe, for Mrs. Mille. They will be immediately brought before the Blaborate Preparations for the Recording of Returns.

Both Parties Claim to Control the National House of Representatives-The Democrats Make Considerable Gains-Women Voted in Idaho for Congress men for the First Time in the State's History.

Washington, Nov. 2.-Returns received from all over the country, up to 12:30 this (Wednesday) morning indicate that 85 Republicans and 109 Democrats have certainly been elected to seats in the National House of Representatives. The same districts two years ago returned to the Lower House of Congress 105 Republicans and 89 Democrats. Based solely upon the estimates in the districts a Republican loss of 20 and a Democratic gain of 21 is indicated. These estimates concede to the Democrats all of the congressional districts in Greater New York except one, the 15th.

IN NEW YORK. New York, Nov. 9.-At 11 o'clock last night the indications were that Theodore Roosevelt, the Republican nominee, had carried the state by a plurality over Augustus Van Wyck of about The total Republican vote when received will probably show a falling off as compared with that for Governor Black in 1896 of about 14 per cent. Fights at the polls were few and easily quelled. There was no friction between deputies and police, one lending assistance to the other in the preservation of order. On the streets down town there was the usual election night noise and scenes. Returns were displayed in front of the newspaper offices, and in numerous public in an address to the public, in which nlaces. Democrats good-naturedly accepted the fact of the defeat of their state ticket, which was apparent from the returns displayed early in the evening, and found what compensation

Washington, Nov. 9.-At 3:30 o'clock this morning, just before the headquarters of the Republican congressional committee were closed for the night, Chairman Babcock made the following statement: "An analysis of the con-(cheers)—and it was difficult to realize ditions in all the congressional districts in the country indicated before the election that 139 of them were surely ligent people should lend themselves to Republican and 118 surely Democratic or fusion. The returns received up to this hour show that there has been intellectual life had been thrown away no change in any of these districts from the figures we made before the election. One hundred districts in the country were left in doubt, and those are the ones we are anxious to hear from. Out of that 100 we have had definite returns from 32. Nineteen went Republican and 13 Democratic. This eaves 68 districts in doubt.

"No very definite advices have been received from states west of the Missouri River, except Wyoming, which we With the advices now at hand, I cannot figure a Republican majority in the next House of Representatives of less than 25 or 30. We have made a gain over the Republican membership in the present house of one in Wyoming, two in South Dakota, two in Nebraska, four in Kansas, and two in California. At this hour the indications are that we shall have 198 Republicans in the next house."

DEMOCRATIC CLAIMS.

At the headquarters of the Democratic congressional committee, the utmost confidence was expressed that the Democrats had carried the House of Representatives. Secretary Kerr said: "I am prepared to increase the figures I gave you three hours ago. We have elected 192 members of the next house. This, to my mind, is beyond doubt. We have taken nothing for granted, are figuring on absolute advices. Here is a statement of the members we have elected from various states: Alabama 9, Arkansas 6, California 3, Colorado 2. Florida 2, Georgia 11, Idaho 1, Illinois 11, Indiana 6, Iowa 1, Kansas 4, Kentucky 10, Louisiana 6, Maryland 2, Massachusetts 3, Michigan 3, Minnesota 1, Mississippi 7, Missouri 14, Montana 1, Nebraska 3, Nevada 1, New Jersey New York 16, North Carolina 8, Ohio 5 Pennsylvania & South Carolina 7, South

Elaborate preparations for receiving the election returns from the five boroughs were made at police headquarters. In the telegraph bureau, on the ground floor of the big marble building, 37 special telephones were placed, each being connected with one or more station houses in the various poroughs. A force of clerks were stationed at these instruments. The results of the election were received by election districts, and as fast as they came over the wire they were trans-mitted to paper, and, sealed in envelopes, were passed up two flights of stairs by an endless chain of policemen. The figures were then given to another force of 40 clerks, who conor wards. Messengers carried news of the election figures to the office of the commissioners. A special wire from the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company was connected with an instrument in the board room, and over this was received the news of the results in the various districts throughout the state.

ginia 10, Utah 1, Weshington 2, West Virginia 1, Wisconsin 1, and Wyoming 1. This makes a total of 192, and I am perfectly satisfied that there will be little variation from these figures."

RESULT IN NEW YORK. New York, Nov. 9 .- Revised returns as they came in early today made practically no change in those of last night, which showed the election of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Republican, governor, by a plurality of from 18,000 to 20,000, over Augustus Van Wyck, Democrat. As compared with the elec-tion of 1896, when Black defeated Porter, this shows a Democratic gain of from 190,000 to 195,000. Roosevelt came to the Harlem River with 105,000 plurality, and Van Wyck had but 85,000 in Greater New York to meet him. An analysis of the vote outside of the city shows that Roosevelt lost 61,500 as compared with Black. In the city his vote was 61,000 smaller than Black's. In the country districts, Van Wyck ran about 20,000, and in the city about 54,000 ahead of Porter. The state congressional delegation will probably stand 18 Democrats to 16 Republicans, a Democratic gain of 12. In old New York city (Manhattan borough), no Republican has been returned, and a notable feature of the election was the defeat by Captain William Astor Chanler, of Lemuel E. Quigg for congress in the fourteenth district, where the former overcame a Republican plurality of 11,790 two years ago, and won by about 3,000.

The State Legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by 32 votes, insuring the election of a Republican to succeed Senator Edward Murphy, jun., on the expiration of his term on March 3, 1899.

The State Senate will stand, 27 Republicans to 23 Democrats, a Democratic gain of 9. The Regublicans will have 80 members of the assembly, and the Democrats 61. This is a Republican

JUDGE DALY DEFEATED. One of the most exciting and bitterest fights of the campaign was over the election of justices of the supreme court for the first judicial district. For 28 years Jos. F. Daly had been judge in this city, having been nominated and elected to the judiciary twice by the Democrats. This year he desired to be a candidate, but was notified last spring by the leaders of Tam-many Hall that it had been decided to not place him on the Democratic ticket this year. There was much public inquiry immediately as to the cause of the Democracy's refusal to re-nominate Judge Daly, especially as it was believed to be due to political reasons. The Republican and the Citizens' Union both placed Judge Daly on their ticket, and a vigorous campaign was made in his behalf. The New York Bar Association met and indorsed him was held that the independence of the judiciary was assailed. Mr. Croker then issued a statement to the effect that he had never in his life asked a favor of Judge Daly, but that Tammany Hall had asked him to appoint Michael T. Daly to a court clerkship and that his failure to comply with this request had cost him the nomination he desired. The Bar Association thenceforth in the campaign used Mr. Croker's statement as its text for appeals to voters to support Judge Daly A committee of 100 representative men was formed to manage his campaign, and fully as much interest was shown in the judiciary contest as in the race for governor. Judge Daly was not elected, but he polled 4,000 more votes in the city than Roosevelt.

ALABAMA. Returns from Alabama show that the Democrats have carried all of the nine congressional districts in that state, a Democratic gain of 1.

CONNECTICUT. Returns from Connecticut show that the Republicans have carried all of the four congressional districts in that This leaves the Connecticut delegation unchanged, politically. The entire Republican ticket was in this state by from 15,000 to 20,000.

FLORIDA. The vote is from 10 to 20 per cent lighter for both parties than in 1896. The whole Democratic ticket

GEORGIA. All the Democratic candidates are elected in Georgia.

ILLINOIS. At 10 o'clock Tuesday night the indication was that the Republicans had elected their entire state ticket. IDAHO. For the first time in the history of this state women have voted for a congressman and state officers. They took the liveliest interest in the proceedings. In view of the isolation of many places accurate returns are not yet available. It is therefore somewhat difficult to say what effect the vote of the women has had on the general result.

IOWA. The chairman of the Republican state committee says the state has gone Republican by 50,000.

LOUISIANA.

Returns from the six congressional districts of Louisiana show the election of Democratic congressmen. The Louisiana delegation is therefore solidly Democratic as before. MARYLAND.

Full and semi-official returns from the city of Baltimore and partial returns from the balance of the state make it reasonably certain that Mary-land has returned four Republican and two Democratic congressmen. MASSACHUSETTS. The Republicans have again carried Massachusetts had elected Roger Wolcott governor for the fourth time, as legislature will be but little changed from its present list, namely 181 Republicans, 59 Democrats.

With only two small towns to hear from, Bruce (Democratic), for governor, has 103,895; Wolcott (Republican), 190,238. Wolcott's plurality, 83,243. The total vote for Boston was: Bruce, 31,182; Wolcott, 33,524.

Sovereignty of Spain Over the Philip pines Not Debatable.

Paris, Nov. 9.-The Gaulois today says: "It is certain that the Spanish peace commission will maintain the contention that all the clauses of the protocol must be faithfully observed by the Americans, as they have been by the Spaniards, regarding Cuba and Porto Rico. "The Spanish commission note that no discussion on the Philippines can be tolerated, and that the sovereignty of Spain over those islands will be maintained. The rumors relative to compensation are only simply hypotheses at present. The attitue of Spain in the matter is quite simple-namely, before admitting the possibility of any agreement in regard to the archipelago, she expects that the United States will recognize that her rights in the Philippines are unassailable." CABLE NOTES.

Emperor William of Germany is to visit Cadiz, Spain, Nov. 20. The Bank of Spain, Madrid, has advanced the Spanish treasury 60,000,000 pesetas for current expenses. A dispatch to the New York Times

The negotiations between the street railway company and its employes are closed, and the contest bids fair to be waged to the bitter end. For two whole days the managers of the company have been in conference with the representatives of the men, and it has all ended in talk. The company claim that they have made many concessions, giving the men free transof uniform, and, in fact, almost everything else, with the exception of wages, but upon this it appears that no agreement can be reached. Mr. Everett and Mr. Moore left for home at 6:35 last night, made the following statement: "The company's representatives and the men's committee agreed upon everything except the wages clause. The company offered to pay 13 cents per hour for the first year; 14 cents per hour for the second year, and 15 cents per hour after the second year. This would apply to their previous service, which would mean that those men who have been in the company's employ over two years-of wnom there are 57-would receive 15 cents per hour; seven would get 14 cents per hour, and the remainder (including the relief and extra men) would receive 13 cents per hour. Many of these latter would have two, by reason of length of service. This scale of wages is better than that in force at Ottawa, is as high as in Hamilton under its present new scale, and much higher than the scale in force there up to last summer. It is higher than in Montreal, besides being kigher than in any other city in Canada of the same or smaller size than London. The employes, however, declined to reny way from their position. asking 16% cents per hour, for all men after the first six months. In other words, they insisted upon the same rate of wages paid in Toronto, where each car carries 60 per cent more per car mile than is earned in London. Upon this question only the split took place. Manager Carr, in reply to this question, said the company were willing to supply the regular service as soon as the city afforded the necessary protection. Chief Williams had stated that he had furnished the company all the protection he could, but the company

HOW THE MEN VIEW THE SITUA-

TION. After the conference the committee adjourned to Labor Hall, where they reported to the full body of strikers. They explained that at the morning conference, all else being amicably settled, the wages clause was discussed The committee said they had asked and stood out for 16% cents per hour. Mr. Everett at noon had requested the committee to return again at 1:30, and a little concession was made. At the afternoon conference the men presented following modified demand: For the first six months, 13 cents per hour: second six months, 14% cents per hour; and after eighteen months, 16% cents per hour. This the company would not concede, and there the matter ended.

Some the strikers went so far as to object even to this concession when it was reported, but a resolution was unanimously passed upholding the committee in their action, and exportation over all city lines, in and out pressing satisfaction with the manner in which they had conducted the affairs of the men.

The committee say that had Mr. Moore and Mr. Smallman not been present at the afternoon conference, there would have been more hope of a settlement.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Are | natural healthy condition. the Only Sure Remedy.

They and They Only Have Never Failed to Cure This Common Ailment-Their Effect Is Permanent and Positive.

Heartburn is a very common form of indigestion. It is known to medical men by the name of Acid Dyspepsia. Acid Dyspepsia is a result of the fer-mentation in the stomach of food that has been only partially digested. Gas is created by the process of fermentation. It fills the stomach, pressing against and distending the walls, and rising to the mouth, causing a bitter, ng taste. Acid dyspepsia is due to weakness

This result is effected by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their first effect is to digest thoroughly the food accumulated in the stomach.

This accomplished, the Tablets exert their curative power on the stomach. They stimulate the glands, and cause them to secrete the gastric juice and other liquids that are necessary to bring about perfect digestion. When this has been done, Acid Dyspepsia cannot exist. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the trouble. other remedy ever known will do it, or can do it. Dodd's Dyspensia Tablets have never failed to do it. Try a box and be cured for good of your heart-

The Resignation of Rev. W. H. Ander--Call to Rev. John Lindsay to Kin-tore Sustained.

The Presbytery of London met in the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian Church at 1 p.m. yesterday, Moderator T. Wilson, presiding. The minutes of preceding meeting were sustained.

Rev. Gordon Smith, of the Presbytery of Glengarry, was invited to sit as corresponding member. The names of a number of representative elders were added to the roll.

Mr. Murray, Mr. Fear and other gentlemen from Aylmer and Springfield of the business part of Toronto. were heard in connection with the resignation of Rev. W. H. Anderson from that pastoral charge. These gentlemen all stated that it was with very great regret the congregations relinquished their claim upon Mr. Anderson. and their earnest hope was that he would be prospered in the future.

Mr. Anderson also spoke, adhering to his resignation, and expressing his regret at leaving Canada, although he felt it his duty to take this step at present.

On motion the resignation was accepted, with regret, to take effect at once, the pulpit to be declared vacant on the 13th inst., Mr. John Currie to act as moderator during the vacancy.

Several members of court gave expression to their sympathy with the congregations, and also their high appreciation of Mr. Anderson's character, and their hope that he might in future come back to Canada again, and possibly be settled again within the bounds of the Presbytery of London.

Messrs. Henderson, Milloy, R. Stuart, and Messrs. Rathburn and Lethbridge, elders, were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions in connection with the deaths of Rev. Dr. Cochrane and Rev. W. R. Sutherland. Mr. Arch. Stewart was associated with the com-

Mr. Fraser wrote from Scotland, stating that he would not be able to return to Canada. The clerk stated that he had cited the congregation of Burns Church, Mosa, to be present at the presbytery, and his conduct, on motion, was approved.
Mr. Neil McNeil was heard, and stated that they were sorry that Mr. Fraser had seen fit to send in his resignation, but that they had no objection to offer. Mr. Munro also spoke, and coincided with Mr. McNeil's statement. He read a resolution of the congregation embodying these views.

Mr. Kelso moved that the resignation be accepted, to take effect at once, Mr. Ross to act as moderator; Mr. Henderson to see that the pulpit be tore to Rev. John Lindsay, of the Presbytery of Barrie, at a salary of $750 per year and manse. The call was very unanimous. Messrs. McPherson, McDonald, Sutherland and Dr. Murray were heard as representatives from the Kintore congregation, and all expressed the desire that Mr. Lindsay should accept the call. On motion the call was sustained, and ordered to be forwarded to Barrie Presbytery, and that Dr. McCrae, of Collingwood, be asked to appear in support of the call from this presbytery.

Present of Teanuts-Amusing Incident of the Vice-Regal Party's Departure From Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 9 .- Lord and Lady Aberdeen and party left yesterday morning at 9 o'clock for Montreal. A large number of prominent persons were gathered at the Union station to see them off. Just before the train son and Rev. Alex. Fraser Accepted pulled out of the station, an old negro with a large bundle in his arms, passed through the dense crowd and made his way toward Lady Aberdeen, who was standing on the steps of the car, her arms filled with bouquets which had been showered on her. The negro reached her with some difficulty, and hastily placed the bundle he carried on top of the flowers Lady Aberdeen carried, remarking: "Your excellency, here is a parcel of peanuts raised in Canada," and before Lady Aberdeen could recover from her surprise, he had made off again. Lady Aberdeen, however, insisted on his being recalled that she might thank him. The peanuts in question were raised by the old colored man (who is an ex-slave) in a garden on Richmond street west, in the heart

GLADSTONE A BRICK.

In the middle of one of Gladstone's grandest perorations someone in the audience interpolated a remark. "What is it, sir?" said he, bending forward with his hand behind his ear. The vast concourse was as still as the grave, for it was no small liberty to interrupt Mr. Gladstone in the midst of a Niagara-like torrent of eloquence. Turning to the Duke of Westminster, who was in the chair, Mr. Gladstone said, "What remark was the gentleman pleased to make?" "He says you're a brick, sir," replied the duke. Mr.Gladstone made little use of humor in speaking, but he was not entirely devoid of a sense of it, for with a pleasant laugh he resumed his glowing sentences and carried them to a sublime climax.

Overwhelmed with a burden of debt, by hard work and increasing efforts the man who wrote "Innocents Abroad" recently paid every cent he owed. One cause of his money losses was that Mr. Clemens anticipated the idea of a mechanical type-setting machine, and to build it and perfect it spent large sums. Then, again, a publishing house in which he was interested failed and left him to pay its debts. His Career.

A Vivid Character-Sketch by One Who Knew Him-Mr. Cameron's Notable Characteristics

Dan McGillicuddy, in the Goderich

Signal.] It is over forty years since a young man came to Goderich from Eastern Ontario where, in the town of Perth, he had first seen the light some 25 years previously. He carried with him a letter from his father, recommending him to the kind offices of a leading man in Goderich, and in that letter it was stated that the bearer was a clever young man, who would not fail to make his presence felt in the Huron tract, which was then looming up as a Mecca for men of ambition and energy. The letter further stated that all expense incurred in giving a fair start to the young lawyer during the first two years of his residence in Goderich would be met by the father of the young man. The gentleman to whom the letter was sent accepted the epistle and the conditions it involved, but had no occasion to fall back upon the father of Malcolm Coin Cameron to fulfill any of the obligations.

From the first, the young man showed himself willing and able to accommodate himself to the surroundings, and as he was possessed of energy and self-confidence, coupled with industry and perseverance, to an extent greater than ordinary, he soon took a front place in his chosen profession, and laid the foundation of a profitable business. His coming to Goderich was in 1855, and inside of the following dozen years he had run the gamut of public life from town councilor to member of parliament. As councilor, resve and mayor of his adopted town, he soon showed that he was capable of doing good srvice in a public capacity; and it was little to be wondered at that. when a vacancy occurred by the retirement of James Dickson, immediately before the advent of Confederation, the eyes of the Liberals of Huron turned toward the young lawyer as one fitted to represent the county in the brst Canadian Parliament under the new order of things. The year previous a vacancy had occurred in the county judgeship, and the young lawyer had been an unsuccessful applicant to Sir John Macdonald for the position, and when the call was made to him to take up the Liberal standard and carry it on to victory, the opportunity was the more readily seized that it offered a chance to get even with the Old Chief-tain for the "throwing-down" of the

The campaign that ensued was a warm one, and in it the Liberal candidate laid strong and deep the foundation of that reputation for effective stump-speaking which was his glory and the pride of his friends in the ball tossers. Sixth race, 1 mile and 40 yards, sell-thirty years that followed. Like many of the older school of politicians, he did not bank on either his literary style or his pronunciation. In the latter his addresses, for he did not possess the artistic imagination or the oratorical grace necessary to such an undertaking; but he had a clear, incisive way of stating a case, and a magnetic personality that caught the emotions of an audience, and enabled him to swar at will the hearers who faced the platform from which he spoke. As a nisi prius lawyer he was particularly effective, and few juries withstood his pleading. On the stump in a political campaign he reduced invective to science, and his denunciation of an opponent's policy was always merciless and scathing in the extreme. His bete noir in politics was the nepotist, and many a time and oft did he declaim against public men who had availed themselves of opportunities to assist relatives to positions, to the exclusion of all others. One of the first attacked by him along this line was the late James Dixon, his predecessor in the representation of Huron, who not only took to himself the registrarship in the county, but succeeded also in getting postoffices for two of his sons. The condemnation of this piece of nepotism was stoutly expressed on every platform during the campaign of 1867, and proved a winning card for the man who made the denunciation. Not satisfied with that, he carried his antagonism so far against the registrar that for years he never passed words with his parliamentary predecessor, because he considered a trust had been betrayed. During his first term in parliament he was successful in naving Goderich harbor constituted a harbor of refuge, and was instrumental in securing a large expenditure of money in improv-Opening prayer ......Rev. G. Jackson large expenditure of money in improv-Opening address..Master W. Crawford ing the harbor conditions of both Goderich and Bayfield. How he succeeded in getting the concessions from an adverse administration is not pertinent to this article and will do at another time, should the spirit move me to put pen to paper: but of one thing there need be no doubt, the town was materially benefited by the work then instituted through his efforts. Towards the end of his first term in parliament he began to be that thorn in the flesh of Sir John Macdonald which he continued to be to the last days of the Old Chieftain, and a partition of the county of Huron was decided upon by the government, with the ostensible object of giving three ridings to the county, but with the real object of gerrymandering Sir John's thorn in the flesh out of parliament. The Grits were "hived" in Center Huron, making the north and south constituencies safe to friends of the government, and excluding utterly, so it was thought, the man who formerly represented South Huron. The bringing down of the bill redistricting Huron was the historic occa-sion when old John Rymal, then member for South Wentworth, rose in his place in the house and, holding up a diagram of the new south riding, said to Sir John, "You could bow down and above, the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth, that resembles South Huron." But the gernymandering of the con-stituency did not keep Sir John's thorn in the flesh out of the house. He went into the contest with the inten-tion of winning, and, backed by the sympathy of the people in the gerry-mandered district, he swept all oppo-sition before him, and carried the constituency by a safe majority, despite the fact that his opponent on that oc-casion was none other than Thomas Every man who is the father of a bright boy is a firm believer in here Mankoba. After the contest his name

became a household word all over the country, and when mention was made of the man from Huron, in connection with election campaigns, his fighting qualities were as fully recognized as those of the gallant Major O'Shaughnessy, of the 88th (Connaught Rangers) during the Napoleonic wars, of whom the poet wrote:

He cared for neither shot nor shell, He dared all deaths and dangers— He'd storm the very gates of hell With a company of the rangers.

The Pacific Scandal, or slander—as the term suits—caused the defeat of Sir John Macdonald's government in 1873, and on the 28th of January, 1874, another election was held. On this occasion the Goderich lawyer, now in occasion the Goderich lawyer, how his forty-third year, was again successful, but being petitioned against, and the case coming to court, he was unseated because of the acts of overzealous friends, and in the bye-election that ensued was not a candidate, owing to absence in Florida in search of health, thus giving a walk-over to Mr. Greenway. In 1878 Mr. Greenway, after receiving the Liberal no:nination, refused to prosecute the canvass, and once more the Goderich man stepped into the breach, and was elected. In 1882 the re-districting of constituencies placed Goderich in West Haron for electoral purposes, with a majority of 158 in the riding adverse to a Lib eral candidate. I we'll recollect that evening in May when our candidate came home from Ottawa. We all lanew that he could have the South Huron "hive" for the asking, and we were on pins and needles as to what action he would take. We banked on his pluck, and we won. He spoke from the balcony of the Signal office, and, after stating that on his trip home he had vainly looked from the car windaws for South Huron, as then con-stituted, he said, "But I shall not further look for South Huron. I will stay with the constituency in which I live, and move, and have my being. (Cheers.) There is an adverse majority against me, but, with the assistance of my friends in West Huron, I will wipe that adverse majority off the slate. Give me a fair field and no favor, and the devil may take the hindmost, and that won't be M. C. Cameron." (Cheers.)

Did he win? Of course he won, for nothing could withstand the vim with which he fought the fight personally, and the vigor with which his friends entered into the contest. Truly the majority was not large, but it served. In 1887 he ran for the same constituency, and met his first defeat at the hands of Robert Porter, but retrieved himself in 1891. Unseated in the fall of the same pear, owing once more to the acts of over-zealous friends, he next faced Hon. J. C. Patterson, who was backed by all the strength of the Dominion Government, and he was again defeated-by the slight majority of 16. In this contest he was heavily handicapped by ill-health. During the previous year one of the most cruel and malicious slanders ever put in circulation against a public man was concocted by a discharged gardener of the man slandered, and this had been bruited abroad by political opponents with the object of driving him from public life. Two of the rascals directly implicated in the libels were cited before the courts and found guilty of the crime, but the worriment incident to the prosecution told severely on the slandered man, and he never was himself again, physically or mentally. In 1895 Hon. J. C. Patterson was appointed to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba, and again our candidate was put forward and won in the byeelection of January, 1896. In June of Pitcher Wilson and Outfielder Blake have asked the Cleveland club to release them. Both think they are worth more money than Mr. Robison is paying them. Cuppy was the second Cleveland player to resign for next in the latter his pronunciation. In the latter his the same year he fought his last fight the same year he fought his last fight the same year he fought his last fight with which he had been alled for so many years. His friends in Huron paint the lily or gild fine gold in his average of sire and son is that of paint the lily or gild fine gold in his be of cabinet rank, but it was decreed be of cabinet rank, but it was decreed otherwise; and he remained a private member until last May, when he was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the Northwest Territories, a position which. unfortunately, he was destined not to hold for long.

For nearly a quarter of a century I had known him personally, and from Sept. 1, 1880, until May 20, 1897, no one knew him more intimately than I. I knew his elements of strength-and he had elements of strength-and I knew his weaknesses. Of the latter I have no word to say, for he has passed from our ken and the place that knew him shall know him no more. He and I differed on a line of public policy, fust as he and the late James Dickson differed. Our differences were threshed out at the time, anl public opinion has rendered its verdict. I am perfectly willing that the matter should rest as it stands. I shall neither add to nor take from what has been said on that subject. But although an irreparable breach was made in our friendship, I never can forget the days when we were friends, and when the desire of my heart was to second, as best I could, the efforts of the most fearless gladiator in the political arena that I ever knew, and to aid in having victory perch upon the banner of a candidate whom I then believed to be the embodiment of rugged political integrity and the personification of political magnetic power

ESTABLISHED BY JOHN CAMERON IN 1863.] Managing Director John Cameron

London, Wednesday, Nov. 9, 1898

Tne Street Car Tie-Up. Our readers will learn with regret of the failure-for the present, at all events of the negotiations between the London street railway and those who were until recently their employes. The moral strike has lasted now nearly two weeks. The virtual, if not octual tie-up, is a matter of inconvenience and loss to the whole community. Had the company met the men in a less autocratic spirit at the beginning, there would have been no strike.

Two or three points, however, have been cleared up, thus far. No further attempt to prevent the men forming an association or union is likely to be made. As for arbitration, though it has not been insisted on to the end in this case by the men, the theory has been accepted by the public, as sound in principle and expedient in practice; so that we can "report pro-

At yesterday's conference, practically everything was adjusted, with one exception. So far, so good.

But, unfortunately, the remaining point of difference is the most important of all, namely, the question of remuneration. To put it in understandable shape, without too much detail, the contention of the men is that they should receive such a rate per hour as would bring the wages of the "Regulars' up to $9 per week for the minehour day.

Now the people of London are interested in two things: (1) That a good class of men be attracted to the service, to insure the safety and comfort of the public; and, for that matter, at the same time, to take good care of the company's property; and (2), the people of London are interested in a living wage being paid to the employes, for the reason that, as the company's profits are mainly drained out of Canada and into the United States, the circulation of the wage-money involved is practically the main benefit our business and other citizens get in return for an onerous franchise, supposed to have a quarter of a century yet to run.

The wage asked is not, under the circumstances, extravagant. It does not go beyond a fair, living wage.

The company's only reply, we understand, is that their profits are not sufficiently large to permit of their paying the wage demanded; and Mr. Everett-who, we must regret, has left for Detroit, before first settling the difficulty-in an interview endeavored to fortify this position by trying to show that the amount he received on his investment did not exceed 6 per cent. Of course, those who know anything of the real situation, know that, in making this statement, Mr. Everett indulged in the vocal exercise popularly known as "talking through his hat"; or, to put it in another way, his remarks are to be interpreted in a purely Pickwickian sense. Mr. Everett's return may be only 6 per cent on the face figures of his stock; but what is his return on the amount he originally actually invested? That is the question upon which, if there is ever an Investigation of this public franchise by a legislative committee, considerable additional light is possible. Take the original price paid-take into account certain divisions of blocks of stock, amount of directors' fees, back fees; in fact, the various methods in which a clever millionaire like Mr. Everett is a past master, and we make bold to say the return, on his actual original investment, is such that he could afford to pay a living wage to every motorman and conductor, and still be in daily receipt of a more than golden shower for himself and his associate capitalists.

The Advertiser is not in the demagogue business, as its 35 years' record can attest. If The Advertiser believed the men were in the wrong, it would not be found supporting them. It is because it believes they are not in the wrong, that it stands up for them, and for what it considers is due to them and to the citizens of London.

Mr. J. Enoch Thompson contributes an article on "Capitalistic Abuses in Canada" to the October number of the Arena. Mr. Thompson complains of the past surrender of public rights and public property to great corporations in this country, but says there is a growing tendency toward suppressing or controlling monopolies. The Toronto Street Railway, he points out, having a monopoly of the traffic, pays for this privilege into the public treasury a larger sum than it pays in dividends. Mr. Thompson says that he has supplied two foreign governments with copies of this agreement, and it has been adopted by one of them.

The franchise was granted for 30 years from May 5, 1891. The city keeps the street in repair between the tracks. The company lays and maintains the ties, rails, switches etc., and repairs tion of good deeds, but it saps the inverted toe-nail experts, the vermitickets, 10 for 25 cents; transfers to all points on the system free. Policemen free. No employe to work over 60 hours a week, or receive less than 15 cents per hour. The company to pay to the city treasurer:

1. All ordinary city taxes. 2. $1,600 per mile per annum of double track.

3. On gross receipts up to $1,000,000, 8 per cent; on next $500,000, 10 per cent; on next $500,000 and up to $2,000,000, 12 per cent; on all over $2,000,000 up to $3,000,000, 15 per cent; on all over $3,000,-000, 20 per cent.

The amount paid in 1897 under this agreement was: Municipal taxes, about $6,500; mileage rent, $60,000; percentage of gross receipts of $1,020,215, $85,672; total, $152,172.

This is indisputable evidence of the enormous value of street railway monopolies. Of course, Toronto was in a position to exact its own terms, having expropriated the original owners of the street railway by process of law. It is strange that the city did not follow this up by undertaking to operate its own system. It is an example. however, to other municipalities which may have franchises to confer. London will remember its own lesson.

It would seem that his strong and picturesque personality has saved the state for his party. One of the most potent of these was the Raines law, a Republican license measure simed especially at the saloons It was opposed tooth and mail by the liquor interests, which were thus allied with the Democrats. #### A Revival of Theological Discussion.

What is called "the ritualistic controversy" in England has provoked quite a revival of theological discussion. Discussion is not a bad thing in itself, if it is conducted in the right temper, and certainly a lively public discussion of theology is better than dead indifference towards that important subject.

The venerable Archbishop of Canterbury has handled the matter at issue in a masterly fashion, and his utterances have been criticised by Sir W.V. Harcourt, as well as by dignitaries of the church. It is not to be expected that in a church constituted as the Church of England that strict unanimity of opinion on all the questions involved can be attained; but many think the archbishop is inclined to allow too much liberty. The question is, What is the teaching of the Church of England on these points? And that turns out to be a very complex matter. Although only a few of the bishops have so far responded to the appeals made to them, they seem to be waking up to the fact that the country expects them to deal with the present troubles, and to show that the Established Church has a character, a theology, and worship of its own, which the clergy must teach and respect.

The temper of the archbishop's charges is instructive, as showing the real English horror of coercion in matters of opinion, and of church rule in matters that pertain to the individual conscience. If "His Grace of Canterbury" does not wish to drive the clergy, but to lead them, he is certainly emphatic in his statement that they must show the same pastoral spirit to the members of their flock. The following words spoken by him deserve careful consideration. Speaking of certain ecclesiastical rules, he says: "These rules grew up by degrees, and gradually stiffened into a rigid system. The objection to such a system is not very difficult to trace. The first, perhaps the greatest, is the want of freedom. Man is not made to be the better for being so much looked after. To kill all spontaneous moral action, by putting every act and word and thought under rigid control from without, may produce a better accumulaany street taken up for the purpose of altering or renewing tracks. Single fares, 5 cents; after midnight, 10 cents; in seeking what is excellent and engaging with the specialists in each and deavoring to practice it that is of the organs. ordinary tickets, 25 for $1, or 6 for a deavoring to practice it, but in obeyquarter dollar; limited tickets, good ing good rules made by someone else. from 6 to 8 a.m., and 5 to 6:30 p.m., 8 The life may in a certain sense be for a quarter dollar; school children's better, but the man himself is not. The good deeds cease to be his good deeds. The fight with evil that goes on within and firemen in uniform to be carried him is no longer really his fight. The system carries the man back to Judaism. The law judges a man by what he does, but the gospel by what he is. 'Do justice,' says the law! 'Be just.' says the gospel."

> These words are full of wisdom, and are worthy of being pondered by church rulers and moral reformers. The highest individual life consists in a noble use of freedom. Hence the archbishop's appeal was to the conscience of the clergy, reminding them of their ordination vows, and of their premised loyalty to the church. These discussions will no doubt continue, and in some cases there will be severe friction; but if the church is to maintain its unity, as well as its variety. and especially if it is to hold its position as in any sense a national church—the spirit of these words must prevail, and an extreme party cannot be allowed to change the life of a church which, with all its limitations, has so far reflected the freedom of English life and maintained a service simple and dignified which is admired by many outside the pale of her communion.

THE RAILWAYS

Changes on the G. T. R. Staff of Officials.

The Goderich Elevator Is All Right-More Facilities Needed at Collingwood for Handling Grain.

The statement that the G. T. R. may soon turn over the entire Air Line division to the Wabash Railway, is emphatically denied.

F. L. Corwin, general trainmaster, and G. Warren, general yardmaster, both of the Grand Trunk at Detroit, have resigned to take positions with a western road.

Railway Mail Clerk William Beck, who ran on the G. T. R. between To-ronto and Sarnia, died in Toronto hospital last week from the effects of an operation.

The M. C. R. will apply to the parliament of Canada, at its next session, for an act to extend the lines limited for the commencement and completion of the unconstructed lines or branches of railway of the Canada Southern Railway.

Capt. Symes, with the steam barge Seguin, reached Goderich on Tuesday with the first cargo of grain for the elevator. Everything passed off well, the elevator doing its work to perfection.

Most people are unaware that it is a criminal offense to buy or sell a rail-way ticket outside of the regular agents of the company. But such is the fact, and the statutes of Canada provide that the punishment for this crime is a fine of $50 or imprisonment.

The Grand Trunk is considering the advisability of further increasing its elevator facilities at Collingwood, al-though a 1,000,000 but el elevator was added not long ago. Mr. Kipling's Enormous Prices for His Work.

Verdi Still Believed To Be Work ing at Opera.

An Anecdote of Disraeli's Brother-A Ney-Bonaparte Wedding-A Demoeratic Archbishop.

London, Nov. 8.—So far as prices for his work go, Mr. Rudyard Kipling is more fortunate perhaps than any of his contemporaries. It is said that he has contracted to write eight stories for one of the magazines next year, for each of which he will receive about £240. This is simply for the English serial rights of the stories. In addition, Mr. Kipling receives payment from America, India and the colonies. This will probably bring up the prices of the stories to about £500 each, making £4,000 for the year. In addition to this, Mr. Kipling receives the royalties for block publication in England and America. This will not amount to less than about £4,000, so that for each story the author ultimately receives not less train £1,000.

DISRAELI'S BROTHER.

The family likeness that runs through the Beaconsfield and Disraeli families, was also noticeable in the late Mr. Ralph Disraeli, who years ago bore a striking likeness to his brother, Lord Beaconsfield. In the early seventies a paragraph went the round of the papers to the effect that Mr. Gladstone, then premier, and his great rival, the day following a heated debate in the House of Commons, had been seen chatting together in St. James' Park while watching the water fowl. Then it turned out that Mr. Ralph Disrael'i had been Mr. Gladstone's companion, and somebody asked the former what they had been talking about. "Why, water fowl," said Mr. Ralph Disraelt, "at least, Mr. Gledstone was; I don't pretend to know anything about them."

VERDI STILL ACTIVE.

On the occasion of the recent delebration of Signor Verdi's 85th birthday, a number of Italian journals stated that the veteran composer had not ceased his moral activity, but that he would shortly complete a new opera, entitled "King Lear." Signor Verdi has not positively declared these state-ments to be untrue, but he was just telegraphed the following to the impresario of the Fenice Thelater of Trieste, from whom he had received a telagram of congratulation: "I thank you with all my heart for your congratulations on my 85th birthday, but must exclude the possibility of future productions." At the same time those who constantly approach the maestro are less positive than himself with regard to his productive powers, and say that he is engaged not only on "King Lear," but also on another opera, entitled "Nero."

THE LATE CAPT. GRIFFITHS.

Captain Griffiths, who had the illluck to lose the steamship Mohegan under such terrible circumstances, was a great favorite among the passengers who habitually traveled by the Transatlantic Company's vessels. He is described by those who knew him as a very winning personality, and one inspired implicit confidence. He was somewhat taciturn, but a man of dauntless courage and iron will. He had lost an eve in an attack made upon him many years ago by the ringleaders of a mutinous crew of a sailing ship, whose turbulence, however he succeeded by force of character and fearlessness in completely quelling.

The parliamentary pressmen of New Zealand recently refused to allow a duly accredited lady reporter to ply her vocation in their gallery. The lady in question had her revenge with remarkable rapidity. This week's mail reports a continuous sitting of sixty hours over the estimates in the New Zealand House of Representatives, during which all the galleries were cleared with the exception of the one assigned to the ladies. The lady re-porter was thus enabled to describe the proceedings at first hand, while the evicted occupants of the press gallery had to skirmish about the lobbies and corridors for casual news of what was transpiring within the chamber. Some of the married pressmen got their wives into the ladies' gallery, and the latter took notes for subsequent writing up by their husbands.

FACTS ABOUT HEALTH

it is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How-Some of the Conditions Neces sary to Perfect Health.

The importance of maintaining good health is. easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food, and thus prepares nourishment. The blood is employed to carry this nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. Now it is certainly a fact that no medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is literally true that there are hundreds of people alive and well today who would have been in their graves had they not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is depended upon as a family medicine and general regulator of the system by tens of thousands of people. This is because Hood's Sersaparilla makes the blood pure. This is the secret of its great success. Keep your system in good health by keeping your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which absolutely cures when other medicines fail to do any good whatever.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The volume of trade done on this market for the week ending today was Receipts of grain were not equal to the week previous, and this may be said of all lines except vegetables in which there was an increase in deliveries, potatoes being the chief factor.

As to the demand it was about as usual, and this caused advances in some of the principal commodities. Oats, peas, eggs, dressed hogs and turkeys being the most important. There was a decline in wheat, influenced by outside markets.

Potatoes sold 5c a bag lower. The outlook for live hogs, buyers say, is lower.

EAST BUFFALO, Nov. 8 .- Cattle-The trade was about steady on the basis of yesterday's close. This being a holiday, the demand was light and the market somewhat unsettled. There were no offerings of calves, and with only a moderate inquiry the basis of prices was unchanged; nominally $750 for the best veal calves, and $3 to $4 for heavy-fed calves. TORONTO, Nov. 8.-There was an exceptionally light run of stock at the western cattle market today. The total delivery amounted to only 27 loads. Of these there were only 400 hogs and 400 sheep. In spite of the very limited supply, it appeared to be about equal to the demand, judging by prices realized, which were no advance on last week, and in some cases lower. This is the low-price month, but the persistently slow demand in the export trade is remarkable. In view of the fact that the British market has shown an upward tendency the past week, good butcher cattle are in demand, and fetch prices equal to best exporters. cows at $30 to $40, but for good ones $50 would be paid. # STORY OF THE

Declared To Be Founded on Fast

Threats Received by Members of the Court of Cassation.

London, Nov. 9.-The Daily Chronicle makes a prominent feature of an astounding narrative received from a trusted correspondent in Paris, who declares that his story is absolutely true, however it may be contradicted. The gist of the narrative is that if the court of cassation pronounces for a revision of the trial of Dreyfus, and this is effected publicly, it will entail the disgrace of one general, and perhaps two, the cashiering of several other exalted officers, and the effectual dissolution of the monument of lies and for geries erected by the general staff, with the more or less tacit co-operation of successive war ministers.

If the court of cassation simply decrees the quashing of the first trial, it will inevitably necessitate the immediate prosecution of certain individuals, the proceedings involving highly-placed personages in grave charges.

Therefore, organized efforts are being made to bring about, concurrently with the publication of the court's decision, a riotous outburst in Paris, preto an attempt to overthrow the civil power. The promoters of the scheme are aided by those military and civil personages who have cause to dread the revelations.

MARKED MEN.

One of the contemplated features of the riot was the assassination of dis-tinguished Frenchmen who have striven to avert the evils threatening the coun-

The police are aware that these men have been marked for assassination, and have directly warned them that they run a great risk by even remaining in Paris. They have advised them never to go abroad without loaded earms, notwithstanding the fact that carrying such weapons is illegal. Among those marked for killing are an ex-minister of justice and several prominent men of letters and jour-nalists. Meanwhile members of the court of cassation are inundated with threatening letters.

SEES THE CZAR Sensational Honeymoon Trip of

And Certifies Him To Be All Right.

Indications of Britain Declaring a Protectorate Over Egypt-General Cable News.

London, Nov. 9 .- W. T. Stead, writing to the Daily News from Sebastopol, after having had an interview with the czar at Livadia, reiterates his conviction of the earnestness and sincerity of the czar's purpose in proposing disarmament. Mr. Stead says it is impossible to repeat the conversation, but he adds: "But my opinion is summed up in a remark which I made to a princess of the court, who, meeting me as I was leaving, asked me: 'Well, what is your opinion?"

"I replied simply: I thank God for him. If he is spared to Russia, that young man will go far." Mr. Stead adds that he found the czar possessed of exceptional rapidity of perception, united with a remarkable memory and a very wide grasp of an mmense range of facts. A PROTECTORATE.

Indications are increasing that Engand will declare a protectorate over Egypt. The majority of the British cabinet favors such a declaration, and it is believed that France is the only continental power that would offer any opposition.

The latter displayed, among other things, Britannia and Columbia seated beneath a canopy, while the American flag was borne by a British sailor and the British flag was carried by an American sailor. There was also an illustration of Admiral Tatnal's "Blood is thicker than water," and of Admiral Kimberley's repetition of the same expression to Capt. Lane after the disaster at Apia, Samoa. This car was warmly acclaimed.

They expected to catch the 5:38 train for the east on the G. T. R.. Below the bridge a train was shunting, and as the train reached the bridge, the steam escape valve was opened. The horses started on a mad rush down the hill. About 25 yards from the bridge they crashed into the fence on the right side of the road. Its four occupants were sent flying through the air. The bride, the groom and Miss Sutherland were piled in a heap be-tween the dashboard of the buggy and a fence post, while McDonald alighted on the pickets. Miss Sutherland was the only one seriously injured. An arm went through the fence, and the elbow was dislocated and fractured. ## THE U.S. ELECTIONS

Delaware Remains in the Republican Column-Ohio Sticks to the G. O. P.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.-Additional returns today do not materially change the result announced last night of over 50,000 Republican plurality on the state ticket, and 15 Republican to 6 Democratic congressmen.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 9.—Complete returns received this morning show that the next legislature of this state is almost surely Republican in each branch, and certainly Republican on joint ballot. According to complete returns the next legislature will stand:

Republicans, 29; Democrats, 23. Nov 9 -The late turns received on the legislature in New York State show that the Upper House will consist of 27 Republicans and 23 Democrats. The Lower House will be 85 Republicans and 65 Democrats. The majority on joint ballot will be 24. The soldier vote may make some change in the legislature. FIGURING ON THE CONGRESSION-

AL MAJORITY. Washington, D. C., Nov. 9 .- Interest in the election today centered in the political complexion of the next house the senate being concededly Repub-lican. Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, in his figures today, is taking nothing for granted. This morning he made what he termed an ultra-conservative esti-mate in which he eliminated a number of doubtful districts. This estimate gives the Republicans 185 members in the next house, a majority of 13 over all. The states he is most anxious to hear from are Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania. In his estimate of 158 he does not include the doubtful districts. The returns in the east, middle, west and northwest show that the Republican losses were in the cities, while the gains were in the rural districts, and this encourages him to hope that when the returns come in later from country, some of the districts which now appear to be lost, may be saved to the Republicans.

Chairman Kerr, of the Democratic congressional committee had not appeared at Democratic headquarters at 10 o'clock, and no advice had been received since he gave out his statement at 3:30 this morning. This statement claimed an opposition majority of 27.

RAILWAY PROFITS

Last Year the Company Declared a 7.94 Per Cent Dividend.

This Year They Have Been Paying 8 Per Cent.

Mr. Everett Said It Was Only 6 Per Cent-Juggling With Figures-Extracts From the Company's Report.

In a recent interview Mr. H. A. Everett, president of the London Street Railway Company, said: "We have never realized more than 6 per cent on our money as yet, but we expect it to grow, or we would never have taken the road over. They pay 10 per cent in Montreal, and our stock there stands at 275."

"What is the London Street Railway capitalized at?" he was asked.

"At $350,000," was the reply. "The earnings last year were $101,365, and out of this $58,451 93 was paid as running expenses (wages, etc.), and $17,000 interest paid on bonds, leaving a profit of $42,914 01, which is about 6 per cent on $700,000 investment—$350,000 stock and $350,000 bonds."

The Advertiser has secured a copy of the 1897 report of the London Street Railway directors. We give the following extracts:

Your directors beg to submit statement of the past year's business, showing gross revenue $101.365 94, as against $94,194 19 for the previous year, an increase of $7,171 75. Operating expenses were $58,451 93, as against $54,171 18, an increase of $4,280 75.

While your directors are gratified at the steady growth of receipts and of the showing made, they feel that the gross revenue would have been much greater were not some of the best earning lines tied up during the summer months on account of sewer construction.

"While there is life there is hope," and while there is a possibility of negotiations between the street railway company and the men there is a possibility of a settlement.

The mayor, this morning, had a long consultation with Mr. Orr and afterwards interviewed the company's solicitor and manager. Obsequious Type. "Apropos of Indians as waiters," said the social traveling man, "I dare say the students from Indian colleges will do first rate, but I have in mind a time when it was tried in Nebraska in a small town on the Missouri bottoms and in a way that was not altogether satisfactory to the guests who were waited on."

"Were you one of them?" asked the representative of a piano house. "No, but I was at the little river tavern where it was tried. The girl waiters had all left for a new big hotel that was to be opened in the next town, and the landlord had to do the waiting himself, and then he thought of the Indians at the reservation and went and hired four of them. They didn't get around until breakfast was over the next day-an Indian doesn't have any idea of time-and there was only one man who hadn't eaten. He was a drummer for a New York clothing house and the biggest growler in 16 counties. "'You take his order, Jim,' said the landlord to the man whom he had been drilling. 'Put this bill of fare under his nose, give him a glass of ice water, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul!'

"Indians are not as slow as they seem, and this was one of the wickedest bucks on the reservation. He managed to get the order all right and carried it in and served it, and then, towel on arm, he stood at the back of the guest's chair, as he had been instructed to do. But the drummer was ugly and swore a big round of caths that he would have no Indian in

"At that the grim statue at his back whipped out a savage dirk from his store of accouterments, and, holding it over the head of the grumbling guest, he said, with consistent Indian brevity, accentuated by a Choctaw swear word, 'You eat!'

"And eat he did, flesh and fowl, not daring to move a muscle, while the arm of fate held the murderous looking knife within an inch of his visage, and it was not until he had eaten everything in sight that his dilemma was discovered, and he was rescued in a state verging on collapse.

"That particular guest was never again heard to complain, but the trial of Indians as waiters ended then and there, their methods being quite too original, or aboriginal, for practical application."-Chicago Times-Herald.

THE QUEEN OF THE SEASON

"You need not fear any more annoyances," said Aymer, knitting his brows. 'As soon as we stop, I will fetch your wraps from the carriage in which you have left them; in the meantime you must consent to make use of mine." She hesitated, but he was too urgent to be refused; his ulster, he declared, was more than sufficient for his own comfort, and he insisted on being permitted to tuck around her the costly fur rug that had been lying over his Avlmer consulted his watch. The train is not a fast one, and I heard a whisper of snow having fallen rather heavily some few miles down the line, so I don't see much chance of our reaching Cornleigh before 11." Mademoiselle shivered, and sighed.

"So late? Is it far from there to Es-"I am sorry to say, it is three miles or more. But why should that trouble you. Of course, you are expected, and your friends will be awaiting you with conveyance." "No," she answered, "I have no friends in this country; and as I have merely notified my intention of arriving in England at the earliest possible date, I cannot look to find enyone at the station for me." "But you have left friends in France?" observed Aymer, seeing that she was not in mourning. "Pardon me If I say that they have been rather thoughtless to let you travel alone, and in such an inclement season." The rosy lips were suddenly and sternly compressed. "I have good reasons for what I have done." she said, speaking more to herself than to Lord Esselyn. "I could not sit down and fold my hands while -Ah! but it is growing colder; it was so mild when I stanted."

Off came Aymer's ulster directly. 'You shall wear this. Nonsense: I will not be refused! You are a delicate girl, unused to exposeure, whilst I am as strong as a horse—I am, really."

"You are most kind," and in her gratitude she bestowed upon him such bewildering smile that Aymer thought her more charming than ever. "But, no; I cannot let you suffer for me; and, indeed, it was but a nervous tremor that seized me at the thought of arriving at a strange place in dark-ness and the snow. For a moment I was poltroon-coward; but, va! it is If monsieur will resume his overcoat, and give me some description of this my home that is to be, T shall thank him much."

"The village, do you mean? Is it ere you intend residing?" and Aymer mentally ran over the names of the principal families in the meighbor-hood, trying to determine which of them she was going to visit; for he had by this time decided that she could not be related to the stout, flor-1d. Norman widow, whom the Esselyn surgeon had met during a trip to Bouand married.

She leaned her rounded chin on those slender white fingers, and considered. "The village? I do not know—I think not. It is to the Manor House I go. Where is it situated?"

On hearing her say this, Aymer was more perplexed than ever. Going to his own house? How was it, then, that he did not know her? Could this demoiselle be some protegee of his stepmother, whom she had known abroad, and invited to spend her Christmas in England. He hazarded a remark: Then you are acquainted with Lady

"I have not seen her, nor the Lady Vivien St. Orme, her daughter. Tell me is monsieur the count—the earl. I should cay-now at this chaiteau?"

Aymer was both embarrassied and amused; but he saw no harm in making an equivocal answer. The last time I heard from home,

Lord Esselyn was in London." "Ah, then, this village is your home," she observed, raising herself from her cushions, and regarding him attentively "You know millord? Yes, I see that you do-not intimately, perhaps, but you must have seen him often. Describe him to me. I do not mean that I would have you tell me the color of his eyes, contour of his features; such things are immaterial; but speak of him as "I comprehend," she said, nodding er head, "You can say but little good Very little," the young nobleman schoed, gravely.

"And so you would rather be silent.

expected."
She drew the furs around her, closed her eyes, and appeared to be sinking into a pensive reverie; but Aymer, and who preferred to hear her talk, and was in a fever of impatience to guess the riddle of her presence here, and in-terest in himself—not very favorably expressed, by-the-bye—broke in upon her meditation:

"From what you have said, I infer that you are not acquainted with either member of the Esselyn family."
"I have not seen them: no."
"And yet you are going to their house. I hope you will forgive me if I

She flashed a roguish look at him. "Ah! you are curious, monsieur. You say to yourself, 'Who is this petite fille, whom I have been honoring with such chivalrous attentions?" "You are not translating by thoughts into the words I should myself have user," retorted Aymer, slyly. "I should have said: 'Will not the young lady, to whom I have had the happiness of being useful, tell me her name, that I may know how to address her when I have the pleasure of seeing her again? which," he mentally added. "will be sooner than she appears to

She looked at him so keenly that he was disconcerted. Did she guess at last from whom she had been requesting a description of himself? Appar-ently not, for slowly, and with a little bitterness audible in her voice, she made answer.
"Monsier flatters me when he hints that he would be pleased to meet again the young person whom the rudeness of his compatriots has driven into the carriage he occupies."

"Do you think I regret a circum-stance that has given me such a charming companion?" asked Aymer, boldly; but he repented his temerity when the lyoumobile face grew cold and scornful, and he was addressed in a manner that proved her determination to hear no more such speeches from him. "Have we much further to go? I am

"Heve we much further to go? I am excessively fatigued, and sleepy. Does monsieur know whether the family at the Manor House keep early hours? If so, I shall prefer to remain at the hotel at Cornleigh, if the hostess will take me under her charge. It is certain that miladi, the countess, will not be pleased to have her household disturbed by the shockingly late advent of her daughter's new maid."

"Mademoiselle!" ejaculated Aymer, losing all his presence of mind.

Could this graceful little creature be on her way to Esselyn, to wait on his sister, to make her dresses, brush her on her way to make her dresses, brush her hair, and—associate with the portly old butler, and fussy housekeeper? Impossible! He must be dreaming, or else he had misunderstood her.

From under her long black eyelashes she peeped at him, divined his perplexity, and, with provoking deliberation, proceeded to say:

"Apparently, monsieur did not hear ne. Shall I still further explain myself? I am Marie Delille, whom, on the recommendation of the Parisian mil-liner she employs, Madame la Comp-tesse condescends to engage as attendant, soubrette, or whatever you do call it; to the Lady Vivien St. Orme, her daughter."

CHAPTER XI.

Aymer was greatly disconcerted. In spite of his efforts to make some playful comment on this information, he could not utter a coherent word. He had known, aye, and jested with, a score of my lady's maids, for the countess was continually changing her servants; but her ladyship disliked to have pretty faces about her, and as she insisted on choosing Vivien's attendants, the result was that they were generally middle-aged spinsters with vinegary aspects, who were more apt to recent Aymer's compliments than smile at them. At last his natural frankness came to the van. "It's no use beating about the bush or attempting to deny it. I am very, very much surprised at what you tell me. That you can be going to Esselyn Manor House to fill such a position as you mention is incredible."

"Is the position a disgraceful one?" she inquired coldly.

"Well, no—no, certainly not; that is it wouldn't be for anyone else, but for

No More Hips.

The hips must be suppressed. Upon this point fashion is very emphatic. Petticoats and under-garments are fastened to the lower edge of the corset. If there are hip pads they are put in most eleverly, and no one can guess from the downward slope that all the pretty sloping curves are not nature's own.

There is no doubt that double skirts are going to be much worn, but there is no sign of bunchiness about the hips in these. There is no sign of flaring until the knee is reached. A new Paris gown of the double skirt style is described thus: "The material of this exquisite gown was pervenche blue taffeta; you will remember that this color is half-way between mauve and blue, and partakes of the character of both. The front of the skirt formed an origiedged with a deep similar colored silk fringe from beneath; small flounces ornamented the skirt in a circular manner, which were hidden again at the back by another pointed panel. The was arranged with a yoke of apple-green velvet, on which appeared three points of the pervenche silk, edged with fringe. The waistband was composed of the same pretty green velvet."

Underskirts of silk or satin brocade are topped by a skirt, cut in deep points or scallops, of cloth.

There is nothing newer or more fetching for winter house-wear than the little blouses of tomato red silk. These often have yokes and collars and cuffs covered with a lattice of black velvet ribbon, a jet bead being fixed where the ribbons cross each other.

This blouse is by no means a thing of the past, and very light and bright ones of silk will be worn this winter. One pretty thing of wide striped blue and white taffeta, with a fine black line running through it, too, is made with a bias yoke at the back, with the bodice welow the yoke cut with the stripes to run across instead of up and down. In Cont the stripes go up and down, and they are tucked very finely down for about half the length of a short yoke. The sleeves are very scant skirt ones, with a narrow cuff, closing with cuff-buttons. There are de white and red, white and blue and other colors in crisp little taffeta blouses, ranging in price from $5 to $10, according to the quality of the silk. These simple blouses are handy and are looked upon as almost indispensable by the woman who dotes on comfortable but becoming gowning. The silk blouse is suitable for any but dress occasions, and for home wear it is especially designed. With the silk blouses linen collars and ties may be worn. though the ribbon and lace stocks are preferred, and are better suited to accompany such bodices. The plain black satin blouse seems to have gone entirely out of favor, while the one of black peau de sole, with finely tucked yoke, has just come in, and is regarded as something very desirable and smart.

The Value of Silence.

The youngest-looking woman for her age that I have ever seen, said an observant man of the world, is a woman of 52, who once each month remains in bed for two nights and one day without speaking. The servants know her rule, and with noiseless tread they take her meals to her room, and deposit them by the side of her bed. They remain entirely mute, so does she, and at the end of 36 hours she feels perfectly refreshed. She says every organ in her body has had complete rest. She eats little, reads no letters, and amuses herself with the lightest and pleasantest literature. At all times she is a temperate eater. Takes regular, though moderate exercise, tepid baths daily, with a Turkish bath occasionally for ther complexion, and cultivated a contented spirit. The consequence is that with her full brown hair, bright blue eyes and smooth skin, she does credit to Dr. Weir Mitchell, the originator of the rest cure. The treatment that has proved so beneficial to thousands of people suffering from nerve exhaustion, found out long ago the value of silence. His patients suffering from nervous exhaustion are forbidden to speak at all the first day. And all through the cure, if mental amusement is required, a reader with a gentle-toned voice is employed, but no conversation is allowed

And no letters. Conversation and in-terchanges of thought are delightful, but there are so few people whose conversation is really restful. Women especially, from the fact that their minds in youth have been undisciplined by the drudgery of application, are often very fatiguing talkers, from the constant detours made before reaching the given point. That is the very first thing necessary after the voice, to make an agreeable conversationalist-directness, to go staight to the point in question.

Bicycle Skirts in the Wind.

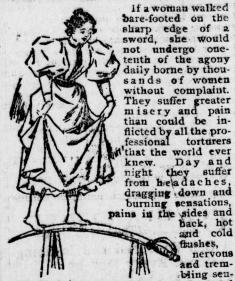

An observing woman, who rides the bicycle in all kinds of weather, has this to say about the tendency of skirts to blow about and distress their owners:

"I have been noticing skirts a great deal lately, and trying to discover why some even when they are narrow still blow out so much, while others, which are often wider, sit so well. I believe I have made a discovery. I don't think the width has nearly so much to do with it as the position of the rider's knees.

"One must keep her knees quite close together, or the skirt, instead of falling straight down flat, will billow out and make no end of drapery for the wind to frolic with. This is rather a difficult thing to explain, and seems hardly correct, but to prove it a girl should notice the different skirts on bicycles and try herself some time when she is riding and see at once what a difference the position of the knees makes."

Bread and Butter Crisps.

For this a loaf baked so as to give a square slice will be needed. With a sharp knife cut off all the crust; butter one end of the loaf, and shave off in the thinnest slices possible. Roll each slice up tightly and fasten with a wooder. toothpick. Lay on a flat pan and place in a quick oven until crisp and lightly browned. Strange Ways of Doing Things in That Sunny Land.

Peculiar Custom Which Would Bother an American-A Roman Funeral Is a Strange and Startling Sight to a Stranger.

An old adage says, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do," but it is a question whether the average American tourist ever learns the customs of the Romans. Even people who have lived in the Eternal City fail to observe many of the traits and ways of the Romans in their daily life. An Englishman who was an old resident of Rome was put to shame by an American schoolteacher of 22 who asked him if he knew why they chopped so little wood in Italy. He had taken upon himself the office of general dispenser of information among the guests, and, not being willing to confess ignorance, he blurted out:

"Ah, yes; I fawncy it must be the want of wood hand the smallness of the hax." But the young woman-and she came from New York city-explained to him that the real reason was that they sawed most of the wood. She showed the guests how the Italians hold the saw between their heels and knees and draw the log across the teeth. These are little things, but they go to make up a people's personality and are curious facts for foreigners. When one vehicle passes another in Italy, the driver keeps to the left. The pedestrians act in the same way. Some fereigners go through Italy from Naples to Milan and at the end wonder why it was that the Italians persisted in getting into their way.

The native Roman eats two meals a day, one, the colazione, or breakfast, at noon; the other, the pranto, or dinner, from ? to 9 in the evening. Black coffee is a favorite drink among the women at the cafes, but tea is seldom used. It costs usually 10 cents a cup. Italian bread is made without salt, which is under a heavy tax and is classed with tobacco and stamps. Wherever one is sold there also you may purchase the other two commodities.

As for the owners of bicycles, they have a hard time. Each rider must take out a license for himself. He can ride no other wheel but his own and should he permit his brother to use his wheel without a license the authorities would seize and retain the machine until a heavy fine was Another peculiar custom is the way in which an Italian will becken with his hand. In America people wave the hand toward them when they desire a person's approach. In Italy it is just the opposite. When an Italian waves a goodby to you with his hand, you imagine he is calling you back, and if he wants you to approach he motions with his hand as Americans do in making a gesture of repulsion.

In New York there are morning and evening papers with a liberal outflow of extras between. In Italy the papers reach the public about 9 o'clock at night.

About every school door when classes for the day have been finished you will see a gathering of men and women. These are the parents, who come to carry home the books of their children.

When the family wash is ready, the mother carries the basketful of clothes on her head to the public washhouse, ready for action. Every one loves the queen She is very devout and every new and then steals from her palace dressed in plain black and mingles with the worshipers in es. As for the king-well, that is another story.

Bananas and peanuts are never seen in Italy. As for hand organs and the festive monkey, they are seldom seen in the city streets. A peasant from the mountains bringing in vegetables to sell to the city folks must pay a tax at the gate before he can enter the walls. At the first sign of snow Roman schoolboys have a holiday.

There are a great many suicides in Rome, and the favorite way is to throw oneself over the Pincian wall or to go to the Suicide bridge out on the Alban hills and leap from it on to the rocks 300 feet below. And when a person has thus ended his life the natives think it proper to cut a small cross on the spot where he or she plunged to death. As many as 11 crosses have been counted in as many feet.

and the bridge is rather long. To refuse a pinch of snuff is a grievous insult. To walk in the sunlight is to class yourself with dogs and barbarians. To enter a shop and to walk out without making a purchase is to call down upon your head the wrath of an Italian tongue, whose superlative curses would make a New York truckman green with envy. The reason of this is that the windows of the store contain everything in stock with marked prices, and the shopkeeper hates to talk unless there is a sale in prospect at the end. He may have done nothing but sit and doze for an hour before you enter, and he may do nothing else after you leave, but should you fail to buy he considers himself the most abused man in the city, whose time is lost upon fools in gen-

It is not always the native guide that is the best. One day at the Church of St. Peter in Rome a party of American schoolboys were watching the crowds come and go when a swarthy faced man approached and asked in the purest Italian if they wished a guide. On the spur of the moment one of them answered him in Greek. The fellow gave them a keen look; then, with a broad grin and a still broader brogue, said:

'Arrah! Now, phwat are ye givin me? Sure, an I know ye are Americans, an it's mesel' that's Pat Bannigan." And that man could tell you more about Rome in five minutes than a native could in a

One grows careless in traveling, and many things slip the memory, but there is one thing that it takes months to get accustomed to-a Reman funeral. Of all sights a burial procession in Italy is the strangest. It startles a man to turnea corner and to come suddenly into a gloomy street where the yellow glare of funeral torches throws grotesque shadows along the house walls. There is a quick glitter of censers, a low wail from the mourners, a measured tread of white robed, chanting priests, a smell of incense hanging in the hot air, and behind it all rises a great high object in black, and along its top lies the coffin. Flowers are piled around the dead, and following the hearse is a crowd of mourners, jostling one another as they meet in the narrow passageways. It is a sight that is apt to come to a man in his sleep, and the dreams that follow it are not always the most pleasant.—New York

Mr. Wilkie last spring with a party of six, and was four months on the road. With the improved transportation facilities he expects to make the trip in about sixteen days next spring. Asked whether it was true that officials had to be bribed before one could get a claim registered, Mr. Wilkie replied: "I heard that in Dawson City, and hundreds of people have asked me about it since I came out. I can only say that I had two claims registered without any delay or difficulty whatever. Nobody asked me for a dollar beyond the regulation fee. I was a stranger, and and no 'pull,' so I don't see why any exceptions should be made in my case. was reported, too, that a man couldn't get his mail unless he tipped the elerks. There's not a word of truth in it. I got my mail regularly, and never 'tipped' anybody. That story probably tarted from the fact that when there is a big crowd waiting in line, some men who are in a hurry to get away will pay the fellows near the front for their turns." Mr. Wilkie says any man with robust health can get along in the Klondike all right, and that it is e good poor man's country.

Rev. Dr. Proudfoot's Ministerial Jubilee

Presentation and Address on Behalf of the London Presbytery-The Rev. Gentleman's Happy Reply-Remarks of Other Ministers.

A large congregation gathered in the First Presbyterian Church last evening to do honor to Rev. Dr. Proudfoot on the occasion of his golden jubilee, marking a period of 50 years of ministry. Dr. Proudfoot having been a former pastor of the First Church, made the occasion doubly interesting to those connected with that body. The reverend divine is the oldest member of the Presbytery of London, and has always been one of its ablest workers. His zeal, earnestness and strength of personal character are remarkable, even to the present day. Dr. Proudfoot did much in the earlier days to spread Presbyterianism throughout this western province, and other parts of the Dominion. His labors at Knox College have been one continued success. Be tween 500 and 600 young men passed under his able tuition, and some of them are among the foremost ministers of today.

To show their deep appreciation of the grand work that Rev. Dr. Prouddon theaters, having been played over foot had accomplished during his half-two years in London, and 300 nights in century of labor in the Presbyterian New York city. The production, scen-ery and company will be complete in every detail, which insures a performdenomination of Canada, the members casion to present the reverend gentlemen with a beautiful oil painting of himself. The portrait is from the brush of Mr. J. W. L. Foster, of Toronto. The choice of pose, showing the fine profile, the fresh flesh tints, snowy hair and dexterously treated blacks, all go to make a thoroughly satisfactory portrait.

Rev. Thomas Wilson, moderator of the presbytery, occupied the chair, and with him were Rev. Dr. Proudfoot, Rev. Dr. Caven, principal of Knox College, Toronto, and Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Motherwell. The speeches were of a reminiscent character. Some spoke of the days gone by, and others of the work and life of the veteran divine. All joined in wishing that Dr. Proudfoot might have many more years of labor in their midst.

The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Alex. Henderson, of Appin, and Rev. John Milloy, of West Lorne. Rev. Thomas Wilson then called upon Rev. Robert Johnston, and in so doing said that as a student of Dr. Proudfoot's he well knew his abilities and warm personal character. His motto was: preach until you have something definite to preach about." Mr. Wison had always found this a good maxim.

ADDRESS TO DR. PROUDFOOT. The following address was then read to the reverend gentleman by Rev.

Robert Johnston To tible Rev. John J. A. Proudfock, D.D.: Reverend and Honored Sir,-It is with feelings of profound thankfulness to God that your fellow Presbyters, with your many friends and admirers in this city, assembled tonight to join with you in recognition of the grace that has spared you to see the jubilee of your work in the church of which you are so honored a member While it is true that but few of us are able to recall to you the early events of the period of your labor, none of us are ignorant of the valuable service which it has been your privilege to render to the cause of Pres-byterianism, in particular, and in general to the cause of Christ in this land. Your father was one of the three pioneers who founded united Presbyerianism in Canada, a branch of the Presbyterian Church ever noted for its sturdy independence and liberal aggressiveness, and which at a later date formed so influential a section of the larger church which we have now the Succeeding to the labor of your father, and inheriting his spirit, your zeal carried you even beyond our own land, and in more than one city of the neighboring republic congregations still exhad seen the inception. Nor would we forget that it has not been in the field actical work only that you have served the church, but your calm judg-ment and wise foresight have secured for you in both the subordinate and superior courts of the church an honored place, while more than any other leader in our church it has been yours, from your position of professor of homiletics in one of our oldest theothe preaching of those who from year to year have gone forth into the ministry of the Word.

It is part of our pleasure tonight to ask your acceptance of this oil portrait of yourself, which we trust represents with some truth the features of one whom we honor and love.

We rejoice with you that Mrs. Proud-

Signed on behalf of the Presbytery of

REV. THOMAS WILSON, Moderator. REV. ALEX. SUTHERLAND, REV. ROBT. JOHNSTON, B.D.

London, Ontario, Nov. 7, 1898. While the address was being read Mr. A. Greenlees removed a draping from the picture which stood on the organ front, and the picture was viewed by the congregation. A hearty hand-clapping followed.

DR. PROUDFOOT'S REPLY. The reverend doctor's reply was a feeling one. He was deeply grateful taken his part with carnestness, will for the many kindly words of congratulation expressed, and to his brethren in the presbytery, for their kindness on this occasion of his jubilee. He also wished to thank the committee who prepared the testimonial. His long connection with the Presbytery of London had made him deeply interested in it. He had received a good part of his education in London, and was commissioned to his first charge at St. Marys, July 19, 1848, by the London Presbytery. He was thankful to God for sparing him so long to work in the cause and for any good he had been able to accomplish. For ten years he was clerk of the presbytery, and for 85 years he had the oversight of the missionary work. Dr. Proudfoot related a few interesting reminiscences in connection with his early days in London. It was an interesting fact, he said that 66 years had elapsed since his father came to London to commence Presbyterian work. His father reached here on Nov. 8, 1832, having left Brantford two years previous, and boring republic congregations still ex- on returning to Toronto on Nov. 20, he ist, the result of your work, while in had to walk to the second concession latter years it was your privilege to of Westminster to get the stage, as foster for an extended period in this the latter did not come closer to the city of London the cause of which you hamlet. Twenty-one hours were occupied in going to Brantford, and four days were occupied in making the journey to Toronto. In the spring of the following year the family came from Toronto to London, and owing to an inability to get stages from Hamilton west, it was necessary to come by boat to Port Stanley, and from there to London by wagon, the journey occupying ten days. The purchase of a lot as the site for a church was logical colleges, to set an impress upon his father's first consideration, and he was successful in getting one on York street, two doors west of the Tecumseh House. The lot was covered with forest at that time, but with the aid of some Westminster yeomen, a clearing was soon effected, and the erection of the edifice begun. The population at that time was small, among the inhabitants being five Presby-terian families—the heads of which were Wm. Alexander and Ross Robertson, Charles Davidson and Finlay McDonald-the same number of Episcopalian families, six Roman Catholics and a few Methodists, and they were compelled to suffer many privations. Dr. Proudfoot made no comment on his own work in London, but said that he might at an early date publish a book on "Presbyterianism in Western Ontario."

Rev. Thomas Wilson replied that the volume would be looked for with great interest. He hoped that Dr. Proudfoot would see his way clear to carry out his intention. DR. CAVEN'S CONGRATULATIONS.

Dr. Caven, principal of Knox College, was called upon for a short address. He was pleased to be present, and to take part in the proceedings of the golden jubilee of his friend of half a century. He first met Dr. Proudfoot in the fall of 1848, when he had been only about three months in the minis try at St. Marys, and in recalling the oarly days of London he desired to mention two names which were engraven upon his memory—one was that of Dr. Proudfoot's father, the speaker's venerable theological teacher, one of commanding presence, of wonderful ability, marvelously clear in his expositions of divine truth, and a man of great tenderness; the other was that of Mr. Adam Murray. He had succeed-ed Dr. Proudfoot at St. Marys in 1851, don to succeed his father. It was un-necessary. Dr. Caven said, to speak of effect is rapid and certain.

Dr. Proudfoot's aninistry here. Proudfoot had undervalued his work dione towards the church as a whole, and the congregation of the First Church was to be congratulated on the fact that it never begrudged the time he devoted to the general work of the denomination in Canada. Dr. Caven read a letter from the senate of Knox College, congratulating Dr. Proudfoot upon his jubilee and expressing its appreciation of his untiring work in the departments of homiletics, church government and pastoral theology at the college. From the students also Dr. Caven bore a letter of congratulation to Dr. Proudfoot, assuring him of the honor in which his name was held among them, and acknowledging that his courtesy and kindness had won for him a unique place in their affections. In conclusion the speaker said it had been his privflege to have worked with Dr. Proudfoot for 30 years, and he had always heart and ability. doctor could be persuaded to publish the book that he spoke of, it would be a valuable addition to any library. He was really one of the great men connected with the Presbyterian Church today.

DR. HAMILTON.

Dr. Hamilton, of Motherwell, said that when he heard of the doctor's jubilee he wanted to be present. He felt it a duty to do so. He had first met Dr. Proudfoot in Edinburgh, and well remembered the address he had delivered to them as students. The strain of his remarks was for us to come to Canada, where there was such a large field of labor. Every time he met the reverend doctor he esteemed him more highly, and had often felt deeply grateful for his useful hints. The speaker resolved to come, and it seemed somewhat singular that when he came he should receive a call to a congregation to which Dr. Proudfoot and Dr. Caven had ministered. After considering the call, Dr. Hamilton decided to accept it. The speaker concluded by showing that of the clergymen who had entered the ranks be-tween 1842 and 1851, only a very few.

were now living. SHORT ADDRESSES.

Brief addresses were also delivered by Rev. E. H. Sawers, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. West-minster; Rev. W. J. Clark, who succeeded Rev. Dr. Proudfoot as pastor of the First Church, and Rev. Alex.

Sutherland, of Fingal. Mr. Sawers congratulated Dr.Proud-foot that he was still able to labor in their midst, and prayed that the Lord would give him strength to do so for some years to come. Rev. Mr. Clark. was pleased to add a word of congratulation to the many already offered. It was a wonderful thing to be able to look at far past days, and to hear of the struggles that had to be faced in establishing Presbyterianism in London. The portrait was a most accurate one, and would be a remembrance, when his mortal body had passed away, and would live for generations. His prayer was that Dr. Proudfoot would still be spared a great many years for his earthly pil-grimage. He hoped that all the good wishes expressed would be fulfilled. On behalf of the presbytery, Mr. Sutherland congratulated Dr. Proudfoot, and complimented him on his good work among the students at college. The choir was present, and rendered a number of beautiful selections.

Rev. J. A. McGillivray, of St. James' Church, brought the meeting to a close by pronouncing the benediction.
