MR. SIFTON'S CHALLENGE

Mr. Macdonald Has Not Accepted the Proposal.

Mr. Ryan, Liberal, Is Probably Elected for the Seat Vacated by Premier Emmerson.

Albert, N. B., Oct. 7. — The Liberals probably scored another victory on Saturday in Albert county for the seat vacated by ex-Premier Henry R. Emmerson, of the Provincial Legislature. The Conservatives made a big effort to capture the constituency, and Dr. Stockton and Mr. Hazen came from St. John to stump the county. Mr. Ryan, government, is 150 ahead of Mr. Cross, opposition, with two places to hear from.

MR. SIFTON'S CHALLENGE.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7. — Despite statements to the contrary in the eastern Conservative press, Hon. Hugh John Macdonald has not yet accepted Mr. Sifton's challenge to meet him on the political platform in Brandon. Mr. Sifton wrote Mr. Macdonald on Sept. 20, inviting discussion at a joint public meeting. On Oct. 2, in a letter dated at Winnipeg, Mr. Macdonald said he would be in Brandon on the following day and would hold a meeting, and that the proposal of Mr. Sifton as to going on the platform at Brandon was a good one. Mr. Macdonald added: "And if you will kindly let me know where a letter will reach you I will write you at once, suggesting a date for the meeting, as we can possibly hit on one mutually convenient." In writing this Mr. Macdonald knew that Mr. Sifton was in Brandon and had proposed a meeting for the night of Oct. 4.

In a letter to Mr. Macdonald, dated Oct. 4, Mr. Sifton says he learned with surprise that Mr. Macdonald was addressing a meeting of the electors in Brandon that night, to which no invitation had been extended to himself or friends. Mr. Sifton added: "I should have thought that no better opportunity could possibly have been found than at the meeting to-night, when we were both in the city and had no other engagements. My own meeting is tomorrow. I shall be happy to meet yourself or anyone on your behalf at any or all of them. I purpose holding a meeting at Brandon on the evening of the 23rd, and will be pleased to meet you then, in pursuance of the suggestion made in my last letter. I shall be fully engaged in the meantime, and as advantage has not been taken of having a joint meeting to-night, the 23rd will be the earliest date that can be arranged."

WEST PETERBORO.

Mr. James Kendrick, M. P., West Peterboro, has been re-nominated by the Conservatives of the riding. With both candidates in the field the contest is now on in earnest. Mr. McClellan, the Liberal candidate, is meeting with excellent encouragement, and Mr. Kendrick will by no means have a walk-over, as his friends claimed at the beginning of the campaign.

BRANTFORD WORKMEN'S RALLY.

Brantford, Oct. 8. — A splendid rally of the workmen of the city was held in the opera house Saturday evening, and was addressed in the interests of Mr. C. B. Heyd, the Liberal standard-bearer, by Mr. L. F. Heyd, Q. C., Mr. T. H. Preston, M. P., and Mr. C. B. Heyd, M. P. Ald. Middlemiss occupied the chair.

MRS. USWALD'S RUDE AWAKENING.

New York, Oct. 8. — Mrs. Uswald, of 211 East Forty-eighth street, was suddenly awakened early this morning by a crash through the ceiling of her room. A man's leg dangled through the break in the plaster. An investigation showed the man was dead. The police theory is that in walking across the roof of the building the man's weight caused him to break through, and he was killed by the descent. The body was identified as that of Thomas Goodsell, 65 years old.

WORK OF FLORISTS

Not So Delightful and Artistic as It Would Seem.

The Drudgery of Cleaning the Green-houses and Preparing for the Winter Season—Getting Rid of the Destructive Insects—A Contrast With an Office Man's Job.

It is wonderful the erroneous impression most men have of the florist's trade. "I wish I could be in that fellow's shoes," says Mr. Bookkeeper. "Here I slave, bent over my column of figures, day after day, and all he has to do is to smoke his pipe and watch his plants bud into flowers and bring him in money." It is more closely questioned concerning the necessary work a florist has to do. Mr. Bookkeeper, would probably admit that he had to pick off a few bugs and scratch up the earth occasionally. Now, the fact is that to be a florist means to be in continual hustle, for he has to get ahead of two very powerful competitors—the bugs and his brother florist.

The season is very much longer than formerly, and practically lasts all the year around. Early in September the greenhouse season opens, for the carnations must be well started in order that they may bear long stemmed blossoms by October and November. Then come roses, chrysanthemums and violets and the miscellaneous flowers needed for spring gardens, for few florists can afford to ignore their cut of town trade. Therefore there is only a short hiatus in the latter end of July and August. Perhaps you imagine the florist then goes off on a long vacation. Not a bit of it. His hardest work comes at this time, for he has to clean his greenhouse, and this is what greenhouse cleaning means. Not only all the rubbish and old broken pots have to be removed from where they have accumulated under the benches, but almost every flower in the place has to be uprooted and thrown away. This is done with a recklessness which would make a lover of flowers turn pale, but it is necessary to save the plants every year in order to insure plentiful and perfect blossoms.

The next thing to do is to remove all the old earth, and this is no easy job, for it is almost impossible to run a wheelbarrow in the narrow alleys of greenhouses, and most of the carrying must be done by hand in pails and baskets. When it is finally accomplished, the beds must be filled up to a depth of five inches with fresh earth, earth which has been scientifically prepared for the last two years—and I may here add that the florist has put in most of his spare time during the preceding winter spading the said earth and mixing it with fertilizer—but before the fresh soil has been put in an interesting operation takes place, and it is then that the long suffering florist gets even with the bugs. He closes every door and window and thoroughly fumigates the place with a pan of sulphur. What a satisfaction it is to him to watch ants, caterpillars and aphides die by thousands! After this wholesale slaughter the place is thoroughly ventilated and whitewashed, but when the plants have been brought in there has to be a second grand fumigation, for in spite of all the care exercised some peridious insect may have lurked under the leaves in order to hatch out later a crop of tiny worms whose appetite is all out of proportion to their size. When this has been done, the florist can take a breath, but not a long one, for troubles crowd in upon him fast and heavy—his neighbors go ahead of him, his steam pipes burst, the bugs come around again, and the price of roses goes down.

When he goes with his stock of blossoms to the wholesale man, he bewails his lot and declares that there is no other place for him and his family but the poorhouse, but as the wholesaler has some idea of the profits he is making these lamentations do not worry him much. The wholesaler is generally not far wrong, for somehow or other the poor florist always manages not only to pull through the winter, but to build a little in the spring.

If it were not for the bugs, the florist's life would not be such a hard one, and a prospect of these a story is related. A bad florist died and was sent to an unmentionable place. Satan regarded him with a benignant smile.

"You may go," said he, "and pick all the aphides off my chrysanthemums with your fingers."

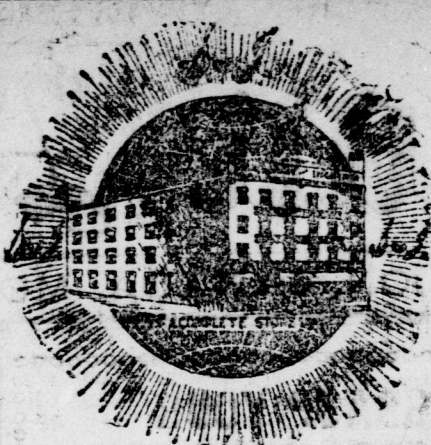

The unfortunate man gave a shriek of despair. He knew he had a job for all eternity.

Buried London.

The London of the Romans lies buried 18 feet below the level of Cheapside, and still deeper than that is buried the earlier London of the Britons. In nearly all parts of the city there have been discovered tessellated pavements, Roman baths, tombs, lamps, vases, sandals, keys, ornaments, weapons, coins and statues of the ancient Roman gods.

"THE AMERICAN GIRL."

"The American Girl," which comes to the London Opera House on Thursday, Oct. 11, has elements that remind one of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," its plot being cast on something of the same lines, while its comedy is just as wholesome and refreshing, its heart interest of equal force, and its denouement as happily satisfactory. It is a play of much more than ordinary merit, the story beginning in an engaging way and being interesting to the end.

"COWSLIP FARM."

The Ottawa Citizen, in the issue of Tuesday, Sept. 16, has the following to say about the pastoral comedy drama "Cowslip Farm," which will be presented at the London Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9 and 10: "The fair week attraction at the Grand is 'Cowslip Farm,' and judging by the reception given the players by the large house last night, the management has made a wise choice. 'Cowslip Farm' is a pastoral comedy-drama on 'The Old Homestead' order, while in spots it reminds us of 'Shore Acres.' Edward Warren and Marguerite Hammond were in the leading roles last evening, and both acquitted themselves admirably. Mr. Warren did a clever piece of female impersonation, and carried his part with him. Miss Hammond, as the harum-scarum Frix, did clever work, and held the vast audience by her clever character work and charming singing. Mr. Warren showed an unusual clever piece of character acting. He brought out all the odd traits and quaint maneuvers of the talkative old maid, and made her lovable, as well as laughable. In several droll comic songs Mr. Warren was heard to good advantage, his laugh being contagious. The Grand should, and no doubt will be thronged all this week."

Modern Science Triumphs Over Cancer

A New Constitutional Remedy That Eradicates the Disease Completely From the System.

A few years ago consumption was thought to be an absolutely incurable disease. Modern science has stepped in and transferred the "white plague of the north" to the column of curable diseases. Now the swift march of science has overtaken cancer and placed it, too, on the list of curable diseases. The old and agonizing methods of treatment by the knife, paste and plaster have been superseded by our constitutional remedy, which completely uproots the disease from the system and leaves not a vestige behind to again cause trouble. Our remedy, though powerful enough to remove every trace of cancer poison from the system, is pleasant to take, and harmless to the most delicate constitution. Full particulars, also our new book "Cancer, Its Cause and Cure," sent to anyone on receipt of two stamps. Address Scott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

FOOTBALL.

ENDED IN A TIE.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 6.—The result of the Penitential football match between Essex and Windsor, played here today was a tie—1 to 1.

LONDON WINS FROM SARNIA.

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 6.—The football game here this afternoon between London and Sarnia, intermediate series, resulted in a scoreless tie. The London lads by a score of 14 to 2. From start to finish the game was a man to man struggle, and for roughness nothing to equal it has ever been witnessed in these parts. At times spectators were almost inclined to take a hand in the warfare, but managed to curb their feelings sufficient to see the game finished without interruption. Referee Lind was quite straightforward in favoring London. For the home team Vanslyke, in the scrimmage, Heffernan and Boyce, on the half line, and Jimmie Johnston, at quarter, strove desperately, while Peel and Labatt distinguished themselves for the visitors. The Londoners had much the best of the game in avoidances. Now that London in two games has beaten the Tunnies by 5 points to 2, the management of the Sarnia club admit that it looks as if they had run up against an aggregation of prize tumbler, but not altogether real Rugby players. The teams:

Painters' Kidneys.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

The worst thing a painter has to contend with is the turpentine. The lead, of course, is bad too. But the turpentine cuts the kidneys, inflames and weakens them, makes the painter's life a dangerous and troublesome one. When a painter's back aches, it's time for him to begin treating the kidneys.

Mr. J. Evanson, the well-known painter and decorator, 30 Oxford St., Toronto, Ont., said: "About eight weeks ago I was taken with an excruciating pain in my back over the kidneys. It was so bad that my wife had to apply hot cloths till the doctor came and gave me morphine. He said the trouble was due to a stone passing from the kidney to the bladder. My water was loaded with a brick dust deposit and scalded on passing. While in this condition I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and started taking them. It was not long before I got relief from pain and have been improving in health ever since. My uric acid is now clear and does not smart me, and I feel better than in years."

plon steepchase at Morris Park today over the trying distance of three miles and a half. This fixture was the feature of the day's racing, and it resulted in one of the most stirring struggles of the season. Seven horses faced the starter in the first of the steepchase, the Cad being added at the last minute. It was a coveted stake, for outside of the honor of winning, it had an added money value of $5,000, $5,000 of which was subscribed by gentlemen interested in steepchasing. Going up the back stretch the last time Mr. Smith, who was always second on The Cad, sent his mount to the front. First one and then another tried to go up, but he came to the last jump a length and a half before Plato. Both cleared the obstacle in safety, and an exciting drive to wire followed, in which Mr. Smith showed his skill, landing his mount a clever winner by a scant half-length. Perion, second fast, and was third, four lengths behind Plato. The others struggled in, not a single fall having occurred to any of the race. Oneck Queen, an outsider, won the Hunter handicap, second on the card, beating the favorite, Kishandra, by three-fourths of a length. The other winners were Rush, at 9 to 5; Rolling Roar, at 5 to 2, and Kinnikinnick, at 5 to 1. McCue took the jockey honors, with two winning mounts; Oneck used and Kinnikinnick, while Henry rode Bellario, the winner of the nursery handicap.

RACERS AT AUCTION.

New York, Oct. 6.—A number of race horses in training, the property of C. Fleischmann, Sons and E. S. Craven, were sold today at auction by the West-Union Company, in the saddling paddock at Morris Park. Bonibert, winner of the National Stallion stakes, brought top price, E. Heffer giving $3,700 for the good son of Albert. Other sales were: Dolando, by 7 years, by Powhattan—Barbiche, J. J. McCafferty, $2,100; Six Shooter, br., 2 years, by Sir Dixon—Kentucky Belle II, A. L. Atse, $2,600; Irritable, ch., 2 years, by Irregular—Tobbera, Julius Fleischmann, $2,500; Barbara Freitsche, br., 2 years, by St. Maxim—Frances S. T. Welsh, $2,000.

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—Steve Flanagan, the pugilist, who collapsed last night at Industrial Hall during a fight with Jimmy Devine, died at the hospital tonight. He did not regain consciousness since the time of his collapse. At the magistrate's hearing today, all the witnesses testified that prior to Flanagan's collapse he had not been struck. In the sixth and last round of the fight he slipped down on one knee and then fell over. Physicians testified that there was a blood clot on his brain.

TERGIGER.

SERGEANTS DEFEATED OFFICERS.

The sergeants of the 7th Fusiliers are very much elated, having succeeded in downing the officers of the regiment at a keenly-contested match on Saturday. The officers had their best men out—two majors, the Blaisy man and the crack shot of this year, Lieut. Murphy—but it was no use. The score at the wind-up was 60 points in favor of the sergeants. The day was an ideal one except for the bright sunlight, which always makes afternoon shooting at the Cove very difficult at this time of the year. The score follows:

THE RUNPANYUP CHALLENGE.

The Runpanyup challenge, for teams of ten men from any volunteer regiment through the empire, was also tied off. This is a match gotten up by the Runpanyup Club, of Victoria, Australia, and the Seventh team shot out their match on Saturday under the conditions required—2,000, 500 and 600 yards, and their team made an average of 89.6 points per man, a very satisfactory showing indeed.

A STRANGE SUICIDE.

Perry Sound, Oct. 8.—The body of William Moore, one of the oldest settlers of Hagerman township, has been found in a small lake, named after himself, at Fairholme. His hands were tied with a piece of rope and a shoestring. It is thought that his suicide was due to an unbalanced mind resulting from his advanced age.

ALISA CRAIG.

Alisa Craig, Oct. 6.—Rev. The meeting was under the auspices of the W. F. M. S., being the annual thanksgiving service. The offering amounted to about $32. Dr. Menzies is quite hopeful of the mission work in China, believing that the present disturbed condition will eventually be followed by larger opportunities for the advancement of Christ's kingdom in that land. He credits the statements recently made in the press, that some 50,000 native Christians had sacrificed their lives, but believes that "the blood of the martyrs will again become the seed of the church." In common with many other missionaries, he speaks very warmly of the untiring efforts of Consul Fowler, of Chefoo (American), on their behalf. Dr. and Mrs. Menzies, and infant daughter are spending a short time with Mr. Menzies' parents, near Alisa Craig, but intend to resume their mission work as soon as the way opens.

Lola's Secret,

A Romance.

Sir Karl talked for a few minutes to Dolores. Lola listening with sharpened ears. But he said very much the same as he had said to her.

He told Dolores that he had had no time to call at White Cliffe, but he should do so at once; he regretted not having been at home when the girls had called. He liked the simple, girlish way in which she said:

"You will find White Cliffe a very quiet, old-fashioned place. It is one of the oldest houses in the county."

"That is just the kind of a place I like," he answered.

"I am quite sure they were not," remarked Lola. "I think every age improves, and I am quite satisfied with the one in which I live."

"I am very glad to hear it," said Sir Karl. "and you, Miss Cliefden, I think you are much better than this."

"My belief," observed Lola, "is that the world is in its infancy. I believe we are only just beginning to understand. We are emerging from darkness into light, but the light is faint."

"I should like to return to the world when it reaches its middle age—to see what steam, electricity and all the wonders of science have done for us. I should like to see the telephone perfected. When will its wonders stop? I should like to be on earth when it and other marvelous things are in general use. And there is one thing above others I should like to know."

"What is that?" asked Sir Karl, who was somewhat amused at her remarks.

"I should like to know whether men will so far overcome the difficulties of atmosphere, time and space as to get to the planets."

"No," replied Sir Karl. "I think we shall have to be satisfied with our own world, Miss de Ferras."

"Our own," said Dolores, "and the beautiful world that is to come hereafter."

In some vague fashion these few simple words pleased him more than Lola's aspirations. He would have said more; but at that moment, Lady Cliefden came up to them, and she had her hand on her forehead, looking very pale, and her face was as white as paper.

"Lord Rhyssworth," thought Lola, and her heart gave a great bound.

It was a strange coincidence that she and her rival should meet the two most eligible men in the county together.

Watching, always, and watching keenly, Miss de Ferras saw at once that she would have but little chance with Lord Rhyssworth. A perfect change came over his face when he talked to Dolores; a light filled his eye, and he seemed to forget everyone else.

"This is as it should be," thought Lola. "Lord Rhyssworth for Dolores, the handsome young baronet for me."

Lord Rhyssworth greeted her very kindly; he said that he remembered having seen her when she was a child, and made some pretty complimentary speeches on her return; but all the time his eyes were fixed upon the face of Dolores. Then Lady Cliefden suggested that they should go to the archery ground. But none of the quartet cared to stand chatting under the lime trees. For some minutes they all kept together; then Lord Rhyssworth and Dolores gradually gained ground, and Sir Karl, who was left at some little distance, Lola was delighted to see that for once Providence was going to favor her with the dearest wish of her heart. Her spirits rose; she had said to herself that she would keep Sir Karl by her side, and she did so. He could not resist the wondrous charm of her drollery, her wit, her sparkling talk.

On trifling circumstance dwell in Sir Karl's mind. As Dolores and he passed some beautiful garden, Lord Rhyssworth stopped and gathered a lovely white rose. He placed it proudly in his coat and Sir Karl felt that he wore it as a knight of old wore his lady's colors. The utter unconsciousness of Miss Cliefden struck him.

"Sir Karl," as innocent and as sweet, I like her the better of the two."

Yet something prompted him, he hardly knew what, to gather for himself two roses, one white, the other red, and place them together in his buttonhole.

Lola smiled when she saw them—a smile which had more meaning than words.

It is all right for the present," she said to herself; "but the time shall come when she shall dare neither to gather nor wear a white rose."

Dolores remembered every incident of the fête. She could not match given to thinking about love or lovers; but when she went home that evening she thought a great deal about Sir Karl Allamorne.

CHAPTER IV.

Lola de Ferras was practical, and in some respects sensible. She decided from the first hour that she saw Lord Rhyssworth that all attempts to captivate him would be in vain; so she wasted no more time in the endeavor. Every day she liked Sir Karl more and more. She had made up her mind that her fate in life was settled. She would be Lady Allamorne of Scarsdale. She liked Sir Karl so well that she would not have exchanged her anticipated lot in life for the life of a queen. She felt so confident as to the influence of her beauty that no thought of failure ever came to her.

Dolores Cliefden, sitting in the solitude of her own room, could recall all these events. She remembered the months that had passed since the school fête, the ball, the entertainments, the drives and walks. Whether Sir Karl liked her or not she could not say, but she cared for him more than for anyone she had ever seen. Lola, in all their conversations, openly claimed him. She talked about him until she made herself believe all that she had wished; and Dolores hardly avowed, even to herself, who kept pain these confidential communications gave her. Yet, despite all that Lola told her, there was often a doubt in the girl's mind as to whether Sir Karl did love the beautiful French girl.

It was not Sir Karl himself, he was a little bewildered. He had never before seen two such girls. Left to himself, he would have preferred Dolores—her character pleased him most. He liked her style of beauty, the sweet thought that she had in her mind. But Lola dazzled him. She made herself most attractive to him, and exercised all her powers of fascination in his company. She did not leave him much time to attend to others. When they were in the same room together she always contrived to engross his whole attention without his perceiving or being conscious of it. She directed against him the whole artillery of her charms. She flattered him, yet so subtly that he never perceived the flattery. Dolores, seeing all this, wondered much. She believed that Sir Karl preferred her, although outwardly he seemed to prefer Lola. She was so noble to suspect that it was Lola's clever devices which kept him always at her side.

As the summer wore on, Dolores found herself thinking more and more of the young baronet. Unlike Lola, who had no notion that a woman's love should always be mute, Dolores would have died a thousand deaths rather than that Sir Karl should have guessed that she did care for him.

She was very conscious of the fact that she did care for him, and she was so much so that at times he left her to seek refuge and amusement with Lola. They were playing at cross-purposes, and in after years more than one life was wrecked by it; but Dolores was not all to blame.

She could remember times when he had sought her; and she had fancied that there was something deeper than admiration in his manner. Often during the long warm evenings he had ridden over to White Cliffe, avowing that he enjoyed an evening with the squire, and that there was no place he liked so well as the quiet old house and the old-fashioned garden at White Cliffe. But more often than not during those evenings Dolores would leave them alone together. The pleasure was too much like pain, just as the resemblance to pleasure, they were so subtly blended that she could not separate them. When she heard the sound of his voice her heart would beat violently, her sweet face grow pale, and she would seem to give way. Then, lest strength should guess the cause of her emotion, she would send some excuse and decline to see him.

Feeling piqued, and not understanding what her motive was, Sir Karl would not stay long after that, but would ride off to Beaulieu. He did not perceive that Dolores's shy avoidance of him was caused by her very love of him—a love she was afraid he should see and perhaps despise.

It was a strange destiny that led these two girls, so different in appearance, in manner, and in everything else, to love the same man; and so confused was Dolores with her own thoughts that she did not notice that day by day Lord Rhyssworth showed her more affection. He was her father's friend; and she never thought of him in any other light.

So at cross-purposes the two girls and their admirers played while the sweet summer days rolled by. That which had been a pastime for Lola became a dangerously earnest passion, while Sir Karl seemed to give no thought to love or marriage. Lola was beginning to wonder when he would—when she would hear him say the words her whole heart longed to hear. She had certainly gone as far as she dared. If he did not understand her sentiments, it was not her fault; for she did her best to make them clear to him. It was just at this juncture that news came of the squire's ruin.

Lord Rhyssworth's offer of marriage had taken Dolores by surprise. No idea of such a thing had ever dawned upon her mind. She saw in it the death of her own love and the salvation of her father. What should she do? As she sat face to face with the great noble of her life, she realized as she had never realized before that she loved Sir Karl. At the same time all her maidenly pride and modesty rose in rebellion against the fact that she loved a man who had never spoken of love to her. She said to herself that she would not let it interfere with her decision; she would let the element appear in her life at all; she would decide and act quite independently of it.

Yet her heart pleaded for herself; it was not she who had to make or mar; she had but one—why should it not be a happy one?

On Old World Topics—Results of the British Elections—Labor Well Represented—Salisbury's Astuteness—Basis of United Action by the Powers Regarding Germany Seems To Be in Sight—The Times on Canada—Paris Exposition Picturing Out.

London, Oct. 7.—Isaac N. Ford reviews the parliamentary elections in a cable dispatch, filed here at 1 o'clock this morning, as follows: "There are no signs of a reaction in the counties against the overwhelming Unionist majority registered in the boroughs. The Unionists greatly increased their vote in all industrial communities. The two Durham districts, which have been strongholds of Liberalism, are barely held, and the Liberal majority in Wansbeck, in Northumberland, is reduced over 2,000. The temper of the masses of workaday England is unmistakable. It is deeply interested in the war, and has responded with enthusiasm to the khaki appeal."

WHERE THE LIBERALS GAINED.

The Liberals have gained ground mainly in out-of-the-way boroughs and sparsely populated districts. Sir Robert Reid has held Dumfriesshire with a slight shrinkage of his previous majority. This has been a surprise to the politicians, for he has been a consistent Radical, who has spoken most bitterly against Mr. Chamberlain and the South African war. He is a strong hold upon the affections of his Scotch constituents. Mr. Asquith's majority in Fife shire has been doubled.

CHAMBERLAIN SUSTAINED.

The election has greatly increased the prestige of Mr. Chamberlain. His ministerial majority, according to most careful estimates, will not fall below that of the last elections, and as he has been attacked as the author of the war, affronted with charges of having been blackmailed, and of having sold out, and even taunted with making out of admiralty contracts, this victory is peculiarly his own. This is one of the penalties of a campaign of slander. The victim of abuse is honorably acquitted, and his enemies are outthrown. Mr. Chamberlain continues to speak nightly in doubtful districts, and every morning he sends a leaflet of helpful or congratulatory dispatches to his constituents. He is a master of the art of the Unionist canvass, and does not hide his light. His influence in the next parliament will be greater than ever; he knows how to extend his hand, and to bring the cabinet and press. His position in the cabinet is the prime factor of the problem of reconstruction.

THE PROBLEM OF RECONSTRUCTION.

which Lord Salisbury must speedily solve. The opinion is gaining ground that he will remain in the colonial office unless Sir Michael Hicks-Beach retires from the treasury. The argument will be taken that his office was constantly under fire from the opposition, and that he must not retreat from it when his course has been vindicated by the country, but remain and settle the South African question in his own way. The military services do not favor his appointment to the war office, but refer some titled dignitary like the Duke of Devonshire, who had a military record three years ago. The military services will be on trial if he is next appointed to the war office, and he will be dependent upon to nominate the best reformer for the war office.

SALISBURY'S ASTUTENESS.

In regard to the diplomatic developments of the Chinese situation, the same writer says: "Distinct improvement in the Chinese situation is attributed by well informed men mainly to Lord Salisbury. He has followed the advice of the English press. Every London journal except one assumed that it would accept the German proposals in their entirety. Lord Salisbury, however, has refused to follow the advice of the English press. He has followed the advice of the German press, and offered the foreign ministry at Berlin a chance for amending it. Europe, America and Japan, through his intervention, have made a step towards a preliminary understanding, and Germany has not been affronted by a blunt refusal after her own spirit of accommodation. The truth is perceptible that the interests of England, France, Germany and the United States are identical, and that the three powers, after taking different roads, are heading for a common goal, and their combined influence will bring about a settlement of the general issues in the Chinese problem."

A STRONG TRIO.

The McKinley administration has been steadily criticized by the English and continental press, but diplomatic methods, which it condemned as impracticable, have been abandoned by common consent. The best informed veteran in the civil service, whom I have met in England, tells me that he is convinced by protracted experience and long residence in China that the empress dowager would never have surrendered the guilty mandarins at the dictation of the powers, and that conditions of anarchy and warfare would have been prolonged for an indefinite period if the original German demand had been generally approved. What is likely to happen is the cooperation of

BRITAIN, GERMANY AND THE UNITED STATES.

In effecting a settlement on practical basis, when a request for aid is brought about Germany may still be free to present special grievances of her own, and possibly to claim a province in compensation. America, however, will be in a position to enforce the principle of the open door. Germany, England and Japan will welcome her continued championship of that policy, and there is no evidence that Russia will close Manchuria against American or European goods.

UNITED ACTION.

Another correspondent cables: Thanks to Germany's withdrawal of her first note and the substitution for it of a compromise there is a general impression in England that a basis of united action by the powers is in sight. English papers have not yet grasped the fact that the present German action is a direct consequence of Lord Salisbury's verbal refusal to become a party to the suggestion that the surrender of the guilty Chinese officials must precede the peace negotiations. Great Britain, it is fairly safe to say, will never formally answer Germany's first note, but her informal answer had, perhaps, a greater effect upon the negotiations than any recent circumstance.

The information of the Associated Press on this subject which was so disbelieved at the time on the continent and which was the subject of many denials, was secured direct from the British Government, and is not an official statement. The official communications, which in the interests of international harmony, were issued subsequently.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

With the Chinese middle showing signs of clearing up, the time is opportune for paying attention to the quiet ending of the war in South Africa. Out of 30,000 soldiers wounded, 23,000 have actually returned to duty. Such quick recovery of such a percentage of the wounded is rather remarkable. Baron Bloch's theory that a modern war is impossible owing to its slaughter, though it is true 10,000 British soldiers have found graves in South Africa, London is already in a state of expectancy, awaiting the return of the City Imperial Volunteers from South Africa, and as soon as the elections are over the whole country is likely to give itself up to a period of jubilation and thanksgiving. The return home will be marked by celebrations such as Great Britain has not seen for many a year.

The attitude of the Canadian electors toward sending soldiers to South Africa from Canada is awaited here with some interest. The Globe, editorially, expresses the hope that Mr. Bourassa and others agreeing with his ideas, may be defeated. But adds: "The Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the premier, is returned or not we believe the next administration of Canada will be even more strongly imperialist than the present."

THE TIMES ON CANADA.

The Times has an editorial today on Canada. The paper notes the prosperity of the Dominion, and then deals with the subjects of electoral controversy, between the two parties. The Times puts forward the view that the struggle in the Dominion turns on the question which party, Liberal or Conservative, helped the empire the most at critical moments. Dealing with the tariff issue, the paper says that the question is one difficult for outsiders to speak on, unless they can soar with the eagle into the realm of prophecy and dreamy ruin for the British Empire in the smallest departure from the particular phase of free trade to which he is wedded. This tariff utterance is regarded as significant, inasmuch as the Times has practically become the mouthpiece for Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies.

NEXT BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

The personnel of the next British Parliament, it is decided up to date, promises to be of interest. Labor is well represented by Messrs. Burns, Keir Hardie and Bell, the latter being the employee representative of the recent Taff Vale Railway strike. Mr. Hardie was quite unexpected. He only visited the constituency (the Merthyr-Tydfil district of Wales), where he defeated Mr. William Pritchard Morgan, a two days' fore the poll. All cabinet ministers will reappear and nearly all the former cabinet ministers.

One remarkable feature of the election was the sweeping defeat of Mr. Lambton, of the British cruiser. Powel, who opposed the government candidate at Newcastle-on-Tyne, through the failure of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, Liberal, president of the United Kingdom Alliance for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic, to defeat his opponent in the Cocker-mouth district of Cumberland, was scarcely less surprising. Literary England will be represented, in spite of the defeat of Dr. Conan Doyle and the defeat of Mr. John Galsworthy, by the historian, Prof. James Bryce, the historian; Winston Churchill, Gilbert Parker and others present at St. Stephens to avoid the varied branches of literature to say nothing of Sir George Newnes and Arnold Foster.

LONDON SOLIDLY CONSERVATIVE.

London is almost solidly Conservative, and Glasgow is entirely so. In fact, nearly all the large cities have given Lord Salisbury sweeping majorities. George J. Goschen, who intends devoting his retirement to the compilation of a biography of his grandfather, a publisher of Frankfort-on-the-Main, whose letters from many literary celebrities he has preserved, and which are said to form a most interesting collection.

BUBONIC PLAGUE AT GLASGOW.

The progress of the bubonic plague in Glasgow may now be said to have been completely stopped. There have been no fresh cases for fifteen days, and the extreme period of incubation is supposed to be fourteen days. Twenty-one persons remain in the hospital, two cases are doubtful, while six persons who have been in contact with plague patients remain in the reception houses. The result may be fairly said to be creditable to the Glasgow physicians and sanitary authorities.

A NEW SCALP.

A remarkable case of wholesale skin grafting has occurred at Blackburn, where a factory girl was literally scalded by her hair catching in some machinery. Twenty pieces of skin have already been taken from her arms and grafted on her head. They have taken root, and promise to form an adequate scalp. The doctors say the girl will never have any hair and say a year must elapse before she will have fully recovered.

SUCCESSION TO THE FAIRFAX TITLE.

The succession to the Fairfax title is the subject of the most friendly comment in the Spectator, which says that the fact that this most historic title belongs to an American is a pleasant and picturesque illustration of how close the two nations are allied by blood. We wish the title were not Scotch, and that Lord Fairfax could every now and again take his seat in the House of Lords as the noble lord from the United States."

Christmas in England promises to be more expensive than ever unless people are willing to eat currantless plum pudding and substitute fruit. Owing to the failure of the currant crop in Greece, the price of the fruit is going up with an alarming rapidity. Instead of the crop realizing the usual 200,000 tons it will barely produce 38,000 tons.

THEATRICAL.

Mrs. Langtry has acquired the Imperial Theatre, Westminster, for several years. She will renovate it and open it in the spring with "Marie Antoinette," which is now being written for her. Yet another theatrical combination has been formed, this time among the music hall managers of London, who have come to an agreement to fix a maximum sum for comic opera stars, and who have also agreed not to endeavor to secure each other's stars during the run of pieces in which they are performing. This action is said to be due to the huge salaries demanded.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The exhibition has been shorn of one of the most picturesque exhibits in the department of the majority of Orientals and Africans attached to the colonial section of the gardens of the Trocadero. Although the weather is still fairly warm, the Orientals have been shivering with cold and demanding their return to their native lands. Consequently nearly all of them have been packed off to their native lands. While some people are still asking that the exposition be postponed, there is no chance of their appeals being granted. The exposition will close Nov. 5. Many members of the American commission have already sailed, and the directors are occupied with the task of arranging for the return of the exhibits.

ARE QUICK TO SEE.

Good Doctors Are Quick to See and Appreciate Real Merit in New Medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a discovery of great value to the medical profession and the public. They are an unfailing specific in all cases of dyspepsia and disordered digestion.

Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the cause of one of the many so-called blood purifiers, which in many cases are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition they need only a little help and they will right themselves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels and often do more harm than good.

Purging is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and excretion of the digestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and membranes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help and you will have no trouble.

It's a common sense medicine and a common sense treatment, and it will cure, but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific way.

We have testimonials enough to fill a book, but we don't publish many of them. However—

Mrs. E. M. Faith, of Byrd's Creek, Wis., says: "I have taken all the Tablets I got of you and they have done me good work in my case, for I feel like a different person altogether. I should have been at rest by this time."

H. E. Willard, Onslow, Ia., says: "Mr. White, of Canton, was telling me of your Dyspepsia Tablets curing his dyspepsia from which he had suffered for eight years. As I am a sufferer myself, I wish you to send me a package by return mail."

Phil Brooks, Detroit, Mich., says: "Your Dyspepsia cure has worked wonders in my case. I suffered for years from dyspepsia, but am now entirely cured and enjoy life as I never have before. I gladly recommend them."

It will cost 50 cents to find out just how Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets help you. Try them—that's the best way to decide.

All druggists sell them. A little book on stomach diseases will be mailed free by addressing P. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

COUNSEL

If thou shouldst bid thy friend farewell, But for one night though that farewell should be said, Press thou his hand in thine: how canst thou tell How far from thee

Fate or Caprice may lead his feet. Ere that tomorrow come? Men have been known Lightly to turn the corner of a street, And days have grown

To months, and months to lagging years, Before they looked, in loving eyes again, Parting, at best, as underlaid with tears, With tear, and pain,

Therefore, lest sudden death should come between, Or, some or distance, clasp with pressure true The pain of his who goeth forth. Unseen, Fate goeth, too!

Yet, find thou always time to say Some earnest word betwixt the idle talk, Lest with thee, henceforth, night and day, Regret should walk.

OLDEST MAN IN CANADA.

Galt, Oct. 8. — Many newspapers in this part of the province are accrediting Mr. Adam Misener, of Troy, who is 103 years of age, with being the oldest man in Canada. Such is not the case. There is a man living here named John Franklin, who was born on the Irish Channel on Nov. 1, 1794, and who will consequently be 106 years of age on Nov. 1 next. If he lives till Jan. 1 next he will have lived in three centuries. Mr. Franklin claims to be a relative of the great Benjamin Franklin. He is still enjoying good health, although a little feeble, and is seen on down-town streets every fine day.

ARRESTED IN BUFFALO.

Detective Nickle left for Buffalo this morning to bring back Fred Taylor, a member of the force which recently returned from the Yukon. Taylor is wanted on a charge of stealing $100 from another Klondicker, John Scanlon. Taylor was drinking pretty freely after coming back to London, and on the night of Sept. 22 he put up at the Central Hotel with Scanlon. They occupied the same room, and when Scanlon awoke in the morning he found that $100 had been taken from under his pillow, and that Taylor was also missing. Taylor was traced across the line, and it was expected that he would return in a few days. He has evidently been boasting of the affair in Buffalo, as the officers there, although they had not been notified by the London

"SIDE-TRACKED."

Large audiences witnessed the production Saturday afternoon and evening of A. Q. Scammon's well-known comedy success, "Side-Track." Much of the interest manifested in the coming of this attraction was undoubtedly due to the presence in the cast of Henry Willard, or Harry Hodgins, as he is known to his many friends and former associates in London. Mr. Hodgins' work in the leading part was eminently satisfactory, and stamped him as qualified to succeed in higher and more exacting roles. The balance of the cast took their parts acceptably. Some of the specialties were clever and enjoyable, as the whistling and vocal imitation of Harry Lyons, the black wire and balancing turn by Chas. Lavine, and the singing and dancing of Misses Magill and Melrose.

EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS

The Cronyn Memorial Church One of the Most Beautiful in the City.

Reopening Services Conducted by Rev. Charles Walter, M.A.—Large Congregations Both Morning and Evening.

Rev. Charles Walter, M.A., of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, conducted the services at the reopening of the Cronyn Memorial Church yesterday. He was assisted by the rector, Rev. C. C. Owen, and Rev. Dr. Beaumont. The attendance at both services was large, although the rain in the morning interfered to some extent with the size of the congregation. The visiting clergyman's sermons were interesting and very helpful.

The church and Sunday school have been so improved during the past four months that they are virtually new edifices. The buildings have been re-shingled and ventilators put in; six concrete walks have been laid, and the outside appearance very much improved. In the interior of the church very decided improvements have been made. The woodwork has been re-painted, and the walls frescoed and decorated and finished in murels. Delicate tints have been used in the coloring, and in the blending and shading pleasing effects have been obtained. The chancel has been raised considerably, and new choir desks in white oak, of modern design, put in. The new ceiling is made of metal and finished very artistically. A new communion table, which is a beautiful piece of carved work, and a brass lectern (donated) have been added. The vestry has been carpeted, and new furniture, of neat design, furnished, making it more comfortable. The contractor has worked out quite a transformation in the window lighting, and has made the Memorial probably one of the best lighted churches in the city. It was feared that the windows would have been well looked after, and with the new furnace the building will be made very comfortable. Many of the articles have been very kindly donated by members of the congregation.

This very decided improvement in the window lighting will practically dispense with gas lighting, except on very dark days. Modern chandeliers, the first used in the city, have been introduced. Three new furnaces have been put in and so arranged that the informed that I would have to feel her pulse by means of a silk cord extending out from the bedroom. I went through the solemn farce and charged $20 for style. Subsequently I saw my patient face to face.

"A good deal that has been written about the strange methods of the native practitioners is all moonshine," continued Dr. Johnson, "but the truth is singular enough without any embellishment. The first task of a Chinese medical student upon entering the Imperial College at Shanghai is to learn the 300 'life spots' in the human body. A 'life spot' is supposed to be a place through which a needle may be passed without causing death. The Chinese believe firmly in demoniacal possession, and their doctors do a great deal of stabbing and prodding to make holes for the purpose of letting out the evil spirits that are causing the sickness. I was called to see one poor fellow who was dying of jaundice, and counted over 80 punctures in his chest and arms. The Chinese practitioners had furnished the demon with plenty of exits, but he declined to depart. When a criminal is executed the native doctors are nearly always on hand to secure sections of the body to use in compounding their medicines. A powder made of the thigh bones of a dead man is a specific for the disease known to science as 'miner's anaemia,' which is caused by a parasite, and easily controlled by proper remedies. Sore eyes, due to chronic cold, or 'catarrhal ophthalmia,' as it is called technically, is a very common malady in China, and is treated with an astonishing prescription composed of powdered sandalwood, the 'skin' of eggs and an oil made by boiling monkeys' toes.

"I could go on by the hour, recalling other preparations equally fantastic. There is absolutely nothing approaching the system in Chinese medicine. It is based wholly on humbug and mystifications, and that is the reason why so many strange and out-re substances are employed as remedies. The idea is to awe the patient. It is an amusing fact that during my stay in Chefoo I treated every doctor in the city. They wouldn't take their own nostrums. That was carrying the joke too far."
