Hon. Mr. Laurier's Speech at bbotsford.

The Liberal Leader Warmly Welcome He Sets Forth the Evils of Re-

Ambotspord, Que., Oct. 8.—Mr. Laurier's meeting to-day at this charming spot in the Eastern Townships was highly successful mevery respect. Abbotsford is a central point for the counties of Rouville, Shefford, Bagot and St. Hyacinthe, and farmers came from all parts to hear the Liberal leader. Mr. Laurier and his friends who accompanied him were metat the station by the mayor of from all parts to hear the Liberal leader. Mr. Laurier and his friends who accompanied him were mets at the station by the mayor of the municipality and conveyed in carriages to the hotel, where an informal reception was held. At noon they proceeded up the mountain side to a sheltered grove, where tables were spread and dinner served. Immediately after dinner the speakers entered the stand and the audience througed into the grove. On the platform were: Mr. Laurier, Mr. Fisher, M.P. for Brome; Mr. Bechard, M.P. for St. Hyacinthe; O. Desmarder, M.P. for St. Hyacinthe; O. Desmarder, M.P. for St. Hyacinthe; O. Desmarder, M.P. A. Dennis, of St. Cesaire, presided, and in a few words introduced Mr. Laurier. As Mr. Laurier spoke in the evening at St. Hyacinthe, the subjects and his treatment of them are combined in one summary.

MR. LAURIER'S ADDRESS.

He first referred to the patriotism of his hearers. We had some some of them from so far, for the sake of gaining information upon what is now the greatest question before the Canadian people, extended trade with the United States. He thanked the ladies for their attendance, and referred individually, in high terms, to the members from the adjoining counties who were present, designating Mr. Fisher as the hope of the Liberals, English and French, in the townships. It was of their own affairs, the things that directly concerned them, that they wished him to speak. He wished to say a word to those who were not of the same political faith. He came not to the just alone but to the unjust, but with tolerance toward all. He referred to the struggles the Canadian people have had for their rights, and now they were obliged to battle for their commercial freedom. They could only win it by continual perseverance, but they were strengthened by the by continual perseverance, but they were strengthened by the TOKENS OF VIOTORY vouchsafed to them. He entered exhaustively into the question of emigration and showed that the United States contained over 1,000,000 of their compatriots, driven there by stress of a hurtful system. He appealed to their good sense, and asked if that policy were not wrong which would not keep their children at home in a country which could nourish millions if it were only given a chance. But the emigration continued, and the present system was power-less to stop it. A promise of better things had been made. Progress, it was alleged, was within their reach; chimneys would decorate the land, but from the top of Yamaska Mountain he could discern not a single one. He recognized the tact that Canada in 1878 had agreed to give a fair trial to the national policy. A fair trial had been given it, and it was found wanting. The people of Canada agreed to believe that local markets would spring into life and compensate for those of which they had been deprived, but in this they were deceived. They had tried the policy of restriction; the time has now come for acceived. They had tried the policy of restriction; the time has now come for ADOPTING THAT OF EXPANSION.

If under existing circumstances they could not have free trade the best available remedy was reciprocity with the United States. The taxes had been increased by many millions, and these millions did not come from the Dominion Treasury. As a result of some magical process they were obtained from the farmers' pockets. He made a strong arraignment of a system under which the farmers are daily becoming poorer and which drives them from their homes. He then took up in detail the sugar tax and the cotton tax, and showed how unjustly they bore upon the farming community. He contrasted the present time with the old reciprocity days, and forecast the future when the McKinley Bill comes in force, taking in detail the commodities concerned—eggs, hay, barley and horses. He recalled to his hearers' minds the system by which the protective policy was supported, and instanced the deliberations in the "red which the protective policy was supported, and instanced the deliberations in the "red parlor" at Toronto, the fabulous profits of manufacturers and the levy upon them. Then he referred in hopeful terms to the Processo of the RECIPPOCITY IDEA in Canada and the United States. There were Messrs. Sherman, Hitt, Bayord, and even Blaine, committed to a policy of reciprocity. The statement of the Ministers at Halifax and St. John that they were in favor of reciprocity in natural products was sham and hypocrisy, for they had never lifted a finger in that direction, and the whole tenor of their course was against it. Besides, the president of the council, Mr. Colby, had from his place in the losse declared against the principle in distinct terms. If he had to choose between the farmers and the manufacturers, he would elect to stand by the farmers. The McKinley Bill would be injurious to Canada, but he was of the opinion that if there were open markets there would also be a reciprocity in friendship and generosity by which the two distinct nations could dwell side by side in peace.

distinct nations could dwell side by side in THE FOLICY OF THE LIBERAL PARTY, in so far as it concerns the relations of Canada with the United States, is or rather continues to be an adhesion to the principle often laid down by them, that every consideration of education, blood and material interest points to a commercial alliance between the two countries. This policy involves full and absolute reciprocity, not only in natural products, but also in manufactured articles without any restriction whatever. When the Lileral party comes into power it will send commissioners to Washington, according to the principle affirmed by the Cartwright resolution of 1888, to propose a mutual agreement by which there will be FIRE TRADE ALONG THE WHOLE LINE, and detrimental to both countries alike, and to cause friction between two countries disigned by nature to exist side by side in policy, and is would urge it till success came, and uless the Conservative party adopted it that fate was certain. He arraigned the Observative Government as responsible for the passage of the McKinley Bill and all the evils that might flow from it. He charged them with stirring up dissensions between two friendly countries, and warned them against the danger of future reprisals. He abjured the electors to do their duty when the time came for them to decide for or against the good of the country.

them to decide for or against the good of the country.

Referring to the possibility of there being a Federal election in the near future, Mr. Laurier acknowledged the belief that the matter had been under discussion, but he had no apprehension that any such action was anticipated. The Government could not honestly dissolve Parliament after the conduct of last session. Under the assurance that there would be no election the House was induced to pass certain measures and to dispense with the annual revision of the voters' list. The Ministers could not think of committing such a breach of faith as would be involved in applying for a dissolution, and his Excellency the Governor-General would be justified in refusing such a demand and thus preserve the pledge given by the Ministers of the Crown.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Dr. Garrett, the senior of the corps of medical inspectors in the health office, has received this notice from his superior officer, Health Commissioner Wickersham:

Hereafter the medical inspector of this department will vaccinate no one on the leg without special instructions from the Commissioner.

partment will vaccinate no one on the leg withsolut special instructions from the Commissolut special instructions from the Commis"It could not be helped," said Dr. Wickersham. "The fashion had grown beyond the bounds of reason, and this department will recognize it no longer." On Saturday afternoon six girls, two of them young women, came here to be vaccinated. They told the inspector that they wanted the operation performed on their legs. "We don't want to disfigure our arms' was their excuse. The girls were vaccinated as they desired. But that's the last," said the Doctor, bring his fist down on the table.
"I want no more of them and won't bear them. If any girl is so fashionable that she is afraid a vaccination mark will detract from her beauty in an evening dress she had better go to a private physician and have the operation performed in private. The old-fashioned way is good enough for this office, and that's what the young women must put up with. The only exceptions in the future will be on my recommendation, and the applicant must make a personal request to me. If there is any reason why she should be vaccinated on the leg instead of the arm it will be done. You have no idea of the number of applicants there have been for this sort of thing lately. I believe it is a 'fad,' nothing more."

Quebec, Oct. 9.—The judgment of the Court of Appeal in the case of the Queen vs. Morin, who murdered his partner Roy in Montmagny, Que., was given yesterday. Chief Justice Dorion summed up the case. He said that the writ of error in the present case was illegal, as no motion for such writ has been presented to the judge presiding at the tribunal where the case was developed. His Honor then dismissed the case, Judge Tessier being the only dissentient, and ordered Morin to be conveyed to St. Thomas, and there to be surrendered to the Montmagny sheriff and hanged on Oct. 17, 1890.

Hou. F. Langelier maintains that his motion to go to the Supreme Court cannot be rejected, and although Morin is condemned to be executed on the 17th inst. the law allows him twelve days to present his case.

Dirty Work Attributed to a British Consul.

Londox, Oct. 2.—The Labor World to-day asserts that Mr. Hoare, the British Consul at New York in 1883 sent James McDermott from New York to Montreal for the purpose of getting up a dynamite agitation in that city and supplied him with money and means to carry out his purpose. "Mr. Hoare communicated with Dublin Castle about the time stated, and asked the Home Government to facilitate the performance of the work which McDermott was to carry out. The reply which the Canadian Government sent to the request from Dublin Castle and Hoare was that the Canadian Government considered it its duty to prevent and not to encourage of abet it. While McDermott was in Montreal endeavoring to ensuare Irishmen in that city in dynamite plots he was supplied with funds by Mr. Hoare and encouraged by him to keep up communications with O'Donovan Rossa and such men in New York. We will prove by sworn testimony, if required, that James McDermott was denounced and exposed in Montreal by a cable sent by Mr. Davitt to the editor of the Montreal Evening Post.

"Mr. Hoare supplied McDermott with money to travel back from Montreal and sent him from New York and Willie Pinkerton in Chicago, together with the notorious McGarland, agents who, at a costly sum to the secret service fund, manufactured any number of secret conspiracies against England in America.

"We further charge Mr. Hoare with having in 1883 employed Matt O'Brien to enter the service of the postoffice in New York in order to tamper with letters going through that postoffice; and that through Mr. Hoare's influence with a Federal postoffice official named Newcombe, O'Brien had charge of the keys and stamps, which enabled him to open what boxes he pleased in the building and use the State seals of the department for the purposes of the British secret service fund, we can prove that O'Brien opened letters by the score, and wrote letters to tome to the general p troutions, and by the side of the secret personal recommendation of long-land. We are prepared to the continuence of the second of the second

Death of a Young Barrister

A few years ago Robert Hardie, a native of Ontario, and son of a widely-known Methodist minister, entered Victoria University. He graduated with honors, and began the study of law, being admitted to the bar. Owing to ill-health, however, he did not practice, but retired to Strathroy, in Middlesex county, to the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Saxton, who still lives there. He remained there for two years. At the expiration of that time his physicians advised a change of climate, and the young barrister removed to the Pacific coast in April, 1885, and opened a law office in Los Angeles. His health improved, and before he had been there a year he was enjoying excellent health and a lucrative practice. In May, 1888, a family named Haynes, from Philadelphia, arrived in the city. Mr. Hardie became acquainted with the Hayneses and they engaged him to handle all their law affairs. Mr. Hardie soon became friendly with each member of the Hayne family, but more especially with the younger daughter, Florence, whom he married in February, 1889. At that time the only relatives Mr. Hardie had were one brother, who is the principal of a Methodist college at Tokio, Japan, and one sister, Mrs. Frank Saxton. At her brother's request Mrs. Saxton went to Los Angeles to be present at the wedding. She was taken by her brother to a hotel there, where she remained till Feb. 9, the day of the wedding, when she went to the Haynes residence. Her brother was married to Florence Haynes, and the same evening they left for a two weeks' trip. Mrs. Saxton says that it appeared to her that the whole ceremony was being conducted

UNDER A CLOUD and with a fear of attracting attention. Mrs. Saxton remained with the Haynesses after the wedding. The family treated her with courtesy until a few days after Mr. Hardy and his bride departed, when a letter was received from Florence. After that their attitude changed, and she was treated in a cold, indifferent manner. She states that she was not permitted to meet a family named Bridges from London, Ont.,

THE FALL SHOWS

THEURY WEST.

The Tilbury West Branch Agricultural Society at Comber proved successful, considering the unfavorable weather of the first day. There were 180 more entries this year than last. The show of horses, cattle and other live stock was exceptionally good, and would have done credit to a city fair. The grain and roots, while always grow abundantly in the township, were fine in quality, but not large in quantity. Owing to the disagreeable weather and the bad state of the roads, the gate receipts did not number up as well as they otherwise would have done, but the directors and others connected with it have reason to feel proud that their untiring efforts were crowned with success. There were in all 1,250 entries.

What Pluck and Good Soil Have Don for Some Settlers.

ispecial Correspondence of the ADVERTISER.]
Following the much-talked-of frost came the more-talked-of rain, and for three weeks, with heavy showers almost every day, the prospect indeed was blue enough. The depression became general. But two weeks of unclouded weather, warm, sunchiny days and clear, cool nights have dispelled the gloom and cleared the horizon of all the grim forebodings. If the present weather continues this week will see the harvest almost completed. It is more than possible that the same amount of rain would have caused much less talk and much less anxiety had it fallen in any other Province or country than Manitoba. I think I have seen as wet weather during harvest in Ontario, and they certainly have had as wet if not wetter weather during harvest in England, and the extra and apparently undue attentions this wet period has received here is due, as I remarked in my former letter, to the almost absolute dependence of all, both small and great, on the harvest.

The extent of the damage by rain is still problematic. That the grain is somewhat issolored and in many cases more or less bleached it is useless to deny, but from the most accurate information I can obtain there appears to have been but little of the grain sprouted, and notwithstanding both frost and rain and the extravagant rumors.

real and Maritime Provinces—A. McKim Montreal, Que.

London, Thursday, Oct. 9. MR, LAURIER ON THE RIGHT TACK. Mr. Laurier, the Liberal leader, has been addressing large public meetings in the Eastern Townships. The keynote of his thusiasm, is reciprocity—complete, all-round, and not jug-handled—reciprocity in everything that the two countries have to buy and sell. The Liberal leader points out what is a well known fact, that the Ottawa Government is largely responsible for the condition of affairs that has arisen by the passage of the McKinley Bill, They voted down Sir Richard Cartwright's motion, made in 1888, declaring it to be their duty to enter on negotiations with the United States for complete reciprocity. They first put on the statute book a resolution offering reciprocity in certain natural products. Then they voted down a motion setting forth the necessity for implementing that offer. A week later they put the natural products on the free list, because they were on the free list in the United States. And once more, a few months afterwards, they reimposed the taxes on these natural products, though they were admitted free into the United

Such a vaccilating, shilly shallying policy is unworthy of any statesman, and one is not surprised to find the Liberal leader denouncing it in the strongest of language, while pointing out that by its adoption Canadian interests have been seriously menaced, and will continue to be so while the two peoples are kept in a state of irritation by unnecessary reasonable. of irritation by unnecessary restrictions on their commerce. We say unnecessary restrictions, for it is now a recognized principle among all intelligent men that restrictions on trade, not needed for raising revenue for the public service, are not only unnecessary, but in. service, are not only unnecessary, but in-jurious. Nevertheless, the leading paper devoted to the interests of the restrictionists lays down this rule as one to which it friends must adhere:

Friends must adhere:

We cannot accept a so-called reciprocity to consist in our taking from our neighbors what we do not want in return for their receiving from us what they do want. This is not reciprocity, but a "heads-l-win-tails-you-lose" arangement for the benefit of our neighbors.

This is a most absurd contention. What is the foundation of all trade? The is the foundation of all trade? The necessities of the two parties to an exchange. Does our contemporary really suppose that Canadians will ever buy a dollar's worth of goods from the United States if they do not believe that they will profit by so doing?

The people of the Dominion are not a set of children requiring the constant tutelage of the restrictionists to prevent them from selling and buying in any market where selling and buying in any market where they may find it to their advantage to Canadian men and women do not need to be kept in leading strings lest they may be kept in leading strings less they may buy things which they do not want, as the Toronto Empire foolishly asserts. They will only trade with their neighbors when they find it to their advantage to do so— that is, when the transaction would result to their profit. The restrictionist objects de, but he does not do so in the interest of the masses, but of a few moninterest of the masses, but of a few mon-opolists, whose selfishness the present Ot-tawa Administration is bound to uphold. Mr. Laurier's warnings against the machin-ations of this small ring of self-seekers and eratty politicians is timely. He has given notice that as between the monopolies and the people he is on the side of the latter every time. And the people will triumph if they are true to themselves. ditioians is timely. He has given

THE NORTHWEST OUTRAGE. The revelations made by Rev. John Mc-Dougail regarding the liquor law scandals in the Northwest Territories, as given to a representative of the Halifax Voice, show how much careless administrators can do to disgrace the community.

Mr. McDougall is a son of the famous Rev. George McDougall, who lost his life ada, and what they will do when they have through devotion to his duty, and with that pioneer missionary was in great measure responsible for the passage of the law pro bibiting the sale of liquors in the Northwest Territories. In 1870, when the miswest Territories. In 1870, when the missionaries saw the evils inflicted on the population by the operations of the traders in whisky, they got up a petition to the Governor praying for the suppression of the traffic. Many days were spent in securting the signatures of the chiefs and leading men, but not one refused. Even the men men, but not one refused. Even the men who had been drinkers joined in the petition to put down the evil, which was demoralizing, impoverishing and steadily killing off the people. "There," says Mr. McDougall, seen whole camps drunk, shooting, killing abandoning the young, and debauchery of the worst kind." The result of the agi-wild sons of Eastern families, who had no sympathy with the law they were charged to enforce, and the permit system; which Governor Dewdney and latterly Governor Royal extended so largely, has resulted in the practical nullification of the law. Mr. McDougall, indeed, asserts that there is "more drunkenness to be seen to do in the law."

"more drunkenness to be seen to-day in the various towns of the Northwest Territories various towns of the Northwest Territories than in any other Province in the Dominion." Comparatively little effort is made to enforce the prohibition. Indeed, the present system has opened the way to a free traffic in liquor, which, in turn, has been greatly augmented by the 4 per cent. beer licenses provided for in a recent Ottawa Government enactment. Mr. McDougall contends that intemperate officials, the permit system, and beer licenses have undone the work accomplished by the proclamation and the prohibitory law. He lays the whole blame on the Government of the day.

The worst of it is that the administration of the law has brought it so much into dis-repute that there is a probability of its being repealed entirely by a plebiscite of the people. This is a condition of affairs much to be regretted, for if ever there was a portion of the land where, with honest administration, a stringent liquor law could have been operated, with enormous benefit to the nonulation whether which to the population, whether white or aborigine, it was in the Northwest

sharp eye on Canadian affairs, says:

The Gazette learns with much satisfaction that the Hon. John Dryden, well known throughout the States as the proprietor of the Maple Shade stock farm, Brooklin, Ont. Can., has recently been appointed Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Contario. Mr. Dryden has for many years been a member of the Provincial Parliament and has rendered distinguished service not only to his immediate constituents but to the farmers of the entire Province in that capacity, and his selection for the important post to which he has now been called is a well-merited recognition of his faithful work in behalf of progressive agriculture. Mr. Dryden has not only been remarkably successful as a breeder but his lands show faultless managemet.

Mr. Dryden's appointment, indeed, has been received with satisfaction on all been received with satisfaction on all hands. He has just paid his first official nands. He has just paid his first official visit to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, and received a most cordial wel-come from the President and members of the college staff and by the students of the college.

The new Minister's great strength lies in the fact that he is a successful farmer, who has reached his present position by honest hard work and intelligent investigation and experiments, and who is always willing to learn from or to aid in instructing the least of his brethren in the greatest industry of the Province.

THE BRITISH IRON MEN.

The Toronto Empire is scolding the Globe of that city because it continues to favor the opening of the United States markets for the iron ores of Canada. The immediate object of the Globe, the Empire says, is evidently "to scare the British iron masters who are about to visit our country out of investing any of their capital in smelting furnaces in Ontario." We are inclined to think, however, that the British iron masters are not that kind of men. Like most other British capitalists, they prefer to invest their capital in a country which seems to offer greater opportunities for realization. Their loyalty runs down the line of pounds, shillings and pence, and they would not place $1 in a mine or in a furnace in Canada if they were persuaded that it could earn more when similarly invested in the United States.

What are the facts about these John

Bulls of the Iron and Steel Institute, now in the United States? Why, that every man of any consequence among them is interested as a stockholder in a United States iron mine or a blast furnace, and is going to spend his time in seeing it. There are some 300 of them, we see it stated. Of these less than 50 are coming into Ontario, and, saving for a halt of a few hours at a mine in which some Americans are largely interested, they will get back into United States territory again as fast as a special train can carry them. The other 250, em-bracing millionaires like Sir James Kitson, wthian Bell and vonn will make the Southern tour to inspect the Alabama blast furnaces, whose construc-tion was commenced a few months ago, and upon whose stock-lists they figure for large

Canada is no more to the British iron masters, of whom the Empire speaks, than is Greenland, or Matabeleland, or Terra del Fuego-unless there are more pounds, shilngs and pence in it for them. and sentiment do well enough for Canadian light-weight politicians, but British iron asters want something with more body to it, and for $1 that they will invest in opening an iron mine or building a blast furnace in Canada under existing conditions, they will invest £100 in the United States. And if the Toronto Empire does not believe what we say, we ask it to pause and see how many British fron men will visit Can-

-So true is it that the earth is one vas battle ground, where all things living struggle for the survival of the fittest, that even moles, those clumsy and apparently almost blind masses of fur and sinew, oc casionally become veritable subterranean tigers, attacking each other with extraor-dinary energy. Unless they are forefully parted the battle seldom leaves both com-batants alive.

The Winnipeg Tribune says that after the census is taken next spring Manitoba will be found to be entitled to eight members in the House of Commons, instead o five as now, and if she is dealt with on the same pro rata as Queboc her number will be ten. Year by year, as the Northwest is de-veloped, it will become an increasing force in determining the policy of the country, and it is among the possibilities that long before another quarter of a century has passed it will be a greater power in Dominion councils than are the Maritime Province at the country in the councils of the country in inces at the present time.

OTHER NEWSPAPERS.

ANOTHER VIEW OF UNION WITH THE STATES. ANOTHER VIEW OF UNION WITH THE STATES. Irish Canadian.

Touching annexation, we think Canada would largely benefit by a political union with the neighboring Republic. We believe such a union would inevitably tend to the rapid increase of our population, the influx of unlimited capital, the development on a large scale of our inexhaustible resources, and to the general prosperity. It has been said that the Americans do not want Canada, that they have already as much territory as they can conveniently look after, but that if Canada were willing to join them they would not object. That is to say, the Americans will not coerce Canada into annexation. In this the Americans are wise; for shough willing to enter the Union by peaceable means and voluntarily, Canadians would resist to the death any attempt at their subjugation by force of arms. If Canada ever takes her place as part and parcel of the great Republic of the West, she will do so not in the garb of the conquered, but as a State clothed in the plentitude of its sovereignty.

Spiders in the Apiary.

Spiders in the Apiary.

Mrs. L. Harrison remarks as follows in the Prairie Farmer about her treatment of spiders in the apiary:

I used to make war on them. Sorry to own it, but I formerly killed every one that I could. Ugh! The great ugly things! How horrid! They might bite me. But I have repented in sackcloth and ashes. We have kissed and made up, and now we are the best of friends. I catch every one I can and carry it to a hive containing unoccupied combs and put it in. You see, our good friend father Langstroth ("may his shadow ne'er grow less") called our attention to the fact that the spiders keep all the moth-worms from combs. Where the mother spider has her home the moths caunct flourish. I sometimes take their egge encased in a downy web and place them into a hive of unoccupied comb to live and flourish.

A Bee-Line.

Is frequently spoken of, and its origin no doubt can be traced to the bees themselves, as they are very strong, and can fly very fast and for a long time without taking a rest. Their eyes are made to see a great distance, and when away from their habitations they mount up in the air until they see the place where the hives are situated, and then fly toward it in a straight line with great velocity; hence the shortest line between two given points is often referred to as a "bee-line." This habit is taken advantage of by hunters of wild honey, to trace the hives in the woods.

The ladies of London and vicinity are reminded that Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, the celebrated hair goods artist, will be at the Tecumseh House on Wednesday and Thursday Oct. 22, 23, with a full line of the latest styles in hair goods. 50-a-ywt is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any perimenent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

and were last seen half a mile from home followed by a man named Narcisse Larcoque, who is now under arrest. The bodies had been outraged and strangled and were found last night at 10 o'clock by an exploring party of villagers.

Although the children did not reach home after school on Tuesday evening their parents were not over anxious about them as it being a wet, stormy evening, they supposed that the children had remained in the village as they had done on previous occasions. On Wednesday morning the father went to work as usual, supposing that the girls were at school, but when 5 o'clock came and the children not appearing, the anxiety of the mother caused Mr. McGonigle to set out for the village, where he found that his girls had

Loss Fully Hair a Million Dollars—
Speculations as to the Cause.

The men who were killed by the explosion were all working in and about the magazines and mills, and except in the cases of three were all blown to pieces, so that only fragments of their remains, have been found. It is the theory of the workmen that the explosions were started in some way by a soldering iron which a man named Green was using in soldering the covers on cans of powder. Early reports of the disaster erroneously placed Daniel Haskins in the list of those killed. He was severely injured. John Dietz, Jas.

rowed on the stock; SSS shares were transferred to the City and District Bank on July 29, 1886.

To Mr. Blackstock—Eighty shares had been allotted to A. T. McCord on July 5 and on the following day they were transferred to Hon. Mr. Wood, who again transferred them to H. S. Strathy in trust.

Witners continued—On April 1, $19,200 was loaned John Hunter on his account, and on the same day Mr. Strathy transferred 400 shares to Mr. Taylor. On May 21 Taylor, in trust for Hunter, obtained aloan from the association of $30,000 on 600 shares of stock. There were 600 shares transferred by Mr. Strathy on the same day and the association made two loans of $49,000. There was no record of authority from the company to borrow the money.

To Mr. Blackstock—Between July and August, 1887, it came out that the money of the association had been used for private purposes by the officials. Mr. Taylor's in-debtedness was $500,000.

debtedness was $500,000. Henry Taylor was the next witness. He testified that Mr. Hunter was a beneficial owner of some stock, and other stock was simply placed in his name. In one case over $100,000 was put in in that way for the sake of appearances when a loan was desired, but Mr. Hunter had nothing to do the sake of appearances when a loan was desired, but Mr. Hunter had nothing to do with the $40,000 loan to the City and District Bank nor with any other loans. Mr. Hunter bought stock on borrowed money. It was desirable that the association should have all its stock sold. The loan with the plaintiff was negotiated to pay off the Long loan. The association got the $40,000 and smaller sums.

The court adjourned for an hour, after which Mr. Taylor's examination was continued.

To Mr. Blackstock—I don't pretend that I borrowed the money for Hunter. I was indebted to the association at that time for about $10,000, and also considered myself a debtor for current transactions.

Mr. Robert Kidner, the bookkeeper of the association, told how the demand for interest on the loan came in from the City and District Savings Society. From instructions received from Mr. Taylor, when the communication was showed him the witness handed it to Mr. Pavey, the association's accountant. Another demand came in for a margin of $15,000, and in Mr. Taylor's absence Mr. Murray provided for it. Witness did not understand the transaction, but signed Henry Taylor's name to paper on instructions from Mr. Mr. Murray to meet the $15,000 demand.

Mr. Henry Barbeau was recalled and examined as to his conversation with Henry Taylor at Alexandria Bay. It was brought out that Taylor said that the loan though made in his name was really for the association.

Mr. John Hunter was examined as to how

Mr. John Hunter was examined as to how the association came to use his name on their books. During the examination Mr.
Blackstock questioned the witness as to what member of the association called upon him. He asked if Mr. Mache had called on him for that purpose.
Mr. Meredith—That is cruel. The man is dead.

Mr. Meredith—I know the kind of stuff you are made of.

The witness then continued his story as to how he became possessed of the amount of stock placed to his credit by borrowing the money from the association itself. Some of the stock was simply in his name, but for some of it he was a benefited holder.

Witness Booker was recalled on the conclusion of Hunter's evidence, and questioned as to some accounts.

when the evidence was all in, Mr. Blackstock reviewed the case. The association, he claimed, received the benefit of the loan, although Taylor assumed the liability. It was also certain, he added, that the association was in the habit of doing business in that way. The reasons for the association concealing their identity were obvious. No influential corporation would lend an association money and take their own stock as security. For this reason it was necessary to disguise the transaction, as it was proven had been the case.

The Chancellor—You have not disposed of the fact that Taylor was acting in of the fact that Taylor was acting in trust.

Mr. Blackstock—The syndicate trust came along with him and transferred their interest to Taylor. It was as if the association and the shareholder Hunter passed the whole amount to Taylor to effect the loan.

The Chancellor—In that case you have no remedy against the company.

Mr. Blackstock—Taylor held the money in trust for Hunter who had no real stock in the association. This loan was secured for the purpose of paying off the "Long loan," but was placed at the credit of the association instead to put it on its feet again. It has been shown that the association went to the association and was inneed of $43,000, which amount had been overdrawn at the bank. The loan went to the association alone.

"What's that?"

"To give too much room to the latent feeling which is rather common in these days among the unappreciated, that because some markedly successful men are fools, all markedly unsuccessful men are geniuses," "Pretty subtle for a young lady," he said slowly. "From that remark I should fancy you had bought experience."

She had passed over the idea. "Do try to succeed," she said, with wistful thoughtfulness, leaving her eyes on him.

Springrove flushed a little at the earnestness of her words, and mused. "Then, like Cato the Censor, I shall do what I despise to be in the fashion," he said at last. "Well, when I found all this out that I was speaking of, whatever do you think I did? From having already loved verse passionately, I went on to read it continually; then I went rhyming myself. If any thing on earth ruins a man for useful occupation, and for content with reasonable success in a profession or trade, it is the habit of writing verses on emotional subjects, which had much better be left to die from want of mourish ment."

"Do you write poems now ?" she said.
"None. Potical days are cetting the said."

had much better be left to die from want of mourish ment."

"Do yon write poems now?" she said.

"None. Poctical days are getting past with me, according to the usual rule. Writing rhymes is a stage people of my sort pass through, as they pass through the stage of shaving for a beard, or thinking they are ill-used, or saying there's nothing in the world worth living for."

"Then the difference between a common man and a recenized poet is, that one has been deluded, and cured of his delusion, and the other continues deluded all his days."

"Well, there just enough truth in what you say, to make the remark unbearable. However it doesn't matter to me now, I meditate the thankless muse no longer, but "He paused, as if endeavoring to think what better thing he did.

Cytherea's mid ran on to the succeeding lines of the poen, and their startling harmony with the present situation suggested the fancy that is was, "sporting" with her, and brought any ward contemplativeness to her face.

—Mr. John Davidson, formerly manager of the Grand Opera House here, but now manager of the Bay City Opera House, was married yesterday to Miss Libbie Grant, of Windsor. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Gray, at the residence of the bride's mother, and was private, only the relatives of the bride and groom being present. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left on the evening train for Bay City, their future home. The presents given were numerous and costly.

—Two well-known residents in Brussels attended the Western Fair at London. They came home via Listowel, taking the evening train from the Thames metropolis. Forgetting that a change of cars was necessary at Listowel, they were speeding toward Palmerston. When two miles had been covered and the conductor informed them of their mistake, the train was stopped and, although about twenty miles intervened between them and Brussels, they set their compass toward the northwest and arrived home about 4 o'clock next morning.—

—Of the "Two Old Chums," which will be here on Monday and Tuesday next, the Columbus, Ohio, Journal says: "Austin's 'Two Old Chums' Musical Comedy Company opened to a packed house last night and we must say that for pure wholesome fun and music they are the best we have had for many seasons. Musically, they are a grand success, the musical specialties alone being worth the price of admission, and the play affords Field and Winchell an excellent opportunity for displaying their superior comedy work, which they do to perfection. The entire company deserve approbation."

perfection. The entire company deserve approbation."

Pat Rooney at the Grand.

At the Grand Opera House last evening the attraction was nothing less than the famed Irish delineator, Pat Rooney, who appeared in "Pat's New Wardrobe," supported by his little daughter Mattie and a company of genuine artists. The everoriginal Pat spent the atternoon at the London Clam Bake, and having won the hearts of the Clams almost everyone of the party occupied seats in the house or boxes. Pat made it interesting for them by cracking numerous jokes. Mattie came on the stage and said, "Say, you're full of clams." "Yes," remarked Rooney, "and so are all those who were with me this afternoon." Of the musical portion of the entertainment too much cannot be said, for, besides the Rooneys, all have good voices and use them well. Messrs. Earnest, Harley, Pieri and Graham make one of the most clever quartets heard in London for a long time. Their imitations, warbles, echoes and refrains were spiendid. The jokes are clever and clean, the songs are both new and old, yet all acceptably given. The entire company is accomplished and versatile. "Pat's New Wardrobe" is billed again for this evening.

—Mr. J. F. Cryer intended leaving to-day with his family for New York, where he will practice law. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Cryer his departure has been postponed until her recovery.

—Aylmer Turner and Alfred Oliver, of Lucan, were discharged by Judge Elliot yesterday. They were charged with stealing a goose and had been illegally sentenced to a term by the Lucan magistrates.

—Mr. Charles Wheeler, the clever organist of St. Andrew's Church, in this city, has been engaged to give a recital on Monday evening next at the opening of the new grand organ in the Presbyterian Church at Listowel.

Paneurs first.

A duet, "Not Ashamed of Jesus," was then given with pleasing effect by Mr. John Drew and Miss Edith Hartson. Rev. H. C. Speller, of Adelaide Street Church, followed in a brief, practical address on "Home Missions," emphasizing the necessity for sending out spiritual teachers with the ever-increasing bands of emigrants who settling the Far West. A collection and the benediction brought the very interesting meeting to a close.

Gold Medal Sawa.

Owing to want of space and time, the beautiful exhibit of saws made at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition and also the Western Fair at London have not been specially mentioned. These exhibits were undoubtedly among the finest that have ever been made, as they were so pronounced by parties who have visited the great Exposition of London, Eng., Paris, France, and Centennial, United States. These goods were manufactured by Messrs. Shurly & Dietrich, of the Maple Leaf Saw Works, Galt, Ont. These gentlemen claim to occupy the highest position as saw manufacturers, as their goods are admitted to be among the finest tempered goods in the world, and as to finish, they are unexcelled. Their ambition is to make the best, and so well have they succeeded that they ship goods to many foreign countries. They are the only manufacturers in this line who export to the United States in large quantities, and their saws are there sold at a much higher price than the best American made goods. American goods are sold in this marker, but at a lower price than the Maple Leaf saws. So it is fair to presume that Canada leads the world, at least in the manufacture of saws. These works were established in 1874 by Messra. Shurly & Dietrich, and are now considerably the largest in Canada, and with their increasing trade with the United States and other foreign countries, their prospects are very good to be among the largest in the world. Although there were no prizes offered at the Western Fair for saws, the management were so pleased with the exhibit and finish of goods that they awarded Messra. Shurly & Dietrich the gold medal. bd&w

There are few, if any, in the great army of smokers who have not been, by experience, placed in a position to judge as to the merite of the "Norma" 10-cent digar manufactured by H. McKay & Co., of London. In almost every cigar store and hotel in Canada this bat of all Jovers of 10-cent goods has found its way, and is finding rapid and constantly increased sale. Unlike other similar goods, its fame is not of a transient nature. The Norma" contains all the merits of the imported cigar, and has in many cases supplayed its more expensive rivals, and each successive season but adds to its host of admiring consumers.

The large establishment of H. McKay & Co. is kept continually engaged in supplying the demands made upon them for the "Norma."
