London, June 15.—In a general survey of the situation, Premier Asquith today, in the Commons, referred to the reconstruction of the Government. He declared he would not have been justified in taking the course he did in this regard under the pressure of outside influence, or because of temporary embarrassment. The task porary embarrassment.

was as unwelcome as could fall to the lot of any man. After paying a tribute to his late coileagues, Mr. Asquith claimed, both for himself and his new colleagues, the staunchest adherence of their respective political parties. He admitted the word coalition had not a pleasant flavor in the vocabulary of British politics: previous departures from the British system of party government had been found wanting in dignity and success. Up to the last moment he had not been without doubt as to how he could best respond to the call of public duty.

Without Parallel.
"The situation was without parallel in our history," the premier said. This would demonstrate beyond all ssibility of doubt, not only to our people at home and across the seas, but to the whole world-our allies, our enemies and neutrals-that after nearly a vea solved than ever with whole heart and one purpose, obliterating all distinctio of party, to unite every personal and

TOMORROW BRIGHT and EARLY MORNING SALES BEGIN

"As you sow so shall you reap," and sure enough the Wednesday morning harvest of bargains shows the effect of scattering wholesome seed on fertile soil, and if an expression from the hundreds of employees who enjoy this half-holiday were taken it would read like this: "Resolved: that if our employers can do so much for us, we will try and care more for them, and put the better health and strength gained into our work and our endeavors to not let them loose anything for their kindliness to us."

The considerate public are also to be thanked for the generous response to the Wednesday morning sales, and also for refraining from shopping on Saturday nights, when a portion of the merchants close at 6 o'clock, giving their employees freedom during the hot summer months. [Canadian Press.] Winnipeg, June 15.—Summarizing crop onditions in the West from the reports of 175 correspondents this morning, the Free Press says 68 points report general conditions excellent, 58 points good, 23 fair, and 3 report conditions poor.

Speaking of frost damage, the Free Press declares that "the actual amount of land being reseeded for frost damage is small. There are much larger areas being reseeded for cutworms, which, in me districts, have eaten entire field mething like 100 points out of 175 report no frost damage at all: 20 point frost, but no permanent damage; 10 points considerable permanent damage. and 3 points damage of a very serious

The chief regret is that the frost has caused delay and the crop which on June 1 was two weeks ahead of 1914, is now behind the condition on June 15 last year. This, of course, applies only to the frosted areas, though the progress of the whole crop has not been so rapid as could have been desired during the past two weeks. Recovery in the frosted areas is good, but slow. Warm, moist weather, but especially warm weather, is now needed. Only one point heard from reports rain badly needed one point reports too much rain, 12 points needed rain, 6 state rain would do good, 45 reported sufficient etc., obtained.

Last year these organizations continued the summer of the second of ducted such a camp, where many girls received the benefit of Springbank breezes, and enjoyed the rest and recreation afforded by camp life.

The situation chosen last many times the struck when they urged upon all young men constant and diligent practise at the ranges.

The letter reads: My Dear Major,—I am getting of splendidly, and my leg is getting strong-er all the time. I hope to be O. K. again soon. How is the 7th coming along? I trust it is flourishing. Are we having the usual good success with rifle prac-tice? This war has certainly shown us the necessity for having good rifle shots. In trench warfare such as we have had all winter, and where the snipers worked with deadly egect, we knew the exac range to the enemy's trench, and we simply carried out the principles learned on the rifle ranges.

The "peep" sight on the Ross rifle gives us a decided advantage for shooting. The critics of the rifle, I think, will be silenced as to their criticism whether the rifle will stand the rough usage of active service. Events have proved there is not a better rifle made. Sincerely yours,

The Lusitania was going 18 knots, using only 19 out of her 23 boilers, in consequence of the decreased traffic, thus saving a quarter of her total coal consumption and a propor tionate amount of labor.

Certain specific information was sen by the British admiralty by wireless elegraphy to the Lusitania, but thes instructions are not to be made public. and this part of the evidence is to be taken in private. how far the captain of the Lusitania acted upon them. The Real Questions As a rule, the first question to decided in an investigation of this kind is how the accident occurred. this case we know that there was no accident and that there was a premeditated design to murder. The real que tions arising are only two:

"First, as to the navigation of the ship, having regard to the instructions, and information conveyed by the admiralty, and second, as to whether everything was done that could be done after the ship was torpedoed." Capt. Turner, of the Lusitania, exmined by the Attorney-General, said the ship was not armed either for offence or defence, and carried no masked guns. He confirmed Sir Edward's statement as to the speed of the Lusitania and the number of boilers in operation The captain estimated that ten sec nds after the Lusitania was struck it was impossible to stand on deck. He said the three difficulties in rescuing passengers were the list of the ship headway, which carried her two or three miles after being struck, and the R. W. Service Driving Car for Anglo The captain testified he had given orders to look out for submarines and o proceed at full speed if any sighted. He said the boats had been swung out the morning of the day preceding the torpedoing. Two lookouts were placed in the crow's nest, two at the bows and two officers on the bridge Passengers Interfered. When asked whether the passenger were giving help as far as they were able, he replied: "Interfering, I should say." He added, however, that the passengers showed a desire to assist in every possible way. London, England, June 15.—The official inquiry into the sinking of the Lusitania, which opened here today, will prove beyond a shadow of doubt the ruth of the United States' contention at the steamer was an unarmed merity vessel, Attorney-General Sind Carson declared in ment.

Lusitania was a peaceful vessel and no a naval auxiliary," said Carson. "We shall offer ample evidence to show the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk without warning."

Carson, however, emphasized that the inquiry must consider the admiralty's special instructions to trans-Atlantic liners traversing the war zone, and must discover how far the Lusitania's captain went in obeying those instructions. He also pointed out the necessity of inquiring whether the Lusitania was proceeding at full speed. The Government, he said, understood that only 19 of her

34TH BATTALION MAKES GREAT IMPRESSION ON ITS FIRST CITY MARCH

Splendid Showing of Soldiers This Morning Causes Many Compliments From Those Who Witnessed Passage of Third Contingent Regiment.

Londoners had an opportunity to-day of seeing for the first time the 34th Battalion on a route march of the downtown streets. The battalion marched to Victoria Park for a little Lieut.-Col. Wigle's men of the second preliminary training prior to the presentation of its colors there to-morrow, and its passage through the downtown thoroughfares elicited the most favorable comments.

Owing to the condition of the roads the march was made under what could hardly be called favorable conditions. However, in spite of all that, the universal comment was that the

The college opened with about forty resident students from On-[Special Correspondence.] BERLIN, June 14 .- St. Jerome's College, one of the chief centres of learning in Ontario, which today celebrates its golden jubilee, like most institutions and religious establishments, had a very humble beginning.

The idea of establishing a Catholic ollege somewhere in Central Western Ontario had been in the minds of many Catholics long before it could be realized. Bishop Power of Toronto suggested this to the Jesuit Fathers, who came to Canada in 1847. Two of these zealous missionaries took charge of the first home was in St. Agatha, a year later four or five more came and established themselves in New Germany, but while a building was in course of erec tion there they moved to Guelph. In the early '50's, when the Jesuits had moved from New Germany to Guelph their activity covered the whole field from Guelph north and northwest as far as Georgian Bay and Lake Huron.

Began In a Cottage. In 1864 Rev. E. Funcken and his brother, Louis, together with a Dutch to manage the college and the parish to Canada. Father Louis, as he was fondly called by his friends, came with the idea of beginning a college, and he at once took steps to realize it, although

Soon after he obtained the assistance of the teaching staff the number of students also increased from year to of Mr. Fennessy, to whom the bishop granted permission to enter the Congranted permission to enter the Congregation of the Resurrection. Cabin Outgrown—Moves to Berlin.

The small log cabin was inconvenient and overcrowded, wherefore, Father Louis had to look around for another place. After much consideration and search he decided to move to Berlin, the county town of Waterloo, situated to the county town of Waterloop, situated to the county town of Waterloop to the county t on the Grand Trunk Railway. Berlin was then only a place of about two thousand souls and had a modest brick Catholic Church without a resident Here he purchased a brick residence near the church and had a wing of 40x50 feet added to it. He

At the end of the scholastic year 1900-01. Father Spetz resigned the presidency of St. Jerome's into the hands of Rev. John Fehrenbach, C.R. Ph.D., D.D., but continued to teach in the college for nine years more while attending to the ever increasing parish

"Father John" Fehrenback.
Under the rectorship of Father Fehrenbach the college continued its quiet course of usefulness. Besides quiet course of usefulness. Besides making several changes in the curriculum of studies he succeeded in paying off most of the outstanding debts. "Father John" was not only scholarly, but he had a strong sympathetic nature and was beloved by his students. He resigned the presidency in 1905 and Father Zinger was appointed president and still has charge. The present incumbent of the rector's office returned from Rome in August 1899. During his first two years at St. Jerome's he held the position of assistant disciplinarian, the duties of which office, with the exception of one which office, with the exception of one tor. During the same four years he was also vice-president and master of studies. When he assumed the office of president there was no money in the treasury other than a legacy of $15,000 bequeathed to the college by the late Father George Brohman.

Planning Present Building. That was sufficient to encourage his ent magnificent new building, plans for which were prepared early in 1906, to be erected in front of the old building and connected with the former "new four-story building. The dimensions are 154x42 feet and so constructed that the former "new" four-story building forms a wing of it. The work was begun in 1907 and completed in the nmer of 1908.

The laying of the corner-stone was an occasion of special importance. The college was honored on this occasion by the presence of His Excellency this Apostolic Legatus, Monsignor Sbarreti and the Superior General, Rev. John Kasprzycki. The present edifice when completed is the most ornate edifice in the city, giving ample room for future increase of students. For the novitiate two neighboring residences were procured in 1909 at a cost of $10,000, and the purchase com-pleted the college block property, which taught at the college after his regular school hours. Some of the older, more advanced students also assisted by bounded by four streets. In Memoriam to Father Louis In the college park a monument stands to Rev. Louis Funcken, the beloved master. Of the latter, however, a large number are with the superdreadnoughts and dreadnoughts, for when the fight for the mastery of the sea comes it will be the little destroyers that will keep the German submarines away from the big ships. Perhaps it is this that accounts for the exasperating regularity with which the German submarines secure victims at all parts of the coast, as the policy of the Admiralty is to keep the destroyers safe from risk. nings.

The first tally for London came in the sixth, when Danford started things with a single through the box, and stole second. He reached third when Myers grounded out to Cristall, and scored when M. Harris threw wide to Cristall to cut off Whitcraft.

Another run was chalked up to the visitors in the seventh, when Schaffer hit to right field for two bases, reached third when Westlake dropped Lamy's long fly, and scored when Reidy hit to McGroarty. Another two-base hit in the eighth started the doings that ended in London's third and last run. After Danford was an easy out, La Bate landed on one for two bases, and reached third when Cristall failed to handle Tiffany's throw to cut off Myers. Whitcraft's single to left did the rest. Danford made a belated two-base wallop in the minth, after Eckstein and Merrit were easy outs, but La Bate failed to advance him.

Myers' Frors Were Costly. first and Armstrong in the third, but they died at the initial sack. In the fourth inning Myers was of a charitable turn of mind, and allowed the first Hamilton run to score by starting the trouble with a brace of miscues. His failure to handle Kelly-Harris' grounder allowed the Hamilton right fielder a life, and he reached second when Myers made a poor peg to first, after catching Tiffany's pop fly. Woods sent him to third on the hit-and-run play, when he sent one to La Bate, and McGroarty

Kelly-Harris is Hamilton's leading hitter, with an average of 303. Eddie Linneborn is batting 295. Outside of two pitchers, Harris and Linneborn are the leading hitters of the Hamilton team.

Marty Killilea, the Guelph second-sacker, is out of the game with a sprained ankle. O'Brien is holding down second in his absence.

Joe Walsh, a brother of Umpire Walsh, who was let out last week by President Fitzgerald, has reported to Hamilton. He is an infielder, but is so small the Hams hardly figure on using him.

"When I started taking Sargol my weight was only 135 pounds," writes H. E. Henninger. "Now my weight is 160 pounds, and I am the picture of health and stronger than I ever was before. You may use my letter, for I am sure it will help somebody in the same shape I was. Would not take $100 for the good it has done me." "When I commenced taking Sargol I weighed 116 pounds. I have been taking it only 26 days, and weigh 130 pounds," writes Miss Lillie Davis. "I gained 7 pounds in ten days," states W. P. Thackery.

And so it goes. Some folks take little stock in testimonials because they say people are apt to take treatment for some disease and just imagine they feel better. But Sargol is not a treatment for any disease. It simply puts firm, healthy, "stay there" fat and muscular tissue on men and women who are thin, run down and underweight. There is no guess work—no imagination about it. These people weigh themselves before they begin. They weigh themselves each week thereafter, and the scales tell the story. Hundreds upon hundreds of Sargol users are constantly reporting increases in weight ranging all the way from ten to forty pounds.

Sargol is just a tiny tablet which you eat at meals. It mixes with your food and turns all the fats, sugars, starches and oils of your food into rich ripe, flesh-producing nourishment for the tis. sues and blood. If you are underweight it is certain that the greater portion of the fat-producing material in your food is going through your body as waste. You eat and eat, but get no benefit. Sargol stops this wasteful, dangerous leakage of fats and the result is quickly noted as the hollows of the body fill out with healthy flesh.

The correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia in his dispatch adds:

"I am assured that Greece and Servia are sending a note of protest to the great powers, declaring that it is impossible to accept a Balkan understanding on such terms. M. German-American Under-

[Canadian Press.]

BERLIN, via London, June 14.-9:50 p.m. - The Lokal Anzeiger prints a noteworthy article on German-American relations by its general director. Eugene Zimmermann, which coming on the heels of Friday's conciliatory article, is taken to mean that influential representatives of politics and business are standing behind this paper and exerting their efforts for a German-American understanding: "President Wilson," says Herr Zimmermann, "desires nothing more and nothing less than an understanding between Germany and England concerning the forms of maritime warfare. which, at the same time, will insure the safety of American passengers. The task is not light, considering the developments of naval war, but it can be solved if all interests display good

A new form might be given to naval warfare, Herr Zimmermann continues, on the basis that passengers on ships with special marks of identification and sailing under the Government guarantee that they are unarmed, should receive proper consideration at the hands of submarine commanders. The compromise must also involve the 44T withdrawal of the British admiralty's nstructions to merchantmen to attack and ram submarines on sight. The article ventures to indicate for the first time to the German public, that there may be a second side to the question of arms shipments, on which the press for months has been harping. Herr Zimmermann pays his respects to what he terms "typewriter heroes, who, far from the front, are preaching war to the knife agains everybody," and concludes:

Might Curtail Output.
"We wish to act and write with blood and iron, but just because we are fearless and determined we may look for possible ways by which to erica. We need not close up our de partment of incoming and outgoing declarations of war, which heretofor has worked nobly, but it seems to me that we can curtail the output some what, without incurring a reputation for excessive caution."

The editor of the Tageblatt, Theo dore Wolff, also publishes an article in favor of a policy aimed at the avoidance of the new conflicts and the bringing in of new adversaries. He urges as a suitable method for giving German diplomacy adequate authority and prestige to stand firm against "jingo and whip-the-world enthus lasts," the creation of a council to the foreign office, in which former ministers and secretaries of foreign affairs ambassadors and leading members o parliament should have seats.
