Directions to Farmers and Gardeners.

AS some springs are much earlier than others, the following directions ought not to be too literally adhered to in point of time; but may rather serve to point out the order in which things made succeed each other; but as to the precise time of beginning, the judgment of the planter must be in some measure regulated by the appearance of the spring.

The last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, parley, onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard

However, those mentioned for the last week in April, may be put in whenever the snow is gone, the frost out of the ground, and the earth so dry as not to be muddy, and the others succeeded in their order.

The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans, (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th,) spinage and orrice; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers, and a few early bush beans.

The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June, will do for potatoes; such as are planted about the first of June, are frequently the largest, but the earliest planted are as commonly the best to eat, being drier in consequence of their being more thoroughly ripe.

The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.

The 20th of June, sow buckwheat; this is also a good time to sow in herds-grass, clover, or any sort of grass seed, which is thought to succeed better if sowed in now with buck wheat, than in the spring with oats. Herds-grass that is sowed the latter part of June or through the whole of July, instead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier sown, spends the summer in spreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only bears the severity of the winter, but sends up from each seed many more stalks the ensuing summer. The farmer should be careful to sow his clover, if possible, before the end of July; for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well, late in the fall, are wholly killed so that a single plant cannot be found the next summer.—The first week in July sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late as the 25th.—The 20th is a good time to sow turnip radish, and for a late crop, some salmon, ditto, as late as August 10th.—About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat and rye, ~~they~~ being sowed early it will be better rooted to stand the severity of the winter and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer. In the fore part of September, corn salad, which may be cut any time in the winter or spring when the snow is off.

“ To which University, “ said a Lady some time since to the late sagacious Dr. Warren, “ shall I send my son ? ” “ Madam, ” replied he, “ they drink, I believe, near the same quantity of port in each of them.

ECLIPSES for the Year 1799.

There will be two Eclipses this Year, and both of the Sun, as follow.

THE first will be on the 4th of May at 8h. om. and 26 sec. afternoon, invisible.

The second will be on the 28th of October, at 1h. 21m. 4sec. afternoon, invisible: This Eclipse will be invisible on account of the great parallax of the Moon at that time.

On the 7th of May there will be a Transit of Mercury; The ingress on the Sun's Disk will be at 3h. 34m. 26sec. in the Morning, and the egress will be at 11h. 3m. 41sec. in the Morning; so that the ingress will be invisible at Halifax, but the egress may observed to great advantage, should the air be clear at that time. Mercury will pass about 5' 20" to the south of the Sun's center. The conjunction will be in Longitude 1° 16' 51" 52"

AN EPHEMERIS,

SNIPES SHOOTING.

WHEN gelid frosts encrust the faded ground,
And dreary winter clouds the scene around ;

The timid snipes fly to the fedy rills,
Or seek the plasnes on the upland hills.

The sportsman, now, wakes with the gleaming morn,
His gun makes fit, refits his pouch and horn,
And to the swampy meadows takes his way,
With sport and exercise to crown the day.

II. FEBRUARY bath XXVIII Days. 1799.

See first how curiously he scans the sedge,
 Then warily proceeds along the edge :
 His piece is cock'd, and in position right,
 To meet his shoulder readily and light.
 But yet, more cautiously he treads beside,
 The well known plash, where most he thinks to hide
 The capped bird—and from the rusby stream,
 Frighten'd she rises, with a piercing scream.

Venus will be evening star from the 1st January to the 16th October, then morning star to the end of the Year.

His tube the fowler points with steady sight,
 And seeks to trace her thro' her rapid flight,
 Whilst o'er the field she tries each artful wile,
 And crooked turns his level to beguile.
 Her slender wings swift cut the buoyant air,
 Till distance gives her as a mark more fair:

The Time of year for ANGLING, as described by
Mr. HENRY NEEDLER.

THE months o'er which the nearer sun displays
His warmer influence, and directer rays,
Are most propitious to the Angler's toil,
And crown his labours with the largest spoil.
When birds begin in brisker notes to sing,
And hail with cheerful voice returning spring;

When western winds in rapid breezes fly,
 And brush with downey wings the brighten'd sky;
 When teeming buds their verd'rous issue yield,
 And with their tender offspring grace the field;
 Then let the Angler, with industrious care,
 His guileful arms and implements prepare,
 Break winter's truce, and wage the wat'ry war. }
 But when autumnal blasts have stripp'd the wood,
 And o'er the ground its horrors strew'd;

When stormy boreas reaffumes his reign,
 And with malignant breath deforms the plain;
 Let him awhile his snary wiles forbear,
 Till, by the course of the revolving year,
 The fairer order of the months returns,
 And nature with fresh bloom her face adorns;

VIII. AUGUST hath XXXI Days 1799.

Then soon as morn has chas'd the shades of night,
 And streak'd the purple east with rosy light,
 Soon as the lark displays her early wings,
 And to the fragrant air her matin sings;
 The angler, cheerful with the hopes of prey,
 Takes to the reeking brook his dewy way.

SONNET.
WRITTEN IN A ROOKERY.

YE fable tenants of the elmy grove,
As round the task of instinct ye pursue,
And borne on buoyant wing through ether rove,
Seeking your daily food, I gaze and view
Your state with envy! you have never known
The ills of mortal life; to you is giv'n
The range of ample earth and boundless he av'n

And all that nature needs she made your own.
 But I condemn'd in life's tumultuous maze,
 To join the jarring and tumultuous throng
 And driv'n by fortune's wayward winds along,
 Tho' distant far I see the lucid rays,
 With many a bright hue gild the onward plain,
 See but the joys I never must attain.
